Sanford Flea Market Owner Will Appeal Adjustment Board Ruling

Herald Staff Writer The Seminole County Board of Adjustment unanimously turned down a request from Flea World owner Syd Levy to expand his flea market on U.S. Highway 17-92 near Sanford, but not before Levy blasted board member Dr. Jim Hickman with a charge of conflict of interest. Levy vowed to appeal the board's decision to the Board of County Commissioners. Flea World opened in May on a 12-acre parcel and had plans for a 21-acre expansion. Those plans were thwarted Monday night, however, after Hickman, despite what Levy termed a green light from county officials, made a motion to deny the expansion request.

When he made that motion I said to myself I'm in for a railroad job," Levy said today.

"I think Mr. Hickman has a definite conflict of interest. He owns land that he rents to the Maitland Flea Market and from what I understand he just renewed a five-year lease for about $1,000 a month.

"That flea market is shaky, the crowd is down to nothing,"

Hickman, however, contends that drainage and parking problems were the basis for his decision to deny the expansion

"I gave my reasons for the record," said Hickman. "They showed the traffic congestion is already a problem and it was shown that without expanding there were already drainage problems and that the expansion would add considerably to the water runoff.

"I gave about four good, different reasons. The problem is the land is too low, it can't be built on and the property owners to the rear are very much opposed," said Hickman.

Hickman said he considered Levy's charge of conflict of interest an "insult."

"Levy's request would have been denied four to nothing even if I had walked out," Dr. Hickman noted, pointing out the adjustment board's other members, Tom Kanelis, Roger Perra, Pat Chisamore and Harry Hagle all voted against the

"I do lease land for the parking at the Maitland Flea Market, but the piece I own for parking is zoned industrial and I intendto develop it as a third phase industrial park," Dr. Hickman

"If that's so," countered Levy, "Then why did he just sign a new five-year lease for flea market parking?"

Mrs. Edna Wren, one of the property owners whose home is located at the rear of the Flea World property expressed concern about flooding, but Levy contends that with the restriction placed on the expansion such as using just 11 of the additional 21 acres in the front of the business, flooding would not be a problem

"The people from the county showed where the drainage would go and it wouldn't affect the property back there. We wanted to develop the whole 21 acres, but I can understand the restrictions," said Levy.

"I would have been glad to accept the expansion with the county's recommended restrictions, but his motion to reject the expansion was capricious."

Levy agreed that there had been parking problems in the front of Flea World along the side of 17-92 since the market opened in May, but that the sheriff's department had written enough tickets and generated enough revenue for the county to discourage patrons from parking too close to the abutting

"I think there was a grand total of three tickets written this past Sunday and that's one of our busiest days," said Levy.

Levy, still fuming over Hickman's actions today, said he plans to appeal to the Board of County Commissioners the denial to grant the special exception.

"The county people showed their own board that with the restriction, the expansion wouldn't cause the problems Mr. Hickman says it will.

"I'm fighting mad," added Levy. "I'll stand on top of a soap box if I have to, but I'll be heard," he said.

Levy said he will contact the county to see what action he will have to take to appeal the planning and zoning board's

The old Seminole Memorial Hospital is on the auction block. Bids will be opened at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the county purchasing department office. County commissioners plan to decide Monday whether to sell the building or convert it into office space for the county.

Many Bids For Old Hospital Expected

By MICHEAL BEHA Herald Staff Writer

County officials anticipate "several" bids will be submitted for the purchase of the old Seminole Memorial Hospital on Wednesday.

No bids had been received this morning, but John Percy, county director of public services and development, said he expects the bids to come at the last minute. Percy and other county officials said about 10 people had shown an interest in the building. He was unsure how many of them would enter bids.

"Many people like to deliver their bids by hand and then sit and wait for the opening," he said. Two local investors and a pair of Massachusetts men have toured the facility with county officials but Percy said other people have apparently examined the 700-bed hospital on their own.

As a result, he is unsure how many bids will be received. "Several people have called to say they're interested. One person represented a foreign investor and asked what would happen if he didn't get his bid in by the deadline."

Percy said the investor would be taking a chance on county commissioners rejecting all hids and putting the building back up for a re-bid.

Several parties interested in the old hospital said it is suitable for a nursing home. But they may have to compete with Seminole County, which is examining the building for potential

The county will decide on the office space possibility after examining the bids and comparing them to appraisals of the building's worth and a consultant's office space report.

The appraisals, which were expected in Percy's office July 13, were delayed because one appraiser was ill. The appraiser will be unavailable until after the bids are opened, Percy said.

Don Hahn, of the Walter Sobel & Associates consulting firm which is conducting the office space study will give a report to county com-

Commissioners have scheduled a Monday af .rnoon work session to address the hospital situation. They hope to make a decision then on whether to sell the hospital or convert it into

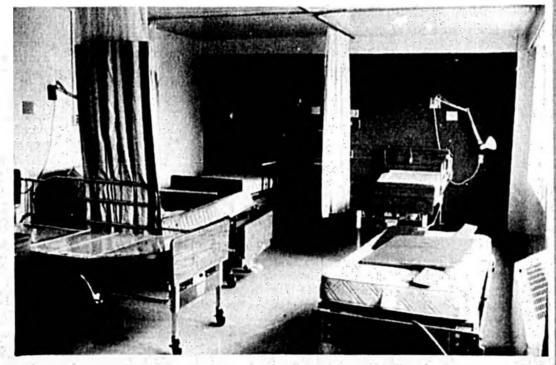

"We would hope to get from their (Sobel's) report an idea of the break-even point," Percy said. Above that price the county would probably sell the property. Below it the county would convert it into office space.

Commissioners already have authorized the advertisement for architects to consider various schemes for renovation of county facilities for additional office space. If commissioners decide to use the hospital for offices, it will be the first facility addressed by the architect.

The hospital was abandoned in June when the new Central Florida Regional Hospital opened its doors and Percy feels the building would be put to its best use as a nursing home.

The three-story building has 115,000 square feet and was built in several additions. Percy said the building is structurally sound.

Much of the furniture at the Seminole Memorial Hospital remains in the rooms even though the facility closed in June following the opening of the Central Florida Regional Hospital. A consultant's study will tell commissioners whether it is cost effective for them to convert the rooms into

Seminole School Clerks Settle For 10.4%

Seminole County school clerical workers followed the lead of non-instructional personnel by tentatively agreeing Monday to a 10.43 percent

School board negotiator Ernest Cowley said the agreement with the 600 members of the clerical association will increase the base salary for clerical workers from $6,286 to $6,942. Cowley said the $6,942 is the starting salary for an aide with no experience. Step raises and longevity raises would increase that salary. The board also agreed to continue paying 100 percent of the premiums for comprehensive major medical insurance for the employees, Cowley said. Annual costs for the insurance climbed 27 percent this year to $560 per person.

Association members also will have the opportunity to purchase $30,000 of life insurance under the new pact. The old agreement allowed them to buy $20,000 of insurance.

The salary increase will cost the School Board $704,418 and will increase the amount the board pays for clerical salaries to more than $5 million. The board paid $4,336,461 for clerical salaries in fiscal 1981-82.

The contract also upgrades six bookkeepers to a higher grade.

The new contract calls for the schools to pay retirees 50 percent of their salary for unused sick days up to 120. Beyond the 120 days, schools will pay 75 percent, Cowley said. The clerical group is the second county union to agree to a new three-year contract with the school board. Last week, the Non-Instructional Personnel of Seminole County union agreed to the same 10.43 percent increase and fringe benefits which the clerical union approved. Negotiations will continue today at Lake Mary High School with the Seminole Education Association. A Wednesday session is scheduled with the bus drivers.

Candidate Deadline Passes; Races Set

Herald Staff Writer As the candidate qualifying deadline ended at noon today, it appeared County Commissioner Sandra Glenn and School Board members Pat Telson and Bill Kroll were automatically elected without opposition. However, Seminole Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce said that write-in candidates have until noon on July 27 to qualify. She said no candidate in recent years has attempted to qualify as a write-in.

All that a write-in hopeful must do is sign qualifying papers giving him the right to mount a write-in campaign. Still, his name would not appear on the ballot.

While Mrs. Glenn, Mrs. Telson and Kroll have no opposition, a 16-year veteran School Board member (Allen Keeth) drew another opponent. Ken Patrick, 46, an educational representative in the publishing business, qualified late Monday afternoon. Patrick ran for a School Board office in 1972 and was defeated.

Earlier, Jean Bryant, a former two-term School Board member also qualified against Keeth. The Keeth-Bryant-Patrick contest will he on the Sept. 7 primary election ballot.

Mrs. Bruce said if any of the three gets a majority of the votes cast in the non-partisan contest, that candidate will be elected. Otherwise, the top two will vie in the general election on Nov. 2.

And County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm, R-Lake Mary, is opposed by former County Commissioner Bob French, D-Casselberry.

Meanwhile, it appeared State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, and State Sen. Toni Jennings, R-Orlando, will be elected unopposed and the Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize

UAW Wants Fringes Back

DETROIT (UPI) - The Chrysler Corp. posted its highest quarterly earnings in six years and United Auto Workers say they will make no wage or benefit concessions in contract talks today.

Chrysler officials Monday announced the automaker earned a $107 million profit in the second quarter after teetering on the brink of bankruptcy for several years.

In early 1981, when the company was seeking federal help, the union agreed to the elimination of cost of living allowance (COLA) payments and a wage freeze. Those concessions put Chrysler's 46,600 hourly workers about $3.50 an hour behind the $20 an hour in wages and benefits earned by workers at Ford Motor Co. and General Motors, UAW officials maintain. The union now is seeking restoration of those concessions.

Shocking Salad Saga

MILWAUKEE (UPI) - At least three cases have been documented involving people who go into severe shock if they engage in strenuous physical activity immediately after eating celery, an allergist says.

Jordan Fink, professor of medicine and chief of the allergy section at the Medical College of Wisconsin, said Monday he calls the problem "food-dependent exercise-induced anaphylaxis."

He said the three patients were able to control the shock by waiting three to four hours after eating celery before exercising.

Man Charged With 4 Armed Robberies

By TENI YARBOROUGH Herald Staff Writer

A 22-year-old Sanford man is being held in the Seminole County jail under $45,000 bond on charges of armed robbery, use of a firearm in the commission of a felony, petty theft and carrying a concealed weapon in connection with four armed robberies of the same Sanford convenience store.

Alfred Allen Pritchard, 89 Lake Monroe Terrace, was arrested at about 2:16 p.m. Sunday after deputies observed a man, matching the description of a man who had recently robbed the Lil' Champ convenience store at 2752 Country Club Road, walking along Airport Boulevard, deputies said.

Deputies said they approached the man, searched him and found a loaded ,22-caliber handgun in the front of his pants. Pritchard was taken to the convenience store where employees identified him as the man who has robbed their store four times since May 20.

David E. Steele, 42, assistant manager of the convenience store, reported armed robberies at his store on May 20, July 8, 14 and 18, deputies said.

Steele told deputies he was robbed outside of his store May 20, just moments after closing the business for the night. However, in each of the July robberies, the robber entered the store, pointed a gun at a clerk and stole an undisclosed amount of money, deputies added.

Pritchard is scheduled to appear in court at 1:30 p.m. today for a bond hearing.

County Worker Fired For Improper Use Of Property, Labor

Herald Staff Writer

One Seminole County employee has been charged with grand larceny and more arrests may be forthcoming this week as a result of an investigation by the Sheriff's Department and State Attorney's Office into misuse of county property, purchase orders and labor.

Sheriff's Department deputies arrested John D. Varney, 39, of Route I, Lake Sylvan Park, at his home at 3:39 p.m. Monday. Varney, the county's facility and parks coordinator, was booked into the Seminole County jail in lieu of $20,000 bond on four grand larceny charges. Each charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison, a $5,000 fine or both.

The arrest is part of a three-week investigation prompted by complaints from maintenance department employees into misuse of county property, time and labor.

Assistant State Attornery Alan Robinson confirmed today his office has taken sworn statements from about 10 county employees after the workers approached the Sheriff's Department with allegations of improprieties within the Maintenance Department. The unidentified employees contended that Recreation Department materials and labor were used for non-county benefits at the direction and discretion of Varney. The department employs 35 persons ranging from building custodians to park maintenance crews. County Administrator Roger Neiwsender fired Varney from his $22,422-a-year job which he has held since March 22, 1976. "From what little I know about the investigation, this wasn't any great criminal plot, but more a case of bad judgment," Neiswender said. "It's unfortunate," said Neiswender, "but the county has policies and procedures that have to be acted upon in cases like this." Nelswender said Varney had the right to appeal his dismissal to a personnel review board within five days following his arrest and termination. Nelswender said Varney gave him no indication he planned to file an appeal. Neiswender added that the county will conduct a management and administrative investigation of its own once the sheriff's investigation is completed. The four charges against Varney involve the building of a doll house for a fellow county employee, the building of a motorcycle trailer for personal use, the purchase and installation of electrical wiring for a county employee's trailer and body repair work on Varney's pickup truck. The arrest reports allege the following:

-That on June 16, 1982, Varney unlawfully authorized the purchase of more than $200 worth of electrical material and the installation of the material in fellow employee Johnnie Butler's trailer by a county maintenance worker.

-That during the latter part of 1981 and early 1982, Varney authorized the purchase of automobile parts using county purchasing orders exceeding $100 for work by the employee on Varney's personal truck that took two full working days.

-That on Dec. 16, 1961, Varney authorized the purchase of wood products for $35 with county funds and authorized another county employee to build a doll house for Butler, a secretary in the Parks and Recreation Department. The project took three full working days which cost the county more than $100 in lost personnel time. -And that during the latter part of 1961, Varney authorized two employees to procure scrap materials for a motorcycle trailer which took five working days to complete at a cost exceeding $100.

Robinson said he expected the investigation to continue for a minimum of 10 days. When asked whether he expected more arrests in the case, Robinson declined to comment on specifics but said, "There is always the possibility of more arrests." Parks and Recreation Director C.W. "Butch" Alexander said today he couldn't comment while the investigation was aircraft in that section of the airport.

"I'm afraid there were no real winners in this whole situation, despite the wellintentioned efforts of a lot of people," Col. Robert Brantly, executive director of the Freshwater Fish and Game Commission, said Monday.

The commission gave up its "mercy kill" of 2,200 deer starved by high water in its second day, saying there was no hope for saving the herd.

"It will take us time to study the data we have collected and determine the real value of what was done," Brantly said.

The official count for the two-day operation was only 720 deer killed and 17 deer rescued by animal lovers, who complained they did not

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) - Officials have enough airboats or personnel to do a waiting list.

Jack Kassewitz Jr., who led the rescue effort, said "there's no way in hell" his small band of volunteers with only a few airboats could save 100 deer, as it had hoped, between

Sunday and noon Tuesday.

Fish and game officers had said there were 5,500 deer starving in the Everglades where heavy rains had covered much of their food and forced them to high ground where they had to compete for sustenance. They said if 2,200 deer were killed in an emergency hunt, the remainder of the animals would have more food to eat and the herd would survive. But critic Cleveland Amory and other preservationists took the matter to court, saying the deer should be relocated instead. U.S. District Judge Eugene Spellman delayed the hunt from Friday morning until Sunday and Brantly said that might have doorned the deer.

He said the delay allowed the herd to become "decimated" before the kill began. Brantly canceled two more days of hunting in the northern half of the area containing the starving deer.

"We have to accept the loss of the deer in the north," Brantly said. "The delay brought about by the suit has thinned out the herd in the north to almost total decimation."

Commission spokesman Biff Lampton said it would take years to rebuild the herd.

"We were just now recovering from a 1978 die-off, which should give you an indication of how long it will take," Lampton said.

"We're sure there will be a core of animals left in the area on which we can build a future herd," he said. "But right now, we can't say how many are left."

The bureau also said the number of people below the official poverty line rose 7.4 percent from 1980 to 1981, from 29.6 million to 31.8 million, about 14 percent of the population.

The median family income was $22,388 in 1981. This means as many families were above that level as below it. The

That decline occurred basically in three regions of the country. This reflects the fact that many retirement and other benefit programs were "indexed" to consumer prices, while wages fell behind prices. The declines in real purchasing power reflect high inflation, the gathering recession in 1981 and rising unemployment.

Child Care Center OK'd For Longwood

By JOE DeSANTIS Herald Staff Writer

Karen A. Cook can open up the child care center in Longwood she's been planning. But thanks to a quirk in city ordinances, the center will be limited to housing 30 youngsters. at least for the time being.

Mrs. Cook, who last week requested a conditional use permit to operate the facility at the southwest corner of Bay and Wayman streets appeared before the City Commission again Monday night with additional information it requested on exact footage for the child care center. But interpretation of space requirements led the commission to grant her request on a limited basis.

A city ordinance requires each child be provided with 200square feet of recreational space and 20-square feet of indoor space. Mrs. Cook met the indoor requirements, but came up short in backyard recreational space for the 40 children she and a staff of seven had planned on supervising.

To meet recreational requirements, Mrs. Cook could have removed a front-yard ranch-type fence and replaced it with a four-foot chain link fence. But commissioners felt the possibility of young children playing less than 25 feet from the front of two streets was too much of a safety risk.

Mrs. Cook contended that the state laws governing required space at child care centers allowed for "inter-changable space." She told the commission that at no time would all 40 children be outside playing.

"Most likely we would have four-to-six children under a year old in cribs," she said. "Obviously, year-old babies wouldn't be out there playing with six-year-olds."

The commission agreed, but felt obligated to stick to the exact wording of its ordinance. Commissioners gave unanimous approval to granting the conditional use permit request with a 30-child limit and invited Mrs. Cook to petition the city to change its ordinance.

Mrs. Cook said she will go ahead and open the child center within a month while preparing to come back before the commission to get the ordinance changed.

In other action Monday, the commission found itself putting the cart before the horse and had to back off of its initial approval of an ordinance to rezone and replat several lots along Superior Construction Company had petitioned the commission to rezone five lots and amend four other plats in the Wildmere subdivision which in effect would rezone the property from multi-family to single-family residential. City Administrator David Chacey contended since the property had already been platted once, the developers wouldn't need adoption of an ordinance to replat the parcels.

But following several comments about proper procedure for replatting and some brisk comments from commissioner Russell Grant, the commission moved to send the replatting and rezoning request back to the city's Land Planning Agency for approval and a public hearing.

"Trying to shove this thing through here without approval from the Land Planning Agency and a public hearing is a little like putting the cart before the horse," said Grant.

"This city has steps you have to go through and this matter hasn't been before the Land Planning Agency, it shouldn't have been on the agenda tonight," he said.

1982-83 Budget, Water On Tap In Altamonte

Altamonte Springs residents will get a chance tonight to see where city officials plan to spend their tax money when the proposed budget for fiscal 1982-83 is unveiled at a town hall meeting.

The commmission's regular Tuesday meeting will be switched to the Westmonte Recreation Center, 500 Spring Oaks Blvd., at 7 p.m. where city officials will outline the budget and offer local residents an opportunity for public input.

City Manager Jeff Etchberger will review the proposed $18,614,928 budget which represents an increase of about $2.2 million over this year's spending plan.

If the budget is approved, city residents could realize a reduction in property taxes from $3.78 per $1,000 assessed valuation to $3.15 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

The reduction is attributed to the combination of the increased one-cent state sales tax and a mandated 40 percent property tax rollback.

The commission is expected to conduct its final work session on the proposed budget Saturday.

The proposed city budget will go before the public for the first of two public hearings in Sept. 1.

In addition to the town hall meeting on the proposed budget, residents will be able to buy $6.50 water-saving kits which were approved by the commission two weeks ago. A limited number of the kits will be available at the Westmonte Recreation Center tonight. The city has placed an original order with Conservo Products for 1,000 kits which are expected to be on hand within 60 days.

The basic kits consist of a water closet dam and water-conserving shower head. Don Newnham, public works director, estimates the water conserving shower heads will save a single-family home an average of 23,000 gallons of water a year while the toilet flush dams will save an additional 21,000 gallons a year. - JOE DeSANTIS

There Can Be No Retreat

President Reagan must have known he was stepping into a pressure cooker when he decided last month to block even indirect American collaboration in the Soviet Union's Yamal natural gas pipeline project.

American companies — Caterpillar Tractor Co., for example — were already lobbying to reverse the administration's earlier ban on direct assistance in building or operating the pipeline. When Mr. Reagan dropped the second shoe at a National Security Council meeting June 18, he seemingly frustrated Soviet efforts to purchase American technology — General Electric gas turbines especially — produced under license by companies in Western Europe and Japan.

That stirred up allied governments more worried about domestic unemployment than the political consequences of relying on the Soviet Union for $10 billion worth of natural gas per year. And it did not play well either in American corporate boardrooms where hope had remained of selling to the Soviets indirectly.

No matter. Mr. Reagan was unquestionably right to put political principles ahead of potential profits on the Soviet pipeline. An invading Soviet army is still in Afghanistan. In that country, and in Laos and Cambodia, civilians and anticommunist guerrillas are still dying from Soviet chemical and biological weapons banned under international law. Poland remains a police state at Soviet behest. And a Soviet military buildup fed in part by timely transfusions of Western technology continues unabated.

Under these circumstances, any American collaboration in a pipeline project that would yield the Kremlin at least $8 billion per year in hard currency by the late 1980s would constitute the most craven appeasement. It would validate, once again, Lenin's prediction that witless capitalists would collaborate in their own hanging by selling the Soviets the rope.

We confess, therefore, to amazement at word that President Reagan is searching for ways to ease economic sanctions against the Soviets. Specifically, he is said to be considering a relaxation of the ban on the sale of American technology for the Siberia-to-the Rhine pipeline.

What sort of signal is the White House preparing to send to the Kremlin on the constancy of American purpose and resolve? Would relaxing economic sanctions the administration previously adopted persuade Leonid Brezhnev that Washington should be respected, or held in contempt?

Will the Soviets reciprocate by withdrawing from Afghanistan, or by destroying their stockpiles of the deadly "yellow rain" toxins? Will they permit Solidarity to flower and liberalization to resume in Poland? Will they surrender their margin of superiority in strategic and intermediate range nuclear weapons?

The Soviets will do none of these things. Those of Mr. Reagan's advisers who imagine they might, if only the White House will help build the pipeline, are deluding themselves.

If President Reagan allows himself to be talked into retreating on the sanctions, he will have sacrificed credibility for a tepid round of applause from timorous allies and shortsighted American corporations. Less noticeable, but far more significant, will be the knowing smirks in the Kremlin.

"I don't care if professional athletes do drugs, we simply don't allow it in Accounting."

Decisions, decisions, decisions.

Seminole High School Principal Wayne Epps doesn't have three determinations this week, just one. But it's a big one. He must decide who is going to take over the Fighting Seminoles' basketball program.

Bill Payne, who has guided the Seminole fortunes the past five years, was named to the Seminole Community College head coaching position last week.

Epps knows he will be a tough man to replace, but he feels he has more than enough worthy candidates from which to choose.

Chris Marlette, Greg Robinson (Lake Howell), Gregg Robinson (Bishop Moore), Tom Smith and Zeke Kinney all have applied.

Marlette is coming off his best season in five years at Crooms. His 1981-82 Panthers raced to a 22-0 season and his third Seminole Sunrise Kiwanis Freshman Tournament title.

Marlette has worked closely with Payne during the last two years and the ex-Seminole chief gives Marlette a lot of credit for developing the fine talent Seminole is using to put together this year's group. (The varsity is 9-0 as Mr. C's Chicken during the summer league).

Greg Robinson, ironically, is coming off his worst season (0-22) at Lake Howell, but has never had too much basketball talent with the Silver Hawks.

Robinson formerly taught at Lakeview Middle School and was one of the people Lake Howell Principal Dick Evans brought with him when he started the Silver Hawk school.

Robinson was also a local hero at Crooms High School and Epps is fond of home town talent. While playing for the Panthers, he was a standout in basketball, baseball and football. Marlette and Robinson seem to be the frontrunners for the position, although a look at the other Gregg Robinson's coaching record has to being him into consideration. Robinson has a sparkling 103-49 record with the Hernets.

Smith Las been in the Seminole program all of Payne's years. Last year, he served as the junior varsity coach.

Kinney was Payne's assistant while he was at Colonial High School. Kinney assumed the head job at Colonial after Payne left.

Mrs. Payne can resume talking to husband Bill now. The Evening Herald was told by an SCC official that Payne would earn $18,000 as its new coach

The figure is really $25,000, according to Payne who will teach physical education.

BUSINESS WORLD

By SAM COOK

On The Future Of Banking

NEW YORK (UPI) — When American bankers talk about the future — as they love to do — they envision a cashless society and the corner bank as a one-stop financial center peddling everything from loans to stocks.

In Israel, such visions have been at or near reality for years.

"We think banking in Israel is more advanced," boasted Israeli banker Meir Arieli after attending a two-week conference on the U.S. banking system at Fordham University.

"We are doing everything," added Jacob Nurock, a colleague of Arieli at Bank Leumi and another of the 40 Israell bankers at the conference.

Indeed, American bankers have long been lobbying their hearts out to Congressmen for permission to offer some of the services Israeli bankers have long considered as standard as a passbook account.

For instance, the Israeli bankers said they have been providing brokerage services for years — buying and selling stocks and bonds for their customers at local bank offices.

for their customers at local bank offices.

U.S. savings and loans only recently were given federal approval to do so. Commercial banks still are begging.

Israel also has come about as close as any nation to a cashless society.

At a growing number of U.S. banks, customers can pay their bills by calling their bank's computer and having the bank forward payments to the companies involved.

But Israelis don't even have to do that. Israeli companies send bills of consenting customers directly to banks — usually on electromagnetic tape, said Arie Rigevsky, another Bank Leumi executive. The bank automatically pays the bill and then deducts the amount from the customer's account.

Employee paychecks also are sent by employers directly to banks where they are credited to customers' accounts.

All the transactions are noted on the customer's personal bank statement sent regularly by mail.

In shopping, Iraelis often use personal checks and, increasingly, bank credit cards. Whereas Americans have found personal checks rougher to negotiate at stores, Israeli merchants readily accept them. Perhaps one reason is that after an Israeli writes 10 bad checks, his name is placed on a government blacklist and he is not allowed to open a checking account for one year, said Bank Leumi's Nurith Kedem.

Cash, however, is not quite yet obsolete, and Israelis have long been able to get hold of cash any time of the day or night at automated teller machines.

Getting loans can be tougher than in America where someone because of his position or prospects often can win a banker's signature on the loan application. In Israel, that's not enough.

"We need collateral," said Arieli. "We need guarantees; bonds, securities, something, if the loan doesn't stand up. On 99.9999 percent of the loans, we are covered."

One exception is the "overdraft." In Israel, it represents an easy and popular way to get the equivalent of one month's salary in advance from the bank without collateral, Ms. Kedem said.

Although inflation is galloping along at the rate of 130 percent, the Israelis and the banking system have learned to cope. Like almost everything else, most loans and savings accounts are indexed to the cost of living.

Unwelcome Lesson

"Over the past seven years, the United States and the Soviet Union have expanded their economic relationship, particularly in the field of trade.

"Increased trade with the U.S.S.R. benefits the United States through higher employment, an improved balance of trade and access to valuable raw materials. It also increases contact between our two peoples, gives the U.S.S.R. an incentive to relax its traditional isolation and play a more normal role in the world economy, and adds an element of stability to our political relations..."

Well, times change as do administrations and policies, as that passage from a State Department summary of U.S.-Soviet economic relations dated December 1979 evidences.

The current administration takes a much different view of the American-Soviet relationship and the benefits to be realized, as its vehement opposition to participation of the allies in the projected pipeline to bring Soviet natural gas to Western Europe evidences.

That opposition is based on the simple principle that the West should not do any business with the Soviets that serves to strengthen them, that the Soviets are vulnerable economically and Western interests are best served by applying pressure rather than offering incentives.

That principle has picked up some support from an unlikely quarter—the Census Bureau. A just-released report on the Soviet economy finds dependence on foreign trade much higher than previously thought. The 1982 estimate is more than 30 percent.

The revision is the result of what the analysts say is a more realistic method of figuring the domestic value of imports and exports, rather than according to the officially fixed and artificial conversion rate of the ruble. It significantly changes the traditional picture of the Soviet economy as minimally involved in world markets and virtually self-sufficient. As the report concludes, "The Soviets are far more vulnerable to economic sanctions than many people realized."

The report is the product of an eight-year study by the Census Bureau's Foreign Demographic Analysis Division. Its release at this time, its authors assure, is purely coincidental.

Whatever, it is a welcome assist to an antipipeline argument under critical fire at home and rejected by the Europeans. The West Germans are going ahead with credits to the Soviets that could reach a total of $1.6 billion for the purchase of German equipment for the pipeline's construction.

On the other hand, the report also comes at a potentially embarrassing point for the administration, faced with a decision on grain sales to the Soviets. The existing five-year pact, obligating the Soviets to buy 6 million to 8 million metric tons of American wheat and corn annually, expires Sept. 30. American growers and their advocates in the Agriculture Department very much want renewal.

U.S. projections indicate the fourth poor Soviet harvest in a row, assuring that Moscow will again be buying heavily on world markets. American producers, anticipating another bumper crop and mounting surpluses, urgently need some of the business.

Precisely, the Europeans can add.

Agriculture Secretary John Block maintains grain sales and the pipeline are "completely different" issues, but it's hard to buy that if you accept the conclusions of the Census Bureau study. If the Soviets are economically vulnerable anywhere, it is in agriculture. Food and grains represented nearly 30 percent of imports last year.

It is argued that the United States would only be hurting itself by refusing to sell grain because the Soviets can do their shopping elsewhere, as they did after the Carter administration restricted sales in retaliation for the invasion of Afghanistan. True, but not as conveniently and adequately. No other single supplier can meet the immense Soviet demand.

The American grain connection is definitely an asset to the Soviets—otherwise, they would not be involved in it.

So the administration has a problem with its own principle on which there can be no acceptable trade-off as to what Americans and Europeans can and cannot do, It's either OK to do business that benefits the Soviets or it isn't.

It's a lesson in the complexities of economics, politics and international relations, particularly when all combine.

An unwelcome lesson, however, for an administration that would prefer to keep things simple.

ROBERT WALTERS

Summer Scandal: Be Skeptic

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In evaluating the current spate of lurid tales about drug abuse and sexual misbehavior among members of Congress, it's important to keep in mind the cordinal rule of assessing such reports:

Any Washington "scandal" that occurs in midsummer must be initially approached with maximum skepticism.

In other words, the likelihood that any political contretemps will actually develop into a serious scandal is inversely proportional to Washington's temperature and humidity during the month in which the broughap a first surfaces.

That's because the politicians, journalists, lawyers and lobbyists responsible for keeping the pot boiling in this city labor under the misapprehension that they have a year-round responsibility to entertain (and sometimes even to educate and enlighten) the rest of the country.

That task isn't especially difficult during the autumn, winter and spring when almost everybody is at work, but the pickings become very slim during the summer (especially notoriously muggy July and August) when there really isn't much material with which to work.

The capital's priciest lawyers flee to Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard for monthlong retreats, bureaucrats use their accumulated weeks of "annual leave" and the House of Representatives methodically recesses for protracted "district work periods."

They're all on vacation, a very sensible practice shared by most other citizens. Those remaining in the city, however, frequently become victims of the phenomenon first identified in the 18th century by English clergyman Isaac Watts: "For Satan finds some mischief (always) for idle hands to do."

This is not an attempt to dismiss as wholly baseless the allegations about sleazy behavior on Capitol Hill, but those charges ought to be placed in their proper context.

Homosexual conduct in Congress dates back at least to the early years of the 19th century, when Rep. John Randolph of Virginia, a leading opponent of President Thomas Jefferson's policies, became notorious for his erratic behavior in general and his kinky sexual proclivities in particular.

Homosexuals undoubtedly remain within the House and Senate, but they also work in almost every other institution in our society. Sanctimonious critics applying hypocritical double standards will hardly change that situation.

Any form of sexual liaison (homo- or hetero-) with teenage congressional pages is a very serious matter, but the credibility of the few pages willing to discuss the matter with law-enforcement officials is virtually nonexistent.

Recreational drug use is an equally serious issue, but the widely publicized seizure of 1,200 pounds of cocaine (enough to destroy the nasal septums of all 535 members of Congress and their 18,000 employees) in southeastern Tennessee (more than 500 miles from Washington and heading in the opposite direction) provides the most recent evidence that the problem is hardly limited to Capitol Hill.

Although the sex and drug "scandals" remain to be resolved, their emergence has highlighted the need for the long-overdue abolition of the congressional page system.

Top-Secret Documents Handled Loosely

WASHINGTON — Some of the nation's most sensitive security documents are so loosely guarded that one of my reporters has been able to walk in off the streets and pick them up.

But let something tawdry occur, and our elected leaders will pull up the covers. They'll invoke national security and reach for the secrecy stamp in an attempt to cover up the embarrassment.

They won't hesitate to use the secrecy stamp to censor the news. Yet they are much less vigilant when it comes to protecting the real secrets that could affect the nation's safety.

The White House, for example, is the nerve center of the entire federal government. High fences, patrolled by armed men and sophisticated electronic devices, keep out intruders. Planes are forbidden to fly overhead.

verhead. Detailed plans of the White House electrical, sewer and shelter systems could provide invaluable information for spies. It would be like the Central Intelligence Agency getting its hands on engineer's drawings of the Kremlin.

Yet some of these vital documents have been literally lying around in non-secure offices inside the General Services Administration. They are intended for the use of private contractors who work on White House projects, but anyone who looks as if he knows what he's doing can examine them, and even walk away with copies.

My associate Dale Van Atta, dreased in cowboy boots, corduroy pants and non-matching jacket, visited the GSA one sunny day and browsed around the area where these contractors' documents are kept. There were no security guards. Nobody challenged him.

He had previously obtained a copy of an architect's drawing of the White House "underground utilities," stamped "For Official Use." He also got a copy of an unclassified map titled "White House Grounds," showing the various ducts, conduits and manholes installed under the lawns and driveways around the executive mansion.

But the real paydirt was located in an unlocked file-cabinet drawer clearly labeled as containing White House material. It was a 19-sheet collection of oversized architectural drawings, which Van Atta spread out on top of the cabinet to study. No one questioned him; in fact, one government worker offered to Xerox the material for him.

"Primary Electrical Systems and Shelter Improvements" was the title on the first page which was a detailed map of the White House's sewer and electrical systems. It has the appearance of an aerial photo of the White House taken with an X-ray camera.

Exact locations and distances were neatly noted on the map — the protective fences, the red ash tree, the 60-foot burr oak, guardhouses, drains, electrical conduits, high-water alarm systems, everything.

The 18 following pages included schematic drawings titled Power Line One Diagrams;

East Vault and Shelter Power System Control and Instrumentation; Mansion Vault and West Wing Vault Power System Control and Instrumentation; Electrical Site Plan; Plans
— East Vault, Shelter and Data Processing
Room; Plans — Mansion Vault, West Wing
Vault and East Wing; Electrical Schedules;

Originally classified simply "For Official Use Only," the 19-page document was later classified "Confidential" by the White House Military Office, with the instruction: "Declassify on 19 August 2000."

Electrical Controls, and Panels and Controls.

Footnote: The Secret Service was appalled at Van Atta's easy access to the White House plans, and assured us the problem will be corrected. In return, we assured the Secret Service their secrets were safe with us—certainly a lot safer than with the GSA.

Nationals Hold Off Americans

Herald Sports Writer

Midnight, the witching hour. While most of Sanford dozed off for the night, Fort Mellon Park stood illuminated in the pitch blackness that had engulfed most of the city.

Heavy rains delayed starting times for the opening games of the District 4 Little Major League Tournament so the matchup that "needed no build up," the Sanford Americans against the Sanford Nationals, did not get underway until 10:43 Monday night.

And at midnight the game was still on

The Nationals, on the power of home runs by Ron Blake and Leonard Lucas, took an 8-3 lead into the top of the fifth inning. But the Americans came back behind a two-run double off the bat of Von Eric Small and trailed by two runs going into the final frame.

With two outs in the sixth and Sammy Edwards on first base, the Americans sent Reginald "Cheese" Bellamy to the plate representing the tying run. It was power against power as Bellamy, who hit eight homers in the regular season, faced fireballing Nationals' reliever Lucas.

And it was Lucas who got the upper hand this time as Bellamy was caught looking at a called third strike and the Nationals pulled out an 8-6 victory,

"It was a heck of a ballgame," Nationals' manager Sylvester "Slick" Franklin Jr. said after the game ended early (12:35 a.m.) Tuesday morning. "Both teams are very strong and I hope we can meet again in the championship

The Americans will play Ocala Highlanders tonight at 6 at Fort Mellon Park while the Nationals take on Ormond Beach at 8. Ormond Beach won the first game, 5-4, over Ocala.

The Americans jumped on Nationals' starting pitcher Willie "Sugar Tex" McCloud for three runs in the top of the first inning. Edwards led off with a single, advanced to second and third on passed balls and scored on a wild pitch. Bellamy, who had walked after Edwards' single, went to second on John Wright's single and moved to third on a passed ball. bottom of the first but ran into some problems in the second. The Nationals' Todd Revels drew a walk and advanced to second when Edward Gordon's grounder was booted. Revels and Gordon advanced on a passed ball and McCloud walked to load the bases. Revels scored on Bellamy's throwing error and McCloud also scored on an error. Ron Blake put the Nationals up 4-3 when he blasted a two-run homer over the right center field fence.

The Nationals got two more in the third as Lucas crushed one over the right field fence to lead off the inning and pinch runner Willie Walton crossed on another Americans' error.

The Nationals got two unearned runs in the fourth when courtesy runner Shawn Green scored on a wild pitch as did Lucas.

The Americans out hit the Nationals nine to four, but the Nationals took advantage of four American errors.

In the first game, Ormond Beach broke the scoring ice in the bottom of the third with a pair of unearned runs. Karl Rosenwald was safe on an error with one out and Kenny Burdi followed with a walk. Another error loaded the bases and Jeff Guenther drove in a pair of runs with a double to right field.

Ocala had loaded the bases with no outs in the top of the third, but Rosenwald fanned the next three batters to hold Ocala scoreless. But he was touched for three runs in the top of the fourth after Chris Robinson drew a one-out walk, Jim Bissell drove him home with a single and Lance Hutchings followed with a single. The third run scored on an error.

Taking advantage of a pair of walks and an error, Ormond Beach scored two runs on just one hit, an infield safety by Jay Lendway, to retake the lead in the bottom of the fourth.

Benji Fricke belted a leadoff home run in the fifth for Ormond Beach and that proved to be the winning run as Chris Robinson led off the sixth for Ocala with a home run that cut the lead to just one run. Ocala stranded runners at second and third in the sixth

Jersey Trips Florida, 62-51

BOSTON - New Jersey broke open a tight game with three quick baskets late in the fourth quarter here Monday to trip Florida, 62-51, in National AAU-Junior Olympics basketball tournament play.

Basketball

Florida, comprised of 15-year-old or younger girls from Seminole, Lake Howell, Lake Mary, Ovledo and Lake Brantley high schools, resumes play tonight at 6:30 against either Colorado or Virginia.

Florida trailed, 48-47, with 3:58 to play when Lisa Apicelia hit the front end of a 1 plus 1 and 6-2 Mary Ford grabbed the missed second shot and dropped it in for a 51-47 edge.

Florida then took a poor shot and New Jersey converted again. A bad Seminole pass resulted in another turnover and basket for a 55-47 bulge.

"We got behind early because they hit 16-of-32 foul shots," said coach Bill Moore who lost Lyman ace Valerie Jackson with three fouls in the first two minutes. "Then Mona Benton (Sanford) twisted her knee in the second quarter and couldn't play any more."

Laura Glass led Florida with 10 points and nine rebounds. Sanford's Dieidre Hillery added nine points and Fighting Seminole teammate, Maxine Campbell, handed out six assists.

Apicelia led all scorers with 23 points.

FLORIDA - (51) - 1. Glass 4 24 10, Campbell 2 2-2 6, Hillery 4 1-3 9, Johnson 3 0-1 6, Benton 3 0-0 6, Gregory 1 2-2 4, P. Glass 3 0-1 6, Jackson 1 2-4 4, Totals 21 9-17 51.

Junior Stars Rained Out

Sanford's Junior League All-Stars had their first-round game with Ormond Beach rained out Monday night at Ormond Beach. Sanford was scheduled for an 8 p.m. game.

The first game pitting Port Orange against New Smyrna Beach was also postponed.

Both games have been rescheduled for tonight with the first game at 6 and Right-hander Dewaine Mitchell will be on the mound for Pete Courlas' All-

Scott Stiles drew a free pass, stole second and scored on an error for Altamonte's fifth run of the inning. With two outs, Anthony Laszaic reached on an infield hit and Chris Brock smashed a two-run shot over the left center field wall for 5-1 advantage.

SW Volusia then went to its third pitcher of the inning and he got out of a basses-loaded jam to end the inning.

Altamonte got a fine pitching performance from Brock and Hagen. Brock pitched the first five innings and yielded only one run on four hits while striking out 10. Hagen pitched the final inning and allowed one hit and struck out two.

Golden Golmont Goose Eggs Volusia

By SAM COOK Herald Sports Editor

EUSTIS — Altamonte's Van Golmont was pitching a pretty good ballgame here Monday night when Ed Corbett lined a shot off his right (pitching) arm.

It came in the third inning and Golmont had held West Volusia to no runs on four hits while striking out three of the eight

After recovering to throw Corbett out at first, however, the injury didn't seem to have any debilitating affect. In fact, Golmont grew stronger. He retired the next 10 hitters in succession and finished with a six-hitter along with 13 strikeouts as the Altamonte Senior All-Stars captured the District 14 Division 2 championship with a convincing 4-0 victory over West Volusia. "Golmont was golden tonight," raved manager Clayton Garrison. "The umpire behind the plate said, 'we ought to hit him with a bat on the arm before every game if he's going to pitch like that.""

Golmont was, indeed, golden. Mixing a dipping curveball with a smoking fastball, the Lake Howell High junior caught five of his 13 whiff victims looking at third strikes and didn't issue a walk. At one point, he fanned six of seven batters and finished with a flourish by getting the final two hitters of the game

Baseball

While Golmont was the pitching hero, the clutch hits were provided by Scott Morrissey and Rod Metz.

Altamonte put one run on the board in the first on some aggressive baserunning by centerfielder Scott Underwood. Underwood reached on an error, stole second when he was picked off first and went to third when the first baseman threw the ball into left field.

Metz then lifted a fly ball to medium center field and Underwood broke for the plate. Nard Williamson's peg was right on the money to pitcher Greg Hurd, but the well-built Underwood jarred the ball loose a la Pete Rose.

The run was unearned, but Altamonte led, 1-0.

In the second, Mark Chasey drilled a double past the third baseman and Kevin Hill drew a walk. Morrissey then roped a liner inside the bag at third which went for a double and scored both Chasey and

40-Foot Fall Kills Woman At Riverfront

Berra Drives Away Reds

United Press International

Riverfront Stadium in Cincinnati was once the home of a proud champion. It now houses a rapidly deteriorating franchise and became the scene of a tragedy Monday night.

Lora Schneeman, a 21-year-old native of Montgomery, Ohio, died of massive internal and headinjuries upon arrival at Cincinnati General Hospital Monday night after plunging 40 feet from an upper level loge seat during the Pittsburgh Pirates' 5-4 victory over the hapless Reds.

Authorities later determined she had come to the game with another young woman and that she apparently had been drinking before the fall.

"I saw her hit and I couldn't explain what I felt," said Cincinnati manager John McNamara. "It takes your breath away."

"I saw her in mid-air and I couldn't believe it," said Pittsburgh's Dave Parker.

Despite the death of the young woman, the game continued. Dale Berra drove in three runs, including the gamewinner with a sacrifice fly in the sixth inning, to spark the Pirates.

Berra's sacrifice fly capped a two-run sixth that gave Pittsburgh a 4-3 lead. Berra also added a runscoring single in the second inning and a solo home run, his sixth, in the eighth.

Reliever Manny Sarmiento, who replaced starter Ross Baumgarten with one out in the third, hurled three-hit relief for 4 2-3 innings to receive credit for the victory, with Kent Tekulve earning his 13th save by retiring the Reds in order in the ninth.

Frank Pastore, who came off the disabled list Monday, hurled the first six innings and took the

National League

The Reds took a 1-0 lead in the first on Dave Concepcion's RBI sacrifice fly, but the Pirates went in front 21 in the second on Berra's run-scoring single and a throwing error by Reds' catcher Alex Trevino on which Mike Easler scored.

Cincinnati regained the lead 3-2 in the third on Dave Concepcion's RBI single and a sacrifice fly by Paul Householder. Pittsburgh moved in front 4-3 in the sixth with Tony Pena's single tying the score at 3-3 before Berra hit his game-winning sacrifice fly.

In other NL games, Chicago downed Houston 6-5, Los Angeles shaded Montreal 2-1, Atlanta defeated St. Louis 41 and Philadelphia nipped San Diego 7-6.

In the American League, it was Toronto 4, Kansas City 2; Chicago 6, Detroit 0; Boston 9, Texas 5; Cleveland 5, Oakland 4; California 6, Baltimore 5; New York 5, Seattle 3 and Minnesota 6, Milwaukee

At Chicago, pinch-hitter Jerry Morales' two-out single in the bottom of the 10th capped a two-run rally and gave the Cubs a victory over Houston.

Dodgers 2, Expos 1

At Los Angeles, Vicente Romo scattered three hits and did not allow a run over seven innings to pick up his first victory in eight years and lift Los Angeles.

Braves 4, Cardinals 1

At St. Louis, Bob Horner's two-run single capped a three-run eighth inning that lifted the Braves and snapped the Cardinals' three-game winning streak.

At San Diego, Gary Matthews delivered a two-run single in a four-run third inning and Ron Reed halted an eighth-inning rally to lift the Phillies.

Horner's Single Whips St. Louis, 4-1

ST. LOUIS (UPI) - Bob Horner's two-run single capped a three-run eighth inning Monday night that carried the Atlanta Braves to a 4-1 victory over St. Louis and snapped the Cardinals three-game winning streak.

The Braves and Cardinals were tied 1-1 entering the eighth but Atlanta loaded the bases on consecutive singles by Phil Niekro, Claudell Washington and Rafael Ramirez.

Joaquin Andujar struck out Dale Murphy but was then called for a balk and Niekro scored. Horner singled down the left field line to drive in Washington and Ramirez and hand Andujar his fourth straight loss.

Niekro scattered six hits over 7 1-3 innings to notch his 248th career victory. Gene Garber pitched the final 1 2-3 innings to pick up his 17th save.

The Cardinals tied the score in the sixth on singles by Darrell Porter and Ozzie Smith and a groundout by Tom Herr. Altanta had gone in front in the second when Chris Chambliss singled, stole second, went to third on a throwing error by Porter and scored on Glenn Hubbard's double.

The Cardinals lost a chance to take the lead in the seventh when Ken Oberkfell tried to score from second on Porter's infield single but was thrown out at the plate.

Tigers Can't Turn Off Lamp

United Press International

The Detroit Tigers remain in the dark as to how to turn off Dennis Lamp.

Lamp beat the Tigers for the third time in as many decisions this season and blanked them for the second time in helping the Chicago White Sor snap a five-game losing streak with a 6-0 triumph Monday night.

The White Sox' right-hander scattered seven hits and worked out of bases-loaded jams in the eighth and ninth innings in besting the Tigers. He walked four and struck out six.

Against the rest of the American League, Lamp is 4-4 with a 4.95 ERA but against Detroit he is 3-0 with a 1.20 ERA in 30 innings.

"They have a lot of righthanded power hitters," said Lamp in trying to explain his success against Detroit. "And they have one thing on their mind — to hit the ball out of the

"I'm able to run the ball in on them. And I can get my breaking over away from them." Harold Baines and Vance Law supported Lamp with home runs in the third inning as the Tigers won their seventh straight game at Tiger Stadium since 1980. The game was decided in the first inning when losing starter Milt Wilcox gave up a oneout single to left on a 3-2 pitch to Tony Bernazard then loaded the bases by walking Steve Kemp and Greg Luzinski. He hit Tom Paciorek to force in the first run, walked Baines to force in another and gave up a runscoring single to Carlton Fisk.

Blue Jays 4, Royals 2

At Toronto, Barry Bonnell and Leon Roberts belted solo homers to power the Blue Jays to their fifth straight victory. Luis Leal ended a personal four-game losing streak with his sixth complete game of the season. The righthander allowed six hits, struck out four, walked two and retired 11 consecutive batters during one stretch.

American League

Red Sox 9, Rangers 5

At Boston, Carl Yastrzemski belted a threerun homer to cap a five-run eighth inning that handed the Rangers their seventh straight defeat. Yastrzemski, who went 3-for-3 to raise his batting average to .304, greeted reliever Jon Matlack with his 12th homer and first since July 5 after RBI singles by Eddie Jurak and Jim Rice had put the Red Sox ahead 6-5.

Yankees 5. Mariners 3 At New York, Oscar Gamble, Dave Winfield and Roy Smalley hit third inning home runs and Tommy John gained his first victory in nearly a month in leading the Yankees to victory. The Yankees have now won five straight since the All-Star break while Seattle dropped its seventh game in its last eight starts. Richie Zisk homered for Seattle.

Twins 6, Brewers 4 At Minneapolis, Tom Brunansky belted an inside-the-park grand slam and John Castino and Len Faedo each hit solo homers to help the Twins snap the Brewers' eight-game winning

Indians 5, A's 4 At Cleveland, a throwing error by third baseman Wayne Gross on an infield hit by Toby Harrah enabled Jack Perconte to score the winning run as the Indians rallied for two runs in the ninth to win-Angels 6, Orioles 5

At Baltimore, Bob Boone and Reggie Jackson hit home runs to power the Angels to victory. Steve Renko, who won his first game since June 21, went 7 1-3 innings and beat an East Division club for the fifth time without a loss this season. Baltimore starter Scott McGregor, 11-7, had beaten the Angels in his last 12 starts, including a 3-0 record in 1982.

Bertha Rines began volunteer work in the hospital where she had her tonsils removed when she was 12 years old.

Volunteering Is Way Of Life For 'Grandma'

By THOMAS W. PAUKEN Director of ACTION Special to The Herald

When Bertha Rines of Casselberry was 12 years old, she had her tonsils out. In those days the medical profession believed in keeping a patient bedded down longer than we do today, particularly if an operation was involved.

Bertha's sentence was two weeks in the hospital whereas, she says, she felt ready to come home in less than half that time. Bored, she asked the nurses if there was anything she could do to help. They showed her how to fold bandages and Bertha was off and folding on her first volunteer job.

That was more than half a century ago, and since then Bertha Rines has filled her life with volunteer service.

Of course, she had other things to do as well - like going to college and becoming a school teacher and getting married and raising a family. Three girls, a boy and a husband will keep anyone busy, especially if it involves a teaching career besides.

But somehow Bertha Rines always found time to volunteer for worthy causes.

Now that she has retired, the family grown, she devotes her efforts to full-time volunteering through ACTION's Retired Senior at the Winter Park Memorial Hospital, in community activities and in Project Concern. It's with Project Concern that she begins each day, making telephone calls to homebound elderly folks in Seminole County. Her daily calls are not only to check on the health of the individual but, of equal importance, to provide comfort and friendly encouragement, a warm voice reaching out. Her genuine concern pays off; she has cheered the despondent; given solace to the depressed, her gentle persuasion restoring the will to live among the bereft.

And it's not just the elderly who appreciate the attention of Bertha Rines.

"Hello, Grandma," are familiar words from the young as they pass by her home. They know her well. In some she instilled a sense of community pride and through her guidance a nearby area that was once cluttered with garbage and debris is now spotless.

All it took was a bit of encouragement from Grandma Rines to get the youngsters to clean up the place.

In Orlando last October, in recognition of her indefatigable volunteer contributions, Bertha Rines was awarded the Luella Dirksen Community Service Award.

An inspiration to people of all ages she says simply. "That's what life is all about isn't it? Helping your fellow man."

Don't Sniff At Significance Of Odors

DEAR ABBY: I've seen numerous letters in your column over the years from wives complaining that their husbands don't bathe enough. so this letter may be a first. My wife complains because I bathe too much. I bathe routinely every morning. (office) I bathe before going

Mitsubishi Denies Theft Of IBM Secrets

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Mitsubishi Electric Corp., the second Japanese firm charged with plotting to steal IBM's computer secrets, has denied the accusations and says it will be "fully vindicated" in court. A secret federal grand jury in San Jose, Calif., handed up indictments against Mitsubishi and four men on charges of conspiring to steal computer technology from IBM to gain a competitive edge in the industry, it was announced Monday in San Francisco.

In a statement prepared in Japan and released in San Francisco, Mitsubishi "emphatically" denied it or its employees had been involved in any illegal conduct. "MELCO (Mitsubishi Electric Corp.) intends to defend itself and its employees vigorously," it said.

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl. Tuesday, July 20, 1982-3B More Women, Blacks,

Experienced Workers Moving Into The South

ATLANTA (UPI) - It's no secret that the South is gaining in population compared to the rest of the country. But did von know that most of the newcomers are women?

Also the region is gaining more experienced workers in all occupations and is benefiting from a North-to-South "brain drain." In addition, more Southerners are "staying home," and more blacks are moving into the South.

All of these demographic shifts have tended to lower the incidence of Southern poverty, according to a recent study of Southern migration patterns by William J. Kahley, an economist with the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta.

The results of Kahley's study appeared in the latest issue of the Fed's Economic Review. The study covered all the states in the Sixth Federal Reserve District, including Georgia, North and South Carolina, Florida, Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama.

The survey area also included Texas, Arkansas, Delaware. Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

"Basically, these findings indicate what the 1980 census is likely to show," Kahley said.

Although some basic information collected by the census has been released, many of the findings have not.

Kahley said that for the first six decades of this century, the South lost population but that trend was reversed in the 70s. Now, he says, the South is attracting more than 350,000 people each year, compared to only 130,000 annually in the late 60s.

The rise of the New South, says Kahley, is partly related to the nation's shift away from reliance on heavy manufacturing industries toward "high tech" and service industries which are moving into Southern states.

"The South's generally favorable business climate is bolstered by a mild-weather climate and a comfortable and relatively low-cost lifestyle."

Kahley says the South's population gains once favored males by a six to four ratio. "Today, however, both sexes have the same odds of migrating; and, because women are more numerous than men, migration is increasing the proportion of women in the southern population."

Net migration of blacks has changed. In the 1965-70 period, black migration subtracted from the population of the South in all age groups and lowered the black share of the region's population.

"In sharp contrast, by 1975-80, net migration of blacks of all ages turned positive. Net migration in 1975-80 amounted to 1.6 percent of the 1980 black Southern population, compared to minus 2 percent of the 1970 population in the earlier period."

The South also is gaining more young people. The share of migrants age 45 and over has fallen, from 55.7 percent in 1965-70 to 37.5 percent in 1975-80. The migration of the Baby Boom generation of 25-34 year olds increased from less than threehundreds of one percent to 2.3 percent.

The former pattern of migrants to the South being either white collar workers or skilled craftsmen has shifted somewhat. Kahley said white collar workers still dominate the South's new arrivals but the other occupational groups have begun to flow into the region as well.

On balance, migration clearly has involved a "brain drain" from the North to the South, according to Kahley. The region added 833,000 people with at least a high school education in the 1975-80 period and 172,000 with college degrees.

The South's share of the nation's poverty population dropped from 46 percent in 1969 to 42 percent in 1979. Despite this decrease, however, the South remains the region with more poor people than any other section. Kahley said the recent migration has had a good impact on the South, "Migration helped increase per capita personal income from 86 percent of the national income level in 1970 to 91 percent of the national income level in 1980." Kahley conclides that "it is unlikely that the South's favorable migration balance will be reversed in this decade. For environmental and economic reasons, it appears that capital and businesses are still flowing into the South from other

"It is likely that firms looking to the region are finding the changing composition of the resident workforce - older and more educated - to be an attractive feature of the South."

Now-Sighted Edens Sees It All Now

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) - Bob Edens, blind since birth but given sight by remarkable surgery 15 months ago, marvels at mountains, sunsets and jets streaking across a bright summer

"People think I'm crazy," the 52-year-old Edens told a visitor recently. "I was walking through the World's Fair the other day, and a jet went by — a silver jet in the sunshine.

"Others looked up also to see what was there, but people just don't pay attention to things like that," he said. Edens said he has learned to do a lot in the past year.

"I do all my own bills and checks," he said, striking a match to light his cigarette. "Sometimes the signature looks pretty rough, but the bank always accepts it."

Two and a half years ago, doctors at Emory University in Atlanta told Edens there was a good chance new surgical techniques could give him sight. The operation involved reattaching his retina and transplanting a cornea in one eye. "I can read now, see traffic, cross the street, watch the lights

Edens, a professional masseur, said gazing at women is a

"My girls are crazy about me," the chubby, balding man said with a smirk after chatting with a customer on the

"Eighty percent of my customers are women," he bragged. Clad in green slacks and a matching sport shirt, Edens said he enjoys picking out his wardrobe each day.

"I don't know all the best ways to match things, and my daughter has to remind me sometimes not to mix stripes and plaids," he said, chuckling.

"It's pretty nice not to have people tell you what things are like at a salad bar. I can arrange the salad myself now." Edens graduated from Furman University at Greenville, S.C., learned Braille, married and had a daughter and coached a little league baseball team during his years without sight.

For all those years Edens was unable to use his eyes, he used his ears to teach himself music. "I can play just about any instrument," he announced proudly, "I learned by ear.

"I write songs too," he said. "I just picked it up." Edens, a native of the tiny Possum Kingdom community in the northwestern part of South Carolina, has penned such country songs as "ScooterPoopin'," "Georgia Country

None of his compositions have been recorded by major artists, but he hopes to sell his music someday.

Edens said he can perform on "all string instruments and some you blow on." "I even play my fist," he said.

Edens said he was enthralled by new sights at the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn.

wheel - and now it's even better. Oh, you can see so much up there! It's been a real awakening."

"I used to raise leopards and black panthers," he said. He still loves the animals, but no longer raises them. "I'm amazed at their beauty," he said with rapture in his voice. "I just look now, and wonder how I used to get in the cages and wrestle with those cuts."

YOUR BIRTHDAY July 21, 1982

This coming year you will begin to see an improvement in your economic conditions. The changes may be slow in coming, but they will constantly inch upward. CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you hope to increase your earnings, begin as of now to think in larger terms. Setting higher goals will add to your impetus. Predictions of what's in store for you for all four seasons following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth

Your Heart Rate As Recovery Guide

DEAR DR. LAMB - 1 find lots of material about heart failure and what it is, but very little about treatment. What I have found seems to be contradictory. For example, I read that the heart is a muscle, exercise builds and lack of exercise weakens muscles. Yet the most common prescription for heart failure is lots of bed

I'm 68, have high blood pressure and heart failure. I'm a female, 5 feet 4 and weigh 130 pounds. My doctor has me on medication for the blood pressure. I asked about walking for exercise and all the answer I got was "take it slow up your hill." I live on a hillside.

Can one improve the heart function by exercise? If so, what kind and how do you judge how much?

DEAR READER — None of the general rules we use apply to all cases. Each patient is an individual and needs an individual solution. Exercise is great in rehabilitation in some cases after a heart attack and is an important factor in preventing heart attacks. If your heart is already weak or has been damaged then it may not be such a good idea.

Heart failure usually occurs because the heart is not able to work hard enough to pump your blood at the pressure your system requires. Lowering your blood pressure may be helpful in your case. Exercise that works the heart that is already having trouble working at rest is not always beneficial.

It depends a lot on what has caused your heart to be weakened and in failure. Walking may help you lower your pressure, thereby decreasing your heart work helping your condition. Walking may help you lose a few pounds of body fat that may also help lower your pressure.

Use your heart rate as a guide. At your age and with your problem don't walk so fast that your heart rate even passes 100 unless you improve medically a great deal.

Don't walk to the point of being short of breath. But walk slowly, regularly, and perhaps in time you can increase it, using these same some benefits from walking. To explain how exercise affects the heart I am sending you The Health Letter number 14-10, Exercising Your Heart. guidelines, and perhaps get

DEAR DR. LAMB - Would you explain staph infection for me? I had an operation and was doing fine but had to go back into the hospital because of the infection. It was worse than the operation. It was in the incision and was unreal. I read it was through carelessness on someone's part in the hospital.

DEAR READER - Staph means staphloccocci bacteria. They are commonly found on the skin. Fortunately these are usually harmless ones. But these same bacteria cause boils or infected hair follicles. How bad an infection is depends a lot on what type of staphylococcal infection you have. There are different strains. Don't be so sure someone was careless at the hospital. The source of the staph infection may well have been you. Some people are staph carriers and have some staph capable of causing low-grade infections as chronic residents of their own skin. If these get a chance to breech the normal skin barrier they may cause a nasty infection. I'm glad you have recovered. Staph infections are sometimes difficult to

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Some 50 years ago the champion Four Aces team discovered a most valuable bidding principle. We named it the rule of the ace and the Specifically, the idea was that any time you held a full king more than you should already shown you should consider a higher level for consider a higher level for the final contract than your partner had suggested. With a full ace extra you should make some positive move. With an ace and king extra you should make the move.

North has a full ace over a minimum spade response. He would have reached game over a minimum rebid by South. When South jumped to three diamonds North was ready to invite a slam. His three-heart call started his move.

South just rebid three notrump. Now North decided that four no-trump (a notrump raise, not Blackwood) would be enough since he only held four spades.

The four no-trump was enough to get South to six. He won the heart lead in dummy, led a diamond to his ace, returned to dummy with a spade, and led dummy's last diamond. Then he made the safety play of the eight to guard against the possibility that East might hold his exact diamond holding. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)
