BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THE MORNING WATCH

Come ye, O Lord, to hear thy loving kindness in the morning; for in thee do I trust; cause me not to know the way when I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto thee.

PSALM 141:8. Teach us, Lord, to give thee time to reveal thyself as thou art in the morning.

IN THE PAPER

He put it in the paper when the little ones were born.

He made a meal of it when the early autumn came.

They started off to school and when the holidays came round.

We had a little story, and when Joe and Mary were found.

To have had their names there it was reported in a squib.

That they were just "the brightest kids that ever were the first."

And when they went a walking right in the paper's page.

Was mention of it made and nice, and till they grew to age.

The paper told their birthdays and when Joe and Mary agreed.

To be married the announcement, it was printed with a zest.

Of the finest sort of compliments. As, six years after year.

The paper spoke in friendly way would mention them.

It's queer they never once have thought to call with word of commendation.

In person why the paperman their real appreciation.

—D. G. BUCKEES

We know we are indubitably unique, but whatever because of "Famous" Johnson?

Now we ask you who couldn't and wouldn't notice if they had two millions added in their jeans?

Think Bryan Owen is getting almost as much publicity for catching fish as Mr. Coultage and his blowers?

As we understand it, what the country needs most is not a good fish catch, but something that can be used in the place of money.

An exchange informs us that women like letters may suggest men. Now just think how many poor souls will be trying to brew themselves.

We've seen pictures of the young boy when Lindbergh saved from drowning, and she's now pretty and attractive we hear for the heart of the gallant young colonel.

The Tribune's show vice, which closed Sunday, showed Al Smith winner by a two and a half to one vote. And Al will carry the state by a majority of at least that much.

"It's Expansion" features the Daytona Beach News-Journal. Well, if you're talking about what it does as it enlarges our present City Attorney, we'll say it is.

Headline in the Free Press Special News says "Provisionally To Push Lee County Tags." Smaller, are they so anxious that they require printing labels they can be answered?

August Reichbacher spent a hundred thousand dollars building, for all in Palm County, and has closed his operations advertising there is no oil to be found. Rather an expensive failure.

William Howard Taft, third justice of the United States Supreme Court, receives a salary of $12,000 a year with no other fees or commissions. Meanwhile Sanford pays its City Attorney $20,000 a year in addition to several thousand dollars for annual council.

The work reported published by the City Commission shows a general increase in total municipal indebtedness. This is due to the increase in operating expenses, for which Mr. Calmes approves the credit. It is NOT due to the $20,000 a year that has been paid to Mr. DeCotton, and it is NOT due to any reduction in operating expenses, which amount to only $2,000 for eight months.

"Telling The World"

Sanford's packing and shipping organizations today are deliberating on a plan to advertise Seminole County and Florida celery throughout the Eastern and Middle-western sections of the United States. The plan calls for the expenditure of between $100,000 and $150,000 a year, the fund to be raised from a five cent assessment on every crate packed and shipped from this county. Similar action in other celery sections of the state, notably in Manatee and Sarasota counties, is sought. One Sanford shipping organization and its growers have already endorsed the plan in its entirety. Others are expected to follow suit within a few days or, at most, a week.

The packers and shippers sponsoring the movement have many excellent precedents to guide them in the formulation of their plan. Among the examples of agricultural advertising which have met with success are the campaigns for California raisins, prunes, citrus, Hawaiian pineapple and Idaho potatoes. Each of these campaigns required a different treatment, but the purpose of all was the same—increased consumption. The celery campaign, as now planned, will utilize the advertising space of the great newspapers in the larger marketing centers rather than magazines of national circulation. The reason for this decision is simple: Florida celery is consumed in the section of the United States between the Atlantic seaboard and the Mississippi river, hence high-priced space in magazines circulating west of the Mississippi river would be partly wasted.

The proposed advertising fund is a logical step in the agricultural development of Seminole County. With acreage increasing gradually, year by year, and with production growing in other sections of the state, the only economically sound move for the benefit of this county is to increase the consumption of its greatest product—celery. Curtailment of production is not the answer in celery growing any more than it is in automobile manufacturing. The answer is advertising—telling the world that Sanford celery is good. That will increase demand, better prices, permit and even force increased production. The benefits of the five cent tax will come back, many fold, in dollars and cents to the growers who pay it.

Senator Moses' Plight

The public in general and Republicans in particular are still pondering the case of Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, whose status in the campaign for Herbert Hoover has aroused considerable interest, some concern and not a little amusement. The uncertainty of Senator Moses' future is as his work in behalf of Mr. Hoover is concerned became more pronounced with his threat to "take the first steamer to Europe and rest."

It appears that there hasn't been any particular controversy between Senator Moses and other party leaders, instead Secretary Work and co-workers have been going about their tasks, completely ignoring the New Hampshire man. The Senator seems to have had a distinct aversion for such neglect, and the fact that his colleagues didn't seem to care a continental whether he lived or not appears to have supplied a certain conscience that made the situation well nigh serious. The fact that Senator Moses has expounded only once is nothing short of remarkable, especially in view of his well known tendency for loquacity.

It will be recalled that the bespectacled senator was the original Hoover man in the senate. He was chairman of the Kansas City campaign and at one stage of the session had an excellent chance for the vice presidential nomination. Failing to get the place that went to Senator Curtis, the New Hampshire man was slated for the national chairmanship. That too, slipped from his grasp and Secretary Work took charge. Then Senator Moses was certain to be in charge of the eastern campaign with headquarters in New York, but this dream like the others, faded with Mr. Work's announcement that general headquarters would be maintained in Washington and that the eastern campaign would be handled by himself from the capital.

Aside from the fact that he will deliver the nomination speech at Falls Ales, Senator Moses has been shunted as far into the background as possible. It is true that he has been given the high sounding title of vice chairman of the advisory committee, but his duties in that capacity will have nothing to do with the presidential election. Instead he will assist in the congressional campaign, devoting special attention to the seven senate seats held by Democrats between Maryland and Maine. And with that, it seems Mr. Moses will have to be content.

The New Hampshire senator, we must admit, has been the victim of some unusual circumstances. We should say his plight is somewhat depressing, for instead of being the Moses to lead the Republicans out of the wilderness into the promised land, he's just one of the boys who are being led. Being a good politician, the Senator is accepting his inevitable fate with a grace that what some day Mr. Moses' star will shine again, and then we will see those responsible for this kick in the teeth.

EXTENDING FLORIDA UTILITIES

JACKSONVILLE TIMES-UNION

Announcement of proposed extension of service by the Sanford Gas Company is something that deserves special mention and commendation. The news regarding the improvement contemplated published Sunday says that work is to begin soon on an expansion program that will cost about $100,000, and it is noted that the Sanford company has already secured a franchise permitting service outside the city and proposes to go right ahead with extensions that will bring a considerable section of the population of using gas in the near future now found admirable and economical wherever it is available.

Manager Scott, in charge of the plant at Sanford, is quoted as saying that at the same amount to be expended within the next few months by the Sanford Gas Company, about $100,000 will go into a new generating plant at Sanford, the additional capacity being planned to take care of expected customers in a new territory between Sanford and DeLand. The main line to carry gas to DeLand, a distance of several miles, will be laid under the St. Johns river, and it is probable that service will be asked at many points along this program, besides the expected connections at DeLand. Contracts are already placed for much of the work involved, it is said, and perhaps before the winter is here there will be available to a great many Florida households every added facility for their more comfortable use, be regarded as generally beneficial and to be continued. The extension of the Sanford corporation which is now in progress is to be able to furnish gas for DeLand and the intervening section is to be expanded and it is expected to supply the community which is to be more generally served. The city goes to show Florida securing great and valuable facilities for homes and other purposes.

WEALTHY GIRL AND TUNNEY TO WED IN EUROPE

Pryor's sister.

Mr. Pryor is one of Gene's closest friends, fought side by side with him in the world war, and everything was O. K. with the story except that the former Miss Pryor was married to another gentleman only a year or so ago.

"During his winter vacation at Miami it was reported that Tunney was to wed Miss Carolyn Bishop, of Hollywood, both Tunney and Miss Bishop have since denied the story.

"When Tunney announced his retirement, probably with a million or a million and a half, he said that he was quitting because he had all the money he needed and that he did not like the game. There is no doubt that Gene does not like the game, but knowing him as well as this writer does, he could not make us believe that he was spurning the opportunity to increase his fortune except for some other motive—marriage.

"Where Dempsey and Heeney failed, Kid Cupid landed the knockout punch."

MILLER BACKS CITY CHARTER ELECTION PLAN

Mr. Boggs expressed the same opinion in less positive language. He said, "... Applying these principles to the instant case I do not believe that Section 136 of the Charter of the City of Sanford can be upheld.

Mayor Householder said that insofar as he knew neither Mr. DeCotte nor Mr. Boggs had altered their opinions that the election would be illegal. He said it would not be necessary for their opinions to be changed.

When asked if he had changed his opinion by a Herald reporter this morning over the telephone, Mr. DeCotte said "I do not care to be interviewed at all."

Half an hour later Mr. DeCotte sent the following communication:

"My opinion as City Attorney, and that of my Associate Counsel, Mr. Lucien H. Boggs of Jacksonville, Florida, heretofore rendered to the Mayor of the City of Sanford, Florida, relative to self adopted amendments to the City Charter is on file at the City Hall, is available as a public document and fully sets forth our views as to the illegality of any self adopted amendments to the City Charter initiated under the purported authority of Section 136 thereof."

The charter section 136 on which the calling of the amendment election is based reads:

"Amendments to this Charter may be submitted to the electors of the City by a two-thirds vote of the City Commission. If the proposed amendments shall be approved by the majority of the electors voting thereon, it shall become a part of the Charter at the time fixed therein."

Mayor Householder said this morning that he had considered the possibility of calling the election for a long time, but that he did not wish to take any chances with legal or political entanglements until the work of re-financing the City had been put on a firm basis.

Second P.O. Scandal Shown In Alabama By Ex-Postmistress

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 7. —(INS)—A second case of alleged Republican attempts to collect campaign funds for post-office appointments in Alabama was charged today when Miss Annie K. Jones, Democrat and former postmistress at Irondale, said that she had been asked to contribute a sum amounting to 10 per cent of her yearly salary to the Republican campaign fund.

The system employed in filling postoffice jobs in the state was first attacked last Monday by Dr. Joseph H. Cooper, Tuscaloosa physician and unsuccessful applicant for the postmastership of that city in 1924, who asked of senatorial investigation of his matter on the grounds that his name was eliminated from the list of eligibles for the position because he refused to contribute to the campaign fund.

The case involving Miss Jones was revealed by Dr. Cooper, following receipt of a letter from the Irondale woman, explaining that she had been approached with a request for donations to the campaign fund; how she had refused and how she was later denied re-appointment.

Back she came... A millionaire's wife —and BROKEN-HEARTED

AS far back as Cherry could remember, poverty and squalor, toil and hunger, were the only life she had ever known.

Many a lonely, aching night, through hot tears of self-pity, she had gazed with wistful, longing eyes into a dream-world of her own making—a world of love, tenderness, compassion, radiant beauty—a world that seemed forever beyond her reach.

But as the years went by, and Cherry blossomed into young womanhood, her determination to conquer life brought its reward. Brought freedom, friends, opportunity, success.

Then romance came—romance as marvelous as it was beautiful. As the wife of Dick Berringer—young, rich, boyishly handsome—Cherry's measure of happiness seemed complete.

One brief year of ecstatic bliss, then—catastrophe! A merciless fate decreed that she go back to the gutter whence she came.

With bleeding heart she saw snatched from her all the love and tenderness, the comfort and happiness, she had fought for so bravely and so long.

What strange circumstances conspired to crush her under this frightful load of misery? Why must she exchange an honored name for the bitterness of shame and degradation? Because she married above her class, must she pay the penalty of disillusionment and black despair?

You will want to read the whole heart-breaking story, exactly as Cherry tells it. It is entitled "Shattered Dreams," and appears complete in the September issue of True Story Magazine.

Unknown Soldier's Tomb To Be Completed Within The Next Twelve Months

WASHINGTON, August 5. —(INS)—The tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery, which since November 11, 1921, has been marked with a plain marble slab, will be completed, and immortalization of unnamed American dead of the World War accomplished within a year.

This announcement, from the War Department commission in charge of the tomb, was based on the fact that there remains at appropriate design for the tomb from five drawings and appropriation of the necessary funds for construction, $50,000, by Congress, for actual completion of the work.

It is considered likely Congress will appropriate the funds early in December, and that work will start immediately thereafter.

Five Competitors

In the meantime five competitors for the design to be used to complete the tomb are perfecting their drawings. Their designs were selected from 73 submitted to the commission. No date has been set for announcement of the winning design, but it will probably be made early this fall.

Much good work was shown in the 73 designs submitted to the judges appointed by the War Department to pick the memorial, and it was a hard matter to pick the best five from the group. The whole group is now on exhibition in the War Department museum here. They range from the utmost simplicity to the grandeur and complication of oriental carving and design-work.

The five successful competitors in the contest were picked by a jury representing the American Institute of Architects, the Gold Star Mothers, and the American League. The drawings were submitted, without names attached, and names were placed in envelopes, which were opened after the winning designs had been picked, by Victor Mindeleff, Washington, architectural advisor, and a group in charge of the contest. In most cases architects and sculptors combined in submitting designs.

Winning Designs

Those submitting the winning designs were: Schweinfurth, Ripley and L. Boutillier, architects, of Boston; Thomas Hudson Jones, sculptor and Mortimer Rich, architect of New York; Harry Steri-feld, architect and Gaetano, sculptor, of Philadelphia; James Earl Frazer, sculptor; Mrs. Eberlin Swartwout, architect, of New York; and Horace W. Pease, architect and Carl Mose, sculptor, of Washington.

Judges were Charles E. Coolidge, Boston; D. H. Burgham, Chicago, and Paul Crot, Philadelphia, representing the American Institution of Architects; Mrs. William D. Rock of Philadelphia, representing the Gold Star Mothers, and Colonel MacNider representing the American Legion.

HOW DO YOU BUY?

When you enter a store to buy anything, how do you ask for it? Do you call for the articles by name, or do you generalize—a can of tomato soup; a bag of flour; an aluminum kettle; so many square yards of linoleum; a meat grinder?

It is much better and far more satisfactory to specify the articles you want by name, for merchandise that is good enough to be sold by name is almost always better in quality, and usually no higher in price, than goods of uncertain lineage and less certain quality.

The advertising columns of this newspaper carry advertised names that are familiar to millions of people. Soap, flour, sugar, cereals, kitchen ware, rugs, linoleum, automobiles, etc. They represent those articles that stand for the best in their respective classes of merchandise—quality all through.

Advertising keeps these names before you constantly. Advertising is a constant reminder that the articles you want are the same articles that you see advertised day after day—that justify their being by the service they render. And advertising brings you news—of inventions, discoveries, improvements that keep you up to date.

Tell the sales-clerk what you want by its advertised name. You'll get it—and your money will purchase full value. It pays to read advertising and remember advertised names.
