Sechrist Murder Suspect Probed

Sanford detectives William Lykens and Roy Williams have returned from Knoxville, Tenn., where they continued their investigation into a man identified as Ewing Williams, 40-year-old Knoxville, who was apprehended and charged by federal officials with interstate transportation of a stolen car.

The vehicle, a 1966 Comet, was owned by John Sechrist, 77-year-old World War I veteran, who resided at 2418 Cedar Avenue.

Sechrist was stabbed and killed in a bedroom of his home some time shortly before Feb. 10, when his body was discovered by Sanford police, investigating his disappearance.

Williams was arrested on federal charges after he was captured in possession of Sechrist's car.

The vehicle was taken from Sanford about the time of Sechrist's disappearance, along with the dead man's wallet.

Chief Ben Butler, in discussing the Tennessee trip by his investigators, said Lykens would consult with the state attorney today relative to the evidence which may lead to action against Williams by Sanford authorities.

Lykens told Chief Butler that Williams had indicated to federal authorities he is willing to plead guilty to a stolen car charge.

Alcoholism Cure Seminar Target

"We feel the American culture is pretty much wrapped up with the concept that when you start drinking you should really get drunk," says Ruth Sanchez, chief community assistant, National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

Miss Sanchez addressed the Florida School of Alcohol Studies yesterday, explaining the new federal program on alcoholism and its philosophy. The school is at Florida Technological University.

"Drinking is here to stay... what we'd like to advocate is more responsible drinking in our culture."

The national institute will launch a mass campaign in a few months including the slogan, "If you need a drink to be social, that is not social drinking."

The national office has received criticism for this philosophy from groups which advocate total abstinence and a non-restrictive use of alcohol.

Miss Sanchez says $50 million has been appropriated to combat alcoholism under the Hughes Act for fiscal '72, but has not been appropriated by the Office of Management and Budget. The sum of $20 million is earmarked for formulas given to the states and $30 million for project grants. Each state must have a plan which will be reviewed by the Washington office.

In Florida, this plan is presently being drafted by the Bureau of Alcohol Rehabilitation, Avon Park. The national institute requires grant proposals from communities to have evaluation of the responsible state office.

The drinking driver, the Indian population and other minority groups, the alcoholic employee, and the chronic drunkness offender will be specific target groups of the national office.

Askew Names Chairman Tax Drive Stepped Up

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - Gov. Reubin Askew today named millionaire businessman Ben Hill Griffin to lead his Nov. 2 corporate income tax election campaign, and said he personally would "devote full time" to the effort.

Although faced with new opposition from the Florida Jaycees to the tax, Askew said he was optimistic of its passage and insisted his stepped up activities did not amount to a change in strategy.

However, Askew told a news conference he had decided to cancel plans to attend the National Governors Conference in San Juan, Puerto Rico, later this month "in order to devote full time to the Nov. 2 referendum and other state business."

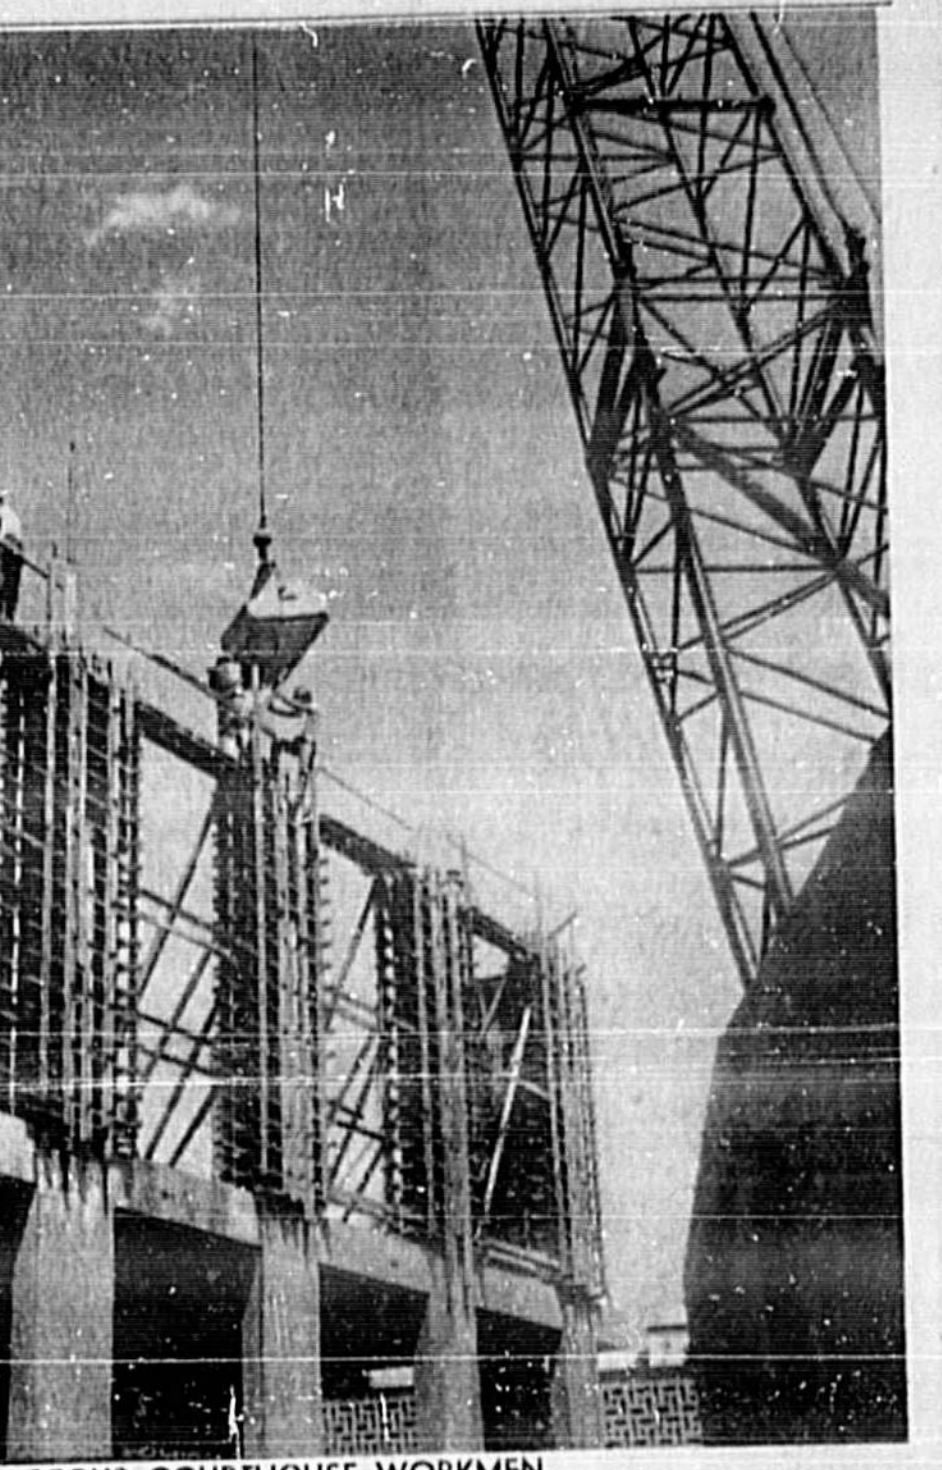

In Griffin, a former State Senate Democrat and one of the wealthiest barons of the citrus industry, Askew selected one of the state's biggest businessmen. Griffin, of Frostproof, will serve as chairman of the Citizens for Tax Reform, whose "40 to 50 Tax Reform" members will be announced next week, Askew said.

"Its membership will demonstrate broad support from Florida's business community - as well as from other taxpayers who for so long have been victims of an inequitable tax system," Askew said.

The governor named J. Vern Williams, a Tallahassee accountant, as treasurer of the new group, and pointed out he was former state vice president and national director of the Jaycees.

On Nov. 2, Askew said, "The people of Florida will decide whether large multi-state corporations should be required to pay their fair share of state taxes."

Voters will be faced with a proposed amendment to the State Constitution allowing a tax of 5 per cent on the income of corporations. If it passes, Askew plans to call a special legislative session soon after to seek implementation beginning Jan. 1.

County Blamed For Loss Port Traffic (?) Is Aired

James Ryan, Seminole County Port Authority (SCOPA) administrator, today answered a letter from a Sanford City commission member addressed to Harold Kattner, SCOPA chairman, over the lack of large traffic being generated for the Port of Sanford.

The letter, from City Commissioner Julian Stenstrom, was read before the Seminole County Commission at a Tuesday night session devoted to approval of SCOPA's budget. (Related story on page 2A.)

Stenstrom wrote he had received many telephone calls from Sanford taxpayers inquiring why "there has been no significant barge traffic in and out of the port since the facility was opened a year ago."

He said he contacted Ryan and discussed the situation but "am still at a loss to understand why no efforts are being made by Ryan or the Authority to employ a solicitor to visit hundreds and hundreds of firms contacted by Lockwood Green, engineers, during the 1967 feasibility study and who indicated they would utilize the facility if and when it became a reality."

Stenstrom concluded his letter with observation "... to date, no solicitation, according to Mr. Ryan has been done."

Ryan today replied to the Stenstrom letter and a copy was obtained by The Herald.

In regards to hiring a solicitor, the administrator informed the commission that "over the objections of two SCOPA directors, it was decided to seek a solicitor... but the County Commission wanted no time in striking the required monetary request from our proposed budget, along with slashing other monetary requests that are specifically required for full implementation of a progressive and profitable port authority operation."

Ryan said he was surprised to learn of the numerous telephone calls received by Stenstrom relative to the port's affairs and added his office has yet to receive the first such call. Ryan continued "... at no time was a feasibility study ever conducted" as referred to by Stenstrom.

The administrator added that a preliminary engineering study was conducted based almost entirely on the completion of the proposed Cross-State Barge Canal and the St. Johns-Indian River Canal.

Ryan concluded with observation that "any remote chance of a successfully operated port facility in a reasonable length of time was doubtless blown away by the stoppage of the two waterway projects."

With his demise, it is reasonably estimated that at least 75 per cent of the potential of Port of Sanford has been eliminated, Ryan said.

Cable Television Will Be Studied

By MARION BETHA

NORTH ORLANDO - The municipality has decided to study various ordinances relating to cable television and then to request bids.

During the past several months, representatives of several cable television companies have made presentations to Village Council.

Mayor Granville Brown has told council that the federal government will initiate studies beginning the first of the year on the amount of percentage the cities may derive on cable television franchises, and will also "separate the wheat from the chaff."

Mayor Brown said that he had spoken with several people in various municipalities relative to ordinances, and Village Attorney Thomas Freeman was requested to draft a request for bids from the various TV companies.

It was stated that Florida Land Company is in favor of the cable TV in its PUD development in the village.

The bids will be requested pursuant to the specifications embodied in the documents of the City of Matland, used as a guideline.

Council will decide what the municipality wants in the ordinance and will then request the bids. The matter has been placed upon the agenda for the Sept. 13 meeting of council.

In another matter, a request has been deferred to park a camper trailer while a new issue is being built by a resident.

North Vietnam Fights Floods; Food Crops Said Destroyed

By GEORGE ESPER
 Associated Press Writer

SAYON (AP) — North Vietnam has mobilized thousands of troops and civilians to fight the country's worst floods since World War II. Hanoi Radio reported today.

The broadcast made no mention of what effect the overflow of the Red and Thanh Binh rivers, in the northern part of the country, might have on supplies and replacements for the Communist forces in South Vietnam. But it said flood crops had been destroyed, roads washed out, and transportation and communications disrupted.

Premier Pham Van Dong said military and civilian forces have "in the main triumphed over the flood and averted off a big disaster."

North Vietnam now "must concentrate all forces to overcome the consequences of the floods in agriculture and communications and transport," he declared. "All capabilities must be mobilized."

Dong called for increased cultivation of the winter crop in areas not hit by the high water and replanting in the stricken regions.

"On the communications and transport front," he continued, "we must restore the main roads to traffic in the shortest period of time, and mobilize all forces to make the fullest use of the paramount role of communications and transport in the present conditions of the national economy and the people's life."

"Another extremely urgent task is to give adequate care to the life of the people in the flood-stricken areas as regards food, housing, and disease prevention."

Dong made no mention of casualties, nor did he give any damage estimates. But he said the flood, which was swamped by monsoon rains, was "seven bigger than that of 1945 which was a catastrophe."

"Floodwaters from upstream have caused the water in the entire system of the Red River and Thanh Binh River to rise to an unprecedented level, while heavy downpours in the delta caused added difficulties for the defense of the delta system," Dong said. "The water level remains high and the weather may change abruptly."

Dong spoke at a rally in Hanoi, celebrating the 26th anniversary today of the founding of North Vietnam.

Southeast Asia's biggest river, the Mekong, has flooded parts of Laos and Thailand, but the crest has not made its way down to Cambodia and South Vietnam yet.

'Port Holding A Bad Can Of Worms'

By LARRY NEELY

The budget for the Seminole County Port Authority (SCOFA) was approved by the Seminole County Commission which lowered slightly the millage to support the port. The millage was set by the Commission at 16 mill which compares to the 17 mill for last year. (Herald story on page 1.)

The Commission's action served to reduce the operating budget by nearly $20,000 from what it is for the current year due to the reduction in the cash balance carried forward by the port from its 1969-70 fiscal year. SCOFA had requested the Commission to set the millage at 22 mill to generate $125,000 for the port.

SCOFA consisted only two items in the budget for the 1971-72 fiscal year. The Commission authorized $5,000 for construction of an office facility at the port. SCOFA attorney William Hutchison told the Commission they were uncertain if they could get their office in or immediately adjacent to the warehouse at the port. He said attempts to ascertain the legality of such action from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, which made a loan to SCOFA to build the port, had only added to the confusion.

Hutchison said as it stands, the $5,000 will not be enough for a year's lease at SCOFA's present location nor will it pay for the cost of the building needed. He said SCOFA will have difficulty obtaining a loan from a bank since the millage to support the port is subject to change.

The other item SCOFA appealed was the five per cent budgeted by the Commission for contingency. Hutchison said it is unrealistic since many unknown expenditures will be faced by SCOFA in the coming year. He said most of the other budget items approved by the Commission included a 10 per cent contingency, which, Hutchison said, would be more reasonable.

Sanford City Commissioner Julius Stromstrom, appearing as a concerned citizen, asked the Commission to include funds in the budget for a solicitor to seek out traffic and business for the port. Stromstrom cited the feasibility study which had been prepared when the port was under consideration and said there is no reason, but the lack of active solicitation, for more traffic at the port.

The Commission stood fast on its position and passed the budget for SCOFA as it was prepared during the budget session. Commission Chairman Greg Drummond reacted to the comments preceding the decision by saying SCOFA is doing the best it can "with a bad can of worms."

Shoemaker Elected Airport Unit Sits

By BILL SCOTT

Sanford Airport Authority held its first meeting for organizational and planning purposes at a Wednesday luncheon and selected officers to head the seven-man group chosen a week ago by city commissioners utilizing a "secret ballot."

With four members of the defunct Sanford Industrial Commission (SIC) on the authority, it appeared the city's dying industrial board was being re-incarnated with the action of A. K. Shoemaker Jr., as chairman and John Mercer as vice chairman of the new board.

Both men hold the same positions with the SIC. The City Commission decided to "kill" that board effective Oct. 1, date the authority becomes activated under a special legislative act.

Other officers named to the "new" board is Dr. Robert Rosemond, secretary, J. S. (Red) Cleveland was retained as airport manager and W. C. Security attorney.

Cleveland said Page Airways Inc., the airport's fixed base operator, indicated it would be willing to help in the tower staffing. The manager advised it would be at least a year before tower operation would be an actuality.

To receive federal funds for tower operation the local airport would need 25,000 flights a year.

Since the local air activity is far from the required amount, Cleveland said the FAA would not fund the tower operation, which would require $25,000 to $30,000 a year to staff.

Also discussed at the preliminary session was whether the FAA would allow the expenditure of funds generated at the airport for construction of new buildings for industry.

It seemed to be the consensus from Hutchison and Cleveland that such expenditures might be allowed under certain ground rules, such as the type industry being sought, and how much excess funds are available.

In addition to Shoemaker, Mercer and Dr. Rosemond, other authority members are John Fitzpatrick, John Daniel, Joe Baker and Scott Burns.

Freeman said that the issue of sanitation is a critical one in the county and that a check should be made with the State Board of Health, since there are rigid requirements within the municipal limits. Freeman warned against being in the position of granting a request for something against the state law.

New Equipment Bid By Altamonte Springs

By MARION BETHA

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — City Council has authorized the accounting firm of Greene and Treves to audit the city's books for the nine-month period ending Sept. 30.

Council also has authorized the purchase of a new pump and additional equipment for an estimated cost of $6,000. This is in addition to $1,200 for a radio.

Mayor Lawrence Swofford said Council that the city has a new policy that anything added to the city's books must be the city's own money.

Also authorized in a request by Bundy was advertisement for a new tractor-trailer or trailer "under $4,000." This has been included in the budget for the next fiscal year.

Council also authorized advertisement for bids for fire equipment requested by Chief Gary Kaiser. This includes 3,000 feet of hose for a new pumper and additional equipment for an estimated cost of $6,000. This is in addition to $1,200 for a radio.

Mayor Lawrence Swofford said Council that the city has a new policy that anything added to the city's books must be the city's own money.

Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore today told the City Commission, at a special session, that research has found that a municipal mayor can remove Housing Authority Board members if they are found guilty of inefficiency.

Moore said these charges must be filed by the tenants and those persons charged have the right of an attorney.

Moore, looking at his fellow commissioners, said that if it comes to this that he (Moore) wouldn't be doing this alone.

Mayor Swofford 'Down On Insurance Companies' • Municipal Employees' Insurance Plan Postponed

By MARION BETHA

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — City Council has continued until next week a decision upon proposals for group insurance for municipal employees.

Mayor Lawrence Swofford prefaced a discussion of proposals by the statement that "I'm not going to talk on insurance companies."

Councilman Keith Nixon said that several group plans had been submitted by various companies but as a general rule the companies do not want to underwrite municipalities. Nixon said that the proposals did not compare with the city's present insurance plan since "we don't have the proper insurance now."

Nixon explained that the insurance companies contend that the national wage and price freeze prohibits making a change in the city's insurance program since the city would be paying a larger premium affording more benefits to the employees. This, he said, would, in effect, be giving the employees a raise according to the insurance companies.

A question was raised over whether the insurance companies could escalate rates and City Attorney S. J. Davis Jr. said that he had received two conflicting opinions on the matter.

Davis has been authorized to prepare a resolution incorporating a job classification and pay schedule.

Mayor Swofford contended that the matter was based on the prevailing rate which existed 10 days prior to Aug. 15.

During the week Nixon is to study further proposals and make a recommendation to the council.

A slight controversy arose over the variation schedule incorporated in the classification for the employees. After six months service they will receive a five day paid vacation, and with one to 10 years service 10 days.

Councilman Thomas Radloff contends that this is inequitable with respect to the ten years service, and that he knew of no one who received five days vacation after working six months.

Swofford alluded to the fact it would be difficult to retain employees unless the policy is adopted and that the city has "to keep in line to keep good employees."

He continued that these persons will be lost if they are not properly paid and receive good benefits.

Presently employees accumulate one day for each month worked toward vacation and receive 10 days sick leave.

Time For School Busing Clarification

If anybody is looking for an apt phrase to describe the present state of affairs in regards to the busing of school children to attain racial balance, he might turn to John Milton's 1667 classic, "Paradise Lost."

For in that tremendous literary effort the English poet looked into a circumstance and described it as "confusion worse confounded."

It is not that precisely what has been achieved with rulings by the Supreme Court, spiced by some remarks by the President of the United States and now by a new statement from the Chief Justice Warren E. Burger?

Many public schools have opened. Most others will start their classes next week. Thus the calendar time for any interpretations of busing regulations could not have been worse for actions and decisions by de-belled school boards.

While not intending to become involved in the busing troubles which have caused and are causing such havoc in our neighboring Orange County's endeavors to open its schools, we do commiserate.

It is obvious that the ones who truly suffer from the busing confusion are not the school officials, or even the teachers, but the pupils themselves.

With education embroiled in the most severe self-examination and tough surveys by taxpayers who are trying to discover just what their tax dollars have bought, it is more than regrettable that the national leadership has not been able to speak out clearly, without equivocation, and honestly to produce hard and fast guidelines.

But they have not.

Take this sequence of events. There was the most recent of the Supreme Court decisions dealing with busing problems on April 20th. In it — the Charlotte-Mecklenburg County, N.C. case — the ruling was that busing of pupils was not only constitutional but sometimes necessary to eliminate dual or racial but sometimes necessary to eliminate dual or segregated school systems imposed by the states. A hard line indicated.

Then there were the words from President Nixon when he not only expressed his opinion that busing of pupils should be kept at a minimum and let the local school officials who did not see it this way would not be bothered with a government job for long.

The flap over this extended to the Health, Education and Welfare Department, presided over by Elliot Richardson, who was on vacation when the Nixon remark was made and on Tuesday of this week, entered in a long talk with his chief and expressed to say he agreed and agreed completely with the Nixon attitude.

Then came the ruling made by Chief Justice Burger on Aug. 31st, acting as administrator of the Fourth U.S. Circuit Court (the Supreme Court is not in session) in which he used the following words: "... the constitutional command to desegregate schools does not mean that every school in every community must always reflect the racial composition of the school system as a whole." How's that?

If there ever was a time when pussy-footing should be discarded and straight, plain clear policy made this surely is it and the problem of forced pupil busing to achieve desegregation is the issue.

Already the shadow of presidential election year for long.

One such incident, nudging every political planer into old-new territory, is the emergence of Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama into the limelight as an ally of Nixon's "minimum busing policy" who would like to help.

But the issue should not be political. It is the basic responsibility of government to educate the young people and to do so with a preponderance of local guidance.

Local guidance, nevertheless, needs to have some new and clear road rules so that this prime responsibility and opportunity may be pursued at once and with dispatch!

Fair Sex - FBI

Two women who apparently meet all the qualifications for becoming FBI agents except one are all set to challenge the legality of their exclusion.

The women, both young lawyers, say they have been turned down for the job because they are women. One of them, Mrs. Cynthia Edgar, alleges that an FBI personnel man told her applications from women are not considered because "women do not command enough respect" and "could not handle combat situations."

If it is FBI practice to automatically reject women applicants, it is obviously unfair. Men may be better suited for certain phases of FBI work, but it follows that there are other phases that could be done as well and even better by women.

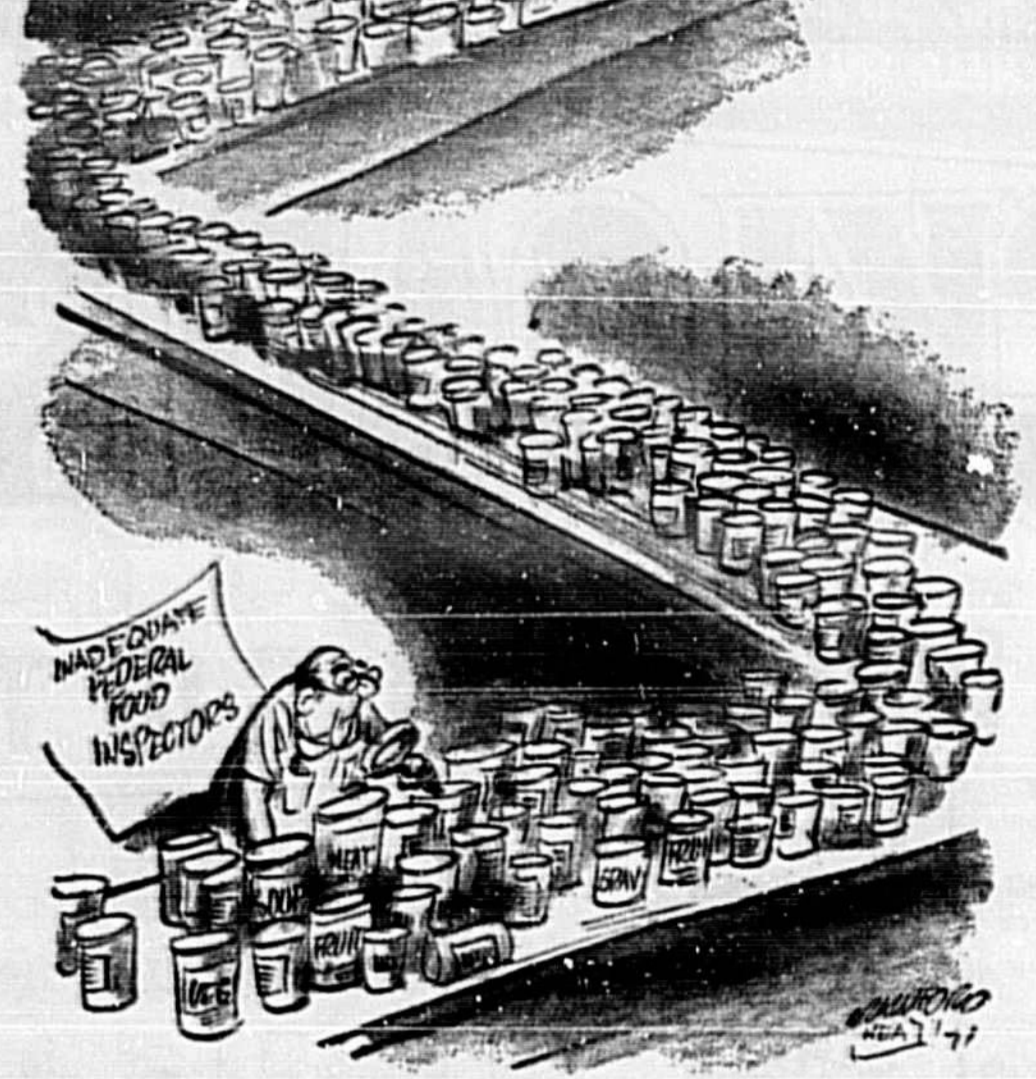

Women, after all, have been known to commit crimes the same as men. So why shouldn't women have a place in crime fighting the same as men. There's no reason to think that women's investigative talents are inferior to men and a woman FBI agent could just as well conduct those routine security checks on pending federal applicants.

Anyway, it's surprising that Mrs. Edgar is having difficulty. If she ever does get on the FBI payroll, watch out. A name like that can take her right to the top and keep her there forever. — Florence (S.C.) Morning News

"What if you don't have a thing worth wearing? A married woman isn't expected to look like a fashion model."

"Mom, I'm in a rush. Can you sew this button on real quick?"

"What do you need a cleaning woman for anyway? I'll do it myself. I'm not a woman thing ought to be able to do everything a modern house needs in a couple of hours a day."

"I wouldn't buy that one. Mother, it makes you look too young."

"What do you mean—I'd get down on my knees when I proposed to your mother? What happened when she chased me until I ran out of wind, 'natch' just the way it was, Madge?"

"Mom, I'm in a rush. If you don't drive me to school I'll be late."

"Other wives seem able to make out a household budget and live within it. Why can't you?"

Schoolmen Must Set Goals

By KENNETH J. RABEN
Copley News Service

Ballyhoo for establishing public school goals and priorities is building in the midst of a crisis of confidence in education.

Prices are up, jobs down. Children are so busy with education and driver training they don't learn how to read and do arithmetic well enough to get along in the world.

While schoolmen regulate their activities with the best interests of educational goals and public priorities, taxpayers question the cost and where money will be found to pay for this latest round of pedagogic gamesmanship.

Public opinion polls to the contrary, a parent's sole concern about education is his child's progress. In terms of depth, parents are more concerned about school swimming pools than esthetic education issues.

Few care about the lost of educational impediments other are burning public in education. What little discussion has been generated among taxpayers results from the efforts of the few schoolmen able to persuade the public that it is in the child's best interest to share these concerns.

The real problem is that the philosophic concept of public schools runs counter to the parent's singular interest in himself and his children.

Those in the burgeoning education complex have done all they can to keep parents at arm's length. Teachers and administrators have said they know what is best for children.

Spend Savings, Nixon Aim

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Look carefully at the figures. That's the percentage the average American is now saving out of his income — 2 to 2.5 percentage points higher than normal.

That's what Nixon's economic aim is. At they say it is the fox in the chicken coop, the reason recovery is limping, not booming along with the economy.

Nixon's men say if Americans — all of us — were spending as much of our incomes as we customarily have done, this would fuel the economy another $14 billion annually.

Increased spending would in turn spur businessmen to boost their purchases of new plant and machinery.

Except for consumer spending, the economy is coming along nicely. So much so that

Nixon Must Obey Law, Duval Says

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Duval County School Board, saying that a President must obey the law as any other citizen, has asked a federal court to overrule President Nixon's order outlawing the use of federal funds for using children.

Will Florida Cows Eat New 'Fodder'?

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A Florida A&M University professor is conducting an experiment to see if cows will produce nutritious meat and milk by eating fodder fertilized with specially treated human waste.

His only concern, says Dr. Lee Evans, is whether the cows will eat it.

"We know the composition of a crop is determined by the nutrients that go into the crop," he said. "Our concern here is if we use these nutrients on the crop will the cows eat it?"

The nutrients, nitrates and phosphates, are vital to human health and exist in abundance in human waste, he said.

"We do know that in many foreign countries they do use human sewage on crops but they don't treat it," Evans said. "Our purpose is to recycle this so the chemical element can be used over and over."

Tallahassee was considered an ideal place for the experiment because treated sewage waste water, containing nutrients but free of harmful bacteria, is returned to the soil from giant sprinklers at the sewage plant.

Evans, a professor of animal science, said an experimental crop of sorghum irrigated by treated waste water and rich in nutrients was grown at the plant and is presently fermenting in FAMU silos.

The ripe silage will be fed to university cows starting next week.

"I have high hopes that this will be quite practical in application," Evans said. "The suit said."

Recalled Soup Hunt Stepped Up In State

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida food inspectors, scrutinizing shipments of "possibly dangerous" Campbell's vegetable soup said they have seized 33 cans in Clearwater and Pensacola.

Florida officials stepped up surveillance in other counties today hoping to intercept cans which carried the code 13C77B1X — the shipment recalled by Campbell Soup Co.

State Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner said Wednesday 30 such cans were found in one Clearwater supermarket and 11 in two Pensacola stores.

A. W. Morrison, a State Division of Health Officer in Jacksonville, said some cases found in Miami supermarkets bore the code number of the recalled shipment.

Dade Health Department of flow John Eckoff said Wednesday a 719-cash shipment received by a Miami dealer was undergoing an investigation. He said the cases, Campbell's Paris, Tex. plant, source of the recalled shipment.

The soup company did not specify the type of contamination that may exist in the vegetable, but Conner's office said the U.S. Food and Drug Administration told it the soup could carry the deadly bacteria organism.

Campbell's recall this week, the second for soups canned at its Paris, Tex., plant, was directed at only nine states — and did not include Florida — but one of them was Alabama. Warehouses in Mobile, Montgomery and Dothan, Ala., ship to Florida stores, Conner said.

Earlier, the company recalled a shipment of chicken vegetable. Removal of that type from shelves in Florida is 99 to 99 per cent complete, he said.

With Nixon On Freeze Labor Set To Bargain

By NEIL GILBRIDE
 AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government report today on wholesale prices could give the first inkling of how President Nixon's wage-price freeze is working.

The Labor Department report covers August wholesale prices of food and a broad range of industrial raw materials and manufactured goods. The freeze was in effect for about half the reporting period.

Meanwhile, organized labor's chief spokesman George L. Sany, gave the first direct hint he is willing to bargain with the White House over Nixon's economic plans to follow the freeze which ends Nov. 13. But he declined immediate elaboration.

In other developments: — The government said it will exempt $1.5 billion worth of goods from the 10-per-cent import surcharge. Acting after some small importers said they would be bankrupt if forced to pay the 10 per cent, the Treasury Department exempted merchandise on route to the United States before the freeze, any tied up by the West Coast dock strike and any held in bonded warehouses or foreign transit zones.

— The president of the National Education Association, Donald E. Morrison said a statement by Treasury under secretary Charles E. Walker that most teacher raises would not be permitted was an "individual view." Walker's statement was made to congressmen, and Morrison said the NEA disagrees: "We continue to assert that many, if not most, of the nation's teachers will probably qualify under the official guidelines."

— In San Clemente, Nixon ordered postponement until Feb. 15 of all blue-collar federal workers' pay raises. At the same time, he asked Congress to uphold his proposal that white-collar workers not get any hikes in pay until July 1, 1972.

— Meany, in turning down an invitation to testify before the Senate-Economic Committee, said: "To telegraph our positions in detail now would not be good negotiating strategy."

— But he hinted labor will demand that any further controls include profits, dividends and interest along with wages and prices. Labor sources also indicated a strong bid to win back for workers any wage hikes held up by the 90-day freeze.

— Meany accused Nixon of making a mess of the nation's economy but in a letter to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate-Economic Committee, said he believes Americans would accept fair economic controls.

'Moon Coins' Sale Probed

By EDMOND LEBRETON
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A private firm's offer of moon coins said to contain silver taken to the moon's surface on a U.S. space flight has been questioned by Chairman Leonor K. Sullivan of the House consumer affairs subcommittee.

The Missouri Democrat said she was told by NASA the metal, involved in a promotion by the private Franklin Mint of the private Franklin Mint of the Center, Pa., didn't go to the moon at all. But it did circle the moon in the Apollo 14 command module.

Rep. Sullivan exchanged correspondence with the space agency about the propriety of providing earth-moon transportation for medals intended for private use.

NASA's response was forwarded to the Federal Trade Commission, she said, with a suggestion it might want to pursue the matter "under the new doctrine of the commission in calling for corrective advertising of misleading or deceptive claims."

Mrs. Sullivan said she received from the Franklin Mint an invitation to join its Collectors Society, at a cost of $9 for 18 months, and to receive a medal described in an accompanying article as "the first commemorative piece ever struck by the Franklin Mint from silver that actually landed on the moon."

Mrs. Sullivan wrote NASA that she had received inquiries as to whether the space agency sanctioned carrying such medals on a nearly half-billion-dollar mission "when every drop of water, morsel of food and equipment ... must be controlled as to weight."

She said NASA replied: "There was a personal arrangement between the crew of Apollo 14 and the Franklin Mint whereby 200 of the coins were carried in the command module, not the lunar lander which went to the moon's surface, and of which 150 were retained by the crew for their personal use."

U.S. Aides Irked By 'Touch 'n' Tell' Sessions

Alabamans Opposing School Busing

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Alabama House, which passed an appropriation measure Tuesday that would tend to stymie court-ordered school busing, is expected to give almost automatic approval today to another of Gov. George C. Wallace's antibusing proposals.

The governor, meanwhile, is expected to discuss further developments on the school busing issue.

The bill before the House today would prohibit the busing of schoolchildren when their parents think it would risk the health or safety of the child or significantly impinge on the educational process.

The bill, which Wallace first introduced before a packed legislative assembly, has received rapid approval in preliminary stages and is almost certain to be pushed through in time this session for him to sign it into law.

An almost identical version goes before the Senate today also, but filibusters have slowed action there recently and administration hopes are more to the House measure, since a House passed measure would have higher priority for action.

In related moves, the House passed one measure Tuesday which forbids the use of state funds to implement court-ordered busing, and another which appropriates $1.5 million to hire 200 extra state troopers to guard certain schools against possible racial violence this fall.

Both measures were initiated at Wallace's request, but their ultimate passage is not assured. State school officials have voiced opposition to the busing of the troopers, since it would take badly-needed money out of the educational budget and might precipitate more trouble than it would prevent.

The bill is a prohibit state funds from being used for court-ordered busing would tend to prevent most school boards from meeting court de-segregation requirements. Since the state foots some 70 per cent of the bill for school operations, it is doubtful that individual school systems would be able to finance busing on their own.

Democrats Disgruntled At Nixon Appointment

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The controversial appointment of a Republican to head the Environmental Protection Agency in the Southeast has triggered a flurry of disgruntled outcries from the region's predominantly Democratic officials.

Republicans praised the appointment of Jack Raven, who was named to the post Wednesday by EPA national administrator William Ruckelshaus. The Southeastern EPA region, headquartered in Atlanta, includes Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

"As far as I am concerned, a very sad thing has happened," said the outspoken executive secretary of Georgia's Water Quality Control Board, R. S. "Rock" Howard.

Howard, like most critics of the Raven appointment, charged it smacks of political patronage and that this, coupled with inexperience, will be detrimental to efforts to control the environment. Raven is a former aide of U. S. Sen. Strom Thurmond, R.S.C.

"The real danger is that it will set a precedent," said William Partington, director of the Environmental Research Center for the Florida Conservation Foundation. "We're afraid anybody, whether Republican or Democrat, will look to pay off political support by giving this sort of plum. An awful lot of money goes through EPA's hands."

Another Florida antipollution official said he hates to see EPA Regional Director John E. Thomas be replaced.

"It has to be seen political appointments this low in the line," said Jim Redford, an appointee of Democratic Gov. Reubin Askew to the Florida Air and Water Pollution Control Board.

"At the regional level there is a need for expertise. I was always able to get information from Thomas and he knew what he was talking about. I hate to see him go."

South Carolina Gov. John West and Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter expressed similar feelings.

"I am always skeptical when a career professional is replaced by a political appointee," West said.

Carter, who earlier attempted to head off Raven's appointment, said he was disappointed but "we will try to work with him the best we can."

Carter contended Raven does not have the "knowledge about long-standing problems with polluters nor arrangements or understandings with them to control the environment. Discharges which Mr. Thomas has built up over a period of years."

Republicans just as stoutly defended the appointment on grounds the Democrats have been making political appointments all along and that they are just smarting because they've been beaten at their own game.

As for the criticism regarding Raven's lack of experience, top Georgia Republican said: "These experienced professionals the Democrats are whining about losing are doing such a fine job, why are we so polluted?"

Georgia Republican party Chairman Robert Shaw and Sen. Don Roy Fischer Thompson, D-Ga., fired verbal blasts at Gov. Carter's complaints about Raven's experience.

"If Carter practiced what he preached about political appointees," declared Thompson, "then he would have never appointed the son of a multimillionaire who had absolutely no experience in the legislative field to a United States Senate seat."

He was referring to Sen. David Gamble, D-Ga., who Carter appointed to serve out the unexpired term of the late U. S. Sen. Richard Russell.

Consumer Advocate Nader Charges:

U. S. Is 'Burying' Car Failure Probes

By ROB GREENE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader has accused the federal government of burying its investigations of alleged automobile brake failures, window explosions, engine dislocations and fires.

Nader said his list of 13 problems covering domestic and imported cars produced since 1967 was taken mostly from government files of closed or shelved investigations. He charged government officials considered the defects neither safety-related nor widespread.

A Chrysler Corp. spokesman denied Nader's charges of failures of the standard drum brakes on a wide range of the company's models.

"We are aware of no brake problems in Chrysler products which we have not recalled and fixed," Chrysler said Wednesday. "We have received no communication from the government at all."

The problems Nader contends are safety defects but which he said the government has failed to act on.

—Poor engine mounts on 1965-1969 Chevrolet trucks, Nader said, can lead to the throttle sticking open as well as failure of power brakes and steering when the engine lurches forward.

—Alleged failure of Chevrolet Corvair clutch cables leading to loss of control, Nader said. General Motors repaired 7,800 clutch cables under warranty. —Gasoline tank spillage, presenting a fire hazard, which Nader said has been found on Ford LTDs and the 1969-70 Oldsmobile Cutlass.

He also cited a letter telling of a cigarette in the ashtray of the dash panel on fire; 1967-1970 GM wear brakes which Nader said, GM's own figures show cause a car to take twice the distance to stop if a small plastic check valve fails; exploding side window glass; wheel failures, and energy-absorbing steering columns that "are not collapsing as is required by Motor Vehicle Safety Standard 302."

Refugees Fearful

By ISAAC M. FLORES
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Tomas, a skinny red-faced farmer from Cuba, arrived here on one of the last refugee flights and was despondent about the family he left behind. He was fearful that he may have to return.

"If Castro will not let me and children out, I must go back," Tomas said Wednesday. "I must find a way to go back. We cannot remain repatriated, maybe forever. What will happen to them?"

Tomas, who did not want his last name used, typified some of the confusion and despair of Miami's "Little Havana" in the wake of the abrupt suspension of the "freedom flights" by Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

One of the main reasons given by political observers for the stoppage of the twice-a-day shuttle flights is that the island is losing much of its work force.

In the early years of the Cuban exodus, many arrivals were of the upper and middle classes and included professionals—doctors, lawyers and engineers. But the Cuban Refugee Program reports that of the 245,805 refugees who have arrived since Dec. 1, 1963, when the project began, 26 per cent are in skilled worker, managerial, professional and clerical worker categories.

Semiskilled personnel comprised 41 per cent of the total, some 3.2 per cent were in the service occupations, 2 per cent were farmers or fishermen and the largest category—64.4 per cent—were children, students and housewives.

To Mariela Carbo, Castro's unilateral action meant that he had finally conceded the country was in trouble and that "he is willing to destroy lives in attempts to resolve his problems."

Mrs. Carbo knows "the horrible repression of the Communist regime" first hand. She spent six years in a Cuban political prison for sabotage and other counter-revolutionary activities. The 49-year-old widow arrived in this country aboard a refugee flight in May 1967.

Janitor Is Graduated With Four Degrees

DETROIT (AP) — Thirty-one years ago Elmer Fischer started work at Wayne State University as a janitor. Next July, when he is 65, he will be leaving with four academic degrees, his mops and pails far behind him.

"I might go teach sculpture in some small Negro college in the South," he said. "I could open my own studio...."

"Or I might just find some nice small town that needs a funeral director," Fischer said with a grin. "I might do just that."

In December, he will receive a master's degree in fine arts. Fischer, married and the father of an adult son, has already earned bachelor degrees in history, mortuary science and nursing.

It all started in 1940 when he left his job as an ironworker for Ford Motor Co.

"I was living in a flat," he recalled Sunday, "and I would say it was very ordinary. I didn't have too much of anything. You had to watch your money in those days."

Because of frequent layoffs, Fischer only worked about five months a year. So when a friend went to apply for a job as a school janitor, he went along.

His partner on the janitorial job was Lloyd Richards, a graduate student earning his tuition.

"Well, Richards, he talked me into starting classes," Fischer said. "So when he and I were done cleaning the halls, we'd take a free shower in the men's locker room, change, and go to class."

"First class I took was English composition. I never will forget it. I was 33 years old and started right at the bottom."

By 1953, Fischer had his bachelor's degree in history, but he was still a janitor. He was plagued by his memory of the Great Depression he said, and did not want to give up a secure job.

Subsequently, Fischer was transferred to a janitorial job with the school's mortuary science department, began taking courses in science, embalming and restoration.

By the time he earned his mortuary degree, Fischer had become the department's laboratory supervisor and was helping to teach chemistry and bacteriology.

He could have gone out on his own as a funeral director then but he was still haunted by the depression.

The Humble Peanut Man's Salvation?

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — A nutrition expert predicted Monday that the humble peanut and not the mighty oceans may prove to be man's salvation in the war against malnutrition.

Dr. Lewis M. Roberts, a world food specialist for the Rockefeller Foundation, said the peanut, and its relatives in the food legume family, are "stepchildren in the family of man's food crops."

Roberts told about 800 delegates attending the third Western Hemisphere Nutrition Congress, that peanuts and other legumes such as peas and soybeans, provide the best means of attacking the protein deficiency problem.

The world's total protein supply, he said, would have to be at least doubled over the next 25 years, just to keep up with increasing population and malnutrition.

"There is no panacea in sight for solving this problem.... It is undoubtedly going to be a tough uphill struggle," Roberts added.

"In general, their protein quality is quite good. And there is a very great potential for increasing yields and production of several of the most important food legume crops," he said.

But for years, Roberts said, the dream of almost unlimited food resources from the sea "has been responsible for some lack of concern over the future of man's food supply."

Now, he said, "when viewed soberly, this dream would appear to be a pipe dream."

Roberts said realistic estimates of the largest practical annual food harvest from the sea show that no more than 10 percent of the world's protein needs can come from the sea in the foreseeable future.

But peanuts could come to the rescue, he added.

"In general, their protein quality is quite good. And there is a very great potential for increasing yields and production of several of the most important food legume crops," he said.

Space Engineers FTU Graduates

OVIEDO — Twenty-two former aerospace engineers and scientists were awarded certificates of completion during an informal ceremony at Florida Technological University marking the finish of a 10-week course for environmental control technologists.

The class which is the first to complete a course at FTU under the federally sponsored RETRO (retraining program) crammed into their 10 weeks a variety of engineering and biological data gathered to aid them in their new careers.

RETRO, which stands for Regional Environmental Training and Research Organization also served to assist in placing the new technologists in environmental control positions.

FTU faculty members engaged in teaching the various courses reported that many job contacts were made before the end of the 10 weeks and favorable response had been received from both private industry and governmental agencies interested in employing them in their new careers.

Still attending classes at FTU are an additional 25 one-time aerospace experts who are studying under a year-long RETRO program that stresses in environmental systems control. That group will finish next spring.

Other RETRO retrainees have attended or are attending courses in similar specialties at Broward Community College and Florida Institute of Technology.

Longwood In License Crackdown

By DONNA ESTES

LONGWOOD — Crack-down on licensees who insist on doing business within the city without benefit of an occupational license has been called by the city council. But violators of the ordinance will not be permitted to only purchase a license when they have been caught.

Under an amendment to the ordinance, licensees who are notified by the Council staff penalties will be mandatorily imposed following conviction in municipal court of violation of the ordinance. Penalties set forth in the new amendment are fines not more than $200 and imprisonment of 30 days.

During the past month the health inspector has found nearly 500 businesses per day operating without a license, Councilman Sandra Thompson, sponsor of the amendment, declared. "This is not fair to city businessmen who are abiding by the law and who have been properly obtaining licenses year after year."

Another section of the amendment set forth fees to be charged to day schools and nurseries at $15; garbage, trash and refuse collection at $30 and repair service at $25. These categories were inadvertently left out of the occupational license ordinance recently adopted.

Adopted on first reading an ordinance setting the historic preservation zoning designation for the downtown section of the city.

Passed on first reading an ordinance requiring the Consolidated Sited property on the south side of SR 434 from commercial to light industrial. Mrs. Thompson voted against the rezoning and Mayor Robert Kalinowski assisted the rezoning is "not in the best interest of the city."

Former Councilman James R. Brown in the audience declared the change to be a "gross example of spot zoning." Councilman Eugene Janusz explained the property in question is directly across the highway from the main steel plant and that the Council "is still trying to straighten out zoning problems created by previous councils."

Appointed on recommendation of Councilman Agnes Weber, Mrs. Sally Haslip the new water clerk, as clerk to the zoning board. Mrs. Weber has been serving in the post without pay.

Authorized City Supl. Ralph Fisher to call for bids on a curbed lot of pipe and 30 water meters.

Called for bids to be in city hall by Sept. 15 for sealing the parking lot at city hall.

Hypnotism Explained To Sr. Citizens Club

By KATHY NIBLACK

Jack DeVin, hypnotist, was guest speaker for the August meeting of the South Seminole Senior Citizens Club held at Casselberry Women's Club.

During his presentation to the club, which included several interesting demonstrations of basic hypnotic "tricks," DeVin described hypnotism as a "highly interesting, but highly controversial subject."

He pointed out that hypnotism is not as controversial today as it was in the past, and that it has been recognized by the American Medical Association as a valid analytical and curative process in certain cases.

DeVin went on to say, "I don't know what hypnotism is. Nobody knows what it is." He pointed out that the term "hypnotism" comes from the Greek word for "sleep," and called hypnotism "a tool for suggestion."

It is a process in which the will is readily submitted to the hypnotist. "Everybody can be hypnotized," DeVin said. "The only people who can't are those who won't be hypnotized."

"The key to hypnotism is relaxation," DeVin continued. He pointed out that hypnotism can be used to induce sleep, in weight reduction, to stop smoking and to raise school grades. He warned, however, that hypnotism should only be used through an expert.

Love Ranks Fourth
DALLAS (AP) — Love Field has become the nation's fourth busiest airport, outranked only by O'Hare in Chicago, Los Angeles International and Atlanta according to the Federal Aviation Administration.

Love Field handled 407,620 regular air carrier and general aviation operations during 1970, said Howard Megrety, aviation director for the city.

This means its volume is now larger than that of John F. Kennedy in New York, San Francisco International or Miami.

San Diego Setting Up Plans

Lawmen Prepare For GOP Confab

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service
SAN DIEGO—The 1972 Republican National Convention still is nearly a year down the road, yet some law enforcement agencies already are setting up plans for security against possible demonstrations and the incidents which often grow out of them.

The sheriff's office, for example, has established a convention security planning task force headed by Inspector Fred ... It is blueprinting an elaborate system which includes helicopter-borne observation platforms and a mobile squadron of 400 officers of advanced training in special security measures and others are to be schooled along the same lines.

"We are teaching them how to operate together in small and large units, the news leaks of search and seizure and the civil liabilities involved in false arrest, assault and battery," Oliver explains.

The officers are learning how to conduct themselves in demonstration or riot situations, how far they should go to halt them.

"The officer must act quickly in the field when situations confront him and there is no time for research. What may seem to be the right decision at the time could turn out to be wrong when it is reviewed later in the courtroom."

San Diego's deputies will operate closely with the San Diego Police Department before and during the convention.

Some 200 deputies will be available to aid police officers within the city limits if they are needed to deal with disorders, according to Oliver. Together the two agencies will put about 1,800 men into the field. Each will touch base with Secret Services, Federal Bureau of Investigation and naval intelligence agents to coordinate their assignments from the U.S.-Mexican border 18 miles south of San Diego to the Western White House 40 miles north of the city.

Oliver points out that he can call on nearby Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and Imperial counties for additional officers under a state-wide mutual aid program.

So far, there are no plans to set up checkpoints on the major highways leading into San Diego from the north and east—U.S. Interstate 8, and U.S. 805. Checkpoints or roadblocks would be the responsibility of the California Highway Patrol. It also will handle convention-erated traffic in and out of the city on federal and state highways.

Merry Mary Cole Is A Born Clown

By ANN RILEY
Imagination and ingenuity coupled with a 10-year-old's desire to earn her own spending money created "Merry Mary, the Merry Clown."

From the tips top of her touzled hat and her red, fluffy nose clear down to her red, white and blue shoes, Merry Cole amuses, captivates and enchants her pin-size audiences at birthday parties.

Mary is normally a shy child, according to her mother, Mrs. Donald Cole. But once the grease paint is on the magic of the Circus World takes over and the show begins.

Little Mary holds true to the tradition that a clown's snaps and costume are his own personal trademark. She designed her own makeup which has the usual white face decorated with delicate red polka-dots inside blue squares.

Among Mary's recent triumphs has been participating in the Mainland Fourth of July parade and an appearance at Winter Park Mall's recent "Town Parade" in addition to her engagements at private parties.

Mobile Home Operation Planned HLH Plant Is Sold For $450,000

By BILL SCOTT
The long-closed H. L. Hunt building and 154 acres of land on Sanford Avenue have been sold by Hunt to a Chattanooga (Tennessee) conglomerate of 11 corporations, which plans immediate occupancy and conversion of the former carning factory into a mobile home building operation.

Expansion into modular home building, in a new facility to be constructed later. The purchase was completed Thursday afternoon and the final papers signed transferring the property to TUFTCO, according to Jack Frost, TUFTCO president, who spoke by telephone from his Tennessee office.

John Krider, president of the mobile home plant, said he would be in Sanford Thursday or Friday of next week. Winchester Mobile Homes are sold through dealers and, according to Frost, "We plan to move some of our homes to Sanford within the next seven to ten days to allow people to see what we plan to produce."
