

FLORIDA KIDDIES EXPECT BIG CHRISTMAS AS USUAL AND STATE THEIR WANTS

Under Program Agreed Upon by House Leaders

BRING TO A VOTE

BUT THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WILL SEE THAT SANTA GETS THE WIRES

(By The Associated Press)
Florida kiddies, running true to form again this year, have consumed reams of paper and hundreds of pencils in the laborious preparation of the annual communications to Santa Claus and the avalanche of notes which have swamped newspaper offices and cluttered mail boxes in the larger towns and cities bids fair to continue until Christmas eve for some of the youngsters may be expected to try to reach Saint Nicholas by special delivery at the last moment.

Santa and his assistants this week as usual made public hundreds of the notes received and many of the youngsters, it developed, told him the innermost secrets of their hearts and expressed some original idea about what they wanted him to bring them.

A joint note from two St. Augustine kiddies, after listing what the pair desired said: "I am very sorry to say we fuss over each others toys and if what you bring us is not alike I think it the best thing is not to bring any at all."

One little miss asked for a variety of articles that would be sufficient to stock a fair sized toy shop and concluded: "I don't want much so this is all." She appended the following postscript, "I will leave the window open."

One child thought she would like to round out her Christmas by the addition of a small menagerie and asked among other things for "a rabbit and kitten and dog."

"Dad" evidently had thrown out a few remarks at random about business conditions and their effect upon Santa's bank account in one case for a nine year old hopeful wrote: "As my daddy did not make any money on his crops this year you can bring me anything you want to."

"My daddy bought a new car so I can't have much," one boy informed the old fellow.

Of all the notes bearing the Florida postmark, one from Cecil Pacetti, of St. Augustine, won the prize for brevity. Cecil did not waste so much as a punctuation mark. He wrote: "Dear Santa

A tiny tot who asked for the things that usually delight kiddies of a similar age gave her sex dead away by appending the usual postscript to her note: "Oh yes, bring me a pound of butter as I do like to eat it so well."

One St. Johns county boy made an honest confession and at the same time indicated that he liked the ladies without discrimination as to looks. "I've been a bad boy this year," he wrote, "but I hope you will forgive me and bring me a blonde doll name Marie; also a brunette named Gertrude, bring me a cat, some candy, fruit and nuts."

A little miss whose mother apparently did not relish the thought of broken bones and skinned joints, figured that perhaps with Santa's help she might put one over on her parents. "I would like a pair of skates," she informed Santa, "but my mother says no, but if you have an extra pair you can bring them and maybe she will let me keep them."

A five year old optimist had a sore foot when he settled down to compose the annual message, "but I want a tricycle and a drum and I guess my foot will get well some day so I can ride."

One Polk county citizen writing from Lakeland, wanted among other things a "vilon bow" and a "pear" of stockings while another wanted a "harn" (horn). A third thought to entertain Santa with a drawing on the back of his note of what he called "a ottomobil" but which might have served as a picture of a box car or barn

Savannah Bank Failed to Open Doors This Morning

Two Financial Institutions in Savannah Have Gone Under

(By The Associated Press)

NOTHING NEW DAIL EIREANN PUBLIC DEBATE

SINN FEIN CANNOT TELL WHAT THE RESULT WILL BE

DUBLIN, Dec. 20.—When the Dail Eireann adjourned last night after two lengthy public sessions devoted to earnest debate, nothing tangible had developed to indicate how the members would vote on the question of ratifying the treaty designed to set up the Irish Free State.

Immediately after adjournment the correspondent interviewed four prominent Sinn Feiners. All of them declared it was impossible to make any estimate of the relative strength of those favoring and those opposing the treaty, or to hazard a guess as to which side would eventually gain a majority.

DeValera, Griffith, Collins, Childers and several other prominent men in the councils of the party, spoke on either side, but it is generally agreed that the most sensational and most impressive contribution was Robert Barton's narrative of the circumstances under which he and other delegates were, according to his statement, forced to sign the treaty without referring it back to the cabinet at Dublin.

Mr. Barton said his oath to the republic was the most sacred bond on earth and he had broken it as the lesser of two alternative outrages forced upon him, and because he was compelled to choose immediately.

Mr. Griffith, he explained, had repeatedly sought to have the terms referred back to the Dail Eireann, but this Premier Lloyd George directly negated. The signature of every member was necessary or war would follow at once, and the prime minister gave the delegation until 10 o'clock to make up their minds.

Griffith, Collins and Duggan were, he said, for the signature, but he and Gavin Duffy were against it. He held out, and that placed the responsibility for war on him; so he signed, rather than commit the Irish people to war without consultation.

"And so," he exclaimed, "I now fulfill my undertaking, and recommend to you this treaty."

FRANCE TAKES STEPS TO RECONCILE VIEWS ON NAVAL RATIO PROBLEM

Unofficial Advices From Abroad Indicate Good Results

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—France has taken steps to reconcile her views on the naval ratio problem with those of the other powers, but her precise attitude—now the crucial issue of the arm negotiations,—remains in doubt. Unofficial advices from abroad yesterday indicated that Premier Briand had decided to accept the American proposal for a French capital ship fleet of 175,000 tons in place of the 350,000 tons plan drawn by the French delegates.

Secretary Hughes, as chairman of the arms conference, also received from the French premier a communication construed at the state department as meaning that the French group had been directed to the American program.

But the French delegates themselves did not so construe a long message of instructions received from the premier during the day. They described it as advising them to go as far toward meeting the American views as they could without sacrifice of French national interests. It was said not to embody a specific decision nor to make a reference to any specific tonnage plan.

With the negotiations in that direction, Mr. Hughes and Albert Sarraut, head of the French delegation held a long conference late yesterday afternoon and parted without making any announcement. It was said only that the conversations were proceeding and that there was a mutual expectation of ultimate agreement.

In other quarters also there was apparent a distinct note of optimism, despite the day's mystifying succession of developments. Among American officials an almost unanimous belief prevailed that France eventually would take the American figure for her capital ship allotment even though she insisted on an increase of submarine tonnage as an offset. For the moment the negotiations are concerned solely with capital ships, and to many delegates a five power agreement on that subject does not seem far away.

While no information whether the request had or would be granted it is expected the session would be held Thursday. ## BUSINESS BRISK ON WALL STREET DESPITE THREAT

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—No developments.

This was today's report both on the second explosion against which Wall Street had been warned, and the government's investigation of the 1920 blast.

Lower Manhattan apparently failed to take seriously letters mailed to brokers, predicting that by night fall towering skyscrapers within five blocks radius would be laid low.

Clerks appeared concerned only with getting to work on time. J. P. Morgan, who was supposed to be the chief object of the plot, arrived, unattended, at his office at his regular hour. The usual Monday crowd at the intersection of Wall, Broad and Nassau Streets seemed greater, if anything, for New York is a city of the curious.

True, a few more guards could be seen on duty, and the special prerogative of Santa Clause to secrecy was violated, as suspicious-looking Christmas packages were searched. Once a red motor truck, loaded with blue barrels, recalling the ominous death wagon in which the 1920 bomb burst, caused a flutter, but proved quite harmless.

IMMEDIATELY AFTER CHRIST- MAS RECESS SAY MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The Dyer anti-lynching bill was taken up in the house today for general debate under the program agreed upon by house leaders which will bring it to a vote probably immediately after the Christmas recess.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—After a bitter fight the House last night voted to take up the Dyer anti-lynching bill under a rule limiting general debate to ten hours. Leaders, however, have agreed that the measure will not be pressed to a final vote before the Christmas recess.

The vote was 170 to 42 with five members voting "present" and was reached only after more than two hours delay through quorum calls demanded by Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the Democratic leader who directed the opposition to the bill. Twice the sergeant-at-arms was sent out with warrants to arrest absentees before quorums were obtained. Two hours were devoted to the debate which ended in the bill being given right of way in the House.

General debate on the measure, according to plans of leaders, will be stretched over the days remaining before the recess which probably will begin Thursday. More than ten hours may be devoted to discussion of the bill's features, Chairman Campbell of the rules committee said, "to permit comprehensive consideration of a question that cannot be sidestepped."

The bill, introduced by Representative Dyer, Republican, Missouri, would provide heavy fines and imprisonment for persons participating in lynchings and for officials who failed through negligence to prevent mob violence. It would also require counties in which lynchings occurred to forfeit $10,000 to the family of the person killed.

Among those urging passage of the measure were Mr. Campbell, of Kansas, and Representative Fess, of Ohio, and Ansoorge of New York, Republicans, while those who spoke in opposition included Mr. Garrett and Representatives Pou of North Carolina, and Aswell of Louisiana, Democrats.

Mr. Fess declared the bill was not aimed at the South but was designed to deal effectively with mob violence wherever it occurred. One of the most "indescribable" lynchings had occurred in his own state, he added. Mr. Ansoorge said passage of the Dyer bill would "forever wipe the stain of lynching from the pages of American history."

On the other hand, Mr. Garrett asserted the measure should be entitled a "bill to encourage arpe," and Mr. Pou said its purpose was "to pay a political debt." Mr. Byrnes characterized the measure as a proposal which if enacted and held constitutional would prove ineffective, while Mr. Answall contended passage of the bill would have a tendency to increase rather than prevent lynchings.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP
 A Forty Per Cent Cut

The city of Orlando wanted to buy and operate the lighting and water plants operating there. The city of Orlando made overtures to the company owning these plants, to name a price. The utilities company named it—$1,935,000. "Too much," said Orlando. "Let's arbitrate." They did. The report of the arbitrators was published in the Tribune of Dec. 12. Its figures are $607,114. A 40 per cent cut!

Tampa has been trying to buy the water-works company's plants here. The waterworks company says $1,400,000. Tampa says $900,000. Then the company says impossible.

Orlando's arbitrators fixed a 40 per cent of first offer value on the properties of the utilities company, and as this paper understands it, that figure will be the one on which the transfer will be based. Orlando is preparing to vote bonds to make the change effective, and in a short time we will see another city walking in the steps of Jacksonville, owning and operating at a profit its light and water companies.

And that reminds us that Jacksonville, aggregating the price of gas in that city to be too high, has started a movement to own and operate the gas company's plant and service there. The gas plant's worth has been tentatively fixed by a city survey at approximately six million dollars, but that city does not hesitate to consider taking it over, knowing that if it can sell water and light cheaper than any other city in the country, it can also sell gas cheaper, under the same good management and operation.—Tampa Tribune.

"Findings in Keepings"
 The appellate division of the Supreme court of New York, has decided that "findings in keepings," even for a cop," writes the New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger. "You see, Policeman Nicholas J. Mackit was off duty when he picked up an envelope lying on the sidewalk in Third avenue. Lucky pick! Envelope contained fourteen $50 Liberty bonds. That was in April two years ago, and being an honest 'cop' he turned them in. No owner turned up and recently Nick went around to the lost property bureau and put in a claim for them as their finder. 'If you were a citizen you could have them,' said his superior officer, 'but you are just a cop and the police rules and regulations say the proceeds from unclaimed property found by members of the force goes to the police pension fund.' Nick hired himself a lawyer, made a fight for the bonds and the law stands back of him."

Church Bars Collection Plate.
 A new method of meeting church expenses is told by the London Morning Post, which reports that collections have recently been entirely abolished at the parish church of Fulham, in London, except for special occasions for objects not connected with the parish.

Church expenses will be met out of a special fund which has been formed and to which every member of the congregation is asked to contribute a definite sum weekly. The experiment is said to be the first of its kind so far as the Church of England is concerned, but the vicar of Prittlewell, who was secretary of last year's church congress at Southend, has for some time had a very successful special fund at his church, if he has not entirely abolished the ordinary collections.

 A white mouse placed in the cage with a South American bon constrictor as food has been adopted by the snake, according to Edwin A. Osborne of No. 9518 1118th Street, Richmond Hill, owner of the unusual family. The mouse has made a nest of straw in the coils of the bon and Mr. Osborne declares the most amicable relations exist between the two.

The snake recently crushed to death a large rat in twenty-four seconds. The reptile refused to eat the rat, however.—New York World.

CELERY SHIPMENTS JUMP

Formerly a somewhat neglected vegetable from the commercial standpoint, celery has gained in popularity quite steadily in the last half-dozen years. Shipments in 1916-1917 were less than 6,000 cars, but each year since then the 6,000 car mark has been exceeded, and last season the total was 10,737 cars. This season the movement to Nov. 5 was about one-fourth larger than to the corresponding date in 1920.

Most of the important producing states have shared in the increase year by year. By far the greatest actual gain was in the two early shipping states, Florida and California, which together supply more than one-half the entire car-lot movement of celery. California's shipments increased from 1,911 cars in 1918-17, to 3,330 in 1920-21, and Florida's from 1,707 cars to 4,175 during the same period.

The nine states shipping late celery in a commercial way are Colorado, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania. New York and Michigan have usually shipped one-half to one-third of the late celery. New York maintained a fairly uniform volume of shipments until last year when the output was nearly doubled. Michigan's shipments have shown more steady gains and have attained nearly double the volume Eastern States have shown no uniform tendency.

Colorado ships about one-half as much late celery as Michigan, and shipments from that state have been increasing gradually the last five Western cities with from one-half to one-fifth as much as California and ships very little to the East.

New York state leads in supplying main crop celery to Eastern cities. The City of New York takes nearly one-third of its celery from New York State, no other northern section contributing over forty-five carloads. Philadelphia and Cleveland are supplied from nearly the same sources as New York, but Pittsburgh and Cincinnati take about one-half as much celery from Michigan as from New York State, while Michigan supplies Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha with the greater part of their late crop supplies. New Jersey ships about 150 cars to New York and Philadelphia together. Pennsylvania averages seventy-seven cars per year to Philadelphia, but ships comparatively little to other large cities. Some other states, notably Ohio and Massachusetts plant large acreages to celery, but sell the crop mostly in small lots to near markets.

While shipments of early kinds of Northern celery are received from Michigan and New Jersey in June and July, and from Colorado, Ohio and Pennsylvania in August, the greater part of the crop is shipped in fall and early winter. October, November and December are the most active months.

California celery is in the market from December to March, and competes with Florida celery, as well as with the Northern supply. Florida stock goes chiefly to large Eastern cities. New York takes about one-half its total supply of celery from Florida, averaging 500 to 600 cars per year, compared with 100 to 600 from California. Philadelphia averages 220 cars of celery from Florida and twenty-nine from California. In Cleveland the proportion of Florida celery is about five to one; in Pittsburgh and Cincinnati the two States divide the market about equally. In many Middle Western markets, including Kansas City, St. Louis, Detroit, Minneapolis and St. Paul, California supplies far more celery than Florida, but Chicago has been taking over twice as much celery from Florida as from California, averaging 167 cars per year from the former state.—New York Times.

DANCE

One of the most enjoyable social events given this season, was the dance given last evening by Misses Zoo and Fannie Reba Munson, at their home on Myrtle avenue.

The rooms of this spacious home were opened on suite and artistically decorated with baskets of poinsettias, ferns and garlands of potter palms. In one room was a beautiful Christmas tree decorated with ornaments and tiny electric lights. On the porch were arranged cozy nooks, and the punch table where refreshing punch was served throughout the evening.

The music was splendid, being furnished by the "Stetson Five", several feature dances being introduced. The first being a "Poinsettia" dance; the men drawing poinsettia caps from the Christmas tree and giving them to the young lady they wished as a partner. The next feature was a "snowball" dance. A huge "snowball" was suspended and from it, the dancers drew miniature snowballs of pop corn. The last feature being a "confetti" dance. After which refreshments of ice cream, white cake, and coffee were served.

The Misses Munson were assisted throughout the evening by Mrs. Fannie S. Munson, Mrs. R. R. Deas and Mrs. Deane Turner.

Those enjoying this delightful dance were: Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Woodruff, Misses Serita Lake, Marie Teague, Florence Henry, Daphne Wimblish, Ethel Henry, Agnes Dumas, Dorothy Bump, Sara Wight, Marjorie Clay, Thelma Eraser and Messrs. GIVE REAL GIFTS THIS CHRISTMAS IS THE SLOGAN OF THIS BANK

"If every man, woman and child received a savings account as a Christmas gift this year, we would have a real Christmas in this community," said A. R. Key, cashier of the Seminole County Bank.

"It's a novel and constructive idea in Christmas giving," Mr. Key went on to say, "and one that carries real cheer throughout the year. It represents more than the gift of money because it implants the germ of a habit that means success to any one who acquires it."

The Seminole County Bank is running an interesting series of ads suggesting the gift of a savings account to mother, children and others. The savings pass book will be delivered in appropriate Christmas dress, to carry better the spirit of the Yuletide.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGE FROM POSTMASTER GENERAL HAYS
TO AMERICAN BOYS AND GIRLS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The office of the postmaster general has addressed the following letter to American boys and girls and in it sent a message for them to give their parents:

To the Boys and Girls of the United States:

Christmas is almost here. Your great postoffice department has a big job ahead and needs your help. Think what it means to Santa Claus, to 100,000,000 people and to deliver Christmas parcels to every family in this country within the short space of a few days and without disappointment.

It can be done and we are going to do it if we may have your help. I want to enlist the active assistance of every boy and girl in the schools of our country in getting parcels mailed THIS WEEK to relieve the rush that comes directly before Christmas.

Will you go home today and take this message to your parents and friends:

"Our postmaster has asked us to mail our Christmas parcels THIS WEEK, or, unless we do, Uncle Sam's load may be so heavy the last few days before Christmas that he won't be able to deliver all the presents by Christmas eve." The parcels must be well wrapped and tied and addressed plainly in order that they may arrive in good condition with their Christmassy appearance unspoiled. You can put on your packages, "Do not open until Christmas."

And, there must be a number on your house and a mail receptacle, too, for if there isn't Santa Claus's messenger, your letter carrier, may not be able to find the house where the present belongs.

There are some other things, too, in which you can all assist in improving the mail service and in serving our great government. Millions of dollars a year are now wasted because of our great carelessness—yours and mine.

Every day that you drop a letter in the mail box 40,000,000 other letters are already pushing and jamming through the postal machinery. One letter a day for each family of five persons in the United States is given to Uncle Sam to deliver.

When you send a parcel to the postoffice for mailing any day there are about 8,000,000 other parcels ahead of yours passing through the hopper. This is in ordinary; at Christmas time it is multiplied many times. One family in about every ten puts a badly addressed letter in the mail every day. This mixes up over 2,000,000 half-addressed letters with the 20,000,000 fully addressed letters. That means that the fully addressed letters must wait the slow moving, poorly addressed letters just like the larger boys and girls are delayed by a bunch of "bad kids" tagging along.

You boys and girls can help the postal service and save your father some money, because he has to help pay the cost of searching addresses on letters and parcels sent out by this on class of careless and thoughtless families.

First find out if your family is the careless one, then bear in mind that your letters must be handled by skillful mail distributors standing in post-offices and on swaying postcar cars of a mile-a-minute mail trains, often under poor light.

The address on every letter, card, or package must be correct, complete and legible, including the house number and name of street, and the "From" address should be in the upper left hand corner so that the mail will be returned to you in case it is not delivered. Do not abbreviate names of states, because so many look alike when abbreviated.

Put the proper amount of postage on your letters and wrap the parcels carefully. Avoid fancy writing, as it causes postoffice clerks and letter carriers to stop and study and thus lose time. Make the address plain and easily read, and always use pen and ink or typewriter and light-colored envelopes so as to save the eyes of the postoffice clerks. Do not use envelopes that are so frequent shroud unlopes of unusual size. The little ones that are so frequently used for cards and notes at Christmas and other holiday times cause an untold amount of trouble and labor, as they will not fit our cancelling machines and must therefore be cancelled by hand. Because of their size and tendency to slip out of a package, these small envelopes are more likely to be overlooked or lost.

Mail your letters and packages early in the day, because this avoids overlooking and delaying the mail at the end of the day.

Your local postmaster and your teachers will tell you more about the postal service.

Do these things and you will win the grateful appreciation of the people in your postoffice and especially of your postmaster general.

WILL H. HAYS,
Postmaster General.

Christmas rides in on a fog.
 Have a little patience and courage. Sanford is coming.

And after the first of the year the big things will come to pass that we have wanted for many years.

The lettuce market is picking up so the wise ones say but it is picking up too late to pick up anything.

Rumors say the stock markets of Wall Street are to be destroyed. Well, they that live by the stocks should perish in the stocks, so why worry?

Tampa gas rates will have a substantial reduction on January first. Sanford gas rates should be reduced but no one can find the gas. It has been reduced so low in the tank that no one can use it.

"Death Stalks on Heels of Booze Party" reads the headlines in the daily papers. Nothing new in this. Death usually stalks in the wake of booze parties sooner or later. It is only a question of time with present day booze.

We hate to say it again but honest folks, Sanford will have the country club and golf links and this paper will be able to chronicle the facts about the first of January and it is real this time. And it is all the better after the long wait for it is within reason and reach.

France may be our ally but she pulls some funny stunts that give rise to the question of whether France is not the greatest friend of France in the world. Her actions gave rise to this question after the war when she grabbed everything in sight from America and her actions now in wanting more navy than any other power would indicate that same spirit.

Sanford Daily Herald is to be congratulated on its splendid 24 page Christmas edition of yesterday and the Palm Beach Post also had a 24 page edition for the same date and the Daytona Journal and St. Augustine Record had dandies. All of these specials were well patronized by advertisers and gotten up in metropolitan style.—DeLand News.

Under the caption "Use Your Glad Hand," the St. Petersburg Times publishes an editorial which could be profited by in other towns also. The Sunshine City paper says: "There are in St. Petersburg today many newcomers—winter visitors here for the first time. Greet these visitors with 'your glad hand.' Make them feel that you do your best to make them glad for the same reason. Not only the newcomers, but the old friends back again for another season in God's best climate should have your hearty welcome to ring in their ears and bring them to a realization that our interest in them is not entirely mercenary. Don't be afraid to stick out 'your glad hand.'" sation bill because the estimated annual expenditure of $200,000,000 it entailed threatened to bankrupt the country; now it is in that happy state in which it can not only afford much needed relief to industry by removing the excess profits tax and the surtax on large incomes, but can sweepingly reduce taxes on such articles as seal-skin coats and polo mallets.

Nothing could be more heartening and we can scarce forbear to cheer. The grave danger of national ruin is passed. And, having steered the country through this critical period and seen its way clear to reducing the tax on seal-skin coats and polo mallets, Congress will, of course, will lose no time now in making the patiently awaited adjustment with the ex-service men of the nation.—Legion Weekly.

CHRISTMAS GIFT

Money not being very plentiful this year, the advocates of the suppression of Christmas giving and of the "practical" Christmas gift are in their glory. Away with all of them! This does not refer to those who must adopt this attitude from dire necessity, but to the great army of people, who, because they are a little lazy, selfish and unimaginative, are glad of excuses for letting themselves down easy at Christmas time.

Christmas isn't a time for driving home the hard facts of life. It's a time for forgetting them as far as possible, and festering all life's cheerful possibilities. It is a time for thinking not for reasons for not giving but of reasons for giving, and for giving, as far as may be, the things that are desired and unexpected rather than those that are directly needed and would have to be forthcoming soon, regardless of the day. Anyone who deprives himself of this aspect of Christmas loses more than he gains.

Foolish, thoughtful, cheap, expensive, practical or fantastic, let the gifts be given, each one, down to the most minute or ordinary, with the high light of festivity. If you can't give anything else, give yourself. Wrap your face in a smile, and tie up with a bunch of cheerful words. If you are not a practical person, so much the better.—Gainesville Sun.

THE WHOLE WORKS

A traveling salesman, according to an eastern exchange, visited a small town and sold the proprietor of its general store some merchandise. When the goods arrived they were not as represented and the merchant consequently returned them. The house attempted to collect the bill and drew a sight draft on the merchant through the local bank, which returned the draft unhonored. The house wrote the postmaster about the financial standing of the merchant and the postmaster laconically replied with an o. k.

By return mail the house requested the postmaster to secure a lawyer to collect the amount and received the following reply: "The undersigned is the merchant of whom you attempted to palm off your worthless goods. The undersigned is the president and owner of the bank to which you sent your sight draft. The undersigned is the postmaster to whom you wrote and the undersigned is the lawyer whose services you sought to obtain for your nefarious business. If the undersigned were not also the preacher of the church at this place, he would tell you to go to hell."—Exchange.

MAIL ORDERS

Mail order houses are gathering big harvests from orders sent from every town in Florida. Leesburg, not as large as Sarasota, in the months of September, October and November, sent out of town 2,620 orders amounting to $17,881.50. In year's time, this would amount to over seventy thousand dollars, which is more than that city will pay for her part of the asphalt paving on her streets. We have reason to believe that Sarasota spends annually with Chicago mail order houses much more than this, and yet when it is necessary to give notes to keep the schools going for the full term the names on those notes will not be Sears, Roebuck & Co., or Montgomery Ward & Co., but J. E. Battle, P. H. Levy G. L. Thacker and other Sarasota merchants. Would it not be a good idea, since the Sarasota people are contributing so largely to the prosperity of mail order houses, that the next time the merchants are solicited for their endorsement on notes to keep the schools going, to widen Main street, build the white way, or any of the dozens of other calls that will be made upon them for funds, the secretary of the chamber of commerce take up the matter with the two houses mentioned and solicit a generous contribution from them.—Sarasota Times.

CHRISTMAS HONESTY

It might take more strength of character than you possess, but how would it do for you to spend your Christmas money honestly this year? We mean, how would it do for you to buy only honest gifts—gifts that actually represent your kindly feeling and your sincere desire to give pleasure to the recipient?

We mean, too, how would it do for you to refrain from buying gifts that are more expensive than you can afford, just because you feel that such gifts are "expected" from you or that such gifts will curry favor with the persons to whom you give them?

Could you go down town with a ten-dollar bill to buy a ten-dollar gift for an influential friend and wind up by using the ten dollars for ten one-dollar gifts for ten unimportant little children and then be content to send your influential friend just a cheery "Merry Christmas"?

Strength of character is undoubtedly required for folks to be honest at Christmas time. There is so much snobbery, so much kow-towing, so much veneer, standing out at Christmas time—a time more than any other part of the year when folks should be forgetting themselves and their silly ambitions, in their hurrying about on glad Christmas errands that are bringing gladness into homes and hearts that truly need it.—Miami Metropolis.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF LAW OBSERVANCE NECESSARY

One of the reasons for the general lack of law enforcement in this country is the existence of such a multitude of useless, petty laws. But this is no excuse.

Law is law—here the consideration should end. Under our system of government we elect representatives to make our laws and after they are made the principle of good citizenship requires that they be observed. When the so-called best citizens treat laws as inconsequential inconveniences, what can be expected of the class of lawlessly-inclined?

And yet many of the laws written on the statute books might as well not be there—in fact, they do more harm than good, since an unenforced law encourages general slackness in enforcement.

A law that cannot be enforced should never be passed! It serves no purpose other than to stimulate lawlessness, and at best the country has too much of this.

Generalizing on the subject of law enforcement, The Miami Herald makes an excellent point, saying:

"This regulation of the individual with reference to his relations with those around him, we call law. The law is made that all may understand their duties, one to the other and to the social organization, and that none may be permitted to impose upon his neighbor or unduly stretch his own pleasures to the detriment of those around him. Simply stated, that is the reason why men would have more happiness and would prosper more if they would obey the law."

Unfortunately, many individuals have come to look upon laws as barriers in the path of personal liberty, which causes them to regard all laws more or less through eyes of suspicion. But the real purpose of law is not to deprive any many of his rights; it is to make every man safe in his rights.

However, laws are enacted in such volumes that the ordinary citizen is kept busy trying to stay within bounds. What was permissible a few years ago is illegal today, and so it goes. Before we can get down to the rock-bottom of enforcement, it seems, many of the petty laws must be abolished and proper emphasis placed upon the fundamental laws. More and more our system of human relations is becoming entangled in technicalities, and while some of these details are necessary, too many of them are tediums involving.—Florida Metropolis.

CONDUCTOR A. A. STONE KILLED AT INVERNESS

A. A. Stone, conductor on Atlantic Coast Line, extra freight No. 800, north-bound from Lakeland to High Springs, was instantly killed at 12:45 o'clock this morning at Inverness. Details of the accident were brought to Lakeland by Coast Line train crews, who state that Conductor Stone stepped across the track directly in front of the approaching engine. He belonged to the order of Railway Conductors, and had rooms at the residence of Mrs. Lohr, 401 South New York avenue, in Lakeland. There survive, his mother, who is living in Macon, Georgia, and one son, a baseball pitcher at Mercer University. Engineer Henry Brower, who was on the engine which caused Conductor Stone's death, brought the body to Lakeland this morning on train 213, turning it over to Gentry and Futch, Emerson Barber, flagman of the extra, finished the run to High Springs for Conductor Stone.

Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed. A peculiar and feature of the death is that this was to be Conductor Stone's final trip as an employee of the Atlantic Coast Line. He had planned to go to High Springs and return on this run, and the proceed to Macon, Georgia, to spend the Christmas holidays with his mother. He had intimated to friends that he had concluded to retire permanently from active duty as a railroad conductor.—Lakeland Telegram.

The Pipe Beautiful WDC TRIANGLE THE GENUINE BAKELITE From a soldier in the A. E. F. Army of occupation, the manufacturer of the WDC Triangle Bakelite received this: "The Bakelite mouth piece has stood the test. It is much stronger than the amber mouth piece that the German moerschbaum pipes have. Many Germans believe that it is a real amber stem. While the pipe has been scraped and scraped, nothing but the top of the bowl is worn out. We have nothing to add to this, except to say come into our store and take a look at the WDC Triangle Bakelite." JOE'S SMOKE HOUSE WEST FIRST ST. SANFORD, FLA.

Hospital Experience Proves That Free Nerves Mean Health The late Alfred Walton, M. D., D. C., of Philadelphia, was undoubtedly among the foremost physicians and surgeons of the last generation. A graduate of Harvard Medical College (1879), one time President and Chief of the Surgical Division of the Essex County (New Jersey) Hospital, and corresponding fellow of the Maine Academy of Medicine and Science, he was not content to follow the beaten path, but investigated for himself all that was new in the healing arts, and late in life took up Chiropractic. In a book of which he was the author, appears the following: "That pressure upon a nerve interferes with its conductivity, and that this interference prevents the part, or organ, to which this nerve is a conveyor of vital energy, from performing its functional duties, are facts verified daily in every hospital in the land. The only question that can arise, is: Does the slight vertebral displacement called a sub-luxation, produce enough pressure upon the nerve with which it comes in contact to be the cause of disease? The best answer is the clinical fact, that as soon as the detected sub-luxation is properly adjusted, and the normal flow of mental impulses become re-established, nature invariably establishes health."
