Looking for a little green man

The students of Page Private School on State Road 46 in Sanford have been trying to catch a leprechaun who has been visiting their school at night, making mischlef in advance of St. Patrick's Day. They have been leaving green food, such as broccoll and lettuce. One young man even tried to make a candy house for the little fellow. So far, he hasn't been caught. Among those who checked the house for the leprechaun were Victor Martinez, Lauren Taylor, Ishan Kulkarni, Jay Taylor, house builder Drake Healy, Reece Brown and Kyle Beery.

LONGWOOD -Longwood police converging Tuesday on a suspect in the murder of a 28-yearold Alabama woman found him dead, shot to death by his own hand.

The woman's body was found Saturday morning in front of a dumpster on Milwee Road across from South Seminole Hospital in Longwood. With no identification on her person, police had difficulty in determining her identity.

She was originally believed to be from Tampa, but a woman reported missing in Tampa subsequently was found safe. Police then determined the murdered woman was Traci Carol Malone, 28, of Birmingham Alabama.

Working on a number of ciues, police began to suspect Dwayne Ed-

Suspects nabbed

SANFORD - Two suspects who allegedly tried to take a woman's car as she backed out of her driveway were arrested a short distance away as they walked down the street.

Troymain Tone Hollis, 17, of 1824 Hawkins Ave., Sanford and Kevin Deandrew Key, 20, of Sanford, were arrested for burglary to a conveyance with battery and with attempted

According to Sanford Police Cmdr. Dennis Whitmire, the victim was backing her car out of her driveway when Hollis and Key stopped her to ask for directions. While they were speaking to her, Hollis reached into the car and grabbed her, causing a bruise and a faceration on her chest.

She backed her car out and drove to a Lil' Champ convenience store at the corner of Airport Boulevard and Live Oak. She asked the clerks to call the police. While she was in the store, she saw Hollis and Key walking slowly down Live Oak.

Officer Ronald Satallante stopped the pair and the victim positively identified them as the two who had battered her.

Key first gave police a false name, but Hollis told them he was his cousin. Key was charged with resisting arrest without violence.

Whitmire said the charge of carjacking was Bee Briefe, Page 6A

Student program touted nationally

School to Work concept awarded $750,000 partnership grant

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD - The Seminole County public schools' school to work program, having been praised publicly by Frank Brogan, the Florida Commissioner of Education, is now being recognized at the national level.

And this time, there are some financial rewards as well.

Last week, U.S. Secretary of Education Richard W. Riley and U.S. Secretary of Labor Robert B. Reich announced that 37 communities across the country, including Seminole County, would recieve local School to Work partnership grants totalling more than

The grant to be awarded for the programs in Seminole County amounts to $750,000. Federal officials said the amount is determined by the scope of proposed initiatives and the size of the communities.

No other school district in Florida carned a grant.

U.S. Assistant Secretary of Education Mario Moreno will join Seminole County officials on Thursday morning in a Business and Education Summit at the district offices.

'We are thrilled to have gained the attention of U.S. Assistant Moreno as well as other members of the Clinton Administration who have asked to be our guests and to observe our school to work program in action," said Supt. Paul Hagerty.

Among the programs in Seminole County that are a part of the school to work program are Academy of Health Careers at Seminole High School and the Apprenticeship program between Lyman High School, Seminole Community College and Siemens Stromberg Carlson in Lake Mary.

The grants, Riley and Reich announced, were given to communities that have formed partnerships between their education and business sectors to help young people make the transition from school to careers. The funds are used as venture capital, to develop new methods for making school relevant to real life for thousands of students across the nation.

Since May of 1994, when President Bill Clinton signed the School to Work Opportunities Act into law, more than 42,000 employers have formed School to Work partnerships with educators, parents, students, organized labor and community organizations.

Brogan lauded the Seminole County program for its outstanding academic programs and the job skills that are taught as well. Reich reiterated those themes.

"School to Work gives high school students the tools to apply what is learned in the morning at school directly to what is carned in the

Sanford still refining its permit process

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The city staff has been working on refining procedures for obtaining short-term conditional use permits. The process is still incomplete at this time.

The matter started during the Feb. 12 city commission meeting, when Commissioner Lon-Howell reported on an incident in which an individual chose to pay a $600 fine instead of obtaining a permit to sell cars in a Sanford shopping center parking lot. Howell asked if the city could have shut down such a business for failure to obtain necessary permits.

Howell described the incident as a blatant violation of city codes.

At that that time, City Manager Bill Simmons explained that there was not enough time for the promoter to get a short term conditional use permit as required. He said the matter would have to go before a Planning and Zoning Commission public hearing.

Following a lengthy discussion of the matter. the city staff was instructed to research other cities to determine how they handle these types of violations, and look into possible alternatives

No abortions in downtown Orlando

ORLANDO - The Orlando City Council won't permit a gynecologist to open a downtown practice where he'd perform abortions, and is pushing the controversial case into federal

The council voted 6-0 Monday to reject a recommendation by its own hearing officer and turn down the application by Dr. James Pendergraft, an obstetrician-gynecologist.

Last fall, the city approved - then rejected - Pendergraft's request for a zoning permit to start his practice in a mixed area of professional offices and residential housing a few blocks

Pendergraft's lawyer, Jacob Rose, argued before U.S. District Judge Patricia Fawsett in January that his client was denied his constitutional right to due process. The judge asked for additional records, some of them centering on whether the doctor's business could be classified a clinic or office.

The city defines a clinic as a place offering procedures where patients might require several hours of recovery, as opposed to an office, where clients leave within 60 minutes.

Top Republican sentenced

BARTOW - A former state party committeewoman and top Republican fund-raiser has been sentenced to 15 years in prison for bilking elderly investors out of almost $3.6 million.

Alice Faye Redd, 59, was sentenced Monday by Circuit Judge Bob Doyel. The sentence was the toughest possible under terms of a plea deal.

"She used the money she took from us to live high on the hog," said Hazel Bullock, a retired hospital employee who said she lost $140,000 to Redd. "I have no sympathy for her going to prison ... because it's justice."

Redd once entertained vice presidents, governors and other GOP leaders in her Auburndale home. Authorities said her fall from grace began in 1985, when she began accepting money under the guise of investments to her husband's medical practice, the Watson Clinic in Lakeland

Panel wants prisoners to work 40 hours a week

By BILL KACZON Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Florida's prison system has an underemployment problem - too many prisoners with too little to do. A Senate committee wants to fix it by requiring prisoners to work 40 hours a week, but prison officials say in order to comply they will have to create 11,000 inmate jobs at a cost of at least $25 million to hire more guards.

The Department of Corrections has been working on a plan to make sure all 50,000 ablebodied inmates are working 40 hours three years from now.

But the Senate Criminal Justice Committee voted unanimously Tuesday for a bill (SB 782) that would advance the department's timetable by more than two years and put a 40hour work week in place Oct. 1.

"We will do everything we can to comply with the law." Katherine Pennington, the department's legislative director, told the panel.

But afterward, she said the department would be unable to implement it.

The measure next goes to the Ways & Means Committee. An identical bill (HB 1889) has been introduced in the House, but no committee action has yet been taken there.

Pennington said Corrections officials have not yet determined how much the bill would cost. The $25 million estimate is for about 650 security personnel and does not include other staff needed for supervision, training and support. The bill's sponsor, Sen.

"All inmates work - all inmates that are medically suitable or do not pose a security risk to the institution, to the public," Pennington said.

Many, however, work less than 40 hours.

The new jobs would be needed to increase their hours and put security-risk prisoners to work as Crist's bill makes no exception for them.

The aituation started after police said they saw two men in a blue Grand Cherokee Jeep, which they determined had been stolen. Officers subsequently gave chase. At one time, they said the driver and passenger attempted to jump from the vehicle while it was still moving, but the driver was caught and dragged. Eventually, both the driver and passenger managed to escape. The passenger however, was apprehended in Seminole Gardens. Police charged him with grand theft auto, trespassing in a conveyance, battery on a law enforcement officer, and resisting arrest without violance. The drive of the vehicle managed to escape and is still being sought by police.

Camera in federal appeals courts?

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - After years of banning cameras in federal courtrooms, a rule-making body has loosened the reins to allow each federal appeals court to decide whether its proceedings can be televised or broadcast.

But there still will be no picture-taking or broadcasting of trials in federal district courts. Appeals courts hear only arguments by lawyers seeking to have a lower court decision overturned or upheld.

Chief Judge Gilbert Merritt of the federal court of appeals in Nashville said closed-circuit television is appropriate in the Oklahoma City case and does not set a precedent.

He noted closed-circuit television has been used in cases where an unruly defendant is moved to another room and permitted to watch the court proceedings on television.

The judicial conference conducted a limited three-year test of cameras in federal courtrooms beginning in 1991. But when it was over, the conference decided against allowing cameras on a permanent basis, saying "the intimidating effect of cameras on some witnesses and jurors was cause for serious concern."

Merritt said Tuesday's vote loosening restrictions on cameras was 14-12.

The new policy will not apply at the Supreme Court, which bars all cameras and taperecorders from its courtroom. The judicial conference does not set policy for the nation's highest court.

for federal courts but has no power to punish violators. It strongly urged circuit court councils to do away with any local court rules that would conflict with the decision to retain the trial court ban.

That action stemmed from a decision March 1 by U.S. District Judge Robert Ward in Manhattan that allowed Court TV to televise a hearing in a classaction lawsuit challenging New York City's child welfare system.

Ward relied on a local court rule that he said permitted judges to authorize cameras. The judge decided the local rule took precedence over the judicial conference's 1994 decision not to allow cameras in federal

More room for work sessions

The Sanford City Commission regularly holds work sessions prior to regular commission meetings. They are held in the city manager's conference room on the second floor of city hall.

The work sessions are used to discuss items which may be recurring, such as the longdiscussed matter of recreational vehicle parking in a residential front yard. They are also used to get input on items scheduled for the regular commission meeting agenda.

We have, in the past, voiced objections to some of the items which were discussed at length during the work session, and were approved or rejected during the regular meeting, without the public being privy to background information regarding a decision.

It's true the work sessions help reduce the length of the regular commission meetings. It's also true that the general public is allowed to sit in on the work sessions to learn more about particular matters.

The problem however, is the lack of adequate space for citizens attending the work sessions.

Monday afternoon, the work session began at 5 p.m., the common starting time. One of the items, regarding certain pieces of property which should or should not be closed because of code violations, drew a large group of citizens.

In all, there were the five members of the commission, 11 city staff members, 19 citizens, and two members of the press, for a total of 37 persons crammed into that relatively small room.

Chairs had to be brought in from various city offices near the conference room, and a few felt obliged to wait and listen outside the door. The room is simply too small to hold such a gathering. Yet there is never any suggestion that the meeting be moved for the convenience of the citizens who wish to attend.

As has been the rule in the Sanford City Commission work sessions, citizens are not allowed to address the commission unless asked to do so. Even so, persons who attend the sessions are able to learn more about how their city government works, and on what basis certain decisions may be made.

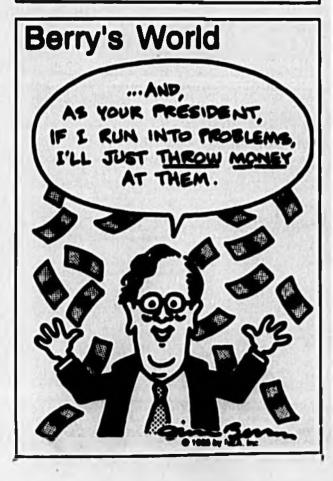

We believe it's time to expand these work sessions to the point where there is adequate space and seating for the general public. We see no reason why they cannot be moved to the commission chambers. It has space and it has an adequate sound system.

True, not all work sessions draw crowds. Some, but very few, have only the commission plus a few staff members. Yet the matters being brought under discussion recently have proven that the citizens are concerned over what takes place.

As a service to the general public, and to help enlighten more people to the actions which take place, we urge the work sessions

Buchanan and the right to bear arms

Holding over his head a formidable shotgun, Pat Buchanan -- beaming in a black cowboy hat - addressed the troops at the Crossroads of the West gun show in Phoenix:

"Every man who heads a family has got a right to own and keep and bear arms to protect his family.'

For a long time, I resisted the Buchanan interpretation of the Second Amendment. During lectures and on radio talk shows, I would be confronted with the inevitable hostile question: "You claim to be for all of the Bill of Rights. But why don't you ever mention the right to keep and bear arms?"

My invariable anti-gun answer was that I recognized the right of law enforcement officers to bear arms - if they were psychologically screened very carefully. And, I said, I would only approve of hunters being armed if animals were also provided with lethal self-defense weapons.

Otherwise, I added, the Second Amendment article saying that simply means that "the right of the people to the amendment keep and bear arms" exists because "a well-assured to Ameriregulated militia" is "necessary to the security of cans "their private a free state." Therefore, there is no constitutionally protected individual right to bear arms Madison, architect of the Bill of Rights, had apart from service in a state militia.

Not being entirely confident of that analysis, I

Furthermore, as the records of our pre-Revolutionary times show, every household, by colonial law, had to have arms; and when there was a military emergency, every male adult had to bring his own arms to the battle.

It was inconceivable, I finally realized, that after the Revolution free American citizens would agree -- as part of the Bill of Rights -- to give up their right to keep their own arms. whether or not they were members of a militia.

Then there was Thomas Jefferson's view of the Second Amendment. As Professor Polsby notes in Reason magazine, Jefferson wrote to George Washington -- whose gun collection numbered more than 50 pieces -- "One loves to possess

Seeing the Second Amendment as the framers did -- and as Pat Buchanan does -- does not mean that the private right to bear arms is without limits. Just as the First or Fourth Amendments do not provide absolute individual rights.

Having changed my own reading of the Second Amendment, I continue to abhor guns and still keep trying to convince my wife not to get one.

Dole to unite fractured party

Now that he has the Republican presidential nomination virtually locked up. Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., plans to unite his fractured party by attacking its common enemy. President Clinton, but he also ought to place conciliatory phone calls to his holdout opponents, Pat Buchanan and Steve Forbes.

Dole will revive the all-but-forgotten "Contract With America" and join House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., in pushing through a legislative agenda designed to embarrase President Clinton.

Dole can't expect that Forbes and Buchanan will quit the race, but making a gesture now could begin to take the venom out of relations between GOP blocs - Dole's party regulars, Buchanan's anti-establishment "peasants." and Forbes' free-market purists.

High-ranking Dole campaign aides say that Dole has already begun softening his rhetoric toward Buchanan, no longer referring to the primaries as a fight for the "soul" of the GOP, but Dole apparently wants to delay a full reaching-out process until his relationship with Buchanan is unmistakably that of victor and vanquished.

Anyway, Dole aides say they doubt whether a phone call to Buchanan would accomplish anything. "Pat's in too much pain right now," one Dole aide said. Indeed, Buchanan is still deflant and abusive toward Dole. dismissing his decisive victories as the consequence of negative ads, "push" polis, and a Washington establishment conspiracy. He's leaving it open whether he'll support Dole in the fall.

The truth, thankfully, is that Buchananism represents only 25 percent to 30 percent of the Republican primary electorate doubt whether a primary electorate and an even lower percentage of voters nationwide.

Instead of maximizing his support by becoming more statesmanlike after his victory in New Hampshire, Buchanan became incendiary. His "conservatism of the heart" transformed into a conservatism of the bile duct -- accentuated with demeaning references to Latinos, rifles held aloft at the Mexican border, and appeals to Old South racism.

phone call to

would accomplish anything.

Buchanan

Buchanan's act turned off even those he depended upon for victories in South Carolina and Georgia, the Christian conservatives who believe that moral issues are more important than economic ones.

TV network exit polls showed that Buchanan carried the "religious right" by narrow margins in South Carolina and in "Junior Tuesday" states, but "religious right" is regarded as a derogatory term by the Christian Coalition, whose own polls showed that among "born-again evangelicals," Dole won in both South Carolina and Georgia. Even so, Buchanan envisions himself as Ronald Reagan, who lost the 1976 nomination to Gerald Ford but remained the leader of the conservative movement and went on to win the presidency in 1980.

Reagan battled Ford all the way to the '76 convention, coolly endorsed him afterward, and did little to support Ford's losing campaign. That's the model Buchanan can be expected to follow this year unless Dole can woo him out of it.

There's little doubt that Buchanan thinks of himself as "Mr. Conservative," believes Dole will lose to Clinton, and plans to run again for president in 2000.

Of course, Pat Buchanan is no Ronald Reagan who, after all, had served two successful terms as governor of California. Buchanan actually fits the model of Jesse Jackson, a "talker" not a "doer," who nevertheless created fits for Democratic nominees Walter Mondale and Michael Dukakis after losing in the 1984 and 1988

Buchanan is likely to make Jackson-like demands for prime-time appearances at the San Diego convention and to threaten a walkout if platform planks on immigration and trade are not to his liking and if Dole tries to nominate Gen. Colin Powell for vice president.

Can Dole resist such demands? Yes, if he makes a show of trying to reach out to Buchanan while at the same time clobbering him in remaining primaries.

Dole's main strategy for uniting the party is to begin the November general election campaign right now by attacking President Clinton for his vetoes of Republican attempts to balance the budget, lower taxes, and reform wesfare and entitlements.

"Clinton wants to accuse us of being the do-nothing Congress," one Dole side said, "but we're going to run against a 'do-nothing

The campaign will pick up on House Majority Leader Dick Armey's, R-Texas, charge that middle-class job insecurity is the product of a "Clinton crunch" caused by 1993 tax increases and that Clinton's proposale for fixing the problem - a minimum wage increase, tax deductions for college tultion and job-training vouchers - are evidence of "big government liberalism."

Hillary et al.: Scorned women

Her admittance prompted the scorn and jeers of male colleagues, and the townspeople believed that any woman who studied anatomy must be immoral. The implication of wantonness also made it nearly impossible for Blackwell to rent space for her practice. "She might as well have been a common prostitute," says Truman.

Regarding the low voter turnout. Kuhn said, "I'm disappointed, but with only a one vote item on the ballot, people just don't have a tendency to get around and rally over a particular person."

Kuhn said that he did believe the percentage of the voters expressed the feelings of all Republicans including those who did not cast their ballots yesterday.

At this week's commission work session, Community Development Director Charles Rowe explained his findings to ite. Nowe said the city of Altamonte Springs is the only local municipality to have such a procedure, and added that the cities of Casselberry and Oviedo had considered them but not taken any action as yet.

"What I would recommend," Rowe said, "is to have a special event process to handle events which do not exceed three days in length." He suggested these might include Christmas tree or pumpkin sales which often last for a week or more.

He suggested an easy process be developed for any such applications which do not involve street closures or the use of alcohol. "These would still have to go before the P&Z or the City Commission," he commented.

Commissioner Lon Howell questioned if it would be limited only to businesses located within the city, to which Rowe responded that what he planned would not.

"I believe this would just be creating a problem," said Commissioner Kerry Lyons. "I don't think it's a solution. I would rather see these requests come before the city commis-

IRS cuts back on walk-in assistance

WASHINGTON - Taxpayers seeking assistance at Internal Revenue Service offices are running into more locked doors this year.

Service hours at many offices around the country have been trimmed and some temporary satellite offices have been closed, IRS spokesman Frank Keith said Tuesday.

An example: Eight small offices in northern and central

Girl gets kidney

By KARYN HUNT Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO - Hoping to become "the daddy I should have been a long time ago," David Patterson left his jail cell and donated a lifesaving kidney Tuesday to the daughter he descried before she was born.

Patterson, a convicted burglar. met with Renada Daniel-Patterson briefly before the transplant operation. They had met only twice before, once when Renada was too young to remember and a second time when she was 8.

"Thank you very much for giving me a chance. I love you." Renada, now 13, said through

The two were operated on for about three hours at the University of California at San Francisco Medical Center. Renada later was listed in stable condition and her father was doing well, said Dr. Anthony Portale, a pediatric kidney specialist.

"The surgery went very well both for her and the donor,' вами. Не ed unat it will take weeks and possibly months before it is known whether Renada's body accepts the kidney. Renada was born with one kidney that failed when she was 5. She got a new kidney that year, but her body rejected it a year later. Her mother couldn't donate one of hers because she is diabetic, and no suitable matches were found.

Renada was on dialysis three times a week but had been getting sicker in recent months.

Patterson, 34, had known for years that his daughter needed a new organ, but he was never asked to donate. In November, he wrote to offer one of his kidneys: "If you can forgive me, I will do my best to be the daddy I should have been a long time ago."

Renada's mother, Vickie Daniel, 35, said, "He's definitely been a nonpresence, no-help kind of person." She added, however, that by donating the kidney "he'll make a dif-ference." She and Patterson never married.

Patterson will recuperate in the hospital for five days to a week with a 24-hour guard before returning to the state prison in Folsom. He began serving a seven-year sentence in January 1994, but is to be released in July 1997 with credit for good behavior.

The Corrections Department at first demanded Renada's family pay the $8,000 bill for two armed guards to watch Patterson. The agency relented after learning the girl's condition was life-threatening and her family couldn't afford it.

"It's got to be done. She needed it and I'm giving it to her, without a doubt." Patterson said. "She's my daughter and I love her." After Renada recovers from the surgery — and assuming the transplant is successful - she wants to attend school with her friends instead of the in-home education she's been getting because she is confined to the

According to Sanford Police Cmdr. Dennis Whitmire, the pair were spotted by a citizen as they ran north down an alley after leaving the car. The witness said they left with a plastic

Police found them a short distance away with a third young man. A plastic bag containing keys, pictures, various coins, a ring, a watch and bullets was found in Nino pocket.

Nino and Blake told police the third boy was not involved that they were just going to show him the car they'd taken.

A check of the car's tag showed it belonged to a person who lived in the 2300 block of Revona Court in Sanford. When they went to that home. they found the home had been buiglarized. They car keys had been taken from the home.

FINAL NOTIFICATION OF POSSIBLE IMPACT TO IMPORTANT LAND RESOURCE

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, Rural Economic and Community Development (formerly Farmers Home Administration) has received an application for financial assistance for construction of a medical treatment facility from the Central Florida Migrant and Community Health Center, Inc. The specific elements of this proposed action are to construct a new 20,000 square foot primary care medical treatment facility to serve the needs of rural Seminole County and surrounding counties.

Rural Economic and Community Development (RECD) has assessed the potential environmental impacts of this proposed action and determined that the location of the improvements might impact wetland areas. It has been determined that there is no practicable alternative to avoiding this impact. The impact of this proposed action will be mitigated as follows:

- 1. The Central Florida Migrant and Community Health Center, Inc. will mitigate the potential adverse impacts to these land resources by having the work done within existing road right-ofways, thereby limiting or eliminating disruption of these areas while work is progressing.
- 2. The minimal site area required to provide the most services is approximately 4.5 acres. The size parameters are driven based on the requirements to meet local code and to make the best use of the facilities to warrant services necessary to serve the Central Florida area.
- 3. The site plan reflects the placement of the building in the southernmost reaches of the property. This allows the remaining area to be left in its natural state, which also allows for the recharge of any runoff from the developed site. The building and pavement areas have been placed to minimize the disruption of existing trees. Grades for the pavement and building reflect the same effort to save the natural vegetation, as well as to meet the required codes. The development of the site is required to meet the current stormwater requirements of Seminole County, Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT), and also the St. Johns River Water Management District (SJRWMD). A low berm is proposed to be placed around the perimeter of the site. A stormwater control structure, set at the northeast property corner, is provided to meet the minimum storage requirements, which include the storage of the runoff volume from the impervious area and the control of the maximum discharge release from the developed site to the pre-developed discharge conditions. The perimeter berm allows the area to stay in its natural state without the need to construct a retention basin which would destroy many trees, as well as some wetland area.
- 4. The pavement and building runoff is proposed to be sheetflow, which will alleviate point dis charge through the wetland area. The existing manmade ditch, which runs through the wet land designated area will continue to carry the flow to the same discharge point.
- 5. During construction, a silt fence will be required to be placed around the construction area to protect the wetland area from construction sittation runoff. The siltience will be removed only after the site has been stabilized with sod and landscaping.
- 6. Along the Southern perimeter of the site is a drainage canal, which drains most of the area to the West of the site. Seminole County has requested, as part of the site development, a 50' easement over this canal, which will preclude any development in this area.
- 7. To ensure the manmade ditch through the wetland area will stay in its present state, a proposed 25' easement over this ditch will be dedicated as part of the approval process. This will ensure the preservation of the wetland through the ditch area from any future development.

RECD has further determined that this proposal will not significantly affect the quality of the human environment. Therefore, RECD will not prepare an environmental impact statement for this proposed action.

Any written comments regarding this determination should be provided within fifteen (15) days of this publication to Rural Economic and Community Development, R.C. Quainton II, Acting Rural Development Manager, Area III, 207 NW 2nd Street, Room 248, Ocala, FL 34475. RECD will make no further decisions regarding this proposed action during this fifteen day period. Requests to receive a copy of, or to review the RECD environmental assessment upon which this determination is based should be directed to R.C. Quainton II, Acting Rural Development Manager, Area iii, 207 NW 2nd Street, Room 248, Ocala, FL 34475.

Pension deficit improves

WASHINGTON — The deficit in the government's single-employer pension insurance fund fell by $885 million last year to the lowest level since 1981, the Pension Benefit Quaranty Corp. announced today,

In its annual report to Congress, the government's pension insurance agency attributed the improvement to a record $2 billion in investment earnings and the absence of any new major pension plan termination.

The federal insurance program protecting pensions of the nation's work force has been restored to a level of financial strength unseen in more than a decade," Labor Secretary Robert B. Reich, the agency's board chairman, said in a statement.

The program insures about 33 million pensions in plans sponsored by a single employer. . Still, Reich noted the decline in the deficit reflects economic conditions that are subject to change and urged officials to remain vigilant in assuring a sound pension insurance system.

The deficit in the single-employer program was $315 million, including assets of $10.4 billion and liabilities of $10.7 billion. It was the smallest imbalance since the gap between assets and liabilities was $189 million in 1981.

The deficit totaled $1.2 billion in 1994 and $2.9 billion in 1993. It had peaked at $2.9 billion in 1993.

The PBGC also reported that its multi-employer program covering 9 million people had a net surplus of $192 million last

The agency said its improved financial condition mirrored a similar gain among the pension plans it insures. Underfunding of such plans dropped to about $31 billion from $71 billion a year earlier.

PBGC paid about $763 million in benefits to more than 182,000 people last year, an increase of about 5 percent over

It said it received $860 million in revenue from the insurance premiums paid by companies with covered pension plans. The agency receives no funds from general tax revenues.

including those people receiving benefits, the agency was responsible for the pensions of about 392,000 in 2,094 terminated pension plans.

Striking workers

DAYTON, Ohio — Striking workers at two General Motors Corp. brake factories insist the walkout that has idled more than 87,000 fellow employees will eventually benefit them all.

'We're taking a stand for the whole country of automakers," striking worker Joe Plummer said Tuesday as he picketed outside a GM Delphi Chassis plant. "We're here trying to protect our jobs."

The strike by 2,700 members of the United Auto Workers union at the two Delphi Chassis brake plants began March 5. mainly over job security and outsourcing, the production of parts by outside plants or companies.

The strike's ripple effect has forced the world's largest automaker to shut down 21 of 29 North American assembly plants and nine parts plants. Work at another 24 of the roughly 200 GM parts factories in North America has been scaled back.

Basketball star suspended

DENVER - All season long, while his teammates lined up to face the flag during the national anthem, star basketball guard Mahmoud Abdul-Rauf has sat by himself in a silent show of allegiance to his faith;

"I'm a Muslim first and a Muslim last," said Abdul-Rauf, who plays for the Denver Nuggets. "My duty is to my creator, not to nationalistic ideology."

On Tuesday, the National Basketball Association suspended Abdul-Rauf indefinitely without pay, saying his refusal to stand violates a league rule requiring all players to "line up in a dignified posture" for the anthem.

My beliefs are more important than anything," said Abup basketball, I will."

13 kids, teacher killed

DUNBLANE, Scotland - A gunman burst into a Scottish elementary school today and opened fire on 5- and 6-year-olds in the gymnasium, massacring 13 children and one teacher, police said. Local reporters said the gunman then killed

Eight other children wege injured in the attack in Dunblane, a 13th-century cathedral town on the edge of the Scottish Highlands.

First reports said the two adults killed at the Dunblane Primary School were teachers.

The shooting occurred in a village of 9,000 people 40 miles from Edinburgh. The school has more than 700 pupils. Frantic parents gathered outside the school, some sobbing, others clutching their children and crying with relief. One mother pushing a stroller ran to the school to pick up her children as other women ran beside her. Another mother held the hands of a young boy and girl, leading them away from the school. Guns are much more difficult to obtain in Britain than in the United States, and massacres such as this are rare.

Rumors of the gunman's identity flashed round the town, and several residents said they believed they knew his name. Local resident Wilma Brown said she believed he was a loner in his 40s who had run a soccer club in the town and was well-known in the area. "I can't believe it has happened," she told Sky News. Police sealed off main roads into the town, and an air ambulance flew in from Prestwick, 60 miles southwest, to fly casualties to Stirling, five miles away. The town's five doctors were summoned to the school, and hospitals in Glasgow and Edinburgh were put on alert. A dozen ambulances raced into the town. It was Britain's worst shooting since 27-year-old Michael Ryan, an unemployed loner and gun enthusiast, shot 16 people, then killed himself in the quiet market town of Hungerford in August 1987.

World leaders gather

SHARM EL-SHEIK, Egypt — In a dramatic show of solidarity, world leaders rallied around Israel today to combat the wave of suicide hombings that have ravaged the Middle East peace process. President Clinton hailed the Red Sea summit as "a strong united stand" against terrorism.

The impressive array of kings, shelks, prime ministers, presidents and princes was a bold response to anti-Israeli extremists who unleashed four suicide bombs, killing 62 people in nine bloody days.

It was the most extensive gathering of Arab leaders on behalf of largel in the 48-year history of the Jewish state.
"Terrorism has become an international phenomenon."

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak said in an interview shortly before welcoming Clinton to the one-day summit of nearly 30 world leaders.

Americans slower to get hitched

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — No longer feeling pressure to get married by some magic age. Americans are taking their time before tying the knot.

But they also are showing less patience with problem marriages as growing numbers unravel the marriage bond with

A new Census Bureau analysis found that in 1994 the typical bride was 24.5 years old and her groom was 26.7.

That's the oldest for both bride and groom since the bureau started to ask about age at marriage in 1890, according to the study "Marital Status and Living Arrangements: March

In years past, many people felt pressure to marry by some magic age, observed Stephanie Kenitzer f Odenton, Md., who wed in 1992 at age 27.

But that no longer seems to be

'People aren't saving, 'I'm 20 or I'm 25, so I'm an old maid.' It's no longer looked upon as a negative that you're not married at a certain age," she said. "They're more free to make decision on their own and so people are waiting longer. I waited longer ... there was no pressure." But Carol J. De Vita, a population expert at the independent Population Reference Bureau, says that while "young adults are delaying entrance into marriage ... very few will forgo it altogether."

In 1890 the median age to get hitched for the first time was 26.1 for men and 22.0 for women, according to Census Bureau records.

This declined gradually over the years, bottoming at 22.5 for men and 20.1 for women in 1956, before beginning to rise again as young people increas-ingly pursued college and careers before marriage. Median indicates that half were married by that age and half married

Increasing educational and employment opportunities for women have contributed to their postponing marriage. De Vita said. For men, she added, a stagnation of wages in the 1970s and 1980s made the prospects for marriage less affordable.

Of course, postponing marriage means an increase, at any given time, in the number of people who have never wed, and that is reflected in the Census study.

From 1970 to 1994 the number of Americans aged 18 and over who had never married more than doubled, from 21.4 million to 44.2 million.

While they are slower to tie the knot. Americans are proving faster to break it. From 1970 to 1994 the number currently divorced climbed from 4.3 million to 17.4 million.

"The high levels of divorce and remarriage in the United States today suggest that Americans may be placing a high value on forming successful marriages and may be less tolerant of marital problems than were earlier generations," says

The increasing economic in-dependence of women today helps ease the financial pressure to remain in an unsatisfactory marriage, she added.

"The delay in first marriages and rise in divorce among adults are two of the factors contributing to the growing proportion of children in one-parent living situations," said Ariene Saluter, author of the Census study.

"Children are considerably more likely to be living with only one parent today than in 1970, she observed.

Dole: Voters have 'the conservative they want'

By MIKE FEINSILBER Associated Press Writer

With his 20th consecutive primary victory in hand, Bob Dole says the Republicans have now anothted him "the conservative they want in the White House." His surge through Super Tuesday sets up a unique battle for the presidency between two powerful officehold-

Flat-tax advocate Steve Forbes appears ready to give up, acknowledging it would take a "major breakthrough" in the Midwest primaries next Tuesday to keep him in the race. Dole's other message-driven opponent, Pat Buchanan, says he will fight it out to the finish, but could draw scant solace from the latest round of primaries.

Dole, for his part, has started doing what assumed nominees do - make it easier for lingering rivals to give up the battle by promising to heed their messages and their constituencles.

"We've listened and we've heard strong messages," the Senate majority leader said in an interview, acknowledging Forbes' theme of economic growth and Buchanan's concern for the economic anxiety of working Americans.

"It is time to come together now and put our ideas together and build a strong agenda for November." Dole said. His rivals' withdrawals would take from the girwayes a stream of anti-Dole messages and unite the party behind him.

With nearly complete results from the seven Super Tuesday states - Texas, Florida, Oregon, Tennessee, Louisiana. Oklahoma and Mississippi -Dole won solid majorities in all except Louisiana, where his margin was 47 percent to Buchanan's 33 percent and Forbes' 13 percent. Dole won by 57 percent in Florida, a battleground state in the fall.

Forbes finished third or worse everywhere but Florida, where he was winning 20 percent to Buchanan's 18 percent. In Tennessee, Forbes even trailed former Gov. Lamar Alexander. who dropped out of the race last week. The millionaire publisher said failure to produce a strong showing in the Midwest on Tuesday would mean "this campaign is over.

The next round of primaries occurs Tuesday in Ohio. Michigan, Illinois and Wiscon-

Exit polls showed Dole relatively weak among Republicans who had voted for independent Ross Perot in 1992. Many expressed unhappiness with the Republican field.

Tennessee voter Joan Garland supported Dole but without much enthusiasm. "When you see the others, really what choice do you have?." she asked. Her husband. Ralph, sald he would vote for Clinton in Clinton was in the Mideast, attending an anti-terrorism summit while Hawaii was electing the last delegates he needs to lock up the Democratic presidential nomination.

Clinton is the first Democratic incumbent not to face an intra-party challenge since Lyndon Johnson, who inherited his office from the fallen John F. Kennedy, was nominated in his own right in 1964.

Dole tended to Senate business. His strategy is to send Clinton a stream of Republican bills - on Medicare, welfare reform, regulatory reform, perhaps another balanced budget - that would give substance to his claim that Clinton is a talker while Dole is a question of selecting a running mate, made more important by his age. He will be 73 upon taking office if elected.

With Dole now virtually certain of the nomination, the fall battle begins at once. What makes it unusual is that both the incumbent and his challenger have the power to use the machinery of government to affect their political fortunes. Challengers to sitting presidents are usually outsiders - critics, not officeholders.

Indeed, it is Dole's role as a Washington insider that has drawn many of the attacks against him.

"I have thought about this in a loose way," Dole said. "It's in the back of my mind sometimes as I fly around, watching governors and others perform. But I haven't really thought about it in any concerted way."

But remarks made to CBS suggested Dole was well aware could hurt him then. of a recent poll indicating that the selection of retired Gen. Colin Powell, former chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, could help him in the fall campaign against Clinton.

Powell has "been a soldier all his life and he's responded whenever his country needed him," Dole said. "I believe if anyone went to General Powell - I may be totally wrong - and laid out a case, got to make the they want in the White House." case, why it's so important, why it is necessary, that he would least 345 of the 362 delegates at suit up again."

were held now Dole would lose when matched against Clinton. but a Dole-Powell ticket would beat a Clinton-Gore ticket. Powell, who is black, presumably would draw enough black voters from the Democratic base to hurt Clinton.

A number of Republican leaders have expressed support for Powell as Dole's running mate despite the general's disavowal of interest - and Buchanan's adamant opposition because of Powell's support of abortion rights. As vice president, Powell would have an advantage in 2000 or 2004 should be choose to seek the presidency. Conversely, his refusal to run now

At a victory rally, Dole made Clinton his target. "Get Bill Clinton out of the way and we will get the job done," he said.

He dropped his usual reluctance about claiming that the nomination was his.

"Today," he told cheering supporters, "the American people in seven states chose the conservative they want to lead America, chose the conservative

Committee sharply critical of federal AIDS research

By PAUL RECER AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON - in a battle plan for a "final assault on AIDS," a panel of top scientists is urging a major shakeup of the $1.4 billion federal AIDS research program. The sometimes-flawed program needs new talent and imagination, the panel says.

The committee of more than 100 scientists called on federal officials to recruit new researchers, combine various clinical trials into one coordinated effort and start a crash program to develop a vaccine against the virus that causes AIDS.

Fifteen years of research stitutes of Health have produced dramatic treatments and understanding of AIDS, the report said. But committee members found some efforts to be flawed, inadequate and even deceptive.

Some NIH programs funded by AIDS dollars, the report said. have "little or no direct relevance to AIDS."

The report, to be released Thursday, was being given privately to NiH officials today. A copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

The report is based on more than a year of fact-gathering by a committee selected in 1994 by the Office of AIDS Research. The committee, chaired by Dr. Arnold Levine of Princeton University, includes two Nobel laureates and many members of the National Academy of Sciences.

'We hope this report will lay the groundwork for the final assault on AIDS," said a com-mittee official who saked not to be identified.

AIDS research now is spread among more than a dozen institutes, divisions and departments at the NIH, and some of the work is duplicative and wasteful, the report said.

The committee said it found many instances where promising research projects were not recognized and funded because NIH review committees lacked depth and expertise.

Evaluations favor veteran scientists who already have gathered extensive preliminary data, the report said.

As a result, it said, "many investigators are reluctant to submit novel or innovative proposals" and young scientists are discouraged from entering the field of AIDS research.

"It is very difficult for researchers who are just beginning their independent scientific careers to compete against more established investigators for funding," the report said.

The report called desired ting money atmed al-disputiting unsolicited research that may include new and novel approaches. It also suggested that student loop debts could be student loan debts could be canceled for postdoctoral fellows who work in AIDS research.

'This could lure new blood into the field," said the committee oiitcias.

Efforts to develop an AIDS vaccine have been short-funded and unauccessful, although finding a vaccine "is among the highest priorities." the report said. It called for an intensive effort under a new committee controlled by non-government scientists.

More research into the human immune system is essential, the report said, noting that much of what is now known about the immune system comes from research on laboratory mice.

"Unfortunately, simple translation of results from the mouse immune system to ... primates may prove to be very misleading." the report noted. It called for basic immune system research on humans and monkeys.

Various agencies and departments at the NIH now sponsor more than a dozen clinical trials of HIV drugs and theraples, and the report found "there has been overlap and, in some instances, unnecessary competition between these diverse programs."

The committee called for a single, integrated network of adult clinical trials that would be coordinated and sponsored by one NIH agency, the National Institute for Allergy and Infectious Diseases.

NIH currently is funding 16 AIDS research centers, mostly at major university hospitals. The committee report applauded this work and said federal funding for each center should be increased to $750,000 to $1.5 million a year, roughly doubling the current allocation.

SANFORD - The Sanford Magic proved the regular season was no fluke, but Crazy Wings almost Canton Cray Wings almost Canton Cray Wings pulled off an extra inning upset as the Sanford Recreation Department Women's Pinehurst Park Polar Bear Slowpitch Softball League played its post-season tournament Tuesday.

The Magic, who were a perfect 9-0 during the regular season, crushed winless Sixma's Window Tint (0-10) 17-4 on 29 hits to advance to the championship game.

Crazy Wings, the regular season runner-up, also had an easy route into the championship, whipping C & A Sales (3-7) 10-1.

The championship contest turned into a slugfest, with the two combatants trading the lead until Crazy Wings scored five runs in the fourth inning and two runs in the fifth inning to build a 16-12 advantage.

But Crazy Wings (7-4) would not score again and the Sanford Magic, which had 31 hits, scored three runs in the sixth inning and a single run in the seventh to tie the score at 16-16. The champs then scored two runs in the eighth to win 18-16.

up dominating season

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - It took a tworun seventh inning, but the Dream Catchers completed a dream season with a 9-8 victory on the final night of action in the Sanford Recreation Department Women's Chase Park Polar Bear Slowpitch Softball League.

The Dream Catchers led the whole game until the Red Hots plated two runs in the top of the seventh inning, but the Dream Catchers matched the runs in the bottom of the frame to complete a 10-2 season. The Red Hots finished 4-8.

The champions were the only team to finish the season with a winning record, but Club Paradise did clobber the She-Devils 16-2 in five innings to finish the campaign with a 6-6 mark.

Thr loss by the She-Devils in that game came on the heals of an 11-4 loss to the Sharks in the middle game that denied the She-Devils (5-7) a winning record. The Sharks also end the season with a 5-7 record.

Doing the hitting were: Dream Catchers: four hits -Anita Osborne (double), Renee Sanville: two hits - Brenda Bowles, Barb Martin; one hit -Shaila Walker (double), Elizabeth BarneC, Lori Poe, Shari Torres, Terri Perrault, Sherrie Baker.

Greyhounds upset Rams

By GARY COATOAM Herald Staff Writer

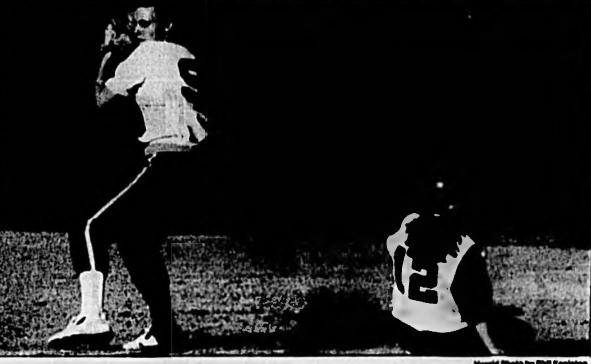

LONGWOOD - Lyman took an early 7-0 lead Tuesday and matched a six run rally by Class 6A No. 5 Lake Mary to score a 16-6 upset victory in Seminole Athletic Conference girls softball action. This feels wonderful," said Lyman coach Christy Bryce. "We finally came out hitting, and that's what we have been lacking. I wasn't sure if we were ready for this game, but we came out and did what we had to do to win."

SEBRING - Sophomore Ben Knapp who's basketball season ended a month ago with an ankie injury made his first appearance for the Oviedo varsity baseball team Tuesday night pitching a scoreless seventh inning to preserve the Lions' 5-4 win over the Sebring Blue Streaks. The win snaps a three-game losing streak for Oviedo.

now 7.7. Oviedo jumped on Sebring pitcher Chris White for five runs on five hits in the first inning. Then managed only two hits the rest of the night as the Blue Streaks chipped away at the lead. "It was nice to see Ben pitch, but we're going to take it nice and slow with hime," said Brown. "We need to have him ready for the district tournament."

Pioneers, Rams claim titles at Seminole Relays

SANFORD — The Oak Ridge boys and Lake Mary girls were the big winners at the reacheduled Sunrice Kiwanis Seminole Relays on the Buddy Lawson Memorial Track inside Thomas E. Whigham Stadium Tuesday night.

The meet had originally been scheduled to run on Friday, March 1. but was postponed because of

Oak Ridge scored 100 points to edge host Seminole (95) and Lake Howell (94) in the boys' portion of Lake Mary, which also claimed the Lyman Relays last Friday evening, won handly in the girls meet, outdistancing Pine Ridge, 117-105.5. Seabreese was third and "I don't believe it," said Lake Mary girls' coach Mike Gibson. "We won it again in the field events by accoring 67 points. The girls were outstanding.

Next on tap for most of the local runners will be the Lake Mary Classic on Friday night at Don T. Reynolds Stadium. Seminole's boys will travel to Ft. Myers to compete in the Edison Invitational on Friday night, while the SHS girls will compete in the Bob Hayes Invitational in Jacksonville on Saturday.

The Timberwoives touched SCC starter Paul Giambalvo (Lake Howell) for aix hits in the first inning, but the error led to four of the rune being unearned and the Raiders were never quite able to recover. SCC did close to as close as 5-4 after six innings, but Lake City scored single runs in each of the final three innings to keep the Raiders at bay. The Timberwolves improved to 14-8 overall and 1-2 in the conference, while SCC fell to 8-14 and 1-1 in the M-FC.

The Raiders will be at home again tomorrow (Thursday) for another conference contest against St. John's River Community College from Palatka starting at 3 p.m.

bottom of the sixth inning, scored six times in the inning to bring a 10-run slaughter rule into effect. Carolyn Crager began the surge with a triple, and scored on a fielder's choice by Katara Beard to give Lyman an 11-8 lead. Miranda Schultz reached first on a fleider's choice and took second on a single by Stacey Ritter. A sacrifice bunt by Katie Durham advanced the runners to second and third, and Schultz later scored on a wild pitch to give the Greyhounds a 12-6 lead. After Anna O'Connor walked and stole second, she and Ritter scored on a one-out single by Tracy Charbono to give Lyman a 14-6 advantage. Jamie Sharp then reached base on Lake Mary's fifth error of the game, and Jonnie Beland put the game away with a two-run double.

"We were flat," said Lake Mary coach Jeannie Fisher. "We dropped balls that we should have caught, and our players weren't talking to each other. You can't win when you do that. Sharp doubled to lead off the first inning for the Greyhounds. and took third when Beland followed with a single. After Sharp and Crager scored on wild pitches, Crager walked and took second base on a steal. Crager took third on a ground out, and scored on a passed ball as Lyman had a 3-0 advantage after the first stanza.

Durham and O'Connor had back-to-back singles to lead off the second inning, and Sharp reached first base on a fielder's choice as Durham was forced out at third. Beland followed with a double to bring O'Connor and Sharp across the plate, and Beland later accred on a Lake Mary error to give Lyman a 6-0 lead. Ritter reached first base on an error with one out in the third inning, reached third after a wild pitch and a passed ball, and acored on a single by Charbono to give the Greyhounds a 7-0 lead. Brie Van Swearingen. Jeannie Mans, Jen Deana and Sarah Smith all reached base to lead off the fourth inning for Lake Mary and ignite a six run explosion. A no-out single by Smith scored Van Swaeringen and Mans, and Deans scored on a sacrifice fly by Meagan Dontrich to pull the Rams within 7-3.

double, took third on a Lyman error, and acored when Cori Hilinaki hit an inside-the-park home run down the right field line to cut the Lake Mary deficit to 7-6.

Durham reached base on a Lake Mary error with one out in the fifth inning, took second on a sacrifice bunt by O'Connor, and reached third on a single by Charbono. Durham and Charbono scored on a triple by Sharp, and Sharp later scored on a wild pitch to give the Greyhounds the 10-6 cushion.

Beland was 3-for-5 with four RBI to lead the Lyman offense. while Charbono was 3-4 with three RBI. Sharp was 2-4 at the plate and added two RBI for the Greyhounds, while Crager, Ritter, Durham and O'Connor each had one hit. Carol Wyler struck out three and allowed just two walks for Lyman to improve to 7-3 on the year.

Reedy was 3-for-3 to lead Lake Mary, and Halie Sowards dropped to 6-1 on the season despite allowing only four walks and recording four strike outs. Sowards, Van Swearingen. Mans. Deans, Smith and Hilinaki each had one hit for the Rams.

Fannie Farmer's cooking still hot

NEA Food Writer

Until very recently, all I really knew about Fannie Farmer was that her name was on a series of cookbooks and a brand of chocolate. But after eating a 12-course meal based on her 100-year-old recipes, I know that she was a culinary force to be reckoned with.

The dinner -- held to celebrate the publication by Hugh Lauter Levin Associates of a facsimile edition of Fanny Merritt Farmer's "The Original Boston Cooking School Cookbook" ... was held at An American Place. the well-known Manhattan restaurant run by Chef Larry Forgione. Mr. Forgione and Jasper White -- a Boston chef of great renown -- manned the kitchen to produce a staggering (and staggeringly delicious) meal from the 1896 book.

We started with Pemaguid Point Oysters; and went on to Clear Oxtail Consomme; Rissoles of Veal, Country Ham and Cepes; a Hallbut "Sandwich" with a Ragout of Frogs Legs, Tomatoes and Capers: Roast Venison Loin With Red Current Sauce: Maine Lobster and Chanterelle Cutlet; and a Winter Squash Turban With Scalloped Salsify, Artichokes and Black Truffles. Feeling a tad full? Ha! There's still the Canton Sherbet, the Roast Breast of Quail, the Passion Fruit and Pineapple Jelly, the Chocolate Charlotte Russe and the Vermont Cheddar with Corn Crackers still to come.

Perhaps it is fitting that in a meal this grand, the two dishes I remember most were the simplest: the sherbet and the jelly. The sherbet (a ginger ice), is as easy as can be. The jelly, unfortunately, was an "adaptation" by Chefs Forgione and White, so I cannot tell you how to make it. (If I happen to find out, I'll pass it on.)

The dinner proved -- if anyone had a doubt - that the Fannie Farmer cookbook is a national treasure. The facsimile edition is particularly delightful, as it even nas the corrections made in Ms. Farmer's own hand. If you can't find it in your bookstore, you can order it by calling 1-800-223-2336; $18.96 plus snipping.

CANTON SHERBET

orange juice

1/4 pound fresh ginger, peeled 4 cups water 1 cup sugar

1/2 cup freshly squeezed

1/3 cup freshly squeezed lemon juice

Cut ginger into small pieces, and place in a saucepan. Add water and sugar, bring to a boil and keep at a low boil for 15 minutes. Add fruit juice and stir. Allow to cool to room temperature. Strain and freeze.

Note: You can freeze this in an ice cream maker, according to the manufacturer's directions. Alternately, freeze the mixture in a shallow tray - the day before you are to serve it is best. Several hours before serving. pulse the ice in a food processor; this breaks up the large crystals. Return to the shallow tray and freeze again until ready to serve.

Yield: 10 to 12 servings. - Recipe from "The Original Boaton Cooking-School Cookbook, 100th Anniversary Edition," by Fannie Merritt Farmer (Hugh Lauter Levin Associates, 1996).

FRUIT ROLLS (PINWHEEL BISCUITS)

2 cups flour

4 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt

3 tablespoons butter 2/3 cup milk

1/3 cup raisins, finely chopped 2 tablespoons finely chopped

2 tablespoons sugar (see note) 1/3 teaspoon cinnamon

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. in a large bowl, mix together the flour, baking powder and sait. Sift them twice. Using the tips of your fingers, work in 2 tablespoons of the butter until the mixture resembles a coarse meal. Gradually add the milk, mixing with a knife to form a soft dough.

Melt the remaining tablespoon butter in a small pot.

Toes dough onto a floured board, pat and roll lightly to one-half inch thickness. Brush with melted butter and aprinkle with raisins, citron, sugar and cinnamon. Roll dough like a jelly roll, cut slices 3/4 inch in thickness. Place on a buttered cookie sheet, and bake for 15 minutes or until lightly brown-

Note: For a sweeter biscuit. add 1 or 2 tablespoons sugar to the dough.

Yield: about a dosen biscuits. - Recipe from "The Original Boston Cooking-School Cookbook, 100th Anniversary Edition," by Fannie Merritt Farmer (Hugh Lauter Levin Associates, 1996).

Dad does not take lightly

DEAR ABBY: My father has lived with a lady for several years, but he will not marry her because of her weight. (Of course, he has not told her this.)

She is not fat, but she is a little overweight, a size 12 to 14. When we sak Dad why he hasn't proposed yet, he just says, "She's on a diet right now, and as soon as she loses some weight and stays slim for a while, [7] see about it."

Should I tell her she's wasting her time with my dad? It seems to me that he's just waiting for some-thing better to come along. She cooks, cleans house, washes his clothes, everything. I feel he is just using her. He says he "loves" her. I think if he loves her, he should marry her. What is your opinion?

A SOUTHERNER

DEAR SOUTHERNER: It is not your place to tell the lady anything. When your father asks for your opinion — and not until then — give it to him with both barrels.

DEAR ABBY: I am a single mom looking for a job. Recently I was called for an interview, and it seemed to go very well, as I was called back for a second interview.

The prospective employer told me he would call me next week with a decision. Abby, I waited a whole week without any word, so I decided to call them back. I left a message, and again no response.

Abby, if someone is called in for an interview, wouldn't it be simple, common courtesy for the interviewer to take a few minutes to say, yes, no, or thank you?

PLEABANTVILLE, N.J. DEAR RAE: It's a hoot - and well worth sharing.

to write. Our friends and neighbors, who lived one mile from us for years, nger than that.

W.A. Fullingim lived to be 110 years old. He was born July 7, 1855, in Mount Vernon, Texas, and died Aug. 6, 1965, in Lewton, Okla. On his 100th birthday, I baked him a chiffon cake, and I subsequently baked him 10 more until his death.

His wife, Nancy Ellen Pullingim, lived to be 103 years old. She was born Nov. 1, 1860, in Decatur, Texas, and died on April 25, 1964. (I made four cakes for her, starting when she was 100 years old.)

The Fullingims had celebrated their 84th wedding anniversary in August 1963. They lived on their ranch in western Comanche County from 1917 until their deaths. They are buried in Lawton. They had three children and three grandchildren, but no great-grandchildren. The immediate family is gone.
DELORES CALLEN.

HOBART, OKLA.

DEAR DELONES Thank you for the input. I'll be very surprised if anyone our best the Fullingian' record for langevity or marriage.

DEAR READERS: Hore's a ht-provoking quote from the late — and great — author, John Steinbeck: "We give the president more work than a man can do, more responsibility than a man should take, more pressure than a man can bear. We abuse him often, and rarely praise him. We wear him out, use him up, eat him up. And with all this, Americans have a love for the president that goes beyond party loyalty or nation-ality; he is ours, and we exercise the right to destroy him."

WASHINGTON - The Agriculture Department is considering a key change in its proposal to require testing of raw meat and poultry for bacteria that may kill more than 4,000 people a year and sicken up to 5 million.

The department insists the change being considered would not weaken the planned overhaul of its outdated inspection system.

But the leading consumer group in the fight for better food safety rules says the change, if carried out, would undermine an overhaul. A final rule is due out in a few weeks.

At issue is a proposal made last year that slaughter plants test meat and poultry daily for salmonella, the leading cause of food poisoning, which is more commonly found in poultry than red meat. Industry would be held responsible for reducing the amount of salmonella contamina-

The government now is considering requiring industry to test instead for E. coli, a harmless but common bacteria that can serve as an indicator of other contamination. Government Inspectors would test for salmonella or other harmful bacteria.

The Center for Science in the Public Interest, in an analysis being released today, said the shift would put the agency at the mercy of Congress. The House already used its powers over the Agriculture Department's budget last year to force a further review of the rule.

Moreover, at least one study has shown that incidence of salmonella can rise even if E. coli drops, said Caroline Smith DeWaal, food safety specialist with the group.

Such testing "gives the mirage of safety," she

The testing would be part of a proposed new system for guarding food safety that shifts the stress from inspecting carcasses for signs of contamination to preventing it in the first place.

Testing for bacteria, which come from the feces, milk and undigested food of slaughtered animals, would be used on equipment and other areas to be sure that sanitary controls worked.

The poultry industry's National Broiler Council and scientific advisers to the department argued that salmonella is not the best choice for deciding whether the controls work.

The American Meat Institute, which represents the red meat and poultry industry, argued that harmful bacteria cannot be eliminated entirely. no matter how clean the practices, so there's little point in setting limits.

Stephen Pretanik, director of science and technology for the National Broiler Council, said E. coll tests can give the actual number of bacteria present rather than just show the presence of bacteria, which salmonella testing does. A high E. coli count would show something was wrong with controls.

He said salmonella shows up more commonly in poultry because the birds are small enough to have the entire carcass tested. By contrast, inspectors can only take sample swabs of turkeys. hogs and cattle. Michael R. Taylor, the head of the government food safety and inspection agency, said "it is going to be critical" to the final rule to keep standards and testing for harmful bacteria in raw products, even if government inspectors do the job.

"The amount of money required to do this is relatively modest in relation to our budget," he said. "I don't think that anybody wants to see us without some way to demonstrate to ourselves and to the public that we are making progress in reducing pathogens."

Forget this quit-smoking remedy

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently heard on TV of a remedy to help people stop smoking. It involved taking one 8ounce glass of orange juice and 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartur each night for 30 nights, at bedtime. Have you ever heard of this concoction and how does it curb a desire for nicotine?

DEAR READER: It does not curb a desire for nicotine, because this ingredient in tobacco is highly addictive. despite what the executives of tobacco companies have testified.

More appropriate therapy includes nicotine gum (now available without a prescription), nicoline patches or referral to a support group, such as Smoke Enders.

DEAR DR. GOTT: It boggles my mind to think that in the infinite wisdom of modern-day medicine, nothing can be done other than pain medication and rest for a person suffering from deteriorating discs in the back. Diagnostic testing and orthopedic consults have been unrewarding. There MUST be someone somewhere who knows of a helpful procedure. Sign me, Living in Pain.

DEAR READER: Deteriorating (herniated) discs between the vertebral bones in the back can press on spinal nerves and cause unremitting, severe pain. Although many people with this type of sciatics can be helped by rest, analgesics, spinal manipulation, physical therapy, special exercises, steroid injections, and other techniques, some patients may require corrective surgery. A qualified neurosurgeon or orthopedic specialist, using X-ray tests or MRI scanning, should be able to determine if your pain could be relieved by an

If you've run up against a brick wall so far, I suggest that you seek referral to specialists in a teaching institution or university hospital. Modern medicine does, indeed, offer many types of therapy for afflictions such as yours; there is no reason for you to live in constant pain.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 45-year-old black female. Over the past five years, I've developed small white spots on my stomach and thighs. They don't hurt, but why are they there?

DEAR READER: I don't know. You should see a dermatologist for diagnosis. Depigmented spots can follow skin inflammation, such as eczema, or may appear without warning in conditions such as vitiligo, a harmless skin disorder of unknown cause.

The dermatologist can recommend therapy, depending on the source of your skin problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've had a severe case of cellulitis for six months. Various medications have been preacribed by my doctor, as well as by a vascular surgeon. Is cellulitis a chronic disease? Can you enlighten me on this painful condition that began as a simple ulcer on my foot?

DEAR READER: Cellulitis is a diffuse infection of the skin and underlying tissues, causing redness, swelling and pain. It may accompany poor circulation and often develops following a rather trivial trauma, such as a blow

Treatment includes elevation of the affected leg, hot compresses and antibiotics. In the presence of deficient circulation, the infection may be difficult to eradicate because the tissues: don't receive enough nutrients and oxygen; circulation problems must be addressed as a separate issue.

Cellulitis can become serious if it involves the lymph channels and spreads up the leg. Therefore, if the infection doesn't respond to homecare and oral antibiotics, your doctors may have to admit you to hospital for bed rest and intravenous antibiotics.

Chronic cellulitis does occur and, depending on its severity, must be treated aggressively.

Most bridge columnists (including you-know-who, he added modestly!) write up their own clever plays anonymously. One or two happily pat themseives on the back with regularity. And there are a few who try to resort to subtlety to tell the reader who the genius was. I think the describer of this deal sat West.

South was aggressive in bidding six hearts opposite the pre-emptive raise by North. However, his luck was apparently in. The percentage play in the heart suit is to start with the ace. This works when either opponent holds a singleton king. To lead the queen from hand succeeds only when East has the singleton jack. And South was an expert who knows all the percentages. Yet it didn't work out like that.

After cashing the club ace (leading the ace from ace-king), West continued with the club two.

South wondered what West was doing. Usually, suddenly underleading top honors shows a side-sult void. South concluded that West was hoping East would ruff this trick (but how could South use Blackwood with queen-third of clubs?) and deliver a ruff in return.

Judging that this increased the chance of West's having king-double-ton of hearts, South ruffed at trick two and put the heart queen on the table.
See if you agree that the writer was West. He described the key play thus:
"Well and good — but West threw a spanner (wrench) in the works by continuing with the two of clubs at trick two... Down one. Smiles all round - followed by congratulations to West."
