

County To Extend Contract On Office Space Needs

By MICHEAL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County commissioners are expected to approve a contract extension Tuesday morning with space consultant Walter H. Sobel and Associates of Chicago which will allow the firm to be paid for recent work.

Commissioners originally authorized Sobel to conduct an analysis of the space needs of county offices through the year 2000.

Later they asked the firm to analyze the space available in the old Seminole Memorial Hospital building but neglected to amend the contract so the firm can be paid for the work.

Sobel recently completed the analysis of the hospital and the courthouse and presented recommendations to commissioners. A plan to build two multi-story wings adjacent to the courthouse was endorsed by commissioners but any final action is delayed pending an Oct. 27 bid opening on the sale of the hospital building.

If the building is sold, commissioners plan to proceed with building plans. If it is not sold the building will be used for county offices.

Public Services and Development Director John Percy said today plans to move the county Public Defender's office into temporary offices at Sanford City Hall have been delayed.

Original plans called for the move to be made by Friday. Percy said materials for partitions have not yet been purchased.

The county will occupy temporarily the area on the first floor of City Hall that had been occupied by the Seminole County Library while the Sanford branch quarters were being remodeled.

An ordinance to clarify the duties of the traffic engineer will be considered also by county commissioners Tuesday.

The Seminole County Traffic Ordinance outlines the duties and authority of the traffic engineer and the enforcement responsibilities of the Sheriff's Department.

Traffic Engineer Gary Lester said the ordinance "gives me the authority to install traffic devices." That is already Lester's job but the ordinance formalizes the responsibilities.

"The ordinance was recommended by the Tipton Study in 1977," he said. The Tipton Study examined the county's governmental structure and made recommendations to improve operations.

In addition to giving him the authority to install traffic devices, it also authorizes Lester to make engineering analyses of traffic accidents, plan the most efficient operation of traffic on county streets and highways and to enact regulations restricting traffic where necessary.

The ordinance gives the Sheriff's Department the authority to ticket violators of the ordinance and to tow cars parked in violation of parking restrictions.

An appeal period of 30 days is included in the ordinance. Any restriction imposed by the traffic engineer may be appealed to the board of county commissioners within 30 days.

Crowds Enjoy Weekend Fall Event In Sanford

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

The Best of Show awards in the annual Fall for Art sidewalk show held Saturday and Sunday in downtown Sanford went to two Oviedo artists.

Watercolor artist Jim Koevenig won best in the two-dimension division while Robert Crystal's entry in the sculpture and crafts division was chosen best in the three-dimension division.

Koevenig also received a special award from Atlantic Bank and a purchase award from the Sanford Rotary Club.

The two-day event co-sponsored by the Sanford-Seminole Art Association and the Sanford Downtown Business Association attracted 135 artists and craftsmen from throughout the state.

"It was a beautiful weekend," said Co-chairman Jane Patterson of Altamonte Springs. "The showers held off until everyone was finished packing up Sunday afternoon."

"The crowds were good and they were buying, especially paintings," she added. "There seemed to be a more sophisticated crowd and they were really looking at the displays."

Award winners in the various categories were: Oils, acrylic and mixed media, first place, Bruce Holwerda of St. Petersburg; second place, Pam Coffman of Winter Park; third, Corinne Mess of Titusville; an Award of Merit, Elizabeth Harvey of Orlando; water colors, first, Marilyn Markofski of Winter Springs; second, Carol Adams of Palmetto; third, Ed Bookhardt of Sanford; Award of Merit, Carlos Richmond of Apopka; crafts and sculpture, first, Andre Giorgis; second,

Board To Award Tuskawilla Contract

Seminole County School Board members are expected to award a construction contract for the new Tuskawilla Elementary School at their Wednesday meeting.

Architect Robert Pierce of the firm Watson and Co. of Orlando will make recommendations to the board at the 3 p.m. meeting.

The apparent low bidder on the project is Graham Contracting, Inc., of Orlando which submitted a $2,849,000 bid. Eugene W. Kelsey and Son of Orlando was the second lowest bidder on the project with a $2,873,190 bid and James M. Barker Co., Inc., of Jacksonville bid $2,874,500.

School Superintendent Robert Hughes said today the 14 bids submitted on the project is "a record in recent years."

"We had talked with people in other counties who had told us they were getting a lot of bids on construction projects," Hughes said.

He said the high number of bids helped to keep the bids under $3 million. Only five of the 14 bids exceeded $3 million.

Hughes said the bids were "lower than expected but about what we had hoped."

Initial projections on construction of the school put the cost at about $3.5 million but latest estimates from the architect were in the neighborhood of $3 million, Hughes said.

The bid package contained several alternatives to the original plans. Those alternatives, which include a 14-month construction period as opposed to the eight-month construction proposed by Hughes, could reduce the bids further if board members elect to take any or all of them.

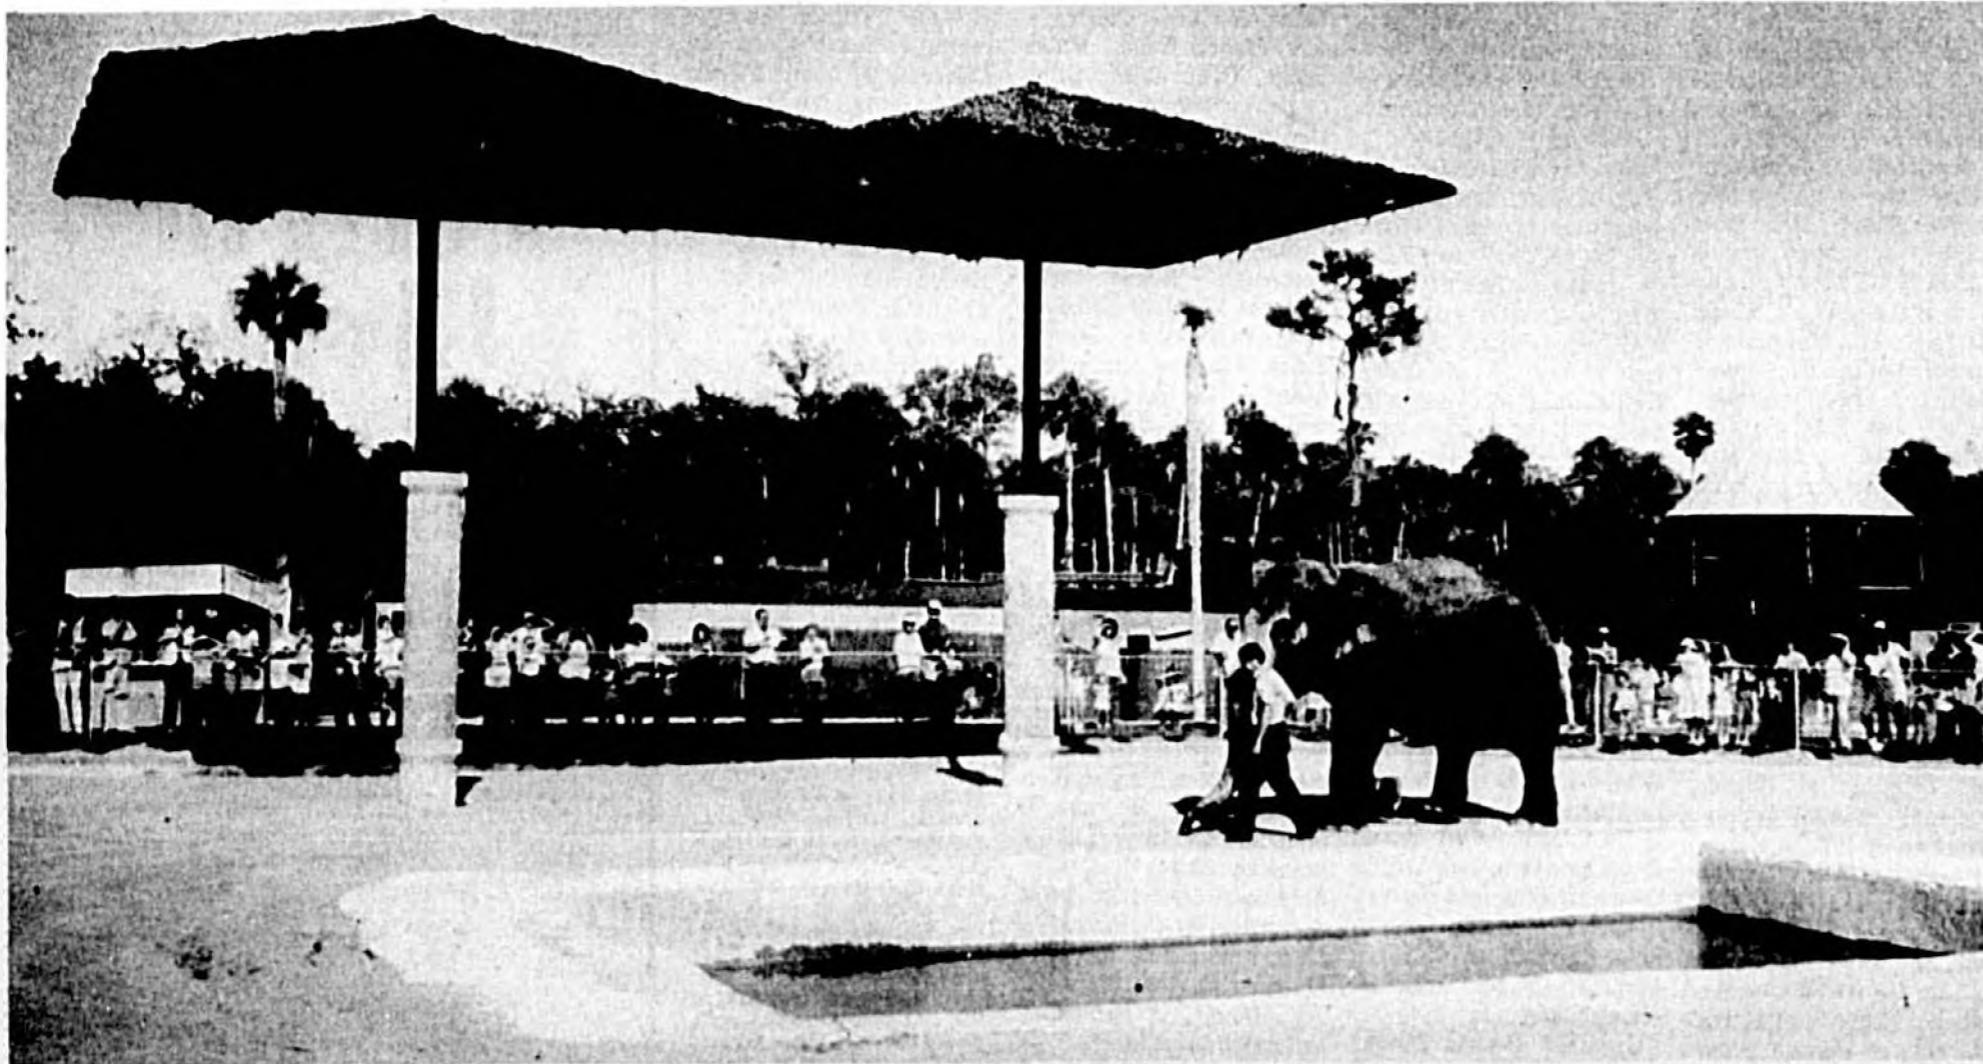

Hughes said he was pleased that most of the bidders did not significantly change their bid for 14-month construction. Graham Contracting's bid was the low for both construction periods. But James M. Barker Company's $2,849,500 bid is only $500 higher than Graham's for the 14-month construction.

Hughes prefers an eight-month construction period because it will allow the school to be ready for use at the beginning of the 1983-84 school term. The longer construction time would force the board to devise schemes to use other schools on a double class set-up. That would increase cost for busing and other expenses.

The architect is evaluating the bids and will recommend a contractor to the board depending upon what alternatives board members decide to include in the final plans.

The bidding on the school was delayed several weeks because the plans had not been approved by the state Department of Education. — MICHEAL BEHA.

Sanford Is Stuck With Roof Bill?

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The re-roofing of Sanford's law enforcement center on French Avenue is expected to be completed this week.

And even though the $600,000 building is only eight years old, City Attorney Bill Colbert will tell the Sanford City Commission at its 7 p.m. meeting today there is little chance of recovering any of the $17,000 re-roofing cost from either the architect or general contractor of the facility.

Colbert, in a written legal opinion to the city, said the four-year statute of limitations has expired on legal action. The time would have started when the leaks in the roof were first discovered. And City Police Chief Ben Butler reports the leaks began six months after the police department moved into the building.

Butler says an attempt was made to repair the leaks at that time but the "leak continued only at a more feeble rate."

Other leaks developed over the years in the interrogation rooms on the north side of the building and attempts also were made there to stop them. A leak developed in the main men's room last spring and was so severe it caused the ceiling to fall in. The ceiling was repaired. For the past eight months there has been a minor leak in the vehicle security area.

Two weeks ago, the City Commission accepted the low bid of $17,000 from Loyal's Pierce Roofing of Orlando to re-roof the structure. The work began Oct. 4.

And Commissioner Milton Smith urged that Colbert check out whether the city has recourse against the architect or contractor.

In his memo to the city Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles Colbert said if the city does decide to sue, the potential recovery would not be the $17,000 the new roof is costing but rather it would be the cost of the repair or replacement at the time the leaks were first found — about $11,000.

He said the cost of analyzing the roof to find the reason for the leaks and legal costs could easily "exceed any potential recovery."

"We would need to sue any party having something to do with the roof including the architect, general contractor, subcontractor, material supplier and material manufacturer," Colbert said.

In other business at tonight's commission meeting at city hall, 300 N. Park Ave., County Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather will explain to the City Commission why a $9,751.05 lien has been filed by a Sanford architect against the 8 1/2-acre tract north of the Evening Herald along U.S. 17-92 facing Lake Monroe.

The lien was filed in the courthouse office of Clerk of the Circuit Court Arthur H. Beckwith Jr. by Sanford architect Eoghan N. Kelley on Sept. 16, for architectural services on the $20 million life-care facility Feather plans to build at the site.

The commission gave Feather the right to buy the property from a previous purchaser, Tom Rucker of Altamonte Springs. In selling the land to Rucker and under its agreement to allow Feather to take it over, the city has retained the right to repurchase the tract if construction on the proposed development has not begun by March 1, 1983.

St. Johns District Eyes Sanford Site

The St. Johns River Water Management District Governing Board will discuss at its 9 a.m. meeting Wednesday whether it wants to move its district headquarters from Palatka to a "more central location."

And topping the list of more central locations is the city of Sanford.

Member John D'Albora of Cocoa, district treasurer, asked for a discussion of the relocation possibility to be placed on the agenda.

The relocation topic will probably come up for consideration during the afternoon section of the all-day meeting, said Michael Gray, Seminole County's representative on the governing board.

The board meets in its two-year-old, $1.8 million administrative facility off State Road 100 at Kay Larkin Airport in Palatka.

Mildred Horton, director of administration for the district, said D'Albora has said he will ask the board chairman, Fran Pignone of Orlando, to name a committee to study where the headquarters could be relocated.

IN BRIEF

Three Scorched Counties Declared Disaster Areas

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Howling "devil winds" that blasted flames across three Southern California counties subsided today, allowing firefighters to corral blazes that destroyed $22 million worth of homes and injured 150 people.

The fiery weekend of terror in Los Angeles, Ventura and Orange counties, declared disaster areas Sunday by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., destroyed at least 36 houses and 42 mobile homes, and damaged at least 45 others.

Officials said they were confident both the 17,000-acre Gypsum Canyon blaze in Orange County and the 54,000-acre Dayton Canyon fire in Los Angeles and Ventura counties would be contained by tonight if winds continued to diminish.

Arson was suspected in at least two of the blazes.

Amtrak Gunman Gives Up

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — A gunman who held out for more than 70 hours in a fetid Amtrak sleeping car surrendered quietly today and police found the bodies of a woman and a baby in the railroad car.

Authorities said the man, who identified himself as Mario Rodriguez, surrendered at 5:48 a.m. EDT after talking to a man he alternately described as a friend and his godfather. Earlier, he had released a 4-year-old girl.

Police Maj. Jack Haley said the bodies of the woman and the baby were found in the 6-by-10 foot compartment in which the man had barricaded himself since Friday morning.

There has been speculation that the shooting occurred on the Amtrak train Friday when Rodriguez became enraged over the crying of the baby. Police Maj. Tom Justice said authorities still believe the siege began as a domestic dispute.

Reagan Stresses Progress

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — President Reagan, facing a barrage of criticism for an upsurge in unemployment, intends to stress his "dramatic progress" in lowering interest rates and inflation in the waning weeks of the congressional campaign, aides indicate.

After spending a relaxed weekend at his mountaintop ranch, Reagan flies to Dallas today for two political appearances in support of Republican senatorial candidate Rep. James Collins who has an uphill battle against incumbent Democrat Lloyd Bentsen.

Afterwards Reagan will head back to Washington, where he will spend the rest of the week, highlighted by a nationally broadcast "progress report" on the economy at 7:30 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

Hoaxes Slow Police In Hunt For Tylenol-Cyanide Killer

CHICAGO (UPI) — Investigators, once worried the cyanide poisonings of seven area residents would inspire copycat killers, now find much of their time is spent tracking down hoaxes and pranks.

A task force of more than 100 federal, state and local investigators sifted through information today, hoping to find who disguised deadly cyanide as capsules of Extra-Strength Tylenol.

State Attorney General Tyrone Fahner said eight agents — three from the FBI, three from the state and two Chicago police officers — were diverted from the main investigation to sniff out extortion attempts.

"Obviously, this detracts from the investigation," Fahner said, warning troublemakers "are going to pay a price" if they try to cash in on tragedy.

With the help of a telephone "hot line," the task force, which is using a computer, has received more than 1,000 leads. Fahner said a quarter of them have been ruled out.

A 6-month-old Philadelphia suicide and a California poisoning grabbed attention but were not connected to the Illinois deaths. When a strychnine poisoning in Oroville, Calif., was announced, fears arose that criminals were duplicating the methods of the Chicago deaths.

But then two of the most spectacular leads in the deaths a week and a half ago turned out to be hoaxes.

Jerome Howard, 20, an unemployed Chicagoan, is accused of threatening to use cyanide-laced Tylenol capsules to kill patients at a suburban hospital where he once worked.

Howard was arrested late Saturday on extortion charges. He is accused of writing a letter demanding $8,000 from Gottlieb Hospital and claiming responsibility for the seven poisonings. Prosecutors say he admitted making the threat.

Two more apparent hoaxes cropped up during the weekend. Jerome Oman, 57, of Chicago, was arrested late Saturday for disorderly conduct. He was upset over a bad canned ham and began making threats to a telephone operator to "do the same thing to ... hams as he had done to Tylenol," police said.

"It's something akin to screaming 'This is a hijack' on a plane," one police detective said.

Someone else claimed to have put cyanide in apple cider from an orchard near DeKalb, Ill. Officials said it apparently was a prank but also conducted tests.

Bar-B-Q For French

A fund-raising barbecue to benefit the campaign of Bob French, candidate for the Seminole County Commission in the Nov. 2 general election will be held Oct. 15.

The barbecue is slated for 3 to 8 p.m. at Lake Golden Park near the Sanford airport. Tickets are $10 per person.

French, a Democrat, who previously served a four-year term on the commission, is running against first term incumbent Bob Sturm, a Republican from Lake Mary.

'Mom, There's A Robber On The Phone'

Some days, it just doesn't pay for a hard-working crook to get out of bed.

Take the case of the guy who called a Longwood home Thursday morning in a telephone extortion attempt.

First, he got a teen-age girl who didn't quite know how to handle the phone-in holdup. Then, he got put on hold.

According to Seminole County sheriff's deputies, this is what happened:

About 6:45 a.m., the would-be robber called a Longwood couple's home and asked for the man of the house.

He wasn't home so the telephone bandit told the man's 16-year-old daughter, "This is a robbery and we are right outside your home. Follow my instructions and we won't come in and hurt you."

At that point, the girl decided the fellow probably needed to talk with her mother and asked the caller to hold on until she could get her.

Action Reports

* Courts

* Police

When the girl's mom picked up the receiver, the probably-getting-frustrated-by-now robber repeated his instruction, adding that he had tapped the phone line and would monitor any outgoing calls.

The man then ordered his intended victim to "put all your valuables in a plastic garbage bag and put it outside. We won't come in if you follow directions."

The woman hung up and notified deputies.

The bandit got nothing. MAN CHARGED WITH BATTERY

A 19-year-old Sanford man was being held in the Seminole County jail Saturday after deputies said they saw him hit another man over the head with a stick.

Lawrence Davis, 19, of 909 Holly Ave., was being held under $8,000 bond following his arrest on a charge of aggravated battery against Joseph Wiggins, of 1400 Southwest Road, near Sanford. Deputies said Wiggins was treated for injuries received in the incident at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford.

HOMEDAMAGED, ROBBED

About $3,400 worth of property was stolen from a Sanford man's home and about $400 damage caused to the house during a robbery there between 11 p.m. Thursday and 7 a.m. Friday.

Police said someone broke into the home of Edeard R. Hutto, 36, of 2605 Hartwell Ave., Sanford, after pushing in a bedroom window screen.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Jobless Northerners Flock To Fla., But Find No Work

MIAMI (UPI) — The desperate hunt for jobs is lengthening the soup-and-bed lines in Florida cities with many able-bodied men from the factories of the northeast and midwest, relief agency officials report.

With little heavy industry located in Florida, the state never has had the need for many factory workers. And there were 371,000 unemployed Floridians hunting last month for any of the other kinds of jobs that might be available.

State employment office workers said unemployed from the north are arriving in Florida daily and calling state offices in the search for jobs. Some cannot be convinced that Florida also has a shortage of jobs.

Florida reported its unemployment rate in September fell slightly to 7.5 percent at the time the national unemployment rate hit a 42-year high of 10.1 percent with 11.3 million people jobless. The 7.5 percent rate in Florida translates to 371,000 without work.

With northern states such as Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan having jobless rates ranging from 11.3 percent to 15.9 percent, job prospects in Florida seem promising, but employment experts said that's not true.

Burglar Gets Skinned

ORLANDO (UPI) — Allen Leon Frazier should have plenty of time to complete his planned book on "how to skin a cat burglar." He faces a stiff prison sentence for burglary and other crimes.

A circuit court jury convicted the 33-year-old Frazier of grand theft, attempted trespassing and burglary Friday.

Police believe Frazier is the "weekend rapist" responsible for a year-long string of burglary attacks. Police say they have presented prosecutors with additional rape and burglary charges against him, based on two months of surveillance.

Frazier apparently drafted his book in jail. He was sentenced to 20 years for breaking and entering in 1970 and released in 1980.

Prosecutors noted in pretrial hearings that Frazier's methods were identical to those described in the book draft which police found during a search of his home and car. Included with the notebook were newspaper articles on burglary and rape, police said.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Banned Solidarity Calls For Strike November 10

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The Solidarity underground brazenly called a four-hour general strike next month and Roman Catholic leaders issued their angriest condemnations of Poland's military rulers to protest the banning of the union.

The remnants of Solidarity in the Polish underground circulated leaflets today calling for a four-hour nationwide strike on Nov. 10 and for defiance of the military government's efforts to establish alternative unions.

In Warsaw, the official Polish news agency PAP chided President Reagan for imposing new sanctions against Poland in retaliation for the banning of Solidarity. Reagan ordered Poland's 22-year-old tariff status as a most favored nation rescinded on Saturday.

Israelis Hunt For Gunmen

By United Press International

Israeli troops searched today for gunmen who wounded one Israeli soldier in ambushes on a bus and a jeep in the wooded hills east of Beirut, and Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Cabinet set terms for a pullout from Lebanon.

At a meeting in Jerusalem, the Cabinet decided Sunday that Israel would require a security buffer zone in southern Lebanon as one of its main conditions from the withdrawal of its estimated 70,000 troops in Lebanon.

In Amman, Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat summoned his top aides to join talks on King Hussein's idea of a Jordanian-Palestinian confederation, the official Kuwaiti news agency said.

Lake Mary's Olvera May Run For Mayor's Position After All

Lake Mary City Councilman Vic Olvera can run for mayor after all, and "like Ivory soap is 99 and 44 one-hundredths percent sure I will."

But he's not absolutely certain at this point because of his concern that once he makes up his mind and qualifies for the office, he must immediately resign the council post he has held for the past three years.

Sandy Goard, office manager for Seminole Elections Supervisor Camilla Bruce, today said that from further research into state law, she has determined that Olvera can resign his council seat and run for the mayor's office.

Last Friday, Mrs. Goard said Olvera was required by state law to resign 10 days prior to the first day of the Lake Mary candidate qualifying period which began Oct. 5.

That would have been true, she said, if Olvera had wanted to continue in his council job until he assumed the mayor's post to which he might be elected. The mayor's term begins officially on Jan. 3.

Olvera said while he is almost certain to run for mayor, his major concern is that with his resignation the city will have only three councilmen for about two months. Councilman Gene McDonald has also resigned effective Friday.

Olvera also said if he gives up his council post, four new councilmen could be elected in the Dec. 7 election, possibly all without municipal government experience.

Four-term Mayor Walter Sorenson, meanwhile, filed qualifying papers Friday to seek a fifth term in office.

And Councilman Dick Fess has said he may run for the mayor's office also. The one-term councilman said, however, even though he has picked up qualifying papers from the city clerk's office, he will not make a formal decision on whether to run for the mayor's office or to return to the council until the final candidate qualification day, Oct. 29.

Fess said being president of United Way of Seminole County and with its campaign not scheduled to end until Oct. 28, he is devoting all his energies to that work, putting it ahead of political considerations.

The possibility is that the city voters will be electing representatives to four Council seats in the Dec. 7 election — two to 2-year terms for the seats held by Fess and Councilman Kenneth King and two to one-year terms for the remaining time in the terms of McDonald and Olvera.

Incumbent Councilman Ray Fox has one year remaining on his second term in office.

UCF Employee Fired

Ian Maxwell, director of the University of Central Florida bookstore, has been dismissed, a school official said today.

A UCF spokesman said Maxwell is the second bookstore employee dismissed in the past six weeks. Alice Battle, of Goldenrod in Seminole County, a fiscal assistant at the bookstore, was fired Aug. 20.

The dismissals came about as a result of an audit of bookstore accounts which revealed several thousand dollars were missing, the spokesman said.

Information in the case has been turned over to the Orange County State Attorney's office for possible prosecution.

King has picked up candidate qualifying papers and said he will probably run for reelection to his council seat. Former three-term Councilman Burt Perinchief has picked up papers, saying he will most likely run for the one-year remaining in McDonald's term. Former three-term Councilman Harry Terry has picked up qualifying papers, saying he will probably run for the council seat now held by Fess.

Also picking up qualifying papers were Al Wichman of the city's Board of Adjustments and Bill Durrenberger of the city's Planning and Zoning Commission. Both Wichman and Durrenberger ran for the council a year ago unsuccessfully.

Jim Stern, a newcomer to city politics has also picked up papers.

Durrenberger also said he has not made up his mind for which council seat he will run.

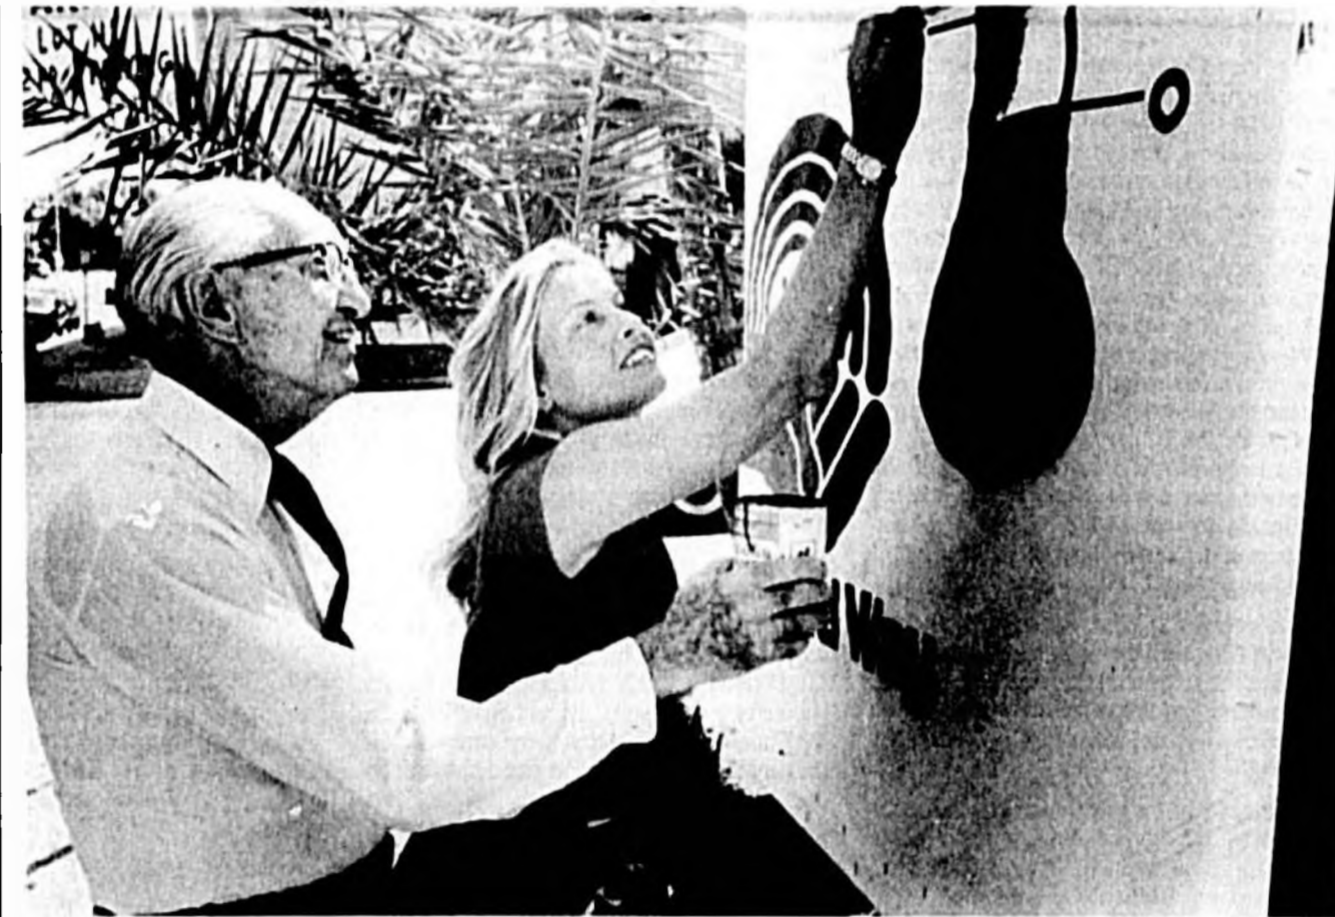

"If Fess runs for mayor, I probably will run. If he doesn't I probably won't," Durrenberger said.

Dissatisfied by the slow pace of a Veterans Administration investigation of the possible effects of the defoliant Agent Orange on U.S. servicemen, Vietnam veterans in Congress have introduced legislation that would transfer responsibility for the study to the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. Map locates areas of greatest exposure to the chemical that contains a known carcinogenic agent. It has been considered a possible contributor to cancers, miscarriages and birth defects. The Veterans Administration, which three years ago was ordered by Congress to undertake the study, has estimated it couldn't be completed until 1988-89.

VA Accused Of Stalling Agent Orange Study

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The head of a congressional monitoring agency charges that the Veterans Administration is stalling a study of Agent Orange, a toxic chemical used in Vietnam and blamed for various health problems.

John Gibbons, director of the Office of Technology Assessment, said "No further progress on the Agent Orange study can be expected" until the VA makes a decision on its scope.

Some Vietnam veterans say the defoliant has caused health problems for them and their children, including cancer.

Gibbons, whose office is monitoring the study, said the law charged the VA with deciding whether to limit the study to the health effects of Agent Orange or to broaden it to include the possible effects of the "Vietnam experience."

The VA said it would make a decision after a review of the protocol for the study from the National Academy of Sciences—the fourth such technical review according to Gibbons.

In a letter to Assistant Senate Democratic leader Alan Cranston, Gibbons said, "In my mind, waiting on still another technical review of the protocol to make a policy decision seems unnecessary and can be viewed as a delaying tactic."

...Sanford Site Considered

The district was created by the Florida Legislature in 1973 to oversee the quality of water in the St. Johns River. In 1977, the board began levying taxes.

And after a site search by a special committee some years ago, Palatka was chosen for the district's headquarters after that city donated a parcel of land for the purpose.

Among sites considered at the time were ones in Sanford and Orlando.

D'Albora could not be reached for comment today.

Gray said while it appears unlikely the governing board will agree to move its headquarters considering the amount of money invested in the administration building in Palatka, he would not oppose relocating it to Sanford.

And Sanford City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles has indicated Sanford would welcome the headquarters if a decision were made to place it here. — DONNA ESTES.

The Economy's Closed Circuit

Like the old joke about some good news and some bad news, the government's mid-month statistics continue to show falling inflation rates, and the end-of-the-month statistics keep showing rising unemployment, stagnant sales levels and reduced industrial output. The good news is that the Reagan administration has figured out how to whip inflation, and the bad news is that it's being done by prolonging the recession.

This is not quite what Reaganomics was supposed to be about. The original idea was to reverse the recession with tax cuts that spurred both industrial investments and consumer spending, and to control the inflation that might otherwise result with a tight-money policy. As it turns out, the high interest rates required by the tight-money policy have served only to aggravate the recession (or, as some economists say, to create it). And the tax cuts—in part because they have been overshadowed by the interest rates and in part because they were poorly designed in the first place—haven't worked at all.

The best economic news all year, in fact, has been the Federal Reserve's recent tendency to ignore Mr. Reagan's policy and reduce interest rates. That's what sent the stock market surging in September.

But even the Fed's new interest rates haven't been enough to convince many businesses or consumers to change their recessionary spending habits. After all, the administration's tight-money rhetoric hasn't changed, and the Fed itself has a long tradition of precipitating temporary boomlets just before election time. Given all that, it is not surprising that the economy seems to be responding with a wait-and-see attitude. Industry has not rushed into the interest rate breach with revitalization projects, but seems chiefly concerned with how to take best advantage of the interest rate fluctuations to refinance old debts.

Of course, if the Fed is willing to force interest rates low enough and keep them down long enough to re-create the level of industrial investment and consumer borrowing that the economy needs, then attitudes will undoubtedly change. If that were to happen, the recession should melt away rather quickly. But that would also leave the Reagan administration with no anti-inflation policy—and, indeed, with a series of tax measures in place that could send inflation rates back through the ceiling.

The fault is not the goals of the president's program. What it will take both to spur growth and curb inflation is precisely the industrial investments and increases in productivity that the administration says it wants. Only if industry gets the equipment in place that will produce more goods, more cheaply, will the economy be able to grow without the Consumer Price Index growing faster.

What's at fault is the administration's insistence that all this will be accomplished without interfering in the private market. It is thus left with no tools except these very broad-brush policies that don't work.

Because he eschews pinpointed credit controls or any kind of wage-and-price policy, Mr. Reagan must rely on the Fed to control inflation, which it can achieve only by precipitating a recession. What's more, the Fed, if it follows Mr. Reagan's policies, is limited to making broad, economy-wide changes in the money supply, and those tend to create economy-wide havoc.

Similarly, because he doesn't want to get involved in guiding investment decisions, the president's only tool for fighting the recession is across-the-board changes that cost the government more in revenues, threaten the economy with more inflation and are far less effective than specifically targeted investment programs would be.

Good inflation news and bad recession news do not have to go hand-in-hand. But unless the government steps into the current economic mess and gets its own hands dirty, we will never have one without the other.

Foreign Aid That Is Dubious

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) — Providing moral support, financial aid and even military assistance to prop up assorted dictatorships throughout the world has become a dubious yet integral component of this country's foreign policy.

Allowing the United States law enforcement and criminal justice system to become an extension of a tyrannical government's attempts to suppress internal dissent and harass its political opponents is a far more serious matter, however, because such action is virtually without historic precedent.

Yet that is precisely what is now occurring here in the case of a federal grand jury empaneled to investigate the activities of Philippine exiles in this country opposed to the dictatorial government of President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

Although considerable publicity and controversy has been generated in Washington by President Reagan's willingness to legitimize the repressive Philippines regime by acting as host to an elaborate state visit by Marcos, virtually no attention has been paid to Attorney General William French Smith's parallel efforts in U.S. District Court here.

For almost two years, the federal grand jury has been hearing testimony and receiving evidence relating to alleged plots to violently overthrow the Marcos government conceived by Philippine citizens forced to flee their native country for political reasons and now living throughout the United States.

An appeal for intensified efforts to pursue those Marcos critics reportedly was a priority item on the agenda of the Philippines president when he met recently with Reagan.

The investigation here is extraordinary because the federal government has seldom if ever before been willing to mobilize its law enforcement apparatus and judicial system on behalf of another nation's political leaders.

Universal application of that policy would require investigation of thousands of exiles, living here after being granted political asylum, who regularly (but seldom successfully) plot the overthrow of scores of governments during whispered conversations held in coffeehouses and bars, attics and basements stretching from San Francisco to New York.

A serious effort to investigate all of the schemes concocted by Cuban refugees living in Florida to topple Fidel Castro's government would require convening dozens of grand juries in Miami alone.

In a sworn statement required by federal law and filed with the court here last month, the attorney general acknowledged that government investigators had tapped the telephone of at least one target of the grand jury probe.

Smith notified the court that Arturo Taca, a Philippine native and Marcos critic now living in Chesterfield, Mo., "has been overheard on electronic surveillance" conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The wiretap was authorized by the U.S. Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court, a little known but powerful judicial panel which meets in Washington for the specific purpose of considering government requests for electronic surveillance.

But the intent of the law is to allow such surveillance of individuals who pose a threat to this country's domestic security — notably intelligence operatives working for hostile nations and those engaged in international terrorist activities — rather than critics of other governments.

Lebanon Crisis To Affect Elections

WASHINGTON — The Lebanese crisis has had political repercussions not only in Israel but in the United States as well. Both pro-Israeli and pro-Arab factions will be watching the November elections closely for signs of any change in the voters' attitudes.

Pro-Israeli sentiment has dominated Congress in the past. But now there are genuine policy differences between U.S. and Israeli leaders. There are also signs that the public's support of Israel is eroding as a result of the recent events in Lebanon.

Two close congressional races — one in California, the other in Illinois — have become battlegrounds for pro-Israeli and pro-Arab interest groups. Contributions from political action committees have been based heavily on the candidates' real or perceived views toward Israel. As a result, the PAC donations themselves have become a campaign issue.

In the Illinois district that Abe Lincoln once represented, Rep. Paul Findley, the senior Republican on the House Middle East Subcommittee, faces Democrat Dick Durbin. The challenger describes Findley as "Yasir Arafat's best friend in Congress," citing as evidence the congressman's meetings with the Palestine Liberation Organization leader and other PLO representatives.

Findley, in turn, is trying to make an issue out of Durbin's financial support from pro-Israeli groups outside the district, like the San Francisco-based Americans for Good Government. "Durbin gets 80 percent of his money from outside the district," a Findley aide said, "from people who are upset with the congressman's approach to the Middle Selph wasn't able to make the trip either. John Vogt, State Senator from District 17, took credit for setting up a meeting between FP&L's attorney and the Geneva group to discuss alternatives in Brevard and Volusia counties.

He too was busy when the Wednesday meeting took place.

Former Seminole County Commissioner Robert French took the opportunity to attack current county leadership for failing to get a compromise route through the county.

Commission Chairman Robert Sturm didn't attend the meeting but sent John Canalis to tell the people what he would say if he had been there.

Canalis said Sturm had come out in support of the citizens' plan to move the corridor east of Lake Harney. Sturm, at least, convinced other commissioners to send a letter of support for the group to Tallahassee.

What did all of the campaigners have in common? They took advantage of a serious situation to stump for votes. The people at the Geneva meeting grew restless as candidate after candidate tried to pin the blame on someone else for letting the corridor go through the community.

For people who read in this space about a month ago of West Virginia Day in Titusville on Saturday, Sept. 29, I hope you didn't go on Sept. 29 and get disappointed.

That date was a Wednesday, an odd date for a picnic.

But there was good news for native West Virginians too. The West Virginia University football team is 3-1 following a 16-13 loss to top-ranked Pittsburgh. The Mountaineers, who beat Florida in last year's Peach Bowl, defeated Oklahoma in their opening game and are ranked in the top 20 along with Florida and the University of Miami.

Saved By The Bill...

For the few Americans passing through these days, they are a painfully unforgettable feature of the city most of the world still calls Saigon.

Unmistakable and inescapable, they infest shabby downtown streets and plazas around the decaying old hotels reserved for foreigners. Hawking postage stamps, trinkets and that universal currency of a subsistence economy, cigarettes, they are entrepreneurs of necessity in a collectivized society that has no other place for them.

With their distinctive features and coloring varying from very light to very dark, they are standouts in the Vietnamese crowd.

They are the "dust children," the offspring of American fathers and Vietnamese mothers, a few of whom are now beginning new lives in the United States. It is perhaps the best good news story of recent weeks.

But not as good as it could be. They are very few. Eleven.

Estimates vary — widely — but there may be as many as 20,000 still in Vietnam. The lucky ones — possibly some 4,000 — are the issue of registered marriages or can otherwise document their American parentage.

The great majority cannot. Abandoned by their fathers, who in many cases may not even be aware of their existence, they are rejected by their mothers' people. Or at least by those who now govern those people. As a continuing American presence in Vietnam, they are regarded as dirt and treated accordingly.

The arrival of the 11, with strong possibility of more to come, is not the best of the good news, however. Just before adjourning to allow members to devote full attention to the coming elections, Congress approved legislation immensely simplifying procedures for admitting children of mixed parentage to the United States.

Henceforth they are to have preferred status and, most important, the criteria for establishing parentage have been liberalized. In addition to official documentation, U.S. authorities approving immigration applications may now accept other evidence — including appearance.

This could be crucial for the thousands of illegitimate children. Under previous law, a child born overseas to an American out of wedlock had to be acknowledged by the father.

The new rules apply to all children of American fathers in Asian countries — with estimates of their numbers running up to a quarter of a million — but will have the most immediate impact in Vietnam.

The difficulties to date in arranging departure have been blamed on Vietnamese authorities, a grim lot who have been in no rush to cooperate. Despite a well-publicized offer by Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach at the United Nations in July to relax emigration restrictions in respect to the children, State Department sources say the Vietnamese have dragged their feet in processing departure applications.

That may well be so. The Marxists in Hanoi do, after all, have something to lose. They may have no place in their threadbare new world for the dust children. But a sudden exodus could be a political embarrassment — advertising, as have the boat people, the deficiencies and brutalities of their system.

But if the Vietnamese being difficult has been a problem in helping the children, too willing cooperation had the potential of being a greater one. They haven't been the only dragging feet.

Lies Of Pope's 'Silence'

Infuriated by Pope John Paul II's meeting with Yasir Arafat, an un-named Israeli official — whom everyone believes to have been Prime Minister Begin himself — resorted to the old charge that Pope Pius XII had been "silent" during the Holocaust.

"The same Church," he said, "that did not say a word about the massacre of Jews for six years in Europe... is ready to meet with the man who perpetrated the crime in Lebanon and is bent on the destruction of Israel."

The Pope's meeting with Arafat strikes me as foolish, coming as it did at this particular juncture of Mideast affairs, but nothing can excuse the Begin government's use of the old lie about "silence."

In his Christmas message of 1942, for example, Pope Pius XII appealed on behalf of the "hundreds of thousands of persons who, without any fault on their own part, sometimes only because of their nationality or race, have been consigned to death or a slow decline."

In its December 25, 1942, editorial on this message, The New York Times did not characterize it as "silence." The Times observed that "This Christmas, more than ever, the Pope is a lonely voice crying out in the name of a continent." It went on: "Because the Pope speaks to and in some sense for all the peoples at war, the clear stand he takes on the fundamental issues of the conflict has greater weight and authority..."

In 1964, curiously enough, the Times apparently forgot all about its 1942 editorial. A drama called "The Deputy" by a German playwright named Rolf Hochhuth was creating an international stir with its condemnation of Pius XII for his "silence" regarding the Nazi persecution of the Jews. The day after the New York opening of Hochhuth's play, The New York Times published an editorial entitled "Silence," endorsing Hochhuth's position and including the Pope in a more general condemnation of ignoring atrocities.

In this, both the Times and Mr. Hochhuth were playing fast and loose with history, as we have seen.

And even the potent points I have just made do not even scratch the surface of the evidence.

During the war years, the church provided thousands of forged baptismal certificates to endangered Jews. Thousands were hidden in churches, seminaries and monasteries. Papal representatives in Nazi-occupied Europe worked closely with Jewish leaders.

"The people of Israel will never forget what his Holiness and his illustrious delegates... are doing for us unfortunate brothers and sisters in the most tragic hour of our history," wrote the Grand Rabbi of Jerusalem.

Jewish scholars have recently demonstrated, to the surprise of many including myself, that a principal escape route for fleeing Jews was through Franco's Spain, and that both the Franco government and the Spanish Church — though the country was flat on its back and broke because of its recent Civil War — offered every assistance they could.

In the face of all this, the New Republic magazine, in this case apparently trying to help Begin's credibility, can editorialize that "The indifference of Pius XII to the extermination of the Jews has been incontrovertibly documented; it is a permanent stain," etc., etc.

Frankly, I myself have had enough of this self-serving mendacity from whatever quarter, here or in Jerusalem, and I will expose the lie for what it is every time it is uttered.

Ironically enough, it was the Begin government that attempted to treat the refugee camp slaughterers with "silence."

Manly Afternoon Quarterback

Alas, poor Bill Scott, we thought we knew him well. Like most other high school football coaches, Lyman's head honcho (Scott) is expected to take both winning and losing in stride and abide by the officials' calls. However, an outraged Scott broke stride Friday night at Colonial High School and blamed shabby officiating for his team's 21-14 loss to the Grenadiers. The Greyhounds fell to 2-3 on the season and Scott will have this week to cool off as Lyman has an open date Friday. If Scott concentrates on the game instead of the officials the 'Hounds still have a chance to have a winning record.

This has nothing to do with football, but a lot of people must feel on Mondays like Lyman's Schowonda Williams did Friday afternoon. Williams, a talented track sprinter and distance runner, was sailing along in second place at the County Cross Country Meet at Trinity Prep Friday when "something came up." Schowonda took a powder for a few steps, then rejoined the race and remarkably finished fifth. Later, she divulged the comeuppance had been some lasagne she consumed during lunch hour at the Lyman cafeteria. Coach Joe Laughlin then learned she had a veal pattie for breakfast. Needless to say, Schowonda learned her lesson.

What about those Seminoles? The Tribe has three of the best running backs around (and one promising sophomore) but it really doesn't matter since the Swiss cheese defense gave up 42 points to the Apopka Blue Darters in the 'Noles fourth straight defeat.

Ron Burke (senior) rushed for 130 yards, Rendell Manley (senior) piled up 73 yards on just four carries before going out with an injury while Tim Lawrence (junior) gained over 50 yards and Jo Jo McCloud (sophomore) gained more than 60.

At Oviedo, the Lions defense is the county's best but has received little help from the offense. Tom Johnson, David Butterfield, David Wilson, Eric Putnam and Kevin Yents all played outstandingly defensively in the Lions' 15-7 loss to Rockledge Friday night. Offensively, Oviedo gained more than 200 yards but five turnovers turned big drives into big fumbles. If Oviedo can avoid turnovers they have a good chance of winning most of its remaining games.

For the second time in three weeks, all Seminole County teams have lost to foes outside of the county, (Seminole to Apopka, Lyman to Colonial and Oviedo to Rockledge). Outside of the county, the six Seminole County teams have not fared very well with an overall record of a dreary 5-16.

Lake Howell, Lake Mary and Lake Brantley all had open dates Friday but there were probably some disappointed coaches and players from those three squads. On the one Friday they had a chance to catch the baseball playoffs, the Atlanta Braves and St. Louis Cardinals got rained out.

This week's action once again pits Seminole County teams against outside opponents. Seminole hosts the DeLand Bulldogs looking for win number one while the Lake Mary Rams will travel to Melbourne in search of its second straight victory. Lake Howell will be at Mainland on Thursday night with the winless (scoreless) Lake Brantley Patriots at Spruce Creek Friday night. Oviedo will be at Leesburg.

It's good to see Army recruiter Jim McKay back on his feet again. McKay took a tumble down the stairs last week and was sidelined for six days. He is the public address voice for all Seminole High home football games. (The Monday Afternoon Quarterback was on vacation last week.)

—CHRIS FISTER

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers, tapping the comeback tradition of their Beer Town predecessors 25 years ago, are headed for the World Series for the first time ever.

The Brewers capped an unprecedented comeback by defeating California 4-3 Sunday to win the American League playoffs, three games to two. The Angels won the first two games.

It was the first time since the league began the best-of-five series a team won the championship after an 0-2 deficit.

Twenty-five years ago to the day, the Milwaukee Braves beat the New York Yankees to become the first team to win a World Series after trailing three games to one.

The Brewers open World Series play Tuesday night against St. Louis. The Cardinals beat the transplanted Atlanta Braves in a three-game sweep of the National League playoffs.

Milwaukee's vaunted offensive punch may have been lacking in the playoffs but it was a clutch hit by Cecil Cooper that helped the Brewers win their first

American League

American League pennant in their 13-year history. Cooper ended a 2-for-19 slump by lining an opposite-field, two-out single to drive in Charlie Moore and Jim Gantner in the seventh inning. The hit put the Brewers ahead to stay.

"You know, the middle of our line-up hasn't been hitting at all, not just in this series but the last two or three weeks of the season we've been struggling," Cooper said.

"Hopefully, now we can relax a little and have some fun in the World Series." Cooper's hit came off loser Luis Sanchez, who relieved starter Bruce Kison in the sixth inning.

After the Brewers took the lead, they relied on some weapons that had not received much attention during their AL East Division march.

Center fielder Marshall Edwards, replacing Gorman Thomas for defensive reasons in the top of the eighth, made a leaping stab of Don Baylor's deep drive to left-center field with one out.

"I guess I was just lucky in putting him in at the right time but it was a big, big play," said Brewers Manager Harvey Kuenn, who replaced Buck Rodgers in June.

Edwards said he was concerned a fan might interfere as one did in Friday's game when the Angels' Bob Boone homered in the late innings.

"I just wanted to get to it and I'm glad I did," Edwards said.

Brewer relief pitching was a one-man affair most of the season — Cy Young Award winner Rollie Fingers. He is nursing an arm injury so Kuenn went to Bob McClure and Pete Ladd.

McClure got slugger Reggie Jackson to bounce into an inning-ending double play in the seventh. When pinch hitter Ron Jackson led off the ninth with a single, Ladd was summoned. The burly right-hander retired the next three batters, including former AL batting champion Rod Carew, to end the game — and the season for the Angels.

"I was just praying to make the playoff roster and then when I was on the roster, I was hoping I'd get a chance to pitch," Ladd said. "I never anticipated doing as well as I have. Others have helped too and I was just glad to be given the opportunity." The Angels could not take advantage of four early-inning errors to build a bigger lead.

Each team used a double and an error to score a run in the first inning. Fred Lynn's RBI single gave California a 2-1 lead in the third. Bob Boone's squeeze bunt single drove in California's last run in the fourth.

Brewer Ben Oglivie countered with a solo homer in the fourth to cut the score to 2-2. In the fifth, right fielder Charlie Moore snuffed a California rally, gunning down Reggie Jackson trying to go to third on a Lynn single.

Defeat was bitter for the Angels and particularly for Gene Mauch, who lacks a pennant in 23 seasons as a manager.

Mauch has carried the memory of his Philadelphia team collapsing in the final 10 games of the 1964 season. St. Louis took the pennant.

"This is the most disappointed I've been in my life," Mauch said. "It was never in my mind that they'd come back, I thought we'd win it in three."

Cardinals Puncture Dream Of America's Team

ATLANTA (UPI) — St. Louis's fleet centerfielder Willie McGee learned there is always another day in baseball and the rookie made the most of it in slugging the Cardinals into the World Series.

McGee had a homer and triple and drove in three runs to lead the Cards to a 6-2 win Sunday night over Atlanta and a three-game sweep of the National League playoffs. Game 3 was a complete turnaround for McGee from Game 2.

Saturday night, McGee overran a single that allowed Bruce Benedict to circle the bases for a 2-1 Atlanta lead. He also couldn't hit Phil Niekro's knuckleball and ended the night zero for four.

"It hurt because I've got pride," said the smiling McGee amid the celebration in the Cards' dressing room. "But I learned that in baseball there is always tomorrow — another day. Now I will know how to handle it when I do not play well."

National League

McGee drove in two runs with a triple during a four-run St. Louis second inning, then hit a solo homer in the ninth to pad the Cards' lead. In the three-game series, he finished with four hits — two triples, a homer and a single, and five runs batted in.

The 24-year-old rookie was called up from the Cards' Louisville minor league team early in the season and had not been expected to break into the lineup.

"I really didn't expect to be here — so this is just great. It will all sink in to me tomorrow," he said. "A World Series is what you dream of."

Sparked by the combined six-hit pitching of Joaquin Andujar and Bruce Sutter, the Cardinals punctured the dream of "America's Team" Sunday night and defeated the Braves 6-2 to win the National League pennant for the first time since 1968 — the year before the major leagues went to two-division play.

"We are going to play like we always do. We know they have a big hitting club," Herzog said. "We have just got to pitch to keep the ball in the ballpark and hope our defense will catch them. We are just going to go after them."

Joaquin Andujar was almost untouchable until Atlanta scored two runs in the seventh and Herzog again called on Sutter, who picked up the win Saturday night in relief. Sutter slammed the door on the Braves for the final innings to preserve the victory.

Sutter said he relied almost entirely on his split finger fastball both nights.

"I show people how I throw it — but I sometimes don't know myself how I do it," said the bearded Sutter. "I pitch it almost every time — I don't have anything else."

"The big difference was Sutter," said Herzog, who as manager of Kansas City made it to the playoffs, but not to a World Series.

"Teams who make it to a Series have a great relief pitcher — that is what Sutter is."

Catcher Darrell Porter, who was five-for-nine in the series, including three doubles, was named the Most Valuable Player. Porter, a reformed alcoholic, hit only .231 for the season and was booed by some St. Louis fans.

"I was booed early in the season — but I had not been swinging the bat," said Porter. "You tend to hear the boos, rather than the cheers. This is real sweet."

Porter, who also walked five times, said he changed his style in the Cards' September pennant drive.

"I just began to relax more in September. I just said to myself 'go up there and get a good pitch.' If you notice when I am hitting well, I'll also get a lot of walks and that's what happened in the playoffs. I do have a good eye and I just have to learn to be patient at the plate."

Herzog said he didn't mind the short rest before the Series begins Tuesday night in St. Louis.

"Milwaukee played this afternoon and I'm sure they are all drunk tonight," he quipped. "A World Series or a playoff is like opening day."

Season-Ending Setback Leaves Niekro In Tears

ATLANTA (UPI) — The season that began with a record-breaking winning streak ended with four straight losses that left 43-year-old Phil Niekro watery-eyed and wondering if he would ever play in a World Series.

"You wonder sometimes how long it is going to take," said the Atlanta knuckleballer Sunday night after watching the Braves bow 6-2 to St. Louis, enabling the Cards to complete a sweep of the National League playoff series.

"I've had two chances and never got there," said Niekro. "Maybe it will come next year. Maybe it will be four years. But I am going to go for it as long as I can."

"The only reason I keep on going is to get where we were today and hope for a week more. It was just cut short this year."

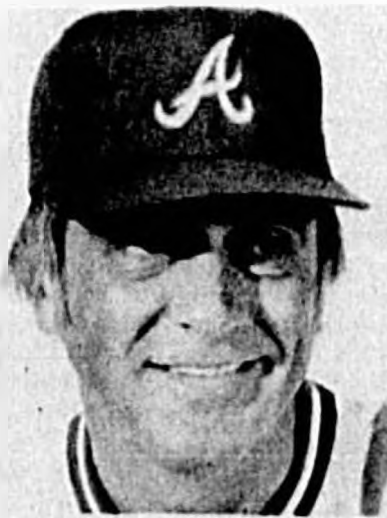

Niekro, who pitched two-hit and three-hit shutouts in the final week of the season to get the Braves in the playoffs, was Atlanta's most effective pitcher against the Cards. But the series turned out just like 1969 when Atlanta made its only other playoff appearance and bowed in three straight to the New York Mets.

"I thought we would win it," said Niekro. "We thought we were a better ballclub but the Cardinals just outplayed us."

Niekro had a 1-0 lead in the fifth inning when the first game was washed out by rain in St. Louis. He came back on two days rest and had the Braves on top 3-2 when he was lifted for a pinchhitter in the second game Saturday night, which Atlanta eventually lost 4-3.

"The Braves had a great year this season," he insisted. "I don't care what Tom Lasorda or Howard Cosell says, we had the best team in the Western Division. But we just came out a little short this series. I don't think it constitutes a bad season to have a bad three games."

PHIL NIEKRO ... watery-eyed

Manager Joe Torre said the Cardinals' three double plays in the final game were the key, especially one in the seventh inning when the Braves put together four of their six hits and got both of their runs.

"Looking back, we played real well this season," said Torre. "We really played our hearts out. With the kind of pitching we started the year with and the patchwork job that we had to do all year, we did a helluva job."

Brewers Keen On Pal Kuenn

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Go look through the record books sometime and see how many players you find with a lifetime average of better than .300. Not too many. Especially if they put in as many years in the big leagues as Harvey Kuenn.

For the 15 years he played with the Tigers, Indians, Giants, Cubs and Phillies before retiring after 1966 he was like one of those metronomes. That's how consistent a hitter he was. He wound up at .303 lifetime and during all the years he played, no one ever saw him choke up.

He did Sunday, though. Not because the Milwaukee Brewers won their first American League pennant by beating the California Angels 4-3, completing a three-game playoff sweep after losing the first two under Kuenn's handling, but because of something one of his players said about him.

Ted Simmons, who caught all five games against the Angels, was the player who said it in response to a question about Kuenn, who was named the Brewers' interim manager June 2, taking over for Buck Rodgers with the team in fifth place, seven games out. "Could you guys have won it without Harvey?" a TV interviewer wanted to know from Simmons.

The Brewers' catcher was slouching tiredly on a chair in front of his locker. He looked up at the man who had asked him the question with those big, sad-looking St. Bernard eyes of his.

"I wouldn't have wanted to," Simmons said.

When someone told the Brewers' manager what Simmons had to say about him and asked him for his reaction, he couldn't provide it immediately. Each time he started to say something, he stopped.

"It chokes me up," he said finally, and it was difficult to tell whether the moisture on his cheeks came from his eyes or from the champagne most of the players were spraying on each other in the clubhouse.

Some of that champagne was left over from last year when the Brewers made the miniplayoffs but lost the division title to the Yankees. This is the farthest the Brewers have come and Sunday's uphill victory over the Angels was achieved 25 years to the day Milwaukee won its only championship. The team was known as the Braves then and was in the National League. Milwaukee beat the Yankees in the 1967 World Series after being down 3-1.

Despite the Brewers' triumph over the Angels, whom they beat in the final showdown contest of the playoffs the same way they did the Baltimore Orioles for the division title on the last day of the season after losing three in a row to them, Kuenn remains an "interim manager."

"It doesn't bother me," he says. "Everybody's really an interim manager."

Hawk's Air Show Hacks Up Knights

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

With Bethune-Cookman College holding a slim 25-21 lead and just 15 minutes to play, more than one Central Florida football player looked at scoreboard and wondered "maybe we can beat these guys."

The wonderment stage, however, is as far as the thought reached in this second "Mid-Florida Classic" before 9,127 fans. Brilliant freshman quarterback Bernard Hawk capped a five-touchdown performance by tossing for two more scores in the final eight minutes as the Wildcats blitzed UCF, 40-21, Saturday night at the Tangarine Bowl.

"Hawk was great," conceded UCF coach Sam Weir who watched his team fall to 0-5 on the year. "They (Bethune) just has too much talent and are too balanced for us."

The balance showed early and late. Hawk, who for some reason is alternated with either David Jones or C.B. Collins, marched Bethune to a field goal to snap a first-period deadlock three minutes into the second quarter.

The big play on the drive was a 32-yard aerial on which Knight defender Bruce Gordon overran a possible interception. Crane hauled in the pass and motored to the UCF 30. Four plays later, Dennis Daniels kicked a 40-yard field goal for a 3-0 lead.

UCF struck back four and one-half minutes later when Charles Lincoln recovered a fumbled punt by Brian Blivins at the B-CC 21. Halfback Johnny Williams ran the ball to the 16 after an offsides penalty, but four plays later another interception — clipping — shoved it back to the 24.

Quarterback Dana Thyshen then tossed a swing pass into the right flat to fullback Carl Carlson and the former Lake Howell standout rumbled to the two-yard line.

Thyshen followed up with the same pattern on the next play and found Carlson all alone in the right corner for the TD. Scott Ryerson's extra point kick gave UCF a 7-3 lead.

College Football

"Carl should be familiar with that play," said Weir who coached Carlson as a prep. "It's the same one we ran at Lake Howell."

Insulted by finding themselves on the short end, the Wildcats retaliated quickly. Hawk took just 27 seconds to march Bethune to the go-ahead score. Once again, he victimized Gordon. This time for an 18-yard touchdown toss to Crane who Gordon had allowed to get behind him in the end zone. Daniels kick put the 'Cats up, 10-7, with 8:10 to play in the half.

The Wildcats made it, 18-7, six minutes later when Hawk feathered a screen pass to halfback Mike Revell who broke two tackles en route to a 31-yard TD. Crane tossed a pass to Wilford Morgan for the two points.

The Knights looked as if they might go into the half just 11 points down until Thyshen threw another one of his record six interceptions with 1:27 to play.

This explosion went 77 yards from Hawk to Leon Gonzales. Carlos Ardivin fell down trying to defend and Daniels once again added the PAT for a 25-7 half time lead.

Explosive is a mild adjective for the 4-1 Wildcats. The last three scoring drives took a total of 50 seconds. Hawk hit 5 of 8 passes for 139 yards and more importantly three touchdowns.

Although Thyshen was filling the air with footballs throughout the night, it was his running which pulled the Knights back into the game in the third quarter. After tackle Darrell Rudd recovered the second of three fumbles for the night, Thyshen marched UCF to the B-CC 46 before throwing his fifth interception.

Three plays later, though, Victor Hawkins reclaimed another Wildcat bobble on the Bethune 29. After Greg Richards bolted for five, Thyshen faked into the middle and rolled left for 24 yards and a touchdown. Ryerson's boot pulled the Knights to within, 25-14.

Rudd pounced on his third fumble 42 seconds later and Thyshen wasted no time putting UCF in the end zone. An 18-yard pitch to Vincent Lewis moved the ball to the 11. Thyshen then rolled right looking for a receiver, but instead skirted the end for an 11-yard TD romp. Ryerson's kick made it, B-CC 25, UCF 21.

The Knights were on the march again when interception number six signaled the end. Ironically, Doug McDaniel, an ex-teammate of Thyshen's at DeLand High, was the culprit, snatching the ball at the Bethune 28 with 12:19 left to play.

Four minutes later, Hawk tossed 10 yards to James Graham for the score. Daniels kick put the game out of reach, 32-21.

Hawk added a score for the pollsters with 40 seconds left when he hit Crane for an 11-yard touchdown. Calvin Smith ran in the two points for the final 40-21 count.

Although the difference was 19 points, most of the Knights thought it was a closer game. "I thought we were going to get them when we got within four," said linebacker Billy Giovanetti who led the Knights with 14 tackles and two broken up passes.

In addition to this record for six interceptions, Thyshen attempted 40 passes for a record and completed 18 for 219 yards on one TD.

Episcopal Manhandles Trinity Prep

By GEOFFREY GIORDANO
Herald Sports Writer

Trinity Prep football coach Ron Vierling was extremely disappointed with his Saints showing against Jacksonville Episcopal Saturday. They were manhandled 26-0 in front of the home town crowd.

The Saints, now 2-3, will have to play Lake Highland Prep Saturday in Orlando. And Vierling is ready for them.

"We're gonna take it out on them (Lake Highland) next week. I like their head coach, but after something like this, we've got to take it out on somebody, and they are our next opponents," said Vierling.

Jacksonville scored a touchdown in the first quarter, a two-yard plunge up the middle, and followed that up in the second with a fumble recovery in Trinity's end zone for another TD. Episcopal ended up with a 13-0 halftime lead.

"Our man was hit, the ball popped right up in the air, and they recovered it for a touchdown. Plays like that don't help us. And their second touchdown in the third quarter was the direct result of a fumble deep in our territory," Vierling explained.

Jacksonville doubled its score in the second half, with touchdowns on runs of ten and seven yards. They ended up with 186 yards on the ground in 49 carries, while Trinity managed only 92 yards on 32 tries.

Brian Butler, the Saints' star runner, was held to a paltry 16 yards in seven carries. "He had the worst day of his life," said Vierling. "Those aren't Brian Butler numbers. It was just a case of what we needed to do, and we just couldn't do it."

Lady Raiders Split 4;

Host Polk Tonight At 6

The Seminole Community College volleyball team won two and lost two matches in the Valencia Invitational at Valencia Community College.

The Lady Raiders' record now stands at 10-5 with a match against Polk Community College at SCC at 6 tonight.

In the Valencia tourney, SCC knocked off Miami Dade North, 16-4, 15-9, and Brevard, 15-9, 15-12. The Raiders dropped matches to Indian River Community College 13-15, 14-16 and Manatee 15-9, 14-16 and 13-15.

"Our serving was bad," SCC coach Ileana Gallagher said. "We were choking on our serves and lost too many games in a row."

Gallagher pointed out that Johnnie Bennet had an exceptional tourney on defense.

F.C. United Wins 10 Of 15

Bobby Jenkins headed in F.C. United's 560 (under 15 team) only goal and goalie Todd Melsel did not allow anything past him as F.C. United squeezed out a 1-0 victory over Winter Park 681.

Jenkins' goal was set up on a perfect pass from Kenny Higgins. Other impressive performances came from Pat Howard, David Bird, John Lucente, Mike Chester and Brian Cooley.

In other action, Brian Skoog intercepted a throw-in and broke away for a goal to lead F.C. United 2-0 (under 12 age division) to a 4-1 victory over E.O.S. Skoog wound up scoring three of F.C. United's four goals.

Evert Easily Trips Jaeger

DEERFIELD BEACH, (UPI) — For the third year in a row, Chris Evert Lloyd won the $125,000 Linda Carter Women's Tennis Classic Sunday by defeating Andrea Jaeger.

Playing what she called patient tennis, Lloyd easily downed the 17-year-old Jaeger, 6-1, 6-1, to collect the $22,000 first prize. Jaeger received $11,000.

Lloyd took charge of the match from the beginning. The tourney was her first since she won the U.S. Open championship for the sixth time last month.

Seminoles Move To Top As Gators, Miami Fall

United Press International

Suddenly, the premier college football team in Florida is Florida State.

The Seminoles improved their record to 4-1 Saturday by turning their game with out-gunned Southern Illinois into a 59-4 track meet. Meanwhile, both the Florida Gators and Miami dropped to 3-2 with bitter losses on the road.

The Gators lost a 31-29 decision at Vanderbilt and Mike Johnston kicked a 32-yard field goal with 11 seconds to go, giving Notre Dame a 16-14 victory over the Hurricanes.

Despite the lop-sided score, Florida State coach Bobby Bowden was making no excuses about scheduling the Salukis.

"We'll learn something from it," Bowden said. "Not as much as we would against about Miami. But we'll learn something. You've got to play some people you can beat. You can't play the big ones every week."

The game was obviously an offensive masterpiece for the Seminoles, but Bowden had most of his kind words for his defenders. "We played well defensively. We played a lot of people, but while the first team was in there, we shut them out," Bowden said.

The loss at Vanderbilt ended all realistic hopes for the Gators' first Southeastern Conference championship.

"I guess our chance to win the SEC are just about over, but we are going to spoil things for some other people," said fullback James Jones.

It was the second straight loss for Florida, and coach Charley Pell said, "I was disappointed in not being able to bounce back as we had hoped we would. But credit Vanderbilt for that," Pell said. "Our inability to stop them was the key," he said. "They did a very good job attacking us and they neutralized (defensive end) Wilber Marshall."

Miami coach Howard Schnellenberger was asked if the defeat at Notre Dame was the most disappointing loss since he came to Miami in 1979.

"I don't weigh them, but this certainly is bitter," he said. "We weren't equal to the task of beating Notre Dame. The offense wasn't able to move the ball when we needed a first down. And their defense was more physical when we needed to beat them."

In other games Saturday, Florida A&M (3-2) lost at Jackson State, 15-14, and Central Florida lost its fifth in five starts, 40-21, to Bethune-Cookman (4-1).

Next week, Florida State is home to East Carolina, Florida plays West Texas State at home, Miami meets Mississippi State in the Orange Bowl, FAMU plays Albany State, Bethune-Cookman hosts Morris Brown and Central Florida takes on Alabama A&M in a home game.

Notre Dame 16, Miami 14

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Until this year, Mike Johnston considered himself lucky just to have a locker at Notre Dame Stadium.

Lately, though, he's been spending his Saturdays outscoring the rest of the Irish offense and making Coach Gerry Faust awfully glad he hung around — even if he didn't get a scholarship until his senior year.

Johnston, who didn't get a chance at a field goal his first three years, has yet to miss in nine attempts this season, six in the last two games. His three field goals in Saturday's last-minute 16-14 win over 16th ranked Miami of Florida included a 32-yard boot with 11 seconds left.

With the single point-after kick he's had a shot at during Notre Dame's two-week touchdown drought, he's outscored the rest of the offense 19-6 in October and almost single-handedly kept the 11th-ranked Irish unbeaten at 4-0.

"I told him in the locker room, 'I'm glad I gave you that scholarship this year. You've earned every penny of it,'" Faust said of the Rochester, N.Y., walk-on who paid his own freight at Notre Dame for three years.

Johnston was a high school linebacker who never did much kicking there either. He heard from football coaches at other colleges, but never thought of any school but Notre Dame.

"I got a few letters, but I never answered them," he said. "I always wanted to go to Notre Dame. My father was a '58 grad. I was coming here as soon as I was born."

Well, predestination is more of a Calvinist doctrine than Catholic, but in Johnston's case, the folks in South Bend will make an exception.

But late in the game, it looked like even Johnston's faultless foot wouldn't be enough for the Irish.

Miami's Mark Richt threw two-second half touchdown strikes and Rod Bellingier intercepted a Blair Kiel pass in the end zone, with 2:58 left to play and the Hurricanes, who never have won in Notre Dame Stadium, winning 14-13.

That's when Miami noseguard Tony Fitzpatrick, whom Faust calls one of the best in the game, approached Notre Dame's Tom Thayer, switched from guard to center Saturday to sub for an injured starter.

"It's over," Fitzpatrick gloated. "Excuse me?" Thayer said.

"It's over."

"I looked at him and I said, 'This is Notre Dame,'" Thayer remembered afterward. Predestination again.

The Hurricanes were forced to punt and, starting from their own 30, the Irish turned to running back Phil Carter, who was held to just 17 yards in the first half.

Carter took a 25-yard pass from Kiel, who finished 21 for 33 for 167 yards, and then added runs of 10 and 11 yards, to set up Johnston's last-minute heroics.

"As hot as Mike's been, we knew he could kick it from 50 yards," Thayer said.

Johnston confessed he wasn't quite so sure. "I just kept looking at the tee," he said. "I just wanted to get a good kick."

Richt passed for 151 yards, including a 1-yard touchdown to Glenn Dennison and a 79-yard strike to Rocky Belk.

"We were running on first down and it became predictable," Richt said of the latter loss. "We decided on a playaction fake."

"The long, long pass ... was a well-executed play and those things can happen," Faust said. "The pass was well-covered and well-thrown." But Richt, in his third start since replacing injured quarterback John Kelly, had an error-plagued first half, consistently overthrowing receivers and misplaying snaps from center.

Players Back Off, Mediator Joins Talks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Federal mediator Kay McMurray was informed Sunday of a decision he had been expecting.

McMurray, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliatory Service, will play a part in trying to settle the 21-day-old NFL strike. Dropping its strong opposition to federal mediation, the Players Association Sunday agreed to enlist McMurray's help in ending the impasse with the Management Council.

The decision was made during a hastily called meeting between union head Ed Garvey and the owner's chief negotiator Jack Donlan in Rye, N.Y. The 3½ hour session was the first face-to-face meeting between the two in eight days.

Reached at his Washington home Sunday night, McMurray said neither side in the NFL dispute had contacted him, but he was expected to be called today to initiate collective bargaining.

"At some point in time they had to make this step," said McMurray. "It sure looks like they're going to need a little help. I would say it's a step in the right direction."

Sunday's meeting, which also included NFLPA president Gene Upshaw, ended with Donlan, Miller and Upshaw greeting the press together smiling.

"We have reached agreement to contact federal mediator McMurray and set in motion collective bargaining," announced Donlan, who has called for a federal mediator since the first regular season strike in NFL history began Sept. 21.

Garvey emphasized that while

McMurray, would draw from the federal mediation pool, the mediator agreed upon did not necessarily have to be part of the FMCS.

"This was a productive, constructive session, but we didn't attempt to resolve the issues which have kept us apart," said Garvey, who was rebuffed Thursday when he submitted a list of nine potential private mediators to the Management Council. Donlan rejected the offer just hours later, emphasizing NFL owners would agree only to a federal mediator.

"We will contact Kay McMurray tonight or tomorrow," said Garvey. "It is not for certain that the mediator selected will be a federal mediator, but Mr. McMurray will select a mediator and get us back to the bargaining table."

When you hear the words "iron men" you're probably getting a mental picture of men bending iron, or maybe Sir Lancelot all dressed up in his shining armor.

Not so with these fellows. They are into physical fitness.

Four area ironmen are: 43-year-old Gerry Gergley and 59-year-old Dr. Frank Rohter, both physical education instructors at UCF; 23-year-old Tim Hancock, a former UCF student who now works for Orange-Seminole School Supplies; and 44-year-old Boyd Johnson, a professor at Valencia Community College.

These men were among those from the area flying to Hawaii to compete in the Ironman Triathlon World Championship which took place Saturday.

In the Triathlon each man must swim 2.4 miles in the ocean, ride a bike 112 miles, and run a 26.2 mile marathon. ABC Wide World of Sports will be televising this event.

Gergley and Rohter both competed in the event last February in Hawaii.

Why would anyone want to enter into such a strenuous activity?

"I think I speak for Dr. Rohter, as well as myself, when I say we were looking for challenges to further our physical fitness. I asked Dr. Rohter what we could do next year," says Gergley.

About this time they read an article about the Ironman Triathlon and they began to train for it. Six months later they participated in the Triathlon. They began training for the event by entering such things as the Tangerine Bowl and the Boston Marathon.

Hancock played soccer at UCF before graduating last December. Gergley was one of Hancock's professors and learned about his involvement with the Triathlon.

"I wanted something to give me the biggest challenge for endurance I could possibly find," says Hancock.

He says he puts in as much time training as he does working. This is his first year to participate in the Triathlon.

Johnson says they all went to an area attraction, Wet 'n Wild, to swim in the waves there. "The waves won't be as large in Hawaii as at Wet 'n Wild," explains Johnson, as they will swim out in the ocean where the waves aren't as high as they are at the shore line.

Johnson explains how he was just "sitting around the swimming pool at UCF one day and just happened to see Frank there." They started talking about physical fitness and running and "so forth" when Frank told him about the Triathlon that is held at UCF each November.

"After entering that, I decided that Jan. 1 was going to be my official training date for the Triathlon," says Johnson.

He then got his application and entered the Ironman Triathlon. He says he isn't in it to win, he just "wants to complete the marathon to see how well I can do."

Dr. Rohter has a Ph.D. in Exercise Physiology. The reason he does this is because it gives credibility to his lecture series in obesity, coronary heart disease, nutrition and exercise intervention. Besides teaching these courses at UCF, Dr. Rohter takes individual clients for consulting in these subjects.

Dr. Rohter says there is a popular movement on to be able to do self competitive activities such as running, walking, swimming and cycling. These are the same things as the Triathlon offers.

"Now you can see why I do this. This is a goal for me, and it encourages me when I participate. But the real value of the thing is what I'm doing all year round," says Dr. Rohter.

He says this is a challenge for him to keep him healthy and fit and to be able to enjoy a long happy life. Dr. Rohter commits 25 hours a week to his personal exercise program.

Dr. Rohter says the average person gets bored dieting and goes off it. But, he says everyone can take a 45-minute walk at least three times a week and establish that as a permanent part of their life. He says instead of playing cards or watching TV with your friends, invite them to take a walk with you.

"I guess as a result of two old men being able to complete the Ironman it has inspired the student," says Gergley.

He says as a result of all the exercises they do, they are in fantastic condition for their ages. "I'm the healthiest I've ever been in my life," he says. "I feel the best ever in my life."

The men spend many hours training each week. They swim two and a half miles twice a week in a local lake, usually at six a.m. Three times a week they ride anywhere from 75 to 110 miles on their bikes. Lately they have had a take off point of Granny's store in Chuluota and continue to ride all over Seminole and Orange counties. They take one long run of 20 miles or better on weekends and take two shorter runs of half the distance twice a week.

Although they enjoy doing what they are doing immensely, they say there are two reasons why a person couldn't enter the Ironman Triathlon for the rest of their lives. One is because he might wear his body out, and the other is he might wear his pocketbook out as a result of it being very expensive.

Some people in the Triathlon have sponsors however the participants from UCF don't.

They all say they have the support of friends and families and feel it is "a much better way of life than the normal American way."

"I think it's the ultimate challenge in fitness," says Gergley.

In And Around Geneva

Tallahassee Trip The Beginning

Efforts were rewarded Wednesday in Tallahassee for the citizens of Geneva who wanted the Florida Power & Light 500 KV tower moved away from their homes, churches and school.

Ninety-four residents of Geneva and nearby communities boarded chartered buses at 6:30 a.m. headed for the governor's cabinet meeting where they were joined by another 50 of their neighbors and friends who traveled to the meeting by automobile or plane.

After approximately five hours of testimony, one hour of which was dedicated to public input, Gov. Graham and the Cabinet set the first Cabinet meeting in January as the date for the final disposition for the corridor certification.

The victory is only a partial one for our community. Geneva resident Sidney Kraftsof the main spokesperson for the People Against Power Intrusion, made three requests at the Tallahassee meeting. One was granted. The transmission corridor was certified to just north of Osteen and Geneva was given the opportunity to seek an alternate route west of the proposed Florida Power & Light corridor. If no certifiable alternate is found, the proposed FP&L corridor will be accepted.

Gov. Graham invited 11 elementary and middle school students from Geneva into his second floor office at the Capitol after the cabinet meeting adjourned telling them he "had a special gift for each one of them".

The governor then summoned his photographer and was photographed with the children, promising to mail each one an autographed copy. The governor spent about 15 minutes talking to the students about their concerns for Geneva.

The four official Geneva Elementary School representatives from Mrs. Charmaine Brooks' fifth grade class, Antonio Jackson, Jerry Coakley, Daniel Vass, and Monica Stokes, participated in the one hour public testimony time.

Members of People Against Power Intrusion know that Wednesday's trip was not the end of a fight, but the beginning of much work as they continue to seek a more desirable route for the 10-story high towers.

Lee Voorhees of Lake Harney Road, an outspoken supporter who worked hard in organizing the trip to Tallahassee, said Thursday that he hopes "all the people who cared enough to go to Tallahassee" will be available for work sessions and future county commission meetings.

More Geneva citizens meetings are planned on this issue in the near future. Watch this column for times and dates.

If your organization or civic group has meetings and social events that would benefit or be of interest to others in Geneva, please call me at 349-5790 or 327-3130 to get them in "In and Around Geneva". Also, other events of a social nature such as bridal and baby showers, birthdays, anniversaries, interesting vacations and so forth will make "our spot" in the Herald more interesting. So, please call.

Women Dress To Entice Interests

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Grandma," suggesting that women who are raped "asked for it" by wearing provocative clothing, prompts this letter. Your answer (rape is a crime of violence, designed to humiliate and dominate) was right on, but you must admit that women (and some men, too!) do dress provocatively in an effort to entice certain relationships — but only on their own terms, with the consenting partner of their choice.

If a merchant were to display goods attractively, hoping to entice interest in his merchandise, no one would say "he asked for it" if a burglar broke in and seized the goods without complying with the contractual terms of sale.

DOUGLAS D. IN SHERMAN OAKS, CALIF.

DEAR DOUGLAS: How does one define "provocative"? It could mean something different to each man. There are "leg" men, "breast" men, "fanny" men, and men who are turned on by a pouty mouth, blond hair, or you name it. Perhaps we should emulate Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini, and insist that our women be covered from head to toe in black wool, with only holes for the eyes. Then they would be rape-proof — unless, of course, one runs into an "eye" man.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I don't know who wrote this, but it could offer a chuckle to some of your readers.
S.R. IN BELAIR

DEAR S.R.: You could be right; it's worth a run: HOW TO TELL WHEN YOU'RE OVER THE HILL. Everything hurts, and what doesn't hurt doesn't work.

You need glasses to find your glasses. Your back goes out more than you do. Your little black book contains only names that end in "M.D."

You have too much room in the house and not enough in your medicine cabinet. Your children begin to look middle-aged. The policemen look too young to be policemen. The little gray-haired woman you help across the street is your wife.

You can't take yes for an answer.

If there is an Overeaters Anonymous group in your area, go! Weight Watchers also does an excellent job. TOPS, too!

Columbus Proved World Is Flat?

LANCASTER, Calif. (UPI) — Charles Johnson insists he's on the level; the world is "flat as a penny."

The 58-year-old president of the 2,000-member Flat Earth Society, whose membership boasts several "enlightened" airline pilots, spends each day of the year trying to prove the world is not round.

And Columbus Day gives him an opportunity to point out the absurdity behind the popular notion of round-earthers. In fact, Christopher Columbus, whose day it is on the calendar today, is one of Johnson's super-heroes.

"Contrary to the history books," Johnson said Sunday from his five-acre Mojave Desert ranch, "we claim Columbus proved the world flat. It's a simple matter of logic."

"At the time Columbus made his voyage everyone believed the world was a ball, except for Columbus. They were afraid they would fall off the edge of the earth because it was round, not flat."

"Columbus is one of our heroes because he didn't fall off — gravity wasn't invented yet. There was no gravity in Columbus' day."

"Every public school in America says Columbus proved the world was a ball. But that notion comes from American writer Washington Irving, who actually originated the claim that Columbus proved the world is a ball."

And Irving's claim shook up the scholarly world so badly, says Johnson, that Isaac Newton was forced to invent gravity to explain it.

When pressed to explain just what, exactly, Columbus proved with his historic voyage, Johnson states: "He demonstrated simply that the seas are level. After all, we've always used the term sea level, right?"

Do Cyphers Hide An 1817 Treasure?

MONTVALE, Va. (NEA) — Somebody broke a fence, uprooted a tree and scattered garbage around a local farm the other week, and there seems to be little question who did it. The residents say it must have been fortune hunters: "They come here all year long, but it usually gets worse in the summer."

Fortune hunters? In Montvale, Va.?

Indeed, the tiny Appalachian community may be near one of the richest and best documented buried treasures in the nation. Then again, it may not be. That's the way it sometimes is with buried treasures. In any event, fortune hunters have been looking for it here since early in the last century.

The treasure was supposed to have been buried in 1817, precisely. And the instigator is said to have been Thomas Jefferson Beale. He was a member of a wealthy Virginia family, and apparently something of an adventurer. He traveled widely, for example, and explored much of the post-colonial America.

One of his trips is reported to have been to Santa Fe, then a village in Mexico. There he is supposed to have stumbled on great veins of gold and silver in the desert mountains. The story is that he shipped the find back to Virginia, where, for unknown reasons, he stashed it in the earth near Montvale.

Then Beale may have gone West again, to dig more metal. But before he left he supposedly composed three papers to be opened in the event of his death. One paper told of the buried treasure, another contained directions to it, and the third was a listing of the people he wanted to share in the wealth.

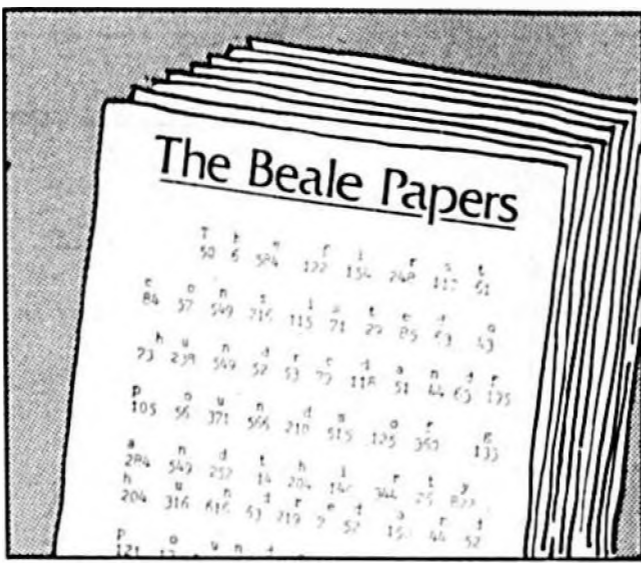

Beale sealed the papers in an iron box, and entrusted it to a friend who ran a boarding house. Then he disappeared. There was no word from him again. The boarding house operator waited 24 years for his return; finally, in 1845, he broke into the strongbox and Beale's letters were made public.

Beale wrote that he had deposited his treasure "in the county of Bedford," near the Blue Ridge Mountains, "in an excavation or vault, six feet below the surface of the ground." He said there were two deposits containing a total of 3,821 pounds of gold, 5,100 pounds of silver, and $13,000 worth of jewels.

Beale went on to write that the cache was "securely packed in iron pots with iron covers. The vault is roughly lined with stone and the vessels rest on solid stone." Then he said that "Paper No. 1 describes the exact location of the vault, so that no difficulty will be had in finding it."

Yet there has been difficulty finding the treasure. And one of the reasons is that Thomas Beale's description of the location is written cryptically. In fact, all three of his papers are in code. They contain numbers rather than words — one to four digits each, and all arranged in rows.

Some of the writing has been deciphered, as evidenced by the specifics as to the placing of the treasure, and its weight, but no one in more than a century has yet figured out the directions. Historians have tried, mathematicians have tried, even computers have been used, all for nothing.

The code has proven to be so baffling, actually, that an entire group of people have formed an association to break it. The members of "The Beale Cypher Association," range from housewives to professional cryptanalysts, and they have agreed to share and share alike if one of them finds the fortune.

They have also agreed to disagree during the hunt. And this could be another reason the Beale treasure hasn't been found. Some Cypher members are passionately devoted to what they believe to be the historic truth of the story; others join just to argue about the contradictions of the entire affair.

The latter fear the buried treasure is a hoax. Or, worse, a joke. They say Beale may have invented the dramatics in a state of playful inebriation. They claim he was more of a ne'er-do-well than an adventurer, and they insist that if he had found gold and silver he would have simply spent it.

Not that the critics think he found anything. They say he may not even have traveled west as he said. Carl Nelson, a long time Cypher Association member, says he has checked travel records as far away as Seville, Spain, but he has never found any evidence that Beale crossed the Ohio River.

It may be in fact that Beale traveled east. There are tax documents in Montross, Va., 150 miles toward the Atlantic Ocean, which suggest that in 1851 a man named Thomas Beal paid a 10 cent tax on his only possession, a horse. He died later in the year, unemployed, homeless — and totally broke.

Broke? The tax document sends shudders through the thoughts of fortune hunters, but giggles through the confines of Montvale. The feeling among the put-upon locals here is that the code may be real, and the site too, but if anyone ever figures it out they will find that the treasure is lost.

Reader, 60, Having Trouble Urinating

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 60 years old. My doctor says my prostate is a bit enlarged. I don't have any pain, but I have trouble starting to urinate and I don't have any force. Some nights I get up once to go to the bathroom and my urine will stop completely, then after a few minutes it starts again. It stops, starts, stops several times and it seems I can't empty my bladder completely. What is causing the stop action? Would you say I'm ready for surgery?

enlargement. Of course, if you also have an inflammation or prostatitis and that can be corrected that may relieve swelling and lead to an improvement.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 15-6, Prostate Gland Problems. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

My doctor doesn't make too much of my problem but I'm sure it will get worse. Are there any medicines to help me? I'm taking Donnatal Extentabs for an ulcer condition. Could this drug give me any of this hesitation?

DEAR READER — Yes, Donnatal Extentabs could contribute to your problem. They contain antispasmodics commonly used in treating stomach acidity. These are the group of medicines that have an atropine action and block the vagus nerve to your stomach. But they may also interfere with emptying the bladder. This is usually not a problem unless a person already has prostate trouble, then they may even cause complete failure of the complex mechanism required for urination.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 69-year-old woman and in good health. Every so often I am awakened in the middle of the night with pain in my groin area. After taking several aspirin the pain goes away and I fall asleep. I stopped eating any vegetables that I thought would form gas, such as cabbage, broccoli and others. I think it has helped me but the other day I had some baked beans for dinner and that bothered me too. Can you please tell me what could be causing this and what I can do for it?

Talk to your doctor about this and switch to something else for your ulcer condition. It may help you postpone an operation for some time.

DEAR READER — Pain often just directs the physician's attention to many different disorders that may be causing it. You may have a colon spasm during the night. You could have gas as you have suggested. It might be something entirely different, including referred pain from the spine associated with your sleeping position. That is why an examination is almost always necessary to find out what a problem is.

And a doctor needs to know what the problem is before he can do the best job in treating it. Go see your doctor. Aspirin is often a good pain relieving medicine, regardless of the cause of the pain. Don't underestimate it.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, October 12, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY October 12, 1982 Your leadership qualities will be considerably enhanced this coming year. Instead of following the banners of others, you will have them following yours.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Friends are willing to keep their promises, but you could act in a manner which will let them off of the hook today. Predictions of what's in store for you in the seasons following your birthday and where to look for your luck and opportunities are in your Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This can be a day of substantial accomplishments, provided you devote your energies toward worthy goals. Don't delay your destiny.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your plans will go as you envision them, provided you allow adequate time for all to unfold. Don't get impatient. Premature moves would hurt you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Take a hard, careful look at any proposals brought to you today which could increase your income or earnings. There are some good deals out there, but there are some bunners, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Companions or associates may lack your insights today. You'd be wise to trust your own judgment, even if the suggestions the others come up with look good on the surface.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Something you've been wanting to change can be altered for the better today. Be both practical and hopeful about accomplishing things.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Normally, you're rather good at coping with uncertainties or unusual developments, but today out-of-the-ordinary happenings could rattle you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't let others pull you away from your tasks or projects today. If you are on a roll and you're interrupted, it'll be hard to get back in gear.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Unfortunately, not everyone today will have your cheerful outlook and disposition. Don't be dismayed if you can't please everybody.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If things are moving favorably for you today, don't make a sudden switch in course. Changes could undo the good you have going.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Situations or projects which require your full mental efforts should be attended to early in the day. Your brightness lessens when you tire.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) As long as you are unselfishly motivated today, you'll benefit as much as those you try to help. When you think only of yourself, all will be reversed.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Table with columns NORTH, WEST, EAST, SOUTH and rows of card symbols and numbers.

Alan: "He may well be the best player in the world. How did you do?" Oswald: "We won with a 67 percent game, but it was a pleasure to watch him operate in our catch-as-catch-can partnership. Here is a hand that was one of our top scores."

Alan: "I see his two-diamond call was a manufactured rebid. Then when you bid three diamonds he was able to manufacture another rebid of three hearts."

Oswald: "This bid left me with a lot of poor choices, but I found the best one when I bid three spades. This left all options open for Bob and he moved right into Blackwood. Then, when I showed two aces he settled for six no-trump. That extra 10 points for no-trump is well worth trying for in match points."

Alan: "I see that West opened a heart, not that any lead mattered. I assume it was no problem for Bob to cash one high spade, enter dummy with a diamond and then make the safety play of a double spade finesse."

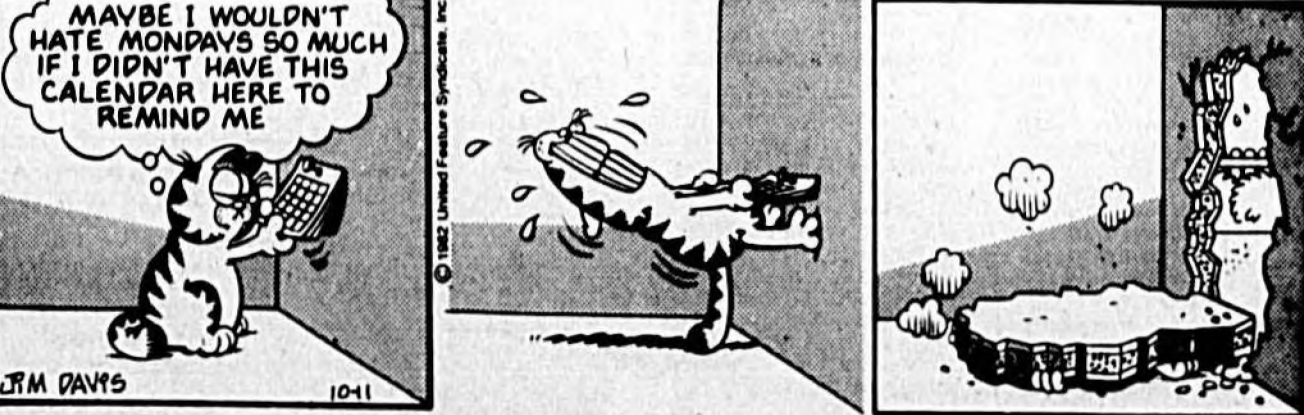

Oswald: "No problem at all. Just an expert workman in action."

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "I recently played one match point session with Bob Hamman who was on your winning Spingold team in July."
