Wilbur is Mentioned by Name and Democratic Chief Tells Crowd He Favors Tax Cut

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—John W. Davis continued his attacks against the Republican party and its record during the Harding and Coolidge administration in a Monday address at Utica. He speaks at Syracuse tonight.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Launching a general attack against the Coolidge administration on questions of foreign policy, tariff legislation, sectional feelings and mentioning Secretary of the Navy Wilbur by name for the first time since he was recalled to Washington from the West Coast, John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, last night brought his campaign into the New York capital as the guest of Gov. Alfred E. Smith and delivered his second address of the day in the up-state territory.

In the first speech at Schenectady and later, in Albany, Mr. Davis took occasion also to appeal for the success of the state ticket in November.

In his reference to foreign policy questions, Mr. Davis said he could see only two courses open to this country. One was to arm the nation to the point where it need not fear aggression, even from the United States of other powers, and the second was to meet all other powers in conference and build up understandings which would make future aggression impossible.

He pointed out the refusal of the Washington government to attend the Geneva conference called by the League of Nations to consider questions of abolishing wars, of arbitration, of reduction in armaments and the modification of the national laws.

Policy of Drift. "There is neither safety, honor nor glory in a mere policy of drift," said Mr. Davis. "Such a policy leads inevitably to a situation that not only deprives us of the power to make up our own minds, but also the chance to make our will effective when our own right to know whether we have a foreign policy and if so what that policy is."

In reiteration of his charges of corruption in public office during the last three and a half years, Mr. Davis declared that the Republican party "cannot cover its failure to perform its past promises by making new promises for the future."

"The worst crop failure this country ever saw," he said, "is the Continued on page six

Mogridge in fine form and Senators Take Step Nearer Goal of Championship

Circuit Clout By Goslin Is Feature

Barnes, Pitching For Giants is Hit Hard; Attendance is 55,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Washington evened the series, making it two each by beating New York this afternoon at the Polo Grounds by a score of 7 to 4.

With Mogridge and Marberry pitching great ball, aided by hard hitting by their team mates, the Senators took the fourth game of the series and placed themselves in a better position to win the coveted world's championship.

"Goose" Goslin, who got a circuit clout in Sunday's game, again carried a name for himself in the present series by slugging out another homer in the third inning with two on bases. Not only that but the Senator's outfielder, in four times at bat, had a perfect day with as many hits to his credit.

The Senators pounded the offerings of three pitchers for 13 hits while the giants were only able to hit safely but six times. Five pitchers were used in today's contest, three by the Giants and two by the Senators.

The score by innings was as follows: R. H. E. Washington 003 020 020—7 13 3 New York 100 091 111—4 6 1

Manager Harris sent Mogridge, his star left southpaw to the mound to face the Giants and McGraw chose Jess Barnes to do the heavy lifting for New York. Johnson and Nech were again bases each other tomorrow in the fifth game of the present series.

The Giants drew first blood in the first inning by scoring once although not a hit was made. However the Senators came back strong in the third inning and scored three runs, making an many hits.

Goose Goslin, lanky outfielder for the Senators, again made himself a hero by knocking the first ball pitched to him for a circuit clout, the second he has made during the series. The homer roared McNeely and Harris ahead of Goslin. The best the Giants could do in their half of this inning was to do the three up and three down stunt. Two of the batters were retired via the strikeout route.

The fifth inning saw the Senators add two more runs to their credit when three singles and a wild pitch, put them still farther ahead and making the score 6 to 1. McNeely singled and went to third when his captain followed suit and the former scored a minute later when Barnes heaved a wild one. Goslin set his third in as many times up, knocking out a lacin' single.

Baldwin went in the box for the Giants at the beginning of the sixth, relieving Barnes. In their half of this inning McGraw's men made a run when Kelly doubled to right field, went to third on McNeely's out and scored on Wilson's out. The rally stopped short at this point though when Jackson flied out.

The line-ups for today's game were: Washington: McNeely, center field; Harris, second base; Rice, right field; Judge, first base; Goslin, left field; Barnes, third base; Miller, short stop; Buel, catcher; Mogridge, pitcher.

New York: Lindstrom, third base; Frisch, second base; Young, right field; Wilson, center field; Kelly, first base; Meusel, left field; Jackson, short stop; Gowdy, catcher; Barnes, pitcher.

It was three up and three down in the Senators' half of the first inning. McNeely was thrown out, short to first. Harris struck out and Rice was thrown out, second to first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Lindstrom started things well for the Giants by drawing a base on balls, went to second on Frisch's out, second to first. Young grounded out to short who threw wild as first out and Lindstrom scored. Kelly flew out to center. Young went to second on the throw in. Meusel drew the second base on balls of the inning, but both runners died on bases as Wilson was thrown out second to first.

Railroads Protest Amiable Motorists Riding Friends

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 6.—Gentle motorists who give free rides to neighbors, and strangers who regularly solicit "lifts" rather than pay car fare, are seriously injuring electric railway receipts.

GOVERNMENT TO PRESS ITS CASE AGAINST POTHIER

Prosecuting Attorney Will Ask Jury to Convict Army Officer Upon Charge Killing Maj. Alex Cronkhite

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 8.—The Federal Government Wednesday through J. W. Osborne, special prosecutor, stated the case it expects to prove against Pothier, on trial in Federal Court for the murder of Maj. Alexander Cronkhite.

"Maj. Cronkhite died of a bullet wound," Mr. Osborne declared. "We will show that it would have been physically impossible for this wound to have been self-inflicted, either by accident or design. There were only two men present at the time. Pothier and Robert Rosenbluth. One of the two, Pothier, has since confessed that he fired the fatal shot at the instigation of the other."

Will Ask First Degree
"On these grounds we will ask the jury to convict the defendant, Pothier, of murder in the first degree."

Two witnesses were called to identify the spot at Camp Lewis where Maj. Cronkhite met his death October 25, 1918 while on a practice march with the 213th engineers. This testimony was taken in preparation for a visit of the jury to the spot.

Mr. Osborne laid stress on the alleged impossibility of Maj. Cronkhite's wound being self-inflicted and also on the different confession claimed to have been made by Pothier. He told of the investigation made by Gen. Adalbert P. Cronkhite, father of the dead man, and of the subsequent investigations by the department of justice.

During the time Mr. Osborne spoke Pothier sat motionless behind Maurice A. Langhorns, his secretary.
Mr. Osborne told of the organization of 213th engineers, Maj. Cronkhite's regiment; of the assignment of Pothier and Capt. Robert Rosenbluth to the regiment and of the order given the organization for a practice march on October 25, 1918.

Borrowed Revolver
"After the march started, Maj. Cronkhite, who had not been ordered on the march, decided to join it," he stated. "Pothier left the camp with Cronkhite. Before leaving he borrowed a revolver from Sergt. Crook. Ammunition had not been generally issued to the men, but Sergt. Crook had some which Pothier took."

Doctors of Britain Are Opposed to Act Insurance System

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The National Medical Union, which claims to speak for some 16,000 British physicians, is on the warpath against the panel system of medical treatment under the National Insurance Act.

The National Medical Union is now hard at work completing the case which it hopes to establish against the panel system which is to be investigated in October by a Royal Commission whose membership includes Lord Lawrence, chairman; Sir John Anderson, Sir Humphrey Rolleston, Sir Alfred Watson, Sir Arthur Worley and Sir Andrew Duncan.

The union maintains that the panel system leads to inferior doctoring, that panel doctors are unable to give adequate attention to their long lists of patients and that the system is demoralizing and involves pauperization. The forthcoming attack will, it is expected, be the most vigorous yet launched against this phase of the National Insurance Act. Its importance may be gauged by the fact that there are now 15,000,000 panel patients in England, Scotland and Wales.

One charge against the panel system is that the panel doctor, with an enormous list of panel patients, is usually too busy to give them adequate attention. He has private patients in addition to his panel list, and in order to find time for his private patients, it is charged he must take his panel patients at high speed.

British Museum To Naval Schools Of Be Enriched Much South Will Open In By Roman Ruins Month September

HARROGATE, Oct. 8.—Further details of the discovery near Harrogate of the 2,000-year-old Roman city of Isurion make it apparent that the city covered 70 acres and was surrounded by a wall a mile in circumference, nine feet thick, and about 20 feet high.

The find is one of the most interesting made in England for 50 years, and has attracted the attention of noted archeologists of Great Britain and the continent. The excavations were easily recognized as the ancient Roman city by coins and other relics found. Its location is on the exact spot indicated in the sixteenth century maps of Roman Britain.

Already much of the wall has been exposed, including portions of a multi-angled tower. Close by were portions of a building, probably a grain warehouse, with the stone work in perfect preservation. A Roman road 30 feet wide was discovered a short distance from the granary.

Many coins and metal pottery and glassware have been found scattered over the entire city. The work will be continued until the entire city has been uncovered. It is probable that most of the relics will be presented to the British Museum.

The mother who said "What beautiful scenery!" for a daughter who says "What nice parking places?"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The first courses in the newly established schools for reserve naval officers will be operative in October at George Washington University, Washington, D. C., and St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., with half a dozen institutions in line for similar cooperative effort. Among those proffering assistance is the University of Seattle.

Planned along the general line of the R. O. T. C. of the army, the navy schools are designed to furnish select and trained material for the commissioned reserve. It is expected that the privilege of participating in the practice cruise each summer by the academy classes to European ports will be a strong incentive to civilian students.

The course will cover the regular two-year rotation of the college student at intervals of one week. The subjects to be included in the instruction will be general education, the university degree program, and the naval school will be considered as making up the naval reserve and reserve program. While an active duty period training will receive the pay of a midshipman, amounting to $2,000 per month. The first graduates will be in 1925.

Venerable English Fanes Succumb to Eating of Beetles

PETERBOROUGH, Eng., Oct. 8.—Peterborough Cathedral, the great Norman fane which was spared by Henry VIII when he was demolishing church property because it held the grave of his first wife, the ill-starred Katharine of Aragon, has fallen a victim of the death-watch beetle.

The 800th anniversary of the foundation of this structure, whose west front has often been described as the finest portico in Europe, was celebrated ten years ago. Now it has been discovered that the death-watch beetle, for how long it is unknown, has been silently eating away the interior of the great oak beams in the roof spaces of the choir, nave and transepts. So great have been the beetle's ravages that the whole roof structure is in danger of collapse.

The dean of the Cathedral has launched an appeal for $50,000 to remedy the defect. Probably an even greater sum will be needed for the work. This is not the first ancient English structure to be endangered by the death-watch beetle. Its ravages have been discovered in dozens of the old Tudor and Norman roofs. Westminster Hall, built by William Rufus, was reopened only last year, having been closed for eight years while craftsmen repaired the work of the mediæval carpenters which had been gradually eaten away by the destructive beetle.

The roof of Henry VIII's banqueting hall at Hampton Court Palace is now undergoing similar treatment for the same defect. It all shows what constant vigilance has to be exercised in preserving and renewing the ancient English fabrics.

More Than Million Face Fifth Jobless Winter In England

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Great Britain's army of more than a million jobless people is facing the fifth winter of unemployment. The permanent solution of this post-war problem is as far away as ever as the opinion of economists.

Inasmuch as three different governments—Conservative, Liberal and Labour—have dealt with the question, which still exists in solution, it would appear that the problem is one of after-war economics rather than party politics.

For five years the unemployment question has been a sort of "red herring" to whatever political party happened to be in operation. In fact it seems to be a problem that is more readily solved by a simple-minded man than by a politician. The Labour government, and its Liberal predecessor, have the unemployment figures available. £14,000,000, an amount £20,000,000 less than the corresponding figure in your age. This, however, leaves the unemployment at well over a million when it has been for the past five years a few million more than that.

Prof. H. E. Shiver Added Chemistry Staff Of Rollins

WINTER PARK, Oct. 8.—Prof. H. E. Shiver, formerly head of the general chemistry division of the University of Virginia, has been added to the Chemistry staff of Rollins College, according to an announcement made here today. He is a graduate of Clemson College of South Carolina and took his graduate work at the University of Virginia, where he did such pre-graduate work that after taking his graduate degree he was appointed instructor and given charge over the whole division of analytical chemistry. Following this connection Prof. Shiver was for several years research chemist for the South Carolina and Georgia Experiment stations.

The addition of Prof. Shiver to the Rollins staff will greatly strengthen the pre-medical course which attracts a large number of young men annually. Prof. and Mrs. Shiver are members of the Presbyterian Church and it is the new prospect of developing Rollins as a great institution that has brought this ambitious and expert teacher to Florida.

Contestants Running Close With Miss Nell Williams Leading

First Prize— Buick Standard Six

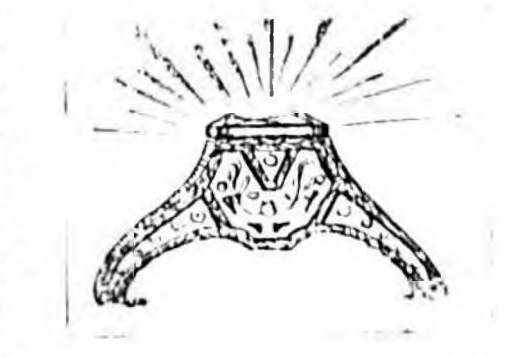

At the first week of the third period of The Herald's campaign ended, Miss Nell Williams regained the lead by polling 432,870 votes and just managing to pass Miss Velma Shipp, who voted 129,390 votes. Miss Vera Woodcock and Miss Naomi Fellows are close behind and so many votes are being polled by these four contestants that it is hard to predict who will be at the top this coming Saturday.

While four of the contestants are neck and neck in the campaign Miss Mary Kinlaw is steadily increasing her standing and is liable to cast one of the first four places and improve one of the other workers. Miss Sarah Cowan and Mrs. M. E. Patterson keep increasing their list each day and are considered dangerous competitors.

Next Saturday night marks the half way mark in the contest. The last half will begin next Monday morning and the final apportionment of contestants will be begun. The voting schedule will again be cut after this week some contestants who secure every possible vote this week will have it easier at the end of the race.

A Special Cash Prize of $10 will be awarded to the contestant turning in the most cash subscriptions during the third period which will end at ten o'clock Saturday night, October 11th.

SECOND PRIZE
$235 Diamond Ring.

$10 WILL BE AWARDED

The young lady who turns in the most cash subscriptions during the third period which will end at ten o'clock Saturday night, will be awarded $10 as a special prize.

The rivalry for this prize is keen and contestants are not only working to secure votes for the grand prizes to be given away at the end of the campaign, but are putting forth every possible effort to get this money, on the side.

To count on this special prize subscriptions must be turned in at The Herald office, before 10 o'clock Saturday night. The Herald office will close promptly at that time.

Rules of Campaign

Any young lady residing in Sanford or Seminole county, over 16 years of age, is eligible to enter this automobile and salesmanship campaign and compete for one of the valuable prizes offered.

The territory is wide open. Contestants can enter from any point in Seminole county and be on an equal basis and have the same opportunity to win.

Subscriptions to The Sanford Herald may be secured anywhere in the United States at the regular rates. All orders turned in at The Herald office must be accompanied by the cash in payment.

A contestant will not be permitted to pool her votes in favor of some other contestant. Votes can not be transferred from one contestant to another.

No employee of The Sanford Herald, or member of his or her family will be allowed to enter this campaign.

A nomination blank, when properly filled out with the name and address of the contestant nominated, will give that person no nominated ten thousand votes. Only one nomination will be credited to any one contestant.

Only one prize will be awarded any one contestant. The winner of the first will not be eligible for any other prize or commission.

Contestants who remain active in the campaign until the close and who fail to win one of the prizes will be paid a commission of ten per cent on the amount they have secured in subscriptions. The Herald wants no contestant to work without remuneration and will pay all those who fail to win one of the valuable prizes a commission of ten per cent provided the contestant remains active until the end of the campaign.

All votes in the campaign to be counted to the credit of contestants in this campaign should be mailed to The Sanford Herald or delivered personally to the Campaign Manager at The Herald office.

The Salesmanship Campaign began Friday morning, August 29, and will end at ten o'clock p. m. Saturday, November 22, 1924.

This campaign is to be conducted on a fair, square and impartial basis and the prizes will be awarded to the contestants securing the largest number of votes. In order that there shall be no question in the minds of any person relative to the fairness of the campaign, The Herald will select three judges who will at the end of the campaign, count the votes that have been cast and will award the prizes to the winners.

Those contestants who fail to live up to the rules of the campaign will be subject to suspension, thereby forfeiting all rights they may have had. Said forfeited votes can not be applied to any other candidate.

The decision of the Campaign Manager will be final in all controversies arising between candidates.

THIRD PRIZE
Edison Phonograph

Another Cut In Votes

The fourth period of the campaign will see another big cut in the voting power of subscriptions. After 10 o'clock on Saturday night the schedule for the fourth period will be in effect and not only will subscriptions count for less, but the ballots which are published in The Herald each day will bring contestants fewer votes.

It is easier to get votes now than it will be next week or the weeks which follow. The voting schedule will be continually decreased. It will not be increased. Subscriptions secured at the end of the campaign will not bring many votes.

The shrewd worker will make hay while the sun shines.
