Paul Miller To Seek Nomination As State Senator In May Primary

PAUL MILLER

Paul Miller, Indiantown motel operator and City Councilman this week announced his intention to seek nomination as State Senator in the May Primary election in his bid for the position of Senator from the thirty-seventh Senatorial District comprising Brevard and Seminole Counties, Miller is making his initial entrance to the State political arena.

A native of Florida, Miller was born in Key West in 1918. He attended high school in Miami and was graduated from the University of Florida. In World War II he served as a storekeeper aboard ship in the United States Navy and was awarded four medals for outstanding service.

Following his military discharge, Miller entered the University of Miami and was graduated with a degree in law. Upon the death of his parents, he found himself in the business world as operator of the Great Southern Auto Parts Company, with forty retail outlets.

Entering the field of law, Miller became associated with State Attorney General Richard Ervin as his assistant. He left the Attorney General's Office and accepted a position as supervisor of Private Schools of the Southeast Florida District for the G. I. Training program of the U. S. Veterans Administration. This position brought him to Brevard County.

Impressed with the development of the Central East Coast area, Miller made this locality his home in 1950, he constructed the Paul Miller Motel Apartments in Indiantown and later opened a Packard automobile agency in Melbourne.

Soon realizing that the motel business was a rapidly growing enterprise which required his full attention, Miller sold the Packard and devoted his time to the motel and apartments. He has since tripled his original number of units and is now contemplating further expansion.

Miller is married to a local girl, and his wife assists him in the management of the apartments. She teaches a Sunday School class of the First Baptist Church of Melbourne and is active in civic and church affairs. She was recently elected vice president of the state organization of the Gideons International auxiliary.

of government economy, Miller stated: "I will favor a central purchasing agency for the State, with its use made available to County governments. I will oppose any attempt to increase present taxes or to impose any new taxes upon the people of Florida. Specifically, I am heartily opposed to any form of income tax for the State."

Miller continued with this statement: "I will do all in my power to promote legislation designed to aid the agriculture and tourist trade interests of Seminole and Brevard Counties, and in general to render assistance to all small businessmen in this district."

Songs Subject Of Talk

"There seems to be something in human nature which demands a music outlet for certain forms of patriotic and religious feeling," said R. T. Milwee, superintendent of public schools in Seminole County in a speech made to members of the Civic and Fine Arts Department of the Sanford Woman's Club Wednesday.

With the topic of the program being "Patriotism," Milwee used as the subject of his talk "The Power of Song."

Milwee went on to say, "Music has had more to do in soothing the stormy and bitter passion of mankind, in elevating their paths, than any other agency of man's invention."

"... it will move men's souls when the mightiest of orators fail. There is something like a divine influence in music, and that explains why birds of prey never sing, and indelicately has no song. The sacred fire which has burned on the altar of patriotism has flamed into many priceless songs, some of which will forever remain among the most potent influences known to the great nations of the world. Such songs were born of the greatest moments of the singers and the times."

He went on to relate, "... among the mysteries of human life none is farther beyond our power of penetration than the inspired moment that comes to some soul, and out of which there is born a great song that moves the heart of the world. These single flashes of inspiration producing songs that have so powerfully affected the destinies of humanity, are never repeated, in an equal degree, in the same individual."

"Songs that live, and make great history are never produced in that way. When Mozart was asked how he set to work to compose a symphony, he replied: 'I once you think how you are to do it, you will never write anything worth hearing; I write because I cannot help it.'"

Among the chosen few are three National songs which we all should be perfectly familiar with. The Star Spangled Banner, 'My Country 'Tis of Thee' and 'The Battle Hymn of the Republic.' The story of these songs was the blood, stimulus, patriotism, and teaches American youth that they have a heritage of glory beyond the power of tongue to tell."

Former Deputy Testifies In Defense Of Hobby

Sanford Officials Implicated At Trial

BONIFACIO PALMA

VAH-5 Member Has U. S. Citizenship Granted This Week

A member of Heavy Attack Squadron Five has United States citizenship granted him this week at U. S. District Court proceedings in Orlando.

Bonifacio Palma, Stewards Mate 3/c, who served with guerrilla forces in the Republic of the Philippines during World War II prior to joining the U. S. Navy has been attempting to gain American Citizenship for eight years. Only a recent change in the law permits foreign members of the armed forces who first entered this country aboard American warships to become citizens.

From 1943-1945, Palma took part in the armed raids on Japanese patrols, truck convoys and ammunition dumps which so greatly aided the recapture of the Philippines by our forces.

Palma came to Sanford in 1946 and served with VAH-5 during that squadron's last Mediterranean deployment, in December he was chosen by this paper as VAH-5 "White Hat of the Week."

Defense attorneys for suspended Sheriff J. Luther Hobby, charged in a Federal indictment returned last November by a Federal Grand Jury in Tampa with conspiracy to defraud the U. S. Government continued to hammer away at witnesses for the government in class examination.

Yesterday, Clinton Sneed, referring to a prepared statement during his testimony, charged that J. O. Galloway, constable in the northern district of Seminole County, controlled the distribution of moonshine whiskey in his district.

Sneed, a special State Beverage Department Supervisor, told the Federal Jury in Orlando during the second day of the trial that the Silver Moon, a negro juke joint in Bookertown, west of Sanford, was bought for him with State money. Sneed said, "The day before I bought the Silver Moon I went to Constable Galloway and told him that I wanted to sell whiskey without fear of arrest. The negro undercover agent said, 'He told me to go ahead.'"

Reading from the prepared statement, Sneed said "From my investigation I observed the moonshine distribution in the northern district of Seminole County is controlled by Constable Galloway and sold by Jerry Martin on West 18th St."

Constable Galloway stated to the Grand Jury that he had never been approached by Clinton Sneed regarding liquor violations. He further stated "I have arrested James Smith on both liquor violations and bootleg operations in the past."

Witnesses taking the stand yesterday for the Government included Carl C. Dodson and Joe Hickson, Sanford Police Department Patrolmen; Clinton Sneed, State Beverage Department Supervisor; Marybelle and Johnnie Gaines, informers employed by Dodson and Hickson; Lillie Mae McFadden, Negro woman who testified that she paid $13 a week to Willie R. Brown, former Negro deputy, J. D. McFadden, her husband; Frances Kanna, Negro; Charles Fornes, admitted moonshine distiller; Willie Candy, Negro and Leroy Augustus, Negro.

Throughout the testimony yesterday, "The Boss" continued to be used in statements by witnesses who did not know who money was being paid to other than Willie R. Brown and Jerry Martin who told them it was for "The Boss."

Lee Pace Reveals Proposition

A long parade of witnesses testified this morning in the lengthy trial of suspended sheriff J. Luther Hobby being heard in the U. S. District Court at Orlando.

Witnesses this morning included Emmett Pope, a Negro now serving time at Ralston State Prison on charges of forgery; Harold R. Cooper, a former deputy under Hobby; James Leroy Long, admitted moonshiner and brother of Lelon Long; Minnie Drivers, a blind Negro woman of a W. 11th St. address; C. S. Hodgson, special investigator of the alcohol and cigarette tax unit, U. S. Government; and Lee Pace, investigator of the alcohol and tobacco unit of the U. S. Government.

Probably the highlight of this morning's testimony was when former deputy Harold R. Cooper admitted to the court that "Hobby told me that he wanted moonshine cleaned up in Seminole County and it was my duty to do that."

James Leroy Long who admitted to moonshine activities over a long period of time, bitterly identified former Sheriff Hobby, former deputy, Andy E. Evans, Jerry Martin and James Smith. Conflicting testimony to that of his brother who preceded him on the stand by the jury under cross-examination, was examination by defense attorney, William W. Judge. Long also, under cross-examination, marked locations on a Seminole County map of stills which he operated during the period, September 1945 to January 1946.

The curly-haired witness made cutting answers and was very abrupt in his conversation, answering questions before being completed by the assistant district attorney questioning him.

When questioned about his still, which was destroyed near Wagner, he said, "I understand I was crooked right quick." James Leroy Long also admitted paying protection money to George Kelsey, Oviedo Police Chief and suspended Constable in that district, as well as to name those to whom he paid protection money. Long also testified that Justice of the Peace W. Hugh Duncan came to his brother's home with a man known only as "Smitty" and suspended sheriff Luther Hobby. Asked in his cross-examination how he knew Duncan, he said "Mr. Hobby made me acquainted with him."

Minnie Drivers, a blind Negro woman, said former deputy sheriff Andy E. Evans, brought whiskey to her home on one occasion. Asked how she knew Evans, she said "I can identify him by his voice."

A. O. (OZZIE) ROBERTS

Seminole County Charities Receive $2,575 From SOKC

The Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club is turning over a total of $2,575 to Seminole County charities as a result of the track's annual Charity Night staged last Thursday.

This amount represents approximately half of the $5,143.97 raised by the Charity Night. The balance went to Orange County charities.

Jerry Collins, now operator of the track who originated the Charity Night, announced the figures yesterday and said that checks would be put in the mail to the various organizations today.

"We're very happy with results of our first Charity Night," said Collins. "Our mutual handle of $49,232 was the best we ever had on a Thursday night, but I think we will do even better next year. The Charity Night will, of course, be an annual affair at the track as we certainly want to do our part for the welfare of Central Florida."

Collins disclosed that he donated management expense and officers' salaries, all concession revenue as well as money set aside each racing performance for improvements and repairs to swell the amount going to charity by several hundred dollars.

Families Urged To Write, Visit Hospital Patients

Mrs. Lorraine Graham, executive secretary of the Seminole County Tuberculosis and Health Association, said today that there are 31 Seminole County patients in State Hospitals, 10 white and 11 colored. Nineteen of the Seminole County patients are in the Central Florida Tuberculosis Hospital near Orlando and two at the Southwest Hospital in Tampa.

Several inquiries have been received, said Mrs. Graham, relative to the visiting hours at the hospital near Orlando. She said, they are: 3:30 to 4:30 and 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. The Post Office box to which mail should be directed is 3212, Orlando.

It is important, said the executive secretary of the Seminole County TB and Health Association, for the patients to hear from their families and friends. Mail delivery, she stressed, is one of the highlights of the day for the patients in these hospitals. She said, "If you have a friend or relative in one of the hospitals, be sure to write them regularly and often."

Contentment, it was revealed, is one of the prime factors in helping a TB patient overcome his illness and recover.

The Seminole County Tuberculosis and Health Association makes a point to remember people when they are in the hospital too long. Mrs. Graham stated, that they stay in the hospital too long. TB causes a person to be confined for many months, one of the reasons why patient service is one of the important functions of the Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Mr., Mrs. Anderson Attend Luncheon Honoring N. Mayo

Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Anderson attended the luncheon honoring the Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo at the New Haven Hotel in Winter Haven yesterday.

Mayo, according to Sandy Anderson, gave a wonderful lecture on citrus and agriculture development throughout the State of Florida since he was elected Commissioner of Agriculture 82 years ago.

Mayo was presented with a scroll engraved in gold in recognition of his service rendered to the development of citrus and agricultural products for the past 82 years.

Friday Night TV Shows Are Better

NEW YORK (U.P.)—There comes a time when you wonder why the Friday night television shows are better than the other nights. It is not the quality of the shows, but the quantity. Every critic I've read has trampled with fear when asked for an opinion. Why?

Well, Mr. Fickel, I never knew a man to trample with fear. But you have a good question, and that many others have wondered about.

At times, I think there are some very good regular half-hour programs on the principal Friday evening. Quite a few of the Friday night shows are better than the other nights. ### U. S. PRODUCTION LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The Commerce Department has put in its final report on a statement that comes as no surprise: The United States was more prosperous in 1938 than ever before.

Final figures released by the department showed that total production of goods and services hit $274 billion last year—$274 billion, or 7 per cent more than in 1937.

Production thus topped the previous peak, set in 1923, by $24 billion, or 6 per cent.

The port of Antwerp is 20 miles from the sea.

In finding sponsors for Friday nights, people who sell the things we might buy on Saturday are happy to advertise them on Friday evening, so, in the minds of planners, there grew the idea, "Well, we don't have to worry about Friday night."

Many Friday night programs that started with very few viewers have grown. In the words of one network official, "They're showing battle fatigue."

The cause could be a general lack of attention by the public, by critics, by the networks themselves.

Although there are no signs at present, it's possible that eventually someone will open up the Friday night front. Don't forget that Saturday night, now just about the hottest night of the week on the air, was the deadest night of the week until NBC-TV opened it up with "Show of Shows."

Sufficient proofing by a sufficient number of viewers can greatly affect what we see on television.

ADOLF HITLER'S "GREAT MERCEDES," the "most valuable used car in the world," is playing a classic joke on the former owner, by being exhibited throughout the United States, raising funds for various worthy causes.

The 70-year-old head of Brown & Bigelow has, over a quarter of a century, helped hundreds of "ex-cons"—among them murderers, bank robbers, confidence men and government officials who made a mistake.

He admits that out of more than 300 men and about a score of women who served time behind prison bars and then made good at Brown & Bigelow there have been two or three exceptions who failed to become self-reliant, respected citizens and good employees.

But, he adds, "Nothing this side of Heaven is perfect." One of Ward's highly prized possessions is a bronze plaque bearing the names of nine ex-life-termers who served a total of 260 years.

"In gratitude to our rescuer and benefactor" is the inscription. Listed are nicknames such as "Butch" and "Slim," the prisons in which they served and the number of years each spent behind bars.

Those who wonder whether his philosophy has hurt the business he heads are referred by Ward to the firm's healthy financial standing. He predicts that this year, its 60th anniversary, Brown & Bigelow will surpass its 1935 sales of more than $2 million dollars.

Ward has a deep sense of religious and personal obligation—although he is not a member of any church—which dominates his conviction that those who have satisfied their prison debt deserve another chance. He recommends that more employers give ex-cons "an opportunity to stand up straight again."

Ward started a stage line in Arizona, later sold out at a $70,000 profit and went to Denver. It was in Denver that Ward ran into trouble—a kind of trouble that was to change the whole course of his life.

Federal agents filed a charge of narcotics possession against him, after allegedly finding a package of drugs in his room. He denied the charge, insisting he had never touched narcotics or had anything to do with them.

He claimed the narcotics were planted in his room by men who wanted to hurt him.

"After the high, wide and handsome life I led, I was bound to have enemies," he says. "Nobody believed me. I guess my vagabond life was not favored with fringe adventures to defend my innocence."

He was convicted and sent to Leavenworth Prison. He thinks he had "plenty of reasons to be bitter" or feel that he was "framed," but, philosophically adds:

"Now I often wonder if actually I was 'framed' by God, because at Leavenworth I got the one thing prisoners rarely get—a break."

Ward's "break" came in 1923 when he met a cellmate, Herbert Huse Bigelow, president of Brown & Bigelow, who was serving a term for income tax evasion.

Ward helped Bigelow over the rough spots of prison life and when Bigelow was paroled in April, 1924, he offered Ward a job on his release. When he was freed a month later of a 13 year sentence, Ward headed for St. Paul and went to work at $21 a week as a bench hand. Later he was made department foreman. Then followed promotions to superintendent, assistant general manager, and in 1931 he became vice president.

Ward Belives In Giving Jobs To Ex-Convicts

ST. PAUL, Minn. (U.P.) Charles A. Ward, who licked the hardships of his own prison backlogs and fought his way to the ground and advertising specialty companies, believes it's "just plain good business sense" to give jobs to ex-convicts.

The 70-year-old head of Brown & Bigelow has, over a quarter of a century, helped hundreds of "ex-cons"—among them murderers, bank robbers, confidence men and government officials who made a mistake.

He admits that out of more than 300 men and about a score of women who served time behind prison bars and then made good at Brown & Bigelow there have been two or three exceptions who failed to become self-reliant, respected citizens and good employees.

Federal agents filed a charge of narcotics possession against him, after allegedly finding a package of drugs in his room. He denied the charge, insisting he had never touched narcotics or had anything to do with them.

He claimed the narcotics were planted in his room by men who wanted to hurt him.

"After the high, wide and handsome life I led, I was bound to have enemies," he says. "Nobody believed me. I guess my vagabond life was not favored with fringe adventures to defend my innocence."

He was convicted and sent to Leavenworth Prison. He thinks he had "plenty of reasons to be bitter" or feel that he was "framed," but, philosophically adds:

"Now I often wonder if actually I was 'framed' by God, because at Leavenworth I got the one thing prisoners rarely get—a break."

Ward's "break" came in 1923 when he met a cellmate, Herbert Huse Bigelow, president of Brown & Bigelow, who was serving a term for income tax evasion.

Ward helped Bigelow over the rough spots of prison life and when Bigelow was paroled in April, 1924, he offered Ward a job on his release. When he was freed a month later of a 13 year sentence, Ward headed for St. Paul and went to work at $21 a week as a bench hand. Later he was made department foreman. Then followed promotions to superintendent, assistant general manager, and in 1931 he became vice president.

Bigelow died in 1933 and Ward was elected president and general manager. He had moved from bench-hand to the top in nine years.

Ward's attractive wife, the mother of his son and two daughters, says "It's no problem for Charlie to help anyone—even if it's in the middle of the night. Many times, day and night, he has personally contacted doctors, nurses, specialists, to help a friend or an employe who became ill."

B. Ebsen Had Many Ups, Downs

HOLLYWOOD (U.P.)—"No matter what the experience is, bless it," Buddy Ebsen heard that quote on a religious broadcast over his car radio the other day, and he confirms it as his philosophy.

Buddy has had plenty of ups and downs in his 27-year show business career, and now he blesses the lessons he learned in his low periods.

He can afford to. His career is at its peak. He became a well-known figure in most American households as Davy Crockett's sidekick George Russell. He'll soon be seen in another Walt Disney story, "Corky and White Shadow," to be serialized on the Mickey Mouse Club.

At present he's doing a dramatic role in a war movie, "Fragile Fox."

Between rehearsals, he recalled days when he wasn't doing as well.

"I was out of pictures for five years," said Buddy, who started in films 20 years ago dancing with his sister Vilma. "I was a year in 'Good Night Ladies,' which set records for long runs in Chicago. Then I was in the service for three years. After that, I toured in the revival of 'Show Boat' for a year."

He came back to Hollywood to try his luck at pictures again. But his agent always met his inquiry from producers: "Why hasn't he been working in pictures?" The agent told about Buddy's five-year stretch, but the question was repeated: "Why hasn't he been working in pictures?"

Said Buddy: "They figured something must have been wrong. If anybody is out of pictures that long, they suspect there is a reason."

At one point a top executive advised Buddy to find another line of work. But at this low period in his career he was fighting mad and wouldn't consider it.

He managed to support his wife and daughters (the now has five) with occasional vaudeville, night clubs and TV. Then he landed a plum role in "Night People" with Gregory Peck.

"I got great reviews," he said. "It was a complete departure for me to do a dramatic role, and I thought it would make me a whole new career. So what happened? I didn't work for a year."

That was the lowest point in his history. He seriously considered ending his career as a performer. Shortly afterward, his agent landed him a job in a John Steinbeck play on Gambius Director Norman Foster saw it, lapped him as a prospect for Davy Crockett. But Walt Disney found

Report Indicates American Women Ouldo Themselves

American women in 1938 outdid themselves in more ways than one, reports the Institute of Life Insurance.

1. They brought more babies to the world than ever before.

2. They pursued higher education in greater numbers than in any previous year.

3. They held more jobs than at any other time in U. S. history.

The latest available data from various government agencies spells out these accomplishments in more detail. For example, National Office of Vital Statistics figures indicate that 4,045,000 children were born in 1938, or about 25,000 more than the record high number of births in 1934.

The U. S. Office of Education believes that the number of women enrolled in colleges and other institutions of higher learning in 1938 surpassed even the previous record of 800,000 women college students set in 1934.

And the Bureau of the Census reports that in October, 1938 there were 21,000,000 women with jobs, the highest ever recorded. Averaged over the entire year, over one out of three women was in the "labor force"—that is, fully one-third of American women of working age were either working or seeking work.

The explanation for the multitude of jobs and the extended schooling—and maybe even the bumper crop of babies—stems largely from the prosperity of the nation. The Census Bureau, optimistic about the future, concludes that a still-higher number of women will get jobs in the next few years providing that a catastrophe such as a depression does not come along.

Behind the record-high figures on women's employment lie two facts, which may not be generally known:

1. A considerable number of part-time jobs are held by women. Census Bureau statistics indicate that more than one-fifth of working women hold part-time jobs. In comparison, only one-tenth of men who work have part-time employment.

2. Very many women—among them married women—work because they need the income. This is born out of the shrill shrill made by various agencies. Over half the women in the labor force are married.

Upon getting a job many women are upriser to find they get more than a cash income from their work. They often receive sizable protection for themselves and their families in the form of group life insurance and group health insurance. This insurance, arranged for by employers, may be contributory; that is, the worker shares the cost with the employer.

Although group life insurance protection lasts only for the duration of the job, such a policy does give a family additional financial protection as long as the woman works for that particular company. Unlike life insurance which is purchased individually, a group policy typically has no cash value and cannot be counted on by the owner as an emergency source of funds.

Health insurance protection may vary widely from company to company. The basic plan, among those sponsored by life insurance companies, helps to pay hospital ex-

Actor Says U. S. Males Dress Better

HOLLYWOOD (U.P.)—Movie dolls are often bouncing back from Europe with views pro and con on fashions over there. Here's a switch: Tony Curtis files a report for American males.

His verdict: We dress better over here.

Tony is no slouch when it comes to male attire. He has won awards for being best dressed and is one of the few male stylists in men's clothing to arrive in Hollywood since Cary Grant, who is Tony's idol.

Tony returned recently from five months of swinging on "Trapeze" with Burt Lancaster and Gina Lollobrigida in Europe. His observation of male styles rates the countries this way:

1. Italy.

2. England.

3. France.

"But none of the countries can compare with the United States," he said. "And that's not merely because our living standards are higher. The average European may earn less than an American, but don't forget that the cost of clothing is much less over there."

"No, it's a matter of style, and the Europeans are chained to tradition. The Italians are the most adventurous. Some of their sport clothes are good looking, though not as stylish as ours. And the cut of their suits is not fatiguing."

"The English will occasionally wear sport clothes, but they don't have any dash to them. In town, they wear the same thing in the bowler hat and double-breasted suit. They all want to look like Sir Anthony Eden. But that style went out of date 10 years ago."

"The French are the worst dressed. The young men all wear the same uniform, as if they were in the army. It's the double-breasted suit with narrow shoulders and pegged trousers. The outfit does nothing for them."

Pittsburgh Signs Two More Players

PITTSBURGH (U.P.)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced today the signing of two more players, second baseman Johnny O'Brien and first baseman Bob Skinner.

O'Brien hit .260 for the Pirates last season while Skinner was slugging a lousy .340 for New Orleans of the Southern Assn. Skinner was the Pirates' regular first sacker in 1934 but hit only .240 and was sent to New Orleans for more seasoning.

Georgian Displays Fine Rugs

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 15 — "In 30 years, I've mailed $ million dollars worth of oriental rugs on approval to more than a hundred thousand people—and I've only run into five crooks. And there was only one rug that I didn't get paid for or get back eventually."

The sandy-haired, balding man spoke with a clipped drawl, the product of years of Army service superimposed on a Georgia birthright.

When he displayed a fine rug, fingers stroking the shiny nap, he displayed an affection for the artistry of oriental weavers.

It was this affection that led Col. Charles W. Jacobsen, U.S. Army, retired, from the life of a cavalry and artillery officer that of an oriental rug enthusiast and on to a position as an authority in the field he describes as "a vanishing art."

He says he believes he is the largest retailer of true oriental rugs in America, perhaps in the world.

Jacobsen handles antiques from a few years old, semi-antiques (a few years in 30 years' use) and new or modern rugs (freshly imported, most likely from Iran).

"There's only one way to buy a rug," says Jacobsen. "That's to see it in your own home, on your own floor."

From that conviction came his idea of a mail-order business in oriental rugs. It is tailored to fit the customer and Jacobsen takes all the risk.

In effect, his rugs sell themselves and their relatives and ancestors. Jacobsen says 95 per cent of his mail sales originate with previous, satisfied customers and their word a mouth advertising.

After he sends his lists, the customer makes tentative selections. Jacobsen then sends colored photographic slides of those rugs—and a few similar ones for good measure.

If the customer likes what he sees through the hand viewer the rug merchant provides, he orders those rugs on approval. Jacobsen bundles up those rugs—and, again, a few for good measure—and ships them by express in waterproof bur-lap containers.

The customer tries them in his room. If he likes one, he keeps it and sends the others back at no cost to him. "If he doesn't like

S. Jones Likes New York Better

HOLLYWOOD — Now it's Cinderella girl Shirley Jones who says she has no yen to live in California.

If this trend keeps up, the Chamber of Commerce could end up with an inferiority complex.

Shirley, who looks as packed with vitamins as a glass of orange juice (maybe that'll keep the C. of C. happy), was here on a whirl wind trip to pick up an award or two. But she planned to hustle right back to New York.

I intercepted her in her hotel suite and asked her about this affront to the Sunshine State. The beautiful blonde batted her eyelashes and replied innocently, "Oh, I'm growing to like California more each time I visit here. But I wouldn't want to live here. I like New York much better."

To add to the blow, she remarked that movies were incidental.

"I always wanted to be a stage star," she explained. "I never gave much thought to movies."

Paradoxically, she became a movie star first. When she left her home town of Smithton, Pa., to assault the big city, she auditioned for Rodgers and Hammerstein. They were so entranced with the young doll that they signed her to a seven-year contract. The first time they had ever tied up a talent.

Within two short years, she had done bits in two R&H shows and starred in two movies costing a total of 11 million dollars, "Oklahoma" and "Carousel."

"It's still a little hard to get used to," she sighed in wonderment.

Her future plans?

"I don't know," she replied. "I'd like to do a Broadway show, but Mr. Rodgers and Mr. Hammerstein don't have anything for me right now. So I suppose they will lend me out for more pictures. I would like to do one that isn't a musical, as a change of pace."

Furrier Accused Of Staging Phoney Robbery of Salon

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Furrier Al Teitelbaum, who enters to the movie mink set, is accused of staging a phoney robbery of his fashionable salon.

Five other men also were arrested yesterday as the result of an inquiry stemming from Teitelbaum's report of a $250,000 holdup last Dec. 27.

Teitelbaum, 40, designer of many film stars' fur pieces and former business manager of Marie Lansa, declared the arrests are "a lot of hokum." He was booked on suspicion of conspiring to defraud an insurance firm and conspiring to commit grand theft.

Police Chief C. H. Anderson said that 217 fur pieces reported springing to commit grand theft.

Also booked were Howard Cook, 34, Billy Layton, 43, and Sam London, all of Los Angeles, on suspicion of conspiring to commit robbery; Claude Wilson, 38, North Hollywood, conspiracy to commit a fraud and suspicion of robbery; and Clifford Weiss, 38, of Paradise Valley, Nev., suspicion of conspiracy to commit grand theft.

Let's Start Practicing Safety Today - Keep Death Toll Down

The development of atomic weapons may have changed the future odds somewhat, but it is a striking fact that in the past more Americans have died in United States highway accidents than in all the U. S. wars combined.

More startling, in a way, is the related fact that more persons were injured on U. S. highways during the year 1955 than were wounded in battle throughout the nation's history.

If that is not a sufficiently dramatic way of pointing out that we need to do more about highway safety, then consider this statistical tidbit: the equivalent of the American death toll during the eight-year Revolutionary war was chalked up on our streets and highways about every six weeks last year.

It is an old story, but one that bears repeating. Especially does it bear repeating since the total of 88,500 highway fatalities last year was the highest in 11 years.

A statement of the remedies bears repetition, also: safer roads, safer cars, sharper laws, more diligent enforcement. There's no magic in that sort of program, but it works. If anyone doubts that such a program is needed, let him consider the stark figures on American highway accidents since 1900:

Dead — 1,149,414.
Injured — More than 89 million.
Just keep this in mind. Every accident on the streets of Sanford or the roads and highways of Seminole County, where an injury or death is involved, will make the total grow bigger and bigger.
To realize a decreasing toll of deaths and injuries on streets and highways will take the individual effort of every man and woman behind the wheel of a car or truck.

AFL - CIO Strategists Say GOP To Have Edge

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—AFL-CIO political strategists have decided that "the Republicans will have an edge" in the 1956 presidential race regardless of whether President Eisenhower decides to run again.

This view is contained in an analysis of the political situation submitted confidentially to the 28-member AFL-CIO Executive Council during its winter session here by AFL-CIO political co-directors James L. McDavitt and Jack Kroil.

A major reason for this appraisal is that Eisenhower's recommendation for increased spending for schools, housing, social security, health and roads have "to a large extent deprived the Democrats of some of their most appealing issues."

The conclusion is reached that the decline in farm prices is "the most crucial" domestic issue left to the Democrats.

"Although it is impossible to evaluate the presidential election until there is an announcement of Eisenhower's intention," the report says, "the Republicans will have an edge in the race."

"This will result from a shift in the party character to provide more appeal for city voters and from their control of communications."

The view is expressed that Eisenhower's announcement of his political intentions is "being delayed" for two reasons:

"1. Further shortens the campaign time to give the greatest possible advantage to a blitz campaign into which large financial resources could be poured and in which the full advantage of the one-party press, radio and television could be mobilized.

"2. Solidify the hold of the Eisenhower-Dewey wing of the Republican party by delaying the organization of the anti-Eisenhower forces around any single candidate."

The report continues that "in view of the attacks which have been made on the (AFL-CIO) merger by reactionary groups," it will be necessary for organized labor to "conduct a campaign primarily on the educational level without fanfare or publicity."

"Change in character of the Republican party," the report said, "is evidenced by the fact that at present 34 out of 46 Republican state organizations now have leaders selected after the election of President Eisenhower."

So far as Congress is concerned, the report said organized labor can now count on 177 House votes and 26 Senate votes. To attain a "liberal majority" in Congress, it says labor must get a net gain of 41 House seats and a dozen Senate seats.

Connie Mack Is Gone

In a few weeks baseball teams will report for Spring training. The crack of the bat and the slap of the glove will be music in the air. There will be the usual amount of reports from the sensational young ball players, of seasoned players whose stars are fading, of holdouts. Everything will seem the same—on the surface that is. It will never be quite the same though, because Connie Mack is gone.

Connie Mack—Mr. Mack, he was called by everyone in the game—lived 93 years. His career as a player, manager and owner spanned the early and the modern eras of the game. He was, in his early years as a manager, one of the most successful in the game. His straw hat and waving score card were his trademark.

It was too bad that Mack's latter days could not have been brightened by a pennant. It was also sad that in his elder years he saw his team leave Philadelphia. But for more than fifty years Connie Mack was engaged in our national sport. He knew better than most men that sometimes you win, and sometimes you lose. You take either cheerfully as part of the day's work. His contributions to the game will outlive him.

Leap Year!

Leap Year is perhaps a good time to find out what women are like, in case eligible males should have to face one or more proposals. The Population Reference Bureau has been compiling figures which may shed some new light on this matter.

For instance, in the first place, there are more women than men, though the difference is not large. More males are born, but females live longer. The life expectancy of a man is 68 years, of a woman 72.

Business executives are traditionally subject to ulcers or heart attacks. That women encounter these perils less often seems to be due to a habit of theirs which men find obnoxious, that of bursting into tears when a situation is annoying, or having a tantrum. Also women are more apt to watch out for slight physical upsets, more apt to consult a doctor, more apt to follow his advice.

Getting back to the Leap Year question—seems as if there is evidence that the young ladies are aware of their opportunities. For instance—the yell, quite loudly from a young man on First Street the other night must have been due to that pinch from his young lady friend—trying to make him say "yes!"

Everyone Waiting For Decision

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Business and the money managers—like everyone else—are waiting to see what will happen when President Eisenhower announces his second-term plans.

The decision might affect some business planning and some financial thinking. It might tilt the economy a little from its present delicately balanced position, in either direction, depending on whether he says he will or won't run.

And Wall Street figures that the money managers aren't likely to move until they see what the President's announcement does, if anything, to business psychology.

Right now there are signs that credit is getting a little easier again. The Federal Reserve Board has made no new move to tighten it up. At the same time, there are signs that business may be about ready to turn downward.

And again, the Federal Reserve Board is making no move to help loosen up credit, as a stimulant.

Like the stock market, the money managers appear to be marking time while the President thinks over the doctors' reports. Mortgage money is becoming more plentiful, the Federal Housing Administration reports. That market tightened up last fall and new home building fell off. Builders say they're finding money easier to come by now, and some expect building to pick up peacefully when the weather improves.

The construction industry looks for a new record this year. H. E. Forman, managing director of the Associated General Contractors of America, meeting here, predicts spending on new buildings will reach 44 billion dollars, a gain of more than two billion over last year. He thinks spending for maintenance and repairs will also rise.

Ike Must Decide By Himself

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—Until he decides finally whether to run again President Eisenhower will be a lonely man, living with his conscience. Because his decision is a matter of conscience, no one can really help him make it.

He said recently, "I could devoutly wish there were some method by which the American people could point out the path of my true duty. But . . . people this is a question that first I alone must answer."

It would have been easy and necessary for him to decide against seeking a second term if his doctors, after their checkup this week, had said he could not physically endure another four White House years.

They said the opposite yesterday. In doing so they put the decision entirely up to Eisenhower. It is not unusual for active men like Eisenhower to have a sense of indestructibility. They can never again feel that way after a heart attack. It is piercing and tangible

Every Campus Has Mrs. Tydings

By HAL BOYLE
COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—I came again to the old white frame house a block off the University of Missouri campus and knocked at a well-remembered door.

The door opened, and I saw before me the same lady who had opened the same door to me when I had first knocked upon it a quarter of a century ago as a brash young student.

The gray lady looked hesitantly for a moment at the graying middle-aged man before her, and then her mind peeled away the ravaging changes time had made in him, and she said in a real pleased voice:

"Why, Harold!" and then I put my arms around her and pressed my face against her cheek—and knew myself at home.

Going back to his old college is a spiritual ordeal to any man. So many of the landmarks of his youth have vanished and been replaced by the new landmarks for a new generation that he feels himself a stranger from a lost time.

But Mrs. E. E. Tydings, my foster mother, hadn't changed. "Why, Harold, come right in," she said, and shut the door against the winter chill.

We went into the kitchen, and as Mrs. Tydings placidly busied herself at the stove, I sat in the old straight-back chair she had received as a wedding present around the turn of the century. We talked of old times, and it was almost as if I had never been away.

"My mind often goes back . . . Every college campus has its Mrs. Tydings. They are the motherly women who take in lonely college boys and give them a home away from home.

Over the years Mrs. Tydings and her husband, Dr. Tydings, a dentist, now dead, must have sheltered and fed a hundred or more students—and lost a lot of money doing it.

"I just don't know how many boys have stayed with us," she said. "I've never bothered to count them."

"How do the college boys of today compare to those who were in school when I was here?" I asked, rather hoping, I must admit, for a bit of personal recognition.

"Why, Harold," said Mrs. Tydings, "there's been a wonderful change. Maybe I am just getting more tolerant, but I do think the boys today are better behaved around the house.

"They aren't quite so boisterous. They seem to study harder, and I do believe they go to church more often."

Somewhat crestfallen, I mumbled, "Excuse me," and started for the stairs.

Without glancing up from the sink Mrs. Tydings said, "The bathroom's in the same place, Harold."

But it wasn't the bathroom I was seeking. It was my old room. It had changed less than I. The February sun threw a glancing warmth at the old desk where I had once studied. What a wonderful room it had been, and what wonderful roommates I had known there!

Among them were John Keats, Samuel Johnson, Jonathan Swift, Thomas Hardy, and a lady named Emily Dickinson.

I walked back downstairs, slowly leaving their ghosts behind to cheer other boys.

Mrs. Tydings made me stay for an old-fashioned chicken dinner. "I don't make gravy so much anymore now that everyone's on a diet," she said. During the meal she filled me in with what had happened to her foster sons. Some had become well-known lawyers, engineers and farm leaders. One, who used to wash dishes to pay for his meals, had run for governor.

"Many of them write me often," she said gently, and I felt bad. I haven't written her.

Mrs. Tydings, who will be 75 next summer, still rooms six college boys but no longer feels up to the chore of cooking for them. But she has to feed something, so she keeps two feeding stations for birds. She went to the window to show me one, and there was a flash of feathered fire as a redbird flew away.

"Some flickers and cardinals and chickadees come," said Mrs. Tydings. "But I go wish I had a bluebird. They're so pretty."

But Mrs. Tydings doesn't really need a bluebird. She has had one in her heart all her long busy life spent mostly in being kind to others.

ments in this country at a time that it is unexpected."

Citrus All Day Long

That's not a bad idea, this time of year, for oranges and grapefruit and lemons aid help build up resistance to the colds and respiratory ailments that are sweeping the country. Fortunately, this is the season when Florida's fresh fruit is in abundance, and most economically priced, in your local markets. You'll find frequent specials on this Vitamin C-rich food.

For sectioning, choose heavy thin-skinned grapefruit (either pink or white-fleshed) and the Temple orange, the variety similar to it. The reddest fruit has the most Vitamin C. Plain fruit cups are good means for breakfast, lunch or dinner. The sections can be used in salads, or to garnish meat or fish dishes. And however they're used, they're a good source of Vitamin C.

Belated Presents Finally Arrive After Long Delay

Wednesday was a "big" day for members of Sanford Branch Troop No. Two. The troop is sponsored by Beta Sigma Phi Sorority who voted in September of 1935 to purchase a gift for each member which would be presented as part of the Troop's Fifth Birthday Party scheduled in October.

The gifts were ordered but the birthday event came and went; the gifts had not arrived. An order was followed-up, but even the Christmas holiday passed without receipt. This week, almost five months late, the package arrived just in time for Investor Services planned by the troop!

Mrs. Ike Butler, troop leader, officiated at the Investor with Mrs. Alfred Stanley and Mrs. LaMar Echols assisting. New members honored by the ceremonies were Nora Butler, Gay Stanley, Donna Peters, Dale Smith, Brenda Brown and Lynn Labo.

Membership stars were presented to the following girls who have completed one or more years as active members: Kathy Butler, Joyce Stanley, Elaine Echols, Mary B. Scott, Maria Rowland, Barbara Lee Stone, Ruth Ann Vail, Danielle Wright and Margaret Wolfe.

The belated birthday gifts were presented each member by Mrs. Warren E. Knowles and Mrs. James Casiano representing Beta Sigma Phi. Cakes and soft drinks were served to members and guests.

ANNOUNCEMENT
Sanford members of the Daughters of the American Colonists are urged to make reservations for the State Assembly which will be held at The Flamingo in Miami Beach, March 22.

They are to make reservations with the Flamingo Hotel as soon as possible. It was suggested that those attending the Assembly should arrive on March 21.

Mrs. Francis Bols gave the devotional using as her subject, "It's All Right To Change Your Mind." She brought out the thought that after careful consideration, changing one's mind is a sign of maturity and strength.

Mrs. R. F. Cooper brought "a wonderful stewardship lesson" on "Our Attitude Toward Money." Reports were made on the visit to the County home and announcements given.

The session was closed with a prayer. Those attending were Mrs. G. R. Drake, Mrs. R. F. Cooper, Mrs. Bea Newsome, Mrs. R. R. Beck, Mrs. John Abrahams and Mrs. A. L. Thomas.

She stressed the fact that a table centerpiece should blend with the china, silver, tablecloth and general atmosphere of the setting. "Flower arrangements should be low and be scaled to the table size," she stated.

After telling of other helpful pointers in flower arranging she then emphasized her talk by displaying various table settings and their complimentary flower arrangements.

Held in the Fellowship hall of the church, league members provided box suppers decorated with a Valentine theme. The boxes were auctioned off by Mrs. H. W. Shuman to the gentlemen of the crowd who then received the favor of eating with the lucky young lady.

Mrs. Shuman also donated a "beautiful" lamp as first prize for the highest bidder. This went in Clyde Stinson. After the supper Mrs. George J. Raumbach of Fern Park, showed many colored three dimensional slides many of which she had taken at the laying of the corner stone of the church in November of 1933.

VAH-7 Will Make 'Shakedown Cruise' In Caribbean Soon

Payoff Proposition Related By Witness

The government rested its case against suspended Sheriff J. Luther Hobby, former deputy sheriff Andy E. Evans, former State Beverage agent Dwight E. Yelvington, former N. G. deputy Willie R. Brown, and tavern operators Jerry Martin and James Smith, charged with defrauding the Government in a countywide moonshine conspiracy.

At 2:30 yesterday afternoon, Assistant District Attorney E. David Rosen brought his part of the trial to a close when Lee Pace, investigator for the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit of the U. S. Government stepped down from the witness stand.

Pace charged yesterday that Dwight E. Yelvington approached him at the Volusia County Jail in DeLand, Dec. 17, 1953 with a proposition that would net the two investigators a $400 a month take-off to allow moonshine operators in the area.

However, Pace testified that no names were used in the conversation and that he turned down the proposition and further reported the incident to his superiors.

Pace testified that shortly after being approached by Yelvington in regard to a payoff, LeLon Long, admitted Seminole County moonshine operator came to his home and asked for protection in the operation of moonshine stills.

Pace testified that he turned Long down and that he told him that "I will attempt more than ever to catch you and convict you."

Pace testified that he, Dwight E. Yelvington, suspended Sheriff Luther Hobby, beverage agents A. W. Avelay and W. T. White, and Joe Sledge advised him of the possession of an illicit distillery by LeLon Long in Seminole County but that he did nothing about it because "it was not my case."

At 2:30 yesterday afternoon Defense Attorney requested that the defendants be acquitted. The motion for acquittal was made by defense attorney William W. Judge. However, Federal Judge William J. Barker denied the motion at 3:35.

The first witness for the defense was the defendant Dwight E. Yelvington, 37-year-old former State Beverage agent who is now employed as an assistant foreman at the Guided Missile Base. Yelvington denied making a $400 a month payoff proposition to investigators Lee Pace and cited numerous instances of working with Pace in an attempt to destroy liquor stills in illicit operation. On a direct question from Defense Attorney Judge "Did you discuss the Longs with him (Pace) on more than one occasion?" Yelvington testified "Yes sir, many times."

Yelvington denied having accepted bribes of any kind at any time during his life. The former State Beverage Agent said "I was surprised" at the testimony offered by investigator Lee Pace.

While operating with the Forrester, VAH-7 will participate in simulated atomic delivery missions and provide in-flight refueling services for the carrier air group. In addition, a large group of squadron maintenance personnel will be flown by squadron aircraft and Fleet Logistics Air Wing to the Naval Air Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, where they will provide shore-based support for the deployed detachment.

Concerning this latest commitment of VAH-7, the squadron's Commanding Officer, Cdr. L. B. Libbey Jr. USN states, "Seven is happy to be assigned to work on the Forrester, as this is the first opportunity for our veterans to qualify on the new angled flight deck."

No stranger to fleet carrier operations, Heavy Attack Squadron Seven has recently completed a very successful five month deployment with the U. S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean area. Squadron detachments aboard the carriers USS Coral Sea, USS Intrepid, USS Ticonderoga and USS Lake Champlain amassed a record total of nearly 2700 flying hours while fulfilling their operational commitments. During this same period the squadron's safety record was unsurpassed. Such a record lends silent tribute to the many vocal "well done's" already received by the pilots, crews and maintenance personnel of VAH-7.

Mrs. Bridges announced that a campaign Kick-off breakfast would be held for campaign workers throughout Seminole County at the Mayfair Inn Thursday, March 1, at 9 a. m. Mrs. Bridges also revealed key campaign workers to date, details of which will be published in a separate release.

More than 150 Negro girls and boys from over the entire State will arrive in Sanford beginning today to take part in the Statewide Tri-Hi-Y Conference to be held at Crooms Academy.

The representatives of Tri-Hi-Y Clubs from Negro schools in Florida will take part in panel discussions, hear distinguished speakers, and learn how they can better improve their ability to take part in the affairs of the world.

The three-day event will climax Sunday morning with the election of officers and the selection of next year's conference site.

Theme of his year's conference has been set as "that we all might be one" which was adopted from the World Youth Conference which was held this year in Paris, France.

Host for the conference members is the 50-member Tri-Hi-Y Club of Crooms Academy. Already prepared are souvenirs, workshop material, and plans for the banquet Saturday night which will be held in the cafeteria at Crooms Academy.

This is the first conference of its type to be held in Sanford and extensive preparations have been made to insure the success of the Negro youth get-together.

Teenagers taking part in the conference will come to Sanford from Tallahassee, Ft. Lauderdale, Miami, Sarasota, Bartow, Quincy, Madison, Jacksonville, St. Petersburg, Orlando, Winter Park, Daytona Beach, Mt. Dora, and West Palm Beach, as well as from numerous other towns and cities where Tri-Hi-Y Clubs are organized.

Europe Facing Problem

LONDON (AP)—Frozen Europe, counting at least 411 dead from its worst winter of the 20th Century, faced the peril today of food shortages. Crops worth hundreds of millions of dollars already were ruined.

Floods ravaged Yugoslavia and Turkey, covering farm lands. Ice packs trapped fuel-carrying ships in the northern seas. Tempests of rain, snow and winds swept the usually sunny Spanish peninsula and North Africa.

The French government estimated crops worth more than half a billion dollars were lost in France, most of it wheat. The Italian Ministry of Agriculture warned Italy's crop damage "will be tremendous."

With the freeze in its 18th day, these were the known deaths attributed to the weather:

France 147, Turkey 72, Italy 72, Yugoslavia 67, Britain 50, Denmark 33, Greece 30, Germany 29, Austria 19, the Netherlands 16, Spain 19, Portugal 17, Switzerland 12, Belgium 10, Sweden 6, Poland 4, Norway 3, Libya 2 and Spanish Morocco 2.

The sun came back to northern Italy but the temperature was still down to 5 below zero. Snowplows and ski teams broke through to almost all of 600 snowbound communities.

The subzero weather so far averted floods. But officials in Sicily and southern Italy warned many communities would be in danger if sudden thaws started.

An ice pack narrowed the only sea lane between east and west Denmark, across the Store Belt. More than 2,000 railway freight cars were piled up on both ends of the route. The government banned all unnecessary shipments.

Ice barriers stretched almost 30 miles across the North Sea from Germany to Heigoland Island.

Hobby Denies Accepting Bribes

Court Recesses; Will Resume Monday

Before a packed courtroom in U. S. District Court at Orlando this morning, three witnesses for the defense were brought to the stand and testified before the court recessed for the weekend shortly before 1 p. m.

The trial of suspended Sheriff J. Luther Hobby, former State Beverage Department agent, Dwight D. Yelvington; former Deputy Andy E. Evans; former Negro deputy, Willie R. Brown; and tavern operators, Jerry Martin and James Smith on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Government, will resume Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Prior to resuming hearings this morning before Judge William J. Barker and a federal jury, defense attorney, William W. Judge complained to Judge Barker that the Orlando newspaper, widely circulated in this area, in issues of Feb. 14, 15, 16 and 17 had in the opinion of the counsel for the defense, contained sensationalized headlines and news articles purporting to be the evidence. They contained, the attorney said, inaccuracies and were in many instances prejudicially slanted.

"Therefore we respectfully request of the court that the jury be queried as to whether or not they have read any of the news articles."

Judge Barker stated to the defense attorneys that the jury had been warned not to read any newspapers, talk to anyone, or view television in reference to the trial.

The first witness called by the state this morning was Percy "Fats" McKinney of Goulds, Fla., who had originally been subpoenaed to testify for the government and then released Tuesday morning. He was resubpoenaed by the defense to appear as a witness. McKinney admitted knowing LeLon Long and Leroy Long in November or December of 1954 purchased moonshine from them at their home at Five Plains near Sanford.

McKinney stated that he saw no one at the Long home other than the two Long brothers and a Negro who accompanied him.

Questioned by defense attorney, William W. Judge, McKinney stated that he did not know suspended sheriff J. L. Hobby of Seminole County, and further stated that "I have never seen him". McKinney, on cross-examination by assistant district attorney, E. David Rosen, said that he knew an investigator of the alcohol and tax unit by the name Hodgson. McKinney denied giving Hodgson any information regarding the presence of suspended sheriff Hobby at the Long home at any time. He also denied telling Hodgson (referring to illicit moonshine whiskey investigation and conversation with Hodgson that "I told him that this is white men's business and I don't want to have anything to do with that."

The second witness testifying this morning, identified himself as Henry Wiley of Homestead, who stated that he accompanied "Fats" McKinney to Sanford to secure a load of moonshine whiskey from the Long boys. Wiley also testified that no one was at the Long house other than he, McKinney and the Long boys and that no one assisted in the loading of the car other than those mentioned in his testimony. Wiley was also subpoenaed by the government as a witness released Tuesday morning and resubpoenaed as a witness for the defense.

Suspended Sheriff J. L. Hobby took the witness stand shortly after 10 o'clock and testified under examination of defense attorney W. W. Judge until court recessed this afternoon.

Hobby stated that in his campaign or sheriff in 1952, he was opposed by Percy A. Mero, the incumbent Roy G. Williams, Sanford police chief, Charlie Beck and Clay Williams. He told the court that there was bitterness between the candidates for sheriff.

Hobby testified that he knew George A. Kelsey, Oviedo Police Chief and suspended constable, and that he took an active part of the campaign for sheriff against him by passing out cards and speaking in behalf of Percy Mero in the Oviedo section. Attorney Judge asked Hobby, "You heard Mr. Kelsey testify that he supported you." Hobby replied "That is an untruth."

Speaker's Subject Parole, Probation

A subject of great interest to all concerned, "Parole and Probation in Florida" will be discussed by one who is well qualified to talk on this vital theme at the weekly meeting of the Sanford Rotary Club at noon Monday, at the Yacht Club.

R. B. Gramling, District Supervisor of the Florida Parole Commission at Orlando for over fourteen years and with over twelve years in many branches of welfare work, in addition, will answer the often-asked questions, "What is the difference between Parole and Probation?" "How does a prisoner make application for Parole?" "How does a person apply for Probation?" "Does Probation Pay?" "Does It Work?"

Coming as it does right after the announcement of Britain's House of Commons voting to eliminate capital punishment, Gramling's address should prove of additional interest.

Buying Of Savings Bonds In Florida Continues Growth

Purchases of Savings Bonds in Florida in January continued their forward pace and exceeded slightly those of January 1955 which had been the highest level attained for the month since War's end in 1945, it was reported today by W. A. Patrick, Chairman of the Seminole County Savings Bonds Committee.

"State purchases this year were $6,111,570 compared with $6,095,039 in January 1955," Patrick said. "Seminole County accounted for $38,000 of that amount."

"National figures showed $372 million, or one-tenth of one percent from last year. Sales exceeded redemptions by $122 million and with the month's accrued interest bring the total value of E and H Bonds outstanding to the all-time high of $40,286 million—an enormous reserve of purchasing power to help up the American economy," Patrick concluded.
