On Probation

Ex-Lake Mary Doctor Has License Back In Missouri

By Tom Giordano
Herald Managing Editor

A former Lake Mary physician who lost his license to practice in Florida for alcohol and drug abuse has had it reinstated on a probationary basis in another state.

The doctor, Robert L. Bevier, had his license revoked in Florida by the board of medical examiners Dec. 4, 1982, after a hearing in Kissimmee initiated by the state's Department of Professional Regulation (DPR).

Soon after he lost his license in Florida, Bevier moved to Missouri, the state he originally obtained a medical doctor's license in 1973. And although, by reciprocal agreement, Bevier's license to practice in Missouri was also revoked because of his Florida problems, Missouri has reinstated that license on a probationary basis.

Bevier's license, according to Brenda Crain, an investigative coordinator with the Missouri Board of Healing Arts, was reinstated last Saturday following a hearing in Jefferson, Mo.

Bevier has been a member of alcoholics anonymous (AA) for the past several months in Missouri and has done volunteer community work and volunteer work at a county hospital trying to pick up the pieces of his life, according to Ms. Crain. She said Bevier's probationary license will not be issued until he signs an extensive agreement with the healing arts board.

Bevier, according to Ms. Crain, will have to agree to continue in the AA program, practice medicine only under the supervision of another doctor and submit at any time to a test by any healing arts board member to determine if he's been using drugs or alcohol. And, before any of that comes to pass, according to Ms. Crain, Bevier will have to attend classes at the University of Missouri School of Medicine for 60 days to brush up on current medical practices, "then successfully pass a rigid test."

"There were many doctors and other community leaders who were very supportive of Dr. Bevier at the hearing. So we're hoping he continues to make progress," Ms. Crain said. She pointed out that even after the three-year probationary period is over, the healing arts board need not necessarily relinquish its control. "If he's performed satisfactorily and lived up to the terms of his probation agreement, they probably will turn him loose. But if they're not completely satisfied, they have the right to continue him on probation until they are."

Bevier's license was first pulled by the DPR in Florida on an emergency order issued Sept. 11, 1982 based on an administrative complaint that alleged "Bevier had been injecting cocaine intravenously since August, 1981, drinking heavily and using tranquilizers ... and could not account for six vials of cocaine flakes missing from his office."

'A Mindless Inquisition'

Donovan Arraigned In Grand Larceny

By Frank Spotnitz

NEW YORK (UPI) — Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan surrendered today to face criminal charges of grand larceny and falsifying records while he was an executive of a New Jersey construction firm.

"It's a political hatchet job," said Donovan of the charges before entering the Criminal Courthouse in the Bronx.

"You bet your life," Donovan replied when asked if he would fight the charges.

Donovan, who went into the courthouse through a side entrance, said he would have no further comment before his arraignment, which was scheduled at 11 a.m. in state Supreme Court in the Bronx.

Donovan announced Monday night he was taking a leave of absence to answer the accusations.

"I plan to devote all my time and attention to this matter," Donovan said of the indictment that he termed "a mindless inquisition" Monday night in a terse statement he read to reporters gathered at his lawyer's Washington office building.

"I fully expect to resume my duties just as soon as this injustice has been dealt with," said Donovan, who has been dogged by questions about his new Jersey construction firm since before joining the administration.

He said he was leaving immediately, in part, to ensure "that this does not reflect negatively upon the president" in the current campaign.

Donovan and seven other current or former members of Schiavone Construction Co. and the firm itself were named in the 137-count indictment that stemmed from an investigation into Schiavone's relationship with JoPel. JoPel is an excavation company owned by New York state Sen. Joseph Galber and reputed mobster William Maselli, that did work for Schiavone on a New York subway contract.

Bronx District Attorney Mario Merola's investigators and the grand jury were probing charges that $8 million allegedly paid to JoPel by Schiavone in 1979 and 1980 was based on false statements and bogus billings aimed at inflating the value of the work performed by JoPel.

Schiavone lawyer Theodore Geiser said he had not seen the indictment but was informed by a Bronx prosecutor that the firm and its executives were charged with one count of grand larceny, 125 counts of maintaining false business records and 11 counts of filing false business records.

President Reagan, spending Monday night in Biloxi, Miss., while on a Southern campaign swing, granted Donovan's request for leave — without pay — immediately.

White House officials said Undersecretary Ford B. Ford will replace Donovan on an interim basis. Ford first joined the administration as assistant secretary of labor in charge of the Mine Safety and Health Administration.

When questioned about the indictment, Reagan said he had "complete trust" in Donovan's integrity. The president nodded his head when asked whether he retained confidence in his labor secretary.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said later in the day that Reagan agreed to let Donovan take a leave of absence after being briefed twice by his aides. At no point did the president speak directly to Donovan.

Speakes said Reagan had "no specific reaction" to the indictment "because the matter is in the courts." When asked if Reagan retained full confidence in his labor secretary, Speakes replied: "On the basis of what he knows, yes."

While the indictment was certain to be used by the Democrats, Speakes refused to speculate on the political ramifications.

Methane Gas Mining Proposed

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Faced with an order from the state Department of Environmental Regulation to "cap and cover" garbage and trash as it is buried at the county sanitary landfill — the former Osceola Airfield — Seminole County may have found an untrapped resource to help pay the annual costs.

The county commission at a workshop session late this afternoon was to make a decision on whether it will take a California based firm up on its offer to mine "methane gas," a by-product of garbage, at the landfill near Oviedo in exchange for royalties that could total $50,000 to $150,000 per year.

Ken Hooper, the county's environmental services director, has estimated it will cost about $450,000 per year to cap and cover the garbage — a process by which the solid waste is totally encapsulated underground to keep water from escaping from within or leaking into the garbage from the outside.

The state agency is demanding the process because of the possibility water from the garbage is polluting underground water nearby.

To pay these costs, to buy property and build a new transfer station in Oviedo and to purchase new equipment, the commission recently adopted an ordinance raising disposal rates for commercial haulers from $9.75 per ton to $18 at transfer stations and from $7.75 to $15 at the landfill, beginning Dec. 1.

The methane gas now is being vented to the atmosphere.

Craig Batterson of Professional Engineering Consultants Inc., "strongly" recommended discussions with Cambrian Energy Systems, who have offered the county the royalties if it is proved that a methane gas recovery system is possible at Osceola.

Batterson said with the proper hardware and technical expertise the gas can be recovered as a fuel source. He added that Cambrian has an agreement in effect in Palm Beach County, is negotiating a contract with Lake Worth and has a methane gas mining program in operation in California.

Cambrian Energy Systems estimates the Osceola landfill has the potential of producing 250,000 cubic feet per day of methane.

Feather Land Ordered Sold To Pay Debt To Architect

By Donna Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford property under development as a private health center by County Commissioner Robert "Bud" Feather is scheduled to be sold Wednesday at 11 a.m. on the courthouse steps to satisfy a lien judgement against Feather.

Feather, however, said today that the lien holder, architect Eoghan N. Kelley, of Sanford, will be paid today or early Wednesday to prevent the sale of the property.

According to legal notices, the 8-acre site on Fulton Street which is designated to be the location of a $3 million Life Care Center, will be sold to satisfy a lien judgment filed by Kelley, a Sanford architect.

Kelley filed suit Sept. 18, 1982 stating that Feather did not pay him for his work which included reviewing the projected project, evaluating it, planning budget requirements, a production program, and proving drawing and sketches.

On Aug. 14, County Judge Robert Dykes ordered Feather to pay Kelley $9,751.05 for services rendered in the designing of the center in 1982. Dykes also ordered Feather to pay Kelley's legal fees in the civil suit plus court costs of $13,184.05 for a total amount of $22,935.10

While the city of Sanford is listed as a co-owner in the intention-to-sell legal notice, City Attorney William Colbert said the city is no longer a party to the original suit and has no legal interest in the sale.

Colbert said the city at one time had revisionary interests in the property, that is if it was not developed within a certain time the city had an option of ownership. However, Feather paid the city $50,000 for that interest, Colbert said.

Dykes, a Brevard County judge, handed the case because judges in Seminole County excused themselves from the suit to avoid accusations of partiality.

Heroin Traffic Crackdown 'Devastating Blow' To Mafia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General William French Smith said today joint U.S.-Italian action against trans-Atlantic heroin smuggling is "the most devastating blow to hit the Mafia in many years."

Smith scheduled meetings today with Italy's interior minister and its top crime fighters to map strategy for the joint effort.

Interior Minister Oscar Luigi Scalfaro arrived Monday night for what he described as "the start of a much more intense and profound collaboration than existed before" in the fight against crime.

The visit comes amid a wave of arrests and house searches in several cities against suspected Cosa Nostra members in the United States based on information supplied by Tommaso Buscetta, the first top Mafia boss in Italy to break his vow of silence and turn informer.

Italian police began arresting scores of Mafia suspects Friday on 368 arrest warrants issued on testimony by the 58-year-old Buscetta.

In an interview on CBS's "Morning News" program, Smith said, the action is "a continuation of an action we took some time ago" known as the "pizza case" because of the number of pizza parlors in the United States that were being used as fronts for peddling heroin.

"That was the largest heroin

Synfuels: Don't Pull Plug Yet

Synthetic fuels, once hailed as a potential miracle-cure for the nation's energy ills, have fallen on hard times. Despite huge public subsidies, synfuel projects have collapsed and costs have soared. The Synthetic Fuels Corp., created by Congress in 1980 to promote technologies for converting coal and oil shale into liquid and gas, is mired in charges of mismanagement and conflict of interest.

No wonder President Reagan and some members of Congress are having second thoughts. The president wants to cut the synfuels budget by two-thirds, or about $9 billion. The administration would also subject synthetic fuel projects to a market test to ensure product prices are not much higher than the projected cost of competing fuels. Synfuel backers say cuts will cripple future development. A showdown is expected shortly.

Given the failed promise of synfuels, it's tempting to join in the call for massive retrenchment, if not total dismantling of the program. But that would be a mistake. The nation is still perilously dependent on foreign sources of oil, importing a third of the petroleum used today, compared to one-fifth just 15 years ago. Much of the nation's supply comes from unstable sources in the Middle East. Domestic supplies of oil are dwindling and nuclear power is on the ropes.

Even with the potential for expanding energy-conservation efforts, it's too early to write off synfuels. At the very least, Congress should be willing to support an adequate research program in a variety of synfuel technologies.

Much more study should also be directed at ways to minimize the considerable environmental hazards of synfuel development. These include the strip mining of vast tracts of land, the creation of billions of tons of waste and threats to the water supply in the arid west.

It may well be that such dangers alone will prove so formidable that the nation will eventually decide synfuels are not worth the risk. But the country has yet to come to a reasoned accounting of costs and benefits. Until that occurs, Congress ought not pour money into boondoggles, but neither should it pull the plug on a technology that may be needed someday.

Chance Of Rain

Year-in and year-out, weather may be the most popular subject of conversation in the world. Everyone talks about the weather and some people try to forecast it.

Recently the national newspaper, USA Today, was sued because of the way it presented weather forecasts. A private weather information service, Accu-Weather Inc., charged that the newspaper misrepresented weather information it had provided.

Accu-Weather claimed that USA Today used two-day-old forecasts and reported day-old forecasts as actual temperatures in its international edition. A federal judge agreed with the claim, but declined to levy any penalty.

This probably is a good decision, because if a penalty had been assessed, it would have opened a bag of rain. Just think of all the lawsuits that would have been filed for inaccurate predictions.

For example, recently a radio station blithely predicted a 10 percent chance of rain while it was pouring outside.

Revise Pensions Downward

The presidential campaign season isn't a good time to get down to the nitty gritty of government spending. In this season, the candidates are afraid of offending powerful blocs of voters.

One of the most powerful blocs is made up of military pensioners. It is not only a politically powerful but an emotionally charged bloc, as I well know from the critical letters I have received when I have discussed pensions in newspaper columns. It is no wonder that the politicians seek to avoid alarming and antagonizing the pensioners.

At the outset, let me say that I favor adequate pensions for those who serve their country. I also believe that existing pensions are much too generous to those military pensioners who never heard a shot fired in anger. However, a contract is a contract, and the Congress can't change what is done. However, future pensions should be revised downward because the existing pensions are excessive and a terrible burden on the taxpaying public.

I wish every taxpayer could read the statement on pensions that J. Peter Grace, chairman of the President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control, published in The New York Times Sept. 4. I want to quote key excerpts from that statement. They are as follows:

"A 38-year-old with 20 years of service can therefore get 100 percent of his final active-duty pay at age 48, 10 years after retirement; 200 percent at age 58; 400 percent at age 68, and at age 78 — God bless him — 800 percent. And all this assumes a 7 percent annual inflation rate.

"Similarly, the $19,692 pension per year a lieutenant colonel or Navy commander receives after 20 years of service is his initial pension, which at 7 percent inflation would be $39,384 annually after 10 years of COLA's (cost-of-living adjustments) and $78,768 annually after 20 years. A colonel or Navy captain with an initial pension of $28,788 after 25 years of service would be $57,576 after 10 years (at 7 percent inflation) and $115,152 after 20 years (at age 63).

"The Defense Department's Office of the Actuary circulated in its 1983 statistical report that to pay a lieutenant colonel or Navy commander his or her initial annual pension of $19,692 with full COLA's would require a lump-sum deposit of $589,440. With 25 years of service and an initial pension of $28,788, $737,733 would need to be set aside to provide a colonel or Navy captain lifetime pension benefits.

Treasury Fears 'Turf Battle'

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration, hoping for a rich harvest of votes in the Farm Belt, is planning a big increase in government grain exports to Third World countries.

It's the latest in a series of actions designed to shore up the president's support among the nation's hard-pressed farmers.

The President's Task Force on International Private Enterprise is just concluding a two-day meeting in Washington. It's expected to recommend a major expansion of the PL 480 program, under which the government buys agricultural commodities from farmers and ships them to famine-plagued countries at little or no cost.

The task force was created early last year to "recommend ways to strengthen private enterprise in the developing world primarily through U.S. foreign assistance programs." It is headed by Dwayne Andreas, board chairman of Archer-Daniels-Midland, one of the world's largest grain dealers. Andreas is no political

The wife of state Senate dean, Dempsey Barron, and former Miami Dolphin and past state Sen. Dick Anderson, both Democrats, have declared their support for the reelection of President Ronald Reagan.

And both have been selected by Reagan-Bush campaign leaders as co-chairmen of the newly formed Citizens for Reagan Committee. The committee's principal function is gathering Democrats to support the GOP national ticket.

Louverne Barron of Panama City and Anderson are embarking on the challenge of rallying Democrats behind Reagan and his programs.

Both are scheduled to be guests at the White House on Oct. 8.

Anderson, who served in the Florida Senate from 1978 to 1982, gave up his senate seat to devote more time to his business.

For both, it is their first venture into the forefront for this type of campaign.

For Mrs. Barron, it is the first time she will be out making public speeches and stumping the state. For Anderson, aside from his stint as state senator, his only other venture into the political arena was as a member of the Dade County Democratic Executive Committee and on a different scale, as president of the National Football League's Player Association for two years after his retirement in the mid-70's from football.

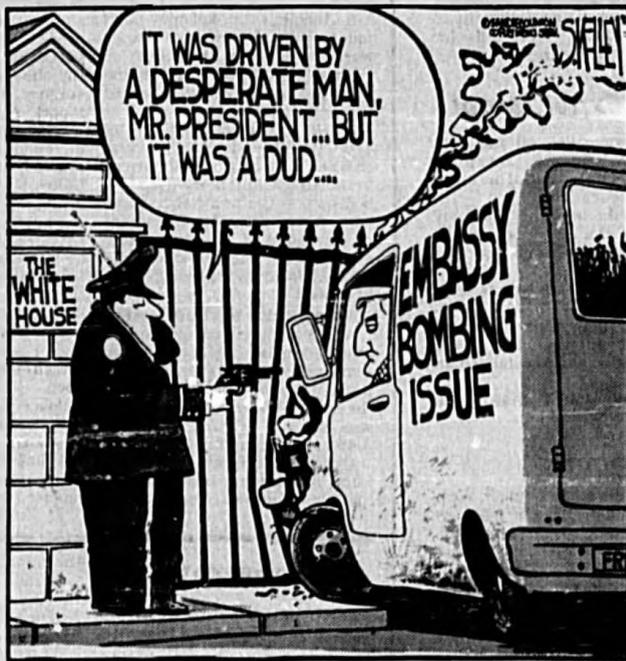

Meanwhile the National Democratic party has designed a program specifically to assist state parties in raising dollars to get out the Democratic vote for the Mondale-Ferraro ticket in November.

Loyal Democrats throughout Florida are being asked to host a party in their homes on Sunday, Oct. 7 revolving around a nationally televised program at 7 p.m. featuring Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro.

Some 160 parties have already been scheduled in the state and state party officials are expecting more. Those interested in sponsoring a party are being asked to contact Phyllis Miller at state party headquarters, P.O. Box 1758, Tallahassee, 32302.

The proceeds from the parties will go back to the state party for its get out the vote efforts.

Seminole County's Democratic headquarters is located at 1451 E. Semoran Blvd., Casselberry, 857-6279.

The Coming Debates

So we are to have three debates, two between Reagan and Mondale, with one between Ferraro and Bush sandwiched in between. Mondale wanted six debates, count 'em, supported in this demand by, among others, Mr. James Reston in his New York Times column. Mondale and Reston argued that we needed six debates to explore the "issues."

The instinct of James Baker, Reagan's chief of staff and campaign strategist, was to have no debates at all.

The debates, after all, are Mondale's straw, as in grasping at straws. Coming out of the nominating conventions, Reagan was 15 points ahead in the polls. Two weeks later, he was 22 points ahead. One recent poll made it 30. If he had decided that Mondale had not established his standing as a "contender," he would have been justified. Columnist George Will, who once assured us that Mondale had the right stuff as a political operator, must be surprised by the present Mondale campaign shambles. Will thought the Reagan-Mondale gap would close, but instead it is widening. As I write this, Mondale is carrying only the District of Columbia, where everyone works for the federal government, which is essentially the program of the Democratic Party. George McGovern carried the District, plus Massachusetts, Landslide McGovern.

Under these circumstances, having any debates at all is an act of chivalric generosity.

Everyone knows what the issues are. You would have to have experienced brain death for the past four years not to know them. Reagan put through a three-year tax cut. Mondale has promised to raise taxes. Is there anyone who does not know that?

This is one reason why: tax cuts study the computer print-outs. Reagan is leading Mondale by the incredible margin of 3-to-1 among white males between 18 and 30. They think they are moving upward economically, and there is a piece of junk in their way called Mondale. They would like Reagan to clear that out of the road.

Other issues are dying out from under Mondale. Two years ago, the recession and the economic issue loomed large, but that has faded and turned into a Reagan plus. He is 10 points ahead in Michigan, home of the auto industry. He is 12 points ahead in New York, despite the political flair and gut instinct of Mario Cuomo.

The Soviets have thrown in their hand, deciding that Reagan is the winner. He humiliated them with his European victory concerning the Pershing II deployment, against which they exerted every political muscle they had. Mitterand has thrown the communists out of his government, and Thatcher is out to break the Marxists in the coal mine leadership. The nuclear freeze movement is dead. After shooting down the Korean airliner, the Soviets have decided to talk. They knew that Gromyko's meeting with Reagan would kill the "peace" issue, but they are going through with it.

WASHINGTON WORLD

Election Could Get Interesting

By Clay F. Richards
UPI Political Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There must be mornings this politically chilly fall that Walter Mondale wishes he didn't have to get out of bed.

After three and a half years of preparation, the last year of it in an all-out campaign, Mondale finds himself just about as far down as a presidential candidate can be heading into the last month of the campaign.

Every poll that comes out shows Mondale farther behind President Reagan. No matter what he does, nothing seems to help.

When he was nominated, Mondale came out with a politically bold stroke of announcing how he would raise taxes, saying Reagan will have to do the same. The Republicans passed a no new taxes platform, and this week launched a $2.9 million television advertising campaign saying vote for Republican House members unless you want to keep a Democrat who will go along with Mondale, and raise your taxes $1,800 a year.

Mondale isn't a Reagan for being the only president since Hoover never to meet with the Soviet leadership. Reagan immediately sets up a meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and calls for resumption of arms talks.

Mondale cautiously says the administration should have made sure security was better at the Beirut embassy annex before last week's bombing. Reagan says the problem was that we can't tell what terrorists are going to do because President Carter dismantled our ability to gather intelligence throughout the world.

There seems to be no issue that Mondale can bring up that Reagan can't turn to muck — whether you agree he is right or not.

And Mondale isn't getting much help from his own party. House Speaker Thomas O'Neill tells him to take off the gloves and stop being a wimp. Around the country, especially in the South, local Democrats don't always show up when Mondale comes to town because they are afraid he will drag them down with him in the fall election.

Yes, these are the worst of all times for the Democratic presidential candidate. But that doesn't mean the election is over. Closing the polls on Oct. 1 forgets the fact that most Americans haven't even really looked at the 1984 presidential elections that closely.

History shows that the kind of wide gap you see now between Reagan and Mondale closes as the election nears.

process. He, with some support, urged a greater and more dominant role for USDA (Agriculture Department) in the future. He accused State of being anti-trade.

A task-force official said the conflict-of-interest charge "really irritates" Andreas, who says his religious convictions compel him to try to match this country's agricultural abundance with people who need food.

Andreas's complaint against Treasury officials is that they often hold up grain sales that offer generous terms or are destined for countries with poor credit ratings.

For their part, Treasury officials charge that Agriculture is too willing to give away the store, particularly in election years. In fact, an old-fashioned bureaucratic turf battle seems to be shaping up over the task force's final report, expected to be released shortly.

Regan suspected early on that the task force might try to strip Treasury of its paramount role in shaping U.S. international economic policy. He ordered an investigation, and sure enough — his worst fears were confirmed.

Regan's aides reported that the task force favors creation of an all-powerful Economic Policy Council — a sort of counterpart to the National Security Council — and possibly a high-level economic coordinator (like the national security adviser), who would cut Regan off at the knees.

Treasury officials concede that their department's incompetent handling of the international debt crisis demonstrated that it lacks the expertise to formulate international economic policy.

Interestingly, the argument for a new agency was endorsed by former President Nixon in his testimony before the task force last spring. According to a still-unreleased summary of his remarks, Nixon also urged tripling U.S. economic aid and cutting military aid.

"Communists at least talk about Third World problems," Nixon said. "Too often we only talk about the communists."

Lowry, Jones Earn Optimist Honors

Prep Football

The Seminole High football coaching staff had one easy decision Sunday and one tough one. The easy one was picking Dexter Jones Sanford Optimist Club Offensive Player of the Week. The tough one was deciding on Walt Lowry as Sanford Optimist Club Defensive Player of the Week.

Jones, a fireplug of a running back, was the Tribe's lone offensive weapon in Friday's four-overtime 14-7 setback to Mainland. The 5-7, 170-pound senior rushed for 55 yards on 17 carries. He ran hard and tough, especially when he needed to. Jones scored Sanford's only touchdown on a determined five-yard run. It was run on which he hurdled one tackler and yanked away from another for the TD.

Lowry, just one of many great defensive players, made himself at home in the Mainland backfield.

helps. Deron Thompson (10-13), Anthony Hall (5-3), Jerry Littles (5-4) and Brian Brooks (7-8) were also cited.

Offensively, linemen Danny Stone and Alan Kendall joined Jones as Hatcherman award winners. On special teams, Littles and Thompson were the Savage award winners.

Jones and Lowry were feted Monday for a noon luncheon at Western Sizzlin' by the Optimists.

Cross Country Needs 2 Polls For Evaluation

For the first time this season, the Seminole County cross country teams have split up with some going to the first Seminole High Invitational and some going to the Seabreeze Beach Run at Daytona Beach this past Saturday.

The Beach Run, because of the hard sand surface, almost always produces fast times and Saturday was no different. On the other hand, the runners at the Seminole High meet had to slog through a rain-soaked course and the times didn't compare with those at the beach.

This week's Seminole County cross country poll has been divided into two polls, one for the top 10 times and one for the top 10 individuals according to head-to-head competition.

If you look at the boys poll you see Seminole's Billy Penick number one in the head-to-head competition poll, but third according to the top times. Penick and Seminole did not compete at the Beach Run. However, Penick is unbeaten when going head-to-head with county competition.

Having just one poll, and ranking according to times only, would be unfair to Penick and any other runner who didn't compete in the Beach Run. On the other hand, ranking according to times and throwing out the Beach Run times, would be unfair to those who ran well at the beach.

Two separate polls gives you an idea of what courses are the fastest and what runners perform the best against county competition. The Beach Run and Trinity Prep are the two fastest courses that Seminole County teams will run on this season.

While individual polls are good for the runners to get recognition, cross country is a team-oriented sport first. One individual does not make a team. It takes five to make a team score and seven to add depth. Ranking teams in the county is pretty easy since they go up against each other almost every week.

The state poll is different and much more difficult to compile. The only way to make a completely accurate state poll is to wait until after the state meet. Compiling a state poll during the season is pretty hard. For instance, Pensacola Washington is the top ranked (4A) boys team but no other teams from that area are ranked. And Washington doesn't attend the same meets as the other teams ranked in the state.

The coaches could let the sportswriters do the poll, like they do in football, but how many sportswriters cover cross country?

No matter how they are done, prep polls are good because recognizing the achievements of the athletes and the schools they compete for is what it's all about.

LAKE MARY BOYS TRAVEL TO LARGO

The Lake Mary boys cross country team, ranked eighth in the state (4A), will go up against state powerhouses Largo and Tampa Leto Wednesday in the Largo Invitational. Another top-ranked team from the Tampa Bay area, Clearwater Countryside, is also expected to be on hand.

"The kids are really excited about going to Largo," Lake Mary coach Mark McGee said. "I hope the guys can maintain the attitude they had going into the Beach Run. They were really pumped up."

Lake Mary's varsity only will run in Wednesday's meet and that also has been good for the team.

The top two spots on the Rams' varsity are secure with Ken Rohr and Matt Palumbo. There are five other runners who have been fighting it out for the third, fourth and fifth spots including Harold Pitts, Bob Howard, Jim Shepherd, John Amrhein and Tom Wait.

Seminole County's teams, except for Lake Mary's boys, will run at either the Bishop Moore Invitational at the University of Central Florida or the Boone Invitational at Orlando Boone High this Saturday.

Following Saturday's meet will be the Seminole County Postal Run Monday night at Lake Mary.

Hats Off To Altamonte

It was hats off for the Altamonte Springs Senior and Major All-Stars Sunday at Tampa Stadium. The Tampa Bay Buccaneers honored the city's two successful Little League teams prior to the game. At the right, Chris Radcliff, Jimmy Musselwhite, Greg James and Aaron Iarofola leave the field. James obliges the photographer will another doff the cap. The Seniors were World Champions while the Majors finished second at the World Series in Williamsport, Pa. The Majors also had a banquet Monday night to honor their players at the Altamonte Springs Inn and Racquet Club. ## No Sweat: Lions Net Seminoles

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Seminole High's volleyball team had the momentum in the early going against powerful Oviedo — but it only lasted for six points. The Lady Seminoles ran out of gas before they even got going Monday as the Lady Lions claimed a 15-6, 15-4 victory at Oviedo High.

"We hung right in there the first game and had the momentum," Seminole coach Beth Corso said. "But, all of a sudden, we stopped playing. We didn't even make Oviedo sweat."

The loss dropped Seminole to 1-5 overall for the season. Seminole, 1-5 in the Five Star Conference, takes on Lake Mary Thursday night at Lake Mary. Oviedo, meanwhile, continues to roll as the Lady Lions now stand at 9-0 overall and lead the Orange Belt Conference with a 4-0 mark. Oviedo, which has beaten all five Seminole County opponents (Lake Brantley, Lyman, Lake Howell, Lake Mary and Seminole), is back in action today at 4 p.m. as it hosts conference foe Leesburg.

In other volleyball action today, Lake Mary and Spruce Creek are in a tri-match at Lake Howell with the first match starting at 4:30 and Seminole's junior varsity, which lost in three games to Oviedo Monday, is at Trinity Prep at 4:30.

Oviedo bolted out to an early 4-0 lead in Monday's first game on Kim Biestel's serve. Becky Baker came back to serve four straight points for the Lady Seminoles to tie the game at 4-4.

Seminole had the serve two more times with the score still tied, but a pair of missed serves kept the score tied. Oviedo then took a 6-4 lead as Stephanie Nelson served a pair of points and, after a side out, the Lions regained the serve and took a 8-4 lead.

Seminole came back to within 8-6 on Jackie Farr's serve, the second an ace. Oviedo then regained the serve and that's when Seminole started to fall apart.

"We just quit playing from that point on," Corso said. "We just didn't play well as a team, there were just six individuals out there."

The Lady Lions took advantage of Seminole's lapse and reeled off eight straight points on Biestel's serve to win the first game, 15-6.

Oviedo cruised through the second game as it took a commanding 14-1 lead. Nelson served six of the 14 points for Oviedo while Tina Pauldo served three and Evonne Bartels two.

Seminole scored three points on Debra Hillery's serve, one an ace, but Oviedo got it back and closed out the match as Mary Lokers served the final point.

"The defense played really well, but you can't score on defense," Corso said. "Every time our defense would get us the serve, we'd give it right back to Oviedo. Our setters (Beth Nelson and Sheri Peterson) only got five and six sets apiece in each game and that's not much to set up an attack with."

Corso said Janet Hauck, Peterson and Farr all played well for the Seminoles Monday night. "Janet (Hauck) played so well she was playing other people's positions," Corso said.

Corso said Peterson and Farr, both up from the junior varsity, have performed well since being moved up and she hopes the entire team can get it together by districts.

Ueberroth Runs Into Trouble With Umpires On Initial Day

By United Press International
Peter Ueberroth probably wished he was back running the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee Monday, instead of starting his new job as Baseball Commissioner.

On his first day since replacing Bowie Kuhn as commissioner, Ueberroth was confronted with a probable umpire strike for today's National and American League playoff games.

Talks broke off between representatives of the major leagues and the umpires' union Monday night, meaning the playoffs will probably take place with amateur umpires.

The umpires are seeking tenure selection for post-season games and more money for working post-season games. League officials say if the professional umpires do strike, amateur umpires will be used for the playoffs and World Series.

"The presidents of the American and National League have the responsibilities to see there are umpires on the field tomorrow," Ueberroth said. "There will be umpires on the field whether they are our umpires or not. We'll have to wait and see what to expect."

An aide to the commissioner said names of the standby umpires for this afternoon's NL opener at Chicago between the Cubs and San Diego Padres would not be released until gametime (2:25 p.m. EDT).

The Kansas City Royals and Detroit Tigers play in Kansas City tonight.

Minor league umpires were used during the umpire's walkout during the 1979 regular season.

HAAS IS NEXT FOR BRAVES

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Braves scheduled a news conference today to name a successor to fired manager Joe Torre and the choice was reported to be veteran minor league manager Eddie Haas.

ALSTON IS DEAD AT 72

OXFORD, Ohio (UPI) — Walter Alston, a Hall of Fame manager who guided the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers to four world championships during his 23 years at the helm, is dead at 72.

LURIE WILL SELL GIANTS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco Giants owner Robert A. Lurie bought the National League franchise in 1976 from Horace Stoneham with the hopes of a bright future.

On Monday, Lurie told a shocked press conference that he could no longer absorb the team's mounting financial losses and was putting the franchise up for sale.

STEELERS TRUMP BENGALS

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The rebuilding Pittsburgh Steelers hung a new Steel Curtain over Three Rivers Stadium Monday night, and for one game, at least, it looked as good as the one that carried them to two of their four Super Bowl championships in the 1970s.

"It was a great game all the way around," Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll said after the Steelers thumped the winless Cincinnati Bengals, 38-17, in an AFC Central Division clash

Make Way Cowboys And Braves, Cubs Are America's Team

CHICAGO (UPI) — Let's get one thing straight. Maybe the Dallas Cowboys or the Atlanta Braves were America's Team once upon a time, but neither is any more and both of them know it.

Only one team has captured the hearts and imagination of people in this country to the extent that no other one has since our Olympic hockey team upset the Soviets four years ago at Lake Placid.

You don't even have to guess which team we're talking about. You know it's those modern-day marvels of the Midwest, those time-honored accordions of the past, whom you always could count on to fold up just before the finish, but who fooled everybody by not doing it this time — the Chicago Cubs.

Beyond any question, they're America's Team right now.

Everybody loves the Cubs. For one thing, no one with even the slightest sense of baseball history has any difficulty relating to the uncommon degree of frustration and suffering all Cubs' fans have been forced to endure until this year.

A number like 39 rolls off the tongue very easily. But that's how many years it has been since the Cubs have won anything they can talk about, and even then, back then in 1945, they still lost to the Tigers in the World Series.

They finally looked as if they were about to win one in 1969 when they went 9 1/2 games in front that August, but you know what happened, don't you? They suddenly went flizzzzzz like the air out of a big balloon and wound up second to the Mets.

In Las Vegas, the oddsmakers have the Cubs 6-5 favorites to beat the Padres in the NL playoffs. Why? Because they think the Cubs are better than the Padres man for man? I'm not so sure of that. What I am more sure of is that the people who bet are the real ones who make the line, and right now everyone loves the Cubs.

Normally, you see most visitors in Las Vegas wearing Angels, Dodgers or Yankees baseball caps. What do you think most of them wearing today? Cubs caps. Everyone loves the Cubs. That's all good and well as far as it goes, but there's another side to being cast as Team USA, also, a side Ron Cey isn't so sure he likes that much.

"Naturally, I'm kinda glad that this thing about the Cubs' losing tradition is over now," says their chunky, long-ball hitting third baseman, who came to them from the Dodgers before the 1983 season.

"I hope they allow us to live in the future rather than in the past. We aren't responsible for what happened to the Cubs in 1969 or for what has happened to them these past 39 years."

How does Cey feel about the Cubs now being America's Team?

"I don't particularly care for that, either," he says. "I don't think something like that can do anything but alienate people from other areas. Just as it did with the Dallas Cowboys. It's almost as if we're self-proclaiming we're America's Team. That wasn't the case at all. We didn't do it. The media did."

Whoever was responsible isn't really that important.

Cub fans, especially many of the younger ones, can't remember when they had it this good. And they don't really resent so many of the country's other fans jumping on their bandwagon, they rather like the idea.

"The Cub fans have been around a lot longer than ours and have suffered a lot longer than ours," says Padres infielder Tim Lincecum. "I can understand why their fans and so many other ones in the country are that excited about them. Thirty-nine years of frustration is a long time. But as far as that goes, I won't feel bad about beating them."

Steve Garvey makes a point of his own talking about San Diego. "We come from 'the All-American City' so we neutralize them in that respect," he laughs. "Chicago has had a lot of frustration in the past 39 years and is one of the three leading media centers, so there are two reasons right there for all the attention the Cubs are getting."

"But we've got quite a story ourselves. We've never won before and never finished higher than fourth. Two of the fellows who helped us win are Goose Gosage and Graig Nettles, and coming over from the Yankees, I'm sure they've got a lot of people rooting for them in New York."

I think," Garvey adds, pointedly, "I might even have a few rooting for me in Los Angeles."

Sutcliffe Draws Show In Opener

CHICAGO (UPI) — The last time the Chicago Cubs hosted a post-season game, World War II had just ended, trains were the main mode of transportation, night baseball was still in its infancy and the grass at major league ballparks was real.

So it seems fitting that when the playoffs returned to the Windy City, little had changed at Wrigley Field. Fans will ride the "L" to the game, which will be played in God's sunshine — Wrigley Field is the only park without lights — and a natural surface will be the foundation for the playoff game between the Cubs and the San Diego Padres.

The weatherman will cooperate for Game 1 of the National League playoffs although National League umpires may not. The umpires were threatening a strike of the playoffs and World Series unless their pay was increased, forcing the league to use amateur umpes.

Indian summer readings of around 70 with a wind blowing out were expected to dominate when former Cubs' great Ernie Banks, who toiled spectacularly but in frustration during the club's lean years, throws out the first ball.

After that, it was a battle or right-handers. Rick Sutcliffe, the odds-on favorite for the Cy Young Award, will match fastballs with Eric Show, a 15-game winner but two-time conqueror of the Cubs during the regular season.

Sutcliffe, winner of 14 straight enroute to a 16-1 ledger with Chicago, was baseball's best pitcher in the second half of the season. The Padres figure if they can be only the second National League team to beat him this year — the Dodgers were the first — they will have both a numerical and psychological edge over the Cubs.

"I know that's what they may think," said Cubs manager Jim Frey, the only manager in history to guide teams to flags in his first season (he won at Kansas City in 1980). "But we think we have a strong four-man rotation, capable of winning any big game for us."

Show beat the Cubs twice in the 12-game series split between the two first-time divisional champs but he wasn't as sharp in the final month of the season when the Padres enjoyed a healthy lead.

But Cub pitching coach Billy Connors said the series will come down to the strength of each team's bullpen.

"That's what usually happens," Connors said. "In a short series."

If that is the case, the series could wind up as even as it appears to be on paper. The Cubs have fireballing Lee Smith; the Padres fireballing Goose Gosage.

Gary Matthews ...Cubs leader Keith Moreland ...solid hitter

N.L. Playoffs

With no lights at Wrigley, Smith and Gosage could come into the late innings uncorking 90-mile per hour plus fastballs into the shadows at home plate.

"If that is the case, you'll see a lot of one-run games, just like we had during the regular season," said Padres manager Dick Williams.

The firemen are not the only way these playoff participants mirror one another. Both have speed at the top of their lineups, power in the middle and the capacity to have an unheralded player wind up being the series hero.

First baseman Steve Garvey and third baseman Graig Nettles are playoff veterans from the Dodger-Yankee wars for the Padres. The Cubs have a bevy of former Phillies in outfielders Keith Moreland, Gary Matthews and Bob Dernier and former Dodger third baseman Ron Cey.

Battling champion Tony Gwynn of the Padres and Ryne Sandberg, a favorite for NL MVP, are offensive catalysts capable of setting the plate for power hitters like Garvey, Nettles, Leon Durham or Cey.

But somewhere there could be a less likely hero.

For the Padres, a Kevin McReynolds in center field for San Diego, who hit the Cubs well early; former Cub Carmelo Martinez in left, who could find the left-field bleachers inviting for a long poke.

For Chicago, veteran shortstop Larry Bowa, who enjoyed a solid September, or a George Frazier, trying to remove the stigma of three World Series losses in relief for the Yanks in 1981.

"They've got the edge in power," Williams insisted, "but I think we have better defense. If there is any edge, it is that we have a couple of left-handers we can bring in if we have to. But, evidently, they didn't need one."

Brett Will Respond For Royals

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Disregard his sub-.284 average this season and the fact he is still only 75 percent healthy from an August hamstring injury. The month of October and national television cameras cast a supernatural spell on George Brett.

The perennial All-Star third baseman of the Kansas City Royals would rather forget the 1984 season. He batted 32 points below his career average and had a tough time staying in the lineup.

Brett took a ground ball in the mouth during spring training and had his front teeth wired for three weeks. Then he tore up a knee in the final week of spring training and missed the opening six weeks of the season. Lower back problems knocked him out of the lineup for a week in June and the hamstring injury cost him 20 starts down the stretch.

But the Royals persevered without Brett for most of the season and now find themselves in the American League Championship Series against the Detroit Tigers. Kansas City will send 17-game winner Bud Black against Detroit ace Jack Morris (19-11) in Game 1 tonight.

Brett has the credentials to wrest the title "Mr. October" away from Reggie Jackson. He has a lifetime .358 average in the American League playoffs and a .378 average in the World Series.

Brett may never again hit a more dramatic home run than he did in Game 3 of the 1980 playoffs against Rich Gosage and the New York Yankees. It was a three-run shot that landed in the third deck of Yankee Stadium in the seventh inning, giving the Royals a 4-2 victory and their only American League championship.

In 1978 Brett belted another three-run shot in the eighth inning of Game 5 of New York's Grant Jackson to tie the score at 6-6 ... only to see Chris Chambliss win the pennant for the Yankees with a leadoff homer in the ninth.

Then in Game 3 of the 1978 playoffs Brett hit three homers in Yankee Stadium against Jim Hunter in 6-5 loss to New York. And in Game 3 of the 1980 World Series, Brett homered off Steve Carlton in his first at-bat less than 12 hours after he was released from the hospital after having his hemorrhoids lanced.

George Brett ...new Mr. October Bud Black ...K.C. starter

A.L. Playoffs

"No matter how you hit during the regular season, no matter how strongly or how poorly you finish," Brett said, "the playoffs are a different game ... and I seem to hit well in the post-season. I find it somewhere — maybe it comes to me in the drive to the ball park. I don't know. It's just that the things (former hitting coach) Charley Lau taught me seem to come back when I need them most."

Brett has also had great success against the Tigers. He has a .316 lifetime average against Detroit, hitting more career homers (14) and knocking in more runs (70) against the Tigers than any team in the Eastern Division.

Brett apooked the Tigers so much back in 1981 that Detroit manager Sparky Anderson proclaimed he would never again let Brett beat him in a game. And for two seasons, Anderson would call intentional walks for Brett as early as the third inning.

Anderson doesn't give Brett those blanket walks any more but that's not to say the No. 3 hitter in the Kansas City batting order commands any less respect from the Tigers.

"I always approach it that way — I hope George Brett doesn't beat us," Anderson said. "But he always seems to pop up one way or another."

The Royals, on the other hand, have their own wonder boy to worry about in Detroit rightfielder Kirk Gibson, whom Anderson once compared to Mickey Mantle because of his combination of speed and power.

Gibson, a former All-America wide receiver at Michigan State, hit .282 with 27 home runs, 91 RBI and a team-high 29 stolen bases this season. And he shares a trait with Brett.

"I want to be up there when the game's on the line," Gibson said. "But if it isn't me, I hope someone else gets the chance."

"I don't think they'll pitch me that much differently in the playoffs. When you try to pitch too fine, that's when you start to get in trouble. I'll probably be concentrating a lot more because that's what it takes. If you don't, your results are not going to be as good."

"It isn't going to be easy. It's going to be a dogfight. It's going to go down to the last game."

Detroit set a club record for victories this season with 104 while Kansas City earned its berth in the league championship series with the ninth best record in baseball at 84-78.

Game 2 takes place Wednesday night in Kansas City before the best-of-five series shifts to Detroit for its finish this weekend.

Washington each collected six tackles.

Restart, Boisterous Crowd Key Porter To End-Of-Month Victory

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — LeRoy Porter drove the Lewis Green Firebird to victory in the 50-lap End-of-the-Month late model Championship on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

Fastest qualifier/pole sitter David Rogers led until the caution came out on lap 47. Rogers, who had lost his oil pressure two laps before, was victim of a lack of horsepower at the restart, and the large crowd cheered as Porter motored by for the lead and the win.

"It's good to hear them cheer for something other than a wreck," Porter said. "I was lucky. I would never have won if there would not have been a late race-restart." Third to fifth were Bruce Lawrence, Greg Frommeling and previous week's winner Joe Middleton.

The extremely competitive thundercar event was marked by a violent late race crash involving the lead pair. As leader/high point man Mike Goldberg and fastest qualifier/challenger Ken Copley squeezed around a lapped car coming off turn four, they got together and crashed, heavily damaging both cars. So Rick Lokey, who was at the right place at the right time, went on to win his third End of the Month Championship in a row, besting John Cochran, recently crowned state titlist Mike Flich, Mark Sills and Jerry Burbaugh.

Young Jerry Symons came out on top of another fender-bender four-cylinder main. Second and third were seasoned veterans Gene Van Aistine and Jimmy Trevarthen, followed by Bobby Sears and Eddie "Fat Cat" Tovot.

Parents And Teens Split On Where To Entertain In Home

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the 16-year-old girl signed "Nosy Mother Trouble" prompts my first letter to you. Mother insisted her daughter keep her bedroom door open when she entertained her boyfriend in her bedroom, even though all the kids did was sit on the bed and listen to the stereo.

Dear Abby

I'm a mother of two teen-age-boys, ages 15 and 17. When my sons first brought girls to the house, I was appalled when they started to walk into their respective bedrooms. That's when I explained to both of them that we have a family room and a living room for entertaining our friends.

Can you picture Mom and Dad inviting our friends over, bypassing the rest of the house to go sit on our bed and listen to the stereo?

So, here's another "Nosy Mother."

BEEN THERE IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR BEEN: Stay tuned for a few words from a teen-ager who is there:

DEAR ABBY: Boy, did I ever relate to the teen-age girl whose mother made her keep her bedroom door open when she had her boyfriend over.

If I can't close my bedroom door when my boyfriend is over, I feel uncomfortable — like my mother is eavesdropping on me. And my boyfriend is uncomfortable, too.

Abby, if we kids were going to do something, we wouldn't do it when our parents were home. We have plenty of opportunity to do stuff like that somewhere else. Mothers who always suspect their kids of the worst can actually push their kids into doing something for spite.

SAN MATEO TEEN-AGER

DEAR BEEN THERE AND TEEN-AGER: My mail has been evenly divided. Almost without exception, teen-agers want to entertain in their bedrooms with the door closed. ("Trust us!")

And parents who allow their teen-agers to entertain in their bedrooms do so reluctantly, saying they'd rather have them at home than somewhere else. But most parents insist on the open-door policy.

DEAR ABBY: Driving home tonight after working the late shift, I noticed a man following me in his car. He tried to get my attention at a red light, but I ignored him.

I'd like to give your female readers who have to drive home alone late at night some tips:

1. Always park by the door, or get an escort into the parking lot.

2. Don't get into the car until you've checked your back seat to be sure you don't have an unwanted passenger.

3. Lock your doors, and always keep your windows rolled up so no one can put his hand through the window and unlock your door while you're stopped at a red light.

4. Do not make eye contact with anyone you suspect is trying to follow you. If someone calls to you, don't turn your head or respond in any way. Pretend you didn't hear him.

5. Know where your local police station is and drive there if your "friend" persists in following you (which is doubtful if he realizes where you're going). Don't get out of your car. Sit on your horn until an officer comes out.

6. Never lead anybody to your home. Instead, drive to a busy area and look for a policeman.

7. Stay off deserted roads where you can be terrorized or run off the road.

This may sound paranoid, but it sure helps to know the above on a night like tonight. By the way, I lost my "pal" on the way to the police station.

SAFE AND SECURE IN LEAGUE CITY, TEXAS

DEAR SAFE: Thanks for some excellent tips. But why do you offer them for women only? Men are also followed; they too can learn from your suggestions.

Maori Challenge

Victor Boxall of Wellington, New Zealand, demonstrates the traditional Maori challenge while getting a preview of the Sanford museum's new exhibit, "...the Most Beautiful Country on Earth." The title is gleaned from James A. Michener's Return To Paradise and the challenge taken up by the exhibitors was to prove it. The exhibit opens Friday and continues through early December at the General Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Museum and Library, 520 E. 1st St. The seafaring Polynesian Maoris were the first to settle on the gloriously diverse South Pacific islands. They came by canoes from the scattered islands of the central Pacific and named the islands Aotearoa — Land of the Long White Cloud — after the glittering sweep of snowy peaks now known as the Southern Alps. For 600 years Maoris inhabited the islands exclusively until the coming of the 'pakeha', white European, in the mid-1800s. Boxall, son of a Maori mother and pakeha father, continues his duties as a Mormon missionary in Central Florida, admitting the displays made him homesick.

BEDWETTER

LET THEM HAVE A DRY BED

The greatest gift you can give a bedwetter and the rest of the family, too, is an end to this serious problem, and make no mistake, bedwetting is serious. It can cause complicated psychological problems that last a lifetime. It's so needless because bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended. Send for our free brochure, "Bedwetting — What It's All About and How To End It." No obligation.

Let Marvin Wright and Volkshop keep your VW in good shape, too.

Volkshop Is Offering VW Tune-Up Special

Volkshop at 214 Palmetto Ave. in downtown Sanford is offering specials this month on tune-ups, brake and muffler jobs on your Volkswagens, Toyota or Datsun. Call or come by for prices as they vary depending on the make of car.

Marvin Wright and his experienced crew of mechanics are specialists in these makes and they will be glad to give you a free estimate and car inspection for any defects it may have.

Volkshop has an old-fashioned concern for you and your car. "We only charge for fixin'," Marvin said. "We don't charge for lookin'." All of our work is guaranteed.

Volkshop specializes in engine and trans-axle rebuilding for Toyotas and Datsuns as well as VWs. They also do lubrication and oil change and repairs on brakes, front ends, transmissions, and exhaust systems.

If your vintage VW has a rusty floor pan, bring it in to be replaced and rescaled. In fact the folks at Volkshop can completely recondition and refurbish your old Volkswagen "Bug" from the ground up for only a fraction of what a new car would cost. This includes tires, paint job, new engine and brakes. Come into Volkshop for a free estimate.

If you are one of those owners who likes to work on their own car, you will find quality Truehaft and Bosch part Continental belts and hoses, and Castrol motor oils for Toyotas, Datsuns and Volkswagens. They also stock metric hardware.

Volkshop is open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. To make an appointment for your car, call 321-0120.

Sharon Hunt and Jean Hubbard, on the staff at Flowers by Gaynelle.

Flowers By Gaynelle Plans Open House

Mark it on your calendar now. Flowers by Gaynelle at 818 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford, will be having its annual open house Nov. 17-21. Everyone is invited to drop by to see their beautiful collection of Christmas decorations and arrangements.

Owner Gaynelle Hendrick plans to open a new showroom and order center at Oaklawn Memorial Chapel and Funeral Home scheduled for completion in about a month. It is located at Highway 46A and Rhinehart Road.

Flower arrangements for funerals, as well as flowers for other occasions can be ordered there and will be made up at the main shop. When wedding flowers are ordered from Gaynelle, the chapel will be available without charge for the ceremony.

Speaking of weddings, Gaynelle has new wedding rentals including a tree candelabra. She can supply traditional wedding equipment such as the kneeling bench, flower stands, arches, aisle cloth and wine glasses.

Gaynelle does fresh or silk flower arrangements for weddings at reasonable prices.

If you are planning festivities for Halloween or Thanksgiving, let Gaynelle make your floral arrangements and centerpieces in those rich autumn colors.

Remember those friends and loved ones with a fruit basket, or Teleflora's Harvest Bowl arrangements made up on either in the matching bowl, wine carafe, goblet, or chip and dip dish. Or ask to see the attractive Pepper Mill arrangement.

These can also be wired to those far away. Flowers by Gaynelle belongs to six floral wire services including her latest—Carik.

Jean Hubbard has joined Gaynelle's staff consisting of Elyse Ison, and Sharon Hunt (Gaynelle's daughter-in-law).

Whether the flowers are for a wedding, funeral, or a sick friend in the hospital, you can be assured your flowers will be fresh. Gaynelle accepts Master Charge and Visa cards. To order by phone, call 322-5066.

High Court Agrees To Hear Obscenity, Gay Rights Cases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, opening its 1984-85 term, has agreed to review a ruling invalidating Washington state's obscenity law and another preventing Oklahoma from firing teachers who advocate homosexual rights.

At its traditional opening on the first Monday in October, the court rejected nearly 1,000 appeals, agreeing to add only 30 cases to its docket for the new term, which runs through early next summer.

The court generally hears arguments and issues rulings in 150 of more than 4,000 appeals filed each term and will add other cases to its caseload as the term progresses.

In the obscenity case, the justices said they would review a federal appeals court ruling that the state law was too vague in outlining what kinds of books, magazines, movies and other materials were obscene.

The court also accepted an appeal from the Oklahoma City School Board to review a lower court ruling that said it could not fire teachers for advocating or encouraging homosexual conduct.

The decision to review the case gives hope to the board that the court might reverse a ruling siding with the National Gay Task Force, which says its membership includes teachers in the Oklahoma public school system.

The task force won a partial victory from the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which ruled the section of the law punishing homosexuals for advocating such conduct violated the First Amendment guarantee of free speech.

The law would unconstitutionally apply to "a teacher who went before the Oklahoma legislature or appeared on television to urge the repeal of the Oklahoma anti-sodomy statute," the court said.

In its Supreme Court appeal, the board of education argued that while public school teachers have free speech rights, "These rights are not absolute and may be subject to certain restrictions," the board's lawyer argued.

Washington state has been trying unsuccessfully since 1977 to pass an anti-obscenity law that will pass Supreme Court review. That year voters adopted a sweeping initiative measure aimed at wiping out "moral nances."

In 1980, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled the initiative unconstitutional because it was vague and too broad, infringing on the right to freedom of speech. The Supreme Court let that ruling stand.

The state legislature then enacted a second law in 1982 allowing officials to ban materials deemed "prurient," which was defined as "that which incite lasciviousness or lust." The law has never been put into effect because 12 days after it was passed, U.S. District Judge Robert McNichols refused to let officials enforce it until it had been reviewed by the federal courts.

The judge eventually rejected the ordinance as overly broad and the federal appeals court agreed. It is that ruling the high court agreed to review.

In other action, the court: —Agreed to decide whether a Nebraska woman has a First Amendment right to refuse to have her picture appear on her driver's license for religious reasons. A lower court said she did not.

—Agreed to consider whether unions can prevent their members from quitting during a strike or when a strike is about to be called. The National Labor Relations Board said unions could not do so. —Let stand a ruling that allows victims of the drug DES, which can lead to cancer in children of women who take it during pregnancy, to recover damages from more than one drug maker.

one of the nation's largest drug companies, from a Wisconsin Supreme Court ruling that opens the way for Squibb to pay damages to a DES victim even though she could not prove her mother took a drug manufactured by Squibb.

DES is a synthetic estrogen widely used in the 1950s and 60s to help prevent miscarriages.

The justices, without comment, refused to hear an appeal by E.R. Squibb & Sons Inc., which argued that the Supreme Court's ruling would allow it to sue other drug makers for damages.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING Notice is hereby given that the Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County, Florida, will hold Public Hearings on October 23, 1984 and November 13, 1984 at 7:00 P.M. or as soon thereafter as possible, in Room W-120 of the County Services Building, 1161 East 1st Street, Sanford, Florida. These Public Hearings are being held to consider the enactment of an ordinance entitled:

AMENDMENT TO THE ZONING ORDINANCE NO. 77-25, THE SEMINOLE COUNTY COMPREHENSIVE PLAN PROVIDING FOR A CHANGE IN THE LAND USE DESIGNATION ON THE "OFFICIAL LAND USE MAP" FOR THE OLD ORCHID FARM PROPERTY ON PALM SPRINGS DRIVE, PROVIDING FOR A CHANGE IN THE OFFICIAL ZONING DISTRICT.

Circumstances have changed significantly since the 1974-1977 period when the Comprehensive Plan was prepared. The 1982 Florida State Approach Report for the Comprehensive Plan of Seminole County established the policy of providing for minor Comprehensive Plan updates in even-numbered years. One possible amendment for the year 1982/84 is contemplated for the Old Orchard Farm property. The proposed amendment is to change the designation of the Commercial designation on the "Official Land Use Map" for the Old Orchard Farm property located on Palm Springs Drive, south of Hart Street. Alternatives for the land use designation include No Change; Low Density Residential; Medium Density Residential; Planned Unit Development; and Low Intensity Commercial.

The Local Planning Agency of Seminole County has held a Public Hearing on the proposed amendment to the Comprehensive Plan and has recommended the Low Density Residential designation for the "Official Land Use Map."

The purpose of these Public Hearings is to hear public comment on the Comprehensive Plan amendment; to consider the recommendation by the Local Planning Agency; and to take final action on the proposed amendment. Final Board of County Commissioners action will be taken early in the November 13, 1984 Public Hearing.

Local Planning Agency Public Hearing Minutes and other information on this item are contained in the Comprehensive Plan Amendment-1984 and available for review by the public in Room 361 of the County Services Building during regular business hours. The public is encouraged to attend. For more information contact Anthony VanDerwey, AICP, Principal Planner at 221 E. 1st St., Woody Price, AICP, Planning Director.

"Persons are advised that if they decide to appeal any decisions made at these Hearings they may need to ensure that a verbatim record of the proceedings is made, which includes the testimony and evidence upon which the appeal is to be based per Section 206.0161, Florida Statutes." # Former Jaycees President Sued For Embezzled Money

Herald Staff Writer

A Lake Mary man awaiting criminal trial on charges he embezzled $19,361 from the Altamonte-South Seminole Jaycees is being sued, along with his wife, for the money.

The Altamonte Jaycees filed the suit late Friday against their past president, Leonard Neil Schnack, 34, and his wife Naomi, of 133 Veepers Place.

The suit seeks an unspecified amount of damages in excess of $5,000.

Schnack was arrested Sept. 21 and charged with two counts of grand theft by scheme in connection with the unauthorized creation of accounts with Jaycee money and subsequent withdrawals.

The amount allegedly stolen varies, according to court records, depending who computes the missing sum and what monies should be included in the civil and criminal action.

While the state has charged in criminal court that $19,361 is missing, the civil suit asks for $17,277.

Former Jaycees President Sued For Embezzled Money

Seminole County sheriff's investigators say $16,725 was taken and Schnack stated to a law enforcement official that the missing amount is closer to $14,000, according to court records.

A criminal trial before Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. is scheduled to begin Nov. 19. The civil action has been assigned to Circuit Judge Robert McGregor, though no trial date has been set.

According to the complaint, Schnack opened two bank accounts at Sun Bank, Longwood, with at least $39,100 without the Jaycees' permission or corporate resolution. He did this, the complaint states, by using forged permission. The scheme was performed between July 1983 and March 1984 with Mrs. Schnack's knowledge and help, it said.

The suit states that Schnack, "or his confederates, allies or henchmen..." then withdrew money.

The suit asks for not only the damages but court costs, restitution, attorney's fees and trial by jury.

In Menopause, Don't Let Nature Take Its Course

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a woman, 49, and apparently have started menopause. I started having hot flashes, sweating and insomnia this month. I have all my female organs. Should I have medication to control the hot flashes and sweating, or should I just let my body do its own work? What kind of medication? Should I see a doctor to find out if I have an estrogen deficiency?

DEAR READER - Of course you should see your doctor. Your age and symptoms certainly suggest that you are into your menopause. Having hot flashes is the one symptom that is characteristic of the menopause, and it is the one symptom that can be controlled by administering estrogen.

But there are a lot of other reasons why you should not just let Nature take its course. In the first three to seven years after menopause, a woman is most apt to lose a lot of her bone mass. That makes her susceptible to osteoporosis (porous bones), which may lead to a humped back and serious fractures later. Estrogen, in sufficient quantities at an early stage, can prevent these changes. Getting enough calcium helps, too.

The after-effects of the cancer scare linger on, but the amount of estrogen needed to control the important symptoms and side effects of the menopause is much less than was used before the panic. A small amount of estrogen may control hot flashes but may not be enough to prevent bone degeneration.

Many changes occur during menopause. Not all of them are because of diminished estrogen. I have discussed these in a new issue of The Health Letter, Special Report 22, Understanding the Menopause.

DEAR DR. LAMB - A short time ago there was a rash of stories that said high blood pressure was caused by not getting enough salt and calcium. Do you believe this is true? Do you recommend increasing one's salt intake to avoid high blood pressure?

DEAR READER - No, in answer to both questions, I believe that the sodium scare has been overdone. Many people who have a decrease in blood pressure from sodium restriction do so because of a loss of body fat that results from eating fewer calories. People often eat less on low-salt diets because the food is not appealing. There are many studies that show that body-fat loss does lower blood pressure.

The study you refer to did not prove anything. It only showed an association that suggests a need for research, and it is unrelated to the need to restrict sodium in many medical conditions, such as congestive heart failure.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

This deal, from a team-of-four competition, demonstrates good declarer play at one table and sound defensive carding at the other. The contract was the same at both tables.

At table one, West led his singleton spade and East won the 10, cashed the ace of diamonds, and then made a fatal mistake. Instead of playing the spade ace and giving his partner a ruff, he led the club queen. Declarer won the club ace, trumped a club, played a heart to the ace and trumped another club. He played the queen of hearts and queen of diamonds, discarding a spade from dummy, and trumped his last diamond. He now led the last club from dummy and discarded a spade. West had to win the trick. Whether West played back a club or a diamond, declarer would trump in dummy and discard the last losing spade from his hand.

At the other table the play began the same way. However, when East played the diamond ace, West flagged the jack. This signal denied the queen and at the same time was a suit-preference command to play more spades. East dutifully continued with ace and a spade, and the contract was set.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY OCTOBER 3, 1984

Several important new friends will enter your life this coming year. Each will help in his own way to broaden your outlook and perspective.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're a pretty good organizer today, with the exception of managing your financial affairs. Strive to use your skills in this area as well. The areas in which you'll be the luckiest in the year ahead are revealed in your Astro-Graph predictions for the coming year. To get yours, mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is one of those unusual days where you can say and do a lot of kind things, but none are apt to be remembered if you step out of line but once.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Forego temptations today to speak unkindly of persons who are not present. What you say will later come back to haunt you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Financial conditions are likely to be mixed for you today. You have good abilities for acquisition, but you're apt to spend more than you take in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do not do anything today that goes against your better judgment. If you fail to heed your own counsel, you may end up jeopardizing your reputation.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not permit negative thoughts or self-doubts to spoil your day. Things you are apprehensive about will turn out OK in the long run.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Beware of tendencies today to ignore wise advice given by others. If you proceed against their counsel, you could make mistakes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In important career situations today, it's best to try to act independent of others. Your associates' input might slow you down.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Priorities must be kept in order today or you might put fun pursuits ahead of your responsibilities and end up with an unproductive day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you must make a choice today between spending your funds on luxury items or basic household needs, it's wisest to choose the latter.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your mate's ideas may be superior to yours today, so pay heed to what he or she expresses. Pride of authorship is not important.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Financial trends tend to favor you today, but they may only be a trickle, instead of a flood. Be satisfied with what you get, instead of expecting more.
