Closures for Monday

SANFORD — Monday is Martin Luther King, Jr. Day, an official federal holiday. Most government facilities will be closed for the day with a few exceptions.

All Seminole County operations will be closed Monday, as will the City of Sanford government facilities. Both Lake Mary City Hall and Longwood City Hall will be open as usual Monday, with Longwood having a regular city commission meeting at 7 p.m.

Banking institutions will be closed Monday. Schools and the school board offices will also observe the holiday.

Grave robber nabbed

SANFORD — Mitchel William Strickland, 30, of Jacksonville, was arrested by sheriff's deputies shortly before 5:30 this morning. Deputies and Sanford police were responding to a noise complaint in the area, when an officer reported hearing a disturbance at the nearby Shiloh Cemetery.

When they investigated, they reported seeing three men tampering with graves, and observed one beating on the grave. They said all three fled into a wooded area nearby. Strickland was subsequently located under some bushes. Although a K-9 unit searched for the other two men, they both managed to escape.

Strickland was arrested on a charge of injuring a person by disturbing contents of a grave, and placed in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility under $2,000 bond.

Businesses springing up all over downtown

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — New businesses that seem to be springing up almost daily in downtown Sanford signal the Main Street Program is working, business leaders say.

Included are a new dance studio, restaurant, women's apparel shop, tea room, art studio, and several antique and collectables stores.

Dave Farr, Executive Director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce is elated with the new surge of growth. "This is definitely in anticipation of the planned opening of the Seminole Towne Center Mall and expressway," he said. "Rather than fearing what the mall might do to the downtown area, people are getting prepared now, and I have no doubt they will succeed."

Farr said he is very pleased with the work of the Sanford Main Street project. "It's working," he commented. "It is doing what it is supposed to do, and really getting this town cranking."

Chris Cranias, who serves as president of Sanford Main Street, says he is very pleased at the sudden growth of the city. "Most of it seems to have started since we became involved in the Main Street project," he said.

He cited the refurbishing of the old Sanford Fire Station at 109 Palmetto Avenue as a big step forward. "This is the first actual refurbishing of one of the historic structures of its type," he said.

SANFORD — While the Seminole County school board signed an official proclamation making the month of March violence free month, district officials hope that every month is violence free in the schools.

Next to the signs declaring the schools to be drug free zones, new signs are starting to be hung which declare the schools are also weapon free.

It has always been a violation of district policy to bring a gun or any other weapon onto school property.

However, an increase in the number of incidents involving weapons on campuses across the county has prompted district

SANFORD — A 40-year old transient was run over Tuesday by a van in the parking lot of the Sanford Rescue Outreach Mission.

Walter Jackson was taken to Orlando Regional Medical Center by air ambulance after the accident shortly before 2 p.m. Tuesday. Jackson was not admitted to the hospital but stayed in the emergency room until Wednesday morning. He was told to report to the hospital burn clinic for follow-up care, officials said.

Jackson was struck by a Ford passenger van driven by Jaesan Bell, 1401 Dixie Highway, Sanford. Bell is the son of Blanche Bell Weaver, founder and executive director of the mission. She is also known as Mother Weaver. The rescue mission is located at 1701 W. 13th Street.

According to the police report, Jackson was sitting outside the mission after eating. The passenger

King celebration: Focus is non-violence, peace

Activities honor slain civil rights leader

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — The City of Sanford Martin Luther King celebration will move into full swing on Saturday morning with a "Peace Breakfast" at the Sanford Civic Center.

The theme of this year's celebration is one of non-violence and working toward peace. Celebrations across the nation, which will take place this weekend, share that theme.

The City of Sanford Martin Luther King Celebration Committee said there is a great interest in the theme of non-violence in Seminole County where there has been an increase in the number of violent incidents, especially involving young people.

"If the world is to be a better place, our youth will play a major role when they learn there is a better way of resolving conflicts...NON VIOLENCE," the promotional material from the committee reads.

The committee is hoping to promote idea of "Stop the killing, start the healing and the building" at the celebration and throughout the year.

"This is something that we should promote all year long," Marva Hawkins, a member of the celebration steering committee, said.

Earlier this week, seven students competed in an oratorical competition at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

While the judging for that contest is continuing and the winners won't be announced until Monday, the event was considered a success because of the participation of students from across the district and because of the support they received from family and friends. A standing room only crowd packed into the chamber to cheer the youngsters on.

The top three winners will be presented with scholarships from the committee on Monday night.

At Saturday morning's celebration at the Civic Center, the committee will present their annual Brotherhood Award.

The speaker for the breakfast will be evangelist Barbara Gainey, pastor of the Glorious United Pentecostal Church in Osteen. The Martin Luther King Jr. Celebration Choir will perform at the event.

Donations for tickets to the breakfast are $8 each and

Panther program delay not a big problem

TAMPA — A plan to save the Florida panther by breeding it with a closely related subspecies of cougar will not suffer "biological or operational" problems by a one-year delay, a state wildlife official said.

The plan, which was to have begun this month, has been postponed for at least a year because it has not received federal approval.

Tom Logan, a wildlife biologist with the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, said the year delay would not be a big problem, but "We do need to start next winter."

The delay is renewing fears among some panther advocates and scientists about the future of the predator, beset by reproductive disorders and physical deformities caused by generations of inbreeding.

The building at one time housed the Sanford Fire Department, city armory and jail.

Artist Barbara Farrell is handling the renovation. She is converting the second floor into a loft area where she will have an art studio, and reside.

Sanford Main Street Coordinator Faye Fulton said the art studio will probably be open by the ribbon cutting, but plans are still being formulated for the tea room, restaurant or antique store. "That may be several months down the road yet," Fulton said.

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce is conducting a ribbon cutting at the new business Tuesday, at 11:30 a.m.

Heien Stairs, at Stairs Property Management, 101-A E. First Street, says she can hardly believe the demand for downtown buildings in recent times. Stairs has been allowing the Sanford Main Street program to use a building adjacent to her office, at 101-B E. First Street, as a Welcome Center. The operation will be seeking a new location soon. Stairs says she has several clients highly interested in leasing the suite.

Faye Fulton, coordinator of the Main Street program said she is looking for a place to establish a new Welcome Center. She is to be out of the present location as of March 1.

Cranias commented, "Hopefully, we can get some place donated to us. We've used this as our Welcome Center for over a year now, and we hope to be able to find another suitable location somewhere in the downtown area."

Stairs has also leased a 1,750 square foot area on the second floor of the old Garrett building, in the 200 block of E. First Street.

"Sheryl Garner, who used to live with her parents in Sanford, is returning to open an upstairs studio there," Stairs said. "She will be teaching dancing such as ballet, jazz and modern, as well as teaching voice and drama."

Stairs said Garner will be taking registrations for students possibly by early July, with an opening planned for August of this year.

Cranias, also co-owner of Cristo's Classics Restaurant in downtown Sanford, is preparing to open a new restaurant. The former K G's, at 112 E. First Street, just west of the Rand alley area, will become Cafe Jake.

"My brother Van will be taking over the Cristo's at 107 W. First Street," Cranias said. "We've been working on remodeling the interior of our new place and we hope to have it operational within about three weeks."

Cranias said the food will be natural Southern cuisine. "We'll probably start with just lunch and dinner for awhile," he said, "and add a breakfast menu later."

Another building which was vacated several months ago is looking toward a new life. The old Kader Jewelers store, at 112 South Park Avenue will soon be a woman's apparel store. Stairs has also arranged for the leasing of that store to Rose Edgcomb, originally of Baltimore.

"She has had a similar operation in DeLand," Stairs said, "and now she wants to set up a second store in Sanford."

Stairs said the store is to be called "Mother's Closet."

The First Street Gallery, at 203 E. First Street will soon be moving to a new location. An adjacent shop, formerly the Soup To Nuts restaurant at 201 E. First Street is already vacant. Two separate antique stores are planned for the downtown buildings.

Plans for the future of the old McCrory building in the 100 block of E. First Street are also beginning to look up. The building was recently refurbished inside in anticipation of some new tenants.

Sanford area broker, Garfield Walker is presently involved in lease negotiations for approximately a 25 foot wide portion of the building.

"That is a much larger building than it looks from the outside," White said. "There is room for additional tenants, and with the interest in downtown Sanford, we may have some soon."

White said he would prefer not to discuss what type of business is seeking to locate in the former McCrory facility.

Florida Report Card

New education commissioner gives state schools C+

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Florida schools deserve a C+, Education Commissioner Doug Jamerson said as he released the second annual Florida Report Card.

Jamerson said he wasn't disappointed by much in the report, but the state's average dropout rate left him cold.

"That's pretty constant," he said. "It didn't go up or go down appreciably. We need to continue to work on that dropout figure."

The dropout rate for the 1992-93 school year climbed to 4.2 percent from 3.87 percent a year earlier.

Children under the age of 16 who aren't attending school are not counted in the dropout rate, but would be included in the truancy rate, which stayed constant last year at 1.5 percent for middle schools and 1.2 percent for elementary schools.

The graduate rate, meanwhile, climbed to 78.7 percent last year, up from 77.9 percent in 1991-92.

Starting next week, all students in Florida will take home to their parents a report card on how their schools are performing.

The eight-page reports include statistics about the student's school, including test scores, attendance rates, suspensions and classroom size. District and state figures are also included.

The report cards are a key part of a 1991 state law that transferred power over classroom operations from lawmakers and bureaucrats to principals, teachers, parents and employers at each school.

The idea behind the reform is to give schools greater flexibility and demand greater accountability. The goal of the law is

Since the report has been changed from last year to make it clearer and shorter, comparisons can't always be made between the two years, Jamerson said.

Supreme Court rules tax appraisal limit to take effect in 1995

By ADAM YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The state Supreme Court ruled a constitutional amendment that caps increases in tax appraisals for Florida homeowners will not take effect until Jan. 1, 1995.

The amendment, also known as Save Our Homes, will limit the yearly increases in the appraised value of homesteaded residences to 3 percent, the inflation rate, the change in a home's market value, or whichever is lowest.

The court said Thursday the supporters of Amendment 10 failed to specify when it should take effect.

"For whatever reason, the drafters of Amendment 10 failed to provide an effective date, and this court is bound to apply the unambiguous provisions of the amendment as written," Justice Ben Overton wrote in the court's unanimous decision.

"This court simply has no authority to circumvent the constitutionally mandated effective date or the plain language of the amendment," Overton wrote.

Supporters of the amendment, which was passed in November 1992, said voters expected the amendment to take effect immediately.

"I think, personally, citizens should be outraged," said Lee County Property Appraiser Ken Wilkinson, who led the petition drive.

The court's ruling will let the state Department of Revenue complete a biannual review of county tax rolls under a new system to ensure property appraisals reflect market values.

The department had appealed a state court ruling last year that would have let the amendment take effect this year.

Revenue officials have reviewed about half of the state's 67 counties and if the amendment went into effect in 1994 "any possible unfairness or inequities in the other half of the counties would be permanently frozen in place," said Larry Fuchs, executive director of the revenue department.

"Although they may not realize it, this is a victory for the taxpayers of the state of Florida," he said.

Wilkinson said he believed the court's decision could cost homeowners millions in potential savings, particularly in high growth areas.

Still, he said he considered the ruling "good news and bad news" because the amendment is only the fourth citizens' petition approved by voters. The other citizen-backed amendments were government-in-the-sunshine, English as the official language and term limits for members of the state Legislature and Congress.

POLICE BRIEFS

One arrested, one sought

An Oviedo man was arrested and another man is sought in the attempted murder of another Oviedo man. Police arrested Eugene Jenerette, 39, 401 Reed Road, early Wednesday morning on charges of attempted first degree murder and being a principal to attempted first degree murder.

Shortly before midnight Wednesday, police responded to a shooting at the corner of Avenue B and First Street. There, they found Elvis Leon Gainey bleeding from a gunshot wound to the arm and a scratched face. Gainey told them during an argument, Jenerette punched him and then another man shot him. Police arrested Jenerette nearby.

Mom, 71, arrested

A 71-year-old Lake Monroe woman was arrested Wednesday night on a charge she threatened her daughter with a handgun. Annie Ruth Campbell, 5401 Richard Allen St., was held on a domestic violence charge of aggravated assault with a handgun. Campbell's 49-year-old daughter told Seminole County deputies Campbell was arguing with her about money matters at about 9 p.m. Wednesday when she retrieved a handgun and threatened "I'm going to blow your brains out." The woman said she was forced to defend herself with a knife before deputies arrived. Deputies report finding a loaded six-round handgun under a bed in the home, with one bullet discharged.

Crack bust

Altamonte Springs police netted several local residents in an undercover "crack" cocaine sting Wednesday night at the corner of Sanford and Magnolia avenues. Held on charges of purchasing cocaine were Michelle Dawn Powers, 26, and Ernest Edward Dalrymple, 36, both of 585 Portland Ave., Longwood; Franklin Sanders, 32, 601 Palmetto Ave., Longwood; and a Maitland man, James Craig Schloot, 37. Police report a child in Powers' and Dalrymple's vehicle was turned over to a relative. Police also report Sanders gave them a jigsaw for a piece of cocaine.

Drug possession charged

John Robert Dennis, 40, 3401 Main St., Midway, was arrested on charges of possession of marijuana, fleeing and attempting to elude a deputy and driving with a suspended license following a traffic stop by a Seminole County deputy Wednesday night.

Retail theft charged

Ronald Kevin Everson, 19, 102 Paddock Court, Sanford, was arrested on a retail theft charge Wednesday night by a Seminole County deputy. A service station clerk reported Everson drove off from a gasoline station on State Road 434 without paying for $12.68 in gasoline.

Disorderly intoxication charged

Jeffery Butler, 31, 2751 W. 18th St., Sanford, was arrested on a charge of disorderly intoxication by a Seminole County deputy Wednesday night. A patron of a Southwest Road market reported Butler struck the patron then became argumentative. When a deputy arrived, the patron identified Butler. Butler became loud and a crowd gathered before his arrest.

Arrest for dealing in stolen property

Jeff Hayden Johnson, 25, 470 Lakeview Drive, Lake Mary, was arrested on a charge of dealing in stolen property at his home Wednesday morning. Seminole County deputies report Johnson exchanged a stolen stereo component for a bag of marijuana valued at $40 on Jan. 5.

SCC seeks Sanford land trade

By NICK PFRIPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole Community College is seeking a trade with the City of Sanford. SCC will finance a new water main project. In exchange for 36 acres of city land to be used for stormwater runoff.

The matter has been discussed at City Commission work sessions and remains tabled pending the obtaining of information from the St. Johns Water Management District. (SJWMD).

In making a proposal to the city, SCC Vice President for Administration and Finance, Andrew Vavreck said, "Seminole Community College is in need of property to mitigate for some loss of wetlands on the college campus, due to the college's use of these wetlands for stormwater treatment purposes."

Vavreck said engineers have determined that approximately 36 acres of land will be needed. The land in question is owned by the city.

In exchange, the school has offered to construct a new water line from Lake Mary Boulevard north to the new meter at the campus. It would then be part of the construction of the new north/south entrance to SCC, which has been referred to as Hospital Road.

When constructed, the access road will provide an entrance to the SCC campus directly off Lake Mary Boulevard, which Lake Mary officials have applauded as helping reduce traffic through several of that city's residential areas.

At the present, Hospital Road is only a power line right-of-way, and is not usable as a roadway, although plans have been discussed by Lake Mary City Commissioners regarding the possible establishment of the road.

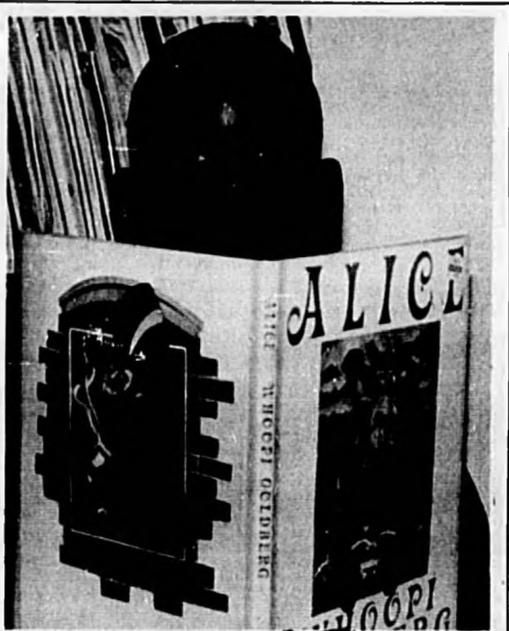

During Monday night's Sanford City Commission meeting, City Manager Bill Simmons also commented that SCC would eventually be building a perimeter roadway around the college campus, which would also cause the school to lose some of the present wetland areas.

Simmons also said SCC may also run water lines for reclaimed water to the campus, which would help discharge between 130,000 to 700,000 gallons of water per day, and eliminate the need to discharge more water into the St. Johns River.

Simmons suggested the city would be best served by committing the 36 acres to SCC, which would, in turn, dedicate it as a perpetual conservation easement, to the St. Johns Water Management District.

Following work session discussion Monday afternoon, the Sanford City Commission gave a consensus vote to support the measure tentatively, but await information regarding exactly what the SJWMD will be requesting from the college. The information is not expected to be forwarded for at least several weeks.

Circus cancels shows

By NICK PFRIPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

Three of this weekend's scheduled circus performances in Orlando have been cancelled. Word may be released late this afternoon regarding the remainder of the shows.

Because of the derailment yesterday of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus train near Lakeland, officials have been forced to cancel performances set for 7:30 this evening, and 11 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. tomorrow afternoon.

Circus officials are awaiting an assessment of damage to circus equipment, expected to be finalized sometime today, before making any official announcement regarding scheduled performances for tomorrow evening, and Sunday.

According to a press release issued early this morning, ticket holders to the canceled shows should hold their tickets pending further information. The tickets may be exchanged for remaining shows or refunded.

The statement says, "Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus deeply appreciates the public's support and understanding."

Seventeen cars of the 53 car train left the tracks during the collision yesterday.

If you smoke, be considerate

You too can become a millionaire and be honored world-wide. All you have to do is invent a use for tobacco for other than smoking.

This week marks the 30th anniversary of the original U.S. Surgeon General's pronouncement that smoking is hazardous to one's health. Only recently have statistics been able to say that smoking has decreased.

Meanwhile, a number of new efforts are underway to curb tobacco use. Recent clean-air acts prevent smoking inside many structures. Officials are looking into placing more restrictions on cigarette advertising.

Yet people in every nation of the world continue to smoke. They do so regardless of emphasis from the medical profession that smoking is hazardous to one's health.

Smoking however, isn't the only problem. Second-hand smoke also causes difficulties. Persons who may never want to take a puff, often have problems caused by inhaling smoke coming from a nearby room where smoking is permitted. Those who stand outdoors even cause difficulties when the wind causes cigarette smoke to flow toward another person.

One of the worst situations would be if smoking was made illegal. Those who will smoke regardless of the consequences will become law-breakers. Tobacco growers would go out of business. Manufacturers would cease operations. Mass unemployment would result.

If a person must smoke, we urge it be done with consideration for those who do not. Even though you may be causing harm to yourself, give others their right to be in a smoke-free environment.

Someday perhaps, someone will come up with another use for tobacco. Whether it will be a cure for some disease, a good base for paint or varnish, or the plant from which a new type of fuel can be obtained is questionable.

The U.S. Government can be expected to come out with additional restrictions on smoking and higher taxes on cigarettes. It will upset those who feel they can't or won't stop, but it will be of benefit to the rest of the people.

Be considerate of others. If you must smoke, do it away from those who don't.

Field of justice

It is truly incredible and absolutely mindboggling when you stop for a moment or two and sit back and ponder the actions and inactions of "man," especially in the field of "justice."

For example: After much heated effort some of our legislators got a positive piece of legislation passed into law that mandated an additional three years of penalty — over and above that which is imposed for a crime in which a firearm is used during the commission of that crime. Mind you, this is a "must impose — additional sentence." No ifs, ands or buts or maybes about it.

Why then are there judges around that apparently flagrantly disregard that law by refusing for one reason or another, to impose the additional three years of penalty? Could it be that they feel they are "above the law." Incredible, isn't it? Totally awesome action!

For example: The court system keeps on calling for more and better and stronger laws to combat the ridiculous eruption of violent crime while the same court system (upper strata) won't let the court system (lower strata) utilize the ton upon ton of existing laws already on the books. One appeal after another. And everytime an upper level court overrules a lower court decision, it only proves that criminal justice (?) is wrong 50 percent of the time. It's enough to "blow your mind." Isn't it?

For example: We have a young man up D.C. way who has on several occasions, talked about "reinventing government." Government, my friends, has a way of reinventing itself with all of the prolific process of a bunch of rabbits. First there's two, then two dozen, then 200, then 200,000.

What is desperately needed is the reinvention of some of those old time-ried and proven attributes. Honesty, integrity and truthfulness come to mind. During a recent political campaign, absolute promises were made by the dozen and inferred promises were thicker than fleas on a dog. After the campaign those same promises were immediately denied, side-stepped or blamed totally on someone else. It would seem that the only parts of "honesty, integrity and truthfulness" that you will find in Washington is "honest, integrity and thna," hard to spell, difficult to pronounce, and in precious short supply. And that, my dear friends, scares the hell out of me. How do you feel? How about letting them know?

The two crises of no confidence

Different groups of Americans with different agendas, different hostilities and different axes to grind seem to be losing — or in some instances have lost — confidence in two of democracy's most unifying institutions, the presidency and the media.

Many of them don't know why they have lost faith in the media. They do know that this big impersonal monster that regularly assaults their sense of fairness has spun out of control. And they don't know how to bring it back into orbit.

With Bill Clinton, impersonality is not a problem. His persona defines the presidency.

Despite a couple of spectacular legislative successes, Clinton's presidency has been plagued by a series of contradictions and broken promises.

The irony of his struggle with America's confidence is that the media, which are also under fire, have stoked many of Clinton's troubles.

Whether those troubles are hyped-up, unsubstantiated reports about his past sexual peccadilloes or suspected misuse of his gubernatorial office for private gain, the media have vigorously pursued their exposure with all of the salvaging intensity of a peeping Tom, and with the posture of scriptural righteousness. For there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed, and hid, that shall not be known.

That truth has also inspired a new level of venomous partisanship. "Why do conservatives hate Bill Clinton so?" recently asked Washington Post columnist E.J. Dionne Jr.

Dionne suggested that Clinton has angered conservatives by co-opting the need for reform of issues conservatives once decreed to be their monopoly — crime, welfare, health care and tax cuts — and by being the toughest White House adversary they've had since Lyndon Johnson.

Conservatives thus have concluded that the only way to recapture the presidency in 1996 is by demonizing Bubba. Scuttle his legislative initiatives. Cast aspersions on his integrity (already under suspicion). And raise doubts about his ability to govern.

But presidents come and go. Only the presidency endures. The same is true of the media and the public's love-hate relationship with this institution.

That staunchest of all defenders of freedom of speech, Thomas Jefferson, despised newspapers. "Nothing can be believed which is seen in a newspaper.... Advertisements contain the only truths to be relied on in a newspaper," he wrote. Sound familiar?

Today, the media are under a siege of diminishing confidence, but their response is much like the motto of Mad magazine icon Alfred E. Neuman: "What me worry?"

Two national surveys about the media by Public Perspective magazine and Brown University professors, along with a scholarly book on the reporting profession, Thomas E. Patterson's "Out of Order," reveal a deep-seated distrust of the media and a rising cynicism about their moral values.

For there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed, and hid, that shall not be known.

Saga of Marion Barry's bride

WASHINGTON — The bride, who wore an ivory silk and gold-threaded suit at her church wedding last week, was like a million others in the final hours before her nuptials.

Distracted, harassed, frustrated enough by unfinished business that she told her fiancé, "I love you and want to spend the rest of my life with you, but I want you to go home. Now."

Cora Masters, a University of the District of Columbia police professor, met the former Washington mayor — whose resurgence last year as a city councilman she helped orchestrate — at a political reception in 1971.

Thanks to the "big Angela Davis (Afro) I had," Masters, 48, recalls, Barry, then a bachelor, was instantly impressed. She wasn't. The then-community activist was too "brah, young and full of himself."

At some point, that brashness became a "chutpah I admired," she says. "The confidence he displayed...taking on the city council chairman and the incumbent" to become D.C.'s famous mayor.

It was as mayor that Barry, 57, became infamous: for the 1990 videotape featuring Hizzoneer, a pipe and a woman not his wife. The tape launched a thousand newscasts, and sunk a much loved (and reviled) mayor. Convicted of cocaine possession, Barry confessed an addiction to alcohol, drugs and to womanizing as a related problem. (He admitted himself to treatment.)

Which brings us to the most-asked question: "Why would she marry him?"

"It's a valid question," Masters says evenly. "This time, I'll answer it."

She looks away, gathering words: "I love him. ...And I know together we can have a wonderful life, do a lot for each other, the community. He's a very good person, and very good for me. The weaknesses he fell pressure to — we all fall prey at some time. His was just very public."

Of her own lapse — a 1987 guilty plea to charges of double-billing the city for travel expenses as chair of the Boxing and Wrestling Commission, which she repaid — Masters says only, "There's much to say, but now isn't the time."

Ironically, Barry's humiliation spurred Masters' falling in love with him.

"I resisted it at first — though I'd always loved him as a friend. But my heart went out to him during his troubles, during the disaffection of his friends. The hypocrisy of...watching people sit in judgment who'd done what he did — or had done it with him."

During Barry's six-month prison term, "He called all the time," Masters says. "At Christmas, I asked, 'Do you want me to come?' and I thought, 'If I don't who will?' (Barry's ex-wife) Edie was gone... In prison, I watched him, heard him, grow spiritually... evolve more and more into someone you would let yourself fall in love with. He came out a much better person."

And trust?

"It's not an issue — I know the Marion Barry of today. He's deeply spiritual, committed to raising his son (Christopher, 13). I trust him always to try to do the best thing — the best you can expect, even from yourself."

I learned of Masters three years ago, when I was told she would be sitting in on my first ever interview with the ex-mayor. "Who is Cora Masters?" I grumbled. Said a co-worker, "Someone whose bad side you don't want to get on."

I could see why — Masters was tough, suspicious, blunt in her rejection of too-pointed questions. I left thinking that it was more-than-palms rumors about them were true, Barry had chosen a woman who would not be taken lightly.

Indeed, early on she says she told him: "There are many women out here who take less and accept more. I'm not one."

But she ended up being the one. On this pre-wedding day, she seemed largely jitter free. But Masters hails from strength. Her mom, Isabell, raised six kids alone, sent all to college, then earned a master's degree at 59; a doctorate at 68. Cora Masters, a divorcee, was also largely alone in raising daughters Lalanya, 24, a Howard University alum and actress ("A Different World") and Tamara, 19, a college sophomore.

A woman whose distrust once limited an interview is not someone I'd ever expected to like. But I have to admire a woman saying of her fiancé's counseling, "We'll be doing it all of our lives — it's that helpful." And saying about marriage's toughness: "Once you decide leaving is not an option, you have to work it out."

I have to respect her seeing so much current beauty in a man so easily dismissed by his past. Such vision, she says, comes from her spirituality. And something else:

"When Betty Shabazz was asked if she had trepidation about marrying Malcolm X — whose early life made Marion's look like a choirboy's — she said, 'Every woman should be so blessed as to marry a man when he's ready.'"

"Marion is ready," his bride says.

The tape launched a thousand newscasts, and sunk a much loved (and reviled) mayor.

Party time for UN peacekeepers

SARAJEVO — If the NATO allies follow through on their threat to use air strikes against the Serbs surrounding Sarajevo, it's doubtful that any of the bombs would hit Sonja's Kon-Tiki. If Sonja's were hit, the Westerners here would have no place to party.

Business has never been better at Sonja's. In a region shattered by ethnic strife, the only real color that matters at Sonja's is money.

But it's not the food that keeps everyone from Serb guerrillas to United Nations peacekeepers and foreign journalists coming back to this small establishment. In the 18 months since full-fledged civil war engulfed the former Yugoslavia, Sonja's has become the most notorious brothel in Eastern Europe.

In the wee hours of New Year's Day, patrons were still trickling out into the streets. News reports last fall that some UN peacekeepers were frequenting Sonja's caused the UN to launch an internal investigation. Nonetheless, some of the patrons leaving this January morning bore the stamp of the United Nations.

These peacekeepers, who arrive in armored cars wearing bulletproof vests, were perhaps too busy to take note of the human tragedy that takes place just down the road. The last stop before Sonja's is one of the largest and most abusive prisoner-of-war camps in Bosnia. Less than the distance of a sniper's bullet away lies downtown Sarajevo, where the citizens still cling to life as the pounding continues from Serb guerrillas nestled in the hills above.

Before the NATO allies consider air strikes, they should take a look at what the peacekeepers have brought. Our reporter Michael Viner recently saw evidence of a war in the former Yugoslavia that is becoming increasingly glossy on the outside, but messier by the day on the inside.

The presence of UN forces in Sarajevo has been a boon to the Serbian military machine. The UN distributes food for the 380,000 refugees — mostly women, children and the elderly — who are left in this Bosnian capital. But as much as one-fourth of this food ends up sustaining the Serbian military, which is inching closer each day to gaining control over Sarajevo. A UN spokesperson initially denied this charge, but later amended it by saying the forces were certainly saving lives regardless of how many Serb soldiers are being fed.

Despite their noble mission, the UN peacekeepers are nearly universally despised by the local population. Yugoslavia had, until the war, been a morally strict and virtually crime-free society. The citizens now blame the Western forces for the moral depravation that pervades this former communist country. Massage parlors had sprung up in Zagreb for the first time, until they were closed down recently amid a spate of public outcry.

The UN soldiers in Croatia — who are better paid than most of the locals — generally work three consecutive weeks, then enjoy a week off. These vacations are generally spent at the Croatian seaside resorts with local women, who are being monopolized by the foreigners.

As the world grows increasingly weary of the fighting, all sides have apparently discovered the Western art of spin control.

No measure of spin control, however, can hide the bare facts of the Bosnian situation. The Serbs now control nearly all the territory surrounding Sarajevo, and are determined not to quit until the Bosnian capital lies in their possession. UN air strikes may delay their plans, and allow more refugees to escape, but it will do little or nothing to promote lasting peace.

Sonja's has become the most notorious brothel in Eastern Europe.

Coach

while he was a coach of a Lake Mary-area girls softball league in the Seminole County Girls Softball League. The alleged assaults went unreported until last October, when one of the girls, by then 16 years old, reported them to her mother. She identified other potential victims, said McDonough. Additional victims may yet come forward, he said.

According to the allegations, Allen invited team members over to his home after practice for a "rubdown." It was during these occasions sexual contact was made, the girls reported. One of the girls reported Allen would watch adult movies in her presence, including a movie with the title "Lesbians in Love."

According to the arrest report, Allen denied molesting the girls but admitted to providing rubdowns for them and said he might have touched a "girl's breast or vaginal area" while providing the service. Allen told investigators he was certain the girls were sexually active at the time.

The report of the arrest shocked Nancy Dowling, a league board member responsible for the age group in Allen's team. Dowling said coach's rubdowns of any sort on team members would have been at the very least, questioned.

"Absolutely, I've never heard of such a thing," she exclaimed.

Dowling said Allen remained a coach until late 1990 or early 1991, when he quit because of a change in league drafting policy.

"He thought it would reduce the competitiveness of the team," Dowling said. "Most of the time, Jim went along with the flow."

Dowling said Allen was well-liked by team members and parents alike. She said board members received no complaints insinuating improper behavior against him. "There was never, ever, ever a complaint that would imply any kind of wrong behavior," she said.

Dowling said Allen was very competitive.

"I remember one time we were considering whether to keep him as a coach," said Dowling. "It was an adult thing, politics. And four or five parents came to the board meeting and asked us to keep him. They thought a lot of him and the girls liked him."

On Sunday afternoon at 2:30, there will be an inter-faith religious celebration at the Civic Center.

The guest speaker will be Rev. Dr. Claude Ingram, pastor of the New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church in Daytona Beach. Ingram will be assisted in the worship service by several pastors from the Sanford-Seminole County community.

The Martin Luther King celebration will conclude on Monday with a youth celebration that begins at 6:30 p.m.

Young people will be feted in an event that will feature the talents of the youth of Seminole County. "Heal the World," a concert that will feature the Seminole County Community Boys Glee Club, the Greenwood Elementary Male Chorus, the Cromms School of Choice Male Choir and the Midway Elementary Male Choir, will be the highlight of the evening.

There will also be rap performances and displays of visual arts at the event which will take place at the civic center.

officials to make a strong statement against them.

"We are just not going to put up with it any more," said board chairman Barbara Kuhn.

According to George Proechel, security director for the school district, the number of incidents involving weapons at the schools had been increasing over the last few years.

"But I think we're seeing the number of incidents going down now," Proechel said.

Proechel said the strengthened ties between students, administration and law enforcement has reduced the number of weapons brought to school. He also credits the district's new anonymous tip line with part of the reduction in the number of incidents.

"I think that more of the kids are bringing information to school officials and resource officers than ever," he said. "I think they are taking a lot of pride in their schools. They are not tolerating the violence."

While the district campuses are officially weapon free and most schools have adopted an attitude of "zero tolerance" toward weapons on campus, the schools are still not without incidents of weapons possession.

"We are working to make the schools safer," said Proechel. "Our goal is to have weapons free schools."

Meanwhile students are being taught alternative methods of conflict resolution and other ways to deal with their anger.

Parental groups and, in some cases, schools are helping to set up Neighborhood Watch programs to make the students' lives safer at home as well as at school.

van was parked in the parking lot when Bell started the engine to warm up the vehicle for about 10 minutes.

At some point during that time, Jackson moved in front of the van and laid down in front of the front wheels. Bell did not see the man as he drove forward and Jackson was run over. The police report also stated Jackson had been drinking.

Jackson sustained some burns and minor cuts and was drifting in and out of consciousness when he was airlifted to the hospital. His injuries were apparently minor, according to a hospital spokeswoman, because Jackson was not admitted to the hospital.

Sanford Deputy Police Chief Joe Dillard said the police made contact with Jackson earlier in the day when he was loitering around a gas station on French Avenue. Police issued him a warning to leave.

"The individual left that location and came to our police department," Dillard said. "He advised us that he needed a place to stay. We called the rescue mission who in turn said we could bring him over there. We had one of our officers transport him to the mission."

Dillard said the police do not transport transients to the county line to remove him from the area. "If I find out that somebody has done that," Dillard said, "someone is in for some severe disciplinary action."

State regulators set to debate Bell settlement

By ADAM YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Regulatory analysts raised concerns about a proposed $1 billion agreement by Southern Bell Telephone Co. but indicated they were not serious enough to stop the proposal from being approved.

The Public Service Commission staff released a recommendation Thursday that neither supported nor opposed the settlement between Southern Bell and Public Counsel Jack Shreve, who represents utility customers in rate cases before the PSC.

The five-member commission is scheduled to consider approving the landmark agreement Tuesday.

"It will be up to the commission to make the decision if it's in the public interest," said PSC spokeswoman Bev DeMello.

Southern Bell is the state's largest utility with about 5 million lines.

The Miami-based company and Shreve announced an agreement last week that would end a lengthy rate case that was scheduled to start Jan. 24 and save customers more than $1 billion over the next four years.

Staff analysts said the wide-ranging agreement was so complex they decided to analyze its positive and negative aspects instead of issuing specific recommendations as it usually does in PSC cases.

The settlement would cap residential and business rates through 1997, eliminate the $1-a-month charge for touch-tone service and reduce overall rates by $300 million a year by 1997.

Southern Bell also would cut its profit margin, offer rebates to customers dissatisfied with installation or maintenance service and absorb $112 million in damages from Hurricane Andrew.

Another part of the agreement would require the company to offer expanded local-calling service between Dade and Broward counties, which include the Miami-Fort Lauderdale areas, the state's most populous.

The PSC staff analysts questioned whether the savings for customers would be greater if the commission decided to proceed with its hearings on the rate case.

The analysis said the proposed agreement would reduce the company's profit margin by $876 million through 1997.

The original reduction sought by Shreve's office would cut its profit margin by $1.2 billion while the PSC staff's plan would reduce them by $1 billion. The company's original proposal would cut its profit margin $652 million.

"Whether the rate reductions proposed by the stipulation are as great as, or less than, what might be ordered after a full hearing is debatable," the staff's analysis said.

The agreement also would end regulatory investigations into Southern Bell's billing and sales practices, which resulted in a $15.2 million settlement with the Attorney General's Office in late 1992.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Reagan era: Experiments played down

WASHINGTON — Under orders from Congress to document 30 years of Cold War radiation experiments on humans, the Reagan administration in the mid-1980s decided instead to play down the issue, rejecting suggestions for follow-up reviews and compensation, Energy Department papers show.

The department's arguments ranged from there was "no scientific reason" to believe the subjects suffered long-term harm to assertions that follow-up studies would "violate privacy," according to documents obtained by The Associated Press.

Congressional concerns over possible long-term injury to the subjects "appear to have been based on misunderstandings of ... the principles of human experimentation," then-Energy Secretary John Herrington said in a letter to Congress in early 1987.

Hung jury for Erik Menendez

LOS ANGELES — With 19 days of deliberations ending in a hung jury, Erik Menendez faces the prospect of another trial in the slayings of his rich parents. The twin jury weighing his brother Lyle's fate kept on working.

Superior Court Judge Stanley Weisberg declared a mistrial in Erik's case Thursday after the jury reported for the third time that it was hopelessly deadlocked.

District Attorney Gil Garcetti had said previously that he would retry Erik if the six-month trial ended in a hung jury.

Lyle's jury ended its 21st day of deliberations Thursday, sending out a two-page note indicating members of the panel were weighing a manslaughter conviction as a lesser option to murder.

Hubble goes to work

WASHINGTON — Astronomers start next week to put the repaired Hubble Space Telescope to work on the key questions about the universe that the orbiting telescope was designed to answer.

Jubilant officials at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Thursday a repair effort have corrected completely the blurred vision of Hubble. The $1.6 billion telescope was launched into Earth orbit in 1990 with a defective mirror and then was fixed last month by spacewalking astronauts from the space shuttle.

The instrument underwent weeks of testing before experts concluded, as NASA's Ed Weiler said Thursday, "It's fixed beyond our wildest expectations."

Pass the pasta

WASHINGTON — Pass the pasta. But skip the lasagna and fettuccini Alfredo, if you want to eat healthy.

To follow up last year's review of Chinese restaurant fare, the Center for Science in the Public Interest sampled the cuisine of 21 Italian restaurants in New York, Chicago and San Francisco.

"The good news is there's a lot of good choices," said Jayne Hurley, the nutritionist who did the survey.

"The bad news is that the worst Italian dishes are in a class by themselves — much worse than Kung Pao chicken," a Chinese dish that was rated one of the highest in fat, she said.

Indeed, a plate of fettuccini Alfredo contains 97 grams of fat. Made with cream, butter, Parmesan cheese and sometimes eggs, it contains more than twice the recommended daily limit of fat, she said. Of its 1,498 calories, 58 percent come from fat.

Clinton, Yeltsin sign nuclear accords

By TERRANCE HUNT
AP White House Correspondent

MOSCOW — In post-Cold War breakthroughs, President Clinton and Boris Yeltsin signed Kremlin accords today to stop aiming missiles at any nation and to dismantle the nuclear arsenal of Ukraine, third largest in the world.

"We are giving a great boost to the goal of a nuclear disarmament," Yeltsin said.

"For the first time in nearly half a century — virtually since the dawn of the nuclear age — the United States and Russia will not operate nuclear forces, day-to-day, in a manner that presumes they are adversaries," Clinton and Yeltsin said in their Moscow declaration.

Clinton said he and Yeltsin had agreed to take their missiles off target as of May 30.

In a nation gripped by chronic inflation and sagging production, Clinton praised Yeltsin for giving "strong assurances" that he will not retreat from tough economic reforms despite unrest over the hardships they've caused.

Clinton said the lives of Russians should improve this year as "the benefits will begin to flow" from expanded trade.

"I come here as a friend and a partner," said Clinton, who has lent unflinching support to Yeltsin through political turmoil in the former Soviet Union.

Clinton and Yeltsin appeared at a joint news conference broadcast across Russia as well as in the United States. Yeltsin was asked point blank if he would slow the pace of economic "shock therapy." "Nyet," Yeltsin snapped.

The answer was welcome news for Clinton in a nation where ultranationalists and communists are leading a campaign to roll back Yeltsin's reforms.

The arms accords and agreements on trade, protection of human rights and curbs on weapons proliferation completed the main business portion of Clinton's three-day stay in snow-blanketed Moscow.

Trying to spread the gospel of economic and democratic reforms, Clinton was to deliver an address broadcast live on Russian television. He was speaking at the bullet-scarred Gostekino television center, site of an Oct. 3 showdown when anti-reformist forces sought to take over the central broadcasting facility.

Accepting the ultimate in Russian hospitality, the president and his family were to sleep overnight within the ancient fortress walls of the Kremlin. Clinton is the first American leader to stay there since Richard Nixon.

Hillary Rodham Clinton and 13-year-old Chelsea landed in Moscow this morning to join the president. Yeltsin offered to have his grandchildren take Chelsea to the famed Moscow circus.

By arriving late, Mrs. Clinton and her daughter missed a grand night at Yeltsin's country home where the president entertained guests by playing the saxophone and the dinner menu featured lips of moose, stuffed carp, caviar and suckling pigs.

Clinton invited Yeltsin to make a state visit to Washington in the fall; the two leaders also will see each other in July in Naples, Italy, at the annual economic summit of industrialized nations. Yeltsin said he hoped Russia soon would become a full member of the economic summit rather than a guest.

Ukraine's president, Leonid Kravchuk, joined Clinton and Yeltsin in signing the accord to dismantle 1,800 nuclear warheads left in his country after the breakup of the Soviet Union.

Clinton said the agreement reduced chances for "nuclear terrorism and nuclear espionage." It's a very good thing for the world and for the United States. However, it still faces opposition in Ukraine's parliament.

The disarmament agreement with Ukraine, when fully implemented, will leave Russia the last of four nuclear powers of the former Soviet republics.

Kazakhstan and Belarus took the pledge earlier. Clinton will salute Belarus' step by stopping in the capital of Minsk Saturday; Vice President Al Gore visited Kazakhstan in December.

"We have got together this day to put the last dot to the last problem of the Cold War," Yeltsin said. We are giving a great boost to the goal of a nuclear disarmament.

In a statement, the three leaders said all the nuclear warheads in Ukraine should be sent to Russia "in the shortest possible time."

Also, the statement said the 46 SS-24 missiles in Ukraine, the most potent weapons in the world's third largest arsenal, would be deactivated within 10 months by having their 460 warheads removed.

At least 200 warheads from these and SS-19 missiles will be transferred to Russia during the 10 months.

Russia will provide Ukraine with fuel assemblies for its nuclear power industry during the same period containing 100 tons of low-enriched uranium.

Clinton and Yeltsin meanwhile reaffirmed a commitment to respect Ukraine's independence, sovereignty and borders and pledged not to use nuclear weapons against the former Soviet republic.

Breast cancer update

By LAURAN NEERGAARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Bobbi Kissinger was told she had only a 10 percent chance of living another two years when doctors found not one but two very advanced tumors in her breast.

Two years later, she's not only cancer-free, she still has both breasts.

She's one of the success stories of a new study that shows giving patients with advanced breast cancer rugged chemotherapy before surgery not only dramatically improves their survival, but also can save their breasts.

"We haven't found the holy grail," cautioned Dr. Gordon Schwartz of Thomas Jefferson University, who conducted the study, to be published Saturday in the Journal Cancer.

"These women had their backs against a wall and we were looking for a way to save their lives," he said Thursday. "Breast conservation was an unexpected plus ... but every woman isn't going to avoid a mastectomy."

Women with locally advanced breast cancer — large tumors that may have spread to the lymph nodes — typically have only a 20 percent chance of living two years. For Mrs. Kissinger, 48, of Washington Township, N.J., the odds were lower because she had two tumors.

Jefferson doctors, beginning in 1979, treated 158 women with intensive chemotherapy for up to six months before surgery. The chemotherapy shrank the tumors dramatically, making it easier to remove all the malignant cells, Schwartz said.

After surgery, the women underwent radiation and up to six more months of chemotherapy. Eighty percent remained disease-free after two years, 61 percent after five years and 55 percent after 10 years, said the study.

Silver Hawks come back strong after first loss

From Staff Reports

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — It couldn't have (and wouldn't have) been planned that way, but the biggest test of the season for the Lake Howell High School girls' basketball team just happened to come during the same week of nine-week exams.

A week ago Tuesday, the Silver Hawks were 19-0 and ranked No. 3 in the Florida Sports Writers' Association's Class 5A state poll. Then, last Thursday, Lake Mary ended Lake Howell's bid for an undefeated season with a 66-50 win over the Silver Hawks.

How would the Silver Hawks respond to the loss?

As it turns out, the Silver Hawks, who dropped to sixth in this week's FSWA poll, passed their on-court test with flying colors.

One week after losing their first game of the season, Lake Howell bounced back with a pair of convincing wins, ripping the Boone Braves 71-46 on Monday night and thrashing the New Smyrna Beach Barracudas 66-37 Thursday night.

Not only did the two blowouts follow their first loss of the season and come during a week when the players were dealing with the demands and distractions of nine-week exams, both victories came on the road.

On Thursday night, Lake Howell outscored New Smyrna Beach in every quarter, racing out to a 19-6 advantage after one quarter and a 34-9 lead by halftime.

The Silver Hawks controlled the game from the outside and inside. Kelly Kohn spearheaded the outside assault, netting a game-high 18 points that included four three-point field goals. She also had six assists.

Christine James and Lori Marchisella helped Lake Howell dominate play under the basket. James collected 16 points and a game-high 16 rebounds while Marchisella contributed 14 points and 14 rebounds before fouling out.

Lake Howell outrebounded New Smyrna Beach by a 53-33 margin.

Crystal Laws led the Barracudas (8-10) with 14 points, including a pair of three-point field goals. Courtney Dever chipped in with 12 points. No other New Smyrna Beach player scored more than four points.

The Silver Hawks (21-1) will return to action next Wednesday night, playing at Lyman in a girls-boys doubleheader.

Sanford sets clinic for would-be ball coaches

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Calling all youth baseball coaches: Be at Sanford Memorial Stadium tomorrow (Saturday, Jan. 15) morning.

The Sanford Recreation Department will conduct a coaches clinic for anyone interested in coaching a youth baseball team this year at 9 a.m. at the Dugout Club located inside the Sanford Memorial Stadium.

Those needing to register should arrive before 8:45 a.m.

The clinic will be run under the guidelines of the N.Y.S.C.A. (National Youth Sports Coaches Association) with the purpose of certifying interested parties as coaches. Anyone who wants to coach in the Sanford youth leagues this will have to be certified.

Cost will be $15 per person.

The Recreation Department will be adding a new league this spring, so more coaches will be needed. In addition to the Pee Wee (8-10), Little Major (10-12), and Babe Ruth (13-15), a T-ball league for players ages 6 and 7 will be started.

In other recreation department happenings, a new three-man basketball league for men will be starting Feb. 10, and the cheerleading classes for girls' 6 and

Ward's return can't come soon enough for Seminoles

By BRENT KALLESTAD
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Heisman winner Charlie Ward, who led Florida State's football team to the promised land, hopes to help the basketball team out of the wilderness in his 1994 debut Sunday at North Carolina State.

"I can't turn a complete team around like a Michael Jordan," Ward said Thursday in a telephone conference call. "I can only do my job to help my team win. We'll try to do it together."

The Seminoles have been frightful in Atlantic Coast Conference play, losing three straight games by an average of 17 points while shooting only 40 percent and committing 61 turnovers.

"We have room to improve and I think we're going to do that," Ward said.

Ward provides most of what coach Pat Kennedy needs now: leadership, dependable ball handling and defensive pressure.

"Charlie solves all three of those problems for us," said Kennedy, who a year ago played Ward for 43 minutes in an overtime win at Wake Forest in just his second game back.

And Ward can expect plenty of action Sunday. "He'll play as many minutes as it is possible for him to play," said Kennedy.

Football and the shoulder injury, which first occurred in the NCAA tournament in Ward's sophomore season, have limited the soft-spoken senior to just 17 basketball games since the end of the 1991-92 season.

Ward isn't worried about his skills being rusty despite the layoff.

"It's like riding a bicycle," he said. "It's a matter of getting my wind back. Everything else comes natural."

While Ward hasn't been available for a complete season since his freshman year in the 1990-91 campaign, the Seminoles are 40-15 in games he has started and 35-20 — mostly in early-season nonconference games — without the 6-foot-1, two-sport star.

Ward set virtually all of Florida State's passing and total offense records in just two seasons on the football field where he led the Seminoles to 22 wins in 24 games and their first national title. But he is also closing in on some individual basketball marks.

He needs 10 steals for a school-record 205 and he's sixth in assists with 318. And Kennedy has already told him to count on producing more offense.

"If it comes up where I have to shoot, then I will," said Ward, who has averaged 7.6 points in his role as a playmaker. "I'm just going to go out and do my best and hopefully my best is good enough."

And Kennedy wanted to be sure Ward took enough time off to recover from a grinding football season and the buffeting he took in Florida State's 18-16 Orange Bowl victory Jan. 1 ever Nebraska.

Since that game, Ward spent several days visiting his girlfriend and buddies in Atlanta, picking up a basketball only on the final day of his vacation from sports.

"It's been fun just relaxing and enjoying life," said Ward, who added he's ready to get back in the ballgame.

"I'm always excited about playing again," he said.

Handle your own complaint

Consumers have the right to quality at fair prices

As a consumer, you have the right to expect quality products and services at fair prices. If something goes wrong, there are things you can do to resolve the problem. Here are some suggestions for handling your own complaint.

- Save records. Start a file about your complaint. Include copies of sales receipts, repair orders, warranties, canceled checks, and contracts which will back up your complaint and help resolve your problem.

- Describe the problem — When you complain, be sure to describe the problem, what (if anything) you have done already to try to resolve it, and what you think is a fair solution. Do you want your money back? Would you like the product repaired?

- Go back to where you made the purchase — Contact the business that sold you the item or performed the service. Calmly and accurately explain the problem and what action you would like taken. Avoid displays of anger, they usually don't help. If a salesperson is not helpful, ask for the supervisor or manager and restate your case. Most consumer problems are resolved at this level. Chances are yours will be too.

- Allow each person you contact time to resolve your problem before contacting someone else for help.

- Keep a record of your efforts and include notes about whom you spoke with and what was done about the problem. Save copies of any letters you send to the company as well as letters sent to you.

- Don't give up — If you are not satisfied with the response at the local level, don't give up. Call or write a letter to the person responsible for consumer complaints at the company's headquarters. Many companies have toll-free telephone numbers. Often these toll-free "800" numbers are printed on product packaging. Check your local library for a directory of toll-free telephone numbers of call (800) 555-1212 to learn whether a company has a toll-free number.

CONSUMER FOCUS

If you're writing a letter, send your letter to the consumer office or the president of the company.

The letter should include your name, address, home or work telephone numbers, and account number, if appropriate.

Make your letter brief and to the point. List all the important facts about your purchase, including the date and place you made the purchase and any information you can give about the product (for example, the serial or model number).

If you are writing to complain about a service you received, describe the service and who performed it.

State exactly what you want done about the problem and how long you are willing to wait to resolve it. Be reasonable.

Include copies of all documents regarding your problem; be sure to send copies, not originals.

Don't write an angry, sarcastic, or threatening letter. The person reading your letter probably was not responsible for your problem, but might be very helpful in resolving it. Type your letter if possible. If it is handwritten, make sure it is neat and easy to read.

Keep a copy of all letters to and from the company.

Remember, if you write a letter to a Better Business Bureau, government agency, trade association, or other source for help, give information about what you have done so far to try to get your complaint resolved.

The complaint letter should be sent by certified mail, with a return receipt requested. This will cost more, but the receipt will provide evidence that the letter was received and who signed for it. However, to protect against the letter being misplaced or lost in route, you might want to send it by registered mail. This will cost more than certified mail, but it guarantees that all post office personnel handling the letter will sign off on it.

If enough consumers take this additional time to complain or compliment companies and/or services, our world will truly be a better place to live.

(Barbara Hughes/Gregg is director of the Seminole County Extension Service. Inquiries may be directed to her at the service, 250 W. County Home Road, Sanford, FL 32773 or phone 323-2500. Ext. 5556.)

Disappearing act gets bad reviews from husband

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, a woman complained that her husband always charges ahead of her in crowds without bothering to determine whether she is following him.

I have a somewhat different problem. My wife and I will be walking down an aisle in a department store when — poof — she disappears in thin air! My children tell me they used to be terrified when they were little and she did that to them.

On a recent trip to Europe, she disappeared in a mob scene at a New York airport. I nearly went crazy trying to find her. She finally showed up and casually explained that she had stopped to talk with someone for a minute or two.

Abby, your suggestion that a man and his wife walk arm in arm through a crowd misses the mark. It's much easier to burrow through a crowd single file than two abreast, but if I insist that she walk ahead of me so I can keep an eye on her, she gets insulted. Any solution?

MILWAUKEE
DEAR MILWAUKEE: Insist that she walk ahead anyway. She'll survive the insult with far less trauma than losing each other in a crowded airport or department store.

DEAR ABBY: When are people going to wake up to the fact that if a person asks people about their background or heritage, he is not necessarily racist, prejudiced or insensitive?

Recently I was buying pork chops from a Chinese butcher who asked me in broken English, "Where you from?"

I replied, "I'm from Pasadena, Calif., but I am of Polish descent — third generation. Why did you ask?"

He said, "You sure talk funny."

I suppose to be politically correct, I should have been insulted. Sorry, I thought it was great. I've developed friendships and had some interesting conversations with people I would have never known anything about if I hadn't asked. "Where are you from?"

ADVICE

That's how I got to know my Chinese hairdresser was raised in Japan, and my garage mechanic came from Armenia and was interned in a concentration camp in Siberia. I've learned a lot about Jewish religious customs, polished my Spanish with a lady from El Salvador, found out about the Buddhist religion from a man on a bus, and got some recipes from Mormons in Utah and Scandinavians in North Dakota.

How are we going to learn about people whose cultures are different from our own if we're afraid to talk to each other?

MARILYN HUDSON IN PASADENA

DEAR MARILYN: You make an excellent point. However, not all people are open and willing to answer questions asked by strangers; they feel it's an invasion of their privacy.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning books that one loans out and are never returned: I personally never loan a book to anyone unless I don't care whether I get it back or not.

I own a bookstore that handles out-of-print hardback books. In looking through a secondhand book, I found the following statement on the flyleaf:

—AND PLEASE RETURN IT.

"This may seem a strange request, but I find that while most of my friends are poor mathematicians, they are all damn good bookkeepers. — Ralph J. Stubbs"

Man seeks signs to detect alcoholism

DEAR MARY: My dad was an alcoholic and I sure don't want that to happen to me. How can you tell if you're getting into trouble? My wife has been saying for years that I've got a problem, but I can stop any time I want to and have gone for as long as three months without a drink.

I do like the taste of beer and I also like the buzz I feel after a few drinks. Right now I don't drink much during the week, but I go through about a case every weekend. I never get drunk.

What would I look for to see if I did have a problem?

LIKES BEER
DEAR LIKES BEER: There are numerous warning signs on the road to alcoholism or any other addiction, but denial often keeps us from recognizing or admitting what's happening. Each of the situations listed below is a "red flag" indicating problems, but the more of these that you recognize in yourself, the more certain it is that you're in trouble.

...Looking forward to the next drink (drug); planning your day or week around when and how to get alcohol (or any other drug);

...Gulping drinks; rushing the "high"; Drinking more to get the feeling you like;

...Having to drink more now

DRUG COUNSELOR

than before to get the desired feeling:

...Keeping alcohol (or other drugs) in secret places; drinking without other people knowing;

...Using alcohol to relieve stress and anxiety; using it to mask pain, fear, or other uncomfortable emotions;

...Having blackouts;

...Drinking (or using other drugs) more than you intended; stopping at a bar for "just one drink" but staying until closing time.

...Drinking alone; no longer drinking just to be sociable; frequently drinking alone.

By the way, just the quantity you describe would make me nervous. A case a weekend represents a lot of money, calories and alcohol.

ONE MORE APPOINTMENT

That's right. You know what's coming... "Are you caught in the same old grind?" Granted, the phrase is a bit trite, yet that "trapped sensation" affects so many of us each day that it is worthy of note.

Why not make one more appointment? "One more appointment?," you say. "I have too many now. That's my problem!"

There is an appointment available that can change your life. A regular visit to God's house each Sabbath will sustain you with the strength and the fresh focus to ease those daily pressures...to function most effectively and efficiently. It will be the most positive commitment of a lifetime!

Water is unlikely relation to PVCs

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm male, in my early 40s, diagnosed with PVCs. After eliminating salt and sugar from my diet to no avail, I avoided drinking chlorinated tap water. Sure enough, after switching to bottled water, the PVCs vanished within a week. Perhaps chlorine and other ions interfere with the electrochemical functioning of the heart's pacemaker. Your view?

DEAR READER: The infinitesimal amount of chlorine present in municipal water supplies is too small to have an appreciable effect on the body. Thus, in my view, there is no relation between chlorine and the heart. Nevertheless, I am intrigued by the apparent effect your drinking water has on your heart rate. Here's the problem.

Premature ventricular contractions (extra heartbeats) occur in almost everybody from time to time. They are often related to stress, fatigue, nicotine and caffeine; they are also harmless, except in cases where they may reflect a heart disorder, usually diagnosed by a cardiogram or other tests. PVCs may come and go. Therefore, I suspect that the chlorine/PVC relation may be pure serendipity: two unrelated events occurring close together.

People have a need to find order in a world that appears chaotic. Consequently, it is human nature to assume that if B follows A, A must have caused B. However, as George Gershwin wrote, it ain't necessarily so. In fact, the two events may be totally divergent. The strength of the A-B relation lies in how impressive A or B is (an eclipse or volcanic eruption, for instance) or how often the two events occur in proximity. Superstitions are built on this sort of thing.

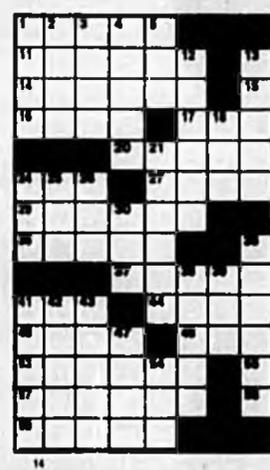

The value of the scientific method is that it can help people discover true cause and effect relations. In your case, for example, maybe something else is going on. You may have decided to walk to the store to purchase bottled water. (Exercise can reduce the frequency of PVCs.) You may have cut back on colas, tea or coffee. (The caffeine may cause PVCs.) Or there may be some other behavioral change of which you are unaware.

I suggest that you experiment

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

The average often passes unnoticed; it is the abnormal that is highly visible. For example, it is hard to overlook a basketball player. But short people can attract attention too. As Max Kauffmann said, "He's very superstitious - he thinks it's unlucky to walk under a black cat."

There are bridge deals in which staying low works well. Given that big hint, how would you plan the play on this deal in both six and seven hearts? In each case, West leads a trump.

Even though it is a great contract, it isn't easy to reach six hearts. In my auction, South overbid. He opened with a strong and artificial two clubs and then followed with a jump rebid to show a solid suit. That was enough to persuade North to shoot slamward.

There is no problem in seven hearts - except that you cannot make the contract with this layout. Needing to find the spades 3-3, you draw trumps, play a spade to dummy's king, cash the spade ace and ruff a spade. When West discards, you cannot do better than play a club to dummy's king and try the diamond finesse. Still no luck: two down.

In six, though, you need only a 4-2 spade break. After drawing trumps, you should duck the first round of spades. Suppose East switches to a diamond (his best defense). Win with the ace, play a spade to dummy's king, cash the ace, discarding a club, and ruff a spade. Return to dummy with a club to the king and jettison your last loser, the diamond queen, on the established spade six.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Jan. 15, 1994

Major changes in your personal desires and objectives are likely for the year ahead. Your new values will be more lasting and gratifying, even though they might be a trifle harder to attain.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Expectations can be realized today, provided you deal with the top people instead of going through intermediaries. The middle man could pose obstacles. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Measures can be taken today to do things that could enhance your earning potential. Reexamine your methods of operation to see where you're coming up short.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is a good day to push some new plans you've been contemplating, so don't be intimidated by reasonable calculated risks.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Shared ventures could be the ones that'll offer you the greatest opportunities for gains today. Try to find a partner who has assets you lack.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today could be more enjoyable if you are discriminating regarding your companions. You don't need to be involved with a large group, just a few intimate pals.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Lady Luck might intervene today and make things easier for you regarding a desired objective you've been unable to achieve. Give it another shot now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone who has been lucky for you previously could be lucky for you again today. Perhaps the two of you might want to invest a few coins together on the lottery.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't be unduly disturbed today if you have to deal with changes you didn't design or anticipate. If you hold tight, things should work out to your liking.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's been said that two heads are better than one. Today this old adage could hold true for you and your mate in solving a difficult dilemma.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Lady Luck might favor you again today where your material interests are concerned. You are still in a very fortunate cycle for attracting monies.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your warm, jovial disposition makes you a welcomed addition to any social gathering today. Even new people you'll meet will feel like long time friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Generally speaking you should do rather well in most areas of your life today. In fact, how well you do might take a few days for you to assess.
