

A GOOD POINT

This dog's point is well taken. One cigarette, dropped in dry grass, can start a fire that will destroy thousands of acres of valuable woodland. One fire may close a large area to hundreds of sportsmen. Fast spreading flames trap birds and animals, destroy their cover and burn their food supplies.

Fire kills young trees, too—trees needed for tomorrow's timber harvests. Please be careful with fire in the woods. Do your part to keep our state green.

"They very generously gave of their time to read four plays presented to them by Francis Roumillat Jr., who headed the play selection committee and selected the one they liked best from this group," stated the president. The play is a family situation comedy concerning a popular TV star.

Variety Of Topics Come From Pulpits Of Churches

In Sanford churches yesterday, churchgoers heard a variety of subjects discussed from the pulpit. At the eleven o'clock worship hour at the Methodist Church yesterday the Rev. Milton H. Wyatt preached on the subject: "Not by Bread Alone." Frequently speakers and writers seize upon the quotation: "Man does not live by bread alone."

"This statement of truth has become a sort of spiritual axiom upon which we rely when we want to give succinct expression to demands of human personality for spiritual fulfillment" the reverend stated. "Life in this world does have an indispensable material basis of which bread is the symbol. Out of man's relationship to bread grow two trends which have always characterized the human race. To have bread, to possess physical security, men will often choose bondage in preference to the risks of freedom. The other trend which imperils a free society is the tendency to become absorbed in the material side of life that we neglect the more important values."

R-O-W Resolution By County Officials Brought To Light

No Special Meet On Policy Change, Announces Meisch

Chairman John Meisch of the Board of Seminole County Commissioners, this morning explained that there would not be a special meeting of the board to consider changing its policy regarding the obtaining of right-of-ways.

Meisch said that he polled the membership of the board and the decision not to call the special meeting was unanimous.

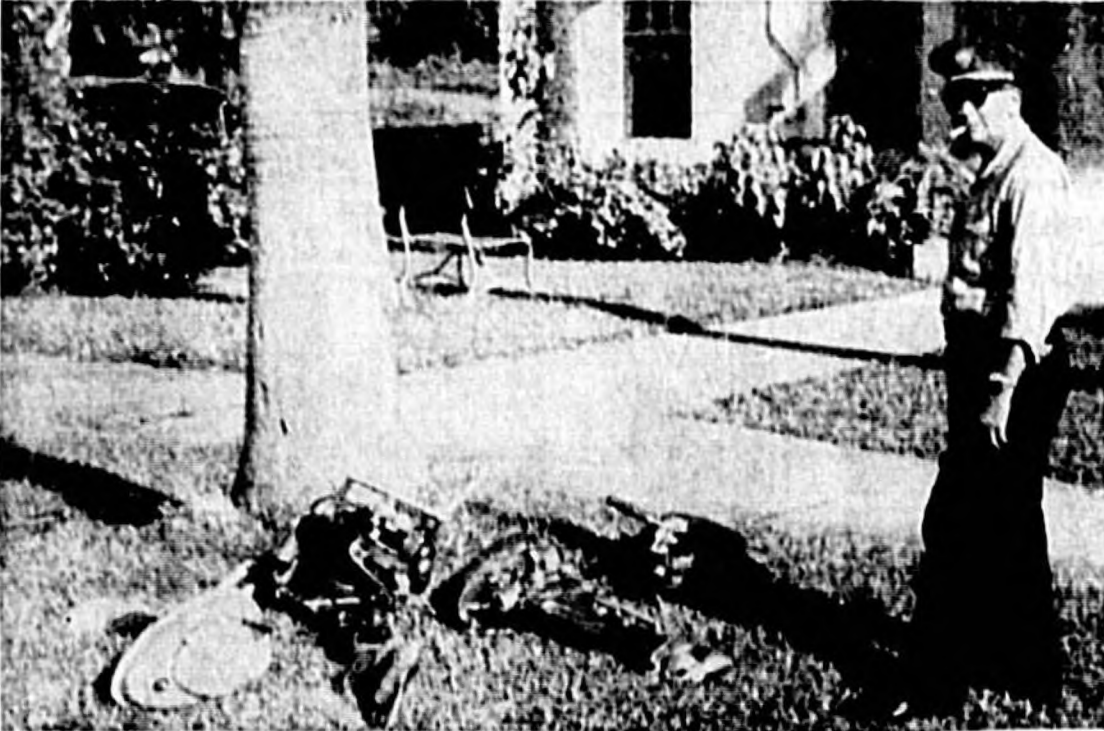

He said that there were several reasons why the meeting would not be called. "First," he said, "nothing could be accomplished since all of the instruments on the south end of the proposed highway were not available. Therefore, no appraisal could be made."

Meisch also reiterated that the County Attorney said he could not start preparing condemnation proceedings and declarations of taking until the appraisal was completed.

The commission chairman stated that the motion relative to the 17-92 right-of-ways does not state any specific station. "The motion," he said, "merely states '17-92' right-of-ways. The highway can be started from any point and at any time."

The third point brought out by Meisch was that it would take a resolution of the board to start condemnation proceedings. He said County Attorney Mack N. Cleveland Jr. had advised that he could not start any preparation of proceedings until all instruments were in his hands.

Meisch said this morning that one of the teams of appraisers worked Saturday and Sunday completing their appraisals, while another team had already completed appraisal of properties in their hands.

People Slowing Up, Says Sheriff Hobby As Arrests Subside

People are beginning to slow up, Sheriff Hobby said this morning, as the number of traffic arrests over the weekend dwindled in comparison to the arrests made last week.

George Wesley Adams, 73-year-old sawmill worker of Oviedo was charged with "improper passing" and operating a car without a driver's license, when he crossed a solid line on the highway three miles south of Sanford. Florida Highway Patrolman Carl Williams made the charges at 10:30 p.m. Friday night.

Leroy Anderson, 17-year-old Negro Air Force man stationed at the Orlando Air Force Base was charged with "excessive speed" when he was apprehended making 90 miles per hour on the Sanford-Orlando Highway. The charges were made at 12:50 a.m. Sunday morning.

Merchants Request Change

Volie Williams Addresses Group

The Sanford Merchants Association, at a special meeting Friday afternoon, adopted a resolution in which the Board of Seminole County Commissioners was requested to change its policy relative to the necessity of acquiring the right-of-ways from Section 902 at Onora St. to the Orange County line in order to expedite the letting of a contract for the four-laning of 17-92.

Volie A. Williams Jr., speaking to the more than 30 Sanford businessmen, said, "My remarks are as partisan as any remarks could be." The Seminole County Representative reviewed the struggle for the 17-92 project, comparing it at times with the problems resulting from the French Ave. project. His remarks were pre-empted by the statement that roads in the State of Florida were at one time built on "how strong a man or group was, politically."

"The revised Road Code," said Williams, "does away with that procedure and puts the building of roads on a basis of need." He pointed particularly to the fact that Seminole County, in the Fifth District, has had less money spent on roads than any county in the 12-county area.

"Eight people are responsible for that record," said Williams. "The two representatives, the senator and the five county commissioners. If they had been 'on the ball' we would have gotten our share and more. Even the French Ave. appropriation was in the budget for six years."

Speaking of Senator Douglas Stenstrom and Representative Mack N. Cleveland Jr., Williams said, "Doug and Mack and I initiated the Citizens Committee because we were interested in Seminole County getting its share. However, there's an area in the county that needs Sanford. I think there that Sanford runs the show."

Representative Williams then gave the merchants association members a review of the activities of the Citizens Committee, their meetings with both the County Commissioners and with various officials of the road board.

"Important is the general outline of what must be accomplished," Williams said, "is the transmittal of proposed plans for the highway construction, from the DeLand Office of the State Road Department to Tallahassee for final linking. That is a job for Senator Stenstrom, Representative Cleveland, and me."

It was brought out, in the review of activities concerning the 17-92 project, that Seminole County Commissioners were "mad" because one man had said, "The project is being killed with kindness."

Williams said that during the meeting last Tuesday, "I tried five times to direct my remarks to the chairman saying, please, gentlemen, won't you authorize your attorney to start the machinery of condemnation and have the pleadings read."

Commissioner B. C. Dodd, when asked to make the motion, remarked that he couldn't remember the wording and that if Williams would make the motion, he would move for the adoption. Speaking to the group, Williams said, "Mr. Chairman, I think it is necessary for some commissioner to move that the county attorney be authorized to prepare legal pleadings both for condemnation and a declaration of taking for the necessary right-of-ways."

Gallas, Dodson Go To New Jersey To Capture Ben Joe

A 56-year-old operator of a negro night club in Volusia County, negro Osteen, was brought back to Sanford Saturday to face charges of "assault" with intent to commit murder.

J. Q. "Slim" Galloway and C. C. Dodson went to Trenton, N. J., to bring Ben Joe, a crew foreman and operator of the night club, back to Sanford.

Joe is charged with firing a 38 cal. pistol through the screen window of the home, at 607 Sanford Ave., where his ex-wife, Helen Joe lives. The alleged intent in committing murder was on Sept. 14 around 5 p.m., following threats made earlier in the day.

Constable Galloway and Patrolman Dodson went to Trenton last Tuesday and returned to Sanford with intent to commit murder was noon.

Bond, on the charge of "assault with intent to commit murder" was set at $2,500.

Additional charges were filed by the city for "brandishing firearms" and "disorderly conduct." Bonds for these charges were set at $404.

New Radioactive Lamps Revealed

WASHINGTON — Tiny, new radioactive lamps offer possibilities for enemy-proof lighting aboard darkened ships in time of war and for emergency lighting when a ship's power fails.

Navy scientists say the lamps, small enough to be carried in the palm of the hand, utilize the same basic principle as the luminous radium dials on some wrist watches, but are vastly more powerful.

They employ some of the new radioactive isotopes produced in the atomic energy program. An isotope, such as radioactive strontium, is mixed with zinc sulphide. Invisible atomic rays from the strontium act upon atoms of the zinc sulphide, causing it to emit visible light.

No electric current is involved and there are no wires. The lamps are plastic-encased circular "markers", some of them an inch in diameter, others 1/4 inches in diameter.

They glow continuously, with a potential useful life of several years. Their light is not sufficiently bright to be seen at great distance—the maximum is 1,000 feet for the brightest—but they offer possibilities for illumination of relatively near-at-hand activities, the scientists say.

The Navy already is installing the smaller-sized lamps on ships to illuminate ladders and doorways sufficiently to allow them to be seen on a darkened deck.

But here are some of the possibilities foreseen by scientists of the Naval Research Laboratory for the larger, 1/4-inch lamps:

1. As a source of illumination to read maps, orders and instructions "under dark conditions where general illumination is not desirable"—such as on the bridge of a battleship in enemy territory.

"A flashlight could be seen for miles," one scientist said, "but the light from the brightest of these new lamps couldn't be seen beyond 1,000 feet, which isn't very far at sea."

2. As "standby illumination" below decks in case of power failure.

Says a report on the Navy's experiments in an Office of Naval Research (ONR) publication: "One high-luminance marker will illuminate a room 13 feet long, 10 feet wide and eight feet high sufficiently well for a dark-adapted person to recognize other persons in the room and to locate obstacles, stairways and doors."

"It might mean the difference between life and death," one Naval scientist says. "In an emergency situation like a torpedoing, a flashlight might not be at hand."

3. Standby illumination to operate emergency valves and gears.

The Navy says different markers can be made to produce lights of different colors, such as green, red and blue.

Green makes for the easiest seeing, but various other colors might be employed in certain operations, such as differentiating between different types of valves.

The green light is so good, experts say, that even a green marker of relatively low intensity, when carried in the hand, "makes it possible for one to make his way among obstacles in the dark, and even read a newspaper or write notes if the paper is held near the marker."

The new markers are made by the U. S. Radium Corp. and the

Tyrone Power Has Acting Bug By Inheritance

HOLLYWOOD — Some people get bitten by the acting bug, others inherit the disease. Tyrone Power is one of the latter.

In his case, it goes 'way back. He is the third of the acting Tyrone Powers, and the most famous in the line. His family background helps explain why he will soon be abandoning Hollywood again for the stage.

Ty could find enough leading roles here to keep him busy for 10 years. Most actors agree that working in the movies is more tiring, easier and more profitable. Then why does he choose the stage?

"You don't always do everything for loot, do you?" he replied. Following the footsteps of his forebears, Ty got his seasoning on the stage. When he became a big star in films, it appeared that his football career was over. But he surprised Hollywood by going to London for "Mister Roberts."

Three years ago he toured the country in Paul Gregory's "John Brown's Body." Last season he starred on Broadway in "The Dark is Not Light Enough." He appeared opposite Katharine Cornell, with whom company he had once been a featured player.

His next venture is "A Quite Place," a play written by a new author, Julian Claman. Ty will open this fall, possibly in Cincinnati, and may be unavailable for films until next June.

"It's hard work," he admitted, "but it's very satisfying. And you can't call this easy."

He referred to his latest acting job in "The Eddy Duchin Story." Besides working in the year's hottest weather — "it was 126 on the set one day" — he has the chore of matching the finger work for his portrayal of the late pianist. He has a portable piano keyboard in his dressing room and practices regularly to the Duchin records.

It was inevitable that Hollywood would get around to the Duchin saga, since it combines music with tragic drama.

Society circles were stirred when the bandleader married socialite Marjorie Oelrichs in 1935. She died six days after giving birth to a son in 1937.

Duchin died of leukemia in New York in 1951. His son Peter is now the ward of Governor Harriman of New York.

Many TV Debuts Are Made

NEW YORK — There are almost as many debuts in television these days as at the debutantes' cotillion. You can't romance all these newcomers at one time, but maybe by Christmas we'll have danced with most of them.

Two new programs, spotted one after the other on CBS-TV this week, presented the Army and the Navy.

You'll Never Get Rich, starring Phil Silvers as Sgt. Ernest Bilko, bids fair to be the most hilarious comedy series of the new season. This show offers about 10 million guys, a little stouter in the girth now, the opportunity to see their wives before he set and say, "This is just the way it was, dear, before they shipped me over."

You'll Never Get Rich concerns the speculations and chicaneries of Sgt. Bilko, an amiable charlatan. It concerns both naive and knowing men in the Army. By understatement rather than belaboring, it warmly tells all mothers whose sons face the draft that their boys may lose a little money in camp but they'll gain much knowledge of life.

It was a risky theme to tackle, for the series could collect every cliché of the century. But it doesn't. Thanks to Nat Hiken, who wrote the script and directed the show at a swift pace, and thanks especially to Phil Silvers, this is grand entertainment.

While You'll Never Get Rich is basically a pretty realistic — or doughfoot's — view of life in the service, Navy Log offers a more official view. Navy Log, a good program, presents carefully documented and beautifully photographed studies of various aspects of life in the U. S. Navy.

The first program was an exciting dramatization of the work of frogmen. Specifically it showed an underwater demolition team working out of a submarine in Korean waters. Civilians played the major roles, but the program had full Navy cooperation.

Mlle. Genevieve de Galard-Terraube, heroic French nurse known as "The Angel of Davao" for her services in the Indo-Chinese War, is shown beginning an in-service course in New York City. She is studying at the New York University-Bellevue Medical Center's Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation. Mlle. Galard-Terraube is aiding Sgt. Raymond Wegscheider, 27, a French veteran wounded in Korea at Heartbreak Ridge. (International Exclusive)

Observers Discount Action By Greece

WASHINGTON — Well-posted observers discounted today speculation that Greece, in the bitterness of her disappointment over Cyprus, would break her ties with the North Atlantic Alliance.

But the said the West must brace itself for a period of strain with whatever government holds power in Greece for the next few months.

Greek frustration over Cyprus boiled over when a United Nations Steering Committee voted Wednesday against a General Assembly discussion of self-determination for the island now ruled by Britain.

Greeks believe the Greek-speaking majority on Cyprus would vote to join Greece. Turkey opposes any such union with Greece for the Mediterranean island, which has a Turkish minority.

'Kitchen Cabinet' Awaits Signal

WASHINGTON — If President Eisenhower runs for a second term, a low telephone call and a mere push of a buzzer button at the White House can summon for the 1956 campaign virtually the same political brain trust which masterminded his election in 1952.

The key members of the old team are in Eisenhower's "Kitchen Cabinet" or else they're close at hand and available.

"All we need is the go-ahead signal," one of the group said. "We can assemble very quickly a smooth organization in which every man is familiar with the job he's to do."

Right now, the President is keeping everybody guessing.

Recently in Denver, he told GOP state chairmen that their party must not be "dependent on one man" and that "humans are frail and they are mortal." He cautioned them never to "pin your flag so tightly to one mast that if the ship sinks you cannot rip it off and nail it to another."

But the President also displayed interest in strengthening the Republican party and said "I like the Republican party more than ever."

When is the President likely to indicate his intentions?

One man in a position to know or at least to make an educated guess says the tipoff very likely will come in January when Eisenhower's name is expected to be entered in the New Hampshire presidential preference primary to be held March 14.

If this course is followed, here is what would happen:

At least 100 supporters would sign a petition requesting the New Hampshire secretary of state to place Eisenhower's name on the ballot. The petition would be filed in order that the name would appear on the ballot, accompanied by a $50 fee, would be filed not more than 60 days and not less than 45 days before the primary date.

Then Eisenhower would be notified officially that his name would be on the ballot unless, within 30 days after receipt of notice, he requests that his name be withdrawn.

One member of the Eisenhower inner circle says: "January will be soon enough for Ike to let it be known what he will do. His name is certain to be entered in the New Hampshire primary. If he doesn't withdraw—then it's safe to figure he's a candidate."

At least three of his close associates, who asked that their names not be used, are convinced he will run.

One of these said in an interview "Ike started something at Geneva—and he knows he can't walk away from it. He's conscious of the fact that he helped initiate a program for world peace which will take time to achieve. He said himself that Geneva was only the first inning."

"On the home front, he knows it will take more than four years for him to leave a lasting imprint with his program. After all, the Democrats were in power for 20 years and it will take more time to shift the direction of government along the lines he thinks it should follow."

Much the same language and views came from two other sources.

In many ways, a second term campaign would be infinitely easier for Eisenhower than the first one in which he had to slug it out for the nomination against Sen. Taft. This time, the nomination could be Eisenhower's merely for the asking and the convention would be merely a formal means of launching the campaign—with none of the bitter fighting which marked the last convention.

Many Taft followers, after their idol was defeated, were slow to give their support to Eisenhower and some were only lukewarm in their allegiance throughout the campaign. But things are different now. If there still is bitterness, it has been pushed beneath the surface by practical politics.

Eisenhower today moves with far greater ease than he did three years ago through the political paths, seemingly guided not only by his advisors but also by his own sense of politics.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE CLIVE AND Sara discussed Gerry.

"Do the police know about this?" Clive asked.

"Yes. They don't know what to make of it. This man wears cuffs like Gerry never did. His voice is lighter and higher than Gerry's. He calls me Sara. Gerry called me Decra. But it isn't only the little things. It's his walk, his expression, his whole personality. He just isn't my Gerry."

"Have any other friends of Gerry accepted him as Gerry?"

"Only one who knew Gerry well. His partner in radio production, a Mr. Peters."

"Then you must be wrong, Sara."

"Why couldn't Mr. Peters be wrong? Just because it's more natural and less troublesome to believe the man is Gerry?"

"What are you going to do about it?"

"There's nothing I can do, but Aunt Caroline can do something and she's going to do it. I'll tell Mrs. Caleb Harrison to see this afternoon. Mrs. Harrison is a cousin of the real Gerry. The fake Gerry will be there without knowing why he's invited. Then, perhaps, we'll get at the truth. But, meanwhile, where is the real Gerry? What is happening to him now?"

Clive said, "Sara, I'd like to see this afternoon when Mrs. Harrison meets this young man who claims to be her cousin. Would you go with me?"

"Of course not. She's always delighted to see you."

When Sara came out into the street the bright day had turned to a gloom. The sky, like a brilliant mirror at noon, was pale and duller, as if someone had blown a clouding breath upon it.

In the library she went back to the small research room on the second floor that she had used yesterday. She had no typewriter today, but she had pencil and paper in her bag.

She found the book she had used yesterday and the paragraph where she had left off reading.

"When I was discovered 'I've' instead of 'dived' the whole edition was hastily suppressed and the number of copies extant today . . ."

She stared at the words until the print blurred. Gerry, she knew, never knew what happened to you? In those moments I might have done to find you that I haven't done?

"We'll know something when Mrs. Harrison sees this man. Not much, but something. Has not Gerry, on the can't say he is. Peters might be it, but not Mrs. Caleb Harrison."

"Or could she?"

Who was Mrs. Caleb Harrison? Sara shut her book with a snap and went down the hall to the stairs. On the third floor, she went to the main reading room and sat.

found a late edition of Who's Who on the reference shelves open to the public.

Harrison, Alexandra and Dorothy Mercer, h. Cleveland, O., 1902. Job, said Dorothy (Wells) Mercer; Brancroft, Bryn Mawr, 1923; m. Caleb Harrison, 1924. One s. Caleb, one d. Elizabeth. Founder, Brancroft Placement Service; Director, Friends of European War Orphans; Chairman, Mayor's Committee For Harlem Children.

No. Mrs. Harrison couldn't be, as Peters might be. And she was Gerry's cousin. She had known him since he was a child. So this afternoon she was going to say that this man was not Gerry and then—what?

It was nearly 3 o'clock when she came out of the library. Sara left the bus in the 80's and walked east.

"Only Mr. Clive is here," Stevens told her at the door.

There was no Sara this afternoon. The tall, pale room was dim as a mirror in the dusk. Caroline sat in her wheel chair, near the cold hearth. Her salicylic skin looked yellow against a white lace dress. Fatigue darkened her eye sockets and blued her lips, but her voice was indomitable as ever. "Good evening, Sara."

Again Dickson Clive hovered about her with gestures of antiquated gallantry. Again the click of Edna's knitting needles punctuated the silence.

"This room is dark, Aunt Caroline," said Sara. "Shouldn't Mrs. Harrison see the impostor for the first time in a clear light?"

"Of course," Caroline sighed. "I must be getting old, I'm so fond of tea by twilight I quite forgot. And we must tell Edna not to announce anyone but Mrs. Harrison herself. Will you see to it, Edna?"

Now the room blazed brilliantly as a lighted stage. Silver and crystal and polished parquetry dazzled her eyes in the gloom. But the glare was unkind to Caroline's worn face. Sara could see that the shrill underneath lay close to the surface.

As if the lights had been a sun on stage, the doorbell rang.

Stevens appeared. "Mrs. Caleb Harrison."

"Dear Mrs. Larch. . . Please don't rise. . ."

"I had no intention of doing so," said Caroline dryly.

Mrs. Harrison saw the wheels on the chair and smiled. "I didn't realize. . ."

"I should thank you for suggesting that I look better than I feel," returned Caroline. "My niece, Miss Decra; my companion, Miss Crook. Do you know Mr. Clive? It's really very good of you to come on such short notice."

"I was only too delighted," Mrs. Harrison said with her ankles crossed and loosened her fur. She wore the uniform of her kind—black, pearls and mink, all the very best quality in the very best taste.

Sanford State Farmers Market Is Center Of Many Activities

One of the important Central Florida centers is located in Sanford and is visited by more out-of-state automobiles or vehicles than any other in this section of the country.

We're speaking of the Sanford State Farmers Market which will soon begin its 1955-56 season.

Oct. 15 will probably see beans on the market platform from the Zellwood area, and from then on until next June, trucks, trailers, automobiles and tractors, bearing license tags from Canada, Maine, Massachusetts, Oregon, Washington State, California, New Mexico, Colorado, and on through the list, will be backing up to the heavily loaded platform for their cargoes of fruits, and vegetables for the busy winter trading areas throughout the country.

Observing the movement of these commodities will be the market manager, Sandy Anderson, as he tallies the number, price, gross valuation, and type of product, leaving Sanford for markets in the North, East, Middle West and West. A watchful eye is maintained over the shipments with notes as to the package, the quality, and the size of the load.

Year by year, the valuation of the products leaving the Sanford platforms has been increasing. Year by year, the number of trucks backing up to the market platform has been increasing. It has truly borne its name "One Stop Loading Center" for produce buyers around the country.

Sandy Anderson, known by more buyers as more growers, more truckers, and more dealers, than probably any other man in the business says that the Sanford State Farmers Market is the ONLY one stop loading center in Florida, for FRESH fruits and produce.

Last season, possibly the biggest year ever experienced at the local market, saw $6,018,073.22 worth of fruits and produce move off the Sanford State Farmers Market platform to market areas of the world. To bring such a valuation, trucks, tractors, freezer compartments, and ice cooled railway cars moved 2,625,374 packages or units of fruits and produce to their destinations around the country, that would be equivalent to 5,250 car loads. Making up these carloads of fresh produce and fruit would be 54 different varieties of Florida grown commodities combined with the Sanford area produce.

From the beginning of the season, Oct. 15, to the close of the season on June 30, on any one day a produce buyer can load his trucks or railway cars with his selection from 45 different kinds of produce and six different kinds of fruit.

The Sanford State Farmers Market is an important center in the State, not only for the buyer, but for each individual citizen here. It is an important way of bringing cash dollars to the local banks and stores, and most of all, to the local farm worker, mechanic, machine operator, garage owner, tractor dealer, seed and farm supplier.

The four-laning of 17-92 now, will be better than the four lanes later if it is not four-laned, widened and paved. Let's not hark back to the "good old days" when grass grown, dust covered roads were "the thing."

Alleyways should get special attention from the various departments of the city, putting them in better shape for use by trucks, and deliverymen. The busy season in Sanford is about to get underway and the alleyways so "cleaned up" will help get some of the traffic load off our overloaded streets.

Now that our home town manager of the Mayfair Inn is on the job, we can look forward to a successful winter tourist season. Frank Mebane has opened our eyes as to what is to come, especially for the local citizen and the part he and she will play in making the Mayfair Inn a social gathering spot for Central Florida.

Civilization Sickness To Blame

NEW YORK (AP)—Are you suffering from "civilization sickness"? You probably are if you find yourself getting fatigued without reason, irritated over trifles, and unjustifiably critical of yourself, your friends and members of your own family.

Every culture develops its own typical ailments. The typical ailment of America today is tension and strain, a condition which some theorists believe is the main cause of our growing crop of ulcers, heart attacks, divorces, and other diseases.

But what causes the tension? It isn't the difficulty in solving man's age-old problems of food, clothing and shelter. It really isn't overwork either, in my opinion, nor the result of too much ambition.

The average man isn't overly ambitious. And before in history before has he been able to achieve so comfortable an existence with so little labor.

Then what makes him so weary and cross, so upset and impatient, so afflicted with gray nameless ailments that puzzle his doctor because the doctor probably has them, too, and doesn't know what to call them?

I think that our "civilization sickness" is no more than the penalty of feeling endlessly crowded. We are like a man with a 36-inch waist who insists on wearing a 32-inch belt. No wonder we are unhappy, bilious in temper, and see spots in front of our eyes. They aren't spots—they're people.

Actually, of course, we are more crowded. Our population has leaped from 75 million in 1900 to 150 million in a 55-year period in which millions also have had the false glamor of the teeming cities.

But much of our crowding is unnecessary. It results from one thing—everybody wants to do the same thing at the same time. They all want to work what used to be called "harder hours"—to be in the office or factory or store when they want to play on the same week-ends.

Whatever a man tries to do he finds himself hemmed in by the growing herd.

He goes to and from work standing up in a packed bus because everybody wants to work from Monday to Friday. He finds his night club and motion picture theaters jammed on Saturday night because everybody wants to look up

Whatever he does—from awaiting his turn at a luncheon counter to parking his car in a "levers" lane—a man has to wait in line, has to fight for his place. He is elbowed, pushed and shoved; he is shoved, pushed and shoved back. The result: general bickering, confusion, frustration; more acid stomachs, more headaches; and finally more ulcers, heart attacks and epilepsy.

The solution is as simple as it is inapplicable: break up the ancient pattern by which men work at the same time, play at the same time.

This can be done by putting civilization on a 7-day week. Why shouldn't offices and factories be manned 16 hours a day, each 8-hour period utilizing half its present staff? This would reduce rush hour traffic, cut down on the parking problem, and make for a general easier tempo in living.

With more people working on Saturday and Sunday, and more of them taking their days off in the middle of the week, the week-end pressure on pleasure resorts would automatically lessen. It shouldn't be too hard to adjust to a church on Thursday as on Sunday. So can a golf course or a beach.

All it takes to give Americans a more leisurely, unburied, uncrowded life—and cut down on the toll of the "civilization sickness"—is to break with a few outmoded traditions.

Now soon we will do it I don't

GOP Party Chiefs Taking Gamble

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican party chiefs are taking the big gamble. They are planning for the 1956 presidential campaign on the assumption that President Eisenhower will agree to seek a second term.

To scramble a few metaphors, the GOP command is out on a limb—ready to sink or swim with their eggs in one basket.

At Republican national headquarters they say very candidly that there is just the one basis for all the preliminary campaign groundwork—and it is progressing rapidly.

L. Richard Guryll, GOP publicity chief, says: "The national committee is proceeding on the assumption that President Eisenhower will be the Republican candidate."

After the recent meeting of GOP state chairmen in Denver, some party leaders weren't so sure. Eisenhower warned them not to nail their flag so securely to one mast that if the ship sank, they couldn't rip it off and tie it to another.

But GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall listened to everything the President had to say—and then announced he was more convinced than ever that Eisenhower would again head the ticket. Actually, Republican leaders are trying to give Eisenhower's advice. They are pulling their flag securely to the Eisenhower mast while planning to capitalize on his personal popularity and the theme of "peace and prosperity."

Under these circumstances, it will place the Republicans on a fearfully embarrassing spot should Eisenhower not choose to run.

Those who think he won't make a second race put up this argument: Eisenhower is now 64. He may want to turn the job over to a younger man and retire to his Gettysburg farm, where he can enjoy the last years of his life. They also say Mrs. Eisenhower has had enough of the White House and doesn't want the President to shorten his life with another four years of the crushing burden of the presidency.

But on the other side, they argue Eisenhower has a high sense of duty and that his duty is to remain in the White House another four years to carry out the program he has begun. They argue he won't let the party down and that he has come to the point where

Many Things Blamed On Pollution

NEW YORK (AP)—Air pollution is accused of many things—choking city residents, souring tourists, stunting flower gardens, unravelling stockings.

Now there's talk that dirty air may be the secret of the apparent warming up of the world's climate in recent years.

More than 100 laboratories are working on specific phases of the pollution problem. Oil industry scientists, for example, have brought out a new gadget for measuring and identifying impurities in the air. They hope to find out how auto exhausts, wastes from burning rubbish, fumes from industrial smokestacks react to other things in the air.

Factories are installing more and more equipment to hold down air pollution. Cities debate complex and expensive schemes for clearing out smog pockets.

Besides the toll in human comfort, air pollution costs untold sums in property damage.

Now, Dr. John G. Hutton of

Central Electric's engineering laboratory in Schenectady, N. Y., says all this bad air may be "having a greenhouse effect on our climate."

The industrial scientist charges that man is "contaminating the earth's atmosphere faster than nature can clean it." This pollution pumps up a belt of carbon dioxide encircling the earth which acts like a blanket—or a greenhouse.

The idea that the dirty air is having a greenhouse effect and warming up the climate will be studied, Dr. Hutton says, by many scientists during the International Geophysical Year in 1958.

Henry M. Margolis, president of Schlegel Industries, a Detroit producer of industrial equipment for removing dust and fumes, says the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare plans to work with groups set up in individual communities throughout the nation to seek a unified approach toward the growing air pollution menace.

The scientists say if they can find out what really happens in the air they may in time find a way to eliminate air pollution.

Maybe then we'll get our old climate back.

NEW YORK (AP)—Pause a moment and ask yourself, "Am I tired of The $64,000 Question?" If you find asking the question embarrassing...

George Jessel, who has produced his quota of movies, says he is going into TV production this fall.

Personally, I'm a little tired of The $64,000 Question. Nothing I can put my finger on.

Perhaps it's a case of emotional exhaustion at watching other people win money.

Dogs' Instincts Remain Unaltered Thru' Many Years

The more we observe dogs, especially their sagacity, instincts and temperament, the more we wonder whether dogs have changed very much through the years.

Away back in 1781, for example, a story was told in England about a man who took lodgings in a boarding house under the pretense that he had just arrived from the West Indies.

The story goes on to say that the owners of the house finally opened the trunk in which they found "the utter astonishment" their new lodger, who had been carried into the house with the intention of robbing it during the night.

Although this incident took place 174 years ago, the "little house dog" is certainly a hero to all who are reading about him today.

Man Made Solemn Vow; Kept It

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—One sleepless night 23 years ago a well-to-do business executive, who had never gone beyond high school, sat down at his desk and wrote:

"I am going to be president of a college. Preparation will be long, at times discouraging, but in 10 years I can become one of the best prepared college presidents in the United States."

It was one of the few times in his life that Frank Hugh Sparks, then 30, set up a schedule for himself that he was unable to keep.

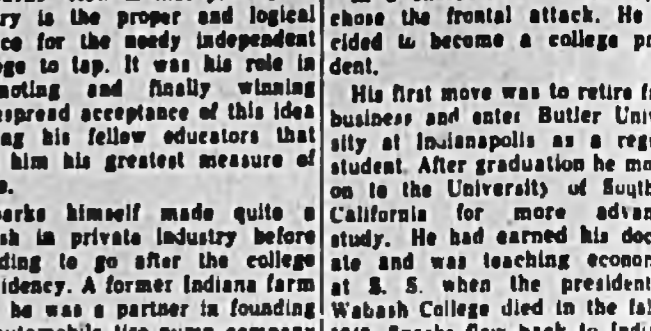

Sparks himself made quite a splash in private industry before deciding to go after the college presidency.

Sparks' view is that private industry is the proper and logical college for the needy independent college to tap.

This organization made Sparks a astounding financial success by the time he had reached his late 30s, but he soon found a new challenge.

"Man does not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord." The Reverend David S. Carnell, at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, used the subject "Results of Regeneration" in his morning service sermon yesterday.

"There are certain immediate and definite consequences of this experience. And there are also limitless possibilities of maturing growth and greater service to God. Give attention to these three immediate results of regeneration:

- 1. The regenerated soul is accepted into the body of Christ. 2. The regenerated soul is adopted into the family of God. 3. The regenerated soul is assured of salvation.

"If you have exercised faith in the redeeming work of Christ which he completed at the Cross of Calvary—you have been regenerated—you have received newness of life—you have been given life eternal!"

"Are you now living in such a way as to fulfill your responsibility as a member of the body of Christ?" "Are you enjoying the full blessing of your privileges as an adopted child of God?" "Are you building your life in the joy of assurance and eternal life in Christ Jesus?"

ROW Resolution

"The next morning," Williams told the Merchants' Association group, "I read that all of the right-of-ways from the Orange County line north to Section 192 at Onora Road was read into motion. And that made it necessary, that all of the right-of-ways be purchased before the first move could be made on the project."

"I am afraid that some people have the idea that Bradley Odham, W. A. Patrick, and myself, want to run the show. I don't care who runs the show, just so we get 17-92."

"Most of Seminole County would be living in tents if we tried to wait until we had all the money to buy the right-of-ways. The Seminole County Commissioners can borrow money on anticipated revenues, if they wanted to, and if the loans were not for over one year."

"If you think the widening of 17-92 is important, then don't say that we're being ridiculous when we let $800,000 slip right through our hands without turning over every stone in an effort to get it."

"Another thing about the county road system," said Meisch, "is the fact that others have their wants too. Mr. Bloom and Mr. Peterson would rather have the Lake Mary Boulevard than 17-92."

Explaining the income of the county, the commission chairman said that when the monies are used for the 17-92 four-laning, there won't be any roads paved in the next seven years.

Meisch answered, "We have a zoning meeting tonight and I'll ask the other members."

Senator Stromstrom, commenting on the proceedings and review of the projects progress said, "It looks like we will lose the $800,000 this year and the $800,000 next year. It seems as if we won't be able to do anything until 1957. The only chance we've got to get any construction started is on the basis of the county commission changing its policy."

Williams remarked, "I think the county commissioners are tired of the Citizens Committee, but I do think they will listen to you."

Charles V. Atkinson commented, "I would like to see this body go on record asking the Seminole County Commissioners to change their policy."

Wally M. Phillips, Sanford dry cleaning man, made the motion, "That the Board of Directors of the Sanford Merchants Association would respectfully petition that the Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County adopt a policy expediting the acquisition of the right-of-ways needed to widen, and four-lane that portion of highway 17-92, in Seminole County, from Five Points to the Orange County line. That because of the time limitations no recommendation that action be taken at a special meeting of the said Board of Commissioners, so that the construction contract may be let by the State Road Department during the calendar year of 1955."

PLAQUES PRESENTED—Plaques with the insignia of Composite Squadron Nine have been presented the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station Officers Club and the Chief Petty Officers Club. Commander W. E. chance of getting the project from Five Points to the Orange County line are good—after all, the world doesn't come to an end on Dec. 31."

Bringing out, in discussion, the necessary channel through which proceedings must now go, Representative Williams said "It's a question of policy, and that's up to the County Commissioners."

Senator Stromstrom related, "of the two possibilities, the Seminole County Commissioners reversing their policy or borrowing money, the policy change is the better."

E. J. "Bud" Moughton directing a question to commission chairman Meisch asked, "Will you call a special meeting of the Board of County Commissioners in order that the policy set at the last meeting be reversed?"

Meisch answered, "We have a zoning meeting tonight and I'll ask the other members."

Senator Stromstrom, commenting on the proceedings and review of the projects progress said, "It looks like we will lose the $800,000 this year and the $800,000 next year. It seems as if we won't be able to do anything until 1957. The only chance we've got to get

Newcombe, Ford Probable Starters

The Brooklyn Dodgers, newly crowned National League champions, started it by reeling off 10 straight victories—a major league high for triumphs at the beginning of a campaign.

And when Wally Moon of the St. Louis Cardinals hammered a home run off Chet Nichols of Milwaukee in the ninth inning yesterday two more records went into the books. It was No. 1,263 by National League batters and 2,221 by hitters of both leagues for new standards.

In between the accomplishment which qualified his record-smashing hit for a place in baseball's Hall of Fame, there were enough other records and highlights to make 1955 one of the most interesting in years.

The Dodgers clinched their pennant on Sept. 8, the earliest date in history. And the New York Yankees pulled away in the final week after one of the closest battles in years.

Brooklyn wound up with a 13½ game advantage over the second-place Milwaukee Braves with the New York Giants, 1954 winners, another five games back. The Yanks beat the American League's defending titleholders, Cleveland Indians, by three games.

There was only one managerial change during the middle of the season. That was replacement of Eddie Stanky as pilot of the Cardinals by Harry Walker. But Leo Durocher stepped down Saturday after 12½ years at the helm of the Giants and was replaced by Minneapolis' Bill Rigney and Fred Haney was fired yesterday as manager of the Pirates.

Without any attempt to evaluate the importance of the performances, here are some of the other highlights of the year:

FIGHTING

Don Newcombe (20-5), Dodgers, and Robin Roberts (23-14), Phillies, were only 20 game winners in either league. Roberts won 20 or more games for sixth consecutive year.

Herb Score, Cleveland, broke Grover Alexander's 1911 rookie record by striking out 211, including 16 Red Sox (high for the year) in one game.

Sam Jones, Cubs, hurled only no-hitter of season. Pirates were the victims.

Vernon Law, Pirates, pitched the longest game of the year, 18 innings, but didn't receive credit for victory when Pittsburgh won out over Milwaukee in 19th.

BATTING

Ernie Banks, Cubs broke record for shortstops with 44 homers and his five grand slam homers also was a new major league mark.

Bobby Hofman, Giants—His nine pinch home runs tied Cy Williams' mark.

Willie Mays, Giants, and Duke Snider, Dodgers—Mays' 51 homers tied New York's record and Snider's 42 matched his own Brooklyn mark.

Al Kaline, Tigers, tied Ty Cobb as youngest player ever to win American League batting title, Kaline, 20, hit .340.

Newcombe's seven home runs broke a hitting record by a pitcher.

To look at the final day's games one would think, the pennant depended on every pitch.

Of the 10 games yesterday, there were three shutouts, two one-run performances and the three two-run games.

The Dodgers, warming up their hurlers for the World Series opening Wednesday, used Johnny Podres, Russ Meyer, Clem Labine and Roger Craig in shutting out the Pirates 4-0.

Art Fowler of Cincinnati checked the Cubs with four hits while his mates slapped around three Chicago pitchers for a 13-0 decision. Billy Pierce of the White Sox limited the Athletics to three hits in a 3-0 triumph.

George Susce of the Red Sox defeated the Yankees 8-1 in the

Husky Doug Ford Has 2-Stroke Lead

NEWTON, Mass. — Husky Doug Ford, the National PGA title from Yonkers, N.Y., carried a two-stroke lead with a nine-under par 207 into the final round of the 72-hole Spaulding Golf Tournament at the Charles River Country Club today.

Ford, 33-year-old son of a former Connecticut golf pro, struggled to a par 36 on the first nine yesterday, but coming in he registered an eagle 3 on the 480-yard 10th hole and added three birdies to finish the round in a fine 68.

His tremendous finish before 12,000 spectators enabled Ford to take over first place in the competition for top money of $7,000.

Art Wall Jr., of Pocumtury, Pa., and the halfway-mark leader, Fred Hoss of New Orleans and Clarnford, Calif., were deadlocked after 31 holes with 200. Cary Middlecott of Memphis, Tenn., the nonparticipating dentist was one stroke behind them.

Maryland's Terps Stand Chance For Third Unbeaten Year

The Associated Press

Unless they run into unexpected complications, the big, bad Terrapins from the University of Maryland could well glide through to their third unbeaten, untied season in the past five years.

While it's true that Jim Tatum's split T outfit doesn't play as tough a schedule as some of the other top teams, it equally true that the Terps can beat the best—namely UCLA.

Maryland won victory No. 2 Saturday with a 7-0 decision over the defending Pacific Coast Conference champions. It was their toughest opposition of this year's schedule.

This week, Maryland visits Baylor of the Southwest Conference. Then, on successive weeks, they play Wake Forest, North Carolina, Syracuse, South Carolina, Louisiana State, Clemson and Georgia Washington.

Opening Seconds Put Sanford Ahead

By D. HUGH ANSLEY

Jimmy Hawkins led the Fighting Feds to a hard fought 14-0 victory over Hastings Friday night. In the opening seconds of the second stanza, Hastings' quarterback Jack Barnes fumbled on the Feds' 35 yard line. Seminole recovered and Hawkins fired a 65-yard sustained drive. Carrying the ball most of the way, he pounded through to pay dirt from the one yard line. He converted for the extra point.

Midway in the third quarter Hastings punted from their own seven yard line. Hawkins received the ball on the 35, picked up some blockers, and raced through the entire Hastings team for his second touchdown. He again converted for the extra point.

In the second quarter Hastings began a passing-running attack that carried them for 80 yards. Joe Barnes spark plugged the Spudsters with a series of effective passes to right end Bill Tindall. The Spudsters made a first down on the Feds' three and one-half yard line. Then the Seminoles forward wall loomed gigantic. Four plays later the Feds' own goal line. David Galloway's effective punting sent the ball out to the 45 yard line. Five plays later Hastings was again threatening on the Feds' 18 yard line. But again Hastings fumbled, and again Seminole recovered.

The biggest thorn in Seminole's path was the double-barreled attack of Hastings' quarterback Joe David Galloway was outstanding as a punter. In two serious situations he put the ball back in Hastings backyard with one punt of 45 yards and another for 43 yards. In the line with Galloway were Gene Bass and Robert Carter, proving to be pillars of strength for the Feds as they broke through the line time and again to toss Hastings for a loss.

Dead center behind the goal posts is a light pole. On both conversions by Hawkins the ball bounced off this pole. Hawkins seems to have earned himself a berth of esteem by his teammates, coaches, and the opposition. It seems that we may, if he continues to perform as he did Friday night, see him lauded as one of the outstanding griders of the conference this year.

Little Texan Reigns As 3-Time Champ

OKLAHOMA CITY — A little Texan, who has refused to turn professional because of fear of losing her love for the game, today reigned as a three-time champion of the Women's Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament.

No other player than Polly Riley, the short-statured but sure-hitting Fort Worth competitor, could fit that.

Polly, by her own words, reached the peak of her game by beating Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore 11 and 9 in the scheduled 36-hole wind-up of the Trans-Mississippi Golf Assn.'s silver anniversary tournament at the Twin Hills Country Club.

The 5-foot swinger toured the 6,370-yard par-37-37-74 course in

COVER CUTS IRONING TIME

There's a new ironing board cover on the market that actually works for you, and makes pressing your clothes almost as easy as sucking them! It's a test tube "magnetized" cover that reflects about two-thirds of the heat of the iron back from the board and through the garments to the underside of whatever you're ironing. It is automatically pressed as the top is ironed! This cover is also scorch-resistant, stain resistant, and leaves no lint.

The Giants beat the Phillies 5-2 with Mays hitting his 51st homer and then dropped a 3-1 decision as they were checked by Curt Simmons and Jack Meyer.

Bob Miller, who beat the Indians in an all-important game during the week, turned the trick again as the Tigers wound up with a 6-3 victory over Cleveland.

In other action the Cardinals beat the Milwaukee Braves 8-3 and the Baltimore Orioles edged Washington 5-4.
