RESUME

When William, preacher, set out with his wife, Mary, and the horse, he was to go to the town of Pilgrimage, where he was to preach. The horse was to be used for the journey. The horse was to be used for the journey. The horse was to be used for the journey.

COMING OF PILGRIM

For several weeks after her departure, William had not heard from her. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried.

He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried.

He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried.

He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried.

He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried.

He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried.

He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried. He was beginning to get worried.

Premier Hodza Asserts Czech Independence

Answer Given Issues Raised by Hitler's Putsch In Austria

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Mar. 5.—(AP)—Premier Hodza told a madly cheering chamber of deputies yesterday that Czechoslovakia's borders are "absolutely unchangeable."

This was the answer of the war-created republic issues raised by Adolf Hitler's coup in Austria and German Field Marshal General Goering's promise of protection for 10 millions of Germans just across our borders.

Hodza said Czechoslovakia would discuss problems with Germany on a "basis of absolute equality" but to the wild cheers of the chamber, he swore she would defend her sovereignty and independence to her last breath.

"We want peace," the premier declared, "but with things as they are today we must let it be known that if destiny confronts us with the necessity of defending ourselves we will resist with all our strength."

Hodza went directly from the crowded chamber to a luncheon for former President Hoover given by President Beneš at his palace.

A long discussion of central European problems between Hodza and Hoover was watched intently by the Czechoslovak public. The former American president will leave here today on his way to Berlin.

Whether the responsibility of a German-Czechoslovak accord was behind Hodza's declaration of his government's willingness to negotiation, was not clear.

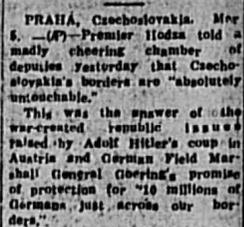

Repeating that German newspapers had not published Hodza's speech, even briefly, discouraged and misled.

In a speech in some quarters that were counting on the Moscow talks to help them win terms from the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia in other parts, were waiting for Czechoslovakia to be isolated, before entering any serious discussions between Germany and her southern neighbor.

Citing a mistake in Hitler's recent speech to the Reichstag which said an agreement was possible if good will were present on both sides, Hodza merely declared:

FLOOD WATERS WASH OUT RAILWAY BRIDGE

This Southern and Pacific railway bridge which once spanned the Los Angeles River is shown after it was washed out by the pounding of flood waters which left a known 18 dead in its wake, at least that many missing, and disrupted all communication between Los Angeles and the outside world. Ten thousand were homeless, and property damage ran into millions.

JACKSONVILLE, Mar. 5.—Almost one-third of Florida residents 65 years of age or more are receiving Old Age Assistance, according to figures made public from the offices here of the State Welfare Board.

According to the National Social Security Board there were 4,808,144 recipients of Old Age Assistance in 47 states, the District of Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii, comprising 20 percent of the estimated population aged 65 and over in December. The percentage ranged from 7 percent in New Hampshire to 60 percent in Oklahoma. The size of the average payment per recipient ranged from $1.53 in Mississippi to $29.81 in Colorado. In Florida it was $15.54.

Payments to recipients of public assistance in states cooperating under the Social Security Act amounted to $288,000,000 in 1937, including approximately $781,000,000 in Federal funds.

Jap Sentry Is Charged With Slapping Girl

Hirota's bid for closer friendship with the United States came in the midst of a bitter quarrel between parliamentary leaders and the government that raised tension in Tokyo almost to the breaking point.

The powerful war minister, General Sugiyama, was forced to apologize to a committee of the house of representatives for the arrest of an army officer.

When he began a harangue on patriotism, committee members immediately questioned his right to appear. Sato shouted "shut up!" and shouldered his way out of the room.

The Cleveland Indians then bought him and he played second base for that team in 1926 and that year the Cleveland Indians finished second in the American League.

He was with Newark, N. J., in 1927, and was captain of the team. In 1928 he was with New Orleans in the Southern League and Bridgeport in the Eastern League.

In 1929 and 1930 he was with Allentown in the Eastern League, managed by Charlie N. C. in 1931, 1932 and 1933 and won two pennants. In 1934, 1935 and 1936 he managed Jackson, Miss. in the Dixie League and won pennant in 1934. Won second half in 1935 and finished season with Americus in Georgia-Florida League.

It was pointed out that the local Association in sponsoring an independent team this year and although the club will be somewhat handicapped because there will not be a higher club on which to call when additional funds or money is needed, Mr. Watson declared that he will get a debt, be running all the way.

"We appreciate the fact that Sanford is one of the best baseball towns in the State and we expect to give it a team of which it may justly be proud," Mr. Watson stated.

Last year nearly 45,000 paying customers went through the gates to see ball games in Sanford and officials confidently forecast a better mark for this season.

Heavy Celery Prorate Will Be Continued

Remainder of the crop would be sold and marketed as soon as the rains had subsided. However, reports indicated that heavy striping of the California crop will be necessary and that markets for the produce will be sought west of the Mississippi River.

The quality of celery in the Florida producing centers has continued to show improvement, with these close to the industry declaring that the quality is much better than for several years previous. Yields of this crop were as high as 400 crates per acre and somewhat higher in producing areas in the southern part of the state.

Regarding shippers who are delinquent in payment of their assessment, Mr. Lettice reported that they had been notified for non-payment by the Secretary of Agriculture and that action for collection of the funds will be instituted against the delinquents if they refused to comply with the requests of Secretary Wallace.

W. M. Scott, local manager for the American Fruit Growers, presided over the meeting in the absence of J. C. Hutchinson, chairman, and W. E. Scoggin, sales manager for the Sarasota-Monroe section, presided over the Sarasota meeting in the absence of Loring Raoul, vice-chairman.

Precinct guests at the meeting last night besides Mr. Hardin included H. B. Davis of the General Crop Section of the AAA and Mr. Padgett of the Super-Commodities Corporation.

Medicine men's Don't increase the dose of medicine prescribed by the doctor. Don't take medicine in the dark. Don't use medicine that have stood on your shelves a long time. Don't forget to read the label carefully. Don't neglect to shake the bottle well.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

Thy righteousness is like the great mountains; thy judgments are a great deep; O Lord, thou preservest man and beast. Psalm 66:6

GOD OF OUR LIFE THROUGH ALL THE CIRCLING YEARS

God of our life, through all the circling years, We trust in thee; In all the past, through all our hopes and fears, Thy hand we trust.

Anyone Can Fish

One does not have to know anything about fish in order to have a lot of fun fishing, says Phillip Wylie in the current Cosmopolitan, nor does he have to be a millionaire able to finance elaborate expeditions for the sake of a single sailfish.

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Ferran, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Ferran of Euclid and Mrs. D. L. Thrasher have returned from a delightful trip down the East Coast.

Germany, Italy, and Japan started this armament race. The United States and Great Britain will finish it if the appropriations now being prepared are indicative of public sentiment.

Among many prominent visitors now vacationing in Florida are Gov. and Mrs. Al Landon, whom Republicans will remember as a candidate for president in 1936.

This is National Used Car Week. The idea is to get rid of that old bunch of junk you have been driving around and buy the mitsa and the kids something a little better to ride in.

Visitors in Sanford today include Judge Myra Thomas of Fort Pierce, a candidate for the State Supreme Court. It is opposed by Senator Fitch of Leesburg and Tom Watson of Tampa.

A visitor at The Herald office today was young Raymond Monahan who is looking fine again after his recent session with the knife throwers of John Hopkins. Raymond will have to go back to the hospital again, but a relatively minor session and the main concern at present is the (his) he is hoping at school today that the team (triple) jumpers will get off to a good start.

Digest Digested

Last week one of America's most famous publications ceased to exist. The Literary Digest which once attained a circulation of nearly a million and a half, long enjoyed a reputation for accuracy in forecasting elections which was uncanny, then more recently slumped into insignificance.

"Forty-eight years ago March 1, Isaac Kauffman Funk and Adam Willis Wagnalls, both Lutheran pastors, brought out the Literary Digest, 'a repository of contemporaneous thought and research as presented in the periodical literature of the world.'"

"In the early '20s the Literary Digest had become one of the greatest publishing successes in history. Its weekly juxtaposition of contrary newspaper opinion and cartoons had won it 1,400,000 readers, made it a national institution, a schoolroom textbook, a gold mine for its publishers, Funk & Wagnalls Co.

"By 1936, with circulation hovering at 600,000 Funk & Wagnalls hoped that another Presidential poll would prove a salutary shot in the arm. Instead, that poll mistakenly put Alfred M. Landon in the White House.

Anyone Can Fish

One does not have to know anything about fish in order to have a lot of fun fishing, says Phillip Wylie in the current Cosmopolitan, nor does he have to be a millionaire able to finance elaborate expeditions for the sake of a single sailfish.

Declaring that it is high time somebody told the truth, Mr. Wylie says, deep-sea fishing ought to be a national sport for men, women and children, instead of an occult profession with a few Trojan devotees.

"I know," he insists. "I have fished for yellowtail off Catalina Island, and caught yellowtail. I have hunted tuna off Montauk Point and caught tuna. I have heaved sixty-pound amberjacks from the reefs off the Florida Keys and brought leaping sailfish into my boat in the Gulf Stream.

"It adds up to a fairish amount of deep-sea fishing. But I don't know one reel from another; I can't possibly guess whether my line is a twenty-four thread, or a thirty, or a nine.

"I don't know how to cut bait or put it on the hook. My friends in New York spend more money in a week of nightclub and theatergoing than I have ever spent in a week of fishing—and none of them is rich. Finally, I am not a muscle man, or a courageous one.

"The millions who would like to go out on the sea and fish but do not dare are the dupes of the literature of angling. Ever since Izaak Walton made it smart for fishermen to be literary, angling authors have turned fishing into something fabulous, dangerous, esoteric; something that would knock your eye out—and that in consequence makes them seem men of circumstance."

DISPELLING THE FOG

By CHARLES MICHELSON Democratic National Committee

We have Fascists and Communists among our people. We have New Dealers, Old Dealers and Middle-of-the-Roaders. We have Single Taxers, Socialists, High and Low Tariffers—and all the grades between.

The one point on which these multitudinous faiths agree is that all the others are dead wrong.

But the funniest political error of the lot is that group of critics whose single tenet is that President Roosevelt cannot, by any chance, be right about anything. To illustrate the type let us take Columnist Frank Kent. He is not chosen because he is the most important of those who read into every set of the Chief Executive's malice, imbecility or simple error, but because he is the most consistent.

Not only that, but this veracious publicist will cite one of the President's intimates, or a close White House confidante to whom Franklin D. Roosevelt entrusted secrets. For example the other day, when discussing rumors of cabinet changes Mr. Kent wrote about the Secretaryship of the Treasury. He told of certain people who advised a Cabinet change, adding Mr. Roosevelt invariably has replied, "But what can I do with Henry?"

New, miscellaneous people do not suggest to the President of the United States that he expect a member of his official family—a group that has not been changed, except because of an incumbent's death, since the Roosevelt administration began. And if a suggestion of the sort were possible, what sane person would believe he would toss off such a response to Mr. Kent to repeat it?

At this point I am tempted to reveal a state secret. The President was so disturbed by the publicity given not only his confidenial conversations, often with only one person present besides himself, but even his unprinted thoughts, that he called in the services of the entire Secret Service—G-Men, Post Office Investigators, Military and Naval Intelligence, and put them to work to identify Mr. Kent's informant who was penetrating the most hidden fastnesses of the White House.

They searched every room for dictographs looked in every closet and under every bed. They shadowed Mr. Kent and tailed every visitor. They kept an airship moored in the stratosphere over the White House, borrowing the big California telescopes so that nobody could enter or leave undetected. It was all in vain; so they went to the spiritualistic mediums and called back the ghosts of Sherlock Holmes and Charles Chan. Ghosts have some advantages over mortals and those two solved the mystery. Just outside the President's office there grows a tall magnolia tree. Intense watching revealed that a lone starling perched there continuously. This bird did not join the morning and evening flights but flew solo. A swift plane followed the bird to Baltimore where it pecked a sign on the window of Mr. Kent's office. He admitted it and the bird repeated daily after day. It is well known that starlings are clairvoyant and thus the mystery of how the talented columnist was able to read the Presidential mind was made clear.

The President immediately called a Cabinet meeting and had the Democratic Senators and House leaders in, to determine what was to be done. The first thought was to order every starling that flew in Washington slain. The Congressmen, however, demurred saying that the Bird-lovers' vote would be alienated by such wholesale slaughter.

There was a Cabinet crisis and rather than have the numerous resignations that would have resulted had a feud been engendered, the President decided that nothing could be done—and the trained starling is still on the job.

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK, Mar. 7.—A sport column on the big National Sportsmen's Show—notes about tree-climbing turtles, albinos, trout, Arctic owls and wild dogs.

The average sportsman knows only a few of the animals and game-fish in forests and streams. Let's take a gander at more than 250 species now exhibiting about Grand Central Palace.

Trout... Here are artificial lakes and waterways representing New Brunswick, British Columbia, Oregon, Maine and other famous fishing localities. They teem with land-locked salmon, rainbow, brown, brook, steel-head and golden trout. Some of 'em weigh eight pounds. They're like wary submarines prowling through the under-currents while the big New York man stares.

Retrievers... At the big is trying to do is to make a clumsy machine work more smoothly and efficiently. It happens that the President of the United States is weighed with the responsibility of appointments and commissions. He alone is in a position to know the flaws in every branch of the Government. He has submitted a plan to Congress, which Congress may pass, reject or modify. If the plan develops weaknesses, perils or injustices, this or any subsequent Congress can repeal it or change it.

Dictatorship? Every President who sought results for the betterment of the country has been accused of seeking more power. Washington, according to his enemies, schemed to be a king. Jefferson, when he threatened Napoleon that if France did not sell Louisiana to us we would join our ships to the British navy, was arraigned as seizing power beyond the scope of the Presidency. Jackson was cartooned in crown and sceptre, and so on down the line. And the American Republic has ambled along the path of nations for a century and a half, through good times and bad, through peace and war, and the dictator has never materialized or gotten beyond the bogeyman stage.

76240 tank, where the ball-rolling exhibition and no-rolling contests take place in Frank Hogan with his fabulous and whimsical retrieves. These water-babies retrieve wild ducks and any game that falls to the gun. They're trained to the mill and respond to each peep of the whistle.

Game... Alabama quail, New England pheasant, upland grouse, Canada goose (the big ring-necked honkers), mallards, phalaris, redheads, teal—all are here. There are black-foot squirrels and gray-cat squirrels, red-shouldered hawks, Arctic owls, snowshoe hares from Alaska, Jackrabbits from Texas, turtles from Cat Island, crowned cranes from the steaming Congo. A man never saw such an accumulation of game in his life.

Exhibits... At one stall is a pair of skis used by Amundsen at the North and South poles. Another contains 10 dog harnesses huddled together in the Arctic. A starting scene in the African village, with its sober-faced natives, its thumping drum, war knives, ceremonial masks. And those African animals: strange porcupines, weird monkeys, wild dog reptiles, along with shields, war clubs and war bonnets.

Prize... One of the prize exhibits belongs to Mus-sook, a pure Alaskan Eskimo, whose American name is James Anderson. Professor Mus-sook came to the United States last year, met and wed an American girl and has adopted this country. His northland exhibit is a beauty, containing four reindeer red, black, white and silver fox, an 8-dog team (all malamutes), Alaskan kayaks and another big 25-foot boat made entirely of walrus hide. It's the only boat in the country like it.

Movies... Everywhere are endless motion pictures of big game shooting in the upland game countries, hour of fascinating pictures showing how trout, black bass and muskellunge are taken on light tackle. In sum, it's a sportsman's dream of heaven come true on this sordid island of Manhattan. Izaak Walton in his palmyest moments never imagined anything like it.

Gay Cooper Starred As Gay Adventurer

The screen, which lately has focused a majority of its biggest productions on biographical subjects, has seen many remarkable portraits of characters taken from the past.

Few of these historic personalities, however, enjoyed a life more significant and romantic than the Marco Polo so few people seem to know, whom Samuel Goldwyn has chosen as the hero of the Adventures of Marco Polo, his rollicking adventurous romance which brings Gary Cooper to the Ritz Theatre for the last time today.

Recital Is Given By Miss Ann Benson

By MAY B. MAXWELL
On Friday evening before a large audience of schoolmates and other friends, a dainty, blonde high school girl completed a pianissimo recital at the home of her mother, Mrs. George Maffett, of Grammar School, the presentation of her senior recital. Miss Ann Benson, a pupil of Mrs. George Maffett, was introduced by her teacher, who said of her: "She has always been so glad to read in so many different places and for so many different people. She has been glad to share her talent."

Ann wore a gown of soft, powder blue chiffon, with a slight touch of pink, and a Juliet cap of rhine-stones, and as she stood with her arms full of lovely Spring flowers, smiling into the faces of her friends, she was a charming picture of girlish grace and beauty.

Ann has developed a remarkable talent for dialect, and one of her readings, "De Turnin' ob de Chillin in de Bed," by Paul Lawrence Dunbar, displayed her gift most delightfully.

The outstanding number on the program was a dramatic reading, "In This Sign We Conquer," a touching incident of the early days of the World War, by Florence Barclay. Ann read this in a manner that brought tears to the eyes of most of her hearers.

Her other readings were well-chosen and varied, all of which she gave in a winning, personal way which completely captured her listeners. "Expectation" by Edgar Guest, was a very practical and sound bit of philosophy for older people, though spoken by a young philosopher.

Her two impersonations in child dialect, "Mother's Glasses," by Edgar Guest, and "The Sorrows of Bobby," were refreshing examples of her talent for characterization.

Ann was assisted by her chum, Mildred Ratliff, who gave several entertaining readings, among which a humorous number, "Watching the Circus Parade," was unusually well done.

Mrs. Evans McCoy, harpist, accompanied by Mrs. McCoy at the piano, gave four pleasing vocal numbers, which helped to complete a well-balanced artistic program.

We congratulate Ann on her success and as she leaves high school behind her and enters college, we believe that her dreams of further success will be entirely realized, for during her four years in high school, she has shown herself to be a fine student, of unusual ability in all lines of school work. She has the best wishes of all her teachers and friends as she continues to develop a talent which is already outstanding. We feel we shall hear great things of Ann, before many years have passed.

Household Hints

WHEN IS PORK "WELL DONE"?
"Cook pork thoroughly well done," instructions always say. Well-done pork has lost all its pink color both in meat and in juice. Fresh pork is a tender meat and many people, therefore, cook it too quickly, especially such cuts as chops, tenderloin or sausage. Cured pork—ham, bacon, smoked sausage, and other pork products—must also be cooked well done.

The danger in eating pork that is not sufficiently cooked is that it may contain parasites that cause a disease called trichinosis. These parasites are extremely small and are not seen except under the microscope. There is no practical way of inspecting pork to locate them. When pork from affected hogs is thoroughly cooked the destroyed organism is no more dangerous.

Meeting Is Held By Patriotic Group

Professor Wells prepared and read an interesting paper on "Florida's Admission to the Union As a State."

Those present were as follows: Mrs. W. A. Carter of Tampa, Mrs. S. O. Chase, Mrs. Fannie Lee, Mrs. Zeb Ratliff, Mrs. B. F. Whitner, Mrs. Jane Smith, Mrs. E. E. Roumillat, Mrs. Dick Brown, Mrs. J. G. "Cook pork thoroughly well done," instructions always say. Well-done pork has lost all its pink color both in meat and in juice. Fresh pork is a tender meat and many people, therefore, cook it too quickly, especially such cuts as chops, tenderloin or sausage. Cured pork—ham, bacon, smoked sausage, and other pork products—must also be cooked well done.

The danger in eating pork that is not sufficiently cooked is that it may contain parasites that cause a disease called trichinosis. These parasites are extremely small and are not seen except under the microscope. There is no practical way of inspecting pork to locate them. When pork from affected hogs is thoroughly cooked the destroyed organism is no more dangerous.
