Church Is Entitled To Loyalty, Support

By A. Edwin Shihohler
All times are troubled times. All people are troubled people. Whether or not civilization progresses depends not upon the troubles of a given time, but upon how the people of that time meet their trouble.

There has probably never been a time in the history of the world when enlightened education was available to more people than it is today. But education alone can be misdirected and offer no solution. If we say the iron curtain countries deny "enlightened" education to the masses of their people, we can partially excuse their failure to help solve mankind's problems. Here in America with our schools overflowing and almost unlimited information available to anyone wishing to seek it, we cannot make such an excuse. And yet, in spite of that fact, we have but to pick up a daily paper to find that hatred, violence, intolerance, jealousy, greed, and practically every other human vice that can contribute to world problems is about as rampant within our country as anywhere on earth.

Of the problems that trouble the world, those of science are the minor ones. They have been, are being, and will continue to be solved on the drawing boards and in the laboratories of the world.

Not so the greatest of all problems, the problem of human relations. Through all the centuries there has been but a single source for its solution—the Church. Regardless of its denomination, any Church of the Universal God, teaching the way of peace, points to the solution of that problem. Because the Church is demanding, mankind today, as did his forefathers, prefers to seek an easier way. In this era when man's destruction is the order of the day, mankind can no longer temporize with his obligations to the Church. We must either turn to it, support it, and live it, or submit ourselves to chaos and savagery.

The Church demands and is entitled to our devoted loyalty and support. There could be no better time than this "Search for Peace Month" for every thinking person who sincerely seeks a solution to his own troubled times and the troubles of this world to renew his loyalty to his church, or to seek out a church and affiliate himself with it if he has none, regular attendance is then but one expression of loyalty.

Absentee Voting Deadline Nov. 1

In an article appearing in yesterday's Sanford Herald, the final date for absentee voting was given as Oct. 25.

According to Mrs. Camilla Bruce, the correct date for absentee voting should have been Nov. 1.

The deadline for absent voting in the Nov. 6 General Election is Nov. 1.

Cole, USN, Executive Officer of Sanford Naval Air Station, upon his arrival by private plane aboard the station, recently. ## Woman Struck By Truck While Helping Push Car

A 36-year-old woman was struck down by a passing truck last night as she attempted to help push a car to get it started.

Following church services last night, Mrs. Nora Lee McIntosh, whose address was given as Lake Mary Road, was assisting her husband and the owner of the car, in pushing the automobile south on French Ave.

A 1947 Studebaker 1-2 ton truck, driven by Robert Carter, 18, of 417 W. 12th St. came up from behind them, nicked the left rear fender of the automobile and then caught Mrs. McIntosh with his right rear fender, throwing her to the pavement.

According to information obtained from Capt. Arnold Williams of the Sanford Police Department who investigated the accident, the car being pushed had no lights.

The accident occurred at 10:09 p. m. 90 feet south of 22nd St. on French Avenue while the automobile was straddling the parking zone strip on the west side of the highway. Mrs. McIntosh was assisting in pushing the car from the left front fender.

Captain Arnold Williams reported that Mrs. McIntosh was in a great deal of pain and complained of her back. However, extent of injuries could not be determined until today.

No charges have been filed, said Capt. Williams, pending further investigation. Patrolman C. C. Dowson assisted in the investigation.

Cole, USN, Executive Officer of Sanford Naval Air Station, following their arrival by private plane aboard the station, recently. France conducted the second series of lectures, and invites he is currently presenting "Safe Driving" to personnel based aboard the NAS. The films, showing highlights of the Darlington "500" and Daytona Beach "Grand National", which were obtained through the Ford Motor Company and Millis, emphasized France's talk on safety. This concludes the four-month series of safety lectures, according to W. E. Gilles, NAS Safety Engineer. (Official U.S. Navy Photo)

Morrison Tells High School Group Journalism Helpful

Nine members of the Seminole High School Journalism Club met at a supper meeting last night at Mrs. Appleby's Restaurant were complimented by Charlie Morrison, member of The Sanford Herald's advertising staff, on their job in getting out the new High School page "Seminole Smoker Special" which appears each Monday in The Herald.

Morrison told the group, part of 22 young people interested in the subject "regardless of your desire to follow journalism as a career or as a hobby, it will be helpful as it gives you a means of self-expression." Mentioning some of the things for which a newspaper stands in a community, he stated that the latest local ache in the careful perusal of copy was in proofreading. His listeners laughed at some of the "boobies" caused by dropping a "g" or substituting a "b" for "p" and in mis-spaced spaces. He extended an invitation to the young folks to visit The Herald plant and see the processes involved in publishing a paper.

Present last night were: Pat Harrington, editor of the school page; Shirley Anderson, associate editor; Kay Jenkins, society editor; Fred Ball, feature editor and the reporters: Ann Venable, Kay Ivey, A. J. Clements, Mary Jean Flynt and Bill Thompson. School principal A. J. Brackley and the club sponsor Ralph Ray, with his wife, were guests of the club.

Oxford Student To Tell Rotarians Of Experiences

A young man who grew up in Sanford, graduated from Yale University, and became a Rhodes Scholar, will appear on the program of a local club which his father, at one time, served as president when S. Bobb, boss son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland L. Dean, will tell some of his experiences as a student at Oxford University, England, Monday noon at the regular meeting of the Sanford Rotary Club.

Young Dean, who, as a holder of a Winant Scholarship prior to having been selected as a Rhodes Scholar, had been engaged in boys' work in England, will compare the British educational system with that of our country.

In the absence of club president Dr. Charles L. Persons who will be attending the Rotary District Conference in Winter Haven during the first part of next week, past-president William "Bill" Bush will preside. Other Rotarians planning to attend the Winter Haven meeting are secretary Dr. R. W. Hugreht, Charles Wagay and Henry Simpson.

Fletcher To Head Seal Sale Campaign

The Seal Sale Chairman for the Seminole County Tuberculosis and Health Association's annual Christmas Seal sale was named this morning by George Dabbs, president of the local TII and Health Association group.

Don Fletcher, Paula nurseryman, was named to head the important winter fund raising seal sales according to the TII Association head.

Fletcher, last year, successfully headed the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce fair booth committee.

Dabbs said that the Seminole County Tuberculosis and Health Association expected this year to stage the most successful Seal Sale Drive in the association's local history.

Date for the mailing of the seals and appeal to Seminole County residents has not been said Dabbs, but final plans for the winter campaign will be completed in the near future when Fletcher's committee meets to put the final touches on preliminary plans already approved.

Christmas Seals will be prepared for mailing by various women's civic club groups in cooperation with Mrs. Lorraine Graham, Executive Secretary of the Seminole County Tuberculosis and Health Association. Local offices are maintained in the Brumley-Puleston Building.

American Legion Mails 1st Edition Of 'Post Scripts'

The first edition of "Post (53) Scripts", a monthly bulletin of the American Legion, was put in the mail yesterday.

With items concerning the membership of the American Legion, announcement of meetings, and reports from committee members, the new bulletin is mailed to approximately 500.

Joel S. Field, Sanford Postmaster is editor of the new bulletin which made its first appearance yesterday.

Lynn Lynn, Post Commander, said the new bulletin will keep members in closer touch with their post and its activities.

Extension Of 17-92 Set To Go

William H. Dial, Fifth District Road Board member, called for prompt action for the continuation of 17-92 to French Ave. from Five Points last night as he met with members of the Seminole County Long Range Highway Planning Committee.

"As far as engineering is concerned," said Dial, "the construction plans for the extension of the route to Sanford are 80 per cent completed and are ready to go."

"I cannot commit the Road Board," Dial told the group meeting at Jim Spencer's Restaurant last night at a supper meeting, "but I am sure funds can be made available for securing the rights of ways."

Leading into his discussion with the highway committee headed by J. Bradley Odham, Dial commented that "I am getting a little disturbed about the federal government's attitude toward rights of ways."

Dial then explained to the 22 members attending the meeting that funds were not available for the construction of a causeway extending from French Ave. because of a parallel free limited access highway which made selling of the bonds impossible.

"My only choice in the matter was to attempt to get the route of the proposed federal interstate highway moved closer to Sanford, somewhere between the Lake Monroe Bridge and French Ave.," Dial said.

"We have a traffic count only 4,000 vehicles a day this side of Orange City and my next move was to impress the engineers of the necessity to build a route from Orange City to Seminole Boulevard."

"The route is being flown now and I am told now that in a period of from nine months to one year the road can be under construction," he said.

Dial told the road planning group that "this is the only section of the interstate highway that is proposed other than urban expressways. It will be a part of the Daytona-Tampa east-

Transport Plane Still Missing

Seminole Raceway Is Established By Group In 1925

By RHODES CONKLIN
The vision of a host of old timers in the harness racing sport which resulted in construction of Seminole Raceway 30 years ago is about to be substantiated—by the residents of Seminole County.

Back in 1925 several of the best known and wealthiest men in the nation, who believed in and backed-up that belief with cold cash, built what is now Seminole Raceway. The number included tobacco tycoon W. N. Reynolds, hotel man Col. E. J. Baker, truck tycoon Bill Strang and many others.

They had dreams of building Seminole Raceway into the type of training and racing establishment it will be this year—if the voters approve issuance of the harness racing license which the state racing commission has already granted—subject to the referendum vote.

Plans to transform this training track into the Saratoga of the South, are on the drawing board. The board of directors of Seminole Raceway only await the outcome of the election before pouring a cool half million more dollars into the plant to make it the showplace of the nation.

Throughout the nation harness racing is grown tremendously in status and in popularity since the past ten years, becoming America's fastest growing sport.

LONDON — Distress signals spurred a gigantic search today for a U.S. transport plane missing with 59 servicemen aboard. There was no hint of success.

At least 80 planes from bases in a half dozen countries—including giant six-engine U.S. Stratofortess bombers—an aircraft carrier and destroyers scoured the area north of the Azores in an effort to pin down the source of the message.

But back to base came these reports from the searchers. "No luck. Nothing sighted."

The missing plane, a C-118 Liftmaster of the U.S. Military Air Transport Service, was due at Lajes Air Base on the Azores, yesterday morning. It carried 80 Air Force personnel returning to the United States from duty in Britain and a Navy flight crew of nine.

After a long silence a string of SOS signals were picked up by commercial airliners flying early today between Britain and New York. Relief was expressed the distress calls might be coming from portable transmitters on rubber life rafts carried by the missing aircraft.

But in New York, three transatlantic pilots who heard the distress signals said they were later informed the calls came from land stations sending out alerts about the plane.

They said they got that information from station EJK in Ireland and from the Prestwick, Scotland, radio station.

Still another Pan American pilot reaching New York, however, said he picked up a signal which he believed came from "an original source" while his plane was 200 to 225 miles northwest of the Azores. He said he later received a land station signal from somewhere in Ireland.

A communique issued by the U. S. Air Force here said, "No clues to the whereabouts of the missing aircraft have been received since the SOS message intercepted by a Pan American transport at 2:15 a. m. GMT today."

"The source of this message was tentatively placed at about 150 miles north of the Azores. However the search is being pressed with the utmost vigor."

A spokesman said it was possible other SOS messages picked up might have been relayed by various radios of the original distress signals.

Many Are Expected To Attend District Auxiliary Confab

WINTER PARK—A large delegation from the Seminole Memorial Hospital Auxiliary is expected to participate in the second annual conference of the state central district Association of Florida Hospital Auxiliaries, to be held at the Langford Hotel here Oct. 18.

The Seminole volunteer group is the latest in the six-county district to become affiliated with the statewide organization, according to Mrs. Max K. Aulick of Orlando, district chairman.

Next Thursday's one-day meeting is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. with Mrs. Aulick presiding and adjournment is set for 4 p. m. All sessions will be in the hotel's Trestop Room except the noon luncheon which will take place in the Town House dining room.

Featured speakers include Arthur L. Bailey, administrator of Orange Memorial Hospital in Orlando, and Mrs. Tracy B. Hare of Miami, founder and first president of the Florida auxiliary association.

Mrs. A. W. Epps Sr., president of the Seminole Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, will head the representatives from the new hospital in Sanford. Further information on the meeting may be obtained from her.

Lake Mary P-TA Sponsoring Food Sale Tomorrow

A food sale is being sponsored tomorrow by the Lake Mary School Parents Teachers Association in front of the Lake Mary Post Office.

The sale will begin at noon and continue until all of the food is disposed of, said Mrs. Louise Parker, president of the P-TA group.

Tomorrow's food sale is being sponsored by the Mothers of Lake Mary School, headed by Mrs. Julia Scott, chairman of the Room Mothers Committee.

Eight room mothers comprise the group in charge of the food sale. All proceeds from the sale will be used toward staging a carnival for the school later this month.

A BOY'S PRAYER

Dear God... there's so much I'd like to say to You. It's that way lots of times. I want to talk to You, and then somehow, I get stuck for words.

I guess I do some stupid things, sometimes... like that fight with Butch Hendley yesterday. He said something I didn't like and then I said something, and that was it. I guess I won, but afterwards I was kind of ashamed. I told Dad about it last night and he went for a walk with me and we looked up at the sky and the stars. Everything looked so big, all of a sudden, that it scared me. It seemed too big to understand.

Then Dad told me that there are lots of things like the sky and the stars, too big for people to ever understand. And he said that that's where Faith comes in, and that it is good to have the Church to put our trust in.

I got to thinking about that, and I told Dad that I'd kind of like to ask Butch to come to Church with us next Sunday morning, but that I was afraid he wouldn't come. Dad grinned at me and said, "Why not ask him and see?"

Dear God... I did ask Butch, and he's coming. Butch hasn't been to Church regularly like I have, so maybe when it comes to praying he'll get stuck for words even worse than I do. But You'll listen to him anyway, won't You? Because he needs You very much... just like I do... just like all of us do.

Thank You, God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Demos, GOP Committed To Early Action Toward Tax Reduction

There is no question but that both major political parties would like to give the voters definite assurance before the November election that there will be an income tax reduction approved by Congress early in the next session.

Tax cuts — which enable the voters to spend more of their own money as they see fit — are regarded as having extraordinary political allure. So the politicians generally can be counted upon to support them when they are at all possible.

The biggest question now facing the politicians — both Republicans and Democrats — is this: Where is the money coming from? A surplus of only $700 million is forecast for the current fiscal year ending next June 30 — and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey believes that a surplus of $3 or $4 billion must be in sight before serious consideration can be given to tax cutting. Therefore, to meet Mr. Humphrey's requirements, the government's income must be greater than expected — or the government must spend less than expected — or there must be a combination of the two.

What happens along these lines will depend on the degree of business prosperity — which largely determines the amount of taxes paid — and the seriousness of economy efforts by the administration and by Congress.

At any rate — regardless of what is finally decided — all signs indicate that at the next session of Congress there will be prolonged discussion of personal income tax reduction and of corporation tax relief, particularly for small business.

Both the Democrats and Republicans are committed — in their platforms and otherwise — to early action toward reducing personal income taxes and granting small business additional tax relief.

Oil Progress Week

Plans for the observance of Oil Progress Week — Oct. 14-20 — include paying tribute to the oil industry's ambassadors of good will — the service station operators.

There are some 200,000 service stations in this country of which the great majority are run by competitive small businessmen. They are the chief contact between the consumers of oil and the oil industry.

Thus, the service station operator is the symbol of the industry he represents. Just as we can drive into his station, say "Fill 'er up," and be sure of prompt and efficient service, so can Uncle Sam say to an oil company "I need a million gallons of jet plane fuel" or "ship a hundred tanker loads of diesel oil to our defense forces in Europe" — and be equally sure of prompt action.

And the day-in-and-day-out pressure of competition which has brought the service station to its high level of development is equally as strong in the 42,000 larger businesses within the industry.

From the community standpoint, the service stations and the men who own and work in them are a tremendous asset. As one local chamber of commerce said, "We salute the men from whom visitors get their first impressions of our town, the first local residents most visitors meet, and the only residents many travelers talk to. They send a stream of customers to our restaurants, stores, hotels and other businesses."

Oil progress week is certainly a good time to give these men a hand.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CURT

THE SALES MANAGER of a large publishing house obviously was in a snit. "What's this I hear," he thundered to the trembling underling "about you going over my head?"

"Honest, Mr. Miller," insisted the culprit, "all I did was pray for a raise."

Later he told the appalled sales manager, "Being a salesman is sure the life for me! How I love being at a different motel every night and meeting the swell folks there. The only part I can't stand is calling on those beastly buyers."

A Persian legend tells of a traveler who strayed from his caravan and was lost in a trackless wilderness of sand. Two days of aimless plodding left him exhausted and about to perish from thirst. Suddenly his eyes lit on what looked like a water skin. Reaching it on his knees, he tore it open.

Aha, it was only a bag of glistening, flawless pearls!

EISENHOWER JACKET

Campaign Reaches Halfway Mark

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The presidential campaign has descended from the cloud where it started and now—at the halfway mark—is down to earth with both sides charging: "You're another."

This is about par for a political campaign.

After President Eisenhower's speech in Pittsburgh Tuesday it became clear he considered three things — pace, the end of the Korean War, and prosperity — as main selling points in his campaign.

He has made seven speeches so far. In all of them he has spoken about peace. Two of his speeches, in fact, started off on that subject; his opening talk Sept. 19 and the one Tuesday night.

Directly or indirectly he has reminded his listeners in four speeches that his administration brought an end to the shooting in Korea. And he has made present prosperity a constant theme in his talks.

Eisenhower, without mentioning Adlai Stevenson by name but leaving no doubt of whom he meant, complained Tuesday night the Democratic candidate has "concealed or twisted the facts."

In Seattle last night Stevenson too made a speech in which he protested — without naming Eisenhower — that the Republican administration has "not told the people the truth" about the "crucial facts of history."

It was only a matter of time before the two candidates reached this point, once Stevenson began belittling Eisenhower as a part-time leader who didn't lead and called the Republicans a big business party.

If Eisenhower thought he could remain upstairs while the fight went on in the alley, he soon got over it.

Stevenson got under his skin. Eisenhower soon began referring to the "wicked nonsense" of his opponent and belittling Stevenson as a man who talked big about leadership without ever having been a leader himself.

All this makes more interesting reading than pious platitudes.

But while each candidate belabors the other for not stating the facts, the truth is that neither is stating all the facts but only those that make his own side look good.

Stevenson, accusing the Republicans of killing federal aid to schools, doesn't talk about the part Democrats had in that legislative throat-cutting in the House of Representatives.

Eisenhower Tuesday night recalled that in 1955 and 1956, when the Democrats controlled Congress, he called for action on federal aid and got none. He didn't say he let 1953 and 1954 — years in which the Republicans ran Congress — go by without offering a federal aid program. Nor did he say that while the Democrats rejected his particular aid plan, they did offer one of their own which the Republicans helped kill.

These examples — of where each side tells only what makes it look good and the other bad — could be multiplied.

This makes it a little tough on the voter who would like to know precisely where the body is buried, since he knows that in this government both parties have to play some kind of role, good or bad, in almost anything that's done.

Cold Felt In World's Wine Cellars

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

PARIS (AP)—Last winter's bitter cold—the most severe to hit Europe in a long time—will be felt many years hence in world's wine cellars.

But French wine exporters and government experts do not appear particularly alarmed. After all, they say, the French wine industry has survived many bad seasons and this one is not the worst.

No official figures are yet available on this year's crop. A cold, rainy summer delayed the wine harvest about three weeks. It was September sun that finally ripened the grapes and permitted wine growers to start their annual "vendange."

Unofficial estimates, however, say this year's wine production in France will be cut about six or seven million hectolitres—120-140 million U. S. gallons—or one tenth of the country's average output.

The winter's ravages and fear of poor crop had sent wine prices up about 20 per cent earlier in the year. Later however, expectations of a fair harvest in the Burgundy, Champagne and Alsace regions helped steady the market.

Nevertheless, wine prices this year are between 10 to 15 per cent higher.

Hardest hit by snowstorms and frost was the Bordeaux region, largest wine-producing area of France. About a third of the region's vineyards were destroyed. Wine producers admit the quality of this year's Bordeaux will be a "little worse."

It will take at least three years before some winter-ravaged Bordeaux vineyards start producing again. In the meantime, export stocks will not be replaced by Bordeaux wines in the usual quantity. Wine exporters hope to increase shipments from the Champagne and Burgundy regions to offset any Bordeaux shortages.

Although it is said that Champagne and Burgundy suffered comparatively little from last winter's frost, wine growers were disturbed by a government report on Beaujolais—a popular red Burgundy table wine. It said the alcohol content in this year's Beaujolais was very weak and

"unless the weather changes, the harvest could be one of the worst in recent years."

French wine exporters are looking to the United States as a "quality wines market of the future."

Although rating fifth in the volume of purchase of French wines the United States in 1955 was third in value of its wine imports. At the same time, the United States was the leading purchaser of French alcoholic products, including brandies and liquors.

The United States also is the most important buyer of champagne, consuming about a fifth of France's champagne exports.

Generally, however, French wine experts feel the average American has a long way to go to appreciate the place of wine in life.

Belgium, with a population of eight million, imported more French wine in 1955 than the United States with a population of 160 million, said one exporter.

"Many Americans living here learn to appreciate French cuisine and drink wine with their meals," said an official of the Wine Exporters' Assn.

"The trouble starts when they return to the United States. Even

Competition

Competition lies at the very heart of the American economic system. Merchants, manufacturers and producers of an endless variety of goods and services use every legal inducement they can think of in an effort to attract business.

Of all the forms of competition, price is certainly at the very top. Generally speaking, the man who can offer something for the least money gets the bulk of the business. And his customers benefit.

That is why The Sanford Herald, in its efforts to bring out the topmost needs for our community, has placed the "docks and terminals" project in the uppermost spot on the list of "must" projects for Sanford and Seminole County.

While millions and millions of dollars are being invested in "docks and terminals" along the inland waterways of our country, Sanford remains aloof — and the traffic — freight barges loaded with commodities — travel around us in devious ways to reach our Central Florida markets and the shelves of our local merchants.

Higher price tags are necessary for the very simple reason that it costs more to get the merchandise to the local market.

Ask the merchant who is competing with other merchants who are located at terminals! Ask the concrete men who use hundreds of thousands of bags of cement, sand and other heavy and bulk commodities! Ask the builder and contractor who finds it necessary to transport hundreds of tons of fabricated steel into our local markets!

The answer you receive from these men is the reason why we want to see a "docks and terminals" project realized for the Sanford area.

It is one thing to see all of these commodities being shipped around us — it's still another thing when we continue to allow this situation to remain unchanged.

Roseola Infantum Is Seldom Serious

By HENRI H. DUNN, M. D.

AS HIS NAME suggests, roseola infantum is a disease affecting young children, usually those under the age of three. And since it is most prevalent during spring and fall, I think a discussion of it is timely.

While complications seldom develop, and the children younger generally recovers with only symptomatic treatment, the high temperature and rash which accompany the disease usually alarm the parents.

The disease probably is caused by a virus and is believed to be communicable. There have been minor epidemics from time to time.

High Fever
If your youngster becomes a victim, he probably will develop a fever ranging from 103 to 105 degrees very abruptly. This high temperature will continue for three to five days.

There is no indication of the cause although there may be mild respiratory symptoms, swollen lymphatic glands or loose stools during the fever period.

Some children will experience little discomfort. Others do not eat well, are restless, sleep poorly and seem to be in pain. Convulsions are common during this period.

After the measles and scarlet fever, the rash doesn't develop until the temperature drops, usually about the fourth day.

Chest and Abdomen
The rash is composed of discrete pink macules and usually is most profuse on the chest and abdomen. It sometimes appears on the nape of the neck, the upper part of the limbs and even the scalp. But the rash on the face is barely noticeable.

Despite the rash, your youngster probably will feel and act well by this time. Generally the rash is fully developed within 24 hours and subsides within 48 hours.

Sponging the child with tepid water or alcohol may help bring the fever down and keep it below 103 degrees. Your doctor probably will also prescribe acetylsalicylic acid.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q. D.: Is it true that older mothers have a greater tendency to give birth to twins?
Answer: Yes, there is a slightly higher proportion of twins born to older mothers.

Importance Of Home, Teacher, Parent Stressed By Housholder

BY MARIAN R. JONES
 OVIDEO—Do you like to go to your P-TA? Well, I do, and the time has come again following the summer's rest, to start in and do your part.

The first official meeting of the Ovidio P-TA was held Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

It was the first meeting for the new officers to be in charge and we were so anxious for a large turnout, and we were not disappointed.

As we entered the familiar school building our glance went, as always to those lovely trophies so magnificently displayed—a tribute to those boys of the famous Ovidio Basketball teams of the past. We hope they will continue to grow.

As we started to mount the stairs, we met Mrs. James Pearson, our immediate past president and this year's program chairman and second vice president. She handed us a P-TA program book in yellow, with black lettering, the school colors.

The urge to take a peek was quickly suppressed and we continued on our way. At the head of the stairs we met Mrs. James Merritt Stanley, one of the teachers. We entered the auditorium to be met by none other than our hospitality chairman, Mrs. T. L. Lingo, Jr., who asked us to sign the register—something new added this year—and a good idea.

It was so nice to stand around and chat with the parents and teachers as they arrived, after being the first to sign the register, quickly followed by our new president, Mrs. James Partin. Some we had not seen since the end of school.

We even chatted for a few minutes with Judge Ernest Housholder, our guest speaker.

Mrs. Partin started the meeting exactly on the dot. We have had the pleasure of seeing Mrs. Partin preside as president of the Ovidio Woman's Club a few years ago, and it was so nice to sit there and see her conduct things in such a smooth manner and to listen to her clear enunciation.

Other familiar faces among the officers were those of Mrs. Don Hires, who has occupied the secretary's position of the P-TA before and is this year's president of the Ovidio Woman's Club; also Mrs. James E. Brookshire, who has been secretary of the local P-TA and made such a good treasurer she is still in that role.

Mrs. James Merritt Stanley gave the devotional, followed by the secretary's and treasurer's reports.

Mrs. A. Meyers, our new membership chairman, and Mrs. F. M. Sparks, our new finance chairman and Halloween Carnival chairman, gave brief reports on each of these.

Mrs. R. W. Estes, publicity and Mrs. Milton Gore recreation, were two chairmen not able to be present and were missed too. Mr. Estes is in the hospital and they had gone to see him.

However Gordon Horton, a member of the senior class, and Carol Parker, a member of the ninth grade, gave interesting reports on the recreation program and the parties enjoyed thus far by the teenager group. Gordon is president of the recreation program. Miss Estes, who is secretary-treasurer, was scheduled to make a report but was unwell.

The room count was won by none other than our president fourth grade. (Mrs. Partin returned to her teaching profession this year and is fourth grade teacher.)

They had thirty-four parents present. Some of the other grades were well represented, too. Mrs. Lingo said that the P-TA has the largest eight-grade teachers, parents and visitors had signed.

Mrs. James Pearson introduced Judge Ernest Housholder, of Sanford, who is quite well known in this locality. He gave a very interesting talk on Juvenile Delinquency, stressing the importance of the teacher and the parent to the child's life.

We always try to reveal unusual happenings of any occasion. We believe that the Ovidio P-TA has one that is seldom equaled. Walter A. Teague and Stewart Gatchel are both ex-principals of the local school. This year both are members as parents. Gail Gatchel entered school this year, making Gatchel a parent member. Heretofore he had been a member but as a principal. Another unusual occurrence is that both men coming from the same school, have received marvelous promotions—Teague as assistant superintendent of public instruction, and Gatchel becoming this year the supervising principal of the county.

Another fact came to life as we looked around. It carried us back to the time Walter Teague was principal. His wife was a member of the faculty, being teacher of the third, then fourth grade. W. H. Deshazo, our new principal, is in the same boat. His wife is also a member of the faculty, being teacher of the fifth grade. Seemed like old times.

The social hour, which we all ways enjoy as we get to chat a while with teachers and friends, was announced. We all departed for the luncheon where delicious homemade cake soft drinks and other goodies were served by Mrs. R. C. Miller, room mother for the ninth grade, and her assistants, namely, Mrs. Andrew Dulla, Jr. and Mrs. Andrew Steinkor, also, Mrs. Joe Miller Jr., room mother for the tenth grade, and her assistants; namely Mrs. George Kelsey and Mrs. W. H. Deshazo.

We also like to see how the new mothers enjoy their first P-TA venture. After talking to some we found that they seemed quite impressed and were enjoying it immensely.

Pardon such a lengthy column but remember it was our first business meeting. We confess, we like P-TA work and enjoy writing about it. We promise not to bore you next time.

Whitmore Home Admired By Ladies Of Golden Circle

A tour of the lovely new home of Mrs. R. C. Whitmore was enjoyed by the ladies of the Golden Circle Class of the First Baptist Church when they met at the Whitmore home for their monthly business and social meeting.

A prayer was led by Mrs. M. N. Cleveland, after which absentees and new members were discussed and illness among class families reported.

The group decided to continue sending an orphan lad at the Baptist Children's Home, at Lakeland, a small cash gift each month, as one of their projects.

At the November meeting, members will make their own yearbooks and all are urged to be present.

Mrs. C. O. Todd, Personal Ministries Chairman, presented Mrs. Eugene Pennington, retiring president, with a lovely gift of lingerie from the class in appreciation of her untiring efforts throughout the past year.

The newly elected officers are: president, Mrs. Bob Landreth; vice president, Mrs. Edgar Benton; secretary, Mrs. J. G. Davis; assistant secretary, Mrs. Tom Mera; personal ministries chairman, Mrs. Walter Brooks; teacher, Mrs. M. N. Cleveland; assistant teacher, Mrs. Eugene Pennington; and group leaders, Mrs. C. O. Todd, Mrs. Gordon Frederick, Mrs. R. C. Whitmore, Mrs. H. H. Parker and Mrs. Herold Heckenbach.

Following adjournment, delicious refreshments were served to those present, who were Mrs. Carl McWhorter, Mrs. Carlton O. Todd, Mrs. H. H. Parker, Mrs. Walter Brooks, Mrs. Eugene Pennington, Mrs. R. E. Landreth, Mrs. M. N. Cleveland, Mrs. Gordon Frederick, and Mrs. R. C. Whitmore.

Longwood Group Attends Meeting Held In Oak Hill

The Rev. Lewis C. Futch and Mrs. Futch, pastor of the Longwood Baptist Church, and several members of the congregation attended the annual meeting of the Seminole County Baptist Association held at Oak Hill, Fla., on the 9-10 of October.

Among the long members attending from Longwood were, Mrs. D. R. Gray, Mrs. D. A. Whitehead, Mrs. C. H. McQuillan, Mrs. R. E. Goodwin, Mrs. J. Crump, Mrs. L. C. Tyler and Mrs. P. W. Kelly on Tuesday, Oct. 9, and on Wednesday the Rev. and Mrs. Futch and Mrs. P. W. Kelly attended.

C. Fletmeyer, Miss Hargreave Wed Recently

Two of Sanford's well-known citizens have announced their recent marriage. Miss Clara Hargreave and C. E. Fletmeyer were joined in marriage in a quiet ceremony held in Tampa on Saturday evening.

The lovely bride chose a dress of blue, for the wedding.

Attending the ceremony were Miss Dolores Hargreave, Joey Hargreave, and the groom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Vuuren of Tampa.

Mrs. Fletmeyer has been a resident of Sanford for some time and is well known and liked throughout the city.

Mr. Fletmeyer is known by many as the ex-Navy Chief who recently retired after twenty years service.

For the present time they expect to maintain their home in Sanford, where Mr. Fletmeyer is operating an upholstery-cleaning business.

Miss Martha Hardy Enrolls At College

OVIDEO—We have only recently learned that Miss Martha Jean Hardy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Hardy has enrolled at Bob Jones College, Greenville, S. C.

Miss Hardy attended Orlando Junior College following her graduation from the Ovidio High School in 1931. The next year she worked for Lacey Hall in the Orlando Youth For Christ work. She has had plenty of experience in this field, associating herself with most every branch of the church work since a small child.

Mrs. Hardy says she is taking general subjects at present but will probably major soon.

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN

The big news around the Air Station centers on the return of VAIL-3. Don Walker and Frank Fliton should fly in at any minute, he would find company, in the form of in-laws, as Jean's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Pells are here from Rhinebeck, N. Y. To keep things from getting dull, Larry Fliton sprained his wrist in a fall from a horse.

Captain J. T. Blackburn had a small dinner party at his home in Loch Arbor Wednesday night. A spaghetti dinner was served to Jean Fliton, Louise and Jim Parker, Polly Brubaker, Beryl and Walt Swinson, Jo Symes, Diddle and Hayd Weber and Bob and Ginny Conn. Boyd and Diddle have orders to Quonset Point, Rhode Island, and will be leaving in a month. Treeta and Mike Mitchell of VAIL-3 will be renting the Symes boathouse after the Webers go. Meanwhile Diddle is shopping for clothes, preparing for a month-long visit with her mother in St. Louis, Mo.

Your reporter has just returned from the Girl Scout Cook-Out, so nicely run by Marty Millaps for the first class in Girl Scout leadership held under the Citrus Council. We gathered at Silver Lake at 9:30 a.m. Marty showed us some interesting books on nature which may be found in the public library, and some essential items for Girl Scout camping. Evarae Robb gave a talk on health and safety, with illustrations and anecdotes from her experience with her own troop. These ranged from snake bite to not putting an unopened can of beans in the fire. After this we divided into our own patrols, and built our fires. Flossy patrol, with Lily Buckler as leader, brought dinner in a coffee can, coffee and corn bread. The Eagle Beavers had hotdogs, baked potatoes, cole slaw, brownies, coffee, and limonade, and concluded that they were certainly should have been. Palm patrol contented themselves with hotdogs and celery and carrots—and "some more", which are a famous Girl Scout concoction of graham crackers, chocolate bars, and toasted marshmallows. Needless to say, the Palm patrol finished first and had plenty of time to heckle the rest of us. After we had eaten Marty held a discussion hour, and explained the different types of fires to us. We concluded by singing several Girl Scout songs and playing games. The rest of the day was spent in learning new crafts. This program has been fun for all of us, and we all agree that "Girl Scout is a sister to every other Girl Scout," as stated in one of the laws. This group, which only met a short time ago has learned to work and play and laugh together in a way few could, under the circumstances. I'll agree with Louise Parker when she said the program is SPLENDID.

Those attending the cook-out were Marty Millaps, Puncia Cole, Louise Parker, Patti Loop, Dorothy McClellan, Nell Whittemore, Pat Hansen, Doris Francis, Eleanor McMurphy, Mildred Taylor Doris Housholder, Bettis Linker, Lily Buckler, Sally Weigle, Katy Jackson, Evarae Robb, Betty Place, and Catherine Dunlap.

C. Fletmeyer, Miss Hargreave Wed Recently

Two of Sanford's well-known citizens have announced their recent marriage. Miss Clara Hargreave and C. E. Fletmeyer were joined in marriage in a quiet ceremony held in Tampa on Saturday evening.

The lovely bride chose a dress of blue, for the wedding.

Attending the ceremony were Miss Dolores Hargreave, Joey Hargreave, and the groom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Vuuren of Tampa.

Mrs. Fletmeyer has been a resident of Sanford for some time and is well known and liked throughout the city.

Mr. Fletmeyer is known by many as the ex-Navy Chief who recently retired after twenty years service.

For the present time they expect to maintain their home in Sanford, where Mr. Fletmeyer is operating an upholstery-cleaning business.

Personals

Friends of Mrs. Mildred Babcock will be pleased to hear that she is improving though still confined to Orange Memorial Hospital in Orlando. Her room number is 140.

Mrs. E. D. Binchart has been called to Akron, O., due to the serious illness of her brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stempier are attending a reality convention in West Palm Beach. They expect to return to Sanford on Saturday or Sunday.

Friends of little Carolyn Allis, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allis, of Osteen, will be glad to learn that she is improving, after undergoing surgery on her arm in the Naval Hospital in Bethesda, Md. Mr. and Mrs. Allis and son David, are staying with Mrs. Allis' niece, Mrs. Frank Sherry, in Arlington, Va., while Carolyn is in the hospital. They hope to return in about two weeks.

Academy Cadets One Touchdown Favorite

Head coach Bill Woodruff will bring his Bolles Military Academy Cadets to Memorial Stadium for the annual Kiwanis Benefit game, and will favor the team to win over the Bolles Seminoles.

Both Bolles and Academy are without their star players, and both have two stinging defeats behind them. Both will be on the rebound, and both will be playing "do or die" ball. A tie would be unimpressive for either team.

According to statistics both teams are approximately equal, with Bolles holding the slight edge. But by comparison, which is unreliable, the Seminoles hold the edge. In the season opener Seminoles lost to Cocoa 33-7. Cocoa tangled with Seabreeze and lost them for a 21-13 loss, then

Critical Analysis Of SHS Ends Tackles

The superlative response by the Chi-F's Club to the desperate needs of the Seminole High School athletic program wasn't anticipated. The adoption of the junior high school football project by the club is an excellent example of a progressive organization. Usually it takes months to get the ball rolling in the right direction.

The critical analysis of the individual graders of the Sanford Seminoles will be divided into three sections; the first will consider the ends and tackles, the second the guards and centers, and the third will consider the backs.

If one took all the time that all the ends had played before this season, and rolled it all together into one big sum of playing time, it would not total to more than three games of experience. As the investigation proceeds into the lacks of these boys, it becomes increasingly more apparent that a junior high school football project is in order if the Seminoles are not to be outgrown by their present competition. Such things as speed, coordination, football sense, aggression, and the winning attitude are things that are developed with experience and experience only.

Johnny Williams, the Seminoles most outstanding end and has had no previous game experience at all. He came out for football last year and broke his knee. Williams is a tall fellow (6'7"), has excellent hands for a pass receiver, but he's slow and poorly coordinated. Had Williams been in a football uniform five years ago his speed would probably be double what it now is. He likes the game of football, and he's outstanding because he has the desire necessary to overcome his handicap. This is also the reason he's hard to tackle when he receives.

Bob Little is a tall fellow (6'7"), has a game experience. He didn't dress out for football until he was a Junior. Little has not received hands, and from his lack of experience he lacks good football sense. He's not strong enough to play outstanding defense, and he's easily blocked out. But he has fair speed and is a good downfield blocker. Little is a prime example of unrealized potential. He's a bright boy, and if he had the proper training he would no doubt be of great service to the Seminoles. He's progressing rapidly as he picks up more experience, and his blocking is getting better every day, but this should have been in progress four years ago.

Claude Hittel is out for football for the first time this year. He is, therefore, lacking in game sense and slow reacting. He's not familiar with the aggression of the gridiron as yet and doesn't have a vicious game nature. He's a big boy, though, he's willing, and he has good receiving hands. With enough experience he should season.

Allen Swain is out for football for the first time this year. He's a Sophomore, he's small, but he's tough. Swain isn't mature and strong enough for outstanding play this year, and consequently he's not a good blocker. He's short on speed, but he has good desire. He's showing well defensively, and will probably grow into an outstanding player.

Gerald Jones is out for football for the first time. He's not seasoned, he's slow in speed and in reaction, he's weak on blocking, lacks football sense, and turns in a fair performance on defense.

Here's another example of a boy who should have dressed out for the gridiron years before now. He has a nice pair of hands, and, even though he is a Sophomore, he'd be in demand if he had a couple of years experience under his belt.

Richard Phagan is another Sophomore with no experience in football. He's a big boy; 170 pounds, but without experience he's slow and not a poor receiver. He has small hands, but is pretty fair. He doesn't understand football yet, and he has to overcome that handicap before he will blossom. Only experience will.

The same story is repeated in the tackle position. Meredith Scott is the most seasoned player. He has one year of experience, and is in the most seasoned player. He has only one year of experience, and that was mostly defensive work. Consequently he was weak in blocking early this year. His weakest point is still blocking, but again he's improving with experience. He has fair speed, but has been hindered by a leg injury most of the season. He's smaller than most of the tackles he's opposing, but he's tough, has good desire, and is improving.

Bill Tyne has one year JV experience. He has all the physical qualifications for a good player. Along with his good size is good speed. But he's poor defensively because he lacks aggression. He was a weak blocker at the beginning of the year, but has shown amazing improvement in the last two weeks.

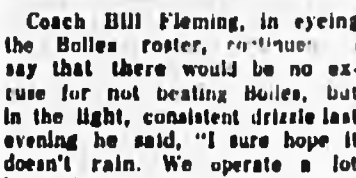

Don Carter is a big boy with no experience. He's exceedingly slow on his feet and in his reactions. He hasn't matured to his size, and he won't play low in the line. He invariably stands straight up and is easily blocked out of the play. This is a common problem with big boys who are short on experience. His size is his greatest asset, but he has to learn how to handle himself.

Charles Pence is an enigma. He has only JV experience, he's slow and lacks aggression. His main fault is lack of ability to react and lack of aggression. But when he was shifted to center, he was one of the outstanding blockers in the line.

Tom Brown has no previous experience. He therefore doesn't understand offense and is weak in that department. But he has desire and drive. He has good reaction, and his aggression makes him a good defensive man. His fair speed and good maneuverability shows up well in boxing in the opposition.

Surely it is evident that experience is the lack of the Sanford Seminoles. Some of these boys probably wouldn't be outstanding even if they did have a lot of experience behind them. But that's completely unknown. There hasn't been a transfer with elementary training in competitive sports, however, that has failed to make the team at SHS.

The place and time where coordination, speed, and confidence are acquired is in the formative years when boys spend rapidly to vigorous exercise. Imagine, if you will, the good material described above with three or four years experience behind them. Sanford always turns out its share of good players, but we have never given them the background to win a championship.

Coach Bill Fleming, in eyeing the Bolles roster, says that there would be no excuse for not beating Bolles, but in the light, consistent drizzle last evening he said, "I sure hope it doesn't rain. We operate a lot better in dry weather."

Terps Injured Will Be Back In Action

CORAL GABLES, Fla. — Big worry of the University of Miami Hurricane coaching staff this week is whether or not University of Maryland's many injured players will be ready to run at top speed this week. All fall, the Terps have been without the services of key men but Maryland's coaches asserted when they were in Miami last Friday, that the outlook was that the injured men will be back in action against Miami.

Maryland, with a 214 pound line, has great defensive skill. Only the fact that the offense has been shackled by injuries and other causes, has kept the Terps into a losing spiral. Even as stout a defense as the mighty Terps has to offer, can't stand off the opposition for 60 minutes.

Miami's line has thus far held the opposition to 2.27 yards per running play but this could be a bit misleading. The South Carolina ball club didn't get the ball in favorable territory too much of the time and so could not come up with the type of plays which do go for sizeable gains while Boston College was primarily a passing team and did not do much running.

Maryland will be tougher. It has at fullback 205 pound Tom Selep, called by many the best line plunger in the Atlantic Conference. If John McVicker is able to start at left halfback, the Hurricanes will have another possible All-conference back to contend with. He was hurt in the Syracuse game and has not been able to play since.

This game will draw the biggest crowd of the year to date. More than 50,000 are expected in the Orange Bowl Friday night to see if the Hurricanes can keep

Panthers Undergo Gamble Exercise This Afternoon

The Crooms Academy Panthers, full of deception and spark, worked out this afternoon in what head mentor Joe Fair called a gamble exercise. "We desperately need the work if we're going to upset Northwestern of Miami," he said, "and we're gambling on no injuries at this late date in an attempt to get in the vital last minute experience."

Crooms takes on the power of Florida's colored high school football tomorrow night in Memorial Stadium in what will be the highlight of the Crooms Academy season, particularly if Fair's hopes for an upset are realized.

"The whole team knew that we'd have to play a superior brand of ball if we were to make the Big 8 Conference, and that's exactly what we intend to do," Fair said.

Game time is tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Memorial Stadium.

Gators Seeking To Match Speed Of Rice Eleven

GAINESVILLE — Speed to match speed is the quality being sought by University of Florida's football Coach Bob Woodruff this week, as the Gators prepare to meet Rice on Florida Field.

"The Owls are not a big team, but Rice has more speed than any team we have played this season," commented Coach Woodruff.

"They are very dangerous on the long run and pass, and they run a lot of sweeps. This creates a different problem for us and we will change our personnel around some."

Woodruff explained that the personnel changes (and he preferred not to mention names yet) would be a matter of selecting the fastest men available.

Speed, he explained, would be recognized ahead of blocking, for example, provided the man who is the best blocker is not fast enough to keep up with such special merchants as Quarterback Frank Ryan.

Ryan is rated by Woodruff as not only a superlative passer but a very dangerous runner on the option. "He (Ryan) chooses to run about half the time after fading back and faking a pass," Woodruff reports.

The Florida coaching staff knows pretty well who are the faster players on the team but would prefer this to be a surprise to Coach Jess Neely and the Owls.

If they looked back through records of recent high school winners in their own State of Texas, Coach Neely and his staff would find there are some pretty fast young men from Texas on the Florida team who could figure in the outcome of the game this week.

They include Halfback John Symank, this week's alternate captain and a senior from Caldwell, Tex., who was a junior college All-American at Arlington, J. C.

Other Texans performing at Florida are End Jim Yeats, regular from Corpus Christi, Center Joel Wahlberg, Corpus Christi, Halfback Billy Booker, Albany, Halfback Dave Fannin, Corpus Christi, and Halfback Don Deal, Corpus Christi.

Lyman's Offensive Formation May Be Changed For Game

Lyman's head mentor Coach Jim Payne hinted today that there may be radical changes in his offensive formation for Saturday night's tilt with the Seabreeze Eagle JV's. According to Payne, his completely vacated fullback spot has really rocked the Greyhounds back on their heels.

Prior to this season the Greyhounds have run from the Single-Wing formation, an offense that relies on power for yardage. At the beginning of the season, Lyman facing the first year as an independent, Payne stated that he had good enough material to make the change to the faster Split-T formation. With his classiest runner on the bench with a broken leg, he's not so sure now.

"Radical changes are terrible on the boys," Payne said this morning, "but we're really suffering from injuries and we're not about to let this game slip by us." He said he didn't know whether he would operate entirely from the Single-Wing or not, and he didn't state definitely if he would even run from the traditional formation.

There's a lot of speculation going on about the secret workouts the boys are getting. The Double-Tween is somewhat a cross between the Split-T and the Single-Wing. But Payne stated, "I still think the Single-Wing is the most consistent formation in football if the boys are rugged enough."

Be sure that everything is in order for projecting your film before the meeting opens. That's the secret of a good smooth showing.

Films Give Variety to Club Programs

Many clubs and organizations have heard their first "meeting come to order" for the season, and program chairmen are looking for good material.

That's why we feel it's a good time to talk about the vast fund of program material that's currently available in professionally-made movies—and at prices well within the budget of even the smallest club group. We think you'll be pleasantly surprised to learn that it's possible to provide an interesting program for as small a rental fee as $1.25 to $2 per film!

Movies are really hard to beat as program material. For they not only offer fine fare for a tiny price, but present a wide enough choice of subject matter to fit any type of program you may be planning.

General interest, pure entertainment, special interest, educational—dramatic or documentary—you can have what you want strictly a la carte! If yours is a literary group, look into the classics of literature available on film. A Mothers' Club and the Parent-Teachers Association will be interested in films on child care and development. The garden club will be pleased with films on flower growing and arrangement. An internationally-minded group would probably be attracted by films about distant lands or perhaps a visit to the United Nations. For farm groups, a film program devoted to specific agricultural problems might well be your best choice.

If you're not familiar with the sources from which rentals may be made, just go to the public library for information. In some cases, you'll find that the library itself has a film-rental department. If not, you will be given a direct lead to a convenient source.

You might also like to know that the Government Printing Office publishes a little fifty-cent handbook, called "A Directory of 2,652 16mm. Film Libraries." If you order a copy, you'll discover an extensive list of film sources in your area—including your state library—along with a description of the type of film carried by each source.

So we say, never underestimate the power of a movie—it may turn out to be the best program material your club ever had!

On the Surface--It's a Treasure

Another treasure uncovered by science which has proved effective in substantially reducing tooth decay is not one to be brushed aside. This treasure—with a name that is a mouthful, too—is sodium lauryl sarcosinate, a "miracle drug." Its action takes place on tooth surfaces and when added to a dentifrice, it performs equally well whether teeth are brushed in the morning and evening only or after each meal.

These results revealed by a two-year research project have recently been published by Dr. L. S. Fosdick of Northwestern University. Young adults in industry and students at three different universities had co-operated to test the effectiveness of the new product.

Behind this research is the belief that decay is caused by acids which attack the surface enamel of teeth. These acids are produced rapidly when bacteria act on foods with a high sugar content. Carbohydrate foods which contain starch—such as enriched bread, cereals, or potatoes—have not been a dental threat, however, since the action of bacteria on these foods is so slow that saliva can easily neutralize any acids which are formed. Bacteria need direction in attacking teeth enamel—support from substances called enzymes. By slowing down the effectiveness of enzymes with the new "miracle drug," acids are prevented from attacking enamel.

"Digging" beneath the surface, dental scientists continue to emphasize, however, that good nutrition—the real treasure—is basic to the formation of strong, healthy teeth. A varied diet which includes enriched bread and cereals, milk, meat, fruits and vegetables is important for everyone, but particularly so for the pregnant woman and the growing child. With a legacy of good nutrition as a starter, care of tooth surfaces assumes its place in dental health.

Nonfarm Workers Show Big Gain

TALLAHASSEE—Nonfarm employment showed a 3,400 gain in August as the Florida economy began its seasonal upswing, reports Industrial Commission Chairman James T. Vecelle.

At 91,000, employment stood at 5.3 per cent or 47,000 above August of last year.

At the same time unemployment was down 400 from July to an estimated 33,800, which was 9.1 per cent below the 39,400 estimate of August 1953.

August employment gains occurred in all major industry groups except service and manufacturing. Construction showed the largest increase, 2,700.

CHAPTER 14

THE MUSIC had started again and Doctor Harridan guided Val onto the dance floor. Her blue eyes smiled at him.

"I'm sorry if I said anything to upset you this afternoon," he said presently. "I was tired and on edge, and we happened to get onto a subject which," he hesitated briefly, "I'd rather not talk about."

"I'd rather not talk about it either," she murmured. "Couldn't we all just forget it?"

"There are some things you can't forget, Miss Alison," he said quietly.

"Since I'm in Miami tonight, Doctor Harridan, couldn't it be Val?" He smiled. Then he added abruptly, in a horrified voice, "Gosh, I'm sorry. I trod on your toe."

There was a pause in which his large handsome face clouded over. "I'm sorry to bring up the subject again," he said. "I thought I'd begun to get over the—the hurt of Eileen's death until this trip."

"But there are some things in life everyone must forget," she said. "Please, Doctor Harridan, you must forget too." Her voice broke slightly. It was almost a plea.

He didn't answer that directly; he said, instead, "If it's to be Val all duty, my name is Bruce. You know, Val," he was obviously intending to change the subject, "I can't tell you how much I'm looking forward to the idea of both of us working together at the hospital in Jamaica."

It was as though he'd picked the words from her brain. Her steps faltered, and again he trod on her toes, but this time she knew it had been her fault.

Then suddenly he grinned down at her. "I feel gay tonight. I'd like to whisk you around the town in an old-fashioned waltz. I feel at last I've met someone who can understand me and whom I can understand. I mean, my glance was both intent and sincere, that I've met someone whom I could really like—or love."

A hand tapped him on the back. "Excuse me, Doctor," Dirk had stepped behind them smiling. They both stopped dancing.

"Excuse you what?" Bruce demanded hoarsely.

Dirk laughed. "Excuse me nothing! But this is an Excuse-me dance, Doctor, or didn't you know? I'm going to claim your partner." His voice was mocking, almost insolently mocking.

"You're darn well not going to claim my partner," Bruce said roughly. "You claimed my partner once before and got away with it. This time I'm going to keep my partner, awne that you are."

Dirk hit him. He hit him quickly and unexpectedly and expertly. Bruce sprawled on the floor. The music stopped. But after an agitated motion from the purser, it started up again, too loudly.

Bruce got slowly to his feet, his large body towering over the slimmer man. "You want to fight?" he asked aggressively.

Dirk shrugged and smiled. "No, of course not. I apologize. Undoubtedly I was drunk." But the mocking note in his voice was plainly discernible as he added, "I really do apologize, Doctor. I'm sure you won't want to make an incident out of this regrettable affair."

Everyone seemed to accept the fact that Dirk had been drunk. The Captain shrugged and muttered that "some fellows couldn't hold their liquor," and added, "especially if they've been under the weather for a couple of days."

Val, of course, knew that Dirk hadn't been drunk. And for the life of her, she couldn't understand just why the attack had been made. Certainly Bruce's words had been offensive, but she felt he had been goaded on by the underlying mockery of Dirk's voice. And she knew too that much more lay behind the incident.

Almost immediately after the incident, Bruce took her arm and walked her out on the deck.

"I should have knocked his block off, shouldn't I?" he said savagely. "I would have, but it would have embarrassed the Captain. He would have had to report the incident to the ship's owners, and it might have reflected on him."

"I think it was very wise of you to accept his apology," she said slowly. "but," she paused and drew in a long breath, "do you really think he's a swine?"

"Of course," he said angrily, and then he added almost like a small boy, "But I am sorry to have brought you into this, Val. Of course it has nothing to do with you."

"But you've both made it my business, haven't you? I wanted to keep out of it, but you've based it tonight so that I can't. Everyone will speak of me, think of me, as the girl two men fought over on the dance floor. It doesn't help me that the girl you fought over is dead, that I am merely incidental." She was fighting to keep from crying.

As though he realized just how she felt, he put one arm about her shoulder and held her gently. "Dirk and I weren't fighting about anyone in the past. As I told you this afternoon, as far as I'm concerned the past is finished."

"How can you expect me to believe that Eileen Featherstone had nothing to do with what happened tonight?" she cried. "If the past is as dead as you ask me to believe, would Dirk have hit you?"

"Can I answer that?"

"No," she agreed.

"But do you care whether it was because of you or Eileen that he hit me?"

She turned her face aside and tried to evade the question. "I suppose all women like to be fought over for themselves."

His arm gripped her shoulder more tightly. "I think you can be quite sure on that score, Val," he said soberly.

A steward approached them and his arm fell from her shoulder abruptly. One of the passengers was ill and wished to see the doctor immediately. Bruce nodded and told the steward he would be there almost at once. "Shall I take you back to the dancing, Val?" he asked quietly.

A slight shudder ran through her. "No. No. I couldn't go back!"

Impatient Patron Ends Up In Jail

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—The scene was peaceful. A man sat under the white apron in the barber's chair, his head nodding to the monotonous snip-snip of the scissors.

The action and dialogue, according to police, went about like this:

Enter impatient customer, identified as Pettie Pearson, 32.

Impatient customer: "I want a haircut and shave."

Barber: "I'm sorry. You'll have to wait. I don't have any empty chairs."

The impatient customer grabs dozing patron by collar and pulls him from the chair.

Impatient customer: "Well, you have an empty chair now."

The apron falls off formerly dozing patron, revealing off-duty policeman Leroy G. Cumming Jr., complete with uniform, revolver and handcuffs.

Patron turned policeman: "All right, buddy. What's the big idea?"

There is a scuffle and the impatient customer runs from the shop, but is apprehended by policeman after a short chase.

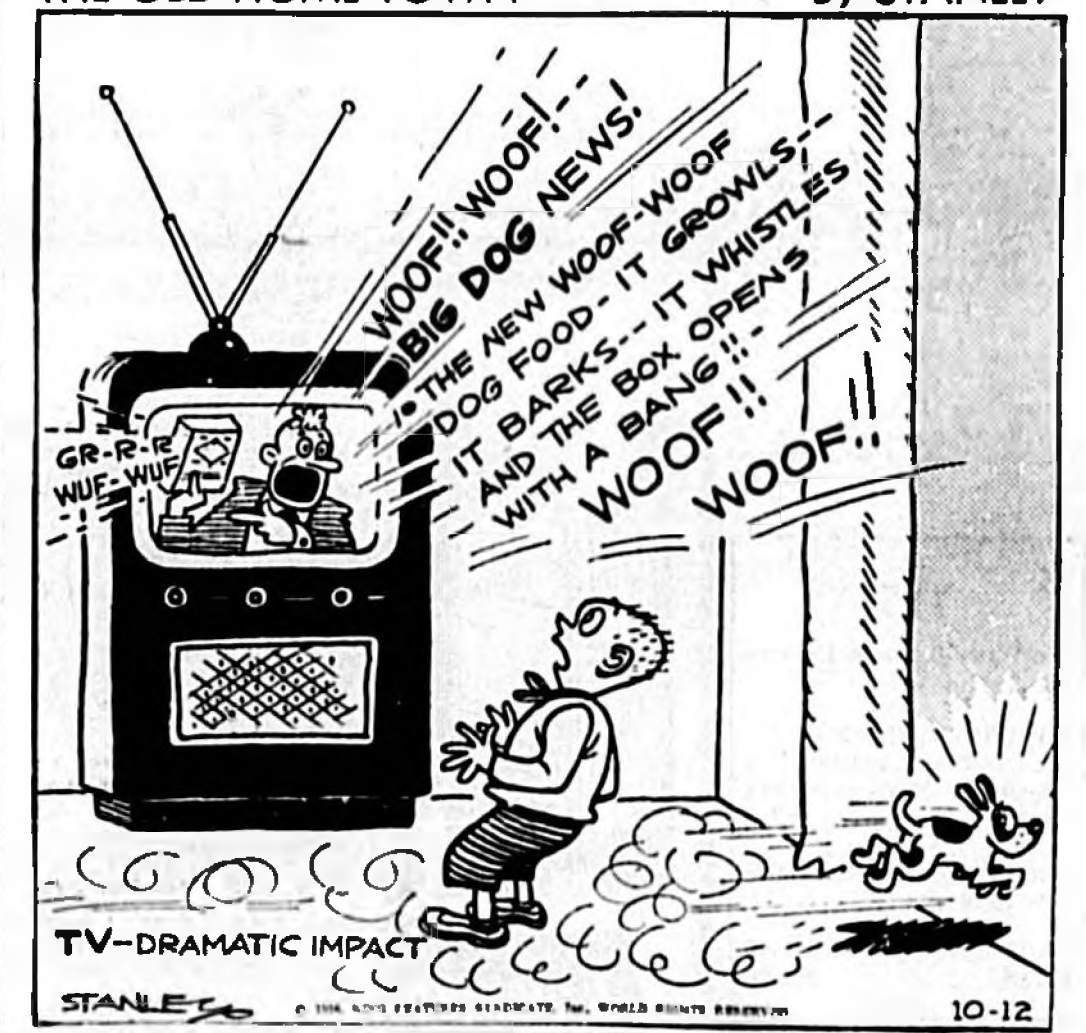

Final scene: Impatient customer booked at police station on disorderly conduct charge and, as the curtain falls, is taken to a cell with the aid of three officers.

Sir Alexander Fleming, one of the discoverers of penicillin, is also the discoverer of the anti-septic lysosome. The latter anti-septic substance is found both in the whites of eggs and in human tears.

Fire Prevention Week Said Complete Success

Committee Adopts Decree Opposing Legalized Betting

At the regular monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, Friday the matter of gambling and the referendum concerning pari-mutuel betting in the county were discussed and the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, we believe that gambling is a moral evil, and
Whereas, we are sure that its extension in Seminole County will bring more corruption than benefit, and
Whereas, we believe that every one of moral integrity should oppose all degrading influences in the community.

Be it therefore resolved: That the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church is opposed to granting any franchise to legalize pari-mutuel betting in Seminole County, and
Be it further resolved: That we shall by every proper means endeavor to discourage a favorable vote on the referendum to permit gambling at the Seminole Raceway to be decided on Nov. 6, 1936, and
Be it further resolved: That notice of this resolution be given to the Sanford Herald, and the Orlando Sentinel-Star, and radio station WTRR.

Adopted by the Executive Committee Friday, October 12, 1936. Rev. David S. Carnell, pastor (Mrs.) J. R. Brooks, secretary.

Among other items of business, the pastor reported that the work on the building was practically completed under the terms of the contract with Sam Lawson. Interior painting will be done in the near future by volunteers of the church.

Plans were approved for a Dedication Service on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 11 at 3:00 o'clock. The Dedication Address will be given by the former pastor, The Rev. Glenn Smith, who was well known during eight years of ministry in Sanford, prior to 1933.

Storm Drifting Toward Miami

MIAMI (AP)—A stormy area of squalls and rain drifted slowly toward Miami today as weathermen scanned it closely for signs of growth into a hurricane.

It lacked most of the characteristics of a tropical storm but it was partly the cause of 60-mile winds that buffeted South Florida all yesterday.

Seas under the disturbance, centered in the Florida Straits a short distance off the Cuban coast, are rough. Tides are expected to be two feet above normal with some flooding along the Southeast Florida Coast and Keys.

Storm warnings posted for yesterday's winds were lowered at Miami this morning. They remained up, however, at other sections of the coast from Melbourne around the Keys to Fort Myers.

Oct. 14-20 Named As Oil Progress Week In Sanford

Mayor F. D. Scott today issued a proclamation officially designating the week of Oct. 14-20 inclusive as "Fire Prevention Week" in Sanford.

The brief ceremony in Sanford was attended by all of the oil company representatives. J. C. Davis, Oil Industry Information Committee representative in Sanford, and spokesman for the group said that "Oil Progress Week is one of our most important annual events." He called attention to the fact that Florida is now consuming more than 2,916,000 gallons of petroleum products annually, an amount equal to 825 gallons per person. This, he added, represents a growth of almost 72 per cent since 1919.

Mayor Scott pointed out in his proclamation that "the history of the American people stands as a testimony to the advantage of freedom and individual initiative over regimentation."

"For nearly a century," the Mayor said, "the men and women of the oil industry have championed the freedom, initiative, and individual liberty on which our nation was founded. Through the practice of these principles the oil industry has come to symbolize the attainment of a standard of living previously unknown."

Mayor Scott said, "The week of Oct. 14-20, inclusive, has been designated Oil Progress Week, when the citizens of this community engaged in the oil business will report to their neighbors on their achievements to date and their plans for the future."

"I invite the attention of our citizens to the many and varied contributions of our business to modern living, and to those freedoms which are the special heritage of this nation, and without which neither the oil industry nor the progress it signifies could exist."

Mayor Scott in his proclamation, and around Sanford will mark the Progress Week. "We're proud to be able to tell our proud story of service and progress," J. C. Davis, Chairman of the Seminole County OIC said.

Spaghetti Supper On Menu Tonight At Legion Session

Spaghetti and meat balls are on the menu tonight at the American Legion meeting—a real Italian spaghetti supper served by George DeMatteo.

Commander Lynn Lyon said today that the supper will get underway at 7 o'clock with the business meeting to follow at 8 o'clock.

A full agenda is expected to confront the Legionnaires at this evening's business meeting. However, bids for the new Fair Building will not be received and opened until Oct. 22, which delays further planning on the Legion Fair Grounds.

A pre-empting report from the Grounds Committee revealed that the new site has been completely cleared and is now ready for sowing grass seed.

Sanford Herald Endorses Congressman Herlong

Central Florida has been literally "bursting at its seams" — and the trend now leads in the direction of the greatest growth of all time.

Such tremendous strides in economic accomplishment for the area and for individual counties and communities can be attributed to the leadership in those positions of trust where progress gets its first stimulation.

The Sanford Herald endorses the candidacy of Congressman A. S. "Syd" Herlong Jr. for re-election as Congressman of the Fifth Congressional District, based solely on the accomplishments during his already brilliant career in the House of Representatives.

Congressman Herlong's activities in Washington and the program he has followed are above reproach. Sanford and Seminole County have benefited beyond estimate from his representation in our Nation's

On issues involving projects, Congressional action, basic law, and other matters pertaining to our city and county, to which Congressman Herlong's attention is called, he has "gone to bat" for us and accomplished for us those things we could not do alone.

We believe that Congressman Herlong has been, and will be, fair and impartial — doing as much for one as he would do for the other.

We know how "Syd" Herlong stands on the big issues confronting our state and nation and we know that he "stands pat" on these issues and will not be swayed one way or the other as he represents the people of his district.

'Mr. Speaker' Lauds Herlong

'We Will Win Smile' Displayed

By J. MARION HARMAN, Sr. It was like a grand and glorious "homecoming" Friday night in Leesburg with Democrats from all over Central Florida gathered to honor Congressman A. S. "Syd" Herlong, Jr. and to meet his guest "Mr. Speaker", Sam Rayburn, himself.

The evening led off with an elaborate buffet supper, served at the Leesburg Elk's Club where County Democratic delegations were introduced to the nation's "Number One gavel rapper", Sam Rayburn.

News photographers had a heyday as they moved with the crowd taking photos of the bigwigs as they conversed genially and informally with "Mr. Speaker".

Sam Rayburn seemed to enjoy being close to Congressman Herlong's Democratic following and betwixt his many years experience among the nation's political circles, felt at ease as he answered questions piled to him from every side.

"Mr. Speaker" displayed his outting of the Jay as the rim of sunburn caused by a sheltering hat showed off an untouched head.

About the largest delegation attending the Democratic Pow-Wow, other than the Leesburg and Lake County group, was from Sanford. Jim Lee, of Ovidio, "Mr. Democrat" of Seminole County, and longtime chairman of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee, with Mrs. Lee, headed the delegation.

Methodists Burn $10,000 Mortgage

A $10,000 mortgage, dated Nov. 10, 1933, on the parsonage of the First Methodist Church was burned by its original signers, L. P. Hagan, Chairman of the Board of Trustees and Z. B. Ratliff, treasurer of the church.

The mortgage was originally made on the basis of a ten-year loan, repayable at $85 per month. However, in the three years, the mortgage has been paid and a certificate of satisfaction received by the church officers.

Ceremony for burning the mortgage followed Rally Day exercises held at the church and Sunday school, and a "dinner on the grounds" which was concluded just prior to the affair.

Rev. Milton Wyatt, pastor of the First Methodist Church, spoke briefly to the large group gathered to witness the ceremony and named the officials appointed to head the committee.

The Parsonage Committee, named by R. U. Hutchison, Chairman of the Church's Board were: W. B. Nicholson, chairman, M. R. Strickland, Judge R. W. Ware, J. C. Davis and Frank Adams. They were named in Sept., 1933.

Those burning the mortgage were: Z. B. Ratliff, who set fire to the paper, and L. P. Hagan, who held the burning document until it was reduced to ashes.

C. Redman Named To DeBary CofC Board Of Directors

DE BARY—At an Oct. 3 meeting of the Business and Professional Division of the De Bary Chamber of Commerce, Curtis E. Herlong was nominated for membership on the Board of Directors of the local CofC, according to an announcement made by the secretary of the De Bary Chamber of Commerce, Mrs. Edythe S. Peterson.

Herlong's nomination was approved at the regular meeting of the Board on Oct. 7, with his term of office running to Jan. 1, 1938, according to the announcement.

The secretary calls attention to the next meeting of the Business and Professional group to be held at 7 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce office.

Purpose of the meeting, said Mrs. Peterson, in her announcement, is to consider reactivating the work for the Division.

However, A. L. Lincoln, President of the De Bary Chamber of Commerce, will address the Business and Professional Division tonight and then retire from the meeting previous to the deliberations.

Garden Club Slates Luncheon Thursday To Honor Writers

The Sanford Garden club will hold a covered dish luncheon and reception Thursday at noon in the Shrine building, in honor of Mrs. Fred B. Noble and her daughter, Miss Mary Noble, horticultural experts of Jacksonville, Garden clubs of De Bary, Geneva and Ovidio are invited to attend this important occasion which will mark the first appearance in this city of these well-known writers, whose articles appear in most of the monthly garden magazines sponsored by the state federation; in the Jacksonville Times-Union and in the New York Times.

Their inspirational talks on indoor plants, on garden clubs and orchid growing are eagerly anticipated by local circles. Mrs. Noble was for a long time on the governing board of the Jacksonville Garden club and is a past president of the Women's club. During her administration the beautiful clubhouse on Riverside Avenue was built. She has been, for years, publicity chairman of the Garden club of Jacksonville and is now official garden editor of the Florida Times-Union.

Mary Noble has written four books on horticulture: Courage Craft (with Glau Rebeck); Plant Inlors (with J. L. Merkel); You Can Grow Orchids (in its second printing) and one to be published this month, Gardening in a Small Greenhouse (in collaboration with J. L. Merkel).

Everyone is requested to bring a covered dish. Talks will be given by the guests of honor and they will be followed by a brief business session.

Farm Bureau Will Elect Directors At Monthly Meet

The Seminole County Farm Bureau's monthly membership meeting will be held tomorrow night at the Seminole High School agricultural building.

A covered dish supper will be served at 7:30 p. m. with the farm bureau furnishing the main course. Families are asked to bring a covered dish of their own choice, said W. W. Lint, president of the Seminole County farm group.

At the business meeting of the bureau which follows the supper at 8 o'clock there will be an election of directors for the next year.

Also to come up will be a discussion of the proposed agricultural resolution to be presented at the annual Florida Farm Bureau Convention in Fort Myers at the end of the month.
