Chit-Chat of the Play Houses in Sanford

Bullets Imperi. Actress

June Keith, who plays opposite Richard C. Travers in the lead of Essanay's new six-act feature the dramatic "The Man Trail," adapted from the novel by Will Hall, and Henry O'Connell, the playhouse's leading actor, is not at all her specialty, although she successfully accomplishes this feat in a few nights. Miss Keith is home in Chicago from "The Prince" to be a police and directed the chautauque near Wausau. In what she is doing here was staged when a man stepped out in front of her car from behind some trees at the side of the road in Lake Forest. It was dark and the chauffeur thought the man was a robber and instead of halting from the road he pulled the car up to the curb and shot the man.

legitimate stage and has made a distinct hit in Essanay's "A Bunch of K... " "The Man Trail" She is the daughter of Nona Piney, "My Wife" produced by Walker Williams in connection with Henry O'Connell. She also has starred in "The Woman who Stopped Time," "The Man of the Hour," "The Spendthrift" and "The Prince of the Little Red." Mrs. Keith is a pretty brunette who is a native of Chicago and daughter of Dr. Douglas Smith, a wealthy Chicago banker.

on this day on account of Coburn's Minstrel. After this episode there will be only two left.

Admission to the above seven-act program will be 50c and 75c.

That Ragation Four

Ragtime, Tango time, Funny time and Splendid time, anything and everything in time, harmony and splendid ragging you will get with the new quartette in Coburn's Minstrel, next Wednesday, Jan. 19, at the Star Theatre. There is never a day that some inquiry is not made of Manager Coburn of his company, "Have you got a good quartette?" There seems to be something about the harmony of male voices and quartette melody, which is as much in demand with a musical attraction as the end men, the dancers of the street parade. Lester Luca's splendid band is well known to minstrel admirers. Joe M. Gura's baritone, Harry Newland's lead tenor and

RICHARD C. TRAVERS IN "THE MAN TRAIL" AT THE STAR THURSDAY

Joe Greenfield's top tenor comprise the best and closest harmony in this line of entertainment ever offered by this company. Yes, we certainly have a good quartette, don't miss it. And by the way, speaking of parades don't miss the "Coburn Blues" in street parade Wednesday noon.

In addition to the already unusual cast the noted Reese Prosser has been added and the people of Sanford will have an opportunity to hear the highest salaried minstrel singer in America. Tickets now on sale at Phillips' drug store.

California Flooded

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19. Although the flooded waters from the rain storm which has prevailed over Southern California for almost four days were receding today in the districts near the mountains, the crest of the flood has not reached the lowlands along the coast, and it is feared these sections will be further inundated.

Trans-continental traffic was practically at a standstill late last night, but railroad officials stated they hoped to have the overland trains moving sometime today.

Five westbound trains on the Southern Pacific were stalled at Yuma, Ariz. Three Santa Fe and two Salt Lake trains were stalled during the night at Canon Pass by landslides.

Railroad officials say the damage from the storm is the heaviest that has been suffered in this section in many years.

Flood conditions also prevailed in Central Arizona. Reports from Phoenix indicate that the Gila river will rise to the highest point there in twenty-five years.

CITY FILLED; HOTELS FULL; MANY HERE

SANFORD HAS MORE NOW VISITORS THAN EVER BEFORE

With the Hotel Carnes near Sanford House filling up, with the Seminole and Robbins Nest and many others filled and rooms in private dwellings filled up with the visitors to the city it would seem that Sanford still needs another large and new hotel.

Never before in the history of the city has there been so many strangers here without any effort being made to attract them to the city.

In years gone by when systematic efforts were made in the advertising line to induce travel here the hotels were filled to overflowing, but this season when practically nothing has been done to attract them here the city is still filled to overflowing.

DENOUNCED BRITISH FOR INTERFERING

HOKE SMITH SAYS THAT ENGLAND IS INJURING U. S. TRADE

Washington, Jan. 21. Hoke Smith of Georgia made British interference with neutral trade the subject of a vigorous speech in the senate today. He pleaded for action to prevent England from advancing her own trade at the expense of the United States, while trying to destroy Germany's commerce.

He declared that the trade rights being possibly secured for England by the British lawless treatment of American custom trade.

He pointed out that Germany had not asked custom for the maintenance of ...

CITY COUNCIL MEETS

The city council met in regular session Jan. 17th, 1916, at 7:30 p. m. Present, B. W. Herndon, chairman, W. W. Abernathy, J. Adams, C. H. Dinger, F. L. Miller, D. G. Monroe and R. C. Maxwell.

Minutes of the last meeting read and adopted. A communication from the civic committee of the Woman's Club was read and referred to the street committee with power to act.

The street committee reported that the A. C. L. Ry were placing the required lights at Rand's Sliding where First street crosses the railway.

The clerk was instructed to write the Southern Utilities Co. that their street lights were very unsatisfactory, and that they were not turning them on according to contract.

He was also instructed to find out from the city attorney what he had done regarding the right of way for the boulevard along the boulevard.

It was moved and seconded that the city do its own sanitary and street cleaning work for the ensuing year and that E. E. Brady be employed to furnish teams for such work, same to be operated under contract.

GREEK KING VERY BITTER ON ALLIES

THINKS THAT INVASION OF GREECE ON PAR WITH BELGIUM

The king of Greece on last Thursday summoned the Associated Press correspondent in Athens for the purpose of making a protest through the press of the United States, which he said was the only forum of public opinion open to him against the recent action of the allies in their operations at Salonika in blowing up the bridge at Demir Hissar in occupying Corfu and other islands which Greece claims.

He said the situation is as if a foreign power had occupied that part of the United States which had been won from Mexico after the Mexican war and that the plea of military necessity advanced by the allies was like that given by Germany for invading Belgium and Luxembourg.

FIRST CAR OF CELERY

The first car of celery to be shipped from Sanford to the north was shipped north by Mr. Dutton.

We have not been informed as to the price of this first car but it is rumored that it brought Mr. Ward about $2 per crate or better.

As there are some thousand acres of celery in the Sanford section, the prospect is bright.

UPSALA AND GRAPEVILLE

Mrs. Emil Magnusson left Saturday for a short visit with her sister, Mrs. Adam Karr of DeLand.

Rev. Morey and daughter called on a dozen families last Thursday. Pretty good for one short day and the way we are scattered around but a few were missed after all so will try another bout.

They were entertained for dinner at Mr. Balingier's and for supper at Mrs. Bertelson's.

Miss Edna Thompson, Miss Olga Vihlen and Mrs. Ballinger, as representatives of their class were callers at Miss Sidonia Barto's on one of Mr. Miller's groves near the cemetery Saturday afternoon.

A number of the young folks out this way attend the picture shows on Saturday evening.

Rev. Alfred Ericson gave us a good sermon last Sunday evening.

Don't forget the prayer meeting led by Rev. Ericson and the preaching service by Rev. Morey on Thursday night. The next subject will be "A Garden of Flowers," using the blackboard to illustrate.

There were two birthdays to be observed since last writing Mrs. Ericson at whose home Mrs. Bertelson, Mrs. Magnusson, Mrs. Borell and Woodard Bertelson and Miss Ethel Stedt called in remembrance and one for Russell Grand Lundquist on passing his first anniversary. At the latter were his grandmother, Mrs. John Lundquist, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Ballinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Swanson were visitors in town yesterday.

The doctors have been out this way a number of times since Xmas, mostly for the grippe patients, being called by Mrs. L. A. Weaver, Mrs. H. G. Lundquist and Mrs. T. J. P. but we think it is helping up a clutch on the people at last, as nearly everyone has just a cold or less.

EAST SANFORD

Mr. Atwood and son, Edward of Cameron avenue have as their guest the latter's grandfather, Mr. Byron Brown of Mount Dora.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar E. Brown returned last week from their summer home in Richmond, Ind. and are now at their beautiful home on Geneva avenue for several months.

Harriet and Clara Elizabeth Rossetter of Celery avenue made a two weeks' visit at the home of their aunt, Mrs. H. A. Howard on South Sanford avenue.

The Epworth League of Mount Station will visit the League in town this Sunday evening.

This is ideal celery growing weather.

Harry Ward cut a fine piece of celery at his Pineway Avenue farm yesterday and has considerably padded on light his places, as have many others. The price of celery per crate on express shipments has been around $2.00. A great deal of celery in the field has been sold, price all the way from $1.25 per crate up, according to the date at which it will be ready to cut.

PAOLA POINTS

Mrs. A. V. McGuin was called to Atlanta the 10th inst. by the sickness of her mother. We hope she will be returning home.

Miss Helen Iserman was a week end guest at the Pearson home last week.

Mr. J. W. Kersey made a business trip to Palatka the first of the week.

Mr. David McGowan and son of Steubenville, Ohio were visitors at the W. B. Buchanan home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor, Jack and Lillian Booth were visiting friends in and around Paola Sunday afternoon.

Mr. McGuin has purchased the house and lot here known as the H. C. Dent house and grove attached. He will move there sometime this winter.

Mr. Fuller of DeLand made a trip to Paola last week on business for his friend, a Mr. Riden of Chicago, who has lately purchased the Boyce property here.

LAKE MARY

Mrs. Berry was a business visitor Monday.

School opened Jan. 20th. Miss Iserman spent one week of her vacation in Tallahassee attending the Teachers' State Association which she enjoyed very much.

Rev. L. H. Morey arrived Saturday from San Antonio, Texas and will be the guest of his brother here for awhile.

Mrs. F. M. Buck and Mrs. Carter were calling on Lake Mary friends Sunday afternoon.

F. M. Cameron spent a couple of days this week at Auburndale.

Little Richard Morey Lampert, the grandson of Dr. George Morey entered school here last week, having accompanied his grandfather here from South Bend, Indiana.

Mr. Truette and family of Longwood moved here this week to take charge of the turpentine business here.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis expect to move in their new cottage in the next few days.

MOORE'S STATION

Harry Osteen, Miss Liona Osteen and Miss Bertha Hodge were visitors to Geneva recently.

T. J. Sparkman of Port Orange spent Wednesday night at the home of J. J. Nicholson.

W. B. Lowe, Allen Allman and J. K. Allman were visitors to Sanford Saturday.

E. J. Cohen and family are visiting relatives in Seville, Fla.

Miss Summers organized a canning club in Osteen Monday. Quite a number of girls joined the club.

Mrs. J. M. Chadler is spending some time in Enterprise with Professor Chadler.

J. T. McLain of Geneva has purchased several cars of oranges in Osteen. Mr. McLain has a crew of men putting up the fruit.

Mrs. Sharp of Titusville is visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. K. Allman.

Miss Mamie Osteen, who has been at Monroe sometime returned home Wednesday.

E. A. O'Brien of Moore's was a visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. O'Brien last Sunday.

Little Krass Allman, the baby son of W. L. Allman is quite sick.

Mr. O'Brien, who is a brother of W. L. Allman is quite sick. S. G. Brooks was a pastor in New Smyrna recently.

A party of ladies went to the river fishing last Saturday. They had good luck. They caught several fish.

Mrs. T. P. Cooke of Jacksonville will arrive today to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. W. Miller for several weeks.

The Great Sanford Section

Sanford, Fla., Jan. 14. The weather here is ideal, and crops are looking the best ever. Sanford is a big shipping point, being known as "Celery City." Cars of lettuce and cauliflower are now moving daily. Prices as a whole have been good until this week. Receipts of lettuce are now somewhat lighter. Growers have just commenced to board celery. The first cars will roll around Jan. 25th and will continue until about May 1st.

Chase & Co. report the acreage about the same as last year and the crop very promising. Growers are jubilant, and expect good prices.

There will be a usual game acreage planted in beans and cukes, as potatoes, but potato acreage will be cut down, owing to both the high prices asked for seed and fertilizers.

Wm. Colbourn Co., Inc., here, will be large factors in the deal this season. They have a large acreage in celery, which now looks fine, and are also shipping cars of lettuce and cauliflower daily. A. F. Young & Co., New York handle their New York account.

F. F. Dutton, Inc., are large carlot distributors here, now shipping lettuce and will be in the celery deal as usual.

John Russell, who is well known throughout the west is now moving cars of lettuce, and says he will be heavy in the celery deal, as in other years past.

Among the out of town people met by the Green Sheet representative are C. E. Henry, representing the big house of Wm. Wernert & Co., Philadelphia; L. A. Taylor, representing H. B. Williams, Inc., of Philadelphia; R. R. Eldridge, representing H. G. Miles & Co., New York; J. W. Barnes, representing Smith & Holden, New York; G. I. Loucks, representing J. N. Vorhees, New York.

J. S. Wilson is here, hustling for L. C. Blum Co., Pittsburgh and he is selling the same quantity of lettuce.

The out of town visitors also R. F. Conner, Co., Inc., of New York city are both represented by road men at different points in Florida. W. H. Michael of Philadelphia is also here.

Among the large shippers and Green Sheet readers here are G. F. Smith, 40 acres in celery; will start shipping around Jan. 25. He has also 12 acres of late celery ready from April 15 to May 15. Lettuce all gone.

J. E. Pace is one of the largest growers and shippers. He has 65 acres in celery and will start shipping around Jan. 25 and continue until May 1st. He has yet 20 acres of lettuce and 15 acres of cauliflower now moving daily.

J. A. Takaeh, R. F. D. 3, 10 acres of celery, 4 of lettuce, aals has cauliflower.

J. S. Moore, R. F. D., has celery, lettuce and cauliflower.

Handy Bros., celery, lettuce and cauliflower.

Handy & Neal, celery, lettuce and cauliflower.

W. S. Thornton, R. F. D., No. 2, celery, lettuce and cauliflower.

John Hall, box 1072, celery, lettuce and cauliflower.

W. Stone, celery and lettuce.—Chicago Produce Bulletin.

Game-Raising Farm.

From the first game farm in Minnesota tables of epicures will be supplied with pheasants and mallard ducks within two years and possibly within one year, if present hopes are realized.

"We will raise ruffed grouse, prairie chickens, pheasants and ducks on the farm," said superintendent of the Game Protective league. "This is only a starter on the 'more game movement.' More than a hundred citizens, most of them farmers, will begin game breeding next spring both for sporting purposes and for the market.

"Every game bird raised and sold in captivity helps to protect the state's supply of wild game, and if my plans work out Minnesota will within a few years be the greatest game producing state in the Union."

Upside Down and Back Again.

A singular case of salvage has come to light at Queenstown, Ireland, where the Russian vessel Baltzar arrived in tow, laden with timber from Gulf Port, bound to Cork.

It appears that on September 27 the Baltzar was damaged and turned turtle in the Atlantic, but, thanks to her cargo of timber, still remained afloat. She was towed bottom upwards into Berehaven, where a salvage contractor got the vessel to that again in her original position, with her decks upwards.

She was then towed to Queenstown, whence she will proceed to Cork to discharge her cargo.

To the Democratic Voters of Florida

I hereby announce myself as a Democratic candidate for the office of Governor in the primary of 1916.

I have embodied some of the State's most essential needs in the following platform which I herewith present for your consideration:

- 1—Let us put our County Officials upon a salary basis, paying them reasonable salaries and paying to the people at least a quarter million of dollars annually.
- 2—Let us have an equitable and just tax assessment, with a corresponding low rate of taxation, reduced to the minimum consistent with good business methods.
- 3—Let us have all Plats and Deeds filed with the County Assessor before being recorded, so that no property may escape assessment, and that the Assessment Roll may bear the name of the owner of the property and not be assessed as "unknown."
- 4—Let us remove the supervision of our Banks and Insurance Companies as far as possible from politics and place it in the hands of a Commission of experience.
- 5—Let us give publicity to all proposed legislation, by requiring all Bills except emergency measures (to be determined by a majority vote of both houses), to be filed with the Secretary of State at least SIXTY DAYS before each session convenes, so that the members of the Legislature and the people may have an opportunity of knowing what laws are likely to be passed, of discussing the same and instructing their representatives accordingly.
- 6—Let us inaugurate a plan of "RURAL FINANCE" adapted to our agricultural interests, enabling the actual farmer to obtain Capital, as well as Credit, at a low rate of interest for a long term of years, and devise some method of bettering the marketing facilities of our agricultural products.
- 7—Let us simplify our registration laws, making it as easy as possible for our citizens to qualify as voters, always having due regard for the purity of the Ballot.
- 8—Let us maintain in a liberal manner our charitable, educational and penal institutions, to the end that they may rank with the best in this country.

Finally, the only way to reduce taxes is to reduce public expenditures and the only way to reduce public expenditures is to treat the public business as you would your private business, paying well for efficient service and eliminating all useless officials.

I propose to make a State-wide campaign on these issues and publicly discuss them wherever and whenever an opportunity presents itself. I shall appreciate the support of all Democrats who believe with me in the principles as outlined in the above platform and if the people of Florida choose me as their Governor, I pledge myself to faithfully and truly represent them to the best of my ability and will at all times so execute the power of the office that the rights of all may be preserved insofar as the power lies in the office of Governor to do this.

Respectfully submitted,

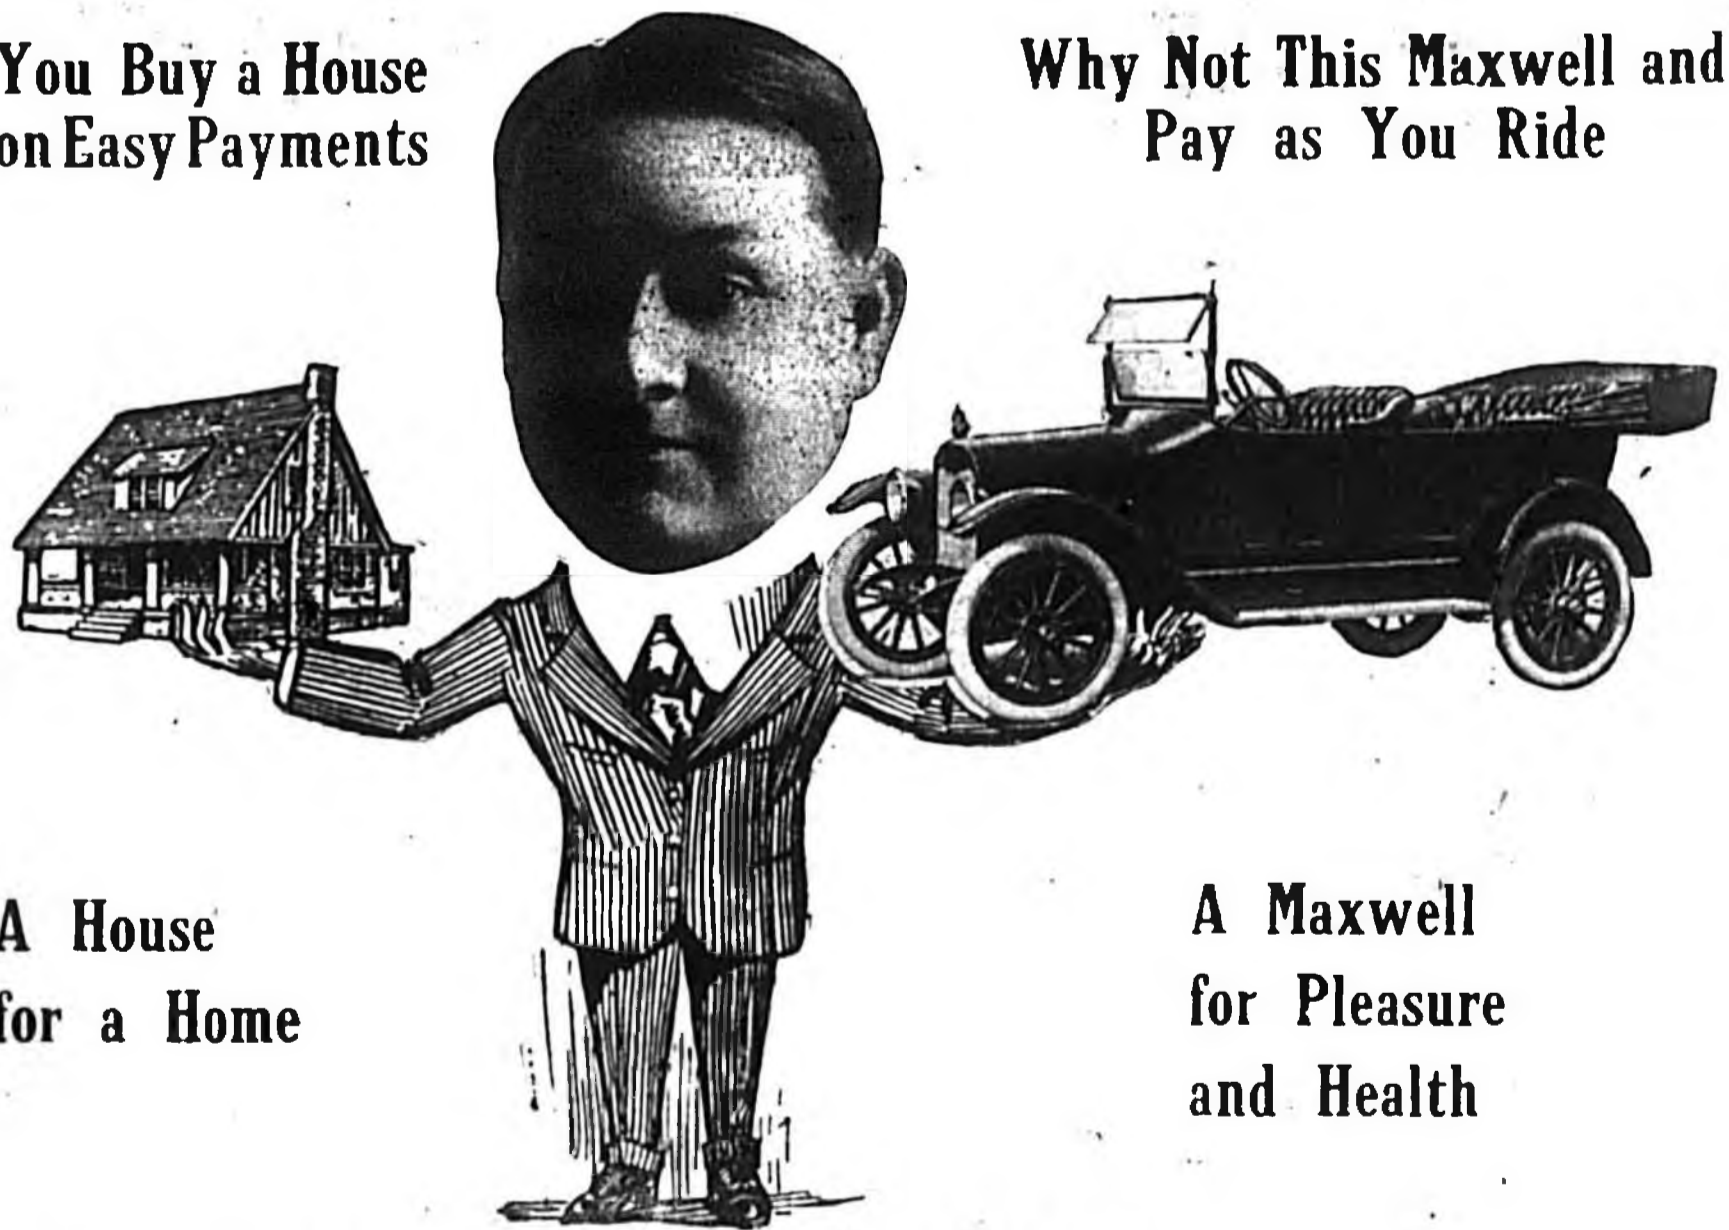

F. A. WOOD

One of the most brilliant and beautiful bridge parties of the season was given by Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, Wednesday afternoon at her attractive home on Park avenue. The rooms of the lower floor were on suite and tastefully decorated with an arrangement of gorgeous poinsettias and ferns. The prizes were unusually pretty, the first, a set of hand painted plates, falling to Mrs. Deane Turner; Miss Fish was presented with two dainty hankers; the second prize, and to Mrs. R. J. Holly was given the consolation, a pair of beautiful guest towels. A refreshment course consisting of chicken pate, asparagus salad, hot rolls, olives, pickles and coffee was daintily served.

Out of town guests were Mrs. G. H. Edwards and Mrs. J. S. McEwan of Orlando; Mrs. Alice Gorman of DeLand; Mrs. M. H. Mabry of Clearwater; Mrs. Harry Papworth of New York; Mrs. Chas. Bell of Atlanta. Others invited were Mesdames W. E. Watson, S. Puleston, B. W. Herndon, A. P. Connelly, Forrest Lake, Geo. D. Bishop, F. L. Miller, F. J. Gonzales, Geo. Davis Hart, G. F. Smith, W. R. Anno, Margaret Barnes, Cecil Gabbett, W. J. Thigpen, C. O. McLaughlin, Thomas A. Neal, S. E. Barrett, Cecil Butt, A. B. Wallace, Murray Wallace, Eugene Roumillat, LaVerne Hunt, J. B. B. Stryker, R. Spear, Miss Laura Fish, Miss Saldes Williams and Miss Annie Hawkins.

St. Agnes Guild. A pleasant meeting of St. Agnes Guild was held with Miss June Sturton Monday afternoon. The hours were spent informally with sewing. A delicious salad course was served by the hostess. Those present were Mrs. Gwynn Fox, Mrs. Annie Betts, Mrs. Braxton Perkins, Miss Martha Fox, Charlotte Hand, and Miss Williams.

Woman's Club. A charming event in which the ladies of the Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Tom Williams on Tuesday evening. The occasion was the presentation of the new program of the Missionary Society of the Methodist church. The large room was well adapted for entertaining and was decorated with plants of Mrs. DeLand's roses and ferns. Mrs. J. D. Parker presided, and during the evening several papers were read during the program. The papers were: "Woman's Club," by Mrs. Williams; "The Home," by Mrs. J. B. Marshall; "Woman of the Home," by Mrs. Charles Parker; "The Home," by Mrs. Charles Parker; "The Home," by Mrs. Charles Parker.

Home and For. Mrs. J. D. Parker presided and during the evening several papers were read during the program. The papers were: "Woman's Club," by Mrs. Williams; "The Home," by Mrs. J. B. Marshall; "Woman of the Home," by Mrs. Charles Parker; "The Home," by Mrs. Charles Parker.

successful not only in a social way but also financially a nice sum being cleared through the efforts of the ladies. Each guest was required to bring a silken bag with as many pennies as their ages represented and while it was whispered that some of the older ones did not make their ages public they placed the proper amount of pennies to their credit. Games, guessing contests and many other amusements assisted in whiling away the golden hours, and at a late hour delicious refreshments consisting of chicken salad, wafers, pickles and coffee were served and the guests departed with the feeling that the Presbyterian ladies knew the art of entertaining and applied it.

Floyd Henderson. Miss Anna Laura Floyd of Savannah and Mr. John T. Henderson of Sanford, Fla., were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents; No. 315 Waldburg street west. The Rev. T. B. Stanford of the Trinity Methodist Church officiated. The couple left last night for Florida, where they will reside. Savannah Morning News.

Auction Bridge. Mrs. B. W. Herndon charmingly entertained the Auction Bridge Club and two other tables of players on Monday afternoon in honor of visiting guests of the members. The beauty and fragrance of roses and violets tastefully arranged with ferns and palms added a charm to the pretty scene of graceful women beautifully groomed. To Miss Laura Fish was presented the club prize, a hand painted salt and pepper, while Mrs. Margaret Barnes won the guest prize, a cut glass powder box. At the refreshment hour a delicious salad course was served.

Constitutional. A constitutional New England supper was given at the Woodruff building on Tuesday evening, Saturday, January 14, 1916.

Facts About Furs. Although a great number of popular-priced furs masquerade under names that no actual animal claims as its own, there is no particular secrecy about it. One of the fur concerns, for instance, publishes a catalogue to inform customers just what they are actually buying. Alaska bear, for example, is the best Minnesota raccoon, colored a dark brown. Adelaido chin-chilla is the fur of a selected, soft-haired and delicately-colored Australian opossum; French ormline is the fur of the white hare of France; Baltic fox is the fur of a large hare of northern Europe; Iceland white fox is white Tibet lamb, combed until the hair is straight; Kamchatka fox is the fur of the northern timber wolf; Manchurian fox is the fur of a variety of half wild dog from Manchuria; Baltic lynx is the large Belgian hare; Finland lynx is a species of Australian kangaroo; Siberian pony is selected Russian cat skin; Hudson seal is muskrat skins of selected quality; and inland seal is the skin of selected French white hare.

Framing a Children's Code. The Missouri children's code commission appointed by Governor Major has organized its work of codifying all children's laws in the state, and of drafting needed new laws to be introduced in the legislature of 1917. Most of the work will be done at the state university through the department of law, sociology and political science. The entire commission of 21 members has been divided into subcommittees to handle various sections of the comprehensive outline of work modeled on the general outline sent out by the federal children's bureau. Considerable help is expected from the data the latter is collecting on children's laws throughout the United States. The expenses of the commission will be met by voluntary contributions. Rhodes C. Cave, judge of the St. Louis juvenile court, is chairman and Prof. Manley O. Hudson of the state university, secretary.

SYNOPSIS.

The morning after the finding of Wu Fank's body and Kennedy's disappearance, Marcus Del Mar, foreign agent, swims ashore from a submarine in the bay. His mission is to recover the lost torpedo. He wins the confidence of Elaine. She is warned by a little old man to be careful of Del Mar, who gets the torpedo, only to have it destroyed by the little old man. Jameson is captured by Del Mar's men. Elaine rescues him. Lieutenant Woodward and his friend Professor Arnold, attend a party given at the Dodge home, where, unknown to Del Mar, she is cutting the Atlantic cable she is made a prisoner. Jameson, in a hydro-aeroplane, saves her from drowning. Disguised as a man she discovers the entrance of Del Mar's wireless cable. She is saved by Jameson. Arnold and Woodward destroy the wireless station, but Del Mar escapes. In a deserted hotel in the woods Elaine discovers Del Mar's men at work. He is captured, but escapes. When the hotel is attacked the men retreat to the woods, where they enjoy a bonfire, defeating Lieutenant Woodward and his attacking party. Elaine receives a new flashlight gun from an unknown friend. Elaine discovers a bomb hidden by one of Del Mar's men. They take it to Professor Arnold's yacht. They are attacked by Del Mar and his men. The flashlight gun saves Elaine and Jameson who reach the yacht safely. Del Mar appears with a submarine and destroys the yacht with a torpedo. Professor Arnold and his party escape. Lured by a woman posing as a modiste Elaine is again captured by Del Mar and rescued by an old naturalist and Jameson as she is about to drift over a waterfall in a boat. Professor Arnold, in a desperate attempt to prevent Del Mar from stealing the harbor defense plans, makes Elaine the unconscious instrument to save them.

THIRTY-FIFTH EPISODE

In Del Mar's Cottage.

It was early the following morning that, very excited, Elaine and I showed Aunt Josephine the photograph which we had snatched and developed by using Kennedy's trick method.

"But who is it?" asked Aunt Josephine examining the print carefully and seeing nothing but a face masked and with a pair of hands before it. A seal ring on the little finger of one hand.

"Mr. I forgot that you hadn't seen the ring before," explained Elaine. "Why we knew him at once, in spite of everything by that seal ring. Mr. Del Mar?"

Mr. Del Mar repeated Aunt Josephine looking from one to the other of us incredulously.

"I saw the ring at his bungalow and on his own finger," reiterated Elaine positively.

"But what are you going to do now?" asked Aunt Josephine.

Have him arrested, of course, Elaine replied.

Still talking over the strange experience of the night before, we went out on the veranda.

Well of all the nervous incidents Elaine, catching sight of a man coming up the gravel walk. If that isn't Henry, Mr. Del Mar's valet!

The valet advanced as though nothing had happened and indeed I suppose that as far as he knew nothing had happened or was known to us. He bowed and handed Elaine a note which she tore open quickly and read.

"Would you go," she asked handing the note to me.

Dear Miss Dodge—
If you and Mr. Jameson will call on me today, I will have something of interest to tell you concerning my investigations in the case of the disappearance of Craig Kennedy.

Sincerely,
M. DEL MAR.

"Yes," I asserted, "I would go."
"Tell Mr. Del Mar we shall see him as soon as possible," nodded Elaine to the valet, who bowed and left quickly.

Aunt Josephine shook her head sagely in protest. But Elaine waved all her protestations aside and ran into the house to get ready for the visit.

Half an hour later two saddle horses were brought around to the front of Dodge Hall and Elaine and I saluted forth.

Del Mar, still continuing his nefarious work of mining American harbors and bridges had arrived at a scheme as soon as he returned from the attempt to get back from the Sandy Hook plans. Smith, who had stolen the plans from the war department, was still at the bungalow.

Early in the morning Del Mar had sent himself at his desk and wrote a letter.

"Here, Henry," he directed his valet, "take this to Miss Dodge."
As the valet went out, he wrote another note. "Read that," he said, handing it over to Smith. "It's a message I want you to take to the headquarters right away."

It was worded cryptically.

A. A. L.
N. Y.
Closely watched. Must act soon or all will be discovered.

He pressed the button on the desk and Smith left through the hidden passage. Down it he groped, and at the other end emerged. Seeing no one around, he made his way to the road. There seemed to be no one who looked at all suspicious on the road, either, and Smith congratulated himself on his easy escape.

On a bridge over a creek, however, as Smith approached, was one inoffensive looking person who might have been a minister or a professor.

Suddenly he saw something approaching. Instantly he dodged to the farther end of the bridge and took refuge behind a tree. Smith walked over the bridge, oblivious to the fact that he was watched. No sooner had he disappeared than the inquisitive stranger emerged again from behind the tree.

It was the mysterious Professor Arnold who many times had shown a peculiar interest in the welfare of Elaine and myself.

Evidently he had recognized Del Mar's messenger for after watching him a moment he turned and followed. At the railroad station, just before the train for New York pulled in, the waiting crowd was increased by one stranger. Smith had come in and taken his place unostentatiously among them.

But if he thought he was to be lost in the little crowd, he was much mistaken. Arnold had followed, but not so quickly that he had not had time to pick up the two policemen that the town boasted, both of whom were down at the station at the time.

There he indicated Arnold the fellow with the slight limp. Bring him to my room in the St. Germain hotel.

"All right, sir," replied the officers edging their way to the platform as Arnold retreated back of the station and disappeared up the street.

Just then the train pulled into the station and the passengers crowded forward to mount the steps. Smith was just about to push his way on with them when the officers followed through the crowd.

You're wanted, hessed one of them, seizing his shoulder.

But Smith in spite of his deformity was not one to submit to arrest without a struggle. He fought them and broke away running toward the baggage room.

As he rushed in they followed. One of them was gaining on him and took a flying football. The other at most fell over the twisted mass of metal and bars. The struggle now was simply a matter of time before the officers would catch up with him.

He had not as long to wait as he had expected. A knock sounded at the door and he opened it. There was Smith handcuffed and forced in by the two policemen.

Good work, commented Arnold, at once setting to work to search the prisoner who fumed but could not resist.

"What have we here?" drawled Arnold in mock courtesy and surprise as he found and drew forth from Smith's pocket a bundle of papers, which he hastily ran through.

"Ah," he muttered coming to Del Mar's note, which he opened and read. "What's this? A. A. L. N. Y. Close watch. Must act soon or all will be discovered. M. Now what's all that?"

Arnold pondered the text deeply. "You may take him away now," he concluded glancing up from the note to the officers. "Thank you."

All right, sir, they returned, prodding Smith along out.

Still studying the note, Arnold sat down at the desk. Thoughtfully he picked up a pencil. Under the letters A. A. L. he slowly wrote "Anti American League" and under the initial M the name, "Martin."

Now is the time, if ever, to use that new telephotograph instrument which I have installed for the war department in Washington and carry around with me," he said to himself, rising and going to a closet.

He took out a large instrument composed of innumerable coils and a queer battery of selenium cells. It was the receiver of the new instrument by which a photograph could be sent over a telegraph wire.

Downstairs, in the telegraph room of the hotel, Arnold secured the services of one of the operators.

"I wish you'd send this message right away to Washington," he said, handing in a blank he had already written.

The clerk checked it over. "The clerk checked it over: U. S. War Department, Washington, D. C. Wire me immediately photograph and personal history of Martin arrest."

ed two years ago as head of Anti-America League. ARNOLD.

As the message was ticked off, Arnold attached his receiving telephotograph instrument to another wire. It was a matter scarcely of seconds before a message was flashed back to Arnold from Washington:

Martin escaped from Fort Leavenworth six months ago. Thought to be in Europe. Photograph follows.

EDWARDS.
"Very well," nodded Arnold with satisfaction. "I think I know what is going on here now. Let us wait for the photograph."

He went over to the new selenium telephotograph and began adjusting it. Far away, in Washington, in a room in the war department where Arnold had already installed his system for the secret government service, a clerk was also working over the sending part of the apparatus.

No sooner had the clerk finished his preparations and placed a photograph in the transmitter than the buzzing of the receiver which Arnold had installed announced to him that the marvelous transmission of a picture over a wire, one of the very newest triumphs of science, was in progress. In the little telegraph office of the St. Germain, the clerks and operators crowded about Arnold, watching breathlessly.

"By Jove, it works!" cried one, no longer skeptical.

Slowly a print was being evolved before their eyes as if by a spirit hand.

At last the transmission of the photograph was completed and the machine came to rest. Arnold almost tore the print from the receiver and held it up to examine it.

A smile of intense satisfaction crossed his face.

"At last!" he muttered.

There was a photograph of the man who had been identified with the arch conspirator of two years before, Martin. Only, now he had changed his name and appeared in a new role.

It was Marcus Del Mar!

Already, in the library of the bungalow, Del Mar had summoned one of his trusted men and was talking to him, when Henry the valet, reentered after his trip to see us.

They're coming as soon as they can," he reported.

Del Mar smiled a cynical smile. "Good," he exclaimed triumphantly, then looking about at the electrical fixtures, added to the man: "Let us see where to install the thing."

He walked over to the door and put his hand on the knob then pointed back at the fixtures.

That's the idea, he cried. "You can run the line from the brackets to this doorhook and the mat. How's that?"

"Very clever," flattered the man putting on a heavy pair of rubber gloves.

Taking a pair of pliers and other tools from a closet in the library he began removing the electrical fixture from the wall. As Del Mar directed the man ran a wire from the fixture along the molding and down the side of a door where he made a connection.

In the meantime, Del Mar brought out a wire mat and laid it in front of the door where anyone who entered or left would be sure to step on it. The various connections made, the man placed a switch in the concealment of a heavily curtained window and replaced everything as he found it.

Thus it was that Elaine and I came at last to Del Mar's bungalow. I must admit to some mingling.

Preparations for our reception had just been completed and Del Mar was issuing his final instructions to his man when the valet, Henry, ran in hastily.

They're here, sir, now, he announced excitedly.

"All right, I'm ready," nodded Del Mar, turning to his man again and indicating a place back of the folds of the heavy curtains by the window. "You get back there by that switch. Don't move—don't even breathe. Now, Henry, let them in."

As his valet withdrew, Del Mar gazed about his library to make sure that everything was all right. Just then the valet reappeared and ushered us in.

"Good morning," greeted Del Mar pleasantly. "I see that you got my note, and I'm glad you were so prompt. Won't you be seated?"

"I've something at last to report to you about Kennedy," he said a moment later, clearing his throat.

replied, sitting down and explaining what Elaine and I had done.

The lieutenant listened gravely. "And," she concluded, "they wouldn't listen to me, Lieutenant. Can't you follow them and keep them out of trouble?"

Woodward, who had been listening to her attentively, jumped up as she concluded. "Yes," he cried, sympathetically, "I can. I'll go myself with some of the men from the post. If they get into any scrape, I'll rescue them."

Almost before she could thank him, Woodward had hurried from his office, followed by her. On the parade grounds were some men. Quickly he issued his orders and a number of them sprang up as he detailed them off for duty. It was only a moment before they returned, armed. An instant later three large touring cars from the fort swept up before the office of Woodward. Into them the armed men piled.

"Hurry—to the Del Mar bungalow," ordered the lieutenant, jumping up with the driver of the first car. "We must see that nothing happens to Miss Dodge and Mr. Jameson."

They shot away in a cloud of dust, followed hard by the other two cars, dashing at a breakneck speed over the good roads.

In the narrow, wooded roadway near Del Mar's, Woodward halted his car and the soldiers all jumped out and gathered about him as hastily he issued his directions.

"Surround the house first," he ordered. "Then arrest anyone who goes in or out."

They scattered, forming a wide circle. As soon as word was passed that the circle was completed, they advanced cautiously at a signal from Woodward, taking advantage of every concealment.

Around in the kitchen back of Del Mar's, Henry, the valet, had retired to visit one of the maids. He was about to leave when he happened to look out of the window.

"What's that?" he muttered to himself.

He stepped back and peered cautiously through the window again. There he could see a soldier, moving stealthily behind a bush.

He drew back further and thought a minute. He must not alarm us.

Then he wrote a few words on a piece of paper and tore it so that he could hold it in his palm. Next he hurried from the kitchen and entered the study.

Del Mar had scarcely begun to outline to us a long and circumstantial pseudo-investigation into what he was going to do when the door opened and he hurriedly turned to see who it was.

Escape, he said, apologized Henry, as Del Mar frowned. Then he noted that something was wrong.

At the valet said the words, he man and surreptitiously to hand to Del Mar the paper which he had written now folded up into a very small space.

I had turned from Del Mar when the valet entered, apparently to speak to Elaine, but in reality to throw them off their guard.

Under that cover I was able to watch the valet's progress from the tail of my eye. I saw Del Mar nod to the valet as though he understood that some warning was about to be conveyed. Although nothing was said, Del Mar was indicating by dumb show orders of some kind.

"I hope you'll pardon me, Miss Dodge," Del Mar deprecated, as the valet retreated toward the door to the kitchen and pantry. "But you see I have to be homekeeper here, too; it seems."

Actually, though he was talking to us it was in a way that enabled him, by palming something in his hand, I fancied, to look at it.

It must have been hard to read, for I managed by a quick shift at last to catch just a fleeting glimpse that it was a piece of paper he held in his hand.

What was it, I asked myself, that he should be so secret about it? Clearly, I reasoned, it must be something that was of interest to Elaine and myself. If I must act ever, I concluded, now was the time to do so.

Suddenly I reached out and snatched the note from his hand. But before I could read it Del Mar had sprung to his feet.

At the same instant a man leaped out from behind the curtains.

But I was on my guard. Already I had drawn my revolver and had them all covered before they could make another move.

"Back into that corner—by the window—all of you," I ordered, thinking thus to get them together, more easily covered. Then, handing the note, with my other hand, to Elaine, I said to her, "See what it says—quick."

Eagerly she took it and read aloud. "House surrounded by soldiers!" "Woodward," I cried.

Still keeping them covered, I smiled quietly to myself and took one step after another slowly to the door. Elaine followed.

I reached the door and I remember that I had to step on a metal mat to do so. I put my hand behind me and grasped the knob about to open the door.

ANOTHER GREAT MARGUERITE CLARK FILM COMING

Famous Players Star Triumphant in "Mice and Men"

Following her marvelous performance in the dual title role of the adaptation of "The Prince and the Pauper," the first of the inimitable Mark Twain's works to be transferred to the screen as a feature, Marguerite Clark appears as the star in the Famous Players Film Company's presentation of the popular theatrical success "Mice and Men," which will be the Paramount Picture at the Star tonight.

"Mice and Men," which was written by Madeleine Lucette Ryley was first presented at the Royal Academy in Manchester, England, in 1901. The tremendous success of the initial production led to its appearance in London, at the Lyric, where Sir Johnston and Lady Gertrude Forbes-Robertson scored a great hit. In this happy combination of comedy and pathos, the play enjoying the unique distinction of a twelve months' run. Annie Russell, the distinguished actress, starred in "Mice and Men" at the Garrick Theatre, in New York, in the season of 1904, which marked the first presentation of the play in the United States.

Miss Clark's exquisite daintiness in the role of Peggy is a fortunate thing to follow immediately upon her appearance as the sturdy Irish girl in "The Prince and the Pauper." The play is a masterpiece of dramatic art, and the opportunity for the star who changes from the staid and dignified to the rollicking and the grotesque, which human ingenuity is capable of. The remarkable display of versatility on the part of Miss Clark that has made her a tremendously popular everywhere that motion pictures are exhibited.

In "Mice and Men," Miss Clark has an unusual opportunity to do a double duty, not because during the course of this play, she not only every stage in the development of an orphan girl from her unfortunate and unhappy childhood to her ultimate destiny as a charming and graceful society lady. Then having reached maturity, she proceeds to break hearts as only a Marguerite Clark could. Her guardian, a philosopher, falls desperately in love with this delicate flower that has blossomed beneath the sun and soil of the same time to appear as a strong, sturdy, and self-reliant girl. The beauty and charm of the girl compare with the goodliness appeal to him in contrast to the studied wiles of another woman with whom he has come in contact.

The other woman's efforts result in a far more tragic end, which involves the death of an innocent young man, and the death of the girl. But there is a further barrier. The situation resolves itself into a battle of wits between the clever and mature student and the impetuous young hero who comes back from the war covered with glory. The question is, will hero worship and youthful impressionability conquer over the strong sense of gratitude which Peggy feels for the man whose unselfish devotion has lifted her from the obscurity of a number in the Foundling Home to her present enviable position in the social world.

The talented little star has among her supporting cast such distinguished players as Marshal Neilan, Clarence Handyside, Charles Waldron and Robert Conville.

"The Yellow Streak"

Lionel Barrymore, the popular stage and screen star, and Irene Hawley, the gifted dramatic actress, will be seen on the screen at the Star Theatre on Tuesday, Jan. 25, in "The Yellow Streak," a five act feature produced by the Rolfe Photo Plays Inc., for release on the Metro program. Many of the interesting scenes of this production are being shown in New York City, and the remainder in a picturesque quiet town of the far west. An excellent cast of stage and screen artists are seen in the support of the stars. Admission 5 and 15c.

"The Golden Chance" at the Star Monday

To Wallace Reid, who is costarred with Cleo Ridgely in "The Golden Chance," life is just one fight after another. Practically every picture Reid has been in for the past season has had to appear in fight scenes. In the Garlands Fox production of "The Golden Chance," he is to fight with axes with Winthrop Ames, a well known actor. The picture is a thrilling and exciting one. In "The Golden Chance," Reid is to play a man who is struck over the head by a bottle. The picture is a very exciting one and Reid will appear in a full suit of armor as his friends object to the occasional use of his sword. Admission 5 and 15c.

Will Lecture at Allen's Theatre

Monday night, Jan. 24th at eight o'clock Peter Collins of Boston, Mass., will deliver a free lecture and question box on "What's Wrong with the World."

Mr. Collins lecture is one of a series of lectures in the nationwide educational program of the Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus and the message of the lecturer is in the cause of God and Country, of civic righteousness and the general welfare. It is a clear and logical treatment of great problems confronting not only the people of America but vital to civilization and its advancement.

It is entirely free from bitterness and makes for a better understanding and a kindly feeling between all.

The lecture is given under the auspices of the Sanford Council, Knights of Columbus.

Optimistic Thought. The world hath need.

Why We Work.
Young friends, in whatever pursuit you may engage, you must not forget that the lawful objects of human efforts are but means to higher results and nobler ends. Start not forward in life with the idea of becoming mere seekers of pleasure--sportive butterflies searching for gaudy flowers. Consider and act with reference to the true ends of existence--E. H. Chaplin.

Glycerin for the Feet.
Doctor Henians, a well known French physician recommends the use of glycerin in cases of too profuse perspiration of the feet producing disagreeable odor. He says this is due to a production of poisonous substances by bacteria. One has only to apply glycerin to the soles of the feet every morning and the distressing trouble will disappear.

Laugh and Grow Well.
Gloom is not a virtue. Any more than the code of sanctity does not necessarily involve a long face and a long black frock coat and infrequent baths. Laughter is good medicine, both for the body and the mind. The man who laughs is likely to be a healthy man, and a happy man, and he is rarely a villain.

Man's Achievement.
Reflect upon the disproportion between the achievements of man and the use he puts them to. He invents wireless telegraphs and the telephone, and one another day and night he invents the dynamite machine and he will use it to advertise pills and drop bombs.

Por County Commissioner

Although it has been reported in the city that Hon. I. A. Brumley, county commissioner, Precinct No. 1, would not be a candidate to succeed himself for that office, Mr. Brumley states that he is not responsible for such report, and at the urgent request of a number of friends, announces that he will be a candidate and has his announcement appearing in the "Political Column" of today's Herald.

Two years ago Mr. Brumley was nominated to the office that he now holds and for the past thirteen months has given the people of Sanford (precinct) and the whole of Seminole county one of the very best administrations that was possible under the circumstances. Seminole county at that time undergoing a process of organization.

Being one of the first commissioners to be elected by the people, and though a "new hand at the business" Mr. Brumley fitted right in his place in the organization, and has made the county an able commissioner.

POTATOES WILL BRING GOOD PRICE

Department of Agriculture Warns Houswives of Price

The Department of Agriculture predicts top prices for southern grown potatoes in the coming spring.

The prudent housewife is warned by the Department of Agriculture to expect a rise in the price of potatoes and a large advance over last year's spring prices. The department says:

"Unusually small stocks of potatoes were held on January 1 in the important potato producing states. This is the reverse of conditions a year ago. Then stocks were unusually large and southern potato growers who compete in the spring months with stocks carried over in the northern states were warned to expect the low prices which prevailed last spring.

"Supplies on hand January 1, 1916, for markets are estimated to be about 18 per cent smaller than a year ago, 15 per cent smaller than two years ago, 30 per cent smaller than three years ago, but 16 per cent larger than four years ago.

"If for the purpose of comparison the estimates in percentage of marketable stocks of potatoes on January 1 be applied to the estimates of total production, it shows a total of 105,350,000 bushels on January 1, 1916, compared with 169,544,000 a year ago, 123,292,000 two years ago, 119,845,000 three years ago and 90,788,000 four years ago. These figures indicate that southern growers need not fear a burdensome competition with northern stocks of potatoes this spring.

"The United States," concludes the report, "eldom imports or exports relatively a large quantity of potatoes. Therefore, the European war has no material direct influence upon the potato market of the United States."

OLD SETTLERS' REUNION

STATE GROWS POTATOES

Prison Farm at Raiford Will Have 500 Acres Planted

The state of Florida will be the first to plant potatoes on its soil. Five hundred acres of the good land of the state has been put in some condition and the fertilizer is being put on for this crop. The 500 acres of land will be planted with potatoes.

Five hundred acres of land planted last year in cowpeas have been put in good condition and the planting will soon begin. Several tons of high grade fertilizer have been ordered for the crop.

Those Pre-Historic Bones

The Sanford Herald tells about somebody finding the bones of a pre-historic animal in the St. Johns river, and suggests that the authorities of the Smithsonian Institute at Washington be advised or invited to examine them.

Seven hundred and seventy-six convicts are held at the farm and many of these will be used in growing the potatoes. The work will be under the supervision of Mr. Smith an expert from Hastings.

It takes 2,000 pounds of sweet potatoes, 1 1/2 barrels of flour, 600 pounds of bacon, 400 pounds of corn meal, 250 pounds of grits, 25 gallons of syrup and 20 pounds of coffee every day to care for the prisoners at the farm and this with the exception of the flour and coffee will be grown on the farm this year. The Irish potatoes will be a source of revenue. Raiford Tribune.

Chairman Raney Thinks Action Was Warranted

introduced from Europe after the horses native to America had become extinct. In the somewhat older formations are found earlier, smaller and more primitive horses which were evidently the associates of the early mastodons, being embedded in the same deposits.

Dr. Sellards says the value to science of the fossil remains found imbedded in the earth is sometimes not fully appreciated. To the geologist fossils are not curios or objects of temporary interest, but are working tools since it is by them that the age of the deposits in which they occur is determined. Each formation and geologic time division is characterized more or less definitely by the animals and plants that were then living.

In most of the European countries the value of fossils to science is much more fully recognized than in America, and it is required by law that fossils when found be preserved.

It is very much to be hoped that in this country the true value of fossils may be more fully appreciated and that all that are found may be cared for. This is especially to be desired in Florida where the rapid developments that are taking place in progress result in excavations not only in connection with mining operations, but also in connection with the drainage of swamps and river dredging and other general improvements. These operations are bringing to light many animal remains that have been imbedded in the earth for ages, and it certainly would be exceedingly unfortunate if these were allowed to be destroyed. Tallahassee Record.

Big River Travel

The steamship City of Jacksonville of the Clyde St. Johns river line, left here yesterday afternoon for Sanford with every berth taken and ten other persons, who would have been passengers, left behind until the next boat because of insufficient accommodations. Every boat of this line going down the river during the past two weeks has been crowded almost to capacity with tourists, according to Herman G. Wenzel, Florida passenger agent for the Clyde Steamship Company.

"Such a condition is unusual for this season of the year, and is proof of the growing popularity of the Clyde river trips with the winter visitors," he said. "During the summer months when the Clyde line was offering $35 round trip rates from New York to Jacksonville and up the river, nearly every boat was crowded to capacity every time it left here, but the heavy demand for passage from winter tourists at this time of the year is unusual. Times-Union.

Rollins College Boy of the Olden Time Who Has Made Good

One of the most pleasant and enjoyable occurrences of my recent visit to Honolulu was the meeting of Mr. J. Word Caldwell and his estimable wife, residents of that city and of having delightful association with them during my stay in the place.

Mr. Caldwell was a student of Rollins College in its early days, registering from Sanford where his family resided, he being the only son of the late Dr. Frank Caldwell, former Chief Surgeon of the Atlantic Coast Line-Railway Company. His mother is a member of the faculty of Queens College of Charlotte, North Carolina.

He attended Rollins for two years, leaving us at the close of the school year of 95-96. I had seen him a year later, but not again until our recent meeting. He was one of our smaller boys, good natured, playful, fond of fun, and an intimate friend of Rex Beach who was a student here at the same time. In Honolulu I found the boy grown into a man, and the Hon. J. Word Caldwell, Ex-Superintendent of Public Works, a position ranking next to that of the Governor of the territory—a wide awake, most energetic man, and one of the city's foremost citizens. He is now associated with the leading construction company of Honolulu as constructing engineer.

There will be no reconvening of the State Democratic Executive Committee to reconsider the famous resolution describing the qualifications of a Democratic elector in the approaching primary election, according to an announcement which has just been mailed to all members of the state committee by Chairman George P. Raney from Tampa. Chairman Raney declares that he cannot call together another meeting of the committee upon the strength of seven requests from the committee men of whom there are fifty-one in the state.

In a lengthy article on the subject Chairman Raney attempts to explain that there is no just reason for much of the discussion that has resulted from the adoption of the resolution setting forth that if the entire resolution is considered, and not only parts of it, there can be no serious objections in the minds of fair minded and loyal Democrats.

In this connection he says: "Fairly and reasonably construed this resolution in my opinion correctly sets forth the qualifications of a Democrat. In some instances which have come under my observation it has been attacked by persons who were misinformed with respect to the true and correct wording of the resolution, in some instances by persons who have in good faith misinterpreted its true intent, and in some instances the resolution has, in fact, been purposefully misquoted, with the evident intention to mislead and prejudice and in other instances—unintentionally and through carelessness—misquoting and placing upon the resolution by those who would seal themselves in opportunity by appeals to prejudice and intolerance rather than to reason.

The resolution, in order to ascertain its true intent and meaning, must be considered as a whole and not as isolated parts.
