Homes OK'd over planner objections; residents concerned

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY - A proposed 83-home development won preliminary approval from the Lake Mary City Commission last night after residents of two neighboring subdivisions packed city hall to voice their concerns about traffic.

Preliminary plans for the Woldunn subdivision. proposed for property located between Seminole Community College and Cardinal Oaks subdivision, was approved by a 5-0 commission vote. In spite of staff recommendations to deny the plan based on traffic issues.

City Planner Matt West recommended denial of the plan because it did not call for improvement of Main Road, which has been closed between First Road and Webster Place since last summer. City code requires a developer to make improvements to any inadequate right-of-way abutting a proposed development.

City attorney Ned Julian said developer Mary Dunn Wolff of Lake Mary will still be required to make improvements to Main Road, although it is not specified in preliminary plans, because city Bec Festival, Page 3A

County growth plan means new tax

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Seminole County commissioners have established their vision for the next five years and chartered the course the county will take into the 21st Century.

Thursday night, they gave final approval to their $175.6 million comprehensive growth and development plan that includes an ambitious $100 million road-building program for the next five years. The plan also includes a nearly $160 million deficit, that commissioners propose to eliminate through a new sales tax, new fees and

Commissioners, in a significant shift towards matching home construction with classroom capacity also included a commitment to consider school availability when approving new developments once the schools approve a construction financing plan. It was the strongest assurance to date that the county seeks to limit its impact on " The approximately 75 residents attending the Des Flan. Page 2A hearing Thusday night were largely opposed to the plan which they said would raise the cost of living in Seminole County to unbearable levels and still allow unchecked growth. "People think the plan will not stop growth but control it," said Glenda Eversole, an official of the Seminole League of Homeowners' Associations Inc. "But it won't. We are like a runaway horse, we have lost direction. We do need to feel this is government for the people."

Responding to newspaper articles and editorials suggesting a main reason for the deficit is commissioners' failure during the last 10 years to adjust taxes and fees to pay for improvements needed by growth, former county attorney Tom Freeman said he didn't mind paying now for good

Association will hold its sixth annual golf tournament Monday at Heathrow Country Club. Over 60 area golfers are expected to participate in the event.

The tournament is designed to raise funds for the bar's Legal Aid Society, a non-profit organization, which provides free legal service to low income people in Seminole County, who qualify to receive the assistance.

Pat McConnell, administrative assistant at the Legal Aid Society said last year, the society received 12,696 telephone calls from people needing help or advice. "We are also a referral agency," she said. "Most of the calls come from people who actually need help in areas other than in legal services, but we are able to give them the names of people to call." She added that as far as the free legal services are concerned, her organization was able to provide help for 333 people during 1990.

The Legal Ald Society's offering of free legal work is confined to civil cases such as divorces. child custody cases, guardianships, and landlord-tenant disputes.

Other finances come from the Seminole County United Way, The Florida Bar Foundation, the Seminole County Commission and through private individual donations made throughout the year.

"One of the special items we have this year," McConnell said, "is a tennis racket autographed by tennis great Chris Everet, which will be auctioned off at the tournament."

WASHINGTON - When youths below the legal drinking age were sent to 100 liquor and grocery stores here to buy a six-pack of beer. they succeeded 97 times, the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety says.

When the same experiment was conducted in New York City last year, underage men succeeded in 84 out of 113 attempts to buy beer. the insurance industry organization said.

The beer buyers, all aged 19 and 20, had few problems - their ID cards were rarely requested -- even though the legal alcohol purchasing age is now 21 in all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

Institute President Brian O'Neill said the research on the availability of beer to underage people was conducted out of concern that, after years of decline, the involvement of alcohol in auto accidents that killed young people is again on the rise.

"Raising the legal minimum purchasing age for alcohol to 21 years old nationwide in the early 1980s

Over 40 percent of deaths among teenagers are related to accidents involving motor vehicles was clearly a big success," O'Neill said Wednesday. "We immediately saw a decline in alcohol involvement in fatal crashes involving young people."

In 1980, before the alcohol purchase laws were made uniform. 53 percent of all fatally injured drivers younger than 21 had blood alcohol concentrations of 0.10 percent or higher, O'Neill said. The 0.10 percent level is the legal definition of intoxication in most states.

By 1987, after the passage of uniform-age laws, such involvement had fallen to 27 percent, O'Neill said. But by 1989, the percentage had risen to 32 percent for the under-21 population, the only age group showing an increase.

One reason for the increase, O'Neill said, "is that it's becoming easy for younger age people to buy alcohol; this is what the research points to.

O'Neill said that the institute believes it is easy for young people to buy alcohol nationwide, not just in Washington or New York.

"Underage people seem to be able to buy alcohol easily, and what we need to address the problem is tighter enforcement of minimum alcohol-purchasing-age laws." he said.

Teens indicted for killing Key deer

KEY WEST - Three teen-agers have been indicied by a federal grand jury on charges they beat an endangered Key deer to death with a baseball bat.

The youths allegedly killed a female Key deer, about the size of a big dog, on No Name Key in the Lower Keys Aug. 12. A carload of tourists from Palm Beach County witnessed the beating, officials at the National Key Deer Refuge said last summer.

An estimated 250 to 300 of the tiny deer remain. The misdemeanor charge of killing an endangered animal carries a penalty of up to one year in prison and a $100,000 fine.

Kevin Goodwin, 19, Tim Daniels, 18, and William Norris, 18, were indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury in Key West.

Dead pupples found, owner charged

PENSACOLA - Seven dead pupples and 15 starving animals were found in a feces-strewn mobile home and their owner was arrested, authorities say.

Michael John Miller, 43, was arrested Wednesday and charged with 22 felony counts of crueity to animals and 22 misdemeanor counts of confinement of animals without food, water or exercise, said Kent Vancil, a law enforcement specialist with the Escambia County Sheriff's Department.

Miller was being held Thursday at the Escambla County Jall on $10,000 bond.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE Student governments revamped Universities reel over alleged corruption FORT LAUDERDALE - Student governments at Florida's public universities are reeling from recent charges of bribery, deal-cutting and spathy among their leaders. University presidents have abolished two student governments and their constitutions - one of which was at Florida International University last month - and ordered new senate elections at a third campus.

Student government leaders wield much power and play politics with real money: more than $18.7 million in student fees this year.

"Corruption in student government means using your position to get football game tickets for friends, preferential park-itig, or money funneled into a friend's organization." said W. H. Oxendine Jr., publisher of Florida Leader Magazine, which targets college students.

"It happens a lot in student government," Oxendine told the Sun-Sentinel in Fort Lauderdale for today's editions. Last month, FIU President Mitch Maldique disbanded the Dade County-based university's student government and threw out its constitution after he was approached by students angry that the government had fallen into the hands of a powerful few.

"There were numerous allegations of dishonesty, manipulation, stacking the deck and even corruption," said Richard Cor-renti, vice president of student affairs. "There was a lack of participation and high turnover.'

He said there was no evidence of illegal use of student money.

At the University of Central Florida in Orlando, new senate elections were ordered last November because polling booths were not properly staffed or open during the scheduled student government election. In the fall of 1989, University of South Florida President Frank Borkowski changed the locks on the student government offices and tossed out the members at the Tampa campus.

Other incidents have ranged from student senators being paid for meetings they did not attend to ethics code violations, critical financial audits and even charges of campaign sign stealing."

"We had student leaders using their positions for everything and anything," said David Schmidt, a member of the new student government at USF. "We had to start from the bottom and rework everything."

cision. "I just know some day when one of us is running for office, we're going to say I voted for planning for our future for the next 20 years," he said. "It's going to be a proud thing for someone to say that they voted for this."

Commissioners responded to dozens of letters and telephone calls by residents saying they would not or could not bear the cost to "up front" the cost of road widening and other improvements for future residents. They delayed the scheduled widening of County Road 427 south of Sanford between U.S. Highway 17-92 and Hester Avenue and two south-county roads, Dodd and Chapman

They are also considering imposing a library impact fee on new homes to help keep at least one book for each resident on library shelves. They are also considering a $25 to $50 a year "stormwater utility fee" to pay for drainage improvements.

They are also considering placing a 10 percent tax on telephone, electric and other utility bills paid by unincorporated residents. Even with the new fees and taxes, commissioners may have to raise the countywide property tax by about 69 cents per $1,000 of taxable property and the raise the unincoporated property tax by about 16 cents per $1,000. If the fees and other financing schemes fail, the countywide tax would have to raised by $3 per $1,000 - about a 65 percent Increase.

A boost to biotech

White House Council on Competitiveness proposed recently that federal agencies streamline the approval process for genetically engineered crop, animal and medical products. Such a shift would go a long way toward helping pioneerin biotechnology firms market their discoveries. American companies now lead the world in many biotech fields.

The White House panel recommended that the Food and Drug Administration, the Department of AGriculture and the Environmental Protection Agency apply the same standards of evaluation to biotech products as those applied to other manufactured products.

This would mean, for instance, that milk and beef derived from cows treated with bovine somatotropin (BST), a genetically engineered growth hormone, would be subject only to the safety requirements of non-treated milk and beef. At present, the FDA has withheld final approval of the general sale of BST-treated milk and beef, even though it determined in 1985 that such products are safe for human consumption.

The council, chaired by Vice President Quayle, also recommended that the Orphan Drug Act be preserved. In addition, it called for better government protections for biotech patents, a shift in federal financing of basic biotech research, and resistance to congressional efforts to overregulate the booming biotech industry.

Industry experts are most concerned abut the Orphan Drug Act and patent protection. Under the orphan drug law, a company wins exclusive marketing rights for any drug it develops to treat a patient population of fewer than 200,000. Several companies have been according to a Washington think tank." That's the first paragraph of a press release 1 am writing for the Spear Foundation, an underfunded but plucky little think tank with which I am associated. I thought I'd treat my readers to a scoop before the general public gets the word.

We at the SF studied the coverage of the coverage and determined that more ink and airtime were devoted to media performance than to the military's performance. During one 24-hour period in mid-February, we counted 4,408 mentions of CNN Baghdad correspondent Peter Arnett alone.

But the SF is doing more than merely reporting on the coverage of the coverage. We assigned our enforcement arm, the Special Tribunal for the Obliteration of Media Perfidy, to investigate each allegation of media malfeasance and dispatch STOMP teams to punish transgressors. Some sample results:

An Oklahoma group called Pull the Iraqi Propaganda Plug urged Americans to fax complaints about Peter Arnett directly to CNN

And the erudite William F. Buckley Jr. noted that Arnett's dispatches were "tenable in pure epistemoligical iheory ... but in the real world a pretty good argument can be made against expediting the telling of untruths."

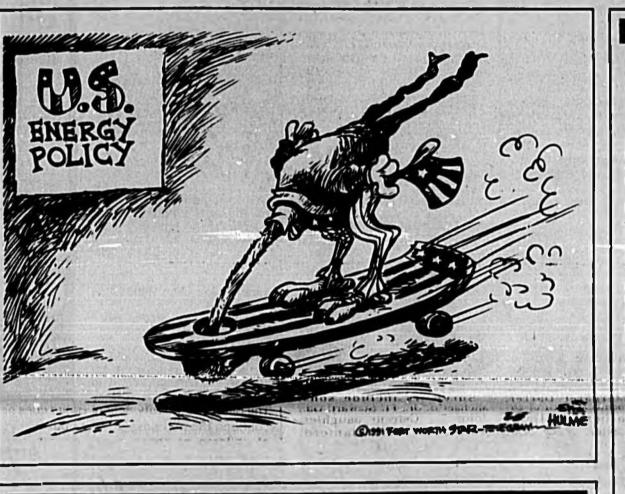

We at the SF could not agree more, and we address these Complaints about NBC correspondent Arthur "Scud Stud" Kent are too numerous to list. Thousands of women fell for his "classic all-American good looks," as one female columnist put it. Admittedly, most of the grousing came from middle-age men who associate studliness with smile lines and love handles. Although we at the SF fit this age profile (broadly defined), we took an objective look at this matter and concluded that Kent's appearance crodes the general integrity of the profession. Two stomps for being too cute to be credible: STOMP STOMP.

Robert Brown. editor of Soldier of Fortune magazine. covered some miktary briefings and remarked, "I thought I'd be riding the lead tank into Baghdad by now. Instead I'm stuck in a briefing room with the biggest bunch of boobs and dorks I've ever met." Exceedingly well put, from a person in a position to know. According to the rule book, dorkiness is an automatic three big ones: STOMP STOMP STOMP.

JACK ANDERSON Pregnancy ticket home from war

WITH U.S. FORCES, Saudi Arabia — The way doctors tell it here, there was a whole lotta' lovin' going' on for some women soldiers before they were shipped to the Persian Gulf.

Some doctors here told us that their most frequent visitors before the war began on Jan. 16 were women, newly deployed to the Gulf and constantly asking for pregnancy tests, because a positive result would be a ticket home.

The women said they and their husbands had made heroic efforts at a pre-war baby boom once they learned the women had been ordered to the comhat zone. They would accused of reaping windfall profits from the arrangement. But, because of it, nearly 40 new orphan drugs have been brought to market that otherwise would not have been.

Biotech firms also are interested in extending their intellectual property rights. As it is now, a company can parent a genetically engineered product in the United States, only to have a foreign firm replicate it by making very minor changes and export it back into this country. The White House calls for closing this trade loophole.

Drug awareness reminder

In regard to an article in one of the many newspapers that have lately published a calling for an increased awareness of certain dangers regarding presciption drugs. I would add these thoughts and facts.

The article of which I speak focused on the dangers of prescription medicine to those individuals, primarily senior citizens, who are not aware of the long-term consequences or the side effects of the use of these medicines. Having ignored for many years the slow ruin of a loved one, unable to see for so long that "the cure was worse than the ailment." and in my case, (wife) was asking for medication for other reasons, not related to a physical problem as she stated to her doctor, but gave a physical problem to the doctor, and he accepted it. As there would be no physical means or a check-up that would prove different, medication was given out as needed.

I know there are medical rules and state or federal laws that may and are entered in cases such as stated here, but who is to know if the patient does not or will not say anything about their medication. Then and only then someone close by, a husband or other, makes notice to all concerned in that matter!! So, I ask that others stop and carefully inform themselves as to the potential known harm and also alternatives regarding the drugs that they now take on the advice of their doctor. Most of all, however, it is the physicians themselves that must re-evaluate their own practice of authorizing what may amount to the ruin of a patient's life (and his or her own family) by not informing themselves and also inquiring of them if they are getting or using other medications.

Highly concerned by the problems going on in their bodies and minds, patients are most of the time told by doctors to take a particular medicine for an unspecified term or as long as "relief comes." We all understand, of course, that these patients are only seeking help to arrest the pain whatever it may be, and eliminate their problem. Aren't we, at this point, called upon to place our faith in the sound judgment of our doctor's recommendations.

Can we trust that a doctor who for years dispenses prescriptions (during consultations that last all of five to 10 minutes)? Can he know the traumatic disruption of a ruined marriage or life and see that, although "comforted" by the drug, the effect to the patient is otherwise devastating? I know now that we cannot. Americans, all, must be aware to this other serious drug problem. Doctors especially must take a closer look and recommend alternatives to aches and paths and psychological distress that doesn't reduce their patients to a state of comfortable addiction.

Old pros led U.S. to victory

WASHINGTON — Ever since Congress decided to stop military conscription. In 1973, Pentagon strategists have wondered about the timing. The draft has been done away with at a demographic moment when the national population increase has slowed, and there are not so many youngsters anymore to coax into the armed forces.

This means the services have had to fill the ranks with somewhat older men and women. And there has been a natural concern as to whether the aging defense service has what it takes. The country traditionally has done its fighting with 18-to-22-year-old draftees, and no one knew if mature volunteers could do the job.

Now it seems obvious they can. That is, they can according to the results of the Persian Gulf war. The average age of U.S. soldiers in that confrontation was about 30, counting reservists, and, with the help of the allied coalition, they won the most decisive triumph over a major enemy since World War II.

They did it with ripe wisdom rather than youthful enthusiasm. The Pentagon says GIs in the Gulf were the best trained and most experienced in American combat history. They were almost nine years older than the men in Vietnam, per person, and manpower officers say they showed it in brains, discipline and motivation.

One manpower officer calls the desert troops "mature and macho," which he says is far better than just macho. "I was in Vietnam," he goes on. "and there's no comparison with now. We had kids in Vietnam, we have adults today. There's a lot to be said for kids in war, don't get me wrong, but, really, the adults are better."

One of the things that is said for the younger soldiers is that they are casier to condition. This is another way of saying they may accept risk more readily. Teen age combatants are not normally married, they have few personal responsibilities, and this is supposed to translate into a greater tolerance for battle action.

What's more, young Gls have a physical primacy. They are as a rule more energetic and supple than their elders, and it's no mean benefit in combat. The troops in Vietnam averaged 21 years of age, and whereas they had some collateral problems they remained remarkably vigorous during the demands of jungle warfare.

By the way, the manpower officer says those collateral problems might be said to constitute the flip side of the youth advantage. He says, "Kids can very clearly be a pain in the butt." He says young soldiers may lack discipline, focus, values, "and, without condemning anyone in any way, they are by nature unpredictable." So this officer believes the end of the draft was a blessing. And the decline in the teen population pool has not hurt either. The number of 18- and 19-year-olds has slipped 10 percent in the last decade alone, yet the military has easily made up for the draft and the shortages by taking more twen-tysomething recruits. Today, the 2 milllon U.S. air, land and sea personnel average 27 years of age. That's the highest (by at least a year) in this century. Defense Department statistics indicate the numberof 18-to-24-year-old troops has declined 23 percent since 1970; and the number of 25. to 40-year-olds' has increased by almost 22 percent. The average age in the Guif crisis has been further inflated by the reserve deployment. The National Guard and the four service reserves have historically been composed of older soldiers. The members of one Guard unit in Saudi Arabia average 43 years of age; and some reservists who were sent there are in their 60s.

The average

age of the was

The manpower officer mentioned earlier says the generals in command in the desert have been of orthodox age. Norman Schwarzkopf is about as chronologically seasoned as was William Westmoreland in Vietnam. "But we had some 35-year-olds in the tanks against iraq." he notes. "and we had men in the mid-40s in the planes."

The military officer says his information is not for attribution. He does not want to be identified because he is giving personal views. But, speaking for himself, he says it's plain that the older people in the Gulf added stability to the human side of the undertaking. "and that's a useful influence on the battlefield."

The officer says this kind of stability can be measured in many ways. Mostly, it has to do with commitment. Older soldiers are thought to be more likely to be career oriented, and thus are mindful of such military duties as leadership and self-control; there's been almost no drug abuse in Saudi Arabia, for example.

Of course, there's been almost no drugs in Saudi Arabia. And it must be pointed out that the Middle East conflict has not been a total test of the maturing military. rather carry a baby that a rife. Arro an untoid number succeeded and were sent home.

"It was like an epidemic at Ft. Riley (Kansas)," said Staff Sgt. Liane Overstreet of the 82nd Airborne Division. "We knew in August we would probably go, but we didn't leave until the end of October.

When these women saw the deployment start, they said, 'Come on, honey, let's go to bed and get working on this baby. I'm not going over there."

Overstreet knew of one female sergeant who "came up with so many medical problems all of a sudden, she went from one doctor to another until she was medically retired by the time the rest of us came over here."

The attempt at a baby boom annoys women soldiers like Overstret, who take their military careers seriously, in war time and peace time. "I've spent years trying to prove to men that I can be a valuable asset to a unit and keep up my end of the bargain, and those women make it harder." Overstreet said.

Women are barred from combat roles, but they were within artillery and missile range during the six-week war. Three died and one is missing, presumed to be a prisoner of the Iraqis.

The baby boomers aside. 2nd Lt. Anne Esposito of the 82nd Airborne said women had proved their worth in the Persian Gulf War. "We proved we can survive six months of hell. We don't have to take a shower every day. Now I know I can survive indefinitely without those little comforts."

But in spite of the women's stellar performance, the Pentagon still must tackle the problem of mothers at war, and married couples deployed when they have children at home. The Pentagon reckons that there are nearly 1.231 couples in the Gulf force with children at home. The Pentagon also estimates that there are 16,337 single parents in the Gulf.

Molly Yard, president of the National Organization for Women, thinks it is nuts to send a child's only parent or both parents to war.

Even more ludicrous is that pregnant women are exempt from being sent to combat zones, but new mothers aren't. Spec. 4 Faith Stewart went into labor on Jan. 22, the same day she got orders to report to the Gulf. The Army and Air Force give a mother six weeks of grace after childbirth. The Navy gives four months.

Was it wrong for Spec. 4 Melinda Davis to choose arrest by the military police in Massachusetts rather than abandoning her 16-month-old daughter because she could find no one to care for her?

Was her decision better or worse than the single father from Tennessee who left his children, ages 10, 12 and 13, alone with a note telling them how to use his automatic bank teller card, or the couple who left their children in the care of a woman charged with murdering her husband?

U.S jobless rate surges to 6.5 %

Florida's rate rises to 7.1%

By KAREN BALL AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON - The nation's unemployment rate surged to 6.5 percent in February, its highest rate in four years, as about 450,000 Americans were added to jobless rolls, the government reported today.

In Florida, the rate rose to 7.1 percent. up from 6.1 percent. Nationally, the 0.3 percentage point rise in the civilian jobless rate, up from January's rate of 6.2 percent, was the largest one-month increase since 1986. the Labor Department said.

America's unemployment rate has now climbed steadily since last June, when it was holding at a relatively low rate of 5.3 percent.

During that eight-month period, about 1.6 million Americans have been added to the ranks of the unemployed. In February alone, about 450,000 people lost their jobs and joined the unemployment line, the government said.

Payrolls fell by 185,000 in February for the eighth conseculive month of job declines. The job loss number can differ from the number of newly unemare derived from different surveys.

It has been the worst stretch of layoffs since the 1981-82 recession. The overall 185,000-job loss in February from non-farm payrolls was far worse than the 100.000-decline most analysts had expected.

The bulk of the job losses came in manufacturing, where there has been a steady erosion for the past two years. In February, fctory payrolls fell by 127,000, bringing the total job loss in that sector to more than 1 million since January 1989, the Labor Department said.

But the job losses were widespread, hitting service industries as well.

Washington policy-makers are hoping the end of the Persian Gulf War fuels a rebound in consumer confidence that helps turn the economy around. But private analysts say even if that does occur, businessmen won't start rehiring workers until a recovery is well under way.

They expect unemployment to worsen to 7 percent or higher by mid-summer, putting as many as 1 million additional Americans out of work.

Today's report showed that despite relatively mild weather

ployed because the two figures employment showed only a slight rebound, as 27,000 jobs were added, following a drop of about 150,000 jobs in January. The recent string of Job losses in this industry totals about 425,000 since last May, the government said.

> Meanwhile, service-producing Industrics lost about 86,000 jobs in February, Including a 70.000-job loss in retail trade. In transportation, there was a 36,000 cutback, reflecting temporary layoffs and job terminations in the airline industry and continued declines in trucking. the Labor Department said.

Health services, which has been about the only industry continuing to grow in recent months, gained 30,000 jobs last month, a more modest increase than previous months.

In another sign of economic weakness, the average manufacturing work week fell in February, down to 40.2 hours per week, rather than the 40.4 hours per week recorded in January. Manufacturing overtime was also cut back. falling to 3.3 hours, down from the 3.4 hours recorded in January.

Total civilian employment was about unchanged at 116.9 million, the government said.

The jobless numbered 8.2 million. up 440,000 from the 7.7

No coffee might ease hypertension

By PAUL RAEBURN AP Science Editor

ATLANTA - Kicking the coffee habit might be good advice for people with high blood pressure, the authors of a new report say.

The researchers studied men with normal blood pressure, but the findings suggest that eliminating coffee drinking could be an important way to help treat high blood pressure, the researchers said. They presented their findings Thursday at the annual meeting of the American College of Cardiology.

'Maybe this will help them prevent drug treatment" for high blood pressure, said the study's principal author, Jell Myll of Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif. "It's worth a try.' The researchers reported that healthy men who customarily drank three to six cups of collee a day experienced a significant drop in blood pressure when they stopped drinking coffee. The National Collee Association said that the drop in blood pressure was sm.11 and that other studies have shown coffee. has no effect on blood pressure.

"This study should not raise concern among coffee drinkers watching their blood pressure." the association said in a statement.

Dr. Robert Superko, a colleague of Myll's, said the fall in blood pressure was significant. and that it varied among study subjects.

"There are some people who went down profoundly," he said. Many previous studies that found no effect of coffee on blood pressure looked at too few patients to demonstrate any effect. he said.

The new study involved 120 healthy men whose median age was 45. They were given three to six cups of coffee daily for eight weeks; then half were taken off coffee.

Saddam's big threat said close to home

By JIM DRINKARD Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON – The primary threat to the rule of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein comes not from rebelling Kurils and Shiite Muslims, but from his own political and military inner circle, according to U.S. intelligence assessments.

Members of the Republican Guard military corps close to Saddam and officials of the ruling Baath party stand a better chance of toppling the Iraqi leader than the separatist movements staging open revolts, officials said.

In fact, they said, the Shifte and Kurdish rebellions may prolong Saddam's tenure rather than shorten It, because it will force those in the best position to oust him to unite behind Saddam to avoid splintering the country

"I think he still has enough forces to maintain some control over the population," Rep. Dave McCurdy, D-Okla., chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, said Thursday.

"He will be brutal. The question is whether that continued brutality leads to his eventual downfall." McCurdy said in an interview. "I think it will."

Of more concern to the Iraqi president, he said, are those around him in Baghdad.

"It's OK to have the Republican Guard encircle you," said McCurdy. "But you want to know whether the guns are pointing in or pointing out."

Baker's diplomacy underway

By BARRY SCHWEID AP Diplomatic Writer

RIYADH. Saudi Arabla — On the first leg of a 10-day trip, Secretary of State James A. Baker III is sounding out Saudi Arabia on how it stands on prospects for peace between the Arabs and Israel.

Baker is also taking up with King Fahd and the foreign minister, Prince Saud, an eight-nation Arab plan for a permanent security force in the Persian Gulf.

The outline is set, but not the operational details. The idea is to guard against the kind of threat to Western off interests posed by Iraq's conquest of Kuwait last August.

Baker's trip to the Middle East is based on the assumption that the allies' victory over Iraq canbe a springboard to settling the Arab-Israeli dispute.

The Sandis' influence, based on their oil wealth and control of major Muslim holy sites, could be pivotal.

A senior U.S. official said that after helping to eject fraqi forces from Kuwait, the Saudis may be ready to consider an accommodation with Israel and take an active role in defending the gulf.

"In the aftermath of this crisis they are positioned to play a greater role," the official said. "It would be my hope that's what they will conclude that they want to do. Lions escape Seminoles Five-run fifth lifts Oviedo

By BILL KERNS Herald Correspondent

SANFORD - Oviedo scored five runs in the top of the fifth inning to nip Seminole 6-5 in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' softball game Thursday at Fort Mellon Park.

With Seminole ahead 5-1 in the fifth. Oviedo moved out in front on singles by Leann Massey, Barbie Bartels, Michelle Schiaffo and April Manning and two Seminole errors.

"It was a good, close game," said Oviedo Coach Jackie Miller. "We always enjoy playing Seminole. Seminole has improved tremendously since last year."

Despite having three more at bats after falling behind. Seminole was unable to push across the tying run. Only Rita Frison and Tina Rathbun managed to hit safely over the last three innings as seven of the last nine Seminole batters popped up.

"They did not finish the game well," said Seminole Coach Greg Register. "Seven out of the last nine outs were pop ups, and when that happens, you are just not playing well at all. We also made a lot of errors.

Seminole claimed the early lead by scoring four runs in the first inning and one in the fourth inning. In the first inning, Val Wilks, Frison, Nakia Riggins and Rathbun singled while Oviedo committed three errors. Koseta Kennon hit a home run to account for the run in the fourth.

But while Seminole did lose the game at the end, there were signs of improvement. After opening the season with blow-out losses to Lake Brantley and Lake Howell, the Seminoles (now 1-4) heat Lyman 18-13 Tuesday and stayed with potent Oviedo. In past years, a game against Oviedo may have meant another lop-sided loss.

"They played better," said Register. "We're a young team."

Bartels, the winning pitcher for Ovtedo, had two singles with a run scored for the Lions. Also contributing were Melanie Schrupp and Schlaffo (two singles and an RBI each). Massey (single, one run scored), Manning (single, RBI) and Christy Montione, April Zorn and

Bee Bops rock Saturday night

By JOAN KING Herald Correspondent

SANFORD - Out of the blustery north came the dynamje duo, band leader Terri Barrett, and Sonny Bono look-a-like. Paul Klodner. For the past 12 years Terri and

Paul have been solidly making music together as the Bee Bops. The Bee Bops have been booked weekends at Sanford's Disabled American Veterans' Post for the past three years. They have delighted audiences from Canada to the Keys of Florida and west of the Mississippi. Out of their past springs names renowned in the music world with whom they have worked. Names like Randy Travis; Joe Cook, of 'Peanuts' fame: William Lee Golden of the Oakridge Boys: John Capps. producer of famous names such as the Barbara Mandrel Band. The list of names, tours and recordings goes on. This dynamic duo has made their mark in the music industry for over thirty years.

Barrett, the leader is originally from Maine and has been visiting Florida as a snowbird and musician for 16 years. Four years ago he decided to make his home here permanently. He and his wife Donna now live in Deltona.

Recently, Barrett purchased shares of ownership in an Orange City restaurant where the Bee Bops will play exclusively.

Klodner, Bee Bops' drummer, met Barrett in Maine and joined the band. Klodner's list of credits started in 1968 with the Van Guards. He has played with Freddle Cannon' who recorded 'Palisades Park,' toured and recorded with Joe Cook in the late 70's and the Indigos, famous for 'Taboo.'

Klodner's list of credits are as his partners, in depth. Because he bears a striking resemblance to Sonny Bono, he has chosen the stage name. Sonny Paul. To watch these two musicians formance that brings the house down in thunderous applause. He is joined in his finale by Barrett who adds a touch of the genius with guitar background that compliments Klodner's finish.

Near the end of their gig Barrett invited a lady spectator to sing for the folks at the D.A.V. and sing she did. The lady. Phyllis Sullivan, belted out two songs with strong command and knowledge of musical perforpriscd. Sullivan revealed that she is coming out of retirement and is available for vocal engagements.

The Bee Bops and Sullivan will also perform for the Nancy Dukes Benefit which will soon be announced. Dukes needs to raise $75,000 for a heart transplant.

Smoking claims sister's life but her story saves others

DEAR ABBY: When everything - and 1 do mean everything - else failed. I finally quit smoking when someone sent me the enclosed column you wrote in 1986. Will you please run it again?

DEAR ABBY: I am hurting more right now than I ever have in my whole life. My beloved younger sister died nine months ago. I still can't believe I will never be able to call her on the phone again to gossip and giggle as only sisters do. God, how I miss her!

Tasked her doctor what actually killed her, and without batting an eye, he said, "Cigarettes!" Now I feel so guilty because I, her older sister, smoked. Thank God. I was able to quit in time. She tried to quit, but it was toolate for her.

Her husband and children are inconsolable. I have learned a lot from this terrible experience. A smoker has a lot more to worry. about than dying. My sister's stay in the hospital with lung cancer wiped out her family financially

Abby, why do advertisers make cigarette ads so attractive? Instead, they should run a before-and-after picture of a once-beautiful woman vomiting and bald from radiation therapy?

This toddler is viewing her topsy-turvy world with a smile on her face. As she grows older, she may perceive unstable situations as more threatening; yet she need not feel helpless if she is taught to face life with humor and with faith.

Job 8:21 reassures us that God "... will yet fill your mouth with laughter." Furthermore, James 1:6 Instructs us to "...ask in faith without any doubting."

As we guide our children into adulthood, may we encourage them to live their lives with strength and a positive perspective as we wor-ship with them in God's house each week.

With His word as our compass, the twists and turns in the paths of our lives need not turn our world upside down, as we walk hand in hand with God every day.

IN BRIEF

What's what of Christian Scientists

LONGWOOD - First Church of Christ, Scientist, 975 Markham Woods Road, will sponsor a free public lecture which covers the most often asked questions about Christian Science. Is it truly a Christian church? Or is it a cult? Why is it important to Christian Scientists to rely on Christian healing alone and is it right for them to include their children in this reliance? The lecturer, Bruce Fitzwater, C.S.S., of Portland, Ore.. is a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship. He is also an active Christian Science practitioner, who is available Bruce Fitzwater, C.S.B. to chuch members and others to assist in the Christian healing that characterizes the denomination. Fitzwater speaks from the standpoint and background of having taught univesity classes in humanities and religion in both the United States and Asia. Entitled "What it is and What it isn't: An information lecture on Christian Science." the lecture will be held March 17 at 4 p.m. in Lake Brantley High School auditorium, 2150 Sand Lake Road, Altamonte Springs. Free child care is provided.

For more information, call 788-7708.

Noo support group announced

SANFORD - Beginning Wednesday, First United Methodist Church, 419 Park Ave., will host a noon support group for those with family and friends assigned to the Mid East or in the military. The group will meet in McKinley Hall from noon to 1 p.m. Bring a sack lunch.

Theatrical sermon presented

LONGWOOD - Witness "The Crosswalk" a theatrically illustrated sermon portraying the steps that lead Christ to the Cross on Easter Sunday, March 31, at Wekival Assembly of God, 1675 Dixon Road. Services are at 8 and 10:30 a.m. For more information, call 774-0777.

Evensong service, Lenten teaching set

SANFORD - The choir of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, 401 S. Park Ave., will sing the service of Evensong at 4:30 p.m. on March 17. The choral service will conclude with an organ recital played by Rachel Rautenstrauch.

The music of Stanford will be included in the event and the organ recital will include the works of J.S. Bach, Marcel Dupre and Olivier Messlaen.

A covered dish supper will follow. The public is invited. On Wednesday, the fourth talk in the Lenten teachings. "The Five Promises of Baptism" will begin at 7 p.m. The guest speaker will be Fr. Gregory Brewer, rector of The Church of the New Covenant. Winter Springs. The title of his talk will be "Serve Christ in all Persons." Lenten supper will be at 6 p.m. For more information. call 322-4611.

Peace on earth in preparation for Easter

By DR. J. OTIS ERWIN

Most of us are already through Lent. preparing for Easter and more recently are now ready to move toward peace in our world with more interest, power and thoughtfulness than before. While preparations are necessary and vital for each of these three. Easter is foremost in our minds, spirits and hearts today. It is always a great Christian experience for us.

The faith and hope that Jesus would rise after being crucified became a reality on Easter Day when the women visited the "borrowed tomb" and found it empty, as it was predicted to be. They left hurriedly and joyously to seek the disciples and inform them of "the good news." that

About a week earlier we had anticipated, but hoped not to. have the war in the Gulf still being waged. It would have dampened our Easter Day spirits, yet hopefully, we would have still proclaimed with John the Revelator that He is "alive for evermore."

change of circumstances has evolved in terms of the battles. the general crises - the virtual end of the loss of lives for all sides, and the destruction

Today, peace is still one of the uppermost hopes for many of us for our world. Many of us give thanks to God that our wishes, hope and prayers have been heard and answered.

Many things will have to take place, wounds healed, the critics will speak, faults will be found, all sorts of "quarter-backing" offered, denials, affirmations, and sides will be taken by citizens and the nations involved. While one should be careful about being a prophet of doom, it is well likely that unless drastic changes are made in our world, another or more generations will have to do again what nations and their citizens have done almost forever. Let us hope it will be different!

They were not listened especially by the victors, which to nor have many since their centuries had good and effective listeners. Three came to mind during these last few months. The first was the prophet Amos from the rural region of the southern kingdom of the nation. Tekoa. He preached only one sermon on the steps of the temple in Israel at Bethel. Amos. counseled then, as we need to today, "But let justice roll down like water and righteousness like an everflowing stream." A second was the prophet laalah who king Uzziah died. He counseled. "Faithfuiness shall be the girdle Avenue. Santord. .came to prominence when his of his loins and justice shall roll down like a mighty stream." He was a successful prophet for about 40 or more years. Isniah also pleaded with his contemporaries, "...then justice will dwell in the wilderness, and righteousness abide in the fruitful field. And the effects of righteousness will be peace...my people will abide in a peaceful habitation..."

Another whom they heard and read was the prophet Micah who counseled, "...what does the Lord require of you but to do justice and to love kindness, and walk humbly with your God?" Finally Issiah counseleri again, "The work of righteousness shall be peace."

Prophetically then, we have the qualities necessary for the foundations of peace and there are many more to be found. Justice, rightfulness, faithful-ness, and others are the foundations or requirements for peace. These qualities must first characterize our lives, nations and civilizations if there is to be peace in the lands and all souls ultimately liberated.

May our Easter 1991 bring these qualities to each of us and more, and perhaps the theologian Robert McAfee Brown was fully correct earlier when he wrote his book, "Creative Dis-location - The Movement of Grace" (as he confessed at the end of the volume in 1980):

So in the midst of uncertainty about the future, I do not feel abandoned. I feel upheld, even though I have to remind myself from time to time that there is a power beyond me doing this upholding."

It's the more, the plus, our faith that upholds us in the midst of uncertainty about life. the future. We are never abandoned. To that I say "Amen!"

He was not there.

frequently - treated.

DEAR DR. GOTT: When do shortness of breath (dyspnes). eart palpitations become apprehension and chest disheart palpitations become serious enough for an individual to visit the doctor? I'm 26 and have had them for eight years. My doctor feels they come from stress. My heart beats around 180 times per minute when they occur, and I have dyspnea. I find it very hard to lead a normal life.

DEAR READER: Palpitations, awareness of rapid or irregular pulse, are a common complaint affecting both healthy people and those with heart disorders.

In its simplest form, palpitations consist of one or two extra beats or a brief episode of irregular pulse. This is harmless. it commonly occurs during perioda of stress or fatigue and is often related to smoking or consuming caffeine. Many people experience this phenomenon on occasion. It does not indicate heart discase.

On the other hand, palpitations may reflect an extended attack of rapid heart rate, including ventricular tachycardia. a potentially fatal "runaway" rhythm associated with cardiac discase.

Midway between these extremes are moderately severe forms of palpitations, including paroxysmal atrial flutter and fibrillation - bursts of rapid heartbeats that should be treated, even though they may not indicate heart disease. For example, mitral valve prolapse, a weakness of one of the heart's valves, frequently causes harmless but distressing periods of rapid pulse: paroxysmal atrial tachycardia. The condition, which is more common in women than in men, can be successfully treated with betablockers to regulate the heart rate.

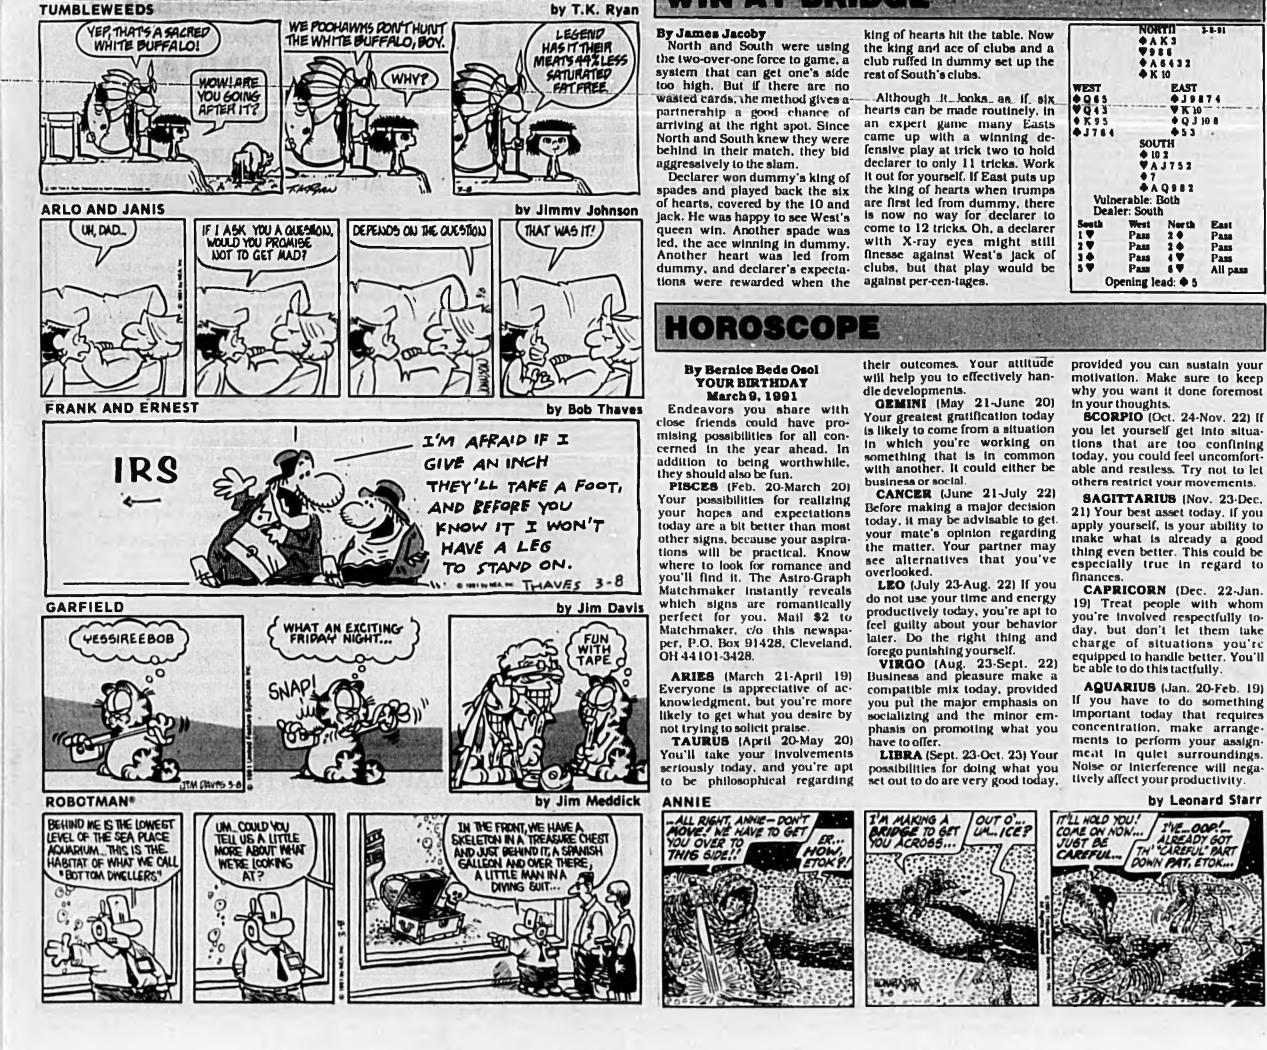

Therefore, before assuming that palpitations are harmless (or harmful), a doctor needs to know what form is present. The diagnosis can be made with a Holter monitor, a continuous 24-hour electrocardlogram. which will automatically record the palpitations for later analysis. Then, using this information, the doctor can determine the type of heart rhythm causing symptoms. Such symptoms include weakness, fainting.
