Homeowners should dispose of standing water on their property where possible. Children, adults over age 55, and people who spend the majority of their time outdoors are at greater risk from mosquitoes, Crawford said.

City turns off water at apartments

Staff Writer

SANFORD - Residents of the troubled Ridgewood Villas apartments and condominiums near Seminole High School aren't sure what to expect next. First the state condemned the complex on July 7. Three days ago the city of Sanford turned off the water.

Then, after the circuit court ordered the city Friday to restore water for 30 days, portions of dry-wall fell from the ceilings of two apartments, forcing those residents to seek shelter through the American Red Cross.

Water was turned off throughout the 60-unit complex on Wednesday because of $12,000 in unpaid water bills.

Bill Marcous, project administrator for Sanford's utilities department, said that although the city's first goal is to maintain water service, the former owner of the complex, Ridgewood Villas, Inc. was three months behind on payments.

"We have dedicated a lot of time and effort in trying to work with this customer," Marcous said. "We will do everything we can to correct the situation."

Marcous said the city will look into all the legal and business avenues available to recover the outstanding payments from Ridgewood Villas, Inc. "We feel for the people," Marcous said. "Unfortunately, we have a bridge between us, and that's the owners." On Thursday, many units in the complex seemed to regain water, although the City had not restored water, Marcous said. The city again shut off the water on Friday until the circuit court injunction.

Leakage from the water being turned on Friday caused dry-wall in a five to six foot portion of Glenda Aladin's bathroom in apartment 105 and another five See Water, Page 6A

ICCF to host Russian group

By Russ White

WINTER PARK - The International Council of Central Florida has made plans to be hosts to five Russian guests from Sept. 12 through 19. Their visit is part of a Russian Leadership Program to provide an opportunity for Russian officials, political candidates and civic leaders to observe the American political system at the federal, state, county and municipal levels.

As many as 125 Russian leaders will visit the U.S. in 1999 with funding coming from a bill sponsored Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Arizona. The cost for the five Russians coming to Central Florida is estimated at $3,000.

Patricia Gehri, the executive vice president of ICCF, is a Longwood resident who has arranged for a number of foreign guests to come to Seminole County. She gathered 30 people Friday to prepare for the visit by the Russians.

"We are poised to play a role in this exciting program," she said. "It's a grass roots thing we want to be part of." Seminole County Economic Director Bob Turk and assistant SANFORD — For some high school subjects, the old fashioned approach of a straight lecture from the podium works.

But for those who teach primarily advanced-placement student, in subjects with difficult conceptual basis like physics and chemistry, successful teaching methods is a whole different ball game. That's why more than 40 high school teachers will be stepping up to the plate at Seminole Community College next week to brush up on their academic approaches.

"The new idea in science education is that the student has to be able to visualize a concrete situation," explains Dr. Alex Dickinson, one of the instructors who will open his classroom to the teachers-turned-students again. "Science is fundamental to some of today's most popular high-tech careers.

Dickson will be joined in the Advanced Placement Physics institute by Dr. Stephen Summer, SCC Chemistry instructor, as well as Jim Helmick, who teaches advanced placement physics at Lake Brantley High School, and Janet Morgan, advanced placement See Teachers, Page 8A

Chulota reader speak out on development controversies

To the editor:

I must respond to the residents who spoke before the County Commissioners, Tuesday, June 6, 1999. These respondents were speaking in opposition to development off Orange Avenue, east of I-4, a rural area of at least one home per acre. The residents adamantly opposed the higher density.

Who better knows the land, what the land may or may now support and what lands flood in various years and where it floods? Who know better the value of their land and the changes that would effect it? Who better knows the status of the wildlife who depend on live around the land that those that live on it?

I too live in a rural area of Seminole County and I too have been in the same shoes of those residents. I too have brought forth valid facts against uncreative development only to be ignored by my own elected officials in favor of development that had no vested interest in the character of the community other then making the most possible for the developer. All in the interest of property rights.

Property rights go far beyond one individuals property right. Property rights extend into adjacent properties and those of the neighborhood and community. But these surrounding and majority rights more often then not are ignored, as is public input.

It seems to matter not what facts we constituents present, what crucial issues of our life style area t stake, what is compatible and what is the voting constituents want. Our elected officials continue not only to betray us, but disseminate out natural choice. Is this public service? Is this representing the district?

We must choose to change this approach in government. We change this by transforming the government who continue to betray us. We can change the representation we appear to have: representation through the eyes of eyes wide shut. Constituents the power is in your hands. Use it. Susan Kairys-Courech

Affirmative action in college admissions is good for us al

Why are many Americans - white Americans, mostly - so upset about college admissions programs that take race into account for a handful of students whose test scores are slightly below standards? Why are programs that boost the chances of black and brown students so controversial, while similar programs that benefit white students go without notice?

For example, the country's premier colleges and universities have long reserved places for the lesser-achieving children of their well-heeled graduates and donors. At the University of Georgia, family connections are one of the dozen or so factors - along with race - used to assess about 20 percent of its applicants who don't quite meet academic standards. In other words, a kid whose test scores and grades are not quite good mom or dad is a graduate. That practice allows weaker students most of them white - to be admitted at the expense of better students. Yet no one bemoans it as an assault on the vaunted enough may get into Georgia anyway if his College admissions also grant athletic preferences," a device that happens to benefit many kids - black, white and brown who otherwise could not get near their chosen college. For some reason, a black kid with low SATs who can score touchdowns and generate a lot of money for the university is not nearly as offensive as a black kid with low scores who just wants an educa-

To be fair, some criticism of college admissions efforts is legitimate. Awarding scholarships based on race makes no sense, since they would often end up giving financial aid to the black upper-middle-class but not to the white poor. Besides that, poorly run affirmative-action programs, such as the contracting set-aside program run by the city of Atlanta, tend to generate resentments that splash over onto better-run and more necessary pro-

Cynthia Tucker

But much criticism of affirmative action in college admissions is based on myth, misunderstanding and - how shall I say this? - simple bigotry.

Affirmative-action programs exist only in 25 percent to 40 percent of the nation's institutions of higher learning; the other 60 percent to 75 percent accept all applicants. So the controversy centers around the nation's most prestigious institutions.

Admission to those elite colleges is highly competitive, because a diploma from Harvard or Emory nearly guarantees a financially rewarding career. Rejected white applicants, looking for an explanation for their failure, often believe they were unfairly supplanted by an unqualified minority student.

Consider, however, an analogy used by Thomas Kane of the Brookings Institution, likening affirmative action in colleges to the handicapped parking space:

"Eliminating the reserved space would have only a minuscule effect on parking options for non-disabled drivers. But the sight of the open space will frustrate many passing motorists who are looking for a space. Many are likely to believe that they would now be parked if the space were not

Scaling back affirmative action would cripple the prospects for black participation in this nation's economic, political and social elite. William Bowen, former president of Princeton University, and Derek Bok, former president of Harvard University, recently conducted a landmark study of affirmative action at 28 elite institutions, including Atlanta's Emory University. They found that black graduates of those colleges go on to earn advanced degrees medicine, law, MBAs - at slightly higher rates than their white counterparts, and also became more active in civic affairs.

Because America proffers advancement through education, programs to enhance educational opportunities for students of color remain critical - perhaps more important than any other form of affirmative action. Since my grandfathers would not have been admitted to white universities, it does not seem unreasonable to create a form of "legacy" for their descendants.

Barak's flawed peace prophsey

"I am not a prophet," Israel's new prime minister, Ehud Barak, told an American TV interviewer who had asked whether "a true Palestinian state" might soon dimerge. But then Barak prophesied that in 15 months Israel would negotiate a peace deal with Syria and will have finalized agreements with the Yasser Arafat.

Officials in Barak's quickly explained that 15 months is a working framework and not a firm commitment, but that's not how it sounds to the Clinton Administration, Officials calculate that in about 15 months there will be a presidential election ... perfect timing to help Al Gore win the presidency (should he be the nominee), ensure a Clinton legacy and cast Clinton in the role of messiah when, in fact, he will resemble Neville Chamberlain.

President Clinton already is throwing money around, promising new long-term aid to Israel and her adversaries. But he is not Bob Barker and this is not "The Price Is Right."

As always in the Middle East, reality trumps hope. Through the United Nations and the Geneva Convention, much of the world continues seeking to force Israel to yield up so much land that its very existence will be imperiled. And the Arab press continues to reveal the true intentions of Israel's enemies, which are ignored at Israel's peril.

Writing in Al-Ahram Weekly week, Abdelwahab Elmessiri, professor emeritus in philosophy at Ain Shams University, said: The leves form an organic people (a Volk) that is organically attached Palestine, and therefore does not belong to Western civilization. To transform this parasitic people ... it should be transferred ... outside Europe (Palestine eventually became the targeted area, on account of its strategic importance to the West). The pariah Volk would then be settled there, replacing the indigenous population (that should be either exterminated expelled). Jewish Volk would achieve through Western imperialist formation what it failed to achieve through the Western cultural formation."

Add to this bad history an even worse moral reasoning. An Israeli with whom I recently spoke told me of her longing for peace: "I have one son in the army and another one going soon," she said, "and I want there to be peace." She said she didn't care whether Israel gave up land or not to get that peace. "We are so tired of war," she told me. And how much land did she think would be necessary to achieve this peace? Would 1948 borders suffice?, "Oh, no, not that much," she replied.

"How would you know how much land would be enough?" I asked. She wasn't sure.

"Don't you believe what your enemies say in their press and in their mosques and to their own people about wanting all the land and being satisfied with nothing less?" I asked.

"Oh, I don't believe any of that," she naively replied. She is the type of person the State Department Arabists and Israel's other enemies are counting on to seal any "peace deal." What it will seal, of course, is Israel's fate. People who refuse

It doesn't take a prophet to see what will happen if Israel relinquishes more land without iron-clad guarantees and reciprocity the world has yet to see from the itan. Authority. All it

Palestinian Authority. All it takes is a knowledge of history, a reading of the Arab press, an understanding of human nature and just a little theological training. Most prophets would comprehend such things. So should Israel's prime minister.

"I can't even move my arm right now," Pasley said. "My ceiling's been leaking and unstable since April. Something needs to be done. Somebody is really going to get hurt."

The State's Division of Hotels and Restaurants closed the complex on July 7 because of violations to health and safety codes.

"But, (the state doesn't) normally handle enforcement of the closure," Robles said.

"There's a difference between closure and eviction. We're hoping that the residents will voluntarily leave, or that the owners will place evictions. We don't evict unless a person's life or safety is in danger, which is what we're facing in two units."

Several residents said that the apartments have long suffered from neglect and bad manage-

"We've got termites, fleas and roaches," Pasley said. "The roaches have taken over. They eat with you, they sleep with you, they dance with you. There's mildew all over the ceilings and the walls and exposed wiring. It's not safe."

Pasley said that the condition of her apartment is so bad the state's Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) department is giving her until Aug. 10 to find a place to live with her children, and that the agency well help pay for the costs of a new apartment.

"The place is about to fall in," Pasley said. "The roaches are singing and everything else. My window's been broken for sev eral months."

Jack Sirianni, President of Ridgewood Villas, Inc., said the company is unable to pay for water bills or necessary repairs because too many tenants fail to pay rent.

He said that Ridgewood Villas, Inc. is down to $400 in its account. The company also has a total of $60,000, in assets including overdue rents and mortgages, Sirianni said.

"We will do everything we can to work with the city or any agency that might help us, so we can resolve this," Sirianni said.

Ridgewood Villas, Inc. on June 16 transferred 30 units of the complex to Lakeland developer James Shirkey to pay off a debt. The other 30 units are owned by individuals or companies, Sirianni said.

Like the residents, Shirkey said he finds himself in an uncomfortable position.

"(Sirianni) owned me money because I originally paid off the mortgage on the building," Shirkey said. "He never paid me anything, so he transferred some of the units to me. I just took over 30 of the units three weeks ago.

"(Sirianni) came to me last week and told me I should pay off the water bill. I said, "Why should I pay off the bill. I've only been the > owner for two weeks." Shirkey does echo Sirianni's comments > failing to pay rent. Of the 30

about tenants of them are occupied. Of those 12 occupied, only five or six are paying rent," Shirkey said.

One possible step Sirianni suggests is that city place the water bill in the name of Ridgewood Villas

Condominium Association and restore full water service, while the company pays off portions of the water bill.

He said the Condominium Association plans to perform renovations, and that Shirkey also plans to repair his 30 units.

"He wants to get everyone out of there and start fresh," Sirianni said.

But Shirkey said he's not sure what to do.

"I'm at a stand still. I don't want to try to fix them up and then have the state or some one come in and say we have to tear them down," Shirkey said. "I'm not sure what to do."

Attorneys of Central Florida Legal Services, representing several tenants, filed for a temporary injunction Friday to restore the water service. It was granted by Circuit Court Judge Carmine Bravo.

"They were in a bad situation," said attorney Peter Hickey. "I had one client tell me she didn't know where to go to the bathroom. They came to us because they couldn't afford an attorney, but they needed help."

Celery City Coffee House expects success to brew in downtown Sanford

"We want to combine

a small town coffee

house atmosphere

with unique gifts and cards. You can chat at tables outside or relax on a plush sofa.

We want to become a real neighborhood

destination."

Bart Rush

Owner of Celery City

Coffee House

Staff Writer

SANFORD - Sanford's downtown businesses are at a crossroads.

Growth is being generated from antique stores, specialty shops and restaurants offering everything from homemade icecream to fine china. However, drawing business away from the bustle of U.S. highway 17-92 and Seminole Towne Center continues to be a challenge. The new Celery City Coffee House, which opened in March on First Street, typifies both the hope and the travails of the city's downtown.

By combining the convenience of a gift shop with the ambiance and cuisine of a coffee house, owner Bart Rush hopes his business will become a place where customers and talk and get away from their tensions.

In the two years since he opened Fences Gifts & Cards in a space next to the current Celery City Coffee House, Rush has become a fixture in downtown business and political circles. The coffee shop and gift shop merged into a single building in June.

"We want to combine a small town coffee house atmosphere with unique gifts and cards," Rush said. "You can chat at tables outside or relax on a plush sofa. We want to become a real neighborhood destination." It may come as a surprise that Rush once seriously considered moving his business to an area such as Mt. Dora instead of expanding his operation in the City.

"A lot of merchants, including myself, felt that some entities were really dragging their feet," Rush said. "Some of the actions by the county not supporting downtown Sanford, all of that combined played a part in affecting morale. Enough wasn't happening quickly enough."

For example, Rush said he is concerned about delays in moving forward with studies for the proposed hotel and conference center in a portion of Ft. Mellon

"We based our business plans on the conference center," Rush said. "We would like to see some forward movement."

The feasibility study for the project, being performed by PRA Development, is due in September. The City is also conducting a parking study.

Rush said that numbers and estimated profits told him to leave Sanford. However, his emotions said to stay and create the coffee house.

"The numbers said we could not continue to be successful here," Rush said. "Even now, the recent full-page ad in our own Chamber of Commerce newsletter touting Mt. Dora is really troubling. I really felt a greater level of insecurity after that ad ran."

In mid-August, Rush said his sister Billie Jones will become the shop's general manager, and the business will begin an aggressive marketing and merchandising campaign. For example, in December the Celery City Coffee Shop will become a Christmas store with "heavier" deserts.

"Customers will find a whole new look and feel combined to what they've seen," Rush said.

Over the next five years, Rush foresees new business owners, city commissioners, and other government officials concentrating more on developing downtown Sanford.

"Sanford Main Street is a terrific ally," Rush said. "More business partners are going to come together."

Ryland Homes to show designer series

ORLANDO - Ryland Homes is making plans for a grand opening of Lost Lake in Casselberry on Sept. 26. The home builder will have two different series of model homes for buyers to tour.

Ron Utterback, vice president of sales and marketing for Ryland's Central Florida Division, said 126 home sites are available at Lost Lake. Nine of the homes are lakefront homes and several are on the Casselberry Golf Course. At the grand opening, Ryland will show its Lake Series Model homes and Designer series model.

Ryland's Lake Series model homes range in size form 1,46° square feet of living space to 2,576 square feet. Lake Series homes are priced from $129,900. Ryland's Smart Designer Series homes range from 1,957 to 2.854 square feet of living space. Designer Series prices range form $166,990 to $201, 990 for the largest home.

"Lost Lake is so well situated that the neighborhood appeals ty, as well as Elks Lodge and the to a wide variety of home buyers." Utterback said. "With model homes from our Lake and Designer series, we can meet the needs of just about every home buyer who's looking for a quality family neighborhood," he says.

> Lost Lake is located off Winter Park Rd. and Seminole Blvd. in Casselberry.

County school board, education unions agree to contracts From Staff Reports

SANFORD - The four education associations representing teachers and other school personnel in Seminole County have tentatively approved contracts for the 1999-2000 school year.

The agreements must be ratified by the school board and the members of the associations.

The Seminole Education Association (SEA), representing approximately 3500 teachers in the county, negotiated a total increase of 5.37%, which includes both salary and fringe benefits.

Rick Harris, a chemistry teacher at Oveido High School and chief negotiator for SEA, stated that with the current legislative climate and the dramatic rise in insurance cost, the union had achieved the best resolution SEA President Jeff Siskind said," Even in these bountiful economic times, the Florida Legislature chose to divert large amounts of money from public into private schools through socalled 'voucher' program.

This left local school boards with only small amounts of discretionary funds. Given the situation, we believe the settlement is eminently fair."

The steep increase in insurance costs, up over 35% form last year, cut deeply into money available for salary increases. The beginning teacher salary climbed about $900 and an additional step increase was added at the top of the scale. The average pay raise for most Seminole County school employees will be three and one-half percent.

The SEA, the Non-Instructional Personnel of Seminole County, the Seminole Educational Clerical Association, and the Seminole County Bus Drivers Association will vote on the contracts during the first two weeks in August.

The protest by Housing Authority residents starting at 6:30 p.m. will likely dominate the meeting. Members of a group calling Itself Sanford Tenants Organized for Reform of Management (STORM) said Friday in a meeting with the media at Lake Monroe Terrace that they will address the City Commission during the 7 p.m. meeting to appeal for commissioners to withdraw support for the HOPE

They will also ask for the resignation of Sanford Housing Authority executive director Tim

Hudson, saying that he uses intimidation tactics against those who disagree with him, and that they wonder why the housing authority needs to seek funds to demolish units that residents say should have been repaired years

The demolished units would make way for 50 affordable houses and 15 apartments and condominiums.

Public housing tenants and those holding Section 8 vouchers would be given preference in the new housing, to be priced higher than Public Housing, according to Hudson.

Members of STORM said tenants were not involved in the decision making process to seek the HOPE VI grant.

"He didn't ask us about HOPE VI," said Amanda Geter. "All we know is that he wants to demolish our homes."

The residents asked to relocate because of the demolition would be given housing vouchers to purchase a home, or the option of remaining in public housing, according to Hudson.

Members of STORM said they are concerned about the possibility of a housing voucher losing its value after one year.

"It's a one year voucher," Geter said. "What if your rent goes up after a year. None of us can afford it."

If the application is approved, all 100 units of Lake Monroe Terrace, 40 units of Edward Higgins Terrace, and 30 units of Cowan Moughton Terrace would be demolished.

The City Commission will likely turn down both STORM requests. A resolution in support of the HOPE VI grant from the commission calls for the creation of a small business incubator on three acres of property located at the corner and Sixth Street and Olive Avenue.

Mayor Larry Dale has submitted a letter to the US Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in support of the application. STORM members say they at least want to be heard. They say if the commission does turn down their requests, they will work with attorneys from Central Florida Legal Services to take their concerns to HUD.

Hudson said that he "would never" use intimidation tactics against Housing Authority resi-

"I believe the key here is understanding," Hudson said. "It's right that you would resist losing your longtime home. But, resist while knowing that things are changing and that public housing is changing." In other action, the City Commission will:

• Consider approving an agreement with Hazardous Substance & Waste Management Research for consultant services.

 Discuss setting a tentative budget hearing on the proposed budget to be held at 7 p.m., Sept. 13 at City Hall. The proposed millage rate, as adjusted by the Property Appraiser, is 6.63 mills. A mill is 1/1000 of a dollar.

Sanford Elks Lodge helps shape policy at national Elks convention

Kansas City — The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks visited the home state of former member Harry S. Truman this week to "give hell" to some of the problems confronting our nation and our youth.

The Elks whose National Convention here was the 135th in their history, are represented locally by Sanford Elks Lodge Number 1241, whose Exalted Ruler, or Lodge President, is William T. Jacobs of Geneva. Local representatives attended the Kansas City convention to help shape the programs and policies of the National Order, which currently boasts almost 1.2 million members nationwide.

The Elks have a long tradition of philanthropic service, sponsoring youth athletic and drug education programs, aid for people with disabilities, college scholarships, cancer and transplantation research, and veterans service programs. The Elks have also made significant commitments through America's * Promise, an organization committed to providing fundamental resources to our Nation's youth.

Among the highlights of the convention were speeches by the overall winners of the Elks National Free Throw Competition, Whitney Gaston, 9, of Madisonville, KY, and Matt Ihler, 12, of Madison, SD. They were the best of the more than three million kids, ages 8 to 13, who participated in this year's competition. Also addressing the convention were Tia Gubler of Bountiful, Utah and Robby Schwindt of Utica, Kansas, the top winners in the Elks National Foundation's "Most Valuable Student" scholarship competition. Each student will receive a four-year scholarship worth $30,000. The Elks National Foundation annually awards more than $3 million in scholarships on the basis of academics, leadership, and financial need.

Throughout the convention, the 2,200 local Lodges were hailed for their support of the Risk of poisoning from fish exists in Florida

SANFORD - Ciguatera is a tropical fish poisoning. It does not affect fish that carry it, but can kill or make people who eat the fish seriously Scientifically referred to as CTX, ciguatera toxin is produced by a microscopic algae.

It moves up the food chain when the algae is eaten by small reef fish, which, in turn, are eaten by larger fish. The poison then accumulates in larger fish. A human who eats such a fish would receive a dose of the fifth most powerful toxin known to mankind.

The fish most responsible for carrying ciguatera poisoning are barracuda, amberjack, cubera snapper, and dog snapper.

The head, roe, liver, and entrails of a fish carrying the loxin will have higher levels than the meat on the sides of Symptoms of ciguatera poisoning, which can appear as late as 30 hours after eating the fish, may include weakness, diarrhea, stomach cramps, nausca, tingling or numbress of the mouth, the hands, and the feet, temperature reversal (cold feels hot. hot feels cold), chills, itching. headache, sore teeth, dizziness, and convulsions.

Fishermen should know which fish are suspect in a given area, and should avoid eating these species.

Anglers fishing in Florida waters should NOT eat barracuda under any circumstances, even though it is commonly believed by fishermen that barracuda under 10 pounds are safe to eat.

SHUPE'S SCOOP

Barracuda are the primary carriers of ciguatera and their consumption should avoided at all costs.

FISHING FORECAST

Bass fishing will be tough until this fall. The Wekiva River will have some of the best action due to the constant 72 degree water temperature. Bass in the Wekiva love to hold under floating mats of water hyacinths, and the best way to catch them is to freeline a shiner with the current under the floating mats of hyacinths.

Sebastian Inlet has great catch-and-release snook action. Large live shrimp or small baitiish are producing most of the snook. Also expect a few flounder, redfish, trout, and tarpon.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that the water is very clean in close, and that king mackerel are just off the beach. Dolphin and wahoo are few and far between. Inside the Port. expect Dounder and sheepshead to provide steady action. Trout and redfish are rated as fair on the flats of the Banana and Indian rivers.

Ponce Inlet is the place for fast action with live or dead shrimp. Large numbers of sheepshead, and plenty of drum, redflsh, jack crevalle, and small bluefish are ready and waiting.

OCALA - The only thing hotter than the Sanford All-Star bata was the weather on Friday as the local squad refused to lose in powering its was past Man-darin, 12-8, in the opening game of the 1999 Babe Ruth Baseball Senior State Tournament on The Villages Field in the Rotary Sports Complex in Ocala Friday morning.

The Sanford All-Star victory carned the local 16-to-18 yearold squad the opportunity to play Sarasota, the defending Senior State Champions, Saturday morning.

The best thing for both teams is that the game was scheduled for 10 a.m. And while it will be hot, it will still be better than playing the 1 p.m. contest.

If Sanford won or lost at 10 a.m. on Saturday, the team would play again at 4 p.m., elther in the Winner's Bracket Semifinals or in the Loser's Bracket in the 10-team doubleelimination tournament.

with two games at 10 a.m. and two games at 1 p.m. on Sunday (if the tournament remains on schedule) with the final three teams advancing to Monday. The Loser's Bracket final would be played at 10 a.m. on Tuesday. Things did not start well for the Sanford All-Stars as Trent Armstrong led off the game for Mandarin by getting all the way to second on an error.

Alex Crews then walked and both runners moved up a base on a balk.

After a strike out, Mike Catt got Armstrong home with an infield single and Crews scored on a passed ball.

Sanford starting pitcher William Cleveland avoided further damage by getting a strike out and a pop up, but the score was still 2-0 Mandarin.

It did not take Sanford long to respond as Lazarus Mitchell led off the bottom of the first inning with a triple and one-out later Jay Roland launched and opposite field home run over the 330-foot sign to tie the game.

Cleveland was again hurt by his defense in the top of the second inning. Ernie Ravencroft reached second when his fly evaded the Sanford center-

Ravencroft was crased when he tried to advance to third on a grounder to short, but a stolen base and a throwing error put Benji San Fillipo on third with one out.

Cleveland appeared like he would get out of the jam unscathed as he struck out the next batter and got another fly to center. But once again the ball was missed and Mandarin

But Sanford did not let its defensive problems burt the offense. With one out in the bottom of the second inning. Dustiri Annett singled and Antoine Anderson walked.

Eyes on Lopez

Remember Jennifer Lopez, the actress — the same Jennifer Lopez whose "If You Had My Love" is the No. 1 single in the country? She's been offered $5 million for the lead in Angel Eyes, according to Variety.

Lopez would play a police officer still dealing with the effects of an abusive childhood. The healing begins when she meets a man who saw his wife and child die in a car crash. Lopez is also under consideration to join Will Smith in a remake of A Star Is Born, a role that could make use of her dulcet tones.

Friends for a price

No one told NBC life was gonna be this way. The network has dominated Thursday nights but now it's time to pay the piper. And how.

In NBC's particular case that would be Warner Bros. Television, which produces Friends, the 5-yearold sitcom phenomenon that was the most-watched comedy series on TV last year. That kind of success doesn't come cheap, and Variety reports that NBC is preparing to finalize a Friends licensing agreement that will net Warner Bros. a tidy $5 million per episode through mid-2002.

And that's the good news. The bad news is that NBC still has to cut a new deal with the famously close-knit cast of the hit series, currently under contract for just one more season.

Springer for Senator?

First wrestler Jesse "The Body" Ventura gains the Minnesota governorship, and now there are those who want to fling trash talk show host Jerry Springer's hat into the political ring.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer reports that high-ranking Ohio

Democrats are approaching the 55year-old ringmaster to run for the Ohio State Senate in the 2000 race. While Springer himself has refused to comment on such a mind-boggling possibility, others are glad to weigh in. Tim Burke, Democratic Party chairman of Hamilton County, Ohio, tells the paper, "I think Springer would be a viable, fascinating, interesting candidate for the U.S. Senate." Interesting, yes. Fascinating, we'll grant you. But viable?

Springer actually has a (tarnished) political record. He was an aide to Senator Robert F. Kennedy, was elected to the Cincinnati City Council in 1971, and in 1977 was voted mayor of Cincinnati. Then, with the kind of vision and judgment you want to see In your elected officials, Springer was busted for solicitation, a charge they had no trouble prosecuting thanks to Springer's personal check to the hooker.

Elleen Collins will participate in her third Shuttle mission. However, this time, she will be the commander of STS-93, the first woman to command a Shuttle mission.

CHANDRA X-RAY OBSERVATORY

- To operate the Chandra and its instruments takes approximately 2 kilowatts. about the same power needed to operate a hair
- Chandra can read the letters of a stop sign from more than 12 miles away. 20 to 50 times more sensitive than any other X-ray telescope
- Chandra will fly 200 times higher than the Hubble - more than 1/3 of the way to the moon.

As commander of the most recent Space Shuttle mission, Eileen Collins is boldly going where no woman has gone before

In fact, her current mission is not even her first experience

But almost 30 years to the day after man first walked on the moon, Collins is setting another milestone for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration — the first woman to command a Space Shuttle flight. This is the third mission aboard a Space Shuttle for the 42-year-old Elmira, N.Y. native. Collins has spent more than 419 hours in space, and served as a pilot during her first two Space Shuttle missions. However, it's the Shuttle mission that lifted off Launch Pad 39B shortly after 12:20 a.m. Friday, July 23, 1999, that historians will remember most about Collins' astronaut career.

Collins has a bachelor of arts degree in mathematics and economics from Syracuse University, as well as master degrees in operations research from Stanford University and space systems management from Webster University. A colonel in the U.S. Air Force, Collins has earned numerous awards and citations, including an Expeditionary Medal for service in Operation Urgent Fury in Grenada and the NASA Space Flight Medal. She was chosen for the astronaut program while attending the Air Force Test Pilot School, from which she graduated in 1990. She has logged more than 5,000 hours in 30 different types of aircraft.

It's alligator harvest time for Floridians, including Sanford's Debbie O'Brien

By Russ White

Staff Writer

Ladies and gentlemen, start your airboats. In just a few weeks you are going to participate in the last great Public Waters Alligator Harvest of the 20th century.

The 1999 trappers were selected by a random drawing. Harry Dutton from the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission said Thursday that 10,006 licensed trappers applied for the lottery and that 729 were select-Debbie O'Brien of Sanford will be trapping on this year's Harvest. She's a Minneapolis native who came to Florida 10 years ago. Debbie did ice fishing in Minnesota but said alligator hunting is twice the fun.

(We take a break from the regularly scheduled script to inform scholars that some alligators are known to survive short spells of below freezing weather by resting in shallow water with their snouts at the surface).

Now, back to Debbie O'Brien. "My boy friend (Todd Bradon) gives air boat tours on Lake Jesup," said O'Brien, a waitrese at Cracker Barrel Restaurant. "He introduced me to alligator trapping. I fell asleep the first time I went out. It was kind of boring when you had to be real quiet. I liked it better when we the action started...that's the deal."

Trappers do their trapping without fire arms. Some use bows, some use harpoons. They also use bang sticks. The alligators - some 13 feet long - have just about had enough by this time.

O'Brien, 29, said she has been assigned Lake Harney for the Harvest. She said she would have preferred Lake Jesup. "Todd told me Lake Jesup has more alligators than anywhere in the United States," she said.

Alligator management leader Dutton said that Florida residents pay $250 for trappers licenses. It costs $1,000 for non-residents.

"There's a surprising number of women who want to hunt alligators - more each year," Dutton said. "The Harvest is a great adventure for everyone. Young and old. Men and women."

One of the Harvest selectees, he said, is 76year-old Mary Knecht from Palm Bay - 71-yearold George Holmes from Fort Myers wasn't as fortunate. He'll have to wait for next year's lot-

Dutton said that the great Florida alligators are doing well in 1999. For awhile the Florida alligator was an endangered species. Not so today. "We estimate there are a million or more alligators," Dutton said.

Although heavily exploited in the 1800's, and considered to be endangered in the '960's populations of American alligators have responded well to management and have recovered rapid-

There's a misconception that one of the reasons for the Harvest is to eliminate "nuisance alligators." Another is that the Harvest allows trappers to earn some big, big bucks.

"The purpose of the Harvest," Dutton said, "is to offer trappers a unique recreation oppor-

Participants are allowed to take five alligators from the specific public waters assigned by the Commission. Their first wave hunts from Sept. 1 to Sept. 15, the second from Sept. 16 to Sept. 30.

Alligators live as long as 30 years - provided they aren't losers in the annual Florida Alligator Harvest.

The name alligator is derived from the Spanish word "el lagarto."

You can look it up.

Meeting your individual calcium needs

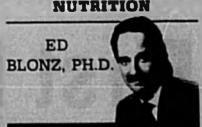

DEAR DR. BLONZ: I've been lactose-intolerant since I was a young child. Even with a lactase enzyme pill, I can't eat more than one serving of a dairy product every couple of days without digestive irritation. I recently learned that I consume less than half the 1,000 mg of calcium recommended daily for women. Do I need to take supplements? Or can I get enough cal-cium from nondairy food sources? —

DEAR S.S.: First I want to tell you that it is to your benefit that you are confronting this situation. Our bones are destined to turn into fragile shells if we don't give them the raw materials they need, and right on the top of the list is calcium. As you mention, the daily value for calcium is 1000 milligrams per day. The latest word from the National Institute of Health is that many people should have even more. At a recent Calcium Summit in Washington, D.C. it was estimated that three out of four adults are not meeting their dietary calcium recommen-

Dairy products tend to take center stage when calcium is discussed. For people such as yourself, who are not interested in dairy products, finding adequate calcium is just as essential, but it takes more work. Luckily, there are plenty of non-dairy foods that contain calcium. It is found in green leafy vegetables, small fish with edible bones, broccoli, dried fruits, legumes and nuts. Other choices include calci-um-fortified foods, such as cereals, soy milk and orange juice.

Another option is to take calcium in pill form. As with most minerals, calcium has to be in solution to be absorbed. Calcium carbonate, the most NUTRITION common and least expensive form, is found in antacids such as Tums. This form, however, is the least soluble of the calcium salts. It requires an acid environment to dissolve and should be taken with meals or with a glass of orange or tomato juice.

Calcium citrate, calcium gluconate and calcium lactate are more soluble, but they also cost considerably more. These compounds have less calcium per unit weight, so the pili size is larger than a comparable-strength calcium carbonate supplement. The main problem I have with calcium supplements is that other nutrients — such as magnesium vitamins A RA and D as magnesium, vitamins A, B-6 and D, phosphorous and fluoride - are needed for calcium absorption and healthy bones. Supplements should healthy bones. Supplements should not be considered a remedy for a poor diet, but they can provide some of the nutrients your body needs.

Aside from diet, physical activity plays a definite "use it or lose it" role with the body's bones. Weight-bearing exercises such as waiking, jogging, symnastics or aerobics can help strengthen the bones - no matter what age you are.

Can Rogaine affect a person's libido?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a generally healthy 70-year-old man. My only complaint has been a receding hairline. I have been using Rogaine for 2 or 3 years. I have not lost any more. On the negative side, however, I have absolutely no libido and about a month ago developed a left breast sensitivity that borders on distinct discomfort. An encologist found a swelling of the soft tissue and I discontinued the Rogaine. Can I insist on a mammogram to rule out a tumor or

DR. GOTT PETER GOTT, M.D. pre-cancerous lesion, or is his 'walt

DEAR READER: A surprisingly number of medicines can cause gynecomastia (breast tenderness and swelling). According to the manufacturer, Rogaine is not in that category, nor does it affect sexual interest. I suggest that you adopt a wait and see attitude, now that you have stopped the Rogaine. If, within a month, you're still troubled, further testing my be advisable.

Tips on taking medication from headache foundation

With the ever-changing world of medicine and health care, proper use of prescription and over-the-counter drugs remains constant. Modern medications can treat a wide range of chronic and acute conditions, but they can be a threat to overall health if used carelessly.

Many of the more than 45 million Americans suffering from headache use medication for headache relief, either prescription, OTC or both. Although nearly half of the U.S. population uses prescription medicine, less than 40 percent of patients always ask about drug interactions or side effects of these treatments. To insure safe and effective use, the National Headache Foundation (NHF) offers these 10 tips for taking medication:

1. follow physician instructions.

2. Avoid mixing medicines with certain foods.

3. Consult your doctor before discontinuing use of medica-

4. Not all generic products are equivalent to name brand med-

5. Don't mix medicine with alcohol.

6. Keep medicines in its original container.

7. Consult your physician if medicine is not effective for you. 8. Do not combine certain medicines. 9. Check with your doctor before using a leftover prescrip-

10. Maintain a medicine chart or checklist to record medicine use.

The National Headache Foundation, founded in 1970, is the leading outlet for those who suffer from chronic, recurring headaches and head pain, their families and the healthcare professionals who treat them. Dedicated to funding research in the field of headache and various treatment options, NHF strives to educate the public about the severity of headache disorders and that sufferers need understanding and conti-

East meets West

Dancers visit China on a cultural exchange mission

School of Dance Arts performers and accompanying adults have recently returned from a two-week cultural exchange program tour of China where they served as dancing and goodwill ambassadors from America. It was truly a sensational "East Meets West" adventure.

Generally speaking, the 47 Americans had a wonderful time and consider the trip a once-in-a-lifetime experience. Sisters Mirlam Doktor and Valerie Weld, dancing instructors and owners of the SODA schools at Sanford, Lake Mary and Orange City, called the two-week trek an exclusive tour of one of the most exotic places on the planet."

An accompanying parent. Barbara Abramson, said, 'It was an incredible...incredible experience. I am a history buff and the architecture and culture were fascinating." All agreed the Chinese are very warm, friendly and inventive people.

The tour was conducted by the general manager of Jiangsu Haida Travel & Tours International and Valerie said, The group saw the immensity of the Great Wall, the beauty of the Summer Palace, the grandeur of the Forbidden City and the mysterious Terra Cotta Warriors," plus much, much more.

Valerie said the entourage was astounded to be the first Americans ever to view young Chinese acrobats as they trained in their own school in Xiana. The SODA Pops were even invited to perform there in exchange for the private showing.

Large welcome banners greeted local dancers when they recently performed in China

"Imagine the young Chinese students being excused from classes to wave good-bye to their new American friends after picture-taking, address swapping and hugs of admiration. What a cultural exchange that was," Valerie Added.

The SODA POPS danced in six cities and were cast with Chinese dancers and musicians. At each city, huge red, white and blue banners read Welcome Miriam and Valerie's School of Dance Arts."

"What an honor it was sharing the lovely professional stages with fellow performers possessing such a high degree of artistic ability," Valerie said.

Cultural and government officials were always on hand to visit the Americans and the traditional flower arrangement was presented after each performance as special invited guests came on stage to congratulate the performers. Audience capacity ranged from 1,200 to about 700 for each show which was well received, according to Valerie.

The Chinese government allows two cultural exchanges annually and the SODA POPS were highly honored to be one of the groups invited. The dancers were filmed for television in Xian and they watched themselves the next night on TV at Wuxt. The film will be used for educational purposes to keep the Chinese abreast of the latest in American dance.

The 16-course formal banquet given by the tour director to greet the performers in Nanjing was an unforgettable experience, Valerie said. With the help of two interpreters, toasts were given throughout the banquet as hosts and guests honored each other and the occasion that brought the two cultures together. Each of the 47 adventurers can now boast of being competent with chop-sticks. They are probably grateful that they rehearsed before leaving home for China.

Shopping was a pleasure for the group who purchased lovely gifts for their loved ones back home. The treasures included: fresh water pearls, jade Jewelry, carvings in both jade and wood, silk and embroidery. cloisonne, paintings of all kinds, table cloths, fans and funny hats. Everyone probably purchased a souvenir T-shirt that proclaims."I climbed the great China Wall."

The Americans attended a circus and fashion show in Nanjing, a gala stage show in Beijing, a birthday party for one of the dads in Xian and a Peking Duck Banquet in Beijing. All were impressed with the Ming Tom, the Dr. Sun Yatsen's Mausoleum, the Jade Buddha Temple and the Wild Goose Pagoda.

Miriam and Ken Doktor will never in this lifetime forget their ninth wedding anniversary. While in Wuxi, they were surprised with a traditional celebration in honor of their big event.

The group had so many unusual experiences on the tour. They were treated royally and lways with a smile and politeness. The dancers American favors to present to the Chinese children and. In turn, received mementos from

The living conditions are extremely crowded with millions of bicycles used for transportation. Valerie said there did not appear to be any crime there since so many small stores are open all night without security.

For many, the trip will live on forever. Not a day passes that China is not the daily news and many of these first-time China tourists when viewing Place see Dietrich, Page 4C 5C

Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Battle Jr.

Ancestral ceremony unites Ruby Blake, John E. Battle Jr.

Ruby Nathan Blake and John Edward Battle, Jr. both of Sanford, were united in marriage, Saturday, June 26, at noon. The religious ancestral celebration was performed by the Rev. Ricky Scott and the Rev. Leonard Jenkins Wilson at the New Mt. Calvary Missionary Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Thelma Nathan Mike and the late Victor Nathan and the bridegroom is the son of Aileen Hunt and the late John E. Battle, Sr.

Given in marriage by her son Victor Maurice Nathan, the bride chose for her vows a gown designed with a high back collar lace V-necktop, long sleeves of satin Italian lace and beaded pearl sequins. The formal length sheath with detachable flowing cathedral train was embellished with lace, pearls and rhinestones.

She wore a tiara of illusion net with bow accent and carried a bouquet of off-white roses with baby's breath and greenery with streamers.

In keeping with the ancestral tradition, the gospel greeting was read by her sister Amanda Nathan Alexander. Tribute to the ancestor in music was by minister Vernon Jones with congregational hymn no. 27 "Blessed Assurance" and "The Lord's Prayer."

After the charge of commitment, declaration of intent and vows, the ancestral jumping the broom ceremony and the leap into the land of matrimony with unification of family prayer, the nuptial blessing was performed.

Recessional celebration of ancestry love was to the Sounds of Blackness.

Mary DeBose, friend of the bride, attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a white formal-length satin gown carried carried a bouquet of white mini roses with a touch of fern green.

Bridesmaids were Ann Nowell, friend of the bride, Larace Fossitt, sister of the groom and Zane Robinson also sister of the groom. They wore formal length- green gowns.

The junior bridesmaids were nicces of the bride Ashley Hall and Chelsea Sheppard, they wore identical green flowered tea-length gowns. The bridesmaids carried green bouquets of roses with white streamers.

The best man was James Hunt, friend of the groom.

Groomsmen were Keenan Tilman, Kagan Tillman, nephews of the groom, and Michael Robinson, brother-in-law of the groom.

Junior groomsmen were Darius Hall and Samuel Jackson nephews of the bride son, nephews of the bride.

Flower girls were grand-daughter of the bride Angel

Carmonas visit Spain on golden wedding anniversary

The 50th Anniversary is the golden anniversary. For Marge and Jim Carmona of Lake Mary, It turned out to be Spanish gold. For their 50th Anniversary, the Carmona's three children gave them a trip to Spain.

Marge and Jim spent their first two days in Madrid, the capital of Spain. A guided tour pointed out all the incredible sights of the city. They saw the Cibeles Fountain and visited the Puerta Del Sol Plaza. In the Plaza is a statue of Don Quixote. a monument to the author Cervantes. Marge and Jim were also able to take a little trip to the countryside that was Cervantes' inspiration for the book "Don Quixote".

In the beautiful city of Cordoba. Marge and Jim visited the Jewish Quarters and the Mosque of the Caliphs. From Cordoba, the Carmonas tour took them to Seville. From Seville, they made their own little side trip to Carmona. The city of Carmona is set on a hilltop and surrounded by a huge fortress like wall. The streets and sidewalks are very narrow and made of cobblestones. The Carmonas got a big kick out of seeing their name posted all over the city; Carmona Post Office", "Carmona Jewelers", "Carmona Newspapers" and "Casa de Carmona" (a hotel), Originally, the Carmonas had hoped to do a little research and find out about their ancestors. Unfortunately, the Carmonas arrived at Carmona in the afternoon when everyone goes home for lunch and a "siesta". The courthouse, hall of records churches, stores, the post office, all close. Only restaurants were open.

Marge and Jim returned to Seville where they rejoined their group. That evening, they went to "El Patio Sevillano", a restaurant where they enjoyed paella, an authentic Spanish dish consisting of rice, chicken and seafood. After dinner, the Carmonas were entertained by some fabulous Flamenco danc-

With an area of less than 2 square miles, Gibraltar features a fortress, a sea port and of course, the famous "Rock". The Carmonas were able to see the famous rock which used to be considered one of the "Pillars of Hercules". They also saw caves and the Barbary monkeys roaming free.

The Carmonas also visited Toledo. Toledo was once famous for It's finely tempered steel. Swords made from Toledo steel were considered the finest in the world.

The couple ended their trip back in Madrid with a memorable evening at "La Scala". As much as the Carmonas enjoyed their 50th Anniversary trip to Spain, they were glad to get home to Lake Mary. The Carmonas are getting ready for another busy year with the Lake Mary chapter of the AARP. The chapter returns to their regular schedule in September. Couple's elopement hurts their matchmaking friends

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I cloped last January. We arranged for a minister, rented the tux, got the gown, printed 300 announce-ments, and told everyone we were going on "vacation." We planned it for months and told no one. I'm 31 years old and had never been married. After the ceremony, we mailed the announcements and went about enjoying our honeymoon.

We returned home to a house full of gifts and well wishes. Both sets of parents were very pleased, and everyone couldn't have been more supportive — except for two people. Ironically, they are the twosome who introduced us, my husband's friend "Morris" and his live-in girl-friend, "Doris."

They are no longer speaking to my husband and me because they are hurt that they were excluded from our plans. They feel we betrayed them and claim we lied and deceived them.

A few nights before we left for Florida, my husband was out with the "guys." Morris pulled him aside and flat-out asked him if we were going away to get married. Because our plans were private and not meant to be shared until after we returned from our trip, my husband told him "no."

I hate to lose a friendship over something like this. Do you think we were obligated to tell them our plans?

WONDERING IN WILMINGTON, DEL.

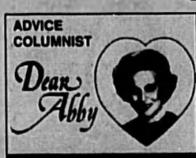

DEAR WONDERING: No, I do not. Just because Morris and Doris introduced you does not mean they own you as a couple. You were not obligated to reveal your plans to elope.

DEAR ABBY: I am an 81-yearold male senior citizen and would like to comment on the letter that mentioned nude beaches. I am very familiar with them and also with nudist camps.

Nudism must be good for the eyesight because I have never seen a blind nudist. A nudist camp is where married couples air their differences and, when they disagree, they barely speak. As a matter of fact, one married couple broke up - ter than nothing. because they were seeing too much of each other. Did you know that nudiats peel first and get sunburned afterward? A lawyer joined a nudist colony, nudist was picked up as a suspect, bald captain who starred in "Star

but the police had to let him go because they couldn't pin anything

I visited a nudist colony one time and, as I drove in, I stripped my gears. The only other time I had anything to do with nudism was when I stayed at a nudist lodge. (I think it was called the Bareskin Lodge.) There were no clothes closets and all of the rooms had sudden exposure. It was a short vacation. I was soon asked to leave because my breath came in short pants. ED BENDER, ROCHESTER, PA.

DEAR ED: That's better than being asked to leave for display-ing your shortcomings.

DEAR ABBY: You missed the mark on your advice to the bald boater's wife. Her husband doesn't need a video to show him that he's bald. He knows it, and would probably regard a video shoved in his face as another disparaging insult that we bald guys are used to.

Abby, his wife should be supportive, positive and encouraging. From the tone of her letter, it appears her approach has been the opposite. I can almost hear her saying, "Your hair looks terrible that way." A more positive approach might help him feel more comfortable about trying a more realistic solution to his baldness. Perhaps she should say, "Honey, I think you'd look very sexy in a buzz cut."

I had a "comb-over" years ago. It got to the point that it was inconvenient to style, difficult to keep in place and ineffective to the point of looking ridiculous. I was aware that it didn't produce the effect I wanted, but I mistakenly thought it was bet-

Finally, after I read a poll in which women named the sexiest man on television, I accepted the fact that there's nothing wrong with being bald. Do you know who they and he hasn't had a suit since. One chose? Patrick Stewart, the totally Trek, The Next Generation"! (He's also a much-admired Shakespearean actor.) The compassion, poise, strength and charm he conveyed were more meaningful to female viewers than his lack of hair. If a man possesses those qualities, his hair (or lack thereof) will seem trivial to those who matter to him.

NO HAIR, NOOO PROBLEM.

DEAR NO HAIR, NOOD PROBLEM: Off the top of my head, I can think of three other much-admired bald actors: Robert Duvall, Louis Gossett Jr. and Hector Elizando. If I put on my thinking cap, I'm sure I could come up with others. Currently, bald is "in," and many men shave their heads to acquire what nature gives to a lucky few. Luxurious locks are not a requirement for love, happiness and success, so guys, if you're uncomfortable with options such as transplants or styling, forget bad "fixes." Embrace the slogan "Bald is beautiful" - and flaunt it.

DEAR ABBY: When it comes to hair, as with most things, there's a distinct double standard between men and women. Women feel it's their place to be critical of men who try to make the most of what hair they have by combing it over their bald or thinning pates. This despite the fact that women spend millions annually on wigs, falls, rats, wiglets and various sorts of hair extenders Shame on them.

What if a man were to tell his wife, "Dear, why don't you throw away all those bleaches, dyes, lotions and curlers? I'd still love you if you let your hair go thin and stringy and gray." Why should women persist in living in a state of denial? As you say, facing the problem head on and dealing with it is a better solution

Yeah. RIGHT!

COMBS OVER IN EVERETT, WASH.

DEAR COMBS OVER: At the risk of appearing contentious, I'm for anything that works. The problem with most comb-overs is they are obvious. A male reader put it very well: "It took me a long time to realize that what women find attractive are men who are relaxed and comfortable about who they are. Once I realized that, I cut my hair short and my wife thinks it's wonderful."

WIN AT BRIDGE

Not so successful for once

All top bridge players lose many more events than they win. And while researching for yesterday's Bobby Goldman obituary column, I saw this excellently defended deal. It was the 64th and last from the 1970 Vanderbilt final. At half time, the Aces (Eisenberg Goldman, Hamman-Lawrence, Jacoby-Wolff) were 64 international matchpoints down against Kaplan-Kay, Kehela-Murray and Lazard Rapee. But with this deal remaining, the scores were tied!

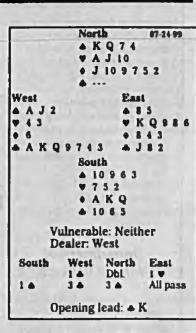

In the other room, Kay (North) jumped to four spades on the second round, but Lawrence (West) opted to continue with five clubs. Kaplan (South) doubled and was disappointed to collect only plus 100.

When Goldman (South) was allowed to buy it in three spades, the Aces would snatch a one-point victory if he made the contract.

It looked tempting to cash the club queen, but that would have let the contract make. A heart switch would be won by East, but he couldn't stop declarer from taking the rest of the tricks. Instead, Lazard switched immediately to a heart. After winning with his queen, Rapee (East) returned a chub went one down, and the Kaplan team to his partner's queen. The X-ray capabilities of the Chandra Observatory gives scientists the ability to study invisible particles, or "dark matter," as well as the source of explosive activities in distant galaxies. Scientists contend that this dark matter could hold keys to understanding if the universe will eventually cave in on itself of expand indefi-

The characteristics and capabilities of the Chandra make it one of the more unique observatories in the world. Among characteristics, the Chandra can • Fly 200 times higher than the Hubble.

 Observe X-rays from clouds of gas so vast that it takes light 5 million years to go from one side · Focus on objects the size of the letters on a stop sign from 12 miles away.

 Observe light from quasars that has traveled through space form 10 billion years.

 Observe x-rays from particles up to the last second before they fall into a black hole.

Using NASA's other "Great Observatories" in space - including the Hubble Space Telescope and the Compton Gamma Ray Observatory — the Chandra will allow scientists to study the universe across the spectrum, ranging from infrared, visible and ultraviolet light to X-ray and high-energy gamma rays. The observatory is named in for the late Indian-American Nobel Laureate Subrahmanyan Chandrasekhar. "Chandra" won the Nobel Prize in 1983 for his theoretical studies of physical processes important to the structure and evolution of stars. His name mean "moon," or "luminous" in Sanskrit.

In addition to Collins, the crew of STS-93/Columbia includes:

Taylor uses talents for community

From awards in art, science and spelling to charitable work using his varied talents, Sule Taylor 14, uses his solid faith in God to help him make a mark on his community.

"I pray every morning and each night before I go to sleep," says Sule, who lives in Casselberry with his parents, Vanessa and Anthony. "I get into deep conversation about religion with friends who are my age."

Sule, who this fall enters ninth grade at South Seminole Middle School, is active in an after school program called Science, Engineering, Communication,

Math and Enrichment as part of his dream of becoming an engineer. In regional and national contests connected with the program he has awards in art, spelling and overall academics. "Whenever I get tired of putting in all this effort," Sule says, "I just try to think about God."

Although he eventually hopes to get an engineering degree from the University of Michigan, Sule says his real passion is art. Painting and drawing will always have a place in his life.

"I like feeling creative and coming up with new ideas," he

A poster he created for the enrichment program took first place on the regional competition and second place in the nation. He has also donated his time painting banners and murals for a Sanford com-Brethren munity center, Reaching Out.

There was nothing in there that looked like it was for kids," says Sule. "I just put some color

His mother Vanessa, says that comment is typical of her modest son. She says the murals he painted helped add warmth to the worn building.
