BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

JESUS SAID: And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me.—John 12:32

LOW HIDE, TAMITI

One of those fools am I who like to lie Upon a beach the length of a summer day Hearing the breakers sighing with a sigh So deep it almost bears my heart away And lying here, with only gulls for friends, And every heartbeat throbbing like a rhyme Beneath this stretch of blue that never ends, I tell myself: "I am outside of Time."

Unsafe Auto Drivers

One has only to notice closely the drivers of cars which almost hit you on a Sunday afternoon to understand how badly Florida needs a drivers' license law. One has only to notice the number of wrecks along the highways, to listen to the sirens of the ambulances as they carry wrecked bodies to hospitals, to check up on the statistics of automobile accidents, to know that something ought to be done to increase the safety of the highways.

"In Michigan," according to the Melbourne Times, "the driver of an automobile must take an examination every three years, for that state goes on the quite sensible theory that a driver might acquire a physical or mental disability that would make him an unsafe driver."

"In Michigan, too, if a driver is convicted of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, the court recommends the recall of the driver's license. The Michigan secretary of state can make that revocation of a license permanent, if he thinks it is to the interest of the public to do so. And Michigan has such severe penalties for driving a car without a license, no one but a hardened criminal—some fugitive from the sheriff—will risk it."

Some people are known to have the rather peculiar psychological characteristic of becoming abnormally careless the minute they get behind a steering wheel. They suddenly find themselves in possession of great power to which they are unaccustomed. They have great power for speed, great power for destructive damage, like a drunk man with a loaded revolver.

They suddenly find themselves able to drive others, who perhaps are more powerful physically, completely off the highways, to actually intimidate men before whom they ordinarily quake, to act, in short, like the bull of the walk, when ordinarily they may have even a feeling of inferiority.

So, possessed of this new found power, they proceed to use it. They hog the road, they insist upon the right of way at every intersection, they ignore stop streets, for a few fleeting moments they demonstrate to its full capacity their new found power, and then suddenly they connect with a telephone pole, some innocent bystander, or some unsuspecting driver and ambulance's siren screams again.

Strict license laws would help this situation. Unsafe drivers should be ruled off the highways as surely as lunatics should be locked in asylums. They should not be permitted to take the toll of life which is now theirs.

Anne Lindbergh

The name of Lindbergh is again in the headlines of the newspapers, but this time it is Anne Lindbergh, the wife of Colonel Charles Lindbergh. She has been awarded the Hubbard medal, highest honor of the National Geographical Society for her part in the recent aerial expeditions of her husband. She is the first woman ever to receive the award.

"Our society has watched with special admiration what you, Mrs. Lindbergh, have dared and achieved in the few short years since you made your first flight in Mexico," said Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor in awarding the medal. "By hard, persistent work you mastered the intricate problems of aerial navigation and radio communication from airplanes."

"By venturing as co-pilot and radio operator on long flights across unmarked regions with Colonel Lindbergh," he continued, "you encouraged millions of people to appreciate that air travel can be safe, comfortable and enchanting. You have demonstrated that your distinguished husband is also a peerless teacher of the art."

Presenting her with the medal, he concluded, "In recognition of your courageous and skillful work as co-pilot and radio operator during 40,000 miles over five continents and many seas."

Many girls born to wealth and accustomed to the comforts, luxuries and frivolities of social life as Anne Lindbergh was, would probably have contented themselves with the usual rounds of afternoon teas, bridge parties, and dinner dances. She might have settled down to the complete complacency of reigning dowager of some localized "Four Hundred."

But she had the ambition to do something worthwhile. She had the courage to follow where her husband led, and she had the intelligence to master the technical problems of radio and aviation so that she could be of real assistance to him.

Ample is justly proud of the Lindberghs, the first couple of the air.

(Continued From Page One) he had reached the end of his rope. The Turkish cabinet, sitting at Ankara, the capital, wasted no time in making up its mind to grant a request from Washington for his extradition when word was flashed from Istanbul that the court had found Turkish law would uphold the action.

Insull's last request of the authorities was for permission to send telegrams. This was granted. Authorities ordered him left alone for the night in his hotel room in the "old city" of Istanbul.

Insull himself did not know his own status when he left the court and was taken to the hotel. "What is my legal position?" he asked.

"We cannot tell you anything until tomorrow," officials answered.

Insull had asked to be allowed to return to the Mariotis, but this request was refused.

Wearing a black suit and overcoat in court, Insull appeared very puzzled at the proceedings and strongly protested his forced removal from his chartered ship in the harbor.

He asked for an English copy of the accusations against him, but only a French copy was available. The court interpreter explained that the document was the best he could do, since he knew English imperfectly.

The court proceedings were over in 15 minutes. The scene was a confused one. People gathered around the old man after the session, both congratulating and consoling him.

At his hotel, located near Sublime Porte, he was unable to speak French with the authorities and another interpreter had to be obtained. Insull asked to see the

Ruby Ellen Martin Weds Mr. Neiswander

The wedding of Miss Ruby Ellen Martin, daughter of Mrs. J. C. Hall of this city, to Herbert F. Neiswander, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Neiswander of this city, took place yesterday morning at 9:00 in the First Baptist Church in the presence of a group of P. Breckenridge, pastor of the church, presiding over the ring ceremony.

As the guests entered Miss Mildred Nix, organist, rendered "Trauerzeit," by Schumann after which Mrs. W. E. Bell sang "I Love Thee Truly." Lovegrin's Wedding March was played as the bride party entered the church and a prelude by Chopin was played softly during the ceremony. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was used as a recessional.

The church had been decorated for Easter with quantities of potted palms interspersed with baskets of call lilies, snap dragons, and carnations placed on pedestals and about the choir loft.

The bride had as her attendant, her sister, Miss Lois Martin, bridesmaid, and her niece and namesake, Miss Ruby Lee Anderson, flower girl. Miss Anderson wore a mile green chiffon frock and carried a white basket filled with rose petals. The groom was attended by his brother, J. Harold Neiswander, who served as best man.

As bridesmaid, Miss Martin selected for the occasion a sports dress of pink flat crepe with hat, shoes, gloves, and other accessories in white. She carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas and valley lilies.

The bride's dress was an all white crepe dress worn with a short belted sports coat. Her white straw hat had an off-the-face trim and her shoes and gloves were in white. She carried a shower bouquet of call lilies and valley lilies.

Mrs. Hall attended the wedding wearing a white crepe dress, white cloth coat, and small white turban while the bridegroom's mother appeared in a blue figured flat crepe gown trimmed with plaits of yellow and white crepe. Her hat was of harmonizing shades of yellow and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Neiswander left immediately after the ceremony for Jacksonville and other points in the northern part of the state. They will be at home to their friends after April 1 at their apartment, 315 East Twelfth Street.

The bride has made Sanford her home for a number of years and was graduated from Seminole High School in 1928. She is a member of the club and is cordially invited to attend.

PENNSYLVANIA MOVES TO FORCE NRA COMPLIANCE

State Inspectors Act As Agents, Taking Place Of Boards

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—More than 100 inspectors of the State Department of Labor and Industry have completed their first week as agents for the enforcement of NRA codes.

They will supplement the work of compliance boards and also take up code authorities established in the state to insure compliance with the President's Recovery, Agriculture and Trade Administration codes when are supporting it in 90 percent of industries.

Henry K. Sorenson, Compliance Director for the Eastern half of Pennsylvania, announced yesterday that more than 8000 cases of alleged violations have been investigated and adjudicated since NRA began.

Thousands of letters of thanks have been received from workers whose grievances have been adjusted. Mr. Sorenson said recently. The greatest thing thousands more will be benefited by the new system of investigations.

Inspectors of the State Department have the legal right to inspect, payrolls and make plants to ascertain conditions, questioning employers and workers alike. Quickly and effectively, they can learn about conditions and report to the compliance officials.

If an employer tries to prevent an inspector from obtaining such information, he is informed that refusal to permit access to the facts will be construed as prima facie evidence that he is guilty of violating a code.

There is no lack of proof that NRA enforcement is tightening up.

A check for $19,042 lay on Mr. Sorenson's desk in the Commonwealth Building recently. It had come from an employer whose case of alleged violation had been before the Compliance Board.

"That check represents the amount by which this employer had underpaid 152 men for seventy three months," said Mr. Sorenson. "He finally admitted he was wrong and sent his check. Of course, we shall return it to him and advise him to present the money to his men individually."

"Many of these cases do not get decided right off the bat," he continued. "In some of them both employer and employee are both the wrong and it becomes a tough problem to make the right decision."

There was the man-hater employer who had been paying his managers salary five commissions. "It was a violation of the code and he knew it, but the men were making more money that way than he was making. The poorer ones were making less and one of them complained. He had worked one man ninety hours overtime."

"What should we do? Both were equally guilty, yet technically the owner owed this man for ninety hours overtime. Finally we suggested the figure be cut in half, that he pay forty-five hours overtime. They both protested, but finally agreed to the solution."

Book Tells Of Plot To Kill Lindbergh In 1927

NEW YORK, Apr. 2.—(AP)—A purported plot to cause strained relations between the United States and France by playing Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh at the conclusion of his flight across the Atlantic Ocean, is retold in a book by George Du Parcq, published this week and titled "Crime Reporter."

Du Parcq, a Paris police reporter, writes that the Surete of Paris received a tip the day after Lindbergh landed. The American embassy was overruled he said and a cordon of "Secret Service" men was thrown about the "chickney building."

Two days later the author relates, two men were arrested.

LITTLE AMERICA EXPEDITION CLUB
 "Little America at the South Pole"
 by C. R. Mudge, President

New Word!

IT IS NOW FEBRUARY 26. For ten days the Club has received no direct word from either the Expedition or the Little America. The Expedition is due to return tonight. One of those in the fact that the expedition was changing the radio equipment at Little America and returning the directional antenna so that future messages started and broadcast will come through perfectly. Messages are now being received by Admiral Byrd and the men on the ice but they are unable to send messages out. We should be receiving our stories to another few days after that but they will be sending stuff. There is lots going on down in Antarctica.

Radio Men The last of the supplies has been brought in from the various bases on the ice and the winter quarters are being made as comfortable as possible. Captain Allan "Doc" Taylor, in charge of a staffed by the dog department, set out with three other men for a 200 mile journey back toward Cape Lead to establish a post base as part of the scientific program of the expedition. A treaty which is developing in the ice pack of Little America is causing the Admiral some concern. Dick Hoyt is expected to return with the expedition. When they arrive we hope he will tell us all about that dog sled journey so you may mark it properly on your Club maps.

This delay gives us a chance to tell you about an interesting member of the Club who is not on the Expedition but is a very important member of it. This is Richard C. Hoyt who, with his radio receiving set, constitutes the northern end of the 10,000 mile air line that transmits the stories from President Byrd and Lieut. Comdr. George Norville, who are collaborating in keeping the new 10,000 Club members informed about the expedition. From midnight to 3 a.m. every night, Dick Hoyt is in the radio room of the Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, 35 Broad Street, New York, and receives Byrd's stories, expedition news bulletins, messages to members and all the other "word traffic" which goes on between this scientific Expedition and the outside world. Hoyt is a radio operator, a ham operator, a radio operator, a radio operator, in addition to being an expert radio operator. And what do you think he does on his days off? He is an amateur wireless operator, in his spare time he is a ham operator, in his spare time he is a ham operator, in his spare time he is a ham operator. He can talk to you on the radio, he can talk to you on the radio, he can talk to you on the radio. He can talk to you on the radio, he can talk to you on the radio, he can talk to you on the radio.

New Minimum Price Ruling Is Explained

(Continued From Page One) food and grocery products covered by the code, except as provided in article VII, section 12 of the code, shall not be less than two percent of the invoice or replacement cost, whichever is lower, after deduction of all legitimate trade discounts exclusive of cash discounts for prompt payment of any such product.

The rule governing the retail distribution is as follows: "The allowance for actual wages of store labor which must be included in the selling price of all food and grocery products covered by the code, as provided in article VIII, sections 1 and 2 of the code, shall be not less than six percent of the invoice or replacement cost, whichever is lower, after deduction of all legitimate trade discounts exclusive of cash discounts for prompt payment of any such product."

For purpose of illustration, an article is bought by the wholesaler. It costs him $5 for warehouse. The item is subject to 10 percent trade and two percent cash discount. His cost for the purposes of the law limitation provision is $5 less 10 percent or $4.50. In his sale to the retailer, he must not sell below $4.50 plus two percent as labor mark-up, plus such transportation charges as are now required. Leaving the hauling charges out of this illustration, his minimum net selling price is $4.50 plus two percent, or $4.59. He may not reduce this by offer of a discount for cash or any other allowance.

If the wholesaler's sales policy includes an offer of a discount for cash in 10 days or any other form, he must establish his price far enough above this minimum to permit its deduction to a net price which does not go below the minimum. As an example, the net price being $4.59, the article must be offered at $4.59 less a two percent discount for cash payment which leaves a net price of $4.50.

If the same article costs the retailer $4.50, then, except under conditions as covered in article VIII, sections 1 and 2 of the code, his minimum sale price on that item must not be less than $4.50 plus six percent or $4.87 net.

An establishment in part both as a wholesale and retail distributor, buying at wholesale, warehousing and retailing merchandise, either under the same roof, or in the same establishment or services and or supplied to the retail selling units, stores, stands, wagons or others, this limitation provision must be observed for both wholesale and retail functions in the same manner as in establishments operating independently of each other.

Transportation charges when effective as between wholesaler and retail functions as required by the code in the case where such functions are independent of each other must be added in like manner.

INDICEMENTS LAID AGAINST NEW FIRMS

Shell Oil Company in West Florida. By Jury

SAN FRANCISCO, Apr. 2.—More indictments against oil companies charging violation of anti-trust laws were returned today by a grand jury at Los Angeles. The indictments were returned here by United States Attorney H. H. McPike. The indictments charge that the companies have conspired to fix prices and to discriminate against their competitors. The companies named are the Shell Oil Company and its subsidiary Guaranty Oil Company, and thirteen other companies. The indictments are charged with conspiring to dispose of its gasoline through another company. The Shell Oil Company is accused of selling its products through the Guaranty company in violation of the anti-trust laws. The federal indictments in Los Angeles, said Mr. McPike, are the first since the Supreme Court decision in 1930, holding that the fixing of prices by a group of companies is illegal. The indictments are given wide latitude, not only as to fines, but as to imprisonment.

Sabbath Observance Discussed By Dickson

Declaring that because of the rejection of the Sabbath which Jesus kept Protestantism started upon a decadence from which she has never rallied, Evangelist Louis K. Dickson, noted Bible lecturer of New York City last night delivered a stirring address on the subject. "Why I Observe the Sabbath Jesus Kept, The Seventh Day of the Week, Rather Than Sunday the Day Commanded By Rome," in the Woman's Club Hall of this city. The speaker continued in part, saying: "With the rejection of the true Sabbath of Jehovah there has come a shameful disregard of the law of God, a disregard for the letter of the Word as well as its spirit, a disregard for the creation story, and the virgin birth until today."

A Fashion Show Arranged For You

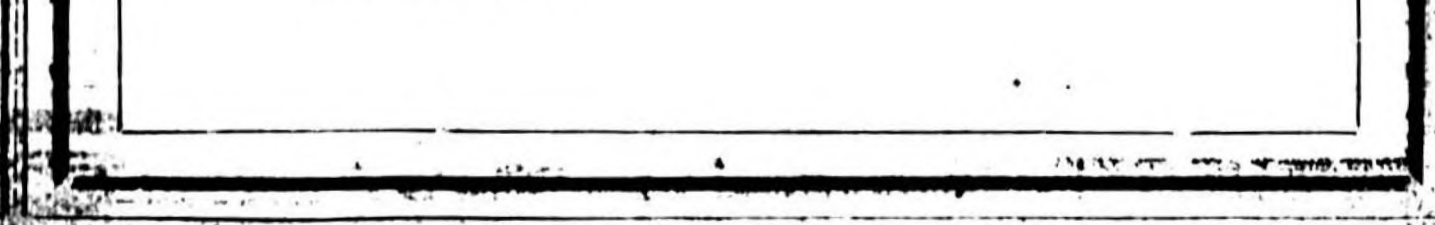

WE MUST be in fashion today.

Fashion reaches even into our thoughts and speech, into our every activity, into almost every incidental of our present-day background. Though elusive and constantly changing, we must be familiar with this force—if we are to hold our places as active members of a modern community.

To speak of young girls as flappers is to date ourselves as immediately post-war. Plush and mohairs would stamp the past on our home furnishings. And antiquated household appliances would continue to submerge us in drudgery distinctly unfashionable.

There is no better parade of fashion than that which is presented to you daily in the pages of this newspaper. Through the advertisements, leading merchants and manufacturers are telling you about fashions in living.

Hats and shoes now being worn, the better kind of household conveniences, the best values in foods, decorations, furnishings—each advertisement contains sincere and truthful news of the latest offerings of the stores. With the advertisements you can keep abreast of the times. You will find that it pays you to read them every day.

244 cars, a loss of nine cars. The average price this week was $2.55, an increase of seven cents.

Tangerines in bushel baskets made a price average of $2.10, an increase of eight cents. Sales were five cars. In half boxes tangerines declined 24 cents this week with sales of three cars.

Both oranges and grapefruit followed the usual price trend during last week—advancing Tuesday from the week's opening averages and declining daily to the bottom average price Friday. An exception was seen in grapefruit which maintained its opening average last week until Thursday. The average was boosted three cents that day but fell six cents the following day. Tangerines too were an exception due to lack of enough stocks to maintain a daily market. Only two auctions were held this week for tangerines in half boxes and only three for tangerines in bushel baskets. This ratio also was maintained last week.

Boston and New York maintained an average of $2.83 for oranges this week, the highest price maintained for the five day period on any of the ten auction markets. Pittsburg and St. Louis maintained the lowest average price of $2.53. Last week's high average price of $2.83 was maintained in New York and last week's low average price of $2.39 was paid at Cincinnati.

For grapefruit a high average price of $2.95 was maintained this week at Detroit. The low price average of $2.34 was paid at Baltimore. Last week's high of $3.65 was paid in Chicago. The low was $2.24, paid at St. Louis.

time and then went to a house where a woman refused to allow the man to enter with her. The woman, Miss Carlisle reported, threatened to shoot the man unless "you carry that girl back where she belongs."

Miss Carlisle said the man then carried her back to the car. She said she did not remember anything else until she regained consciousness and found herself bound and gagged on the college campus.

The girl said she realized the campus was near her home and managed to work the bandage out of her mouth and called for help. Her father and others of the family heard her and with friends sent to her assistance.

She was not missed from the party until about 10 P. M. when some one went to the garage and found her purse and the collar which had been torn off by the kidnaper. A ransom note was found a few minutes later thrust under the front door.

The note read: "You want your girl, eh? Meet me at Railroad on road to Almont. Bring 1000 grand no police at 2 A. M."

It was promptly written on a typewriter. The girl's father then took steps to raise the money demanded. He agreed to police to be notified on condition that they would not interfere with negotiations between him and the kidnaper.

When the girl was found about the hour set in the note for payment of the ransom, police were given the case.

Whatever evolution may bring about with respect to the National Recovery Act, one thing is absolutely certain—its labor provisions, contained in section 7A, must be clarified or there is certainty of industrial strife, the sequel of which this country has not yet seen, and just at a time when there is a foundation for hope of recovery from the economic depression.

Every uneducated person should be in favor, from a social and economic standpoint, of a minimum wage, of the elimination of child labor, of a gradual shortening of the hours of labor. Unfortunately behind all this, as the result of an interpretation which attempts to carry the weight of an act of law, appears to be the hopelessness of the greatest monopoly that ever existed in any country in the world—the closed shop.

These conditions arise and must be met by those having the responsibility involved. The hope of the history of industries in America, stimulated by the closed shop, justify a decision in its favor.

Touhy Gangster Tells Of Robbery To Court

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Apr. 3.—(AP)—Isaac Costner, Touhy gangster, told Judge Webb in federal district court here yesterday that Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general, promised he would testify for the state if I would testify for the state of Illinois in the Jake Factor kidnaping case. Costner's statement was made as his counsel sought to prevent introduction in evidence of his purported confessions to participation in a $105,000 mail truck robbery here Nov. 15. Finding government and Illinois officials had not kept promises he claims he made to intercede for him on the robbery charge in return for his testimony that convicted Basil Banghart and others in the Factor case, Costner decided not to throw himself on the mercy of the court and entered a plea of not guilty.

Claude Pepper Indicts Park Trammell In Political Address Here Last Night

The inefficiency of Park Trammell was the theme of a political address, the first of the new session delivered to a small audience at Magnolia Avenue and First Street last night by Claude Pepper of Tallahassee, lawyer and former member of the state legislature. He stated his case for the United States Senate seat now held by Mr. Trammell. Introduced by Fred B. Wilson, Mr. Pepper devoted a major portion of his talk to what he said, in referring to Mr. Trammell's record of service, was a "deplorable" record. He pointed out particularly that Mr. Trammell had drawn a salary of $250,000 during his long political life, and that he spent during the time did not warrant a continuation of this expenditure. Mr. Pepper stated that Senator Trammell's influence might be used to benefit the interests of...

PUPILS BEING EXPLOITED IT IS CHARGED

Children Being Used To Perpetuate Power Of Politicians, Says Miami Lawyer
TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 3.—(AP)—The charge that "innocent children are being used to perpetuate the power of politicians" in the Dade county (Miami) school system, was made yesterday to Governor Sholtz by Herbert U. Fiebelman, Miami attorney. The Governor said he would make an investigation of the conditions which Fiebelman claimed existed in the public Fiebelman's letter written under date of Mar. 31. "School authorities, particularly in Dade county," Fiebelman wrote, "are taking advantage of their positions to exploit the schools for political purposes. My children, in the grade schools, have been urged by the teachers to buy certain newspapers, reporting to speak the voice of the school teacher. They have been handed the paper and told to pay five cents for it, or return it. Instances are where children have been urged to take several copies and bring the paper home to their parents. Poor children, who can ill afford to spend the money, are made to feel that they must buy this paper, which is nothing more than specious propaganda to further political purposes. Innocent children are being used to perpetuate the power of politicians. I think the whole mess needs investigation. I have only yesterday written a protest to H. H. Filer (chairman of the Dade county School Board) and to Charles M. Fisher, the superintendent of our schools, whose picture appears on the front page of the last issue of the Dade County Teacher, the newspaper to which I refer. I propose to carry the fight further and I believe that it needs your help."

Palatka Youth Killed In Wreck Early Sunday

PALATKA, Apr. 3.—Shered Keene, 24, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Keene, of this city was fatally injured early yesterday morning about three miles this side of St. Augustine, when he lost control of an automobile he was driving, which turned over several times. Wayne Walton, who was riding with Keene, was thrown from the car as was Keene. Walton was not seriously injured. Keene was rushed to a hospital in St. Augustine, where he died within an hour without regaining consciousness. J. T. Campbell and James Keene, a brother of Shered Keene were in a car behind the latter's automobile when it overturned. They stated that Keene, who came upon a car either without a tail light or parked on the highway without lights, suddenly in a heavy fog, after attempting to pass the car pulled back upon the road too quickly and lost control.

Murderous Gang Held Responsible For Crime

BREMERTON, Wash., Apr. 3.—(AP)—A murderous gang operating like pirates of old was believed by police yesterday to have slain the six persons whose bodies were found Saturday night in the pretentious Bremerton beach home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fisher. Other possibilities were being considered by officers here, but they centered their efforts toward picking up the trail of a bloodthirsty "pirate" gang. Police believed that the sparrows settled beach area five miles from here had been victimized numerous times lately by a mob operating with a speedboat and stealing up to the summer colony under cover of darkness. The slaying, however, had a long jump on the police. Evidence uncovered by the widely dispersed scene indicated the slaying may have taken place as early as last Wednesday.

Sanford Woman's Club Will Celebrate 21st Anniversary Of Organization Wednesday

By MRS. HENRY WIGGINS
On Wednesday, Apr. 4, the Woman's Club of Sanford will celebrate its coming of age. Through the press, and through special invitations, a strong call has been issued to all charter members to assemble at the club house for a happy home-coming. For twenty-one years, the Woman's Club has carried on an earnest unselfish work for Sanford. It is a common meeting ground for young and old, for the newcomer seeking congenial social contact, as well as a place of recreation and refreshment for the long time resident. There is neither sectionalism nor sectarianism in its membership. Its hospitality is broad, its standards high, and through its years of affiliation with State and General Federations its tendencies have always been progressive. The handsome club building has been a center for the artistic life of the community. Many fine musicians and dancers have appeared on its platform leading in impetus and inspiration to the club's consistently maintaining a high standard of expression of music, literature, and drama. Public exhibitions of paintings and other art objects have been held in the club's walls from time to time. The laughter and joy of Sanford (Continued On Page Four)

RATE CUTTING BY TRAINS, BUSES IN SOUTH IS HALTED

Lines Have Agreed To Stop Price War By Using NRA Plan
WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—Railroads and bus lines in southeast territory, under NRA supplies, have agreed to end rate cutting, with a (one) two cent a mile rate on trains, and one-eighth cent for road trips, and no excursion or special rates. On bus lines up to 175 miles the rate would be about the same as rail rates, with a cut under the rail rate for longer trips. The agreement, announced last night by Hugh S. Johnson, and indicating the start of a nationwide effort to halt rail and highway warfare, still is subject to approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the railroad's part and to modification of the NRA rule for the motor bus industry. If approved, its competitive passenger fares will go into force on or before June 1. A marked increase in rail rates (Continued On Page Three)

Former New York Sheriff, Removed In 1932, Is Dead

NEW YORK, Apr. 3.—(AP)—Former sheriff Thomas M. Farley, who furnished the nation with the "tin box" episode of the 1932 Seabury prosecution of the city graft inquiry, died today at the Fifth Avenue Hospital. He was operated on three weeks ago for appendicitis and his condition became critical yesterday. A Tammany politician of the old school for years, Farley was the benevolent overlord of the old Yorkville section of the city. He was removed from office by then governor Franklin Roosevelt when he was unable to explain satisfactorily the possession of more than $350,000 in excess of his salary earnings.

Mason Becomes Florida Manager For Burpee Seed Firm Of Philadelphia

Russell Mason, vice president and manager of the Florida branch of the Francis C. Stokes and Co., Inc., seed store for the past eight years, and J. J. Rocco, salesman for over six years, have resigned their affiliations, effective Sunday, for the purpose of associating with the W. Atlas Burpee Co., of Philadelphia, one of the nation's largest seed firms. Mr. Mason will become Florida manager for a firm which will locate its first branch at Sanford early in July. The branch will serve south Georgia, Florida, and the West Indies, and it marks the first time since the Burpee firm was organized over 50 years ago, that it has branched away from its Philadelphia office. In an announcement Francis C. Stokes, president of the Stokes firm, stated today that Edward S. McCall, local man who has been with the firm for several years, has been promoted to Sanford manager, succeeding Mr. Mason. "In making the announcement of Mr. Mason's resignation," Mr. Stokes stated, "we wish publicly to acknowledge our deep appreciation of his rare character of his eight years' untiring service in the interests of our company. We are proud for Mr. McCall the confidence and good-will of the community." Mr. Mason stated today that the Burpee firm chose Sanford as its Southern distributing point because it offered advantages superior to any in this state. He indicated that the firm would open a large and completely stocked warehouse at the opening of the new season, or about July 1, and that a full line of Florida flower and vegetable seed would be available for the wholesale trade at all times. Mr. Mason and Mr. Rocco will spend the few months contacting the trade in Georgia, Florida, and the West Indies. Both are widely known in the seed profession, both in the United States, Cuba, and other West Indian islands.

DEPRESSION DECLARED DEFEATED

Taylor, Sloan Picture Nation In Threes Of Business In General
NEW YORK, Apr. 3.—(AP)—The conviction that the country is definitely emerging from the depression was spread upon the record yesterday by heads of two of the country's most powerful financial agencies. Mr. C. Taylor, chairman of the U. S. States Steel Corporation, told stockholders meeting in Hoboken that revival was no longer a matter of question, but a matter of fact. Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors Corporation, while critical of some parts of the recovery program, said in his annual report to the stockholders that "industrial recovery is under way with the irresistible force." Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, pointed to the new definite expectation that the RFC will run $500,000,000 under budget estimates for the fiscal year ending in June, as clear evidence of better conditions. Jones said that bankers are now trying to make loans that money can be borrowed through normal channels more easily, and that demand for government support is less than anticipated. He said he looked for further business pick up after Congress adjourns. The statements of these three chief executives of business and finance were viewed in Wall Street as distinctly significant at this time, inasmuch as April is often the month in which the peak of the spring business upturn is reached. As a matter of fact, business observers have wondered whether the recent slackening in steel production may not have indicated that the spring peak has been reached. The American Iron and Steel Institute today estimated steel output at 433 per cent of capacity, a decline of 2.4 percentage points from a week ago. But business does not always follow the seasonal pattern, and its readers are counting heavily upon the renewed disposition of banks to lend to bring the long sought expansion of credit in coming months, thus tending to keep recovery in motion, and mitigate the usual industrial lull between winter and mid-summer.

NORRIS ASSAILS ACTIVITIES OF POWER TRUSTS

Senator Asks Whether Key Utility Men Are Not In U.S. Congress
WASHINGTON, Apr. 3.—(AP)—Discussing the Thayer revelations, Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, asked in the Senate yesterday "how many other key men does the power trust have in the New York legislature and other legislatures all over the United States?" He said the disclosure before the trade commission that Warren T. Thayer, New York state senator, had received compensation from the Associated Gas & Electric Company had caused him to speculate "if the people are wondering whether some of their key men in the United States." "There is not a state capital in the country," Norris said, "where the same sort of tactics is not used either by the Associated Gas & Electric Company or some other great member of the power trust." At the same time, letters were introduced at the trade commission's investigation which purported to show the Edison Electric Institute had cooperated last year with propaganda activities of the Associated Gas & Electric company against municipal ownership. The Edison Electric Institute is a successor to the National Electric Light Association which was disbanded after a commission inquiry into its propaganda efforts. With the letters yesterday were introduced memoranda centering about the appointment of Associate...

76 Percent Of Shippers Have Signed Pact; Committee Set Up

Florida's celery industry should be under the supervision of a control committee of seven shippers and seven growers within the next few days. This was the message brought back to Sanford late last night by a delegation of local growers and shippers who had an organizational meeting of the temporary control committee at a meeting held at Hotel Thelma in Oakland. Aside from the election of officers and discussion of the rules and regulations, the highlight of the meeting was the announcement that 76 percent of the shippers had either signed the agreement or had indicated that they will sign. Under terms of the agreement, it would be approved by Secretary Wallace if and when shippers who handled not less than 75 percent of the total shipments of the 1933 season had signed. It also was disclosed that a large majority of the state's celery growers had signed a petition calling upon Secretary Wallace to sign the agreement if the shippers signed it. It was pointed out that of the 304 known celery growers in Florida, 205 had signed the petition, and only 20 had refused to sign. The remainder either were indifferent, were unable to sign for obvious reasons, or could not be reached by the small committee which set out to gather signatures as quickly as possible. W. G. Meal, senior marketing specialist of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, one of the several speakers, paid high compliment to the work of the committee which fostered the agreement. He declared that the method of production that is proposed under the terms of the agreement, that of producing the supply and not the number of crates sent to each market was "good." Mr. Meal left for Washington shortly after the meeting, carrying with him agreements that had been signed by various shippers. Loring H. H. Bradenton, was elected as the temporary and permanent chairman of the control committee, with R. H. Chapman of Sanford as vice-chairman, and W. (Continued On Page Four)
