Commanding Officer Of VJ-62 Feted At BOQ Prior To Release

Cdr. David C. McNeill, the first acting Commanding Officer of Photographic Squadron Sixty-two, who presided at the squadron's commissioning ceremonies, said farewell to BOQ and naval duties at a going-away party held at Bachelor Officers' Quarters aboard the Naval Auxiliary Air Station Wednesday, Nov. 24.

The Wednesday evening semi-formal party got underway with a charred broiled steak dinner at 8:30 p.m. After being cooked at the BOQ outdoor barbecue pits, the steaks were the main item of interest to all.

As the last of the steaks disappeared, the partygoers swung into another form of delightful action as they danced to music delivered by the DJ and Trio.

Reeling "Plank" McNeill, who has held every top assignment possible in a squadron such as VJ-62, is to be released to inactive duty Saturday, Nov. 27, after 13 years of outstanding Naval service.

The Commander left a Carbonade, Ill., school room, where he was a teacher, to join the navy blue on Feb. 16, 1941. In November of that year Cdr. McNeill received his commission to ensign and was designated a Naval aviator upon completion of flight training school at Corpus Christi, Texas, three months later.

At this point the teaching profession came up again as Cdr. McNeill was retained at Corpus Christi for purposes of instructing future Naval aviators in primary training and aviation gunnery.

War Ace

During the later years of World War II Cdr. McNeill was attached to VF-26 aboard the USS Santee and served as Flight, Operation, Engineering and Executive Officer. While performing these duties in the Pacific, Cdr. McNeill earned the title of an ace fighter pilot by shooting five Japanese planes out of the sky in two consecutive days, bagging three one day and a pair the next. Cdr. McNeill found himself in the water twice in these two days as he had his own planes shot from under him. He later added another brace of Japanese planes to his tally in the Philippines.

Cdr. McNeill was released to inactive duty in June of 1945, but (Continued on Page 2)

Alger Hiss Ends Prison Sentence Tomorrow Morning

LEWISBURG, Pa. — After 3½ years behind bars, Alger Hiss will leave Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary tomorrow. His wife Priscilla is expected to meet him at the gate.

The 50-year-old former State Department official, who was convicted of spying for the Soviet Union, had never passed secrets to a Communist spy ring, is leaving on a probationary basis. He was originally sentenced for five years but he won an earlier release with a "meritorious" record.

As a convicted felon, he will be without the right to vote or hold public office.

Acting Warden Fred T. Custison said he has had his "ulterior talk" with Hiss.

His itinerary for tomorrow is simple.

After breakfast, check out with the library and then walk to freedom.

Prison guards have described Hiss' prison life as that of an extremely cooperative inmate.

They said he worked most of his prison time as a clerk on the clothing issue detail.

His spare time, they said, was devoted "almost exclusively" to reading in the prison library.

Hiss' release comes just a few days after the death of William W. Hennington, another government employee who was imprisoned on conviction of perjury in connection with questioning on Communist connections.

Two inmates, George Junior McCoy, Grundy, Va. and Robert Carl Parker, Washington, D. C., face murder charges in the Monday blood poisoning of Remington with a sick-exposed piece of food.

Remington died Wednesday after an unsuccessful emergency operation.

Dozens of newsmen are expected to be on hand to question Hiss on his plans for the future. He entered the prison claiming his innocence and some indications are his immediate future might be devoted to proving it.

But at least two congressional committees have indicated they may ask first call on his time.

Until March 21, 1956, Hiss will have to check with a parole officer and report various details of his personal life.

Called Prejudicial

Corrigan produced two copies of the Cleveland Press of Wednesday and yesterday. He said they contained "prejudicial statements" and that the material covered was "striking at the very foundations of jurisprudence."

The stories dealt with reporters' interviews — one with friends and relatives of the slain Marilyn Sheppard, the other a feature about a woman juror's family struggling along without her while she was on duty.

The juror, Mrs. Lois Mancini, was not at the home when her family was interviewed. She said pictures were taken in overruling the motion.

The juror contends Dr. Sheppard killed his wife after an affair with a pretty nurse, Susan Hayes.

Me, afraid of the dark?

My name is Mary... and I want you to know I'm not afraid to go to bed by myself.
I have a bright candle to light my way. I have Mommy and Daddy to care for me.
But do you really want to know why I'm not afraid?
In Sunday School, I learned about Jesus. I know he loves me and watches over me.
At night when I blow out the candle, and Mommy and Daddy are away, I am not alone. Jesus is with me. I remember how he said long ago to his disciples: "Let the little children come unto me... for to such belongs the Kingdom of Heaven."
I wonder if your children know about Jesus? Won't you take them to Sunday School next Sunday?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Cdr. David C. McNeill

Commanding

(Continued From Page One) was recalled in April 1947 to serve as flight instructor at Olathe, Kansas. Here he received instruction in jet aircraft. NAS Norfolk, Va. was the next duty station for Cdr. McNeill, where he served in the capacity of flight instrument instructor.

On April 10, 1953 Cdr. McNeill commissioned Photographic Squadron 63 as Acting Commanding Officer in Jacksonville. Since then he has been Squadron Executive Officer except for the periods from May to September 1953 and April to October of this year when he was officer-in-charge of VJ-62's detachments "Baker" and "Fox", respectively, which were on missions overseas in the Mediterranean area.

A squadron precedent was set in April 1954 when Cdr. McNeill became one of the few Naval aviators to qualify in both day and night carrier landings in the AJ-2F Saragoe, a twin-engine long range bomber used by PhotoRon 63 for aerial reconnaissance mapping. Cdr. McNeill is a bachelor and resided at BOQ at NAAS while at Sanford.

Plans Vacation
Upon his departure from the squadron he plans to vacation for approximately six weeks, visiting his mother, Mrs. W. F. McNeill, in Cleveland, and also his brother, G. E. McNeill in Lake Charles, La. Cdr. McNeill's civilian future will also be in aviation and again closely tied to his original profession of teaching. He will report to North American Aviation's main plant in Columbus, Ohio and assume a position as a field representative in the Field Service branch of the Engineering Department, North American is the corporation that produces the aircraft Cdr. McNeill has been flying in the Navy for VJ-62.

Cdr. McNeill's civilian future will be to Columbus on or about Jan. 10, 1955 for at least six months instruction prior to being assigned to a military unit of the Armed Forces using the NAA made aircraft as a technical advisor.

Government Witnesses

Federal Witnesses Hidden Identity

NEW YORK (AP)—A woman government witness who tried to conceal her identity because of alleged fear of retaliation by the Communist Party was forced to reveal her true identity today in a perjury trial against a Miami, Fla., labor leader.

She finally revealed herself to be a New Haven, Conn., resident, Mrs. Sarah Friedman, who once belonged to the Communist Party in Miami.

The labor leader, Marlon Lloyd Edwards, 39, of Coral Gables, is being tried in Federal Court for allegedly denying falsely that he was a Communist. He is former president of Local 500, Air Transport Division, CIO Transport Workers.

Mrs. Friedman said she knew Edwards was a member of the Communist Party as she herself was prior to October 1946 and that Edwards actively participated in meetings open only to Communist Party members.

The union local's officers were expelled in 1949 by TWU International President Michael J. Quill.

Mrs. Friedman said she joined the Communist Party in Miami in 1941 and remained a member until October 1946 under the name of Shirley Sands.

She said she went to work as a bookkeeper and office worker for Local 500 in 1948 when she was still a Communist and continued working for the local until August 1947.

RUSTLENS PLAGUE SCHOOL OFFICIALS
LOS ANGELES (AP)—A new menace confronts school authorities in their fight against vandalism—goats.

They broke into the 70th Street Elementary School and made off with three goats penned there as part of a children's farm project. Someone also made off with a ram at Canoga Park High School. However, Robert Graham, security officer, said the thief is in trouble "because that ram weighs 250 pounds, every one of them."

MARRY HOLLYWOOD—Movie actress Eleanor Parker and portrait painter Paul Clemens were married yesterday in a brief ceremony at the First Methodist Church.

STRAWBERRY AUCTION NETS CHURCH $230

PLANT CITY (AP)—The Turkey Creek Baptist Church is richer by $230 today from an auction sale of the season's first pint of strawberries brought to this center.

The produce firm of Wisnatski & Nathel was the top bidder for the berries, grown by J. C. Wynn of the Turkey Creek community.

The first pint last year, sold Dec. 2 brought only $145.

Mechanic Says Wanted To Die

NEW YORK (AP)—Gald Slatko Cruz: "I was dependent. I was sick of living. I figured if I hit a cop, the cop would shoot and kill me."

Cruz, 34-year-old mechanic, had that to say yesterday after police accused him of:

1. Driving for 15 blocks on the wrong side of Southern Boulevard in the Bronx.
2. Punching photographer Alan Aaronson in the nose after trying to ram his car four times. Aaronson had been trailing Cruz in his car.
3. Punching one cop in the nose, hitting another on the thumb and fussing with half a dozen other policemen.

After being treated for cuts and bruises, Cruz was booked on charges of assault and dangerous driving.

Andrei Vishinsky

The very fact that he achieved a position of prominence in the Soviet Union and survived to die a natural death at the age of 70 marked Andrei Vishinsky as an unusual man. He had a sure instinct for self-preservation which led him to abandon dangerous and unpopular causes in time to save himself.

Vishinsky was one of that dwindling band of Russian leaders who had their roots in the beginnings of the revolution. It was a revolution that might have brought hope and a new chance to the Russian people; instead it brought only despair and disguised the old tyranny with a new name.

In the very fanatical belief of the old Bolsheviks in what they were trying to do were the seeds of their betrayal of the revolution they created. They started with the promise that history would justify the means if the end were good, and in carrying this philosophy to its conclusion they set loose a new terror and the last oppressions were worse than the first. After a time the leaders could no longer distinguish between the ends and the means.

Andrei Vishinsky was a man of great talent and ability. It was unfortunate that instead of being a real leader of his people his gifts had to be used to keep himself alive.

History Shows Men Usually Hungry

NEW YORK (AP)—Throughout history men rarely have been certain where they'd get their next meal.
The problems in America for the next few days is just the reverse. Practically every husband will be only too sure where his next meal is coming from—the ruins of a Thanksgiving turkey.
A turkey, for the average small family, is a cavern of depressing plenty. Just when everybody hopefully believes the bird has yielded up its last morsel, you turn another corner of the carcass—and there is three more meals.
The poultry industry is no help. It is always putting out lists of 1,012 appetizing ways a wife can disguise leftover turkey. But every way ends up with the man of the house staring moodily into another plate of turkey rubble.

This seems to me a short-sighted approach to the problem. If I were head of the poultry industry, I'd put a little tag on every Thanksgiving turkey that said:
"When you drink wine, you don't drain the dregs, do you? Well, treat this fine turkey as if it, too, were a fine wine.
"After you have dined off it well enough, don't paw through the debris for days, insulting your palate and the memory of a mellow, wonderful Thanksgiving dinner. If you throw away the dregs of this bird by nightfall of the day on which you cook it, you'll appreciate your next turkey that much more."
However, since housewives are no traditionally thrifty to go for

TWO LITTLE STORIES that highlight the way kids are brought up in this superstitious age: 1. A mother, indicating disapproval of her young daughter's uncombed hair. "It looks like a mop," she concluded. The 10-year-old, in all sincerity, replied, "What's a mop, mom?" 2. A teacher, trying to make a class appreciate the wonders of electricity, declared, "Do you realize, children, that your grandmothers never could listen to ducky daisy's geriatrics on the radio while they did their household chores? Do you know why?" "Sure," piped up the son of an advertising man. "The sponsors weren't making soap yet."

Competition Is Helping Shoppers

NEW YORK (AP)—Living costs are the easiest for the year so far—and nicely below last fall's record high point.
Abundant harvests get much of the credit. But competition is the real hero, from the consumer's point of view.

Ample supplies of foodstuffs help keep eating costs as low as government price supports and rising processing charges allow. But keen competition among food processors, distributors and retailers is the best aid the housewife has when she goes shopping for bargains.
Prices of commodities other than foods have varied very little for more than a year. The price of the basic metals has tumbled higher—with nickel bouncing up 45 cents a pound just this week.
All of this puts pressure for lower prices on limited goods that consumers buy. Higher labor costs have the same upward shove.
And some consumer goods prices have advanced this fall, especially at the factory level. But, in a number of industries, cut-throat competition among manufacturers has forced them to hold prices—even to cut them in some cases, to move goods that tended to back up in their warehouses.
The same spur of competition has sent manufacturers scurrying to cut costs of production, so as to offset rising labor and material charges.
Even when the factory list price has gone up, the price you finally pay for the product at the store hasn't necessarily budged because competition has been keen this year among retailers too.
And the growth of discount houses has put increasing pressure on the markup policies of the old-line stores. The advent of the Christmas sales season has brought a number of cases where department stores are abandoning their fixed price policies to meet the competition of the discount stores.
This, and other retail price-cutting methods—such as discounts, allowances—make it possible for the bargain hunter to do better this year than last when shopping for many of the necessities and luxuries of present-day living.

traps, to be used in public parks and public lands. It is outrageous to have cats prowling in public places in the nesting and in the migratory seasons, harassing the song-insectivorous birds that are incalculably valuable to the nation in its fight against insects.
The government in Washington, in a free bulletin, "Wild Life Let 269," urges the use of humane cat traps for the millions of vagrant cats and gives instructions on how to make a cat trap.

A dog that is continuously tied up turns mean, but a cat that is not allowed to roam becomes more gentle and docile, and a cleaner and safer pet, since it does not come in contact with cats that are carriers of skin and glandular diseases, tuberculosis, diphtheria, and scarlet fever. Also, cats not running at large will not have three or four litters a year, so most of which are dumped, running at large and increasing the millions of vagrant bird-killers with tragic and monumental costs to the nation.

of sight underneath the couch with your foot.
Then you arise, pay him quickly, and when you leave his office, run away as fast as you can. I'll admit this is a dirty trick to play on a psychiatrist who is probably already sick of leftover turkey himself. But it at least will give him material for an article entitled, "A case study of amnesia in a turkey-philist."
Your turkey may even end up in a medical museum, and is that bad?

Knowland, Ike Not Always in Accord

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland of California is following in the footsteps of the late Sen. Taft of Ohio when every once in a while, asserting his independence, he gets in President Eisenhower's hair.
Before he died in 1953 Taft, Knowland's predecessor as Republican leader in the Senate, was considered Eisenhower's mainstay in getting cooperation from Senate Republicans.
Nevertheless, Taft must have jolted the President several times with statements either critical of Eisenhower's judgment or contrary to his policy. Taft was a man who spoke his mind when it suited him, which was often.
Knowland, too, has worked hard for Eisenhower. But several times he has complicated life for the man in the White House by issuing statements on what he thought the President intended to do in foreign policy should he be re-elected.
Eisenhower has handled Taft and Knowland carefully. But this week, after getting some more free advice from Knowland publicly, the President publicly issued a reminder that under the Constitution he's responsible for foreign policy.

Taft, who repeatedly sought the Republican nomination for president, had a national following. Knowland hasn't reached that stature yet. But no one can accuse him of just being a Taft imitator.
In Eisenhower's first month in office, long before Knowland became Senate leader, the California expressed his views publicly on how to win the Korean War. He wanted the China coast blockaded. Eisenhower didn't see it that way.
Since his job as Senate leader is to help push through the administration programs in Congress, Knowland often consults privately with the President.
But it is not known whether the two consulted privately on the matter before Knowland issued some of his public statements which appeared critical of Eisenhower's course or had the effect of forcing the President into an explanation of his position.
Sometimes it hasn't been clear why Knowland made his statements. At least twice he gave public advice on what American foreign policy should be although it happened to be the Eisenhower policy at the time and was known to be.
Last July he announced that un-

COFFEE—What became of that product they used to make in New Orleans?
COWS—By using supplementary grazing along with your permanent pastures you can have year-round grazing in Florida. Albee clover, cut-lime millet and hairy vetch are valuable in supplementary permanent pastures during the summer. During the winter you can use such crops as oats, sweet yellow lupine and possibly some of the clovers. Other supplements to your pasture feed supply include hay and silage. You can make these during periods when you have an excess of forage.
A DILEMMA? It is a person who tries to solve the problems caused by other dilemmas.
FARM ACCIDENTS—The National Child Labor Committee reports that 25 farm youngsters were either killed or injured from tractors from May through October of 1953 in the U. S. More than half of these children had not reached 14 years of age.
With the coming of the winter vegetable season, more and more tractors will be working on tractor or riding on them. Accidents will surely happen, unless you are careful.
Keep your children away from tractors, entirely, and carefully supervise other children in safe tractor operation. And don't take chances with powerful farm tractors yourself.
VIBRATION causes as much damage as heavy shock blows to delicate equipment carried on Navy ships.
IF TAXES are not reduced, these may again become the days of the minor profits.

Churchill At 80

Americans join with the rest of the world in extending birthday good wishes to Sir Winston Churchill who will be 80 on November 30. At 80 he stands as a symbol of positive, intelligent leadership in the free world.
Few men in history have won as many honors or so richly deserved them. In the dark days of World War II, when the chance for victory seemed remote and Hitler's planes pounded Britain without mercy, the courage, dedication and stubbornness of the man with the black cigar and the hopeful smile rallied his people and inspired free men everywhere.
His last remaining ambition is to lead his country toward real peace. It is a noble ambition. On his birthday the best wish that might be made for him would be that he would live to realize it.

Dear Editor:
One crumbly flourishes unchecked in the United States, land of vaunted and wanted law and order. This solitary, preposterous, and costly anarchy is entirely unjustified and inexcusable. It is the anarchy of cats and cat owners. They alone have no law or responsibility, regardless of consequences.
The song-insectivorous birds, best bulwark against insects, are vanishing, due mostly to cats that run at large. Poisonous insecticides, in vain attempts to check the multi-billion dollar loss due to insects, are impairing and destroying the health and lives of the American people. The excuse that cats must run at large to rid rodents keeps being repeated in spite of adequate rat control bills, which must be adequate for bird protection, that is first passed by any state in 1955. Of course, no legislator is eligible for the prize

OLD-FASHIONED DESSERT—Here's tapoca in a new garb... neatly and quickly prepared crumb squares, topped with whipped cream and nuts—a delicious treat for cool days.

Old-Fashioned Desserts Are In Demand When Cooler Days Keep Family Indoors

When the crisp bright days are upon us, that's the time when thoughts turn to the warmth of a fire burning on the hearth, the juicy tang of apples, sweet crunch of freshly ripened nuts. Old-fashioned foods are the order of the day, and one of the most traditional is tapoca. (Today, with tapoca so easily and quickly prepared with the pudding and pie filling mixes, it's simple indeed to satisfy that nostalgic longing.)

Here is, an easily and quickly prepared, chocolate tapoca crumb square with a bottom crust and topping of nuts and graham cracker crumbs that is a perfect finish for any meal.

1 1/2 lbs. graham cracker crumbs
1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup butter, melted
1 package chocolate tapoca pudding
2 cups milk
1 egg

Combine crumbs, nuts, and sugar. Add melted butter and mix well. Press two-thirds of mixture firmly on bottom of 8x8x2 inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (375 F.) 5 minutes. Cool.

Combine pudding mix and 1/2 cup of milk in saucepan. Add egg and blend well. Then add remaining 1 1/2 cups milk. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil and is slightly thickened. (Mixture will continue to thicken as it cools.) Remove from heat. Let stand 15 to 20 minutes, stir once or twice just to mix. Turn onto baked crumb mixture. Sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Chill until firm. Cut in squares and serve with whipped cream. Makes 9 servings.

Slip Covers Are Now Used As Protection

Today, slip covers form a definite and important part of house furnishings, says Myrtle Wilson, Home Demonstration Agent. In the early days slip covers served merely as protectors against dust and scratches, woven upholstery and they were usually poorly fitted. Now they are trimly fitted and smartly tailored for permanent use.

Slip covers are used to protect new pieces of furniture, especially where there are small children, to cover worn or faded upholstery, and to add color and new life to a room.

It is economical to buy the best material that can be afforded. This does not necessarily mean the most expensive. Slip covers require time, money, and work to make well, and the material should be firm, closely woven fabrics that will keep its shape well, and hold its color in light and washing. Loosely woven, cheap materials never pay. They stretch, wrinkle, wear quickly, especially on edges and are very difficult to make into a good-looking slip cover. They never look good after the slightest wear, and are not worth the time and work spent in making the slip covers.

Slip cover materials are available in a wide range of colors, textures, designs and weaves. In recent years cottons have replaced linens which were at one time the accepted slip cover materials. Cottons are easy to launder and are generally lower in price.

Draps and slip cover departments in department stores and mail order houses usually carry good cotton fabrics, more especially for slip covers, and drapes. Many are guaranteed sun- and tub-fast and preshrunk. If the materials are not preshrunk when purchased, they should be preshrunk at home before being made up into slip covers. Otherwise, if well fitted, they may not go on the chair after washing.

In addition to regular slip cover cottons, there are plain or striped drapes, heavy drapes or crapes and slip cover tickings. For some dainty feminine types of bedroom chairs, chintz, gingham, prints, or percale may be used. Gingham, prints, and percale may also be used for simple chair pads and cushions on straight chairs that do not combine with upholstered furniture and end table sets.

Designs to avoid a plain or patterned material is always an individual problem and depends largely on the amount of design already in the room. Generally a plain material can be used on any piece of furniture in any room. It is especially good on large pieces in rooms with sufficient design or pattern in wall paper, in drapery, and in floor covering. If walls, curtains or draperies, and rugs are plain, at least one slip cover, preferably the sofa should be patterned or striped.

However, too much design in varied patterns is confusing and tends to make a room appear crowded and excessive.

Designs should be in scale with the size of the room as well as the size of the furniture. Large designs are suitable for large pieces of furniture, but they should be small pieces. On the other hand, small designs on large pieces of furniture look weak and unimportant.

Stripes are very good, new if used in moderation, but they can be dated if used in large amounts. In the case of a three piece suite, the sofa may be figured or striped and two chairs plain, or vice versa, sofa plain and two chairs figured or striped. The trend now is to avoid covering all three pieces alike. All three may be different or two alike with one different. Unless one has a rather thorough understanding of color and design and the art of combining them well, it is best to limit one chair to two or three in one room.

Colors in slip covers should repeat one or more colors in the other furnishings. For example, a slip cover may repeat one of the colors in the rug, drapes, or wall paper. Expense should be considered when selecting colors. Rooms on the northern or cold side of the house will appear warmer and cozier if most of the colors are warm, such as rose, wine, red, orange, rust or mahogany, etc., mixed with touches of color. In rooms with southern exposure, cool colors should be dominant, such as green, blue, lemon yellow, etc. A mixture of warm colors is generally good in any room.

Liberace Romance Suffers Break-Up From Publicity
HOLLYWOOD — The much publicized romance of Liberace and Joanne Hu has broken up over newspaper articles in which she described their kisses in the dark. Miss Hu, a pretty night club dancer, declared yesterday she would file for divorce. "I don't think it is right for either of us," she declared. Liberace, who has been married since he returned from a recent concert tour, "I have no further comment to make," he said.

But Mrs. Hu was more vocal. She said the breakup came after she perused articles about their romance for a news syndicate. He told reporters and agents he was disturbed by the stories. "That made me angry," said the 23-year-old dancer. "I saw the articles and approved them before they were printed. So I had to retract my approval. I am sorry I could not be able to advise him on whether such publicity would be favorable. I don't like to be made out a liar."

Liberace's manager, Raymond Heller, denied that the TV did had read the stories beforehand. "They were read to me over the phone," Heller said. "I thought they were harmless, but I didn't for four years."

Fleet Air Cagers Drop Scrimmage To Stetson Hatters

The Fleet Air Detachment basketball team from Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station dropped a scrimmage contest to the Hatters from Stetson Univ. Monday night by an 88-51 count on the victors court.

Sanford's Navy men fell behind in the early minutes of the clash and never quite got back in the game as the highly-touted Hatters fast break piled up a 15 point lead, 42-27, by half time.

This loss gave the F. A. D. cagers a 1-3 record in pre-season play. The Navy five, comprised of men from fleet units Fason-51, Photographic Squadron Sixty-two and Composite Squadron Nine, swung into regular loop competition in the Orlando City League early in December.

Bluejacket center J. W. Costano once again led the locals in scoring as he bucketed five field goals and a pair of free tosses for 18 points. Costano ran his total to 82 points in four games for the team high this season. Stetson's Howard, capping at right guard, tallied 25 markers to garner game scoring honors.

Omaha University Begins Training

Head football coach Lloyd Cardwell and his University of Omaha squad decided to start practice Monday, November 29, for the New Year's night game against Eastern Kentucky State in the Tangerine Bowl.

Cardwell plans to hold practice sessions three times each week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday—until Dec. 20. The Indians will hold one longer daily session, Christmas vacation at the University begins Dec. 15.

This is only tentative. We might not get out until later in the week, but it is necessary to intensify drills in the last two weeks before we take on the Orange Bowl.

Tentative plans call for the O.U. squad to leave Omaha the day after Christmas. They will probably arrive in Orlando until Dec. 24.

After the brief squad meeting, Cardwell passed out a case of envelopes that he received from Will Hoover, Smith Growers Association, Birmingham.

Head football coach Lloyd Cardwell and his University of Omaha squad decided to start practice Monday, November 29, for the New Year's night game against Eastern Kentucky State in the Tangerine Bowl.

Cardwell plans to hold practice sessions three times each week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday—until Dec. 20. The Indians will hold one longer daily session, Christmas vacation at the University begins Dec. 15.

This is only tentative. We might not get out until later in the week, but it is necessary to intensify drills in the last two weeks before we take on the Orange Bowl.

Tentative plans call for the O.U. squad to leave Omaha the day after Christmas. They will probably arrive in Orlando until Dec. 24.

After the brief squad meeting, Cardwell passed out a case of envelopes that he received from Will Hoover, Smith Growers Association, Birmingham.

Rabbit's Foot Fails As Rivals To Clash In Southeast Game

By MERRICK HALEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Throw your four sheels away and get your rabbit's foot. This is the weekend for the Southeastern conference's traditional football games between intra-state rivals—and anything can happen.

Oxford, Miss., and Athens, Ga., are the scenes of the two most important games from a championship point of view. But for ensembles, student bodies, alumni and players, all of the other games is the "big" one of the year.

Mississippi can clinch its first SEC title since 1947 by beating Mississippi State. Should Ole Miss lose, the crown would go to the winner of the Georgia-Georgia Tech game. In the event Ole Miss loses and Tech and Georgia Tech, Kentucky, which ended its season last week, and Florida will share the title.

Florida is host to non-conference Miami Saturday. The Hurricanes have lost only one game this season—a one point defeat by Auburn, a team Florida whipped by a touchdown.

In other SEC games, Louisiana State is at Tulsa, Tennessee is at Vanderbilt and Auburn meets Alabama in Birmingham.

Kentucky, Tech, Auburn, Ole Miss, Florida and Georgia still are bowl possibilities. Ole Miss has secured a clinch for the Sugar Bowl host role if the Rebs beat State. A victory would give the Rebs a 9-1 record for the year. Auburn and Tech need a victory to match Kentucky's 7-3 record and remain in the running for a Cotton or Gator Bowl trip.

If Georgia upsets Tech the Bulldogs would have a 7-2-1 record, which might draw a Gator Bowl invitation. The best record in the hope for a 6-4 mark and the Gators are counting heavily on a post-season trip although Bowden Wyatt, coach of Cotton Bowl-bound Arkansas reportedly would like to play Florida New Year's Day.

A brief rundown:
LSU over Tulane: The Tigers still have a couple of halfbacks ailing but Al Doggett and his injury-riddled crew dumped Arkansas last week so they should have Tulane's number.
VANDERBILT over Tennessee: Charley Horton leads the Commodores in a mild upset over Tom Tracy and the Vols.
AUBURN over Alabama: The climax of a strong finish for Auburn. Bobby Freeman, Joe Childers, Jim Fyburn and their mates have too much speed and talent for the crumbling Crimson Tide.
MIAMI over Florida: The Hurricanes have the backfield power to win.
GEORGIA TECH over Georgia: Tech's speed and superior backs can outscore the defense-minded Bulldogs.
MISSISSIPPI over Mississippi State: Johnny Vaughn's boys want that Sugar Bowl trip.

Final Games Important For Bowl Hopefuls As Season Nears Finish

By ED CORRHGAN
The Associated Press

The waning college football season takes its final deep breath tomorrow.

Action is skimpy but important. Heading the program is the Army-Navy game before more than 100,000 in Philadelphia. This year's contest is more important than usual because the winner will be ranked higher.

Bowl-wise, they still need a host team for the Orange Bowl, two teams for the Sugar Bowl and the visiting outfit for the Cotton Bowl.

California, which will be warming up for its Rose Bowl tilt against Ohio State.

Oklahoma, perennial ruler of the Big Seven, goes after its 19th straight victory, playing Oklahoma A&M.

Army is a slight favorite over Navy, although the two teams appear almost evenly matched on paper. The Cadets have a 7-1 mark and the Midkites 6-2. The West Pointers' slim advantage lies in their backfield.

Other games on the slim schedule have Holy Cross at Boston College, Miami at Florida, Wake Forest at South Carolina, Louisiana State at Tulane, Tennessee at Vanderbilt, West Virginia at Virginia, Texas Tech at Hardin-Simmons, Arkansas at Houston and Texas Christian at Southern Methodist.

Three conference titles were decided yesterday and a coach may have saved his job.

Wichita and Wichita, both of whom usually spend their time on the outside looking in, emerged on top of their leagues. Denver whipped Colorado A&M 34-0, winning its first undisputed Skyline Conference title.

Wichita won the Missouri Valley Conference crown by beating Tulsa 33-19. Wichita has a good chance of being invited to the Gator Bowl, as does Virginia Tech, which won the flyweight championship of the world Friday night by battering heavier and rangier Yoshio Shirai of Japan into stumbling down to 15 violent rounds.

More than 15,000 fans saw Japan's first world champion lose a crisp, November outdoor match in Korakuen baseball stadium.

The Mary Latin, who wasn't given a chance against champion, won by a wide margin on all three official scorecards.

TOKYO (AP)—Pascual Perez, a terrific little terror from Argentina, won the flyweight championship of the world Friday night by battering heavier and rangier Yoshio Shirai of Japan into stumbling down to 15 violent rounds.

More than 15,000 fans saw Japan's first world champion lose a crisp, November outdoor match in Korakuen baseball stadium.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—It is a shame, we heartily agree, that Ohio State and UCLA will not be permitted to settle the mythical national championship in the Rose Bowl, but at the same time it is a little difficult to understand those who feel that the Uclans rate above the Buckeyes on their respective season records.

Each team has won nine straight games, and so far as we can see, that is where the similarity ends. The Uclans, as their partisans contend, might very well be a great team, but the caliber of their opposition has given them no real chance to prove it. They must disband without having met the ultimate test. Ohio State waded through the toughest schedule survived by any college team in the country.

UCLA ran up the eye-popping scores against poor to mediocre opposition. The Buckeyes scored modestly by comparison, but never failed to reach two figures against nine major foes, including seven members of the Big Ten Conference, which is Mr. Football himself. Their two non-league victims were Pittsburgh and California.

UCLA opened with a 67-0 wallop of San Diego Navy and went from there to a 32-7 triumph over Kansas, which just closes its season with a record of 10 straight losses. Then, in their only real non-conference test, the Coast champions edged Maryland 17-7. We beg to suggest that there is nothing about the unofficial champion of the West, even though Maryland later was beaten by Miami and tied by Wake Forest.

The Uclans' next victim was Washington, 21-20, and the following week they succumbed to Coach Red Sanders. It beat the stuffing out of most of its league opponents, and came through handsomely in its 31-0 rouser against Southern Cal last week. But all the evidence says that it was not playing in the conference which, overall, ranked first in the season in the same class with the Big Ten, the Southwest and the Pac-8.

The majorities consisting of Colleen Engbreton, head majorities, June Jennings, Dolores Jones, Barbara Lowe, Merty Cameron, and Carol Nutt were all decked in short orange skirts with black jerseys. The precision dances performed while the band played its lively numbers were quite entertaining, especially in the male viewpoint.

Cheslanders doing a bang-up job of spurring the team and crowd on were Dottie Metta, Betty Ann Munson, Elizabeth Woodruff, Terrell Jean Nelson, Janice Kinlaw, and last but not least, Paul White who came up from Fort Myers to fill the vacancy she left when she moved to the southern city about two weeks ago. Nice to see her back even for a short time.

Administration Leads Fason 51 In Volleyball Play

Administration is still leading the Fason 51 Volleyball League by a single game this week. The leaders had a 13-3 record while the Chiefs were hot on their tail with 12-3, according to standings released Tuesday.

Next week will mark the end of the first half of the season and the four first division teams will compete in a double-elimination playoff to determine the first half winner. This winner will play the second half winner at the end of the season for the squadron championship. The league will end on February 3.

The Chiefs met Operations Tuesday afternoon and Administration played Supply Wednesday. In other games played last week, Maintenance I took the measure of Maintenance II 3-1, Operations trimmed Supply by a like count and Admin, whipped Electronics, 3-0. The Officers lost to Maintenance I, 2-1, on Monday afternoon.

Next week the following games are scheduled: Monday—Officers vs Electronics; Wednesday—Maintenance I vs Supply; and Thursday—Administration vs Maintenance II.

LUCKY FIND

MELBA, Idaho (AP)—Holland was flying at 1,000 feet over a farm here when the engine of his plane flew open and a rush of air whipped his glasses out into space.

Holland said he marked the location of the accident by his mile. Then he came back here by car, walked out into the field and picked up the lost spectacles. The lenses were not broken and the frames were only slightly damaged.

Homecoming Ceremonies Colorful

Sanford Spirit Strong

By MARY ANN BURUR

It all started Tuesday night with the biggest bonfire you ever saw ignited by the spirits of the ardent Seminole High School football fans. The field across from SHS was turned into a temporary Indian reservation as the blaze, well over 50 feet high, lit up the happy faces and cast an eerie shadow on the face of the school shaded by its cherished oak tree. The brilliance of the flames could be matched only by the furor that burned in the heart of each student as he or she cheered for the home team.

White words of encouragement for the team were being shouted by fellow students the distant rumble of drums shattered the chilly night air. A single file of warriors in their Indian outfits stole into the scene and the curious tribe gathered around the fire and broke into the strains of the spine-tlingling school song. It could no longer be doubted that the Seminole High School band had made its entrance with bandmaster Ernest Cowley and Capt. Mickey Durak.

Many cheers and songs later, a waltz dance that night resembled the bunny hop was organized to scare the stuffings out of the opponents, the DeLand Bulldogs. One thing was evident. No one got very close to the blaze, although it did feel pretty good as Ole Man Winter began to get a little bold.

At The Game

The majorities consisting of Colleen Engbreton, head majorities, June Jennings, Dolores Jones, Barbara Lowe, Merty Cameron, and Carol Nutt were all decked in short orange skirts with black jerseys. The precision dances performed while the band played its lively numbers were quite entertaining, especially in the male viewpoint.

Cheslanders doing a bang-up job of spurring the team and crowd on were Dottie Metta, Betty Ann Munson, Elizabeth Woodruff, Terrell Jean Nelson, Janice Kinlaw, and last but not least, Paul White who came up from Fort Myers to fill the vacancy she left when she moved to the southern city about two weeks ago. Nice to see her back even for a short time.

show, narrated by Leslie Smith who announces all the shows, is entitled "I Am An American". Starting things off is the entrance of the Seminole High School Band, under the direction of Mr. Cowley, and the DeLand High School Band, directed by John Honey and Peter P. Baker, entering from the north end of the field, and the Pep Club, headed by Mrs. Doris Schuttstet, is coming in from the sidelines.

In the first scene, depicting America as it was when the white men came here and found the land inhabited by Indians, half the Pep Club combines to form a teepee and Indian village. Scene two shows early American history with the remainder of the Pep Club portraying the signing of the Declaration of Independence. New Freshmen Girls Glee Club comes into the picture joining up with the Pep Club to form the letters USA which is a tribute to our heritage and modern America. The Glee Club is directed by Miss Ollie Reese Whittle.

A screen is on one end of the stadium roof with the southeast scene depicting all three scenes and on the southeast corner is the color guard from Co. "I", 12th Infantry of the Florida National Guard commanded by David Gatchel. The Seminole High Projection Club sponsored by George Dabbs had a big hand in making the presentation such a magnificent array of splendor. Through-out the show your attention couldn't be diverted from the screens atop the stadium.

Everything is happening so fast, it's hard to keep up with it. Back in the first scene the strains of "Indian Love Call" floated across the darkened field from the cornets of Juniors Joe Fisher and Wayne McCoy. In the second part, a silhouette of the Minnie Man was outlined as the lights were focused on the DeLand Band playing "America".

While the inspiration of the first two parts is still moving in, the Glee Club is in the middle of forming an "S". Then the letters USA, formed by half the Pep Club, the Glee Club and the remainder of the Glee Club respectively, light individually in the second part of the Status of Liberty, the symbol of a free and democratic America that looks over the New York Harbor from Bedloe Island. It then lighted up as the stadium lights are turned on and the DeLand and Seminole High Bands combine to play "God Bless America" with Mr. Burur an alumnus of SHS, directing as the audience is asked to join in the singing as a minor gesture toward giving thanks for the land we call home.

Cindy May and cousin Pam Jones seemed awed with the milling through a thousand different ways and there they were, right in the middle of them with the rest of Sanford's younger set.

And here comes Terry Cordell who is a sophomore in the class in Charleston, S. C. Sometimes it makes you wonder is there anyone left at the institutions of learning after the Sanford crowd gets home. There's Bebe Bibbe in a darling charcoal gray wool dress worn by Gretchen Kirchoff, both taking a welcome vacation from Florida State University in Tallahassee. Seeing Marvin Goemba direct the band in his Georgia Tech "rat hat" takes us back to last year when he was captain of the Mardi Gras parade. Seen with Marvin was Gibson Bates. Wonder by Faye Ashley was all smiles as Marvin led the band.

Coach John Angel is completely unaware that there's anything going on but the ball game. Marilyn Calhoun looks real cute as well as Mona Jobe, down here from Georgia, Helen Alexander, Reggie Jane Lawson, Rochelle Kulis and . . . heavens, I could go on and on! Everyone just looks wonderful.

Members of the three churches in Lake Mary joined in a Community Thanksgiving program at the Presbyterian Church, Wednesday evening. Rev. L. W. Scott, pastor of the host church who had arranged the service, opened it with the call to worship. Rev. L. C. Peterson, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene chose Psalm 103 for the scripture reading. Rev. Kelly McCollister, pastor of the Baptist Church made the prayer and Rev. F. W. Kempson, Chaplain of Sanford S.A.S. was guest speaker. He sketched briefly the history of our Thanksgiving and then reminded us of our blessings, of the material things which America has in such abundance, of the intangible things, like hope which we take for granted in sharp contrast to those countries where literally there is no hope. He enumerated our freedoms, of which the press of the right to worship. And lastly, our greatest blessing, God's gift of His Son, Jesus Christ. In that blessing he pointed out lay the great responsibility, laid upon each one of us, to share Christ with the world.

W. German Guards In Field Training For Possible Attack
DONAUWERTH, Germany (AP)—Fascist-organized West German frontier guards are taking a mythical invasion from the East in maneuvers this week with the efficiency of an Elite Corps. Midway in this field training, they were busy to-day preparing for an assault march.

The border force created by Allied sanction four years ago is a vast pocket army.
There are some changes noticeable from the Nazi Wehrmacht. There is little or no recollecting of officers to officers. Recruits were treated with tolerance rather than contempt.

Many of the officers are World War II veterans, but the majority of the troops are youngsters who were of kindergarten age when the Germans were re-armed. There is no casual laughter, no wisecracks, no hang-you're-dead attitudes.

Maybe they are intense because only a short distance to the East there are 130,000 East German army troops backed up by a 300,000-man Soviet force.

Whatever it is, the uniformed Germans of today seem to flow easily into the role of a fighting man.

Seminole Indians Consider Proposal For Flood Control
ORLANDO (AP)—Seminole Indian representatives have carried back to their tribal councils for consideration a proposal on the flood control levee which would flood 50 per cent of the Indians' state reservation.

"I think we can work this out satisfactorily for all concerned," Robert D. Mitchell of Orlando, president of the Seminole Indian Assn. of Florida, said after a conference here this week.

The levee, part of the Central and South Florida Flood Control Program, would flood about 52,000 acres of the reservation.
Officials supporting the project told the five Seminole representatives that irrigation and drainage provided by the levee would improve the remaining 44,000 acres of the state reservation plus the 42,000 adjoining federal reservation.

Indian demands for the right to hunt on their state reservation also were discussed at the meeting. Mitchell said conferences with state officials will be sought and approval by the legislature also would be required.

APOLOGETIC BANDIT ROBS LIQUOR STORE
DENVER (AP)—A pair of apologetic bandits robbed a liquor store of $133 Thanksgiving eve.
"Sorry to do this," one of the gunmen told owner Louis Burg, "but we're out of work and need the money. We'll pay it back when we get a job."

Hollywood Gains; Establishing Self As New Television Capital

NEW YORK (AP)—It may rattle daytime programming Hollywood's gains have been in the prime evening viewing hours. Hollywood poked up a full hour a week with CBS' new Thursday night "Climax," alternating every fourth week with "Shower of Stars" and an additional half-hour the same night when "Video Theatre" was expanded to a full hour in its switch to NBC.

Other additions from the movie capital include George Gobel's new Saturday night show on NBC, the alternate week Jimmy Durante program and "Truth or Consequences" on the same network. And Jack Benny's live shows out of Hollywood on CBS have been stepped up to every second week.

While Hollywood TV films have made no great gains in total network time in the past year, they have made big strides on a syndicated basis in which they are released directly to stations.

Network executives here doubt that Hollywood ever will catch New York on total hours of network shows, but most foresee further gains at night when some predict an eventual 50-50 balance.

Church Council Opens Convention

Editor's Note—The National Council of Churches, a four-year-old organization with membership representing more than 33 million persons, opens its biennial convention Sunday. Here is the first of a two-part series explaining its history and its future problems.

BOSTON (AP)—The big experiment among American churches—to see if they could get along working together—is a giant, thriving concern.

It not only has made the grade, but has become one of the dominant features of present-day Christian activity.

The hub of that burgeoning venture, the four-year-old National Council of Churches, opens its biennial assembly here Sunday.
More than 2,500 church people from across the country representing 30 Protestant, Orthodox and Anglican denominations with 33½ million members, will take part in appraising the deeds—and needs—of the council's program.

"This program today embraces virtually every facet of the common enterprises of the churches," said Dr. Roy G. Ross, the council's general secretary.
It has grown into a far-flung, complex miscellany of missions, education, relief, publication, evangelism, research—more than 75 diverse fields of activity with a budget of about 10 million dollars a year.

More than 4,500 people serve on its commissions, committees and boards, or work in its various branches. Most form a very separate interdenominational Christian agency—13 of them—now have joined the council.
It has become so extensive that

Hollywood Studio Gambles $2 Million
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A film studio is gambling two million dollars on the hope that audiences will buy tickets to hear sermons and to see the life of a remarkable preacher. Twentieth Century-Fox is making "A Man Called Peter," the biography of the late Peter Marshall, famed Presbyterian minister. This is a far cry from the studio's other "cinemascope offerings, which have specialized in sex and spectacle. Perhaps the studio feels as many do, that it's time the big screen said something.

Producer Sam Engel spent more than a year working on the script, which was written by Eleanor Griffin, Academy Award winner for "Boy's Town." He insisted on keeping large hunks of the minister's sermons in the film.
"You wouldn't film 'The Johnson Story' without songs," he reasoned, "nor would you make the life of a great preacher without using his sermons."

Darryl Zanuck okayed the script and approved a top budget. Filming began this fall in Atlanta, Ga.; Washington, D. C. and Annapolis, Md. The picture is now being completed here.

The sermons are designed to occupy 20 minutes in the entire film, and one lasts a full eight minutes. Just in case the public won't go for such big doses, the scenes have been designed so the sermons can be cut. But the studio hopes that won't be necessary.

I visited the set and met Richard Todd, the Dublin-born actor who is portraying Marshall. He had never known the preacher, but has since learned much of his life from friends and Marshall's widow Catherine, who wrote the best-selling book.

"He was a truly remarkable man," Todd said. "Apparently he had none of the sepulchral manifestations that many churchmen adopt. He was a vigorous man, to whom religion was a very real and living thing."
"To him, Jesus was a very strong personality. He described him as a man whose guests never lacked for wine, who could shoulder his way through a taunting mob."

Looking Over

All Florida

THIS WEEK. All Florida is sporting its "new look" in type design in this issue and we hope our readers are as pleased as we are over the results.

Known as Century Schoolbook, this type face was designed primarily for two classes of readers—the very young and those whose eyesight has begun to weaken through age. Its beautiful letter form and legibility, of course, make it easier reading, too, for those with normal eyesight.

Independent experiments over many years of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, Clark University in Worcester, Mass., and the New York City Board of Education have confirmed each other in conclusions as to the elements essential to the maximum of type legibility. Century Schoolbook is a type design conforming to those findings.

This column is set in 10 point Century Schoolbook type and meets the requirements set by years of study and experiment to develop a functional design acceptable to both normal and sub-normal vision. It is generally recognized that a child's eyesight is not completely developed until about 12 years of age. Century Schoolbook is designed to allow for their sub-standard vision and still unfixed refraction which demands more distinct retinal images than required for adults.

These same functional design elements combine to provide equal ease of reading for the older person whose eyesight has weakened.

"Nothin' To It"

As far as 79 year old George R. Hall of Ft. Walton Beach and St. Joseph, Mo., is concerned this water skiing business should be left to the kids—it's too easy. Mr. Hall took his first crack recently on the "flying splinters" and forthwith put on an exhibition in the recent Ft. Walton Jaycee's

Water Ski Carnival. He was the hit of the show. According to his son, Maj. George Hall, stationed at Eglin Field, the elder Hall already is planning a seven mile water ski jaunt across Choctawhatchee Bay—just to celebrate his 80th birthday. [PHOTO BY ARTURO.]

Letters TO THE Editor

HE DID IT

Your article on "Monument To A Lost Love" (Nov. 14) is hard to believe. How could one man carve those gigantic rocks and then single handedly lift them into place?

It was an interesting story, but sure stretches the imagination to the breaking point.

DONALD E. CLOSSON, Marianna

(The author of "Monuments," Mr. Max Hahn, is widely recognized in Florida as a factual writer and All Florida reports great trust in his veracity. We agree it's hard to believe one little man could do so much, but local historians bear out the story of Edward Leedskalnin's monumental task dedicated to his last bride-to-be.—The Editor.)

THOUGHT WE DID

I have just finished reading the first installment of "The Ashley Gang." As I lived in Palm Beach County at the time he was killed and knew him personally; will appreciate it if you will print all the facts relating to John Ashley and all the people who aided or betrayed him.

It might make an interesting story if all the truth was told.

With best wishes for your magazine. I think you are doing a great service for all Florida.

J. S. WESSON, Ft. Myers.

COMING UP

In reading last week's All Florida (Nov. 7), I noted an article by P. O. Gorder entitled "The Ashley Gang," Part II. Somehow I missed Part I, which must have appeared in the previous issue. Would you be good enough to send a copy of the issue containing Part I?

MISS BEENA SNODGRASS, Jacksonville

(Miss Snodgrass, who is Research Analyst for the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, will receive her copy of the Oct. 31 issue of All Florida which contains Part I of Mr. Gorder's Ashley Gang story. Apparently Mr. Gorder "wound up" with this series as we have had considerable requests for more of the same.—The Editor.)

PRETTY SOON, NOW

My friends and I would like to know when the Uncle Jack stories with games are coming back in All Florida. You promised the children they would. We think Miss Sebelon's writing is fine. I am eight years old. Love,

THELMA BRITAIN, West Palm Beach

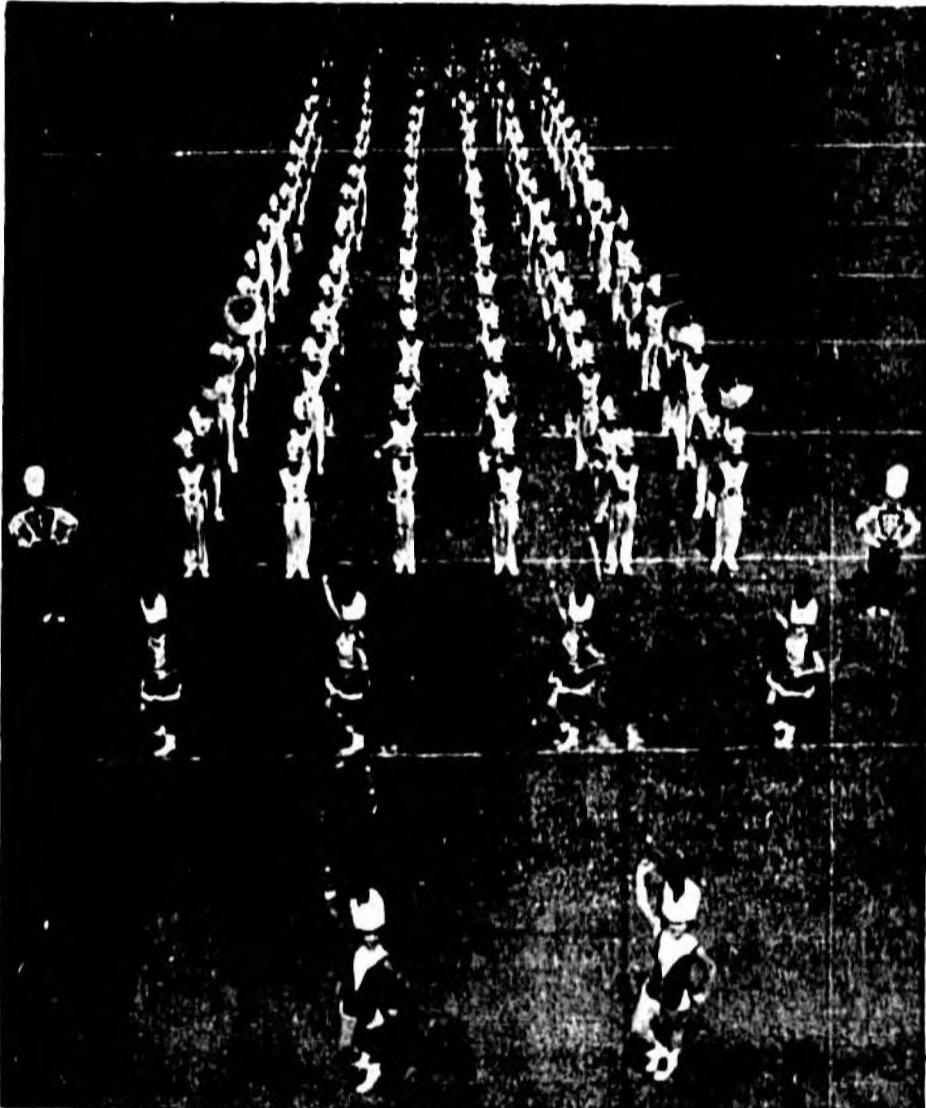

OUR COVER

That sea of grapefruit on the cover this week, topped off by the beautiful model, is Lakeland's novel method of pictorially welcoming the oncoming rush of visitors for this year.

We were informed by the Lakeland Chamber of Commerce that the picture was the result of a funning of ideas between the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the citrus industry. We bet the pretty girl—whose name was not provided—was the idea of the Junior Chamber members. The grapefruit, obviously, came from the other half of the team.

PIGSKIN PAGEANTRY

By BOB BALFE

What would a football game be without a band?

working on new formations to rival the split T and single wing of the playing field, the band masters and show directors are spending long hours mapping extravaganzas. One prominent high school musical leader puts his hand through four hours of field maneuvers and drill execution for every 10 hours spent on the music. He says it takes at least two weeks of field preparation to adequately prepare a good football pre-game drill and half-time show, all of which must have been first planned and plotted on the drawing board.

Many Florida high school bands participated in the holiday season Bowl games and parades. Often they are guests at college grid games. And you can believe it or not, the scouts are looking for band and baton talent just as the grid coaches are sending their representatives to the playing fields. Perhaps the musical scouts are not as many nor as active, and the scholarship may not be quite as attractive, but it is a tip-off on the importance of football's sideshow—a growing bit of glamour which Florida helped build into big time.

FOOTBALL is for girls as well as boys, for tuba players as well as tackles, for pageantry as well as pigskin.

The current season proves once again that Florida is a pace-setter in putting glamour into football's sideshow. Inspired by the lavish spectacles of the year-end Bowl games, Florida colleges and high schools long ago went in for football showmanship on a scale rarely equalled elsewhere.

There was a time when coaches and old-line grid fans considered the bands and cheerleaders and half-time shows as too much fol-de-rol, something that had to be allowed even though they clung to the theory that "the game's the thing."

Football's pageantry is here to stay and it grows in popularity each year. Bands are spending more time learning intricate drills; baton-twirling has become a much-practiced art; cheerleaders practice formations as involved as a double-wing double reverse; half-time shows have assumed the Broadway touch, often requiring special lighting and props.

While the baton-twirlers are

PRETTY GIRLS and pretty costumes are all part of football's sideshow—and they give the football heroes incentive, too

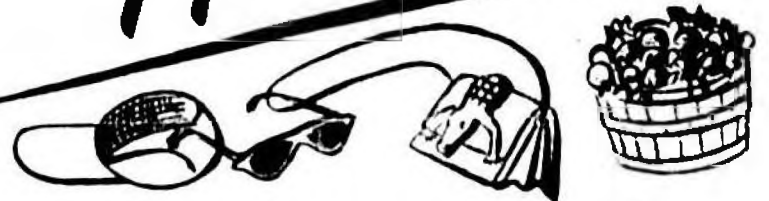

THE GIRLS don't have exclusive rights to the between halves pigskin pageantry. Here Eddie Franklin (left) and Richard Puckett, Florida State University baton twirlers, are proving it

Yellowneck

First All Florida Movie
Ready For World Premier

By BOB EASTMAN

HEADED FOR stardom, according to reports, are these five members of the Yellowneck cast. L to R are Bill Mason, Harold Gordon, Steve Courtleigh, Barry Kroeger, Lyn McCarthy.

SCHEDULED for this week, Florida's first feature-length picture, the idea for which was conceived in Florida by Floridians, photographed in Florida locales by a crew of Floridians, will have its world premiere in Orlando, and thereby hangs a tale of a new motion picture company, Empire Studios, shoestringing a production minus the shoestring!

Almost a year and a half ago, John Hugh jotted down a story of five Confederate soldiers, deserters from the army, who were seeking a way through Florida to the ocean. Had the five "Yellownecks" the capability of foresight, they would never have started through the Florida Everglades to reach their ultimate goal. Threaded through the picture in graphic pictorial form, the "Yellownecks" are faced with one hazard after another. The Seminole Indians still on the warpath, harass them from ghostly ambushes and make even sleep at night impossible. Diamond-back rattlesnakes crawl across their sleeping forms. In the end, the five "Yellownecks" meet untimely deaths in one form or other. Generally, that is the theme of the picture but the story behind this story is the important one in Empire Studios' first effort.

John Hugh, then employed at an Orlando radio station as a program director, enlisted the ideas and help of two other Orlando fellows—Jack Nants, a lawyer, and Dean Downs—Nants, to handle the legal aspects of forming a motion picture company, and Dean to sell it, and incidentally stock, to raise working capital. All three had no idea of the technical side of producing a motion picture, but they did have the courage of their convictions and wanted above all else to show on the screens of American theaters their Florida story.

Local printers turned out stock certificates at a par value of $100.00 per share. Stock began selling like hot cakes, and soon $50,000.00 were in the till and a crew of technicians began to take form.

The original idea was to shoot "Yellowneck" in 3-Dimension form. At that time movies like "House of Wax" and "B'wana Devil" were making money hand-over-fist, so these novices in a tremendously competitive business decided to make their picture in 3-Dimension. Experts told them that Eastman color film was the best to use, so they forthwith bought 50,000 feet. They were also told that it should be kept cool until ready for use, so they stored it in a furrier's plant at temperatures ranging down to 40 degrees. The first roll of film they took out into 80 and 90 degree summer heat stuck together like brothers should, and collected moisture so rapidly that it looked like Hurricane Hazel had been there before them! This was their first experience with water, but by no means their last. The summer of 1953 turned out to be one of the wettest in Florida's history, which this group of hardy movie producers were destined to find out in a deep wet way.

The month of June saw their 3-D dreams blow up like the proverbial balloon. Their design for a 3-D camera wouldn't work, so being masters of substitution, they decided to do this picture in 35 millimeter Eastman color.

By telephone they arranged for the rental of a studio type production camera for shooting sound, and had it shipped Air Express from the rental agency in New York City. The day the camera arrived the group gathered 'round it in awe, every one saying: "You load it first." It finally turned out that nobody knew how, but even this didn't bother them. They learned, and learned fast. Within a week the entire crew with their bulky camera which they nicknamed "The Iron Monster," was on its way to the Seminole Indian Reservation near Brighton.

And then the rains came! Location units would construct sets in Indian villages or back in the Everglades, and when they went back to shoot, the entire area would be two feet deep in water. They switched locations so many times, and drove through so much water that even the Indians thought they were just a bit wacky.

Each morning every member of the crew went through a most unusual ritual. In the summer chiggers, or redbugs, are no respecter of persons. Pants legs were laced tightly into shoe tops and a liberal sprinkling of sulphur poured into each trouser leg. Hard-bitten prop men and grips even went so far as to spread the yellow sulphur crystals into peanut butter sandwiches to build up sulphur in the blood stream to further repel the pestiferous insects.

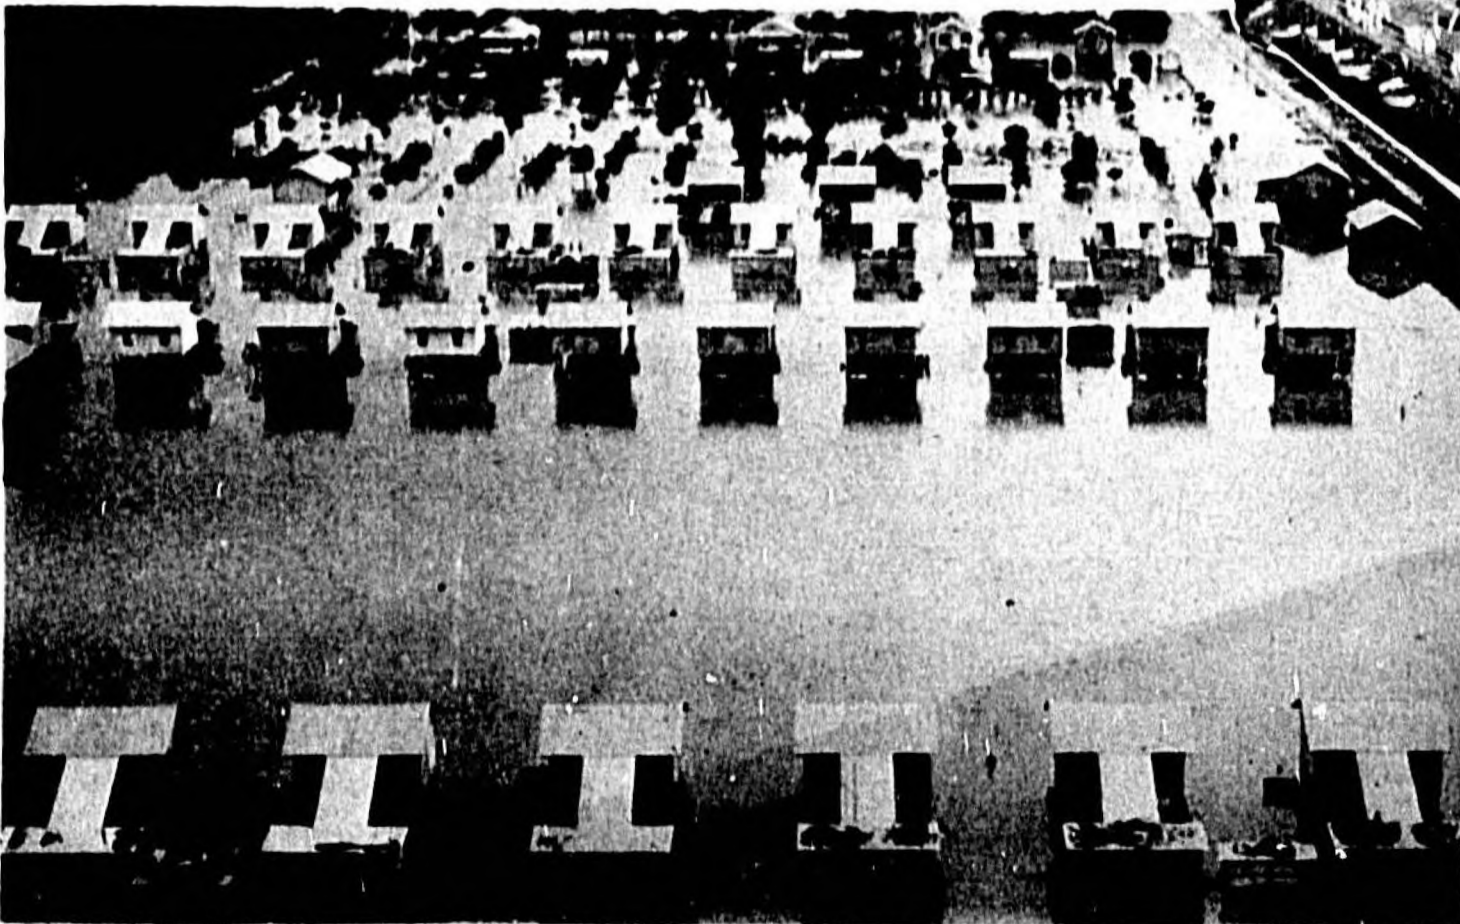

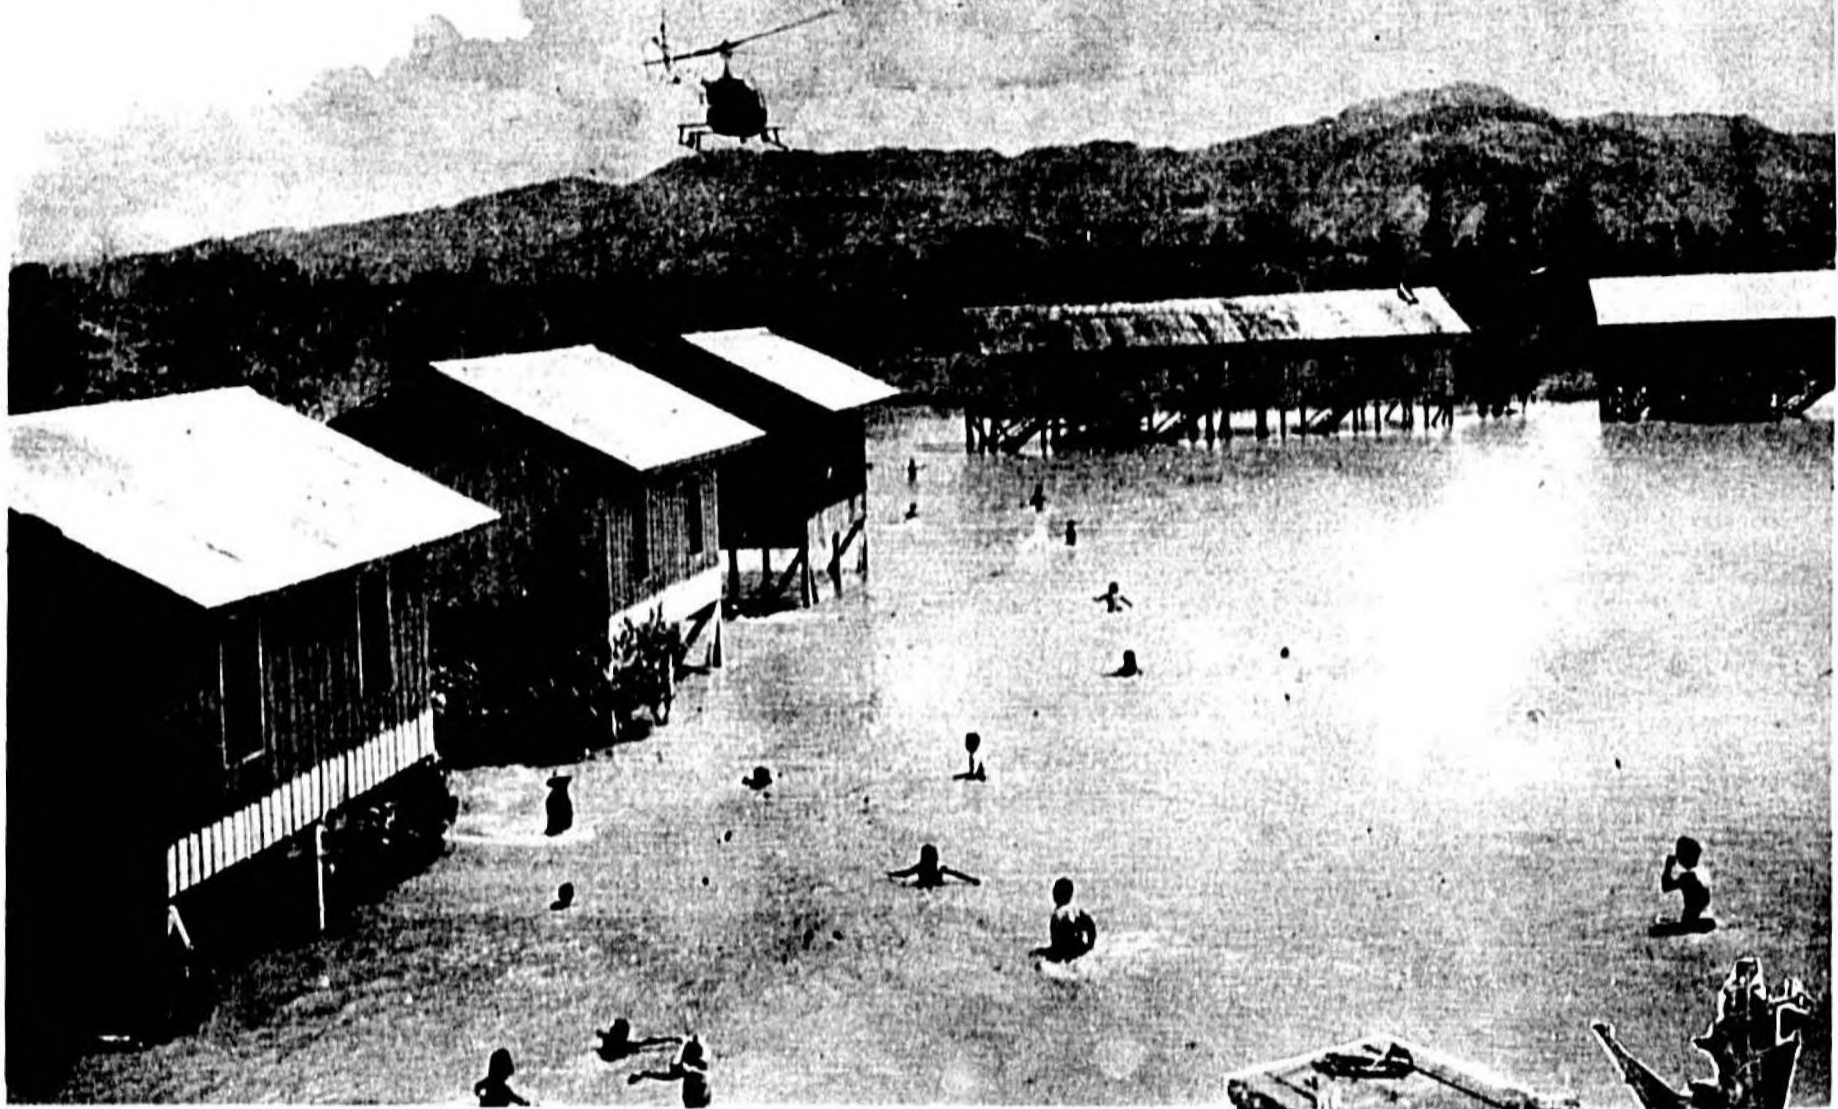

The five principals began to wonder why they had left the peace and quiet of New York City and Hollywood, and confessed that even in California there were not this many bugs and it didn't rain this much. The cast of characters went through so many privations and hardships that the Actor's Guild in New York, if they had known would have

A SWAMP battle rages in Yellowneck under the watchful eye of Director John Hugh (back turned) who fought finances, insects and floods to produce the first full-length motion picture made entirely in Florida by Floridians.

USS MONTEREY TO THE

RESCUE

By BETTY PARKER

FLORIDA Wings of Mercy, piloted by Navy and Marine instructors at Ellyson Field in Pensacola, brought food and medical teams to hundreds of starving and wounded natives recently in flood-ravaged Honduras.

In seven short days of operations, 13 Navy helicopters based on the aircraft carrier USS Monterey dropped 42,366 pounds of food and ferried 51 medical teams into the central area of San Pedro Sula and La Lima where flood victims were isolated in river bottoms and banana plantation lowlands.

Labeled by the Naval Air Training Command relief crews as "Operation Salud," the airlift started Oct. 3 in answer to an appeal from the Honduras government for assistance in a flood disaster that had begun on Sept. 27.

Pilots also flew 444 sorties, dropped 16,435 pounds of vital equipment, and evacuated 34 natives during their 416.4 hours of flight, including eight night hops.

Naval personnel manned area radio stations and assisted in giving 2,500 inoculations at Puerto Cortes, Honduras, where the Monterey anchored during the mission.

The helicopter operations began before sunrise and ended generally at sunset as pilots labored to relieve the critically flooded country.

THE NATIVES of the tiny Honduran village Playa, wiped out by floods, pose for a Navy camera man alongside the first helicopter they had ever seen

On the fifth day, helicopter operations were threatened by weather. Under normal circumstances, the aircraft would have returned to the ship, but pilots guided the 'copters at tree-top height along railroad tracks at speeds too slow to register on the air-speed indicators.

Many of the aviators said it was the "hairiest flight they ever made."

The effectiveness of the mercy units earned a commendation from Rr. Adm. M. E. Miles, commander, Panama Sector, Caribbean Sea Frontier, who supervised "Operation Salud" from aboard the carrier.

A FLOOD victim who died in the deep waters inundating his village, is removed in one of the 444 mercy flights made by U. S. Navy helicopter pilots and crews in ravaged Honduras in "Operation Salud"

A new airline sprang up — one boasting more passage and traffic in its first six days of operations than any other airline in Honduras. It was called "Earl's Airlines," in honor of Lt. Comdr. Raymond L. Earl, in charge of the helicopter unit.

Hazel's Diary

By JOHN H. HOLMES

ALTHOUGH the heart of the Weather Bureau for the State of Florida is in Miami, insofar as the hurricane season is concerned, there is another weather unit known as the Joint Hurricane Warning Service, which is composed of the U. S. Weather Bureau, the U. S. Navy Weather Central at Miami, and the U. S. Air Force.

The Naval part of this service concentrates their efforts under Commander, Eastern Sea Frontier; and you might say "conducts all their early warning forecasting from the air."

That brings into the picture the famed Hurricane Hunters. This squadron is located at Jacksonville's Naval Air Station, and it operates under the leadership of Comdr. Lukas V. Dachs. In Navy parlance, the Hurricane Hunters are actually Airborne Early Warning Squadron Four (VW), formerly part of VP-23 and then VJ-2, which was stationed in Miami until the U. S. Marines took command of the Naval Air Station there in 1952. However, communications between the JHWS (Joint Hurricane Warning Service) and VW-4 exist that can put hurricane planes into the air within one hour from the time a decision is made by JHWS to do that.

The Hurricane Hunters today sincerely hope, according to Comdr. Dachs, that Hurricane Hazel's recent demise over Canada marked the end of the busiest season known in several years for the 'Cane Trackers.

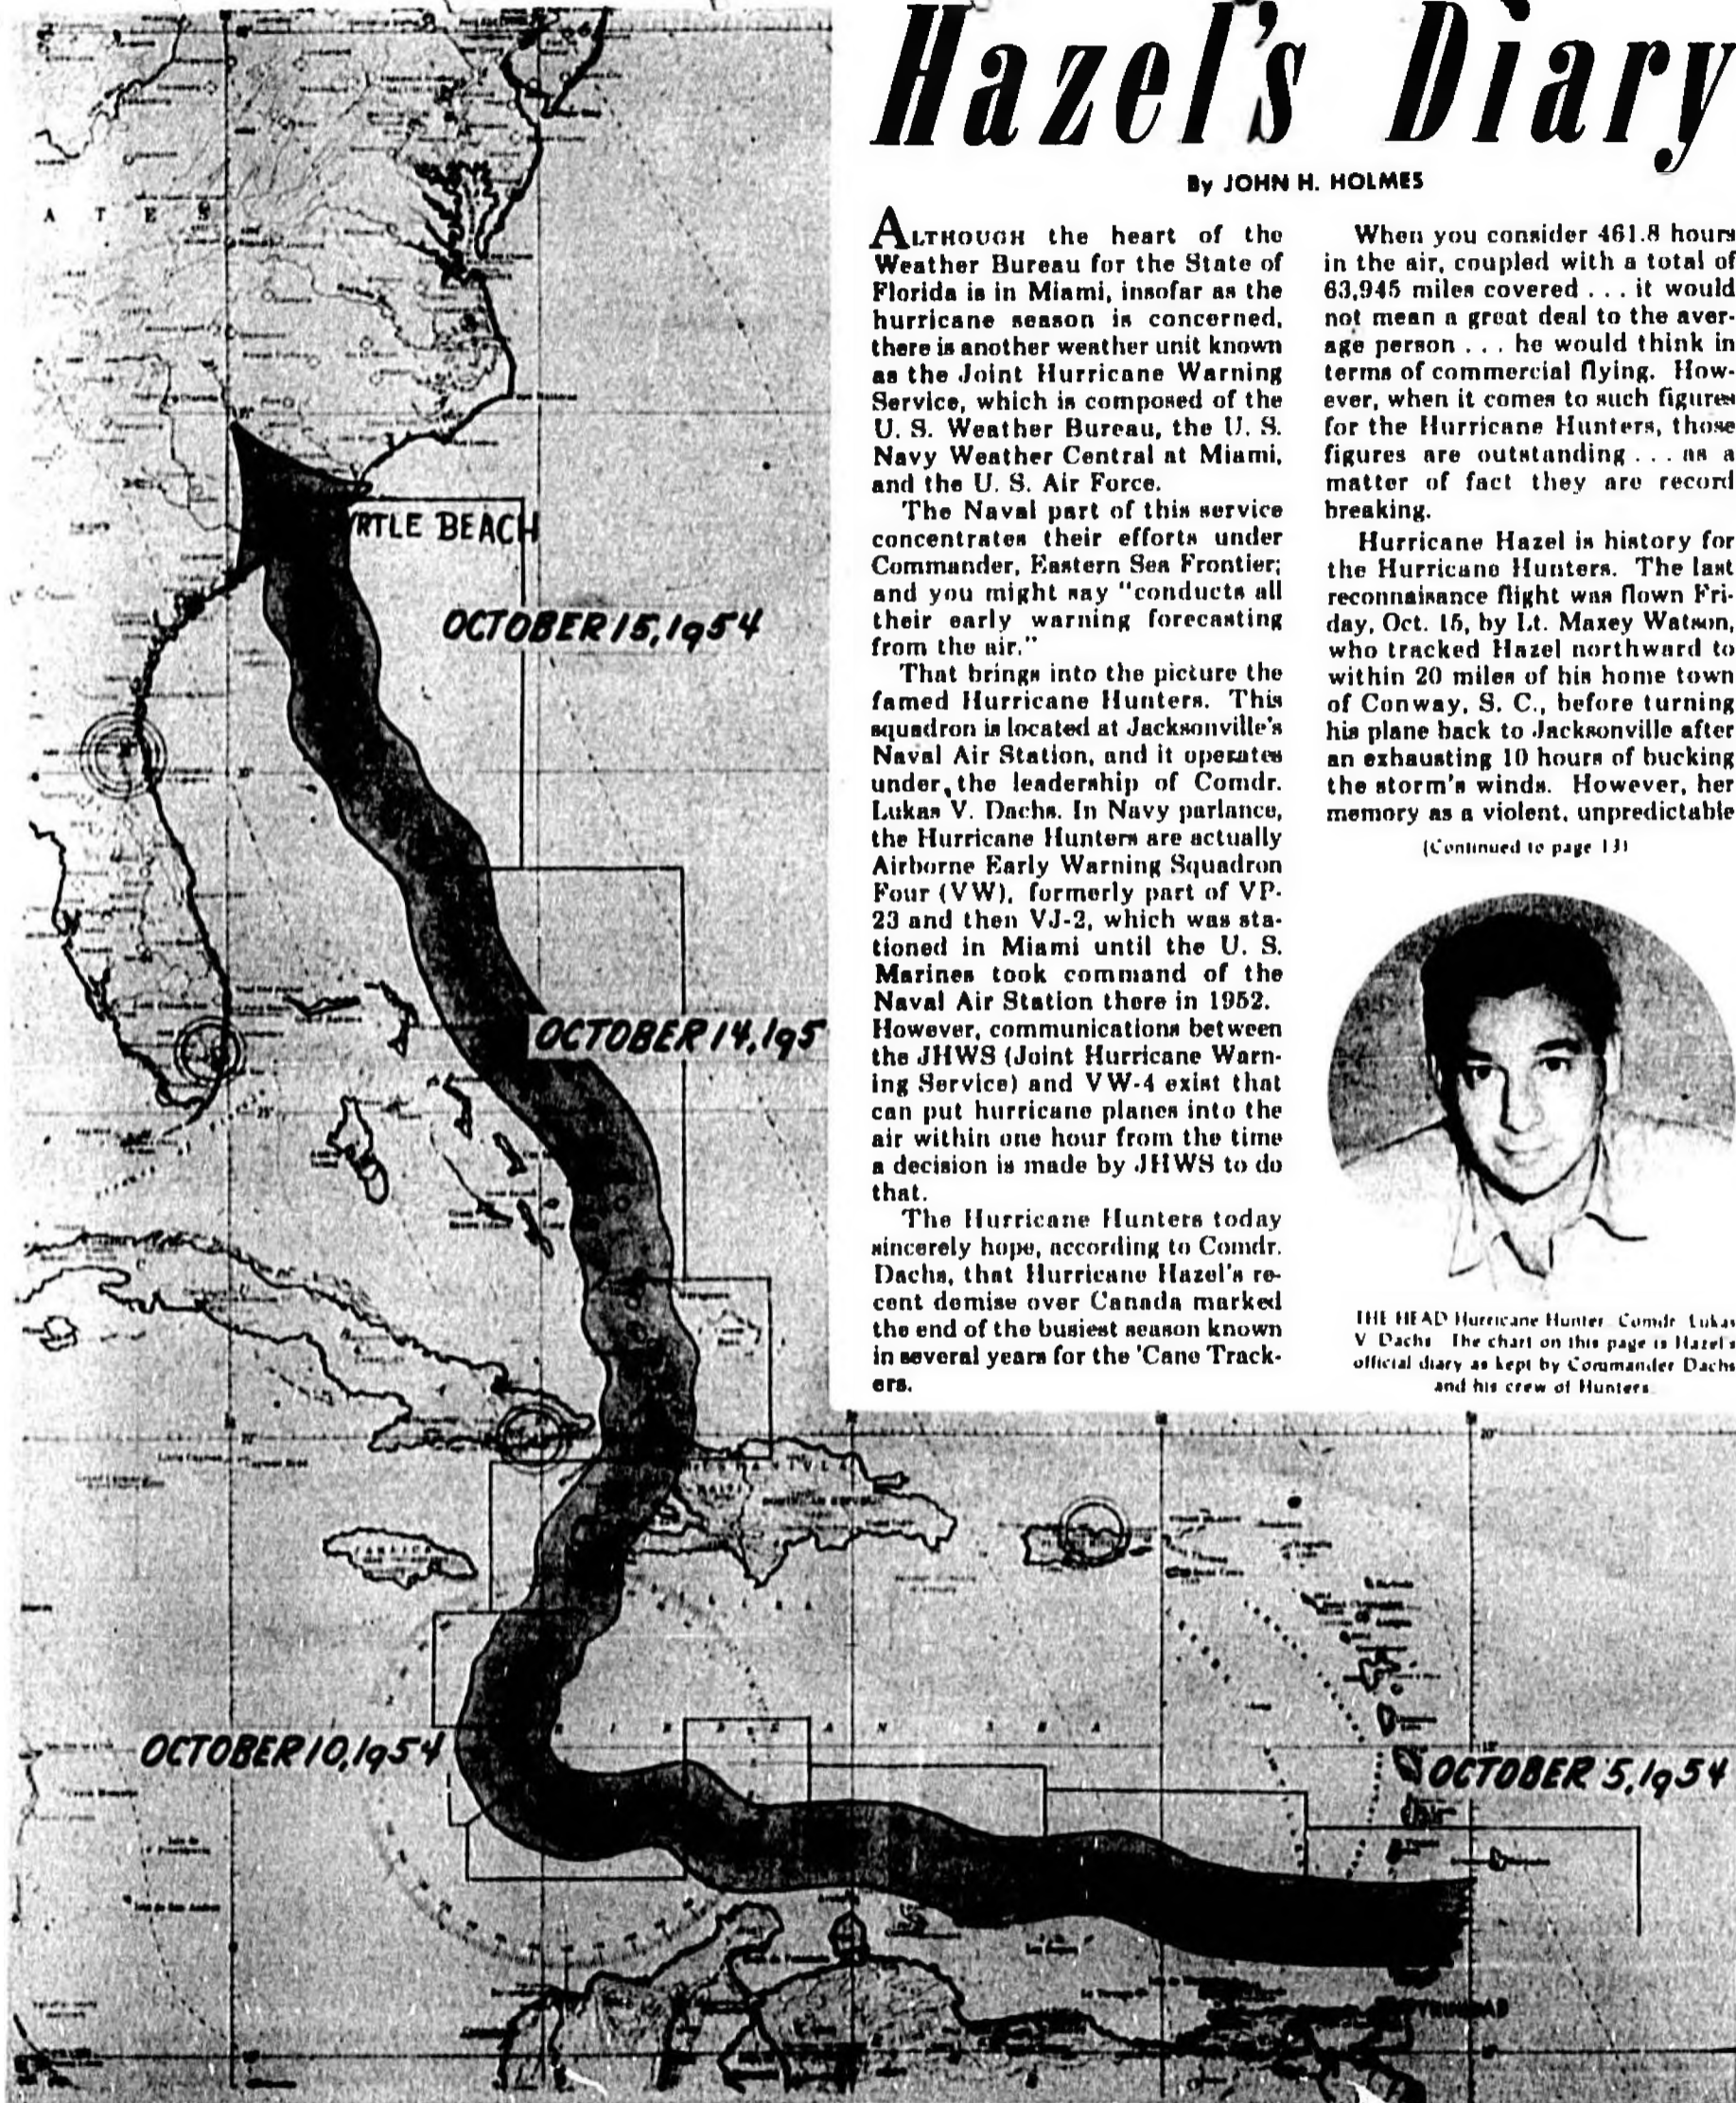

When you consider 461.8 hours in the air, coupled with a total of 63,945 miles covered . . . it would not mean a great deal to the average person . . . he would think in terms of commercial flying. However, when it comes to such figures for the Hurricane Hunters, those figures are outstanding . . . as a matter of fact they are record breaking.

Hurricane Hazel is history for the Hurricane Hunters. The last reconnaissance flight was flown Friday, Oct. 15, by Lt. Maxey Watson, who tracked Hazel northward to within 20 miles of his home town of Conway, S. C., before turning his plane back to Jacksonville after an exhausting 10 hours of bucking the storm's winds. However, her memory as a violent, unpredictable

PAPAYA-PAPAIN

For Health's Sake
A DIGESTIVE AID

A fruit having this power must be of great value as an aid to digestion weakened from any cause. Also it has been discovered that Papain has no action on living tissues and can be taken in any quantity. It attacks and destroys dead tissues and false membranes of the stomach and intestines. Papain in the fruit replaces Papain as a drug for quick relief in acute indigestion. Recent research has proven that the PAPA-YA Fruit acts as an antidote against Bowel and Stomach disorders, also that the effectiveness in ulcerations of stomach and bowels is well known. Gastritis and Dyspepsia are quickly relieved, and even a permanent cure may be effected.

Have You Tried the New Drink

TRUE FRUIT, NOT CARBONATED
IN NON-RETURNABLE BOTTLES

WHAT IS PAPAYA?

PAPAYA, a tree melon widely used in the tropics both as food and as medicine, is rich in vegetable papain called papain. This ferment of greater efficacy than animal papain, has been found to have a marked effect in the treatment of gastric and intestinal disorders. A detailed account of its power seems almost incredible but among other virtues it aids the gastric juices in preparing the food you eat for proper digestion and elimination of the indigestible matters, also of great benefit and relief of various stomach and bowel ailments, such as constipation, excessive gas, high gastric acidity, stomach and duodenal ulcers.

PAPAYA IS RICHER IN VITAMINS THAN ALMOST ANY OTHER FRUIT KNOWN

Vitamin content A, in particular, seems to occur to the extent of 10,000 units in the pound of ripe fruit. B, 1,500 units. C, 1,500 units. D, 10,000 units. For the sake of comparison a pound of butter contains 1,500 units of Vitamin A. Non-tasting, Papaya is entirely alkaline. This should be important in the treatment of colds. It should also be of special interest to those who are concerned with the problem of overweight. It is our honest and considered opinion that the surface has only been scratched regarding the full benefits to be obtained from Papaya.

Papaya, the queen of all fruits, has sufficient good properties from a food and medicinal standpoint to warrant a little patience on the part of the people who need its properties or who want to profit thereby, in studying its peculiarities.

and vicious woman, the eighth daughter of the Elements, born Oct. 5, in the Caribbean, will linger long. The squadron's daily log books show that the eight 'canes piled up a total of 461.8 hours flying time, and 63,945 miles covered in investigating and tracking those violent storms. Hazel was born in the Windward Islands area of the Caribbean 30 miles east of Grenada Island.

The distance around the earth at the equator is approximately 25,000 miles. The total number of miles flown by the Hunters was 63,945... a little more than twice the distance around the earth at the equator. Hurricane Hazel, in the general opinion of the squadron's personnel, gave out with the most violent of any of her previous sisters this past season with one exception... that of Carol. Those two 'canes reached gust peaks of 120 knots, or 135 miles per hour at times.

With exception of Barbara, who was discovered July 28, mildly lumbering around in the Gulf of Mexico, and Alice, also found in that area, all of the hurricanes were born in the Caribbean Sea area. Hazel was no lady. The 'cane tossed the Hurricane Hunters around violently as they daily flew into her eye from her outer perimeter. So rough were her wind gusts that in one instance two plane crewmen were momentarily stunned when their plane was suddenly and swiftly lifted upwards from 300 feet above the raging seas to 1,200 feet, and then just as quickly dropped again.

When that sudden unforeseen action was over there was not one of the crew who escaped without some kind of hard bump or bruise. Let's turn back time. Alice, as it has been said, was born June 25, but she was small and almost inconsequential compared to Hazel, and required only two investigating flights by Lt. Walter T. Gardner, Jr., and Lt. George J. Rehe, respectively.

Barbara, who like Alice, had a Gulf of Mexico complex, was a mild, and confused young woman. She was twice investigated by Lt. Miller L. Bell. Hurricane hunting took on a serious turn, however, after Carol was born on Aug. 28, as it took eight flights, a total of 72.8 hours and 10,920 miles in the air before the pilots wrote her off the books.

The next disturbance discovered was known as the Pre-Dolly Easterly Wave, which was combined with Dolly, who was found on Sept. 3, and who finally "blew out" in the North Atlantic after keeping five crews on the chase for 78.7 hours and 11,805 miles of investigating and tracking.

Hurricane Eana did not create as many hours of flying and miles covered in tracking her as Dolly, but she was very erratic and tricky. She caused the VW-4 pilots to chalk up 41.6 hours, plus 6,240 miles of tracking. Florence and Gilda were comparatively mild sisters. They gave the Hunters, Lt. Miller L. Bell, Lt. Watson, and Rolland W. West, over a total of 37.4 hours in the air and 5,610 miles tracking.

Hazel was the witch of them all. She grew with a vengeance from the start. What her earlier sisters tried to do... she apparently had made up her mind to better... and possibly finish... and the damage she caused in her lashing, treacherous course from the Caribbean Sea northward along the Atlantic Seaboard into Canada proved what her intentions had been.

Her fury was unleashed from the start. Her actions and violence meant an "all out" for the Hurricane Hunters, who for 10 straight days, 24 hours around the clock, ceaselessly tracked that monster.

VW-4's flying hours piled up... and up... and up... and when Lieutenant Watson flipped down the meter handle, and pushed the stick over for the return trip to Jacksonville, Friday, Oct. 15, marking finish to tracking Hazel's northerly course... the hours total had reached the all-time high of 207, and a total of 29,700 miles covered in tracking.

All this on one hurricane.

CROSSWORD SOLUTION

Capt. R. O. Minter, officer-in-charge, of Fleet Weather Central, Miami, has advised Commander Dachs that to the best of his knowledge, the 21 flights for Hazel was a record for one hurricane.

Commander Dachs can be a proud skipper today.

On Friday, Oct. 15, he not only received a high commendation from Rr. Adm. John Perry, commander, Fleet Air Jacksonville, but also a congratulatory message from the AFHLO (Air Force Hurricane Liaison Officer) whose responsibility it is to order Air Force planes from Bermuda into storms.

Perry's commendation said: "The excellent reconnaissance of Hurricane Hazel by your squadron has been noted with great pleasure. The expeditions launching and accurate reconnaissance of aircraft in afternoon and evening of 14 October was particularly valuable. An outstanding performance by all members of your command. Well done."

All Hurricane Hunter pilots participated throughout the season in investigating and tracking the 'canes, and in addition to Lieutenants Watson, Gardner, Rehe, Bell, and Flight Commander Westover, were Lt. Eugene R. Morgan, Commander Dachs, Lt. Nathan B. Land, Lt. Jg. Joseph J. Pauerer, Jr., and Lt. W. A. Engdahl.

rendered a bill on their behalf that would have bankrupted the company to start with.

After shooting the final scenes for "Yellowneck" with the financial aid of an Orlando realtor, Herlow G. Kennedy, who came to their aid with ready money when it looked as if the entire production would bog down from lack of funds, (the picture would not have been finished without his moral and financial assistance), then came the job of selling the story to a producer. Rushes were screened for interested parties in New York. Republic Studios came through with an offer to produce it after the picture had been scored and put into final form. With just enough money in the till to rent the National Broadcasting Company's huge sound stage in New York for one hour of recording, with one of NBC's fine orchestras for background musical effects, the session began.

With 12 minutes left to go, NBC suffered its first complete electrical power failure in its history. Empire's technicians watched the clock, which seemed to be the only piece of NBC's equipment still running, ticking away the seconds that were costing them not only valuable dollars, but time as well. The next recording artists were waiting in the wings to record their own film. Just how unlucky can any one outfit be, each thought. Fortunately an NBC vice president, sympathetic to their problems, held over the sound stage with a terrific recording of "Todd's Theme," which is the top musical feature of "Yellowneck."

The five stars of the picture are: Bill Mason as the kid; Harold Gordon as the cockney; Steve Courtleigh as the colonel; Berry Kroeger as Plunkett; and Lyn McCarty as the sergeant. Kroeger is better known for his part in the movie "Vive Zapata" but after "Yellowneck," each of these five will have achieved stardom in his own right.

IKE SENDS BIRTHDAY GREETINGS
AUGUSTA, Ga. — President Eisenhower today saluted in glowing terms the 50th birthday tomorrow of Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

In a personal letter to Churchill, Eisenhower said he spoke for all Americans in hailing the Prime Minister "as world statesman, an unconquerable dynamo and a proven friend of many valiant years."

Shown here in the new City water tank under construction at Millhanna Ave. and Lake Monroe. The tower will be 100 feet high and will hold 1,000,000 gallons of water. The process of putting the tower together is shown here.

Fire Department Joins Fight Against Muscular Dystrophy

The Sanford fire department has joined up with 45,000 members of the International Assn. of Fire Fighters in the United States and Canada to launch a drive for the purpose of raising funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Assn. of America, Inc.

The drive was sponsored last year by the mail carriers in an effort to obtain money to fight the dread effects of Muscular Dystrophy which is an incurable, non-contagious progressive disease of the muscles; nearly always fatal to children. The funds will be used to fund and expand research, finance clinics, for therapeutic service programs, and general aid to the 200,000 unfortunate victims of the killer. More than 150,000 of those stricken are children.

The chief of the fire department is chairman of the drive and assisting him are Asst. Chief R. E. Thomas and Louis Alexander, secretary-treasurer. They have announced that all volunteers and organizations that wish to help with the campaign are urged and welcome to do so.

Thomas stressed the fact that no money should be given to an solicitor who doesn't possess a card signed by the chairman. All firemen gathering contributions will be in uniform and will wear a campaign badge.

Literature available. Literature explaining facts about MD is being sent through the mail and should be distributed by Wednesday. Included in the envelope will be a sticker that can be put in a window or on the mailbox to let the solicitor know that the occupant wishes to contribute.

Anyone not receiving the literature may call the fire chief's office, phone 75 and the chief's wife will be collected, or questions may be asked at the fire station on Palm to Ave.

Gift envelopes, postage paid from New York City, will be delivered to all households in the community and all residents are urged by those in charge of the drive to aid the fire fighters in their effort to find a prevention and cure for the disease.

Political Axes Rust Honoring Churchill

LONDON.—Britons set aside political differences today and set out on a sentimental mood to salute Winston Churchill on his 50th birthday tomorrow.

The pro-Labor Daily Mirror, which for months has been calling Churchill too old to serve as Prime Minister and demanding he retire, said in a birthday tribute "beyond all doubt he is the greatest of our statesmen."

Sponsors of the Churchill birthday presentation fund disclosed that they have received one anonymous donor of 11 Russian rubles. Another donor sent a check for 20-220 farthings—one for each day of Churchill's life, and not forgetting the leap years. A farthing is a quarter of a British penny, and 20-220 of them are worth $45.22.

Services Are Held

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Willowood Cemetery in Bartow for John Lamar Baker, 68-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter E. Baker of Daytona, who died Friday morning at the Halifax Hospital in Daytona.

The Rev. Jesse E. Waller, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Bartow, officiated at the graveside services.

Heavy Rains Cause Large Crop Losses On English Coast

LONDON.—Continuing heavy rains in the south of England today and some from areas reported to be from areas of crops and working time.

English farmers want to work longer hours in the days of the heavy rains, but they are unable to do so because of the weather.

Under the direction of parade marshal L. H. Root, and his staff, the parade will form up at 2 p. m. and is expected to begin promptly at 2 p. m.

See tomorrow's Herald for a listing of the bands and organizations participating, their order of march, and the line of march the parade will follow.

Pope Put To Bed To Aid Strength, Vatican Reports

VATICAN CITY.—Pope Pius XII has been confined to his bed and placed on a strict diet since his fall from a balcony in the Vatican on Oct. 26.

While Vatican sources emphasized there was no danger to the pope's health, the Vatican newspaper said he was "in a delicate condition."

This was a much graver expression on the pope's health than that which the Vatican's official newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, published later today. The newspaper's statement, announced in advance yesterday by the Vatican's press office, said the pope will take part in the most important exercises, begin yesterday and ending Saturday in preparation for Christmas, to rest.

In other news he has been present, seated behind a grill from which he can observe but not be observed by others participating.

CHILD SUFFOCATED IN CAR WINDOW

CLEVELAND.—Mrs. Jean Carter, 27, returned to her car after shopping in a grocery store last week and found her 16-month-old son, Andrew, hanging by his head from a partly open rear window. The baby was pronounced dead at a hospital. Police theorized he stood on the rear seat and stuck his head out the window, catching his head when his feet slipped.

City Utilities At New School Nearer Today

Tentative Agreement Reached Commission, Board Meet

Tentative agreement was reached today between the city commission and the county board of public instruction for the installation of sewerage and water facilities to the new elementary school at Laurel Ave. and 22th St.

Under the terms of the agreement, cost of the project would be $23,087.75. Cost of the improvement within the city would be $18,587 and outside $4,500.75.

At the meeting this morning, it was pointed out that the city had already allowed a sum of $4,500 toward the work in the city and that the additional cost in order to complete the project would amount to $18,587.

Sewer Service Charge Changed School Sewerage Still Pending

In three and a half hours Friday night, the City Commissioners struggled with two of their knottiest problems, and came up with what was called a partial solution to one of them.

First the commission was faced with the problem of what to do about water and sewer connections to the new elementary school now under construction at 21th St. and French Ave. R. T. Milwee, County superintendent of public instruction, had come before the Commission at a previous meeting and asked aid in supplying these necessities.

At that time Milwee suggested a plan whereby the school board would supply the funds for construction outside the City limits, and the City would supply the funds for construction within the City limits.

The City Commissioners reported they found this plan unfeasible, and attempted to work out a proposal to present at the special school board meeting this morning. They were unsuccessful but decided to have a majority of the commissioners, together with the City manager, Warren F. Knowles, attend the school board meeting this morning in the hope that all interested parties could get together and arrive at a solution.

J. Hensley Odham, local contractor, was present at the meeting, and was asked to attend the school board meeting as an interested party. Reports are that Odham intends to build approximately 30 houses in the locality.

The City manager reported that his estimate of cost of extending the sewer line to the City Limits would be approximately $7,544.44. "Ninety nine per cent of the increase in cost of the sewerage is due to the added depth necessary," he said.

With this problem behind them, the commissioners split over a plan to lower the sewer tax where it is believed to work commercial hardships.

After a heated discussion, Commr. John Kinder seconded the motion made by Commr. Denver Cordell, with an assist from the City manager, A. F. Shiholzer, establishing a $10 minimum tax charge, and a 55 per cent reduction under Cordell's motion, the first on the sewer tax over that amount.

Under the motion, the amount over $10 stands, but the amount over is subject to a 55 per cent reduction.

According to figures presented by the City manager, this will affect the 22 largest commercial water users in the city. Embodied in Commr. Cordell's motion was the statement that the Commission would continue to study the program, and when a basic record had been established, provide a deduction for other commercial users on whom the tax works an undue hardship.

When the motion was brought to a vote, Commrs. Cordell and Kinder together with Mayor Higginbotham voted "yes," while Commr. Kinder opposed the motion and Commr. Stiemper abstained. Commr.-elect Jack Raligan and F. D. Scott were present, participating in the debate, but could not vote.

Commr. Kinder had recorded in the minutes reasons for voting against the motion. He said he did not believe this plan to be fair to all the commercial users, since it is set up on a yearly instead of a monthly basis.

Commr. Stiemper said he abstained from voting on the motion since he did not feel sufficient study had been made to benefit all the other commercial users. He stated that he definitely felt an adjustment should be made.

Churches Said Strong But Groping

BOSTON.—American churches were pictured today as standing at a peak of "tremendous strength" but at the same time groping uncertainly for ways to make that power felt in a top-heavy age.

Enormous, swift changes in social patterns and "dangerous moral conditions" in our country, said a key report to the biennial assembly of the National Council of Churches.

Despite Christianity's gains "in institutional strength," the report said, there is a disturbing question whether churches are "more or less institutional in American life" than they used to be.

The report was for presentation to 2,000 representatives of 30 Protestant and Orthodox denominational assemblies here to seek new methods for conducting their

Final Bond Decree Is Filed At Office

The final decree for the validation of the City's new bond issue for $275,000 was filed today in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court by City Atty. A. E. Shiholzer.

The decree was issued by Judge "assar" Carlton.
