By DONNA ESTES

LONGWOOD - City councilmen Monday night, voting 3-2, issued a stop order on further renovations of the medical building until Jan. 28 pending a workshop with county commissioners and denied a move for a public hearing. The board voted unanimously, however, to pay $6,590 to

Harris Construction Co. for the work done to date. Councilman Don Schreiner making the motion to halt the renovations said it was "foolish" and a "waste of money" to start the renovations, apparently since the three recently elected board members made it known immediately after election they would turn the building back to the county for health department clinic

Senremer also read into the record a letter from County Commission Chairman John Kimbrough that the county board is ready to pledge funds to remodel the clinic. Mayor Eugene Jaques, noting the past council's intent was to use part of the building for the fire department with the balance in office space, said Schreiner's remarks were a matter of opinion and called Council Chairman E. E. Williamson, Councilman June Lormann and Schreiner's moves "political" ones. Councilmen B. H. Ferrell and B. L. Helms called for the public hearing Jaques recommended, but the motion died 3-2 with Schreiner terming the move "premature" until the meeting is held with county commissioners. "What started out as an administrative function has ended as a political issue," Jaques said.

Package Sewer Contract

Jaques signature was unanimously authorized by city councilmen Monday night to complete agreement with developer C. A. Hobbs Jr. to furnish sewer service to the Sanford-Orlando

City Atty. Joe Davis, noting the city committed at the time it annexed the dog track to provide sewer service, said 52,000 gallons capacity of the 100,000 gallon daily capacity sewer package plant at Columbus Harbor is pledged to the city in the agreement in exchange for $15,000. Davis said 20,000 gallons will be reserved for the kennel club and from the remaining 22,000 gallons, "hopefully" the city can collect connection fees. He added that the package plant construction cost was $33,938 and the city for the $15,000 will own and maintain the plant.

Drainage Ditch Woes

Ownership and responsibility for the east-west drainage ditch into Fairy Lake will be established in conferences with the county and state in the nest few days or the board will take court action against a private property owner, the city council indicated Monday night. Problems with the ditch have plagued the board for more

Williamson, noting the state is purchasing right-of-way for the ditch told the council street committee composed of Mrs. Lormann and Helms to meet with the Kimbrough to settle the matter after two citizens whose homes border the drainage area complained that its banks are eroding.

Williamson said it was determined nearly a year ago that the ditch which followed the same course for many years had been changed by a private property owner, John Shubert. Davis said it is "ridiculous" that the ditch which drains a state road and property in the city cannot be maintained. "If the street committee cannot find a solution," Williamson said, the problem should be taken to court.

In other business, Jaques told councilmen he will be submitting his appointment for city council approval within the next two weeks of a man to fill the office of police chief. He said today, after the board accepted Monday night Wesley Dowell's resignation, that two applications have been received, from Deputy Sheriff Tom Hennigan, turned down for police chief post in Winter Springs last week and Edward Andrew Child. Applications are also anticipated from Earl Connell, formerly with the Longwood force and now police chief of Dundee and former Casselberry and Longwood officer, Tim McEvers, both present at Monday night's council meeting. Dowell Monday recommended Hennigan's appointment.

Sewer Bids Up $100,000

Nine bids submitted for construction of the city's sewer collection lines and construction, opened by the city council Monday night, exceeded engineer's estimates by $100,000 to $800,000. The bids were turned over to the city engineer for evaluation and a mathematics check. Engineer Bill Palm estimated the project, to be paid from a $2.7 million bond issue, at $1,574,000 while the apparent low figure bid in by Associated Contractors and Building Co. was $1,689,268,20 base and $1,667,047,20 alternate. High bidder was Basic Asphalt and Construction at $2,406,530.80 base and $2,400,914.89 alternate. Palm also suggested the city have the winning sewer construction contractor install the Land Avenue drainage pipe at the same time sewer lines are constructed down the center of the

In other business, Council unanimously adopted a dog ordinance amendment calling for $2 pickup fee and $2.50 daily impoundment fees. Passed an ordinance annexing the Church of God property of Seminola Boulevard.

Passed on first reading and set public hearings for 8 p.m., Feb. 11 on the Slade Drive McNenny property rezoning to residential and for 7 p.m. on a special exception the Schubert SR 434 property in B-1 zoning to permit a flower nursery.

Highland Hills Mixup City councilmen took action Monday night to annex and rezone five lcts in Highland Hills subdivision on the Longwood-Markham Road, to solve a complicated city-county mix-up which county commissioners have been trying to ignore for the past six

Even by diplomatic standards, the Conference on the Law of the Sea is proceeding at a snail's pace. Preliminary meetings in 1959, 1960 and in December 1973 at the United Nations have served principally only to outline the immense scope of the task ahead.

The Law of the Sea conference seeks to establish an agreement among some 140 nations over the rights of innocent maritime passage. over exploitation of living and mineral resources of the sea and sovereign territorial boundaries. It is feared that disputes, such as U.S. tuna fishermen encounter off Latin America- or the British fishermen off Iceland, can eventually lead to wars over treasures of the deep.

This, after all, is an era of dwindling natural resources and the treasures of the ocean have yet to be significantly tapped. It is now estimated that the oceans may contain nearly 3 trillion barrels of oil, for example, enough to last the world for more than a century and a half at the present rate of consumption.

Moreover, the security of many nations, including the United States of America depends upon the passage of its ships through international waterways. Even the 12-mile coastal territorial limits that are finding general favor would close more than 100 strategic passages to international navigation-including the Straits of Gibraltar, the Gulf of Yemen and the Straits of Malacca. The underdeveloped nations, particularly those in Latin America, are asking for territorial limits as far as 200 miles from their

President Nixon outlined the basic U.S. position on these issues three years ago. It includes approval of a 12-mile limit with assurances that free transit is safeguarded in international straits. The administration also favors an international authority to license all deep-sea exploration and to allocate the revenue

Bruce Biossat A national primary?

Pro and mostly con By Bruce Biossat

A lot of politicans and political thinkers don't want to see a repeat in 1976 of the confused, strung-out setup of 23 primaries which presidential candidates had to confront in 1972. It was no surprise, then, when a cluster of more than 50 U.S., state and local political office-holders, scholars and other specialists, gathered at Columbia University's American Assembly in a mountaintop mansion, voted strongly for a series of regional primaries to be held on staggered dates single day. Sens. Mike Mansfield and George Aiken have lossed that one into the hopper.

But sentiment runs against the national primary, and it found no measurable support at Columbia's Arden House. The objections are many, including the notions that it would in effect give us two national elections, would be costly, and practically by the candidates through the second-hand

The knowledgeable political figures at the American idea so their action was no endorsement of the Packwood growing.

As a matter of fact, though the regional system was reasonably well talked out in the Assembly's panel sessions over two full days, the group's final report in its original draft made no mention of regional primaries even as it did openly veto the national plan.

All that the original draft recommended was that the major parties find a way to "reduce the number and variety of state presidential primaries, or at least discourage their

An amendment approved on the floor in the final plenary session got the regional proposal into the document.

Judging from the panel talk and the limited final floor debate, there seemed to be a feeling that presidential candidates could reasonably be expected to campaign in effective on-scene confrontation under the regional plan, so long as the actual voting dates for the various clustered primaries were staggered and they gained some interim time for rethinking and recuperation. Most vocal advocates of the system at Arden House suggested that maybe five regional primary groupings would do it. For instance, there might be one for the Pacific states, another for the Mountain and Plains states, one for the South, The idea is not new. Oregon's Sen. Robert Packwood has and so on. Some participants thought that, in a given region, such a proposal. Generally, it is seen as an attractive variant all states ought not to be included each time, but that a on the concept of a fully national primary, to be held on a round-robin effect could be introduced - with those states left out of the primary picture in one presidential year picked up in the next one in place of others.

Not only at the Assembly, of course, but widely among the parties the 1972 pattern of primaries is considered an abomination. The scheduling of voting days, from early March to late June, was exhausting. So was the helterbecause of its geographical spread could only be dealt with skelter geographic layout, which compelled candidates to hop about the land in nonsensical, costly, cross-hauling

Shortages? We haven't seen anything yet

This reporter has come across some appalling findings in administration studies on future shortages, of which fuel is

If you think we're facing serious scarcities now, wait another quarter century. By that time, if the men who have calculated trends in basic commodities haven't gone astray. there will be heavy shortages across the board - for fuel, iron ore, copper, aluminum, zinc, sulfur, food and a host of other materials too numerous to mention.

The cause in each case is simple and unavoidable. The world is getting richer. Industry is growing on every continent. Agricultural production is up, despite occasional lapses. Populations in Europe, Asia, Latin America, Africa and Oceana want to live better. Wages are moving up. Consumer spending is increasing. All this means a demand for more steel, aluminum, copper, zinc, sulfur, fluorspar, meat, milk and a host of other materials and commodities. Leaving the United States out of the picture, world demand for most strategic materials will be from three to four

mand for aluminum, already sizeable, will multiply by five. Its requirements for the other major materials mentioned will increase to three to four times what they are now, time, although not hitherto with energy conservation as a Though these percentage increases are not large in com- limiting factor. mand for aluminum is expected to be 10 times what it is today. That island country is expected to use three to five times as much of other major raw materials. Percentagewise. Western Europe's needs for the major materials studied here will rise a mere 200 per cent or so. But in tonnages, the growth in European consumption will

China is expected to increase its requirements for iron ore and steel, copper, aluminum, zinc and sulfur four to fivefold. The resulting competition will reduce the U.S. share of copper from around 29 per cent today to roughly 22 per cent. of aluminum from 40 per cent to 33, of zinc from 27 per cent to 21, of liquid fuels from 35 per cent to 25, of iron ore from 21 per cent to 13.

Of course, in most cases these will be smaller shares of a larger pie. But that advantage will be offset by a U.S. demand growing by leaps and bounds - a demand which will, if these estimates are correct, be two to three to four times as great for these essential materials. Our need for aluminum, for example, is expected to more than quadruple. Our consumption of energy will likely roughly triple.

Our use of iron ore and steel will double As a result, competition for these goods will increase costs, perhaps disastrously, just as competition for scarce supplies is today driving the price of petroleum to un-

These forecasts take into account intensified efforts to also assume we will mine deposits not now economical.

WASHINGTON-The oil barons are pulling strings in Washington for drilling rights to spring a leak in the Navy's continue to argue about how to slice up most of At stake is the future of an oil field, which nearly equals the size of all other known U.S. reserves, combined. Located und Alaska's north slope, it is listed on the books as Naval Petroleum Reserve no. 4 but is known to oilmen everywhere simply as "Pet exploration firms-and insure them that no

The oilmen would like to put their rigs three miles closer to the rich reserve, which would probably enable them to tap into the Navy's oil. To accommodate them, the Bureau of Land Management has raised a boundary dispute in an attempt to pry the desired area away from Navy control.

BLM's top spokesman in the secret meetings over the boundary claim is Interior Undersecretary John Whitaker, when came to the Nixon Administration from Standard Oil of California. His former company has been charged with illegally draining the Navy's reserve at Elk Hills, Calif.

Pentagon. He is Deputy Secretary of Defense William Clements. "that the Navy should place NPR no. 4 into the federal lands program in order that it can be developed by the petroleum in Argued the memo: "The Navy has neither the capital resources, the manpower, the expertise, nor the experience to aggressively explore NPR no. 4. I believe NPR no. 4 should be explored by the petroleum industry.'

Clements is a $100 million stockholder and former chairman of SEDCO, a Dallas drilling firm. Representative John Moss, D-Calif., has called for his resignation, because of SEDCO's potential involvement in the Alaskan oil scramble. SEDCO is readying a bid for some of the construction rights on the Alaskanga pipeline and many of its client firms are participating in the Credit Snoops: Several weeks ago, we published a detailed report on the operations of the credit investigators, who file 100 million reports a year on those seeking insurance, bank loans, credit cards and other services.

The Federal Trade Commission has now moved in on the biggest of the back-fence firms, Retail Credit Company. The gigantic, Atlantic-based company has been charged with a variety of shady practices, all of which it has denied. Meanwhile, the complaints have continued to pour into us, the FTC and the Senate. Here are a few typical examples, with the names omitted of those who don't want to be identified: -Charles K. Herbert of Stewartstown, Pa., who easily qualified for seven other credit cards, was turned down by BankAmericard. He learned that the York, Pa., Credit Bureau had informed BankAmericard that Herbert was welshing on a $20.57 debt at a local department store. In fact, it was a different man with a similar name. Yet BankAmericard, without so much as a phone call to Herbert, rejected his application.

HIRED LAWYERS

-A Chicago teacher was turned down for credit because of a supposed $54 debt. It was another mistaken identity case, but the teacher had to get lawyers to write the credit agency a letter before the records finally were cleansed two years later. -A Washington medical equipment dealer was rejected by his own bank and a department store on the grounds he had deserted his wife. The "deserted" woman was someone he had -A Tennessean received a notice that his four-year-old son § was being refused credit. -When aggrieved victims try to correct their records,, the results often are harrowing. An Oregonian made six calls to a credit agency and was put on "hold" for a total of 65 minutes. When he finally heard a human voice on the third evening, he was told: "Everyone has gone home."

DOESN'T KNOW WHY

-A Nebraskan wrote similarly: "I've spent probably...ten dollars on phone calls, have had substantial rate increases on insurance policies on all three cars and...am just as far from earning the reasons as I was ten days ago."

-From Seattle, E.N. Deane wrote us that he observes three "golden rules" in handling credit snoops. Rule one, he says, is to "shut up when anyone calls to ask questions about neighbors." Rule two: "Ask neighbors to observe this rule." And rule three: "Do not answer personal or impertinent questions about yourself...other than name, address, age and place of employment."

Because credit reports go out to airlines, banks, insurance companies and countless other businesses, Sen. Joe Biden, D-Del., and William Proxmire, D-Wis., have demanded that the credit bureaus give copies of all written reports to the credit applicants so mistakes can be corrected. Their bill has been blocked so far by Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., a bank director's Footnote: The Crcdit Bureau of York told us they go beyond the requirements of present law and allow those investigated to see their entire files. A spokesman said the error on Herbert was quickly corrected. But as so often is the case, the damage already know how she feels because we have an 80-pound boxer named Gus, whom we love like some parents love a child. Gus is welltrained and far more obedient than some of the neighborhood children. We wouldn't think of taking a trip without Gus, and we also spell in front of him because he understands everything we I know a woman who gave her dying parakeet mouth-to-beak resuscitation and revived him. This may seem strange to some people, but an animal lover would understand. Do you.? PHOEBE (GUS'S "MOTHER")

DEAR MOTHER: Do I? I just sent $30 to The Beaver Dam. Wis., Veterinary Clinic for spaying a Dalmatian named "Dear

Well, they prayed, I payed, and "Abby" was spayed.

DEAR ABBY: I sometimes receive a letter and notice that the postage stamp on the envelope has not been canceled, so I just pick it off and use it again.

Would you call that cheating?

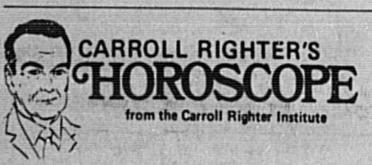

DEAR T. G .: I wouldn't call it being honorable. DEAR ABBY: A situation in the grade school (grades 1-7) my children attend has caused concern. No toilet paper, soap, or towels are kept in the bathrooms. The students must ask for "supplies" from the teacher or the principal. The supplies are kept in each room in a "tote bag" to hand-carry down the hall or into the bathroom adjacent to the classroom

Many students, rather than face the embarrassment of asking for the tote bag, and then be seen carrying it, will (1) hold their needs until recess at which time they use the bathroom, without using any sanitary supplies at all, or (2) try to wait until they get home at the end of the school day

I approached the principal. He listened patiently, then told me that because in the past the children had abused the supplies when left in the bathroom, the only alternative, as he saw it, was My suggestion for implementing a student bathroom patrol, and-or new types of dispensers was not readily received. According to the principal, this is not just a local problem. I'd like to know if other schools have found a better solution to this

POLLY'S POINTERS Do bread boards

By Polly Cramer

Polly's Problem = DEAR POLLY - Recently I bought a small bread board and I seem to remember reading somewhere that such boards should be treated before using. Can someone tell me about this? - MARY B.

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve is with the way labels are sewn in clothing. Many times I have had to cut washing instructions or the brand names out of jersey tops or dresses because they are sewn right in with the zipper and would get stuck when trying to get the zipper up or down. They could be easily sewn in a side seam so as not to interfere with the zipper. Many labels are also placed so they bother the back of one's neck. - MARY ANN.

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve is that supermarkets do not supply maps of their stores showing where various items can be found and let the customers take them home. We could organize our shopping lists in the order that things are arranged in the store and save much time and many steps. - MRS.J.N.M. DEAR POLLY - I want to tell Betty M. that long ago I decided not to be "held up" by having to buy more material than was needed for making something with a pattern. I do of a college that leads the not buy the pattern and material the same day. I buy the pattern and then select the material so as to know the width, etc. and then go home with just the pattern. I tape newspaper together to make strips of it the same width as the chosen fabric and then lay the pattern on the paper and not always the suggested way. Only the really required amount is bought and I am often saved from buying an extra one-half college job, "I'd get little praise to one yeard. It does take a bit of experience to figure out if we still remained at the top. different ways to lay out patterns so as to be sure the nap.

stripes, plaids or whatever run right. - FRANCES. DEAR POLLY - and Betty M. - I save all scraps of material left from my sewing and then cut them into squares to make a quilt top. All the work can be done on the sewing machine and if the machine does the zigzag stitch the pieces can often be just butted together. - S.C.

DEAR POLLY - I wonder if department and some grocery store managers realize that the stores are much too hot for shoppers to be comfortable. They could certainly turn their thermostats down in view of the current energy crisis and their customers would be even more comfortable for

DEAR POLLY - Refrigerators are usually not totally destroyed in a fire so whenever going on a short trip or vacation I find one makes a great place for storing a metal file box of valuable papers such as deeds, insurance policies, etc. - PAT R.

Hooks Replace Hands

CAMP VERDE, Ariz. (AP) - With aluminum hooks replacing the hands he once clasped in prayer, a minister has returned to Arizona's mountains to finish building a community for retarded adults. The Rev. Ralph Showers, 37, was critically burned last September when he touched a 7,-200-volt power line while hauling a small, donated barn to his project here. The electrical load burned an 8-inch triangle into the American Baptist minister's back and exited through his hands, physicians said. The Rev. Mr. Showers said that at that moment he saw

God as a shadowy face through some dark window. He said he talked with Him. Alday Jury Needs Two

DONALSONVILLE, Ga. (AP) - Two persons are still needed to complete the jury which will try Wayne Carl Coleman, the final man accused in the slaying of six members of the Alday family. An all-day court session Monday which lasted into the evening seated only nine out of 56 prospective jurors questioned. Judge Walter I. Greer then sent Sheriff Dan White and his deputies out to serve subpoenas on 37 more Seminole County residents in this small southwest Georgia town where two men already have been sen-

Tobacco Allotment Boosted Reaction from Dixie agricultural and political leaders to Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz' decision to increase the flue-cured tobacco allotment 10 per cent ranged from sharp criticism to cautious support Monday. Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., blasted the decision, saying the move was made to help large corporations at the expense of small farmers. Talmadge charged that Butz "is leading the farmers in my state down the road to ruin.' The senator, chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, said he had tried to persuade the USDA to avoid decisions which would cause economic hardships for family farmers.

GOP Says Demos Got Most Cash

WASHINGTON (1.P) - The Republican National Committee claims that Democrats received more campaign money than Republicans from dairy interests in 1972. The Republicans published an analysis in its official magazine "First Monday" in which they said Democratic

The analysis said Republicans, including President Nixon. received $577,000. Nixon has denied in a white paper that contributions pledged from milk interests influenced his 1971 decision to raise milk price supports. That denial was repeated Monday by Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren. Warren also refused to say why a staff member violated Nixon's rule not to be told about campaign contributions. The issue arose when Warren was asked why presidential aide Rule one reads, "A ball rolling or lying near a bunker or sand trap may be played if the player feels he is in need of practice. If player elects to practice, no strokes other than the first one made in the bunker shall be counted against said player. Should the ball fail to emerge after the making of the first stroke, the faulty design of the bunker is amply demonstrated and the skill of the player should not be penalized for a defect in construction over which he has no control.

Land O' Lakes' "9" Opens

Friday is the big day at Casselberry's Land O' Lakes Country Club as the front nine opens up for play. The front nine has been under construction for the past seven months and Host Pro Red Addison reports all that's left to do is put some sand in the traps

The new nine will feature 35 traps plus two new lakes. Each green has a minimum of 7500 square feet. The par will be 33 with three par threes and six whose par rates at four. The back nine will remain open a few months and then it too will undergo a ROLLING HILLS has seven very happy golfers this week as they all posted their 'best ever' totals. A best ever score is just what it says, the best round ever shot, by that person. The lucky linksters are Rose Homzie-87, Bob Fagan-79, Ken Norton-78, Bill Welch-74 (Bill along with playing partner Bill Roof carted home the low net trophy last week enroute to his best ever score). Ann Ditmer-98, Doc Mello-87, and his wfe Grace Mello-90.

The latest tourney on the South Seminole course was a mixed four ball, best ball in which Gerry and Fritz Cook along with Bob and Carry Strong took the low groww honors with a 73. The low net award was taken by the foursome of Bob and Clenda Tannier and John and Vivian Jones who finished with a 57.

Shot Of The Week

The shot of the week goes to VALLEY FORGE golfer Ray Radford. Ray picked up a double-eagle on the ninth hole when he drove the green with a one wood and sank a fifteen footer for his two. Ray also had the low score of the week with a 65. On the women's side Lois Smith came home with an 85 for the other low

Florida News Briefs

Teacher Of The Year TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)-James i Casale of Naples, Florida's first male Teacher of the Year, is to be honored today by the state Cabinet. Gov, Reubin Askew will present Casale with a plaque at the regular Cabinet meeting. A luncheon will be held later at Florida State University where Education Commissioner Floyd Chrsitian will present him an engraved certificate and

"Mr. Casale is a strong practitioner of individualized instruction and he is firm believer in education and community involvement," said Christian who selected him for the honor.

Refugees Rescued

MIAMI (AP)-Thirty-eight Haitian refugees, rescued from their foundering 20-foot sailboat, covered their eyes with hands and scarves during most of their nine-day ordeal at sea, says a spokesman for the group.

"We didn't want to see each other die." Josephine Terttulien said Monday. The 30 men, seven women and a 16year-old Loy were rescued Friday by Miami-based fishermen operating 280 miles off the south Florida coast. They were brought ashore by a U.S. Coast

Trains 'Mite Slow'

Guard cutter late Sunday.

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)-J. W. Nero, a spry 108, grew up during the railroad era, but now he says trains are not fast enough to suit him.

"The train's all right, but a mite slow," says Nero, who took an Amtrak train from his home in Lynchburg, S.C., to Florida, "When I get up to go, I like to get up and go, not dawdle along."

Nero, born the son of slaves in 1866, says friends are always asking him the "Shucks, it's easy," he says. "Eat good food and don't go 'round getting mixed up

Everglades Flights Cut

THE EVERGLADES, Fla. (AP)-Training flights at the Everglades jetport in the wilderness west of Miami will be slashed by up to 40 per cent because of the fuel shortage, officials say.

"I expect the figures will be off about 25 per cent in January alone," said Alan Stoddard, chief of the control tower at the Stoddard predicted Monday that landings would be reduced 35 to 40 per cent in 1974. In 1972, the Everglades runway handled 94,500 landings, but that number

Energy Conference

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)- Oregon's director of energy research says people need to be convinced to slow population growth and reduce energy use to the lowest practical level.

"We are motivated by greed and selfishness," Joel Shatz said Monday during a three-day energy conference at the University of Florida.

Shatz said the average American's unrestricted energy use means "they are undercutting the options for coming
