About Dropouts

I lementing over the high percentage of school drawats and the opinions of people of various social strata have placed these dropouts in many erable categories. Most of those classed as high school dropouts more than 500,000 students now are recorded as high school dropouts each year, a sizable number of them return to some kind of formal education later. Some enroll in other schools, others go en to adult education programs and a signifi-east number of them graduate. Others earn their high school diplomes during military serv-ies. This one finding alone indicates the shallow-ness of previous studies. Instead of remaining drepouts, many of them become "drepiss,"— Mouroe (La.) Morning World.

Thanks, Gents

I appreciated the meeting of this past Monday at Seminole High School with Principal Andrew Bracken and the entire men's coaching staff of all sports at S.H.S. I think is was a giant step forward in trying to resolve the age-old question of "how do we get more local school news into the sports section of The Herald?" Only by having this type of a mosting are we able to fair the problems connected with satisfying both parties . . . our I'm equally hopeful that the other schools will follow suit and that we'll be able to uniformly present the happenings for all schools, the junior college, high schools and junior highs throughout all of Seminole County. What the average sports enthusiast probably doesn't

When you consider that we constantly strive to print more than 50 per cent of our total space for local news, time and cooperation must go hand-in-glove . . . OR ELSE IT DOESN'T GET PRINTED THAT DAY.

We enjoy the distinction of being recognized for our local sports coverage and that's why we encourage your calls and questions on, "How can I get my sports release in The Changes Coming? The problem of filling the stands and trying to keep the revenue up isn't confined to the local level. The NCAA conducted their 63rd annual convention in Los DOORS

Angeles with the main topic of conversation being the worry of ever rising costs of athletics, as well as freshman eligibility rules in sports generally. One way of reducing costs in football is the recommendation of a return to one-platoon football . . . reducing the size of squads and coaching staffs. In the single platoon, there would be limited substitutions.

As far as the freshman theory goes, this'll be resolved within a month with the prevailing choice now being to have 'em eligible for all sports, while another wants the frosh limited to competition between themselves in all sports. From the layman's point of view . . . this is awfully hard for me to understand. I mean, there you have a college game with upwards of 75 to 100 thousand spectators and my sixth grader doesn't need too much time to figure out that we're talking about lots of money. As a matter of fact, more money is collected in one game than many small businesses gross in, two years. I suppose it's the age-old problem of money . . . rather, the lack of the long green, eh?

DIDN'T REALIZE how successful Head Football Coach Willie Holt has been at Crooms High School here in Sanford. After witnessing the signing of four more of his players, this time to grant-in-aids at Bethune Cookman in Daytons Beach, I found out that Holt has had 14 of his protege signed with college football scholarships in the last ten years. That's quite a record and worthy of a public salute, too.
