The member able to devise the least clear and most confusing phraseology and presentation in the articles and items, for example, at the end of the sessions would be voted the most popular on the panel and be given a game of Scrabble. How eise can you explain the product?

In most of the cases, each of the nine revisions contains some good and some bad elements. But it's an all-or-nothing situation. You either vote for each individual revision or you vote against it. Poor planning indeed.

The best example of the muddled nature of the proposals is Revision 7 dealing with finance and taxation. You almost have to be a cost accountant or financial genius to decipher the individual elements.

Our recommendation: if any part of any of the individual revisions is not clear to you, or if you like some of the elements in each item but not others, then vote against the whole thing.

That's the only sensible approach.

We do recommend, as we did earlier, passage of Revision 3 calling for single-member legislative districts. We believe it will help bring government closer to the people.

But back to the entire ballot. It doesn't even clearly explain what your "yes" or "no" vote really means. For instance, you might vote yes, and it would mean just the opposite of what you ntended. Or vice-versa.

And then to top it off, we are being urged through advertisement to vote in-toto for the revision package because so many dedicated citizens spent so much time formulating it. And because it will be the last time we can change the state's constitution for many years. We are being asked to vote for change for hange sake.

We disagree strongly with this approach. Before you tinker with a basic document like a constitution, you must make certain the changes proposed have been given proper deliberation,

It would be better to let our elected legislators o some of that — correcting, altering, suggesting any changes through law that might remedy

VIEWPOINT

This is indeed shaping up as the biggest year ever for foreign tourism in the United States. On Travel Service is looking for a year-end total of at least 20 million visitors from abroad, up some 8 percent over 1977.

Europeans have been arriving at a rate almost 30 percent above last year's and the yenladen Japanese, maintaining their ranking of the last several years as the largest overseas contingent, are more numerous this year by some 20 percent. Their year-end total should top one

The tide of foreign travellers to the United States has been rising for some time, doubling in the past decade alone. A number of factors are involved — increasing prosperity throughout most of the non-Communist world, price alashing in air fares, proliferation of special tourist packages and charter flights and, most recently, the depreciation of the dollar. The United States, once affordable only to the jet set and business elite, has become a bargain vacation destination. for citizens of superhard-currency countries in

As a consequence, there has been a missing change in the visitor profile. Masses of middleclass tourists and even blue-collar groups on package tours now account for the bulk of the

There also has been a change in U.S. estinations for the visitors. New York and Washington still head the list, but foreign travellers are increasingly exploring the American hinterland, a development to which the rapid expansion of international air connections has contributed massively. With gateway points for overseas flights, tourists are exploiting to the full the wider choice of U.B. arrival points.

And now a word about traveling Americans. They certainly are. Departures for overseas 1977, and this year will top that figure easily.

Frances Lommerse of Upsala Road, Sanford, will leave Tuesday for Kansas City, Mo., where she is scheduled to receive the American Farmer Degree on Thursday at the National Future Farmers of America (FFA) Convention. Frances, who will be 30 on Nov. 11, will be only the second Seminole County youth to receive the highest degree awarded by the National FFA organization since 1999 and the third in history.

She follows her sister, Virginia, who received the honor The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lommerse, Frances is a 1976 graduate of Seminole High School, where she was active in the FFA Chapter for four years. She held several chapter offices and served for one year as sub-district

Frances was neminated for the degree by the Florida FFA Asm. The nomination was approved at a recent meeting of the National FFA Board of Directors in Alexandria, Va.

She will receive a travel award to offset her travel expenses to the convention sponsored by several large corporations. Each American Farmer Degree recipient will be presented a gold key and certificate. The degree is much sought-after because it is presented to approximately one member in 700 of the 507, 108member organization. It is given only to members who have demonstrated exceptional agricultural and leadership achievements. Frances works in the family business, Dutch Mill Nursery Inc.

"I do planting, clean up the greenhouse, serve customers or do just about anything that has to be done," Frances expla She earned the degree because of her work experience and leadership activities.

"You have to earn at least $1,000 in agriculture and fill in an 18-page form to send to state and, if nominated, it goes to national where candidates for the degree are voted on," said Frances.
