Freeman Says Ordinance Needed To Collect Payments County Attorney Rules Impact Fee System Improper

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer. The Seminole County Commission's unwritten policy of collecting impact fees from developers is "improper," according to County Attorney Thomas Freeman.

Freeman said his opinion is based on a recent Florida Supreme Court ruling. That ruling, he says, requires that impact fees be segregated and that they be utilized only for construction of new plants in the area of new development.

New System Boosts Egg Plant Production

The new computerized egg processing system at Pinebreeze Farms has catapulted the plant's production to about 45,000 eggs per hour while reducing breakage and container damage.

A revolutionary new processing system has been installed at the Sanford treatment plant, almost doubling the number of eggs handled per day, and since its arrival the hen fruit has been moving like hotcakes.

NAION IN BRIEF

Government To Restrict Access To Personnel List

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has decided to stop publishing a once widely available personnel roster that included names of CIA employees, and to limit distribution of another such list to a "need-to-know" basis.

The department acknowledged Friday that it was no longer printing its "foreign service list" and said it would limit access to the "biographic register." Both had been available to the public.

It attributed the move to the limits imposed on the distribution of personal information by the Privacy Act of 1974, back in the manner in which his name, as State Department employees played a role in the decision.

A new dimension was added to the problem when an American official was assassinated in Athens in December 1975, whose identification was attributed in part by the news media to the CIA agents, whose biographical sketches were listed in the biographic register and foreign service list, spokesman John Ordway said.

Ford Visits North Carolina

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, appearing Saturday in North Carolina where he hopes to end Ronald Reagan's faltering presidential bid next Tuesday, has put his future campaign schedule on the wall. Reagan's campaign becomes clear, aides reported.

Ford has only one campaign trip on his schedule, following his day-long effort in North Carolina. Tuesday's primary is the last in which Ford and Reagan will meet head to head until Wisconsin on April 6.

Ford plans to stop in Lacrosse, Wis., next Saturday on his way back from campaign fundraising events Friday in San Francisco and Los Angeles. In Wisconsin, he is expected to challenge after Tuesday's balloting, where Ford is expected to win, Ford aides say the President might make a return visit to Wisconsin in early April.

The President contends that further Republican primary battles with Reagan could hurt the GOP in November, and his backers have stepped up the pressure on Reagan to give up the challenge.

CIA Spied On Professor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA compiled intelligence summaries on an Arizona State University philosophy professor who was active in the antiwar movement and a member of the Socialist Workers party, according to newly disclosed documents.

The CIA released heavily excerpted copies of three of its files on Morris Starsky in response to Starsky's request under the Freedom of Information Act.

Starsky was fired from the Arizona State faculty by the state Board of Regents in 1973 after the FBI sent an anonymous letter attacking him to a faculty committee. He now works as a legal researcher in Los Angeles.

Tax Checks Destroyed

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — If you're one of 8,301 Floridians who didn't get your return check last year, the Internal Revenue Service says it's probably because you couldn't be located. And your check has been destroyed.

"If we can't find those people, we can't deliver their checks," says Holger Furringer, IRS district director, spokesman in Jacksonville. "We destroy the checks and the money goes back into the U.S. Treasury."

C.A.B. Opens Air Route

NEW YORK (AP) — Western Airlines was given the official word this past week that it can fly from one tourist haven to another.

A Civil Aeronautics Board decision will permit Western to fly from Los Angeles to Miami, a route previously flown only by National Airlines. The CAB had been considering opening the route to competition for 3½ years.

U.S. To Give Up Town

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six years after it began pouring money into planned communities, the federal government is giving up on the nearly bankrupt "new town" of Gananda, near Rochester, N.Y.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development announced Friday it will acquire the assets of the town and will try to peddle it to a private real estate developer.

Court Backs EPA Authority

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals, in a decision already being blasted by the chemical industry, says the government is expected to prevent damage to public health, not wait until the damage is done.

Its 5-4 ruling, with wide implications, confirms the Environmental Protection Agency's authority to order reductions of lead in gasoline, even before any public health hazards have been positively established.

Ehly Corp. said it would appeal the ruling to the Supreme Court.

Four Arrested In Furniture Thefts

Caseberry authorities said Saturday.

Sheriff John E. Polk said a team of detectives, assigned to the case after officials of the furniture firm, with the help of an informant, uncovered an "inventory shrinkage" of approximately $100,000 in furniture from Eric Adams Furniture Warehouse.

Pollution Alert Program Okayed

By ED FRUCKET, Herald Staff Writer

A countywide posting program designed to warn citizens of pollution in lakes has been approved by the county commission, according to Bill Dale.

Dale, the director of environmental services, asked for permission to initiate the program two weeks ago.

Dale now says the commission has given him the go-ahead. What the program is doing is running bacteria tests on all lakes in Seminole County.

If the tests reveal an unusually high bacteria count, Dale said, the lake will be posted as a potential danger to swimmers.

Or, the lake could be closed, Dale said.

Two known problem lakes in Seminole County are Lake Howell and Lake Orienta, Dale said.

Bacteria tests are presently being run at Lake Howell — a 406-acre body of water near Casselberry — by a county biologist.

Dale said nutrient tests show Lake Howell already at the "danger level" because of pollution caused by sewage plants which dump waste into the water.

At Lake Orienta the problems stem from storm runoff. Lake Orienta is a 128-acre chain of lakes in South Seminole.

Dale said nutrient tests at both lakes aren't promising. They show "several organic overloadings," he said.

A high bacteria count doesn't necessarily mean the lake is "dangerous," he said.

However, Dale said it is the county's responsibility to inform water goers of potential dangers.

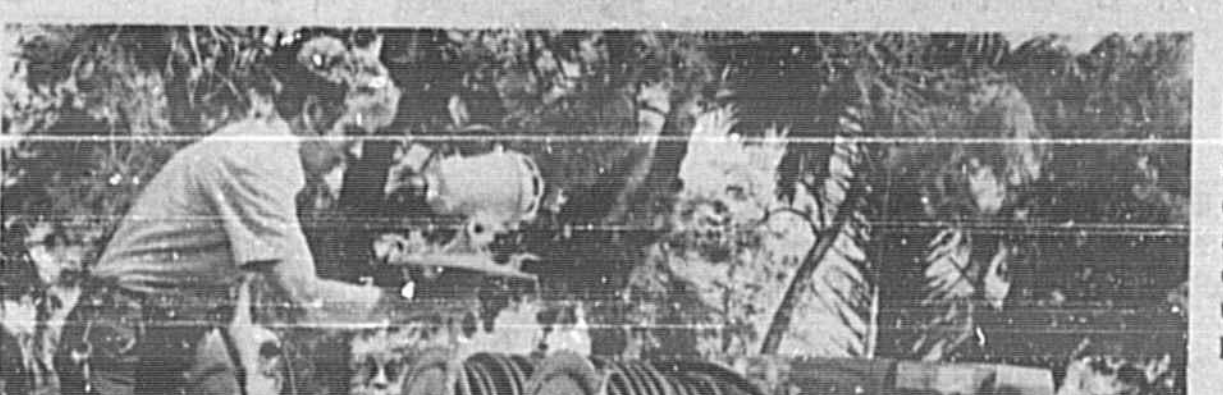

Also, there are levels of bacteria count s.t. by the state which forbid any body contact with water.

Orange County officials already have a program whereby citizens are informed of bacteria counts in that county.

Commission Chairman Michael Hattaway and Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski voted against the posting program.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Reduced Air Fares To Begin In May

MIAMI (AP) — "Freedom fares," a new reduced round trip air fare, will start in Florida May 1, replacing the "no-trills" tickets and its restrictions.

"The guy who can buy in advance doesn't have to be a full-blooded Navajo wearing a red tie to qualify," said Mike Smith of United, which initiated the new discount fare.

The new discount fares announced here Friday will offer travelers a 30-per-cent discount for day-coach travel and a 35-per-cent reduction for night flights by United, Delta, Eastern and National Airlines.

While "freedom fares" discounts will be similar to those offered by the "no-trills" fares, holders will be able to travel any day of the week, obtain food aboard the aircraft and sit where they choose in the coach section of the planes, airline spokesmen said.

Polk said at least five more arrests are expected in the probe "within the next 10 days."

Federal Funding Criticized

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Equal Rights Amendment supporters are bankrolled by a wave of federal money, charges Phyllis Schlafly, a leading ERA opponent.

But Mrs. Schlafly contended in an ERA debate before a political club Friday that the tide has turned against the amendment. She said it will ultimately be defeated.

She cited the White House, Department of Labor and the Justice Dept. as chief pro-ERA sponsors. She also included Catherine East, her opponent in the debate, in the attack on spending taxpayers' money for ERA.

Agency Cuts Suggested

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Two state agencies, the Community Affairs Department and Department of Professional and Occupational Regulation, should be abolished to save money, the House appropriations chairman says.

Hep. Edmond Fortney, D-Pace, said Friday that the House appropriation bill for 1976-77 will be drawn up as if the two agencies are no longer in existence.

Because of the drive to collapse it by the third week of the session, action to shift its functions to other agencies will come later, Fortney said.

Three Rescued From Sea

MIAMI (AP) — "Gotta go now, gotta get in the life raft," a Florida man radioed as he and three buddies left a sinking cabin cruiser about 45 miles south of Miami.

The SOS call sent a Coast Guard rescue helicopter to search for the men Friday. About two hours later, the rescue crew spotted the men wearing life preservers and pulled them from the water in good condition.

The fourth man, identified as Roy Bush of Miami, got into a small raft and drifted into shipping lanes where he was picked up by the tanker Tankix Express, the spokesman said.

Broker Abducted, Shot

MILTON (AP) — A Pensacola real-estate broker was passed over twice as a prospective kidnap victim before being abducted and shot to death, one of the defendants in the case has testified.

Phyllis L. James, a 24-year-old divorcee from Marion, Ohio, turned state witness and pleaded guilty to a reduced charge in the October slaying of Alma C. Hartley.

Slice Of Americana Returns To Sanford

A living slice of Americana and a classic example of the old Horatio Alger success story passed through Sanford recently in the person of John L. Lee.

Lee, regarded by the youngest person ever hired by a railroad and who later rose to become the youngest individual ever to accept a post with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Lee was 10 years old in 1923 when his uncle, J.E. Williams, was transferred away from the Plainfield, Ga., depot and the Wrightsville and Tenville railroad hired Lee to replace him as station manager.

The unusual move climaxed a two-year period during which Lee had become a fixture around the Plainfield depot, helping with agency and yard work and learning Morse telegraphy. When his uncle left Lee was the person best qualified to take over.

Lee put in 17 years on Wrightsville and Tenville short line routes before being hired by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad in 1940, and moving his family to Sanford. He remained here until 1956, climbing the ladder from agent-operator to chief dispatcher with responsibilities covering a large portion of the state.

And besides — when a guy who started working at age 10 and labored for 52 years says he can keep busy — who is going to doubt him?

Lee, who returned to Sanford recently to visit relatives, declares that his retirement will not leave him idle. He is still active in church and fraternal organizations around Birmingham.

And besides — when a guy who started working at age 10 and labored for 52 years says he can keep busy — who is going to doubt him?

Lifetime Memberships Highlight Anniversary

Lake Mary V.F.D. Celebrates 20th Year

By DONNA ESTES, Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The granting of lifetime memberships in the city's volunteer fire department was the highlight of the department's 20th anniversary celebration of service to the community.

The lifetime memberships were given to charter members, past presidents, past chiefs, those who have received injuries, losing time from personal jobs, and those over 55 years of age who have given continued service to the department.

Douglas Gehman, president of the volunteer fire association, and Fire Chief Ralph Abel presented the lifetime memberships to:

Raymond Ball, F.E. Donahoe, Floyd Dunlap, Donald Elmer, Frank Evans, one of the community's original homesteaders now deceased who had worked with the department. This award was accepted by Mrs. Evans;

Harvey Pugh, who was appointed fire chief; James Yates and Rev. Lucian Scott, first president of the department; Bert Whipple, who was secretary; Earl Toney and Watson Reel, all charter members.

Among those given lifetime memberships in the Lake Mary Fire Department are: Mrs. Anna Walter, Albert Walter, Harvey Pugh, Mrs. Frank Evans and Ed Zimmerman.

Both deceased, Harvey Pugh, donated the first fire truck to the department; Bert Whipple, Albert and Anna Walter and Ed Zimmerman, the department's second president, who had

Cost of Security Is Extremely High

National defense has a much broader objective than the preservation of the integrity of American political and physical boundaries.

National defense is designed to protect the interests of the United States throughout the world.

The cost of achieving this goal during fiscal 1977, according to President Ford's budget proposal, will be $101.1 billion.

And, as the President conceded to key congressional leaders recently in seeking support for his recommendations, he has proposed the largest defense budget in history.

But Mr. Ford might also have pointed out that an over-all budget review for the past decade would reveal that spending for defense programs has risen less than any other budget category.

It is not enough, however, for the President to tinker with comparatives in selling his budget.

He must persuade Congress first that military balance worldwide reduces the threat of war, that control of the sea lanes is vital to profitable world trade and that demonstrated military strength discourages adventurism from hostile nations abroad.

Above all, he must convince Congress of the paradox that the ultimate goal of reduced armament through negotiation depends on maintaining a military might equal to that of our potential adversaries.

Mr. Ford insists that the relatively modest hike in the defense budget is possible only through sharp restraints in noncombat activities. Personnel cuts, restricted travel and fuel consumption and curtailed construction programs are cited as offsetting more emphasis on combat effectiveness.

The President makes a good case in his bid for new ships, new planes and more sophisticated strategic weapons. Congress should scrutinize his spending plan sharply to insure the efficiency Mr. Ford envisions, but it must be wary of jeopardizing the ultimate goal of eased international tensions reached through discussions given authority by strength.

Misunderstanding

Political candidates this year have been capitalizing on public disenchantment with big government.

But there seems little chance of a successful rebellion against bureaucratic growth as long as there is similar mistrust of big business.

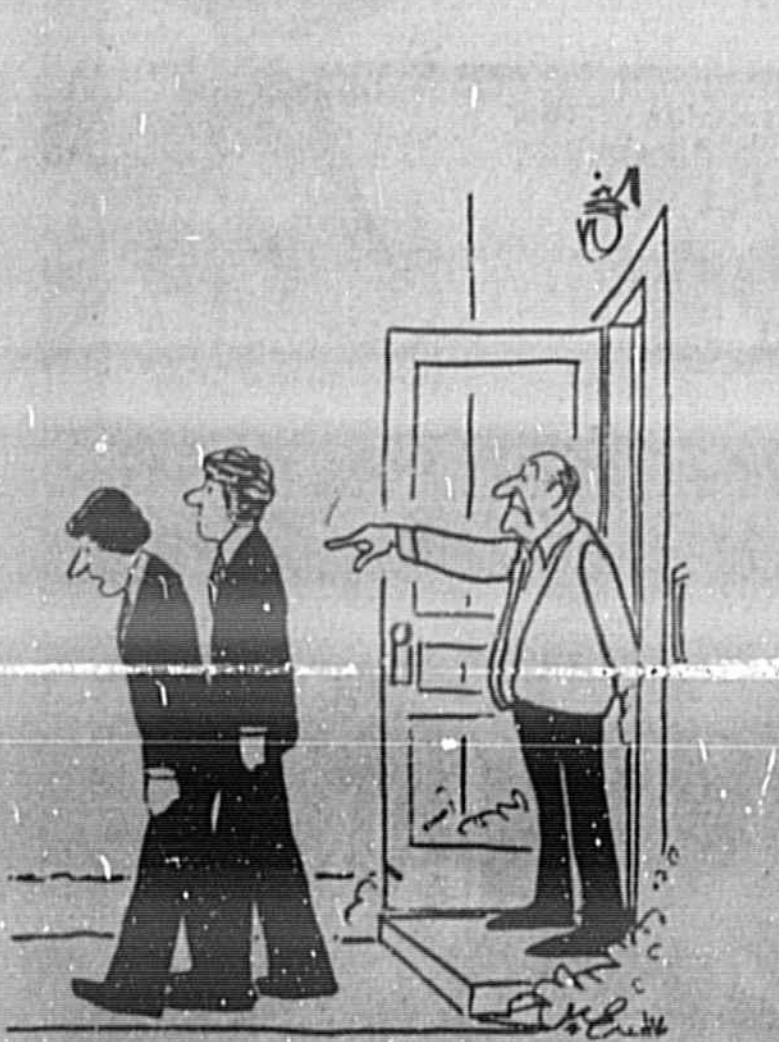

And critics within the government and outside the government often find sympathy with their charges that profits are too great and that the profit motive is sinful. Much of the unrest is attributed to misunderstanding. The average respondent to a poll last year believed that manufacturing profits were about 33 per cent of sales. The actual figure is between 5 and 6 per cent.

The confusion creates a climate that allows a continuing effort to bring business under more federal regulation. It encourages the bids to "break up" the corporations and nationalize the oil industry.

Each assault on business contributes to the growth of government, a growth that even the most dismayed concede is inevitable.

Acknowledging their increasing dependence upon government, the American people, instead of engaging in futile efforts to keep it simple, should strive to keep it under control.

By ED PRICKETT

The world hasn't been the same since Ms. Gloria Steinem and Ms. Germaine Greer popped onto the literary scene.

Since both these ultra feminists wove their tales of womanhood divine, much has happened. In many sectors of Americana close to open warfare has been declared between men and women.

Then, of course, there was the backlash to the feminist movement. It resulted in many women claiming that they already live in the best of all possible worlds and to change that would be absurd. However, one thing for certain: this nation and others have been forced to sit up and take notice of women's rights, or, if you prefer, women's liberation.

Many women found a snag even in that movement, and they wouldn't budge for all the tea in China.

Newspaper articles appear almost daily stating this or that song as it was written by the latest feminist scribe (pro or con) who has something to say.

All this and much, much more has grown out of the writings of Ms. Greer and Ms. Steinem, and others.

Still the question remains. What does it all mean. And perhaps most important — where is it all leading?

If it leads to equal pay for women who perform jobs equal to those held by men, then well and good. If it leads to better and fairer treatment for women, then well and good.

But if it leads to the concealment of the minds of women that they are somehow superior to men, that's a mistake.

Some women are more intelligent and better looking than some men, and vice versa. That that means to the culture as a whole is nothing. The truth is women aren't equal to men, and they aren't inferior. In the final analysis, past the feminist movement, women are women and men remain men.

I challenge anyone to change that. If the cutting edge of the women's movement makes things better for men and women by shearing away existing prejudices, then the movement is a success. But if it results in the minds of men, that is superior, that will end up as an historical failure, the same as the Germans' claim prior to World War II.

Freedom? If that is the issue then let us rally to the banner of the feminist movement. Because no man can be free until women are free.

Candidates May Use Excuse List

WASHINGTON—Remember Richard Nixon in the House?

President Nixon's trip to the White House, the one President Ford said "probably" hurt his showing in New Hampshire, the one about which Mr. Ford's political advisor Stuart Spencer declared: "If President Ford loses in New Hampshire, Richard Nixon will be the reason."

Well, forget all these statements. They are, in the words of President Ford's campaign committee press spokesman Peter Kaye, "inoperative" Rogers Morton, one of the President's top White House political advisors, says: "We went back to New Hampshire to measure that (the impact of the Nixon trip) and to the best of our knowledge it was zero. We found nobody who would change their vote or decided not to vote on account of the Nixon trip."

So, what was the story? Why was the President and his supporters saying these things about the Nixon trip? Were they lying? Of course not. They were just indulging in the time-honored tradition of straw-grasping, trying to come up with anything which might plausibly explain why they didn't do as well as they might have.

When a candidate does not do as well as expected, he has to say something. When Sargent Shriver, as he did in Florida, loses to an abolition candidate Ellen McCormick and runs behind the Rev. Art Linkletter, or John Connally gets only 64 write-in votes in New Hampshire, they can't just say the better person. Perish the thought. There must be other reasons.

So, free of charge, I offer the following event, courtesy of The Center for Short-Lived Phenomena in Cambridge, Mass. Handed out to be usable by presidential candidates to explain their poor showing in future primaries. All these things have occurred this year:

—The Guatemala Earthquake. This happened on February 4, lasted about 30 seconds and caused major damage in Guatemala City and surrounding regions, killing about 2,000 people and injuring 6,000. As of Feb. 16, more than 900 aftershocks had been recorded by the National Observatory in Guatemala City. The quake was felt in Honduras, Belize, El Salvador, and Chiapas State, Mexico.

—The Gronk Finback Whale Beaching. At approximately 12:30 GMT, on Jan. 28, a 13-meter-long female finback whale (Baloneptera physalus) was discovered alive on Gronk Longpoint Beach near Ipswich, on the Connecticut shores in 20 years. The Coast Guard attempted to tow the whale back to deep water, but it broke loose and swam back towards the beach where it died at 15:40 GMT.

—The Djaljala Village Meteorite Fall. At 21:00 GMT, on Jan. 28, in Djaljala Village, Gujarat State in India, a bright flash and two loud booms accompanied this fireball. As of Feb. 1, five kilograms of fragments had been recovered, but no crater was found.

—The Reventador Volcano Eruption. Early on Jan. 4, Reventador, one of the most active volcanoes in Ecuador began to erupt. At dawn, this same day, a 900-meter-high ash column was observed. Ash emissions continued for several days following the initial eruption. Winds carried the fine ash particles westward and southward over the Andes Mountains. Reventador, a stratovolcano rising 3,485 meters above sea level, has frequently erupted since the year 1541.

For those candidates who would like to go a little further back into history to account for their poor primary showings, I suggest an excellent new book published by Simon and Schuster, titled "The Timetables of History." This horizontal linkage of people and events, lists such happenings as: the first report of domestic dogs in Egypt (3000 to 2500); the first recorded wrestling match in Japan (50 to 1); the prohibition of prostitution by Chalmagne (801); the beginnings of the St. Vitus dance epidemics in Europe (1021), and the first use of pigeons to carry messages, by the Czechs during the Spanish siege of Haarlem (1578).

Now, you may be wondering: what could any of these events possibly have to do with the presidential primaries in 1976? My answer is: I haven't the slightest idea, but I'm sure the candidates will think of something.

Letter Of Thanks

(The following is an open letter to the citizens of Seminole County.)

Black Awareness week would not have been a success without your warm cooperation. You are very kind with accommodations and suggestions. From the bottom of our hearts, we thank you.

To the participants of the Black Awareness Week program: without your dedication of service and kind response the program would have been a failure. Please accept this method of appreciation from the Black Program Committee.

To all of the audience: if you had not gathered to hear our program it would have been useless. Thank you for coming. We were so glad that you could come. We hope that there was something outstanding to remember in years to come.

To all of you: may God continue to bless you and make you a blessing.

TOM TIDE Congress' Errant Aspirants

WASHINGTON—Two years ago Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., was elected to Congress. Representatives were an admirable 81.1 per cent of the roll calls. Last year his attendance fell by a sharp 30 points.

What happened? He began paying more attention to his campaign for the presidency than his responsibilities in Congress, an imbalance of priorities that may eventually prove beneficial to Udall but not to the legislature he is sworn to champion.

Never more than a sometimes gathering place for many of its casual members, Congress in a presidential season is treated almost with contempt by those of the body aspiring for higher things. Udall is not alone in forgetting where (and why) his salary is earned, the seats of Scoop Jackson and Birch Bayh are likewise mostly empty these days. And as for the past, John Kennedy's attendance record fell by half during the 1960 campaign. Barry Goldwater's was cut by a third in 1964—and Gene McCarthy went from 66 per cent in 1967 to a simply disastrous 3 per cent during the 1968 White House hoopla.

The consequences of this sort of nonsense are entirely negative, at least according to the one member of Congress who is paying attention to it this quadrennium. House minority leader John Rhodes believes it is folly for Americans to pay legislator-candidates full time congressional wages for part time congressional work. Also, Rhodes feels that the legislator-candidate has an advantage over the citizen-candidate which is not only unfair (franking privileges, media access and so forth) but taxpayer supported.

So it is that Rhodes, a Republican from Democrat Udall's home state of Arizona, has introduced legislation designed to put an end to the bother. He proposes a joint resolution providing for a constitutional amendment "that would preclude any member of Congress from taking office as President or vice president until two years after the last date of service in the Congress." In short, the measure would force a member to resign in order to pursue Chief Executive hopes.

Not surprisingly, Rhodes' idea has been greeted on Capitol Hill with all of the enthusiasm of another visit from an eighth grade government class. After all, absenteeism has been considered a perquisite of the legislative industry since only eight of 22 senators showed up at the opening of the first session of Congress in 1789. Besides, the subject is hoary, says one member, "Somebody is forever getting a feather up their rear about it, but in the end nothing is ever done."

The howling and threats have gone unheard, however. As one of John Rhodes' assistants explains it, "Legislators seldom legislate against themselves."

Yet if his constitutional amendment proposal stands no chance, Rep. Rhodes has at least reminded the nation of some fairly important unfinished business.

JACK ANDERSON

Legislator Masters Political Art

WASHINGTON—In just one year on Capitol Hill, Rep. Larry Pressler, the dapper young Republican from South Dakota, has mastered the art of being everything to everyone.

Indeed, we have discovered, he has even played published articles to enhance his image as an agricultural expert.

It is hardly surprising that the polished Pressler would lack expertise in agricultural affairs. He is a Rhodes Scholar and a Harvard Law School graduate. He spent almost three years as a legal adviser to the Secretary of State.

Written with Potomac Fever, he attacked his seat in the Senate. He attacked his seat in Congress as a South Dakota farm boy.

In his largely rural district, he emphasizes the fact that he grew up on a "family farm near Humboldt." Even his State Department experience has been neatly tailored to his new image. He worked on "international agricultural trade," he says. Pressler has further refined his "farm boy" facade by writing an occasional piece on agricultural problems for the local press. One such article recently appeared in the South Dakota Highliner, a tabloid published by the state Rural Electric Association.

Pressler lifted whole paragraphs, sometimes word-for-word, from a series which appeared in the Washington Post in January.

The Post story, for example, contained this paragraph:

"When the senior executives of some of the most powerful firms fly off on grain-selling missions, their whereabouts often are kept secret even from their own senior employees so that an untimely leak won't tip off a competitor to some impending linkage sale coup."

In his "exclusive" story, Pressler wrote: "When the senior executive of some of the most powerful firms fly off on grain-selling missions, their whereabouts are often kept secret—even from their own senior employees—so that an untimely leak won't tip off a competitor to some impending grain sale coup."

Reported the Washington Post: "The grain firms are a handful of companies engaged in moving an essential commodity from the few countries that have more than enough to the many that have far too little."

Wrote Pressler: "The grain firms 'are a handful of companies engaged in moving an essential commodity from the few countries that have more than enough to the many that have far too little.'" At least a third of the Pressler article so closely resembles the previously published material that it could be construed as plagiarism.

But this isn't the only evidence of Pressler's duplicity. He has announced a voting record so jumbled that it would confound a computer. Last month, for example, Pressler held a full-dress press conference to complain that White House lobbyist Vern Loen had "threatened" him because of his votes against deregulation of natural gas. The record clearly shows, however, that Pressler switched his position several times and twice voted quietly for the White House line.

Last July, Pressler voted against a White House proposal to remove price controls on crude oil, then switched his stance nine days later. Also in July, he voted the pro-broker position on the controversial "common status" picketing bill, then reversed himself in December.

Footnote: Pressler told us our inventory was "the first I've heard of" the plagiarism. His article was "written by an intern," he said, but "it's under my name so I'm responsible for it." The lawmaker staunchly defended his voting record but admitted there was an "inconsistency" in his cornucopia story.

GAS PRESSURE: The natural gas industry has quietly blocked use of a simple device that would save $300 million in heating bills during each winter month, according to confidential Senate memos.

The mechanism, costing only a few dollars, would decrease use of natural gas in furnaces by up to 30 per cent and save the equivalent of a half-million barrels of oil a day.

The device has been used in Germany for 43 years.

Security Council Debate May End In U.S. Veto

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Israel will meet the Palestine Liberation Organization in their first U.N. Security Council debate Monday and diplomats say it could end in a U.S. veto of a Moslem-inspired resolution against Israeli policies in Jerusalem.

Pakistan has given the 15 council members an experimental text of a resolution condemning Israel's policies in handling Arab unrest in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of Jordan.

A milder version of the text may pass the council but hardline Arab pressure against watering it down could result in a U.S. veto, diplomats speculated. The United States has vetoed three anti-Israel resolutions since September 1972.

Israel, which regards the PLO as a gang of terrorists, boycotted previous council debates on Israeli attacks into Jordan and on the Middle East-Palestinian situation because the PLO was invited.

Strike Idles 130 Ships

BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone (AP) — More than 130 ships swung on anchors waiting to cross the Panama Canal Saturday in one of the shipping's largest traffic jams ever, the result of a wildcat strike by three unions, U.S. officials sought to end the strike with a temporary restraining order.

The Pentagon in Washington said that "as a last resort" it may use military ships pilots to the Canal Zone to be used if necessary to move the ships through the 50-mile waterway which connects the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. The pilots were drawn from the Coast Guard, Navy and Army transportation corp, and are qualified for the duties, the Pentagon said.

Typhoid Fever Hits Town

ST. GABRIEL DE BRANDON, Que. (AP) — Medical officials say they are working on the assumption that typhoid fever is the disease afflicting about 100 people in this community, 60 miles north of Montreal.

Dr. Claude Parent, a hospital official in Joliette, said Friday that one case of typhoid fever has been proven and "from a practical point of view, we consider the other cases to be the same." An total of 35 patients have been hospitalized in Joliette. Another 26 have been hospitalized in Montreal. The other 40 patients were being treated at home.

Festival Sponsors Worried

ELMIRA, Ont. (AP) — Maple Syrup Festival organizers say they are worried that tourists may arrive one week early for the April 10 event.

A spokesman for the festival said Friday that traditionally the festival has been held on the first Saturday of April but that it was delayed in hopes of better weather.

Last year fewer than 25,000 of the expected 40,000 visitors attended the event because of cold weather.

Female Sailor Returns To Port

LAS PALMAS, Spain (AP) — A 49-year-old Polish woman sailor, Krystyna Liskevicz-Chojnowska, has returned to this Canary Islands port she left March 10 on the first leg of a solo round-the-world trip.

Authorities said Friday that the electronic rudder of Mrs. Liskevicz-Chojnowska's boat the Manurex — failed when she was 30 miles off Las Palmas en route to Barbados. She returned to port, but planned to restart her adventure as soon as the rudder can be repaired.

Her plan is to go from Barbados to the Panama Canal, Australia, Tahiti and the Fiji Islands, then to sail south of Australia to South Africa and back to Barbados. She is a naval engineer at the Gdynia shipyards in Poland.

Rockefeller On Tour

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller has left for a 17-day diplomatic trip around the world.

Accompanied by his wife, Happy, and aides, Rockefeller left Kennedy Airport aboard Air Force Two on Friday bound first for Tunisia, where President Bourguiba will celebrate 20 years in office.

Today, Rockefeller leaves for Paris for two days of American biennial ceremonies.

Butz Plans Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has plans for a three-week trip around the world next month to help promote U.S. farm exports and talk with agricultural leaders about mutual trade matters.

A spokesman said Friday that although the trip is still tentative, Butz' schedule will include New Zealand, Australia, Indonesia, Singapore, Greece, Bulgaria, Spain and Portugal. Butz is expected to leave April 11 and return May 2.

King, Queen To Visit

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola will pay a private seven-day visit to the United States starting Monday.

The royal palace announced Friday that the couple will arrive in New Haven, Conn., and will spend most of their visit with Belgian students and faculty at Yale University and nearby points of interest.

Twelve People Weigh Evidence

Patty Hearst Fate Now In Jury's Hands

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In room 18007, a comfortable conference room on the 19th floor of the Federal Building, seven women and five men ponder the fate of Patricia Hearst.

For five hours and 13 minutes Friday they deliberated, surrounded by a mountain of evidence spilling from tables and chairs.

They planned to resume Saturday their attempt to unanimously agree on a verdict in Miss Hearst's trial for bank robbery. They intended to work through the weekend, if necessary.

U.S. Dist. Judge Oliver J. Carter sent the eight-week-long trial to the jury Friday, six months after Miss Hearst's capture here ended a 19-month odyssey through the revolution.

Carter scheduled deliberations from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and then, for Miss Hearst and others, the tense wait began. Sitting in a small holding cell one floor above the jury room, she nervously took from a beige-colored woolen sack.

Carter remained in his chambers. The prosecutor, U.S. Attorney James L. Browning, Jr., worked in his 16th floor office. And chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey retreated to the Nob Hill hotel where he has been staying—one block from the Hearst family apartment.

Other defense attorneys remained in the building, occasionally visiting the defendant. "Behind the facade of bravado, she's nervous, like any other defendant," Bailey told news reporters in describing Carter had cautioned the jury not to allow "sympathy, prejudice, or public opinion" to influence its decision.

"If the accused be proved guilty, say so," said the judge. "If not proved so guilty, say so."

Miss Hearst's emotions as she awaited the verdict.

During the final hour of the trial Friday, the defendant's mother, Catherine Hearst, burst into tears and dashed out of the courtroom, escorted by a federal marshal.

"It's just, you know, sort of the end of the line and she got upset," said Miss Hearst's father, San Francisco Examiner President Randolph A. Hearst.

Questions Of Pregnancy, Sick Pay Now Before Courts

EDITOR'S Note — The first of the lawsuits to obtain sick pay for pregnant women was filed in the late '60s. Now the issue is before the Supreme Court for a major decision.

A man who walks into a bar, picks a fight and gets hurt generally receives sick pay for the time he is out of work. So does the man who attempts suicide but misses.

A woman who can't work due to pregnancy usually does not. She traditionally takes an unpaid leave of absence. Is this sex discrimination? Is pregnancy a sickness, an accident? ## Company Hires The Handicapped

'Unemployable' Man Heads Firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five years ago, Starider Dillon was so severely handicapped by injuries sustained in an automobile accident that he was confined to a wheelchair at home. Even to the District of Columbia vocational rehabilitation agency he was considered "unemployable."

Today, Dillon is met at home each weekday morning by a modified van equipped to handle his motorized wheelchair. He is driven to his modern offices in the Virginia suburbs of Washington, where he heads a computer software firm with 90 employees, which last year grossed over $2 million.

Starider Dillon, left, talks with employee Ed Powell at his computer software firm in suburban Washington, D.C., where he heads a staff of 90 and has made it a company policy to hire and train handicapped workers.

Spastic Colon Requires Diet

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had diarrhea off and on for eight years. The test show a spastic colon. I am bored because nothing stays in me. I am a highly nervous person but my nerves are relaxed. They have treated me with different things but it doesn't work. I have sharp pains and burning and fluttering throughout my intestines. Can you please advise me? I am only 35 but feel like 99 most of the time.

DEAR READER — Stop coffee in all forms, including the decaffeinated type. Do not use tea, colas or other caffeine containing beverages. Not because they contain soda but because some of them that you might not suspect contain caffeine that may stimulate the nervous system. Stop smoking cigarettes if you use any at all.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you please give me information on dextro-amphetamine? It is used for ADHD and I have been on it for several years. I have been on it for several years. I have been on it for several years. I have been on it for several years.

DEAR READER — All that diagnosis means is that the internal organs of the body are arranged in a mirror image of the normal arrangement. That is, the things that are supposed to be on the right side are on the left and vice versa.

stitute a form of severance pay? And what's to be done with the woman who can't work after the second month of pregnancy because of medical complications? Is she entitled to sick pay? If so, what would this do to the cost of the employer and his employees?

Can women's exclusion be called unequal really since pregnancy is a condition unique to women? These and similar questions are now before the U.S. Supreme Court as well as lower federal and state courts across the land. Some charge that excluding pregnancy from sick pay coverage violates state laws guaranteeing human rights and fair employment; some say there's a violation of the Constitution's Fourteenth Amendment.

Martha Gilbert, a factory worker in GE's Salem, Va., plant, became pregnant in 1970 and was required to take a mandatory, unpaid leave of absence. She and her union, the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, filed a grievance, asking for sick pay for Mrs. Gilbert while she was out. She already had received company hospital inment guaranteeing equal treatment, or of Title VII (dealing with sex discrimination) of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The two cases before the Supreme Court — General Electric versus Sandra Witell — were argued Jan. 19-20. Both are class action suits in which violations of Title VII are alleged.

The enormity of the decision has prompted a remarkably large number of friends-of-the-court briefs to be filed. They stack up predictably, with labor on one side and big business on the other.

Both sides say that if they lose they are prepared to go to Congress to seek legislation.

Wes Rinker Comes Home, And He's Not Alone

The past month has been something of a throwback to days when spring really meant something to Sanford.

Any oldtimer will tell you about spring training at Sanford Stadium. The New York Giants (that's the first clue to how long ago we are referring to) sent all their minor league teams here for training.

Wes Rinker was in Sanford in those days. In fact, 1951 was the year Rinker, a limbering young pitcher, was invited to spring training and it was here at Sanford Stadium he first fell in love with Central Florida.

Wes spent four years in the minors — plus one glorious week in the majors under Leo Durocher. That was Willie Mays' rookie season, being called an "infielder" through the season.

Rinker is back in Sanford. He has leased the baseball complex from the Seminole County School Board, which in turn has leased it from the city.

Baseball is still his business, specifically the school aspect.

Rinker conducts clinics and camps across the country, but between the months of January and April is busy entertaining college teams. This spring, 32 will be here for a week or more.

"The concept is simple," Wes says. "Teams come down and play baseball for a week. We house and feed 'em and they play two games a day. The winning team gets a trophy, so does the week's most valuable player."

Cost averages out to about $87 for six days for each member of the team. Most schools do not pay the cost of the trip — it rests with the team members to raise the money or pay their own way.

Well...Since You Asked

Q. Of the 162 games played in 1975 by the Cincinnati baseball team's "Great Red Machine," how many did they win and how many did they lose on unearned runs? —William R. Baker, Lily, Ky.

I checked with the Reds personally, and to answer that question would require going over the play-by-play of every game for last season. It's just not worth the effort. In winning 108 games, the Reds did score 112 unearned runs while giving up only 40 of the same species.

Q. How did Jamaal Wilkes of the Golden State Warriors develop that crazy style of shooting the ball from behind his head? —L.W. Piedmont, Calif.

When Wilkes, then called Keith, was a little kid on the playgrounds of southern California, he scrimmaged with the older boys, who were also bigger. So as a device to get the ball over them, he started firing it from behind his head and has continued the style to this day, when he faces forwards taller than his 6-6 in the NBA.

Q. Are Andy Russell, the veteran linebacker of the Pittsburgh Steelers, and Lee Roy Jordan, the veteran linebacker of the Dallas Cowboys, going to retire before next season? —T.M., Oil City, Pa.

Andy and Lee Roy, who both came into the NFL in 1963 and who will both be 35 next season, have been muttering about quitting for the last couple of years. But judging by appearances in the Super Bowl, it's likely they'll give it one last shot. You know, play 'em one at a time. Actually, they had fine seasons in '75.

Q. About 1977, I got Babe Ruth's autograph as an infielder in Oklahoma City and since then have added the autographs of all the leading home run hitters except Jimmy Fox and Ernie Banks (hope to get Banks soon). Leo Durocher with the Yankees when I saw the Babe. Was the year 1927? —Joe Paul Mathies, Poteau, Okla.

It was the next year because Leo Durocher, who now dispenses baseball knowledge in Japan, didn't come up to the Yankees as a full-fledged major league shortstop until 1928.

Q. Could you please inform me as to what Gary Behan, Heisman Trophy winner from UCLA, and Mike Garrett, Heisman Trophy winner from USC, are doing today? —R. J. Williams, Jr., Thomas F. Julian, Costa Mesa, Calif. Are they still playing?

Football's long behind both of them. Gary never could cut it as a pro quarterback, or at any other position, and was let go by Washington after the '69 season. He now heads a real estate investment office in Chicago. Mike, who had a successful pro career for eight years and was Super Bowl V, quit San Diego abruptly after 1973 to go into youth work. He now does public relations for a Los Angeles department store chain.

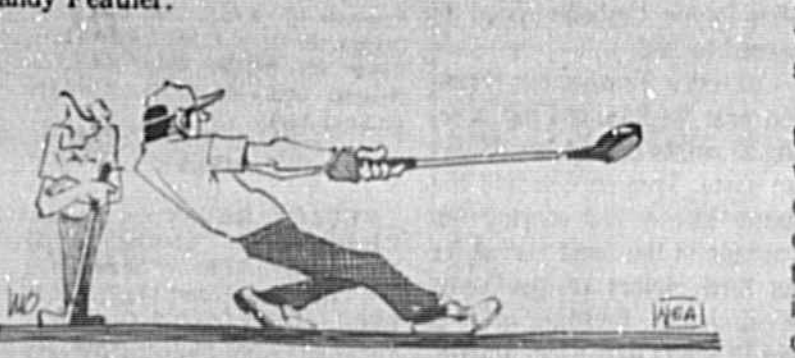

Q. Although the Philadelphia Phillies came close to winning their division last year and a possible shot at the World Series, isn't it true that they scored less runs, gave more runs than their opponents? —Gary Lee Moore, Stowe, Va.

Not true. The Phillies scored 735 runs last year, an average of 4.54 per game, while their pitchers in 162 games gave up 694 runs, or 4.26 per game.

Teacher Is Righty, So

Q. How many left-handed golfers are there on the pro tour? I only know one, Bob Charles. Why are there not more? —Will Worthworne, Tustin, Calif.

It's a question Charles himself asks. General feeling is that golf teaching pros are right-handed and so when a southpaw comes along to learn the game, the pro commiserates because it's easier to teach him from the right side. Besides Charles, who has cut down his tournament play, there are two active left-handed playing pros — Sam Adams, who won the Quad-Cities Open, and Randy Feather.

Q. When I get to college, I want to become a writer. I have read your books on pro football. Where did you get your information on players? —William Lancy, Toledo, Ohio.

No mystery. You just get around as much as you can and get to know them for personal insights. There are also normal avenues of research such as their schools and their pro teams and also the NFL commissioner's office, which keeps extensive files.

Q. I'm speaking out for the San Francisco Giants. They're terrific! I may be a girl only 14-years-old but I know what's going on. This season will be different. People will pay to see them play. That's my prediction. I live 100 miles from Candlestick Park. Go there once a year and have one heck of a time. This is not a question, but I'd like to point anyone because I think I speak for many people. —Laurie Adamson, Loomis, Calif.

Laurie, they need you.

Q. Not many young people know or are aware of Babe Ruth's ability as a pitcher. Does his won-loss and ERA and home runs record, set in 1918, still stand for modern pitchers? —M. Willey, Oakland, Calif.

The Babe was 17-77 the most in 1918, with an ERA of 2.22 and hit 31 homers — but most of those were clouted in the 72 games he played in the outfield and at first base. There is no way to compare records. Was Ferrell in 1931 was 22-12 and hit nine homers, all while pitching. He also batted .319. Don Drysdale won 24 and lost 12 in 1960, closing seven homers and hitting an even 20. The Babe's greatest pitching feat was 20 and two-third scoreless innings in World Series competition, a record until Nasty Froy broke it in 1961.

Q. You commented recently about the assumed "weak" or insignificant schedule the Arizona State 1975 football team played. I wonder if sports writers ever really watch the Western Athletic Conference. I am no "regret" but I am with an unbeaten season should be No. 1, considering the fact it was the only unbeaten team in the nation. Could it be that in addition to the fact Arizona State was not exposed to daytime audiences (they play Arizona games at night due to the heat), the location of the school was also unknown? —Roy Kohn Jr., El Paso, Tex.

Hardly. Nebraska certainly knows about the camps at Tampa. Aiee Correction: I did not comment about "the weak and insignificant schedule." In fact, I didn't even mention it. I simply said Oklahoma played in the toughest conference, the Big 8.

What if they gave a tennis match and the players had no place to go? That's very nearly the case at Seminole High School, where the absence of adequate facilities has cast a shadow over the current tennis season, approximately halfway finished. There are no protest marches or loud complaints. Low-key grumbling is evident on players' faces as they patiently await their turn for the two hours per day allotted both boys and girls for practice and matches.

Seminole High tennis has been a going concern for some years, despite getting very little support. There are not many private facilities at the school for practice sessions.

Best Of Bad Situation?

By AARON KAUFMAN Herald Correspondent

Seminole High tennis has been a going concern for some years, despite getting very little support. There are not many private facilities at the school for practice sessions.

Both boys and girls have to use the downtown city courts between three and five in the afternoon. When each squad has only one court for practice, improvement is not short in coming.

The boys coach, John Reichert, and the girls coach, Susan Welsch have put together teams for this year's schedule to give players a better competition. Each squad's record is not too impressive, but their efforts are.

"We've played well against the new teams but have not won against them," says Reichert. "If we had wanted a good season, the boys could have played easier teams but it was decided that we play better teams to give us more competition. The team is 6-5 so far, which is pretty good considering our schedule."

David McCook is the No. 1 seed for boys and holds a 7-3 record. Reichert's comments. "One of David's losses was to the No. 2 player in the state. He is having a good year and will be back for us next season. I'm sure some colleges are looking at him and I've even seen some letters. Undoubtedly, he'll be playing after he gets out of high school."

"One of our surprises this year is Andy Tharpe," says Reichert. "He is 8-2, which is a 100 per cent improvement over last year. Last season he primarily came out just to play tennis and didn't have to suffer lessons, but he worked hard over the summer to improve."

"If we had wanted a good season, the boys could have eliminated any possibility of strike or lockout."

In the wrap-up session, the owners decided to loosen the rule covering players who had been put on the injured reserve list in 1975 and were out for the year.

Under the statute last year, only three players could be protected by their clubs from being picked up on waivers if they had been on the injured reserve list.

Three players still may be eligible for trade, but all the rest on the injured reserve list will be given the chance next year of making the grade with their teams. If they don't, they must be put on waivers, where another club could claim them for $100.

Jim Kensil, Executive Director of the NFL, said the intent of the rule always has been to give clubs of Tampa Bay and Seattle the chance of picking up players that other clubs had placed on injured reserve, with the exception of the players' association, which came to their meeting and said the players were ready, willing and able to negotiate a new collective bargaining agreement.

The football has been without one for two years, with many lawsuits involved.

Csonka Bidding War In Offing?

By LARRY CONKIN

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Larry Csonka, Jim Kluck and Paul Warfield starred for the Miami Dolphins when they won the 1973 and 1974 Super Bowls, and that trio, which defected to the World Football League, dominated the final season of the National Football League meetings even though they weren't here.

The three played out their options with the Dolphins and jumped to the now-defunct NFL with multi-year, million-dollar contracts. On Friday, John Bassett, who owned the NFL's Memphis club, declared them free agents.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL said he didn't know if they were truly free or not, but that the NFL would find out quickly. If so, they presumably would be free to sign with the highest bidder.

Fullback Csonka, 29, might be the subject of a bidding war. Running back Kluck, 29, and wide receiver Warfield, 33, possibly would not.

Brightest spot of the week for the 28 owners probably came when Dick Anderson, president of the players' association, said he would accept the NFL's offer.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Larry Csonka, Jim Kluck and Paul Warfield starred for the Miami Dolphins when they won the 1973 and 1974 Super Bowls, and that trio, which defected to the World Football League, dominated the final season of the National Football League meetings even though they weren't here.

The three played out their options with the Dolphins and jumped to the now-defunct NFL with multi-year, million-dollar contracts. On Friday, John Bassett, who owned the NFL's Memphis club, declared them free agents.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL said he didn't know if they were truly free or not, but that the NFL would find out quickly. If so, they presumably would be free to sign with the highest bidder.

Fullback Csonka, 29, might be the subject of a bidding war. Running back Kluck, 29, and wide receiver Warfield, 33, possibly would not.

Brightest spot of the week for the 28 owners probably came when Dick Anderson, president of the players' association, said he would accept the NFL's offer.

Anderson and Rozelle each expect meetings to start within two weeks in an effort to negotiate the working rules and

Miller, Tipton Engaged

Mrs. Marie Miller, 2620 El Capitan Ave., Sanford, announces the engagement of her daughter, Barbara Ann, to James McCall Tipton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Tipton of Chicago, Ill.

Miss Miller, born in Orlando, is the granddaughter of Mrs. George T. Fox of Gulfport, Ind. and Mrs. C. M. Miller, 2809 Iroquois Ave., Sanford. A 1971 graduate of Seminole High School, where she was a member of the Anchor Club, National Honor Society and Latin Club, she graduated in 1975 from the University of Florida with a B.S. degree in Biology. In college, she was a member of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority and a Sigma Chi Little Sister. She is a teacher at Lakewood High School, Ocala.

Her fiancé, born in Knoxville, Tenn., is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McCall Sr. and Corbin, Ky. and Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Tipton, Knoxville. In 1966 he graduated from Brainerd High School in Chattanooga, Tenn. where he played football, was a member of the Key Club, Honor Society, and a class member of the school council officer. He graduated in 1971 from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, where he was a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity, Omicron Delta Kappa, Leadership and Honor Society, and Scabbard and Blade Honor Society. He is presently a graduate student in finance at the University of Florida. He is a student judge for fraternities, a Cadet Corps commander for Army ROTC, and served three years as a regular Army officer.

The June 12 wedding is planned at 2 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, Gainesville.

Myers, Meyers Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald G. Myers Sr. of 2403 Grandview Ave., Sanford, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Lee, to Glenn Edwin Meyers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meyers Sr. of 2411 Key Avenue, Sanford.

Miss Myers was born in Orlando and graduated from Seminole High School, where she was a varsity cheerleader. She is employed at Flagship Bank of Sanford. Her grandparents are Mrs. W. C. Taylor of Branchville, S. C., and the late Mr. Taylor and Mrs. B. P. Myers, also of Branchville, and the late Mr. Myers.

Her fiancé was born in Sanford, graduated from Seminole High School and expects to graduate from Seminole Community College in April. He is employed as a communication consultant for Southern Bell. His grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Landquist of Sanford and Mrs. Vera Heath of Alexandria.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wade Sr. of 2425 Willow Ave., Sanford, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lou Ann, to Richard Jay Cosmato, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jay T. Cosmato of 437 Scott Ave., Sanford.

Miss Wade, born in Orlando, is a graduate of Seminole High School, where she was vice president of the Para-Medical Club. She is now a student in the registered nursing program at Valencia Community College and a member of the Student Nurse Association. She is employed part-time as a secretary at Seminole Memorial Hospital. She is the granddaughter of former Sanford resident Mrs. Vina Holloway of Apopka and the late Jack Holloway and Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Wade of Sanford.

Her fiancé was born in Atlanta, graduated from Seminole High school and is now enrolled in the ornamental horticulture program at Valencia, where he is a member of Phi Theta Kappa and Honor Society. He is employed as a grower at Apopka Foliage Nursery. He is the grandson of Mrs. Eva Swanson and the late Charles Carringer of Haysville, N.C., and Mrs. Florence Cosmato of Roanoke, Va., and the late Mr. Cosmato. The wedding is planned for 7 p.m., Aug. 28, at First Baptist Church of Sanford.

MacLauchlin, Moore Wed

Ann Waddill MacLauchlin and Lt. William Lee Moore were married March 20 at noon at Shandon Presbyterian Church, Columbia, S. C., before Rev. Kenneth W. Mullis performing the double ring ceremony. Organist was Mrs. Sam D. Key.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. MacLauchlin, 316 Sateema Dr., Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Moore of Columbia, S. C.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Victorian style gown of ivory chiffon with empire waistline, lace yoke and cuffs re-embroidered with seed pearls. The long sleeves were sheer and the cuffs, neckline and hem were trimmed with a lace ruffle. Her bandeau headpiece secured an elbow-length veil.

Miss Lynn B. MacLauchlin was maid of honor in an aqua blue gown with flowing multi-colored chiffon overlay.

Henry A. Moore served the son as best man. Groomsmen ushers were Joe T. Pugh of Rev. Kenneth W. Mullis performing the double ring ceremony. Organist was Mrs. Sam D. Key.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. MacLauchlin, 316 Sateema Dr., Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Moore of Columbia, S. C.

Youth Programs Plans Pow-Wow

Youth Programs Inc., held an in-service meeting March 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the First Federal Savings and Loan in Sanford.

More than 50 volunteer counselors attended the meeting including Regional Coordinator Ms. Marilyn Gordon, Seminole County Supervisor John Lunde, South Seminole Coordinator Mrs. Lee Sterling, and Orlando Coordinator Peter Semirao.

Guest speaker for the meeting was Circuit Court Judge Donnick Salfi. The judge spoke on the humanistic concept in general and focused on creative aggression.

Those present enjoyed a two-hour session which involved what the judge termed a "mind-trapping" exercise. He mentioned several programs being planned in the humanities called painting, cooking, and the family pow-wow. All these programs, opened to members of the community, are designed to assist people to relate to each other in a meaningful way.

The family pow-wow is being held for the first time in the eastern section of the county. It is an all-day program and will be held on the South Seminole campus at the P.O. American Bank on SR 438.

Interest was also generated in attending the 24-hour course in the humanities the judge is teaching at Seminole Community College.

Anyone wishing more information on any of the above subjects should call SCC.

How About A Show Of Hands?

By JOANNE KOCH Herald Staff

When he first came up with the idea of a "show of hands" holding hands in an unbroken chain from sea to shining sea, Marvin Rosenblum knew he was on to something that grabbed the imagination. But the response has exceeded his wildest dreams. Every major newspaper in the country has run a story on Hands Across America. The BBC has interviewed Rosenblum and when I first caught up with Marvin he was rushing off to Los Angeles to tape the Dinah Shore and Merv Griffin shows.

Now there is no question that some people want to see the nation holding hands on July 4, 1976. Tentative maps have been drawn up suggesting a feasible route. Eight states have expressed a willingness to cooperate in the effort: Texas, Michigan, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, D.A.R., American Legion, Jaycees, Girl Scouts and other labor, civic and religious groups pull together.

One of the problems will be keeping the hand holding free of commercialism. A Hollywood producer is already waiting in the wings to film the event. Certainly people would have to eat and drink before and after the hand holding. One can imagine the full panoply of the hyper-publicized American event where hot dogs are suddenly a dollar and half-filled cups of soft drinks cost 50 cents, where high priced souvenirs are hawked as children squeal, "Please, let me have one."

If you believe it can happen, write Hands Across America, Inc., Box 712, Chicago, Ill. 60609.

Theft, Loss Of Pets Thwarted By Tattoo

By JEAN PATTESON Herald Staff Writer

A collar with engraved tags is a pretty sure way of identifying a stray or lost pet, but to the unscrupulous petknapper, it's also easy to slip off that collar — and then who is to know whose pet it is?

The only foolproof way to foil pet thieves, believes Elaine Kelso, is the Ident-a-pet method. An easy and painless tattoo on the inside of an animal's hind leg or belly is a lifelong identity tag that no thief can remove.

Ms. Kelso first had a dog of hers tattooed about eight years ago when a rash of "dogsnappings" swept through New Jersey, then her home state. Now that she lives in Florida, and is pioneering her own tack and western wear store in Orange City, she has decided to offer the unique Ident-a-pet service in Central Florida.

With her business partner, Eleanor Cross, she applied to Julie Mascoe, founder of the system and president of the New York program, to open an agency in Orange City. There are now about 100 agencies across the country, but Ms. Kelso believes theirs is the first in Central Florida.

Ms. Kelso's own Alaskan husky, Makwa, was her first customer. But to make absolutely certain the process was as painless as advertised, Ms. Cross first ran the tattooer needle over her own forearm.

The battery-operated gadget made a loud buzzing noise, but was quite painless, she discovered.

The tattoo begins with the letter 'X' — this identifies it as an Ident-a-pet marking. The letters that follow are coded to geographic regions and can be checked on a central Ident-a-pet computer to establish the ownership of a pet within minutes, says Ms. Kelso. In addition, a laboratory, to which many kidnapped pets are sold, is prohibited under federal law from accepting an Ident-a-pet animal.

This "lifetime registration" costs $20 — not all profit, the agents hasten to point out. A lot of their income will be spent on advertising the system and traveling throughout Central Florida to demonstrate and administer the Ident-a-pet tattoos.

"I'm a super dog lover," smiles Ms. Kelso. "That's mainly why we've got into it." She or Ms. Cross may be contacted at Lori-B Tack and Western Wear, Orange City.

Xi Beta Eta To Host BSP Founders' Day Luncheon

The climax to Beta Sigma Phi Sorority's activities each year, is its elegant Founder's Day, to be held this April 24 by Xi Beta Eta Chapter.

Chapter members have completed table decorations for the occasion, and are now planning the final fine details for this special day, according to Susan Byrd, chapter president.

At the luncheon, the winner of a landscape painted by Xi Beta Eta member Phyllis Senkarik will be announced. Tickets are now on sale from any chapter member.

The chapter's activities for the 1975-76 year started in September with a fish fry at the Lake Mary home of Mrs. Byrd and her husband, Rex.

A hobby party for rubes Linda Keeling and her husband, Wayne, was held in early October. Later in the month, members attended the All-Chapter luncheon at Lord Chumley's Pub, where they sold tickets on a floral centerpiece.

In November and December, the chapter, working with the Salvation Army, filled food baskets for needy families. They also helped build the sorority's float for the Christmas parade, some members attended an area conference in Orlando, and the chapter sold eggshells stuffed with confetti at Seminole High's homecoming.

Toward the year's end, husbands were invited to enjoy a night at the dinner theatre to see "80 Time for Sergeants." Beta Buddy gifts were exchanged at the special covered dish dinner.

The 1976 year started out with plans to be hosted chapter at the cocktail party preceding the Valentine Ball, Pam Knowles, chapter Valentine Girl, was honored at the luncheon at Sireni's Ristorante in early February.

During March, rush plans are in progress for those who have completed four years in the Ritual of Jewels degree and will progress to the Exemplar Degree.

Xi Beta Eta has had an active membership of 15 this year, with member Freddie Nelson serving as president of City Council and Phyllis Senkarik as City Council Valentine Girl.

Mrs. Senkarik is president for the coming year; Pam Largut is vice president; Pam Knowles, recording secretary; Margie Beine, treasurer; and Ellen Koffer, corresponding secretary.

Current president, Susan Byrd, is the mother of four children and works at the Seminole Memorial Hospital Pharmacy. She has served as recording secretary, publicity chairman, and chairman of social and ways and means committees and was chosen Girl of the Year during her ritual of Jewels degree. She is chairman of this year's nominating committee for City Council, and served this year and in the past on that council.

Send Ex's Family Separate Invitations

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am in a terrible quandary. We are having a formal affair for my son's bar mitzvah. My brother and his wife recently separated and are living apart. I don't know whether they will eventually patch up their differences or go through with the divorce.

Should I invite my sister-in-law? We always got along well, and I am very fond of her. Should I send her and my brother separate invitations at their respective addresses? And how about her parents? I like them, too.

IN A QUANDARY

DEAR IN: Send a separate invitation to your sister-in-law and also one to her parents, and let them decide whether or not to accept.

DEAR ABBY: I am amazed at your chauvinistic put-down of women who accept attentions from married men. You fail to mention the men who get married women, often without any encouragement.

And what about the wife who treats her husband like a second-class citizen and refuses sex but is hurt and martyred when he finds another woman with whom to share love and companionship?

Many unhappy marriages have been saved by the "wider woman," who provides a much-needed oasis for the unhappy married man and sends him back to his wife refreshed and renewed.

It's time wives assumed some of the responsibility for the reason their husbands stray. It's also time that we face the horrible truth that wives also stray with "cruel, inconsiderate, stupid and shortsighted" MALES.

FOR EQUALITY

DEAR FOR EQUALITY: If a marriage must be "saved" by the "other woman" (or the "other man") who provides a "much-needed oasis" and sends the lover home "refreshed and renewed," I think all concerned should take a good, hard look at the marriage. Such marriages are for masochists.

DEAR ABBY: A waitress signed WANTS TO PLEASE wrote a long list of complaints against customers. The one that irritated me the most was, "Please do not summon the waitress by snapping your fingers, whistling or hollering, 'Hey, Girlie!'"

Now I have a question I eat in restaurants often, and I have a terrible time getting the attention of my waitress. What is the correct procedure?

XI BETA ETA OFFERS PICTURE

Sanford artist Phyllis Senkarik displays her painting for which Xi Beta Eta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi is currently selling tickets at $1.00 each through April 24. The painting will be on display at Flagship Bank of Sanford until April 2; First Federal of Seminole until April 16; and Flagship U.S. Bank in Knoxville until April 22. For information or tickets, contact Pam Knowles or Pat Johnson.

In And Around Sanford Kids Need Help For Bicentennial Travel

The school year for 11 students in the Special Education Unit (designed for emotionally disturbed children with learning disabilities) of the Woodlands Elementary School, has been devoted to the history of the Bicentennial.

The class, taught by Nancy Fer gas, has studied all 50 states and the U.S. presidents. Ranging in age from 9-11, the group aspires to broaden its vistas by traveling to Washington, D.C. during the Bicentennial year.

Assisted by their teacher and Ann Newkirk and George Morris, teachers aides, and Matherly Smith, Seminole County social worker, the students have engaged in various fund-raising projects to reach their destination.

In addition to their efforts, several merchants civic organizations and interested citizens have made contributions. While in Washington May 7-12, the students and chaperones will be lodged in a church basement. To date, the entrance is about $600 to make the trip with just the bare necessities.

The students have undertaken all sorts of odd jobs to help raise funds for the projected dream. Daily, they arrive at school with "pocket change" toward meeting the expense.

For those interested in giving these deserving youngsters a lift, please contact Mrs. Frank Newkirk, 265 Tangerine Drive.

After being installed as worthy Matron of Seminole Chapter No. 2 Order of the Eastern Star, Phyllis Freund said, "I have never been so happy over anything in my life. It was just beautiful, and I don't believe I have ever seen a more impressive installation."

Phyllis' sister, Dorothea Jackson from Tucson, Ariz., attended the event and presented her with the gavel their aunt used as worthy Matron of Hollywood Chapter in West Hollywood, Calif. in 1959.

Among the others coming to Sanford to be with Phyllis on her "big night" were Murray Axel, a friend for more than 30 years from Chicago, Ill., and her six grandchildren, from Hollywood.

Mrs. Lorraine Graham, Mrs. R.K. Horton and Mrs. L.W. Ross were hostesses to the March bridge and canasta party of the Social Department of Sanford Woman's Club. Winners were Mrs. Stanley Pierce, high in bridge; Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith, second high, bridge; Mrs. Walter Reservations are a must through the chamber office. This is a free treat for workers and spouses. Guests are welcome at a minimum tab.

Mertha and Bob Orwig visited on their wedding anniversary March 3 with just an intimate dinner party on the town for the two. They are the parents of two daughters, Susan, 19, and Sandra, 13.

A dinner party for 50 guests at Sanford Sheraton Inn on March 2 honored Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Terry of Deltona. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Chuck McCarthy, Deltona, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Timberlake of London, Ky., the former residence of the honored couple.

For the past four years, Carolyn Cornelius has been state director of Epalon Sigma Omicron (ESO). At the Spring Convention of Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, scheduled April 25-29, at Daytona Beach, Carolyn and the Sanford ESO group will host a breakfast for the all-Florida event.

Give Forethought To Quick Meals

By NANCY BOOTH
Herald Correspondent

Who among us hasn't found the need, at one time or another, to fix a quick meal, that is both economical and nourishing?

Reasons may vary. It could be you are a working wife and/or mother, or you may be deeply involved in community activities which leave little time for cooking meals that require long preparation. Even the woman who devotes herself exclusively to being a homemaker may find it necessary to fix a meal in minutes because of an extra-busy schedule or unexpected company.

You can always be prepared for an emergency by a little careful planning. When you have an extra few minutes, glance through your cookbooks, or utilize a few of the hints listed below.

Plan on five emergency meals. When you have picked out your menu, go to the grocery store and purchase the needed ingredients. Store in your refrigerator. Check the menu on the inside of your cupboard door. Sit back and relax. You are now ready for any emergency. When those meals are used up, select five more and go through the same procedure.

Three canned soups make a grand new full-meal soup. Serve with crackers and crisp celery sticks. This delicious meal is prepared by combining a can of condensed cream of vegetable soup, a can of condensed chicken soup, a can of condensed onion soup, 1/2 cups milk, one 12-ounce can (1 1/2 cups) of whole kernel corn, and one 4-ounce can Vienna sausage. Mix soups together, stir in milk and corn. Slice sausage links in coins; add to soups. Cover and heat slowly, stirring often till soup comes just to boiling. Makes six servings.

If you have a tender you can make a gourmet chicken soup by blending till smooth (about 10 seconds) a can of condensed cream of chicken soup, a cup of canned condensed chicken consommé, 1/2 teaspoon tarragon, and 1/2 cup heavy cream. You can serve this hot or chill and serve topped with whipped cream sprinkled with paprika. Makes four to five servings.

When I see accomplished needlewomen looking around for "something different" to make, I tell them to take another look at the pillows they've embroidered for their homes, a suggestion that frequently puzzles them. But after they examine the research, square and oblong incumbents of their sofas, chairs, beds and window seats, they begin to see what I mean.

Often the pillows were made a long time ago, perhaps when the woman who embroidered them was a beginner. The designs she was so proud of then could be worked now with infinitely more variety and skill.

A multicolor kit can now become more personally her, adapted to a monochromatic or two-color palette. Today she sees that a pillow made to match a room's color tones would be far more exciting in a brilliant persimmon.

Besides pillow fashions have changed in the past few years. Newly important are either very large or very small pillows. Why not blow up a motif for a huge, fat sit-beside-the-fireplace pillow? Or you might go the other way: take small components of a clutch or night-table pillow and make a miniature pillow no bigger than a minute.

Try the challenge of a Bargello pillow on 22 — mesh canvas (that's 22 stitches to the inch) in six-strand embroidery thread. Create monogram pillows — a pair would be a lovely wedding gift for a young Julie Nixon Eisenhower has just created her own line of needlework for stitchery fans like herself.

Her Art Says 'I Care' Julie Designs Stitchery

Julie Nixon Eisenhower has designed a line of stitchery kits for National Paragon called simply "Stitchery by Julie."

The first weekend that Julie spent at the home of her parents-in-law, she admitted the beautiful crewel work seat covers stitched by David's mother, Barbara Eisenhower, for her dining room chairs. When Julie indicated interest, Mrs. Eisenhower gladly taught her some of the basic stitches. That was over nine years ago, and embroidery has been one of Julie's favorite pastimes ever since.

Paragon's "Stitchery by Julie" has special significance for her. For instance, one cross-stitch sampler, "Bless This House," was inspired by a brass plaque that hung in the family quarters in the White House throughout President Eisenhower's term of office. The original sampler was later given to David and Julie by Mamie Eisenhower, and has hung in the top five homes they have lived in since their marriage.

Wallace, Reagan Facing Tough Primary Battles

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's voters are preparing to pass judgment in a primary election that could be crucial to two conservative presidential candidates, Democrat George C. Wallace and Republican Ronald Reagan.

Both candidates have suffered a string of early primary losses. Both would like victory in Tuesday's voting to demonstrate that they still have a political base from which to continue their campaigns. Democrats will choose 61 delegates and Republicans 54.

North Carolina voters in recent years have favored conservatives. The state gave 70 per cent of its vote to Richard Nixon in 1972. Democrats gave Wallace 50.2 per cent of the vote in the 1972 primary. In 1968, Hubert Humphrey ran a poor third behind Nixon and Wallace, when the Alabama governor was a third party candidate.

The state has a pronounced streak of fundamentalist social conservatism as well. The voters in 1973 turned down by a margin of 2-1 a proposal to allow the sale of cocktails in restaurants. North Carolina drinkers have to carry their liquor in "brown bags" if they want to consume it in public.

The primary schedule will not soon offer either Wallace or Reagan as hospitable an arena. New York and Wisconsin vote first on April 6 and Pennsylvania follows on April 27.

The North Carolina race gives Wallace another crack at

For two men who dream of the White House, Alabama Governor George Wallace (left) and former California Governor Ronald Reagan, the long road to 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue may come to an abrupt end in the backwoods of North Carolina.

Area GOP Delegates Chosen

At least two Seminole County residents and possibly a third will be attending and participating in the Republican national convention this summer.

Elected as a delegate Saturday at a fifth congressional district caucus held in Mt. Dora was Fred Stretnman, chairman of the Seminole County Republican Executive Committee and state committeeman-elect, while Mary Ann Morse, vice chairman of the local GOP committee and president of the Seminole County Young Republicans, was elected an alternate.

Florida delegates to the Democratic National Convention to be held in New York City are to be selected in district caucuses at next Saturday.

The caucus for the fifth congressional district, which includes the Sanford area, will be held by the Democrats at St. Johns College, Palatka, while Politics is the name of the game at the Mayfair County Club as School Supt. William P. Laver chats with Congressional candidate Don Reynolds, principal of Seminole High School. It was the second gathering for Reynolds, a Democrat, who is seeking the office held by Richard Kelly, a Republican.

Kimbrough Wants It 'In Writing'

County Commissioner John Kimbrough said today he wants to see "in writing" the county attorney's ruling which deems collection of impact fees "improper" before deciding on a course of action.

County Atty. Thomas Freeman said last Friday that he will rule tomorrow (Tuesday) that the present system of collecting fees is "improper" because fees are not collected by ordinance. Freeman based his opinion on a recent Florida Supreme Court ruling involving the City of Dade.

"I don't want any more of this verbal, semi-meaningless gobbledegook. I want to see specifically in writing what the recommendation is," Kimbrough said.

Freeman was instructed to rule on the issue after builders appeared at a meeting last month and protested the county's unwritten policy of collections.

Prizes Awarded During Barbecue

Shad Derby Ends On Grand Note

A host of valuable prizes — topped by a grand prize of a complete fishing boat and motor outfit — were awarded at a barbecue at the Sanford Police Benevolent Association (PBA) building in Sanford Saturday to climax the First Annual Evening Herald-Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Shad Derby.

A large turnout was on hand at the lakefront PBA headquarters to join in festivities as Steven P. Schick headed the list of winners and took home the Senior Division grand prize, a 12-foot boat and trailer from Seminole Sporting Goods, powered by a six hp Johnson outboard motor from Monroe Harbour Inc.

Steve Myers was the grand prize winner in the Junior Division. He won a depth finder from Sanford Boat Works, a $25 gift certificate from Kader Jewelers and a Kodak Instamatic 10 Pocket camera outfit from Weibold Camera Shop.

Eight rods and reels, four from Denmark Sporting Goods and four from Seminole Sporting Goods were awarded to the four weekly winners in each division.

Senior Division winners were:
