

Cocoa Beats DeLand, 2 To 1, With Sensational Rally In Final Inning Of 2nd Game

COCOA, Oct. 4.—Cocoa went in to the ninth inning here yesterday trailing the DeLand Reds, who had them down 1 to 0, but they won the second game of the Central Florida League pennant series, 2 to 1, in a whirlwind ninth inning rally, which saw them make two runs out of two walks and two hits.

Lefty Jake Baker, for Cocoa, and Gene Fisher, Red left-hander, pitched the game, but Fisher was withdrawn in favor of Porter at a moment in the eighth and Porter was in to pitch the eighth and ninth innings for DeLand.

Baker was at the bat and allowed only one hit, a looping Texas leaguer by a back of short in the eighth, until the eighth when he pitched around their line.

Lester Smith, pitcher for DeLand in the eighth and ninth, struck out two men in a rousing single in the eighth.

At 1 to 0, Manager's catcher who is playing with DeLand for the series, tapped one back of second for a single and Lester moved to second.

A moment later Moseley hit Hackney at third, who forced Lester out there, Leitz taking second on the play. Leitz went to third on a passed ball by Taylor Smith.

Baker struck out Sloan but Porter, who batted for Fisher, hit Gleason at short who let the grounder go through his legs and Leitz scored. Culp struck out to leave Moseley stranded on second.

The Indians peaked at Fisher throughout the game getting hits in the first, second, fourth, fifth and seventh innings, but the pinch necessary to score was lacking.

Porter started pitching for the Reds in the eighth and set the Indians in the next. However, in the ninth, he lost control and walked Tom Sisly and Hackney, the first two men to face him.

Taylor Smith singled to score Sisly from second, Hackney taking second on the hit. Red Noyes, who has a great record for long in runs, was next up and singled in centerfield, Hackney coming across for the winning run. There were no outs when the winning run was scored.

The two teams met again Sunday in DeLand in the third game of the series.

In addition to the 10 wash houses in the Sanford district, there are two at Ocala, and at least half a dozen citrus washing and parking houses at various places around the county.

It is estimated that there are nearly 500 wash wells in Sanford County, a great number of which are pouring off water unchecked.

Efforts at conserving this tremendous supply of the district's most valuable natural resource are no new, were given impetus in July, 1924 when Mrs. W. A. Leitz, working with the Sanford County Chamber of Commerce and through the Board of County Commissioners, instituted a drive which ended in the Legislature this year with the passage of a bill which the Board and Sanford Leitz had the power to shut down wells and arrest owners of the property where they are situated.

The bill requires owners of artesian and flowing wells to control the flow of water, decrease what is meant by waste water, declares persons known to be wasting this water as being guilty of a misdemeanor subject to a fine of not more than $500, a prison sentence not to exceed six months or both, authorizes the sheriff to stop the flow of any wells owned by persons he has found to be in violation of the Act as a public nuisance and empowers the board of county commissioners to institute such proceedings as are necessary to abate the waste of water and warns that each day's continuance of waste of water shall constitute a new offense under the bill.

'ASSURANCE' OF NO CANAL HARM IS DISCOUNTED

He stated that it is entirely reasonable that "surely soon we'll pump this underground reservoir dry and in its place we'll have nothing but salt water."

He appeared more concerned with this possibility than the one that is being warned against by the Water Conservation Committee.

That there is a tremendous waste of artesian water in the Sanford district alone is generally acknowledged by most growers. The volume of water pumped from the earth during three months of the year at 10 celery wash houses on the East and West Side is far in excess of the average of 20,000,000 gallons consumed in the city each month.

It was learned today that a survey made last year revealed that the flow of artesian water pumped from the earth at the Dutton Processing Plant on the East Side was about 285,000 gallons per hour.

Operating over a period of approximately three months, and estimating an average day's operations at 10 hours, it is entirely possible that this one wash house might use nearly 3,000,000 gallons of underground water daily, or as much in one week as is used by the entire City of Sanford in one month.

It is agreed that artesian water once pumped from its underground sources never returns there, becoming instead surface water, most of which reaches the St. Johns River.

"When we include the thousands of farm wells south of the canal she drawing water from the Ocala limestone formation, it seems that this proposed canal constitutes the most serious threat to the state which has arisen this far in its history, for without water we not only cannot develop further but must go backward rapidly."

"In the Sanford Ocala area, perhaps the most intensively cultivated and highly developed agricultural area of similar size in the United States, we began efforts to conserve our water supplies long before this threat became so real and so what once was considered an entirely unimportant matter."

"Thus we have had contact with both the state and federal geological departments and with outside experts who have aided our studies."

"We would like to see evidence of good faith upon the part of the canal proponents to see some of these same men allowed to function right now instead of men unfamiliar with our conditions."

"Mr. Paige has an established reputation as a geologist, but only a few days ago he was reported to us as having said this situation was so new to him that it would be some months before he was prepared to make a statement of any character."

"Now, within a few days, we find him again joining the merry band at Ocala in the newspaper pages."

"In some of us it seems that the possession and use of an ordinary stationary somewhere on the north bank of the proposed canal might and somewhat to reduce the present understandings between opposing forces."

"We who would conserve and protect the vitally necessary water supplies of our homeland, find that the assurances offered us do not in any way 'make certain,' but, instead are simply 'reassurances' or 'words of a comforting nature.'"

"As a matter of fact, cold analysis shows most of these assurances are strongly reminiscent of what have been given to government workers upon Florida keys at about 10 o'clock in the morning of the day when six hours later the destructive hurricane began to break its havoc there."

shall constitute a new offense under the bill.

Before the bill was passed and during the drive for conservation, 52 wells on private and public lands were capped under supervision of county officials, and such large concerns as the Florida Power and Light Co. and the Atlantic Coast Line railroad joined the movement by ordering a rigid control of all water used by the companies in this county.

State Geologist Herman Guter came to Sanford on three occasions during the drive to agree with local groups that there is a waste of water and that prompt action should be taken to conserve the remaining supply.

In his reply to Mr. Paige, Mr. Wilmer made the following statement: "We are glad to see Mr. Paige after being in Florida less than a month following a long imprisonment in Turkey, is beginning to grasp the fundamentals of our situation."

"His statement gives strong confirmation to the great alarm now felt here, at Ocala, Palmetto, Bradenton, Sarasota, Winter Garden, and also at those places on the East Coast where the production of winter crops is dependent upon artesian wells supplied by underground streams."

"These same sources also supply something more than all citrus and towns in central and south Florida with the water upon which their populations depend."

Commission Levies 30-Mill Tax Rate For 1935-36 Year

Homestead Owners Must Pay 15 Mills For Debt Service; $10,000 In Treasury

The Sanford City Commission last night adopted a 1935-36 budget which anticipates total expenditures of $139,613.90 for general operation and debt service expenses during the year which opened on last Tuesday.

The commissioners also fixed at 30 mills the levy for the new year, the same as that effect last year.

The 20 mill levy will apply to all owners of property which does not come under the terms of the Homestead Exemption Amendment.

Properly owners who are affected by the amendment will be required to pay a 15 mill levy on their assessment, the entire levy to be used for debt service.

By resolution, the commissioners also approved the payment to DeCoster and Borgs, attorneys who handled the Chase National Bank litigation, of $8,000 in full settlement of a balance of about $9,200 due them on a $45,000 contract for services begun shortly after the closing of the Seminole County Bank.

This resolution also provided for the payment from funds collected as delinquent taxes of approximately $1200 to the Boardholders' Protective Committee.

This payment will bring to $65,000, the sum promised to the committee for 1934-35. Only a little more than $53,000 was collected during the year.

The city enters its new year with a cash surplus of $10,000 which has been appropriated for operating expenses for the new year.

Detroit Ahead By Single Run In 6th Inning

Crowder Has Little Trouble Subduing Cubs Who Made But 3 Hits To 7th

WHIRLEY FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 5. The Detroit Tigers were leading the Chicago Cubs by 2 to 1 at the end of the sixth inning of the fourth meeting in the 1935 World Series this afternoon.

General Alvin Crowder appeared at that time to have the Cubs completely at his mercy, having given up but three hits, one of them a home run by Mattiett for the Cubs' only run in the second frame.

Tex Carleton, opposing Crowder, was wild, having walked six men through the sixth. He pulled out of four bad holes with great support in the field although errors by Galan and Jurgens gave the Tigers their second run in the sixth.

A high, chill wind hampered the players and made the game the third in which overcasts, blankets, and mitts were worn by an overcast crowd.

First Inning Detroit: White struck out, Cochran was out. Hermann to Cavan. White and Gehring struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Chicago: Galin grounded out to first. Hermann went out, Cavan to Alvin Crowder, who covered. Lindstrom fouled out to Owen. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Performance Of Duty Is Declared Most Important

Celebrated Member Of Profession Sounds Serious Note At Enjoyable Banquet Of Florida Chiropractic Association

Despite the intended setting apart of the evening as one of entertainment when work and cares of their profession seem to be forgotten, chiropractors attending their 1st annual state convention could not keep from considering the seriousness of their calling even when they sat down to the sumptuous banquet served them in the Mayfair Hotel last evening.

Their duty to mankind seemed to be uppermost in their minds, as expressed by Dr. Stephen J. Birch, celebrated exponent of their profession from Indianapolis.

"Summe is doing much to alleviate the suffering of human kind, and is destined to do much more as the days go by, but it cannot succeed unless you carry out Dr. Birch's declared paramount principle in the duty which guides the true chiropractor, and that one man will perform that duty well, whether he works for me, you have a duty to suffering humanity, the duty of citizenship, and a duty in light to all looking eyes."

The next speaker, Dr. H. P. Johnson of Tampa, stated along the same line, pointing out that "there is nothing more in the world than chiropractic, and adjusting their fellow practitioners to reach their patients that they must have a little in order to get well."

Celery Growers Are To Nominate Delegates Soon

Nomination of delegates and alternates on the Florida Celery Control Committee representing the Sanford District will come next week, it was announced here today by J. H. Parkett, secretary of the committee.

Growers of the Ocala area are expected to gather at the school house at 7:30 o'clock next Thursday night to select grower members and alternate growers of the same section are expected to gather at the school house at 7:45 o'clock to select their representatives and alternates on the committee.

At 7:40 o'clock Friday night, growers of the Sanford section are expected to call at the Court House to pick their representatives and alternates, while at 7:45 o'clock shippers of this section will go through the same procedure.

The entire celery industry in Florida now is awaiting a call from Secretary Wallace at Washington to a public meeting in Lakeland late this month where the new celery marketing agreement will be given a full discussion. If it is approved by a majority of the shippers and growers it is slated to be approved and made official by Secretary Wallace.

Baruch Says That Hitler Is World's Greatest Menace

Begs Nation To Avoid War But Prepare For Eventualities

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP) Addressing the Army Ordnance Association, Bernard M. Baruch charged Adolf Hitler as "the greatest menace to the world" and called upon America, while thinking, talking and acting powerfully, to be prepared if any country failed to win for us.

"I say, twenty-one years after the outbreak of the volcano that shook the world, we are humanity in arms and embattled," said Baruch. "Yet, on all sides, we hear protestations of good will. Each nation wants peace, but wants it made in its own image."

"The Russians, who preach a doctrine the very essence of which is abhorrence of war, qualify that by saying they abhor only capitalistic wars. In Germany, Hitler said in his speech last May 21 that nowhere in the world had peace and perfection found so sure a home as in Nazi Germany."

"Hitler and peace. The very terms are antithetical. He is the enemy of peace."

Economic Sanctions Brushed Aside By Ethiopia's Ruler In Latest Appeal

Italy Objects To League's Report

Exceptions Taken To Statement From Committee Of 13

By The Associated Press. Addis Ababa, city of vengeance, but without an Ethiopian soldier in its streets, was reported fallen today to the Italian army while Ethiopia formally appealed to the League of Nations for immediate enforcement of military, naval and aviation sanctions against Italy.

It was stated unofficially at Addis Ababa that Italian forces moved into Addis without opposition from the city population and that Italian soldiers and their families had been unable to find shelter in the city. Italian forces had fallen back behind Addis into the hills where their leaders in arms fought desperately to block the eastward advance of Italian forces who were now in Addis.

Severe fighting as reported in the direction of Adigrat. An official Ethiopian government communique said Adigrat, which Italians reported yesterday had captured, was held by Ethiopian forces.

At London, authoritative sources said Premier Mussolini has been for some time considering a suspension of the city's military measures in the Mediterranean, but the proposal was greeted with silence by the British government. Further Italian approach to a resumption of peace discussions to check up the Italian Ethiopian conflict was made on behalf of Mussolini but likewise was greeted negatively.

Subsequent appeal to the League was made under Paragraph Two of Article 16 which provides that it is the duty of the council in case a League member resorts to unprovoked war, to ask other members for contributions of military, naval and air forces to put the aggressor out of the League.

By the appeal, sanctions were regarded as having brushed aside. Lack of economic and financial sanctions against Italy which he deemed that abolished in his mountainous realm by Italian member of the League's council armed authority of the League. A number of the League's council committee of thirteen told the Associated Press the committee's report on the Italian Ethiopian war infers that Italy "clearly is in the wrong."

A squadron of Italian planes was reported officially at Addis Ababa to have shot down women. (Continued On Page Five)

QUANAH, Tex., Oct. 5. (AP) Civic leaders here would like to erect a monument to Cynthia Ann Parker, white wife of Geronimo, last of the great Comanche chiefs, and to their son, Quonah, for whom the city was named. It has been proposed as a WPA project.

Bible Verse For Today

UNPAULING STRENGTH: I will go in the strength of the Lord God: I will make mention of thy righteousness, even of thine only.—Palm 71:16.

Maybe one reason Mussolini is so contemptuous of the Lion of Judah is because he has a king in his own country.

Most people believe in freedom of speech unless the other fellow has something to say they don't like.

Speaking of the sales tax in Missouri, the Palm Beach Post discussed at length "milk bottling currency." And boy, is that sour?

As one fellow said yesterday, he refuses to believe there will be war in Ethiopia. He thinks it is all newspaper talk.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson says that the kind of an NRA this country needs is a National Religious Awakening.

Isn't it funny that with so much pork being distributed freely throughout the country by the WPA, the price of all hog meat should be so high.

A messenger boy in St. Louis returned a $39,000 check to its rightful owner, got a ten cent reward. But then it's the spirit of the gift that counts.

The Van Swearingens settled a $48,000 debt of $3,000,000. That's good business. But when Sanford tries to settle for 20 cents on the dollar, that's repudiation.

Pictures of Mussolini show him wearing a steel helmet which leaves one somewhat vague as to whether that is necessary to protect him from bullets or to keep his head from swelling.

We might wait and see what success England has in her attempt to close the Suez canal. If it works, we might see what she can do about the cross-state canal.

Every candidate who runs for office next year, it is a fair prediction, will promise the people not only increased government expenditures, but also a reduction in taxation, proving that the country does not want statesmen in office, but magicians.

Secretary Wallace says he hasn't got money enough to enforce the potato control act. No, the prohibition amendment, the N.R.A. and some other experiments, there probably isn't enough money in the world to enforce them.

To offset losses due to homestead exemption, the city committee of DeLand have levied a one cent tax on each gallon of gasoline sold in the city (this is added to the 7-cent tax already levied on gasoline), and an 8 percent tax on all monthly gas, electric light and telephone bills. The people pay, and how, even for homestead exemptions.

Among those visiting in Sanford yesterday was George Scofield, of Inverness, who describes himself as being a country lawyer, a successful farmer and a small town newspaperman, for which last we hail him. Mr. Scofield has a commendable frankness which is an indispensable asset to any newspaperman and is to be commended in a politician. He admits candidly that he is in favor of the cross-state canal and believes that the opposition to it is motivated by the railroads and other selfish interests. Mr. Scofield's card discloses the following information: that he will appreciate your vote and active support.

Invoking Sanctions

As the League of Nations prepares to take action against Italy for its invasion of Ethiopia, we read a great deal these days about "sanctions."

The dictionary defines "sanctions" as "anything which induces the observance of law or custom; binding force or influence. There is also a verb 'to sanction' which is quite a different word in meaning from the one under discussion. It means to 'ratify, confirm, or approve.'"

Time News-Magazine says that in League parlance the adoption of any action which may be deemed wise and effective in safeguarding the peace of nations would be invoking "sanctions." In law a sanction is any measure applied to a wrongdoer to make him comply with what the community has made right and legal.

"Sanctions contemplated by the Covenant of the League," Time explains, "are four kinds: (1) moral and diplomatic measures, such as recalling all diplomats accredited to the wrong-doing state; (2) financial and economic measures, such as refusing further credit; (3) international boycott, to deprive the wrong-doer of all trade; and (4) force, or the declaration of war on the wrong-doer by League states."

It seems almost a foregone conclusion that the League will invoke sanctions against Italy. The question is which sanctions will they invoke. The League can save its face by invoking sanctions of so mild an order that Italy will submit to them without particular resentment. Under the circumstances Italy would probably permit the severance of diplomatic relations by the League nations, and might even tolerate a refusal to extend credit or sell goods to Italy.

But if "sanctions" reach the point of an international boycott which necessitates a naval blockade of Italy, or the closing of the Suez Canal, or any military measures, Italy would have no choice but to go to war against her former Allies.

So "sanctions" may mean little or nothing; or they may mean very much.

Snowbirds

As another tourist season is about to begin it is well to remember that every tourist season brings with it not only substantial and law-abiding visitors from the North but also hundreds of snowbirds who fly down here for a few months of trafficking and pillaging.

Some come to open up a hole in the wall for a few months time to take the cream off the winter business from the home town merchant's who have managed somehow to stay in business during the dull months of the summer hoping for better conditions when winter finally arrives.

But the worst offenders are the downright city slickers and racketeers who carry bags of goldbricks to sell the unsuspecting public. They are itinerant peddlers, advertising racketeers, book and magazine salesmen, wire tappers, bogus check writers, gamblers, and just plain burglars. Every winter some well known citizen has some unhappy experience with crooks of this sort.

Not the least of these various nuisances are the traveling road shows, cheap carnivals, quack medicine salesmen, and the amateur theatrical producers. Most of them bring with them a horde of camp followers who pick the pockets of those who go to see the fun, or rob their homes while the family is out for the evening.

Few of them have anything to offer to the public and everyone who attends has to admit after he has seen the "show" that he has been taken in again. As Barnum once said, "A sucker is born every minute." And every time we come away from one of these fake performances, we have to admit that the old boy was right.

"Like all unwanted things," says the Bradenton Herald, "they are with us again, these annoying, bothersome, play-producing agents, seeking sponsorships, unlicensed privileges, free halls, including the publicly owned schoolhouses, willing to trade prizes for talent in order that they may make a few dollars for themselves. Briefly, we are on the verge of another season of amateur theatricals if sponsorship can be found for a racket that flourished years ago and ought to have died with the passing of the Dado.

"It is foolish to believe that agents of so-called producing companies are going to travel hundreds of miles to help some organization lift the debt on its building or create a fund for its various projects. Their plan is purely selfish. They are in Florida for what they can get. Organizations approached and offered sponsorship privileges will do themselves a service by remembering this."

State and city laws provide high tax rates against most of these road shows which help to some extent to keep some of the money at home which the shows otherwise would take out. It would be well to see that these laws are rigidly enforced for the protection of the people as well as local business enterprises.

THE COMPASS

The Policy of Prevention By Arthur Dean

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. Mussolini has come to grips with the League. For years he has treated it with contempt. It was only a few weeks before the meeting of the Council that he indicated Italy might not even bother to appear at Geneva; might even withdraw its membership. That was before the British Lion showed his teeth.

Since the Council met, Mussolini has in turn defied, flouted, threatened. He has played the game of walking out and walking in again. The Italian delegates at Geneva leave angrily and magnificently—it is all over—war is certain. Then word comes from Rome that these actions of her representatives have not necessarily closed the door to further negotiation. The drama has been repeated at short intervals; perhaps merely bluff, but more likely for the purpose of changing organized opposition of League members.

Finally the Council has arrived at a plan for sanctions and asked a minimum co-operation from the United States. We refused to recognize Manchukuo because it was the ill-gotten gain of illegal conquest by Japan. We are asked to declare the same policy as to Ethiopia in the event it is conquered by Italy. We are urged to refuse the sale of anything which might be of assistance to Italy in the prosecution of her Ethiopian enterprise.

We are not a member of the League, but we are a signatory of the Briand-Kellogg Pact. Already we have with emphasis called Italy's attention to her pledge to all nations, not to resort to war in settling disputes. It is hardly conceivable that we would help her, directly or indirectly, to break her agreement with us.

So far we plan to stop sales of munitions abroad in November in the event of war. We are careful, however, to define munitions as the finished product, and to make clear that the embargo does not include the raw materials out of which munitions are made. Cotton seems to be one thing, and the cotton to be explosives into which it is sure to be manufactured, another.

That seems like discrimination against our munition makers in favor of our cotton farmers, and while I have condemned manufacturers of munitions, I would be the first to protest against such discrimination. To permit the sale of cotton to a belligerent while prohibiting the sale of munitions is in itself a technicality so thin and so obvious as to offend even the sensibilities of a lawyer.

If we are sincere, we shall sell nothing and do nothing that can be construed as the remotest help to Mussolini in his effort to seize Ethiopia.

There are three policies as to war: Avoidance, Entry and Prevention. We have tried the first two but never the third. The War of 1812 was the outcome of the Avoidance policy. Our attempt to keep out availed nothing and ruined our shipping and manufacturing industries.

We first tried Avoidance as to the war to Mexico, and later with Spain because of our sympathy for Cuba. We first tried Avoidance as to the World War and re-elected Woodrow Wilson because of his success in following that method, but he was hardly inaugurated before we switched to the policy of Entry.

The League of Nations was formed to provide an entirely new policy as to war—Prevention. For three purely partisan reasons we refused to join. In alphabetical order, those reasons were: Horah, Johnson and Lojke.

In dealing with Hitler the League employed a realistic system of prevention, which it has not indicated their intention of acting forcibly in concert as an international police, he would have over-run Austria and precipitated another World War. If Mussolini does not succeed in taking Ethiopia, it will be because that same international police, with its military power prevents or suppresses the attempt.

We are afforded an opportunity to participate, without resort to arms. It will cost us nothing but some loss of trade. Let us pray to God on high that we may have the sense to do a little something toward making effective the policy of prevention.

The Sanford Forum

Sanford, Fla. Oct. 3, 1935 Mr. E. L. Dean Sanford Herald Forum Sanford, Fla. Dear Mr. Dean:

I have recently noticed an appropriation of $9,137 to repair old toys in Sanford. While it is well and good to furnish toys to children who cannot buy them, and whose parents cannot afford them, I believe a much smaller sum would have given far more pleasure to a greater number of children if turned into a little different channel.

Let anyone take a drive by the Grammar School or any of the primary schools and look at what has been a playground. I think the Grammar School has one swing, no giant-slides, and one one-way letter-board or whatever you call it, and some of the other schools are nearly as bad. The time is not so far removed when I could appreciate such

FLORIDA HIGHLIGHTS

The lime is closely related to the lemon, orange, mandarin and pomelo. Being more sensitive to cold, it is chiefly grown on the Keys south of the mainland, and ranges in size from a medium sized plum to a large sized lemon. The TAHITI LIME, a sprout of the pudged Persian variety, has been grown, however, on the mainland and found adaptable. It grows much larger than other limes. The rind is smooth, thin and green to yellow. The juice is almost colorless, of good flavor, strongly acid and is a good source of vitamin "C".

Sir Francis Drake, arch enemy of Spain, landed in 1586 near the entrance to the harbor of St. Augustine. Believing that a large English force was about to attack, the Spanish garrison of 150 evacuated the fortress in great haste, leaving the treasure chest, with about 2,000 pounds sterling, which fell into Drake's hands. All the inhabitants of the town fled after only a short resistance. Because an English officer was shot at from ambush, the English pillaged and then burned the settlement.

Performance Of Duty Is Stated Most Important

(Continued From Page One) work of the convention and the welcome Sanford has given the delegates. Dr. C. H. Gatchell, president of the association, asserting that "this is the most congenial meeting" he had ever attended and that he was proud of the year's work, and Dr. T. F. Grantham of Quincy stated that a dozen state conventions he had attended none was better than the present gathering. Dr. Coates, mayor of Lake Wales, expressed to Dr. Burich the appreciation of every delegate for his lectures and the inspiration he has been to the practitioners.

The last speaker on the program was J. J. Parish of Titusville, state senator from this district, who told his hearers that he believed members of every profession should get together for a discussion of affairs pertinent to their profession. He also told them that when it comes to legislative matters the "third house" must not be overlooked as lobbies are stronger than either the senate or the house of representatives.

Karl Lehmann, secretary of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, acted as toastmaster, and though serious at times he always managed to get several laughs whenever he introduced a speaker or entertainer. Before introducing the first speaker Mr. Lehmann took occasion to tell the delegates from every section of the state that Sanford is the winter celery capital, shipping out 7,000 carloads of celery annually, even though it is the second smallest county in the state. He also told them that the county ships 10,000 carloads of fruits and vegetables, and reminded them that the U. S. Agricultural Department lists Seminole County as the most intensely cultivated area in the nation.

Entertainment features included several numbers by a string trio from the Future Farmers band; several selections by the Western Bros. orchestra of Winter Park; and vocal solos by Mrs. Ella Mae McAuly, Mrs. A. M. Phillips and Martin Steinclinger.

Mrs. McAuly sang "In a Little Gipsy Tearoom" and "Nobody's Sweetheart Now." Mrs. Phillips' numbers were "Sweetheart" and equipment so this myself. I wonder whether or not it is now too late to appropriate a portion of this amount to the improvement of playground equipment of school playgrounds in Sanford and Brantley County? Yours truly, W. H. WIEBOLDT.

"Darling" Mr. Steinclinger sang "Home on the Range" and "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride." Mrs. McAuly was her own accompanist, while Miss Margaret Davis played the accompaniment for Mrs. Phillips and Mr. Steinclinger.

Prof. Alex R. Johnson, instructor in agriculture at the Seminole High School, presented the trio of musicians from the band of the local chapter of the Future Farmers of America. The three were Henry Gustavson, state champion fiddler of the Future Farmers in 1929; Dave Shannon, winner this year of the state title of second best fiddler; and Clifford Gustavson, president of the Seminole County Chapter of the Future Farmers of America.

Landmarks Of Washington's Day To Guide Visitors To 1939 World Fair Commemorating First Inaugural

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—When the proposed World's Fair in celebration of the 150th anniversary of George Washington's inauguration is held here in 1939, visitors will see many reminders of the eventful day on which he became president of this nation. If Washington's steps in the April of 1789 were retraced today they would be in a realm of change, and yet there remains landmarks of his time recognizable even after the flight of almost a century and a half.

The last stage of Washington's triumphal journey from Mount Vernon brought him and his suite to Elizabethport, in New Jersey. There the party embarked on barges. The President-elect's craft was crewed by thirteen pilots, each representing a state. As the marine procession rounded the Battery it was saluted by guns, the yards of a Spanish man-of-war were manned and all shipping took on the gala attire of bright bunting.

The President and his followers debarked at Wall Street, an elaborately decorated and carpeted Murray's Wharf. It has long since disappeared, the shore line has gone many yards beyond it; the famed Tontine Coffee House, then hard by, has given way to a skyscraper.

Through what is now Water Street, making a slight turn to the left, the procession, military escort, ladies of legislators and officials, including Governor George Clinton and Mayor James Duane, escorted "His Excellency George Washington, Esquire."

The residence chosen for him was 1 Cherry Street, at Pearl. It was a show place of the city, a beautifully appointed mansion, erected in 1769 by Walter Edmonson, a merchant. About fifteen years later it had been acquired by Samuel Osgood. But at that time it was the residence of the Chairman of Congress in the days of the expiring Confederation, before there was a Constitution. Osgood and other prominent citizens redecorated the mansion for Washington.

The neighborhood was a delightful place then. Franklin Square, now overwhelmed by the noisy elevated railroad and Brooklyn Bridge, was a park along the river, with many fine residences, many of which and many of the houses of Washington were there. As Washington wanted from April 21 to April 30 as preparations for his introduction into the Presidency were carried forward, to quote the wording of Congress:

That beautiful house stood there until 1869, when it was torn down for a street-widening project. Incredible as it seems now, no effort seems to have been made to preserve it. Visitors to the World's Fair of 1939 may know where it stood, however, for a tablet on a Brooklyn Bridge pier marks the site. The memorial was placed there by the Mary Washington Colonial Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The inaugural ceremonies were in what was then Federal Hall, at Wall and Nassau Streets, the latter the building, really the second city hall, virtually reconstructed at a cost of $32,000 by a committee of citizens in the belief that New York would remain capital of the nation, was raised more than a century ago. In the Sub-Treasury is a brown stone slab, denoted as the one on which Washington stood when he was inducted from a second-story balcony facing the corner of Broad and Wall Streets. A small section of the iron rail of the historic balcony is still in use in the main building of Bellevue Hospital.

At Pearl and Broad Street, Frances' Tavern still stands, stored by the Sons of the Revolution. In that historic inn Washington some years before had taken that memorable farewell of the officers of the Revolutionary Army. The Long Room, where the ceremony took place is much as it was then.

After the inaugural Washington and members of Congress went to St. Paul's Chapel, where Bishop Samuel Provoost offered prayers for the new regime. St. Paul's is now the oldest church building in New York City, its construction having begun in 1764. It did not acquire its steeple until 1795. In the auditorium is a pew, bearing the arms of the United States, designed as a tablet as Washington's Washington's writing table, where he drafted and signed state papers, now is in the Governor's Room of City Hall. Copies of it were made later for the Mayor and his secretaries. City Hall contains other relics and paintings pertaining to that period. On City Hall is a tablet setting forth that near the site on the Common, now City Hall Park, the Declaration of Independence was read to the Army in Washington's presence.

Questions of etiquette were decided during Washington's official life in New York. It was noted that, because of the volume of business on his hands, the President need not return calls. He received visitors only Tuesday afternoons, although foreign envoys might call at other times by appointment. Receptions were held Friday evenings by the President's wife, who was designated as Lady Washington, following an English custom of the title, "First Lady of the Land." The President's official residence was changed in 1790 to a more impressive building, one of the new houses erected in 1804 near Bowling Green by John McComb, a builder. It had stories, and was considered lofty for dwelling. A more imposing structure, Government House, at the site of Fort George, which had been demolished, was not occupied by Washington, for later in 1790 Philadelphia became the capital. It held that honor until Washington was chosen in 1800.

One of Washington's first official duties in New York a few days after his inauguration was to attend an entertainment in the Dancing Assembly in its rooms in lower Broadway. This occasion may be designated the first inaugural ball. The President appeared in several cotillions.

Frequently Washington attended of the John Street Theater, where a box was reserved for him. The site of that playhouse is marked now by a tablet and Theater Alley. While the capital was New York, Washington did not restrict his activities to Manhattan, but often rode horseback as far north as the Bronx. He made several large excursions to Queens, in his diary he noted a visit to the gardens and nursery of one William Prince at Flushing. Prince, called the pioneer American settler, established a farm and nursery, the Linnaean Botanical Gardens.

3 Educational Camps For Youths Opened

SEBRING, Oct. 5.—William C. Sherrill, director of the Southern Florida district of the National Youth Administration, announced at his headquarters here the opening of three NYA educational camps, two for whites at Avon Park and Crystal Beach, near Tarpon Springs, and one for negroes at Bethune-Cook college, Daytona Beach. Eighty-five unemployed girls between the ages of 16 and 25 years are enrolled at each camp and are given courses by a corps of 15 instructors. The enrollees are from all counties in the state, the number from each being based on the population.

The term of enrollment is eight weeks, during which the students receive free vocational guidance and instruction in personal hygiene, bookkeeping, stenography, needle and other crafts. Recreational facilities also are provided. The students receive transportation to and from the camp and are lodged and boarded there without cost during the term. Upon "graduation" new groups are enrolled.

at Flushing in 1757. Before the Revolution the gardens were prosperous, but they fell on evil days when the British Army occupied Long Island, although General Howe assigned a guard to it for a time. Many choice young cherry trees were cut for hoop poles.

Washington, an agricultural himself, wrote that he had been greatly disappointed in the quality and variety of Prince's trees and plants. Inasmuch as the nursery was still suffering from the effects of the war, it was not surprising.

Team No. 1, captained by Dicky Brown.

SPORT BRIEFS

Why is it that June Bryan plays so well on Wednesday, but not the other days, get by in such a ratic fashion. We can't make every day of the week a Wednesday game. Betty Patterson is very good at volleyball, but what "squalls" she utters at tense moments during the game. Let's hope for Margaret Spencer's sake there is no glass on the court, for she surely likes to play barefooted.

Meta Crook has the "dullest" play skill of any of the girls. Betty Adams much rather pick up partners on the grounds than play volleyball. It is just fairness, isn't it? Here's something you'll never see. Leon Steiner, myer making a point in a volleyball game. Max Lynn Ross and Louise Perkins are considered the best "servers" in volleyball. Go to it you two.

The Wildcats had better take time out to teach Mary White how to play. And, too, the All-Americans had better practice playing together if they expect to win. The American Leagueers lost to the Wildcats in Tuesday's volleyball game.

Mr. King gets away from his wife now and then to come over and help the girls win a game. And help he play. Principal Morris is quite a popular figure on our courts, too. Even as busy as he is he finds time to play. Thanks Mr. Morris.

'Arms And Men' On East African Front

Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia has called for a united front against the Italian invasion. Ethiopia's population is estimated at 10,000,000. The country is rich in minerals and has a large area of arable land. The population of the capital, Addis Ababa, is estimated at 1,000,000. In Rome, Benito Mussolini directs the East African campaign. Hundreds of thousands of Italian soldiers have been concentrated in Italian colonies bordering Ethiopia. In contrast to Ethiopia, Italy has an area of 139,744 square miles (colonial possessions not included) and has a population of more than 40,000,000. The capital had a population of 1,000,000 in the census of 1931. While much raw material must be imported, Italy has a large industrial base. France on the other hand must import most of its munitions and war equipment. (Associated Press Photos)

The Italian army is equipped with the most advanced implements of modern warfare and is well prepared to fight in the air or against aerial attacks. Foreign military observers would probably be surprised to see how effective Italy's air force will be in the war in Ethiopia, a country forbidding air attacks and only one railway. Ethiopia is reported to have armed a quarter of a million troops and has laid plans to put an army totaling 600,000 men in the field in the conflict with Italy. While Premier Mussolini has an armed force of several hundred thousand men in Italy's East African colonies contiguous to Ethiopia, Il Duce is rushing additional troops to front in Ethiopia. If needed it is believed they could put 1,000,000 well-trained, well equipped troops in the field. Italian tanks, a flame thrower and Italian infantrymen on the "firing line" are shown in the above pictures. (Associated Press Photos)
