Bishop Markle

Markle Named Archbishop

Sanford resident Bishop Dimaas Markle of the Eastern Orthodox Catholic Church in America will be installed as metropolitan archbishop in services 10 a.m. Sunday at the Cathedral of St. John's in Fern Park.

The archbishop-elect, who lives on Miller Road in Sanford with his wife, Teresa, and sons, Nicholas, 5, and David, 2, said he will be moving the church's headquarters here.

The retiring metropolitan archbishop, John Adair of Oklahoma, Bishop Mark Schultz of Kentucky, Bishop Markle and 15 priests from around the country attend a meeting of the Holy Synod Saturday afternoon 2-6 p.m. at the Holiday Inn on Lake Monroe, Sanford.

A dinner will be held at St.

John's Sunday following the service.

Bishop Markle attended St. Francis College, Ohio University, and Three Hierarchs Seminary. He founded the Our Lady Queen of Peace Church in Sanford eight years ago and served as its pastor until he was ordained a bishop two years ago. Since then he has made his headquarters at St. John's. —Jane Casselberry

Stano Loses 'Madam X' Appeal

Woman killer Gerald Stano, who has received three death sentences and seven life sentences for murder, lost an appeal Monday to have his first-degree murder conviction for killing "Madam X" overturned.

"Madam X" is the unidentified woman who was killed in the fall of 1974 near the Interstate Mall in Altamonte Springs.

The 5th District Court of Appeal in Daytona Beach ruled that Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor did not err in early 1984 when he refused to hear evidence during a retrial that Stano had made a false confession in the case. See STANO, page 3A

Fracas In Korea As Exile Returns

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — South Korean opposition leader Kim Dae Jung was punched and kicked today by police and then dragged away from a delegation of U.S. officials who escorted him home from two years of self-exile in the United States. At least four Americans said they were roughed up in the melee.

Shortly after stepping off an airplane that carried him from Tokyo to Seoul's Gimpo airport, the 59-year-old Kim was forced onto a minibus filled with security guards and taken to his heavily guarded home in western Seoul.

Meeting reporters there later, Kim said he was not harmed but "angry" that authorities had "used violence against me." Kim said he was pushed and shoved and "violently forced into an elevator."

During the fracas, Robert White, the former U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, was thrown to the ground and former State Department official Patricia Derian was repeatedly struck as police dragged Kim from the entourage, White said.

"We weren't just manhandled. We weren't just pushed," said Derian, who said she was "covered with black and blue marks."

"Bob White was thrown to the ground. I was hit in the upper part of my body. It was a very carefully orchestrated effort to hurt us, to intimidate us, but mostly to separate us from Mr. Kim," she said.

Reps. Tom Foglietta, D-Pa., and Edward Feighan, D-Ohio, said they were also roughed up in the incident, which dashed U.S. hopes that Kim's return would be peaceful.

The Seoul metropolitan police issued a statement saying security guards "merely separated Mr. Kim and his family from those accompanying them and escorted them to an elevator in order to ensure his safety. No beating of Mr. Kim or any of the people accompanying took place."

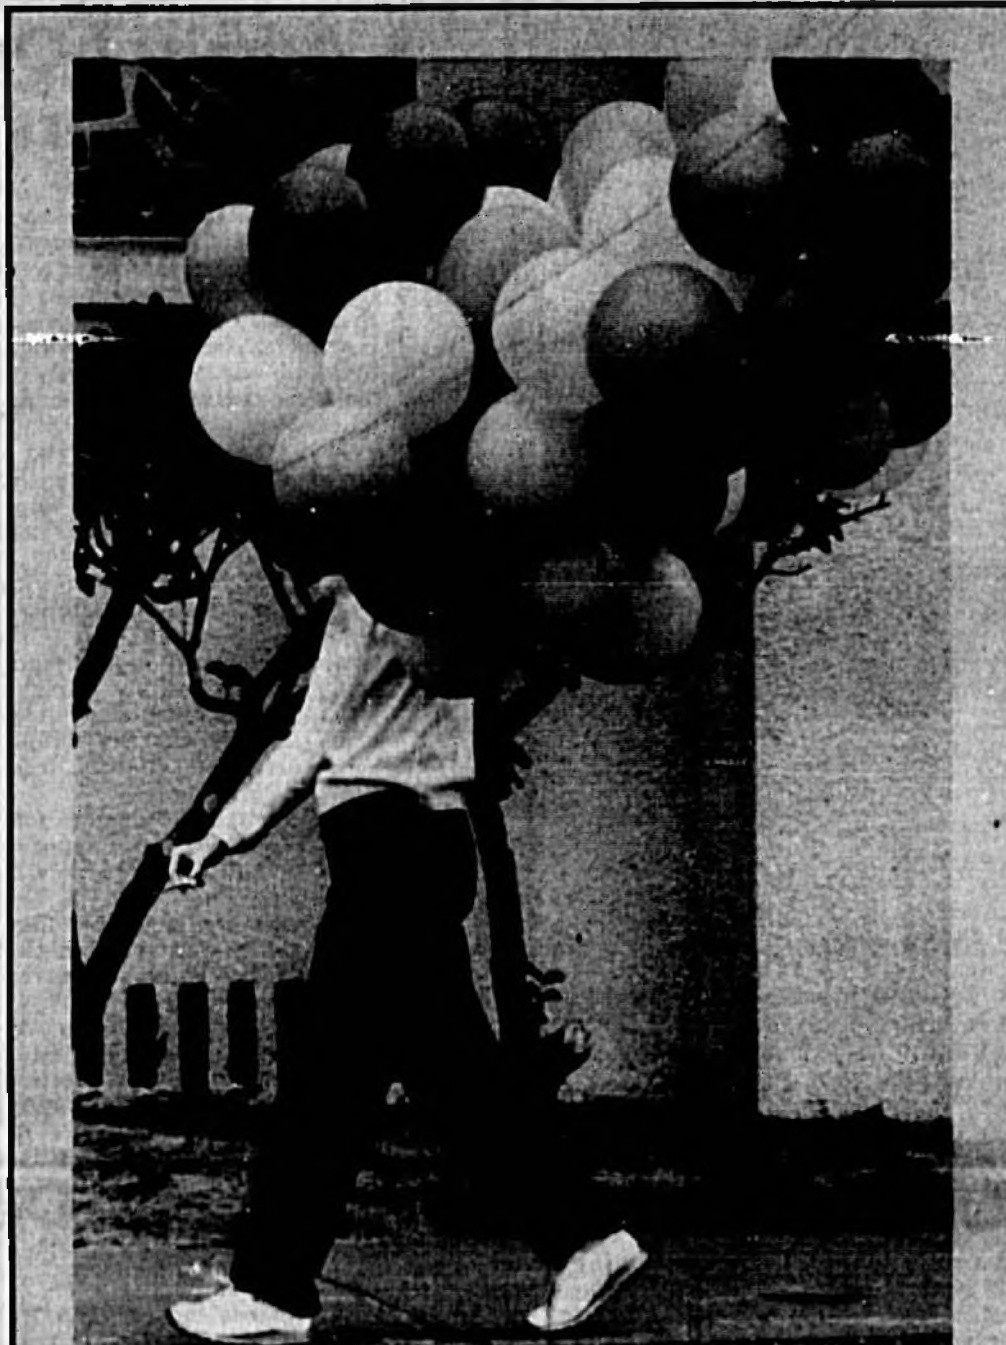

Kim told reporters he was "not sure if I was really beaten because the situation was so confused." But Feighan and the other Americans said they saw Kim being struck repeatedly.

"I personally observed security officers hitting Mr. Kim — unequivocally. There is no clearer way of saying it. The four of us were also physically abused — pushed, kicked and punched," he said.

Asked why Kim's own account of the incident seemed ambiguous, Feighan said, "I can't speculate on why he said what he said. There may be many reasons."

Although authorities have strongly denied Kim is under house arrest, Kim told reporters the district police chief told him that "I can't leave my house for a while and that my only visitors from now on can be my relatives."

Balloon Lady

Cheryl Hubbard, director of development at All Souls School in Sanford, prepares a cluster of balloons for release during a ceremony celebrating Catholic School Week. About 210 students sent balloons containing their addresses into the wild blue yonder early today in hopes they will float into the hands of potential far-away pen pals. The event capped a week of activities at the school which included a open house and re-opening of the school's remodeled gym.

Cockroaches Conquered? UF Claims To Have The Secret

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The German cockroach, a hardy pest that has conquered commercial poisons, can be wiped out by a new insect spray developed at the University of Florida, a university research official says.

Dr. Kenneth R. Tefertiller, director of the UF Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, told the House appropriations subcommittee on education Thursday the bug spray is called "Gencor." He said it was developed mostly through private foundation grants to IFAS.

Tefertiller said Gencor, unlike some bug killers, is not a "hard" pesticide that stays in the environment permanently. He also said it does not actually kill roaches right away, but renders them sterile, disfigures their wings and discolors their bodies.

In six months to a year, he said, they die without any heirs.

Tefertiller IFAS scientists began working on Gencor, using mostly private industrial grants, about two and a half years ago. He said "it's a very mild chemical" that can safely be used in homes.

"It doesn't even kill the cockroaches," he said. "We think we can target other household pests with the same technique — possibly fleas."

Tefertiller said commercial pest control services have been able to control most other Florida bugs. He said the German cockroach is a hardy strain that can live with commercial sprays and reproduces in great numbers.

"It's the only one we have no control over. All the hard pesticides can't handle it," he said. "If you've got a spraying program and you've still got cockroaches around, they're probably Germans."

Tefertiller said Gencor turns to a powder in areas where it is sprayed. For about three weeks afterward, he said, "if a roach walks in it, he doesn't die right away but his wings become deformed and his color turns darker. In six months, he's a goner."

Tefertiller said some heavily infested apartment houses in the Gainesville area were sprayed with Gencor "and we had 90 percent effectiveness" with it.

County To Sift Applications For Top Posts

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

By the end of next week a special committee will begin screening 110 applications for two new deputy county administrator posts — one to be in charge of administration and the other in charge of development.

County Administrator Ken Hooper said the screening committee is comprised of himself, Health and Human Services Director Dr. Jorge Deju, Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser, Bill K. Nolan of Cardinal Industries, and James Easton, former assistant county administrator who left the county a year ago to work in the private sector.

Ex-County Administrator Roger Nelawender withdrew as a member of the screening committee after his wife, Ann Nelawender, personnel director with the Seminole County public school system, applied for one of the jobs.

Other familiar names among the applicants are: Eleanor Anderson, county director of management and budget and acting assistant county administrator; Woody Price, director of planning; John Percy, public services director; Storm Richards and Rick Holt, administrative assistants to County Public Works Director Larry Sellers; Kathy Rice, city manager of Lake Mary; and Aaron Dowling, assistant director of the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council.

Salary range for the posts is $29,736 to $42,017. However, in the job classification and pay plan study recently completed by consultants, the recommended salary range for deputy county administrators is $43,598 to $60,881.

A committee comprised of Hooper, Price, Kaiser and Deputy County Attorney Bob McMillan, is reviewing the study and gathering comments from department heads on the proposed plan.

Hooper said after the committee gathers its information and confers with Carolyn Long of Long and Associates, which conducted the study, a report will be taken to the county commission for its approval or disapproval in early March.

Meanwhile, another special committee, composed of Hooper, Mrs. Anderson, Price, Computer Services Director Monty Beamer, and Cindy Wright, administrative assistant and acting director of environmental services, have screened some 28 applications for the post of county environmental services director, and selected five for interviews, beginning today. The five selected are: Budget analyst and utility manager Pam Hastings, Environmental Control Manager Tim Claubaugh, Winter Park utility director Hoyt Owens, and a Dr. Phaup of Titusville, Hooper said.

Under a new county policy, Hooper will appoint persons to all three posts, and ask the county commission for its concurrence.

The pay range for director of environmental services is $28,777 to $40,881. The proposed job classification and pay plan calls for a salary range for the office of $39,540 to $55,200.

Forms Not Printed In Time

Flouridation Poll Delayed

A problem with getting bill forms printed during the December holidays has delayed until the end of this month a poll of Seminole County's 8,000 to 9,000 water customers on a proposal to fluoridate their water supply.

The survey question of whether the county's water customers want fluoridation or not was supposed to be printed on December water bills. But, Pam Hastings, utility manager in the county's environmental services department, said because of printing delays, the survey question will be on the bills to customers on Feb. 27 and 28. The county utilities operate under the environmental services department.

Mrs. Hastings said the department has mailed notices to the customers telling them that fluoridation is being considered and advising that an information packet on fluoridation is available, upon telephone request, at environmental services office, 323-2500. The office is located in a temporary portable building behind the county agricultural center at Five Points.

She said 89 telephone requests were received in 2 1/2 days this week.

A final count of the polls results is expected in late March. Mrs. Hastings said.

The steering committee for the county owned system, headed by County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, authorized the poll in November.

At that time Hooper said facts about water fluoridation would be prepared by the county's Health and Human Services Director Dr. Jorge Deju.

Deju said he is "about 90 percent in favor" of fluoridation. He said the county's health department provides fluoride treatment for 5,000 to 6,000 elementary school children on a regular basis upon request.

"Most experts recommend fluoridation to prevent tooth decay," he said.

Deju added that the state will provide funds for equipment and costs of operation for the first two years fluoride is injected into the water supply.

After that, the county utility system would have to pick up the fluoridation costs. There are no estimates available of those costs.

The county provides water for unincorporated areas plus some sections of Casselberry and Lake Mary.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen, a member of the utility steering committee, said before the county begins any fluoridation program, if it ultimately does, a public hearing on the matter will be held first.

'Elijah' Charged In Killing Of Priest

ONALASKA, Wis. (UPI) — A man calling himself "Elijah" and griping about girls being allowed to read Scripture faces murder charges after a Roman Catholic priest and two other people were gunned down after a special mass for second-graders.

Bryan Stanley, 29, is to be arraigned Monday in the deaths of the Rev. John Rosetter, 64, of St. Patrick's Church, pastor William Hummer, and parishoner Ferdinand Roth.

Police said a man carrying a 12-gauge shotgun opened fire inside the church Thursday morning after the children had begged their pastor and filed out. Officers captured the gunman near a nursing home about a half mile away.

Stanley had been seen in the church earlier in the week, said Sister Mary Jane Cournoyer. The nun said Hummer's wife had seen him Wednesday with his head bowed as if in prayer.

After his arrest, the suspect identified himself as Elijah, the Old Testament prophet who crusaded against the worship of pagan gods by the Israelites.

Authorities refused to give details of the shooting, but Sister Rose Frances Phalin, principal of St. Patrick's School, said the clergyman was praying when shot.

Two nuns who attended the mass said the gunfire followed an argument between Stanley and Rosetter over girls reading Scripture. Cournoyer said the altar boys assigned to Thursday's mass described the exchange.

"They said some man came to the sacristy before mass and asked if girls were going to read. Father said yes."

"He said, 'By whose authority?' and Father said, 'By the authority of the holy father the pope.'"

Police Rally Around One Of Their Own

NEW YORK (UPI) — About 10,000 off-duty officers — nearly half the city's force — staged a raucous rally to support a colleague charged with manslaughter for killing an emotionally disturbed woman being evicted from her apartment.

The police poured into the streets Thursday outside the offices of Bronx District Attorney Mario Merola and chanted "Ayatollah Merola," "Merola Must Go" and "Mario Beats His Wife."

They waved American flags and several officers held a dummy dressed in a police uniform with a noose around its neck and a sign that read, "Merola's idea of justice."

The demonstration was triggered by the indictment last week of officer Stephen Sullivan, a 19-year veteran and member of the city's elite Emergency Services Unit.

Sullivan was charged by a grand jury with second-degree manslaughter for killing Eleanor Bumpurs, 66, with two shotgun blasts last October. Sullivan said he fired because Bumpurs, who has a history of emotional problems, lunged at his partner with a butcher knife.

An autopsy showed she was shot twice, first in the hand then fatally in the chest.

Stockman: 'Clean House'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Budget director David Stockman is calling on Congress to make a "once in a century housecleaning" by agreeing to drastic budget cuts aimed at reducing the federal deficit.

President Reagan has proposed cuts in his fiscal 1986 budget in almost every area except the military to alicie the deficit down to $180 billion next year.

Stockman, after hours of questioning from members of the House Appropriations Committee, each of whom seemed to single out one item in Reagan's proposed cuts to attack, said it would not be enough to give the budget a "haircut" but that entire programs must be eliminated.

"It's time for a once in a century housecleaning," he said.

Repeatedly, he told the committee members, "We can't afford it," commenting on everything from federal revenue sharing to guaranteed student loans for families making more than $32,500 annually to farm subsidies.

Treasury Secretary James Baker said the government "no longer has revenue to share" with local governments.

Law Banning The Sale Of Bogus Drugs Affirmed

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A law that makes it illegal to sell bogus cocaine, heroin and other illicit drugs has been affirmed by the Florida Supreme Court, giving law enforcement agencies another weapon to combat drug trafficking.

The 6-1 ruling Thursday was a legal setback for 10 defendants in Hillsborough, Orange, Palm Beach and Broward counties who were accused of selling phony drugs, usually to undercover police officers.

The high court's decision overturned the 4th District Court of Appeal and other lower courts that had found the 1981 statute unconstitutional chiefly on grounds that it is vague and does not represent a legitimate state interest.

Critics of the statute contended it amounted to a "consumer protection law" for drug buyers who are ripped off by street dealers but proponents said law enforcement agencies needed it because their undercover agents often are the rip-off victims and, thus, lose their cases.

The high court concluded that the lower courts were misled by considering the statute as an anti-fraud measure when, in fact, it statutorily relates to drug use.

Student Generous With Cash

CANTONMENT (UPI) — Nearly $19,000 was seized in this west Florida town when a parent — suspecting junior high students were bringing home more than grades — tipped officials about an 8th-grader giving away wads of money.

Escambia County authorities said Thursday that $2,300 was confiscated this week from students at Ransom Middle School 12 miles north of Pensacola. Another $16,450 was unearthed at a vacant lot near the student-benefactor's home.

The 14-year-old pupil told authorities he stole the money from a relative, but nobody has reported the money stolen and no one has stepped forward to claim it. No charges have been filed and none were anticipated against the youth.

"We know who had the money originally. We don't know how that person obtained the money and our probe is centering around whether it was obtained through illegal means," said Lt. Don Parker of the Escambia County Sheriff's Department.

Did You Forget Something?

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Comptroller Gerald A. Lewis plans to start running legal advertisements next week to find owners of nearly $8 million in cash and property left in forgotten bank accounts and vaults.

"Our Abandoned Property Section functions like a statewide lost and found department," said Lewis. "Thousands of Floridians have lost or forgotten out millions of dollars worth of securities, credits or cash. Our efforts are designed to find the rightful owners or heirs and return this money to them."

State law provides that money left in bank accounts for 10 years, or property in safe-deposit boxes for seven years, without a transaction can be confiscated by the state — after a suitable search for owners or heirs.

Teen Acquitted In Rape

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

"Oh, thank God," a nervous grandmother bawled as the court clerk announced a jury's verdict saying her grandson was not guilty of rape and burglary.

But just behind the older woman and to her left, the 19-year-old victim cringed, her face contorted, tears wetting her flushed cheeks.

The defendant, Williams Dukes Jr., 17, of Longwood, stood motionless and silent as court clerk Claudia Hughey read the not guilty verdicts on two counts of rape and one count of burglary. Dukes' attorney, Christopher Smith, also of Longwood, beamed.

The acquittal, rendered at 5:35 p.m. Thursday after 2 1/2 hours of deliberation by a four-woman, two-man jury, came after Seminole Circuit Judge Volk Williams asked the jury whether it wanted to stop deliberations for the night or continue and issue a sealed verdict. A sealed verdict would be kept by the clerk until court resumed the following day and then be announced.

The jury asked to retire and consider whether to adjourn for the night and within 20 minutes issued its not guilty verdict.

The jury apparently believed that the victim was mistaken in the identity of her assailant. They were also apparently swayed by Smith's questioning of why the woman did not cry out for help when the man entered her room. Her parents were home at the time, he said.

While Dukes escaped a possible sentence of life imprisonment in this case, he is scheduled to be sentenced April 3 in another case for choking a woman with a belt. He pleaded guilty Jan. 28 to the September incident and can receive up to a year in the county jail.

In the rape case, sheriff's investigators said the woman reportedly recognized the man who entered her bedroom at 3:20 a.m. on Oct. 23. The suspect closed and locked the door of the woman's bedroom, pushed her down on the bed and held a screwdriver to her throat as he raped her, deputies reported.

The woman told deputies she frightened the suspect by screaming and he jumped out a bedroom window and fled.

When deputies arrived at the woman's home at 3:30 a.m., she gave them the suspect's name, description and a description of his car.

A Longwood officer spotted a car fitting the description and stopped it on S.E. Williamson Road, Longwood, at 3:35 a.m.

Sheriff's investigators then reported to the scene and arrested Dukes, 18 at the time, who said he had just been out drinking.

Admiral Only Warned; Six Others Imprisoned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Six servicemen who brought back captured automatic weapons from Grenada in 1983 were court-martialed, kicked out of the military and sent to prison but the admiral in charge of the invasion was only "cautioned" for a similar offense, Pentagon officials say.

Of the six, one soldier and a Marine were charged with trying to sell their weapons, the Army and the Marine Corps said Thursday.

The U.S. Customs Service seized 24 AK-47 Kalashnikov automatic rifles and 24 ammunition magazines from the plane carrying Vice Adm. Joseph Metcalf and several of his aides when they arrived at the Norfolk, Va., Naval Air Station from Grenada Nov. 3, 1983.

The names of Metcalf and several of his aides were taped to 16 of the Soviet-built rifles, a Navy official said.

Metcalf barred reporters from the island during the first two days of the invasion and threatened to shoot them.

Customs turned the rifles over to the Naval Investigative Service since they were seized on military property. The Navy said Metcalf was "cautioned regarding the capture and disposition of enemy weapons following a battle."

"He has been apprised of the existing regulations governing the disposal of such weapons and the rules prohibiting their retention as souvenirs," a Navy statement said. "He is now in compliance with those regulations."

Five soldiers from the 82nd Airborne Division based at Ft. Bragg, N.C., and a Marine from Camp Lejeune, N.C., were court-martialed and sentenced to prison for bringing similar weapons into the United States, the military said. A court martial is pending against a second Marine.

Military regulations that apply to the four services and are based on the 1934 National Firearms Act prohibit the importation of automatic weapons from a war zone.

The Navy declined to comment further on Metcalf's case, but a Navy official asked about the apparent double standard in meting out punishment for the offenses, said the incident involving the admiral was not similar to the attempted sale of weapons by the soldier and the Marine.

Hijackers Surrender; Whereabouts Unknown

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Shiite Moslem gunmen held a dozen hostages under threat of execution aboard a Cypriot airliner at Beirut airport for five hours before surrendering and leaving for "an undisclosed location."

At least five men carrying pistols and sub-machine guns stormed aboard the Cyprus Airways Boeing 707 and into the cockpit Thursday as it was preparing for takeoff and demanded that Cyprus free two jailed Shiite hijackers.

Cypriot Communications Minister Christos Mavrella, however, said no deals were made during negotiations between the gunmen and Lebanese officials and militia officers, who were acting as intermediary with Cyprus.

Officials declined comment on the gunmen's whereabouts and Voice of Lebanon, the Christian Phalange-party run radio, reported the group "withdrew to an undisclosed location."

Rubble Combed For Survivors

CASTELLANETA, Italy (UPI) — Rescue workers using shovels and dogs today searched for survivors in the remains of a six-story apartment building that collapsed on its sleeping residents, killing at least 34 people.

At least nine other people were injured when the rain-eroded foundations of the structure in the hometown of movie legend Rudolph Valentino crumbled early Thursday in Italy's worst building collapse in 25 years.

One of the nine injured taken to hospitals in the southern Italian town was listed in serious condition.

By late Thursday, 34 bodies had been recovered from the rubble by firemen, volunteers and nearly 1,000 army, navy and air force personnel from nearby military bases who began the rescue work within two hours of the collapse.

Officials who carried out a roll call of regular residents said they expected to find no more bodies.

Grenadian Forces To Take Over

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada (UPI) — Prime Minister Herbert Blaize says Grenadian forces will take over security on the tiny Caribbean island following the withdrawal of all foreign forces, an operation that begins in two months.

The State Department said the withdrawal of the 250 U.S. troops and more than 400 troops in the Caribbean Peace Force, stationed in Grenada since the U.S. invasion of the island Oct. 25, 1983, will begin in April.

Four of six men nabbed in raids Thursday on six reputed drug stash houses on the outskirts of Altamonte Springs have been released on bond. Two boys taken into custody in the sweep, were not charged as had been reported earlier, deputies said.

In the simultaneous raids by 60 Seminole County sheriff's deputies including the Seminole and Volusia County SWAT teams, cocaine, marijuana and heroin with a combined wholesale value of at least $100,000 was seized, sheriff's spokesman John Spolaski said.

The drugs were reportedly earmarked for sale by street dealers who supply illegal drugs to buyers who purchase drugs openly in the North and Marker streets area just outside Altamonte Springs. Sheriff John Polk said.

Polk said his officers will arrest hundreds of drug dealers and buyers over the next few months that his men photographed in drive-up drug deals.

Arrested Thursday were: Wendell Jullian "Big City" Callier, 28, of 222 W. 14th Street, Apopka, at a Leon Street home. Callier has been charged with possession of cocaine and was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

Vernon Lee Andrews, 52, of 713 Marker St., Altamonte Springs, was arrested at his home and charged with possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia. He was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

Theodore Small, 22, of 110 DeSoto St., Altamonte Springs, was charged at his home with trafficking in cocaine, possession of cocaine with intent to sell, possession of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of three firearms by a felon. He was released on $10,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court Feb. 25, along with Tommy Bell III, 25, of 121 Plymouth St., Altamonte Springs, and Milton Wilson, 22, of 336 DePugh St., Altamonte Springs. They were arrested at their homes and have been released on $8,000 bond each.

Bell was charged with possession of cocaine, drug paraphernalia and less than 20 grams of pot. Wilson has been charged with possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia.

Gregory Jerome "Rolo" Adkins, 25, of 409 Longwood Ave., Altamonte Springs, was charged with possession of pot at his home. He has been released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court Feb. 20.

GLASS BATTERY
A 20-year-old Casselberry woman has been charged with aggravated battery after allegedly throwing a glass, which reportedly broke and cut another woman's face during a dispute at a Casselberry bar, police reported.

Sandra Deneen Rudolph of 1801 Espande Way 12-F, was arrested at Roscoe's Lounge, state Road 436, at 8:35 p.m. Wednesday.

Kelly Simpson, 20, of 609 Casa Park Court, Winter Springs, was treated at the scene by paramedics, a police report said.

Ms. Rudolph was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

Zoning Denied For Duplex Development

Plans of an Altamonte Springs land developer, Suda Inc., to build a duplex development on an 18.7-acre tract adjacent to the Groveview subdivision in Sanford have been turned down by the Seminole County Commission.

At Tuesday's commission meeting, a Suda representative asked commissioners for an "intensity" increase on the property, 200 feet north of Lake Mary Boulevard, west of Sir Lawrence Boulevard.

In Nov., 1983, the commission granted a waiver to allow Sanford to rezone the property, after it was annexed into the city, for 7,500-square-foot, single-family home lots.

The waiver was necessary because state law forbids a change in zoning to a higher intensity development within two years after annexation by a city unless the county commission consents.

Prior to the annexation, the site was designated for low-density residential development.

The 7,500-square-foot lots permit construction of about four housing units to the acre while low density development calls for about three or less housing units per acre.

If the request of Suda President Bill Miller had been approved, Sanford could have rezoned the tract to permit duplex development.

County staff recommended the county commission deny the request, saying the tract abuts single-family residences and duplexes would not be compatible with those dwellings.

The staff also said the extra homes would necessitate installation of a traffic signal at the intersection of Lake Mary Boulevard and Sir Lawrence Drive.

Betty Sonenburg, the city's minimum housing code inspector, said Suda has submitted a preliminary plan through the city's planning and zoning commission for a single-family home development, but has not moved to start the development.

Under the tract's existing SR 1A zoning, Ms. Sonenburg said homes must have minimum size lots of 7,500-square-foot and duplexes are not permitted. Mrs. Sonenburg said SR1 zoning permits duplexes on lots from 6,000- to 7,500-square-foot if a conditional use is approved by the planning and zoning commission.

There is also a difference in the size of homes between the two zonings, she said. SRIA requires a minimum home size of 1,300-square-foot while SR1 permits a housing unit size of 900-square-foot.

Miller could not be reached for comment at his Altamonte Springs office on how he plans to use the property now that his intensity increase has been denied.

In October, the city commission can change the zoning without the county's approval, if it wishes. —Deana Estes

The high court also said McGregor did not make a mistake when he allowed the so-called false confession to be admitted into evidence in the murder trial.

In the appeal, filed in May, Assistant Public Defender Don West said there was insufficient evidence to convict Stano of first-degree murder during the course of a rape. He contended the state did not prove a rape took place.

West said there were "gross discrepancies" in Stano's description of "Madam X" and the description that authorities pieced together. West said Stano described a smaller woman than the autopsy showed her to be and Stano had said she was wearing a different color and style of shirt than found on the body.

In a taped confession, Stano, a short-order cook from Ormond Beach, said he picked the woman up on state Road 436 near Interstate 4 and later asked her to have sex with him. When she refused, Stano said he drove her to a wooded area behind the mall and forced her from the car at knifepoint. When she still refused to have sex with him, telling him he was not her type, Stano said, "I just started stabbing the young lady four to six times in the chest. She may have screamed a little bit, but I repeatedly kept stabbing."

Stano said in the confession that he partially disrobed her after she fell but did not say whether he molested her. He then fled the scene, according to the confession and discarded her purse and shoes as he drove home to Ormond Beach.

Members of the 38-member delegation, including 24 Americans, who attempted to visit Kim were not allowed to enter his house, Foglietta said. The house was heavily guarded and signs posted outside, in Korean and English, said, "Notice: This is an off-limits area for a temporary period."

As the scuffle occurred inside the airport, tens of thousands of Kim's supporters, many shouting "Down with the dictatorship!" and chanting Kim's name, converged on the airport in the largest anti-government demonstration in five years, witnesses said.

Police firing tear gas kept them away from the airport until Kim left, but later allowed the demonstrators through their lines, witnesses said.

The popular opposition leader received a death sentence in 1980 for sedition but it was commuted to 20 years in prison. He was permitted to leave South Korea in 1982 for medical treatment in the United States.

Kim still technically faces 17 years of his prison term but the authoritarian government of Chun Doo Hwan, under heavy U.S. pressure and concerned about its image abroad, said earlier this week it would not arrest him.

Kim, a former presidential candidate, was returning to South Korea to help boost the opposition in Tuesday's scheduled parliamentary elections, the first in the Asian nation since 1981. He was not allowed to run in the elections but said he was returning home to fight for "my dream of a democratic system."

In Washington, a White House spokesman took a cautious view of the incident, saying the United States does not condone violence but is awaiting the facts.

Deputy press secretary Larry Speakes told reporters there is no change in President Reagan's invitation to South Korean President Chun Doo Hwan to make a state visit to Washington in April. No firm date has been set.

Speakes said he believed that Reagan was aware of the reports, and he would be briefed by national security affairs adviser Robert McFarlane.

Speakes dodged a barrage of questions, saying the State Department would have a full report later on Kim's arrival.

"We had received assurances he (Kim) would be allowed to return trouble free."

Teachers Put To The Test

Teachers, it seems, don't like to take tests any more than do students. Many educators protested recently when Albert Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers, proposed that all aspiring teachers be required to pass a tough national test.

One argument against such a test is that it wouldn't truly measure a person's ability to teach. That undoubtedly is true, but at least it would determine whether prospective teachers know their subject. A talent for teaching isn't of much use if you don't have some knowledge to pass on.

It can be argued that tests — no matter how carefully designed — are not wholly accurate, but teachers know better than anyone that there simply is no better way to estimate how well a person has mastered a subject.

A national test for teachers might seem to undermine state control of education, but it does not seem unreasonable or philosophically objectionable to set a universal, minimum standard for educators. Shanker said that in Florida, prospective math teachers are tested in their subject at the sixth-grade level.

It is probable that a tough national test would temporarily increase teacher shortages in some parts of the country, given the fact that one-third of those tested since 1982 have flunked a statewide test in a large state.

In the long run, however, upgrading the quality of teachers cannot help but improve morale within the profession. It's not unreasonable to expect, too, that the public will be more willing to increase funding for education as classroom instruction improves. That is the philosophy behind some states' current educational reforms, which largely seem to be working.

Many of the better educators strongly favor tough tests, both for students and for teachers. Shanker's proposal should be given favorable consideration.

Voice For God

Even the 41-year-old paralyzed, self-proclaimed atheist Deng Pufang must have admired lately 74-year-old Mother Teresa, visitor to communist China, when she snapped back at him that "deep down in your heart, you have that desire to love God."

Deng, son of Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping, was paralyzed for life when rampaging Red Guards threw him from a window during the 1966-67 Maoist Cultural Revolution.

Though confined to a wheelchair, he has played a leading role in China's expanding efforts to help the handicapped.

Mother Teresa went to China hoping to establish missions for the destitute. She had a spirited 45-minute talk with Deng. He said he was an atheist who helped the handicapped out of a desire to do social service while her good works were based on religious beliefs.

"Although we start from a different standpoint, we are doing it for the same purpose," said Deng.

But she interrupted. "It's the same standpoint: It's our love for God in action." She called the poor and handicapped "our brothers and sisters under God."

"You can say that in your words, but I am an atheist," said Deng, and laughed.

She shot back: "The same loving hand has created you, me and each one of them for the same purpose: to love and be loved. And what you do is your love of God in action. Inside of you, you have that desire to love God."

Whatever Deng was thinking, he must have been aware that he had just confronted a power of much more magnitude than is imagined in an atheist's universe.

Likely Fate Of Those Budget Proposals...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Once again it's budget time — time to slog through thousands of pages of details that will never be implemented.

Instead, let's take the short-cut route and discuss not what's in the budget per se but what Congress is likely to do with the Reagan proposals.

Here's the Evans guide to the Budget, in brief. Defense: The administration has asked for a $32 billion increase, or 12.6 percent. They will be lucky to get half of that. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger has weakened his case by attempting to stonewall Congress. It didn't work for Johnson and it didn't work for Nixon; it's a mystery why Cap thinks he can succeed where so many others have failed. The first major order of business for Congress will be to knock the Weinberger defense budget into a cocked hat. Then they can proceed to other business.

Health care: The request here is for a freeze on the payment schedules for Medicare and Medicaid, meaning no increase in doctor or hospital fees. This one is likely to go through. Once the defense budget has been hacked apart, legislators will feel some obligation to turn the other blade on social welfare services. Since most economists, let alone politicians, are at a loss to explain why health care costs have risen almost twice as fast as inflation over the past 20 years, this seems like an eminently reasonable — and fair — place to make substantial budget cuts.

Aid to farmers: The administration has asked for a 37 percent cut in these programs. The response from Congress will be good, sound idea but not "this" year, when the farmers are down and out. The right idea would be to let the farmers grow surplus grain and then sell it on world markets at whatever the going price happens to be. Instead of pricing farmers out of the market because of the overvalued dollar. Of course, that would cost some money, but it would be a lot cheaper than the present schemes and would insure the long-term viability of our agricultural sector.

Eliminate revenue sharing: While cloaked in righteous pieties, the main reason for this punitive move is to show the state legislatures who's really the boss. Since many states have a habit of telling Washington to balance its budget, what better way than by cutting off aid to the very states who are complaining the loudest. But the whole approach is mean-spirited and will not get a decent hearing in Congress.

Cut government pay by 5 percent, freeze retirement benefits: The freeze on retirement benefits probably will go through and may even be accompanied by a one-year freeze on social security benefits as well. If both of these pass, government employees will forego their raises next year as well. But an actual 5 percent pay cut is out of the question.

Implement user fees: Here is a sensible idea that has been proposed by leaders of both parties for years, but never gets anywhere. The idea of individuals paying for the specific Federal resources they use would seem to be an unobjectionable suggestion that both Democrats and Republicans could handle. But it always gets bogged down in the hokum about making available "our priceless national heritage" to all Americans regardless of race, creed, color, or pocketbook. This legislation won't get any further this year than it has in the past.

Tax reform: Aha. Maybe you noticed one glaring omission in the budget message, and that was that tax reform-increases were not mentioned at all. Not even a token reference. What happened is quite obvious. The big business lobbyists made it quite clear to the White House that if the administration was going to try to take away all their tax breaks, they would be so busy defending the status quo that they wouldn't have any time left whatsoever to support the spending cuts. The administration got the message and promised to propose tax legislation some other time. And, at least in Washington, in February 1985, that's the way it is.

Who Owns Hawaii?

KANEOHE, Hawaii (NEA) — In theory, Hawaii consists of eight major islands, all officially part of the United States and therefore open to any U.S. citizen who wishes to purchase land and live there.

But it doesn't quite work that way. The entire 29,000-acre island of Kahoolawe is controlled by the Navy and used as a bombing range.

The entire 46,000-acre island of Niihau was purchased in 1865 for $10,000 by the Robinson family. All activity there is shrouded in mystery.

The entire 90,000-acre island of Lanai was sold to James Dole in 1921 for $1.1 million.

On the "Big Island" of Hawaii sits the 224,000-acre Parker Ranch, one of the world's largest cattle ranches.

The federal government owns about 8 percent of Hawaii's land, the state government holds more than 34 percent and county governments control another 3 percent.

Among private land holders, the Robinson and Parker families rank behind the Bishop Estate, which controls 340,000 acres — almost 9 percent of Hawaii's 4 million acres.

The state's nine largest private owners of real estate hold 35 percent of its land and the various governments control another 45 percent. That leaves 20 percent for everybody else.

Many families throughout the state must rent the land on which their homes are located.

Confronted with the most concentrated land ownership in the nation, Hawaii's state legislature in 1970 sought to remedy the situation by enacting a relatively modest land reform law.

Its most far-reaching provision would allow the owners of single-family homes to purchase the land which they have been renting for decades, often at exorbitant prices.

The Bishop Estate mounted a full-scale legal assault upon the law, but the U.S. Supreme Court ruled unanimously last year that the state had the right to curtail a "feudal land tenure system" that had become a "social and economic evil."

Land reform may be crucial to the promotion of democracy in Central America and elsewhere in the Third World — but it certainly hasn't become fashionable here in the 50th state.

WILLIAM RUSHER

The Time Is Now

NEW YORK (NEA) — All those Americans who voted for President Reagan last November owe him, now, one further important bit of assistance: a letter to their senators and congressmen, expressing firm support for his proposed domestic budget cuts.

Ronald Reagan is our point man, but he can't possibly win this battle all by himself. In re-electing him by a landslide, we gave him the mandate to demand these cuts. Now let's give him the clout to compel them. To paraphrase the old military definition of discipline, we must make the members of Congress more afraid of the voters behind them than they are of the special interests in front of them.

All the cynics in Washington are betting he can't do it. Back in the early 1970s, when polls first indicated that most Americans were beginning to describe themselves as "conservative," Arthur Schlesinger Jr. reassured worried liberals by arguing that, while Americans might become "noticeably conservative," they would always remain "operationally liberal." Translated out of the original Harvardese, that meant that, under the welfare state, just about everybody was getting a government subsidy of some sort, and while the voters might disapprove of this in pure theory, their greed could be depended on to overcome their principles in a crunch, because their own aunts were in the trough.

I happen to think Schlesinger was wrong about this (as about so much else), and Reagan's election and massive re-election certainly suggest as much. But up till now the dispute has been waged in the realm of theory; now the gloves have come off, and Mr. Reagan has submitted his budget. It calls for nearly $39 billion in domestic program cuts, and the intended beneficiaries of all that money, or rather their political representatives, are yelling to high heaven.

Why — to take the biggest single item — should the federal government shove 4 billion taxpayers' dollars every year down the throats of states and localities in the form of "general revenue sharing"? If they need the money for local purposes, the place to raise it, surely, is in the states and cities where it will be spent.

It is said that Mr. Reagan's cuts are politically riskier this time around because now he's going after the subsidies to the middle class. Fine: The cynics may discover that America's middle-class is made of sterner stuff than they realized.

As a matter of fact, why not tell your senators and congressmen to surprise President Reagan by making deeper domestic cuts than he has requested? And not to count on your vote if they don't.

WASHINGTON WORLD

No Budget On Arms Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, who wants about a 13 percent increase in military spending next year, says cuts would be "very risky." He charges that the Soviets have conducted the "biggest military buildup in history."

Both Reagan and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger are refusing to budge on the Pentagon budget, putting any proposals to cut in in terms of a threat to national security. The congressional leaders are responding by calling Weinberger a "draft dodger" when it comes to doing his share to slash the deficit. They also have described his charges that cuts would abet the enemy as "McCarthyite."

While Reagan was never specific during the campaign on the cuts, Nor did he warn the middle class that they would be hard hit. Still, he gave an overview of big government that appealed to the voters.

The only sacrosanct part of the budget is for the defense establishment. Farmers, small-business men and women, students deprived of college loans under the new strict funding rules are going to be left out in the cold if Congress decides to go along with the president.

In an East Room speech to lawmakers, Reagan threw down the gauntlet against opponents of his big military increase.

"The defense of our nation is the one budget item that cannot be dictated solely by domestic considerations," Reagan said. "Despite severe constraints on our budget, we must respond to the unprecedented military buildup of the Soviet Union — the largest military buildup in world history."

"If we lose the budget battle — if we allow all the lessons of all the decades of unchecked government spending to go unheeded — then I believe we'll consign ourselves and our children to the tyranny of a government that respects no boundaries and knows no limits."

The challenge is there. He is a popular president and often successful in staging a blitz to put across his views. But this time around, the American people will have the figures before them and they can decide whether he has put the nation on the right course or not.

JACK ANDERSON

Low-Interest Loan Becomes Nightmare

WASHINGTON — For Virginia Isaacs, the low-interest federal loan she got to fix up her modest home seemed like a gift from heaven. Instead, it plunged the 57-year-old Oklahoma City woman into that special section of hell reserved for those who put their trust in the federal bureaucracy.

She filled out all the necessary forms, submitted to all the routine red tape and selected an officially approved contractor. But the remodeling left her hearth and health in equal states of disrepair. The house was a shambles, and her doctors believe that a heart attack two years ago was brought on by stress.

Since the heart attack, Mrs. Isaacs has been unable to work full time. But this hasn't stopped the Housing and Urban Development Department from demanding that she repay every penny of her $31,000 loan. Nor has the fact that HUD's own auditors determined that she had been overcharged for the repair work by as much as $10,000 and that the supposedly rehabilitated house was a safety hazard.

Although the Scrooges at HUD pressed remorselessly for full payment, they were less dedicated about overcharging the repair work.

They failed to enforce their own guidelines governing reconstruction contracts under the so-called "312" loan program.

HUD documents seen by my associate Corky Johnson show that the guidelines designed to assure proper work were not followed. The federal agency seems to have abdicated its responsibilities to the city urban renewal authority, which failed to follow the guidelines that might have spared Mrs. Isaacs her grief.

When she got her HUD loan in 1980, Mrs. Isaacs followed instructions and asked the local urban renewal office for a list of approved contractors. In hindsight, she probably should have been suspicious when several of the numbers she dialled had been disconnected. But she persevered and finally found a contractor who was still in business.

Here's what Mrs. Isaacs did — and didn't — get for her $31,000:

— She paid for new gutters and downspouts. HUD inspectors found the old ones still in place, leaking.

— Though she was charged $300 for replacement of rotted studs, HUD reported that "there was no evidence any replacement occurred."

— An old circuit breaker, frayed electric wiring and leaky sewage pipes were not replaced.

— Mrs. Isaacs couldn't use her kitchen for seven weeks while the contractor tried to repair it.

— The contractor tried to persuade Mrs. Isaacs to buy a refrigerator twice as expensive as the one she wanted. When she refused, the contractor put her old refrigerator out on the porch, where the motor burned out in two days.

— The house was left with gouged and rotted ceiling beams, a garage door completely off its hinges, and unconnected ducts and drainpipes.

Mrs. Isaacs wasn't the only one who saw her dream of government help turn sour. In Oklahoma City alone, at least a dozen families were the victims of shoddy work by contractors and sloppy supervision by officials. For example:

— One couple with a newborn baby had to use a kiddie pool for baths and dish washing for a month because the contractor had disconnected the bathtub and sink. They had to live in one room for months because the repair crew had knocked unnecessary holes in the walls of the other rooms.

— One eight-room house had electricity in only three rooms when the rehabilitation work was finished.

Footnote: A HUD official declined comment beyond saying, "Some programs go better than others." A spokesman for Oklahoma City admitted to problems with some local contractors. Meanwhile, Virginia Isaacs has filed suit against HUD and Oklahoma City officials.

Gardening

Grow Sun-Ripened Tomatoes For A Taste Treat

If we had to guess the one vegetable that people most often include in their spring garden, it would be the tomato. Nothing quite compares with the fresh taste of sun-ripened tomatoes. And, judging by the popularity of this vegetable, most gardeners feel that raising them is definitely worth the effort.

Believe it or not, tomatoes were once thought of as poisonous. They do belong to the poisonous nightshade family. But, so do potatoes, peppers and eggplants. Part of the reason tomatoes were avoided may have been because they were not native to Europe. They originated in South and Central America and were introduced to Europe by the Spanish in the 16th century. The English grew them on trellises as ornamentals. The French considered them to be "peasant food." Folks began to eat them here about the middle of the 18th century. Since then, the tomato has enjoyed a rapid climb to the top in popularity.

The large red fruits we enjoy today have little in common with their ancestors, grown by the Incas in Peru. Those early tomatoes were small and yellow. Today's sweet, juicy tomatoes were developed by the Italians and eventually found their way to America.

To raise any vegetable successfully, you need to begin with adequate soil preparation. And,

Alfred Besssen
Urban
Horticulturist

tomatoes are no different. They prefer a slightly acid soil, with a pH between 6.0 and 6.8. If the pH of your soil is less than 6.0, it is too acid and must be amended. To be sure, it's a good idea to have your soil tested for pH. Garden soil pH testers are available at some garden supply stores, or you can have it tested at the Agricultural Center in Sanford for a small fee.

Another important part of soil preparation is fertilization. Some folks believe in fertilizing the soil before planting. If you prefer this method, apply about two-and-a-half pounds of a complete fertilizer, such as 8-8-8 with minor elements, for every 100 square feet of garden area. Do this a week before planting and, mix the fertilizer thoroughly into the soil. Three weeks after you plant the tomatoes, add another two pounds of fertilizer per 100 square feet as a side dressing. Then water thoroughly. Regardless of your fertilization method, make a side dressing of fertilizer every two to three weeks, adding a total of about ten pounds per 100 square feet during the season.

Before you plant, be sure all danger of frost has passed. Choose the healthiest plants from recommended varieties you can find and handle them gently. It's best to transplant on a cloudy day, or late in the afternoon. And, as soon as possible after a rain.

Set your plants slightly deeper than they were growing at the nursery. You might want to add a cutworm control at the same time. If you wait even a day before controlling cutworms, you may have to buy new plants. If the variety you choose needs staking, you can drive stakes into the soil at the time of planting. Place the stakes three or four inches from the plants, as the plants grow, simply tie them to the stakes with string or strips of cloth.

To help your plants get off to a good start, make up a starter solution of one or two tablespoons of an all-purpose garden fertilizer dissolved in a gallon of water. Pour about a pint of this liquid into the planting hole as you set each plant. Be sure to shade your plants for a few days after planting.

It's a good idea to mulch your plants. Mulches help conserve moisture, inhibit weed growth, and minimize fertilizer leaching. Good materials for mulching include: straw, dried lawn clippings and black plastic. If you'd like to try plastic, prepare the soil for planting, making sure it's moist. Lay the black plastic over the entire bed, and anchor the edges with soil. Then, cut holes in the plastic and set the plants through it into the bed.

Tomatoes need about an inch of water once each week — it's better than many light sprinklings. If your soil is very sandy, you may need to water more frequently — especially the first week after planting. Never let the soil dry out completely.

Many insects bother tomatoes causing leaf and fruit damage. A general purpose insecticide will control most of them. Check with your favorite garden supply center.

The most serious diseases of tomatoes are blights, leaf spots, wilts and viruses. Leaf spots can usually be controlled with fungicide sprays. However, viruses and wilts must be controlled by using resistant plant varieties.

Remember, plenty of sunshine is a must for healthy, sweet tomatoes. IFAS vegetable experts suggest a minimum of six hours a day, but sunshine all day is even better.

Happy Gardening.

Swedish artifacts displayed in Sanford museum exhibit, "Tradition."

City Founders Honored At Open House Sunday

Mrs. Hortense Roumillat was a woman of tradition. She believed in tradition. She honored tradition and during her lifetime in Sanford, she did much to preserve many of the city's traditions.

One of these traditions was the annual "Founders Day" celebration, usually set for the Sunday closest to Feb. 8, recognized as the day a colony of Swedish immigrants arrived in Central Florida and settled in the Little Community of New Upsala, west of Sanford.

The arrival of these blond, rosy-cheeked families, brought to America by Henry S. Sanford, land developer, solved some of his labor problems and seemed to call for a celebration, as Mr. Sanford presented each family a five-acre tract of land and enough lumber to build a home. If the head of each family would agree to remain as a part of Mr. Sanford's Belair work force.

Diligent, honest and hard working, the Swedes prospered and looked to Mr. Sanford as a father figure. At a Christmas dinner for these new Floridians, sponsored by Mrs. Sanford, a Mr. J.B. Linberg, acting for the Swedes, expressed their gratitude by saying:

"We were poor and friendless when we came here and now look around you... all are prosperous... The land you gave us is one large orange grove. Not one Swede has required or received public assistance! I have read in you books that he is a great man who has made two blades of grass grow where only one blade grew before — but, I tell you, Mr. Sanford, you are a bigger man. For you have made the orange trees grow where only the wild, saw-tooth palmetto has flourished!"

For many years, Mrs. Roumillat, Mrs. Peggy Chase and Mrs. Carmeta Ray were an active trio, assisted by members of the Sallie Harrison Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution in keeping the tradition of "Founder's Day" alive.

Each year choosing some phase of local history as the subject for area school children to use in a city-wide essay contest is based on some traditional aspect of Sanford.

Following a lapse of several years, the Henry S. Sanford Library and Museum Associates and the Historical Preservation Society will reactivate this traditional event on Sunday, Feb. 10, to be held at the Library-Museum, 520 East First St., from 2 to 4 p.m.

Mildred M. Caskey, curator, has announced a program which includes the following speakers and guests:

James Jernigan, Director of City Parks and Recreation; the Honorable Bettye Smith, Mayor of Sanford; the Rev. Leonard Jones, pastor, Union Park, First Baptist Church, Orlando; Francis Roumillat and Mrs. Lucy McLeod, son and daughter of Mrs. Roumillat; Julian Stenstrom, a direct descendant of one of the earliest Swedish families to settle in this area; Mrs. Ruth Lee, president, Henry S. Sanford Library-Museum; Mrs. Barbara Moore, president, Historical Preservation Society; Mrs. Leonore Jones, prominent Swedish historian; Mrs. Virginia

Kelly, Regent, Sallie Harrison Chapter D.A.R.; and Mrs. Genevieve Brumley, Mrs. Kathy Wyle, members of D.A.R. who will participate in judging the children's essay contest and will assist in issuing the awards.

This Founder's Day event, arranged as a tribute to the intrepid Swedish people who arrived in Central Florida to settle the little community of Upsala over 100 years ago, is free and open to the public.

The Library-Museum Board of Directors extends a special welcome to the Swedish guests and their families. Seating is limited and available to early arrivals and special guests.

Billy's Bad Mouth Not Fatal

DEAR ABBY: Several of us mothers have a common problem. It concerns a boy (I'll call him Billy) who is a bad influence on our children. They are all in the third grade, but this Billy is wise beyond his years. He gets his information (about sex) from hanging around his older brother, then spreads around what he has heard to the boys in his class. He tells them things about sex that most adults have never experienced, and his language is pure filth!

Our sons want to invite Billy to stay overnight, but we're afraid of what Billy might teach them. Besides, most of us have younger children at home, and we don't want Billy here talking about Lord knows what.

I understand Billy's parents are very liberal minded, so don't suggest we talk to them. Maybe if they read this, they will understand why their son is shunned by his peers.

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: If your son and his classmates want Billy to stay overnight, then obviously Billy isn't "shunned by his peers" — it's their parents who don't want him around.

Liberal-minded parents love their children as much as you love yours, so please share your concerns with Billy's parents.

It's not unusual for a child to entertain his peers with X-rated information in a bid for popularity. Don't panic; it's neither contagious nor fatal.

DEAR ABBY: Last June, I lent my girlfriend my jacket, and she lost it at the restaurant where she was working. In September she gave me $50 to replace the jacket, but I spent the $50 on something else.

Well, just before Christmas there was a fire at that restaurant, and while they were cleaning up, my jacket was found in the basement. My girlfriend had it cleaned and monogrammed with my initials and gave it to me as a surprise Christmas present.

The problem: My girlfriend says now that I got the jacket back, I should return her $50. I

Coletti-Led SCC Women Attain State

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

There was a movie that came out a few months ago called "Best Defense." It was a box office bomb. The makers of that film could have taken some pointers from Seminole Community College's Lady Raiders. The best defense in the Mid-Florida Conference is played by SCC, according to coach Ileana Gallagher.

SCC's defense continued to draw rave reviews from Gallagher and its opposition Thursday night as the Lady Raiders clinched a berth in the State Junior College Tournament with a 67-52 victory over Santa Fe's Lady Saints at the SCC Health Center.

SCC, 13-8 overall and 4-2 in the conference, snapped Santa Fe's 10-game conference winning streak. The Lady Saints won the conference a year ago with a 6-0 mark and they were 4-0 going into Thursday's game. Santa Fe can clinch a state tournament bid with a win over Florida Junior College next week.

The Lady Raiders were hoping that this season, more than any other, they would make it to the state tourney. SCC will host the tournament Thursday, Feb. 28, through Saturday, March 2.

The key figure in SCC's tough zone defense Thursday was sophomore forward Juana Coletti. "We put her (Coletti) out on the wing and Santa Fe had trouble getting the ball inside with her in the way," Gallagher said.

Coletti was instrumental on both ends of the floor Thursday as the talented lefthander broke loose on the offensive end for a game-high 23 points, including 10 of 14 shots from the floor. The Clearwater Central Catholic graduate also grabbed a game-high 12 rebounds. "She ate them (Santa Fe) up inside," Gallagher said.

Sophomore guard Pam Lee, another lefthander, put her George Gervin-like shot to good use Thursday as she connected for 20 points. Lee also handed out seven assists and pulled down six rebounds.

Freshman point guard Tammy Johnson contributed 15 points and six assists, freshman center Kim Lemon tossed in nine points and ripped down nine boards and freshman forward Raysha Roberts contributed seven rebounds.

Sheila Archer was high for the Lady Saints with 17 points while Robyn Mathis and Christine Kroger added 10 each and Donna Dodd chipped in with nine. Sanford's Maxine Campbell, a Seminole High graduate, added two points for the Lady Saints before fouling out in the second half.

For the second game in a row, the Lady Raiders built a big lead

92-Foot Heave Goes In

United Press International

Until further notice, Bruce Morris of Marshall will take his place in the record book — beside such distinctions as who has the longest beard and who has taken the longest shower.

For in Huntington, W. Va., Thursday night, Morris scored a basket from 92 feet, the longest shot in basketball history, in the Thundering Herd's 83-82 victory over Appalachian State.

According to the Guinness Book of Records, the longest field goal had been 89-feet-3 by Les Henson of Virginia Tech in a game-winning buzzer shot against Florida State on Jan. 21, 1980.

Morris picked up the ball just inside the baseline following a blocked shot by James Roberts seconds before halftime. He turned and hurled it like a baseball the length of the court. The ball went cleanly through the net, stunning the Henderson Center crowd.

"It was a one in a million," said Morris, a 6-foot-4 senior guard from Deerfield, Ill. "After it went in, I just stood there. I was in shock. I don't know what I was thinking. It was sort of weird."

He was not alone. "I've never seen a shot like that," Appalachian State Coach Kevin Cantwell said.

Said Marshall Coach Rick Huckabay: "First of all, the shot by Morris was the most exciting thing that happened tonight."

Two hours after the game, inside his dormitory, friends were still asking Morris to describe the shot, even after watching a television replay.

"I don't think I'll ever try it again, though," Morris said. "I don't think I can even hit the backboard."

But he's in the books now. And, for the record, according to Guinness: the longest beard was 17 1/2 feet, belonging to Hans N. Langseth of Kenosha, Iowa, in 1927; the longest shower was 336 hours, taken by Arron Marshall of Australia in 1978.

In the Top 20, No. 6 Illinois lost to Michigan State 64-56; No. 10 Michigan beat Purdue 95-84; No. 12 Nevada-Las Vegas pounded Pacific 97-72; No. 15 North Carolina defeated Virginia 82-73; No. 16 Louisiana Tech downed Texas-Arlington 86-61; and No. 20 Alabama-Birmingham blitzed Jackson State 80-57.

At East Lansing, Mich., Scott Skiles scored 24 points and Sam Vincent 20 to power Michigan State in the Big Ten. Efreem Winters had 16 points for Illinois, 18-6. Magic Johnson of the Los Angeles Lakers, the former Michigan State star, watched the game from the Spartans' bench.

"I think the fact that Earvin was here gave our kids a lift," MSU Coach Jud Heathcote said.

At Ann Arbor, Mich., Roy Tarpley struck for 31 points and Richard Relford had 18 in the first half to carry Michigan, 17-3, in a Big Ten game. Freshman Troy Lewis scored 22 points for Purdue.

At Stockton, Calif., Nevada-Las Vegas ran its winning streak to 17, longest in the nation, by cruising over Pacific. The Rebels, 18-2, made 61 percent of their shots. Pacific freshman Domingo Rosario hit for 27 points.

At Chapel Hill, N.C., Kenny Smith scored 17 points, including 9 straight in the final 77 seconds, to guide North Carolina in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Warren Martin added 18 points for the Tar Heels, 17-5. Virginia is 1-6 in the league.

Jan Tops South Alabama 64
JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Cleveland Williams and Willie McDuffie scored 15 points each to lead Jacksonville University to a 72-64 victory over South Alabama Thursday in a Sun Belt Conference game.

The Dolphins led by 10 to 14 points through most of the game, leading 34-21 at halftime and 65-55 with 2:28 left in the game. South Alabama closed to within five points with 1:32 to go, but the Dolphins held on for the win.

Jacksonville's defense held South Alabama to .377 shooting from the floor, marking the first time this season the Jaguars have shot less than 40 percent.

Oviedo's Ronnie Murphy had 11 points for the Dolphins, 18-6. Junior forward Otis Smith had 10 points, 10 rebounds, seven assists and five blocked shots.

DELAND — Mona Benton, who missed the bus to Tuesday's game against Spruce Creek, made up for lost time Thursday night as the senior standout hit 16 of 20 shots from the floor for a season-high 30 points in Seminole High's 76-45 trouncing of DeLand's Lady Bulldogs in Five Star Conference action at DeLand High.

Seminole improved to 19-5 overall and 12-2 in the conference while DeLand, which has lost two straight, now stands at 15-7 overall and 9-5 in the Five Star.

The Lady Seminoles used Thursday's game to tune up for tonight's important conference matchup with Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots. Game time is 6:15 for the junior varsity and 8 for the varsity showdown.

"We need a good game against Brantley," Seminole coach Ron Merthie said. "We've got to get after them and try to get the girls to play up to their potential."

Behind Benton, who also dialed out nine assists Thursday night, Catherine "Kitty" Anderson turned in her usual outstanding performance inside with 13 points and 16 rebounds.

Andell "Soul" Smith also tossed in 13 points while Bea Smith added 10 points and eight boards.

Robyn Swartz was high for DeLand with 21 points and Shawn Lane contributed 12.

Seminole bolted out to a 25-13 lead in the first quarter and took a 46-21 halftime lead.

In junior varsity action Thursday, Yolanda Robinson funneled in a career-high 32 points and yanked down 16 rebounds to lead Seminole to a 50-37 victory over the JV Bulldogs.

LAKE MARY: 18-7

EUSTIS — Kim Averill hit 7 of 7 free throws in the fourth quarter Thursday night as Lake Mary's Lady Rams upended Eustis' Lady Panthers, 51-39, at Eustis High.

Lake Mary improved to 18-7 overall with the win. The Lady Rams return to Five Star Conference action tonight at 6:15 when they host Seabreeze's Lady Sand Crabs.

Basketball

Lake Mary raced out to a 10-2 lead over the sixth-ranked (2A) Panthers after one quarter but Eustis battled back within two, 18-16, at halftime. Eustis came back to take a seven-point lead midway through the third quarter but Lake Mary chopped it to two, 31-29, going into the fourth.

Lake Mary regained the lead two minutes into the fourth quarter as Courtney Hall made one of two free throws. The Rams got the ball back and went to their spread offense and Averill was fouled. Averill made both free throws and added another after the girl who fouled her was called for a technical. That gave Lake Mary a four-point lead and Eustis never got any closer.

Aileen Patterson showed that she is over her bout with the flu as she led Lake Mary with a game-high 14 points and 19 rebounds. Averill added 13 points while Hall tossed in 10 and grabbed 11 rebounds.

The Lady Rams also received an outstanding defensive game from junior forward Karen De-

Shelter. "She (DeShelter) played (Laurie) Robinson and did a good job on her," Lake Mary coach Bill Moore said. "The last time we played Eustis, Robinson had 29 points. This time, Karen held her to 11. Karen's one of the best around defensively."

DeShelter contributed four points, seven rebounds, four assists and two steals for the Lady Rams. Senior forward Andrea Fenning (six points) had her best game since coming off a painful knee injury.

Lake Mary's junior varsity ran its unbeaten string to 12 Thursday with a 61-38 thrashing of the JV Lady Panthers.

Terri Whyte, a 6-3 freshman center, hit 8 of 11 from the floor for a game-high 16 points and she also pulled down six rebounds. Tonya Lawson added 12 points and collected eight steals while Marcella Dalstel tossed in 12 points and handed out four assists.

Lora Splatt, in her first starting assignment for the JV Lady Rams, contributed four points, five rebounds, two assists and four steals. Teresa Licarelli led the Rams underneath with

Walker Joins Tribe Varsity

Seminole basketball coach Chris Marietta said Friday morning that freshman Craig Walker would join the varsity team for tonight's game against DeLand.

Walker, a 6-6 center, joined fellow freshman Andre Whitney with the varsity. Walker and Whitney helped the Seminoles frosh to a perfect 18-0 season. Whitney then went straight to the varsity while Walker joined the junior varsity.

In two outings with the JV, Walker scored 53 points, pulled down 30 rebounds and blocked 10 shots. Marietta said his showing at the JV level prompted the immediate promotion.

"Craig should be able to help us with out rebounding," said Marietta. "He has some things to learn but he's got great potential."

Brian Sheffield will get the start when Seminoles opens with Titusville Astronaut Saturday.

Henley's Fly Ball Brings Relief

County baseball fans proved that the football crazies don't have anything on them. They turned out in droves for the Lyman-Lake Mary nonconference opener at Lyman High School Thursday night.

Over 300 fans braved 40-degree temperatures to watch the Greyhounds successfully open the season over their fiercest rival. Mike Henley's sacrifice fly in the bottom of seventh inning scored Jimmy Odom for a 7-6 victory to send the Lyman faithful home happy.

"These people are crazy," said one shivering Greyhound. "I haven't seen this many people on some of the warm nights last year."

Not everyone of those warm nights brought out Lake Mary and Lyman, though. Both teams have quality players who have the scouts buzzing. One report said that seven scouts were in the crowd — which doesn't say much for their judgement on this chilly evening. Whatever, Lake Mary second baseman Shane Letterio got the evening off to a rousing start when he drilled a Derek Livermore fastball over the left field fence. Letterio, who had two other singles, scored two runs and drove in a pair, lined the ball off the top of the fence and it bounced over.

That was one of the few mistakes made by Livermore, however. The accler fireballer struck out five in three innings, allowed just two hits and walked two.

"My arm felt good," he said after the game. Last year, Livermore experienced some elbow trouble which lingered all year. The elbow was fine in the third inning when he whiffed Scott Underwood, Rod Metz and Mike Schmitt in succession. That's cutting right through the heart.

Eric Hagen, who Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle is counting on as his No. 2 starter, could find the plate in the first inning. He walked the bases full before Tuttle summoned Anthony Tascak with a 2-0 count on Paul Alegre.

The county's leading hitter last year rifled a single for one run but Clint Baker was gunned down at the plate when he tried to score on an overthrow. Odom, nevertheless, gave the 'Hounds a 3-1 lead when he stroked a double to left center.

It stayed that way until the fourth when Lake Mary picked up a pair of cheap runs on walks to Kevin Hill and Brent Mole, a match: Lyman, Lady Patriots In Final

Anderson's Goal Tips Lady Rams, 2-1; Lyman Defense Too Tough For Tribe

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

For the second year in a row, Lyman's Lady Greyhounds and Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots will meet for the District 3 championship. But both teams were given a run for their money in Thursday's semifinal action.

At Lyman, Sanford's Lady Seminoles fought the Lady Greyhounds to a scoreless tie in the first half, but Kim Mitchell scored two goals early in the second to lead Lyman to a 4-0 victory.

At Lake Brantley, Pam Anderson's goal from 40 yards out broke a 1-1 deadlock as the Patriots trimmed Lake Mary's Lady Rams, 2-1, in double overtime.

Saturday's final is set for 7 p.m. at Lyman High with the winner going on to the Region 2 playoff against the Vero Beach-Vero Beach St. Edwards winner. Lyman has beaten Lake Brantley three times this season, 7-1, 4-1 and 4-0.

Lyman, which has won 19 straight this season, continually assaulted Seminoles' goal in the first half but Tribe goalkeeper Sherri Rumler turned in a magnificent effort with 18 first-half saves. On the other hand, Lyman's defense held Seminoles to just four shots in the opening half, only one of which was a serious threat.

"Vicky Pakovic had a breakaway in the first half but the keeper (Lisa Chatman) took it away from her," Seminoles coach Suzy Reno said. "That was the only threat we had."

Lyman continued its relentless attack in the second half and the Greyhounds took a 1-0 lead eight minutes into the half when Mitchell scored on an assist from Dawn Boyesen.

Reno said the goal could have been avoided. "One of our defenders was shielding the goalkeeper and it trickled right between her legs."

Mitchell came back two minutes later with an unassisted goal to make it 2-0. Meanwhile, Lyman's defense continued to keep Seminoles away from the goal.

The Lady Greyhounds tacked on two more goals in the last nine minutes of play the first unassisted goal by Sheila Mandy and the second by Boyesen on Mandy's assist.

"We really played well on defense," Lyman coach Tom Barnes said. "Seminoles didn't really have any serious threats."

Barnes said his defensive leaders Thursday included sophomore Diana Boyesen, junior Kellie Straw, senior Allison Wright and sophomore Karen Abernethy. Chatman had four saves in goal.

For Seminoles, Rumler turned in an impressive performance in goal. The sophomore standout came up with 35 saves. Reno said defenders Angela Freeman, Cindy Bengel, Kim Walsh and

Soccer

Kim Machnik also had excellent games. "We came to play and gave them (Lyman) a great scare," Reno said. "I expected Lyman to win but we made them earn it."

Lake Mary's Lady Rams turned in one of their better performances of the season but Lake Brantley hung tough and came out with a 2-1 victory five minutes into the second 10 minute overtime period.

The two Seminole County rivals battled to a scoreless tie the first 27 minutes of play before Kelley Broen broke loose for a goal to give Lake Mary a 1-0 lead and it stayed that way at halftime.

Lake Mary hung on to the lead for the first 20 minutes of the second half, but Lake Brantley tied it at 1-1 when Kristin Paine scored. Paine dribbled into the penalty area, then, with her back to the goal, turned around and slipped it past the keeper.

Neither team could score in the last 20 minutes of regulation although both had their chances. "Fran Gordon had a couple of opportunities on breakaways but hit the post both times," Lake Mary coach Bill Elisele said.

Again, neither team could score in the first overtime period although Gordon again came close as she had a breakaway but hit it just wide of the goal.

Anderson then broke the tie midway through the second overtime when she scored from 40 yards out. "Pam (Anderson) had taken a free kick and the ball came right back to her," Lake Brantley coach Debbie Shave said. "The she kicked a high shot toward the goal and Lake Mary's keeper seemed to misjudge it. It went over her head and into the goal."

The Patriots took 21 shots on goal Thursday compared to 13 for Lake Mary. Lake Mary keeper Laura Hellegaard came up with 18 saves while Brantley's Karen Brown had 10.

Lake Brantley's usual goalkeeper, sophomore Leali Hobek, was out sick so Brown, a freshman who usually plays fullback, took over in goal. "She did an excellent job," Shave said of Brown. Shave also cited the defensive play of freshman Reenie Deaver.

"It was an exciting game," Shave said. "Lake Mary has improved a lot since the first time we played them."

"I was real happy, we gave them (Brantley) a good game," Elisele said. "Although it's not a win, it's a good way to end the season." Shave said that her troops would be ready to

Raiders Seek 1st Win On Saturday

AVON PARK — The Seminole Community College Raiders will be searching for their first baseball win Saturday against St. Petersburg, which invades SCC's field for a double-header Saturday at 12 noon.

The Raiders' game today with South Florida at Avon Park was cancelled.

The Raiders, 0-1-1, battled to a 4-4 deadlock with St. Petersburg Thursday at SCC. Chuck Brant hurred all seven innings for the Raiders, giving up five, four runs (two earned) and three walks.

Brant, the ace of the staff last year, was touched for three runs in the first inning but didn't give up another earned run the rest of the way. Two errors paved the way for a sixth-inning run.

Mike Sawyer opened the inning with a single to right field but Mike Songini, running for the catcher, was caught stealing. Kenny Brown struck out but Rick Graves walked and Tim Johnson singled him to third. A double steal scored Graves on the front end. John Bell flied out to shortstop to end the inning.

BCC came up with one run in third. Daryl Badger grounded out, but Jack Smith reached on a bunt on an error by the first baseman and sophomore Brett Thayer singled to right field to chase Smith to third. Rick Givens walked to load the bases. Sawyer followed with a sacrifice fly ball to right field to chase home Smith. When the Raiders tried another double steal, Thayer was thrown out at the plate.

In the fourth, the Raiders pulled even at 3-3. Brown grounded out the pitcher and Graves struck out but Johnson doubled to left and stole third. Bell then beat out an infield hit to the third baseman to score Johnson. Badger then flied out to center field.

St. Petersburg picked up a run in the sixth but SCC came back in the top of the seventh to tie the game. Bell flied out to right but Badger coaxed a walk and Smith singled to right as Badger stopped at second. Thayer, who led the county in hitting while playing for Oviedo two years ago, flied out to right. Given followed with a double to left center to tie the game at 4-4. Sawyer walked to load the bases but Brown bounced out to the pitcher to end the threat.

"We stole nine bases against Brevard (a 7-5 loss) and seven more against St. Petersburg," said assistant coach Mike Tansel. "We really running the basepaths. That's 16 steals in two games." The Raiders have been caught just twice in 18 attempts.

Smith, Thayer and Johnson each had two hits for coach Jack Panteiras' Raiders.

Novak Bolsters UCF Staff

ORLANDO — The University of Central Florida baseball team, under the tutelage of head coach Jay Bergman, is taking on a giant task in 1985 as it moves from NCAA Division II to Division I, which includes the toughest schedule ever. It begins Friday here at 3 p.m. against the University of Florida.

Lights have been added to the UCF baseball complex to go with the move up.

The Knights will not use the lights right away as they entertain Florida Institute of Technology in a double-header Saturday beginning at 1 p.m.

Bergman, the former University of Florida coach, knows full well the challenge facing the Knights with such teams as Florida, Florida State, Louisiana State, Miami, North Carolina and Seton on the schedule. To meet the challenge head on, Bergman went out and recruited the best possible talent available to play many of the Knights home games under the lights for the first time.

As most baseball fans know, pitching is the key to winning and "92" brought in hurlers Lamar Chandler, Jeff Colton and former Lake Brantley ace Tommy Novak from Valencia Community College to go with returning starters, Rick Abel, Johnny Groth and Joe Santiago. Abel, Groth and Santiago had 16 of the Knights 34 wins in 1984. Santiago had eight wins with a 3.30 ERA.

Merthie Returns

Sanford's Bernard Marthie checks out his backward slam. The former SCC cager returns to Central Florida Saturday night when Eckard invades Rollins College for a 7:30 p.m. game. Marthie, a forward for Eckard, scored 24 points Thursday night as Eckard whipped Nova, 90-84. The Seminole High product is one of the major reasons Eckard is 15-3 so far. Marthie played two years for coach Bill Payne at Seminole Community College and two years for Payne at Seminole.

wild pitch and a run-scoring error on a ground ball hit by Ryan Lisle.

Lyman bounced back in the fourth with a couple of tainted tallies of its own. Livornois reached on an error with two outs and Henley and Craig Meyer both scooted around to tie for a 5-3 Lyman lead.

The Rams retied the game in the fifth when Letterio singled to center and Underwood drilled a triple into the right field corner. Metz hit an RBI chopper to shortstop for the 5-5 deadlock.

Lake Mary went ahead in the sixth when Danny Bridges singled. Keith Wallace walked and one batter later, Letterio singled home Bridges for a 6-5 lead.

Neal Harris, who was the Altamonte Springs' Senior League relief ace, threw just 12 pitches in the fifth and seven in the sixth. Harris looked as if he was going to pick up the win but Greyhounds rallied in the seventh.

Livornois singled to start the rally and Alegre dropped a surprise bunt down the third base line. The third baseman threw the ball past first base as Livornois sprinted home to tie the score and Alegre went to third.

"You don't usually want to take the bat out of the No. 4 hitter's hands," said Lyman coach Bob McCullough. "We gave Paul one swing because he's been tearing the cover off the ball."

"But your best hitters are sometimes your best bunters. It was a good time to try it and he dropped a perfect bunt."

The managerial wheels then began spinning as Tuttle walked the next two hitters to set up a force. John Bane then grounded into a force at home for the first out to bring up Henley.

The senior football standout drilled a line drive to medium-deep center field and Underwood's throw had no chance to get Odom at home. And, the chilled fans promptly headed for the cars, no doubt considering themselves lucky the game didn't go into extra innings.

"I was a little leery with their three, four and five hitters coming up," said Tuttle. "But this game didn't mean anything. Still, if we had played better defense we would have won."

Seminole coach Mike Ferrell was on hand to view the festivities Thursday. His Tribe opens the season Saturday at Titusville Astronaut. Ferrell said Tim Raines would be a practice today at Chase Park to give Seminoles the proper sendoff. Ferrell said righthander Brian Sheffield will pitch the opener.

"I'm sure Tim will have a few tips that will help," said Ferrell. Raines will report to spring training in West Palm Beach near the end of February. The 25-year-old outfielder has filed for arbitration after he and the Expos couldn't come to terms on a five-year deal.

Raines said the Expos won't give anything longer than a three-year pact now and he wanted $7.5 million over five years. Raines said he will probably sign for one year and become a free agent in two years, if the Expos don't trade him before that.

It was good to see Gary Nuss out and about Thursday night. Nuss, a promising young righthanded pitcher, was involved in a serious accident and lost part of his foot, ending his baseball.

The Lyman junior plans to keep busy keeping the scorebook for the Greyhounds. Hang in there, Gary, you've got a lot of people pulling for you to overcome this tough hurdle.

Bob Parker, the best shortstop in Lyman's history, was also back at his alma mater Thursday night. Parker is property of the Houston Astros and said he hopes to play for Kinston-Swift. Cloud in the Florida State League this spring.

"It all depends on how I do in spring training," said the All-SEC infielder from Mississippi State. "They have me working out at shortstop and second, but I'd like to go back to second base."

If Parker lands in the FBI, it will sure save his father, Sam, some miles. The older Parker has been a regular at every baseball stop his son has made.

If you want a second day of baseball and cold weather, Oviedo hosts Lake Brantley today at 4. Oviedo coach Howard Mable said Tim Watson will start for the Lions while Lake Brantley coach Gary Smith said he would hand the ball to Brad Dunn.

The Patriots lost their ace, junior Kenny Chapdelaine, when he didn't make games. "That was hurt," said Henry. "But we've just got to suck it up. We have enough pitchers to take up the slack."

Keep On Pedaling...Relax After Race

With the National Bicycle League Nationals underway, a lot of riders are traveling away from home to compete for big trophies and lots of recognition at these events.

For a lot of racers, this fame and glory is always just a berm away. It may be due to a few common mistakes a rider can make. Here are a few of these most common mistakes and some ways to avoid making them.

● Getting a bad start. This is perhaps the most common mistake of all. To avoid it, a rider should practice the gate a few times before the race. Not all gates fall the same. During practice, try to time the distance between the green light and the fall of the gate. Balancing on the pedals may also help. Practice starts at home. You don't need a practice gate. Just practice on a flat surface.

● Slipping a pedal. Slipping a pedal while racing can cost a BMXer precious time. To avoid slipping a pedal, a rider should make sure that the pedals are in good condition. Keep the bearings well oiled so that the pedals turn well. Also file the cages to deep maximum grip. If the soles on your shoes are wearing out, get a new pair. This will also insure gripping power.

● Taking a berm the wrong way. There are different ways to take different-sized berms. For a larger berm, a rider should go in to it and ride high. Then, about three-fourth of the way through, cut down low for more speed. On a smaller berm, the best way is usually right through the middle. In either case, there are usually "lines" marking the best route.

● Getting knocked off a berm. If you see that you are about to get knocked off a berm, just lean to the inside and put your inside leg out for support. In this position you'll be leaning into him, and he'll wind up falling.

● Failing to take a jumper or landing wrong on a jump. Failing to take a jump always costs time. While a rider is pedaling over a jump, the one in the air is clearing it in half the time. The best way to take a double jump is to clear the crest and land on the down slope. Learning this takes practice. If you don't think you're gonna make it, don't try it. It's even worse to fall during a major race. Riders that are taking jumps may be crashing during the landing. A rider should get the back wheel on the ground first. Then set the front down. Keeping the knees slightly bent will help absorb the shock.

Christy Davis
Herald BMX
Writer

● Following riders through turns.

This can probably be called the most riskiest mistake. If the rider in front of you crashes, you might as well kiss that path goodbye, pick a different line and try to pass him cleanly.

● Not pedaling to the finish. How many times have you seen a rider so sure he's won that he sits down and quits pedaling before the finish line? Only to have the guy he didn't see sneak up and steal the win. I'll bet more times than once. Don't let this happen to you. It's only a few more feet to the finish line, keep on pedaling. You'll have plenty time to relax after the race.

Be sure and keep that hi-tech machine of yours well oiled and running smoothly. Check all the parts and make sure they are in working order. A clean wheel helps it turn smoother. This maybe the edge you need to win.

Saturday afternoon at Barnett Park was filled with racing excitement. Jay Staley placed first in the 7-expert class. This weekend Jay ventures south to compete in nationals at Homestead and Miami.

Ten-expert Tim Fink brought home a second place in race.

Colby Brown place second in his cruiser class and a first in his 11-expert class. Second place in the 13-novice class went to Todd Fink.

Ronnie Brewer placed third in his 13-expert race. He did even better in his open class with a second place finish.

Jason Heflington was the most successful Bicycle Connection rider two meets ago when he finished first in the 14-novice and 14-open classes. Mark Koch also had a first in the 17-open class and a runnerup in the 17-cruiser class.

David Sanborn placed eighth in the 14-expert and came back with a second in the 14-open. Andy Doering completed the strong BC team showing with a fifth place in the 13-novice.

Lake Mary's boys and girls tennis teams each ran their records to 2-0 Thursday with a pair of 7-0 wins against Orlando Evans. Both teams return to action Tuesday against Lake Howell and Thursday against Lyman.

Will Track Fans Forgive Lewis?

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Carl Lewis will find out tonight if Southern California has forgiven him yet for passing on his last two attempts of the long jump during the Summer Olympics — a move which drew boos from the overflow Coliseum crowd.

Lewis, who won four gold medals at the Games, is entered in the long jump in Los Angeles Times Indoor Games at the Forum. He heads a field of international track and field athletes, some of whom are from the Soviet Union, Romania, Great Britain, Cuba, Switzerland, Sweden and Mexico.

The 23-year-old white kid who creates controversy as easily as he beats his rivals in the long jump and sprints should attract much of the attention. He will compete only in his specialty, the long jump. His expected victory in that event will be his 39th in a row. The all-time record for consecutive long jump wins is 41, set by George Brown from 1950-52.

Sabovcik Under Heavy Pressure

GOTHENBURG, Sweden (UPI) — Josef Sabovcik of Czechoslovakia will be under tremendous pressure today when he takes to the ice in the men's final program of the European Figure Skating Championship.

With current champion Aleksandr Fadeyev of the Soviet Union out with an injury, the time appears right for the 20-year-old to win his first major title. But Sabovcik must first defeat two strong skaters from the Soviet Union.

LAKE BRANTLEY: 21-3
ALTMONTE SPRINGS — Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots sizzled the nets for a season-high 58 percent shooting from the floor en route to a 72-35 trouncing of Apopka's Lady Blue Darters in Five Star Conference action at Lake Brantley High.

The fifth-ranked (4A) Lady Patriots set a school record for wins in the season as they improved to 21-3 overall and 13-1 in the conference. Apopka now stands at 2-15 overall and 2-12 in the Five Star.

Lake Brantley came out blazing in the first half as the Patriots shot 61 percent from the floor in building a 47-10 halftime lead. Michelle Brown, who wound up with a game-high 19 points, made 6 of 8 shots from the floor in the first half and 9 for 10 for the game.

Brantley also got a big boost from junior guard Sherry "Ice" Asplen who hit 8 of 9 field goals for a season-high 16 points. Kirsten Dellinger and Cami Twaddell added eight each for the Lady Patriots.

Asplen also dished out six assists while Brown handed out five. Kim Lubenow added six points and four assists while Angie May contributed six points and five rebounds and Kim Wain had a team-high seven rebounds. Michelle Hagan also added six points for the Patriots.

DOWNTOWN BROWN — Brown, a senior forward, set a Lake Brantley school record Monday when she made an 80-foot shot at the halftime buzzer against Mainland's Lady Bucs.

"She (Brown) just got the ball out of bounds, turned and threw a baseball pass," Lake Brantley assistant Debbie Frank said. "It hit off the backboard and went right in. Michelle didn't even know she had made it until somebody told her. After she threw the ball, she started walking toward the lockerroom. After the game the Mainland girls were asking her if she was on the softball team."

No. 1 Seabreeze Invades Tonight

Seabreeze, the No. 1 ranked AAA team in the state, invades Lake Mary tonight for the key appetizer on the Five Star Conference basketball menu. Tip-off is 8 p.m.

"We're ready for them," Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson declared after his Rums nipped Apopka Tuesday night. "Seabreeze is the No. 1 team in the state and the top team in our conference, so we want to knock them off."

No one would like to see that more than DeLand, who hosts Seminole tonight. A DeLand win over the Tribe and a Lake Mary upset of Seabreeze would throw the Five Star lead into a tie between the Sand Crabs and Bulldogs, who will meet one more time this year.

Elsewhere, Lyman travels to Mainland, Lake Howell journeys to Spruce Creek, Lake Brantley hosts Apopka and Oviedo goes to Kissimmee Osceola.

In the first half and never relinquished it. Santa Fe never had the lead the entire game and it was tied only twice, 2-2 and 4-4.

Coletti broke the 4-4 tie with a three-point play that made it 7-4 and she scored four more points for an 11-4 SCC lead with 12:04 left in the first half.

SCC increased its lead to 10, 21-11, with 8:30 left in the half when Coletti grabbed an offensive rebound and made the followup. The Lady Raiders took a 15-point lead, 28-13, at halftime behind Coletti's 11 points.

Santa Fe came back strong at the beginning of the second half as the Lady Saints ran off eight straight points to pull within seven, 28-21, with 18:15 left in the game. Mathis started off the streak as she grabbed an offensive rebound and dropped in the followup and Archer did the same to make it 28-17. Dodd then popped in a jumper and Archer hit one from the outside to make it 28-21.

SCC then called a timeout to settle down and Coletti hit a layup to stop Santa Fe's string and give the Raiders a 30-21 lead. Johnson made one of two free throws and Lemon hit a layup for a 33-21 SCC lead.

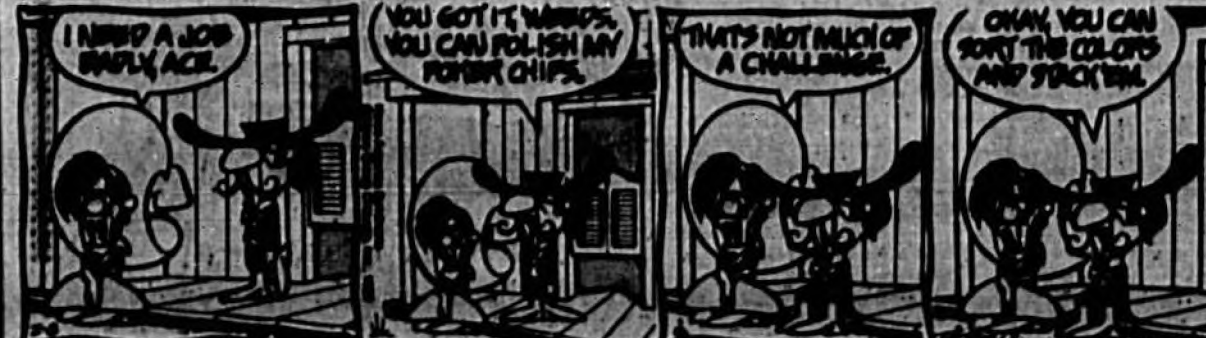

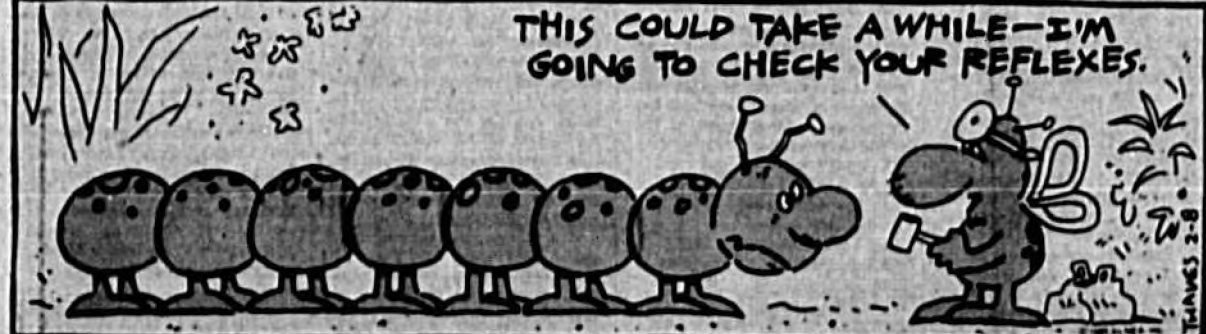

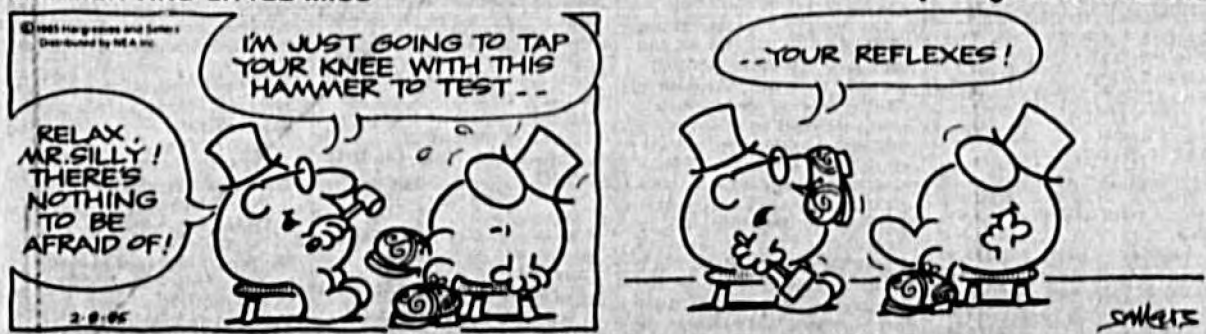

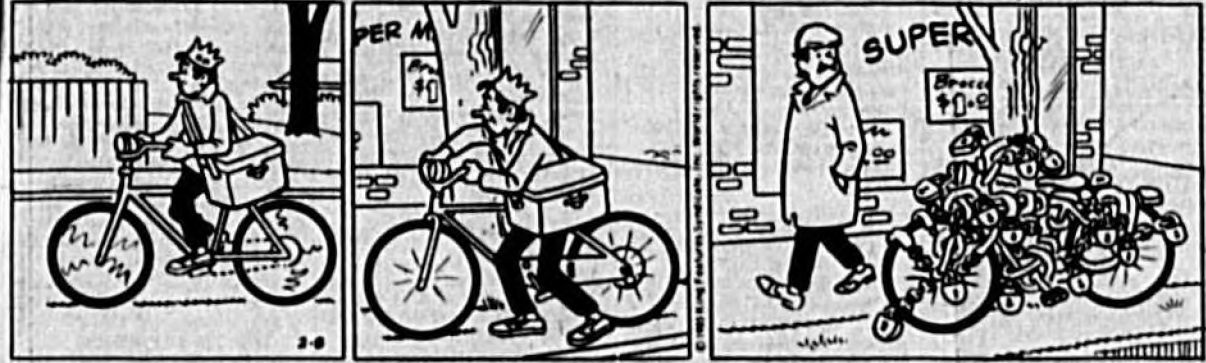

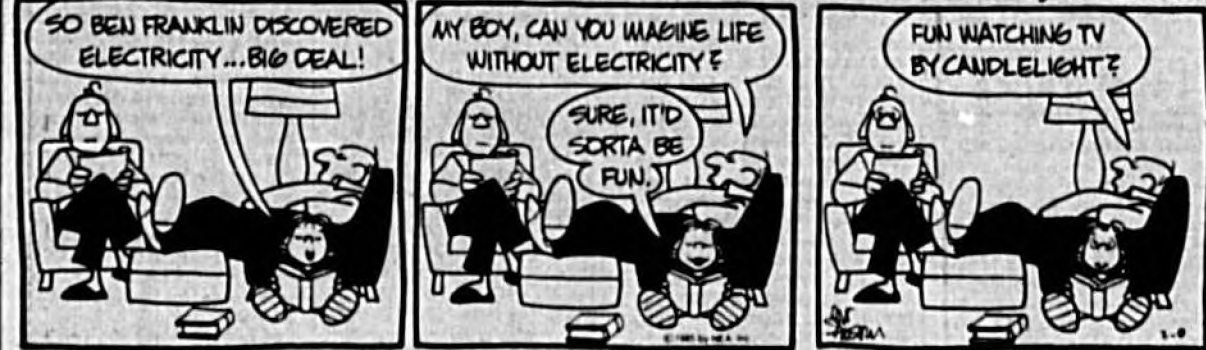

Santa Fe came back within eight, 41-33, with 11 minutes left but SCC went on a 8-1 run to take a 40-34 lead with 9:45 remaining. The Lady Saints got it back to 10, 62-52, with 1:30 left and Santa Fe got the ball back with 1:02.

But the SCC defense wouldn't give an inch and it took Santa Fe 29 seconds to get off a shot and that was an airball by Dodd.

"I'm still flying high," Gallagher said after the win. "We've been working hard on defense and we've come a long way. Now we're going to gear down and concentrate on state."

Proper Diet Can Ease Problems With Colon

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been diagnosed as having diverticulitis and my husband has diverticulosis. Which is more serious?

DEAR READER — I'd bet a small sum that if you ever had diverticulitis, you no longer had it by the time you wrote to me. Sometimes the terms diverticulitis and diverticulosis are not used correctly. You and your husband probably have the same thing. This is not surprising, since diverticula are very common and increase with increasing years. More than half of the people over 60 in the United States have diverticulosis.

Some people call diverticulosis "pockets of the colon." They are small pockets produced by the tearing or rupture of the structures of the colon. Often these pockets cause no symptoms, but other times they are associated with gas, lower abdominal discomfort and cramping. Many authorities think the symptoms do not come from the diverticula, but from a spastic or irritable colon. In fact, a spastic colon may cause a buildup of pressure inside the colon, causing the rupture or blowout.

Diverticulitis is an inflammation of one of these pockets and is similar to appendicitis. It is an acute condition and occurs in only about 1 percent of patients with diverticulosis. As an infection, it requires immediate treatment, and antibiotics are necessary. It is a one-time, short-duration occurrence in two-thirds of patients who have it.

One may not eat anything during acute diverticulitis. Certainly, one's doctor will have to determine what diet to follow. A patient with diverticulosis may benefit from adding bulk to the diet and may also need to take measures to prevent gas. I have discussed the diet in more detail in The Health Letter, Special Report 20, Diverticulosis: Pockets of the Colon.

DEAR DR. LAMB — How long must food stay in the stomach to be of nutritional benefit? I have an intolerance for dairy products, most fresh fruits and many raw vegetables, chocolate, liquor and other foods. Sometimes I consume these foods by mistake and lose everything. Librax usually corrects the problem, but I am concerned about losing nutrients.

DEAR READER — I hope you are seeing a doctor and pursuing a program to correct your food intolerance or to replace the nutrients in the foods you are unable to tolerate.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Bidding a slam on a 13ace isn't the worst thing in the world. But there's a kicker in the works if you also need reasonable distribution.

North showed a better hand than he actually had. By bidding diamonds and spades, and then going to four hearts, he was making a mild slam try. South was happy to comply and asked for aces.

It seemed as though the slam would depend simply upon who held the king of hearts, but when East showed out, more became involved. Although there is no way short of hypnotism to compel West to cover a heart honor with the king, there is an unusual type of play that can take away the defender's trump trick. It has a name — the another play. Watch it in action.

After two rounds of hearts, West not covering, South cashed the second high club, led a spade to the ace and trumped a club. Then he played a spade to the king and trumped the third spade. Now came the diamond ace and king. A small diamond from dummy put East on lead. The only black cards outstanding were with East, and he had to lead either a club or a spade. South trumped and West was caught in the "another." If he played the king, dummy would play the ace. If he undertruffed, dummy would discard the diamond. The hand could be defeated only if West could have won the third diamond and led his low heart, but that was prevented by the layout of the cards.

You don't need a practice gate, just practice on a flat surface.

● Slipping a pedal. Slipping a pedal while racing can cost a BMXer precious time. To avoid slipping a pedal, a rider should make sure that the pedals are in good condition. Keep the bearings well oiled so that the pedals turn well. Also file the cages to deep maximum grip. If the soles on your shoes are wearing out, get a new pair. This will also insure gripping power.

● Taking a berm the wrong way. There are different ways to take different-sized berms. For a larger berm, a rider should go in to it and ride high. Then, about three-fourth of the way through, cut down low for more speed. On a smaller berm, the best way is usually right through the middle. In either case, there are usually "lines" marking the best route.

● Getting knocked off a berm. If you see that you are about to get knocked off a berm, just lean to the inside and put your inside leg out for support. In this position you'll be leaning into him, and he'll wind up falling.

● Failing to take a jumper or landing wrong on a jump. Failing to take a jump always costs time. While a rider is pedaling over a jump, the one in the air is clearing it in half the time. The best way to take a double jump is to clear the crest and land on the down slope. Learning this takes practice. If you don't think you're gonna make it, don't try it. It's even worse to fall during a major race. Riders that are taking jumps may be crashing during the landing. A rider should get the back wheel on the ground first. Then set the front down. Keeping the knees slightly bent will help absorb the shock.

● Following riders through turns.

This can probably be called the most riskiest mistake. If the rider in front of you crashes, you might as well kiss that path goodbye, pick a different line and try to pass him cleanly.

● Not pedaling to the finish. How many times have you seen a rider so sure he's won that he sits down and quits pedaling before the finish line? Only to have the guy he didn't see sneak up and steal the win. I'll bet more times than once. Don't let this happen to you. It's only a few more feet to the finish line, keep on pedaling. You'll have plenty time to relax after the race.

Be sure and keep that hi-tech machine of yours well oiled and running smoothly. Check all the parts and make sure they are in working order. A clean wheel helps it turn smoother. This maybe the edge you need to win.

Saturday afternoon at Barnett Park was filled with racing excitement. Jay Staley placed first in the 7-expert class. This weekend Jay ventures south to compete in national Homestead and Miami.

Ten-expert Tim Fink brought home a second place in race.

Colby Brown place second in his cruiser class and a first in his 11-expert class. Second place in the 13-novice class went to Todd Fink.

Ronnie Brewer placed third in his 13-expert race. He did even better in his open class with a second place finish.

Jason Heffington was the most successful Bicycle Connection rider two meets ago when he finished first in the 14-novice and 14-open classes.

Mark Koch also had a first in the 17-open class and a runnerup in the 17-cruiser class. David Sanborn placed eighth in the 14-expert and came back with a second in the 14-open. Andy Doering completed the strong BC team showing with a fifth place in the 13-novice.

Will Track Fans Forgive Lewis?

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Carl Lewis will find out tonight if Southern California has forgiven him yet for passing on his last two attempts of the long jump during the Summer Olympics — a move which drew boos from the overflow Coliseum crowd.

Lewis, who won four gold medals at the Games, is entered in the long jump in Los Angeles Times Indoor Games at the Forum. He heads a field of international track and field athletes, some of whom are from the Soviet Union, Romania, Great Britain, Cuba, Switzerland, Sweden and Mexico.

The 23-year-old whiz kid who creates controversy as easily as he beats his rivals in the long jump and sprints should attract much of the attention. He will compete only in his specialty, the long jump. His expected victory in that event will be his 39th in a row. The all-time record for consecutive long jump wins is 41, set by George Brown from 1950-92.

Sabovcik Under Heavy Pressure

GOTHENBURG, Sweden (UPI) — Josef Sabovcik of Czechoslovakia will be under tremendous pressure today when he takes to the ice in the men's final free program of the European Figure Skating Championship.

With current champion Aleksandr Papeyev of the Soviet Union out with an injury, the time appears right for the 20-year-old to win his first major title. But Sabovcik must first defeat two strong skaters from the Soviet Union.

LAKE BRANTLEY: 21-3
ALTMANTE SPRINGS — Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots sizzled the nets for a season-high 58 percent shooting from the floor en route to a 72-35 trouncing of Apopka's Lady Blue Darters in Five Star Conference action at Lake Brantley High.

The fifth-ranked (4A) Lady Patriots set a school record for wins in the season as they improved to 21-3 overall and 13-1 in the conference. Apopka now stands at 2-15 overall and 2-12 in the Five Star.

Lake Brantley came out blazing in the first half as the Patriots shot 61 percent from the floor in building a 47-10 halftime lead. Michelle Brown, who wound up with a game-high 19 points, made 6 of 8 shots from the floor in the first half and 9 for 10 for the game.

Brantley also got a big boost from junior guard Sherry "Ice" Asplen who hit 8 of 9 field goals for a season-high 16 points. Kirsten Dellinger and Cami Twaddell added eight each for the Lady Patriots.

Asplen also dished out six assists while Brown handed out five. Kim Lubenow added six points and four assists while Angie May contributed six points and five rebounds and Kim Wain had a team-high seven rebounds. Michelle Hagan also added six points for the Patriots.

DOWNTOWN BROWN — Brown, a senior forward, set a Lake Brantley school record Monday when she made an 80-foot shot at the halftime buzzer against Mainland's Lady Bucs.

"She (Brown) just got the ball out of bounds, turned and threw a baseball pass," Lake Brantley assistant Debbie Frank said. "It hit off the backboard and went right in. Michelle didn't even know she had made it until somebody told her. After she threw the ball, she started walking toward the lockerroom. After the game the Mainland girls were asking her if she was on the softball team."

No. 1 Seabreeze Invades Tonight

Seabreeze, the No. 1 ranked AAA team in the state, invades Lake Mary tonight for the key appetizer on the Five Star Conference basketball menu. Tip-off is 8 p.m.

"We're ready for them," Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson declared after his Rams nipped Apopka Tuesday night. "Seabreeze is the No. 1 team in the state and the top team in our conference, so we want to knock them off."

No one would like to see that more than DeLand, who hosts Seminole tonight. A DeLand win over the Tribe and a Lake Mary upset of Seabreeze would throw the Five Star lead into a tie between the Sand Crabs and Bulldogs, who will meet one more time this year.

Elsewhere, Lyman travels to Mainland. Lake Howell journeys to Spruce Creek. Lake Brantley hosts Apopka and Oviedo goes to Kissimmee Oviedo.

Michelle Brown has a good reason for her coy smile. The versatile Lake Brantley senior tossed in an 80-foot basket against Apopka Thursday night.

In the first half and never relinquished it. Santa Fe never had the lead the entire game and it was tied only twice, 2-2 and 4-4.

Coletti broke the 4-4 tie with a three-point play that made it 7-4 and she scored four more points for an 11-4 SCC lead with 12:04 left in the first half.

SCC increased its lead to 10, 21-11, with 6:30 left in the half when Coletti grabbed an offensive rebound and made the followup. The Lady Raiders took a 15-point lead, 28-13, at halftime behind Coletti's 11 points.

Santa Fe came back strong at the beginning of the second half as the Lady Saints ran off eight straight points to pull within seven, 28-21, with 18:15 left in the game. Mathis started off the streak as she grabbed an offensive rebound and dropped in the followup and Archer did the same to make it 28-17. Dodd then popped in a jumper and Archer hit one from the outside to make it 28-21.

SCC then called a timeout to settle down and Coletti hit a layup to stop Santa Fe's string and give the Raiders a 30-21 lead. Johnson made one of two free throws and Lemon hit a layup for a 33-21 SCC lead.

Santa Fe came back within eight, 41-33, with 11 minutes left but SCC went on an 8-1 run to take a 49-34 lead with 9:45 remaining. The Lady Saints got it back to 10, 62-52, with 1:30 left and Santa Fe got the ball back with 1:02.

But the SCC defense wouldn't give an inch and it took Santa Fe 29 seconds to get off a shot and that was an airball by Dodd.

"I'm still flying high," Gallagher said after the win. "We've been working hard on defense and we've come a long way. Now we're going to gear down and concentrate on state."

Proper Diet Can Ease Problems With Colon

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have been diagnosed as having diverticulitis and my husband has diverticulosis. Which is more serious?

DEAR READER - I'd bet a small sum that if you ever had diverticulitis, you no longer had it by the time you wrote to me. Sometimes the terms diverticulitis and diverticulosis are not used correctly. You and your husband probably have the same thing. This is not surprising, since diverticula are very common and increase with increasing years. More than half of the people over 60 in the United States have diverticulosis.

Some people call diverticulosis "pockets of the colon." They are small pockets produced by the tearing or rupture of the structures of the colon. Often these pockets cause no symptoms, but other times they are associated with gas, lower abdominal discomfort and cramping. Many authorities think the symptoms do not come from the diverticula, but from a spastic or irritable colon. In fact, a spastic colon may cause a buildup of pressure inside the colon, causing the rupture or blowout.

Diverticulitis is an inflammation of one of these pockets and is similar to appendicitis. It is an acute condition and occurs in only about 1 percent of patients with diverticulosis. As an infection, it requires immediate treatment, and antibiotics are necessary. It is a one-time, short-duration occurrence in two-thirds of patients who have it.

One may not eat anything during acute diverticulitis. Certainly, one's doctor will have to determine what diet to follow. A patient with diverticulosis may benefit from adding bulk to the diet and may also need to take measures to prevent gas. I have discussed the diet in more detail in The Health Letter, Special Report 20, Diverticulosis: Pockets of the Colon.

DEAR DR. LAMB - How long must food stay in the stomach to be of nutritional benefit? I have an intolerance for dairy products, most fresh fruits and many raw vegetables, chocolate, liquor and other foods. Sometimes I consume these foods by mistake and lose everything. Librax usually corrects the problem, but I am concerned about losing nutrients.

DEAR READER - I hope you are seeing a doctor and pursuing a program to correct your food intolerance or to replace the nutrients in the foods you are unable to tolerate.

Dr. Lamb

One does not absorb any nutrients through the stomach wall, only alcohol will pass through the stomach.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Bidding a slam on a finesse isn't the worst thing in the world. But there's a kicker in the works if you also need reasonable distribution.

North showed a better hand than he actually had. By bidding diamonds and spades, and then going to four hearts, he was making a mild slam try. South was happy to comply and asked for aces.

It seemed as though the slam would depend simply upon who held the king of hearts, but when East showed out, more became involved. Although there is no way short of hypnotism to compel West to cover a heart honor with the king, there is an unusual type of play that can take away the defender's trump trick. It has a name - the

another play. Watch it in action.

After two rounds of hearts, West not covering, South cashed the second high club, led a spade to the ace and trumped a club. Then he played a spade to the king and trumped the third spade. Now came the diamond ace and king. A small diamond from dummy put East on lead. The only black cards outstanding were with East, and he had to lead either a club or a spade. South trumped and West was caught in the "another." If he played the king, dummy would play the ace. If he undertruffed, dummy would discard the diamond. The hand could be defeated only if West could have won the third diamond and led his low heart, but that was prevented by the layout of the cards.

Bunk Bed 'Justice'

ARVADA, Colo. (UPI) — A soft-spoken father who waged a one-man battle against the world's largest retailer has won. Sears, Roebuck and Co. says it will publicize modification kits for the type of bunk bed that killed Ed Shell's son.

The announcement Thursday from the huge retail and catalog giant was a relief for Sheila.

"It's a partial justice," he said.

The kits include four retaining wires that stretch between the sideboards of the beds.

Goetz Fought Muggers Before

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bernhard Goetz, the subway vigilante who shot four teenagers in December, fought off would-be muggers in 1982 and twice raced to the rescue of women being robbed.

Goetz's lawyer, Joseph Kelner, Thursday recounted the times his client scuffled with muggers.

In the summer of 1982, Goetz missed his stop at 96th Street station. He got off instead at 110th Street and was walking along Central Park North, Kelner said.

"Two men started to follow him. He walked faster," Kelner said.

"He walked slower. They walked slower. He crossed the street and ... one ran in front of him and one ran in back of him. One of them had a cane and he raised the cane as if to brain Goetz and said 'okay you blank blank, give it up.'"

Kelner said Goetz pulled his pistol and the assailants fled.

Goetz did not report the case to police, Kelner said. Goetz also was beaten during a mugging in 1981.

Kelner said Goetz came to the aid of two other mugging victims but did not pull his gun in either incident.

In 1983, Goetz helped a woman whose purse had been snatched in Central Park. Goetz managed to retrieve the pocketbook but could not catch the thief.

Two years ago, Goetz tackled an alleged bracelet snatcher. But the victim refused to call police and fled, Kelner said.

Kelner refuted charges that his 37-year-old client is a racist because the four teenagers he shot in a subway Dec. 22 were black.

Goetz opened fire after the youths, carrying a sharpened screwdriver, asked him for $5.

"I've now spent dozens and dozens of hours with him and I can safely say that I know him as well as anyone, even his family," Kelner said. "He's not perfect, but he's also not a racist and violent man."

Black leaders have charged that the shooting was racially motivated.

A Manhattan grand jury refused to indict Goetz last month for attempted murder, and Wednesday Goetz pleaded innocent to charges of illegal weapons possession.

His bail was reduced from $50,000 to $5,000 and he remains free.

Composers And Computers Make Beautiful Music Together

*'But You Can Still Create
A Great Piece Of Music With A Pencil'*

The IBM Overture In PC Sharp

Composers Now Actually Writing Music On A Computer

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

On first thought it might seem an unlikely marriage — computers and music. But to music buffs serious about their craft, the computer is a tool that allows them a wide range of creativity, from puttering around to creating full-blown musical compositions.

"There has always been an ongoing relationship between music and math. It's traditional and demonstratable and it's only logical that it carries over to computers," said University of Central Florida music professor Dr. Bruce Whisler.

Whisler, of Winter Park, confesses he's no composer, but he has programmed a melody or two on his IBM PC (personal computer). "I don't own the software necessary" for composing, he said, but added that the best bet for would-be computer Mozarts would be an Apple machine, because that company has geared more of its support material toward music makers.

The logic of using computers to create music is simple, at least to Whisler, because he said both disciplines are based on a logical order of ideas, and a computer, instead of inhibiting musical creativity, may actually enhance improvisation.

"The computer is another tool a composer can use in creating," Whisler said, with the keys of the computer terminal serving a role similar to that of a musical instrument.

"Computers don't normally write music and it's not a quick and easy process in most cases," said another UCF music professor, Dr. Ed Hotaling.

Depending on the sophistication of the software and the complexity of the computer-oriented music system, composers can key their work into a computer and get a printout of their creation or if they have a more advanced system can play a computer keyboard in much the same way an electric organ might be played.

An increasing number of musicians are utilizing computers in their art and say they get the same thrill from programming that they do from writing music. Some computer-musicians find a well written program as moving as a beautiful melody and insist the mathematical base of music and programming is exactly the same.

'Programming is writing a score for the computer to play. Composing is writing a program for musicians.'

—New York composer Joe Zitt

Pianist Peter Nero doesn't use computers in his music, but he calls himself an electronics freak and said the microcomputer he bought 10 years ago was the 26th off the assembly line.

"I think when any field becomes computer oriented," Hotaling said, people begin to see worthwhile things the computer can do. "In the near future music-making with a computer may be so perfected that in many cases it will take the place of musicians, Hotaling said, noting that computers are growing ever more capable of reproducing exactly the complete sound range of nearly every instrument.

Hotaling said this will have an effect similar to the introduction of the synthesizer, which in some cases eliminated the need for some musicians to create the desired tune. But Hotaling said computers have reduced even the work of synthesizers.

"You can hit one computer key and come up with the same sound it might have taken 37 different settings on a synthesizer to create."

Based on his familiarity with both computers and music, Nero said musicians are "confined to certain rules in musical form and it is similar to the structure faced by programmers." But leeway for improvisation is there both in music and in programming, he said.

"When I'm playing a concert at least 50 percent is improvisation. You can go beyond what's written. When I write a program I do much the same kind of thing. I always try to improve it, make it shorter and faster," Nero said.

Jazz-rock musician Herbie Hancock, noted for use of computers in his work and for his prowess as a programmer, has a room of computers hooked up to a variety of synthesizers. A logical move for him, since his college major was electrical engineering.

"I did notice that when I got into computers I became obsessed with it with a similar kind of intensity as the kind of obsession I experienced when I first started playing jazz," Hancock said.

"Programming is writing a score for the computer to play. Composing is writing a program for musicians," New York composer Joe Zitt said. He noted that taking a musical piece from concept to its final form is similar to the process of creating a computer program.

Even cross-country communication by computer networks, called BBSing, has its counterpart in music, Zitt said. "BBSing is like jamming," where musicians play together to work out ideas and develop themes that lead to improvisation.

Whisler, although drawn to the contemporary computer technology, said he considers himself "a musicologist. My primary interest is Renaissance music; that's music from 400 years ago."

That leaves him wondering just what the music masters of the Renaissance might have come up with if they had had a little help from a computer.

That thought may be enough to send you to the keyboard — the computer keyboard, to see what you can come up with. Since most of us these days have access to a computer, if not true musical talent, that might give you an edge on innovation.

You might be surprised and find that the cold, precise logic behind computer programming can take you on a creative flight of fancy that could defy the conventional wisdom that the two don't mix.

But attempting to write music with basic equipment can, Hotaling said, be laborious and time consuming, and "You can still create a great piece of art with a pencil."

In this simulation, a budding composer bangs out a musical score on his computer, dreaming of the day his creation will be performed by a full symphony.

'Killing Fields' Dominates Awards Nominees

LONDON (UPI) — British producer David Puttnam's movie "The Killing Fields" received 13 nominations in the British Academy of Film and Television Arts 1984 awards.

"The Killing Fields," directed by Roland Joffe, was nominated for best film in the so-called "British Oscar" awards, along with Peter Yates' "The Dresser," "Paris, Texas," produced by Don Guest and Anatole Dauman, and "A Private Function" produced by Mark Shivas.

BAFTA's most prestigious awards were scheduled to be announced March 5 in the presence of Princess Anne, president of the academy.

"The Killing Fields" is a British-made film that portrays a New York Times journalist's coverage of American withdrawal from Cambodia in 1975, and the events that followed under the Khmer Rouge regime.

Other categories for which "The Killing Fields" was nominated included Joffe as best director, Mike Oldfield for best score, and both Heng S. Ngor and Sam Waterston for best actor. Ngor also was nominated the most outstanding newcomer to film.

"The Dresser" was nominated for seven awards, including Yates as best director, and Tom Courtenay and Albert Finney, in the category of best actor.

Beach Boys Movie: An Honest Look Back

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — They epitomized the Southern California dream of endless summers with cresting waves, sun-splashed days and bronzed bodies, but there were darker days that tarnished the golden boys of surf music.

A just-released 110-minute movie "The Beach Boys — An American Band," produced by "This is Elvis" director Malcolm Leo, lingers on details of the sometimes unsettling 25 years with the boys from Hawthorne, Calif.

"Despite adversity, the Beach Boys have become an institution, a slice of American folklore," said Leo in explaining why he took on the $1 million project. "The story of the Beach Boys has all the elements that would seem untrue if you fictionalized them."

The made-for-home-video movie, now showing exclusively in some major cities and available this spring on videocassette, uses concert footage, interviews and home movies to present the impact of the Beach Boys on American life.

"Cars, cruising, beach culture, love and the California myth," said Leo.

So-called "authorized" biographies usually leave out unflattering parts of a life story, but the Beach Boys gave Leo free rein to show the strangeness of Brian Wilson's reclusive years in bed and frankly discusses the years of drugs.

"I hated it," said one band member who asked not to be identified. "It brought back all those memories. Officially, I'd better say no comment."

Lead singer Mike Love said he was "too close to it" to have any critical opinion, adding that his immediate reaction to the big screen production was "embarrassment."

Beach Boys Al Jardine and Carl Wilson enjoyed the film, but Jardine was slightly critical.

"It dwells too much on the 70s," said Jardine, in reference to the group's troubled decade. "I'd really rather have focused on the surfers, hodads and the 60s stuff. I think the 70s stuff is too mundane."

"My favorite part was the 60s — the striped-shirt era."

"I reminisce about the wanderlust feeling of hunting surf spots. It's so America. It was safe and healthy."

Carl Wilson, 38, who now lives in Colorado "because I got tired of driving in traffic from the beach," said he found the film "highly amusing."

"Observing us as ourselves in our youth — our innocence — was fun," he said.

Much of the film shows Brian, the creative force behind the band, commenting on Beach Boy history from bed. Dennis Wilson, who accidentally drowned in Marina del Rey 14 months ago, came up with the idea for a band.

"Dennis wanted us to write surf songs," said Brian. "It worked."

The group's first song, "Surfer's Song," earned Brian an "F" in music composition at Hawthorne High School, but it became the first million record seller for the Beach Boys.

Rep. Crane Joins Helms' CBS Takeover Campaign

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Rep. Phil Crane has joined Sen. Jesse Helms' conservative crusade to buy control of CBS — a campaign network chairman Thomas Wyman called a "political game" with little chance of succeeding.

Crane, R-Ill., announced Tuesday he was joining the campaign because "it is the best chance conservatives have ever had to end the liberal bias in media."

Helms, a North Carolina Republican, mailed a million letters to conservatives last month asking them to buy enough stock to "become Dan Rather's boss" and end what he called the network's "liberal anti-Reagan bias."

Wyman, however, told a meeting at Duke University Tuesday that network takeover threats are often an attempt to intimidate and manipulate the press.

"We're not here anti-Reagan" than NBC or ABC," Wyman said. "Complaining about the coverage you get or about the coverage your opponents get — is part of the political game."

The CBS chairman said the chances of the buyout attempt succeeding are "remote" and added, "I don't think he (Crane) adds a lot to their credence."

Helms said if every person who got his letter bought 30 shares of CBS stock — now costing about $75 — conservatives could assume control of the network.

Fairman in Media, the Helms group conducting the takeover campaign, has filed documents with the Securities and Exchange Commission detailing its plans to change the network's "bias" or buy it.

Crane said FIM was not planning "to replace the CBS anti-Reagan bias with a pro-Reagan bias."

'Berrenger's'

NBC's Bargain Basement Soap Opera Is Old Hat

By David Handler

"Berrenger's" is NBC's big new prime-time soap opera. It comes from David Jacobs, who created "Dallas" and "Knots Landing." It sports an all-star cast. It is a major dud in the ratings.

That makes it the second glossy serial to go belly up this season. ABC's juicy "Paper Dolls" came and went with surprising speed.

Could this mean the end is near for nighttime soaps? Hardly. "Dallas" and "Dynasty" remain atop the ratings. All it indicates is that when audiences find a soap they like, they stay with it. It's not easy to get them interested in a new one.

Especially when it offers nothing new. Like "Paper Dolls," "Berrenger's" dishes up plenty of the big three: sex, greed and glamour. But the format is painfully familiar. You've seen this show already. Again and again.

Every big soap has a big fortune at stake. This time it's Berrenger's, a New York City department store. It's a place, our narrator intones, "where you can get anything you want, where dreams are bought and sold."

Every big soap has a big meanie. Ours is Simon Berrenger (Sam Wanamaker), who rules the family empire by intimidation and fear. "I'm the store!" he screams at his son, Paul (Ben Murphy), who is president but who never seems to know what is going on. "I made it and I can do what I like with it!"

Simon has been known to slap Paul in front of other board members. Paul has, in turn, been known to call his father "a miserable old cretin." The two have been known to grapple on the office rug. Typical business school stuff.

Paul isn't a bad guy, but he does have women troubles. He wants to divorce his wife, Gloria (Andrea Marcovicci), so he can marry one of his vice presidents, Shane (Yvette Mimieux). Gloria's attitude: fat chance.

Meanwhile, Paul's sister, Baba (Anita Morris), has been divorced four times and is, frankly, a slut. And his brother, Billy (Robin Strand), is a compulsive gambler who owes mobsters money.

Moving down a few rungs in the store's class structure, we have our three plucky young employees who also share a Manhattan apartment. Stacey (Jonelle Allen) is an ambitious black saleswoman. Laurel (Laura Ashton) is a flighty model. Cammie (Leslie Hope) is a fresh-faced new kid from the Midwest.

John Higgins (Jeff Conaway), a window dresser who is the resident louse, is intent on breaking poor Cammie's heart. He also happens to be having an affair with Baba, though Baba is now getting interested in Julio (Eddie Velez), a clerk who wants to design clothes.

Hanging over all of this is Simon's plan to merge Berrenger's with some vaguely mob-related conglomerate. Danny (Jack Scalia) is engineering the deal.

I have the same reaction to "Berrenger's" as I did to "Paper Dolls." I can't say there's anything wrong with it, but there's nothing right with it, either. It's going to take more than just the reliable elements for a new soap to succeed in the current market. It's going to take freshness.

Just How The Oscar Was Named Isn't Known

DEAR DICK — Do you know how the Oscar award for the movies got its name? J.H., Westville, Ind.

The origin of "Oscar," as the nickname for the Academy Award statuette, is in dispute. When it was first designed, it quickly acquired the nickname. Oscar historian Robert Osborne says it was probably named by either Bette Davis, columnist Sidney Skolasky or Margaret Herrick, the Academy's librarian. Most people attribute it to Miss Herrick, who reportedly took one look at it and said, "That looks like my Uncle Oscar." But it cannot be definitely established.

DEAR DICK — I have heard that the late Peter Lawford was a member of Frank Sinatra's Rat Pack. What is the Rat Pack? W.L., Camp Point, Ill.

The Rat Pack was the slightly derogatory slang term applied to Sinatra and his friends (basically it was Lawford, Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jr. and Shirley MacLaine) who blazed a wild and woolly trail across cafe society in the '60s.

DEAR DICK — I've heard a rumor concerning John Wayne, and a friend and I are curious to know if he had a calf's heart or any animal's organ. We've inquired everywhere and no one seems to know, one way or the other. T.M.S., Fort Hood, Texas.

The Duke with a calf's heart? You must be kidding. Maybe a lion's heart, but certainly not a calf's. No, he had no animal organ.

DEAR DICK — I was born in 1955 and I believe I saw this movie before I was 10. It was a World War II movie. A lady needed an operation, but there was no family to sign the forms so her soldier friend married her and he signed them. He goes off to battle and comes back not knowing if she still loves him. When he opens her door he sees his helmet hanging on the bed post where he left it. What is the name of this movie? K.P., Three Rivers, Mich.

The only thing I can think of is that it might have been part of "Darby's Rangers." That was a 1957 movie about a World War II unit and their various romances, starring James Garner, Jack Warden, Edd Byrnes and David Janssen. That might have been the segment involving Edd Byrnes.

DEAR DICK — My mom says Burt Reynolds and Goldie Hawn used to be married to each other. My dad says they never were. There is $10 riding on the answer. S.M., Rogersville, Mo.

Stick with your rich father. They never were.

DEAR DICK — Was there ever a picture named "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" with the name of the same song? And was there ever a movie called "Fisherman Dwarf" with Bobby Breen singing in it? G.O., Lake City, Tenn.

I can't find any record of a "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" movie. The Bobby Breen film was "Fisherman's Wharf" and it was made in 1939.

DEAR DICK — Are Emilio Estevez and Martin Sheen related? I think they look like father and son. S.W., Amarillo, Texas.

They are father and son. Sheen's real name is Ramon Estevez. Some of his sons are using Estevez and some are using Sheen.

DEAR DICK — Can you please tell me what Brian Keith's real name is? He and I were born in the same town and year, with one month difference. It seems to me that I should know him from school. Mrs. N.C.T., Vincentown, N.J.

His real name is Brian Michael Keith. He is the son of actor Robert Lee Keith. So he's always been Brian Keith, even in school.

DEAR DICK: What does the plaque on the wall of the "Cheers" bar say? It says something about a square house. — Mrs. C.W., Taylor, Mo.

It reads, exactly: "This is a square house. Please report any unfairness to the proprietor." (And report any bad jokes to the program director of your local station).

'Nancy Drew' Crusading Against Cocaine With Film

By Vernon Scott

UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Pamela Sue Martin, the one-time dimpled darling of "The Nancy Drew Mysteries" and "Dynasty" TV series, has written and stars in a hard-hitting movie about cocaine.

Martin, now in her early 30s, knows her subject.

She has experimented with potent drugs and has seen enough drug use among friends to last her a lifetime. The destructive powers of drugs convinced her three years ago to write the script for "Torchlight," due for release this month.

"I don't use drugs now, but I've tried them," she said. "I never abused them."

"I am part of the 60s, a generation that separated itself from the status quo, and that meant drug use. But 'Torchlight' isn't about the 60s. It deals with the past decade and the runaway use of cocaine."

"There is an entirely different approach to drugs now. 'Torchlight' doesn't deal with society's dropouts. It's about professional men and women, doctors, lawyers and executives, being introduced to cocaine socially, people who never experimented with drugs in the 60s."

"I've written about it because I've been around coke enough to see what it can do to people. Don't let anyone ever tell you cocaine isn't addictive."

"Torchlight" is set in Los Angeles, not Hollywood. Martin thinks the motion picture-TV business is no more consumed by cocaine than any other community. She says drug use in Hollywood is more publicized than elsewhere because of the notoriety of the users.

Martin plays the wife of an upper middle-class businessman (Steve Railsback) who seems to have the perfect marriage and a bright future until her husband becomes a coke addict and, worse, begins freebasing.

The addiction ruins their personal relationship, destroys his business and eventually ends in catastrophe.

"Coke is a rampant social problem all over the country and that's what I wanted to get across in this picture," Martin said. "This is a tragic contemporary love story."

"I can't honestly say why I chose a drug theme three years ago except I knew a lot of people who had been hurt by cocaine. Freebasing is the darkest side of drug use, the most dangerous (heating cocaine with ether until it becomes sufficiently liquid for injection).

"Freebasing is a relatively new form of coke abuse that becomes even more addictive. As far as I know, no one has made a picture about freebasing."

It was Richard Pryor's alleged attempt at freebasing in his Los Angeles home several years ago that caused an explosion and severely burned the comedian who later used the incident in his comedy act.

Martin's husband, Chilean businessman Manuel Rojas, produced "Torchlight" and enlisted the aid of 800-Cocaine, Narconon, the National Parent Resource Institute for Drug Education and Cocaine Anonymous for expertise on the drug's effects on users.

Martin, who receives associate producer credit, said her picture explores in depth the psychological, physical and emotional degradation that accompanies drug addiction.

"We get into the subtle ways drugs change and distort a person," she said. "We don't go in for those old-fashioned, overdrawn scenes of creatures crawling on the wall and the ravages of withdrawal."

"Reality is much worse and more powerful than those old horror scenes."

"Actually, there's rarely any single big trauma involved with coke use. It's become a very casual social trip for millions of Americans who don't suffer any severe complications. But a good percentage of them end up with serious problems."

Martin says she didn't make the picture with the intention of crusading against cocaine. She is proud, however, that "Torchlight" is a powerful social document with a strong moral.

"If audiences are moved by the picture and become involved with the characters, then it might convince them to stay away from drugs," she said.
