Grand Jury Said To Have Brought Three Bills In Death Probe

Shepherd And Faiman Said to Be the Two Named in True Bills; Officers Are Shown Alleged Scientist Waives Immunity

Indictments Expected Today; Shepherd Protests Innocence

CHICAGO, Mar. 18.—Charges of "murder by inoculation with typhoid germs" were contained in three bills said to have been voted late yesterday by the grand jury investigating the death of typhoid fever last December of William McClintock, orphan millionaire.

Previously Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, had announced the jury would be kept in session until William D. Shepherd, McClintock's foster-father and chief heir to his estate of approximately $1,000,000, and C. C. Faiman, former delivery wagon driver, but more recently head of a school of bacteriology, had been charged formally with responsibility for the McClintock death.

Faiman followed his confession of the early morning that for a promised $100,000 from the McClintock estate he had provided typhoid fever germs and schooled Shepherd in administering them to McClintock by signing a waiver of immunity and going before the grand jury.

The dapper little claimant of three degrees from universities which denied his pretensions, was before the grand jury one hour and 45 minutes, more than three as long as any of four other witnesses questioned.

He was followed quickly by Harry Olson, municipal chief justice, who started the McClintock investigation shortly after the youth died.

Dr. George Fosberg, who had reached Shepherd discussed germs and poisons with him, and J. W. Marchant, former agent for Faiman's National University of Science, who told of a letter Shepherd had written regarding a course in bacteriology, were Wednesday's witnesses.

Pending before Jacob H. Hopkins, chief justice of the criminal courts is a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, returnable at 2 p. m. Wednesday at which time Crowe agreed to release Shepherd unless a murder indictment meanwhile had been returned.

Motor Cars Deemed Essential To Growth Of German Industry

MUNICH, Mar. 17.—Germany's economic life will remain in its present "paralytic condition" until it effects a mass production of motor cars and goes about its reconstruction problems in a thoroughly modern way, according to F. J. Popp, director of the Bavarian Motor Works.

In Germany a lack of automobiles Herr Popp sees the biggest handicap to economic and industrial progress which the nation faces, and he urges an abandonment of the archaic idea that a motor car is a luxury and should bear a tax of 15 per cent.

The mass production of motor cars can never attain the same proportions in Europe that it does in America, Herr Popp declares. He estimates that only persons in Germany who earn 2,000 marks, or about $600 a month, can afford cars, and says there are probably 1,000,000 Germans who have this much income. On this basis he estimates the annual yearly production of cars for local use at about 200,000. At present Germany is producing about 30,000 motor cars a year.

The first car of better was shipped to New York in 1880 by Governor Hoard, of Wisconsin, proving the value of the refrigerator car to the world.

PERUVIANS ARE AROUSED OVER CHILIAN AWARD

clamer and retain its place in the saddle, may have to make a sacrifice of the officials most closely associated with the American arbitration, including Ambassador Velarde. Not only has he represented his government in Washington while the case was under consideration here, but he was one of the Peruvian delegates to the Lima conference here in 1922, and signed the protocol that placed the decision in the hands of the president of the United States. Aside from any pressure from home the ambassador also has been counselor by some of his friends to quit his post voluntarily as a personal protest against the award.

Such a withdrawal would be short of a severance of a diplomatic relation—a step which the government at Lima does not seem likely to take. Nevertheless, it would be regarded as a regrettable outcome of the arbitration, constituting an unusual contribution to Latin-American misunderstanding.

Mr. Velarde, when asked today in Washington, declined to make a statement. Late embassy officials came forward with the denial, apparently by agreement under such circumstances.

Coolidge Would Have United States "Trim" Balance Of World But Not In Fleeing Fashion As Critics Accuse

By HARRY HUNT

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18.—President Coolidge is, as has often been observed, a cautious man. Yet dollars to doughnuts the Coolidge caution will be increased, not relaxed, when he prepares his next public address.

For there was in the Coolidge inaugural address one phrase that proper caution would have kept out. It was a good phrase, and as Coolidge meant it it fitted his idea exactly. But for less serious minds it was susceptible of a double interpretation.

"Discussing American opportunities in relation to the world situation, in his address, the president said:

"One great duty that stands out requires us to use our enormous powers to trim the balance of the world."

Doubtless the president meant "trim" in the sense of equalizing or adjusting the stability of the world.

But "to trim the balance of the world," in popular understanding, might also mean that we were out to "fleece or short change the rest of the world."

Next to the president's mechanical horse, this slip in phraseology offers the best opening his opponents have had for a bit of "spoofing" at the executive's expense.

Representative Frank Clark of Florida, defeated for re-election, doesn't mind joking a bit about the boost in salaries which Congress voted itself just before it adjourned.

"The way Congress took this increase," says Clark, "reminds me of an old acquaintance of mine, a heavy drinker, who finally decided to swear off. He hadn't been on the wagon long, however, before he was taken ill—so ill he thought his wife would die. So he called her 'Mary,' he said, 'down in the hall is an old trunk of mine. Down near the bottom is hidden a bottle of good old peach brandy. Now, Mary, I'm about to die, and I want you to do this for me. Get that bottle. Take a glass and pour it about half full. Put a bit of ice in it and a little piece of ice. She'll be an and bring it here. Then, Mary—no matter what I do or say—make me take it.'"

One typical passage at arms as a result of the salary boost was that between Willis of Ohio, Democrat, and Martin Davey, Ohio Democratic member.

Willis was quoted in his house state news the day after the Senate passed the increase.

"When the measure came in in the House and Davey supported it, he said: 'I'll get a hand mail. Then I'll send Willis and they'll be in a situation which may be foreseen as one of

The TALL is the size for PICNICS

IT'S great, isn't it—to live where picnics happen all year round? Not just one-meal picnics, but you stay out all day, playing in the sunshine—or maybe you take a week's trip in your old car, with a big hamper of good eats on behind.

It has to be big, for the youngsters eat like young hyenas. Of course Dad and Mother and Aunt Ella just peck at their food. Dad may be won't eat more than half a fried chicken, three plates of cold slaw, six sandwiches, three cups of coffee, and a half dozen doughnuts.

Some job—to find room for it all in the hamper. And picnics aren't picnics if anyone goes hungry.

One way to save space—take Borden's Evaporated

Milk. You can easily carry two tall cans (the equal, when diluted, of two quarts of fine rich milk) in the space taken by one quart thermos, and no fear of breaking.

Make cocoa for the children (but save enough Borden's to use undiluted in the coffee). And what savory things you can stir up in the old frying pan! Just smell the salt pork sizzling as you prepare some old-fashioned pork and milk gravy. Hot dishes always make a hit on picnics. And they're so easy when you have plenty of milk.

No, We Feed the Meter Constantly

One of the Frank Crane copyrighted articles deals with the phrase, "Pay as you enter, only Dr. Crane takes it from its place on the street car and pastes it over every career in life.

Everything worth while in life, Dr. Crane contends, we must pay for in advance. This argument needs no diagram when he speaks of the careers that result from long years of study and labor. It is easy to agree with him that "the only person who will be a great pianist is the one who first pays the price, the price of devotion, study, and hard work" and that "after the price is paid the pianist may be famous or may not be, but in any case he must pay before he gets on."

But as sometimes happens in Dr. Frank Crane's excellent writing, his reasoning goes a little bad when he explains in this same article that unless you pay in advance the purchase is dearer. "All arrangements for deferred payments," he writes, "simply means payment of larger sums."

In other words, then, the argument should be that everything in the world costs something. We really seldom "pay as we enter". The doctor, the lawyer, any professional man who studies and labors to make himself ready to enter a career is not paying in advance, as Dr. Crane says. He is getting his pay every day in the pleasure and the satisfaction of making himself ready for the career in which he hopes to achieve fame. The pay is a continual feeding of the meter, in one way and another. And we keep it up to the last breath we draw.

Dr. Crane made two or three sticks of space filler and drew his pay, but he knows, as we all know, that it is the "deferred payments" we must take care of. Every added obligation, every added sense of gratitude, and thank Heaven this sense grows along with the years, mean more fares for the conductor who has no way of making you pay as you enter until he sees how far you intend to go.

What Do They Think Of Us?

If there were a way of getting it, a symposium of the opinions held by Florida's departing visitors would be of amazing interest.

All winter long, of course, there have been many interviews published in Florida newspapers, and many letters from "A Tourist" in publications that have no objection to anonymous communications. But the interviews were mostly studied attempts to please the natives, and the letters were usually ill-natured criticism.

And in the meantime thousands of visitors are carrying with them opinions about Florida that would be of inestimable value for Florida to have as subject for meditation and debate, in its own home circle.

For instance there was the little girl on her way to her home in Wisconsin, who, when asked what she liked best in Florida, immediately replied "Oh, the colors, the beautiful colors. I like the pink houses and the green filling stations and the blue roofs and orange awnings. And, Oh, the bright-colored flowers! Florida is such a happy-looking state."

In several of the most prosperous communities of Florida, that color idea is understood. Houses are painted all the hues of a flower garden. Business blocks are more gorgeous with bright-colored decorations. Sometimes a business block six or eight stories high down on the East Coast is colored a brilliant blue. And the effect is good. There is none of the grime and smoke of the northern town to mar the bright colors given to concrete and wood in Florida. And the consequence is Florida towns can add immeasurably to their attractiveness through the use of brilliant colors, and the use of the soft pastel shades that are so suitable for dwellings of a certain type.

The father of the Wisconsin girl is an architect who has traveled much in foreign countries, and he followed the comments of his daughter with some well thought out remarks about the need in this state of direction in the use of color. "I agree with my daughter," he said, "in enthusiasm for the colors Nature has given Florida. And it is great to see that your people are refusing to put drab, depressing buildings under your glorious skies. But I should counsel the establishment of neighborhood associations for the adoption of a neighborhood color scheme. Neighborhood associations are a fine thing, anyway."

Then he talked along that line, expressing opinions that Florida could capitalize the excellent purpose. These strangers see us from a point of vantage, and they probably see us with all the influence provided by perspective and proportion.

A symposium of their opinions, good and bad, would help us to grow faster, and better.

THE HEART is the organ through which the spiritual body manifests Love. We cannot use our spiritual body except through our mind. Every one uses his heart center when he sends forth a loving thought. When we get the first glimpses of this Almighty Love, we are not troubled that some of its rays fall on ungrateful places, we are so joyful over our own shining. There is nothing Love cannot do. It can melt down every unlovable, disagreeable thing. Love will overcome all evil by dissolving and transforming it as the great sun transforms matter. All we have to do is to just shine, radiate. So we must be sure to let this Love, the life-giving principle, shine.—Unity.

BE STRONG and of a good courage; be not afraid, for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest.—Joshua 1:9.

LIFE OFFERS stranger coincidences than fiction. A Cleveland judge placing a wreath on Washington's tomb at Mt. Vernon on Washington's birthday, turned around to see his wife drop to the ground, dead. Heart failure said the doctor.

Thus the judge, paying homage to a dead man in the name of Ohio Masonry, remains to mourn his own dead.

You read this and are interested. But it is not death that is interesting. It is how you die and where.—Sarasota Times.

MAY I CALL HIM A LIAR?

MACON TELEGRAPH

Mr. Darwin's theory of evolution seems to apply to that institution which we sometimes guffawingly—sometimes testily—refer to as senatorial courtesy, as well as to our physical characteristics. Truly, evolution of our manners is progressive, as witness the incident in the United States Senate Saturday.

Mr. Ernst, of Kentucky, felt the urge to call somebody a liar—but whom, Mr. Ernst did not make clear, but he wanted to call that somebody a liar badly. Under Senatorial rules, senators are not liars; and under senatorial courtesy, it is not a nice thing to call a senator a liar. Therefore, Mr. Ernst had to observe all the amenities of the rules and of courtesy. He walked down the aisleway to-

The President's Right. Killing with Germs. Bonfils Startles Us. What a Girl Should Be.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1934)

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE says "the unbroken practice of three generations of permitting the President to choose his own Cabinet should not now be changed."

The people that elected Mr. Coolidge with seven million votes, to spare would surely vote to let him choose his Cabinet, holding him responsible for what the Cabinet does or fails to do.

It is preposterous to make a man responsible for a job, and let others choose the tools with which he shall work.

NEVERTHELESS, the Constitution demands that the Senate pass on Cabinet appointments, and there is the rub. The people who believe that Mr. Coolidge has chosen in Mr. Warren a thoroughly honest, capable and conscientious man for Attorney-General believe also that his nomination should be confirmed by the Senate.

IN THE Shepherd case in Chicago, the prosecution deserves thanks for good work.

A young man, very rich, made a will leaving all he had to his guardian, William D. Shepherd. Soon thereafter he died of typhoid. The charge is made that Shepherd, the boy's guardian, planted the typhoid germs in the body of his ward to cause death and get the money. Shepherd denied that he knew anything about typhoid or typhoid germs, and promised to make somebody suffer.

NOW A WITNESS swears that Shepherd in a laboratory studied disease germs and inquired into the possibility of administering typhoid germs without detection.

The witness swears that after Shepherd left, a vial containing deadly typhoid germs was missing. Such murders, especially with the connivance of a physician, could be committed ninety-nine times out of a hundred with impunity. How many such murders have been committed to obtain inheritance or life insurance?

IN OMAHA a murderer, serving a twelve year sentence for killing his wife, is fighting to collect $1,500 life insurance on the wife he murdered. And he may get the money. The District Judge explains that, while the law forbids "inheriting money through an act of violence," an insurance policy is a contract and even murder may not cancel it.

MR. BONFILS in his Denver Post publishes the news that for every bathtub in the United States there are three automobiles.

A meeting of sanitary engineers is started by the information, but the Bonfils' announcement is just another proof of progress.

Queen Elizabeth who had a thousand dresses in her closets, did not have any bathtub, not even a shower. No wonder she retained her title, "The Virgin Queen." Three automobiles to one bathtub isn't as bad as a thousand dresses and no bathtub. There is progress.

BESIDES, an air bath is almost as good as a water bath. Bathing the inside of the lungs with fresh oxygen may be more important even than bathing the outside of the body with fresh water.

ONLY ONE person at a time can bathe in the same bathtub, whereas from five to ten can take an air bath in each automobile. Everything you read indicates progress.

Roman emperors and their very rich courtiers had bathtubs. And once only a few Vanderbilts and others equally rich had automobiles. Now millions have bathtubs and automobiles both.

BARNARD College authorities tell what "a normal young woman must be."

"She must be able to jump 3 feet 2 inches, throw a basketball 25 feet, run 25 feet in 4.4 seconds; climb 4 feet and vault a height of 3 feet 8 inches. She must have a straight line posture—no curves to front or back or sides, and she must have clear eyes, nearly red cheeks and a ready smile."

YOU wonder why nature takes pains to put curves on young women, in front, in the back and on the sides if a young woman really doesn't need the curves. Even the Venus of Milo, noble, majestic creature, is curved here and there, and the beautiful "stooping Evenus" is all curves.

Perhaps there is a useful place in the world for young women, not quite so "normal." Consider the Bronte sisters. They had no red cheeks, and a "ready smile" was rare among them. They never saw a basketball, never vaulted or jumped, but they did something more important.

SWIMMING GAINESVILLE SUN

Swimming, long recognized as a fine and healthful form of exercise, is now advocated by physicians as a positive curative aid in treating persons crippled by infantile paralysis and for persons a little below par or suffering from nervous disorders.

One physician, writing on this subject, declares: "Swimming is valuable in developing the nervous control of the muscles, co-ordination of different groups of muscles, self-control, presence of mind and self-confidence. It develops the heart with out overtaxing it. It is safe from the danger of over-exertion. The body being supported by the water, the patient is relieved of the fear of falling, his comfort is increased, and he is able to exercise his muscles with a freedom not possible on land."

WHAT THOUGHT FORCE HAS DONE SUCCESS MAGAZINE

Have you, who are beating against the iron bars of poverty, ever stopped to think what marvelous things the Creator has everywhere provided for us, His children? Just imagine the entire universe, the great cosmic ocean of creative intelligence, packed with all the riches, all the glorious things, the magnificent possibilities the human mind can conceive, and then try to picture what it would mean to you and to all who are complaining of lack and want if by some magic they could tell out of this universal supply of creative intelligence anything which would match their desires, their heart longings.

Imagine this vast universe, this ocean of creative energy, packed with possibilities from which human beings could draw everything which the wildest imagination could conceive, everything they desire in life, everything they need for comfort and convenience, even luxuries—also cities, railroads, telegraphs and all sorts of wonderful inventions and discoveries. Every discovery, every invention, every improvement, every faculty, every home, every building, every city, every railroad, every ship, everything that man has created for our use and benefit he has fashioned out of this vast invisible cosmic ocean of intelligence by thought force. Everything we use, everything we have, every achievement of man is preceded by a mental vision, a plan. Everything man has accomplished on this earth is a result of a desire, has been preceded by a mental picture of it. Everything he has produced on this plane of existence has been drawn out of this invisible ocean of divine intelligence by his thought force. His imagination first pictured the thing he wanted to do; he kept visualizing this mental conception, never stopped thinking, creating, until his efforts to match his visions with their realities drew to him the thing on which he had concentrated.

THE LAST POINT DEARBORN INDEPENDENT

The question of the establishment of a separate Department of Air Defense may be regarded as settled. But it is no longer possible for anyone to contend that air defense itself has been adequately served by the departments charged with that responsibility. The Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy have, neither of them, anything to be proud of on the showing of the facts. They are right in their contention that Navy Air Service belongs in the Navy and Army Air Service belongs in the Army, but their position would have been much stronger had they been able to show that air service was receiving the attention due its importance in either of these branches. That much is clear from the rumpus stirred up by Brigadier General Mitchell.

There are three points thus far: the advisability of a separate department of air defense; the contention of neglect of air defense by the Army and Navy; the difference of opinion as to the importance of aircraft as an attacking arm at sea. The first two are now pretty well decided. The last remains to be. There is so much contradiction and confusion in the statements made that it seems feasible, a condemned warship being available, that a test be made under conditions that will leave no room for differences as to the facts at least. There will always be differences in judgment, but in such matters as these the actual facts should be easily established and agreed upon. But such a test would only determine what airplanes can do now, not what they may do under further development. It is one thing to say what the limitations of airships may be as an attacking arm in their present experimental stage; but it is quite another thing to say that these limitations, whatever they may be, cannot be removed by further development. What the airman asks for is a chance to develop.

We believe that one safe result of the investigation is that they will be given that chance. In spite of the mistaken tactics and personalities disclosed by the investigation, it has at least opened the eyes of Congress to the wisdom of giving these young airmen a fair opportunity to perfect their art.

DELIGHTFUL PROGRAM OF ENGLISH MUSIC GIVEN AT WOMAN'S CLUB

The Music Department of the Sanford Woman's Club Tuesday afternoon gave under the able direction of its chairman, Mrs. D. P. Drummond, the fourth of a series of musical teas which have composed its program for this winter. This was a delightful afternoon of English music.

Mrs. D. L. Thrasher as hostess for the afternoon, received the guests in an English garden. The club never looked lovelier. Arranged to represent an outdoor scene, it was a bower of bamboo with awning shaded windows and bright wicker furniture. Placed beneath a green garden parasol the tea table was beautiful, the green cover being centered by a tall silver basket artistically arranged with calendulas and fern. Green tapers in silver holders burned at the four corners. Following the program, strawberry tarts, scones and tea were served at the small tables which were centered by a small green pot holding a golden calendula or a green cover.

Mrs. Drummond, in her usual gracious manner, introduced Mrs. W. S. Leak, who was chairman of the program for the afternoon. Mrs. Leak read a most delightful paper on English Music and English composers.

The following program was White sweet peas and fern were delightfully used, being suggestive of St. Patrick's Day. The birthday cake with five candles held the place of honor on the table. It was surrounded by fern.

Many games were played during the afternoon and loll-pops, cakes and candies were served. Favors of green caps and St. Patrick's snappers added much to the pleasures of the party.

Mrs. Perkins was assisted in caring for the guests by Mrs. S. Wiggins, Martha Fitts, Lola Peaks and Annette Shinholser.

Atlanta Crackers Defeat Milwaukee Club At Winter Park Tuesday By Score 9-2

BY M. S. PAGE

Availing themselves of the time honored privilege of taking a day off, the Milwaukee Brewers wandered over to Winter Park Tuesday afternoon and allowed themselves to be beaten 9 to 2 by the Atlanta, Southern League Crackers. In addition to the fact that the team, individually and collectively had no inclination to play baseball, there was pitching of a class hitherto unfaced this season by the Brewers for the two tossers used by the Crackers had been preparing for the coming of the Brewers by playing winter baseball in Florida.

Harry Clark used four of his pitchers before he came to Joe Eddleman who stopped the Crackers cold. Joe took charge of the twirling after Ross, his predecessor, had walked four men in a row. Going in in the seventh, Joe not only retired the side without allowing a run but held the Southern league demons hitless through the rest of the game.

Dennis Gearin began the twirling for the Brewers and, after giving up five hits in four innings, was sent to the dugout. Bell then took up the Brewer's burden but fared no better, allowing two hits in each of the two innings he pitched. Ross, following, issued four passes and then passed himself, willing the proceedings to Joe Eddleman who is now wearing the laurel wreath on his noble brow.

While the Cracker pitchers fared better than did their Brewer opponents, each of them except Clark gave up three hits each in the three innings that each of them pitched. McLaughlin began the game giving way to Bedient who was followed by Clark.

The work of the Crackers was featured by the batting of Zellars who, connected with three hits one of which went over the right field fence for a home run.

The Brewers will have an opportunity for revenge for the Crackers will come to Sanford for a return game on Friday.

Both Clark and Borchert are taking the defeat philosophically, feeling relieved that the team should select the game with Atlanta to give vent to their feelings and not one of the games with major clubs. Nothing wrong with the team was developed, except probably, the need for more practice which can be remedied within a reasonable time.

Following is the score by innings:

Milwaukee	000 010 001 2 7 2
Atlanta	210 032 10x 9 9 1

Batteries: Milwaukee, Gearin, Bell, Ross, Eddleman and Skiff; Atlanta, Clark, McLaughlin and Bedient.

Pestiferous Jack Rabbits Worth More Than Gold In Early Days Alaskan City

CORDOVA, Alaska, Mar. 17.—Washington and other states of the Union might profit from the jack rabbit pest if they killed the animals, powdered the meat and sold it to Alaska fox farmers for summer feed, in the opinion of J. Williamson, owner of the largest fox farm along the Russian River on the Kenai peninsula.

More than 5,000 rabbits were slaughtered by Williamson last winter. The meat was ground, placed on racks over a stove where it was dried, and then pulverized and stored in sacks.

The rabbit powder was mixed with water and vegetables, boiled and served to foxes during the summer, making an agreeable change of diet from fish and porcupine.

Another form of preserving the meat is to pack it when fresh into five gallon oil cans. About 35 rabbits are put into one can. Water is poured over the meat and the can set outdoors until its contents freeze. The can is then thawed and removed from the block containing the meat. The block is stored in ice houses that prevent NOME, Alaska, Mar. 17.—In the early days of Nome coal was more precious than the yellow metal panned from the mountain streams and one the Bering Sea beach.

The places of business that had enough coal were saloons. An old-timer prospector made a coat with a sack inside. Each evening he would go to the "North Star" wine palace and sit down by the bar. When an arm was looked he would place a hunk of coal in his sack and go to the bar for a drink and sit there all night. He did this until the saloonkeeper clearly noticed the sack stuffed with coal. One night the prospector struck gold and filled his sack too heavily so that when he tried to rise the weight dragged him down. Clearly pounced on him, made his dig for the coal and drove him outdoors.

Laughing heartily the saloonkeeper called out: "Everybody step up, the drinks are on me. It's the first time anybody ever mined coal in Pat Cleary's camp."

NURMI QUILTS AND RITOLA WINS N. Y. RACE LAST NIGHT

Phantom Finn Was Leading Rival By More Than Half Lap When Indigestion Forces Him To Abandon Event

NEW YORK, Mar. 18.—Willie Ritola, Panva Nurmi's most consistent challenger for distance records, defeated his ancient rival last night in a five thousand metre match race, the feature event of the Knights of Columbus meet in Madison Square Garden.

Nurmi quit three laps from the tape after setting a dazzling pace, leaving Ritola an undisputed victor in one of the greatest races ever run in the famous garden.

Four laps from the finish Nurmi suddenly slackened his pace, placed his hand to his side and came to a walk. He tried to resume the race, but, after competing half a lap, quit the competition and left the track.

At the time of his ailment Nurmi was leading Ritola by almost a half lap and from all prospects would have chopped several seconds off the world's record.

The time for the 5,000 metres was 14:33 3-5, 10 2-5 seconds slower than Ritola's own world record for that distance.

Nurmi suffered an acute distension of the stomach from eating meat a few hours before he took part in the race, and was unable to meet John Ruy and Lloyd Hahn at a mile later in the evening.

Officials of the meet announced that Nurmi shattered two world's records before his withdrawal from the race. He was clocked at the four thousand yards in 10:31, which is 10 1-5 seconds better than the mark made by Ritola in Milwaukee on March 9.

Nurmi also shattered the world's record at four thousand meters when he negotiated the distance in 11:40 2-5 which is 24 4-5 seconds better than his own mark for that distance which he established at the Newark A. C. games in Newark, N. J., Feb. 4.

A check of Nurmi's time up until the distance at which he quit revealed that he also broke the world's record for the two and one half mile mark negotiating the distance in 11:36 1-5, which is four full seconds faster than Ritola's record for the mark, established in Milwaukee March 9.

Alan H. Helfrich, Penn State's middle distance runner, won the Casey 600, the second of the three big features on the program, Cecil Cooke, Syracuse University's negro star was second and Vincent J. Lally of St. Anselm's A. C., third.

Helfrich was clocked at 11:35 breaking the world's indoor record for the distance by one and one fifth seconds, this victory Helfrich wins a leg on the Cardinal Hayes trophy.

Joie Ray, Illinois A. C. miler, equalled Nurmi's indoor record when he won the Columbian mile, one of the features of the meet, beating a hand picked field of four starters in a brilliant race. Ray's time for the mile was 4:12, equaling the time made by Nurmi in Buffalo, Mar. 7.

Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A. star, finished five yards behind Ray with James J. Connolly former Georgetown star, third, 15 yards behind Hahn. Willie Ritola, the only other starter, dropped out during the ninth lap.

CROSS-COUNTRY HORSE RACE TO BE HELD SOON

Argentines Take 1,000 Mile Course To Test Stamina Of Pampas Bred Animals

BUENOS AIRES, Mar. 18.—A horse race of 1,000 miles has been organized here to determine the vexed question of whether the native Argentine horse, or criollo, has a superior in stamina. The pampas bred animal's resistance to fatigue has become proverbial, and many remarkable feats of endurance accomplished by horses of this breed are on record. Nevertheless, in a series of 12 hour races run over the Palermo racetrack last year, the winners usually turned out to be horses possessing one or more crosses of foreign thoroughbred blood. In covering roughly 120 miles in 12 hours, these horses undoubtedly displayed extraordinary stamina and, although the admirers of the criollo are the first to admit the fact, they contend that the trial was not severe enough to test the endurance of their favorites.

Dr. Emilio Solanet, a breeder of criollo horses, has issued a challenge to run two animals of that breed against two horses of any other pure blood whatever, over a distance of 1,000 miles, the competitors to carry a weight equal to that of a cavalry soldier with his equipment. His challenge has been taken up by Augustin de Elia, who will run two thoroughbred horses descended from the English racer Bonnie Dundee, which was imported by Senor de Elia's grandfather more than 70 years ago. The race will take place in April.

Many Years Ago Cedar and Camphor was discovered to be a protector of sweaters and furs from the ravages of the moth. Eight years ago in the City of DeLand, Cedar and Camphor was scientifically combined and placed upon the market under the name of "Cedar Camphor Compound." It has proven wonderfully satisfactory as a safe and sure protector; the odor, also is sweet and refreshing.
