Cleanup too successful; solution sought

By Wayne Mize
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Goldshoro neighborhood cleanup project began in earnest Saturday, April 9. The planned one-day cleanup of trash and refuse was going so well that the city's refuse department continued pickups well into this week.

Then a snag developed: the proverbial Catch-22.

The residents wanted to clean up their yards, a neat neighborhood, but could not afford the pickup costs after the initial free-of-charge pickup that was provided by the city.

"It was mainly a misunderstanding between me and city personnel," said cleanup organizer Eddie Martin, a Goldshoro property owner. "I was saying, 'Let's have a great cleanup with no charge.' I felt getting the trash out of there first was the big thing."

Part of the problem stemmed from several residents being cited for unsightly refuse and garbage in their yards. After the one free pickup, several residents could not pay for the remaining trash to be picked up. Consequently, it remains at or near streets and alleyways.

Most of this is heavy refuse, such as refrigerators, stoves and freezers, according to Martin.

"There is alot of heavy trash in the area," said Martin.

After the initial free pickup, the cost of removing refuse is determined by cubic yards. Three cubic yards or less (1/4 truckload) is $15, from 3 1/2 cubic yards to six cubic yards (1/2 truck load) is $30. A full truckload of 12 cubic yards costs $60.

Appliances, such as refrigerators, stoves and freezers are $5 each.

Martin will meet with Community Development Director Richard Woods this afternoon in the hopes of working out a compromise for some of the residents.

"I say let's get the trash out and when the city comes back through and cites people then let's make them pay. The main thing is getting the trash out

You have to show people that you care," Martin said.

Both Woods and Martin expressed confidence that an agreement can be worked out.

"I believe so," said Martin.

"The leadership of Sanford seems to show that they want to help that area. I'm praying and hoping that it is not a false promise."

Despite the snag, the cleanup has been successful.

"It was the first major effort of an organized cleanup," said City

Lake Mary buys land for city hall

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — City officials were to sign the final papers this morning to acquire the site where the new city hall will be constructed within the next two years. City commissioners Thursday night approved appropriating $54,700 from its public projects fund to pay for moving city offices into temporary quarters at Shoppes of Lake Mary until the new city hall is complete.

The city is purchasing eight lots from Harriett Nixon, 143 Lakeview Drive, for the site of the future city hall. Purchase price is $159,516.31. Commissioners adopted an ordinance on second reading at the meeting authorizing purchase of the property. The closing on the Nixon property was scheduled for 11 a.m. at city hall.

New buildings

Property purchase:

- Final purchase on the property on Lakeview Drive for $159,516 for the site for city hall was at 11 a.m.

Temporary quarters:

- Another $54,700 was appropriated to move city offices to temporary quarters in the Shoppes of Lake Mary until the new city hall is built.

Public Works:

- A proposed $86,450 architectural fee for the planned public safety complex on Rinehart Road was referred to a committee for a recommendation on whether to accept it.

Single-member districts advocated for commissioners

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County voters may be able to vote on whether county commissioners will be elected from single-member districts in the future.

A group has been formed to gather enough signatures on a petition to put the issue before the voters in a referendum.

James Sweeting, a Sanford attorney, is chairman of the group, which planned to file a statement of organization this afternoon with Sandra Goard county commissioner of elections.

The five county commissioners are now each required to live in the district they are elected to represent, but they are elected at large, with all voters in the county are eligible to vote for all five commissioners.

Under a single-member district system voters in each district would be eligible to vote for only candidates for commissioner from that district, and each district would elect one commissioner.

New finance director expected to start May 2

LAKE MARY — City officials intend to hire a new finance director by May 2.

Elizabeth Ashley Heckel of Orange City, was offered the job at the city commission meeting Thursday night. Commissioners vote to send her a letter offering her the job.

Police Chief Charles W. Landerdale, who is acting staff coordinator, said he is sure Heckel will accept the position since all her stipulations were met. She could not be reached for comment today.

Heckel has 10 years of experience in financial administration of those 10 years, five were spent in government positions at Holly Hill and Daytona Beach Shores.

She is married to Robert Heckel, director of development for the Central Florida Zoological Park, and noted in her application that the couple plans to relocate to Seminole county.

Landerdale said Heckel told the interview committee she would accept the position on three conditions. The commission agreed last night without hesitation to meet those conditions. They are:

- That her salary be comparable to what she received in her last position. From March 1983 to August 1987 Heckel served as administrative assistant to the president of Georgia College, Milledgeville, Ga., and received a salary of $25,000. She left that position due to her marriage to Robert Heckel. Lake Mary is offering her an annual salary of $26,000.

Sanford P&Z to consider outside display rules

SANFORD — Automobile dealerships and other businesses which display wares along Highway 17-92 in Sanford are the target of tightened regulations being considered by the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission.

The commission intended to discuss the proposal at a workshop proceeding Thursday night's meeting, but didn't get to it. However, commissioner Jay Malone brought it up at the end of the regular meeting.

It is appropriate that we talked about display earlier," he said. Automobile alley (U.S. Highway 17-92) is busting at the seams. They now and used car dealers, car rentals, etc., are slowly but surely encroaching on 17-92. They are parking on right of ways in front of hedges. Let's get them back where they belong."

Malone's reference to display was clear. The P&Z

Commission will discuss several proposed regulations, in particular the display of all vehicles and equipment intended for lease, rental or sale, at its next workshop meeting, May 5.

The proposed regulation concerning the outdoor display of vehicles, would require displayed vehicles be set back at least 25 feet along all right of way lines and at least 10 feet from all parallel lines.

In addition the proposed regulation would require a precast concrete curb or similar barrier with P&Z approval to be placed between the outdoor display and the required setback distance. Also, no outdoor display would be permitted within any required buffer.

The commission had intended to discuss the proposal during the 6 p.m. workshop which preceded the regular meeting. However, a lengthy discussion on proposed land use permits prohibited the commission from discussing other workshop agenda items.

Among other items during the regular meeting were:

- Approval of a change of zoning for commercial use of land owned by the Seminole County School Board.

The property, located south of Seminole Centre and east of Gregory Mobile Home, is owned by

Utility sued over loss of service

SANFORD — Anil Valbh has filed a complaint in Seminole County Circuit court against Central V Utilities of Winter Park, asking that the firm be forced to provide 13,800 gallons of sewer capacity daily to a hotel he owns.

Valbh's suit states he and Central V Utilities entered into an agreement Feb. 19, 1988 calling for the defendant to supply the sewer capacity. The complaint states that since 1981 the defendant has been authorized to accept contracts and under the terms of that authorization Valbh paid $105,984 for sewer capacity and fees.

The complaint further states that on or about March 2, 1988 a letter was sent to the plaintiff by the Seminole County Environmental Services Division, informing him that his request for sewer service had been denied due to the capacity at the Iron Bridge facility being depleted. A check for $96,324, written by Central V to Seminole County was enclosed in the letter, according to the complaint.

The plaintiff stated in the complaint that he was not aware of the actions of the company, or that the capacity was unavailable, because he was out of the country until April 12. He charges Central V with breach of contract and with fraud, and asks the court to force the defendant to supply the sewer capacity to a 75-room hotel Valbh owns on U.S. Highway 17-92.

Court overturns Longwood annexation

SANFORD — Longwood's annexation of property on Highway 427 north of Longwood Hills Road last September has been overruled by Seminole Circuit Court Judge S. Joseph Davis.

Seminole County challenged the annexation and a hearing on the case was held in January. Judge Davis ruled that the description of the property which appeared in a legal advertisement of the annexation was not the proper description and differed from the description of the property actually annexed. The judge also ruled that the annexation created "enclaves and pockets" of land under county jurisdiction.

Lonnie Groot, assistant county attorney who argued the county's case last January, had told the judge that the legal ad required to be published before the annexation ordinance came up for approval, did not adequately inform the public of where the property is. He said the map published in the ad did not show Duck Lake, which the property is adjacent to.

Groot also argued that the property was separated from the rest of the city by Duck Lake. However, Longwood City Attorney Michael Kramer argued that Duck Lake is not really a lake at all, and is within the city limits.

Florida prison escapee shot

BOONVILLE, Mo. (UPI) — A man who crashed into a city police car and was later shot to death by a state trooper was identified Thursday as a fugitive from a Florida prison, a highway patrol spokesman said.

Eddie Staub, also known as Steven Edward Dallett, 25, of Fort Myers, was shot to death by trooper Tim Selvey Tuesday afternoon after he pointed an automatic pistol at a Boonville police officer.

It took authorities over 24 hours to identify Staub, who carried no identification. Staub was the subject of an investigation by the Marion County Ga., Task Force, and was identified by use of fingerprints and descriptive records provided by the Marion County sheriff's office.

Staub had several felony warrants pending in Florida, including escape from a Fort Myers correctional facility, burglary, illegal possession of a firearm and aggravated assault. Staub had past convictions of burglary and larceny, McCutchen said.

The incident began about 4:55 p.m. Tuesday on Interstate 70 east of Boonville, McCutchen said. Boonville is in central Missouri, about 90 miles east of Kansas City.

A state trooper conducted a routine license plate check of a 1986 Chevrolet Camaro that was westbound on the interstate.

McCutchen said. The trooper was informed the license plate had been reported stolen April 16 from Brunswick, Ga.

A high-speed chase ensued in which Staub ran his car into a Boonville police car.

The driver jumped from the car and fled on foot, pursued by three state troopers and at least one city police officer, McCutchen said. He ran between two houses in the downtown area, where he was confronted by the officers.

The man, who had been carrying an automatic pistol, pointed the weapon on one of the troopers, who dived for cover, McCutchen said. The other officers ordered the suspect to drop the gun and surrender.

A city police officer then approached the man from behind, McCutchen said. The suspect turned and pointed the pistol at the approaching officer, police said.

Selvey fired one shot with a shotgun, fatally wounding the suspect, McCutchen said. No other shots were fired by the suspect or the officers, authorities said.

Sweeting said in the past he has asked the county commission to consider changing from at-large to single-member elections for commissioners, but the commissioners never seriously considered it.

He said the filing of the statement of organization is the first official act of the organization, whose goal is "to bring equal, adequate and effective representation, at the county commission level, to Seminole County voters..."

The organization has a goal of collecting the signatures of at least 9,600 registered voters through a county-wide petition drive.

Sweeting said although 9,600 verified signatures is all that is required to require a referendum, the group hopes to collect 12,000 or more signatures to make sure that at least 9,600 can be verified as currently registered voters.

If the required number of signatures can be collected 30 days before the September primary election, the proposition could be placed on the primary ballot. Otherwise, the group hopes to collect the signatures in time to place the referendum on the November general election ballot.

Manager Frank A. Faison. "Here's a neighborhood that said 'Let's have an organized cleanup.'"

"We are making progress," said Martin. "But, we still have a long way to go."

According to Woods, the Goldboro neighborhood has traditionally been defined as being bordered by French Avenue to the east, the city limits to the north, Seaboard Coast Railroad tracks to the west, and 20th Street to the south.

Schedules set for parenting classes

By Nancy Simmons Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Whether you are a new parent who wants to learn more about parenting, or a parent who wants to improve communication with your teenager, you may want to take any of several classes being offered jointly in May and June by the Parent Resource Center and Seminole community college.

The purpose of the classes is to teach parents of children in any age group to communicate better with their children, and to improve general parenting skills, according to Sally Schaber, Seminole branch manager for the Parent Resource Center. The courses offered will be for parents of different age children, from pre-school through teens, and will also cover topics such as step-families.

The classes are offered as a positive endeavor to help strengthen families, Schaber said. The Parent Resource Center operates in Orange and Seminole counties and the classes have been offered in Seminole county for two years, she said.

The classes, their times and locations are as follows.

- Effective Parenting, Tuskawilla Presbyterian church, 3600 W. State Road 426, Oviedo, 7-9 p.m., Thursdays, from May 19 to June 23.
- Effective Parenting of School Age Children, Castle Brewer Housing Project, Bldg. 94, Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, 7-9 p.m., Thursdays, from May 12 to June 16.
- A final class to be offered, the Parent-Child Co-op Preschool, is an endeavor in which "children participate in a stimulating learning environment while parents learn effective parenting tips and the developmental needs of this age group," according to Schaber. The course will be at the Child Development/Parent Education Center at Seminole Community College, Bldg. 99. It will be offered May 2 through June 2, between 9 a.m. and noon, Monday through Thursday mornings, for those parents who have children between the ages of 2 1/2 and five.
- Another class will be held from noon to 2:30 p.m. on the same dates and days, for those parents how have children between the ages of three and five.

built on 10 acres of city property about one-fourth mile north of Lake Mary Boulevard on the east side of Rinehart Road.

Ed Spelman of Catiylst, Inc., the architectural firm the city has been dealing with, gave the commission a figure of $86,450 for architectural fees. Larry Dale, a member of the citizen's committee, said although the committee has no particular figure in mind for the architectural fees that figure was above what he had expected.

Commissioner Tom Mahoney suggested that the committee meet with Catiylst and decide on one of three alternatives: "You can decide to accept the proposal, as it is, you can modify it, or you can recommend we open it up for other bids," he said.

The other commissioners agreed and voted to remand the proposed architectural fees back to the committee. Dale said the committee would try to bring its recommendation to the next meeting.

ball hard all day, then smashed a grounder toward right field but Millwood came up with a nice play to field the grounder and tossed to Monico for the force at second to end the inning.

In the bottom of the seventh, Leale Barton led off with a base hit and alertly took second base when the ball bounced off Peters in left field. With one out, Lisa Boatwright hit a hard shot past Leiffer at shortstop that drove in Barton with the tying run.

Monico then hit into a force play with Boatwright out at second. The relay throw to first was wild and Monico went for second. Lake Mary had plenty of time to get Monico, but the throw was low and she was safe. York then stepped up and Lake Mary had its outfield playing deep. York, who now has four doubles on the season, still hit the ball over Peters' head and Monico rambled home with the winning run.

"It was kind of an ugly win but we'll take it," Luciano said. "We're hurting right now with some key injuries and we'll have to regroup for districts."

Speech therapy often valuable in recovery

DEAR DR. GOTT: You had a letter from the son of a man who had suffered a stroke and was having trouble swallowing. As a speech/language pathologist, I wish you had recommended speech therapy for this gentleman. A swallowing problem can be dangerous. One should seek the clinical expertise of a speech/language pathologist who is trained in the function of the oral musculature.

DEAR READER: Thank you for reminding me of the valuable services offered by speech therapists. Indeed, a speech/language pathologist is an important member of the stroke-rehabilitation team. I must admit that I (perhaps incorrectly) assumed that the man in question had speech therapy as part of his recovery.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My sister got tired, had sore legs for a few days and then got a swelling. She laid pieces of bacon on it, like a poultice. After a few days, there was a little something hard showing. The doctor came over (they still make house calls in Europe, where she lives) and pulled out a needle. My sister has no idea how it got in her leg or when. My mother always said that needles can "migrate" in the body. Can you shed some light on this mystery?

DEAR READER: There are reported cases of needles migrating from one part of the body to another; so do bullets and other fragments of foreign material. Many of these cases are medical curiosities. However, metal objects do move within the body, and doctors must keep this in mind.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A blood clot closed the large vein in one leg years ago. I have had bouts of ulcerations on my foot, but they would eventually heal with rest and treatment. However, for more than a year I have not been able to heal my foot. My doctors shake their heads in frustration. I'm becoming an invalid, and I don't like it.

DEAR READER: You seem to be describing a varicose ulcer, the persistent skin sore that can develop as a consequence of poor circulation from varicose veins. For most patients, these ulcers can be healed by a combination of leg elevation, elastic stockings, an Unna's paste boot (gelatin, glycerin and zinc oxide wrapped with a bandage), antibiotic cream and patience. Sometimes, however, vein-stripping and skin grafts are required in difficult cases. Ask for a referral to a vascular surgeon.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Here is an unusual deal defended by Paul Soloway, West, and Ron Andersen, East. The event was the Proton International Intercity Tournament, played in Taipei last February. Although the one-spade overall was not classic, it is common these days for experts to overcall with a strong four-card suit at the one-level. (It's hard to be doubled so low, and easier to get a bid in immediately at the one-level than later at a higher level.) The three-spade bid by Andersen was a preemptive jump raise.

All of this forced South into an unusual action — a risky four-heart call. But this daring move would have been successful except for precise defense. When the spade king was led, East signaled with the 10, but not as a come-on. Since his jump in spades promised length, the play of the 10 now was suit preference, letting partner know that he had values in diamonds. Soloway dutifully switched to the seven of diamonds. Declarer played low from dummy, won East's jack with his king, played to dummy's heart ace and back to his club king. Then came the eight of hearts.

If Soloway tamely played low as second hand, school would be out. East would win the queen, but could not safely attack diamonds. Soloway correctly deduced that the contract was not to be defeated unless his partner held the heart queen trumped. So he rose with the trump king and led another diamond. With that defense, declarer had to lose a diamond trick and his contract. (And yes, there are better contracts for North-South to be in.)

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...
By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
APRIL 23, 1988
Your leadership qualities will be more pronounced in the year ahead. Advancement in your chosen field of endeavor is likely. You may even strike out on your own as an entrepreneur.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Unless you are certain you will be able to complete it, it's best not to undertake a tedious household project today. It could end up being an unfinished eyesore. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Treat serious matters with the respect they deserve today, but don't waste your emotional energies worrying about things that may never happen.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today, you may have to deal with someone who has a habit of promising more than he or she can deliver. Keep your expectations within reasonable bounds.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be exceptionally careful about how you deal with others today. If you're too thoughtless or arrogant, it will lessen the respect that someone you like now feels for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Select your topics of conversations wisely today. If you don't, you may unwittingly dredge up an old, unpleasant issue that could be very disturbing to a friend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's best to keep your thoughts to yourself today. Don't offer suggestions to a friend as to how he/she should handle a problem you couldn't solve yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You might not be a good team player today. Avoid getting into arrangements where you must rely on a partner, or where he/she has to depend on you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.

21) Unless you show proper gratitude towards someone who goes out of his or her way to help you today, this person isn't likely to be available in the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Sidestep a risky enterprise today where someone else is calling all the shots. If you can't be captain of your own ship, pass the action.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Outsiders are likely to find you a delightful person to be around today, but you might not get the same glowing reviews if your mate is questioned.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Issuing directives to others will come easily for you today. However, if you want your edicts followed, you'd better be sure you set the proper example.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your extravagant impulses will be vying for expression today, so keep this in mind when you're out shopping. Remember: What you charge now must be paid for later.

GARDENING

Raised beds mean close-cropped gardens

By Mary Fear
Special to the Herald
For several years, gardeners have been hearing about various methods of growing vegetables and flowers in small beds rather than in large areas. I first came upon this theory when I was given a copy of How to Grow More Vegetables Than You Ever Thought Possible on Less Land Than You Can Imagine, by John Jeavons and published in 1974. Since that time, many articles and books dealing with variations of this method have appeared. Here are my experiences with one variation.

We first laid out beds 30 feet long and 3 feet wide, with paths 2 feet wide between them. We then edged the beds with cypress logs as long as our supply lasted.

After that I prepared my beds in the usual way and started planting. To keep down the weeds, the paths were mulched with several layers of newspaper or flattened cardboard boxes. It is probably better not to use colored pages or slick magazine pages, as they may contain lead.

After a couple of years, I found that under the newspapers, the earthworms had been hard at work, and there were a couple of inches of good-looking soil. Also, the ratio of 3-to-2 of gardens to path was wasteful, so I raked up the newspapers that had pretty well disintegrated and shoveled the first inch or two of soil onto the bed. At the same time, I increased the size of the beds and narrowed the paths. Newspapers are 14 inches wide, so this makes a handy width for paths.

As compost and mulch were added to the beds, they were further raised and, at this time, are 8 to 10 inches above the paths. This makes working in them much easier.

For me, the advantages of raised beds are many. No one is allowed to walk on the beds, and no heavy equipment is ever used. This makes the soil so loose and friable that weeds come out easily and the plants get a good supply of oxygen. Compost and other natural fertilizers are used only where plants are to grow and not on the areas used for paths.

Pieces of plastic hose were cut to length, and small sprinkler heads were installed at 8-inch intervals, making it possible to water just the bed or beds in use at any time. One hour or one-and-a-half hours is time enough to clean out a bed, give it a good layer of compost and replant it. Some beds can be planted with perennials, such as blackberries, while others may be devoted to flowers for cutting.

If one keeps good records, it is easy to plan a good rotation. I had four separate gardens of eight beds each, two in full sun for winter crops and two with some shade for summer.

Plants can be much closer together than is usually the case, by using raised beds, there always seems to be a space where one can tuck in a few plants in a bed primarily devoted to another crop. For instance, where a few strawberry plants didn't make it, one may plant some lettuce. Or lettuce might be planted with broccoli—the larger plants providing shade for the lettuce. Sugar snap peas growing on a netting in the middle of a bed leave lots of room for a row of carrots on each side.

For the first time this year, I am experimenting with using 4-millimeter black plastic to cover beds not in use after they are cleaned out. This meant that when I got ready to plant again, there was less preparation required.

Two sections of the garden still are treated in the conventional way. Corn grown in raised beds has not been successful for me, and so I plant it in blocks. Also, the tomato cages do better on the level, and a permanent fence supports bean poles and other climbing crops.

So for me, raised beds are a joy. I would not want to go back to gardening the way I once did. However, if you are the kind of person who likes to get out the rototiller on a certain Saturday in October or February, and gaze upon a newly tilled expanse, this method is not for you. And you will probably have a much tidier-looking garden than mine. But if you garden all year long with certain crops in the spring and others in the summer, fall and winter, then try the raised bed method. You might just like it.

Bisexuals' lies endanger heterosexuals

DEAR ABBY: You stated that the most surprising revelation in your fidelity survey was "the number of bisexual males that surfaced."

Yes, there are apparently a large number of males who practice bisexuality. In fact, a recent segment of Gary Collins' "Hour Magazine" TV show reported a figure of 20 percent to 60 percent. In this age of AIDS, the implications are frightening.

Bisexual men are not easily identified, and most are not honest about their sexuality with the women in their lives. Having unwittingly had a relationship with a bisexual man myself, I can vouch for that first hand. While the bisexual man in my life appeared "straight" and acted very devoted and loving, he was actually hiding from me an ongoing involvement with men.

Please, Abby, try to educate women. The perpetuation of deceit by these men is distressing enough—but AIDS will kill us!

FRIIGHTENED IN MADISON

DEAR FRIIGHTENED: There simply is no way to "educate" women as to how to determine whether or not the men in their lives are bisexual. The responsibility to be honest rests with the men who practice bisexuality. Knowing that they are putting their mates at risk, they should admit their bisexual lifestyle. All men and women are all responsible for their sexual behavior.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 12 years old, my mother cut an article out of your column and gave it to me. Seven years later, it's still up on my wall, though yellowed and worn from the many times I've touched it and reread it.

I am 19 now, and I'm still wishing, waiting, wanting and working for this article to come true for me.

Will you please reprint it so another "ungrateful" teen-ager, and perhaps his/her mother, can see it before the child is grown and gone?

Dear Abby: So many adults keep asking us "ungrateful" teen-agers what we want. I finally have an answer that I think says it all.

I want time to be alone, alone with my thoughts.

I want to be accepted for what I am.

I want to be loved by those who brought me into the world.

I want a home that is rich in honesty, sharing and caring.

I want to be heard; I just might have something that you need to hear.

I want to know more about myself, my sexuality, my desires, my goals.

I want to know God and worship him in my own way.

I want to live my life one day at a time; for only then will I know its fullness.

And as I would live my life for me, so would I have you live your life for you.

Prices up, trading heavy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher today in heavy trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 1.99 Thursday, was up 11.94 to 1999.34 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 525-293 among the 1,248 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 32,020,000 shares.

Stock prices closed mixed Thursday in moderate trading after an encouraging early rally collapsed late in the session.

The Dow was ahead about 35 points at midday and tumbled to show a 13-point deficit before it recovered minutes before the close.

On Tuesday the Dow blew a 32-point advance to close about 9 points lower.

Once again traders cited the use of futures-related buy and sell programs for the Dow's roller coaster behavior during the session.

"Fear is rampant on Wall Street," said Jay Goldinger, founder of Capital Insight Inc., an institutional brokerage based in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Dollar drifts higher; gold, silver lower

By United Press International

The dollar drifted higher in light trading today on major world currency markets. Gold was lower.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar ended the week higher against the Japanese yen, closing at 124.65 yen, up 0.35 from 124.30 yen on Thursday.

Currency traders in Japan noted trading was light due to lack of incentives.

In Europe, London dealers said continued tension in the Persian Gulf and speculation the U.S.

fleet there might be increased initially influenced the dollar's move upward.

The dollar began the day in Frankfurt at 1.6695 West German marks, up from 1.667 on Thursday.

In Zurich, the dollar opened at 1.38 Swiss francs, up from 1.3755 and in Paris, the dollar opened at 5.6725 French francs, up from 5.6595.

In Amsterdam, the dollar opened higher at 1.8725 Dutch guilders, up from 1.868 and in Brussels it opened at 35.09 Belgian francs, up from 35.015.

Lauderdale told the commission that the cash audit was underway last week, even as Heckel requested it.

Lauderdale told the commission she talked to City Manager Bob Norris Wednesday night, because he did not feel he, in the temporary position of staff coordinator, should make a recommendation to the commission for a permanent position, without input from Norris, who is recovering from triple-bypass heart surgery. He noted that Norris approved Heckel for the position.

Lauderdale said the interview committee asked each candidate to draw up a budget calendar, since the budget process for the new fiscal year begins in May.

He said they normally allowed each candidate about five minutes to do so. However, in Heckel's case, "She handed us one already typed up," he said.

He added that when the committee then asked her for a list of what she would want to accomplish within her first 15 days on the job, she likewise handed them a pre-typed list.

The interview committee was comprised of Lauderdale, City Clerk Carol Edwards, City Auditor Roger Bowen and Duryea.

Rescenting the scents of spring

It's a wonderful world of smells

Story and photo
By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Spring is in the air. But if you don't like the natural scent of spring, or anything else, you can do as others have done for centuries—mask the aroma with another scent.

Hopefully we've advanced a bit from the ancient cultures which used perfumes to hide the fact that bathing was an uncommon, if ever, function. However, our billion-dollar scent industry shows that we are still drawn to pleasing aromas, and expect them to aid in enticing members of the opposite sex.

There are a few new twists on the scent scene when it comes to adding a sweet smell to one's personal surroundings.

Traditionally, potpourri—a blend of dried flowers, herbs and spices—has added a subtle scent to closets and dresser drawers. However, some say a major problem with that form of potpourri, which may have its scent enhanced by adding perfumed oils, is that germs and mildews.

There is a new, granular, concentrate potpourri available at Hochborn Park. Vicki Birdwell said it offers subtle aroma from an array of scents, without any chance of deterioration.

Her favorite scent in this new form is pastel-colored potpourri scented with lavender. "I've used incense before," she said, but added that the new potpourri isn't as strong smelling as incense, although it is heated to be activated. Birdwell said the potpourri is very popular with elderly women who throughout their lives have used traditional potpourri.

To activate the new potpourri, a table spoon of granules is placed in water in the upper chamber of a lantern-like burner. A lighted candle placed below heats the scented water and releases the aroma.

Because it is released as a steam, the scent is a bit milder than that of a new form of incense, which is released in the form of smoke. However, the same Sanford Herald market dealer who is the lead distributor in the nation for the potpourri is also the dealer of a new type of incense.

The new incense is in powder form and distributor Bill Pugh, of Longwood, said that means it doesn't have to be mixed with charcoal, glue or wood to solidify it. The powder burns cleaner and thus produces a purer scent than solidified incense, Pugh said.

The powdered incense is used in conjunction with a porous clay holder, which can be refilled and which Pugh guarantees for a lifetime of use.

The powder is pressed into the holder and excess is scraped from the top. A small hole is punched into the edge of the opening in the holder at that is the lighting point of the incense.

A beginner's kit, which costs about $2.75, comes with a small burner and comes with enough powdered incense for 12 hours of burning. The small holder holds enough powder for single, 20-minute burns, Pugh said.

Resupplies of powder are available in an array of scents, just like the potpourri. The most popular by far, he said, is Oriental, a blend of seven floral scents. A small brush is used to whisk away the residue of the burned incense before the holder is refilled.

Sandra Hunter, who about six months ago bought one of those starter kits, returned to Pugh for a bigger burner.

"It makes the house smell real good. I've always used incense. They say this is supposed to be cleaner. It's not as messy and it smells better. I use it every day. I want a burner that holds enough incense for three or six hour burnings," she said.

The Kentucky man who developed these new scenters has also created molded clay figures of animals, Indians and other designs from the same material used in the incense burner bases. These figures, Pugh said, may also become air fresheners when drops of concentrated perfumed oil are placed on their solid but porous surface. That addition of fragrance carries the name of "Sweet Rock," Pugh said. The incense is not heat activated, so the scent, he said, doesn't drift as much as that of the burning incense does.

The incense is more intense and its scent has a wider range.

Just pick your scent from frankincense, yucca, ylang-ylang, to dozens of other floral, wood, and spicy smells, and take a deep breath.

Game show contestant who's too good to play

By Noreen Raebach
VANCOUVER, British Columbia (UPI) — Barbara Anne Eddy decided 10 years ago to pursue a TV career. She ended up making so many TV appearances that the CBS and NBC networks told her she wasn't welcome anymore.

Eddy, 40, is a game-show contestant, a former researcher and longtime trivia buff who turned her love of reference books into a lucrative hobby.

A decade ago, she won the top prize on "The $128,000 Question," a syndicated game show, for correctly answering a series of questions on William Shakespeare's life and works, and hasn't looked back.

She also won prizes on

"Split Second" and "Name That Tune." In October she will make her second appearance on the popular game show "Jeopardy," taking part in its Tournament of Champions.

Her first appearance on "Jeopardy" netted her $52,000 and a chance to compete in the tournament.

She even gears her vacations toward competition. Before traveling to Australia this fall, she wrote to the producers of a game show — an Australian version of "Sale of the Century" — to arrange an audition.

Her last two vacations to Britain included meetings with the Mastermind Club, a group of former contestants of the British game show of the same name. Eddy became a member after winning 30 pounds on the show while vacationing there.

"I love game shows," she said. "I watch all of them, except the Chuck Barria-type show. I don't watch shows like 'The Dating Game.' I have always been fond of reading reference books. I can sit down and read the encyclopedia for hours."

Eddy said her success has been the result of hard work.

The key to winning is to "read, read, read" and relax, she said. To prepare for "Jeopardy," she delved into U.S. history books, memorizing information ranging from state flowers to the dates of each president's tenure.

Eddy called the "Jeopardy" screening process "ruthless," with a written test — 50 questions on general knowledge in a 13-minute time limit — an audition and a mock match.

"On a show like 'Jeopardy' where everyone knows a lot, the edge is more likely to be psychological," she said. "If you get too wound up or nervous, you won't get anywhere."

Eddy has held a series of short-term jobs since quitting her office job 10 years ago, including researching textbooks, marking papers for professors and even writing questions for game shows.

She is now working on revising a textbook while waiting for her "Jeopardy" winnings.

"The IRS withholds about 30 percent of prize money," Eddy said. "The rest is mine to spend. The Canadian government considers it a windfall, like winning the lottery."

She estimated she has won more than $200,000 in about 10 game shows but lamented she could win much more if she was eligible to appear more.

"I've been barred from NBC and CBS shows," she said.

Spokesmen from NBC and CBS said the industry regulations restrict contestants from appearing on more than three shows on all networks in any 10-year period.

Time to say aloha, Magnum

By Joan Manner
UPI Feature Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — "Magnum, P.I." never lost its sense of humor, which makes it sad to say goodbye.

"Magnum" plays its last broadcast Sunday, May 1, 9-11 p.m. on WCPX-Channel 6, in a finale that CBS describes as a "stunning conclusion" to the show that premiered Dec. 11, 1980.

Beyond that, CBS is stonewalling.

"We want to keep it a surprise," said John Hillerman, who plays Higgins to Tom Selleck's Magnum. "There are some surprises in it and they have asked me not to discuss it so I really can't."

The only clue CBS offers is that Magnum, visiting his family in Virginia, receives an alarming phone call that brings him back to Hawaii for "romance, suspense and danger."

The cast includes a gaggle of guest stars returning in roles they created during the show's eight-year run.

"These have been the best eight years of my life," Hillerman said in an interview. "I've been working for 33 years and this is the best gig I ever had. It's been a wonderful part. I've worked with wonderful people and, of course, Hawaii is just a dreadful place to work."

Actually, he admitted, it is paradise and he has a penthouse there.

The veteran actor had no idea at the outset that "Magnum" was going to be anything special.

"I had been through a couple of pilots, and when you've been acting as long as I have, you proceed from a position of skepticism on everything," he said. "It was just another pilot until I saw it and realized Tom's charisma."

Both Higgins and Magnum have changed over the years.

"It's been interesting to watch Magnum age," Hillerman said. "Tom did something I thought charming and unusual for an actor. When Magnum turned 40 a couple of years ago, he started using reading glass. It was a nice touch that most actors wouldn't do."

"Most actors are far too vain to do something like that, but Tom isn't vain at all, he's really a nice man, unassuming, and he's handled success very well. And I've certainly been around to watch the process."

Hillerman said the Magnum character had undergone little serious change over the years.

"He's still very much of a boy," he said. "One of Magnum's charms is that he won't grow up. He's a bit of a Peter Pan. But the show revealed him to have a wife and child, which made him more of a contemplative man than he used to be."

Of his own character, Hillerman said: "It was interesting to watch him evolve. He really does have a life of his own. He started out really hard-nosed, by the rule book and, in my opinion, two-dimensional.

"I asked them to give him some humor and humanity. I like playing an acerbic, hard-edged character rather than a teddy bear, but I thought you needed to glimpse something underneath that. And they gave it to me almost immediately."

One of the things that has surprised Hillerman is the fan mail he receives from kids.

"I wouldn't have thought the character would have much appeal for them, but he does. I presume it's because he is an authority figure."

Also among his fans are the Duke and Duchess of York, who he met at a recent lunch in Los Angeles. They couldn't judge from his accent what part of England he hailed from. Actually, it's Denton, Texas.

His favorite episodes — aside from the one last year that won him an Emmy — have been those in which he played a dual role, as Higgins and as some embarrassingly disreputable Higgins relative. They included a half-brother rodeo cowboy, a drunken Irish priest and a poverty-stricken Spanish aristocrat.

The appeal of the "Magnum" series, Hillerman believes, lay in its off-beat slant on action-adventure.

"The thing that made 'Magnum' special," he said, "was that in the beginning it was the only action-adventure show on the air that dealt with comedy and human nature, not just guns and bimbos and car chases. There was always a lot of humor and a lot of human nature with all its foibles."

The good humor extended beyond the script.

"Before I worked on 'Magnum,' I was considered a rock," he said. "I never, ever

Tom Selleck, the dapper, rakish private investigator broke up. A few years of working with Selleck reduced me to a quivering bowl of Jello."

He tried to do the same to Selleck, but usually it was the other way around.

"It's a lot harder for me to do it to him," Hillerman said, "but we do break each other up and it got pretty bad there toward the end."

Sometimes nature took over in the breaking up department.

"The funniest one was three or four years ago," he said. "Tom and Jill St. John had a very romantic scene, walking along the rocks with the ocean breaking beyond. They both looked like a million bucks and it was high romance until, in the middle of a take, a huge wave came crashing over the rocks and drenched them. They were sopping."

"It was a wonderful moment and we put it in our gag reel, the one we prepared every year for our Christmas party," he said.

Hillerman said after the last show was completed, there was a permanent wrap party for some 400-500 people on the world's largest catamaran.

"It was pretty festive," he said. "Nobody got disgustingly maudlin."

Secret, please: How do they stay beautiful?

Dear Dick: Ladies like Jean Collins, Dolly Parton, Sharon Gless, Emma Samms and even Jane Wyman — they all have beautiful skin. No wrinkles! I look at these ladies and wonder how have they maintained their eyes with no lines, their foreheads with no lines. Have they had plastic surgery? — J.A., Carthage, Mo.

Dear J.A.: First, you see them on a TV screen, and they have been made-up professionally. (I've seen some of them in person, and they don't look quite so gorgeous). Second, their faces are their fortunes, so they work hard at keeping them looking youthful. And, indeed, many of the top TV stars do have a bit of plastic surgery to keep them looking their best. A few you mentioned — Sharon Gless and Emma Samms — are still young enough so that what you see is what they've got. But others have had help.

Dear Dick: I'm curious. I recently watched Alex McArthur in "The Return of Desperado," and would like to know something about him. Also, will there be a third "Desperado" movie in the future? — B.K., Morgantown, W.Va.

Dear B.K.: Alex McArthur may be the first actor to become a big star from a music video — his work on Madonna's "Papa Don't Preach" brought him his break. He's from Pennsylvania and he is hot now — he's in the big upcoming feature film "Rampage." And, yes, there will be a third "Desperado" — set to air in May on NBC, with McArthur, Rod Steiger and Hoyt Axton.

Dear Dick: I wonder if you can settle an argument between my daughter and me. It is in regards to the actor who plays the part of Bernie, the messenger, on "L.A. Law." He has a certain physical look that in my 67 years I have never seen on the face of anyone who is not at least somewhat retarded, and I do not believe that look can be faked. My daughter refuses to believe that he is retarded. — R.C.W., Burlington, Wash.

Dear R.C.W.: Good for your daughter — and high praise for the actor in question. His name is Larry Drake. He is perfectly normal.

Dear Dick: A few weeks ago, my friend and I watched the NBC movie, "Lena: My 100 Children." I thought I saw River Phoenix (Chris Chambers in "Stand By Me") as one of the children. My friend says he wasn't. Who is right? — A.C.P., Amarillo, Texas.

Dear A.C.P.: I'd have to side with your friend. The cast makes no mention of any River, Phoenix or Hudson or Nile or any other.

Dear Dick: I asked a friend the other day about Freddie Fender. She told me he is dead. I liked him so much, is that true? — H.L., Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Dear H.L.: He's still very much alive. Freddie Fender, known as "the patron saint of Tex-Mex music," is now acting as much as singing. You can see him in the current film "The Milagro Beanfield War."

Dear Dick: Is Ron Perlman of "Beauty and the Beast" related to Rhea Perlman of "Cheers"? — M.B., Silver Lake, Ind.

Dear M.S.: No. Dear Dick: My husband and I are more than curious about the amount litigants are paid to appear on "The People's Court" with Judge Wapner. — D.L., Reading, Pa.

Dear D.L.: And I am more than happy to satisfy your curiosity. It is a complicated formula, but the producers say that those litigants are technically not paid at all. They are, as you must understand, not actors but the real people who are involved in those minor suits. The show has a $500 fund for each case. If the plaintiff wins and is awarded more than $500, that's it. If he is awarded less, that fund makes up the difference. If the plaintiff loses, he gets a minimum of $250. A losing defendant gets $25.

Dear Dick: While watching "Our House," I realized that Deirdre Hall bears a close resemblance to the actress who portrays Melissa on "Days Of Our Lives." Are they sisters or any way related? — L.M., Saginaw, Mich.

Dear L.M.: Deirdre Hall spent 11 years of her young life playing Marlena on "Days." But she is unrelated to the actress who plays Melissa, whose name is Lisa Trusel.

Dick Kleiner is the Hollywood writer for the Newspaper Enterprise Assn. You may send your questions to Dear Dick, c/o Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, Fla. 32771. Due to volume of mail, personal replies cannot be provided.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS

With the 1988 soap opera season in full swing, it's time to ask the question: "What's new in the soap opera world?" The answer is: "Not much." The 1988 season is a continuation of the trends that have dominated the soap opera world since the late 1970s. The most significant trend is the "reality" theme, which has been a major factor in the success of soaps like Days of Our Lives and General Hospital. This theme involves characters who are portrayed as real people, with real problems and real emotions. Another trend is the "romance" theme, which has been a major factor in the success of soaps like Love and War and Love and Lies. This theme involves characters who are portrayed as romantic heroes and heroines, with love and passion as the central focus of their lives.

RYAN'S HOPE

The 1988 soap opera season is also characterized by a number of new shows and new characters. One of the most notable new shows is Ryan's Hope, which is a medical drama set in a hospital. The show is based on the life of a young man who is diagnosed with a rare and fatal disease. The show is a departure from the traditional soap opera format, and it is hoped that it will attract a new audience. Another new show is Love and Lies, which is a romance drama set in a small town. The show is based on the life of a young woman who is involved in a love affair with a man who is married to another woman. The show is a departure from the traditional soap opera format, and it is hoped that it will attract a new audience.
