BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH. "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"---SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

I very seldom go out of my ball-wick to talk politics but just now on the eve of the resignation of Secretary Bryan I will make a few predictions. I have been a life long friend and admirer of W. J. Bryan but I hate a quitter and so does every other red blooded American and that Bryan has quit right in the middle of a period of intensity in public affairs does not help him in the eyes of the people. If he really resigned because he was afraid of the time of President Wilson's letter then he should not be criticised, but now that the letter has been made public there seems to be no real reason for Mr. Bryan to be alarmed.

If he quit to engage in a campaign for the presidency then he has already lost because he will never again get the ear of the American people in the future as he has in the past. He has been great on theory but when the crucial moment then he quit and all his theories did not prevail in the crisis. President Wilson has demonstrated that he was even greater than Bryan and those who have been saying that Bryan was the man behind the administration will now have to acknowledge that Bryan has only been Secretary of State and nothing more and he could not hold this position when the country engaged in big affairs. Wilson has gained more prestige by his firm decision and he will be the logical candidate for all the Democrats and many of the progressive Republicans in the next campaign. He has proved to be the man while Bryan, our former idol only has the feet of clay and cold clay at that. I hate to lose my respect for W. J. Bryan but his actions do not suit me at all and that is all there is to it. This is my private opinion publicly expressed and others can believe as they wish.

Say,
Do you remember when you were a kid,

How they used to tell you
About throwing a pebble into a pond,
And how it made a ripple,
That went on and on, and on, and on,
Until it reached the distant shore,
Or something like that?
When you got big enough
You went to the minstrel show
And saw the end man
And the middle man
Show how a quarter of a dollar
Paid off ten dollars worth of debts
In about five minutes,
By passing from Tambo to Bones,
And from Bones to Rastus,
And from Rastus to Ephram,
And from Ephram to Lijah,
And so on around the half circle?
And then, when you were sent up
To college,
The high-brow Professor
Tried to explain the same thing?
You remember?
Well,
This is no talk on Political Economy
Or anything like that;
It's just a gentle hint
To the right effect. Now
Is a good time for you
To start a little of your own.
A good time
To start your dollars
Moving around the circle.
Pay off your debts.
Buy what you need,
And buy it now.
Get things started.
Put your money in circulation,
That's good sense,
And patriotism.
And good business.
Every ripple in the pond,
No matter how small
Helps break the stagnation,
Get busy
And make a splash.
"Buy it now,"
And get your money back,

tor vehicle required to be registered shall not run the same at a rate of speed exceeding FOUR MILES per hour, and shall at all times while on the public highways have said motor vehicle under perfect control.

Section 8. Upon approaching any person walking in the road way or a public highway, or a horse or horses, or other draft animals, being ridden, led or driven thereon, a person operating any such registered motor vehicle shall give ample signal or warning of its approach, and use every reasonable precaution to ensure the safety of such person or animal, and in case of horses or other draft animals, to prevent frightening the same.

Section 15. Penalties for Excessive Speed, etc.—The violations of any of the provisions of Sections 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 of this Act shall be deemed a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars for the first offence, and punishable by a fine not less than fifty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding thirty days, or both, for a second offence, and punishable by a fine not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars and imprisonment not exceeding sixty days for a third or subsequent offence.

HEALTH CAMPAIGN

Once more Florida is making a new advance in the fight for tuberculosis. It is putting into operation a plan which it is expected will secure a careful survey of the entire state to enumerate and locate the consumptives in Florida and spread a knowledge of the treatment of the disease that is within the reach of those of most limited means.

Florida's Board of Health does not oppose the sanitarium treatment of this disease. It advocates it for those whose financial circumstances permit them to take advantage of the splendid discipline and attention that it insures. The Board has realized that the erection of such sanitarium in Florida, for both races and sexes is beyond the practical financial reach of the state, when it is remembered that the state of Ohio has expended nearly three-quarters of a million dollars for such an institution, which has a capacity for 142 patients only, while the census of the state shows more than sixty thousand patients entitled to its benefits. But the Board appreciates and favors the practical value of the open air treatment which is within the reach of even the poorest. Within the past few weeks plans have been completed to put into operation, July 1, the district nursing idea and to cover Florida with this practical work.

Resolved, That an effort be made by this board to get authority of law to issue interest bearing time warrants, extending over a period of fifteen (15) years, to bear interest at six per cent (6 per cent), said issue to be for the sum of $100,000.00, $65,000.00 to be used in connecting up the Sanford and Orlando road; $15,000.00 to be used on the Geneva road, and $20,000.00 to be used on Oviedo road.

Adopted this 19th day of May, A. D. 1915.

By V. E. Douglass, D. C.

Sanford, Fla., May 19, 1915.

Honorable Board of County Commissioners in and for Seminole County met by call of chairman, at 10 a. m.

Present—L. P. Hagan, chairman; C. W. Entzinger, L. A. Brumley, J. A. Clark and J. T. McLain; E. A. Douglass, clerk and Geo. A. DeCottes, attorney, present.

Chairman L. P. Hagan stated that the object of the meeting was in behalf of good roads.

It was agreed that Attorney Geo. A. DeCottes be instructed to draw a bill to be forwarded to Representative Forrest Lake, authorizing the issuing of $100,000.00 of 6 per cent interest bearing warrant for a term of fifteen years.

The following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, it is the desire of this county to build a hard surfaced road from Sanford to Geneva, and from Sanford to Oviedo, also to connect the brick road from the end of the present brick road leading to Orlando, with said brick road being constructed by Orange county; there-

COUNTY HAPPENINGS

LAKE MARY ITEMS

W. V. Dunn made a trip to Sanford Monday.

R. N. Poston and Mrs. Evans made a business trip to Sanford Tuesday.

Miss Helen Iserman left Saturday for her home at Monroe, after closing a very successful term of school here.

A. K. Nelson left Saturday for his home in Iowa, Kansas, after a two months visit with friends in the vicinity of Lake Mary and Sanford. During his stay here Mr. Nelson has made a great many friends who regretted seeing him leave.

The picnic here last Friday was fine and was attended by a large number of patrons and friends of the school. One of the most important features of the morning was the track meet. This consisted of nine events, with prize winners as follows:

100 yd dash (first), Donald Dunn.
50 yd dash (first), Adolph Sjoblom.
Three legged race (first), John Henry Lundquist, Elmer Thompson.
Sack race (first), Teddy Dunn.
Relay race (first team), Donald Dunn, Fred Lee, William Dunn, Elmer Thompson.
Potato race (first), Donald Dunn.
High Jump (first), Fred Lee.
Broad Jump (first), Fred Lee.

Then followed a bounteous dinner which displayed the hospitality and ability of the ladies.

The ladies' mail driving contest early in the afternoon was as exciting as it was interesting. Mrs. H. D. Durant won first prize, driving ten ten-penny nails into a solid two by ten board in less time than it takes to tell it. The program of the children in the afternoon was in two parts, the first being a cantata, for which the stage was decorated to represent Flowerland and the various flowers were impersonated by children dressed in appropriate costumes. The flowers were introduced by Donald Dunn and Fred Lee as heralds, and each sang a song in answer to the call of the heralds. The snow drop was represented by six first grade boys. The violet by Mattie Bell Poston. Forgetmenot by Caniela Durant. Daisy by Ruth Iserman. Poppy by Julia Nyland. Rose by Mary Sans Farino.

In the second part the idea of patriotism was carried out in decorations as well as in songs and recitations and drills of the children.

During the entire day ice cream cones were sold on the picnic grounds by the ladies of the C. E. Society for the benefit of the fund going towards painting the church. There was $9.60 cleared.

Some of the out of town visitors were Capt. R. B. Smith, W. F. Wickham, Mr. Norman Swanson, George Smith, Misses Winnie Smith and Flora Pearson, Mrs. Thompson and children and Mrs. Ballinger Row and Mrs. G. V. Albertson, H. Iserman and family. A good sermon was delivered by Bro. Albertson at 7:30 o'clock and everybody departed happy but tired.

Miss Iserman is an excellent teacher and all one could wish for. Many thanks to her for the past term. Much credit is due her for the praise Lake Mary gets for having such a good school, and it is the request of the patrons to have her here another term and it is believed that she left with that expectation.

GRAPEVILLE AND UPSALA

Mrs. W. Evans visited a few days

Florida's Children's Home Society. It must be apparent that a person qualified to undertake such large and important work must be fitted not only professionally, but she must have keen discernment, quick perception, and be able to comprehend readily social conditions that come under her observation and she must meet them with tact, hence the appointment on this committee of a lay member to judge of qualifications from the sociological standpoint.

The work of these nurses by force of circumstances must extend far beyond advice regarding the treatment of tuberculosis. It must include, if it is to be fully efficient the wisdom to correct insanitary conditions, to advise intelligently as to the children's diseases and the many ills that commonly occur in rural communities more or less remote from the direct activities of local or city health boards and where the services of the physician are not readily and quickly available.

It is a work of possibly immense benefits to the people of the state as it practical advice regarding the home, open air treatment of tubercular its successful issue will warrant its speedy and wide extension by the employment of a larger force of capable, self sacrificing women.

at his mother's at Lake Mary, returning home Sunday evening.

Miss Ruth Bergquist made a short visit last week in Sanford to Mrs. Elmer Lundquist. A party was recently given in her honor at Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lundquist's on her birthday, but we did not get the names of those who attended.

Glad to see Miss Laura Parker out from town to attend Sunday school.

Mrs. J. A. Vaughn and Mrs. Thompson were callers on Mrs. Geo. Clark and also on Mrs. W. Evans on Thursday afternoon.

Anjelo Sansoverino attended the Lake Mary picnic. His sister Mary took a nice part there in the exercises.

J. A. Thompson was recently called to Kissimmee by the death of his half brother, Tommy.

Those who attended the picnic and closing day exercises of the Lake Mary school were well repaid, for a warm welcome and a splendid program awaited all who came. Those from our Sunday school were Mrs. J. A. Thompson, Robert and Andrew, Miss Olga Vihlen and Eric, Mrs. W. Evans and baby, Mrs. Ballinger, John Henry and Elmer Lundquist and in the auto Mr. Norman Swanson, Miss Ebba Stedt and Miss Edna Thompson. John Henry and Andrew wore the prize for the three-legged race. The day was perfect and everything else went off to match. All taking part did well and especially those in the boys' march, showing much practice on their part and the excellent training and patience of the teacher. We also very much enjoyed the talk of our Sunday school missionary and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Albertson of DeLand, the latter giving us a fine recitation.

Last Thursday evening at the Presbyterian church Rev. Steingmeyer and Dr. Phillips of Sanford favored with a sermon and heart to heart talk, which was very much appreciated by those present, and we hope to have them with us again when we get the organ fixed.

Dr. Denton comes out daily to see Mr. Geo. Clark, though his foot is progressing as well as could be expected. He hopes in a week perhaps to be able to step on it.

Mr. Elmer Lundquist and wife are moving out from town today, for the present into Mr. Axel Nyland's house.

Children's Day Sunday at the Presbyterian church.

MAKING LAKE FRONT A DIF- FICULT TASK

BUT THE NEW DREDGE IS OBTAINING SOME GOOD RESULTS

The bulkheading will now proceed at a rapid gait if present indications mean anything. For the past few months the outlook for the early completion of the filling in has not been rosy, although the people had faith in the men who were in charge. Finally it has been decided to make some changes and last Saturday Messrs. Mahoney and Walker bought out the interest of Mr. Ogrum and a new man was placed in charge of the dredge work. He is Martin Nicholson of Jacksonville and having had twenty-two years of experience in this line of work ought to know the business thoroughly. Mr. Ogrum is an experienced contractor and concrete man but had only a slight knowledge of dredging and striking the hard pan and clay soil of the lake bed here the work was too difficult for his dredge machinery and finally gave it up, after a perfect understanding with his partners here and a satisfactory arrangement.

The seawall constructed by Mr. Ogrum is one of the best in the state and will be a monument to his name for many years to come. The filling in of the bulkhead is an arduous task and one that cannot be too lightly estimated but Mr. Nicholson thinks he has solved the difficulty and his dredge is now working full time and accomplishing results.

St. Augustine Has Fire

St. Augustine, June 18.—St. Augustine again suffered a serious conflagration Tuesday afternoon. A blaze which originated in the negro section of the town destroyed seventeen buildings, entailing a loss of not less than $29,000.

For a time it was impossible for the local department to get the fire under control. It was spreading rapidly and it was believed that it would be necessary to call for assistance from Jacksonville. After stubborn resistance for nearly two hours and after dynamiting several structures in the path of the blaze, it was finally gotten under control at 5 o'clock. The fire started about 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The conflagration was centered in the best of the negro section of the city and the First Baptist church, colored, was among the structures reduced to ashes.

Because of the fact that the motor apparatus of the fire department was undergoing repairs, it was impossible for the firemen to reach the scene as early as otherwise.

Land Case Settled

The case of F. X. Miller vs. J. E. Pace in ejectment suit that has occupied the attention of the court here for the past ten days has been settled, the jury bringing in a verdict for the defendant, J. E. Pace. The case has attracted some attention on account of the bearing it would have on similar cases and the prominence of the parties to the suit. The land in question was owned by Mrs. Miller of Gainesville or her heirs and went to the state for taxes many years ago, afterward being purchased by Chas. H. Lefler and others of this city. The Miller heirs afterward claimed the land and brought suit for ejectment against the owners, one of whom happened to be J. E. Pace and his suit was the first one tried. The attorneys for the plaintiff were Jones & Jones of Orlando and T. B. Ellis, Jr., of Gainesville. The defendants were represented by Dickinson & Dickinson of Orlando and Sanford. The case was contested hotly by both sides and finally went to the jury with a verdict for the defendants as cited above.

George Nienpopoulos is in Jacksonville this week arranging for his fixtures for the new restaurant in the Woodruff block and also engaging a good chef. The new restaurant promises to be one of the best in south Florida.

Congregational Church

Next Tuesday the pastor leaves for a short vacation in South Florida; the remainder of the vacation, about two weeks, will be spent in Sanford; so there will be no church service for about one month, after next Sunday, the Sunday school and C. E. Society keeping up as usual. Next Sunday morning the theme for consideration will be "How to Read the Bible," the last on the series on the Bible.

In the evening the memorial service before the Modern Woodmen will be observed.

Our church will unite during July and August in the union services hereafter to be announced.

State News

A Gainesville dispatch says "With an enrollment of about 300, the largest in its history, the summer school for teachers opened at the University of Florida today. The exercises incident to the auspicious opening included welcoming addresses by President Murphee of the university, Dr. J. L. Kelley, superintendent of Alachua county schools, and Captain George M. Lynch, state supervisor of rural schools.

One of the first things taken up by the Chamber of Commerce for St. Augustine, when this active trade body was formed some two years ago, was the question of securing an eighteen-hole golf course for St. Augustine. It was realized that the popularity of no resort city could be maintained without this popular game, and that the two nine-hole courses which St. Augustine has were by no means sufficient for the city's needs.

The third district in Brevard county, the Melbourne district, Tuesday voted a bond issue of $150,000 for good roads. The vote for the bonds was two to one. This assures the paving of another link in the great highway rapidly being built down the East Coast through the various counties as the East Coast highway will be paved from Melbourne south to the St. Lucie county line. It also assures the completion of the west branch of the Dixie highway from here to Kissimmee.

A Lady Lake dispatch says: "Lyle Robbins, aged 17 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Robbins was drowned in Lake Hermosa Saturday afternoon while bathing in the lake just in front of his home. He was a good swimmer and diver but it is supposed he became unconscious while swimming and sank to rise no more.

By a vote averaging 70 to 40, New Smyrna Tuesday decided to issue $42,000 in bonds for school purposes. The contest over the issue of bonds has been very spirited, and on the last days grew very bitter, both sides working with vim, vigor and vituperation. The proposition was submitted in three sections: For new school site, $5,000—vote, 60 for to 52 against. For new building, $35,000—vote, 64 for to 54 against. For refunding indebtedness—vote, 90 for to 26 against.

An election was held Tuesday at Seabreeze and Daytona Beach to vote on the question of bonding for $50,000 for building and improving school facilities. The election carried by a vote of 48 for to 3 against.

The jitney bus is working wonders in DeLand and Volusia county. With a fare of only 40 cents to DeLeon Springs and return (22 miles); $1.00 to Daytona Beach and return (50 miles); 10 cents to Blue Lake and return, 4 miles, the fare by auto is cheaper than by rail. For years some of our people have been hoping that a trolley system would be built connecting the St. Johns with the Halifax and the coast. No trolley system could be operated at this rate. With good roads and a more hickly settled country between DeLand and the coast, these rates can be maintained. However, it costs about 4 cents a mile to run the average automobile, without counting the expense of the driver; at 2 cents per mile per passenger, at least 4 passengers must be carried to pay expenses. The jitney is a great convenience for those who do not own cars.

Prof. Harvey is in the city this week looking after the piano business for the Cable Co. He is now residing in Jacksonville but his many Sanford friends are always glad to see him here.

NEW FACTORIES START SANFORD FACTORY CITY

BRASS FOUNDRY AND MACHINE WORKS AND A NEW BOTTLING ESTAB- LISHMENT LATEST ADDITIONS

Sanford is rapidly coming into the class of Florida cities that foster manufacturing of all kinds and while the city as a city offers very little in bonuses the location of the city appeals so strongly to the man who contemplates the site for a factory that he is usually willing to come without the customary grant of lands and free taxes. This city has no large factories but many smaller plants are springing up in various parts of the city and there are others contemplated.

Among the new ones opened up this week are the Sanford Brass Foundry & Machine Works and the Bludwine Bottling Co.

The former is under the master hand of C. B. Rhoades, better known as "Dad" Rhoades and he is recognized as one of the best machinists in the business. Mr. Rhoades has recently built a freeproof machine shop and foundry on Second street and the A. C. L. tracks, just south of the shop of S. O. Shinholser and the plant is well equipped to take care of all the business of this part of Florida. The Sanford Brass Foundry & Machine Works is just what the name implies and Mr. Rhoades will make all kinds of brass castings for all kinds of purposes. Everything in the machinery line will be repaired in this shop and this will be a great convenience to the people of this section who can now get all their work done here at home. Another specialty of the new machine shop will be the oxyacetylene welding which is an innovation in the world of mechanics and demonstrates that Dad Rhoades has an up to the minute shop in every particular.

The Bludwine Bottling Co. has opened up a factory in the Pico building and have a well equipped place for the bottling of the famous drink called Bludwine. Harris & Robinson are the proprietors of the new plant and they have the counties of Seminole, Lake, Volusia and Orange for the sole right to bottle and sell Bludwine. This new drink is a vegetable compound and is not a dope of any kind and has proven to be most popular in every section where it has been introduced.

Messrs. Harris & Robinson expect to carry an advertisement in The Herald telling the people all about Bludwine and they will also advertise with poster and other matter. For the present they will confine their attention exclusively to the bottling of Bludwine and make this drink their specialty.

They extend a cordial invitation to the public to call on them at their factory in the Pico block and see how the Bludwine is made and bottled and also try a sample bottle.

ADDRESS OF REV. STEINMEYER TO ODD FELLOWS

ELMER E. ROGERS

Last Sunday afternoon, June 13th local Lodge I. O. O. F. No. 27, held memorial services in the Star Theatre. The services were impressively conducted by Acting Noble Grand, Mr. Geo. E. Taratus. As they were being given one was made to feel something of the depth of brotherhood in the human soul when, if only for a few hours it is free from action in the vicious hand to mouth struggle for existence in modern life.

When attending such a meeting, sad though it be, one rejoices for the flame of divine LOVE, TRUTH and FRIENDSHIP, kept burning by such fraternities as the I. O. O. F. In fact there comes out of one's heart the conviction that such fraternities are the divinely appointed tenders of the sacred fire into the glad day when all men may be joined and held in one universal brotherhood HERE ON EARTH by a more practical knowledge of the inspired plan of Jesus Christ.

I. O. O. F., like Free Masonry had its rise out of the human soul to promote and preserve unity, and to practice genuine fellowship among members of their craft.

Both had their beginning with the artisans of their respective crafts for their mutual protection and recognition as well as for the advancement of their noble arts.

Both orders having had their birth from out the womb of the working class struggled to maintain their universality.

The history of Free Masonry being much older, as an organization, holds thousands of hallowed memories, gathered amidst the rise and crash of empires and tense conflicting opinions.

The history of both orders is sacred, not alone to their immediate members but to all mankind because their principles and practices have become a world force, a practical demonstration of LOVE, TRUTH, JUSTICE, FRIENDSHIP.

When contemplating the history of these noble orders, rising out of the working class and others, of a kindred character; when reviewing the life and mission of Jesus Christ; when studying the great steps taken by the race in successive advanced stages, it is too much to hope that the solidarity of mankind may be yet achieved wherein economic justice for each individual in society, from the lowest to the highest may be realized?

If we have faith in Jesus as the only begotten Son of God, we must likewise have faith in the realization of the prayers of Jesus who taught his disciples to pray for God's kingdom on "earth as it is in heaven."

The following program was rendered:

- 1. Opening Ode, sung by Brother Odd Fellows.
- 2. Invocation by Rev. Steinmeyer.
- 3. Song, "We Will Never Say Good Bye," sung by Messrs. C. L. Cook, E. T. Woodruff, P. S. Fortson and W. H. Wright.
- 4. Memorial Words to Bro. W. H. Underwood, deceased, July 15th, 1914, by Acting Noble Grand.
- 5. Song, by quartet and audience, "Nearer My God to Thee."
- 6. Brief address by Rev. Steinmeyer who said in part:

The life and character of Jesus Christ brought to the world a message which takes from DEATH its venom and sting. Under the inspiration, illumination and instruction of Jesus Christ, we look at death and the loss of a comrade with hope, with a sadness void of utter despair because we feel and know that only a mist exists between us and our dear ones in heaven, where "We Will Never Say Good Bye."

To the heart filled with the Savior's truths, DEATH, is merely going down to the depot with our loved-ones to bid them Godspeed to the throne of mercy, to the throne where we shall soon join. Therefore, when we consider the purposes of these services it is only to recall those men who have preceded us, to keep them in sacred memory as our brothers.

When a comrade says "good bye" he takes on immortality and passes up the golden paths of Heaven, and thus, with this confidence one can look DEATH the grim monster in the face without the icy shudder born of pagan fear and hopelessness.

There is but one death mentioned in the "Good Book" which we should fear and that is the Second Death—that Death is one of horror; it is the Death that closes the light of Heaven!

It is not expected of me on this occasion to eulogize Mr. Underwood or any other brother. It is no man's province to do so, for the best we can reign here for ALL is my prayer. In the broader sense we can do justice to no man's life, for it is the book of each man's life, written on each page of his daily discourse among us that is vital. And being his autobiography it lies open to you

Methodist Church Services

The services for next Sunday have been planned with considerable care and those interested in the welfare of the Kingdom of God and the Methodist church in Sanford are cordially invited to be present at all services.

Sunday school 9:45. Special feature in the Brotherhood Class.

Sermon by pastor. Subject, "The Open Door."

The chairman of the building committee will make a statement of interest to the congregation at the close of sermon. Reception of members.

Senior Epworth League, 6:45. Subject, "God's Spirit Directing the Soul Winner."

The evening sermon will be delivered by the pastor. His subject will be "Where Do I Stand." This subject is taken from the last night the Savior spent with his disciples. The most thrilling in his earthly life. All are welcome and are asked to take part in the singing the old hymns, a feature in these services.

Mrs. Barnes in Recital

The following from the Whitville (N. C.) News will be of interest to the many Sanford friends of Mrs. J. W. Barnes:

Whiteville people who failed to attend the recital at the auditorium last Monday evening missed an entertainment such as is rarely to be obtained outside city concert halls. Mrs. Olga White Barnes proved her ability as a reader and impersonator to the tune of repeated encores.

Mrs. Barnes is perhaps at her best in dialect work, her impersonations of the humorous negro characters being perfect in every detail. Her dramatic work, however is excellent, for she possesses a wonderful control of the voice by which she can hold and touch her hearers without having recourse to the exaggerated gestures and expressions so common among readers. Worthy of special mention is her interpretation of that beautiful work by Henry Van Dyke: "The Story of the Other Wise Man."

Pictures at Parish House

Tomorrow evening, June 19, there will be shown as usual a feature this time of three reels and in addition a reel of comic pictures. The three reel feature will be "The Tip-Off," an American drama. These pictures come from the Balboa-Pathé Company and should be the very finest. The first show will start at seven fifteen.

Clam Chowder at Smyrna

New Smyrna will celebrate the glorious Fourth on the fifth of July and they want every one to help them celebrate and hereby extend a hearty invitation to Sanford people to come over to the beach on that day and eat clam chowder with them. There will be other events and of course the ocean is still free to all who desire to go in bathing and the fishing is good also.

to be cherished in memory according to the deeds of its writer, or to be forgotten according to the deeds of its writer "for as a tree falleth so it shall lie."

Our lives need MORE FLOWERS NOW. If we do not in times of trials and stress pluck roses and place them close to the lives of comrades then we have lost our opportunity to demonstrate brotherhood.

Under the burdens of life we need the looks of approval of our brethren to fight life's battles and to fight temptations, remembering that it is not the deed we HAVE DONE but the deed we have LEFT UNDONE that hurts at the setting of life's sun.

How many of us did the son's part or the brother's part in life, as looking back to our parental homes, we see in memory' vision some shrouded form being taken to a sainted sepulchre?

How many of us plucked the rose of applied LOVE, TRUTH and FRIENDSHIP, and placed it near the nostrils of the dear-ones?

Yes! Yes! let us not wait until the loved one or until our brother lay in cold, clammy death to give flowers. Let us do it NOW in WORDS, LOOKS and ACTS, and thus help to bring God's Kingdom near into this life, that TRUTH, LOVE and FRIENDSHIP may reign here for ALL is my prayer.

7. Song, "That Beautiful Land," sung by quartet, consisting of Messrs. C. L. Polk, E. T. Woodruff, P. S. Fortson and K. R. Murrell.

8. Benediction by Rev. Steinmeyer.

PROGRESS IS BEING MADE IN SOUTHEAST

BUSINESS BETTER AND NEW BUILDING ARE BEING BUILT

Columbus, Ga., June 18.—The Industrial Index says in its issue for this week:

"Two Alabama counties have arranged for the construction of a highway through a rich agricultural and mineral district. Another Alabama county has awarded a contract for the building of a first class road. A district of a Florida county has voted $400,000 of road construction bonds and a district of another Florida county has awarded a contract for the construction of 22 miles of roads; still other Florida counties and districts will vote upon the issuance of road construction bonds in the following sums: $600,000, $350,000, $110,400 and $90,000. A district of a Mississippi county has voted $50,000 of road construction bonds.

"These items are from the construction news of this week. In some instances the figures involved are somewhat larger than usual, but as a whole these items reflect very accurately the road building activity in the southeast.

"There cannot be a full degree of progress without the providing of first class highways, and there cannot be construction of first class highways without progress; so that the road building in the south demonstrates in unmistakable manner the general development of this section.

"Eastern owners of an 80,000 acre tract in Florida will improve it and subdivide it into small farms, the improvements to include the construction of an electric railway and building of highways.

Contracts have been awarded for the construction in Rome, Ga., of three river bridges to cost a total of $210,000.

"Among the items of construction work to be done as reported this week, are:

Apartment houses, Augusta, Ga., and Clermont harbor, Miss.; bank buildings, Brooklet, Ga., and Lapine, Ala.; factory building, Birmingham, Ala.; hospital building improvements, Charleston, S. C.; paving, Brooksville, Fla.; sanitarium building, Clayton, Ga.; telephone building, Key West, Fla.; warehouse, Trly, Ala.

Apartment houses, Birmingham and Montgomery, Ala.; church building, Charleston, S. C.; factory building, Ft. Myers, Fla., and Northport, Ala.; club house, Shelby county, Ala.; school buildings, Atlanta and Albany, Ga., and Blackburg, S. C.; office building, Birmingham, Ala.; theatre building, Birmingham, Ala.

A lumber company with capital stock of $300,000 has been organized at Grayson, Ga. Meat packing plants will be established in Andalusia, Ala., and Huntville, Ala., the one in the former to cost $125,000 and in the latter $50,000. A company has been formed with a capital stock of $50,000 to mine zinc in northern Georgia. An addition will be made to a cotton mill in Anderson, S. C. An ice and cold storage plant will be established in Charleston, S. C., and a refrigerating plant in Jacksonville, Fla. A vehicle factory will be established in Birmingham, Ala. Construction of a railroad line in southern Alabama has been resumed.

"Seven new corporations have been formed during the week with a minimum capital stock of 50,000.

Counterfeit Dollars in State

St. Petersburg, June 18.—Deputy United States Marshal Reynolds, of Tampa was in St. Petersburg for several days on private business, but while here made an investigation of a complaint that counterfeit money is in circulation here. He said that somebody sent him a silver dollar, undoubtedly a counterfeit, and asked that investigation be made of its origin. It is understood that a very small amount of the bad money has appeared in this city and it is thought that it found its way here accidentally.

SPEAKING OF SPURS
 The Dixie highway "spur" which Sanford secured last week induced Editor Holly of the Herald to write exactly one column of cold blooded, icy facts about why the Seminole county capital was not represented at the first meeting of the Central Florida Highway Association at Kissimmee, and why they refused to eat cinders and breathe smoke in not going to the Dixie Highway Commission meeting at Chattanooga, May 20.

In the one column article that Editor Holly dashed off he recounts in a humorous manner the meeting of the Central Florida Highway Association convention at Orlando. Sanford absent at Kissimmee and absent at Chattanooga was forty-eight strong at the Orlando meeting.
 Led by that indomitable Horatio-at-the-bridge, Forrest Lake, they camped at the jury box at the court house, paid their $2 yearly dues and got a "spur" to the Dixie Highway. It cost them exactly $96, which explains in a way their absence from Kissimmee and Chattanooga—they desired to aid in building up the Central Florida Highway Association. Isn't the "spur" worth $96, Mr. Holly?—Orlando Sentinel.
 You list it is, young fellow, especially when certain parties were well spurred along with the getting.

SHALL WE ACT OR JUSR TALK?
 Some years ago the government inaugurated the scheme of printing names and addresses of persons and firms on envelopes and selling them at prices much lower than plain envelopes could be bought by printing offices—in fact the government entered into competition with every job printing office in the United States.

When the government began this mail order business every newspaper in the country entered a protest that could be heard even as far as Washington, and have continued to protest at intervals of once a week until the present time. But so far those protests have fallen on deaf ears, as the government is still doing business at the same old stand.

Every newspaper in Florida, with the exception of the big dailies has a job office in connection with its plant, which job office is a material factor in helping out the pay roll on Saturdays and a great convenience to local business men.

We know of no newspaper in the state that is not doing all in its power to build up and make prosperous the town in which it is published, and gives two inches of free advertising for every inch it receives pay for.

The editors of the Florida press, without a single exception, to our knowledge, not only preach "buy at home," but practices it.

But when these same editors canvass the business men of their towns for job work, about seven out of ten answers are: "I buy my envelopes from the postoffice, because I get them cheaper."

It is to put an end to this unholy competition that prompts the Tribune to make a proposition to the newspapers of Florida.

And, to back up our belief, we make the statement that the idea will be put in force in the Tribune office and kept in force until after the primaries in 1916.

The proposition is this:
 That the names of all candidates from Florida for the national senate and house be omitted from the columns of the press until such candidates pledge, over their signatures, in case of their election, to introduce a bill or resolution or use such means as may be necessary to prohibit the government from continuing this competition with the printing offices in the sale of envelopes.

If the press of Florida will adopt this proposition, we believe the press of every state in the Union will follow suit, and the newspapers will get action before congress is in session a month.
 This is not a hold-up game. It is a plain business proposition. Editors have been the football of politicians ever since Guttenberg discovered the art of printing, and it is about time they came in for a little of what is their just due.

We know this proposition will not appeal to the big dailies, and possibly a few of the small fry weeklies, for the reason they have already declared for certain candidates, but it appears to us that it should reach away down into the vitals of ninety per cent of the Florida press, for every editor knows that every month many dollars go to Washington for envelopes that rightfully belong in their pockets.

If the editors in Florida think this proposition good, let them say so in the columns of their papers; if they don't think it feasible let them knock it; but don't tear it down unless something better can be proposed in its stead.

The question is: Will the editors of Florida act, do something tangible, or just keep on four-flushing?

The man who is a candidate for the United States senate or house will give his pledge to suppress this evil before his name is printed in the columns of the St. Cloud Tribune unless the name appears in an advertisement, which will be so marked.—S. J. Triplett, St. Cloud Tribune.

Hon. Seth Woodruff
 The Orlando Citizen carries a picture of Seth Woodruff and the following description:

"SUCCESS" in big S's and C's is written all over Seth Woodruff. He carved it out of the whole cloth himself. No one placed him on a pedestal. He doesn't stand on a pedestal. He stands shoulder to shoulder with his peers. For several terms he was Orange county's tax collector and a faithful officer. Acquiring lands near Sanford he has valuable interests in the "Celery Belt." Locating large ranges in Volusia county, he is the owner of many cattle. Living in Orlando, he is possessed of some slightly residence property. Twice president of the Orlando Board of Trade, he is what the boys call "An old one," but a mighty good old one, for many and varied have been the plots and plans and things accomplished. Once president of the Orange County Fair Association, he made an equally good record there.
 He has been is and will be "Who."

 Miss Helen Iserman made Miss Flora Pearson a visit last week.
 C. D. Pearson made a business trip to Jacksonville on Friday, returning Saturday.
 Mrs. B. W. Smith spent the week end with relatives at Pine Castle.
 Jesse Thompson cut a bee tree on Friday and captured over two gallons of honey. That ought to sweeten the family for some time.
 F. A. West Brown entertained S. M. Lloyd and Joe DeMont at the "Turtles" Saturday night, bringing them out that evening and taking them back to town Sunday morning in his little Ford.
 Mr. Cleveland met with an accident Saturday, while taking a swim in Banana Lake. Stepped into a boat for a dive, slipped and fell, cutting a gash in his temple. Unpleasant but not serious.

 Five car loads of cattle for the Blackman ranch were put on the siding here Saturday night, too late for unloading. It is needless to say that the people trying to sleep anywhere in the vicinity made a poor job of it. At daylight Sunday morning the work of unloading began and by five o'clock our little village was in its usual state of Sabbath quiet.
 We are having nice showers but not enough for successful sweet potato planting. Hope this new moon will bring us all the "wet" we need.

Interesting Evening Wedding
 The marriage on Tuesday evening of Miss Carrie Louise Ensminger to Mr. Henry Nickel was a beautiful event taking place at 8:30 at the Congregational church.

The church was lovely with its beautiful arrangement of palms and bamboo. In front of the chancel, tall, graceful bamboo was arranged to form an arch, beneath which stood the bridal couple, and overhead, ropes of vines entwined with carnations, pink and white, extended to the windows and balconies, forming an open canopy. Ferns placed at the front of the chancel made a fringe of green from which peeped out bowls of white daisies with hearts of gold, pink roses and masses of white star Jessamine. Behind these were banded ferns and at the extreme rear an exquisite pink and white and green calladium gave a touch of relieving color. To the sides stately palms and graceful bamboo were grouped and in the balconies overhead were tall palms. Masses of pink crepe myrtle and roses completed the charming effect.

A program of music was rendered before the bridal party entered, the numbers including "Traumerer" (Schumann) by Miss Aspinwall at the organ and a tenor solo "All For You" (D'Hardelot) by Mr. Chas. Polk. The Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" was played as the processional. The ushers entered on opposite sides, Mr. Harry Kent passing down the left, and Mr. Ed Randall the right aisles of the church. Mrs. Harry Kent, her sister's matron of honor walked alone, followed by the bride, leaning on the arm of Miss Clara Millen, the maid of honor. The groom, with the best man, Mr. Beecher Kent walked down the right aisle and met the bride beneath the arch where the beautiful ring service was read by Rev. F. P. Strong. The bridal party left the church to the wedding march from Tanhauser, after which Mrs. Chas. Polk sang "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacob Bond.

The bride was very sweet and fair in her wedding gown of crepe meteor, combined with silk lace and pearl trimming. The round skirt was fashioned with front panel of lace and shirred to the high waist at the back and sides, caught in place by a girdle of self material. The waist was made with high collar and long sleeves finished with full ruffles of lace at the wrist and garnitured with pearl trimmings. Her veil of tulle was worn away from the face and held in place by lillies of the valley, with a bandeau of pearls and high pearl ornament worn across the front of her hair. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses tied with tulle. The matron of honor and the maid of honor were dressed alike in silk crepe de chine. The skirt was draped over ruffles and the drapery caught up at one side with crepe de chine roses and shirred to the high waist. The waist was made with long sleeves and an inverted V of lace back and front and finished with tiny rosebuds. A pink bandeau and butterfly ornament was worn upon the head. With these dainty costumes pink slippers were worn and they carried pink and white carnations.

After the ceremony the bridal party and a few friends and relatives were entertained informally at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. C. Ensminger. The decorations at the house were ferns, roses and lillie and were arranged with charming effect. In the living room the mantel was banked with roses and ferns, while delicate tracery of asparagus fern covered the white curtains and covers upon the tables. In the dining room, where refreshments were served bowls of pink and white roses were everywhere.

Miss Allen of Sorrento and Miss Maud Jinkins served punch; Miss Flora Walker ushered into the dining room, while assisting in serving refreshments were Miss Ethel Moughton and Miss Elizabeth Musson. Individual cakes were given the guests in white moire boxes tied with pink ribbon and aprays of asparagus fern by Miss Clara Walker.

The wedding presents received were numerous and handsome and cut glass, china and a variety of other gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Nickel left on the midnight train for an extended wedding trip which will include Washington, D. C., Baltimore, Niagara Falls, New York and a trip up the Hudson. They will return to Sanford August first and will reside in their own home in the western section of the city. The bride wore for the journey a handsome suit of Copenhagen blue gaberdine. The coat in full length plaits at the back, a smart flare collar and novelty-silk vestee. The front slightly bloused and finished with buttons. The girdle top panel back skirt, a flare model and wide at the lower edge. Her hat was a sand colored straw, trimmed with full blue more ribbon bow, a dainty imported wreath of blue and cerise forget-me-nots, effectively laid around the trim and across the crown, and faced with moire.

Mrs. Nickel is the youngest daughter of Mrs. J. C. Ensminger, whose charm and personality have won for her a large circle of friends. Mr. Nickel is a successful celery grower, a man of sterling character, standing high in the community and holding the respect of his neighbors everywhere.

Out of town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Dan of Winter Park; Mrs. Greenwood and Miss Tetherly of Orlando; Miss Allen and Miss Hazel Allen of Sorrento, Mrs. Burleigh and Miss M. Leigh of Tavares.

Walker Minarik Wedding

Among the beautiful weddings of the week was that of Miss Eva Marian Walker to Mr. Michael Minarik that was solemnized at the Church of the Holy Cross at half past eight on Wednesday evening. The church decorations were lovely, the wedding colors of pink and white and green being effectively carried out with cut flowers, vases, cedar and palms. The altar with its white altar cloth, lighted candles and white offsetting its fair purity. The chancel rail was entwined with roses, amid which nestled white flowers, tall vases of pink crepe myrtle adding an effective touch of color. The columns of the church were entwined with vines, while festoons of the windows fronds of the palms were artistically arranged. Great bunches of magnolias were tied to the pews of the centre aisle up which passed the bridal party. The wedding music was exquisitely beautiful. Mrs. Fannie Schumbrink Musson presided at the organ, accompanied by Mrs. Claude Varney and Mr. Earl Paxton who played the piano. A program was rendered before

To Our Depositors:
 It is ever the purpose of the officials of the First National Bank to give you the best and most efficient service possible.
 In modern banking as in nearly all other lines of business machinery is playing an increasingly large part, promoting accuracy and efficiency. The name "Burroughs" is now synonymous with up-to-date banking.
 After considering the subject from every viewpoint, we have concluded to make a change in the manner of handling your accounts with us, a change which we are certain is along progressive lines and will greatly increase the efficiency of the service we are able to render you.
 On July 1st next, and monthly thereafter, we will balance the account of every one of our depositors, rendering a statement up to date, and returning all paid checks. This will permit every one to see and examine checks regularly, and thereby tend to reduce to a minimum any chance for irregularities to occur, such as forged or raised checks, or errors on the part of the bank.
 PASS BOOKS WILL BE USED ONLY AS RECEIPTS FOR DEPOSITS, the monthly statement taking the place of the balancing of the book as formerly.
 In order to take this progressive step and give you this increased efficiency it becomes necessary to install a special Posting and Statement Machine, which, with the necessary special books and stationery will entail an expense of nearly $1,000.00. We feel, however, that this cost is amply justified by the results attained. This machine is run by electricity, and when ready for work we will be glad to show it and explain its operation to our customers and friends.
 We trust our efforts to promote accuracy and efficiency will meet with your approval and hearty cooperation, and assure you that our desire is always to give you the "Best in Banking."

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

arrival of the bridal party including "Love's Old Sweet Song" (Molloy) by Mrs. Munson, Mrs. Varn and Mr. Paxton; "Bacarello" from the Tales of Hoffman (Offenbach) was sweetly sung by Miss Gladys Morris, Miss June Stumon and Mr. Chas. Polk, Traumerer (Schumann), Mrs. Varn and Mrs. Munson. To the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin the bridal party entered the church. Entering in couples from the side door of the church were the bridesmaids who passed to the chancel steps and were met by the ushers, passing down the central aisle together, Miss Edith Stewart and Mr. Raymond Key; Miss Kathleen Steinmeyer and Mr. Frank Adams; Miss Agnes Berner and Mr. Sam Bradford; Miss Jennie Baas and Mr. Geo. Huff, they turned and preceded the maid of honor, Miss Clare Walker, walking alone, followed by the little flower girls, Elizabeth Whitner and Margaret Peters who walked immediately in front of the bride, who entered with her brother, Mr. Harry Walker, who gave her in marriage. The groom with his best man, Mr. John Minarik met the bride at the foot of the chancel steps where the betrothal service was read by Rev. Arthur Peck, wearing the handsome ceremonial vestments of the marriage service. The wedding ceremony was performed at the altar, at the close of which, while the bridal couple still knelt, "Because" (Guy D. Hardelot) was sung by Mr. Chas. Polk and the wedding party left the church to the wedding march from "Midsummer's Night's Dream" (Mendelssohn).

The bride was very lovely and winsome in an exquisite dress of white crepe intere combined with lace. The long skirt fell away from the waist with plain effect, the long train caught at the waist line by the round grille. The waist was made with high grille in two points, back and front, with inserted V and short sleeves of Moehlin lace, rose design. The tulle veil was worn high at the back of the hair, a band of lilies of the valley holding it in place.

She wore the gift of the groom, a bar pin of diamonds and pearls set in platinum and carried a white prayer book with markers of white satin ribbon and valley lilies. The maid of honor wore a charming gown of white organdie over white silk taffeta, made ankle length. The skirt was accordion pleated from the waist line. The short waist puffed with round low neck, the tiny sleeves of silk lace. With this was worn a grille of white tulle, with large butterfly bow at the back. A white butterfly bow was worn at the back of the hair and she carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses. The bridesmaids' gowns were fashioned alike, two in pink and two in green crepe de chine. The plain skirts falling away from the waist in full straight lines, ankle length, caught with girdles of self material finished with pink rosebuds, as were also the high waists. Rosebuds caught the short silk lace sleeves on the shoulder. An inset yoke of lace finished the charming gowns, worn with butterfly bows of pink tulle at the back of the waist and upon the head. Each carried pink carnations and wore the pretty crescent pin in gold with a spray of forget-me-nots in blue enamel, the gifts of the bride. The little flower girls, so sweet and lovely in their childish beauty, were dressed in pretty frocks of white organdie, accordion pleated, with tiny bolero jackets trimmed in lace and little puffed sleeves. They wore a large butterfly bow of pink tulle at the back and on their hair. About the very short waists were girdles of tulle. They wore a circlet pin of gold with forget-me-not center of blue enamel and pearls, the gift of the bride, and carried baskets of rose petals, which they scattered in the path of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a handsome gown of sand colored taffeta, finished with a real lace fichu.

The groom's gifts to his attendants were pearl studs.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Anna Walker. The decorations at the house as at the church were especially charming. In the front parlor, where the bridal party received, an arch of vines and white flowers was erected, from which was suspended a large white bell, beneath which stood the bride and groom. Pink Killarney roses and pink gladioli were used with quantities of ferns. In the back parlor were the beautiful wedding gifts of cut glass, silver and various other kinds were displayed, the room was attractive with Marshal Niel roses and yellow almanders, while the dining room was lovely with its red gladioli and fern. Garlands of esparagus plumosa reached from the centre above the table to the corners of the room and entwined the chandelier. A beautiful lace cover upon the table had for its centerpiece a huge basket of red gladioli and fern tied with a red satin bow.

Here the refreshments were served by Miss Charlotte Hand, Miss Saidee Williams and Miss Evelyn Berner, prettily gowned in pink or white. Mrs. J. W. Dickins ushered into the dining room. The decorations of the reception hall were also in red and green, vines, ferns and gladioli being effectively used. Miss June Stumon gave out the individual boxes of cake, piled high upon an attractively arranged table. White moire boxes tied with pink satin ribbon and fern leaves, containing the wedding cake were presented each guest. Mr. and Mrs. Minarik left by automobile for Winter Park, where they took the train for Jacksonville. The wedding trip will include Richmond, Va., Washington D. C., Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Cleveland, Detroit, a trip up the Hudson. The bride's travelling gown was a pretty colored gaberline coat suit, made postillion back and worn with a silk crepe de chine blouse in same color. The hat was a nice little Fiske shape, banded with velvet with a tiny bunch of clover blossoms on the side.

Mrs. Minarik is the only daughter of Mrs. Anna Walker and a niece of Mr. Chas. R. Walker. Mr. Minarik is a valued employe of the A. C. L. out of town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Freeman of Tampa, uncle and aunt of the bride and their daughter, Miss Grace Freeman, Miss Jennie Baas of Orlando, one of the wedding attendants, Mrs. Greenwood and Miss Alice Tetherly of Orlando; Mr. and Mrs. Brielme and Mrs. Upchurch of Longwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Minarik will make Sanford their future home.

Miss Minarik's Shower

One of the prettiest and most attractive of the bridal showers given for this season's brides was that at the beautiful home of Mrs. A. D. Zachary yesterday afternoon by the daughters of Wesley in honor of Miss Mabel Cowan. Pink and white was the color scheme of the decorations and this was carried out at intervals in flowers and refreshments. The reception hall, where the guests were received by Miss Blanche Johns, was adorned with bouquets of roses and vases of pink crepe myrtle placed about on tables and cabinets.

Receiving with Miss Cowan in the drawing room were Mrs. J. D. Roberts, teacher of the class and Miss Bessie Zachary, the class president. In this room the decorations were simple and effective; the big, colonial fireplace was banked with white star jessamine and the large white balls of the Spanish bayonet. A charming program was rendered throughout the afternoon of music and readings. "Rustling Spring" (Stinding) was given by Miss Lucrea Clappell, which was followed by the delightful reading "Nebuchadnezzar" given by Miss Ruth Steinmeyer. Miss Blanche Johns played "The Last Idea" of von Weber and Miss Rena Murrell gave a full selection from "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm". The enjoyable program closed with a piano solo, rendered by Mrs. A. K. Powers, after which Miss Cowan was blind folded, a garden hat placed upon her head, a dainty apron tied about her waist, and given a pair of scissors and a white covered basket adorned with a big pink bow and Mistress Mary quite contrary was led into the dining room to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Powers. A vision of beauty met the eyes of the charming young bride, for a veritable garden of loveliness with graceful branches of bamboo covering the walls, from floor to ceiling, great bowls of pink crepe myrtle and pots of flowering hyacinths stood about the room in lovely profusion. Upon a handsome larch cloth, which covered the table rested the large white wedding cake on the top of which was a spray of roses. The room was darkened, the light from the electric light shedding a soft glow upon a scene whose charm and beauty completed an afternoon of perfect enjoyment. Mistress Mary" was told to pick her flowers (gifts) which soon filled the basket to overflowing with an assortment of pretty and useful presents for the popular guest of honor. The refreshments too were lovely, the dainty cakes iced in pink and white, the delicious icecream also in the prevailing colors. Closing an afternoon of delightful pleasure the unmarried girls cut the cake for the ring, the thimble and the dime. The ring was cut by Miss Blanche Johns, the thimble by Miss Kathleen Steinmeyer and the dime by Mrs. Vance Douglass. Assisting the Daughters of Wesley were Mrs. A. K. Powers and Mrs. O. O. Hayes. Serving refreshments were Misses Bessie Zachary, Blanche Johns, Ruth and Kathleen Steinmeyer and Elizabeth Musson. Besides those already mentioned, present were Mesdames J. H. Cowan, W. M. Haynes, Leslie Went, B. J. Hilly, Mr. Brode, Adams, Harry Kent, Marshall, Tom Williams, G. W. Spencer, F. E. Steinmeyer, H. C. Zachary, R. A. Terheun, Misses Gertrude and Kate Broome, Saidee Williams. A delightful feature of the afternoon's pleasures was the group song by Misses Blanche Johns, Elizabeth Musson, Kathleen Steinmeyer and Rena Murrell, wishing the bride good luck and happiness, adapted to the music of a ring game played in childhood.

Pre Nuptial Entertainment

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Whitner were "at home" Monday evening in honor of the Walker-Minarik wedding party, it being one of the most charming of the pre-nuptial entertainments given for the popular young bride. The pretty home was very lovely with a great profusion of white daisies and ferns. Upon the arrival of the guests the lady folks were presented with coarse bou-

SYNOPSIS.

The New York police are mystified by a series of murders of prominent men. The principal clue to the murderer is the warning letter which is sent the victims signed with a "Clutching Hand." The latest victim of the mysterious assassin is Taylor Dodge, the insurance president. His daughter, Elaine, employs Craig Kennedy, the famous scientific detective, to try to unravel the mystery. What Kennedy accomplishes is told by his friend, Jameson, a newspaper man. Kennedy frustrates a daring attempt to rob a jewelry store and rescues Elaine from a boiler where she had been imprisoned by the thugs.

FOURTH EPISODE

The Frozen Safe.

Kennedy swung open the door of our taxicab as we pulled up, safe at last, before the Dodge mansion, after the rescue of Elaine from the brutal machinations of the Clutching Hand. Bennett was on the step of the cab in a moment, and together, one on each side of Elaine, they assisted her out of the car and up the steps to the house.

Elaine's Aunt Josephine was waiting for us in the drawing-room, very much worried. The dear old lady was quite scandalized as Elaine excitedly told of the thrilling events that had just taken place.

"And to think they—actually—carried you!" she exclaimed, horrified, adding, "And I not—"

"But Mr. Kennedy came along and saved me just in time," interrupted Elaine with a smile. "I was well chaperoned!"

Aunt Josephine turned to Craig, gratefully. "How can I ever thank you enough, Mr. Kennedy," she said fervently.

Kennedy was quite embarrassed. With a smile, Elaine perceived his discomfort, not at all displeased by it. "Come into the library!" she cried gayly, taking his arm. "I've something to show you."

Where the old safe, which had been burnt through, had stood, was now a brand-new safe of the very latest construction and design—one of those globular safes that look and are so formidable.

"Here is the new safe," she pointed out brightly. "It is not only proof against explosives, but between the plates is a lining that is proof against the nitrite and even that oxyacetylene blowpipe by which you rescued me from the old boiler. It has a time clock, too, that will prevent its being opened at night, even if any one should learn the combination."

They stood before the safe a moment, and Kennedy examined it closely with much interest.

"Wonderful!" he admired.

"I know you'd approve of it," cried Elaine, much pleased. "Now I have something else to show you."

She paused at the desk, and from a drawer took out a portfolio of large photographs. They were very hand-some photographs of herself.

"Much more wonderful than the safe," remarked Craig earnestly. Then, hesitating and a trifle embarrassed, he added, "May I—may I have one?"

"If you care for it," she said, dropping her eyes, then glancing up at him quickly.

"Care for it?" he repeated. "It will be one of the greatest treasures—"

She slipped the picture quickly into an envelope. "Come," she interrupted. "Aunt Josephine will be wondering where we are. She—she's a demon chaperon."

Bennett, Aunt Josephine and myself were talking earnestly as Elaine and Craig returned.

That morning I had noticed Kennedy fussing some time at the door of our apartment before we went over to the laboratory. As nearly as I could make out he had placed something under the rug at the door out into the hallway.

"Well," said Bennett, glancing at his watch and rising as he turned to Elaine, "I'm afraid I must go now." He crossed over to where she stood and shook hands. There was no doubt that Bennett was very much smitten by his fair client.

"Good-by, Mr. Bennett," she murmured, "and I thank you so much for what you have done for me today."

But there was something lifeless about the words. She turned quickly to Craig, who had remained standing. "Must you go too, Mr. Kennedy?" she asked, noticing his position.

"I'm afraid Mr. Jameson and I must get back on the job before this Clutching Hand gets busy again," he replied reluctantly.

"Oh, I hope you—get them soon!" she exclaimed, and there was nothing lifeless about the way she gave Craig her hand, as Bennett, he and I left a moment later.

When we approached our door, now, Craig paused. By pressing a little concealed button he caused a panel in the wall outside to loosen, disclosing a small, boxlike plate in the wall underneath.

It was about a foot long and perhaps four inches wide. Through it ran a piece of paper which unrolled from one coil and wound up on another, actuated by clockwork.

Across the blank white paper ran an ink line traced by a stylographic pen, used as I had seen in mechanical pencils used in offices, hotels, banks and such places. Kennedy examined the thing with interest.

"What is it?" I asked.

"A new kinograph," he replied, still gazing carefully at the rolled-up part of the paper. "I have installed it because it registers every footstep on the floor of our apartment. We can't be too careful with this Clutching Hand. I want to know whether we have had any visitors or not in our absence. This straight line indicates that we have not. Wait a moment."

Craig hastily unlocked the door and entered. Inside I could see him pacing up and down our modest quarters.

"Do you see anything, Walter?" he called.

I looked at the kinograph. The pen had started to trace its line, no longer even and straight, but zigzag, at different heights across the paper. He came to the coil. "What do you think of it?" he inquired.

"Some idea," I answered enthusiastically.

We entered and I fell to work on a special Sunday story that I had been forced to neglect. I was not so busy, however, that I did not notice out of the corner of my eye that Kennedy had taken from its cover Elaine Dodge's picture and was gazing at it ravenously.

I had finished as much of the article as I could do then and was smoking and reading it over. Kennedy was still gazing at the picture Miss Dodge had given him, then moving from place to place about the room, evidently wondering where it would look best. I doubt whether he had done another blessed thing since we returned.

He tried it on the mantel. That wouldn't do. At last he held it up beside a picture of Galton, I think, of finger print and eugenics fame, who hung on the wall directly opposite the fireplace. Hastily he compared the two. Elaine's picture was precisely the same size.

Next he tore out the picture of the scientist and threw it carelessly into the fireplace. Then he placed Elaine's picture in its place and hung it up again, standing off to admire it.

I watched him gleefully. Was this Craig? Purposely I moved my elbow suddenly and pushed a book with a bang on the floor. Kennedy actually jumped. I picked up the book with a muttered apology. No, this was not the same old Craig.

Perhaps half an hour later I was still reading. Kennedy was now pacing up and down the room, apparently unable to concentrate his mind on any but one subject.

He stopped a moment before the photograph, looked at it fixedly. Then he started his methodical walk again, hesitated, and went over to the telephone, calling a number which I recognized.

"She must have been pretty well done up by her experience," he said apologetically, catching my eye. "I was wondering if—hello!—oh, Miss Dodge—I—er—I—er—just called up to see if you were all right."

Craig was very much embarrassed, but also very much in earnest.

A musical laugh rippled over the telephone. "Yes, I'm all right, thank you, Mr. Kennedy—and I put the package you sent me into the safe, but—"

"Package?" frowned Craig. "Why, I sent you no package, Miss Dodge. In the safe?"

"Why, yes, and the safe is all covered with moisture—and so cold!"

"Moisture—cold?" he repeated hastily.

"Yes, I have been wondering if it is all right. In fact, I was going to call you up, only I was afraid you'd think I was foolish."

"I shall be right over," he answered hastily, clapping the receiver back on its hook. "Walter," he added, seizing his hat and coat, "come on—hurry!"

A few minutes later we drove up in a taxi before the Dodge house and rang the bell.

Jennings admitted us sleepily.

It could not have been long after we left Miss Dodge, late in the afternoon, that Susie Martin, who had been quite worried over our long absence after the attempt to rob her father, dropped in on Elaine. Wide-eyed, she had listened to Elaine's story of what had happened.

"And you think this Clutching Hand has never recovered the incriminating papers that caused him to murder your father?" asked Susie.

Elaine shook her head. "No. Let me show you the new safe I've bought. Mr. Kennedy thinks it wonderful."

"I should think you'd be proud of it," admired Susie. "I must tell father to get one, too."

At that very moment, if they had known it, the Clutching Hand, with his sinister, masked face, was peering at the two girls from the other side of the portieres.

Susie rose to go and Elaine followed her to the door. No sooner had she gone than the Clutching Hand came out from behind the curtains. He gazed about a moment, then, moving over to the safe about which the two girls had been talking, stealthily examined it.

He must have heard someone coming, for with a gesture of hate at the safe itself, as though he personified it, he slipped back of the curtains again.

Elaine had returned, and as she sat down at the desk to go over some papers which Bennett had left relative to settling up the estate the masked intruder stealthily and silently withdrew.

"A package for you, Miss Dodge," announced Michael later in the evening, as Elaine, in her dainty evening gown, was still engaged in going over the papers. He carried it in his hands rather gingerly.

"Mr. Kennedy sent it, ma'am. He says it contains clues, and will you please put it in the new safe for him."

Elaine took the package eagerly and examined it. Then she pulled open the little round door of the globular safe.

"It must be getting cold out, Michael," she remarked. "This package is as cold as ice."

"It is, ma'am," answered Michael. She closed the safe, and, with a glance at her watch, set the time lock and went upstairs to her room.

No sooner had Elaine disappeared than Michael appeared again, catlike, through the curtains from the drawing-room, and, after a glance about the dimly lighted library, discovering that the coast was clear, motioned to a figure hiding behind the portieres.

A moment and Clutching Hand himself came out.

He moved over to the safe and looked it over. Then he put out his hand and touched it.

"Listen!" cautioned Michael.

Someone was coming, and they hastily slunk behind the protecting portieres. It was Marie, Elaine's maid.

She turned up the lights and went over to the desk for a book for which Elaine had evidently sent her. She paused and appeared to be listening. Then she went to the door.

"Jennings?" she beckoned.

"What is it, Marie?" he replied.

She said nothing, but as he came up the hall led him to the center of the room.

"Listen! I heard sighs and groans!" Jennings looked at her a moment, puzzled, then laughed. "You girls!" he exclaimed. "I suppose you'll always think the library haunted now."

"But, Jennings, listen," she persisted.

Jennings did listen. Sure enough, there were sounds, weird, uncanny. He gazed about the room. It was very dark. Then he took a few steps toward the safe. Marie put her hand to it and started back.

"Why, that safe is all covered with cold sweat!" she cried with bated breath.

Sure enough, the face of the safe was beaded with dampness. Jennings put his hand on it and quickly drew it away, leaving a mark on the dampness.

"What do you think of that?" he gasped.

"I'm going to tell Miss Dodge," cried Marie, genuinely frightened.

A moment later she burst into Elaine's room.

"What is the matter, Marie?" asked Elaine, laying down her book. "You look as if you had seen a ghost."

"Ah, but mademoiselle—it ees just like that. The safe—if mademoiselle lowed her. In the library Jennings pointed mutely at the new safe. Elaine approached it. As they stood about, new beads of perspiration, as it were, formed on it. Elaine touched it and also quickly withdrew her hand.

"I can't imagine what's the matter," she said. "But—well—Jennings, you may go—and Marie, also."

When the servants had gone she still regarded the safe with the same wondering look, they turning out the light, she followed.

She had scarcely disappeared when, from the portiere doorway near by, the Clutching Hand appeared, and, after gazing out at them, took a quick look at the safe.

"Good!" he muttered.

Noislessly Michael of the sinister face moved in and took a position in the center of the room, as if on guard, while Clutching Hand sat before the safe watching it intently.

"Someone at the door—Jennings is answering the bell," Michael whispered hoarsely.

"Confound it!" muttered Clutching Hand, as both moved again behind the heavy velvet curtains.

"I'm so glad to see you, Mr. Kennedy," greeted Elaine unaffectedly as Jennings admitted us.

She had heard the bell and was coming downstairs as we entered. We three moved toward the library and someone switched on the lights.

Craig strode over to the safe. The cold sweat on it had now turned to icicles. Craig's face clouded with thought as he examined it more closely. There was actually a groaning sound from within.

"It can't be opened," he said to himself. "The time lock is set for tomorrow morning."

Outside, if we had not been so absorbed in the present mystery, we might have seen Michael and the Clutching Hand listening to us. Clutching Hand looked hastily at his watch.

"The deuce!" he muttered under his breath, stifling his suppressed fury.

We stood looking at the safe. Kennedy was deeply interested, Elaine standing close beside him. Suddenly he seemed to make up his mind.

"Quick—Elaine!" he cried, taking her arm. "Stand back!"

We all retreated. The safe door, powerful as it was, had actually begun to warp and bend. The plates were bulging. A moment later, with a loud report and concussion, the door blew off.

A blast of cold air and flakes like snow flew out. Papers were scattered on every side.

We stood gazing, aghast, a second, then ran forward. Kennedy quickly examined the safe. He bent down and from the wreck took up a package, now covered with white.

As quickly he dropped it.

"That is the package that was sent," cried Elaine.

Taking it in a table cover, he laid it on the table and opened it. Inside was a peculiar shape flask, open at the top, but like a vacuum bottle.

"A Dewar flask!" ejaculated Craig.

"What is it?" asked Elaine, appealing to him.

"Liquid air!" he answered. "As it evaporated, the terrific pressure of expanding air in the safe increased until it blew out the door. That is what caused the cold sweating and the groans."

We watched him, startled.

On the other side of the portieres Michael and Clutching Hand waited. Then, in the general confusion, Clutching Hand slowly disappeared, folded.

"Where did this package come from?" asked Kennedy of Jennings suspiciously.

Jennings looked blank.

"Why," put in Elaine, "Michael brought it to me."

"Get Michael," ordered Kennedy.

A moment later he returned. "I found him, going upstairs," reported Jennings, leading Michael in.

"Where did you get this package?" shot out Kennedy.

"It was left at the door, sir, by a boy, sir."

Question after question could not shake that simple, stolid sentence. Kennedy frowned.

"You may go," he said finally, as if reserving something for Michael later.

A sudden exclamation followed from Elaine as Michael passed down the hall again. She had moved over to the desk, during the questioning, and was leaning against it.

Inadvertently she had touched an envelope. It was addressed, "Craig Kennedy."

Craig tore it open, Elaine bending anxiously over his shoulder, frightened.

"We read:—"

"YOU HAVE INTERFERED FOR THE LAST TIME. IT IS THE END." Beneath it stood the fearsome sign of the Clutching Hand!

The warning of the Clutching Hand had no other effect on Kennedy than the redoubling of his precautions for safety. Nothing further happened that night, however, and the next morning found us early at the laboratory.

It was the late forenoon, when, after a hurried trip down to the office, I rejoined Kennedy at his scientific workshop.

We walked down the street when a big limousine shot past. Kennedy stopped in the middle of a remark. He had recognized the car, with a sort of instinct.

At the same moment I saw a smiling face at the window of the car. It was Elaine Dodge.

The car stopped in something less than twice its length and then backed toward us.

Kennedy, hat off, was at the window in a moment. There were Aunt Jose-

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advices from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Thedford's Black-Draught, and out-taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it. I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it. I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me." Thedford's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest. The Exploits of Elaine phine and Susie Martin, also.

"Where are you boys going?" asked Elaine, with interest, then added with a gaiety that ill concealed her real anxiety, "I'm so glad to see you— to see that—nothing has happened from the dreadful Clutching Hand."

"Why, we were just going up to our rooms," replied Kennedy.

"Can't we drive you around?"

We climbed in and a moment later were off. The ride was only too short for Kennedy. We stepped out in front of our apartment and stood chatting for a moment.

"Some day I want to show you the laboratory," Craig was saying.

"It must be so—interesting!" exclaimed Elaine very enthusiastically. "Think of all the bad men you must have caught!"

Elaine hesitated. "Would you like to see it?" she wheedled of Aunt Josephine.

Aunt Josephine nodded acquiescence, and a moment later we all entered the building.

"You—you are very careful since that last warning?" asked Elaine as we approached our door.

"More than ever—now," replied Craig. "I have made up my mind to win."

Kennedy had started to unlock the door, when he stopped short.

"See," he said, "this is a precaution I have just installed. I almost forgot in the excitement."

He pressed a panel and disclosed the boxlike apparatus.

"This is my kryptograph, which tells me whether I have had any visitors in my absence. If the pen traces a straight line, it is all right, but if—hello—Walter, the line is wavy."

We exchanged a significant glance.

"Would you mind—er—standing down the hall just a bit while I enter?" asked Craig.

"Be careful," cautioned Elaine.

He unlocked the door, standing off to one side. Then he extended his hand across the doorway. Still noth-couple of storage batteries and a coil of wire. Deftly and quickly he fixed them on the package.

Meanwhile, before an alleyway across the street and further down the long block the express wagon had stopped.

Having completed fixing the batteries and wires, Clutching Hand ran the wires along the molding on the wall overhead, from the fireplace until he was directly over Elaine's picture. Skillfully he managed to fix the wires, using them in place of the picture wires to support the framed photograph until it hung very noticeably askew on the wall.

The last wire joined, he looked about the room, then noiselessly moved to the window and raised the shade. Quickly he raised his hand and brought the fingers slowly together. It was the sign.

Off in the alley, the express driver and his helper jumped into the wagon and away it rattled.

Jensen was smoking placidly as the wagon pulled up the second time.

"Sorry," said the driver sheepishly, "but we delivered the cabinet to the wrong Mr. Kennedy."

He pulled out the inevitable book to prove it.

"Wall, you bane fine fallers," growled Jensen, puffing like a furnace, in his fury. "You cannot go up agano."

"We'll get fired for the mistake," pleaded the helper.

"Just this once," urged the driver, as he rattled some loose change in his pocket. "Here—there goes a whole day's tips."

He handed Jens a dollar in small change.

Still grumpy, but mollified by the silver, Jens let them go up and opened the door to our rooms again. There stood the cabinet, as outwardly innocent as when it came in.

Lugging and lugging they managed to get the heavy piece of furniture out and downstairs again, loading it on the wagon. Then they drove off with it, accompanied by a parting volley from Jensen.

In an unfrequented street, perhaps half a mile away, the wagon stopped. With a keen glance around, the driver and his helper made sure that no one was about.

"Such a shaking up as you've given me!" growled a voice as the cabinet door opened. "But I've got him this time!"

It was the Clutching Hand!

Craig gazed into our living room cautiously.

"I can't see anything wrong," he said to me, as I stood just beside him. "Miss Dodge," he added, "will you and the rest excuse me if I ask you to wait just a moment longer?"

Elaine watched him, fascinated. He crossed the room, then went into each of our other rooms. Apparently nothing was wrong and a minute later he reappeared at the doorway.

"I guess it's all right," he said. "Perhaps it was only Jensen, the janitor."

Elaine, Aunt Josephine and Susie Martin entered. Craig placed chairs for them, but still I could see that he was uneasy. From time to time, while they were admiring one of our treasures after another, he glanced about suspiciously.

"What is the trouble, do you think?" asked Elaine wonderingly, noticing his manner.

"I—I can't just say," answered Craig, trying to appear easy.

She had risen and with keen interest was looking at the books, the pictures, the queer collection of weapons and odds and ends from the underworld that Craig had amassed in his adventures.

At last her eye wandered across the room. She caught sight of her own picture, occupying a place of honor—but hanging askew.

"Isn't that just like a man!" she exclaimed. "Such housekeepers as you are—such carelessness!"

She had taken a step or two across the room to straighten the picture.

"Miss Dodge!" almost shouted Kennedy, his face fairly blanched. "Stop!"

She turned, her stunning eyes filled with amazement at his suddenness. Nevertheless she moved quickly to one side, as he waved his arms, unable to speak quickly enough.

Kennedy stood quite still, gazing at the picture, askew, with suspicion.

"That wasn't that way when we left, was it, Walter?" he asked.

"It certainly was not," I answered positively. "There was more time spent in getting that picture just right than I ever saw you spend on the room."

Craig frowned.

As for myself I did not know what to make of it.

"I'm afraid I shall have to ask you to step into this back room," said Craig at length to the ladies. "I'm sorry—but we can't be too careful with this intruder, whoever he was."

Elaine, however, stopped at the door. For a moment Kennedy appeared to be considering. Then his eye fell on a fishing rod that stood in a corner,

On his hands and knees, to one side, down as close as he could get to the floor, with the rod extended at arm's length, he motioned to me to do the same, behind him.

Carefully Kennedy reached out with the pole and straightened the picture.

As he did so there was a flash, a loud, deafening report, and a great puff of smoke from the fireplace.

The fire screen was rattled and overturned. A charge of buckshot shattered the precious photograph of Elaine.

We had dropped flat on the floor at the report. I looked about. Kennedy was unharmed and so were the rest.

With a bound he was at the fireplace, followed by Elaine and the rest of us. There, in what remained of a package done up roughly in newspapers, was a shotgun with its barrel sawed off about six inches from the lock, fastened to a block of wood, and connected to a series of springs on the trigger, released by a little electromagnetic arrangement actuated by two batteries and leading by wires up along the molding to the picture where the slightest touch would complete the circuit.

A startled cry from Elaine caused us to turn.

She was standing directly before her shattered picture where it hung awry on the wall. The heavy charge of buckshot had knocked away large pieces of paper and plaster under it.

"Craig!" she gasped.

He was at her side in a second.

She laid one hand on his arm, as she faced him. "With the other she traced an imaginary line in the air from the level of the buckshot to his head and then straight to the infernal thing that had lain in the fireplace.

"And to think," she shuddered, "that it was through me that he tried to kill you!"

"Never mind," laughed Craig easily, as they gazed into each other's eyes, drawn together by their mutual peril. "Clutching Hand will have to be cleverer than this to get either of us—Elaine!"

ing happened. There was not a sound. He looked cautiously into the room. Apparently there was nothing.

It had been about the middle of the morning that an express wagon had pulled up sharply before our apartment.

"Mr. Kennedy live here?" asked one of the expressmen, descending with his helper and approaching our janitor, Jens Jensen, a typical Swede, who was coming up out of the basement.

Jens growled a surly, "Yes—but Mr. Kennedy, he bane out."

"Too bad—we've got this large cabinet he ordered from Grand Rapids. We can't cart it around all day. Can't you let us in so we can leave it?"

Jensen muttered: "Well—I guess it bane all right."

They took the cabinet off the wagon and carried it upstairs. Jensen opened our door, still grumbling, and they placed the heavy cabinet in the living room.

"Sign here."

"You fallers bane a nuisance," protested Jens, signing nevertheless.

Scarcely had the sound of their footfalls died away in the outside hallway when the door of the cabinet slowly opened and a masked face protruded, gazing about the room.

It was the Clutching Hand!

From the cabinet he took a large package wrapped in newspapers. As he held it, looking keenly about, his eye rested on Elaine's picture. A moment he looked at it, then quickly at the fireplace opposite.

An idea seemed to occur to him. He took the package to the fireplace, removed the screen and laid the package over the andirons with one end pointing out into the room.

Next he took from the cabinet a

Miss Blanche Poyson, Largest Policewoman, at the Panama-Pacific Exposition

The Fair "Copette" and the Midgets.

Miss Blanche Poyson belongs the honor of being the only real special policewoman in the United States. Her star, bearing the inscription "Special Police, Toyland G. U.", is registered at the city hall in San Francisco. Miss Poyson, who stands six feet four inches without her boots, maintains law and order at "Toyland Green Up" on the Zone at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. Miss Poyson weighs 235 pounds, she is but twenty-four years of age and, despite her official position, is as delightful a young woman as one will meet in a long day of sightseeing on the Zone. She is enthusiastically over her work and keeps watch on the great throngs which visit Toyland day and night. Miss Poyson has presided with wonderful success over crowds of many thousands of persons. The two midgets beside Miss Poyson have taken great fancy to the "Copette," and the three have become fast friends during their off hours at Toyland.

Toyland Green Up, where Miss Poyson reigns, is one of the largest and most popular amusements in the great amusement thoroughfare. It was built at a cost of $250,000 and covers fourteen acres. All the toys of the story books read by young girls and boys are to be seen there in monster proportions, and in this land of romance and enchantment, with its giant toys, the giant woman presides with dignity and efficiency.

Accused the same for the uses and purposes herein expressed.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

quets of daisies, and to the gentlemen were given boutonnières of the same lovely flower.

A pillow slip contest was much enjoyed and proved delightfully amusing. The slip contained twelve articles of various shapes and sizes that must be guessed by touch. To Mrs. Anna Walker fell the prize of a pearl handled knife for being so "sharp."

This was followed by a "motor love story." Slips of paper containing the story with numerous blanks, said blank spaces to be filled in with the name of parts of an automobile. Miss Martha Fox proved quick witted in this contest and was given an "automobile"—one of the latest models on the market. To Miss Eva Walker was presented a lovely little crocheted coin purse.

From a silk line stretched across the room was suspended tiny white bags, which when clipped by each guest in turn was found to contain their fortune, a pastime that created fun and merriment. A Victrola concert afforded much pleasure. The final happy surprise of an evening of rare enjoyment was the cute way devised for finding their supper partners and subsequent cutting of the bride's cake which adorned the table at which sat the bride-elect. Red hearts in the centre of which was a key hole were given the ladies, while to the gentlemen were given "keys" that fitted the hearts. This caused a change of partners for the refreshment course, which consisted of apricot ice and caramel cakes. To each guest was presented a silver dart that was used for finding the ring and the thimble in the cake. To Mr. Frank Adams fell the ring, while Miss Jennie Baas became the possessor of the dime. Assisting Mrs. Whitner were Mrs. Whitner, Sr., Mrs. S. O. Chase and Miss Martha Fox. Other guests were Mrs. Anna Walker, Misses Eva Walker, Claire Walker, Jennie Baas, Agnes Berner, Kathleen Steinmeyer, Edith Stewart; Messrs. M. Minarik, John Minarik, Harry Walker, Sam Bradford, Frank Adams, Raymond Key, Geo. Huff, and Benjamin Whitner.

St. Agnes Guild

A delightful meeting of St. Agnes Guild was held at the home of Mrs. Chas. Hand Monday afternoon, with Miss Charlotte Hand the agreeable young hostess. Owing to weddings, showers and other events, the attendance was small but a thoroughly good time was enjoyed by those present. Plans were made for a cooked food sale to be held at the Parish House Saturday afternoon and evening and the girls have decided to take orders for chair covers some of which are now ready. If patrons desire initials on the chairs they can be had for five cents extra, making the covers twenty cents plain, or twenty-five cents with the initials.

Those present were Mrs. Archie Betts, Misses Josie and Junie Sturmon, Mildred Dickson, Frances Aspinwall and Rev. Arthur Peck. The next meeting will be held with Miss Clara Phillips at the studio.

Compliment to Miss Higgins

In compliment to Miss Lillian Higgins of Sanford, who is spending some time in Jacksonville, Mrs. C. W. Denton entertained at an informal dance last evening at her home on Newnan street.

The lower floor of the residence was opened ensuite and was decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns and cut flowers, pink and white carnations predominating.

The guests were received in the drawing room by the hostess and honor guest.

Dancing was engaged in throughout the evening to the strains of piano music, and at a late hour a refreshment course was served, fruit punch being served throughout the evening. Mrs. R. W. Denton presiding at the punch bowl, which was placed in one corner of the dining room.

The dining room was decorated in yellow and white, the dining table, which was laid with a lace cover, being centered with a vase of daisies intermingled with plumes.

Mrs. Denton was assisted in entertaining by her sister in law, Mrs. R. W. Denton.

Among those invited to enjoy the evening with Miss Higgins were Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Denton, Misses Mildred Hendricks, Sara Longworth of Tennessee, Clara Brodnax, Clyde and Helen Hunt, Beale Taylor, Gertrude Purdon of DeLand and Messrs. Dunham Coxetter, Richard Taylor, Max Christy, Dick Dickinson, M. Longworth, J. Pinholster, Mr. Brickett and Dr. A. C. Knight. —Times-Union.

Married at Clearwater

Miss Mildred Smith and C. B. Hamrick were quietly married this morning at 10, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Smith on south Fort Harrison avenue.

Only a few friends besides the members of the family witnessed the ceremony. Mrs. John Phillipoff played the wedding march for the young couple as they marched in to the large parlor. Standing beneath an arch of smilax the couple were united by Rev. J. Lawton Moon, the ringing ceremony being used. Misses Lilla and Suddie Smith, sisters of the bride were the bridesmaids and aside from these there were no other attendants. Miss Ethel Eubanks presided over the punch bowl.

The popular couple were the recipients of many beautiful presents from their numerous friends, all of which were laid out to be viewed by the guests. The bride presented a lovely picture in her neat blue silk poplin traveling dress, with hat and shoes to match. Following the ceremony they left by automobile for Tampa and from there they will go to the East Coast for their honeymoon. Mrs. Hamrick is one of the charming daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Smith and numbers her friends in Clearwater by the score. Mr. Hamrick is state organizer for the Macabees and is well known and popular in fraternity circles. —Clearwater Sun.

Marriage of Miss Renfro

Tuesday afternoon at Richland, the marriage of Miss Agnes Smith Renfro to Dr. George Proctor Roberts took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Renfro.

The wedding took place upon the porch, which was transformed into a bower of beauty with graceful vines and tall pines and masses of lovely flowers banked here and there the porch giving upon the beautiful garden was a charming setting for the fair young bride and her attendants. She was attended by her sister, Miss Annie Renfro and her brother, Mr. Jack Renfro. Olive Renfro, the little niece of the bride was the flower girl, sweet and pretty in a dainty frock of white organdie and carrying a basket of flowers. The bride was attired in her going away gown, a handsome coat suit and carried bride roses.

The bridesmaid wore a lovely gown of white and carried an arm bouquet.

Married at DeLand

A marriage in which a most cordial interest is manifested by the friends of the bride in Sanford is that of Miss Margery Boor and Mr. Claude Grady Varn, which occurred in DeLand Thursday evening, June 10. Rev. C. H. Ferran officiating.

The wedding was a pretty home affair taking place at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Prof. and Mrs. Claude Tingley. The house was attractively decorated with quantities of white flowers and lovely ferns, an improvised altar being an artistic arrangement of potted plants and white carnations against a background of Mexican cypress through the lace-like foliage of which gleamed myriads of tiny electric lights. Overhead hung a beautiful bell of white carnations, beneath which stood the bridal couple during the wedding ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a wedding gown of white and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and valley lilies and wearing the gift of the groom, a lavelere of gold and sapphires.

After the ceremony supper was served for the bridal party, at which covers were laid for twelve. White carnations and fern centered the table. The place cards were hand-painted forget-me-nots, tied with lovers' knots of blue ribbon, the card also containing a gilded wishbone, held in place with white ribbon, in the frame of which was painted the monogram of the bride and groom. Mrs. Varn is well known in Sanford having had here a studio for violin lessons since last fall. She has many friends in the city to wish her bon voyage on the matrimonial sea.

Picnic at Lemon Bluff

The usual crowd of jolly good fellows enjoyed a launch ride and delightful picnic at Lemon Bluff the early part of the week, with Mrs. E. O. Hayes chaperone. Felix Frank has resigned from the responsible office because he thinks he is just a "kid" and should not be called upon to chaperone such a giddy crowd of merry makers. He says when a fellow is too young to get married he certainly can't look after the morals and manœuvres of girls and boys older (?) than himself. All the pleasures of a charming day in the woods was heartily enjoyed. This merry group, one might almost guess their names which are Mrs. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Betts, Misses Helen Rowland, Margaret Wight, Florence Frank, Charlotte Hand and Saidee Williams; Dr. Fain and Messrs. Joe DeMont, S. M. Lloyd, Sam Younts, Alexander McClintock and Mr. Browne of Paola.
