Jackson Calls For New Policy On South Africa

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Civil rights leader Jesse Jackson says growing protests against South Africa's policy of apartheid are in opposition to U.S. policy as well as the white minority government in Johannesburg.

At a news conference Sunday, Jackson said oppression of blacks by South Africa's white-minority government "has been revived because of that cozy kinship" between the U.S. administration and Pretoria.

"We need a new Africa policy," Jackson said at the Shiloh Baptist Church, where he delivered a sermon earlier in the day. "We have a moral responsibility to disengage from all support of South Africa."

Jackson also said that for now, he will not offer himself for arrest in anti-apartheid protests at the South African Embassy because it might threaten his current efforts to secure a visa to visit the country.

The protests, organized by the black foreign policy lobby TransAfrica, were expected to resume at the embassy today and may expand to South African consulates in other cities nationwide.

Sixteen people, including six members of Congress, have been arrested for staging sit-ins and other acts of civil disobedience at the embassy since Thanksgiving eve.

A U.S. attorney has dropped charges against most of the demonstrators because he said the cases were not worthy of prosecution.

Jackson said he hoped the arrests of prominent Americans will pressure the administration into ending its policy of "constructive engagement," under which relations with South Africa were improved in hopes that would lead to an easing of apartheid.

"We would hope that the credible leadership that has been going to jail and that will go to jail this week would create a new assessment by our government to look at its African policy," the civil rights leader said.

Jackson, a Baptist minister who campaigned for the Democratic presidential nomination this year, said he plans to travel to South Africa to meet with leaders there and he wants Pope John Paul II to make a similar visit.

"South Africa cannot continue to uphold policies that fly in the face of history, he said. "The tragedy of South Africa is its system of brutal, inhuman exploitation" of blacks.

Jackson later attended a late-afternoon service at the Washington Cathedral, led by South African Bishop Desmond Tutu, winner of the 1984 Nobel Peace Prize.

Tutu, an outspoken critic of his government, told the congregation he was grateful for the growing anti-apartheid movement in the United States. "Just when the power of evil seems to be on the rampage, that's when God says 'I'll show you who's boss around here.'"

Where To Vote

District Determines Polling Place

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Tuesday is election day in Sanford and the city's four polling places will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Voters will elect two city commissioners and a mayor.

A 25 percent turnout, or 2,742 Sanford voters are expected by City Clerk Henry Tamm to trek to the polls. Due to districting there will be four polling places, not just one as in past city elections.

Voters who are not aware of the location of the polling place for their district are invited by Supervisor of Elections Sandy Goard to call her office at 321-1130, extension 692, for assistance.

She said city residents who live in county precincts 15 or 62 are within District 1 and vote at the Sanford Civic Center on Sanford Avenue between Seminole Boulevard and 1st Street; those in county precincts 1 or 29 are in District 2 and vote at the West Side Recreation Building, Persimmon Avenue at McCrackin Road; precincts 22 or 28 are in District 3 and will vote at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter day Saints, 2315 S. Park Ave., at the northeast corner of Park Avenue and 24th Street; precincts 19, 20, 26, 30, 32, 37 and 42 live in District 4 and will vote at Fire Station 2 on the west side of U.S. Highway 17-92, south of Movieland Drive-In Theater.

County precincts 18, 21, 27 or 83, all within Sanford in part, encompass territories split between two districts. If voters in the city portions of those precincts are not sure in which district they live, they should contact the elections office, Mrs. Goard said.

Voter registration cards tell in which county precinct the voter resides.

City district boundaries are:

• # 1 — south of Lake Monroe, north of 13th Street, east of Elm Avenue and west of Mellonville Avenue; also south of Lake Monroe, north of 4th Street, east of Mellonville Avenue and west of Elliott Avenue; south of Lake Monroe, north of 9th Street, east of Elm Avenue; south of Lake Monroe, north of 7th Street, east of Mulberry Avenue and west of Pecan Avenue; south of Lake Monroe, north of 8th Street, east of Persimmon Avenue and west of Mulberry Avenue; south of Lake Monroe, north of McCrackin Road and its westerly extension along the Seaboard Railroad and west of Persimmon Avenue.

The District 1 polling place is Sanford Civic Center, N. Sanford Avenue.

• # 2 — south of 20th Street, north of 25th Street, east of Southwest Road and west of U.S. Highway 17-92; also south of McCrackin Road and its westerly extension along the SCL Railroad, north of 20th Street and its westerly extension and west of Persimmon Avenue; south of 8th Street, north of 20th Street, east of Roosevelt Avenue and Persimmon Avenue and west of Mulberry Avenue; south of 7th Street, north of 20th Street, east of Mulberry Avenue and west of Pecan Avenue and west of U.S. Highway 17-92; and south of 9th Street, north of 13th Street, east of 17-92 and west of Elm Avenue.

Petition To Recall Mayor

A petition to recall Casselberry Mayor Charles Glascock is expected to be presented to the Casselberry City Council tonight, said Council Chairman Carl Robertson.

Robertson said the petition was started by a Seminole County employee. The employee, who was unavailable for comment today, has reportedly collected 1,600 signatures. Casselberry City Clerk Linda Garavano said 500 are needed to start the recall process.

After the petition is filed, the mayor has five days to answer the charges and then the petitioner must collect 1,500 more signatures to put the recall on the ballot, Ms. Garavano said.

Grandparents Sue For Right To Visit Granddaughter, 5

The parents of a Longwood girl have been named in a petition filed in circuit court by the girl's grandparents asking that they be granted visitation rights.

William MacFarlane Sr., and his wife L. Jean MacFarlane, of Mars, Pa., filed suit Friday against their former daughter-in-law, Diane R. Bowman and her husband Robert K. Bowman, of 48 E. Evergreen Ave. The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge Robert McGregor. No court date has been set.

According to the suit, the grandparents state that since the divorce of their son, William MacFarlane Jr., from the now Mrs. Bowman, they have had a difficult time getting to see their grandchild, age 5. They state that they provided a significant amount of attention and daily care for the child from Sept. 1979 to Dec. 26, 1981 while the child's parents were working. They state the provided a substantial amount of nurturing during her infancy and contributed to her development. They also state the child lived with them on a full-time basis from the fall 1980 to the spring of 1981.

The MacFarlanes state that they, "... have always had a close and loving relationship with their granddaughter and (that) the granddaughter has returned to them the same love and affection"

The MacFarlanes state in the suit that after the divorce and subsequent move of their former daughter-in-law to Massachusetts, then Georgia and now Florida, they have had a difficult time contacting their grandchild.

Under Florida law, which gives the court authority to grant grandparents visitations rights, the MacFarlanes are asking for "reasonable" visitation rights, telephone communication and an exchange of gifts and letters.

They also ask that the Bowmans not disparage or criticize them in front of the child and not tell her of the visitation litigation. —Deane Jordan

Fess Pitches For Turn Lane

A rash of traffic accidents at the intersection of Lake Mary Boulevard and Lake Emma Road has sent Mayor Dick Fess calling on state and county transportation officials for a right turn lane turn lane there.

There have been about 12 accidents in the last two months at the intersection, according to Lake Mary Police Chief Harry Benson. They are so frequent, Fess said, that while Benson was giving him those statistics, another report of an accident there came over the police radio.

Fess was at a meeting of the Lake Mary Boulevard Citizen Advisory Council last week making a pitch for a turn lane.

The problem is that driver exiting Interstate 4 and entering Lake Mary Boulevard have to merge with traffic then get into right hand lane to turn right or Lake Emma Road, Fess says. With traffic increasing on the boulevard, he said a turn lane is needed to ensure smoother movement and cut the risk of more accidents.

Fess said Seminole County and DOT officials agree a turn lane is needed but before any paving can be done it must be determined which governing entity is responsible for the intersection.

County Engineer Larry Sellers said the responsibility for the boulevard is clearly Seminole County's. But paving a turn lane at the intersection may encroach on the DOT's limited access line since it is so close to the interstate.

Sellers said if there is an encroachment it is only a minor one and the county should be able to get a permit from the DOT for the project.

The turn lane should be in within 30 to 60 days if there is no encroachment.

"If the DOT has to get involved and we have to get a permit, it may take three weeks more than that," Sellers said.

Fess said the project should cost less than $4,500. He said the taxpayers' money could be saved if the DOT would take care of the turn lane while they're in the neighborhood resurfacing Interstate 4.

"While they're out there paving I-4 they could run over to Lake Mary Boulevard with about half a load of that stuff and dump it and run over it a few times," Fess said. "About one of those dumps would take care of our problem." —Rick Brunson Cars approach the Lake Mary Boulevard/Lake Emma Road intersection where Mayor Dick Fess says a right turn lane is needed to the right of the pavement next to the white car. There were 12 accidents there in the past two months.

Lawmakers Target Canker, Taxes, Child Aid

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Florida's legislative leaders meet today for an update on the citrus canker situation and to map out plans for a special session later this week that will deal with taxes and a plan to improve child-protection programs.

The agenda for the session on Thursday and Friday already includes a $4.2 million proposal for state funding to combat the citrus canker.

But that issue required some last-minute re-evaluation because of the discovery that canker bacteria has spread from nurseries to citrus groves.

Today's meeting will provide leaders with an update on the canker situation.

The principle items before the lawmakers in the special session involve big business and small children — a $60 million-plus tax tradeoff and a $10.4 million plan to improve child-protection programs.

Graham wants to hire 281 more licensure supervisors and inspectors to comply with a state law requiring every report of child abuse to be investigated within 24 hours. He also wants to provide daycare services for 3,700 poor children. The legislative plan would add about 83 caseworkers and increase daycare for the poor by about 850 children.

Ever since the "unitary tax" was authorized in July 1983, business lobbyists have contended it was driving major corporations away from Florida. But Graham said the tax on worldwide corporate profits was needed to fund vastly increased education programs in Florida.

He agreed to repeal the unitary method only if the lawmakers come up with dollar-for-dollar replacement revenue. House Speaker James Harold Thompson, D-Gretna, and Senate President Harry Johnston, D-West Palm Beach, have proposed an increase from 5 to 5.5 percent in the corporate income tax, coupled with a tax on non-dividend corporate earnings from out of state, to replace the unitary money.

Dr. James Francis, head of the Revenue Department's tax research office, said last week the total unitary tax package was worth about $100.3 million in the current fiscal year.

The Legislature also will consider overriding Gov. Bob Graham's veto of a $185 million public education construction bill passed during the regular session in June. Graham criticized the bill as an overstuffed pork-barrel package, but his aides conceded last week there was no chance of avoiding a two-thirds vote to override the veto.

Some less controversial items also will come up in the brief session. They include a touch-up of the municipal bonding code and authorization of a quarter-penny sales tax in Hillsborough County to fund Tampa General Hospital's indigent services programs.

Among controversies likely to be left waiting until the 1985 session next April 2 are the bill by Comptroller Gerald Lewis to keep "non-bank" financial institutions from taking deposits in Florida and a proposal by Rep. Fran Carlton, D-Orlando, to restore the drinking age to 21.

Doctors Prepare Schroeder To Leave Intensive Care Unit

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Bill Schroeder's doctors say their next step with the world's second artificial heart recipient is to get him "to cough, move his limbs and dangle his feet" to prepare him for leaving the intensive care unit.

Dr. William DeVries, chief surgeon at Humana Hospital Audubon, said Sunday in a statement released to the media by hospital spokesman George Atkins that he believes Schroeder, 52, could be ready for a private room within a week.

"He'll be asked to cough, move his limbs and dangle his feet," Atkins said. "He needs to become more mobile and exercise more to get his condition upgraded."

"If he's doing those things, he'll be moved out" of intensive care and into a private room, Atkins said.

Schroeder, whose metal-and-plastic heart was implanted Nov. 25, was listed in critical but stable condition Sunday but a hospital official said the patient was progressing "way ahead of schedule."

Synod Fights For Church Control

CLAIRTON, Pa. (UPI) — A synod official is expected to take hold of the strife-torn Trinity Lutheran Church's records, money and keys, despite a threatened standoff by some members of the congregation.

The Rev. Mont O. Bowser, assistant to the bishop of the Western Pennsylvania-West Virginia Synod of the Lutheran Church in America, is expected to try to take control of the church today.

But supporters of the jailed Rev. D. Douglas Roth have threatened to thwart the attempt.

Roth was fired by synod Bishop Kenneth May for supporting the Network to Save the Mon-Ohio Valley and the Denominational Ministry Strategy. He continued to preach and was jailed for contempt of court after holding up in the church for 10 days.

Bowser has tried on six of the past seven weeks to preach at Trinity after Roth was dismissed. He was turned away each time.

Girl Killed After Refusing Bribe

PONCA CITY, Okla. (UPI) — A suspected rapist accused of trying to bribe his victim into changing her testimony killed her when she refused and dumped her body in a river, authorities say.

The victim, Rosalie Anne Adams, 15, had been expected to testify against Kirk McBrain, whose trial on kidnapping, rape and sodomy charges was to begin Tuesday.

District Attorney Joe Wideman said Sunday he would decide today whether to ask for a delay of the trial. Wideman also said he planned to file first-degree murder charges today against McBrain, 23, Blackwell, who was being held on $1 million bond.

Three other people had been arrested in the slaying. Wideman said, but he would not release their names and said he would have to study the case further before deciding whether to charge them.

Eyes On Africa

Reagan Reviews Problems Of Famine, Racial Strife

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, whose foreign policy efforts have been focused for months by U.S.-Soviet tensions, diverted his attention today to the problems of racial turmoil and starvation in strife-torn Africa.

Reagan was to be briefed by Assistant Secretary of State Chester Crocker on the status of efforts to bring peace to South Africa, complicated in recent weeks by a new wave of violence directed at the country's segregationist system.

Later in the day, Reagan also was scheduled to meet with members of a congressional delegation that visited famine-racked Ethiopia. The administration has pressed the Marxist government of Ethiopia to eliminate obstacles to the distribution of tens of thousands of tons of food aid.

Crocker was expected to report to Reagan on the progress of negotiations aimed at the removal of a final 2,000 South African troops from Angola and efforts to bring independence to Namibia, which lies between South Africa and Angola.

In an interview last week with the Washington Times, Reagan said Crocker has "made quite a bit of progress" in his efforts to help mediate an agreement that would link a South African withdrawal to the departure of 25,000 Cuban troops from Angola.

Their withdrawal has been at the center of Reagan's approach to the Namibia question. In the same interview, Reagan said formal recognition of Angola by the United States in the event of such a settlement is an issue subject to the negotiations involving the U.S., Angolan and South African officials.

A parallel concern to the United States, officials said, is the recent escalation of domestic turmoil in South Africa, which began more than two months ago and mushroomed last month with the arrests of 13 black labor leaders.

Many black leaders here and across the world have criticized Reagan's policy of "constructive engagement" with South Africa that is based on the notion that a continuation of cordial relations with South Africa can eventually persuade the South African government to ease up on its apartheid policies.

Court Ponders Church-State Relationship, Whether Lethal Injections Doing The Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lethal injections are fast becoming the method of choice for executing convicts in the United States, but the Supreme Court is hearing arguments today that question whether the promise of painlessly inducing death has been fulfilled.

Specifically, the court will consider if the Food and Drug Administration can be ordered to conduct a review of the drugs used to execute death row inmates in 14 states to see if they are "safe and effective" for their intended use.

A lower court said the FDA must study the drugs, since it is obligated by federal law to investigate unauthorized use of prescription drugs. The FDA has not approved use of the drugs for executions.

The arguments boil down to this: Is lethal injection a "dignified execution" or does it become an "amateur poisoning" filled with pain because doctors are forbidden by oath from actually executing someone and technicians must inject the drugs.

Later this week, two of society's major church-state disputes — whether to allow silent prayer in classrooms and state aid to private and parochial schools — confront the Supreme Court.

The most volatile topic facing the court is whether to allow prayer back into classrooms. State-sponsored school prayer has been banned from classrooms since 1962 when the Supreme Court said public school teachers may not lead students in recitations of prayer.

On Wednesday, the court will hear arguments in two cases raising a more complex, but potentially more sweeping, issue — How far can a state go in aiding non-public school students?

The court will then examine another aspect of the controversy — whether local school systems can use federal funds to provide remedial classes for children in parochial schools.

O'Neill Withstands Challenge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Speaker Thomas O'Neill apparently defused an attempt by conservative Democrats to unseat him today and there was little likelihood there would be any major changes in the House leadership when the 99th Congress convenes in January.

All the current leaders are expected to be re-elected when the Democrats and Republicans hold separate caucuses today.

Although the move would have been largely symbolic, Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, threatened to run against the 71-year-old O'Neill of Massachusetts to highlight the rift between liberal and conservative "Boll Weevil" Democrats in the House.

O'Neill and Stenholm met Friday and it appeared progress had been made in resolving differences and toward bringing the conservative Southerners back into the Democratic camp. O'Neill conceded during the meeting the Boll Weevils have not had a full voice in the leadership councils, and agreed to appoint two or three of their number to policy positions.

O'Neill, who has been in the House since 1953, plans to retire after one more two-year term. Rep. Jim Wright, D-Texas, who is expected to be re-elected to the No. 2 post of House Democratic leader, is O'Neill's likely successor.

Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., is expected to continue as assistant Democratic leader, and Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., is unopposed to succeed Rep. Gillis Long, D-La., as chairman of the Democratic caucus.

On the minority Republican side, 61-year-old Rep. Bob Michel, R-Ill., faced no opposition to re-election as GOP leader. Rep. Trent Lott, R-Miss., the assistant Republican leader, also is unopposed.

The Republicans managed to pick up 14 House seats in last month's elections, but the Democrats still will have a solid 253-182 majority when the 99th Congress convenes Jan. 3.

Republicans lost two Senate seats but retained control of that body, setting up a replay of the past two sessions in which the two houses battled almost to deadlocks over key domestic and foreign affairs issues.

The Democratic majority will continue to set the rules for the House, name committee chairmen, and decide how many seats to allocate to the Republicans in the committees.

During their meetings this week, the Democrats have to decide whether to change the rules governing chairmanship of the powerful House Budget Committee.

Rep. James Jones, D-Okla., the current chairman, and Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., who would like to succeed Jones, both are at the end of their three-term limit of service on the committee, and may ask for a rule change to allow them to remain.

Convicts Returning To Prison

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than three of every 10 inmates are sent back to state prison three years after their release, many for technical parole violations, a Department of Justice study shows.

The study, released Sunday, found that two years after release, about one in every four prisoners was back in prison and by the end of three years, more than three in 10 were back in prison.

The highest risk of going back to prison was in the second half of the first year of release. And the younger the prisoners are when released, "the higher the likelihood of being returned to prison before the end of the three-year followup period."

The study also found burglars go back to prison more often than those convicted of other crimes, while those released after serving time on drug offenses go back to prison least often.

The study of 14 states, limited by the vast differences in state laws and their methods of keeping statistics, deals only with the small percentage of repeat offenders who were sent back to prison in the same state.

Excluded are those who go to county jails, where the terms are less than a year, or those who commit crimes in states other than where they were in prison.

The crimes people go back to prison for are not necessarily the crimes that sent them to prison in the first place, although there are state-by-state differences.

A closer look for selected years in a few states found many are sent back on technical parole violations of regulations on conduct, whereabouts and associations.

"Technical violations can compose as many as half or more" of those sent back to prison, the study said.

Tip O'Neill

If the caucus agrees to the change, Panetta is expected to challenge Jones for the chairmanship.

Bullet Train May Need Government Subsidy

ORLANDO (UPI) — Florida's plans to build a high-speed bullet train with private money could face insurmountable obstacles, an investment banker who worked on a similar, failed project in California says.

"I would say it would be difficult," Steven Greenwald, a vice president of the First Boston Corp., said. "Any of these projects are going to be difficult."

Greenwald's company was charged by American High Speed Rail Corp. with raising $50 million in private money to further plans for a 131-mile bullet train linking Los Angeles and San Diego. American High Speed Rail last month abandoned the effort, which Greenwald called "clearly the most promising project I know of in the country," after the fund search failed.

Gov. Bob Graham said the failure of California's bullet train means more private investors will be available for Florida's proposed 314-mile system, which would link Miami, Orlando and Tampa. Graham is pushing a plan to build the system, which would cost an estimated $2.3 billion to $2.7 billion, entirely with private money.

And despite his cautionary tone, Greenwald said support of public officials like Graham bodes well for the Florida project. He said the California project lacked state government support.

"It may be financeable ... if there are strong public proponents," he said.

Florida officials are quick to point out other differences between the two proposals, including financial incentives the state is offering developers. Once concession could give the rail company control over land near train stations for development.

Graham has said he'd like a train system operating at speeds upwards of 120 mph by 1995, Florida's 150th anniversary of statehood. He is expected to appoint a commission to oversee the project this week and a franchise could be awarded in 1987 or 1988.

But Alan Boyd, chairman of American High Speed Rail, said the time for a Florida bullet train may not yet have arrived. Projected ridership figures for the system are only a fifth of those projected for the failed California effort.

Your Vote Counts In City Election

The importance of a single vote is nowhere seen more clearly than in a municipal election, where government is closest to the people.

And Longwood voters will have the opportunity again on Tuesday to exercise their right to make their wishes known in the strongest possible way in a representative form of government — at the ballot box.

They will choose city commissioners in two separate contests, decide whether to approve minor changes in the city charter, and consider whether a new city police building and community center should be built.

The candidates for the city commission — Perry Faulkner and J. Russell Grant in District 3 and Larry Goldberg, David Gunter and Bill Mitchell in District 5 — have done their job. They have visited potential constituents, mailed out literature, posted signs and telephoned the voters, telling them their stands on the issues.

Now, it's the voters' turn to take the few minutes necessary to stop by the city hall polling place between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Tuesday to make their choices.

Those who cannot get to the polls on Tuesday because of illness or because they will be out of town election day may pick up an absentee ballot at city hall on Monday.

The right to vote is precious. Take advantage of it.

Personal Reasons

Josef Stalin's daughter Svetlana defected to the West in 1967 and never hesitated to speak her mind about the place she was leaving behind.

"I came from a country of complete totalitarianism into a perfectly free life," she told an interviewer for The New York Times in 1973. "After six years, I am perfectly convinced that I am free. There is no government pressure on me, and nobody tells me what to do."

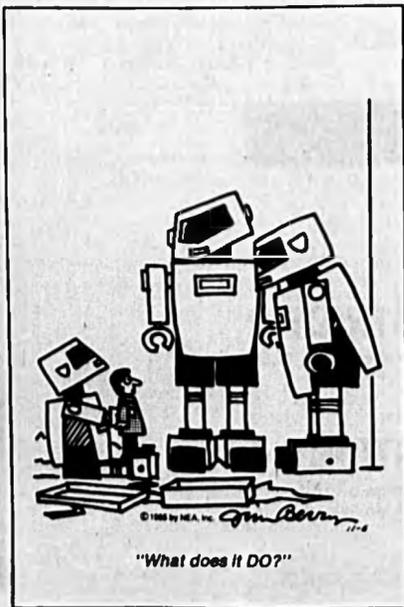

Now Svetlana Alliluyeva — she is using her mother's maiden name — has returned to the Soviet Union with the 13-year-old daughter born of her marriage to an American architect. She says she plans to stay in Russia and, in an amazing performance at a Moscow news conference, she retracted virtually everything she had ever said about life in the West. American society, she said, is riddled with crime, poverty and human misery and is totally lacking in personal freedom. "I feel happy at last. I have returned home."

What has driven this unusual woman back to her homeland is a mystery she takes with her. She says only that her decision is based on "personal" and not political reasons. What induced her to renounce the United States so vehemently is another mystery.

The United States granted citizenship to Stalin's daughter and the opportunity to make a new life. Our country has always tried to be as hospitable to immigrants. Not many of them have decided to reject the values of our society and go back where they came from, but those who do are always free to leave, a privilege the Soviet Union and its vassal states do not grant to their citizens.

Svetlana Alliluyeva says she hopes to lead a "quiet, peaceful life" in the Soviet Union. As the communist society gathers her in its gray embrace, we can only wonder what may happen if she changes her mind again about what is freedom and what isn't. Will she get another chance?

Seminole County residents are invited to attend an international conference by the American Correctional Association in Orlando in January.

Directors of correction and corrections practitioners from the United States, Canada, Mexico and other foreign countries will be among the speakers addressing more than 1,500 conference members. The conference is scheduled Jan. 17-20 at the Hyatt Orlando Hotel.

The delegates are expected to ratify a series of national correctional policies during the conference.

Florida Governor Bob Graham will speak to delegates at a luncheon scheduled for Jan. 18 from 12:30 to 2 p.m. Top state corrections administrators will also address delegates during the conference.

U.S. Senator Joseph R. Biden

(D-Del) ranking democrat on the Senate Judiciary Committee, has been invited to keynote the opening session. A long-time advocate of sentencing reform, Biden was the author of federal legislation abolishing parole and instituting a seven-member commission to develop sentencing guidelines enacted Oct. 1984.

Twenty workshops and special sessions are scheduled for the four-day conference, all focusing on the conference theme, "Correctional Policy — The Direction of the Future."

Among the workshop topics are suicide prevention, private contracting of juvenile institutions, using opposite-sex staff in correctional institutions and jailing drunk drivers. Over 100 exhibit will display developments in state-of-the-art corrections technology.

A public hearing is scheduled after Graham's address and will begin at 2:30 p.m. and last until 4 p.m. in the Polk City Room of the hotel. Among the policy issues to be addressed are overcrowding in correctional facilities, contracting correctional services to the private sector, crime victims' rights, and the use of force in corrections.

The American Correctional Association represents over 15,500 practicing corrections professionals in the United States and around the world. It represents 63 professional organizations including the American Jail Association, Association of Paroling Authorities, and the North American Association of Warden and Superintendents.

DONALD LAMBRO How To Help Cut Spending

The question that readers most frequently ask me is, "What can the average taxpayer do to help get federal spending under control?"

There is no easy, painless prescription for reducing the cost of government, as President Reagan has learned over the last four years. It's easier to talk about cutting government spending than to actually achieve it.

It's a huge problem, but not an insurmountable one. It's one that requires sending more people to Congress who have enough backbone to say "no" to the special interests that always want more from the federal treasury.

Enacting a line-item veto, overhauling congressional budgetary and oversight procedures, and instituting many of the Grace Commission proposals are some of the major changes that need to be made. Here are a few more things that both taxpayers and concerned members of Congress can do to help win the battle against excessive spending:

1. More Americans need to become actively involved with organizations dedicated to reducing federal spending. The National Taxpayers Union, the National Tax Limitation Committee, the Foundation for the President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control, and a new Washington-based group called Taxpayers United are just a few of these groups.

2. Congressional constituents need to pay closer attention to how their representatives vote on spending bills, and local media need to do a better job of reporting how lawmakers vote.

Key votes on major appropriations, tax and budget measures should be clearly and prominently reported by local newspapers on a regular basis.

3. Members of Congress should begin introducing more legislation to eliminate unnecessary and wasteful agencies and programs. No one will take the need to reduce spending seriously until more lawmakers regularly submit "housecleaning" measures to rid the budget of nonessential expenditures.

4. We need more William Proxmire in Congress who regularly and aggressively expose and criticized specific examples of wasteful spending. It's a rather sad commentary on Congress that with the exception of Proxmire, Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., and a handful of others, very few members of Congress devote a portion of their energies to exposing needless federal expenditures.

5. Members of Congress should explore new and innovative ways to turn federal activities over to the business sector, which can run them far more efficiently and effectively than the government.

Admissions Dilemma

In my capacity as a professor at an Ivy League college, I had a telephone conversation last week with the guidance counselor of a private preparatory school. What class standing, what college board scores, what activities, what recommendations and so forth would do for admission to the best colleges? he asked. I answered his questions as well as I could, but I also said that I wished that I could speak to every senior class in the high schools of the United States and give them some perspective on this whole process, and perhaps lessen the anxiety of this silly season.

For several years I served my turn on the admissions committee of my Ivy League college. It was an eye-opener.

At that time, we received about 8,000 applications for the available 1,000 places in a freshman class. Today, that has gone up to nine applicants for every place. Now these applicants are to a considerable degree already subject to a selection process. The guidance counselors in the high school discourage students from applying who are certain to be turned down. After all, the application is lengthy, and there is a $40 application fee. The result is that most of the 8-9,000 applicants are plausible candidates. A substantial portion of them have A averages and board scores of over 600. Most of them have impressive extracurricular records, whether in athletics or some other area. Their recommendations are glittering. In the end, the admissions committee has to come up with a freshman class of about 1,000, but the truth is that several such freshman classes — of equal quality — could be made up of the 8-9,000 applicant pool. The truth of the matter is that a student rejected in the course of this process should not consider himself or herself inferior to a student, who is accepted. The admissions people try to make honest judgments, but there is an impossible quality about the entire process. I imagine that you would end up with about the same quality freshman class if you merely took, arbitrarily, every eight or ninth applicant.

There is also plenty of room for skepticism about the validity of the SAT exams, which do count for much in the admissions process. For one thing, the SATs reward speed. But speed has little to do with the intelligence or creativity. What difference does it make how fast Fitzgerald wrote "Gatsby"? If it takes a person 10 minutes to compose a really fine sentence, who would wish for a poorer sentence composed in two minutes?

After the selection process, you are left with a few really impressive young men and women, but for the most part the students turn out to be cheerful and healthy young people with nothing much on their minds.

There certainly are objective criteria as regards what makes a "first rate college," but even here a note of caution is called for. I graduated from an Ivy League college after receiving a lot of A's. Then I went to Officer Candidate School in the Navy, and to my amazement found that I was struggling with navigation, gunnery and the like, while people from Nothing Hall Tech were breezing through. This was a sobering experience.

So, therefore, high school and prep school seniors, do as well as you can on your exams and with your applications, and I hope you are accepted by a college you wish to attend. But do not believe too much.

Better Shape After 40

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) — Dr. Morris Notelovitz, an expert in the field of middle age, is 49 years old and cringes at the thought of being 20 again.

"I'm in better shape than I was 10 years ago, and I feel great," said Notelovitz. "I practice what I preach."

What Notelovitz shouts from the mountaintops is acceptance — and enjoyment — of middle life. As a gynecologist, Notelovitz specifically targets menopause and women.

Notelovitz, a University of Florida professor, is chairman of the International Congress on the Menopause that recently held its first-ever meeting in the United States.

The congress not only attracted more than 500 experts in the field but also served to dispel what Notelovitz and others call the "myth" surrounding menopause and middle age.

Many medical ailments, ranging from breast cancer to irritability, have been linked to menopause, which marks the end of child-bearing years for women. However, many experts contend those maladies have little or nothing to do with menopause and often can be avoided by basic means, such as hormone replacement, exercise and better dietary habits.

Recent studies also show only about 20 percent of women going through menopause suffer serious enough symptoms to see a doctor — a figure much smaller than one might expect to find after hearing horror stories of hot flashes and severe depression associated with middle age.

The experts admit the human body undergoes many changes as people approach and enter middle age. However, people no longer must sit back and take what life throws their way, the new theory goes. If people can change their way of life, they can improve their life.

"Once you accept a new lifestyle, age almost becomes irrelevant," said Notelovitz.

Regular exercise, appropriate diet and moderation in everything represent the foundation for a lifestyle change, Notelovitz said.

He said such simple measures can help stave off cardiovascular problems, diabetes and even osteoporosis, a crippling bone-thinning disease that primarily affects women after menopause.

Osteoporosis cannot be cured, but new research shows it can be prevented.

That's the baal for much of the study of climacteric — middle-age — medicine. Prevention is the key. Dieting and exercise must be undertaken at 35 instead of 65, when it's probably too late to help.

Due-Process Law Under Seige

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department has mounted a quiet assault on the individual's right to sue state and local governments for violating due process of law.

As justification, department officials have cited the lack of old-fashioned discipline that has supposedly turned the nation's schools into blackboard jungles.

Using this bogymen, the officials hope to scare Congress into amending a 113-year-old law that guarantees the right of an injured citizen to sue local authorities who misbehave.

How the Justice Department got from fractious school kids to a legal shield for high-handed officials is a weird and frightening story. My associate Indy Badhwar has pieced it together from various sources, including a telltale memo the Justice Department refused to release under the Freedom of Information Act.

In 1871, Congress passed 42 USC 1983, known as the Anti-Ku Klux Klan Act, to protect individuals from the excesses of state and local governments. Since then it has been the principal legal vehicle for citizens to claim in federal court that their constitutional rights have been violated by local authorities. It was under the anti-Klan law, for example, that Brown vs. Board of Education was brought, leading to the Supreme Court-ordered desegregation of the nation's public schools.

For more than a century, ultraconservatives have fought the anti-Klan law and the "judicial activism" they claim it encouraged. The Brown decision was a bitter defeat. Then in 1975 another school-based Supreme Court case brought under the 1871 law galvanized the conservatives anew. In Goss vs. Lopez, the high court ruled that a student facing arbitrary suspension or expulsion from school was entitled to due process.

The decision, written by moderately conservative Justice Byron

White, simply gave students facing disciplinary action the right to tell their side of the story. But states' rights activists reacted with horror, claiming that the decision disarmed teachers and school administrators in their uphill struggle to maintain discipline.

A Gallup Poll last year showed that fewer than one teacher in five nationwide thought lack of discipline was a major school problem. But President Reagan, in a pre-campaign sop to his conservative support base, launched a publicity campaign for more "good old-fashioned discipline in school."

It was about this time that the Justice Department quietly got into the act. Exactly why is not clear. Maybe it was from an ideological conviction that the anti-Klan law was fundamentally wrong. Maybe it was simply from bureaucratic irritation over a law that had, over the years, forced the Justice Department to do battle with state and local governments.

Whatever the motivation, a 10-page memo written by Roger Clegg, director of the department's Office of Legal Policy, suggested using the hue and cry over school discipline as a tool to dismantle the 1871 anti-Klan law.

Sources who have seen the memo say it includes proposals to make state and local officials immune from lawsuits that arise from their "discretionary" actions; to require that citizens filing suit demonstrate that violations of the constitutional rights by local officials were "knowing and willful," and to increase the burden of proof on plaintiffs who try to take government officials to court.

The 1871 law has served the nation well. It is often the only remedy available to protect an individual's constitutional rights. Yet the Justice Department is trying to eviscerate the law by drumming up hysteria over the issue of school discipline.

Battle Between Good, Evil

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI) — Evangelist Jerry Falwell and sex magazine publisher Larry Flynt are squaring off in a libel suit the preacher's lawyer calls a "pitched battle between the forces of good and evil."

At issue is a satirical depiction of Falwell in Flynt's Hustler magazine.

"I'll be wearing a white hat. Ask Mr. Flynt what he'll be wearing," said Falwell's lawyer, Norman Roy Grutman of New York.

Falwell, the religious leader of the New Right and founder of The Moral Majority, sued Flynt for $45 million, charging he was libeled by Flynt and Hustler in a November 1983 advertisement the defense claims was a parody.

Both Falwell and Flynt were expected at the opening of the trial today in federal court.

The ad, headlined "Jerry Falwell Talks About the First Time," described what the magazine said was Falwell's first encounter with liquor and sex.

Attorneys for Flynt claim that an asterisk and small-print disclaimer across the bottom of the page — "This ad is a parody, not to be taken seriously" — absolves their client from liability.

Falwell contended the ad was an invasion of privacy, caused him emotional distress and was libelous because it implied he committed a crime involving moral turpitude.

David Kahn, general counsel for Flynt Publications in Los Angeles, defended the ad.

"It was outrageous humor, irreverent humor, but obviously humor," he said.

Grutman, who successfully defended Penthouse magazine from Falwell's $10 million suit in 1981 over a published interview, said, however, "this is a pitched battle between the forces of good and evil."

IN BRIEF

Records Show Orlando Judge Often Misused Contempt Power

ORLANDO (UPI) — An Orange County judge who threatened a police officer with a contempt of court citation for disturbing his lunch has improperly used his contempt powers in the past, appeals court records indicate.

Orange County Circuit Judge Bernard C. Muszynski has ordered Orlando police officer Tom Reynolds to explain why he should not be held in contempt for refusing to turn off his police radio as the two ate lunch in the same restaurant Nov. 20.

Attorneys for the officer have asked the 5th District Court of Appeal to prevent the judge from holding him in contempt and Orlando Mayor Bill Frederick has said the city will file a complaint against Muszynski with the Florida Judicial Qualifications Commission.

In a previous case, for example, an appeals court overturned Muszynski's use of contempt charges when Muszynski sentenced a witness in a rape trial to seven years and four months in jail after finding him guilty of 15 counts of contempt for refusing to testify.

An appeals court threw the convictions out and sent the case back to Muszynski, who then sentenced the witness to three counts of contempt. The appeals court then criticized Muszynski for wasting its previous efforts and threw the convictions out for good.

Mass Murder Survivor Sought

MIAMI (UPI) — Police are still looking for a person who escaped from killers who fatally shot five people during a drug-related incident in the city's worst mass murder.

A sixth person was in critical condition and police said another person apparently witnessed the incident early Friday, but escaped into the darkness with the killers in pursuit. Police said Sunday the one who escaped should contact them before the killers find him.

The identity of the critically wounded survivor, a woman, was withheld by police for her protection. Police said she is expected to survive.

Police said the killers apparently knew their victims and were admitted to the apartment at 1:20 a.m. Friday.

The two men sprayed the drug-littered apartment with automatic weapons fire, killing a pregnant woman and four other people in Miami's worst mass murder, police said.

Lakes To Get Acid Rain Tests

SEBRING (UPI) — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will test nearly 200 Florida lakes this week for signs of damage caused by acid rain.

The EPA was to use two helicopters to gather samples of water from 187 lakes starting today. The water samples will be analyzed for acidity, temperature, nutrient concentrations and the presence of some heavy metals.

Data from the water samples will give the EPA a rough idea of how many lakes in Florida are vulnerable to acid rain, said Bob Humphries, a spokesman for the federal agency. Depending on whether significant evidence of a problem is found, the tests could lead to regular monitoring of some lakes, he said.

Woman Stabbed To Death During Fight

A Sanford woman charged with first-degree murder in the stabbing death of another Sanford woman was being held today without bond in the Seminole County jail.

Dead is Viola Mae Stafford, 26, of 606 Cypress Ave. Charged with her death is Maria Davis, 30, of 1018 Willow Lane.

According to police, Ms. Stafford was stabbed in the chest with a kitchen-type knife during a fight in the 300 block of Sanford Ave. The incident occurred at 12:22 a.m. Sunday.

Ms. Stafford died a few minutes later at Central Florida Regional Hospital, said Sanford's Assistant Police Chief Herb Shea.

With the aid of witnesses, Sanford detective Mike Ansley located Ms. Davis within an hour at 7th Street and Cypress Avenue.

Shea said investigators have not yet found out what the women were fighting about.

CONDITON IMPROVED

A 21-year-old New York woman who, along with her brother, 28, was abducted from a phone booth in Apopka Wednesday evening and shot, was in serious but stable condition at Florida Hospital-Orlando today.

The woman had been in critical condition after having been shot in the mouth and raped by three abductors. Her brother, who had been shot in the neck and left for dead by the attackers, was treated and released from that hospital shortly after the incident. Three Apopka men have been charged by Orange County in the case.

BATTERED PAINTER

An 18-year-old Casselberry man has been charged with armed trespass to a structure and aggravated battery after he reportedly attacked a painter and threatened him with a baseball bat.

Joseph J. Santarsiere, 22, of Regency Granada Apartments J-3, Casselberry, reported to Casselberry police that he was attacked by the man while he was painting the livingroom at 323 Elm Drive, Casselberry.

The assailant entered that house carrying a baseball bat at about 10 a.m. Sunday. He grabbed the victim, threatened to beat him up and they began to struggle, a police report said. Robert Young, 20, of Creekwood North Apartments #904, Altamonte Springs, came to Santarsiere's aid and the suspect fled.

When police arrived the victims named a suspect, whom they had reportedly had trouble with over money, and told police where he lived, the report said. Officers located a suspect at 506 Elm Drive, Casselberry, and found a baseball bat in his truck.

Allen Andrew Banyanski was arrested at his home at 10:15 a.m. Sunday. He was being held in the Seminole County jail today in lieu of $5,000 bond.

STOLEN GOODS

A 40-year-old Winter Springs man has been charged with possession of stolen property for allegedly knowingly accepting items taken in an Oct. 20th, Altamonte Springs break-in.

Sheriff's investigators allege the suspect took possession of a television and a shotgun, which were part of $5,000 in loot including jewelry stolen from a Gold Connection, 100 Brewer St., Altamonte Springs.

The man reportedly accepted the stolen items at his home from a man called "Chuck" at about 1:30 a.m. on the night of the theft. The items were transported to Spacevision, state Road 434, Longwood, because the suspect did not want to have them in his possession, a sheriff's report said.

The suspect was located at the Post Time Lounge, Longwood, and arrested at 11:34 p.m. Friday. William Harold Clements of 60 S. Edgemon Ave., has been charged in the case and was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

SECOND SEX CHARGE

A second charge of sexual battery has been filed against a Sanford man who was jailed Tuesday after being accused of fondling a 12-year-old girl.

The second charge, which was filed at 5:20 p.m. Friday is in connection with alleged performance of mutual oral sex with a 9-year-old girl, a Sanford police report said.

Bobby Gray Shelton, 34, of 1505 Elloit Ave., an assistant store manager in Sanford, was being held without bond following his second arrest at the Sanford police station.

MURDER/SUICIDE

A distraught Oviedo man sought out his estranged wife then killed her with a shotgun blast. He then killed himself, authorities said.

The body of Tammie Lawrence, 26, of 1610 Barr St., Oviedo, was found in a pickup truck in Ingram Road, west of Ocoee in Orange County. Next to the vehicle was the body of her husband, Clyde Lawrence, 49. The shooting occurred about 10 p.m., Friday, according to Orange County sheriff's detective Dan Nazarchuk.

The couple had been experiencing marital problems for about a year, Nazarchuk said. Lawrence went on a hunting trip in Maine about two weeks ago and when he returned, he learned his wife had moved out of the house during his absence.

About a week later, Lawrence told his father-in-law that he was going to find his wife and left home with a 12-gauge shotgun, Nazarchuk said.

According to reports, investigators believe Lawrence located his wife on Ingram Road and shot her, then himself.

The couple leaves three children.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

A gold chain with a "diamond-type" stone, valued at $3,000, was stolen along with five sets of salt and pepper shakers valued at $600 and a $500, 10-inch bud vase, from the home of Joanna Evans, 31, of 2575 state Road 436, #1111, Winter Park. Sheriff's deputies report the items were taken between 6 a.m. Thursday and 2 p.m. Friday.

Marvin Friedman, 40, of 133 Rose Briar Drive, Longwood, didn't realize his wallet was missing until his neighbor returned it to him after finding it on his lawn. Friedman told deputies about $20 and two checks with a total value of $320 had been taken from it. The wallet, which Friedman said he may have dropped in his driveway, disappeared between 8:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Friday, a sheriff's report said.

A thief entered the home of Elmer Bakala, 48, of 2031 Center St., Casselberry, Friday and took a $350 television, deputies reported.

Theron Edward Simpkins, 70, of P.O. Box 152, Fern Park, reported to deputies that a fishing box and gear worth $200 were taken along with a tool box and about $400 worth of tools were taken from his garage at 1791 Carlton St., Longwood, on Nov. 19.

A video recorder worth $400 and an undetermined number of tapes were stolen from Universal Home Video, Inc. of 5425 Lake Howell Road, Winter Park, between 9:45 p.m. Thursday and 10:16 a.m. Friday, according to a report manager Michelle M. Batten, 19, of Winter Park, filed with deputies.

The 1983 Dodge of Angelo Katsanos Jr., 40, of 1046 Hampshire Court, Winter Park, was stolen Thursday or Friday. Deputies report the car is worth $5,000.

A thief took the 1976 Datsun pickup truck of John Charles Kelly, 42, of Semoran North Apartments #2512, Winter Park, from outside his home. The $2,000 truck was stolen Thursday or Friday, deputies report.

A $12,000 Label Print System computer was stolen from the car of Richard H. Wheeler, 43, of 105 Ridgewood Court, Longwood, while the vehicle was parked at his home between 8 p.m. Thursday and 7:30 a.m. Friday. Deputies report the thief may have used a pry tool to open the driver's side door of the car.

Lady Raiders Succumb To Pressure, Lose 1st

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Succumbing to Panola Junior College's full-court pressure, Seminole Community College's Lady Raiders found themselves trailing by a wide margin early Saturday night.

And, unlike Friday night when they came back from an early 18-point deficit, the Raiders couldn't comeback as the powerful Fillies (from Carthage, Texas) rolled to a 95-71 victory and the Lady Raider Tournament title at the SCC Health Center.

Panola bolted to a 26-10 lead after 10 minutes had elapsed in the first half and the Fillies went up by 20, 41-21, with 3:23 left in the half. SCC then used its full-court pressure to get back within 12, but that was as close as the Raiders could come as Panola took a 49-33 halftime lead.

SCC came back within 12 early in the second half but again could come no closer.

Panola kept the pressure on the Raiders most of the game and forced 34 SCC turnovers. The Fillies hit 53 percent from the floor (36 for 68) and 72 percent (23-32) from the free throw line while SCC managed just 36 percent from the floor (26 for 72).

Panola's victory snapped SCC's three-game winning streak. The Lady Raiders, 3-1, return to action Wednesday when they travel to Cocoa to take on Brevard Community College.

The long trip from Texas for the Fillies was definitely worth it. After driving straight through for Friday's game, Panola came out blazing and quickly disposed of South Georgia. The Fillies kept right on firing Saturday night as they jumped out to a 10-4 lead with four points each from Jackie Ginns and Robin Mazur.

SCC came back within two, 12-10, before Panola reeled off 14 straight points to take a 26-10 lead with 10:05 left in the first half. The Fillies went on to take a commanding 20-point lead,

J.C. Basketball

41-21, with 3:23 left in the half.

The Lady Raiders then stepped up their defensive pressure and it paid off on the offensive end. SCC outscored Panola, 12-4, in the next two minutes to cut the lead to 12, 45-33, with 1:08 left in the half. Tammy Johnson scored four points in the rally and Vikki McMurrer hit 4 of 4 free throws.

Panola then came back with four straight points to take a 49-33 halftime lead.

SCC came back with four straight points to open the second half, the first bucket coming on a layup by Johnson on Juana Coletti's assist and the second, Kim Lemon's layup, cut Panola's lead to 49-37.

But Panola kept the pressure on the Lady Raiders and forced five turnovers in the next three minutes as the Fillies built their lead back up to 20, 58-38, with 17:40 left in the game.

Panola went up by as much as 26 and the Fillies wouldn't let the Raiders back in the game. SCC finally cut the deficit under 20, but that was with just two minutes left to play.

Johnson led the way for SCC with 19 points Saturday but she hit just 8 of 24 shots from the floor. The freshman point guard also handed out six assists, grabbed five rebounds and had three steals. Pam Lee added 16 points on 7 of 17 shooting from the floor and the sophomore guard also handed out four assists.

Coletti chipped in with 10 points and 10 boards while McMurrer added nine points and seven rebounds before fouling out. Freshman forward Elizabeth Dietrick, a Lake Howell High graduate, came off the bench to score seven points, including 3 of 3 from the free throw line.

HILLERY LEADS STETSON WIN
DELAND — Sanford's Dieldre Hillery

had her most productive game of the young college season as she pumped in 20 points in Stetson's 93-67 rout of the University of Tampa Saturday at Edmunds Center.

The Lady Hatters improved to 3-1 with the win and will be back in action Thursday night at 7:30 at the University of Central Florida.

Junior center Dallas Boychuck led the Lady Hatters with 25 points and 17 rebounds and Hillery added 11 boards. Freshman guard Linda Nunez, a Lake Brantley High graduate, added four points.

SCC Finds Unusual Way To 4th Setback

TAMPA — Seminole's Community College's Raiders didn't lose on a last-second basket Saturday night, but they did find a rather unusual manner of dropping their third straight game.

Trailing Florida College, 68-53, with just 2:10 remaining, coach Bill Payne pulled his team from the floor and left the gym rather than continue in a game which he said was "improperly officiated."

"Florida College was an intense team and we are a pretty intense team," said Payne about the Raiders' fourth loss in nine outings. "We could see that the end result was going to be a fight. Their coach (Bobby Owens) agreed. It's unfortunate that it happened, but it did."

Payne was assessed three technicals before his departure, apparently stemming from a noncall when a Florida College player hung from the rim. "It was a circus of errors," said Payne. "Things are always pretty tough on the road, but this wasn't a homer job by any means. The officials just let the game get out of hand."

The Raiders played Florida College tough the first half as Lenny Grace and Kenny Edwards spearheaded the scoring assault which left the Raiders down by just two, 34-32, at halftime.

Payne shook up his starting lineup for the game as supersub

Rob Brantley and 6-6 center Willie Strother each drew their first starting assignment. Brantley finished with two points and Strother with zero.

Grace and Edwards, though, were the only Raiders to hit double figures. Grace fired in 9 of 14 shots and 1 of 2 free throws for 19 points. Edwards finished with 10 points.

"We just can't get the ball to go into the basket," said assistant coach Dean Smith. "That's been our problem the last three games. We shot a little better Saturday (43.9 per cent), but we still missed a lot of easy shots."

Henderson Gets His Way As Tribe Claims Tourney

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Even though he's only a sophomore, and in his first year of varsity competition, Rod Henderson had no qualms about carrying the load Saturday night when the game was on the line.

"Rod came to me and said, 'Put me at number 2 (shooting guard),' " informed Seminole coach Chris Marlette. "He wanted the ball."

And he got it. The first time came with 11 seconds to play in the third quarter. Apopka had cut Seminole's lead to 49-48. The Tribe cleared out for Henderson and the 6-3 sophomore drove to the hoop, picking up the foul. His two free throws gave Seminole a three-point edge.

Again in the fourth quarter, Apopka pared the lead to one point, 55-54. Henderson doubled his pleasure this time. With 5:59 to play, he beat his man for a bucket on a clear out. The next time down the floor, he drew another foul and converted both free throws.

Apopka never seriously challenged after that and Seminole walked away with a 72-63 victory and the first championship of the Seminole Sunrise Kiwanis Invitational basketball tournament at Seminole High School.

Henderson, who finished with 23 points, joined tournament most valuable player Kenny Gordon and James Rouse as Seminoles on the all-tournament team. New Smyrna Beach's Brian Span, Apopka's Keith Johnson and Titusville's Barry Clinger were the other selections.

Seminole, which whipped Titusville handily on Friday, came out of the box quickly Saturday night, too. The 'Noles hit just about everything they threw up en route to a 29-17 first-quarter lead.

A nice feed from Robert Hill to Rod Alexander gave the Tribe a 20-10 bulge and a rebound bucket by Henderson just before the first-quarter horn jumped the lead to 12 points.

The Seminoles, however, were just as cold as they were hot in the second quarter. Apopka, though, wasn't much better as it could manage just 16 points, too, as Seminole took a 41-27 halftime edge.

After Henderson scored to open the second half, Seminole went 9:14 without a field goal. Only four free throws by Hill and Henderson in the last 29 seconds of the quarter kept the Tribe on top, 52-49.

After two free throws by Kent Elmore trimmed the lead to 55-54, however, Henderson moved to number two guard and it was curtains for the Blue Darters. Henderson scored and a clear out, then added two free throws.

With Seminole holding a 59-56 edge, Alvin Jones picked Apopka clean and drove the length of the court for a layup and a 61-56 lead with 4:37 to play.

Michael Lowman came back with a bucket for the Darters, but two free throws by Gordon, a basket by Henderson, two more free tosses by Rouse and a three-point play by Jones iced the game for Seminole.

Defenses Dissolve For Dolphins (45-34), Bucs (27-14)

MIAMI (UPI) — The Los Angeles Raiders and Miami Dolphins put on a fireworks exhibition in the Orange Bowl Sunday and may make it July 4 all over again in about a month.

The Raiders' defense turned out to have more firepower than the Dolphin offense as Los Angeles came away with a 45-34 victory. The win moved the defending Super Bowl champions to the brink of an AFC wild-card berth. The Raiders, 10-4, own a two-game lead on the New England Patriots for the final wild-card entrance with two games remaining.

The Dolphins, 12-2, had already clinched both the AFC East and home-field advantage in their first playoff game. So it could well be the Raiders will be back for an encore the last weekend in December for a playoff showdown.

"I think this is going to be good for us to know what to expect," said cornerback Mike Haynes, who intercepted Dan Marino twice — one going for a 97-yard touchdown and the other setting up a TD.

"They have the big-play offense, but we try to make things happen on defense too," Haynes said. "Hopefully we're better on defense than they are on offense."

Dolphin defensive end Doug Betters is eager to get even.

"It looks like we might get another chance at the Raiders somewhere down the line, so at this point in the season, we can't just throw our hands up and say we're losers," Betters said. "They got us this time, but we'll be looking for them next time."

Haynes opened the scoring with his 97-yard return. The lead then seeped into the fourth quarter when Los Angeles went ahead for good at 31-27, on a 75-yard pass from Marc Wilson to Dokie Williams.

Less than two minutes later, Haynes returned his second interception 54 yards to the Miami 15. Marcus Allen carried three times, going over from 6 yards out on his last try to make it 38-27.

MUD CAN'T SLOW COFFMAN
GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Green Bay tight end Paul Coffman was wallowing in his success — literally — after the Packers' 27-14 victory over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers Sunday.

Although rain turned the field into a muddy mess, it didn't hamper Coffman, who caught three second-half passes for 54 yards. But he ended up mud-packed in the process — a condition he passed to Coach Forrest Gregg.

"I gave him the game ball, and he was so gratified he gave me a hug," Gregg said, a gesture that left the coach almost as soiled as the player. "Coffman did that to me on purpose."

The coach also got the dirty end of the deal during the team prayer after the game, when the still muddy Coffman was at his right hand.

"When Forrest grabbed my hand, I still had the mud ball in my hand," Coffman said. "It was kind of late to drop it out, so we grabbed hands and I still had this big ball of mud there."

While the Packers laughed about the poor field conditions and their four second-half touchdowns, Tampa Bay coach John McKay saw little humor in it.

Lady Seminoles Rout Howell, 8-0

After taking more than enough soccer balls on the chin during their formative years, the Seminole girls soccer team was very receptive find Lake Howell as Saturday's first match opponent.

The Lady Silver Hawks are initiating their soccer program and Seminole kicked in the offense against the new kid on the block en route to an 8-0 victory at Seminole High School.

Vicki Pakovic booted two goals and assisted on two others as the Lady Seminoles broke to a 3-0 first half lead, then added five more goals in the second half. Versatile Janet Hauck got the scoring started when she tallied on a breakaway. Pakovic then scored on a feed from Ginger Fussell. Pakovic then passed to Cindy Benge for another score and a 3-0 lead.

In the second half, Sherri Rumler scored twice, once on an assist from Rachelle Denmark. Pakovic added her second goal

Coach Bill Eiselle's Lady Rams dropped a tough 3-2 verdict to Lake Brantley Saturday as Pam Anderson kicked home two goals.

In another nailbiter, Lyman's Lady Greyhounds slipped past Orange Park, 1-0, Saturday at Orange Park. Karen Abernethy booted in a 20-yarder with 7:45 to play for the only goal.

"We played pretty good defense in some areas," said Lyman coach Tom Barnes. "Laura Russell did a real good job at outside fullback."

Lyman goalie Lisa Chatman recorded eight saves, although Barnes said he was only severely tested one time.

In boys' action Saturday, Lake Mary's Rams successfully opened their season on the road with a 6-0 victory at Colonial. The Rams host Oviedo Wednesday night with the varsity game at 7 p.m. and the junior varsity match at 5 p.m.

Lake Mary's big weapon was Andre Sanders, who pumped in three goals in the first half as the Rams built a 4-0 lead. Sanders got the ball rolling when he scored on a corner kick header for a 1-0 lead. He later booted in a missed attempt by Tom Misuraca and also scored on a pass from Jerry Meyers.

Paul Holmes, who assisted on Sanders' goal, outran the Colonial defense for a 5-0 lead just two minutes into the second half. Misuraca fed Louis Rosen for the final goal with just seconds to play.

In other soccer action, Lake Howell received two goals each from Mike Serino, Tim Heffernan and Jeff Phillips en route to a 8-0 blanking of Orlando Boone.

Celtics Learn Quick Lesson, Blow Out Cavaliers, 122-99

United Press International
This time, the Celtics were taking no chances. On Saturday night, Boston trailed Cleveland at halftime and had to rally in the fourth quarter to escape with a 110-104 triumph. One night later, they demonstrated they had learned their lesson.

The Celtics took control early Sunday night, jumping to a 34-22 advantage after one period and coasting to a 122-99 blowout of the Cavaliers. For Boston, 15-1. It was its ninth straight victory and broke the club's 1957 mark for the fastest start after 16 games.

"The record doesn't faze me a bit," said Boston coach K.C. Jones. "But I know the players use it as motivation and a goal to shoot for each game."

Cleveland coach George Karl has seen the Celtics two straight nights and he's convinced they are the NBA's best club.

"They're playing better right now than any other team I've seen thus far," he said. "They have a lot of pride and character and they showed it to us tonight."

Elsewhere, Philadelphia beat New Jersey 114-112 and Chicago edged the Los Angeles Lakers 113-112.

Palmer's Birdie Garners Victory

BOCA RATON (UPI) — Arnold Palmer came from behind to win his second straight Quadel Seniors Classic golf tournament at Boca Grove Plantation.

Palmer birdied the 18th hole from 15 feet Sunday to blow past day-long leader Orville Moody. Palmer closed with a 5-under par 67 on the 6,750-yard course to finish at 11-under 205, edging Moody and Lee Elder, a pair of Senior PGA Tour rookies, by one stroke.

Moody, the former U.S. Open champ, bogeyed the 17th hole, missing par from 3 feet, to finish with his second straight 71 and 206. Elder birdied the first three holes on the back nine and No. 18 from two feet for a closing 69.

Ueberroth Leads Off With Hit

HOUSTON (UPI) — Impressive as a leadoff hitter in Sunday's media softball game, Peter Ueberroth now faces a hardball assignment.

To get something going at the winter meetings. The meetings officially begin today with the commissioner scheduled to make the opening remarks.

He singled and scored the game-winning run as the leadoff hitter in the media softball game, but it will take more than that to pump some life into this convention.

So far, only two transactions have taken place, not exactly what a public relations-minded commissioner wants.

Thompson: Patsies Help Hoyas

United Press International
While defending the national championship, Georgetown coach John Thompson often finds himself defending the Hoyas' weak early-season schedule.

No. 1 Georgetown, after clobbering a couple of Hawaiian teams, returned to the continental U.S. Saturday to thrash Southern Connecticut 80-46 at the Capital Centre in Landover, Md.

The Hoyas started the season by beating Hawaii-Hilo 81-47 and Hawaii-Loa 74-45. Why is the nation's best team playing these guys?

While it seems impossible, Thompson says there is something garnered from these mismatches.

"Anytime we play in December or January, we're looking to get organizational and structural work done," he says. "I think it's important for us to be able to play defense and to chase teams that might be smaller than us."

"I think there is always something gained in any game you play."

Hall: Gators Best In Nation

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Galen Hall says his team is the best collegiate football squad in the nation, bowl or no bowl and no matter what anyone else says or thinks.

"I've been reluctant to say this in the past," Hall mused after his Florida Gators whipped the Florida State Seminoles, 27-17, Saturday. "I'm going to say it now because I truly believe it: We're the best team in the nation."

Hall, who got his job at the depths of Florida's worst football scandal, won't get any arguments from Florida State University Coach Bobby Bowden.

Bowden said Florida was the best squad FSU has faced this year — probably the best in the nation.

And Bowden personally credited Hall, who went undefeated after succeeding the fired Charlie Pell three games into the season, with salvaging what's left of the Gators' good name.

"What happens in the bowls happens in the bowls," Hall said of the Gators not getting a chance to prove in post-season play that they are the best in the nation.

"I think this football team is very deserving of this ranking. I've been with some very fine football teams in the past, and I think overall this ranks up there with the best."

"The only way we could beat those folks was to play errorless football," Bowden said. The Seminoles lost three of their eight fumbles and tossed away an interception — killing two deep drives with errors.

"Florida is the best team we've played this year and probably the best team in the country," Bowden said.

Freshman Kerwin Bell threw two touchdown passes and senior Bobby Raymond booted a pair of field goals to lead Florida to its season-ending win.

The seventh-ranked Gators — hit by 59 NCAA rules violations that deprived them of a Sugar Bowl berth and may yet cost them the Southeastern Conference crown they won on the field — also got an 8-yard touchdown run from Lorenzo Hampton to extended their dominance over their intrastate rival to four years.

FSU, scheduled to meet Georgia Dec. 22 in the Florida Citrus Bowl at Orlando, opened the scoring with a 23-yard field goal by Derek Schmidt. But the seminoles trailed 24-3 until a 10-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Kirk Coker to flanker Jesse Hester brought them within 14 points.

With 1:14 left in the game, Seminole quarterback Eric Thomas hit tight end Pat Carter with an 8-yard scoring pass for the final TD.

Florida wound up with a 9-1-1 record, including an SEC-leading mark of 5-0-1. FSU, ranked No. 13 going into its regular season finale, wound up 7-3-1.

Florida is appealing the severity of the three-year NCAA probation, but has not contested the 59 rules violations it was cited for.

Jackson's Sour Move Leaves Sugar For LSU

United Press International

Fans across the nation are second-guessing Auburn coach Pat Dye's decision when they probably should be criticizing a wrong move by Bo Jackson instead.

Trailing 17-15 with 3:27 left Saturday against Alabama, Dye opted to try for a touchdown on a 4th-and-goal from the 1, instead of attempting an easy field goal.

Brent Fullwood was knocked for a 3-yard loss when Jackson, acting as a blocker on the play, went in the other direction. The Crimson Tide held on for the victory, depriving Auburn of a berth in the Sugar Bowl.

"We had a sure touchdown," said Dye. "but, if I had known Bo was going the wrong way on the sweep, I would have gone for the field goal."

Still, Robert McGinty had a chance to win it for the Tigers with 14 seconds left, but missed wide left on a 42-yard field goal attempt.

Auburn's loss was LSU's gain. The 15th-ranked Bengals, 4-1-1 against them in the 91-year history of the rivalry. After the loss, Texas officials met and decided to accept a bid to play Iowa in the Freedom Bowl.

Flutie began his remarkable Saturday by throwing for 276 yards and three TDs in a 45-10 rout of Holy Cross. Afterward, the pint-sized quarterback was whisked to New York, where he was named the 50th winner of the Heisman Trophy at the Downtown Athletic Club.

Flutie, the major-college all-time leader in passing and total offense, set NCAA career marks of 10,579 passing yards and 11,317 yards of total offense before leaving the game early in the fourth quarter.

"These kids deserve it (the

Football

Cotton Bowl)," said Houston coach Bill Yeoman. "They have absolutely busted their backsides. We'll worry about Flutie when we get to him."

That means Texas, which was crushed 37-12 by rival Texas A&M, is headed to Anaheim, Calif. for the inaugural Freedom Bowl on Dec. 26.

Houston, 7-4, beat SMU this year and thus will head for Dallas. The Mustangs, 9-2, finished their season Saturday night with a 38-21 victory at Nevada-Las Vegas.

Despite a 7-4 record, the Cougars emerged as the league's representative after one of the most balanced SWC races ever. For the first time, the league titleholder had two conference losses.

The Longhorns were a disappointed bunch after allowing the Aggies to score the most points against them in the 91-year history of the rivalry. After the loss, Texas officials met and decided to accept a bid to play Iowa in the Freedom Bowl.

Flutie began his remarkable Saturday by throwing for 276 yards and three TDs in a 45-10 rout of Holy Cross. Afterward, the pint-sized quarterback was whisked to New York, where he was named the 50th winner of the Heisman Trophy at the Downtown Athletic Club.

Seattle's 'BlitzKrieg' Guarantees Playoff Appearance

United Press International

The Seattle Seahawks have launched a blitzkrieg in their NFC West war with the Denver Broncos and Los Angeles Raiders.

Quarterback Dave Krieg, continuing his rapid improvement, Sunday passed for 294 yards and a club-record five touchdowns in leading the Seahawks to a 38-17 victory over the Detroit Lions.

The victory was Seattle's eighth in a row and, combined with Denver's 16-13 loss to Kansas City, enabled the Seahawks to move into sole possession of first place in the AFC West with two games left in the regular season. The Seahawks are now tied with the Miami Dolphins for the best record in the conference.

The win also guaranteed Seattle's appearance in the playoffs for the second straight season.

"He's gotten better with every game he's played," Seattle guard Reggie McKenzie said of Krieg. "I'm just sorry I won't be around for several more years to play with him, because he's going to get a lot better."

Krieg, who has led Seattle to a 19-6 record since taking over as the team's starting quarterback midway through 1983, completed touchdown passes of 7 and 13 yards to Steve Largent and 4 yards to Daryl Turner in the first two periods, giving the Seahawks a 21-17 lead at the end of a see-saw first half.

After a scoreless third quarter, Krieg hooked up with Turner on a 51-yard scoring aerial to boost the advantage to 28-17 less than two minutes into the final period.

His final TD pass was a 5-yarder to Mike Tice in the fourth quarter that extend Seattle's lead to 38-17 with 6:57 remaining.

Krieg completed 27-of-38 passes before being relieved by Jim Zorn. His five touchdown passes extended his club-record total to 29 for the season. Largent's 12 touchdown catches for the year also is a Seahawk record.

In other NFL games, the New York Giants defeated the New York Jets 20-10. Cincinnati nipped Cleveland 20-17. Buffalo topped Indianapolis 21-15. Dallas trimmed Philadelphia 26-10 and Houston edged Pittsburgh 23-20 in overtime.

Also, St. Louis whipped New England 33-10. San Francisco beat Atlanta 35-17. Green Bay downed Tampa Bay 27-14. The Los Angeles

Rams beat New Orleans 34-21 and the Los Angeles Raiders downed Miami 45-34.

At Kansas City, Nick Lowery kicked three field goals in the fourth quarter, including a 42-yarder with 1:56 remaining, to give the Chiefs their victory. Lowery also hit field goals of 46 and 28 yards in the final 15 minutes to help the Chiefs snap a four-game losing streak.

At East Rutherford, N.J., Phil Simms passed for 252 yards and guided a ball-control offense to help the Giants remain in a first-place tie in the NFC East with Dallas and Washington.

Simonsson Pushes Wilander To 5 Sets Before Losing

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — The next time Mats Wilander plays fellow Swede Stefan Simonsson, you can bet he'll be on his toes.

Wilander advanced to the quarterfinals of the $1.5 million Australian Open Monday, but needed five sets to stop Simonsson 2-6, 6-1, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3.

Wilander, the defending champion, who will lead Sweden against the United States in the Davis Cup final later this month, struggled throughout the first set and Simonsson, who is ranked 133rd in the world, was quick to take control, winning the set.

However, a rain delay of 45 minutes seemed to knock Simonsson out of his rhythm, enabling Wilander to fight back to even the match.

After dropping the third set, the 20-year-old Wilander began to put some pressure on by using a string of blistering service returns. He tied the match by taking the fourth set 6-2 and took command of the deciding set when he flashed backhand passing shots past Simonsson to break his opponent and lead 4-3.

Wilander, the fourth-ranked player in the world, lost only three more points from then on.

Wilander will now meet Davis Cup teammate Stefan Edberg in the quarters.

WORLD

Security Tight For Meeting Of European Common Market

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) — Ireland imposed security measures even stricter than those enforced during President Reagan's visit for the opening today of the Common Market summit attended by 10 European leaders.

The talks were expected to center on problems over the entry of Spain and Portugal to the European Economic Community by Jan. 1, 1986.

EEC leaders are awash in technicalities over a wine surplus that is costing more than $700 million a year to store and distill.

With Spain producing 40 percent of Europe's wine, wine producing EEC countries France, Italy and West Germany are debating criteria for Spain's entry into the community.

Even if the wineiasco is solved in Dublin, there is the problem of allowing Spain's fishing fleet to use Common Market waters. Spain's fishing fleet is as large as that of the 10 present EEC members combined.

British officials are pessimistic about meeting the deadline for Spain and Portugal's entry because it will take at least one year for all 10 national parliaments to ratify an agreement even if the leaders reach one.

Rebels To Renew Road Attacks

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas warned of renewed attacks on the nation's highways beginning today, a day after claiming they killed 60 U.S.-backed troops in a seven-hour battle near the capital.

Rebel Radio Venceremos, which reported the battle Sunday night, said rebels would resume attacks on highway traffic "directed primarily at sabotaging the transport of coffee, cotton and sugar cane," El Salvador's main exports.

The short-wave rebel radio said the guerrillas wounded 43 troops and captured 46 others from the U.S.-trained Nonaleco Battalion in Saturday's battle in the town of El Salto, in La Paz province, 24 miles southeast of San Salvador.

It also claimed two lieutenants were among the 60 dead troops and that another lieutenant was captured in the fighting, which came a day after the rebels held the second round of peace talks with the U.S.-backed government.

IRA Member, Soldier Killed

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Security forces stopped a van laden with explosives, triggering a gun battle that killed a member of the outlawed Irish Republican Army and a British soldier near the Irish border.

Two men, including a convicted IRA bomber who escaped from prison last year, were captured by Irish police Sunday after a massive search on both sides of the border for an undetermined number of men who fled the van.

Hussein, Mubarak Ignore Threat

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Jordan's King Hussein and President Hosni Mubarak dismissed a threatened air attack on Parliament and addressed Egyptian legislators before flying to the site of their final round of talks today.

The leaders of the two Arab nations, which restored diplomatic relations two months ago, were expected to discuss Hussein's proposal for an international peace conference to resolve the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Hussein, visiting Egypt for the first time since the two nations severed ties over Cairo's 1979 Camp David treaty with Israel, will also meet with Egyptian newspaper editors in the capital today before leaving for Amman, Jordan.

On the second day of Hussein's visit Sunday, the two leaders addressed Parliament despite a threat received by Egyptian authorities that an unnamed country had planned to bomb the building.

Following a 1½-hour closed-door meeting Sunday, they issued a statement calling for Israel's "complete, and not partial, withdrawal from Lebanese territories."

Couple Sues Dentist

A former area resident and her husband are suing an Altamonte Springs dentist for leaving part of a dental instrument in her tooth after he performed a root canal.

Nancy and Richard Richmond filed suit Thursday against Ronald L. Behner, of 943 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs. The Richmonds' attorney, Rodney Blankenship, of Winter Park, said the Richmonds used to live in the area but now live out-of-state. He said he could not say where they lived or now live without contacting them first for approval.

They are suing for an unspecified amount of damages in excess of $5,000. The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. No trial date has been set.

According to the suit, Behner performed restoration and re-treatment work on Mrs. Richmond in November 1982. During a root canal, Mrs. Richmond asserts, a dental instrument broke and was left impacted in the tooth.

She states that Behner caused a breach of health care duties. She states he did not warn her of the dangers of the procedure and also failed to send her to a specialist, she states.

As a result of the incident, she states she has suffered pain, disability, disfigurement, mental anguish, loss of the capacity for the enjoyment of life and medical and dental treatment.

Her husband is suing for loss of his wife's services, comfort, association and attention.

BETTYE SMITH
CAPABLE COMMITTED CARING
 November 12, 1984
 Dear Friends,
 Tuesday, December 4th, you will be voting for a candidate for the office of Mayor of Sanford. That date marks the beginning of a new era for our city, and the choice you make is a critical one.
 My name is Bettye Smith, and I am a candidate for that office. My education includes a MA, a BA with highest honors, and a Police Standards Certificate, all earned after I was 40 years old, and had raised my three sons.
 My leadership experience includes being Chairman/President of the following: Salvation Army of Seminole County Advisory Board, Seminole Youth Planning Council, Henry Sanford Museum Board, and Seminole Mutual Concert Association. I have served as a member of the Board of Directors of the following: Sanford Woman's Club, Florida State Association of Victim Assistants, Florida Historical Society, and Seminole County Historical Commission.
 To prepare myself for the Mayor's job, I have been attending City Commission meetings for over a year. I've studied the budget, and ask questions of department heads and of the City Manager. Since June, I have sat on the Planning and Zoning Commission, seeing some land-use problems for myself. I am qualified and knowledgeable about city affairs.
 I have one Campaign Promise: To serve with integrity, intelligence, and a sensitivity to the needs of all citizens.
 My husband, Dr. Robert Smith, joins me in asking that you consider me on December 4th.
 Thank you,
Bettye Smith

Runaway Hotline Gives Teens, Parents A Break

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Because you advertised the Runaway Hotline last November, our 15-year-old son came home to us after being on the bum for five months. We didn't know if he was living or dead.

Please run the same column again before the holidays for the thousands of runaway kids who really want to come home but are ashamed to make the first move. Thank you.

DANNY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Here it is: DEAR ABBY: Our problem daughter, not quite 17, ran away from home 14 months ago. She had been giving us a rough time for about a year — skipping school, staying out late and lying to us constantly. After a noisy scene, she stormed out of the house with only the clothes on her back. We didn't have a clue as to where she went.

Only a parent who has lived through this kind of nightmare can realize what we went through. After a year of heartaches and sleepless nights, we were told by the police to give up and assume she was dead. But parents never give up. We continued to search and hope and pray that she'd return to us one day.

Well, our prayers were answered when, out of the blue, we received a telephone call from someone who said he was a volunteer with Runaway Hotline (formerly Operation Peace of Mind) in Houston. (We live in Michigan.) We were told that our daughter had read of the toll-free number in "Dear Abby" and she wanted to let us know that she was well and happy in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The volunteer said our daughter would call him again on the following morning in case we had a message for her.

We told him we would welcome a collect call from her. Sure enough, she called us the next day! She sounded wonderful and she said she was working and was going to night school to finish her education. This story has a happy ending. Our daughter is coming home for Christmas!

Abby, will you please publish that toll-free number again so other runaway kids can establish communications with their families? Our daughter said that she had seen your column with the number posted near telephones where runaways hang out.

We will never be able to thank you enough for giving us the happiest holiday we've ever had!

GRATEFUL IN MICHIGAN

DEAR GRATEFUL: Runaways, call this toll-free number: 1-800-231-6946. If in Texas, use this number: 1-800-392-3352.

An operator will take your call and telephone your parents anywhere in the United States with a message from you. There will be no lecturing or reprimands. Your call will not be traced. And only one question will be asked: "Do you need anything?" If you do, you will be told where you can get it, free. I repeat, no attempt will be made to contact you or bring you back home — regardless of your age.

If you are a runaway, I beg you to forget the past and send a message to your parents now. They will sleep better tonight and so will you. And you will all have the best holiday season you've had in years. God bless you.

ABBY

P.S. Runaway Hotline was established 11 years ago by a handful of public-spirited volunteers with the support of the governor of Texas. To date it has placed over 700,000 calls from runaways, assuring their families that they are OK. Beautiful!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I agree that trick or treat should be abolished. When our children were small, we followed the crowd and went along with it. When they came home after touring the neighborhood, there would be squabbles over which sibling had the better "haul." Much of what they brought home gathered dust until Christmas. Then it was thrown out.

Each year Halloween grew increasingly repugnant to us. As you say, "It's legalized blackmail" — a poor concept to instill in children. Finally after several years of dreading Oct. 31, I thought, "Why should I go against my principles to follow the sheep?" So, instead, on Halloween we took out children to a restaurant for a festive dinner.

They never felt deprived, and I hope they respect us for holding out against a bad custom. It's a shame more parents don't put down a firm foot and behave like responsible guardians.

MOTHER OF SIX IN WORCESTER, MASS.

DEAR ABBY: After reading your column against trick or treat, I am hoping more people will do something to end this potentially dangerous custom. Last year when I was president of the PTA, we had one big Halloween party for all the students and their siblings. Out of 400 students, 375 attended. Over 75 parents volunteered to chaperone, and we had more donations of food than we knew what to do with.

This is our second year, and I hope it will always be a tradition at the Alleghany School — Pride of Lindenhurst!

Planned Aircrash Boom Or Bust?

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — Safety officials will spend several months poring over test results of the planned crash of a jetliner which burst into flames despite carrying a special fuel designed to prevent the kind of fireball that kills passengers in otherwise survivable accidents.

The weekend crash of the Boeing 720 was designed to test airliner safety improvements, especially a special fuel additive that was supposed to prevent a fireball.

Federal Aviation Administration officials said Sunday that it appeared two fires erupted after the plane belly-flopped on the Mojave Desert floor Saturday. The first was a giant fireball that enveloped the plane and went out in a few seconds.

But a second fire that burned about an hour and gutted the inside of the craft perplexed the people running the test.

Observers said the special anti-misting fuel additive may have been responsible for the first fire being so brief, but they were baffled by the second fire, which would have made the crash virtually unsurvivable.

"We didn't expect to see that much flame (in the first fire), but then we didn't think we would see it die off that quickly. It will take months to evaluate all the data," said NASA spokesman Larry King.

Also under scrutiny from the unprecedented $11.8 million test will be such safety equipment as seat belts and fire-resistant windows that hopefully may save the lives of hundreds of future air travelers.

The plane was flown from the ground by remote control. It glided down from 2,000 feet at 170 mph, belly-flopping on the desert floor and striking several pylons designed to puncture the fuel tanks.

The resulting fire was so intense that some monitoring equipment inside the plane was destroyed and firefighters ran out of foam while trying to extinguish the flames from the second blaze.

Officials of British-owned Imperial Chemicals Industries Americas, the firm based in Wilmington, Del., that developed the anti-misting substance, had predicted their product would keep the fuel from igniting into a fireball.

"I think we'll have to look at the question of if it was impact survivable," Bill Metten of ICI Americas said after the blaze, refusing to describe the test as a success or failure.

Other aspects of the demonstration were ruled a success. "It looks like they accomplished what they set out to do," NASA engineer Larry Montoya said.

Shades Of Kitty Genovese Murder

Neighbors Who Ignored Screams Now Help

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two days after neighbors ignored a Brooklyn woman's screams in a slaying reminiscent of the 1964 murder of Kitty Genovese, police say they are getting cooperation in the search for a second suspect.

Luis Rivera, 14, was arrested Saturday and charged with second-degree murder for the death of Barbara Miller Purvis, 37, in the courtyard of a housing project in Brooklyn early Friday.

Police are seeking a second suspect, described as being 6-foot tall and in his 20s.

The killing at the Gowanus Houses recalled the slaying of 28-year-old Catherine "Kitty" Genovese in 1964, in which the woman's cries were ignored while she was raped and stabbed over 30 minutes.

As in the Genovese case, people ignored the woman's cries for help.

Police said the two assailants punched the woman, who was on her way home from a bingo game, in the courtyard of the project. They then dragged her into the foyer of the building and shot her twice.

Police said Purvis' screams began about 12:55 a.m. The first call to 911 came at 1:08 a.m. and a second call was received after the gunshots at 1:13 a.m.

Police interviewed 600 residents in the project and "there were an awful lot of people" who heard Miller's screams of "Help, police ... No, please don't," Sgt. Robert Moeser said.

Although neighbors did not intervene when Miller was being attacked, Moeser said, they were helping police in their investigation.

"As far as cooperation is concerned, we are getting cooperation from the neighborhood," he said.

Some residents said they did not hear anything Friday night. Others said loud screams are not unusual in the housing project.

"I didn't pay no attention," said one woman from behind her door. "You know, whatever happens outside, I don't pay no attention."

In the earlier case, Genovese died at 3 a.m. on March 13, 1964, just three doors from her home in a middle-class neighborhood.

Thirty-eight people told investigators they had heard or seen the killer stalk, rape and stab Genovese in a 30-minute period. Not one of those 38 witnesses called police. They said they didn't want to get involved.

The one man who did — after Genovese was already dead — consulted a friend first, then went to another neighbor's home to make the call.

Winston Moseley, a business machine operator, was later convicted of murdering Genovese.

U.S. To Intensify Push For Democracy In Chile

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan administration is increasing pressure on Gen. Augusto Pinochet to move toward democracy in Chile, but is not considering any kind of sanctions, U.S. officials said.

State Department officials said in weekend interviews that a six-week analysis with the White House, Pentagon and other agencies has led to greater contacts with Pinochet's government and its critics.

Pinochet's November 6 state of siege order and growing repression of opposition protest has been in stark contrast to moves from military to civilian rule in neighboring Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay.

The United States already has departed somewhat from its "quiet" diplomatic style to publicly criticize Pinochet. But the administration continues to believe strident public condemnations of repression by the Carter administration had little impact on Chile, officials said.

"The Chilean government knows that they're putting their relationship with the United States at risk," said one State Department official. "The question is, does it matter to them."

The officials indicated that even though the administration is frustrated by its lack of military or economic aid leverage with Pinochet regime, it will not seek to block international economic aid to Chile.

Officials said U.S. opposition to development bank loans to Chile under the Carter presidency "didn't turn Pinochet around on things." In addition, the cutoff of U.S. military and economic aid to Chile in the mid-1970s took away "some of the elements of leverage."

U.S. officials have pushed Chilean authorities to accept democracy, fearing that unless it does so the Communists and the Manuel Rodriguez Patriotic Front, a Cuban-supported group that U.S. officials liken to Nicaragua's Sandinista Front, would gain power.

Union Activist, Priest Tortured?

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The Solidarity underground said a union activist and two dissident priests were kidnapped and tortured, while a human rights group accused authorities of covering up the abduction of five other union members.

The reports Sunday were the latest in a series of charges of police brutality by Solidarity, the trade union banned in October 1982, and human rights groups since the murder of pro-Solidarity priest Jerzy Popieluszko.

Three secret police officers have confessed to kidnapping Popieluszko Oct. 19 near the northern city of Torun and killing him. A police colonel was reported Friday to have been charged with instigating the crime.

A statement issued by the Solidarity underground leadership Sunday said a 42-year-old union activist died two days after being abducted, beaten and tortured in the southeastern town of Lublin on Oct. 19.

The union said Stanislaw Chac, a Solidarity leader in a Lublin automobile plant, was found unconscious on a street Oct. 20 by ambulance workers who had responded to a police call notifying them of his condition and whereabouts.

The statement also said two pro-Solidarity Catholic priests in Lublin, the Rev. Eugeniusz Kosciolko and the Rev. Zenon Ziomek, had been abducted and tortured before being released.

Grenada Holds Elections

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada (UPI) — The sounds of conch shell horns and tin drums ushered in Grenada's elections today, considered crucial to the restoration of political stability on the Caribbean island invaded a year ago by U.S.-led troops.

A heavy turnout was predicted for the more than 48,000 Grenadians registered to vote in the elections for the 15-seat Parliament, which will replace a nine-member interim advisory council.

About 200 security troops from surrounding Caribbean states are providing security for the first elections in eight years. Officials said first results would be released by midnight.

On the final day of campaigning Sunday, U.S. officials said the pro-American New National Party, led by former Chief Minister Herbert Blaise, appeared to be benefitting from a ground swell of support.

Analysts said, however, a low voter turnout could mean victory for the right-wing Grenada United Labor Party, led by former Prime Minister Eric Gairy, which has a smaller but more dedicated following than the NNP.

Dry Mouth, Weight Loss Bode Ill For Diabetic

DEAR DR. LAMB — I just turned 59 and I'm also a diabetic. I take 30 units of insulin a day and feel fine, but sometimes my mouth becomes so dry that I can't even talk. I also have lost some weight, going from 175 to 155. However, the main problem is that I have trouble getting an erection. I have the desire, but lack the ability. Is this due to diabetes? If so, what doctors should I see?

psychological problem, but is often due to an endocrine disorder or disease involving the circulation or the nerves to the penis. That is why I think that unsolved cases often deserve an evaluation by an endocrinologist (a specialist in hormone problems).

To give you more information

DEAR READER — Your first step should be to review your situation carefully with the doctor who manages your diabetes. I am quite concerned about your combination of symptoms. The dry mouth may be from dehydration. Diabetics who are not properly controlled, or those who need insulin and don't get it, often lose a lot of water. The water is used by the kidneys to dilute the glucose that is leaking out of the kidneys.

You also mention weight loss, which occurs in diabetics who are losing a lot of calories because of sugar in the urine. You certainly need to know whether your weight loss is from uncontrolled diabetes or whether it is a result of your efforts to control your weight.

Finally, impotence in a diabetic is often a sign that the nerves that control blood flow to the penis have been affected. It is a form of diabetic neuropathy. Therefore, you can see why your diabetes needs a careful review immediately.

Diabetics often develop impotence. However, both diabetes and impotence are so common that it is not surprising when both exist together, even when the impotence is not caused by the diabetes.

Now that impotence has come out of the closet and it is recognized as a frequent medical problem, a lot is being learned about it. In an experienced male, it is usually not caused by some

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

San Francisco expert Ron von der Porten is the co-author with Charles Goren of an interesting book called "Introduction to Competitive Bidding" (Doubleday & Co.). Based on an earlier work along the same lines, it incorporates some modifications to conform to recent advances in bidding theory. The writing is clear and concise, and I believe readers — even those in the expert category — will find the book helpful.

The current deal is based on an idea from the book. If you are South and hear your right-hand opponent open the bidding with one diamond, you should overall with one heart, despite holding only four cards in the suit. This could be your last chance to get into the bidding. If you do not act immediately, there is a good chance you will get frozen out of the auction. In fact, if you do not bid now, spades will be bid and raised by the opponents, making it risky for you or partner to compete at the three level.

If you decide to start making some tactical one-level overcalls on four-card suits, remember that the suit itself should be strong, thus diminishing the likelihood that opponents will want to double you for penalties at such a low level.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY DEC. 4, 1984

Opportunities that could result in an enlargement of your financial base will be forthcoming between now and your next birthday anniversary. This will enable you to enjoy the better life you've been hoping for.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Financial conditions look hopeful at this time but money you've been expecting might be delayed. Pace yourself accordingly. Looking for Mr. Right? The Matchmaker set can help you in your search. Send for it today by mailing $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) When conversing with friends today in social situations, don't introduce weighty topics. Heavy subject matter could sour everyone's mood.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Do good deeds for others today without expecting pats on the back. If you put strings on your gestures, you may get tangled in them yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't waste your time and breath today debating with someone who has a closed mind. Save your ideas for those who will appreciate them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be mindful of the ripple effect today. Don't do things to gratify short-term interests because you could end up with problems later.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're quite capable of sizing up situations accurately today, yet others may put doubts in your mind and cause you to act against your better judgment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could become so heavily involved in helping others sort out their affairs today that you'll ignore your own duties.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Have fun and enjoy yourself today but remember tomorrow is a work day. If you forgo your beauty sleep, you'll regret it in the a.m. when the alarm clock rings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This can be a very productive day for you as long as you're left to your own devices. If another starts ordering you about, you're apt to resign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't let your grace and good humor desert you if the other guy starts to win in friendly competition today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Material gifts for others have their significance, but you must still be mindful of your financial limitations. Don't buy what you can't afford.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You may encounter someone today who is strongly opposed to your views. Even though it will be difficult, try to maintain a congenial attitude.
