It's been one devilish campaign season

By Russ White
HERALD STAFF WRITER

It's becoming more difficult to tell the good guys from the bad, the decent from the indecent as the 1998 elections come down to the last precious hours. Each day there is a new wrinkle. On Friday, some wacky mail was received in many homes.

One item was a card that said, "Thank You for Signing the Decency Petition." And on it was a suggestion to keep commissioners Randy Morris and Wm Adams in office. What's going on here?

The card said that Morris and Adams were the two men who "made the difference in passing the strongest anti-nudity ordinance in the country."

Actually, Morris and Adams helped pass what many say is the strongest adult entertainment ordinance in the state - an ordinance that isn't tough enough for those who advocate decency.

The latest mailout was not properly labeled as a paid political announcement, either. Who did it, no one knows. Morris was asked about it on a radio talk show Friday afternoon. He said he didn't know where it originated.

Wouldn't you know, but one of the mailouts was addressed to the West Family in Longwood. Bob West is challenging Commission Chairman Morris in the District 3 race. He certainly didn't send himself this dirty ditty.

Go figure

Winter Springs attorney Michael Jones says the reason that the newspaper that "wakes up the city" refused to run political advertisements he submitted is because the ads were contrary to the paper's endorsements.

"This," Jones said, "is the Sentinel's way of controlling politics in Central Florida. It amounts to nothing more than censorship with the Sentinel acting like a third world dictator."

In the Sentinel's defense, the paper does accept ads from Club Juana.

How high the moon

A year after a veteran deputy resigned after being stopped for a DUI offense and two deputies were reprimanded for mooring, the Seminole County Sheriff's Office became the first law enforcement agency in the county to be certified by the National Institute of Ethics.

To earn the certification, the sheriff's office met seven standards on integrity in a six-month period. "In today's society it is important for people to trust us," Sheriff Don Bellinger said.

For adults only

Winter Park attorney David Wasserman is snug in his newly renovated quarters at 238 Park Avenue N. His clients include almost all of the adult entertainment clubs in the Casselberry/Farm Park area.

On the wall in one of his offices is a picture of Wasserman with President Bill Clinton and First Lady Hillary Clinton. It was taken in 1993. The couple is still together, last we heard.

Elections supervisor braces for lawsuit

Citizens for Decency petitions against nude dancing included lots of phony signatures, including Buck Naked's, attorneys say; But Commissioner Grant Maloy is calling the suit 'pretty weak'

By Russ White
HERALD STAFF WRITER

WINTER PARK - Seminole County Elections Supervisor Sandy Goard is being sued by the owners of three adult nightclubs.

They claim she didn't catch all the phony names or invalid signatures that were on a petition circulated by the Seminole County Citizens for Decency.

Like how did "Buck Naked" get on the list of those righteously opposed to nude dancing in nightclubs?

Attorneys representing Club Juana, Rachel's Men's Club and Circus Circus filed the suit against Goard in her official capacity as supervisor of elections. They want her to invalidate certain petitions and allow a court-supervised manual review of each petition submitted.

Goard and her staff of 14 received 11,840 petitions and invalidated 2,189 of them, and advised the Board of County Commissioners that 9,651 signatures were valid. That was enough to put a Seminole County Public Decency Ordinance on the November ballot (the commission voted down the ordinance, 3-2).

On Friday, Tallahassee attorney Jeff Peters, presented evidence that at least 300 more signatures other than those already chucked by Goard, are also invalid. He and Winter Park attorney David Wasserman said that the Citizens for Decency had been "much too careless and zealous" in their efforts to close down the adult entertainment clubs.

As the attorneys spoke, TV cameras focused on a blowup picture of the Rev. Mark George and County Commissioner Grant Maloy standing before boxes of petitions - each marked as containing 1,000 signatures. Stripped across the picture was: "Once again these narrow minded few blow a non issue out of proportion to promote their special interests."

"When someone is allowed to sign Buck Naked, you know something is wrong," Peters said. "Who looked that list over?"

One petition sheet was signed six times by the same woman, Geneva Owen.

Peters also presented an affidavit from William Alonso Folley of Maitland that Folley said "This is not my signature on this petition. I did not know of this petition."

Margaret Ross of Altamonte Springs signed an affidavit that said she had been a volunteer for the petition and had signed a couple of other family names other

A house at 2800 Boardall Ave., Sanford, burned Thursday. The total destruction was not because of a lack of firefighters, but rather because it was used as a training site. The land will be used for airport expansion.

Controlled burn serves 2 purposes

By Nick Feldman
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - Generally, a house fire is a tragic occurrence. This past Thursday however, the burning of a Sanford home served a double purpose. It provided experience for firefighters, and eliminated a structure which would otherwise be torn down.

The structure was located at 2800 Boardall Avenue, on the eastern end of the Orlando Sanford Airport. The area is part of the land to be used in the extension of runway 01-27R, normally used for the largest of aircraft utilizing the airport.

In addition to the extension of the runway, the parallel extension of Taxiway-B will also be utilizing the land. The extensions of both the runway and taxiway will go across land which is presently Boardall Avenue (just a short way south from the Boardall/27-00 intersection).

The planning list for 1998 projects, included in the Fiscal Year 1998/99 Comprehensive Annual Budget, shows over $6 million dollars allocated for the work. For the reconstruction and extension of Taxiway B (east), the cost is estimated at $2.5 million. Of that amount, $2,500,000 would come from the Federal Aviation Authority, and $140,000 each from the Florida Department of Transportation and Sanford Aviation Authority.

The cost of construction for the extension of Runway 01-27R is not included in the budget, but land acquisition for the extension is. The amount is $2.5 million, with all of the money to come from the Florida Department of Transportation.

According to the five year capital improvement program of the airport, the extension of the taxiway and runway will require Boardall Avenue to be relocated in that area. There was no immediate indication regarding when Boardall may intersect with 27-00, in the overall relocation plan.

Regarding the demolition of the building, which would have required a more expensive method if not burned, fire organizations within the county's First Response System were able to utilize the building for a controlled fire. These are used in training for fire fighting, search and rescue operations.

Homeowner still fighting for right to access creek

OVIEDO - Who owns Clifton Springs Creek?

As it meanders through the woods and into Lake Jessup, it touches the backyard of Virginia Thomas, who has enjoyed the serenity brought on by the trickling water, and the ferns on a bank that surrounds it.

A judge has ruled she has no right to access the water. She is appealing to the county to help her protect the "public trust and the riparian rights of landowners adjoining Clifton Springs."

Thomas recently lost a decision in the courtroom of Circuit Judge O.M. Eaton, who found that Thomas does not own a strip of property between her home and the creek that flows out of Clifton Springs into Lake Jessup. The homeowner's attorneys are appealing to the Fifth District Court of Appeals, but in the meantime, Thomas has asked for help from the county commission.

In an Aug. 28 statement prepared by Chairman Randy Morris and the Seminole County Commission, Thomas said she does Commission states that lands under navigable water are to be held in trust for the people of Florida, and the court decision "appears unconstitutional, depriving me of my riparian rights under Florida statute, and violates the trust of the people."

Thomas claims that the water in Clifton Springs was in part of Lake Jessup, that with a Flood Gate Creek, Page 6A

Controversy brews over Longwood official's job

By Maria Orem
HERALD STAFF WRITER

LONGWOOD - A special meeting called Friday by Mayor Rusty Miles to discuss reorganization of city government caught commissioners off guard when it turned out to be a call for the city administrator's resignation.

Commissioner Paul Lovestrand on Saturday said the meeting was not for the same reason it was called and appeared to be orchestrated when commissioners Annamarie Vacca, Ron Sergeant and Miles began discussing the shortcomings of city administrator W. Shelton Smith.

"There was not enough public notice," Lovestrand said. "This looks like its being done so the public could not be there to provide input."

Lovestrand said it was grossly unfair of Miles to ask for a motion for Smith's resignation without giving commissioners and Smith a chance to prepare.

A motion was not made, however, and Smith offered to leave his city post, Lovestrand said.

"We'll probably get a letter of resignation and that's unfortunate because he (Smith) should be given a chance to defend himself and correct the problem," Lovestrand said.

Lovestrand said many of the city's problems are related to the fact that the city has not had an engineer for the past year and the blame should not all be placed on Smith.

Commissioner Steve Miller, who did not attend, said had he known about the true intention of the meeting, he would have left work Friday for the special session.

Miller said the wording of the meeting notice was intentionally devised to be misleading.

"I believe that was a smokescreen and I feel put out that he (Miles) disguised the intent of the meeting," he said. "If I would have known about the plan I definitely would have been there."

"The mayor has been trying to micromanage behind closed doors," he said.

Miller said he believed Smith was working hard and addressing the issues and he was "fine."

The problem, Miller said, is that Miles and Vacca have Smith running around in circles.

Vacca said she was totally unprepared when the issue of Smith's performance was discussed. Though the city attorney said the agenda was appropriate, Vacca said she would have liked the agenda to have been more specific so that she could have been better prepared.

However, Vacca said, she was not happy with the city administrator's performance and he should resign.

"I feel horrible about this situation but something has got to happen," she said. "I'd rather leave him intact with his dignity. The best thing for the city would be for him to resign."

Miles said he called for the meeting because he will be out of the state at the next scheduled meeting and did not want to miss discussions concerning the reorganization of city government.

He said he called for the motion of Smith's resignation in response to feedback from Winter Springs seeks grant money for historic preservation

By Tony Tizzio
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

WINTER SPRINGS - The city will seek grant money to help preserve its historic past.

Winter Springs commissioners at a recent meeting asked staff to prepare an application for federal and state grants for historic activities. They also discussed which historic sites within the town center area should be preserved.

The Florida Department of State grants could be used for the hiring of a professional curator to aid in the evaluation of historic artifacts.

The money would also be used for the purchase of cabinets, and possibly the planning of a Winter Springs Museum. "The objective," says Charles Carrington head of the city's Community Development, "is to have a museum set up. Maybe in the future."

"The city has the artifacts," said Commissioner and Vice Mayor Cindy Gennell, who took over that evening for an absent mayor.

City Manager Ron McLemore

suggested that a museum board could take on the project. But Commissioner Robert Miller disputed proposed expenditures. "I don't see where the money has to be spent on a curator," he said.

McLemore added, "I think the money spent on a curator is the best money spent."

The motion was approved to apply for the grants.

The commission was also asked to pass a resolution which would commit the city to preserving archeological and historic sites within the area around the town center and prepare for an amendment to the comprehensive plan.

A city with a historic district stands a better chance of receiving state and federal grant money. In allocating that money, a municipality is rated by points. Points are lost because of the absence of a historic district or site.

The commission requested that Carrington rewrite both proposals, and resubmit them at the end of the evening. Both items were resubmitted and approved.

Teddy Ballgame is 80 but young at heart

He liked to call himself "Teddy Ballgame" and for years he was the most dashing and controversial baseball player in America.

No one went to bat with such an incredible combination of joy and intensity. No one in 57 years has batted .406 as he did in 1941 before he went off to serve in the Navy Air Corps for the next four years.

From the time he was a lad in San Diego, Ted Williams wanted to be the best hitter who ever lived. He achieved that and a lot more. He continues to achieve even after several strokes that would have felled a lesser man.

Sunday is the man's 80th birthday.

"Ted's doing pretty good now," gubernatorial candidate Job Bush said during a visit to Central Florida a week ago. "I see him occasionally. He's a wonderful man, a man's man."

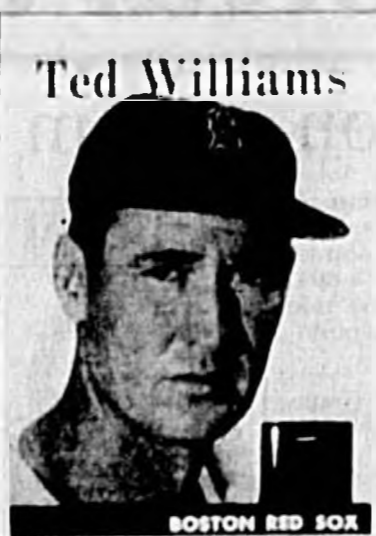

Williams, who lives near Ocala, is a staunch Republican who has been a close friend to almost all the party's leaders. He frequently flew on Air Force One as a guest of President George Bush. On one occasion, the president asked Williams to accompany him to the All-Star game in Toronto.

For a long while after he finished playing for the Boston Red Sox in 1960, Williams lived and fished in the Florida Keys. His home was in Islamorada. In the spring, he would help instruct young hitters in the Red Sox training camp at Winter Haven.

It was a grand sight and sound to see and hear Williams offering tips to kids who would someday move up to the big-league team. He would drive a golf cart from field to field at the complex and many fans would hustle along behind him. Some days there would be more people watching the minor leaguers than the big league team in the stadium.

RUSS WHITE

Frequently, Williams would stop to sign autographs and chat to fans. Many told him he looked like actor John Wayne. "Yeah, I've heard that before," he'd say, laughing. "That Wayne must be a good looking guy."

To Sir with love

Michael Jackson the thriller from Gary, Ind., is 40 on Saturday. Is he a grandfather yet? Sir Richard Attenborough is 75 and Robin Leach is 57. They are English treasures except for Leach. Actor Elliot Gould is 60. Gould was the first Mr. Stretsand. Actress Rebecca De Mornay is 38. Know anyone else named De Mornay?

Actress Elisabeth Ashley is 57 on Sunday and actor Timothy Bottoms is 47. Skier Jean-Claude Killy is 55 and going downhill only on the slopes. Actress Peggy Lipton is 51. She's our cup of tea.

Monday's birthday celebrities include actor James Coburn (70), comedian Buddy Hackett (64), actor Richard Gere (49), singer Debbie Gibson (28) and violinist Itzhak Perlman (53). Baseball Hall of Famer Frank Robinson is 63.

Pitcher Hideo Nomo is 30. We'll go with Perlman as the most distinguished of the Monday lot. Know anyone else named Itzhak? Nomo and Jackson both wear one glove when they're working.

Guard against the baas

Oh, to be in Denmark today for the annual Ho Sheep Market. Ho is near Esbjerg, as you probably know about Ho. There will be 50,000 at Ho for the sheep market event. No one is sure how many sheep will be there. Some sheep have been cloned, you know but not necessarily cloned in Ho. When the sheep market closes, many in Ho may have a case of the baas.

Watch the salt

Saturday is More Herbs, Less Salt Day. Not enough research has been done to tell us how important it is to concentrate on herbs and not salt. But don't forget to vote on Tuesday.

POLICE BRIEFS

Forgery/theft

John D. Auerbach, 35, of Casselberry, was arrested by Sanford police Thursday. The arrest followed a lengthy investigation into the reported theft of checks and a drivers license from a Casselberry resident. Officers said the first of the stolen checks was cashed at a Sanford business for $100 on July 23. The second check, also at a Sanford business, was written in the amount of $786.16 on July 26. The third check for $85.60 was written to still another local business.

The checks were reportedly written in the name of the man from whom the drivers license was stolen, and the license was used for identification purposes. Police said one check however, was for restaurant reservations, and although signed with the false name, was said to have been for Auerbach.

Police investigated and subsequently interviewed Auerbach at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. He has now been charged in connection with each individual situation, with three charges of uttering a forged instrument, three of petty/grand theft, and three counts of forgery.

Jewelry theft

Deborah Connie Soller, 21, of 12222 Groveview Way, Sanford, was arrested at her residence by Sanford police Friday morning. Officers charged her in connection with a reported theft of $825 in jewelry from a Sanford resident. She was charged with grand theft of property between $500 and $4,999 in value.

QUAD action

Rocky R. Teague, 22, of 1108 W. 10th Street, Sanford, was arrested by members of the Sanford police QUAD Squad Thursday. Officers said they spotted him in the 1100 block of W. Ninth Street, but he is said to have fled the area. He was located at his residence and charged with possession of under 20 grams of cannabis (marijuana).

Fernando L. Rodriguez, 20, of Winter Springs, was arrested by officers of the QUAD Squad bike patrol Thursday. The arrest report said officers saw him exiting from a store with a beer, and believed he may be under 21 years of age. Following an investigation and search, Rodriguez was charged with possession of an alcoholic beverage by a person under 21 years of age, possession of less than 20 grams of cannabis, and possession/use of drug paraphernalia.

That sinking feeling

A large oak tree teeters on the edge of a sinkhole that opened early Friday in the back yard of Lake Mary residents Jerry and Debbie Mealer. The hole, estimated to be 50 feet deep, formed at the residence on Robinwood Drive. It will be monitored by Seminole County officials, but because it is on private property the county will not work to stabilize or fill the hole.

TO THE SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT OF SEMINOLE COUNTY

We, the Privett family cannot express enough our feelings toward the wonderful work you're doing. You and your whole staff have been wonderful throughout this whole ugly ordeal. Mr. Don Eslinger never refused to see or talk with us at any given time. When we needed him he was there, day or middle of night. He showed such deep concern for our family and the community. Mr. Ray Parlier bless your heart. We know we worried you to death but you never once acted like we were bothering you. You answered all our questions and gave us such a calm feeling we could always rest a little better after talking with you. The whole sheriff's dept was great and really pulled together on this case there was no lack of communication on any part. Every one there must take care of each other like a big happy family because everyone sure look care of us.

Thank You So Very Much

Transportation system serves disabled, others

As we mentioned last week, the State of Florida, Commission for the Transportation Disadvantaged (TD), held its annual conference from August 4-7 in Tampa. Paratransit is a door to door, shared ride system. The local community transportation coordinator is Lynx.

Feeling hometown pride, Stevens said, "We have one of the best Paratransit systems in the world thanks to the local coordinating board." Commission for the Transportation Disadvantaged, Executive Director JoAnn Hutchinson wrapped up the conference with some updates.

Lynx is the Orlando area's public transportation company, and their A-Link Department handles Paratransit. In Paratransit, the client calls and schedules a ride one or more days in advance, depending upon the criteria the client falls into. This service is available throughout the tri-county area: Orange, Seminole and Osceola counties.

The disabled are not the only ones being aided by TD system. With welfare reform up and running, many of those recipients are now in need of temporary transportation to get to their new employment. That is where TD comes in. This was discussed at the Wages Meeting.

Political endorsements

Seminole County voters will head to the polls Tuesday to elect two county commissioners, three school board members, two judicial councilmen and a county judge. Circuit judges who will serve in Brevard County, part of the 18th Judicial Circuit with Seminole, are also on the ballot.

The Seminole Herald limited endorsements in Tuesday's race to the county commission and school board races, the county judge race and the Orlando Council. We recap for you our selections:

For Seminole County Board of County Commissioners, Randy Harris and Carlton Stanley Harris have been a driving force over the past four years, balancing strong economic growth with sensitivity for the environment.

For Seminole County School Board, Sharon Bauer, Louise Swearing and Joe Longhini Bauer has extensive experience as a classroom of several School Advisory Councils. Her passion for accountability is refreshing.

For Orlando City Council, Tom Bligden and John Arias. Six-year council veteran, Harold balances the city's explosive growth with the need to keep parks and family-friendly green spaces.

For Orlando County Judge, Joanne Gold. A former prosecutor, Gold has a clear plan to streamline the system for the ever growing number of domestic violence victims who find themselves scared and confused by the current procedure.

Fixing our broken judicial system

It has become more and more popular over the last few years to attack our legal system, being critical of anecdotal enormous verdicts and well publicized examples of the failure of our criminal system to protect our safety. In my opinion, however, the problems with our legal system go much deeper.

DAVID DUGAN David Dugan is a candidate for Circuit Judge, 18th Circuit, Group 6.

I have practiced law for 30 years. Over that time I have watched litigation become more and more problematic. In modern civil litigation, by the time a case gets to trial, the costs in attorneys fees, in time and in human expense are so great, everyone loses.

Candidate has confused the law on domestic violence

Judge John Sloop's opponent, Joanne Gold, has confused the existing law regarding domestic violence and is trying to create a campaign issue.

Our courts are divided between the criminal justice and the civil justice systems. A crime is an offense against "the people," while a civil suit deals with personal civil wrongs between litigants.

Florida has two courts of general trial jurisdiction, the Circuit Court and the County Court. The Constitution and the legislature give the Circuit and County courts authority to try different kinds of cases.

The Legislature has recognized the fact that domestic violence injunction actions often result in divorce actions. Subsequent divorce actions are less than $15,000 are over domestic violence injunction orders. County Court judges do not have the authority to act in the related divorce actions.

The crime most likely to be involved in a domestic dispute is battery. There are two types of battery cases: simple battery and aggravated battery. A simple battery is the intentional striking of another person against their will, or intentionally causing bodily harm to another person.

An aggravated battery is a battery and also a Circuit Court case, while a "simple" battery is a misdemeanor (County Court case). Many domestic violence cases are less than $15,000 are tried in the County Court. The authority for courts to try an issue is called jurisdiction.

"Persecution and crucifixion was not my intent," Miles said, "but I feel his resignation is necessary. The cause of the city's problems is leadership and that stems from the top."

Miles said Smith had been unresponsive to numerous requests for action. "This is an ongoing issue that finally came to a head."

than her own. "I signed for Charles L. Ross and Peggy J. Ross," she said.

Peters said his clients intend to have the Public Decency Ordinance scrapped before the Nov. 3 election date. "We believe there are 300 or more invalid signatures in addition to the ones already invalidated," he said. "We're going to ask that this ordinance be taken off. It's rampant with fraud. We want to see this stopped. It has to be stopped."

Wasserman said that allowing the special interest group to get what it wanted would be "a loss for the democratic process."

The attorneys accused Geard of selecting a random sample of petition signatures rather than investigate each one.

"That," Geard said Friday "is just not the case. We counted and investigated each signature. My employees are not mandated by Florida law to be handwriting experts but they are extremely professional. They were told to be thorough and careful. They worked in a professional manner."

Late Friday, Geard said she still had not been served the legal papers but that she had been notified by the county attorneys about what was happening. It was the first suit against her office in regards to petitions. She said there have been suits from losing candidates in some county races.

Peters had tried on August 11 to get the Board of County Commissioners to investigate the petition signatures but Chairman Randy Harris said it was inappropriate at that public hearing. Thus, the suit against the elections supervisor was filed Friday in Circuit Court.

Wasserman said he expected the court would hear the case very soon. The wording on the ordinance asked to set aside the "so-called" Decency Initiative.

Commissioner Grant Maloy said Friday that he found the suit and attack by the adult clubs to be "pretty weak." He said it was the first of many tactics the industry would use to get the decency ordinance off the ballot. "They'll be trying to fool everyone right to the end," Maloy said.

The Orlando Sentinel

Dugan is best-qualified

These candidates would like to fill the open Group 6 seat on the bench of the 18th Judicial Circuit, which covers Brevard and Seminole counties. For a number of reasons, David Dugan is best.

Mr. Dugan knew when he was 10 that he wanted to become a lawyer. At law school his specific goal was to become a trial lawyer, which is why he specialized in criminal defense during his three-year Army service.

A lawyer for 20 years, he has handled the gamut—complex civil litigation, as well as criminal, probate and family law—while living most of the time in Melbourne. Yet there has always been time for family and community.

Mr. Dugan's community service has been multi-faceted, including Boy Scouts, chamber of commerce, Rotary, church, youth sports. Through such service those who aspire to the bench come to know the many parts of their communities and those they would judge.

Two other candidates seek the same seat. Though the judge sits in Brevard County, all voters in two counties, regardless of party affiliation, make the choice. Jeff Thompson has been a lawyer for 15 years, all of that time in Brevard County. He served three years as an assistant prosecutor, then entered private practice that includes the full range of legal work. He, too, has found time to serve his community in a number of volunteer efforts.

Michael Bross has practiced law for 12 years in a wide assortment of areas, though much of it has been in criminal defense.

Unfortunately, Mr. Bross was charged early this year by the Florida Bar's grievance committee with mismanagement of client trust accounts, for which the state Supreme Court has ordered his practice closed for 10 days and placed him on probation for a year. That is not conduct worthy of a judge.

Neither of the latter candidates has the length or breadth of legal experience to match that of Mr. Dugan. Nor can they match his community involvement.

In short, Mr. Dugan is best-qualified. Thus, he is the Sentinel's choice for judge, Group 6, 18th Judicial Circuit.

correct. There is not one word concerning a monumental indebtedness, how much has been or will be spent for new schools, new roads, sewers, water lines, deputies, etc.

But hold on. There is a proposed budget for FY 99 (NOT 98/99). One sees that there is proposed about $40,000,000 in additional debt. The county debt as of commencement of FY 98 was $195,370,000. The debt of the school board commencing FY 99 is $291,777,638.

Now, why wouldn't a politician who doesn't have a job tell us what he proposes for the coming fiscal year (FY 99 which starts October 1). There is mention in a brochure about the "Quality (sic) of Life," whatever that means but there is nothing about increased air pollution (ozone), traffic congestion, buying property in Titusville for about $1.5 million (includes attorney fees) and selling it for about $381,000, an on-going investigation by the FBI, a sexual harassment lawsuit filed by a former employee who names commissioners, and the taking of trips overseas and in the U.S. at public expense (yes, public money is given to the Economic Development Commission).

In about 1985, the noted writer and speaker James J. Fitzpatrick wrote most eloquently about corporate welfare and tax shelters that were then costing taxpayers $85 billion. The liberals in Congress helping this along, just as the liberals on the county commission have taken millions from us to give to corporations. It is one thing for normal growth to increase population beyond that which the infrastructure and bureaucracy can sustain without additional dollars, but it is entirely a different matter when growth must be subsidized and paid for by the public.

Now guess who wants this largess to continue? Sadly, the business community has its hands out. In 1981 our indebtedness was $14 million. By 1991 it had climbed to $144 million. This indebtedness has certainly enriched bankers and lawyers!

when we have smog on a daily basis and a concrete jungle such as there is in New York, Los Angeles, Houston, Philadelphia, etc., then there will be lamenting of the errors of the past. In the meantime, those most responsible will be drawing retirement dollars from the State of Florida because we will not have had the good sense to vote in a responsible manner and ignore the comments and recommendations of a large corporate entity that benefits by growth.

Say 'No' to development

To Mayor Larry Dale and the commissioners:

Do not build the hotel/conference center in Fort Mellon Park. It would be out of place, like putting a restaurant in the middle of a highway.

If you were a 3-year-old child, could you walk one mile or even one half mile to another playground when this park is just across the street?

This is for the commissioners: As Jesus would say, if you want to be re-elected, do what is right instead of what the developers want.

If the hotel's location was a mistake, it would be too late to backtrack.
George M. Tuder

Residents are being bamboozled

The last time I wrote a letter to the editor, it was for a good cause. This letter brings me great pain. I do not want to write it, but when I see a wrong being committed in our community, it needs to be corrected.

The wrong I am talking about is the hotel/conference center that is going to end up tearing our town apart. The people that stand to gain the most, (business owners that do not live in Sanford or on the outskirts) against the local people. The people that live in the historic area that have been project is for the good of everybody. (laugh out loud) the truth being the only people that are going to benefit from this will be long gone with the loot or as I call it, the ill gotten gains, when the full impact of what they did to us, the local people that live and work here, gets to us in the way of increased TAXES. Traffic that will really weigh on the beat of nerves, the crime that Mr. Bob Kuhn said in a recent letter that happens every night on the lakefront (NOT TRUE) will become true.

Did I say TAXES will increase? If I did not, let me say it again, TAXES will increase. Did I say that Mr. City Commissioner, Brady Lessard is breaking the very same CITY CODES that he raised his right hand and swore to enforce? i.e. signs being put up on his property, on the city right of way. I counted at least 10 signs on Aug. 20. What do you have to say about that, Mr. City Commish?

Please spare me. When you called me at 18:50 hours on Aug. 19 (my caller ID does not lie) I informed you that it was a violation of YOUR city ordinance to have signs on the city right of way. Does this mean that you and Mr. Bob Kuhn can bend and break the ordinances at your beck and call? What about the conversation that you and I had that morning last February after you got back from the Super Bowl? Remember it? You stated that even if the center got approval, it would be years before even the first shovel full got turned.

I do not think so. You stated even if the center did not get approval, look what it has done for the community, I am looking. What has it done but make quite a few people have bulging wallets with land prices going up. What have you sold with the inflated prices or how much land did you buy at the pre-conference center low prices and what is the value of your property now? Are you going to sell before the tax collector comes around and does his appraisal?

People, you will hear more from me in the way of letters to the editor. The next letter will be about the conversation with our beloved mayor, Mr. Larry Dale. I hope that you remember every word that you spoke to me Mr. Dale, because I do. When was the last time you thought about buying a house around my place, Mr. Dale? Didn't think so. Too good to live in our city, not on the outskirts.

My question is, is there a conflict of interest here?
Debbie Flaoding

On Judge Sloop

The Seminole County Circuit/County judges are very protective of the victims and their rights. When there is an injunction hearing to be heard in the Circuit/County Civil Court, the State of Florida may file an information charging the offender with a felony or misdemeanor battery. If the injunction is dismissed civilly, the criminal act of battery is handled by the State of Florida. The victims and their rights are still protected, and, in a criminal action the state recommends the sanctions and the penalties.

Often domestic violence stems from internal/external family conflicts. County judges hear Injunctions Against Domestic Violence, but, their hands are tied when requests for child visitation, child support, alimony, divorces, and partition of joint properties are involved. Seminole Herald editor/reporters, have I seen you attend any of these Domestic Violence Injunction Hearings in the County Court or at any of the County Court arraignments where domestic batteries are filed against the offenders? Experience what you see, not say what you hear. Also, Attorney Jeanne Gold, what court sector are you running for, circuit or county?

The Seminole County Judges' Poil taken/given by a few attorneys should be ashamed of themselves. I work in the courtroom. I have seen unprofessionalism, the lack of court decorum, and the lack of court behavior in the courtroom by some of these so-called raters. I have worked with many judges, past and present, in the Circuit and the County Divisions. Ask the court person nel to take a survey and rate these "raters".

Attorney Harry Jacobs you need to do your homework. John Sloop is not frightened as you have stated. I have seen John Sloop handle many, many situations legally, unbiasedly, fairly, and most of all, with the utmost honesty as a County Court jurist in a professional manner. John Sloop is an experienced, knowledgeable, and skillful county judge. Seminole County voters need to be aware that we should keep experience, knowledge, and skill as part of the prerequisites for any person running for judicial office. John Sloop is the taxpayers' judge. As a taxpayer, I am getting more than my tax money's worth of work from John Sloop. John Sloop is very involved with the community and works "side by side" with the community. Therefore, John Sloop "IS" the better person to serve the community.

are "simple" batteries; conversely, many are aggravated batteries. Thus, many, but not all, domestic violence criminal cases are heard in the County Court, the remainder being heard in the Circuit Court. Based on our law, no single judge is constitutionally empowered to hear felony and misdemeanor criminal cases, civil injunction actions, and divorce actions.

The law, as written, does not identify a specific crime of domestic violence. Whether or not it should be a matter to be brought before the Legislature. This is not a proper issue for a judicial campaign, as there is no way any judge can or should be permitted to unilaterally change the law to suit his or her personal whims, prejudices, or ideologies.

Thus, the notion that one judge hear all matters related to domestic violence is not only a contrived campaign fantasy, it tramples on the constitutional division of powers of the County and Circuit courts.

 culvert and an earthen weir obstructed the flow, the creek was a navigable waterway, that the lands below the water are lands of the state, and that she, as a landowner, has riparian (of or relating to living on the bank of a river) rights to the use of the creek, rights that could be taken away from her if Clifton Springs Corp. prevails.

In June, Eaton ruled that Clifton Springs Corp., whose principals are Jerry Wood and Ellen Moore, owned the lands below the water and part of the property Thomas thought was hers, according to her deed. The dispute over the boundaries of her property began after the company began acquiring property around the springs, in 1991. Several incidents led to confrontations between Thomas, and Wood and Moore. These incidents included the erecting of a fence, by Wood, which blocked Thomas' access, and view, to the water. Thomas retained Irby Pugh, an Orlando attorney known for his environmental work, to defend her against the advances of Clifton Springs Corp.

Pugh chose to attack Clifton Springs Corp. in three ways; a suit to resolve the property dispute; a suit to prove intentional infliction of emotional distress; and a suit to allow Thomas access to the water, through a prescriptive easement.

Thomas was awarded a jury trial, on the emotional distress suit, in July, by Circuit Court Judge Nancy Alley.

In the prescriptive easement suit, Pugh will try to prove "adverse possession," that Thomas' use of the land for more than seven years gives her access to the land and the water on the shoreline.

Thomas faces several hurdles in defending her claims.

She owns three of seven lots on the west side of the run. Only one grants her riparian rights to Lake Jesup. Her supporters say that it is clearly the intent of the former land owners, W. W. Hiley and his wife, to convey those rights to lot owners on that waterway.

Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber said, when someone buys a piece of property on a waterway, they expect to be able to use that waterway. "It's one of the sticks you get in the bundle," in Suber's research, he found the adjacent lot, to the south and closer to the head spring, also had deeded riparian rights. "The fact that they are at the head spring, one would assume others would have the same rights."

County Commission Chairman Randy Morris said County Attorney Lonnie Groot has reviewed Thomas' request and the county will forward it to the appropriate state agencies, but he doesn't hold out much hope for her.

"She's really between a rock and a hard place," said Morris. "It's a difficult issue for our government to get involved if the state has stepped out of it."

Thomas had taken her case to the county once before, and Thomas said, "the county at the time did try and recognize the springs as sovereign, but soon was directed by the county attorney to take a neutral position for liability purposes."

Thomas and her supporters, which include the Sierra Club, are worried about protecting the environment around Clifton Springs, a warm water spring system, which pumps one million gallons of purified water into Lake Jesup daily. A sensitive ecosystem, the area is home to two endangered species, the Sulphur Spring Appalostracon, a snail, and the Great Leather Fern.

Asked several times what plans Clifton Springs Corp. has for the seven acres it purchased on the east side of the spring run, Wood will not say. Pugh's partner, Tye Van Buren, said, "Something's kind of fishy, and I'm trying to get the court to tell me what it is." The firm has filed a motion in the emotional distress suit, to compel the company to disclose its intent for the property.

Thomas has mortgaged her paid-off cottage twice to pay legal fees. That money has run out, and Pugh and Van Buren are currently working without compensation. Exhausted and afraid she may eventually lose her home and her way of life, Thomas said Friday, "I'm wondering if I'll have to sue the state and the county to get their attention, and that's not something I want to do."

It is up to the state to claim the run as a navigable waterway, and David Guest said that is not likely to happen. Guest, the managing attorney for the Earth Justice Legal Defense Fund, toured Thomas' property earlier this month and said the run was not a navigable waterway. Before the culvert and the weir were installed, the run did rise and fall with the lake, but Guest said there is not enough water in the run to make it navigable.

Guest said, however, the ruling against Thomas, on the boundary dispute, was wrong. He said Eaton completely misunderstood boundary law. Eaton ruled that a line on the plat showed that Thomas did not own land up to the shoreline. Guest said that Eaton and the expert witness for the defendant did not understand the early survey system, using natural monuments as markers. A waterway would be considered as a natural monument and the measurement shown on a plat would be used to help find the natural monument, not define the boundary. If the water recedes after the survey, the survey would still stand and the property would be included in the plat. "What matters is where the monument is," said Guest. "There's really no doubt what the law is. I can't quite get why the court didn't get this. When you have a boundary along the water, both sides have access halfway across."

Eaton could not be reached for comment.

Beyond the property dispute,

ARE YOU TIRED OF THE SAME OLD UNRESPONSIVE SCHOOL BOARD?

- The one who holds meetings where the public is only allowed 3 minutes to speak.
- Who brought you Year Round Schools! Whole Language! Forced Busing!
- Who spends your tax dollars to lobby the legislature for more taxes
- The one with stagnant test scores and 43,846 discipline referrals last year
- The one who allowed over 1,100 elementary school children to be suspended or expelled when they didn't meet performance standards.

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE.....

I Believe:

- In building more classrooms, not remodeling a few schools while thousands of students are located in unsafe, non-insulated buildings
- In better pay for effective teaching! And accountability for administrators and district leaders.
- In establishing standards levels that teach children the consequences of disruptive behavior in our classrooms, as well as in society.

Realists would not be used for staffing or recommending specific schools. I also worked with Frankie and the School District to implement a plan to assure buyers of some direction as to where those children may attend school. Where was the incumbent during this time?

As a former President of the Independent Insurance Agents, and leader of other organizations, I have served on PACs and never, to my knowledge, did those organizations fail to support me of their own. We may not have always agreed on every point or position, but we didn't leave me behind as those in our own industry, those who are willing to step up to the plate and try to improve that which affects us all. As a Senator, member of GOAR, and a financial supporter of IFCA, I am truly grateful.

At a panel of a second grade attending Goldfish Elementary Magnet School, I know what's happening because I am involved. IFA, District Veterans, committee member and past chairman of the Sanford Alliance Council (SAC) and other district level committees.

While my own industry group has chosen not to support me, it pleases me that IFCA/PAC/IFA recognizes my credentials and efforts in the community by endorsing my candidacy to their members.

I would like to recap my platform and concerns:

- Neighborhood schools
- Safe and disciplined schools
- Accountability at all levels, including district leaders
- Allowing teachers to teach, with less bureaucracy and top down directives.
- Lower pupil/teacher ratios beginning at the lower grade levels men of Rankers to support the incumbent in the District 5 race for Seminole County School Board, and the method and timing of announcing this decision, I am compelled to advise GOAR President Barbara Rylands, the committee and other fellow Realtors in Seminole County of my utter shock and disappointment.

In a letter dated August 21, 1998, Rylands advised me that GOAR chose to support James Morris, the incumbent, because she "represents the ideals and interests of the real estate and business communities." Perhaps as if I question the veracity of both of these points. This is an individual who to my knowledge has no experience in business independent or otherwise, or in the real estate community. And, for the record, supported and/or voted for:

- Forced busing
- Whole language, i.e. spell the word anyway you wish, that's OK
- Spending $600,000 more of taxpayer money than was necessary for communication equipment.
- Year round schools
- Block scheduling
- Early school start
- Increased independence without public approval $4000 million
- and the list goes on.

As a businessman, a Realtor, I am simply one of the many of Seminole County, particularly those related to our public school system and its impact on the real estate industry. I actively sought GOAR's assistance to debate the issue of forced busing, under the guise of "School Choice." It fell on deaf ears until it was too late.

I reached with Frankie Callen to discuss the timing of making my own bid for the Elimination of unsafe portables

School board members and other administrators more accessible to the customer (us!)

I will continue to pursue with vigor the position of Seminole County School Board member, with or without GOAR's support. But I will also ask other members to evaluate not only my credentials, platform and interests, but how this situation was handled by GOAR, then make their own decision on Tuesday, September 1.

There are other sports besides football on the fall sports slate

SANFORD - Okay, so we've spent an awful lot of time discussing prep football over the last few weeks.

It's not like football is the only sport with athletes sweating it out in the hot sun.

Two afternoon trips recently out to Lake Brantley and Lyman high schools served as a great reminder that we're also approaching boys' and girls' volleyball, cross country, and swimming and diving seasons.

Football gets the crowds. Face it, it would take a true sports fanatic to get excited about watching a cross country meet.

But anyone who says they aren't working just as hard as the football players are wrong.

Take the scene at Lake Brantley last week.

While the football player were all decked out in their uniforms, having their individual and team pictures taken by professional photographers in front of the stands and being treated, for at least a day like any NFL player on bubble gum photo day, the rest of the Patriots' teams looked on.

The football players took a half-hour to assemble for a team picture under the glaring heat while other teams labored on the campus.

The cross country team sweated as it ran around the under-construction campus.

The volleyball team and other athletes ran wind sprints, mostly barefoot, across the football fields, ignored as the football players got the glory.

Some thing at Lyman a few days later.

Let's face it: unless you're playing on Friday nights, it's tough to get more than friends and family out to the competitions.

Volleyball gets some decent crowds but its only during the playoffs that the gym really starts to fill itself up.

And that's okay. Have you ever tried to watch a cross country meet? You can't see anything except the runners starting and crossing the finish line.

But there are some pretty good athletes out there who won't be in the headlines this fall.

There's the Lake Howell cross country team.

The Lake Brantley and Seminole swimming teams.

The Ocala and Lake Mary volleyball teams, both boys and girls.

CASSELBERRY - It's been awhile since the Lyman football team has been able to celebrate.

But it might be a feeling the Greyhounds are going to get used to.

Lyman beat Lake Howell, 9-6, in Friday's Kick-off Classic. The Greyhounds scored on a field goal with 15 seconds remaining to take the win at Richard Evans Field.

The Greyhound freshman team downed Lake Howell, 8-0 in one quarter, and the Lyman junior varsity pulled out a 6-0 win in the second quarter.

SANFORD - They still have a long way to go.

And only a week to get there. Friday night at Thomas E. Whigham Memorial Stadium, Seminole High School hosted the DeLand Bulldogs in the Kick-off Classic.

The junior varsity teams played the first half, ending in a tie score at 0-0 before the varsity took the field and DeLand topped Seminole 10-6, which crossed the score after Seminole beat the Bulldogs in DeLand last year in the classic.

ORLANDO - Preseason, regardless of the sport, is the time for optimism. All teams are undisciplined and share the hope that this may be the year that they wear the brass ring.

Even though his squad dropped their Kickoff Classic contest to the host Edgewater Eagles, 42-28, Friday night, Oviedo High School football coach Greg Register continued to embrace that "glass is half full" philosophy.

"There were a lot of positives tonight, a lot of positives," said Register with a wide smile. "This is the time to make mistakes, so we can work on correcting them. But there were many more positives than negatives tonight."

Junior running back Alvin Hudson - who stepped into the starting lineup when senior Larry Grayson was scratched with a hamstring pull - topped that list of positives, rushing for 143 yards and two touchdowns on 13 carries.

Led by Hudson and Kevin Quintero, seven carries for 111 yards, the Lion offense amassed 517 yards (377 rushing, 140 passing), another

Winter Springs shows promise

By Amy Howkins
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

WINTER SPRINGS - Friday night's Kick-Off Classic at Winter Springs High School was an exciting series of games within a game.

The freshman team played the first quarter, the junior varsity the second period and the varsity played the second half.

The Winter Springs Bears were paired off with the Cypress Creek Bears, and most of the game was a power struggle.

To add to the confusion of the shortened games, one of the field lights was out for the entire night, leaving the home team side of the south end zone susceptible to the darkness of the night.

This was also the first inter-scholastic varsity game for Winter Springs football, since last year it played a junior varsity schedule.

Cypress Creek came out on top 20-18 in the varsity contest despite a strong performance by Winter Springs junior quarterback Brandon Blake.

Sophomore Kirk Blake also played a pivotal role for the home team in the varsity match-up, with a blocked punt and a fumble recovery.

Coach Mick Harris said that the team looked better, but they were getting "tired" by the second quarter.

Blake, the brother of Cincinnati Bengals quarterback Jeff Blake and the son of former Seminole High School coach and Canadian football player Bruce Blake, had a few great passes, including a connection with Adam Bortness which led to a touchdown.

The younger players at Winter Springs seemed to be in high spirits and enthusiastic about the possibility of the season.

The junior varsity team, led by quarterback Durand Vann "won" the quarter it played, 14-10.

The attack on the Cypress Creek junior varsity Bears was highlighted by a 108 yard kick-off return for a touchdown by Winter Springs' Brittny Williams.

There seems to be some potential in the younger groups of the Winter Springs football organization.

The Winter Springs Bears play their first "real" varsity game over against another first-year program, Bayville High School, next Friday night at 7:30 p.m. at Palm Bay High School.

LAKE MARY - Lake Mary and Lake Brantley both debuted strong running games Friday night in the Kick-off Classic at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

The contest was divided into three parts with the freshman squads playing the first period, the junior varsity teams playing the second quarter and the varsity 11's playing the final half.

The Lake Brantley ninth-graders were very impressive in blanking the young Bears, 14-0.

The junior varsity teams appeared to be very well matched and battled to a 0-0 tie in the second half.

In the varsity half, the Bears were seeing their first inter-scholastic action under new coach Greg Stanton and got off to a fast start with an impressive ground attack.

Lake Mary got the ball first and took just eight plays to go 70-yards and get on the board on a 34-yard run by Andy Britt of a reverse. The snap on the extra point try was bobbled and the Bears led 6-0 with 7:19 left in the quarter.

Running back Lawrence Radtich ran three times for 18 yards during the drive and sophomore halfback Matt Merga carried once for six yards and caught a pass for 11 yards.

Lake Mary got the ball back immediately as the Patriots fumbled on their first play.

Running back Don Lake Brantley 21, Radtich ran for nine yards, but the Bears gave the yardage back when the quarterback stepped over a Brantley's feet on a pass attempt.

Radtich then made a beautiful eight-yard gallop to set up a 20-yard field goal by strong-legged Russ Abrams to make the score 9-0 with 6:48 left in the quarter.

Jaguars have as good a chance as any in AFC

JACKSONVILLE - Dr. Z says the Jaguars can do it.

Anyone who follows football knows that Dr. Z is Paul Zimmerman, professional football writer for Sports Illustrated.

Anyone who follows the Jags knows that Dr. Z picked Jacksonville over Tampa Bay in the Super Bowl, to be played in Miami.

After four pre-season games and a 3-2 record, where do the Jaguars stand? Right about where they did at the end of last season.

In a battle with Pittsburgh for the top of the AFC Central, a suspect rush defense, and a running game that hinges on James Stewart's win over Fred Taylor for the No. 1 slot in the Jacksonville backfield.

Let's take a look at how things have changed since the Jaguars got blown out by Denver in last season's AFC playoffs. Mark Brunell is still quarterback. He will be for the next 10 years, so let's shove on.

Stewart won the tailback slot over first-round pick Taylor (Florida) who was unimpressive during the pre-season.

No. 4 pick Tavian Banks (Iowa) was expected to be a third-down back but earned major minutes with three touchdowns.

The line is basically the same except at center where Dave Widell left for free-agency (Atlanta) and Michael Cheevers suffered a possible season-ending injury.

Quentin Neufahr, a free agent from Baltimore, has performed well in pre-season. The defensive line is still hurting. Injuries decimated the group last year and Clyde Simmons left for free-agency (Bengals). Tony Brachens who came along late last year, is out until at least the second game with a knee injury, and almost everyone else is recovering from injury.

The defensive backfield got burned often last year, but first-round pick Donovan Darius and second-rounder Cordell Taylor should supply some help.

Kicker Mike Hollis has had a poor pre-season, but is still one of the league's best.

Conclusion: Dr. Z may be a year short on his prediction, but, in the unstable AFC, Jacksonville has as good a chance as any.

Buccaneer fans must remember that it is only the preseason

TAMPA - Are the Bucs a one season wonder? After suffering their fourth loss in six preseason games Friday night, the thought has had to cross at least a few minds.

Where are the Tampa Bay Buccaneers who at mid-season last year were ranked 17th in defense only to rise to third by the end of the season?

How about the Bucs who made it to Super Bowl XXXII last season only to lose to the San Francisco 49ers in a game that was a defensive showcase and a superb running game?

At the annual preseason press conference, head coach Tony Stewart said the team is looking to be successful in the regular season. It is doubtful many fans will overlook that this year.

That the future does remain bright for Tampa Bay.

All right, the Bucs are still a preseason team. But if you look at the way they played through the 10 games and with 10 contract extensions executed in the off-season, the nucleus of the team will be together well into the next century.

Part of that nucleus includes perhaps the best running back tandem in football: Derrick Dims and the fullback Mike Alstott.

Another part is quarterback Trent Dilfer who, despite a poor showing thus far in the early season, was impressive at the helm for the first year since joining the team.

The main reason that the Bucs should continue to be successful is head coach Tony Dungy. He should be given most of the credit for leading a 14 year losing streak and could be one of the league's brightest young coaches.

While the Buccaneers are a long way from accomplishing their ultimate goal of winning a championship, the fact that they are the kind of team that is willing to work hard and take the necessary steps toward reaching that goal is definitely in their favor.

And besides, as I said last week, this is only the preseason.

Annular Champion - Sergio Garcia, an 18-year-old Spaniard, recovered from two early shots on both the 10th and 17th to win the hole. And the match, 2-and-1 over defending U.S. Amateur champion Matt Kuchar.

Garcia is now 22-1 in match play with 28 straight wins.

The last time Luke Mason's Kuchar beat Kuchar, they Woods had a hole-in-one Amateur championship. The 30-year-old Georgia Tech major is now 6-1 in U.S. Amateur match-play.

Garcia saved three matches on the 10th and made a birdie. Kuchar missed difficult short put to fall behind.

Garcia then hit a tee on the drive at 17, but the ball bounced into the middle of the fairway, giving him a clear shot to the green.

Kuchar's tee shot ended in the left rough and his second shot ball slipped into the next trap.

Kuchar, who held a lead shot on the fourth hole, but his ball hook out of the rough, leaving him a 15-footer from the fringe.

Garcia just missed a long birdie put for the win, but still claimed victory when Kuchar's put rolled just wide of the hole.

Garcia finished Kuchar put with no bogey, while Kuchar was 1-under par with two bogeys.

Garcia will now take on Tom McIlwain, who missed from 100 yds. 5-and-3 in one playoff.

The other semifinal will match Bill Lewis, a 2-and-4 winner over Lanny Mahan, against Mark Stuebe, who needed a hole-in-one to beat Steve Stricker 5-and-4.

Kuchar had considered McIlwain, a husband of his in Georgia Tech, a possible challenger for the 2000 U.S. Open. Kuchar was the NCAA College Player of the Year.

Da' Bomb!

What's up in and out of the classrooms of Seminole County

Friday nights under the lights

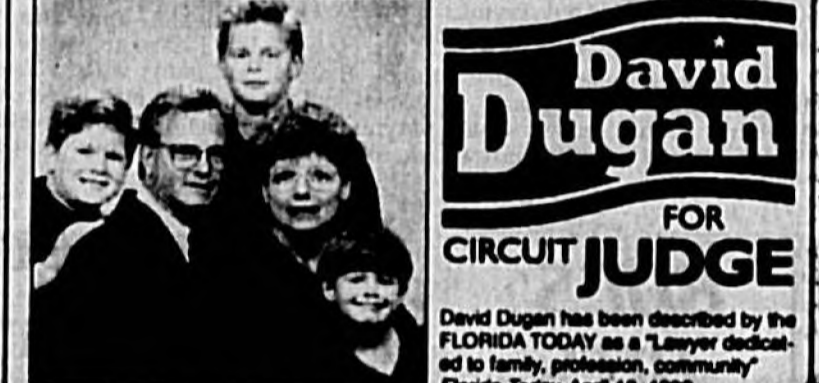

It's that time of year again when Friday nights in Seminole County feature some of the best football in the state. Friday, at Lake Howell, the Silver Hawk cheerleaders did their best to root their team on, but the Hawks fell to Lyman.

Da' Bomb hears all...

Hey, Lake Brantley: How long's this construction thing gonna take? First of all, the "cattle walk" kinda, well, smells. Obviously, Brantley has outgrown itself, and trying to limit which direction the classes can walk between classes is a little outta hand. Oh yeah, to bring up an old point, the Bomb has got some lighting between the parking lot and the football field before something really bad happens.

Smoking: It can happen to you

By Amy Oesether
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

"Not Me Syndrome" takes America by storm, thousands of kids start smoking cigarettes everyday, yet many do not realize the risk they are taking.

that is driving our nation down. "It won't happen to me" it has been said a billion different times by a billion different people. The statement can only remain true however, if the proper precautions are taken to prevent whatever "it" is. Well, here is a new statement, "I don't care about my body, future, or family." While a little extreme it expresses the exact definition of the first statement.

Cigarettes are the class of substance abuse most often used by teens on a daily basis in high school. Most teens that smoke, start smoking as early as the sixth grade, but began smoking heavily during the first two years of high school. 53% of high school seniors who smoke half a pack a day or more, have tried to quit and found that they could not. Also, 30% of high school seniors smoke, and of those, 19% are daily smokers.

Smoking actually alters brain chemistry. Nicotine affects the "pleasure center" in the brain, causing a pleasurable feeling, yet later it sedates the smoker acting as a tranquilizer. Once the brain becomes accustomed to this alteration, it modifies to fit the stimulation. After the modifications have been made, the body needs nicotine to function normally. Those who do not comply with this "feeling" will feel withdrawal symptoms which are not pleasant at all. Smoking destroys your body, everyone has heard this before, yet besides the fact that smoking can cause lung cancer, many people do not realize what else it can do. The central nervous system can be harmed; smoking increases blood pressure, heart rate, irritates mouth and throat, and reduces anxiety, pain, and sex drive. Smoking increases the chances of getting vertebral cancer. The risk of osteoporosis is also increased. Smoking also causes, tooth staining, decay, and loss. In layman's terms, the act of smoking is the act of turning the body into a cancer inferno.

"Live long and prosper," the statement of the Vulcans, maybe we need to listen to science fiction a little more. First, no one can live long if they destroy their body, continuing to take the "I don't care," and "it won't happen to me," approach to life. As for prospering, we will never have a prosperous society if kids continue to smoke and adults continue to promote negative behavior, either directly or indirectly. As much as it pains me to say, no kids would have ever started smoking if someone hadn't set the example for them.

Schools need to look at volunteer programs

By Alex Kane
HERALD STAFF WRITER

As I prepare to apply to college, I have come to find that schools now look more and more, as do organizations which award scholarships, at volunteer work. Now, it sounds like a fine idea to award students for doing something in the community, and encourage more people to help out those less fortunate than themselves, but there is a problem with this. Take, for example, the Bright Futures Scholarships awarded by the state. Some scholarships require a certain number of community service hours. The type of community service a person does must be on the official list. Someone could spend all their free time caring for lost puppies and saving small children with dimples, but they would be out of luck if they did not do it for an approved organization. This person would be in much better shape if they spent their time working in the office of their high school, which is an approved community service.

free time they have studying so they can do well and get into college, will not be able provide help to others. Moreover, it seems other should be helping them. Last, it does not teach anyone a good lesson to know they will be rewarded for doing something nice. Call me old-fashioned, but I believe that doing a good deed is a reward in itself. Last year, a friend of mine worked at CENTAUR, which provides service for those stricken with HIV or AIDS. Toward the last few months of the school year, she began to complain that she always had to work alone because all the other high school students who had worked with her quit as soon as they were accepted to college. I honestly believe that I would be more motivated to do community service were there no added benefits. I must admit that it does benefit the community to encourage high school students to participate in improving the area around them, but it also allows for too narrow a scope of what community service is, puts those with busier schedules at a disadvantage, and teaches a poor lesson to high schoolers.

Stirling Int'l opens New Home Store in mall

By Nick Pfaff
HERALD STAFF WRITER

HEATHROW/SANFORD - Stirling International Realty, Inc., in Heathrow, has opened the nation's first mall-based New Home Store. It is located in Seminole Towne Center, in Sanford.

Stirling founder and principal Roger Soderstrom commented, "The New Home Store is an interactive, one-stop shop for anyone interested in buying a new home. We'll have interactive displays with touch-screen features where prospective buyers can take a virtual reality tour of many area neighborhoods and communities as well as exclusive luxury homes and estates." He added, "Home buyers can learn about area schools, recreation, health care, and home improvement services at the touch of a finger, along with home prices, amenities and special features." He said with the location at the mall, he hopes to attract attention from the over 22,000 shoppers who visit the mall daily. He said the store might expect to have 100 to 200 visitors in the store itself. While he said he doesn't expect all of them to be in the market to buy a new home, he said the relaxed, professional setting and technology might encourage prospective home buyers to visit the mall. The New Home Store will offer many of the state-of-the-art features that have made Stirling's Real Estate Showcase Center at Heathrow a popular stop for home buyers seeking to locate in Seminole County.

The second mall location for Stirling is already being planned, and may open by the first quarter of 1999. "And if the New Home Store proves popular and we are successful in helping our buyers find homes they want and in selling homes for our clients, we want to expand the concept nationally," he said. Stirling International Realty, founded in 1989, is located at the entrance of the Heathrow International Business Center, on Lake Mary Boulevard in Heathrow.

K&K purchased, may expand

Special to the Herald

SANFORD - K&K Electric, a 22-year-old specializing in the petroleum industry and based in Sanford, was purchased by former Sprint executive Thomas Dellatorre and Christopher Ferrara for an undisclosed price. Corporate investment International, Inc. of Altamonte Springs negotiated the deal. Dellatorre, a vice president for the past 15 years with Sprint, will serve as president; Ferrara, a former electric contractor, is vice president of the company, which is located at 2517 Country Club Rd.

Lake Forest shares cost of S.R. 46 widening

From Staff reports

SANFORD - Working to stay ahead of the growth in north Seminole County, NTS Development Company and Seminole County are teaming up on the widening project of State Road 46 west of Interstate 4.

Lake Forest, a 538-acre custom home community, is sharing the $1.16 million cost of widening the highway from two to four lanes west of the entrance to Lake Forest, to Orange Boulevard. In addition to widening the road, new traffic signals will be installed at the intersection of SR-46 and Orange Boulevard, and all utility lines will be relocated.

WIN AT BRIDGE

A mystery at Ruff's Club

By Phillip Alder

Let's end the week with another deal from Hubert Phillips' book, "Bridge at Ruff's Club." How would you plan the play in four spades after West leads the club king?

North might rebid one no-trump, but with the weak clubs, many experts would raise to two spades.

Declarer could see 10 tricks via five spades, three hearts, one diamond and one club. However, she — for it was Mrs. Niceways who sat South — was worried that if she drew trumps before knocking out the heart ace, the opponents might hastily cash three club tricks. Here, ducking the first trick would work, but Mrs. Niceways tried a different line.

After winning trick one, she immediately attacked hearts. East ducked his ace once, won the second heart trick, and promptly led the diamond jack, which was covered by the queen, king and ace. Mrs. Niceways tried to cash dummy's heart king, discarding her diamond loser, but West ruffed and found the brilliant continuation of a low club. On winning with his jack, East returned another heart, which promoted a trump trick for the defense: one down. Any thoughts?

After winning trick four with dummy's diamond ace, declarer should have drawn trumps ending with dummy's king. Then she could have safely cashed her two heart tricks for 10 in all.

But what about East? Why didn't he return his lowest heart at trick four? Declarer would discard a minor-suit card, and West would ruff. Then a club to East's jack would permit another

No more ugly duckling Bodybuilder gained confidence through weight training program

By Jeff Berlinick
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - If you passed Penny Price McIntosh in a grocery store, you would probably have no idea. You certainly would find her to be in great physical shape, not an ounce of fat on her, but to get the real picture, you'd have to head for Gold's Gym in Sanford.

When you see her working out, you see something completely different. You see a model who has posed for many national magazine covers, competed in two Ms. Olympia contests and now is part of a new fitness program at Gold's.

Penny has been working out for more than 20 years. A once self-proclaimed ugly duckling, she was a shy person completely lacking in self-confidence. Then, as she was working out with a boyfriend in Missouri, she was encouraged to try a competition.

Three contestants showed up. Penny was afraid to pose in a swimsuit, but working out gave her the confidence she needed to go through with it.

"My confidence was built," Penny said. "There is so much pressure to look like the women in the soap operas and when you see them, you tend to feel bad about yourself. I realized I could do it and overcome my fear."

Penny won that first competition. The ugly duckling had become a champion.

She went on to win her next five shows and began posing for advertisements in national magazines. Cover shots followed and Penny was on her way to stardom in the body-building fraternity.

Since then, until 1996, she competed nationally in Ms. Fitness contests, but it became an awful lot of work.

"I got bored with competition," Penny said. "It's so subjective. You work so hard and they decide they don't like the color of your hair."

These days, Penny is keeping herself very busy. For one thing, she's competing in triathlons, an event composed of long-distance swimming, running and biking. Penny said she is always looking for new challenges and reasons to stay in the gym and the triathlon keeps her routine fresh.

She needs to stay in the gym, she said, so it never becomes boring.

"When I'm 70, I still want to be in good shape," she said.

Her latest challenge is at Gold's, where she and personal trainer Shelly Friend are offering their PEP program. PEP is a program unique to Gold's Gym and Shelly said that results can be seen in as early as 30 days.

"People come in and we go over their goals, profiles, short and long-term goals and we put it all together to come up with a program," Shelly said. "Too many people waste too much time in the gym. With PEP, you won't waste time. You come in and get out in about 45 minutes."

Both of them said that there is no reason to make working out to be a complicated effort.

"You don't have to eat perfect," Penny said. "You just have to learn how to handle a little bit of pain sometimes and stay motivated."

Shelly started the PEP program and Penny has tweaked it to where it is today. Shelly and Penny both said that they also use their teaching to keep themselves motivated.

"It's tough sometimes," Penny said. "We both need something to keep motivated. If I can lose 10 pounds, they'll know that they can lose 10 pounds. If they look good, I have to look good."

Penny said she hasn't ruled out returning to competitive body building or physical fitness competitions. In fact, she would prefer the fitness shows.

"Body building has gone downhill," Penny said. "It's turned into a freak show, especially with the women."

Steroids have become commonplace in the body building field. Penny said she tried them once, more than 10 years ago when she was invited to a Pro-Am.

"I knew I had to be huge to win at a national show so I tried them for a few days," she said. "I placed seventh and never did them again."

"But I'm glad I tried them. I had a mental change, not a physical change and I saw how big I became. I liked it, but it changes your perspective."

Penny has a bachelor of science in Nutrition from Southwest Missouri State University and is an expert in the field. She and Shelly are offering their program along with several other options.

Final resting place for gazebo?

Sanford City Commission to decide fate of cemetery structures

By Nick Pfeiffer
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - For several decades, the two most visible features of Sanford's city cemetery off West 25th Street, have been the gazebo and the brick building which was originally a caretaker's house. Now, the Cemetery Advisory Committee (CAC) has determined demolition of both structures may be necessary.

The CAC discussed the matter at their July 22 meeting, determining that the facilities are deteriorating and would require extensive repairs in order to continue in existence.

The committee obtained the services of C.F. Tuohy Construction Company to visit the two structures, the gazebo at the portion of the cemetery known as Lakeview, and the building in Evergreen Memorial Cemetery. Estimates to make necessary repairs amounted to approximately $30,000. The amount was verified by city engineers.

The brick building alone was anticipated to cost $17,000 for repairs to meet building codes. The Cemetery Advisory Committee determined that once the facility is demolished the area could be landscaped (estimated cost $1,000), and/or a restroom facility might be installed (estimated cost $30,000).

The gazebo has already been posted as unsafe, as the base of the roof columns are undergoing serious rotting. As for the brick building, the interior is termite infested, doors and windows need replacing, walls are warped, floors need repairs and the roof leaks.

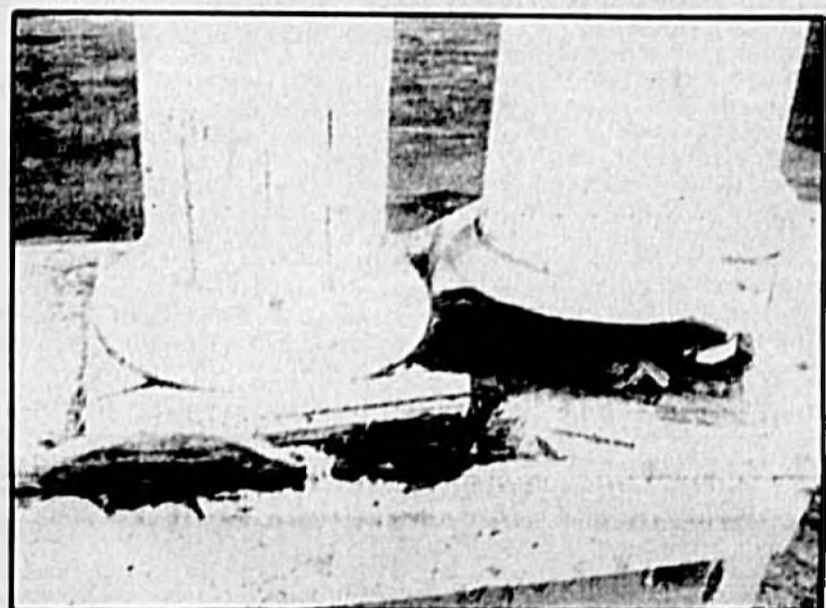

The Sanford City Commission was scheduled to discuss the matter at the Aug. 10 commission work session, but because of a lengthy agenda, it was tabled until the next meeting.

At the Aug. 24 meeting, it was again listed for possible approval, this time during the consent agenda, part of the regular commission meeting.

Please see Gazebo, Page 2C

Above, the gazebo at Lakeview Cemetery in Sanford is one of two structures which have been determined to be more costly to repair than demolish by the Cemetery Advisory Committee. The concrete base is to be retained, with the possibility of building restrooms also proposed. Others however, are protesting the loss and working on seeking solutions. Right, a portion of the columns which support the gazebo, found rotted and beyond repair. To preserve them, they would require replacement in the structure long used for funeral services or gathering places for special memorial events at the cemetery.

Left, the structure formerly known as the caretaker's residence at Evergreen Memorial Cemetery in Sanford, also proposed for demolition. Inspectors have discovered the building has a number of structural problems which prevent it from being within city code parameters. Along with the gazebo, the Cemetery Advisory Committee is recommending demolition.

ACR Volunteer of the Year wakes up Seminole County

By Justin Sapp
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

LONGWOOD - Ask John Leaman of his accoladed appointment as Volunteer of the Year for the American Red Cross of Central Florida. Good luck gaining a long-winded response relating to his accomplishments. John probably would smile and mention something about the judgment criterion or even other commendable volunteers.

He would though, reveal with impassioned concern and genial eloquence, an account of Red Cross efforts that served our community during crucial times. Assuredly, he will attend to the need for trained volunteers to serve the relief efforts with Red Cross in the probable case of future disaster. And for certain, John Leaman will create a notable impression that inspires selfless endeavor and humanitarian aid.

In June, at the Orlando Science Center, Red Cross of Central Florida honored its outstanding volunteers. Staff members and fellow volunteers provide the nominations for the awards. Forty-two volunteers from Orange, Osceola, and Seminole were honored in various categories. John was offered the overall volunteer service award.

In 1973, John R. Leaman, with wife, Peggy, moved to Sweetwater Oaks in Longwood from Lancaster County, Penn. Together, they raised three children, all of who graduated from Lake Mary High School and are now happily married. But John's gracious character has extended far beyond the realm of family ties. His volunteer experience began in Pennsylvania, serving as volunteer firefighter and PTA elementary school president. He and Peggy became parent volunteers at Sabal Point Elementary School. With the Florida Supreme Court 18th Circuit, John served as guardian ad litem. He has served as a volunteer juvenile arbitrator, family conflict resolution volunteer, and vice-president for the Citizens for Wekiwa Springs State Park. John and Peggy have been actively involved in education at a number of area churches. He was a board member at the YMCA of Central Florida, Seminole Family Center, and on the Public Relations Committee. Suffice to say, John's volunteer dossier reads like Webster's Unabridged Dictionary.

American Red Cross of Central Florida as Marketing Coordinator in Health and Safety Services. Not ineligible for next year's honor as Volunteer of the Year, John employs his abilities in Public Relations, Disaster Services and photographic arts on a full-time basis. Leaman maintains, "I am involved with every area you can work with Red Cross."

F.Y.I. ... and Your Health

Exercise to energize
SEMINOLE COUNTY - Energy! When we have it, we zip through life with zest, enjoying ourselves and the things we're doing. When we lack energy, everything's a chore.

"A high level of energy is especially important when you're working toward a health goal like losing weight," said Ann Polich, a representative of Take Pounds Off Sensibly (TOPS). "And it's a curious fact that to get more energy we need to expend more energy-in exercise that is."

But what's the best time of day for exercise? There are no right answers. Consider these aspects of working out at different times of the day, and choose the one that best fits your energy profile.

Morning exercise helps to ensure that you get your workout done before other obligations crowd your schedule, gets you off to an energetic start, and is most comfortable in warm weather and in climates where temperatures climb to uncomfortable levels later in the day.

Midday exercise can perk you up and prevent post-lunch letdown. In cool weather it lets you take advantage of daylight and warmest conditions. It can also be a good time to exercise with co-workers or neighbors.

Evening exercise lets you unwind after a hectic day and is handy when your gym or health club is on your route home from work or school. It is often the best time to get the whole family together for activity.

Each week in its chapter meetings, TOPS members encourage each other to follow their individual fitness programs, as well as to eat sensibly. To learn more about TOPS, visit its website at <http://www.tops.org/>. To locate a chapter in your area call Ann Polich at (407) 293-3697 or toll-free at 1-800-932-8677.

Not to 'pressure' you

Volunteer nurse Chris Porsch (left) takes Seminole Family YMCA member Kaaren Nelsen's blood pressure during the recent open house held to celebrate the progress of the Y's expansion project, called the Tomorrow Project. The open house is a time to give people a sneak preview tour," said Davia Dennis, YMCA spokesperson.

Members and guest were invited to swim or workout and enjoy the facility. "People join the Y to feel good," said Dennis. The $2 million expansion started in March and will add more than 8,000 square feet to the building, expand the wellness center, the baby-sitting center and add a commercial-grade playground.

Tis the season for tick-borne diseases

Hikers, beware: Summer is peak season for tick-borne illnesses.

Travelers to grassy, wooded areas should take extra precautions against getting ticks on them, said Dr. Wayne J. Riley, director of the Travel Medicine Service at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. Ticks are most likely to be picked up when you brush against vegetation on which they are perched. Because they are so tiny, you might not feel their bite. But when they anchor themselves to your skin to feed on blood, they inject organisms that can cause diseases such as Rocky Mountain spotted fever, Colorado tick fever, and Lyme disease, an illness characterized by a rash, chills, fatigue, fever, joint pain and damage to the heart and nervous system.

To keep ticks off your clothes, soak or spray clothes with an insecticide called permethrin and allow them to air-dry before packing. To deter ticks from biting, apply an insect repellent containing DEET on your exposed skin.

If you find a tick on your skin, don't squeeze or crush it, because that can inject more harmful organisms into your blood. Remove the tick with tweezers or a special device sold in sporting-goods stores. If there is evidence the tick has been feeding on your body, such as a tick engorged with blood, see a physician for antibiotic therapy.

Back to the Gym After a Long Summer Lay Off

One of the most difficult things to do is to get motivated to get back in the gym. Well, you're not alone. It really doesn't matter at what level you are, everyone goes through the same phase. Here are some things to think about to make it easier to get back on track.

1. Figure out how many days you used to go to the gym and start with half as many. 2. Get on a good training routine so you know what to do before you get there. It will cut out a lot of wasted time. 3. Always start back using less weight to prevent extreme soreness and injury.

Remember, keep it simple and easy and motivation will soon follow.

From community fairs and health events to tornado relief and aid during forest fires, John gets involved. John's award seems yet more remarkable given that in the 80-year history of the Central Florida Red Cross, this past year may have been the most burdened with natural disasters such as floods, tornadoes, and fires.

All Red Cross disaster assistance is free, made possible by voluntary donations of time and money from local citizens. The Red Cross is not a government agency. Since 1881, Red Cross has been providing emergency services. In Seminole, Orange and Osceola Counties, John is one of only 25 paid staff members with the Red Cross. The organization is volunteer-oriented. Today, more than 1.2 million trained volunteers, including thousands in the central Florida area, form the core of aid to our fellow citizens in need. This basic principle motivates John to motivate our community.

He notes, "People think of the Red Cross in troubled times, like a hurricane or tornadoes, but they should understand that there is always a demand for volunteer efforts." In fact, Red Cross offers First Aid and CPR courses to schools, business, and private individuals. Workplace training programs promote the necessary confidence to respond to emergency, thereby saving money, time and lives at work. Professional programs are available to health care workers who choose to volunteer their advanced abilities in case of emergency. For those persons who wish to volunteer as caregivers and managers at relief sites, Red Cross offers a series of insightful courses to qualify an individual in advance of emergency situations.

Serve as an instructor, train for involvement in a Rapid Response disaster action team, respond to incoming calls, or provide a friendly greeting to area visitors. John maintains, "Any skill used out in the community, Red Cross has a use for." The local Red Cross service center is located at 705 West State Road 434 in Longwood. Discover more about volunteer opportunities by visiting the Center or calling (407) 333-8200. Plus, you may have a chance to chat with John Leaman, an individual with a rare sort of selfless charm, and the humanity to share it all.

Early in the meeting however, Scott Stengelsen came forward to the commission urging the matter be reconsidered. "We need some time to come up with alternatives," he said.

Again, with another lengthy meeting, the matter was tabled by the commission. "He's right," Mayor Larry Dale said Tuesday. "There must be other solutions to this, and we're willing to look into them before we make any decision."

There is no recorded information available on the date either building was built, according to the city of Sanford or the Sanford Museum. If anyone has background information on the structures, call Alicia Clarke, at the Sanford Museum, at 302-1000.

Stumping: The season to socialize and promise

The friendly season is in full swing in Seminole with election day right around the corner. Along with this season, when politicians promise at least an arc of the moon to voters, comes a flurry of get-togethers, sometimes labeled socials. The name of the game is eat, drink and be merry. But, getting down to the nitty gritty, the crux of the gatherings is support — both financial and vote power at the polls.

The stumping season is definitely not what it used to be. Back then, candidates hit the streets and there were numerous functions including free fish fries, robust barbecues and formal cocktail parties. The community turned into a carnival of activity at benefits, ranging from chic casual to elegantly formal. And you could always count on something delicious to eat accompanied by plenty of the bubbly as well as other spirits.

In the political arena for malady, perhaps Donna Lou Harper Askew scored the highest by landing a young lawyer, Reubin Askew, who later became state senator and then governor of the State of Florida from 1971-79.

Donna Lou was brought up in Sanford and graduated from Seminole High School. She and Reubin Askew were married in the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford and were frequent visitors to Sanford until her mother died. They currently live in Tallahassee where he teaches at the University of Florida in a building dedicated in his name.

Several years back when

Lori Wilson was running for the state senate, she was popular on the Sanford scene where she still has many friends. Among her supporters was Al Neuhauf, CEO of Ganett Newspapers. Lori won the election as well as the man when she and Al were married on the beach at Cocoa.

But love didn't win since they were divorced later.

We recall a big bash honoring Gov. Claude Kirk Jr. was held at the Sanford Civic Center during his re-election campaign in the early 1970s. The party moved over to the Holiday Inn on the lakefront for dinner and it turned out to be a great social gathering flavored with beautiful people as well as plentiful helpings of politics.

Webelos from Pack 529, Den 5, spent Saturday afternoon panning for gold, fool's gold, that is. The boys, who are working on their geologist badge, took a little field trip to Black Market Minerals at Olde Town in Kissimmee. For a few bucks, you get a bag of sand that's guaranteed to have a little pyrite and some semi-precious stones in it. One boy even found part of a fossil shark's tooth. As part of the geologist badge, the boys also took a tour of Pebble Junction in Sanford, one of the few places in Florida where you can actually see lots of really big rocks.

For boys, Cub Scouting starts in first grade with Tiger Cubs. Tigers is the beginning level where boys learn about Scouting and how to work together. In second grade, they're Wolves; third grade, Bear; and in fourth grade, Webelos. Fifth grade can either be Webelos or Boy Scouts. (Webelos is short for We'll Be Loyal Scouts.) Cub Scout packs consist of several different age levels which are called dens. The boys do activities within their den, but they also do things with the pack. For instance, Den 5 of Pack 529 has planned a field day for Halloween. Sixth and up are Boy Scouts, which are divided into troops.

Why Scouting? Ask Steven Spielberg, Walter Cronkite, Neil Armstrong and Gerald Ford. They were all Boy Scouts. And they each attained something all Boy Scouts seek. They became Eagle Scouts.

An acclaimed director, a legendary newscaster, an astronaut and a president. That's a pretty good alumni. And they're not the only ones who owe their start to Scouting.

A Scout learns an understanding of community and country. A Scout learns leadership, citizenship and responsibility. Besides the above listed men, 17 U.S. Senators, 60 congressmen, and 11 state governors are Eagle Scouts.

If you missed school night at Lake Mary, you can call Dan Lastella at 323-7911. If you are unable to attend the other school nights, you can call their representative. Two packs recruit out of Heathrow, Wicklow, Idylwilde and Wilson. For any of the four schools, you can call Craig Emerine at 444-9992. The names and numbers for the other packs recruiting out of those schools were not available at press time. For other names or for other schools, call the Boy Scout Council at 407-889-4403. This is a long distance call.

SENIORS THANK VOLUNTEERS

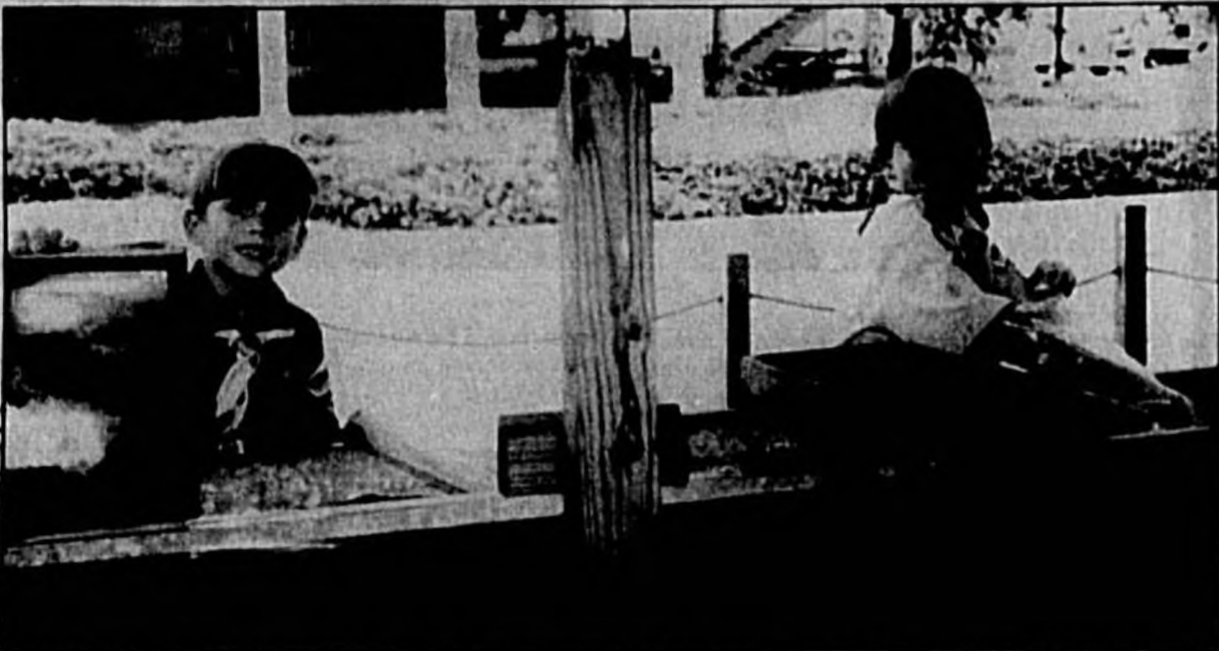

Every year, the Lake Mary Seniors hold a covered dish luncheon to thank all the volunteers who help them out all year long. This year, the luncheon was held Tuesday, Aug. 25 at the Community Center. There was quite a spread with everything from appetizers to dessert for the guests to choose from. This is the first volunteer luncheon the won. Also, Seminole was deeply honored when his governor's inaugural ball was held at the Jai Alai Fronton at Fern Park.

Back in the early 1970s, United States Vice President Hubert Humphrey was popular in Sanford when he was running for President against Richard Nixon. Entrepreneur Jeno Paulucci hosted an elaborate afternoon event at his and Lois' Sanford home for the veep which attracted a large contingent of supporters. Humphrey's wife, Muriel, was the drawing card at several gatherings while she was stumping for her husband in Sanford.

And the stumping goes on and on. However, stumping isn't as intensive today as it was back then. The political parties don't have the same support. Instead of more gatherings of warm bodies hobnobbing together for a common cause, supporters stuff mail boxes with flowery campaign materials, tie up telephone lines, fill television screens and rely heavily on campaign signs to promote their candidates.

So, no matter what you may think about politics, the candidates, or the friendly season, in general, you owe it to yourself to get out and vote.

MUSIC DIRECTOR MOVES ON

It is a sad time for the congregation of the First United Methodist Church. The beloved director of music, Dan Sellers, is moving on to higher plateaus. Dan has served the congregation for more than six years, along with his wife, Libby, also a talented vocalist and musician.

Dan has gone beyond the call of duty with his rousing arrangements and presentations. His outstanding Christmas and Easter productions are unrivaled in quality and style.

This past Sunday, the choir and Staff, Pastor and Parish Relations Committee hosted a farewell reception in the fellowship hall for Dan, Libby and their son, Paul, following the 11 a.m. service.

Sharon Butler, chairman of the Staff, Pastor and Parish Relations Committee, was overall chairman of the event with Lee Rowell serving as master of ceremonies.

Several poems, written by choir members, were read and several gifts were presented to the family. Dan received a remembrance book, compiled by Shirley Mills, as well as a love offering from the congregation.

Pastor Beth Fogle-Miller cited Dan for his outstanding professional and personal contributions to the church.

The church choir combined to sing "Hey Now" to their beloved director in the balloon-filled, festive atmosphere decorated by Cathy Bossert and Sharon Butler.

Followed by the musical salute, those attending fell into line for a variety buffet prepared by the food committee under the direction of Lucy Fitzgerald.

Methodist Church and appeared at a required interview as a third year student at Asbury Theological Seminary at Wymore, Ky. Troy was interviewed by the district superintendent of the DeLand District of the Florida Methodist Conference. This interview is a pre-requisite for students entering the third and final year at the seminary.

About five years ago, Troy, 30, attended church in DeBarry and soon felt the call to preach. He and his wife, the former Tammy Bohannon, along with their three children, started making plans for their future. Troy was previously employed by Siemens Stromberg-Carlson.

According to Barbara, Troy showed an interest in the ministry in his early teens. "It has been gnawing at him all through the years," she said.

The past two years haven't been a bed of roses for the struggling family. While Tammy has essentially been bringing home the bacon, Troy has been Mr. Mom while attending the seminary and pastoring a small rural church in Gravel Switch. Incidentally, the tranquility and serenity of Gravel Switch is an out-of-this-world experience for the family.

Troy's charm, charisma and good humor held the congregation spellbound last Sunday as he told the story of Lazarus. He did a fine job and is to be highly commended.

Sanford can be proud. Troy's a natural.

LOOK AT WHAT THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS HAVE DONE LATELY:

- Dismantled a nationally recognized ambulance service
- Enacted a special tax district on Hwy. 17-92 that shifts taxes to home owners
- Hired a crony when legal representation was offered for free in the public nudity issue. The budget on this one is $600,000 and climbing everyday.
- They are under investigation by the FBI because of their land buying practices.
- They are under investigation by the FDLE because of their road building practices.
- They are being sued for sexual harassment by a former employee for $20,000,000.
- Voted to buy the Sanford City Hall --- with no price tag negotiated.
- Supported the obscenely expensive light rail proposal without public debate.
- Spend vast amounts of time and tax payers dollars visiting Europe and Africa... on County Business????

THE SEMINOLE COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD IS NO BETTER:

- They went ahead and spent $400,000,000 in less than 5 years after voters soundly rejected a $542,000,000 bond issue in 1990
- They voted to remodel part of a high school for $40,000,000 when a new high school only cost $31,000,000
- Failed to eliminate racism in schools resulting in forced busing by Federal Court Order.
- Brags about outstanding schools but facts show 23% of elementary children fail to meet standards necessary to pass.
- They tried to put a new elementary school immediately adjacent to the State's largest sewage treatment plant.
- Built a new $8,000,000 elementary school on the CSX/Amtrack rail line in Sanford.
- Spends millions settling lawsuits you never hear about - and then doesn't fix the problems that caused them.
- Spends hundreds of millions of dollars re-modeling instead of building new neighborhood schools while warehousing children in 380 unsafe portables needed for a growing student population.

BIRDSONG ASCENDING
SAM HARRISON

Local towns included in Harrison's 1992 novel, Birdsong Ascending

By Shari Brodie
HERALD FEATURE EDITOR

I am an avid reader of Florida fiction and have found many interesting books by scrolling through the listing of books in the Seminole County Public Library System. I recently discovered this book, read and enjoyed it. I mentioned it to a friend and she encouraged me to pass along the information on the book. In case other readers might have missed it the first time around, as I had.

Frank Birdsong is caught in a love triangle, but that could be considered the least of the problems for this developer.

A middle-aged bachelor, Birdsong had an adulterous affair with Doris Montgomery, the narrator of Sam Harrison's 1992 novel, Birdsong Ascending.

The affair ended when Doris' husband, and Birdsong's best friend, drowned on a fishing trip captained by Birdsong.

Now involved with Kitty Montgomery, the beautiful daughter of his former lover, his relationship with Doris is rekindled after her suicide attempt.

His personal relationships notwithstanding, Birdsong has big problems. Fish and birds are dying all over the lake on which he is building a golf course and trailer home community. His concerns go beyond the environmental implications when his supervisor turns up unaccounted for barrels of pesticides, and then turns up dead. The worst part of it is, Birdsong suspects the county sheriff, his former friend and rival for the affections of Doris Montgomery, is somehow involved.

Set in the fictional town of Calhoun, Florida, Birdsong Ascending is a novel of romance and intrigue, with New Age mysticism and small-town eccentricity woven into the scenarios.

BOOK REPORT

Of interest to readers in North Seminole County is the fact that Lake Monroe and Sanford figure prominently in the novel, and Lake Mary and New Smyrna Beach are mentioned as well.

"Kitty rode in the ambulance with me to Sanford," writes Harrison, "and Frank followed in the Cadillac. He kept right up on the bumper the whole twenty miles..."

Sam Harrison, a native Floridian, lived in Port Orange, with his wife and son, at the time of the publication of the novel. He also penned Walls of Blue Coquina, in 1990.

Birdsong Ascending is available at the Sanford branch of the library (as soon as I return it!)

IN BRIEF

Parent/child programs

LAKE MARY - YMCA parent-child Indian programs begin new season. "A unique opportunity for parents to spend one-to-one time with their young children is being provided by the Seminole YMCA through its Y-Indian Guide Programs," announced Ed Thomas, executive director of the Y.

The purpose of the programs is to strengthen families. Fathers, mothers, sons and daughters participate in fun and educational activities that help them communicate with each other and grow closer. Activities range from cookouts and craft projects to trips and games.

Registration for the programs will continue through September 15 at the Seminole YMCA Family Center, located at 655 Longwood-Lake Mary Rd. The programs themselves are slated to get underway by the middle of September.

Now in their 15th year, the Seminole YMCA's parent-child programs include Indian Princesses, Indian Guides, Indian Maidens, Indian Braves, Family Tribes, and Papoose tribes for preschoolers.

Interested parents may contact the YMCA at (407) 321-8944 for more information.

Picasso at Jacksonville museum

JACKSONVILLE - The Jacksonville Museum of Contemporary Art (JMoCA) is one of the Southeast's most innovative art institutions, and is dedicated to serving the public by encouraging the appreciation of contemporary art.

JMoCA presents an off-site exhibit of 29 lithographs by Pablo Picasso, one of the 20th century's best-known artists. The lithographs are a set of "imaginary portraits" created by Picasso in 1969, when the artist was nearly 90 years old.

In conjunction with the exhibit, children's artwork produced by students from three local schools will also be on display. The Mayor's office was provided Picasso banners, also produced by area students, for inclusion in the exhibition.

The Picasso artwork will be featured at the St. Augustine Art Center, located at 22 Marine Street, in St. Augustine, Florida.

The event will kick off with workshops from 9 a.m. to noon, on Saturday, Sept. 5. The sessions will be hosted by Enzo Torcoletti, internationally renowned sculptor; Kate Mulholland, accomplished watercolorist; and Modesta Bechny, elementary school art educator. The workshops are designed for children ages 6 through 12. Please call the St. Augustine Art Center at (904) 824-2310 to reserve your seat.

Additionally, on Saturday, Sept. 5, there will be a reception at the St. Augustine Art Association, from 5 to 7 p.m. Admission for the show and reception will be $15. All proceeds will benefit JMoCA.

The exhibit will be on display from Saturday, Sept. 5, through Monday, Sept. 7. Admission will be $5.

A catalog of the Picasso prints will be available for sale.

Rock climbing

LONGWOOD - Aiguille Rock Climbing Center will be hosting the 1998 Plastic Pull Off Rock Climbing Competition on Sept. 26. Hundreds of climbers from Florida and surrounding states will be competing in a variety of categories such as Beginner, Advanced and Youth.

This is the second competition at Aiguille Rock Climbing Center. The bouldering competition held in March was a huge success with an incredible response from climbers throughout the state. The 1998 Plastic Pull Off is expected to be an even bigger event and will take place all day on Saturday. Spectators are welcome and admission is free.

Aiguille is working with event sponsors, Hooters and WJRR, in conjunction with Second Harvest to help feed Florida's hungry. All are welcome to bring canned food items, to help the cause, and come down and enjoy the day's events.

Aiguille Rock Climbing Center is located at 999 Charles St., Longwood. For more information call (407) 333-1430.

Piano lessons

SANFORD - The Community Music Program of Seminole Community College is pleased to announce the appointment of Erik Ettinger as private piano lesson instructor.

Ettinger is a native of Hilledale, Mich., where he began his musical training at a young age. Under the instruction of Nancy Hartman, former professor of piano at Seminole Community College, Ettinger gained a great respect for the art of piano playing. The training received at SCC allowed him to transfer to Stetson University in DeLand. With the guidance of Dr. Michael Rickman, Ettinger began to refine his art and expanded his repertoire.

Ettinger received a B.M. degree in Piano Performance from Stetson. He has taught and accompanied dance classes at Stetson University Community School of the Arts. Ettinger continues to study piano with Rickman, and jazz with pianist/composer/arranger Harold Blanchard.

Private piano lessons are available through the Community Music Program for students in grades two through 12, and adults. For the seven week registration period the cost is $87.50 for 25 minutes per week or $175 for 50 minutes per week.

Levin to lead program at center for arts

Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH - After extensive two month search, Atlantic Center for the Arts welcomes its new Executive Director, Todd Levin of New York City, who will take the helm of the artists-in-residence community in New Smyrna Beach on Sept. 1.

"Todd brings with him a breadth of experience in the arts, from his own work as a composer to his vast experiences in the visual arts, as well as a record of strong fiscal management and leadership," said Jim Pugh, chair of Atlantic Center for the Arts' Board of Trustees. "We know Todd will be a great asset to not only Atlantic Center, but to the Central Florida arts' community as well."

An accomplished composer whose works have premiered at Carnegie Hall and been performed by orchestras all over the world, Levin was the youngest living composer ever to have an exclusive recording on Deutsche Grammophon/PolyGram. Deluxe, a CD of five orchestral compositions composed by Levin and recorded by the London Symphony Orchestra in Abbey Road Studios, was released in 1998.

The 37-year-old Detroit, Michigan-native holds dual Bachelor degrees in Art History and Music Composition from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. He attended the Eastman School of Music, where he studied under Atlantic Center National Council member Sam Adler, and the University of Rochester concurrently on full fellowship for his Master of Musical Arts in Composition and Master of Art in Twentieth Century Art History. He returned to the University of Michigan for a Doctorate in Music Composition as the Horace H. Rackham Graduate Fellow.

Founded by environmentalist, painter and sculptor Doris Loeper in 1977, Atlantic Center for the Arts gives talented artists the opportunity to work with outstanding Master Artists from different disciplines during a three-week residency. More than 200 internationally-acclaimed Master Artists have worked at Atlantic Center, including such luminaries as Tony Award and Pulitzer Prize winning playwright and director Edward Albee, author Marilyn French, choreographer Triana Brown, painter Alex Katz, sculptor Duane Hanson, photographer William Wegman, composer John Corigliano and poet Carolyn Forché.

Henley, West don't know the issues

"Who do you trust?" A question that appeared on a brochure sent out by Carlton Henley's campaign. It shows a photograph of Mr. Henley and his family and then a "doctored" photo of Commissioner Adams standing alone. Henley has continued to send out negative brochures. Win Adams has continued to address issues and has not mailed out negative campaign literature, but instead has given us information as to where he stands on issues. Randy Morris has also stuck to the issues and presented his agenda.

Trust? I trust those who discuss their positions, not those who resort to bashing their opponents. If Henley and West have the answers, as they have proclaimed, why not tell us? I'm still waiting! As a super voter, and a senior citizen, I'm not interested in the continued repetition of negative one line answers, attempts to mislead, and cartoons that fill my mailbox daily. To me that is junk mail, and I treat it as such.

For instance, when given the opportunity to debate before their own party, Mr. Henley and Mr. West failed to attend. Commissioner Adams and Morris were ready, but there wasn't anyone to debate. What a missed opportunity for Henley and West to make their case. Maybe it's because they don't know the issues and knew they would have to debate their positions in detail. They have presented their views on a radio show geared to electing them. A show that was set up for the benefit of Commissioner Grant Maloy and others who want to take over the commission. Adams and Morris weren't given the time to refute allegations.

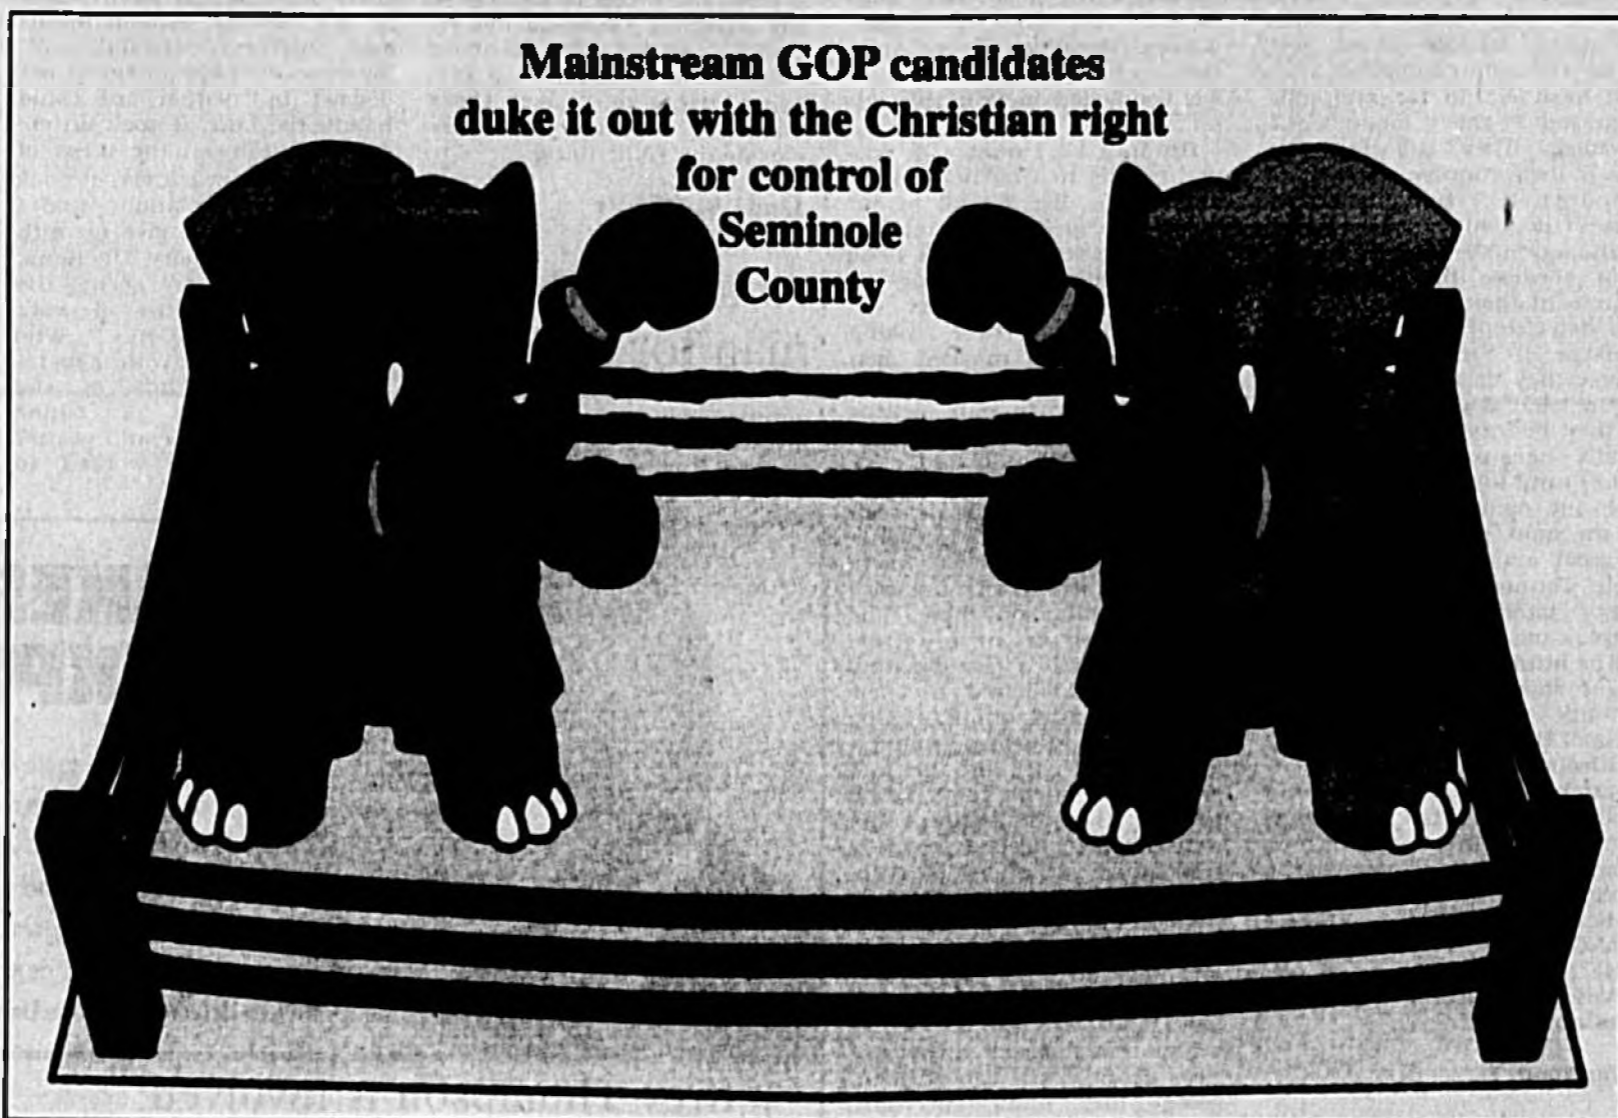

It is my opinion that this is a very, very important election and we need to re-elect both Mr. Adams and Mr. Morris. We need people in office that can see beyond today, not those who have their heads buried in the sand with the assumption that we can return to the days of covered wagons and live happily ever after. Those days are gone and they weren't that good.

Commissioner Grant Maloy, on a recent radio show, brought up the fact that an interesting letter was delivered to his home from a group called Seminole Tax Watchers. What he failed to mention is that he is involved with Seminole Tax Watchers. According to public records, both Maloy and Henley contributed to Seminole Tax Watchers, as did Maloy's Gabriella Groves. However, that is not the impression he gave the listeners.

What does that say about trust? He talks about trust and integrity, yet he fails to mention that he was apparently involved with this group. It seems possible to me, that he knew what was printed long before the ink dried!

When Commissioner Daryl McLain finally got on air by means of telephone, the host of the show was not able to defend his positions and clearly showed that he knew little to nothing about the issues. His voice trembled and he was speechless. He turned

Mainstream GOP candidates duke it out with the Christian right for control of Seminole County

It's a fight to Tuesday's end, when 2 commissioners emerge from ring

By Russ White
HERALD POLITICAL ANALYST

The craziness is supposed to end Tuesday. The people will go to the polls that day and vote for the county commission candidates of their choice.

This kindly should halt the tag team match that has split the local Republican party - possibly opening the door for the local Democrats to come out of the closet.

One of the GOP teams is made up of incumbents named Randy and Win. The other team is comprised of Bob and Carlton. Bob and Carlton are eager to put Randy and Win in the ranks of the jobless.

Randy Morris and Win Adams go together like a steak and potatoes and are fighting to stay at the commission table. They say they've served the people well the past four years and all they ask is that the voters check the record. The economic growth of the county has been enormous, the quality of life is great and getting greater. Vision is important to Morris and Adams.

Bob West and Carlton Henley agree with little that Morris and Adams have done or are saying in this election. They say they want a better community, one without nude dancing clubs, political cronyism and tax increases. Honesty and integrity are major issues to West and Henley.

Morris and Adams both have to win to allow the moderate branch of the Republican party to stay in power. If either West or Henley (or both) win, the commission will swing immediately to the religious right. Morris seems to have a strong lead over West in the District 2 race but Adams-Henley is too close to call 48 hours before the polls open.

These are the four men who are running for county commissioner. Which will you mark on your ballot?

RANDY MORRIS

As a youngster Randy Morris dressed himself as Barry Goldwater, wearing big glasses, a hat and suit to go trick or treating on Halloween.

He was a conservative Republican while he was still fighting acne. He was born to be a politician and couldn't wait to get into the arena. When he met President Ronald Reagan, he was all the more determined.

Morris became a commissioner and then the mayor of Lake Mary - and four years ago he became a county commissioner. He has been the commission chairman in three of the last four years - a rare tribute to his leadership.

"Randy Morris is the quarterback of the commission," Win Adams said. "He's the man who makes this county go. It is a privilege to serve with him."

The record will show that Morris has pushed for economic development in the I-4 Corridor and the refurbishing of county's boulevard of blight - U.S. Highway 17-92. He has led the drive for the Seminole

Win Adams

Randy Morris

Carlton Henley

Bob West

County cross trails. He has pushed the cities in the county to form partnerships and interlocal agreements and has spearheaded efforts to get improved highways and a light rail system.

Morris, 43, combines intensity and a sense of humor as he goes about his duties and is reluctant at times to have anyone interfere or differ with his efforts. Here's another tip. If your event is starting at 7 p.m., look for Randy about 7:20 p.m. He's not a time machine.

BOB WEST

As a youngster Bob West was probably thinking about being a missionary in Thailand or blazing a trail into history.

He had his own bookstore at age 21, and made it to Thailand and helped New Tribe Missions develop agriculture and technology.

West, 45, has been married 25 years, and he and Eileen West have three children. One is in the Navy, another in Seminole Community College and the third at Lake Mary High School.

A district director for the Christian Coalition, West is involved in efforts by that group and the Seminole County Citizens for Decency in their fight to throw nude dancing clubs out of the county.

Although West has no experience in county government, he says he can serve the community by helping to reduce taxes, balance budgets and supporting better school programs.

It irks West that the current county commissioners have "given millions of tax dollars away to corporate buddies to accelerate growth. The result, he said, has been clogged roads and overflowing schools.

WIN ADAMS

The first thing anyone notices about Win Adams is the smile and the enthusiasm. This guy is Hubert H. Humphrey all over again - except of course Win Adams is a Republican. He was a Democrat once upon a time but now he's a Republican from head to toe.

Adams has spend the summer visiting residents throughout the county to convince them he should be in office four more years. None of the candidates has worked harder or longer than Adams.

He's a former high school football player who was on a team that went 11-0 his senior year. Adams said he learned teamwork and loyalty on the ballfield. He learned about industrial engineering at college and with several Big 6 corporations.

Adams, 56, has been accused by his opponents as being a follower to Morris, but the candidate insists the record will show he has voted on his own. "I pride myself on looking into each issue and weighing the good and bad points," Adams said.

"One of the decisions I made that I'm most proud is naming Gary Kaiser as the permanent county manager," he said. Not many counties have a leader like Gary Kaiser and we didn't have to spend a lot of money searching. We had our man."

CARLTON HENLEY

At 65, Henley is the elder statesman of the candidates, a robust ex-high school principal at Lyman High School. He's a non-nonsense type who doesn't find much humor in the current GOP chaos.

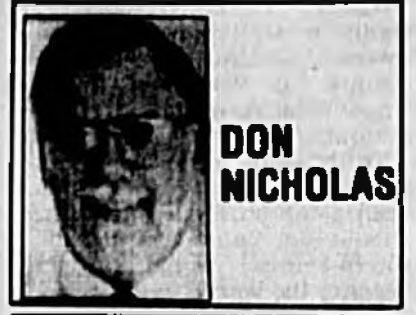

Henley wants to clean up the mess in the county, the cronyism in government and the congestion on the highways. He's against light rail and tax increases. He is for economic development and a jobs program. And more than anything else, Henley wants a strong public anti-nudity ordinance.

A football player at Memphis State, Henley stares you in the eye and cratches forward 3 yards with a cloud of dust. He attended almost every public meeting the commission had earlier this year. He studied the subjects and the way the commission dealt with each issue.

Henley was a commissioner, himself, for nearly two years when appointed by Gov. Lawton Chiles in 1982. He ran in 1984 but was defeated.

Married for 41 years, Henley is the father of four and has 10 grandchildren. He is willing to sacrifice some time with the grandchildren if he is elected.

A guest on the Rev. John Book's TV show recently, Henley said "honesty, integrity and character" are the main issues in the race. His own attributes, presumably.

DON NICHOLAS

Morris, Adams are upset by the truth

First, I want your readers to know that I am Carlton Henley's campaign treasurer and proud to be associated with this effort. Bob West and Mr. Henley are decent individuals who are very serious in their endeavor to make Seminole County a better place for all of us to live. On that note, I would like to provide your readers with an analysis of a story that appeared this past week in your newspaper concerning ethics in political advertising:

1. "Mr. Morris said he is disappointed in the misinformation and malicious charges being made." He failed to cite the misinformation. Any information that has been sent to the voters is documentable for anyone who wants to see it. There have been no malicious charges made, only facts stated.

2. "All of this is in violation of Florida election law and in violation of any basic moral code." If a law was violated, you can rest assured that a suit would have already been filed, and what moral code was violated - telling the truth?

3. Mr. Morris complained "the leadership of the Christian Coalition was doing its best to run him down." Neither Mr. Morris nor Mr. Adams cried when they received another newspaper's endorsement, but when an organization asks them a few questions to give voters a guide on how they stand on issues, they scream that Bob West is a member of the organization. If the voters knew who was on the other newspaper's endorsement board, they would find out that it is not so impartial.

4. The article mentioned a picture of Mr. Adams that Mr. Henley used. It also mentioned that Henley's photo included everyone "but the Lyman High School Marching Band." What it failed to tell the readers is that the picture is one Mr. Adams used in his own campaign literature. Besides, there was not enough room on the page for the Lyman Band's picture.

5. The article stated that "Mr. Henley's camp is circulating dirt about Adams and his sister and his mother." Mr. Henley's camp thinks that it is very relevant for the public to question a commissioner who misuses family money, but wants the public to trust him to manage hundreds of millions in public funds.

6. In the article: "The voters are being bombarded by leaflets depicting Morris and Adams as tax hiking yahoos who take tax paid junkies and are involved in a sexual harassment lawsuit." What you may be thinking is that even though your taxes went up (but the commission did not pass a rate increase), there was not an increase in taxes. This would never pass the truth tables in basic Logic 101. I have not read about the sexual harassment lawsuit in campaign literature, only in the local papers.

7. Mr. Morris said, "The latest Seminole Tax Watchers pamphlet reeks of opinions of Commissioner Grant Maloy." Mr. Morris must have a short

Reaping what you sow

Re: Seminole Herald Article of August 27 regarding Political Flap, etc. I found it very amusing.

Randy Morris indignant about a Christian Coalition voters' guide and the Seminole County Tax Watchers. Hmm, Hmmm! What goes around comes around.

Truth about issues in Seminole County and what has been going on for a long time should not be known by the voters-Morris would prefer keeping the voters in the dark.

If any misleading and untruths are voiced, Randy Morris is the champion and leader along with many of his political cronies in Seminole County.

Shall we review Morris' record? Yes. Just a list of his accomplishments as a former Lake Mary Commissioner and Mayor.

Early 1990's
1. Morris serves as Bob Sturm campaign consultant, earning more than $64,000. Election violation with the Fla. Ethics Commission, Chapter 106. Bob Sturm found guilty and fined.

2. Morris informs Lake Mary citizens that Lake Mary Boulevard would cost only $300,000. Citizens duped. Cost to Lake Mary more than 1.2 million dollars plus $75,000 yearly for maintenance of the boulevard and still growing.

3. Morris with fellow cronies manipulates to oust the Lake Mary city manager because he wouldn't go along with Morris' agenda.

4. Morris and fellow commissioners file suit against citizens to stop a charter provision to be placed on the ballot. With city tax dollars sued the citizens and used the legal system to delay the voting process. The citizens won at a great cost to the taxpayer. Conclusion, Morris would not run for office again. Fear that the citizens would reject him.

5. Morris and his political cronies recently (Nov. 1997) supporting and working Al Crump's campaign in Lake Mary gave false information about my record (as Crump's opponent) in literature to be mailed out to the voters. I filed a complaint, which is presently under investigation with the Florida Election Commission.

Randy Morris is now reaping what he has sown. Truth hurts. Mrs. Sheila M. Sawyer

If fairness were a test

I have been watching the race for Seminole County Commission and School Board. I've been waiting to see which candidates addressed the issues and which candidates threw mud, which candidates offered ideas and which candidates offered innuendo.

In my opinion if fairness were a test, then Win Adams and Randy Morris for Seminole County Commission have passed with flying colors along with Sandy Robinson, Jeanne Morris and Diane Bauer for School Board.

If staying above board and on-track were a test, then Carlton Henley and Bob West, candidates for county commission, and school board challengers have failed miserably. Citizens deserve better.

Carlton Henley and Bob West and the school board challengers offered us cartoons, half-truths, and the promise of a Christian Coalition-driven takeover of county government and the school board. The newspapers have stated that a school board member, Bob Goff, will be named county manager if and when Carlton Henley or Bob West is elected and join hands with their mentors, Dick Van Der Weide and Grant Maloy.

Worse still is an ad taken out this week by an attorney, concerning the incumbents. Because the incumbents won't put "Christianity ahead of economics and politics." What we need, he said, "...is leadership with Christian and moral character to challenge today's problems."

All the candidates in this race are Christian. The thing that matters to me is the candidates' competency and capabilities of handling local government decisions on my behalf. To the best of my knowledge the issue of water and sewer rates were never addressed in the Old or New Testaments.

The Christian Coalition preaches family values, yet these coalition candidates have not hesitated to tar and misrepresent the incumbents' families. They will lead us down the primrose path until we stray. If it suits their purposes they will not hesitate to turn us over the slightest deviation because they ultimately represent themselves.

I don't appreciate the camouflage of throwing mud because they do not want me to know what is going to happen if they get into office. Maybe that's because they do not know until told.

In my opinion, this election is the most pivotal election in a great many years for Seminole County. We have competency challenged by intolerance, camouflaged as religion.

The future of Seminole County is at stake! Not just on the County Commission but in the School Board election.

Election time! Separation of Church and State! All of this boils down to that you know for who you are voting. Know where they stand. Know who is pulling their strings.

Remember--THE MOST DANGEROUS VOTE IS THE ONE NOT CAST!
Vote September 1, 1998.

On the record

Commissioner Randy Morris says he is running on his record, yet when that record is cited as in Seminole Tax Watchers brochure, he calls it misinformation and malicious. Rather than running on his record, it sounds like he is sinning away from his record.

Backing light rail in county

Where the candidates stand
For light rail: Randy Morris, Win Adams
Against light rail: Bob West, Carlton Henley

Week-long smog alerts were unheard of in Central Florida until earlier this year. The cause? Air pollution from increasing automobile traffic. The solution we are offered? More highways for more automobiles. A sensible approach would be a diversified transportation system, including light rail.

The League of Women Voters of Seminole County reaffirms its support of light rail as part of an integrated transportation system.

Light rail would reduce the smog and provide some relief from traffic congestion. New roads provide only temporary relief from congestion as they are soon filled with additional traffic.

Light rail has problems too, such as which route to follow and funding. However, this is a challenge to be met. Research shows that the initial cost is great with any mass transportation system but in the long run, the maintenance costs are much less than for roadways, notwithstanding the savings to our environment and to the health of our residents which must also be factored in.

As citizens we must be concerned with our disappearing fossil fuels, our disappearing wetlands, and our increasing urban sprawl. Light rail offers an alternative. It may appear to be impossible to support light rail at this time. However, we owe it to future generations to be good stewards of this bountiful Central Florida area and find positive solutions to our transportation and air quality quandaries.

We urge you to join us in speaking up for light rail.

Sincerely,
Susan MacIsaac, President
League of Women Voters of Seminole County

Rachel's raid was big political ploy

I've been following the news about the Seminole County commissioners and the Casselberry Mayor, Bruce Provoost, trying to interfere with Rachel's and other adult businesses. Because of my sickening experience at Rachel's, I feel compelled to write this letter.

On April 17, I went with several friends to a bachelor party at Rachel's. We are all in our 30s, educated, law-abiding, non-drug users. We had been enjoying the male-bonding experience, bachelor party atmosphere and were joking when about 25 masked men stormed into the club.

We thought we were getting ready to be robbed. Someone yelled out "This is a raid!" Our group was amazed since Rachel's is a very upscale club and the employees are polite, courteous, and I have never seen or heard of any unlawful activities going on there. The masked men began to arrest customers and a few dancers. We were not allowed to leave until we showed our ID's. One customer had his arm around a fully clothed girl and he was arrested for having his hand on her hip. Both of these people were taken to jail and arrested.

When we saw three TV cameras and a sheriff come in, we thought this must be a planned event. I looked at my watch and thought, "It's 10 p.m. I guess we'll be on the 11 o'clock news."

Now that I see all these stories about local government going after adult entertainment, I realize that our bachelor party was raided so some politician could make a big deal about Rachel's. What a joke! Doesn't our sheriff's department have better things to concentrate on? Such as the murderers roaming our streets, the drug dealers, and our traffic and schools problems.

Sincerely,
Todd Golin

Indecent proposal

Where the candidates stand:
Both Bob West and Carlton Henley are members of Citizens for Decency, Randy Morris and Win Adams are not.

On a recent Saturday trip to the grocery store on Highway 438, my 13-year-old son and I were approached by two older men who wanted my signature opposing strip clubs, in Seminole County. These men said they represented the Citizens for Decency.

When I told them I didn't support this issue because I believe in an adult's right to choose whether they want to visit these clubs, they turned their seal on my son.

I was offended when they began asking him how would he feel if someone leaving one of the clubs raped his mother or if his sister were dancing naked for money. I find these comments to my son, from a stranger, completely inappropriate and offensive.

The only reason I didn't tell them to leave us alone was that my son interrupted them to say that when he was an adult he would make up his own mind and if they didn't like strip clubs they shouldn't go to them.

I was too proud of my son to say anything. I realized that he could think for himself about adult issues and respect a person's right to make these choices. I hope our politicians can do the same thing.

Sincerely,
Linda B. Hignite

Adams is the man for the job

It was disappointing to read Sunday's editorial, August 16 of the endorsement of Carlton Henley. It showed the lack of in-depth insight. Your paper was beginning to be the paper that citizens of Seminole County could find factual county government information. You did not search deep enough for what Commissioner Win Adams has done for many in this county. I know, because since 1995 he has been active in our district which wasn't even his responsibility. We have two commissioners in our district, but neither one could handle the task. It took an engineer to unravel the mess of the Little Wekiva River. It took time at Toys for Tots. But for two years, he has been there. There have been many occasions in this area where Win Adams has taken the time to attend an important function of an organization. There are areas in this county that have had road problems for years and he has solved them. He have a sewer pipe line raised so an environmental disaster could be averted? Win Adams. Who lobbied for the sediment removal so flooding could be lessened until the whole river could be addressed? Win Adams. Now cities, counties and many organizations are working together to solve the bank erosion problem and flooding.

But Win Adams does more than just sit in his commissioner's chair. Not one elected official shows up to give their time at Toys for Tots. But for two years, he has been there. There have been many occasions in this area where Win Adams has taken the time to attend an important function of an organization. There are areas in this county that have had road problems for years and he has solved them. He memory, or else he does not want the voters to remember a Political Action Committee that was formed two years ago strictly to endorse Mr. McLain. Can anyone say Unified Christians? Please do not get this group confused with the United Christians, which is a long standing organization that endorses candidates. The Tax Watchers have been around for quite awhile, too.

8. The article reports that Mr. Henley contributed $13 (a former principal's dozen) to the Tax Watchers. What you don't know is that Mr. Henley did not contribute $13. He was attending a barbecue; when it was over, the group was trying to sell the remaining food so Mr. Henley bought the leftover corn. Let's compare who gave to this PAC and who continues to give to Unified Christians PAC. Two years ago, Mayor Larry Dale and his family gave $2000 ($500 each for himself, his wife, and their two daughters) to the Unified Christian PAC.

9. The lists of Tax Watchers and Citizens for Decency were compared to find if they have names in common. Many of the names on the list of donors to the more recently organized Unified Christians are leaders in the Republican Executive Committee, who had a suit filed against them to keep these same leaders from breaking the law by endorsing judge candidates. 10. The article continues that when "Mr. McLain called the show (Roger Williams' talk show on WWNZ-740 AM radio) to have equal time this week, he was met with cold resistance." That show is Mr. Williams'. He does not have to give Mr. McLain equal time. Even so, I heard Mr. Williams tell Mr. McLain to set up a day and he would be glad to have him on the show. Mr. Williams did not treat Mr. McLain coldly, but Mr. McLain was quite rude. I suggest anyone who is interested should get a taped copy and hear for themselves.

11. Williams tried to engage McLain and Maloy in an on-the-air debate but McLain refused saying it would break the Sunshine Law rules.

Earlier in the show, Mr. McLain stated that Mr. Williams was breaking the Sunshine Law by talking with Mr. Maloy. Obviously, Mr. Maloy brings up a valid point when he mentions that Mr. McLain is Adams' current campaign manager.

12. Mr. Adams said, "Check the record, I voted four years ago against any kind of gambling in the county. Where do they get this stuff?" The vote on gambling that I remember was more than four years ago because it was motioned by Pat Warren and seconded by Carlton Henley. This was before Mr. Adams became a commissioner. Enough analyzing, I believe the readers will get the point.

has been the quiet leadership, letting others take credit. He has stated, "It is not important who receives credit, what is important is that the problems are solved." If a stupid key to a city could cause such an uproar by Mr. Henley, do you think he really is the man that will work as a team to solve the problems, no matter what district? No, I don't think so. He wasn't a team player before and he won't be now. We are not just facing school problems, if this is so important why did he not lend his experience to the school board? The problems we are facing are engineering, water, roads, rivers, and environmental planning. We don't need a principal. We need an engineer who knows how to solve problems with a team effort, not a principal who dictates and interprets rules. We need a person who knows how to create answers and knows how to bring solutions into a tangible reality. That is Win Adams. We know he is doing it for us in the Little Wekiva Basin and we would like to see him be able to finish the job.

Adult Entertainment places, and thus have been tolerant of the sleaze places. They think that they have been "strongly" regulating these places by specifying requirements to pretty up the outside while leaving total nudity inside. This omission, in turn, as even the County Sheriff has agreed, acts as a magnet drawing bad elements to this area, including elements from the rest of the State of Florida and beyond to "see it all."

Understandably, good businesses do not desire to co-exist with sleaze places. The owners of the ex-Seminole Plaza not only closed down the plaza they torn down most of the buildings as well! K-Mart closed down and now the huge parking lot is full of pot holes. Furthermore, I have seen empty stores all over the county.

Residential property also suffers from proximity to these kinds of establishments. A drive along Lakeview Drive/Wells Ave., located directly behind the 17-92 sleaze places reveals the houses are either run down, empty or converted to other uses. The area in which I live, Fern Park, has been known as an exceptionally find residential area, but its reputation is now on a downhill slump, hopefully to be corrected by passage of the Decency Ordinance.

In the case of Fern Park, in District 4, one problem is that Mr. Adams seems to be neglecting the people of the electoral area he is supposed to represent. It was Mr. Adams according to a newspaper article who inferred that those citizens who wanted more decency standards were a mob.

Some news sources have reported that big money is being spent in the name of Regional Cooperation on the following projects: 1) An I-4 bridge over the St. Johns, which apparently "...wasn't on anyone's radar screen...". 2) Greenway's missing link. 3) An I-4 interchange.

I see no big money in this for Fern Park. In this respect, I once asked Mr. Adams to have a small badly overgrown strip of County Property adjacent to a drainage pond ("Duck Lake") mowed. He responded that he could not do that without raising taxes. It is still in bad shape. Regional cooperation is fine, but not to the exclusion of necessary, even maintenance, activities in the public interests of the electorate one is supposed to represent! The strip is still an overgrown eye sore!

Some people have criticized Christians for wanting Decency Standards. Did it ever strike the critics that church people, as well as other family oriented people, are simply trying to keep this place a nice, decent place in which to exist and raise families? It is only logical that church-goers would not want their homes to become near to places of ill repute. Even the City of New York has issued a crackdown on strip clubs and smut shops. The City of New York gives these places two choices "close down or cover up...". Also, its rules bar sex oriented shops and stores from operating near homes, schools or churches.

As for all the talk about gift contributions made by Adult Entertainment supporters to the church, of which Pastor George is one pastor, it does seem that what those supporters are really sore about is that gifts were apparently given for a favorable position on their businesses, an attempt that did not work. Who or what else have they pressured to influence, if any, using this tactic for a favorable result?

I note that the Seminole Herald has endorsed Carlton Henley in the coming elections. Personally, I favor both Carlton Henley and Bob West for I believe this would better cure the ill mannered infighting that occurs in board activities.

Yours truly,
William J. Oildart

Environmentalist Randy Morris

In 1994, rumor had it that a 15-mile long CSX Rail Line, which ran through Oviedo and Winter Springs, was to be abandoned. A group of community activist including Jeff Payne, Jennifer King, Sandy Bogan, and myself, formed the Cross Seminole Trail Alliance, an association dedicated to the conversion of this corridor into a multi-use trail for the community.

After promoting this idea to homeowner associations, civic groups, chambers, and local cities, Seminole County Commissioner Randy Morris invited us to formally present our vision to him. Randy Morris broadened our horizons and presented a county wide system of greenways and trails to the Board of County Commissioners who unanimously supported this project.

With unprecedented cooperation between a small citizens group and the county, the grant application for the acquisition of the Cross Seminole Trail corridor (a multi-million dollar project) was completed in record time-2 weeks. Later, the state Recreational Trails Council saw the importance of the project and, due to its proximity to development, fast tracked it. With monumental efforts by Seminole County, staff, the Central Florida delegation, and community members, the governor's cabinet was convinced to approve this purchase.

While this conversion process will serve as a model to be copied by other communities, it is most important to recognize the success of this project was achieved only after a small group of citizens were heard by their elected officials. By working together the dream has become a reality.

Thank you Seminole County Commission and Chairman Randy Morris.

Where is the integrity? If these people will stoop to this now, think about what you can expect if you elect their choices. Do not vote on "one emotional issue whether it be speed bumps, a nudity ordinance, or the newest inference by Mr. Bob West in his last postcard, that his opponent supports gambling in the county. Where did that come from? These people are pushing the emotional buttons and inserting non issues to avoid the real issues. Nations have fallen because the people were lured into emotional blindness.

Why I support Henley, West

Normally, by a 3 to 2 vote the Seminole County Board of Commissioners has allowed a "blight" to exist in areas in and surrounding the SR 436/U.S. Hwy. 17-92 Intersection, described by some people as the "gateway to Seminole County."

So here is the question: How can a "blight" be cleaned up without cleaning up the core of the problem? In this case the core of the problem is that three commissioners have refused to disallow complete male and female nudity in the

Jack GRIESBAUM

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

The 18th Judicial Circuit Court Judge serves Seminole & Brevard Counties.
Florida Today Newspaper endorses JACK GRIESBAUM

Griesbaum is our choice for circuit judge position

The upcoming retirement of Circuit Judge Larry Johnston sparked a three-way judicial race that pits a veteran prosecutor against a county court judge and an experienced local attorney. All three candidates—Jack Griesbaum, current County Court Judge Philip Fougousse, Jack Griesbaum and George W. Maxwell, III—know their way around a courtroom, but Griesbaum's extensive and diverse legal background makes him the clear choice for circuit court judge in the Group 9 race.

"Fifty percent of the trial work in circuit court is criminal work, which can involve extraordinarily complex issues," Griesbaum said. "I have the experience to deal with those issues."

Griesbaum learned about serious responsibilities early in life by serving seven years as a technician in the U.S. Navy's nuclear submarine program. That experience prepared him to be both methodical and thorough in solving problems, especially when there is little room for error.

"Knowing your job and performing it well were trademarks of submarine life because people's lives were on the line," Griesbaum said. "This is not unlike serving as a circuit court judge, where a person's property, liberty and, in the case of a death penalty, their very lives are at stake."

After leaving the Navy, Griesbaum attended college and law school in Texas, and later worked as an attorney for the U.S. Coast Guard and U.S. Customs Service and in private civil practice.

He also worked for the Public Defender's Office in Brevard County, and spent 13 years as a prosecutor with the local State Attorney's Office, where he was chief of the Felony Division.

Earlier this year, he resigned from that office to run for the circuit judge seat. Griesbaum has prosecuted hundreds of serious cases, including dozens of murder cases, and is very familiar with the intricacies of related case law.

And he has promised that his rulings as a circuit court judge will include justice for crime victims, not just the criminals.

"As an assistant state attorney for the past 13 years, I have always fought hard for justice for crime victims," Griesbaum said.

Being a good judge requires more than merely handing down appropriate decisions from the bench, Griesbaum pointed out. It also involves being active in the community and proactive in helping prevent crime.

"I would get out and talk to kids, use innovative sentencing such as community service and monitoring," he said. "The whole point is to get kids not to come back (into court)."

Griesbaum has served as president of the Titusville Sunrise Rotary and as program chairman of Leadership Brevard. He currently is vice chairman of the Civilian Military Council and the Devereux Foundation, and active in several other organizations.

That extensive involvement in the community is a valuable supplement to his legal experience in preparing Griesbaum for the bench in the 18th Judicial Circuit. For their part, Fougousse and Maxwell are well-spoken and personable candidates, but they have less experience than the prosecutor in trying felony cases. Griesbaum's experience and expertise give him a clear edge over his opponents in that regard.

Florida Today strongly recommends the election of Jack Griesbaum to the circuit court.

Law Enforcement endorses GRIESBAUM

- ◆ Norman R. Wolfinger, State Attorney
"Jack Griesbaum has earned the respect of law enforcement and the victims of crime through his compassion and tough fight against violent criminals. He is the best and most experienced candidate for Circuit Judge."
- ◆ Sheriff Don Eslinger, Seminole County
"Jack Griesbaum will be a no-nonsense, tough-on-crime judge that our community needs to make it a better and safer place to live and raise our families."

◆ Seminole County Law Enforcement Association
(Comprised of all Seminole County municipal Police Chiefs and other law enforcement agencies)

Thank you for your support.

RESOLUTION NO. 98-026 A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY OF LONGWOOD, FLORIDA PURSUANT TO FLORIDA STATUTE 170.05, DECLARING SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS FOR STREETS TO BE IMPROVED, DESIGNATION OF EXPENSE THEREOF TO BE PAID BY SPECIAL ASSESSMENT AND MANNER OF PAYMENT, DESCRIPTION OF LANDS ASSESSED, DECLARATION OF ESTIMATED COSTS, AND PROVIDING FOR CONFLICTS, SEVERABILITY AND EFFECTIVE DATE.

WHEREAS, the City of Longwood, Florida, deems it necessary to pave East Street, from its intersection with East State Road 434 to its intersection with U.S. Highway 17, Florida Statutes, shall be the City of Longwood, Florida, desiring to pay for the cost of said paving by the levy of special assessments against certain real property located within the City of Longwood, Florida, and being lands and lots adjoining, contiguous to, bounding, and abutting upon the street to be improved;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COMMISSIONERS OF THE CITY OF LONGWOOD, FLORIDA, AS FOLLOWS: 1. That the nature of the proposed improvements to be made pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 170, Florida Statutes, shall be the paving of East Street, between East State Road 434 and U.S. Highway 17.

2. That forty percent of the expense thereof shall be paid by special assessment against lands and lots in the City of Longwood, Florida, as heretofore described, and that sixty percent of the expense thereof shall be paid by the City of Longwood, Florida.

3. That said special assessments may be paid in gross, or in ten (10) annual installments with no installment payment to be less than one-tenth of the total cost of the improvements, and the first installment shall be due and payable one year from the date of enactment of final resolution following completion of construction of said improvements and with all subsequent installments to be due and payable on the same date of each year thereafter, until the entire balance shall be paid. The interest rate shall be established at 8 percent per annum.

4. That said special assessments shall be levied against all lots and lands adjoining, contiguous to, bounding, and abutting upon the street to be improved and upon any lands owned and further designated by the commission and as required by Florida Statute 170.05.

5. That the total estimated cost of the improvements herein designated is $285,175.00 attached hereto as Exhibit "A".

6. That the assessment shall be made against each of the lands as designated on or about the assessment plan or hereinafter described, on a front-foot, pro rata basis, arrived at by division of the total cost of the improvements, as determined by the final resolution of cost of the improvements, by the total front-footage of each lot, lot, or property designated by this resolution, and shown upon the assessment plan as heretofore provided for.

7. That all provisions in conflict herewith, be and the same, are hereby repealed.

8. This resolution shall become effective immediately upon its passage and adoption.

The Right Leader The Right Direction

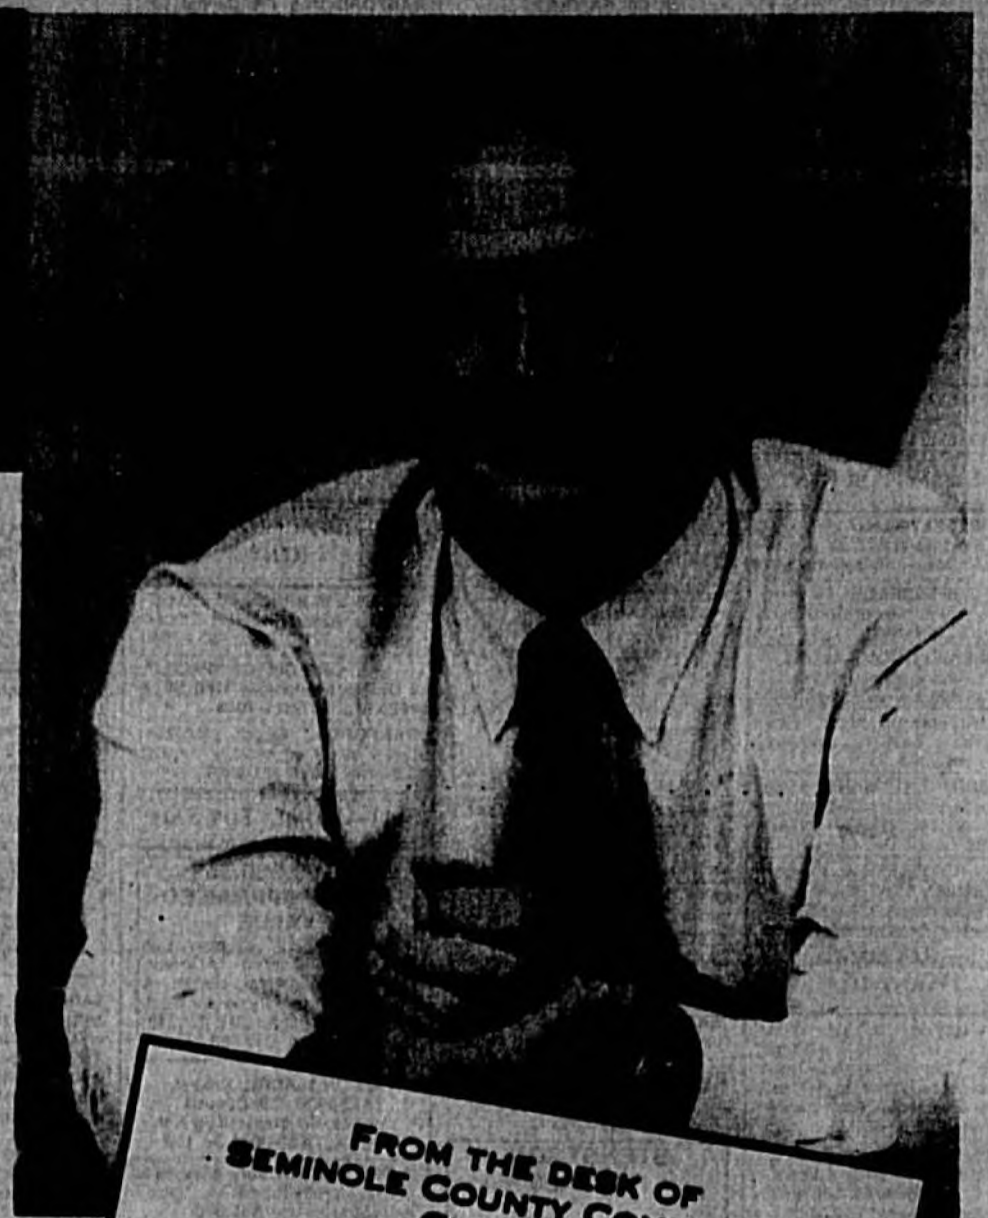

Re-Elect Randy Morris Seminole County Commissioner District 2

A Record of Accomplishments

- Lower tax rates and improved services
- More new businesses and good paying jobs for Seminole County citizens
- Expanded parks and a network of trails for bikers and pedestrians
- Public safety support for law enforcement, fire protection, and emergency medical care
- Major transportation improvements financed with more state and federal money
- Exceptional cooperation with Seminole County cities and Central Florida counties
- Increased sensitivity to our community's appearance and its moral climate

Proven Leadership

- Elected County Chairman 3 out of 4 years
- Chairman of MetroPlan Orlando
- Director of Florida Association of Counties
- Author of November's state-wide initiative to allow citizens full access to their elected officials
- Led the passage of the toughest adult entertainment law in Florida
- Fought for protection of rural boundary zones to limit urban sprawl
- Accomplished a fully funded program for storm water drainage to reduce flooding
- Guided County's transportation strategy for new interchanges, bridges, trails and expressway

FROM THE DESK OF
CHAIRMAN
RANDY MORRIS

I want to take this opportunity to thank my colleagues in public office at all levels, our fine County staff and the citizens of Seminole County who have given me their untiring effort and support during this term of office. Without you, we could not have achieved such dramatic progress in so many areas.

Please vote for me on Tuesday, September 1st, so we can continue to work together to keep our County moving in the right direction.

Silver Hawks looking great in '98

Trying to pick a winner in the Seminole Athletic Conference is always tough. This year it's tougher than normal. There are seven teams and no one stands out among the rest.

Seminole won the conference last year in a tie-breaker against Oviedo. Both teams are still looking tough, but the Noles are replacing a lot on both sides of the ball and the Lions are trying to replace a quarterback and several other key players.

So the pick here, after talking with every coach in the conference, plus several players from each team, is a familiar face at the top of the SAC.

The pick here is...
Lake Howell.

But, unless you missed the cover of this section, that probably isn't a surprise.

Why Lake Howell?

Well, I've been covering Seminole County football pretty closely for two years now. I've seen the best and worst of each team and took a lot of factors into consideration. There wasn't a coach in the county who could identify a clear cut favorite. Even Lake Howell coach Mike Busceglia said he was surprised his Hawks would be the top choice.

But here's why.

Last year, the Hawks went 3-7 which is not only unacceptable at Lake Howell, it just doesn't happen.

Busceglia has his quarterback, Jesse Harrison back along with a load of backs. He has the biggest front line in the county and a strong defense.

Kicker David Lantigua is the best in the county, and he has no problem with depth.

More importantly, Lake Howell is trying to forget last year's awful season. The Hawks has a team full of talent and lacking in heart. Despite the talent, Lake Howell fell into a deep hole and never recovered.

Anyone who saw Lake Howell's win in the spring jamboree would have thought they just won the Super Bowl. It was that emotional and summer practice has been as intense as any in the county.

But it isn't like the Hawks won't get a challenge.

I looked hard at Oviedo to repeat. The Lions had a big finish last year and packed the weight room all summer. It was a close call, but a new quarterback, plus some losses at the so-called skill positions, knock them down to second this year.

A big reason is that the Lions play at Lake Howell. Last year, the Lions basically ended Lake Howell's season, in Week 2 with an overtime victory at Oviedo. Should be a different story at Lake Howell.

Third place goes to Seminole.

Last year, the Noles opened a new tradition with the hiring of coach Jim Worthington. Seminole lost only one SAC game during Worthington's debut season, but, remember, we're just talking about the SAC race here. Seminole games against conference rivals mean 'virtually nothing since they play Class 5A ball.

Now when it comes to state aspirations, don't be surprised to see Seminole playing longer than anyone.

Next is the surprise pick in the conference. It says here that Lyman will finish at least fourth.

I thought long and hard about that one. Personally, I think the Greyhounds will finish higher, I just couldn't decide who they'll beat out for the top three. Larry Baker has his best team in years with several key returnees and a new attitude. Stop by Lyman to check out practice and you'll see a different Greyhound team than the sometimes lethargic team that won just one game last year.

Lake Brantley in fifth. The Patriots triple-option offense can be complicated and it shows when they try to break in a new quarterback. Regan Russell got some snaps last year, but he's getting his first full-time job this fall and he'll have a transfer running back trying to figure out the offense with him.

Like last year, look for the Patriots to peak at the end but struggle at the season's opening.

At Lake Mary, the numbers are low and so are expectations. The Rams went 0-9 See Jeff, Page 25

Remember Oviedo's roller coaster ride of 1997?

By Jeff Matthews Community Services Editor

After working for several years in the Oviedo area, I have seen many changes in the community. One of the most significant changes was the opening of the Oviedo Community Center in 1997. This was a major milestone for the town, providing a central location for various community activities and services.

The center has since become a hub for many programs, including senior center activities, youth sports, and adult education classes. It has truly become a place where the community can come together and engage in various activities.

Over the years, the center has seen many changes in its programming and facilities. It has expanded its offerings to include more diverse activities and services, ensuring that it remains a relevant and valuable resource for the community.

The following year, the center continued to grow and evolve. It introduced new programs and services, further enhancing its role as a community hub. The center's commitment to providing quality programs and services has been a key factor in its success.

As the center continues to serve the community, it remains dedicated to providing a safe and inclusive environment for all. It is proud to be a part of the Oviedo community and to contribute to its growth and development.

The center's success is a testament to the support and participation of the community. It is grateful for the many volunteers and staff members who have made the center a place where everyone can thrive and enjoy various activities.

Behind every great coach is a good woman

By Kellie Werner
 HERALD STAFF
 WRITER

They say that behind every good man there is a good woman.

That is definitely true for the football coaches of Seminole County.

For anywhere from seven to 27 years these women have stood behind their husbands, both at home and on the sidelines and have been a big part of each coaches' season in differing ways.

Four of the six coaches' wives in the county took time to share their stories of how their relationships began, how those relationships have stood the test of time and football seasons and how each copes with the career choice/sport that takes their husbands from them for a few months every year and turns them into eating, drinking, sleeping football machines.

Pam and Greg have been married for seven years. While they have no children of their own yet, Pam said that the 50 or so kids that her husband "has" every football season are enough for her to deal with for now.

The couple met in Jacksonville, where both were living at the time. Pam was working as a hostess at a steak restaurant and Greg was coaching at Ed White High School and finishing his education at the University of North Florida.

"I was working at Steak and Ale and Greg's family would come in often for dinner," Pam recalled. "I fell in love with them first and then got the nerve to ask them if they had a son. They brought him in for dinner one night and the rest just kind of happened."

Entering the life as a coaches' wife was something that Pam accepted from the very start of the relationship. Greg was already coaching but openly admitted that being a football coach was his passion. Quickly, Pam would learn that coaching football could add the element of moving to a lifestyle.

Several years ago, Greg accepted a position as a coach at Trinity Valley Junior College in Dallas. Pam was working for Delta Airlines and the Jacksonville branch had closed. She was able to obtain a position in Dallas so the newly married couple was off to Texas.

Besides coaching, this would prove to be a great opportunity for the Stantons as Greg was able to complete his Masters' Program at the University of Texas at no charge.

Greg experienced great success at Trinity Valley, being named Junior College Coach of the Year when his team won the national championship.

Then it was time to move again. This time a little farther north to Missouri.

"It was so cold there and neither one of us was really happy," Pam explained. "We wanted to be back near our families and near the water. We felt so landlocked there. So Greg put applications out and was really hoping to get a position back in Florida."

That opportunity came about a year ago when Greg was named as the new head coach of the Lake Mary football program. For a third time, the Stantons packed and set out on a new adventure in a new town.

Wives

allows her the flexibility to work for Delta almost anywhere so the moving hasn't been a big hardship.

In fact, neither have the football seasons.

Pam and Greg have an understanding, probably based on the fact that both have accepted this lifestyle from the beginning. Greg doesn't bring his frustration home if he loses, yet Pam is understanding to the fact that the losses are very hard on her husband.

"I have learned when to leave Greg alone for a while," Pam said. "I try to be very understanding and do know how disappointing losses can be for him. But he never brings it home to me. I try to be there for him but since I'm not the coach, I can't fully understand what he's going through. I just let him have his time and then try to be there for him when he's ready to talk about it."

Pam has only missed three of her husband's games and now that she is working days, plans to at least be available for all of the Friday night activities. She has also become very involved in the booster club at Lake Mary mainly because she wants to be involved and partly because her husband believes it's a good idea for her to remain visible. Pam doesn't mind the activities at all...she's helping the school while sharing something with her husband at the same time.

Everything is not a bed of roses during the football season, however, and sometimes Pam doesn't get to see her husband.

"There are times during the season when I just don't get to see much of Greg," Pam said. "I completely understand although the wife in me sometimes doesn't like it very much. We always try to take a really nice vacation together after the season and the rest of the year is like every other marriage."

"Actually, football season isn't so bad. I have total control over the television when Greg isn't home. That's kind of nice."

About nine years ago, Kristen was set up with one of her co-workers.

She was a teacher at Taylor High School in Volusia County and her fellow teachers thought she and one of the other faculty members would be a good mix.

Little did they know how good.

"When Jim and I were set up, the staff and faculty knew that we both had other love interests," Kristen recalled. "From the start, however, we both knew that we were to be together in life. So we eloped. It was very spontaneous and romantic."

Because the two worked together, they tried to keep their marriage a secret from their co-workers. What they didn't count on, however, was the fact that marriage licenses are routinely published. In what seemed like minutes to the Worthingtons, they were barraged with phone calls of tentative congratulations.

Kristen also knew from the beginning of her relationship that football was part of the bargain.

Jim graduated from the high school where he eventually met his wife and attended Duke University where he earned his teaching degree while playing football for Steve Spurrier, now of Gator fame. When he graduated, he secured a job teaching and coaching at his alma mater. Jim then accepted a coaching position at Pine Ridge High School in Volusia County, where he chalked up a 9-2 record in his second year before coming to Seminole County in 1997 and leading the 'Noles to an 8-3 season which included their first trip to the district playoffs in several seasons.

Kristen said that the lifestyle works for them because of compromise.

"I was raised dorm-room style amidst assertive women...no men whatsoever," Kristen said. "The 'coaches wife' or 'football widow' syndrome still mystifies me. I share Jim with coaches, players, fans, parents and reporters, he sincerely tries to include me as a priority during the season."

While Kristen goes to as many games as possible, she did admit that she thinks she is doing well if she makes it to at least a handful of games during the season. She explained her attendance despite a lack of love for the game by saying that while she is a moderate fan of football, she is a number one fan of her husband.

Marital negotiations are a must for the couple. Both teach all day and then Jim has all of the activities like practice, coaches meeting, watching game films and actual games to contend with after a full day of work.

Not to mention that both have papers to grade, reports to read and the usual homework that goes with being a teacher.

"During the football season, compromise is the operative word," Kristen said. "When I watch replays of Friday night's game, it translates into an hour long massage compliments of Jim."

In addition to everything else the Worthingtons have to contend with during football season, Kristen and Jim are expecting their first child in November. Kristen said that this fact only intensifies the season's significance for the both of them.

For over 20 years, Chris Clayton's life has almost revolved around football.

That was a choice she made when she met her husband George when he was playing semi-pro ball and coaching football at a local high school in Pennsylvania. The couple was set up by his roommate.

"I was never a big sports fan," Chris said. "But I just always assumed that George would be a coach all of his life if he could. He has played just about every sport there is but he definitely enjoys football the most."

The Clayton's moved to Florida many years ago when George accepted a teaching/coaching position at Lake Brantley High School. Chris teaches kindergarten and was also able to secure a job in the area. She now teaches at Winter Springs Elementary School.

While Chris has always been involved with George's coaching, she became even more involved when their son Skip took an interest in the sport.

"Skip grew up in a football family," Chris said. "Since the age of three or four, he has been playing with or for his father. There were never any problems at home, though because Skip just always knew that his dad was the coach and George knew how to separate his duties on the field from those as a father. So our home life wasn't affected."

Chris has always enjoyed going to the games but her interest intensified when her son played for her husband at the high school. During those years, she became sort of like a team mom since the players were always at her home and she never missed a game. Skip graduated two years ago, however Chris has remained a big fan of not only Lake Brantley football, but the team's coach as well.

Spending time together has always been a little bit difficult for the Claytons. At one time, George was not only a head football coach, but the athletic director and basketball coach during the same school year. For the past few years, George has been an assistant coach, allowing a little more free time.

Then last year, after the retirement of long time Patriot coach Fred Almon, Clayton took over as the head coach for Lake Brantley, which has brought a lot of extra work with the position.

"George took over as coach last year during a bad situation," Chris said, referring to the fact that Almon had to step down because of health concerns. "But George is still happy to have the opportunity.

It seems that the more involved he is with the team, the more involved I get in an effort to share something with him.

"Football season is tough for us, since we're both up early to go to work and then George doesn't get back into the house until 7 p.m. or so and then still has work to do. I know that the football season isn't the longest but sometimes it sure seems like it. I always want George's teams to do well but sometimes I look forward to the playoffs with trepidation, knowing that the better the team does, the longer it will be until I actually get to spend time with my husband."

Teri Baker: Wife of Larry Baker, coach at Lyman High School

Twenty-seven years of marriage is quite an accomplishment for any couple.

Add coaching football to that mix and it's really quite a feat.

That's how long the Bakers have been married and almost how long Larry has been a head football coach.

"I married Larry when he had already been a coach for two years," Teri said. "I knew what I was getting into because he warned me from the beginning. I don't coach and have never been really athletic but luckily I like sports which I think makes Larry's job a little easier for me to accept."

Larry and Teri met in college and since Larry was a graduate of Lyman High School, he brought his wife back to his home town. Teri is also an educator and has been teaching sixth grade English since she and her husband moved to Seminole County. Since that time, the Bakers have raised three children (two sons and a daughter), survived 27 football seasons and managed to maintain a happy marriage.

That hasn't always been easy for the Bakers.

"We have a plaque in our house that sums up Larry's job as a coach," Teri said. "It says, 'We interrupt this marriage to bring you the football season.' Larry tries very hard not to ignore us and we are very supportive, although we don't always understand. He doesn't bring it home, however, and most times I have to ask questions to find out what's going on with the team. That's when he's home, though, which isn't very often during the season."

Teri did go on to say that she and her husband brainstorm a lot to talk about the problems with which her husband is contending and try to come up with solutions. When Larry is upset, Teri can just tell. He doesn't really need to say anything. So Teri gives him the time alone that he needs and then the two work out the frustration together. Teri added that when the team wins, everything is really great. The frustration, obviously, acts in when there is a loss.

Times were the hardest for Teri when her sons were playing for her husband. She was put in the middle between a coach who needed to deal with his players and sons who wanted to vent about their coach. The coach, unfortunately, was also the dad and that made for a sticky situation when Teri was asked for advice.

"I had to bite my lip a lot," Teri said. "I hated being put in the middle. In all, though, it always worked itself out. Everyone just needed to understand that Larry was a coach on the field and a dad at home."

While Teri has always tried to be involved with the team and has been to just about every game, sometimes she wishes her husband had a different job. Then Teri remembers that Larry is doing this because he truly loves it and is totally dedicated to the program.

"We try to make the best of it," Teri said. "In fact, before the season began, I hosted a dinner for all of the coaches and their wives as a farewell party for our husbands. We do find time for each other. One night a week we put aside time to go out to dinner and

Greyhounds look ready to turn the corner

By Jeff Berlincke
ASSISTANT SPORTS
EDITOR

There's something about Lyman coach Larry Baker that just exudes confidence.

Each year, Baker goes into the season full of excitement. Not a negative word about anybody.

By the end of the last several seasons, though, his greyhounds have limped home with a sub-500 record and a list of blowout losses.

This year, Baker has the same amount of confidence, but this time, it might be warranted.

Lyman is thin in numbers, but have put up a strong summer practice and he has a returning quarterback along with a stable of running backs.

The spring jamboree saw Lyman running off the field with a convincing win over Lake Brantley. Sure, it was a spring game, but a win of any kind is a boost to the Greyhounds.

Last year, the Greyhounds finished 1-8, but threw scares into several teams, including Edgewater and Deland, the eventual district champions, in overtime.

This year, Baker has a strong backfield led by quarterback Brian Krause and a host of running backs including last year's leading rusher Brad Harris, Asa and Dominick Cleveland, Byron Stark, Antoine Sims, Kit Kaminsky, John Hartan, Brad Knight and Julian Johnson.

Baker will need the whole gang since he'll have most of his key players going both ways, on offense and defense.

The receiving corps is a bit thin, but Krause can still look downfield at Jose Gonzales, Matt Pickelstimer, Scott McDonald, Nick Colamarino, Matt Ruggle and James Talley.

"They've all worked hard with Brian," Baker said. "As far as the running backs, I don't know how I can keep them all happy, but they'll get plenty of time on the field going both ways."

Only guard Russ Feist returns to the starting lineup. He's also the only lineman with any varsity experience. He should be joined by his brother, Troy Feist, Josh Lickert, Barry Johnson and David Wagner.

The biggest shoes to fill are graduated kicker Mark Lewis, Travis Rothstein and Nathan Custodio are battling over his position and both played soccer with Lewis last year. Rothstein was the junior varsity kicker last year.

On defense, Baker will have to rely on conditioning with so many players going both ways. Russ Feist, Chad Buker, David Joslyn, Fano Rosario, Mike Essler and Josh Faircloth will get playing time along with many of the offensive linemen.

"We'll just flip-flop everybody," Baker said. "If one of them is a starting offensive guard, they'll back up on the defensive line. Depth isn't a concern yet, but we'll see what happens in the season. They'll have to be in shape."

Johnson, Gonzales, Buker, Sims and Hartan, along with Walter Hadley will fill out the linebackers and almost the entire defensive backfield will be made of running backs.

"We won't have anybody crying about playing time," Baker said. "We're excited to get going."

Lyman can make a major statement in its opener against Seminole, the defending 5A district runners-up.

Lyman center Russ Feist is the only returning starter on the Greyhounds front line. He was too big to play Pop Warner football when he was a kid.

'Hounds line feels Feist-y

By Jeff Berlincke
ASSISTANT SPORTS

He's been through the bad times and even more bad times.

He's stood on the sidelines through several years of losses and, finally, in his senior season at Lyman High, Russ Feist is playing for a team that might be a threat to the rest of the Seminole Athletic Conference.

Feist is the only returning offensive lineman for the Greyhounds, but most of the remaining team units contain depth and Feist, along with just about everybody else at Lyman, is looking forward to doing a little more celebrating this season.

"This year, we have the potential to go a long way," Feist said. "We can feel it." Feist will team up with his brother, Troy on the offensive line. He's got a returning quarterback - Brian Krause - to block for, and a stable of running backs as deep as any unit in the county.

He is also part of the new attitude the Greyhounds seem to have. No longer are 1-8 or 2-8 seasons like the past two acceptable.

"We're working so much harder this year," Feist said. "We're doing

Julian Johnson looking to go out on winning note

By Jeff Berlincke
ASSISTANT SPORTS
EDITOR

Julian Johnson is running out of time.

For three seasons, he's been one of the few standouts on a Lyman team that has struggled mightily. Johnson has been there as a big part of the offensive backfield and a key to the secondary.

Since joining the team, Johnson has been one of the leaders, but he only has this, his senior season, to enjoy a winning season.

Lyman has lost players in the past few years who just didn't feel like coming back to a program on the downside. Johnson has stuck it out and can reap some nice rewards if the Greyhounds play up to their higher-than-usual expectations this year. "Mistakes happen."

Johnson said. "But they can't happen again this year. We have to work harder than anybody and we need to win now."

Johnson has done his share in the past. Johnson has racked up as many minutes of playing time as anyone on the team in his dual role and he doesn't mind a bit.

"I'll play anywhere they want me to play," he said. "Anything to help the team."

Johnson has also spent time helping his family. He got off to a late start in his football career, partly because his mother didn't want him playing football.

"I wanted to play but my mom wouldn't let me," he said. "I just played out in the sandlots but I worked hard at it. Then, my brother was in high school and one of us had to babysit my sister, so he played and now I'm getting a chance."

He's made the most of it.

At least, almost. Johnson wants nothing more than to go out a winner in his senior year. Like several of his teammates, Johnson said he contemplated not coming back once the losses became frustrating, but this season, he might be glad he did. The Greyhounds are deep in the skill areas and have had one of their most intense summer practices in years.

Lyman looked good in a scrimmage against Lake Brantley last spring and coach Larry Baker feels like he has a good thing starting at Lyman.

So does Johnson. "We need to win," Johnson said. "We're working harder than ever. We just have to turn it around for our senior year."

Lyman running back and defensive back Julian Johnson has made it through the tough times at Lyman and plans to go out on a winning note in his senior year.

everything until we get it right. Last year we had too many mistakes and we won't let that happen this year."

Feist said he and his teammates have heard the laughter from members of their own student body, and, especially the opposition over the past few years.

They want to see who's laughing at the end of this season.

"All it does is make us all work harder," Feist said. "We don't get any respect from anybody at all."

Feist knows how important it is to win the opener against Seminole, a team from 5A, but still a conference rival. He said the game is key and, though a Lyman loss won't affect district standings, it's still important to establish a winning tradition at Lyman.

Feist, a senior, said he and his classmates are ready to go out on a winning note.

Seminoles looking to fill some big shoes to repeat

By Kellie Werner
HERALD STAFF
WRITER

Seminole High School's football team has some big shoes to fill.

Those shoes were made by a team that went 8-3 with a loss in the first-round of the playoffs last year because of heart, talent and dedication.

Not to mention good coaching by the then rookie coach, Jim Worthington.

And while this year's team has the same amount of talent overall, many of the weapons that the 'Noles relied on last year have graduated.

That doesn't worry Worthington one bit.

"We brought a lot of good kids up from varsity this year," Worthington explained. "And although we didn't have the best off season, I was pleased with the results. We take the first week of practice to get the drills down and then refine everything in the second week. We are going to prepare for the Kickoff Classic against DeLand just like we would for any other game and I am confident that we'll be where we need to be by that time."

Confidence isn't something that's lacking for the Seminoles. Despite the loss of many seniors, the new upperclassmen feel that they can lead the team to an even better record and a much better showing in the post season.

Defense was a strong unit for the Seminoles last year and this year the offense should be in a position to at least match the efforts. The loss of kicker Jason Armstrong will be felt on special teams, but on both offense and defense, those who moved on are being replaced by very talented athletes who have also had a year's experience in Worthington's program.

It wouldn't be surprising at all if Seminole can again attain the Seminole Athletic Conference title and avenge their early dismissal from the post-season.

Offense:
Two words describe the strength of Seminole's offense: backs and Faine.

In the running back positions, the 'Noles are loaded. Deon Howard is returning for a final year after gaining 1,100 yards rushing last year. He's one of the strongest halfbacks in the county and is expected to at least reach the 1,100 mark this year.

There is a slew of running back power moving up from junior varsity this year. Clarence Lattimer and Willie Bennet will take on the fullback duties while Mario Frederick will man the wingback position.

Then there's Faine... Jeff Faine. This senior lineman is expected to take a leadership role and help guide a young yet inexperienced line. Two returnees will join Faine, Clint Murray and Ed Harold. Center Cornelius Williams is also back and the three seniors should provide large holes for Howard and the other backs.

Leading the offensive strike is junior Garrett Goldsmith. Goldsmith is a second year starter who held his own during last season. Over the summer, he didn't miss a day in the weight room so look for his already strong arm to be a cannon this year.

"We have good solid backs and we are better offensive line wise," Worthington said. "Right now the offense is definitely our strongest attribute."

Defense:
Only three players are returning on the defensive line: Johnnie McKinnon, Joe Watson and Mike Bradley. Jeremy Taylor has moved

Jeff Faine: a wanted man

By Kellie Werner
HERALD STAFF
WRITER

An offensive line has many responsibilities.

It must protect the quarterback, make holes for the running backs and basically stop everything from getting by it.

Jeff Faine takes his job very seriously.

This 6-4, 320 Seminole offensive lineman takes everything he does seriously, though. Whether it be his performance on the field, his leadership of those on the unit or his school work, Faine has put himself above the average football player through dedication, hard work and an insatiable desire to keep doing better.

All of that is paying off, as Faine is one of the most heavily recruited offensive players in the county.

"All of the attention is a little overwhelming," Faine said. "I never expected to get this much attention and it's kind of exciting. I haven't heard anything from the coaches since May because from May to September they aren't allowed to contact me. But I've been told by some of the coaches that they are going to be at the first game and that makes me both nervous and determined to do a great job." That's something that Faine has always done.

Faine was always too big to play Pop Warner as he didn't begin playing football until the ninth grade. Until that time, he played soccer. The physical requirements are much

It's finally time for McKinnon to shine

By Kellie Werner
HERALD STAFF
WRITER

Sometimes the best players have to sit on the bench for a year or two.

That's exactly what happened to Johnnie McKinnon.

This year, finally, the 5-11, 243 defensive tackle will have his turn to shine.

"Last year I had to play behind somebody, which didn't give me much playing time," McKinnon explained. "But I learned from watching such a good player exactly what would be expected from me when I finally hit the field."

Basically, McKinnon mans the side of the field. His job is to make sure that no one get past him, especially the quarterback, running back or wide receiver.

Johnnie McKinnon has waited for his chance, but now he will be a leader on a Seminole defense looking to repeat its 1997 SAC championship season.

Another lesson that McKinnon learned from last year's team is how to be a leader. Despite being only a junior, McKinnon has taken a leadership role on a very young defensive line. His main objective this year is to keep his unit playing as a team. He believes that if he lifts that extra weight or runs that extra mile, he can be a leader by example and show his unit what it takes to be a winner. He also helps to keep his teammates motivated and gives them pointers when they ask for his advice.

McKinnon is also a leader in the classroom. He maintains a 2.5 grade point average.

All of this hard work is for one cause...McKinnon wants to be in the state See McKinnon, Page 35

Lake Howell won't settle for another 3-7 year

By Jeff Berlincke
ASSISTANT SPORTS
EDITOR

At some schools, teams are happy to have a big year every once in awhile.

Maybe a Rotary Bowl berth and a winning record.

That's unacceptable at Lake Howell.

When you play for the Silver Hawks, you're expected to win and at least reach the state playoffs.

Coach Mike Bisceglia has had a lot of success in recent years, but last year was an aberration. A 3-7 record left Lake Howell at home after the final regular season game and the result is a new attitude that could lead Lake Howell to big things this season.

"We're doing pretty well so far in practice," Bisceglia said during summer practice. "Our offense and defenses are making some big plays and we're really getting to know each other."

Last season, the Hawks were full of talent but lacking in chemistry. This year, the team has looked like, well, a team. It's a change from last season and one for the better.

It always helps to have a returning quarterback and the Hawks have Jesse Hannon. Bisceglia said Hannon is having a great summer, but he's a bit of a free spirit.

"Jesse is doing a good job, he just needs to keep his head together," Bisceglia said.

At running back, Lake Howell has several returning players who will run behind the county's biggest offensive line.

Chris Schlechta is the fullback and he'll lead tailbacks Christian DeJesus and Josue Figueroa. Everybody gets a chance in the Lake Howell offense.

"We always spread it around," Bisceglia said. "Everybody gets some glory."

Hannon will have some new receivers to look for this season. Ryan Wilder runs good routes and has great hands and Ricky Streeter can fly. Sophomore Willie Jones, a transfer from Miami will platoon with the other two and bring in the plays from the sidelines.

Earl Elkins leads the offensive line along with center Brett Hadaway, a transfer from Colonial and Aaron Wood. At tackle, Ryan Brown, Chris Wilson and Pedro Mo-

It's a big offensive unit that should light up the scoreboards. On defense, the Hawks are a little smaller, but that should be the unit that makes the difference. If Lake Howell can keep the opposition out of the end zone enough to score some points, it could mean a big season.

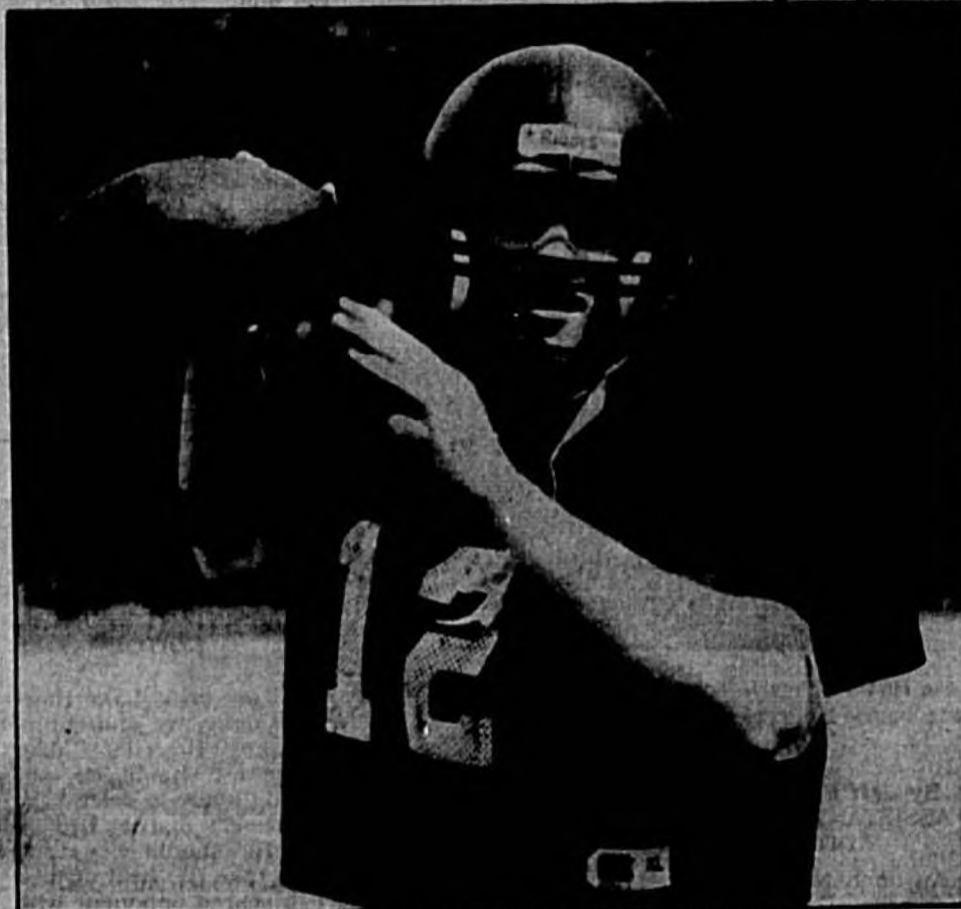

Larry Cummings is one of the best defensive backs in the county, and he leads the backfield. Chris Turner, Larry Petroff, Rory O'Connor and Jason Lubbe will also spend plenty of time there.

Lubbe suffered a concussion and missed some practice time, but he's expected back for the regular season.

Adam Hardy is an anchor to the linebackers, but he too is injured. Hardy suffered an injured knee but Bisceglia hopes he'll be ready soon. Mike Sevard and Abraham Morales will out the other linebacker spots.

The line is deep. Casey Ortiz and Steve McChesney will split time at nose guard, but Bisceglia said, regardless of who wins the job, McChesney will start somewhere.

Curtis Huseliman and Travis Caroway will line up at the end

Jesse Hannon is back for another season as the Lake Howell quarterback. He has a strong backfield and a new corps of receivers to work with in 1998.

spots with Nick Mahon and Brendan Schrock tackle the tackle spots.

Lake Howell also has the league's best kicker in David Lantigua, a guy with excellent range who is already being recruited by some of the biggest schools in the country.

"We're young on defense and we're not very big there, but if we have some luck on our side and the breaks don't go like they did last year, we can do okay," Bisceglia said.

"We don't want too many highs or too many lows. We just need to stay level-headed."

Cheerleaders are trying to change stereotypes

A flip of the hair, a toothy smile, and an occasional "Go team."

This is the stereotype from the past of the average high school cheerleader. With a new generation, though, come new and better ideas; the varsity squad at Seminole High School is trying their hardest to make sure that the stereotype of the past stays in the past, and people look at cheerleaders in a new light.

"We are athletes. We work out in the weight room for a half-hour on Tuesdays and Thursdays and have practices on Wednesdays as well as after we lift weights," clarified Joni Reyes, a senior and two-year member on the squad.

Though there has been much controversy on the classification of cheerleaders, the majority of students now in high school consider cheerleaders as more than just performers on the sidelines.

Yelling and screaming for a crowd is not all these ladies do. They have their own responsibilities that they have to fulfill before each game. In addition to their practices, where they learn new routines and practice ones for the upcoming game, they make banners and posters to support the football team and they also try to keep team morale up by giving each of the football players a "candy bag" full of sweets to keep their spirits high.

Even with all that they do, some girls on the squad believe that the term "athlete" is a little strong.

"We are performers," said senior Terry Quinn. "We are there to please the crowd. If we could do more stunts and more advanced routines, then we would be athletes." According to the girls on the team, advisor and coach Linda Sapp is the one responsible for determining the routines' difficulty level.

With all of the cheering-up that the cheerleaders are supposed to do for other, there are some things that would help lift their spirits as well. Senior Laralle Raines commented, "We have limited resources, and nowhere to practice. The football team is on the football field, the volleyball team is in the gym, and the Dancers are in the multi-purpose. There are so many sports, you take what you can get."

Not only do spectators get a glimpse at the Seminole High cheerleaders at football and basketball games, but they can also be seen around the community. For example, on Aug. 25, the squad performed for the Sanford Chamber of Commerce at Fort See Cheers, Page 88

The Seminole High School cheerleaders are just one of seven units that perform at road and home football games and other sports events throughout the season. Not only are they a fixture on the sidelines and inside the gymnasium, the units perform at community events and are involved with spirit events all year for nearly every sports team. Most of them are accomplished gymnasts as well.

Homecoming '98 is much more than just a football game. It's actually a whole week of festivities ranging from theme days to the football game on Friday night, followed by the traditional Homecoming dance on the weekend. Last year, Lake Mary had problems when lightning rained out the game against

HERALD STAFF WRITER

With all the work involved in putting together Homecoming, the school in the county have already begun organizing.

At Lyman High School, Ms. Yvette Rhode's two leadership classes have set to work planning out Homecoming Week. Themes and songs were discussed, and it was voted that Lyman's theme this year would be Hawaiian.

In order to actually prepare for Homecoming, the two leadership classes have split into committees to decide what to do for each of the various events which go on during the week. Certain things are traditional and somewhat set in stone, but there are an infinite number of details which the students must decide how to handle.

The first Homecoming event that the rest of the student body must start organizing for is the Powder Puff game. Powder Puff features a flag football showdown between the junior and senior girls, as males participate dressing themselves as cheerleaders. Powder Puff begins first, as the participants have two weeks of practice before the game itself.

By the time Monday, October 19, the first day of Homecoming Week, rolls around, Ms. Rhode and her leadership classes will have worked long and exhausting hours to prepare everything. Tiring days of planning and organizing will finally start to show their reward. It is then that they must do even more work. Monday, they distribute spirit books, listing the events of the week, the Homecoming Court nominees, the names of and numbers of all the varsity football players, and divers other information. After school, the freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors compete at decorating their respective hallways. On Tuesday, the hallways are judged, and a winner is named.

Wednesday, there is a float decorating party. The clubs and organizations designing floats work on them, and prepare them to be judged. Students also decorate their cars as a contest.

Thursday brings Powder Puff, and at halftime, the winners of the float competition are announced, and the classes compete at a number of odd events.

Friday, the pep rally is held, with the winning floats parading around the track, and each member of the varsity team having name read off to the crowd. That night, beginning at 5:30, the alumni reception is held. Ms. Rhode notes historically low turnout to this event, and is trying her best to get a larger crowd. She encourages all Lyman graduates to remember "there is a reason the call it Homecoming." She request that anyone desiring information about Homecoming call her voice mail at 320-2353.

Following the alumni reception, the Lyman Greyhounds will face off against Deland in the Homecoming game.

Saturday, the leadership classes will decorate for the dance, which will be from 9-12.

Lake Mary's Homecoming preparation and events will be similar, but with a few differences. Lake Mary, with the theme of "Sunset Serenade," will kick off their Homecoming Week on Monday, September 28, with the "Sundown Throwdown." Marcy Gray, a Lake Mary faculty member described it as "a clash between the classes." The students compete at a three-legged race, a tricycle race, and many bizarre competitions.

While Lake Mary's Homecoming is also organized by the leadership class, many of the clubs hold their own contests. The Spanish Club holds a lip sync contest and the Drama Club runs a banana eating contest during lunch. Also during lunch, Step Team and Chorus perform.

During the week, students participate in theme days such as College Day, Plaid and Flannel Day, and 80's Days.

Usually, the Lake Mary holds its Homecoming parade down Greenway Boulevard on the Wednesday of the week, but this year it had to be canceled as it conflicted with Yom Kippur. The idea of rescheduling the parade was considered, but in the end it proved to troublesome to be brought into fruition. The tradition of the bonfire has also been canceled for a number of reasons, one being the heat.

Before the game, on Friday against Winter Springs, the Homecoming king and queen will be announced. Lake Mary will soon have its Homecoming Court chosen made up of five senior couples and 3 junior couples. They are making sure to have their court selected in time to include them in Lake Mary's spirit book.

Saturday, the dance is held, and the leadership class has considered hiring a decorating company for the event which normally has around one thousand people in attendance. The dance goes from 8-12 p.m. in the cafeteria and R.E.F Room.

Organizing a Homecoming Week involves countless hours of hard work. Across the county, students and teachers alike put in their free time to make the experience an enjoyable one for all involved.

Rams look to end 11- game losing skid

By Jeff Berlinicke
ASSISTANT SPORTS
EDITOR

The goals are pretty simple at Lake Mary this year.

Just win a game.

That wasn't done last year as the Rams went 0-9, failing to win a single game for the first time in school history.

Coach Doug Peters resigned after the season and a strong group of seniors graduated, leaving the cupboard almost bare for new coach Greg Stanton.

It wasn't like the Rams were getting blown out every week last year; they just made mistakes at crucial times and the whole season started to snowball.

Still, the Rams found a way to put together their best performance in of the season in a heartbreaking 7-6 loss to Seminole in the final week of the season.

The graduation losses were deep, especially on defense and on the offensive line. Since taking over after Peters' resignation, Stanton, a former junior college coach of the year, has completely revamped the team, working mostly with last season's junior varsity and changing a lot of positions of the few returnees.

Stanton admitted he knew what he was in for, taking over a team that was winless last year, but he still has some weapons at his disposal.

And he's putting most of it on defense.

"Our best 11 athletes will play defense," Stanton said.

That's where his strength is.

The defense is way ahead of the offense," Stanton said. "We're not where we need to be but we've had enough position changes so it's our strength."

On the defensive, Lake Mary has to replace standouts such as Dustin Lord, Cam Carter, Shawn Gray, Tony Martin, Matt Stevenson and a host of others, but at least Justin Wright, despite playing both ways, is back to lead the unit that Stanton said will be the strength of the team.

Among the transfers from offense to defense are former tight end Eric Schmook (defensive end), John Ames (offensive guard to defensive end), Charles Harris (running back to defensive back and Dwayne Lowery (tailback to cornerback).

Standout linebacker Kyle Cocita will be missing for at least half the season after sustaining a broken foot during summer practice, but Stanton still feels okay about the defense.

"By far we are better on the defensive line because of our personnel," Stanton said. "My philosophy is that the best players are on defense and I don't care if we score a point all year."

Besides Schmook and Ames, Jack Etheridge and Javier Rutz round out the defensive line.

At linebacker, Ryan DiChiara, Haven Perkins, Mike Nuntzala and a combination of Jerry Licata and Derek Chontas make up the unit, at least until Cocita returns.

Russ Abrams is a steady kicker who hit a 37-yarder during the spring game against Seminole.

On offense, there are tons of question marks. First off, quarterback Cory Cooper lost his favorite receiver, Tim Spivey, to graduation. Secondly, Cooper has struggled all summer with a health ailment and is just beginning to Cory Cooper will start again this year for Lake Mary. He is one of few returning offensive starters.

By Jeff Berlinicke
ASSISTANT SPORTS
EDITOR

Greg Stanton tried to change his team's attitude almost immediately.

The Rams are in the midst of an 11 game losing streak, dating back to the second-to-last game of 1996.

Lake Mary was winless last season and often blown out. It all started when the Rams squandered a 17-0 lead in the opener at Edgewater, then fumbled at the goal line in the final seconds in a loss to Lyman.

After that, it was all downhill as the streak snowballed and, eventually, coach Doug Peters announced his resignation.

needed a winning attitude.

Stanton's first order in his first practice last spring was to have his players practice a brand new drill.

Celebrating.

Stanton said he planned to have his team practice celebrating for 10 minutes before the first practice even started. It's a feeling the Rams haven't been able to express recently.

Stanton, however, has had plenty of chances to celebrate in the past few years.

He's a former national junior college coach of the year from his days at Trinity Valley College which won the national junior college championship in 1994.

Prior to that, Stanton worked as a coach at Ed White (an opponent on the Rams' schedule this season) and Terry Parker High Schools in Jacksonville.

He also worked at Missouri Valley College before moving on to Trinity.

Despite the differing locales, Stanton is a Florida guy and wanting to get back was a main reason for taking the Lake Mary job.

"I want to establish a program that the whole community can get behind," Stanton said earlier in the year. "There's no pressure to win immediately because the only pressure I feel is what I put on myself."

Stanton is inheriting a nearly empty cupboard. He suffered major losses to graduation, but still has athletes like Cory Cooper, Justin Wright, Lawrence Rudolph and a few others returning. Stanton's team will also be thin. He has only about 20 players on the junior varsity roster and almost all of them will suit up for the varsity.

Still, Stanton feels he can make the adjustment to the high school game after seven years in college.

"I'm a player's coach," Stanton said. "I got into coaching so that I can instill what my coaches gave to me and I think I have learned a good sense of knowing what buttons to push."

"I believe very strongly in discipline," Stanton continued. "It's not about saying 'yes, sir,' or 'no, sir,' it's about respect."

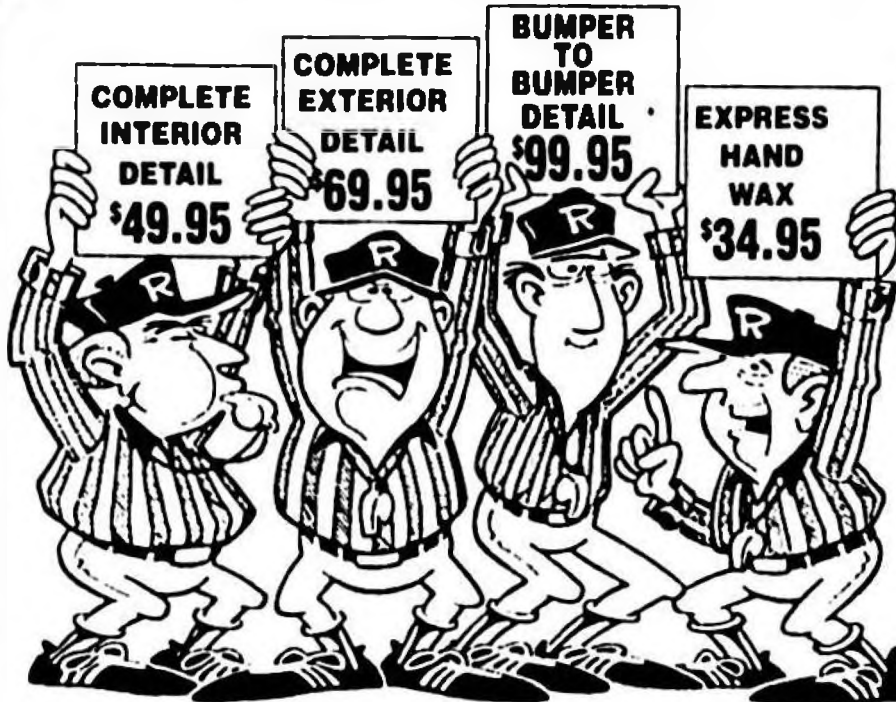

As a college player, Stanton was a center at Georgia Southern University where he played for famous coach Erk Russell.

At least he suited up. His number was 106, not a normal number for a guy getting a lot of playing time.

He still learned some valuable lessons at Georgia Southern.

"I will put my best athlete at quarterback," he said. "We have to learn how to stop people, control the ball

Building a new tradition at Winter Springs High

By Kellie Werner
HERALD STAFF
WRITER

It's a new football season for everyone in the country.

For Winter Springs High School, that means something even bigger.

This is the first year that the second-year high school will play varsity football and it will be playing without any seniors.

The good news for the Bears, however, is that they have almost everyone back.

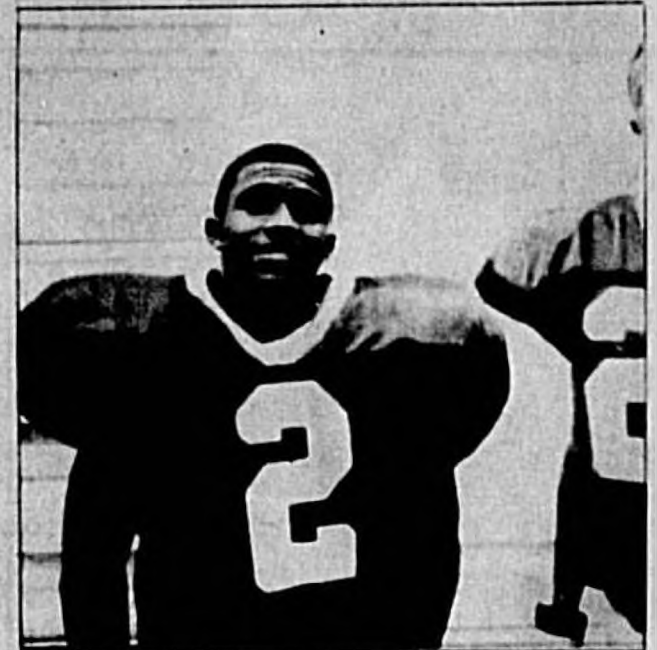

"We have all but a few who decided not to play back," Winter Springs coach Mike Harris said. "That gives us a little more experience and maturity. The entire team knows that we have no seniors and that will make it hard for us to compete at a certain level. But all of the kids also know that we are building and that is something to be excited about."

Harris credits good attitude and tremendous work ethic as the strengths of his team. Strength, size and the number of players are the weaknesses, as well could be the maturity level of the players.

Just how much maturity the Bears will have remains to be seen. They handled the obstacles that befell them last year with class and as much maturity as could be expected from an all freshman and sophomore team. This year, everyone has at least a year of playing for Harris' program under their belt and how well they react to their new position in the football world will depend on their desire, discipline and dedication.

Offense:

One big weapon for Winter Springs is quarterback Brandon Blake (5-8, 205). Last year he took a little time to settle into his position, but by the end of the season was running the offense as well as Harris could expect. Now he has a season and an entire summer of conditioning under his belt and is expected to take charge of the offense and help

Blake's brother, Johnny (5-4, 145) was the leading rusher on the team last year and will be looked to by the Bears to excel at the tailback position. Wide receiver Brett Weber will also be a go to guy for Blake and is expected to be the recipient of many of the quarterback's straight, drop back passes.

If the offense can put some points on the board early in the season, they should be able to instill some much needed confidence in the young team. They are in better shape so far this season than the defense, so good ball control will be necessary to keep the pressure off the defense.

"With one year under their belts, this team plays together. They are definitely Winter Springs Bears now. Their growth and maturation will come with time and our main focus for the beginning of the year is to put some points on the board so we can gain confidence and experience," Harris said.

Defense:

Two key defensive players are returning after outstanding seasons last year. Line-men Miguel Machado (5-0, 295) and Scott Rankin are expected to take leadership roles on the defense. Both have worked very hard in the off season and Machado made it all the way to the state competition for weight lifting last year.

Defense, however, is not a strong point for the Bears. While they have not done too badly, they are not in the best shape and will depend on the offense to keep them off the field as much as possible so they can remain fresh. They just don't have the size and strength that the other heavily senior-laden defenses of the county have. How could they? They are only juniors, sophomores and freshmen.

Some of the players will be pulling double duty, like Machado who actually plays defensive tackle, offensive guard and even gets some playing time on special teams. This also adds to the need for the offense to keep the defense off the field as much as possible.

Speaking of special teams, this is neither a week or strong point for the Bears. They have their snapper and kicker back. As was stated above, quite a few players will be helping out on special teams that also play other positions. This could be a detriment to the unit, but also allows the best players to be a part of the unit.

Being a quarterback on any high school team contains an element of pressure.

Add to that the fact that your last name is Blake, and the pressure suddenly rises.

That is the position in which Brandon Blake, the quarterback for Winter Springs High School has been placed.

"My dad was a player and a coach, and he coached my brother, Jeff (Jeff Blake is a graduate of Seminole High School who is now a quarterback for the Cincinnati Bengals) until he went to college," Blake explained. "Both he and my brother have been very helpful to me, working with me all the time and sending me to camps. But the bottom line is that when I'm on the field, I have to do it all myself. You can only be who you are and although I would love to break all of my brother's records, I can only play to the best of my ability."

While Blake has been playing football nearly all his life, he played the tight end position until the eighth grade. And this year, the 6-2, 205 quarterback is in yet another pressure situation.

Winter Springs High School will play its first ever varsity season this year, with Blake at the helm of the offense.

"If Blake were a little nervous about the impending season, that would be completely understandable.

But he's not. "That doesn't scare me at all," Blake said. "And it shouldn't scare anyone else, either. If everyone does their job, we can win. I am totally expecting to go to the playoffs and if we make it that far. See Blake, Page 34

Miguel Machado summed up his winning attitude with one statement.

"I believe that my ambition and will to play are in my blood."

And he proves that fact every time he steps onto a football field.

Winter Springs' 6-0, 295 defensive tackle is one of the strongest at his position in the county. And he accomplishes this while also playing at the offensive guard position and even filling in on special teams when needed. In addition, Machado went all the way to the state competition last year for weightlifting.

"Although I can play both positions, I prefer playing on defense," Machado said. "Sure I get tired when I play all three, but it's worth it. I prefer defense because I like knowing that we can prevent people from making the big play. We are responsible for stopping the run and it's nice when you can get through once in a while and make the sac. But our first priority to defend our spot and make sure that we give the ball back to the offense."

Machado's football career didn't begin until he was in the ninth grade, because he was always too big to play Pop Warner. In fact, as a freshman he weighed in at 280. He was a member of Lyman's undefeated freshman team during his first season before transferring to Winter Springs and again playing for his coach from Lyman, Mike Harris.

Machado said that last year was a tough start for the Bears. Because the team was such a melting pot of athletes that had never really played before, it took the team a while to gel and begin playing as a family. Now, he says, that is one of their strongest assets, that they are a family.

"That attitude comes down from the coaching staff," Machado explained. "Coach Harris makes sure that we all know that it's us against the world, that we only have each other to depend on. We are friends off the field and help each other with homework and stuff like that. And when we are on the field, we have to do our job first and then watch our teammates' backs second. That is how we play every down."

While many in the community are not expecting big things from this first year varsity team, the players have a different view of how the season will go.

"If we play like we know how and follow the advice of our coaching staff, there isn't anything we can't accomplish," Machado said.

Attitude is everything, right? If that's the case, look for Winter Springs to be the surprise of the county.

Lake Brantley gets bigger, faster, stronger

By Alex Kane
HERALD STAFF
WRITER

"The more we sweat in peace, the less we bleed in war."

With those words in mind, the Lake Brantley team has prepared to prove how good they can be without the injuries suffered last season.

The team, which finished 4-5, after losing its last three games with several players hurt, will look for strong leadership from returning players, and hopes that the younger players can fill the gaps left at key positions. Coach George Clayton notes his team had an excellent summer program, and have gotten "bigger faster, stronger."

They will need to prove themselves early with key games against Apopka and Deland, defending conference champions, to start the season.

Perhaps Lake Brantley's greatest asset this year, is not their athletic talent, but their attitude. The coaches and players try to keep a spirit of unity and brotherhood. Every game, they hold hands as they walk onto the field, and hold hands in the huddle.

"Hard work and dedication made Lake Brantley so successful," said senior Clint Hanson.

Regan Russell will lead the Patriots offense at quarterback, taking over for last year's starter, Brian Criswell. He will have to execute the triple option offense. The triple option is a running play in which the quarterback has three choices. His first option is to pitch it to the halfback, then he may take it himself, or give the ball to the fullback. This play is relied on almost exclusively by Lake Brantley, and for one good reason: it works. While some players feel that the team could benefit from some other plays, the triple option has proven extremely difficult to stop. Coach Clayton said, "The reason the offense is so effective is the difficulty of stopping three options." Russell will look to option to running back John Miller and all-purpose backfield player Lanier Bush.

The offensive line should be anchored this year by senior guard Aaron Shealy.

Coach Clayton expects to have a very good season defensively. This year's defense, according to Clayton, is young but experienced. Many juniors on the squad, but as a whole, very athletic. He hopes strong leadership from the returning seniors will motivate the rest of the defense. Safety Mike Jackson, defensive tackles Chris Raut and Bill Fritsch, defensive end Ron Bledsoe, outside linebacker Steve Boggs, and middle linebacker Clint Hanson, who Clayton refers to as "the spiritual leader of the defense," will need to provide guidance for the younger, less experienced players.

Coach Clayton says he is optimistic about that the season, and says simply, "We have a chance to be pretty good."

Lake Brantley quarterback Regan Russell will be the latest Patriot to lead the patented triple option offense. Russell played several games last season after injuries to starting quarterback Brian Criswell.

Hanson leads Patriots both on and off the field

By Alex Kane
HERALD STAFF
WRITER

Aside from excelling at his position, Patriots' middle linebacker Clint Hanson is also the spiritual leader of his team's defense.

At 6'2, 205 pounds, Hanson plays an important role for Lake Brantley on and off the field. This year, he hopes to lead by example, and keep the Lake Brantley tradition of hard work, dedication, and brotherhood alive. In his third year on the varsity team, Hanson wants a strongly united team, and believes that is the only way to win. He said that his greatest assets to the team is his tenacity and the vibe he sets off on the field.

On the field, his coach, George Clayton says he has a great nose for the ball. Hanson lead the Patriots in tackles last year.

He assuredly stated, "Expect great things from Lake Brantley football this season." Clint Hanson will try to do as much as he can to prove that statement accurate.

Shealy leads Pats' line

By Alex Kane
HERALD STAFF
WRITER

Aaron Shealy, a 6'3, 275 pound offensive guard at Lake Brantley, made All-Conference and All-District last year.

His coach, George Clayton, describes him as an "excellent drive blocker with very good feet." Clayton also noted that Shealy is a definite college prospect.

Shealy credits his superior ability to good footwork and strong legs. This year he hopes to provide leadership and consistency to his team.

The most difficult part of Shealy's position, he says, is the constant dependency on his position by the backfield. Lake Brantley runs the ball nearly every down, and Shealy, therefore, concentrates mostly on run blocking.

"I like blocking running plays," Shealy said. "I hate to pass block."

Oviedo has its eyes on the Florida Swamp

Oviedo quarterback Kenny Starling has some game experience from last season and is taking over the reins from Josh Cullen.

By Jeff Berlinke
ASSISTANT SPORTS
EDITOR

The transition is over at Oviedo.

Last year, the Lions made it to the second round of the states. This year, they want the season to end at the Swamp in Gainesville, site of the state championships.

Greg Register is no longer a new coach and the team that went into the second round of the state playoffs last season are looking to improve on the 8-4 finish.

Last season, the Lions started out strong, going 3-1 out of the gate, then suffered through a mid-season slump before catching fire at the end and knocking off Dr. Phillips in the first round of the states.

This season, Oviedo has a chance to go at least as far. The Lions lost a ton of talent including quarterback Josh Cullen, backs Kenny Kane, Jaime Scott and Leroy Jackson and a host of other seniors, but the Lions, as usual, have plenty in the cupboard.

Register and offensive lineman Ryan Hawk both said they are confident in quarterback Kenny Starling who will be starting for the first time this season. Starling has looked strong in summer camp and he still has veteran running backs Larry Grayson and Kevin Quintero along with wide receiver Justin Holmes returning from last season.

Starling hit on a 75-yard touchdown pass to Holmes during the Lions' Orange and Black scrimmage last

Oviedo looking to Register a Blanner season

By Jeff Berlinleke
ASSISTANT SPORTS
EDITOR

When you start off discussing the weaknesses of the Oviedo defense, the person to ask is nose guard Greg Blanner.

"I can't think of any weaknesses," he said. "As long as we play together as a unit, we don't have any weaknesses."

Overexaggerating? Not really. Last year, the Oviedo defense never missed a beat despite new coach Greg Register. Register had been the Lions' defensive coordinator under former coach Jack Blanton, so the transition was smoother and culminated when the Lions shut down Dr. Phillips' high-powered offense en route to an upset win in the first round of last year's regionals.

The Lions were routed in the next round, but Oviedo returns a solid defensive unit, led by Blanner and linemen Tony Palmieri and Brandon Clark.

Blanner is the leader of the Oviedo defense, but says he is nothing more than a piece of a very strong puzzle.

"I guess I have responsibility as a defensive captain," Blanner said. "But I know I'm no more important than anyone else in the group. We all work together."

Blanner's come a long way from a guy that never played organized football until he stepped onto the Oviedo campus as a ninth-grader.

Before he started at Oviedo, he was a soccer player.

"I played soccer my whole life," he said. "Then I decided to give football a try and I stuck with it."

When you're 6-2, 250, it's easy to stick with football over soccer. Blanner has aspirations of big-time college football next season and he's already qualified academically.

But that has to be put on hold, at least until the Oviedo football season is over. The Lions stumbled in last April's spring game, falling to hated arch-rival Lake Howell. The Hawks stormed onto the field after the game and more than just a few Oviedo players hung around long enough to watch the celebration, including several members of the Oviedo defense.

"I'm friends with a lot of those guys," Blanner said. "I think anytime a rivalry is that big it just makes you work harder all summer when something like that happens."

Blanner also said it helps having Register as coach, especially to the defense which has grown up working under him.

"Coach is a good guy," Blanner said. He likes to work us, but he also works himself 24 (hours)-7 (days a week). He's always here working."

Hawk takes center stage

By Jeff Berlinleke
ASSISTANT SPORTS
EDITOR

He handles the ball as much as anyone on the Oviedo football team, you just never notice him.

Ryan Hawk has been with the Oviedo program for four years and hasn't made the box score yet.

But without him, the starting center, there would be no Oviedo offense.

Hawk is the captain of the offense, a take-charge guy who holds responsibility over the entire offense.

"I know I have to watch out for the younger guys," Hawk said. "Last year, most of our offensive line was made up of juniors, and now I have

Hawk's offensive line took Oviedo to some high heights last year. After a strong 3-1 start, followed by a slump, the Lions rolled through the end of the regular season and shocked highly-ranked Dr. Phillips in the first round of regionals. Running back Jamie Scott ripped holes through opposing defenses and Hawk, as the anchor of the line, was one of the main reasons for Scott's success.

This year, Hawk doesn't mind standing See Hawk, Page 34

from the offense this year mostly due to his great ability to run. While the line was slightly ahead of last year by practice time, they were not as far along in the experience department. Worthington said that he was happy with their performance in the spring and at the Orange and Black game, the defense was in better shape than the offense at the end of the game.

In the secondary, which was possibly the best in the county last year, two players are returning. Bobby Williams, who handled a lot of the kick off return duties last year, and Joe Watson will man those positions, leaving the third spot up for grabs. Bennett is a possible consideration, but no deci-

As for special teams, Matt Nixon has moved up from the junior varsity to replace Armstrong. He is primarily a kicker so Goldsmith will probably handle the punting. Howard will be returning kick-offs.

"We have a lot of good athletes on defense," Worthington said. "Some will be playing both ways but I hope for only a series, not all night. Some of the players have not come up through our program or have never played before. That gives us a slight experience problem. But they'll catch on quickly and should be up to speed by the time we face DeLand."

"My expectations are to go all the way. That is the goal every sea-

Seminole coach Jim Worthington enjoyed a successful first season last year, leading Seminoles to a Seminole Athletic son. We want to win the district and then concentrate on the playoffs. We have as good a shot as anyone if we stay healthy and focused. We have to play tough in all the games which might be difficult when we have big games back to back. We play some of

Hawk

in the shadows as long as Oviedo goes farther than last season.

"After seven years of playing offensive line, I'm kind of used to not getting noticed," Hawk said. "I know the offense can't get it done without me."

At 6-2, 250, he's got the size necessary to move along into big-time college football. Oviedo coach Greg Register just doesn't seem to want Hawk to be too full of himself just yet.

"He's a good kid," Register said. "Potentially, he's a great Division I prospect. He's earned that and he has all the mechanics needed to be a good center. He just needs to work harder."

Hawk's head was facing the floor as Register laughed at the last comment and left the room.

It's been seven years now since Hawk started playing football on the Pop Warner level in Oviedo. He said he's always played line, even through his Pop Warner career.

Now that he's at Oviedo, Hawk is looking forward to making his senior year his best yet.

"I think we work harder than anyone to be where we are," Hawk said. "We are the hardest working team in Seminole County and we're in better shape by game time."

This year, Hawk will have to adapt to a new center with the graduation of quarterback Josh Cullen. Kenny Starling is taking over the reins as one of the few first-year quarterbacks in Seminole County. Hawk said he's ready for the transition.

"Kenny is a great team player," he said. "He knows how to run the offense and I think he'll do great."

Faine

different for football and soccer so Faine had to make a choice. He chose football and has been very happy with his decision.

In addition to the internal discipline and desire that Faine has, there is one other thing that motivates him. The fact that the season ended much earlier than he wanted last year.

After winning the Seminole Athletic Conference last year and moving on to post season play in its district, Seminole was unable to continue what its 9-2 season had set them up to accomplish.

This was very hard to the team to accept, especially the seniors.

"Last year had a very sad ending," Faine recalled. "The seniors especially expected to go a lot farther than we did. It was a real reality check for us and we learned that it could all end way too quickly. So we have to give 100 percent at all times...in every quarter, on ever down for every second. Our spirit was broken last year but now that loss is our motivation."

Faine doesn't really need motivation, however. The senior has maintained an over all grade point average of 3.1, scored 1050 on his Standardized Achievement Test and has evolved into a true leader for the high school football team.

"I'm not a leader because I have to be," Faine said. "If I lead, I try to do so by example. I watched the leaders last year like T.J. (Martin) and watched him inspire the team with his spirit. That's what I hope to accomplish this year."

With the spirit that Faine has already shown, he shouldn't have any trouble reaching that or any other goal.

Blake

there is no reason why we can't win the 3A state championship."

Blake can certainly do his job. Although he started on the freshman team at Seminole High School, he moved to Winter Springs last year. He has been with the program for two years now and has a good idea of what is expected of him on the field. He is a very good passer, preferring the straight drop back pass, and the offense is set up at Winter Springs to compliment his strengths.

Blake also credits his strong offensive line for easing his worries. He knows that if he continues to get the protection that he has enjoyed in the past, he will be able to find his receivers. That could be the key to the offensive attack for the Bears this year.

Lions

Register cradled the ball an Oviedo pulled off the improbable miracle.

"We never thought it was an upset," Hawk said. "We found out we were better than anyone thought we were."

The bus ride to Dr. Phillips may have been kind of quiet, but the ride back to Oviedo?

"We were going crazy," Branner said. "register had as much fun as anyone."

"Anytime you win a game like that, especially one that no one expects you to win, well, we started believing in ourselves after that."

The Lions, with busloads of fans behind the, travelled to Columbia High the following week and got pounded, 50-20, by Columbia in Lake City despite seven spirit buses. The Lions were tied at the end of the first quarter after a Cullen one-yard run, but it was 28-7 at the half and the Lions were never close again.

Still, it was a stretch to get that far. For Oviedo High, Register's catch ranks right up with

Mahon said he's ready to be a team leader, even if he has to assert himself.

"If no one else steps up, I'll step up," Mahon said. "Whatever we need to do."

Mahon stepped u for the first time when he decided to give football a try after ninth-grade.

"I just figured I would give it a try," he said. "It seemed like something new."

Since making the jump, Mahon has experienced a district title and a 3-7 season.

This season?

Mahon said the team gave up too many times last season, especially after the slow start and said it won't happen again. He'll be a big part of whether or not the Hawks return to their perch on the top of the Seminole Athletic Conference or if they fade after another slow start.

Lions

week and Grayson had a big night carrying the ball.

Hawk leads a veteran offensive line and, at 6-2, 250, has already qualified for colleges. He's getting plenty of attention.

"He's a good kid and potentially a Division I athlete," Register said. "He's worked hard and he's got all the mechanics."

The defense is also a strong point. Greg Blanner is one of the county's best linemen and he, along with Brandon Clark, Tony Palmieri, Cedric Harris, Maurico Castillo, Matt Gross and Chad Miller, are some of the keys to the Lions defense.

"I think the Oviedo defense is the strongest in the county," Blanner said. "We just need to play Oviedo football. We know as a team we can be the best in the county."

Register was the defensive coach at Oviedo before assuming the head job last year, so he's quite familiar with most of his personnel.

He got a chance to become even more familiar with them during the summer. His Lions were among the hardest working teams in the county during the heat of June and July.

"I think we still have a lot of work to do," Register said. "I think it should be easier this year. The kids know our staff and I've always run the defense. It could have been difficult last year, but the way it worked out, it couldn't have worked out better."

Next, at running back, Lawrence Rudolph returns at fullback and will team up with Wright to make up the backfield. Wright is a speedster, but will probably be forced to go both ways with the Rams' lack of depth.

Matt Mergo will also spell at fullback.

"Lawrence is a bruiser. Justin is a big kid with blinding speed and Matt is as good a fullback as we have on the team," Stanton said.

Eric Coleman, who scored on an 80-yard sweep during Saturday's inter-squad scrimmage, will also get some carries.

The offensive line has gone through some changes with several players moving to defense. Those on the line that remain haven't even played an entire practice together as a solidified unit, Stanton said.

"We haven't had the same six guys together on any given day through the first 10 days of practice," Stanton said. "We'll have some guys going both ways."

For now, Stanton just wants Lake Mary to get back on the winning track. The Rams lost the finals two games of the 1996 season and went winless last year.

"We don't really have a theme," Stanton said. "We just want to get a win and get better."
