

MILLER VICTOR IN COMMISSION RACE BY 4 VOTES

 Commissioner. It is the duty of every voter to cast his or her ballot as they see fit, and I want to express my thanks to each one who interested themselves and voted their convictions.
 "Unless we have a division of ideas we can never move upward and insure a safe and stable government. I think that the vote polled shows that our people were interested in the affairs of their city, and regardless of for whom they may have voted I want to congratulate the entire electorate for coming out and expressing their choice among the several candidates offered to serve them.
 "It shall be my desire to serve the people to the best of my ability and endeavor to administer in so far as I am able the affairs of the city to your satisfaction. I am not in position to make any promises except the promise to give you an honest and unbiased service in all matters pertaining to the city.
 "I will at all times give my attention to the affairs of the city which are yours. At any time I will gladly give you such information as I may have on any thing connected with the City. I shall endeavor to be fair with all my dealings with any one who may have any business with the City.
 "I will play no favorites giving everyone a square deal to which they are entitled. The affairs of the city belong to its citizens, and to them I feel responsible for a proper handling of their business. Let us all work together to build our city. Let us forget self but not principles. Healthy criticism is always acceptable because there is no one who is right in every thing that he may advocate.

 "As a member of your commission I shall at all times be pleased to have a goodly number of our citizens at our meetings. I ask cooperation to make Sanford the leading City of our fair State.
 "As stated in a previous interview I still favor a larger governing body Bond Trustees who are not City officials, and other changes which will give us a charter under which we may be safe. If each of you will attend to city business each day instead of just election day we shall progress."
 Mr. Herndon gave The Herald the following statement:
 "I appreciate the support that was given me and I congratulate Mr. Miller upon his victory. I hold no malice toward anyone. The people have registered their choice and that is sufficient.
 "I believe it is the duty of everyone to unite behind Mr. Miller and give him our heartiest co-operation. He needs the support of his constituents in performing the duties which he will assume."
 Mr. Stevens declined to make any statement on the election, declaring "it was all over" and there was nothing more to be said.

PASHA DENIES RUMOR
 LONDON, Dec. 7.—(INS)—A recent report from Cairo that Mustafa Kemal Pasha, president of Turkey, is engaged to marry Princess Kubra, sister of the Amir of Afghanistan, was denied in a dispatch from Constantinople today.

Douglass Gives Significance Of Election Result

 ly Section 51, which reads as follows:
 "Sec. 51. Any bank acting as a depository shall make monthly reports to the City Commission, showing the balances on hand at the beginning of the month, the sums received and paid out during the month, and the balances on hand at the end of the month, and return with said reports all checks or warrants properly cancelled which the bank has paid during the month."
 And Section 53, which reads:
 "Sec. 53. The City Commission shall cause its clerk to keep accurate accounts and a complete set of books showing the amount of money on hand, amount received, amount expended, and the balances thereof at the end of each month, in every fund carried by the City; and no check or warrant shall ever be drawn in excess of the known balances to credit of that fund."
 Had these two sections been obeyed, Mr. Cummin would not have had to use harsh language in his report and the City would have been saved the embarrassment which it finds itself in today.
 The election is past history; the verdict of the taxpayers has been rendered in no uncertain terms. Some may say that the winning candidate only won by four votes. That is true, but add to those four the 198 that the Third man got that published his platform on Nov. 12 where all could see and you have the true majority.
 It was not merely a contest between candidates. It was a test of strength on the policies endorsed by the taxpayers.
 The three candidates were all good men and defeat is no reflection on any of them. There could be only one elected and the taxpayers had to endorse one of the two that stood for the principles of City Government they represented. Now as the smoke of battle clears away lets offer a united front of co-operation for a Greater Sanford.

 Very Truly Yours

Miami Jockey Club Finally Decides To Abandon Race Meet

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 7.—(INS)—Although the scheduled forty-five day winter racing meeting of the Miami Jockey Club has been abandoned because of the Florida Supreme Court ruling that pari-mutuel wagering is illegal in this State, officials of the Pompano Horse Club are determined to hold their second annual meet. Paul M. Beacon, president of the Pompano Club, announced that the meet would start on Jan. 14 and would run for forty three racing days, ending Mar. 3. Pompano originally had been scheduled to open on Dec. 24.
 The Pompano Club is located in Broward County and Beacon said he was confident he would meet with "no such interference as that which forced the Miami Club officials to close their plant at Hialeah Park, in Dade County." However, Sheriff Paul Bryan of Broward County declares he intends to enforce the law.

 J. M. Smoot, president of the Miami Club, said in a statement that the directors of the association decided it would be "useless" to attempt to open the Hialeah Meeting on Jan. 19 as scheduled. He deplored the fact that cancellation of the meet would deprive from 15,000 to 20,000 wealthy, pleasure-seeking ladies and gentlemen of amusement and would mean a loss of $20,000,000 worth of business to Miami.

Screen Actresses Resent Producer's Remarks As To Film Industry's Respectability

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 8.—(INS)—English girls may be as good as dead, says a London film producer, for too respectable to make successful film stars, but his remarks are not to be taken as a reflection on the American screen actresses.

Not if Hollywood's feminine cinema celebrities are correct.

Little did the suave British film magnate suspect the stir of indignation his casual observation would create in this American film capital.

How what indignant Greta Nissen, Scandinavian star of "Hell's Angels," has to say about Mr. Elvey.

"His remarks are an insult to the American film star. It is not the ordinary girl, but the one with real cultural background plus a natural talent and beauty who survives the competition in this country and reaches stardom.

"Calls Him Unfair

"There are plenty of English girls who attempt to crash the movie, and fail but their failures cannot be laid at the door of respectability."

"Dolores Del-Rio, languorous-eyed Mexican sororita, thinks Mr. Elvey is unfair.

"It is not necessary for a girl to be wealthy to get ahead in pictures. It is a popular bugaboo that a girl must have a large fortune to succeed. Competition is so keen that only the girl of genuine ability, unusual beauty, culture and refinement has a chance for real success."

Dolores Dwan, who is reliably informed by her ancestors dwelt in ancient Briton, in England and Scotland, Castle in Scotland to prove her respectability in the Dwan family, thinks the British producer's remarks are "humorous."

"Elvey has the wrong slant to the whole film industry where the feminine stars are concerned. Of course in America, the women stars are pampered. Hard work, coupled with good looks, respectability and culture are required for success in filmdom."

Eleanor Fair, actress-wife of Actor William Boyd, says Elvey has set a "slur" on the Hollywood girls who have worked hard to attain stardom.

"Of course, they were hard working girls, but with it they were respectable, cultured and not afraid of work. Even after a woman becomes a star she is not released from working class, for the highest mountain, the hardest the mountain."

Defends Profession

"Why do men say such things about girls in pictures?" asks Margaret Livingston. "Ours is a clean, healthful profession, and for Mr. Elvey to say that respectable girls cannot succeed in the films is, to say the least, very cruel. Culture and respectability go hand in hand with a woman who expects to reach the heights of filmdom."

"A person's refinement and gentility are not lost pictorially," argues Edna Marian, who brands Elvey's statement as "ridiculous."

"The most successful girls in pictures invariably are those with culture, education and good blood," she adds.

"The idea that a girl must sacrifice her respectability for stardom is simply the 'bunk' in the opinion of Mary Philbin.

"The public has as much to do with making stars and players as those who produce pictures," she points out. "And so long as motion picture patrons want characters who are respectable, the producers will work for the girl who has ability to play them."

No Late Hours

"I bet the star if she stays out late nights, or follows the primrose path," Laura La Plante informs us. "Klieg lights tell few the world to read."

"It was necessary to lose one's respectability to attain in pictures," she adds. "In good old Hollywood terms," she admits Marian Nixon, "I do not know what penalty the actress may have to pay for fame, but here notoriety which comes from lack of respectability is to be avoided as a plague."

Refutation to Vera Steadman's personal refutation.

"I am wrong, because refutation is absolutely nothing to do with a girl becoming a successful actress."

"I have been through the school of hard knocks, and naturally such girls have a fragile and pampered nature."

Soviet Sends Former Exile As Representative Of Its Government To The French

MOSCOW, Dec. 8.—(INS)—Once exiled from Russia with a price on his head, Valerian Savchuk, Dr. Conrad Berens, the examiner, rapidly through the various tests until Dr. Berens sprang a depth perception test on him.

This test is to determine the ability of the pilot to judge distances. Chamberlin, recalling only a few of his long list of feats, in landing planes in tight places the most remarkable of which was his landing a plane, without damage, in the jail yard of the Eastview Penitentiary, Pennsylvania, two years ago, faced the test with confidence.

Examiner Surprised

At the conclusion of the test Mr. Berens shook his head in surprise, and inquired:

"Do you really mean to say you fly airplanes?"

"Dr. Berens said," he added, "that maybe I'd improve with a little home study. He gave me a card with a line drawn on it that I'm to use to practice optical gymnastics on. Maybe this was the reason I landed in Kottbus last summer when I was trying to get Charlie Levine to Berlin.

records and achievements made no impression whatsoever upon Dr. Conrad Berens, the examiner, rapidly through the various tests until Dr. Berens sprang a depth perception test on him.

Chamberlin Finds Flying Easy But Getting License Is Another Thing

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(INS)—Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flyer, holder of the world's long distance record for continuous flight, former joint holder of the world's endurance flight record, and performer of many acrobatic stunts, almost "fopped" on a recent indoor flying test for a transport pilot's license.

Chamberlin said the examiner, Dr. Berens, advised him to do some home study, which Chamberlin agreed to do.

"I may become an aviator yet," the flyer said enthusiastically.

Tries For License

A transport pilot's license is the highest grade of flyer's license awarded by the Department of Commerce, to acquire which a pilot must have had at least 500 hours flying experience, and must undergo a most rigorous physical examination.

Having a hundred or so hours' flying time to his credit to spare, and believing himself to be a pretty good pilot.

Employees Of Yowell-Drew Organize For Record Breaking Holiday Business

ORLANDO, Dec. 8.—The employees of the Yowell-Drew Company in Orlando, have taken over the control of the biggest store in central Florida during the month of December. They have pledged the officials of the company an enormous Christmas quota of business, as a gift from the appreciative employees of the organization.

The reason for this unheard of action of the part of the employees was due to the fact that all during this year, in the face of generally quiet business conditions, the Yowell-Drew Company has retained all its regular force of employees and has not reduced salaries of any sales people or other employees during 1927, for economy reasons.

The employees of the store, appreciating that this policy during the year has cost the Yowell-Drew Co. considerable money, have re-organized themselves into a Christmas Happiness Club, voluntarily fixed the December quota of business to be done and offered to present this business to N. P. Yowell, president, W. T. Buice, general manager, and other officials of the Yowell-Drew Company, as a Christmas gift.

Mr. Yowell accepted the offer and turned the store over to the employees for the month. The employees appointed a committee composed of J. H. Richardson, store superintendent, E. P. Lavin, display manager, and Blaine McGrath, director of the store's Christmas activities, to be responsible for the merchandising, display and advertising for the Yowell-Drew Company during the month.

"BIG NAVY" BLOC WANTS FUNDS TO ELEVATE RIFLES

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7.—The Congressional "big navy" bloc today opened a fight for funds to elevate the big 14 and 16-inch guns on American battleships to meet the range of British and Japanese men-of-war.

Stubborn opposition was expected, with opponents declaring that the step would violate the spirit of the Washington Naval Limitation Treaty and bring international complications, and another group declaring that money spent on battleships in a flying age is wasted.

Despite the fact that Congress last year authorized modernization of the battleships Nevada and Oklahoma, including gun elevation, the House Appropriation Committee omitted the $70,000 necessary to elevate guns. Instead it referred the question to Congress. The

SCARCITY OF RUM IN JACKSONVILLE DUE TO VIGILANCE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 8.—(INS)—Jacksonville's liquor market is running short, or the threat of increased activity on the part of the federal agencies charged with enforcement of the prohibition laws has had its effect, for prices are climbing.

Just the reason for the advance in prices of forbidden beverages cannot be ascertained. However, Jacksonville's best known bootleggers attribute the raise in price to the recent raids by the federal land and sea forces.

"It is more difficult to bring the booze ashore now than it has been in years and extremely difficult to conceal once it has reached the mainland," one bootlegger is said to have announced. On the other hand, an alleged purveyor of illicit beverages, who has three cases pending against him declared that the shortage of liquor and increased danger of bringing it in is nothing more or less than a "lot of hokey."

"Here it is nearly Christmas and the tourists are beginning to arrive in large numbers, therefore, the demand is growing and a bunch of greed 'leggers' are scattering a lotta bunk about scarcity of whiskey and increased danger in operation.

Regardless of the diversion of opinion among the dealers, liquor is not as much in evidence as it has been and the satisfied contented smiles of those engaged in the trade has given away to worried looks and furtive glances.

Georgians Dedicate Stephens' Statue In National Capital

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(INS)—This was "Georgia Day" in the National Capital, with more than 2,000 sons of the state invading the city to call upon President Coolidge, parade down historic Pennsylvania Avenue and dedicate a statue of Alexander Hamilton Stephens, vice-president of the Confederacy.

Formal unveiling exercises in Statuary Hall, the Capital's Hall of Fame, were to climax the rotund of events. The statue, sculptured by Guston Borglum, was to be presented to the nation by Governor L. G. Hardman of Georgia, with vice-president Charles G. Dawes accepting it.

The Stephens statue completed Georgia's contribution to the Hall of Fame, each state being allowed to memorialize two of its greatest men in marble figures. Dr. Crawford W. Long, famous physician and scientist, was the first to be placed there by Georgia. Carved from white marble, the statue depicts Stephens seated on a marble bench, with one leg drooped across the other, apparently in deep thought.

The program for the ceremonies, with Senator Harris of Georgia presiding, included an address by Senator George of Georgia; actual unveiling by two children, Ida Stephens, grandniece of Alexander Stephens and Sam Venable Mason of Atlanta; and presentation of the statue to the state by Dr. Garnett W. Quilan, chairman of the Governor's Statuary Committee.

Flyers Attempting To Establish Record

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—(INC)—Flying a tri-motored Fokker plane, Lieut. George R. Vond, U. S. N. and Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian aviators, took the air at 8:55 A. M. in an attempt to break the world's record for sustained flight.

The lane carried 1,118 gallons of gasoline and 45 gallons of oil, sufficient fuel, according to the aviators, to keep them long enough to shatter the record.

The endurance record of 52 hours, 22 minutes and 21 seconds is held by German flyers.

The Republican Problems

President Coolidge's address to members of the Republican national committee assembled in regular session last night in Washington leaves little room for the belief, heretofore expressed, that the President might at the last minute consent to become his party's standard bearer. Reiterating his famous "I don't choose to run" statement delivered to the nation last August, Mr. Coolidge Tuesday night emphasized his determination in this manner: "This is naturally the time to be planning for the future. The party will soon place in nomination its candidate to succeed me. To give time for mature deliberations, I stated August the second that I did not choose to run for president in 1928. My statement stands. No one should be led to suppose that I have modified it. My decision will be respected. After I had been eliminated the party began and should vigorously continue the serious task of selecting another candidate from among the number of distinguished men available."

The President's declaration has left the party stunned and blasted the hopes of those leaders who had confidently felt that Mr. Coolidge would be available next year. It makes imperative now the task of selecting a new standard bearer and this problem is no little matter in view of the field of potential candidates. Only two or three days ago Vice President Dawes gave utterance to a significant statement when he declared himself not a candidate and announced his support of Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois.

The Vice President's action has served to offer another perplexing problem to the Republicans. Himself a formidable candidate for the nomination, Mr. Dawes has decided to help his friend Lowden. Many of the party leaders are frankly puzzled. They do not know whether to believe Mr. Dawes sincere or merely making his statement for effect. Apparently he has too much power and too great vote-getting qualities to withdraw without a struggle and this knowledge is not a little disturbing to the advocates of several other candidates for the nomination.

Whatever happens the Republicans have a hard road to travel. Smoothing out all the apparent difficulties in order that party harmony may be achieved is a problem of considerable proportions. They have several months in which to get together but every minute of that time must be utilized if the party would avoid the troubles that befell the Democrats in 1924.

What About Sin?

Many present day preachers still cling to the idea that man is born in sin, the sole purpose of his existence on this earth being to atone for that sin; and, unless he atones sufficiently in this short span of earthly life, it will be impossible for him to escape punishment in the hereafter.

Worry kills. Why worry about sin? Worry is a sin, so why add to our other sins the sin of worrying about them?

The example has been cited of the foolishness of fighting against darkness in a room. Open the windows and the darkness of itself disappears. If you only open the window a crack, just a little of the darkness disappears. The more light you let in; the more darkness disappears.

This example is so easily applied to mortals and sin. Our lives are composed of the acts that we do and the words that we speak, day by day. The larger the percent of good things that we say and do, the smaller must be the percent of bad things. We only exist twenty-four hours in a day; the more hours spent being good, the less number of hours left to be bad.

The wider we open the windows of our beings to love and good-will toward man, the brighter our whole lives will be with that kind of sunshine.

If we merely refrain from abusing our muscles they will not become strong and healthy. We must exercise them. To merely refrain from sinning is not enough. Get in the habit of doing good turns and saying kind things, and there will be no need to worry about, "What you are going to do with sin."

WHAT WE WON'T HAVE

One of the favorite reasons given by the opponents of the representative form government charter why that instrument should be defeated by the people of Tampa, who are today voting upon it, has been that with things as they are "WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE."

There is no use arguing about that, now. The people are at the polls as we write, and will be as you read this. When they have finished the casting of their ballots and the count has been made Tampa will have a very different chart or aid form of government from those she has had for the past seven years, unless all signs fail.

It is interesting, however, to reflect upon WHAT WE WON'T HAVE, as a result of this year's events here—no matter what may be the result of today's election. Going back to last month's election and the primary preceding it, we won't have the present municipal judge and city clerk; the people having overwhelmingly declared that they want no more of them. Nor will we have the same hospital superintendent. He has resigned.

We won't have the present chiefs of the fire and police departments, either. They have resigned, to be retired on pensions.

AN OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK

Old Man Hard Times has been given a knockout blow. The pessimists who have been betting on him for the past two or three years are struggling hard to find suitable alibis. It is generally agreed that the coming year will be one of the best business years in the history of this country. It may be a boom year, but we don't want that anyway. It may not bring the full prosperity to the farmer that is rightfully his, but we can see improvements ahead for him too. It is just going to be a good year, probably somewhat better than the one that preceded it; and all this in spite of the fact that certain crops hangover were bound to predict a real depression and NEWTON, Kan., Dec. 6.—This city with farms all around it, sees the end of another peaceful day. Thousands of automobiles park at a slant, along wide streets, front bumpers touching iron pipe railings where buggies were hitched in old days. No buggies now, before the hardware shop, the drug store or the bank.

THIS TRAIN bound for the Pacific over the Santa Fe, goes through miles after mile of level corn fields, stalks standing, grain husked and carried away. Modern huskers could transform those surplus cornstalks into news print paper or imitation silk dresses of excellent quality. That will happen and some day the farmer may live to see his cornstalks worth more than his corn.

KANSAS CITY, "back east" wants the 1928 Republican convention, thinks Republicans should house the midwest to please farmers.

San Francisco, "out west" looking through the Golden Gate toward Asia wants the convention and means to get it.

This is a big country, wide and great. Kansas City knows San Francisco, Portland, Maine knows Miami as little as Peking knows Paris.

But inside our boundaries, every thing is united, no tariff walls separate the 48 united nations, brotherly competition makes them all more efficient.

OF ALL sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest for Miss Villian Houser of Kansas City are those, "They stole my Chevrolet." Every day that Chevrolet took Miss Houser to work at the Brockert Cement Company, 2035 East Nineteenth street and brought her back every evening. She and her best friend Dorothy Kilgore, drove about to get the air and on five days spent the day out doing. No wonder Miss Houser advertises an appeal to the thieves, "Please leave Chevrolet-coupe taken Monday night where it may be found. My only heaven."

A human being without an automobile is like a bird in a cage. Perhaps Mr. Solan, president of General Motors will help Miss Houser to get another "heaven" in Congress.

CONGRESS OPENS with 5100 new bills introduced. Congressman McLeod of Michigan wants a national referendum to repeal the prohibition amendment. He won't get it.

Congressman Oliver of New York, wants each community to decide how much alcohol makes a beverage "intoxicating." He won't get that.

Congressman Niedringhaus of Missouri would change the Volstead act to permit manufacture of 2.75 alcoholic beverages, meaning light beer. He won't get his wish.

THE BIG things before the congress are Colorado river power and irrigation control of Mississippi and other floods, construction of waterways connecting the lakes with the gulf and ocean, and the question of tax reduction.

Next Fall you will know how much of this congress talk, how much action.

SENATOR CAPPER'S able newspaper the Topeka Capitol quotes this statement: "The farmer fears he is on the downward road to peasantry, wonders why he should stick to the plow and hold his children to a calling stigmatized everywhere."

TWO MILLION farmers have quit the farms during the last six years. You feel as an ex-crop Senator, Capper's beautiful state of Kansas, that many of the two millions regret it. A Kansas farm just outside the car window now, with hay stacks, straw stacks, piles of corn stalks, a good barn, hen house, pigsty, cattle and horses in the field an automobile in the shed, is a considerable improvement on a small flat four flights up in a New York city side street.

THIS IS a city man's advice to the farmer. Stay on the farm where you really live. The company of cows, horses, pigs, sheep and the wide sky is better than associating with crowds in the subway twice a day. Work until you get an independence even late in life. Then take it to California or the Gulf coast of Florida, let the sunshine add 20 years to your life. Even then you will miss the old farm, the barnyard in winter, the pig that runs, counting all your steps. The busy day in spring the consciousness of creating real wealth and of being your own boss.

Why Mothers Get Gray

FRANKNESS

ORLANDO REPORTER-STAR

Colonel George T. Johnston, with his genius for frankness, said to the editor of the Reporter-Star a few days ago that he liked his editorials though he didn't agree with more than half of what he wrote. The editor was equally frank in telling him that he was sorry to find him wrong fifty per cent of the time.

Frankness is one of the greatest needs of the hour. In politics, in business, in society and in religion, the present generation is so prone to say the particular thing it thinks it will be popular or please the most people or the particular person addressed.

The best physicians in the world are those who are so frank that they make us turn pale. And yet their frankness is only kindness; and in many instances our only salvation from a health point of view. The banker who does us the greatest kindness is the man who can sit down and look us square in the eye and tell us what is the matter with us and what we must do to be saved. Billy Sunday makes men quail and quatter by shaking his fist at them and telling them that they are headed straight for hell; but they pause at least long enough to quarrel with Billy's statement; and some of them—many of them even turn square around and take the safer road.

Newspaper editors do not pretend to be always right. Many times they write a thing they do not believe; but they write it for a purpose; and that purpose is served when it sets men and women to thinking and discussing. The editorial punch, and the editorial whipping and lashings keep society and business and politics from becoming stagnant pools that breed disease to the social body or the body politic.

When the editor hits the bull's-eye, the person who happens to be the bull's-eye, or the institution that is affected by the shot, will clasp back just as the gong back of the bull's-eye in the shooting gallery. If it were not for this clanging back, the editor would never know that he had hit the mark.

We are using Colonel Johnston for a text because he furnishes such a good text. He is the son of a very eminent Presbyterian preacher. He himself is a physician of recognized skill; he is a banker, and he is a good politician. He knows what we are here saying about frankness is the exact truth. Here is one place where we will agree. He knows that if more preachers were perfectly frank, hypocrites would travel a rough path; if doctors were more frank, fewer men would let their bodies become in such bad repair that they leave nothing to be salvaged. That if politicians were more frank, fewer of them would get into places where they disgrace themselves and their constituents. Frankness is simply a cup of cold water given instead of an effervescent stimulating brew.

THE "SPECIAL TAXATION"

ST. AUGUSTINE RECORD

Remarkable proposals are made in the "interest of the people." One is now being considered in West Virginia has a tax problem with which to deal. It desires a new state capitol building and would raise the revenue for it by a special tax on public utility companies on the ground that these corporations enjoy "special privileges" and are "guaranteed" a return on their investments.

The Public Utility Association of West Virginia points out that the right of eminent domain granted to public utilities is not a "privilege" enjoyed for their own benefit, but is granted them by the state solely for the benefit of the public and that when acquiring property by condemnation to be used for public benefit a company has to pay full and just compensation. Further it says: "We condemn as morally unfair and economically unwise which undertakes to single out any particular industry for the purpose of raising public funds, either to build a state capitol or for any other purpose. Such legislation not only violates the letter of our state constitution but the spirit of fair play."

As for a "guaranteed" return, a public utility is guaranteed nothing. It is permitted under the law to earn a fair return but if this return goes above a very limited amount it is immediately reduced by the state to a point which courts consider fair on the investment involved. If a public utility fails to earn a fair return, however, its stockholders lose. The state limits the amount the company may earn, but is "guaranteed" nothing to cover losses.

This Virginia situation is a good example of a national in its scope, namely the tendency for both state and nation to extend the same policy of special privilege

All-Star Cast Will Be Seen In Milane Picture, "Gorilla"

An all-star cast supports Charlie Murray and Fred Kelsey, who play Mulligan and Garrity in "The Gorilla," the sensational mystery-comedy at the Milane Theatre today. Edward Small produced this hilarious mystery comedy by Ralph Spence for First National Pictures.

Walter Pidgeon has the part of Lawrence Stevens, Marsden will be played by Gaston Glass, and the smart-cracking reporter will be portrayed by Brooks Benedict. Syd Crossly is the butler and Aggie Herring the temperamental cook.

This completely rounds out the cast excepting for the Gorilla and that part is to remain a mystery until Mulligan and Garrity solve the baffling problem.

Larry Levitt Puts Out Bosto In Third With Blow To Jaw

Sanford Fans Treated To Plenty Action In Main Bout Of Legion Program Last Night

Future Fights To Be At City Hall

Peardon And Stacey In Draw In Semi-Final Match Of 8 Rounds

Larry Levitt, hard-hitting Sanford boxer, left no doubt in the minds of Sanford fans as to his punching ability when he knocked out Kid Bosto last night in the third round of a scheduled 10-round match at the Municipal Athletic Field.

It was a sensational finish to a fight that was a whirlwind affair from the opening gong. The Sanford boy put his opponent away with a lightning-like punch to the jaw which he whipped over a few seconds after the third round under way. Bosto crumbled under the blow and took the count with only one feeble effort to rise.

Levitt entered the ring weighing 145 pounds, five more than the Winter Park battler. The opening round was a slugfest with honors about even. The second round saw Levitt getting into fast action, getting in three blows to Bosto's one. The Winter Park landed hard only twice in that round. As the third opened Bosto landed a left which seemed to injure Levitt who tore into his opponent clipping across a slashing right to the jaw and Bosto went into dreamland.

Last night's card was the best in three weeks and although only a small crowd was present it yielded its appreciation of the exhibitions. It was announced that the weekly fights, staged under the auspices of the American Legion gym and bugle corps, will in the future be held at the City Hall.

In the semi-final bout last night the decision was declared a draw between Battling Peardon of Orlando and Jack Stacey of Atlanta. No decision was given in a four round affair between Stanley Euckhahn of Sanford and Kid Jerry of Orlando, although Peckhahn seemed to have the better of the argument.

In the third preliminary, Kid Allen walked across the ring and took one crack at Battling Peardon and the latter folded up like a fan. Allen was then brought out as the opponent of Young Nichols who, desirous of making matters even, sent Allen down twice in the first round and Allen climbed out of the ring to seek more comfortable surroundings.

Morse Smith and Elmer Lee boxed in a four-round, no-decision bout and K. O. Dewey and Battling Ned furnished entertainment in another preliminary.

BOWYER ELECTED GATORS' CAPTAIN FOR '28 SEASON

Triple Threat Back Who Suffered Broken Leg In Game With Georgia Chosen Pilot At Dr. Murphree's Dinner

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA, Gainesville, Dec. 7.—(Athletic News Bureau)—Exactly one month after he was carried from the heat of the Florida-Georgia football battle in Jacksonville with a broken leg, Ernest "Goo" Bowyer, triple threat back of the "Fighting Gators," found himself with the highest honor that can go to an athlete at the University of Florida—captain of his varsity football team. Bowyer was elected the 1928 Gators at the seventh annual presidential banquet of the football team tendered by President A. A. Murphree. One hundred persons attended and the banquet proved the most colorful and enjoyable in Florida football history.

Bowyer, former high school star of Lakeland, Fla., and Rockingham, N. C., captaining each team at the peak of his career in prep football, entered the University of Florida in 1925 with a record of having twice been named on the All-Southern prep school eleven. Bowyer was named field leader of the "Baby Gators," and his election Monday night to varsity captain carries him to the pinnacle that only a picked few can reach. Bowyer was being groomed for All-Southern honors at the time of his unfortunate injury on November 6, having played a distinguished role in each of Florida's contests. "Goo" runs kicks and passes with rare ability, and is a strong defensive player.

Standing at the banquet table, supported by his crutches, Bowyer was loudly acclaimed when Coach "Tom" Sebring announced the vote of the 25 letter men in the election of alternate captain, the honor being given to Tommy Owens, of Quincy, a half. Owens stepped in to the limelight of Dixie football on October 22 at Tampa when he stepped 88 yards through the N. C. State eleven to return a kick-off for a touchdown.

Splendid talks, excellent food, good music, and all the other fine things that contribute to a banquet's grandeur, were present at Dr. Murphree's gracious party Monday night. Dean Walter Mathewly of the School of Commerce and Journalism, gave a beautiful address on the place of athletics in the American university. Coach Tom Sebring elucidated on the big evil attached to football today that comes from the rabid enthusiasm on the outside. And there were other speeches, far too numerous to record.

Golf Association Frowns On Idea That Atlanta Has Erred In Giving Bobby Gift

By Davis J. Walsh International News Service NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—

Reports that the United States Golf Association would "look into" the matter of that recent presentation of a $50,000 home in Atlanta to Bobby Jones were denied with vigor today by Herbert H. Ramsey, official mouthpiece of the association. The reports have their inception in a story printed locally, purporting to have inside information to the effect that British authorities were inclined to frown upon the present because it smacked of commercialism and that the American authorities, in self defense, might be forced to make an investigation of the circumstances.

Nothing could be further from the truth according to Mr. Ramsey's statement to the writer. He said that he, personally, and so far as he knew, other officials of the association as well were perfectly satisfied that the gift house fell well within the bounds of amateur ethics. Incidentally, he expressed surprise that anyone could have obtained an official expression of opinion from abroad or that the English authorities had been represented as having interested themselves in the case.

"I am satisfied, from our mutual experience, that England is content to preserve its own amateur ethics and to allow us to take care of our own," he declared. "Matters of this kind always have been settled to our mutual satisfaction without interference from the country not concerned. As to that, the golf association itself is not concerned, so far as I know, and neither can I say that I think there is anything to be settled."

The understanding the writer received about the $50,000 gift is that some of Jones' friends in Atlanta, of which he is believed to have a few, got together one fine morning and decided that their admiration of the young man had gone far enough without some evidence of intrinsic appreciation. This appears to have been Mr. Ramsey's understanding, too.

"I am informed that the gift was not made by the Chamber of Commerce nor by the City of Atlanta," he added. "Therefore, I fail to see this chance of commercialism in any other light than that of a misapprehension on the part of some person or persons who probably know nothing of sentiment in England."

"It is not the purpose of the golf association to interfere with the acceptance of gifts, made at the instigation of private individuals. When you start doing that, you present upon the free-born rights of the average American citizen to enjoy Christmas. I, for one, am not going to attempt it."

Coolidge Economy Helpful In Saving Presidents Salary

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(INS)—

Calvin Coolidge will not have to worry about keeping the wolf from the door when he leaves the White House on the fourth day of Mar. 1929.

Practicing the same economy in his private life that he has insisted upon in governmental expenditures, President Coolidge will go out of office with a moderate fortune, amassed for the most part during his occupancy of the White House.

Personal friends estimate Mr. Coolidge's "take" at somewhere between $400,000 and $500,000, not a large fortune as fortunes go in these boom times, but amply sufficient for the Coolidges' quiet tastes.

At the conclusion of the President's term, he will have served almost six years as President an annual salary of $75,000. Prior to that he was for two years in the vice Presidency at $15,000 a year, and before coming to Washington he enjoyed a $10,000 annual salary as governor of Massachusetts.

Huge Corporation To Operate Cotton Mills Is Planned

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 8.—

(INS)—Indications now point to a culmination of movement which has been under way some time to form a corporation to operate from 100 to 150 yarn spinning plants in the South, according to information received here from Flint & Company, New York, who are organizing the merger.

Mills involved in the merger, it was said, are located in five southern states—North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee.

A statement by Flint & Company said that 138 mills containing approximately 1,500,000 spindles have been inspected to date, and reported on. "The balance of the mills," the statement said, "which have agreed to sell, are being inspected now and it is planned to have all of these mills inspected and the options in hand within the next two weeks."

NIGHT CLUBS IN LONDON PAY UP TO EVADE LAWS

Prohibition Padlock Now Replaces Careful Watch By Detectives On The Job

LONDON, Dec. 7.—(INS)—Night clubs of London experience almost as much difficulty in evading the liquor laws as do those in America. Though the "padlock" has not become as famous here, and prohibition is supposed to be non-existent, the violation of the liquor law is nearly equal. This is explained by the fact that although "sprints" can be purchased quite easily they cannot be sold after midnight, and London night life seldom shows any evidence of gaiety before that.

So here, as in America, thrives the "blind-pig," "pigeon-stool" and the graft. But it is worked on an exceedingly large scale and much better organized than in America. There it is done "privately," here it is an institution.

Detective and Police

The detective takes the place of the prohibition officer, and of course there is the police. To those of whom graft hold no temptation there must be other means, and so enters the "invisible" guards.

These are well-organized gangs of the underworld, in the majority of cases aided by the proprietors of "disreputable" resorts, and their business is to keep these clubs informed as to the movements of the legitimate spies employed by the police.

From now on until the beginning of Spring they will be active, as it is during the late autumn and winter even, that the night clubs find it most necessary to supply drink after legal hours.

Not only are they able to extract valuable information as to the movements of the police, from those "cops" who find use for a little "pin-money," but they know the plain-clothes men by sight, and quite often are informed, even days beforehand, when a raid is to take place, or one of their houses are being watched.

Police As Spies

There have been occasions when parties of police have been seen assembling by these spies, and warnings are sent around immediately by runners, who work in conjunction with the spies.

Another important activity of the gang is to keep watch on individual police spies making preliminary tours of the city. When it is known that a spy is in the district, the manager, and when at a club house the manager cannot be admitted, the club membership is a fact that the gang has learned he cannot get in without a key.

It is astonishing what sizes the salary these spies draw. Those who in connection with the club receive on an average of $100 dollars a week. In some instances they are paid to different gangs.

Tampa City Judge Resorts To Films To Get Evidence Of Violations Of Dry Law

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 8.—(INS)—Motion pictures of Tampa night life filmed by Municipal Judge Lee Stalaker and by photographic sluths armed with high-powered portable motion picture cameras will be used for future cases against the actors, Judge Stalaker said in an interview with the International News Service.

The way little judge, who created a little sensation in the 1927 session of the Florida State Legislature when as a Representative from Hillsborough county, he introduced his new-famous anti-evolution bill that tied up legislative wheels for over a week, gave a vivid picture of how he photographed alleged gambling scenes and speak asy operations through knot holes, ever transmits and through windows in order to obtain "permanent, pictorial evidence."

"Accompanying the raiding parties which were composed of city detectives, officers of my court, and patrolmen, I took motion pictures of the raids," Stalaker said. The object of the pictures was to assist the future activities against organized vice in his city," Stalaker said.

"I shot pictures of the interior of bolita, lottery and other gambling dens which we reached after passing through the innocent looking cafes and restaurants on the main streets of the city, then back through numerous passageways in the rear. Many times we passed through countless reavy, solid wooden doors, reinforced with immense bands of steel and all of which we reached after passing which were padlocked to prevent police from reaching the large gambling rooms in the rear before the inmates could escape and move the evidence and gambling paraphernalia."

"These shots will be very help'ul in planning future raids as the various exits in these gambling rooms can be studied at leisure at any time in the future, and the officers will not have to rely on their memory alone as to the various places where the inmates escape most quickly."

"I also shot pictures of the gambling paraphernalia, money and evidence. Thousands of silver dollars were caught on the tables. I shot pictures of roulette wheels in the rooms when we entered, but which were amunged away before the police could seize them in the turmoil. However, these pictures are indisputable testimony that gambling paraphernalia was actually in the rooms when we entered, although police officers were not successful in seizing it in time, and scarcely had time to catch a glimpse of it in the rush."

"I also succeeded in getting pictures, through ventilating holes in the thick walls of dens before the police ever entered,—pictures of the inmates seated at the gambling tables and rushing away to back exits when the police broke in. In some instances every inmate succeeded in escaping, yet I have pictures of them at the tables which will aid in future arrests, as the police department has been anxious for some time to get the names, addresses and learn the faces of the habitual bolita and lottery players."

"Liquor joints were also filmed. In some instances every in- mate succeeded in escaping, yet I have pictures of them at the tables which will aid in future arrests, as the police department has been anxious for some time to get the names, addresses and learn the faces of the habitual bolita and lottery players."

Coolidge Message Gets Fair Comments By English Papers

LONDON, Dec. 7.—(INS)—President Coolidge's message to Congress, especially his refer- ences to armaments and prosper- ity, made a deep impression in Great Britain, as comment by newspapers of all shades of political opinion indicated.

The President's statement that the United States would continue her naval construction program regardless of any agreement that might have been reached in the unsuccessful Geneva conference failed to arouse any apprehension in British circles.

While no responsible official would make formal comment, it was indicated that there would "be no carping criticisms" of America's armament policy in England. It is assumed here (as Pres- ident Coolidge pointed out) that any extra building by the United States would be for defensive purposes.

Official circles hold that it would be impertinent for any other nation to criticize America's policy. At the same time, British naval circles point out that, although American trade routes may be nearly as long as England's and any interference with them would not mean national disaster on the weeks as it would in Great Britain.
