

Asbestos Contamination Discovered At Disney World

A 4,500-square-foot non-public area at Disney World was contaminated with asbestos during maintenance work recently.

The asbestos, contained in a fire retardant on beams and girders, fell in a non-public building area. The contamination was noticed immediately, according to Wallace Sears, a Disney publicity spokesman.

The incident occurred in May apparently during routine repair and maintenance, he said.

The asbestos that fell dusted some costumes and contaminated the 4,500-square-foot open area. Cleanup was conducted by Disney but a cost estimate was not available, said Sears. Disney is required to report all such contamination if it encompasses an area larger than 160 square feet. He said employees who work in the area have been briefed about what happened and safety measures taken.

Sears said the material has been cleaned up and Disney's safety crews monitor the air daily to check for asbestos fibers. He said the level of asbestos found is within federal safety standards. He said he did not know how long crews have been monitoring the air at Disney but the asbestos has been known about since at least 1973.

Sears said there are several non-public areas at Disney — structures and tunnels — in which asbestos was used during construction in the form of a fire retardant. He said there is no public area containing asbestos at Disney World or Epcot, though he did indicate some of the asbestos is in public areas but separated from the public by other materials.

"There are different buildings and attractions that you go through and part of the construction of those buildings' structural steel has this coating at certain places for fireproofing purposes. It is not in the area where guests are exposed to any of this material. There are things between where that is, and that's like in the very framework and that sort of thing.

"There is nothing that is directly exposed to the guests or to the people who work here," Sears said.

The Magic Kingdom and resort hotels were built between 1968 and 1972, before strict asbestos regulations became effective which was 1973, Sears said. He said safety crews know where the asbestos is, monitor it, and that the hazardous material will eventually all be replaced through routine maintenance.

Disney employs about 17,000 and has up to 130,000 visitors a day.

Study to Cost $31,000

School Lunch To Get Scrutiny

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

A consultant for an extensive study of Seminole County school lunch room food service was hired by the school board during Wednesday afternoon's regular board meeting. The study is to begin by August 1.

Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Company, Orlando, was hired to conduct the six week study at a cost of $25,000, plus an estimated $6,000 in expenses. The food service committee selected the company over 11 others that had submitted proposals to do the work.

The company will send a five member team to examine over 150 points in the school food service program. They will identify opportunities for improvement, make recommendations, and issue a final report when their study is complete, targeted for September.

School board member Bill Kroll pushed last February for the study to determine what can be done to improve the school lunch program. His push was unpopular with food service employees. They saw Kroll's desire for a study as a threat to the "in-house" management of the district's 41 school cafeterias and accused him of trying to hire an outside management firm to run the program.

Kroll denied the accusations, saying "all I ever wanted was more data." The decision to hire a consultant comes after a year when the school food service program experienced a dramatic turn-around financially. The program historically lost money in previous years. In 1984-85 alone, the program lost a quarter-million dollars, and the school board issued a challenge to school food service management and employees: Turn the program around.

The lunchrooms were expected to make a profit of over $100,000 in the 1985-86 school year, and made $70,000 by January 29.

County school business and finance director Carey E. Ferrell said the turn around in the program was due to better food, and more school kitchens, while Kroll said the profit was generated by a meal price hike.

In February, the school board decided to hire a consultant to do the study, and retained management of the food service program in-house for the 1986-87 school year. They also established a food service committee to work with the consultant.

According to Walter E. Whitney of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Company, the study will be extensive and examine the entire food service program, which serves 23,000 meals daily. The program now employs 280 full time and part time workers, and operates at a budget of over $5 million.

A major objective of the study will be on ways to improve food service at "satellite" schools. In the satellite food system, the 18 county schools without food preparation areas are sent meals prepared at other schools.

Other portions of the study include: conducting an organizational overview of the present program; evaluate information concerning the program's personnel, salary structure, and training; assess the purchasing, receiving, issuing, and delivery func-

South Africa Calm Under 'Emergency'

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — South Africa appeared calm today following President Pieter Botha's declaration of a second state of emergency in a year and the detention by police of up to 2,000 anti-apartheid dissidents.

The nationwide emergency declared Thursday gave police sweeping powers to detain people without charge. Imposed severe restrictions on media coverage of black political violence and prohibited calls for economic sanctions.

The streets of the major cities were quiet and apparently normal and there were no reports of disturbances in any of the country's black townships.

Police appeared to have stepped up patrols in the streets of Cape Town, but there was no apparent increase in police

Percy Seeks Lake Mary Commission Seat

Former Seminole County Director of Public Services John Percy has announced he will be a Lake Mary City Commission candidate.

Percy, a Lake Mary Planning and Zoning Board member, will seek the seat of a retiring city commissioner.

Percy and two other top Seminole County officials resigned positions with the county in December after reported differences of opinion with County Administrator Ken Hooper. Percy had been with the county 13 years as county planner and administrator.

Percy, 38, 140 Frederick Avenue, Lake Mary, told the Evening Herald he will seek commissioner Russ Megonegal's post. Megonegal, 64, said May 12 he will not run for re-election because he is moving out of town.

Percy is the first to officially announce his candidacy for Megonegal's job.

Another P&Z board member, Clay Simmons, 41, said last month he was considering a run for Megonegal's seat, but said Tuesday he has reconsidered the idea and will not be a candidate.

"I fully support John Percy's candidacy. He'll make a great city commissioner for Lake Mary," Simmons said.

'I am concerned about controlling growth and making growth pay its own way in Lake Mary.'

—John Percy

Commissioner Paul Tremel, 37, said earlier he will run for re-election this fall, while Mayor Dick Fess, said he is undecided on a re-election bid.

Percy has been a city P&Z board member for a year, and was a member of the Board of Adjustments previously. Both positions are made by city commission appointment. He has been a Florida resident since 1975, and lived in Fern Park before moving to Lake Mary, he said. He is a Twinsburg, Ohio native.

Viet Vets March

CHICAGO (UPI) — The tear-stained faces of veterans, mourning their fallen comrades listed on a sheer, dark wall and their own war-torn youth, showed the aging of the "now" generation at the dedication of a replica of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

Some 200,000 Vietnam veterans and their families trooped to Chicago for a three-day tribute highlighted by a ticker-tape parade through the Loop today in a belated homage to the forgotten heroes of the unpopular war.

The 250-foot wall, bearing the names of 58,022 soldiers killed in the war, was lined with notes, floral wreaths and combat helmets from those whose names were not inscribed on the wall.

Retired Gen. William Westmoreland Thursday addressed about 200 veterans attending the formal dedication under cloud-darkened skies of the monument that is a replica of the memorial in Washington.

Throughout the day, veterans and family members visited the wall in Grant Park to etch the names of their friends and loved ones on slips of paper, to take a piece of the memorial home with them.

During the dedication, Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. forces in Vietnam from 1964 to 1968, described the war as "one of the most selfless and magnanimous actions of a people in the history of the world."

"When our descendants talk about this monument it will be described by the manifestation of a price we paid ... a principle that stands for freedom and self-determination," he said.

Tears flowed freely as the soldiers, many in wheelchairs and others in wheelchairs, joined in the singing of "God Bless America," and at least one man sobbed as he stroked the name

Drastic Increase In AIDS Cases Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A special task force is predicting a drastic increase in AIDS cases — a cumulative 270,000 cases by 1991 with 179,000 deaths — and calling for creation of a national commission to head the fight against the disease.

The anticipated AIDS death toll for 1991 is 54,000, more than annual auto accident deaths. The government's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration reported this week there were 43,800 traffic deaths in 1985 and 44,257 in 1984.

"I think the numbers speak for themselves," Dr. Donald Ian MacDonald, acting assistant secretary for health in the Department of Health and Human Services, told a news conference Thursday. "It's a huge problem."

MacDonald was one of 85 participants in a conference in West Virginia last week that issued a report updating the government's 1985 plan to control and prevent the spread of acquired immune deficiency syndrome by the end of the century.

The participants called for a national commission representing public, private and voluntary sectors to coordinate fund-raising, education and other anti-AIDS efforts, but did not decide who should set up the commission, he said.

"We estimate that in 1991 the medical care of AIDS patients will require between $8 billion and $16 billion," MacDonald said. "Clearly, a national, coordinated response is necessary.

There have been about 21,000 cases of AIDS in the United States, with 11,000 deaths.

MacDonald said, however, "By the end of the year 1991, we expect a cumulative total of 270,000 cases with 179,000 deaths. Of these, 74,000 will be new cases, developing during the year 1991. In 1991 alone, there will be 145,000 who are ill and seeking treatment; 54,000 will die."

A majority of the cumulative total will be among the 1 million to 1.5 million people who are believed to be infected with AIDS virus now, the scientists said. They declined to speculate how many might be infected by 1991.

Cases linked to heterosexual contact are expected to increase from 7 percent to 9 percent of new cases by 1991, but the major risk groups — homosexual men and intravenous drug abusers — will not change, the scientists said.

Although there has been much research progress, no treatments or vaccines are available against AIDS. A vaccine is currently being tested in animals, but even if it passes all tests, it will not be on the market for at least 10 years, said Dr. Anthony Fauci, head of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Disease.

There were no predictions about when anti-AIDS drugs being tested might become available to patients.

Aggravated Child Abuse Charged In Cord Beating

A 21-year-old Sanford man has been charged with aggravated child abuse, accused of beating his 9-year-old stepson with an electrical cord.

The boy was reportedly beaten both with a switch and a cord on May 19. On May 31 he was examined at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford, and reportedly had cuts and bruises on his lower body and legs, a Sanford police report said.

Marvin Renard Knight, of 118 McKay Blvd., was arrested at 4:42 p.m. Wednesday after questioning at the Sanford police station. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Commissioners Approve Radio System Financing

By Sarah Fischer
Herald Staff Writer

The purchase of a county-wide emergency communication system which would "take Seminole County into the next century" took a major step forward Tuesday when county commissioners accepted a proposal from Sun Bank to finance the $5.5 million system.

The 800 megahertz advanced radio and microwave system is expected to be operational within 12-15 months, according to County Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser.

The trunking system is expected to upgrade the county's communications network in terms of clarity, voice transmissions and distance reached as well as bring in first response users.

The present system is outdated and inadequate to meet demands for expansion for interagency communications, first response fire/rescue operations and disaster coordination, Kaiser said.

The network is called a trunking system because it allows computer controlled sharing of channels similar to the concept used by telephone companies. The plan has been in the works for two years, he said.

According to County Administrator Ken Hooper, the county will pledge its sales tax revenues to obtain the financing. A 6.12 percent interest rate on the financing is fixed for five years, he said.

Seminole County Sheriff John Polk Tuesday endorsed the communication system, saying it equals the proposed emergency 911 system in terms of assisting public safety. He urged commissioners to approve the financing.

The county received Federal Communication Commission licensing for the 800 megahertz system last month and will obtain an FCC license for the microwave system after purchase approval, Kaiser said.

Four local cities, Altamonte Springs, Casselberry, Oviedo and Sanford, have expressed an interest in participating in the system, he said, however the costs for municipalities to join in has not been addressed. The county has first response agreements with Altamonte and Longwood.

Court Sentencings

A Liverpool native has pleaded guilty to possession of diazepam and phentermine, both controlled drugs in Florida.

Beverly Ruth Robinson, 20, entered the plea before Circuit Judge Robert McGregor who set sentencing for July 10. She could receive up to a year in jail on each count. Diazepam, also known as Valium, is a tranquilizer. Phentermine is a nonamphetamine appetite suppressant.

Ms. Robinson was arrested following a drug bust in early January.

According to court records, she was arrested in the master bedroom of 480 Tamarack St. in Altamonte Springs when police served a search warrant.

Two codefendants arrested at the same time await disposition of their cases. A third person also awaits disposition of his case in connection with the raid. He was arrested after he called the residence to buy drugs while the officers were searching. An undercover agent agreed to meet with the man and had him arrested by a uniformed officer after he sold him some drugs.

In other court action: —Josephine Colbert, 27, of Orlando, arrested in January after being accused of trying to steal, with an accomplice, two suits from an Altamonte Springs store. She pleaded guilty to grand theft and could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced by McGregor Aug. 19. The accomplice awaits disposition of his case. According to court records, the couple stuffed two suits under the man's shirt while at Marshall's in the Oak Tree Plaza. As they were heading out of the store, they were stopped by a security guard. The man reportedly agreed to go with the guard but the woman continued out of the store. The man then bolted out of the store and in the process jiggled the suits free. Police stopped them a couple moments after the incident and arrested them on grand theft charges.

—Patrick G. Jones, 23, of 1712 W. Eighth St., Sanford, arrested in November after police raided a dice game. He pleaded guilty to gambling. Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Lefler said he would not accept the plea until Jones paid the court costs involved. Jones has agreed to pay. The raid was at Joe's Pool Hall on 13th St., in Sanford.

—Cherrie Thibideau Ruth, 35, of Orlando, arrested in January on a charge of attempting to sell cocaine to an undercover agent. She pleaded no contest to the lesser charge of possession of cocaine, and to carrying a concealed weapon. She could receive up to a year in jail on both charges when sentenced Aug. 13 by McGregor. According to court records, she and accomplices, who await disposition of their cases, met with the agent who said he didn't have any cash to buy the drug. The undercover agent, however, did take their phone number and later called them and arranged a buy. When they met to make the sale, they were arrested.

The following people have been arrested on charges of violating probation:

—Robert Steven Bruno, 21, of Tan Oak Ct., Altamonte Springs, arrested in January, 1984, and sentenced to 3 years of probation and 10 days in jail for possession and delivery of marijuana. For violating his probation, Bruno was sentenced by Lefler to one year of community control, ordered to complete 200 hours of community service, get a GED and stay employed full time.

—Dallas Wright, 33, of Deltona, arrested in September 1984 and charged with carrying a concealed weapon. For violating conditions of his probation he was ordered by Lefler to serve two years of community control, successfully complete a drug abuse program and pay the Public Defender's Office $100.

—David Scott Pills, 27, of Orlando, arrested on a charge that he violated his sentence of community control for burglary. He, however, has asked for a hearing saying he has had five probation officers since July and that the officer who charged him with the violation did so because he is not working two full-time jobs. Pills says he is not physically capable of working two full-time jobs. McGregor has agreed to hear the issue.

Group Seeks To Buy School

Nearly 1,500 meals have been served since April to hungry people in a building owned by Seminole County schools and made available to Manna Haven, the school board was told during Wednesday afternoon's regular meeting.

The district's "Little Red Schoolhouse" building, located at 6th St. and Palmetto St., Sanford, has been used to serve 1,480 free meals since the meal program began April 7. The count was tallied on June 8.

The school board agreed late last year to authorize the Manna Haven hot lunch program to use its building as home for the hot lunch program. Group President Marlane Smith and Operations Director Bob Beckhorn made the report to the school board, as was requested when the board gave approval for use of the building. The Rev. Beckhorn told the board the group would like to purchase the building and make the program a permanent community fixture.

"The response has been well beyond what we expected," the Rev. Beckhorn said, adding, "We expect an even greater response this fall when transients migrate south for the winter."

"We serve good meals, prepared by a nutrition expert. We've even sent flyers home with school students who participate in the (free) school lunch program, so they know they can come and get a hot lunch during the summer."

"We've done what we said we were going to do, and we would really like to buy the building to meet the growing need," he said. The Rev. Beckhorn said that in addition to the meals served, 184 bags of groceries have been distributed through the center, and 138 families received clothing.

"We don't have a lot of cash, but we do the best we can," the Rev. Beckhorn continued.

He said the Manna Haven staff has made employment, health care, drug and alcohol agency, and housing referrals, as well as providing financial aid for prescriptions, bus tickets, household bills, and rent. A wheelchair was also located for an individual, through Manna Haven.

Future plans for the building, beyond the desired purchase, include the addition of air conditioning and modifying the building, Beckhorn said.

Slow Pulses Are Usually Healthy

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is meant by a slow pulse rate? Mine is 46. My blood pressure dropped from 189/90 to 137/86 in three weeks. Should I be concerned about this?

DEAR READER — A slow pulse rate is generally considered to be 60 beats a minute or less. Ordinarily, a slow pulse is normal for healthy persons, especially those who are well-trained or physically active. Some diseases, like an underactive thyroid condition, can cause slow pulse. In addition, many medicines — particularly the beta-blockers — can reduce heart rate.

Your blood pressure was initially high, but it fell to a normal range. Was this because of treatment? If so, your slow pulse may reflect the effects of the medication.

If you are otherwise healthy and take no medicine, I believe your resting pulse of 46 is normal. Keep an eye on that high-blood-pressure tendency, though.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have begun exercising lately, and my ankle cracks when I point my toes. What causes this? Should I see a doctor about it?

DEAR READER — Your ankle cracking during the toe extension may be due to nothing more than increasing flexibility of the anklebones in an individual who is not used to strenuous exercise. As long as the cracking is not painful or does not become more pronounced, I think you can forego a trip to the doctor.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Recently I read about something called female pattern baldness. In which the hair thins on top and the sides but remains thick in the back. This is exactly my problem. It apparently can be successfully treated with Dienestrol cream, which my pharmacist says he's never heard of. Could you please comment on this condition?

DEAR READER — Dienestrol cream is marketed by two major companies. The cream is approved for vaginal application only. It is a female hormone cream that is recommended for use, under the guidance of a physician, in treating postmenopausal vaginal conditions, such as atrophic vaginitis. The manufacturers of Dienestrol cream list many unwanted side effects and do not suggest that the product be applied to the scalp.

Female pattern baldness is similar to male-pattern baldness and is best evaluated by a qualified dermatologist.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

South liked to wax philosophical as he played. "Aces were meant to take kings," he remarked, as he won the opening lead with dummy's spade ace. He then carefully played four rounds of clubs while discarding a spade, next played the three high hearts, and finally the A-K-Q of diamonds. Alas, because West had started with four diamonds to the jack, the contract failed. Declarer had a saying for this too: "Just my luck to be playing this hand on Friday the 13th, when suits don't split."

declarer needs 12 tricks and there are no finesses to be taken. he should first count his sure tricks. Here there are only 11. In that case, the correct tactic is to give up a trick to the defenders early. And what better time than at trick one? If West is allowed to win the first trick, he will continue the suit to dummy's spade ace. Then come four rounds of clubs (South discarding a spade), followed by three rounds of hearts ending in dummy. Since everyone is down to four cards, West will either have thrown away his high spade, making the 10 in dummy good, or have let a diamond go from four to the jack. Either way, declarer collects his slam bonus and can save his philosophy for the Great Books class.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring... YOUR BIRTHDAY

JUNE 14, 1986

The good seeds you have sown in the past have taken root and sprouted. The year ahead represents a time of harvest for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your thoughts on commercial matters are likely to be more astute early in the day than they will be in the afternoon. Time isn't your ally. Is there romance in your future? To find out what's in store for you, get your Astro-Graph predictions for the year following your birthday. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be extra attentive today if someone gives you instructions on operating unfamiliar equipment. Don't pretend you understand if you don't.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Broad swings are a possibility today where your finances are concerned. You have the potential to turn a profit as well as suffer a loss.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be tolerant and understanding of an infraction by an outsider today, but should a family member do the same thing, you'll come down on him or her rather heavily.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A person in a position to do you a favor will agree to do so today. But he or she may put so many strings on it that it might not be worth it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Stay away from cliques today where the members are more concerned with what you have than with what you are. Stick to your true-blue pals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your ideas will win the approval of others today, but you might not know when to stop selling. If you keep pushing, their yes could turn into a no.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be a fun person to be around today if others are in accord with your ideas. But if you encounter any opposition, you could get very testy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You must be constantly vigilant in conducting your commercial affairs today. If you get indifferent or careless, you could lose what you gained.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be selective regarding who you go to for advice today. Suggestions from a new acquaintance could turn out to be fool's gold instead of precious metal.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The little you do today you will do well. But the problem is that you might complete only half of a project that you started so enthusiastically.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A well-intended friend who frequently gets involved in foolish ventures may tempt you into taking a plunge with him today. Do nothing impulsively.

When Fungus Attacks Your Shrubbery Quickly Identify The Disease

It's easy to see why shrubs are popular in our landscapes. Once they're established, they need very little care and usually have few problems. Sometimes, fungus diseases will attack shrubbery. And, when this happens, it's important to know what to do. First, of course, you have to correctly identify the disease.

Basically, there are two types of shrub diseases — soilborne and foliar. The soilborne diseases are more severe than the foliage types, because the organisms live in the soil instead of just on the plant.

The most common soilborne disease in our area is mushroom root rot. You can identify this one by rubbing away some of the outer bark at the base of the main stem. If you see a white fungus mat right under the bark, the shrub has mushroom root rot. As the disease spreads through the roots and lower stems, the plant becomes less vigorous and branch dieback occurs.

A shrub may live for many years with mushroom root rot, or it may die within a year or so. There's really nothing you can do to control this disease. Simply try to keep the infected plant as healthy as you can by pruning out the dying branches. Of course, eventually you'll have to

Alfred Bossesen
Urban Horticulturist
323-2500

replace it.

Before you set another shrub in the same location, treat the soil with a good fumigant, such as Vapam. However, if the diseased shrub was part of a hedge row, DO NOT use a fumigant as it will kill the roots of adjacent plants. Just let the remaining shrub fill in the empty space. In other situations, you may want to consider planting grass or annuals where you removed the shrub. These plants aren't affected by mushroom root rot.

Even though you can't control soilborne diseases, you'll be much better off if you start by properly establishing healthy, vigorous, disease-resistant plants. You'll probably pay more for such specimens. But, cheaper plants with little or no resistance to disease are no bargain, because they usually end up costing you more in the long run.

We're a little better off in the foliar and dieback disease department. You can be fairly confident that effective control measures are available. The foliar diseases and dieback don't present such drastic problems that mushroom root rot does. Both can be controlled by pruning out infected branches and spraying with a recommended fungicide. But, it's very important to correctly identify the ailment.

The most common foliar diseases are phomopsis twig blight, fire blight, leaf spotting, and powdery mildew. When phomopsis twig blight attacks, branch dieback usually occurs, and the inner foliage turns brown. The bark peels away from the branches, and small black pimples appear on the bark's surface. This disease will strike most of our waddy ornamentals. Control involves removing and destroying the infected branches, and spraying the remaining plant with an appropriate fungicide.

To identify fire blight, look for brown to black ... almost scorched ... outer leaves, and a rather crooked appearance of the branches. Begin control by pruning out infected branches — preferably during cool, dry periods. The best time to apply a bactericide is in the spring months.

Fire blight is most common on pyracantha, apple, pear and loquat plants.

Leaf spotting, as the name implies, causes distinct spots to appear on infected leaves. But, there are so many leaf spot diseases that it would be impossible to describe all of them. Most shrubs are attacked by leaf-spotting fungi at one time or another. Usually, a proper fungicide, sprayed on the plant when the spots first appear, will provide good control.

Another important foliar disease is powdery mildew. This fungus loves crape myrtles and a number of other shrubs. Powdery mildew is easily identified by the powdery white growth (hence its name) that develops on the leaves. Control measures are most effective when a fungicide is sprayed on infected plants during the summer season.

Keep in mind that you cannot kill these plant diseases without killing the plants, but can keep them under control with the proper cultural methods and fungicide applications. For specific recommendations on foliar disease control chemicals and application procedures, check with your favorite garden supply shop or give us a call at the Agricultural Center.

Happy gardening!

A Celebration Of Life And Tribute Held For Local Deacon

A Celebration Of Life and a Tribute To Deacon Rayford McClain was held by First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church. The community and many friends and well wishers of Deacon McClain were in attendance.

Brother Henry Debose presided over this special tribute to one who speaks softly and with great wisdom. The spirit was lifted by Deacons Frank Bellamy and Joe Wiggins and they led a very spirit-filled devotion. Deacon Raymond Bellamy read the scripture and prayer by Deacon M.L. Williams. Welcome and Occasion were given by Deacon W.C. Curry. Deacon O.C. Coleman spoke of his friendship and church work, associational and district.

Other expressions of love and thanks were given in a tribute to Deacon McClain by Mrs. Virginia H. Jenkins who read a tribute of love written by Rev. Tommie L. Jenkins who had worked many years as a Deacon with the honoree at First Shiloh. Expressions of friendship from

Rayford McClain

Mr. and Mrs. A.L. James, who have known Deacon McClain since he lived in Georgia. Other words of love were expressed in the form of flowers, cards and a love offering, taken by D.C. McCoy, who has been a friend to the McClains for years.

The message of the hour was delivered by the Rev. Herbert Martin, Associate Minister of First Shiloh, and an award of appreciation for the 62 years of dedicated and faithful service to First Shiloh where Deacon McClain has served as financial secretary, Sunday school and B.T.U. teacher. He has given of his time, service and finances for the betterment of the church he so dearly loves. Deacon Augustus Brown presented Deacon McClain with a plaque on behalf of his service to First Shiloh, remarks were given by Rev. H. Rucker.

Rayford M. McClain came to Sanford in 1923 and in January 1924 he and his late wife Sister Alberta L. McClain joined First Shiloh, where with the love and devotion of Christ in their hearts, have worked for him. Deacon McClain retired after 30 years employed by Atlantic Coastline Railroad. His community service have been well-known as he has worked with the Boy Scouts, American Legion, and the Benevolence Board where he was financial secretary for 23 years of the First South Florida Missionary Baptist Association Department.

Deacon McClain recently celebrated his 90th birthday and can still be seen daily, when he is feeling well, doing his many chores.

He is very proud of his son Rufus McClain and his daughter-in-law Mable, who have watched after him since the passing of his wife. His granddaughter, Stephanie, pays special tribute to her granddaddy for his special day. Stephanie lives in New York where she works in the education department of the City of Rochester.

A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favor rather than silver and gold.

The Grandmothers' Club of Seminole County is sponsoring an appreciation event at 7:30 p.m., June 14, at the Sanford Civic Center, Sanford, to honor Mrs. Lillie Bell Merthie.

Mrs. Merthie will be celebrating her 40th year as owner and operator of Merthies' Day Care Center in September. Mrs. Merthie and the staff of the center have cared for more than 3,000 children over the years. One of the centers graduates, Mr. Thomas (Tom) Wilson, III, formerly of Sanford, will be the guest speaker for the event. Mr. Wilson, now residing in Phoenix, Ariz., is the director of Dynamic Program Planning, Inc.

Admission is $10 for children and $20 for adults. Tickets are available from Mary Smith, president of the Grandmothers' Club, at 322-3499 and from Alfreda Wallace, 323-5111.

The Seminole Employment and Economic Development Corporation (SEEDCO) will host its annual membership breakfast at 9:30 a.m., June 21, at the Sanford Civic Center, 401 East Seminole Boulevard. All members and friends of SEEDCO are invited to attend. Please confirm your attendance by calling 323-4360 or 323-4361. Speaker will be announced.

Happy birthday wishes to Mary H. Moore, Lillie R. Hall, Julia Minott, Bernard Wilke, Rufus Martin, Bertha F. Brown, and Mary Hawkins.

Teen's Attempt To Break Away Is Breaking Down Her Parents

DEAR ABBY: We have a beautiful 16 1/2-year-old daughter who is driving her father and me toward a nervous breakdown. She has done a complete turn-about in regards to everything and everyone who has ever meant anything to her.

She finishes her 11th grade this month, then she wants to quit school, find a full-time job and get her own apartment! She has no training or job experience, but she's "sure" she can support herself. She has forsaken all her old friends, her ideals, even her religion. Discussing anything with her is like talking to the wall. She knows it all, and that's that!

Her new friends are in trouble at school, and I'm sure they smoke pot on weekends. Just getting this off my chest helps. Thank you.

FLORIDA MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Writing to me may help you, but it won't help your daughter. Consider this: The sudden "turnabout" in your daughter's behavior might be the result of drugs. The national hot line for drug abuse is: 1-800-COCAINE.

Dear Abby

You need professional family counseling with or without your daughter. Find the Families Anonymous group in your area and meet with it. (The people there have been through this scene and can be enormously helpful.)

Let your daughter know that you love her, but you're not allowing her to quit school, get a job and move out as long as she's a minor.

DEAR ABBY: You've had a lot of letters about adopted children in your column lately. I'd like to add to it.

After I was born, my mother was not able to have any more children, so she and my father adopted a 5-day-old boy. (I am also a boy.) In their determination to make their adopted son feel as loved and wanted as their natural child (me), they went overboard. I heard that "Jimmy" was their "chosen" child, which made me think that when I was born they had to take what they got — but Jimmy was special, so they "chose" him.

I grew up feeling inferior and less wanted than my little brother. I felt that I had to prove my worthiness by being competitive with him. I wanted to love him, but it was hard when he was given preferential treatment and told he was their "special, chosen child." I know my parents loved me, too — but it took a lot of understanding, not to mention several times with a psychoanalyst, to straighten my head out.

Print this. It may help other well-meaning parents.

Bar Association Wins 4 Awards

The Seminole County Bar Association is scheduled to receive four awards June 21 at the Florida Bar's Annual Convention at the Marriott World Center in Orlando.

The Seminole Bar took first place in its membership division with a golf tournament that raised $773 for its Legal Aid Society. It also won a second place for its Legal Clinic and Seminar on Spouse Abuse held in conjunction with law week in 1985.

The "Legal Aid Society" of the Seminole Bar also won second place for the best member service project in their division with more than 90 of its 147 members participating.

The Seminole Bar also picked up a second place award for the Bulletin Board, its newsletter, which the judges said, "...covers interesting and informative articles for its members but also information from the Florida Bar, the Seminole County Courthouse and other sources."

The merit awards are given to encourage service to the bench, bar and public, according to the Florida Bar.

I am proud!

I am the emblem of the greatest sovereign nation on earth. I am the inspiration for which American patriots gave their lives and freedom.

I have led your sons into battle since Valley Forge. I walk in silence with each of your honored dead to their final resting place beneath the silent white crosses, row upon row. I have flown in peace and war, strife and prosperity, and in all times, I have been respected.

My red stripes are symbols of the blood spilled in defense of this glorious nation. My white stripes signify tears shed by Americans who lost their sons, husbands, lovers and friends. My blue field: the heavens under which I fly. My stars clustered together unify 50 states as one for God and country.

"Old Glory" is my name and I wave on high, proudly.

Trip The Light Fantastic

Susan Loden
Herald Feature Writer

Move aside Fred and Ginger, there are toefappers a plenty in Sanford who trip the light fantastic.

And the older dancers who have a major claim on the romantic moves of ballroom dancing say youngsters are beginning to get a foot in the door to enjoy this passtime of a life time that seniors enjoy.

The tango is leading a heatwave of dancing that's sweeping the country. But Sanford's Minnie Kane said that line dancing, where dancers link hands in chorus line formation and kick across the floor, may push the tango from the boards.

Mrs. Kane at 72, said she and her husband of 48 years, John, 78, didn't take lessons to learn the moves that have made them champions in r. any dancing contests. However, she said, many youngsters, are taking note of the fun seniors have on the dance floor and are taking lessons so they can follow gramps and grandma's lead.

"I think younger people are coming back to it," Mrs. Kane said of her style of dancing. It's so popular. All the old songs are coming back and the kids really enjoy it. They get interested when they see their parents having such a good time. More and more are interested in our ballroom dancing.

Starring In 'Head Of The Class' Is Natural

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Robin Givens, 21, who graduated from high school at age 15 and from college at 19, will star in "Head of the Class," a new TV series in which she plays a straight-A student.

"My character, Darlene, is really me," said Givens, a New Yorker who is finding it difficult to adjust to Los Angeles, a city she finds isolating and more racially segregated than New York.

"Darlene is 17 and in a special high school class for advanced students. They're all geniuses. Darlene's problem is that she's perfect. That wasn't my problem, but I'm really playing myself precisely as I was five years ago."

Givens is black, beautiful and bright. She owes her acting career to Bill Cosby who encouraged her to give up her ambition to become a medical doctor.

After graduating from New Rochelle Academy as a 15-year-old, second highest academically in her class, and tearing through Sarah Lawrence College with high marks, Givens spent a year at Harvard Medical School, an experience she didn't particularly enjoy.

"I would never recommend anyone graduating from high school at 15," Givens said the other day. "Too many psychological and emotional adjustments have to be made when you get to college. You can't drive, you can't drink, you're not supposed to stay up late and a lot of other things.

"When I was at Sarah Lawrence I made up for my social problems by doing TV commercials and acting in soap operas like 'The Guiding Light,' 'Another World' and 'Loving.' It was just a hobby with me. I really wanted a medical career.

"After a year at Harvard I suddenly didn't care about school anymore. I was tired of sitting in classrooms. So I auditioned for 'The Cosby Show' and was cast in a recurring role."

But Givens appeared in only one episode before Cosby pulled her out of the cast to co-star with Lena Horne in a projected series. He later decided to drop the idea.

"I went to Bill and asked for his advice about continuing my acting career or going back to med school," Givens said. "He said I had talent and a good chance to become a successful actress.

"The next step was to convince my mother, who was determined that I would finish school and become a doctor. Bill invited us both to his house and the two of us convinced Mom I should drop out of school, at least for a while, and see if I could make it as an actress.

"The clincher was Bill's offer to my mother. He said if I didn't make it in two years he would pay my way through medical school."

It took Givens less than two months to prove herself. She and her mother came to Hollywood to stay in Cosby's home. In a week's time Givens was cast in the TV movie "Beverly Hills Madam," starring Faye Dunaway.

Shortly thereafter she was offered two series, "Amen," co-starring with Sherman Hemsley (star of "The Jeffersons") and "Head of the Class."

"I chose 'Head of the Class' because I wanted to play someone young, near my own age," she explained. "In 'Amen' I would have been playing a sexy secretary for Hemsley who plays a preacher. I think I made the right choice.

"My mother was really surprised how quickly it all happened and Bill was as happy as he could be.

"Sometimes I miss studying and I really am homesick for New York," Givens confessed. "I rented a house in a canyon and it is very lonesome. The mailman asked me if I had a gun for safety. That scared me. So now I'm looking for an apartment in a security building. "I'm also having trouble finding dates here in California. I mean there are no eligible men around. The distances make it hard to get around and you have to own a car.

"People here are different from people in New York. All they talk about is show business. And I've noticed there is more racial separation and prejudice in Los Angeles. I was surprised and disappointed.

"But I am trying to keep in mind that I only work here and that my real home is in New York."

When production of her series begins this summer Givens may take some classes at UCLA to fill the hours when she isn't working.

"I can always study on my own," she said, "but I didn't want to go ahead with medicine and spend the rest of my life wondering if I could have been a successful actress."

Monkee Business
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Columbia Pictures Television has launched a talent hunt for four actors to star in "The New Monkees," a half-hour musical situation comedy for first-run syndication.

"The Monkees," was originally developed by Screen Gems (now Columbia Pictures Television) and broadcast on NBC-TV from September 1966 to August 1968. Thereafter it was broadcast in re-runs on CBS from 1969-73.

The original musical group consisted of David Jones, Peter Tork, Mickey Dolenz and Mike Nesmith. The original producers, Steve Blauner, Bert Schneider and Robert Rafelson, have reunited to produce the new series with a new cast.
