Sanford, County Battle During Annexation Hearing

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer
 Seminole County wants to limit Sanford's western expansion to the area south of Highway 46 and east of Upsala Road.

That's what Assistant County Attorney Lonnie Groot told Judge Vernon Mize Tuesday during one of two hearings scheduled this week in county challenges to Sanford annexations.

Mize heard arguments by the county and Sanford concerning two annexation ordinances passed by the city commission on September 23, 1985. They involve property owned by the Kastner family and trust, and adjoining property owned by Jeno Paulucci just south of Highway 46 and straddling Upsala Road.

This afternoon Mize is scheduled to hear arguments concerning the county's challenge of Sanford's annexation of the Marler/Conway/Cooper/Siegler property south of Highway 46.

The county had originally argued that Kastner and Paulucci properties were not substantially contiguous to the present Sanford city limits, were not compact, contributed to the "fingerlike, serpentine" expansion of city limits to the west, and created enclaves of unincorporated property, all forbidden by state law. Tuesday Groot said the county had dropped its enclave argument.

In general comments during his rebuttal of the city's case, Groot said the city would never be accepted as a city by the state legislature if it were applying for initial incorporation because of its irregular boundaries. "There is nothing wrong with a city expanding its boundaries," he told Judge Mize. But, he said, the county wants to see Sanford take in the unincorporated areas to fill in its boundaries more evenly rather than expand in what he called a "fingerlike" expansion to the west.

He argued that the Kastner property is not compact because it is in three unconnected parts, but said the county did not oppose the annexation of the two parts east of Upsala Road. "If the court finds for the county and can legally quash the annexation of the western Kastner property, the county has no objection to the annexation of the eastern Kastner properties," he said. He still argued though, that since they were all included in one ordinance, they do not meet legal requirements that annexed property be compact.

He also argued that the western Kastner property is not substantially contiguous to present city boundaries as required by law. Although the statute does not define "substantially", Groot said its connection with present city limits does not meet the "substantial" requirement.

Groot also argued that the Paulucci property was not substantially contiguous to present city limits, especially if considered independent of the Kastner property, which it borders on the west and south.

Attorney Donna McIntosh, arguing Sanford's case, pointed out that the Sanford City Commission had considered the statute's requirement that city services be available to annexed Sanford's annexation of the Kastner and Paulucci properties in 1985 is being challenged by Seminole County. The properties lie south of State Road 46 and just east of Interstate 4, and on both sides of Upsala Road.

Elderly Woman Dies In Fire

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

A 96-year-old Sanford woman died today as the result of an early morning fire at her home. Another elderly woman who lives at the residence was admitted to Central Florida Regional Hospital, suffering from smoke inhalation, according to Lt. Doug Luce, of the Sanford Fire Department.

Annie B. Thomas, 96, of 1203 W. 16th St. was pronounced dead on arrival at Central Florida Regional Hospital. Thomas' daughter and co-resident of the house, Ethel Steverson, 72, was admitted to the hospital, where she is in good condition.

Firemen were called to the scene at 2:13 a.m., according to Lt. Luce. He said the fire damaged the living room, and that heat and smoke damage extended through the rest of the one-story wood frame structure. Some exterior damage was caused by smoke escaping through the windows. T. Michael Hoening, battalion chief said. He noted that firemen also had to ventilate the roof, which also caused some exterior damage.

Thomas was in a bedroom just off of the living room, according to Lt. Luce. Steverson was in a separate bedroom, also off the living room. He said that Steverson was able to escape through her

Accused Killer Silent During Court Hearing

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — The Vietnam veteran accused in the nation's worst family mass murder has kept silent since his surrender two days ago, betraying his emotions only with a quivering lip and leaving police and townspeople to puzzle over what triggered his rage.

But people who knew Ronald Gene Simmons before he was jailed in 16 killings said he had a troubled family and work life that may have led to the slaughter. They said he abused his wife, fought with his son and held grudges against co-workers, including a young woman who spurned his romantic advances.

Court records show Simmons, a retired Air Force master sergeant, was charged with three counts of incest Aug. 11, 1981, in New Mexico where the family then lived. The charges were dismissed Aug. 10, 1982.

Police said Simmons, 47, killed seven relatives before Christmas as they gathered at his backwoods home outside Russellville and hid the bodies. He killed seven more as they arrived late Friday or Saturday, police said.

Monday, Simmons donned a black cowboy hat, took two .22-caliber pistols into Russellville and went on a 25-minute shooting spree at four downtown businesses, killing two more people and wounding four before surrendering peacefully to the police chief.

Authorities could give no motive for the family massacre, but said the Russellville shootings apparently resulted from his unrequited love for one victim — Kathy Kendrick, 25, who repeatedly was shot point-blank in the head as she sat at her desk.

"It seems like he had some kind of feeling against the people he worked with, and after this (at the farmhouse), he said, 'Why not go all the way?'" Pope County Sheriff James Bolin said.

"The great unanswered question is 'Why?' What causes a person to wipe out his family and go on another shooting spree of people he's known?" Bolin said.

Bolin said the husky, gray-bearded Simmons had not uttered a word since he surrendered and just lies on his cell bunk with his face to the wall.

"He doesn't appear excited," said Bolin. "He just sits there and doesn't talk, total silence."

He described Simmons, as a "man who has committed a multitude of murders and he's sitting here thinking about it."

Simmons appeared almost catatonic as he was charged Tuesday with two counts of capital murder and four counts of attempted capital murder for the downtown shootings. He was given two court-appointed attorneys and ordered held without bond, and authorities said he will be charged in the other 14 deaths.

The 16 killings equaled the second worst overall mass murder — the 1966 sniper killings at the University of Texas by Charles Whitman.

Bolin said all 14 victims at the house were Simmons' relatives or in-laws, including his wife, four daughters, three sons and four grandchildren. Their killings were the biggest family mass murder in U.S. history.

Five bodies were found in Simmons' home Monday, seven were found Tuesday in a 2-foot-deep grave covered with corrugated metal 40 yards from the house and the bodies of two children, placed in garbage bags, were discovered in the trunks of cars parked nearby.

Bolin said investigators got their first clues that Simmons killed his immediate family when they questioned him about the town shootings.

"My investigators would ask him how we could contact his family and his bottom lip would quiver," Bolin said. "We'd move on to something

New Year's Closings

Federal, state, Seminole County and city offices will be closed Friday for New Year's Day. Longwood City Hall and the Seminole County School Board offices will be closed Thursday as well.

Banks will be closed Friday and the post offices will be closed Friday and Saturday. The post office lobby will be closed Saturday due to federal budget cuts, but there will be mail delivery on that day.

Schools reopen Monday after a winter holiday. Sanford will have no refuse pick up on Friday.

Tanker Returns To Gulf After Being Hit By Mine

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — The re-flagged Kuwaiti supertanker Bridgeton steamed through the Persian Gulf under American naval protection today, heading for the perilous waters where it struck an Iranian mine five months ago, shipping officials said.

The return of the U.S. registered Kuwaiti supertanker to gulf waters marks a victory for American naval forces protecting shipping in the vital waterway.

Kuwait Oil Tanker Company officials reportedly had decided to leave the Bridgeton in the Gulf of Oman for the Navy could not adequately protect it, the only Kuwaiti tanker under American registry that carries crude oil.

But the 401,382 ton

supertanker muscled into the Persian Gulf Tuesday at the nose of a U.S. convoy that included the Kuwaiti oil products carrier Surf City and two U.S. military-chartered vessels, the MV Rover and the MV Gianella.

Shipping officials said the convoy is sailing at a speed of about 10 knots and is believed to have passed Qatar and Bahrain in the central gulf, probably dropping off the military-chartered vessels at a barge used as a floating base near Bahrain.

By mid-morning, the convoy was believed to be off the Saudi Arabian coast and ready to run the gauntlet of the Farsi channel close to Iran's Farsi Island.

The Bridgeton hit the mine July 24 at a point 18 miles west of Farsi Island, which Iranian Revolutionary Guards use as a base for speedboat attacks on shipping.

In the land war between Iran and Iraq, Iraqi troops beat off an overnight attempt by an Iranian military detachment to take frontline positions in the central sector of the warfront, a military spokesman in Baghdad said today.

"The Iraqi troops confronted

Project Hope Collected $6,500 For Needy Children

By Brian Hedberg
Herald Staff Writer

Totting collection containers and sporting Christmas cheer on their faces, volunteers for Project HOPE (Helping Our Preschoolers in Emergencies) raised a total of $6,501.53 for needy children during the project's 16-day stint at Flea World.

The money from the goodwill effort, a partnership between Flea World of Sanford and the Seminole County School Board, will supply preschoolers with clothing, food, medical and dental care, and other necessities.

"The neatest thing about the project was that the largest gift was a $10 check," said Karen Coleman, Seminole school spokeswoman, one of many volunteers who asked Flea World patrons for contributions.

She said donations ranged from a penny to $5. "There was no one benefactor who came in and said, 'Here's a thousand dollars.' It means a lot to us that so many people supported the project," Coleman said.

The number of county preschoolers with inadequate food, clothing and medical care is surprising, she said. "In many cases, these families do receive aid from other programs. But you're talking about poverty level subsistence there."

IN BRIEF

'Recognized' Suspect Accused Of Break-In, Threats, Burglary

Thomas Fortune of 1002 Bradford Drive, southeast Seminole County, reported he was awakened early Monday by a burglar he recognized. The burglar, known to Fortune as "Kevin," a sheriff's report said, allegedly yelled threats at him, saying Fortune owes him money.

The burglar left taking Fortune's keys. Seminole County sheriff's deputies were called to the scene and reported stopping a truck on Dyke Road. The truck matched the description of the suspect's vehicle. Keys reportedly identified as Fortune's were found in the suspect's possession. A sheriff's report said Fortune identified the suspect.

Kevin Patrick Hunnewell, 18, of 2025 Hounds Lake Ave., Winter Park, was arrested at 4:45 a.m. Monday on charges of burglary and assault. He has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court Jan. 18.

Searched At Drug Deal Site

One of two men spotted by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy at the known drug dealing intersection of County Road 427 and North Street, rural Altamonte Springs, was confronted and searched by the deputy. The second man ran away.

In the search at about 8 p.m. Monday the deputy reported finding crack cocaine in the suspect's shirt pocket. Greg Allen Wines, 19, of 255 George St., Maitland, has been charged with possession of a controlled substance and was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Mom Has Son Arrested For Theft

Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported arresting Jason Willis Pait, 18, of 605 Wildflower Court, Longwood, after they found him in his mother's 1984 Oldsmobile valued at $6,000, which she reported stolen Monday.

Pait was arrested at 12:41 a.m. Tuesday at the Handy Way on Lake Mary Boulevard at Lake Emma Road. His mother, Sarah Pait, 42, of the same address, said she wanted charges filed and Pait has been charged with grand theft auto. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Driving Under Influence Arrest

The following person has been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Lynn William Andersen, 42, of 284 Gary Blvd., Longwood, was arrested at 8:10 p.m. Monday after his car was in an accident on Longwood-Lake Mary Road. He was also charged with violation of right of way.

Burglaries And Thefts Reported

Barbara Kratzer, 47, of 288 Shepherd Ave., Altamonte Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies that fishing gear valued at $445 was stolen from a pickup truck in her yard Sunday or Monday.

A burglar stole eight video recorders with a combined value of $3,200 along with a $500 television Tuesday from Radio Shack, 600 S. Hunt Club Blvd., rural Apopka, a sheriff's report said.

Burglary In Lake Mary

An estimated $675 in property was stolen from a Lake Mary home over the weekend, Lake Mary police reported.

Dispatched to the scene of an open window Sunday, police found evidence of a burglary but could not find or contact the resident of 198 N. Fifth St. A police report said the rooms appeared ransacked, the screen from the northeast front window had been removed and the rear sliding glass door was open. The resident, Leonard G. Zilles, 50, contacted later Sunday and reported the loss of $100 worth of rolled and loose quarters, a $250 compact disc stereo, a $250 tuner and $75 in compact discs.

The burglary reportedly occurred between 1 p.m. Saturday and noon Sunday.

3 Adults, Boy Nabbed In Reverse Pot Sting

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

A man, two women and a boy have been arrested in connection with an alleged attempt to buy 2,000 pounds of marijuana from undercover City County Investigative Bureau agents.

The man, Manuel Vega, 34, and one woman, Amelia Buiding, both of Miami, in addition to drug related charges, have also been charged with four counts each of child abuse. Buiding's children were present when the drug deal was negotiated, arrest reports said.

The four were arrested at 2:30 p.m. Monday at Denny's Restaurant, State Road 434, Longwood. The 16-year-old boy, said to have helped negotiate the deal, was arrested on charges of trafficking more than 100 pounds of marijuana and conspiracy to traffic 2,000 pounds of marijuana. He was turned over to juvenile authorities.

The other children, said to be present when the deal was made, who are ages 6, 10 and 13, were surrendered to Health and Rehabilitative Services representatives after Buiding's arrest.

CCIB agents, who were assisted by Florida Drug Enforcement agents in the bust, reported meeting Vega and the boy at a Seminole County motel Sunday. The two allegedly agreed to buy 2,000 pounds of marijuana from the agents for $280 a pound, but said they wanted to buy a 100 pound sample first. The deal was reportedly discussed a second time that day with Buiding and her children present. A third meeting to make the sale was set, with the agents to meet the suspects at Denny's Restaurant.

At the restaurant a second woman, Barbara Lynn Byrd of Marietta, Ga., allegedly joined the other three suspects. Agents reported she had just arrived from Georgia and delivered $14,000 to pay half the cost of the 100 pounds of pot. The agents agreed to accept the other $14,000 due later, arrest reports said.

Vega allegedly dealt with the agents in the parking lot of the restaurant while the women and children waited inside the restaurant. After the sale was made the suspects were arrested. A .38-caliber pistol was reportedly found in a suitcase in Vega's car. He was charged with armed trafficking in more than 100 pounds of marijuana and conspiracy to sell 2,000 pounds of pot. Buiding was charged with trafficking in more than 100 pounds of pot and conspiracy to sell 2,000 pounds of pot. Those charges are in addition to the child abuse charges Buiding and Vega face.

Byrd was charged with trafficking in more than 100 pounds of pot and criminal conspiracy to sell more than 100 pounds of pot. The suspects were all being held without bond.

2 Receive DUI Sentences

The following persons have pleaded or been found guilty of driving under the influence or having an unlawful blood alcohol level.

The first-time offenders have had their driver license suspended for 6 months, been ordered to pay a fine and court costs usually totalling $387.50 and complete 50 hours of community service. When a guilty or no contest plea is entered or if the defendant is found guilty of an alcohol-related charge, other charges are usually either not prosecuted or dismissed. Most of the first-time offenders are allowed to apply for business-only driving permits, in cases where the sentences differs, the actual sentence is reported:

—Andris Dyniola Belmega, 22, of 220 O'Brien Street, Fern Park, was arrested on Sept. 6, after he was observed making a left hand turn over a median strip at the intersection of Wymore Road and State Road 436. Court records indicate Belmega didn't receive a fine.

—John Gregory Buenzle, 33, was arrested in Lake Mary on Sept. 4, after he was seen by LMPD officers riding a pedicycle in the center of Country Club Road. Buenzle was given a $1,000 fine, plus court costs, three weeks in the Seminole County jail and had his driver's license revoked for five years.

Weather Unliked? Request Change

By Fred H. Cooper
Herald Staff Writer

Sometimes you have to talk straight to "official" weather-types of the U.S. Government. These are the guys that are the National Weather Service and are called meteorologists (that's with a capital M). Anyway, the trick is to order up exactly what you want in the way of weather. And, the government will provide. This is as promised by the Washington politicians who barter more money from citizens in exchange for little perks such as Weather On Request, a service of the benevolent benefactors in the Beltway.

Today's request? Till that north wind from the north over to the east. Then, elevate that temperature from the forties into the fifties. Finally, clear a little of that scud from the sky and let the blue show through. Just so you will understand what those miracleworkers of the NWS will be doing, this morning the Seminole County temperature is 48 degrees under cloudy skies with winds from the north at 12 miles per hour. If you don't believe it, go outside and see. If there is a difference it's because it's afternoon, not morning.

Tomorrow will be clear with an easterly breeze and temperatures ranging from a low in the 50s (see?) and highs in the 60s. Thence thitherwards into Friday with temperatures in the 70s. Easy to get good weather when you know how.

Just don't start asking those bureaucratic weathermen for snow. A trio of skiers out in California requested snow for their week-end outing and, as is the case with those crazy California-type government people, things got exaggerated and hyped in the handling.

An avalanche at the Alpine Meadows Ski Resort trapped three skiers, burying two of them, but all were rescued within 15 minutes and none suffered serious injuries, a spokesman said.

Dan Nourse, assistant director of marketing for the Lake Tahoe resort, said Tuesday's avalanche, which measured 75 to 80 yards across, occurred around midday at the 8,000-foot level on the south face of a ridge leading to Ward Peak.

The wall of snow tumbled about 600 feet down the mountain, burying two skiers under 3 to 4 feet of snow, according to Lt. David Dennis of the Placer County Sheriff's Department.

A third skier who was partially buried was pulled to safety immediately, Nourse said.

Californians have a well deserved reputation for being kooky but sometimes weirdness leak across the stateline and manifests itself elsewhere. Take, for example, some hunters up in Maine.

Game wardens trudged through dense snow-covered woods expecting to catch illegal deer hunters, but the four men they found were clean, literally, authorities said.

Wardens Charles Davis and Michael Favreau found one of the hunters taking a bath in a makeshift tub beside a stream and the other three waiting their turn, Favreau said.

"The men had set up a cast iron bathtub on the banks of a stream, they had pitched a tent over it and then filled the tub with buckets of water," Favreau said. "They then heated the water by applying a big torch attached to two 100-pound propane gas cylinders."

COMING EVENTS

Alpha Teens Sponsor New Year's Eve Dance

The Alpha Teens of the Kappa Sigma Omega Chapter of AKA will sponsor a New Year's Eve Dance on Thursday, Dec. 31, 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Sanford Civic Center. Tickets are $5 in advance and $6 at the door.

Kiwanians To Meet

East-West Sanford Kiwanis Club meets Thursday at 8 p.m. at Friendship Lodge, Seventh and Locust.

Sanford AA To Meet

Sanford Alcoholics Anonymous meets Friday at noon and 5:30 p.m. for open discussion and 8 p.m. for step meeting at 1201 W. First St. Alanon meets upstairs at 8 p.m.

24-Hour AA Group meets for open discussion, 8 p.m., Fourth Street and Oak Avenue, Sanford.

Freedom From Smoking

American Lung Association of Central Florida will hold another Freedom from Smoking Clinic Jan. 11 to Feb. 29. The clinic will be held at the AMI Medical Center in the education classroom. From 7-9 p.m. every Monday for seven weeks, certified instructors will take participants step by step on the road to freedom from cigarettes using real life situations. To pre-register, call AMI Medical Center, 295-5151 and ask for Charlotte Marletti at extension 1279.

Modern Woodmen Host Dinner

Modern Woodmen of America Camp 16422 is hosting a dinner Sunday, Jan. 3 from 2-4 p.m. at China Lane Chinese Restaurant, 2425 Edgewater Drive, Orlando. Contact Camp Secretary Diane Thompson at 682-3872 for further information and reservations.

Clogging Class Offered

Sunshine Cloggers are offering a free clogging class at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 6, at Maitland Civic Center. It is open to all ages and families and singles are welcome. Country line dancing and partner dances are being added to clogging classes. For information call 834-8255 or 685-6437.

Better Breathers Meeting

Sanford Better Breathers will meet Friday, Jan. 8 from 2-4 p.m. at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, 400 E. First St., Sanford. Speaker will be Ray Wells, Central Florida Regional Hospital pharmacist. Co-sponsored by the American Lung Association of Central Florida, Central Florida Regional Hospital and Federation of Senior Citizen Clubs of Seminole County, the meeting is open to those with pulmonary problems and their families.

SOS Votes On By-Laws

The regular SOS (Support Obesity Surgery) meeting will be held at 7 p.m. on Jan. 12 at South Seminole Medical Plaza, 521 W. State Road 434, Longwood, in Classroom 103. This will be a business meeting where we will be voting on new by-laws and setting up committees. There will be a sharing time after the business is finished.

SOS is a support group for anyone who has had any type of bariatric (obesity) surgery performed and for those others who may be interested in more information in regard to the surgery. There is no charge to the public. Call 332-6500 for more information.

Although Coleman said some money may have been spent on Christmas gifts for deprived children, she said the bulk of the funds will be spent during the next year for necessities.

"We know that when a child is well fed, warm and comfortable, learning is enhanced," she said. "And we know that when a child is hungry, cold and uncomfortable, learning is impaired."

Coleman said she asked Bob Liedner, coordinator of HeadStart, what he would do with $300 that Project HOPE might be able to raise for HeadStart. "He told me, 'There's a child in one of our classes who needs dental work badly. We have tried and tried to help, but the resources are not available. If we had $300, I would go and get that child medical attention to relieve that pain so he could learn better.'"

From Dec. 4 to Christmas Eve every day Flea World was open, one could see at the entrance gate HOPE volunteers — PTA volunteers, advisory committee members, teachers and principals, middle and high school students, school board members and employees, and Superintendent Robert Hughes.

The average donation of drivers entering Flea World was between 75 cents and $1, putting contributors at between 6,000 and 9,000, Coleman said.

"In many cases, the people who gave were obviously hardworking and just getting by themselves," she said. "The generosity of the people in our area was overwhelming."

Coleman said the volunteers are appreciative of all other donation-takers, having stood in their shoes. "Our volunteers were apprehensive at first," she said. "You're talking cold solicitation." But after a few minutes of friendly, generous reactions from drivers, HOPE volunteers were glad to take on another shift, she said.

Three months ago, Flea World representatives approached the school board about a program to help needy children. "You can imagine we were ecstatic about the offer of the partnership," Coleman said.

She is hopeful Flea World will sponsor another HOPE project in 1988.

property. She said the commission considered sewer water, fire and police protection, traffic, recreation and drainage at the annexation hearing concerning the properties. In his rebuttal, Groot told the judge the county had also presented arguments against the annexation at the 1985 hearing. He also said the fact that the city can provide municipal services to the property does not mean it should be annexed. "That is not the way to provide police and fire protection — in fingerlike extensions from the city," he said.

McIntosh also argued that the Kastner property is widest at its westernmost point at cannot be defined as a "fingerlike serpentine" shape. "A serpentine pattern is narrow and curved — this property is square and blocky," she told the judge.

She said the western boundary of the property doesn't extend the Sanford city limits any farther west than property presently in the city limits farther south.

She also argued that a ruling in a previous court of appeals case allowed properties that were annexed on the same date to be considered as part of the requirement to be contiguous to present city borders. The Paulucci property, annexed the same night as the Kastner property, borders the Kastner property on two sides, making it undeniably contiguous, McIntosh said. Even if considered separately though, she said the properties have enough of a common border with the city limits at the time to meet legal requirements.

Phil Logan, representing the Kastners, told the judge the western expansion of Sanford boundaries did represent a "fingerlike" extension, which is outlawed. However, he said that property is already in the city limits so is not in question. The Kastner property in question is not fingerlike, but is blocky and wide, he said.

He also argued that the county had failed to show that it would be injured by the annexation.

Judge Mize took the matter under advisement and will issue a ruling later.

else and it would stop, but when we came back to his family his lip would quiver."

The Pentagon declined to discuss Simmons' military record, but the Arkansas Gazette reported he served as a clerk in Vietnam while in the Air Force.

Residents described Simmons as a loner who moved with his family to Pope County in the Ozark Mountains about four years ago.

New Mexico resident Adeline

Schower told the Alamogordo Daily News that her son was good friends with one of the victims, Ronald Gene Simmons Jr., 28, when the family lived near Cloudcroft, N.M., between 1977 and 1981.

She wept as she recalled her son Tony's friendship with the younger Simmons, who she described as "like a son to me."

"Gene Jr. was bright, loyal but could not get along with his father. He was very supportive of his mother and his loved brothers and sisters very much," she said.

"The father kept the wife, Becky, isolated," Schower said. "She was a lovely woman. He was an abusive man."

Schower told the newspaper the elder Simmons almost killed the son who shared his name when he was trying to stop his father from attacking his mother.

Simmons quit his job as a convenience store clerk Dec. 18, complaining his pay was too low. A year ago, Simmons worked at a freight company with Kendrick, who rejected his repeated advances and filed a sexual harassment complaint against him. Co-workers said he was infatuated with Kendrick.

In his rampage through Russellville, Simmons opened fire at the lawyer's office where Kendrick was working, the freight company, the convenience store and an oil distributorship owned by the store, police said.

"When he looked at me with that gun, and pointed that gun on me, he had this horrid grin on his face. He looked mad," said an unidentified woman who escaped injury during one of those shootings. "He looked just like a mad dog would look at you."

Wooden Chair Saved Victim From Death

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Doctors treating a convenience store manager wounded in a shooting spree that killed 16 people say he owes his life to a wooden chair.

David Salyer, 38, owner and manager of the Sinclair Mini Mart at Russellville, was recovering today at Baptist Medical Center from a bullet wound to the head. He said Tuesday that except for a slight headache, he felt fine.

Salyer and store clerk Roberta Woolery, 48, were wounded in Monday's shooting spree that killed two Russellville residents. Authorities found 14 more bodies at suspect Ronald Gene Simmons' home outside the town.

Authorities said Simmons, armed with two .22-caliber pistols, killed seven relatives as they gathered at his Ozark home before Christmas and seven more family members as they arrived Friday or Saturday, then drove to Russellville Monday intending to kill former co-workers, managers and a young woman who spurned his romantic advances.

The bullet that struck Salyer barely penetrated his forehead just above the left eye, though he said during a news conference in his hospital room Tuesday that he was shot from a distance of about 4 feet.

Hospital spokesman Lyndon Finney said doctors believe the bullet either passed through or was deflected by a wooden chair Salyer snatched up to hurl at the gunman.

Salyer told reporters he and a companion had been sitting at a table in the store having coffee when Simmons walked in, pulled a gun from under his coat, said something to Woolery and fired one shot over the cash register.

Salyer said the man then shot Woolery in the head, wounding her slightly, he said he picked up the chair and threw it at Simmons, and "he shot me in the head."

"He took cold, point-blank aim and he was trying to kill us," Salyer said.

He said his coffee companion began barraging Simmons with soft drink cans and the gunman left the store.

He said Simmons had worked for him until two weeks ago and "he claimed he was tired of low pay and long hours and said he was quitting."

"He was a good worker and he was honest with the cash register receipts but he never said much about himself or his family," Salyer said.

Salyer said he was satisfied with Simmons' work and said he thought "overall he was basically normal."

He said he thought Simmons had been a part-time worker at the store even before Salyer took over the business 1 1/2 years ago.

Reds Must Help Ethiopian Aid

It's happening again. Just three years after a famine killed a million Ethiopian peasants, the crops again have shriveled beneath a cloudless sky. Peasants by the thousands are coming down from the barren highlands in a desperate search for food. Again, many may die.

This time there are differences. Relief agencies have responded by undertaking an expensive airlift and setting in motion a massive food distribution system, and the Marxist government of Ethiopia is cooperating more effectively than last time.

Whether relief efforts work depends on two things: prompt and generous donations and the safe movement of food and supplies over difficult terrain in the midst of two civil wars. Officials say their goal is to get food to people early enough so they will return to their villages willingly. In the last famine, nearly a million people lost all hope, abandoned their homes and farms and formed more than 80 camps near large cities in a desperate search for food. Many died in those camps.

Food needs are urgent. To avoid a break in the supply, international donors must again pledge large quantities by the end of December. The U.S. Government, which has provided 125,000 tons thus far, is expected to announce additional food aid by January. The Ethiopian government has asked for 1.05 million tons of grain in 1988, but U.N. aid officials think the government may have underestimated the need.

Along with food, the Ethiopian peasants desperately need an end to the civil war that has plagued their country for 27 years, the longest in Africa. Perhaps the Soviet Union, a longtime supplier of arms to Ethiopia, would be interested in exerting its influence over the Marxist insurgents battling the Marxist government. The Soviets could at least help guarantee the passage of U.N. convoys through Ethiopia's war zones.

The rest of the world, meanwhile, must do what is humanly possible to feed the Ethiopian people, even if a government that has never seemed particularly interested in its own people's welfare gets the credit.

Grown-Up Babies

A new assault is being made against the idea that people should be accountable for their own mistakes. In the state of Washington, four women who drank beer or liquor while pregnant and gave birth to babies with birth defects are suing brewers and distillers for damages. Their lawyers say the brewers and distillers are to blame because the products didn't contain warning labels.

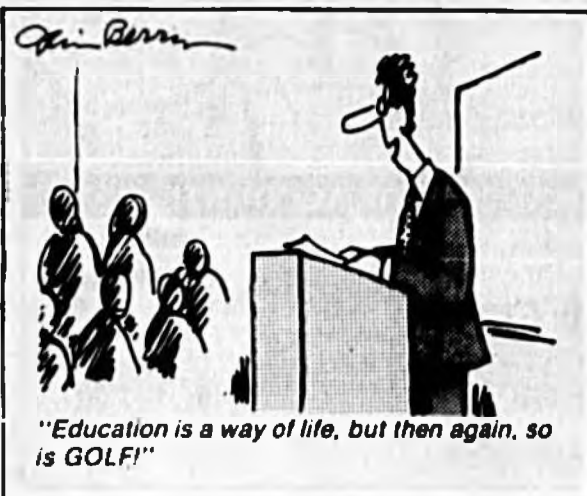

Whatever became of the idea that every person must pick up a survival kit of basic knowledge while growing from infancy to adulthood? Wolfing down a steak can cause a person to choke. Piggling out on sugar can cause problems with the pancreas. Excessive fat in a person's diet can clog arteries and cause a heart attack. Too much caffeine makes a person nervous and erratic. Drinking while pregnant can hurt the baby.

It isn't the fault of the manufacturers if someone slips through without learning the elementary precautions for using food and alcohol. Manufacturers of legal products have no constitutional or moral obligation to pay the bills of people who use the products foolishly.

The making and selling of liquor is not prohibited. Sensible use of alcoholic beverages is socially acceptable. Information about what constitutes sensible use is widely available. Don't drink if you are underage, taking prescription medicines or ill. Don't drink at all if there is a family tendency to alcoholism. Listen to what your doctor says about drinking during pregnancy.

Must there be a label on every steak, every package of sugar and every jar of instant coffee that warns consumers about every imaginable way of misusing the product? Every wine cooler and can of beer? Ludicrous as it might sound, that is the direction in which the four Washington women and their lawyers are pointing.

HELEN THOMAS

Reagan: He's Neutral In Bush, Dole Race

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan says he is neutral in the primary battles for the Republican presidential nomination that appears to be shaping up as a contest between Vice President George Bush and Senate GOP leader Robert Dole of Kansas.

It is traditional for presidents to steer clear of the intramural fights, publicly at least. Inside maneuverings are another story, and each president obviously has his own preference for a successor even though they are not vocal on the subject.

But the White House press office staffers make no bones who they are supporting and who they want to win. Bush is their candidate and they did not like the arrangement recently when Reagan and Dole came into the press center to announce Dole would now support the new arms agreement.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater previously served as Bush's press secretary.

As a loyal team player, it's hard to imagine that Reagan would sidestep Bush when it comes time to go for the brass ring.

Loyalty in politics is an interesting phenomenon. Even though former national security adviser John Poindexter and his deputy, Lt. Col. Oliver North had testified under immunity that they had deceived Congress, altered government documents, burned and shredded official papers after an inquiry was under way, they were invited to Vice President George Bush's Christmas party.

Bush also has called North a "national hero" in line with President Reagan's original designation of the key figure in the Iran-Contra scandal.

Bush contends that these men were so patriotic and strong believers in their country. That may be a question in the campaign.

First ladies always have to think ahead, and that is what Nancy Reagan is doing. With only a year left in the White House, she is planning for the time when the Reagans will be moving out on Jan. 20, 1989.

The president obviously has left those chores to her.

Mrs. Reagan indicates that she has pretty well made up her mind to move into the $2 million home in Bel Air, an exclusive section of Los Angeles, which was spotted by California friends who formed a corporation to buy it.

She says the house is one story and not palatial. It will be a contrast to the 182-room White House. The Reagans have not signed any papers yet, but Mrs. Reagan makes it clear that unless something more suitable comes along, that will be her post-presidency home.

Most of the furniture in the White House family quarters belongs to the Reagans and will be transferred to Bel Air, probably next December. Packing will be a difficult proposition as it always is for every first family and the Reagans have lived in the White House for seven years.

It's a safe bet that the first lady's friend, Ted Gruber, will decorate her new home with the cheerful and elegant furnishings now in the family suite.

Mrs. Reagan has chosen an artist for her portrait that will hang in the White House after the Reagans have departed.

SCIENCE WORLD

Treatment Should Be Followed

By Larry Doyle, UPI Science Writer

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Institutes of Health has a classic horse and water problem.

When sticky medical questions arise, the NIH can lead physicians to the answers. But it can't make them drink.

For the past decade, the NIH has sponsored a series of prestigious consensus conferences, meetings of 12 to 14 experts on topics ranging from kidney stones to wisdom teeth. These fine scientific minds, using the best available evidence, have made recommendations about appropriate techniques and expectations for state-of-the-art medical care.

The statements have been rightly applauded, but new research suggests the government program nevertheless has failed to achieve its ultimate goal: progress.

"The efforts of a dedicated national agency to affect clinical practice through a consensus conference approach mostly failed to produce change at the bedside — in the care delivered by practitioners to their patients," concluded the study published recently in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

These might seem fighting words, but officials at the NIH do not disagree.

"Ultimately, yes, we would want to change practice, and we haven't had a lot of success with that," says Dr. William Friedwald, director of the NIH office responsible for the consensus conferences. "But the thrust of the program is to disseminate the information, and we are doing that."

In that regard, the program has been a tremendous success. Beginning with a conference on mass screening for breast cancer (Sept. 14-16, 1977) and including the most recent meeting on magnetic resonance imaging (Oct. 26-28, 1987) the NIH has forged 68 consensus statements so far, with another half dozen planned for 1988. Each statement is released to the media and published in the AMA Journal, as a separate publication, and often in a specialty journal.

It is difficult to imagine these statements missing their target audience. But even so, it seems many in the audience are missing the point.

Of 2,770 patient records examined, the researchers found no difference between the proportion of doctors following the recommendations a year or less before the conference and for up to two years following it. In both categories, the proportion was 57 percent.

JACK ANDERSON

U.S. Developing Burrowing Warhead

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Air Force is working feverishly, and secretly, on a nuclear warhead that will burrow deep into the earth and make mincemeat out of Soviet underground missile silos and control bunkers.

We have learned that both Lockheed and General Electric have been working on more than $5 million in Air Force contracts to produce prototypes of these earth-penetrating warheads by mid-1988. The Department of Energy, which has responsibility for production of nuclear weapons, has a piece of the research on this project, too.

The United States already has nuclear warheads which have a slim chance of taking out the strongest Soviet missile silo with a hit on the surface above the silo. The new burrowing warhead, instead of

JEFFREY HART

Schools' Bogus History

We've been hearing a great deal lately about the deficient teaching of history in our elementary and secondary schools, and rightly so. Some of my Dartmouth freshmen can't tell you what the New Deal was, and surveys have shown that a sizable number of high school seniors can't locate the Civil War in the correct century. Secretary of Education William Bennett and NEH Chairman Lynn Cheney have recently written blistering essays on the spread of this cultural darkness.

All of that sort of failure may be attributed to ignorance, laziness, and incompetence—but something much worse than this appears before me in a publication called "Scholastic News," advertised as "America's Classroom Newspaper," with a circulation of 2.8 million third-graders. Here's how "Scholastic News" informed its readers about the Russian Revolution, the 70th anniversary of which is now being celebrated.

"Before 1917, the Soviet Union was called Russia. It was ruled by kings called czars (ZARS). Many czars were cruel to their subjects. Czar Nicholas II was especially cruel. Nicholas' subjects were poor, hungry and tired of a war they were fighting. But Nicholas told them to fight on! Soon, even soldiers would not fight for their czar. In 1917, they put him in jail."

"Nicholas II was the last Russian leader to call himself a czar. New leaders started a different kind of government. That is something for the world's largest country to celebrate."

Now wait a minute. The October Bolshevik revolution, the very October revolution now having its anniversary celebrated, overthrew not czar Nicholas II, but the parliamentary Kerensky government, which had replaced the czarist monarchy with a Western-style democratic regime. Is that something for "the largest country in the world to celebrate"? Moreover, that Bolshevik regime, first under Lenin and then under his heirs, remains at war with democratic governments throughout the world. Is that something for us or for our third-graders to take such a benign view of as "Scholastic News" sets forth?

In its eagerness to cozy up to the Bolshevik revolution against democracy, "Scholastic News" gets even well-known facts wrong. Czar Nicholas was not "especially cruel." He was known throughout Europe as a humane reformer, and was related to both the British and the German monarchies. He did everything in his power to dissuade Kaiser Wilhelm from initiating hostilities. And when the Bolsheviks got their hands on him they did not "put him in jail." They murdered the czar, his wife and their children.

In the "Scholastic News" celebration of the Bolshevik revolution, not a word is mentioned about the vast purges carried out by Lenin and Stalin. Responsible scholars put the figure of the dead in those purges in the neighborhood of 30 million. The founder of the Cheka, the secret police, was Feliks Dzerzhinsky, who turned the cellar of the Lubyanka prison into an abattoir in which the brain tissue was regularly hosed off the walls. The KGB, descendant of the Cheka, is today located in Dzerzhinsky Square, Moscow.

"Scholastic News" chooses not to mention the Gulag Archipelago, the "mental hospitals," the persecution of art and literature, the driving of a free press underground, or the botched economy with which Gorbachev is struggling, probably in vain.

Perhaps "Scholastic News" did not want to disturb their young minds with some real history.

Nevada Loses Clout

By Robert Shepard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As Congress was wrapping up its work for the year, and the usual end-of-session bargaining intensified, the state of Nevada was treated to a dose of power politics on one of the most sensitive environmental issues in recent years.

With Nevada lawmakers only able to wait in the wings, senators and House members from other states agreed Nevada should be the site for the nation's first high-level nuclear waste storage site.

The decision, included in a huge deficit-reduction bill, left the state's representatives in Congress fuming and bitterly assailing their colleagues.

"Congress is behaving like a pack of wolves going in for the kill," said Rep. Barbara Vucanovich, R-Nev.

"Base power politics at its worst," said Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev.

Rep. James Bilbray, D-Nev., warned that the other states were not getting off scot-free since the dangerous waste materials would have to travel over many of their highways during the long haul to Nevada.

Previously, Congress had approved a selection process by which the Energy Department would come up with a list of possible storage sites and conduct scientific studies of those sites before a final decision was made.

There were no volunteers for the honor of being the nation's dump, and vigorous protests were heard from every state mentioned or listed for consideration by the Energy Department. Finally, the list was down to sites in Nevada, Texas and Washington, but other states — including some in the East — were being considered for a second permanent storage site and for a temporary storage site.

The issue was taken up by House and Senate members who met to negotiate a compromise on the deficit-reduction bill. The result was that Yucca Mountain, Nev., was chosen to be the waste storage site — assuming the scientific studies support the choice — and plans for the second and temporary sites were put on hold.

Not surprisingly, the plan was welcomed by lawmakers from those states mentioned as possible storage sites or bordering the candidate states.

One Texas congressman issued a press release hailing the action as "an early Christmas present for the state of Texas."

Nevada, with its four-member congressional delegation, simply did not have the muscle to head off the agreement.

bursting in the air over its target, will cozy up next to the silo deep in the ground and explode at a certain, preset depth.

American nuclear weapons designers believe the new warheads could be fitted on U.S. weapons by the mid-1990s. But not without a prolonged political debate.

Our weapons wizards don't have an exclusive on this enterprise. The Soviets are believed to be perfecting their own earth-penetrating warhead, but their job is easier. Soviet missiles are buried deeper and at more sites than U.S. silos.

Pentagon strategists have long figured it would take two U.S. nuclear warheads to take out each Soviet silo. These would have to be warheads with "hard-target capability," meaning they could destroy underground missile silos reinforced with steel and concrete. (In twisted nuclear parlance, "soft" targets are cities and people.)

A highly classified report by the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency notes that the largest force of U.S. missiles able to destroy hard targets are the upgraded Minuteman IIIs. Before the upgrade, they were topped with three W62 warheads, each capable of a 170-kiloton blast and only suitable, according to the report, to hit "soft urban industrial and military targets," but not Soviet missile silos. Considering that the Hiroshima bomb was in the 14-kiloton range, the W62 sounds like it could produce major destruction. Not major enough, however, for today's state of the art war.

U.S. military leaders decided to upgrade the Minuteman IIIs with the new W78 warhead, which began production in 1980. With their 335-kiloton wallop, more than 1,000 of these warheads have been produced and mounted on Minuteman IIIs along with a new guidance system increasing the accuracy of the missiles by 25 percent.

The secret ACDA report says that with the new W78 warheads, a single Minuteman III missile has a 76 percent chance of destroying a Soviet silo hardened to withstand pressure of 600 pounds per square inch. The previous system, with W62 warheads, had only a 51 percent chance. The updated Minuteman III also has a 35 percent chance of destroying an ultra-hard Soviet silo built to withstand 5,300 pounds of pressure per square inch. The old system's chances against the ultra-hard silos is 15 percent.

The U.S. Navy has separately developed a missile, the D5, for use in the Trident II submarine-launched missile system with "dial-a-blast" capability from seven to 335 kilotons.

NATION IN BRIEF

NASA Assesses Booster Woes; 1988 Shuttle Launch Delayed

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — NASA is assessing the impact of a nozzle component failure in a shuttle booster test fired in Utah last week that forced the space agency to delay the first post-Challenger flight, officials say.

NASA sources speculated Tuesday that the next shuttle flight, originally set for early June, could be delayed from one to three months, but J.R. Thompson, director of NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., said he was optimistic the launch delay would be minimal.

The big rocket was test fired Dec. 23 at Morton Thiokol Inc.'s Brigham City, Utah, facility, the site of a disastrous but unrelated fire Tuesday that destroyed an MX missile processing facility and killed five workers.

The test last week was the second of four full-scale test firings required before the next shuttle flight, which had been scheduled for June 2, to test new O-ring joint designs and other improvements to prevent a repeat of the Jan. 28, 1986, Challenger disaster that killed seven astronauts.

5 Killed in Rocket Fuel Fire

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (UPI) — A flash fire of 50 tons of rocket fuel incinerated the only building where the first stage of the MX missile is made, killing five workers in an inferno that sent up a cloud of smoke as big as a thunderhead.

The lightning-fast fire destroyed the building where the first stage of MX missiles are built, but a spokesman for Morton Thiokol Inc. told the Air Force that other company facilities can be modified to build the first stage.

The fire erupted about 6:20 a.m. MST at Morton Thiokol's Wasatch Operations plant, 75 miles north of Salt Lake City, where the booster rockets for the space shuttles are also made. Officials said no shuttle facilities were damaged.

8 States Make Super Collider Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The contest to be the home state for the $6 billion superconducting super collider is heating up, with eight states named to a short list of contenders for the site of the proposed atom smasher.

Arizona, Colorado, Illinois, Michigan, New York, North Carolina, Texas and Tennessee are on the short list drafted by the National Academy of Sciences.

The list first was released by Sens. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, and Jesse Helms, R-N.C., Tuesday after they received telephone calls from Energy Secretary John Herrington. Later, the academy, which had recommended the states to the Energy Department on Christmas Eve, released the official "best qualified list."

The superconducting super collider would be the world's largest scientific facility, a tunnel 50 miles in circumference in which sub-atomic particles called protons would be accelerated by high-powered magnets nearly to the speed of light, then smashed into each other to form other sub-atomic particles.

State Employee Insurance Chief Resigns

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The chief of Florida's state employee insurance office and his top aide have resigned, citing in part differences with their boss, Secretary of Administration Adia Vila.

Dennis Nye, chief of the Bureau of State Employee Insurance, resigned effective Jan. 15 for "personal reasons," the Tallahassee Democrat reported today. Nye declined to elaborate on those reasons, but said he did not have another job offer.

Marie C. Walker, Nye's deputy, resigned effective the same date, saying she is "just unhappy with the leadership of the department." Walker cited Vila's decision to ignore Walker and Nye's advice on the the Capital Health Plan controversy as one reason she was leaving.

Nye, 49, recommended that Vila make an exception to her policy and allow three rather than just two health maintenance plans to serve state employees in a five-county area around Tallahassee. Vila refused and put the HMO selection up for bid. Capital Health Plan was the high bidder, and lost the right to serve government employees. That sparked a barrage of protests from the plan's subscribers, many of whom will have to leave doctors who have served them for years.

Nye said the Capital Health Plan problem had not forced him to resign. But unidentified co-workers told the Democrat Nye had been unable to support some of Vila's major management decisions, including the renewal of an administrative services agreement for the state's group health policy with Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

In that instance, Vila rejected Nye's recommendation that she simply renew Blue Cross' existing contract for another year and put the contract up to bid. Blue Cross was the low bidder — but at a price some legislative committee analysts have said is $1 million more than the state would have paid had Vila followed Nye's advice.

1987 Saw Voters Defeat County Sales Tax

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

County officials were hoping to be planning road projects now, based on the assurance of millions of dollars of revenue raised over the next 15 years by a one-cent local sales tax; but the voters overwhelmingly turned down the tax last November.

Commissioners decided last June to explore the possibility of holding a referendum on the local option tax authorized by the state legislature and known as an "infrastructure tax".

Cities in the county, who would share about a third of the revenue from the tax, were asked for a "wish list" of projects it would use the money for. The county drew up a list of road projects to be paid for with the sales tax proceeds, which were expected to total $19 million the first year.

Topping the list of county projects was $60 million to cover most of cost of the expressway between State Road 426 and Highway 17-92. Proposed city projects were wide ranging and included city halls, sewer projects, community centers and road projects, and the referendum was set for the date of the general election, Nov. 3.

In October, with state legislators meeting in special session to decide whether to repeal the state sales tax on services and talking of imposing another cent of state sales tax on goods, county commissioners considered canceling the referendum, but when the legislature failed to take any action on taxes, the referendum went ahead as planned.

Election day was wet and rainy but those who turned out to vote defeated the sales surtax by a 7-3 margin. Only two of the county's 95 precincts gave majority approval to the tax.

The state legislature voted later in the year to impose a sixth cent sales tax on goods. County officials despaired at getting a local option sales tax passed any time in the near future. In view of the overwhelming defeat of their first attempt, and the additional sales tax imposed by the state.

City officials, who had not proposed the tax and only drew up a list of uses for its proceeds at the request of the county, were not that disappointed in its rejection. County officials, however, said Seminole County's greatest needs — better roads — would continue to fall behind its needs without additional revenue to improve them.

'Sleeping' Woman Shoots Mother

CRESTVIEW (UPI) — A woman charged with shooting her mother twice in the head told investigators she was walking in her sleep when she opened fire on her parent at close range, authorities said Tuesday.

Ginger S. Lynch, 20, of Garden City was arrested Monday night and charged with the attempted murder of her mother, Peggy Lynch, 48, who was listed in critical condition at Humana Hospital suffering two wounds to the temple.

The police report said the suspect initially claimed an intruder shot her mother, but later she told investigators she was sleep-walking when she shot the woman at close range with a 38-caliber pistol Sunday night.

Authorities said the mother and daughter earlier had argued earlier about the girl needing psychiatric treatment.

Trading Active, Prices Up

NEW YORK (UPI)— Prices opened higher today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.
 The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 16.08 Tuesday, was up 21.22 to 1948.11 shortly after the market opened.
 Advances led declines 640-308 among the 1,486 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.
 Early turnover amounted to about 13,840,000 shares.
 The market suffered its third consecutive pullback Tuesday as volume and investor interest dropped sharply ahead of the New Year.
 The Dow, which gained nearly 240 points between Dec. 4 and last Wednesday, has given back 78.75 points in the last three sessions.

 "The market has not been able to attract or muster any buying enthusiasm," said Eugene Peroni Jr., chief technical analyst at Janney Montgomery Scott Inc. in Philadelphia. "Most of the potential participants remained sidelined, and there is nothing to lure investors into the action."
 Peroni said the market's weakness reflected lingering concerns over the weakened dollar, some year-end tax selling and some portfolio adjustments.
 "There is very little to motivate buyers right now," Peroni said. "We see a trend down toward 1870 over the next four to six sessions. After that, the market could mount an advance of some proportion."

 Lt. Hoening said that a fixed circulating oil heater was in the living room, where the fire apparently started, but that it was not in service at the time.
 Both fire stations responded to the call. The Sanford Police Department also responded to the call.
 A neighbor, Mary Garrison, 1205 W. 16th St.,

said that Thomas and Stevenson were the only two occupants of the house. She said that the outside of the house does not appear to be damaged, except for the top. She added that the top was damaged only during firefighting efforts.
 Garrison did say that Thomas seemed to be in good health.
 Firemen were on the scene for three hours and 29 minutes, according to Lt. Luce. He said that the Sanford Fire Marshall and the State Fire Marshall are continuing to investigate the incident.
 A hospital official said that an autopsy would be conducted today to establish the exact cause of Thomas' death.

Rams Top Lyman In Shootout

By Chris Pitzer
Herald Sports Writer
ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The first meeting of the season between the Lake Mary and Lyman soccer teams was every bit the war it was expected to be.

There was no real clear-cut winner but, since one team had to advance, Lake Mary came away with a 2-1 shootout victory over the Greyhounds Tuesday in the Pizza Hut Invitational quarterfinal round before 621 fans at Lake Brantley High.

The Rams, 6-1-2, advance to the semifinals tonight at 6 against Miami Killian in a rematch of last year's state semifinal game, won by Lake Mary. All of today's matches will be played at Orlando Evans High's EE Stadium. In the other semifinal, set for 2 p.m., Orange Park battles Tallahassee Leon.

"We know Killian will come in fired up against us," Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle said. "So we have to be more offensive minded. We can't sit back and play defense against a team like Killian."

The Rams were certainly offensive minded in the first half Tuesday as they pumped 11 shots on goal compared to Lyman's three. Lake Mary managed to get one of those shots past Lyman goalkeeper Kelly Walden for a 1-0 halftime lead.

The goal came at the 23:19

Pizza Hut '87

mark when Eric Ravndal got a ball in the middle of the penalty area and rifled a shot into the cage. Walden kept the Rams out of the net the rest of the half as he had six first-half saves.

Lyman did have two excellent chances out of its three shots in the half. The first came with 27 minutes left when Shaileer Bowers pushed up from his sweeperback position and fired a shot that Lake Mary keeper Pete McNally made a diving save of. With three minutes remaining, Mark Dubin had a clear shot at the goal and looped it up high but McNally went airborne and safely tucked the ball away for the save.

"Dubin got off a nice shot but I played it smart and knew where it was going," McNally said. "He turned and shot so I knew he was going to pull it and I went that way."

After being a little passive on offense in the opening half, Lyman mapped out its halftime strategy and came out blazing in the second 40 minutes.

"I was not totally unhappy with the first half but we made some adjustments and really went at Lake Mary the second half," Lyman coach Ray Sandidge said. "And, the way we kept plugging away, I knew we would get a goal sooner or later."

Lyman blasted 12 shots on goal in the second half compared to Lake Mary's four. McNally and defenders Scott Schmitt, James Noble and Rod Bitterling kept the Greyhounds out of the goal for 26 minutes of the second half, but Lyman finally got on the board with 14:00 remaining.

Todd Luke served a ball into the penalty area where it bounced around a few times before Bowers collected it and nailed a shot through the pipes for the tying goal.

Neither team could come up with the tiebreaker in the last 14 minutes and the match went to a shootout to decide who went on to the semifinals.

"It seemed like we were down on their end for about 30 minutes in the second half," Sandidge said. "I knew we had to get something out of it. But McNally and Lake Mary's defense did a good job holding us to just one goal."

Although it is not a very good way to end a hard-fought match between two rivals, the shootout portion of the match did hold plenty of excitement.

Lake Mary's John Mora opened the shootout with a hard shot that Walden blocked but could not keep out of the goal. Luke answered for the Greyhounds to tie the shootout at 1-1.

Tallahassee Leon, Orange Park Advance To Semifinals

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

ORLANDO — Sophomore forward Tony Vaughn scored two first half goals to pace Tallahassee Leon past Daytona Beach Seabreeze, 3-1, in the second round of the Pizza Hut Invitational soccer tournament before 101 fans at Evans High's EE Stadium.

Orange Park also advanced in the winners' bracket with a 2-0 decision over Jacksonville Fletcher. In the consolation rounds Boone upset Winter Park, 1-0, as the game went to penalty kicks. Lake Howell managed to get its offense rolling whipping Evans 4-0.

Vaughn opened the game with a controversial goal with 37:06 remaining in the opening half. After taking a cross pass from Tucker Riordan he broke free on the right side sweeping in towards the goal.

Seabreeze goalie Hunter Jorgenson then charged the ball forcing Vaughn to shoot, after the shot appeared to hit the back bar in the net before bouncing back onto the playing field. Vaughn tapped the rebound in the goal and was credited with the score.

Pizza Hut '87

Leon, now 10-0 and ranked second in class 3A, will battle Orange Park (10-0-1) who is ranked fourth in class 4A. Seabreeze fell to 5-3-1 and will return to action in January.

An overruling was called for by both Jorgenson and Seabreeze coach Ken McMurray, the game was only being worked by two officials and neither had a clear angle to take the goal away from the Lions.

Vaughn struck again with 33:03 left in the first half, heading in a pass from John Beck who sent a perfect pass to him off a corner kick. It was the second consecutive corner kick for Leon who just missed putting in the first attempt.

Beck's second kick seemed to clear everyone until Vaughn leaped up and sent a perfect header into the goal. Jorgenson played the shot perfectly but the shot was too quick and ended up in the back of the net.

The Sandcrabs didn't quit, though, and managed to get themselves back in the game with a Bob Blake goal with 19:17 left in the first half.

Ryan O'Donnell fed Blake on the wing and Blake came through with a perfect slicing shot that just did get in the net. Blake had one more shot just before the intermission but shot just wide.

Leon slowly but surely took control in the second half allowing the Sandcrabs two shots on goal to its 13. The Lions outshot Seabreeze 26-9 overall.

The Sandcrabs had a chance to get even early when forward Benji Fricke managed to shake loose on the left wing, a tripping penalty just outside the penalty area gave them a good opportunity to even the score, but they couldn't get the play to work as Leon goalie Ken Yon came up with the ball before a shot could get off.

Leon kept the pressure on Jorgenson in the second half but couldn't put the ball in the net as the senior goal keeper came up with five brilliant saves to keep Seabreeze within striking distance.

Vaughn managed to pull Jorgenson out with 21:12 to play but couldn't get a decent shot off missing an open goal. Leon had two more opportunities to score before John Beck finally broke the ice with 15:57 remaining.

Beck stole the ball at mid-field and dribbled past three Seabreeze defenders to "set" up a one-on-one with Jorgenson. After stopping his forward motion Beck took aim and fired a shot into the back left corner to give the Lions some breathing room.

Penn State's Thomas Out With Knee Injury

ORLANDO (UPI) — Penn State running back Blair Thomas, who will miss the Florida Citrus Bowl, may also sit out next season because of knee surgery.

Thomas, who led the 19th-ranked Nittany Lions with 1,414 yards rushing and set a school record with 1,772 all-purpose yards, said Tuesday he will have arthroscopic surgery on his right knee Jan. 4.

"I'll have the surgery done Monday and the doctors say it takes nine months to recover," said Thomas, a junior who will miss the chance to play against 12th-ranked Clemson in the Jan. 1 bowl game.

Thomas said the doctors believe a cruciate ligament in the knee is damaged and may be torn but won't know how severely until they perform the arthroscopic surgery.

After determining the extent of the injury, doctors will then do whatever corrective surgery is needed, Thomas said.

If the damage is serious and the recovery lengthy, Thomas raised the possibility he could sit out next season. Nine months of recovery could force Thomas to miss pre-season practice and the first four weeks of the 1988 season.

"Hopefully, I'll be ahead of schedule," he said. "But if not, there's a possibility I'll redshirt if it doesn't come along and I'm not capable of doing what I can do."

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno, who said earlier this month that Thomas should be the leading candidate for next year's Heisman Trophy, said such speculation is premature.

"Nobody knows how serious the ligaments are torn and they won't know until they go in," he said.

The revelation that Thomas would undergo surgery was the latest twist in the knee injury saga that has clouded Penn State's preparations for the bowl game.

On Dec. 10, Paterno revealed that Thomas had sprained his knee while practicing and had been examined at the Hershey Medical Center by the team physician.

One week later, Thomas said he was engaged in rehabilitation and expected to play in the bowl game.

Liberty: Kasay's Kick Beats Arkansas, 20-17

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Georgia's freshman kicker John Kasay, informed just before the game he would play in the Liberty Bowl, Tuesday night atoned for two earlier misses by kicking the game-winning field goal with five seconds to play, handing the Bulldogs a 20-17 victory over Arkansas.

Kasay missed a 48-yard attempt late in the second quarter and a 47-yarder in the third as the Razorbacks built a 17-7 lead. Kasay, however, came through on his game-winner from 39 yards out to give the Bulldogs their first bowl victory over Arkansas after two losses.

"I'm very proud of John Kasay for coming back and kicking the winning field goal," Georgia Coach Vince Dooley said. "He had missed earlier and really came through for us at the end."

Kendall Trainor missed a 35-yard attempt for Arkansas with just over two minutes remaining that allowed Georgia, 9-3, to rally for the victory.

Trainor's potentially game-winning kick fell wide to the left after an 18-play, 74-yard drive by the Razorbacks, 9-4.

The Bulldogs were forced to punt on their ensuing possession with less than a minute left. However, as Arkansas quarterback Greg Thomas tried to pass on the first play, Georgia's Terrie Webster tipped the ball and Carver Russaw intercepted and returned the ball to the Arkansas 43.

Georgia quarterback James Jackson rushed for four yards and then hit Troy Sadowski for a 16-yard gain to the Arkansas 23. That set up Kasay's game-winning kick.

FREEDOM: AIR FORCE-ASU
ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Coach John Cooper may be on the Arizona State sideline for the final time tonight when the Sun Devils meet Air Force in the fourth annual Freedom Bowl.

Cooper, who won the Rose Bowl last year and has taken ASU to postseason games in each of his three seasons at the Pacific-10 school, is reportedly in line for the vacant head coaching position at Ohio State. "I can't put (the rumors) to rest," Cooper said Tuesday following a Disneyland news conference. "My position right now is I can neither confirm nor deny whether I've been offered the job at Ohio State. I'm sure you'll know something later in the week."

Arizona State, 6-4-1, is a 6 1/2-point favorite over the 9-3 Falcons in the 5 p.m. PST game at Anaheim Stadium. A crowd of about 42,000 is expected, and rain is in the forecast.

Defensive end Pat Taylor and flanker Chris Garrett will play despite the fact both were arrested Sunday night in nearby Costa Mesa. Cooper suspended them but then reversed the decision Monday night after hearing details of the incident.

Cooper said Taylor was sitting on the lap of another player in the front seat of an automobile that was stopped by police Sunday night. An officer ordered the driver out of the car, and Taylor also came out.

Taylor was told to get back in the vehicle, and when he did not, a scuffle ensued, Cooper said.

GATOR RECEIVING WAR
JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Opposing receivers Wendell Davis of Louisiana State and Sterling Sharpe of South Carolina realize the attention attracted by their matchup in the Gator Bowl Thursday night.

The Tigers, who finished 9-1-1 and second in the Southeastern Conference, and independent Gamecocks, 8-3, both rely heavily on the pass. Davis and Sharpe both are seniors, with the 6-foot Davis a first-team All-America and 6-1 Sharpe a second-team selection.

Sharpe, the more talkative of the two, concedes Davis is the "best receiver in the country." "Wendell may not be as fast or as big as I am but he gets the job done," Sharpe said.

Arizona Wins, Duke Routs Gators

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Sean Elliott scored 24 points Tuesday night, helping top-ranked Arizona pull away for a 78-58 victory over Michigan State in the opening round of the Fiesta Classic.

In the first game, Kevin Strickland scored 21 points to lead No. 6 Duke to a 93-70 rout of No. 9 Florida.

Arizona, 11-0, and Duke 6-0, are to meet Wednesday night for the championship.

The Wildcats only led 41-36 with 14:06 to play, but then used defense to key a 15-0 run.

Anthony Cook added 14 points and 13 rebounds for Arizona. Michigan State, 5-4, was led by Carlton Valentine with 17 points.

Arizona, which came into the game shooting 57 percent, made only 39 percent in the first half, which ended with the Wildcats holding a 31-25 lead. Arizona's shooting improved to 47 percent for the game.

Duke, 6-0, had won its first five games by an average of 40 points against inferior competition. Florida, 7-2, trailed throughout.

John Smith scored 17 points, Danny Ferry 16, Robert Brickey 13 and Phil Henderson 11 for the Blue Devils. Dwayne Schintzius scored 21 points and Vernon Maxwell 17 for Florida.

Duke scored 11 straight points, 7 by Ferry, to open a 15-4 lead after 4:10 of the first half. The Blue Devils stretched the lead to as many as 13 points before Florida put together its only challenge.

After Ferry drew his third foul less than nine minutes into the game, the Gators drew to 32-26 with seven minutes left in the half. Duke outscored Florida 19-7 the remainder of the half, with Smith scoring 7 straight and Strickland and Quin Snyder hitting 3-pointers in the final minute.

Strickland had 12 and Smith 11 to lead Duke in the first half. The Blue Devils had only 3 turnovers to Florida's 11.

The Blue Devils scored the first 6 points of the second half, established a 20-point lead, and held it. Their biggest advantage was 27 points, including 72-45 with 12:52 to play and thrice more in the final 2:30.

Pittsburgh.....87
Alabama.....51
ORLANDO (UPI) — Demetreus Gore scored 24 points and All-American candidate Charles Smith blocked 7 shots and scored 14 as unbeaten Pittsburgh beat Alabama 87-51 Tuesday to win the Citrus Bowl Tournament.

In the consolation game, Florida State routed Central Florida 101-67.

The Panthers, 8-0, controlled the game from the opening tipoff, and ran off the first 8 points of the game.

With 11:48 remaining in the first half, Alabama's Alvin Lee scored on a layup to cut Pitt's lead to 19-10.

Michigan.....92
South Florida.....56
TAMPA (UPI) — Gary Grant scored 20 points and was named Most Valuable Player Tuesday night after leading No. 12 Michigan to a 92-56 victory over South Florida and the championship of the South Florida Holiday Invitational.

In the consolation game, Clemson's Elden Campbell scored 26 points and blocked 6 shots as the Tigers beat Florida International 98-47.

Michigan took an early lead with a 14-2 run that gave them a 16-4 advantage. The Wolverines, 11-1, led 51-29 at halftime. Michigan maintained a lead of at least 19 points and led by as much as 37 late in the game.

Glen Rice added 18 points, Loy Vaught and Terry Mills 12 each and Sean Higgins 11 for Michigan. Kenny Brantley led South Florida, 2-7, with 21 points. Jeff Dowdell came off the bench to score 14 and Darrell Coleman added 10 points and a game-high 9 rebounds.

Lesson Number One: Find A Good Teaching Pro

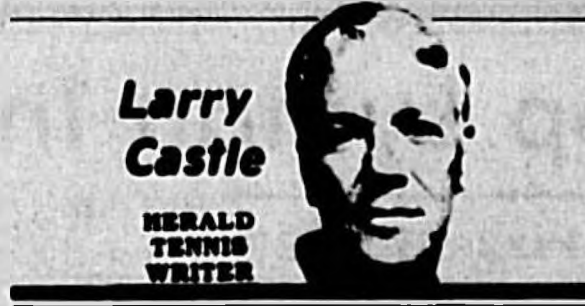

How much is a lesson from a good teaching pro worth? How long should the lesson be? Should I change a stroke just because the pro tells me to? How long will it take me to get really good? Will I be able to beat my boss? I've never beaten him before.

These are a few of the many questions that people have when they are considering lessons or clinics with a tennis teaching professional. Good questions for sure but, unfortunately, the answers do not always satisfy the prospective student.

To begin with, the value of a lesson from a teaching pro will vary from city to city or even club to club. I know of clubs where the pro charges up to $75 per hour. I also know places where you can get a private lesson for $5 per hour.

Extremes both. I just do not believe that any pro is worth $75 a lesson. On the other hand, if you take $5 lesson you are likely to get five dollars worth.

I believe a fair price is $15.25 per hour. Believe me, a good lesson is hard work for the pro as well as the student. It's not "play" for the pro. It's work.

Larry Castle

HERALD TENNIS WRITER

It takes concentration and patience. A good pro puts a lot of mental and physical effort into a good lesson. If your pro seems distracted, always stopping to chat with people, is often late, and does not give you a good effort—get a new one.

There are some really good ones out there and there are some who will just take your money and "run Venezuela."

A lesson should last at least 45 minutes. An hour is better. If the student is a beginner, there will be a lot of talking, so it will take at least one hour.

More advanced players often can get a good lesson in less time because they are running and hitting most of the time. (By the way, if the student does not give 100 percent at all times, he is wasting his money—the student must try as hard as he/she can.)

One of the main reasons for taking a lesson is to improve your game. I have found over and over again that some students are very resistant to change. They pay a lot of good money to a pro so that their games will improve and then when the pro suggests some modifications in their strokes, they simply will not cooperate.

Look, there is only one guideline to go by in changing your strokes: "If it ain't broke, don't fix it." In other words, if your backhand volley is sound, reliable and consistent, then you do not need to change your technique.

You just need to keep hitting it to make a good one even better. However, if you have a weak backhand volley, with poor control and no power, you should listen to your pro, trust his judgment and make some changes.

How long will it take you to be really good? Who knows? Each of us progresses at his own speed. Several factors are involved in how rapidly you improve. The two main ones have nothing to do with your pro.

The most important aspects in how good you get are:

- 1. Your own natural ability.
2. How much you practice and how hard you work when you do practice.

If someone you want to beat is on a really high level, it may be impossible to ever beat him. Your boss may have been playing for many years and his level may be considerably above yours. There just might be too much of a gap to make up.

What you might be able to do though, is improve enough to make it closer and be more competitive and fun for you both.

A good teaching pro is worth a lot. Most are hard working, concerned about your game and very conscientious. Find a good one and get to work.

Bad Knee Sidelines Sooners' Kilpatrick

MIAMI (UPI) — At this rate, Orange Bowl coaches Barry Switzer and Jimmy Johnson may be lining up by Friday night.

With Johnson's Miami Hurricanes already missing three starters for the national title matchup against Oklahoma, the Sooners received their own setback Tuesday when starting defensive tackle Darren Kilpatrick was sidelined by a knee injury.

Kilpatrick, a 6-foot-4, 255-pound senior, tore ligaments in his left knee during practice and his leg was promptly placed in a cast. School spokesman Larry McAllister said redshirt freshman Scott Evans is the likely replacement in a game that will almost certainly decide college football's national championship.

Johnson is very concerned about a patchwork offensive line that will be trying to open holes against the nation's premier defense. Miami tackle Matt Patchan is out with a knee injury and two other starters, tackle John O'Neill and middle linebacker George Mira Jr., have been suspended by the NCAA for failing a drug test.

Tuesday, a judge refused to order the NCAA to give new drug tests to Mira and 35 teammates. Miami Athletic Director Sam Jankovich said the school would appeal to the NCAA to reconsider the case of Mira and O'Neill, who were banned after a test revealed the presence of diuretics, a drug used to increase the flow of body fluids which also is said to hide the presence of steroids.

"We are part of the NCAA, we are going to comply with the rules and regulations and unless the judge tells us we must play them, we are not going to play anybody if it is a violation of NCAA rules," Jankovich said. "We have voted for the NCAA drug testing program that is in place. We approve of it."

The suspensions of Mira and O'Neill come after a diligent effort by the University of Miami to clean up a sullied reputation. Oklahoma's football players have also been criticized for arrogance and a tendency to taunt opponents.

"At first, I thought they were a bunch of rude and sorry individuals," Oklahoma All-America tight end Keith Jackson said about the Hurricanes. "When they are on the field, they are as rude a bunch of guys as I've ever been around. Off the field, though, they are a bunch of nice guys who like to have fun."

The Sooners are sympathetic to Miami's image problem. Two years ago in the Orange Bowl, Oklahoma played Penn State and won the national title, but little acclaim. Last season in the Fiesta Bowl, Penn State beat Miami to win the national championship and then received a White House invitation.

"I don't know who the good guy is this year," said Oklahoma's All-America guard Mark Hutson. "Over the last few years, we've both worn the black hats. Let's put it this way, there's no Penn State here this year."

Led by the passing of Vinny Testaverde in 1985 and 1986, Miami handed Oklahoma its only two losses in the last 35 games.

Penny Kraul scored a game-high 22 points to lead East Michigan Community College past Seminole Community College's Lady Raiders, 67-65, at Edison Tuesday night in JUCO play.

The Lady Raiders, now stand at 1-10, including forfeiting four wins due to ineligible players. Michigan improved to 8-5.

Tammy Johnson and Kathy Cleveland led the way for Seminole with 19 points each. Pam Chatman and Bridgette Thomas netted 10 apiece for the Lady Raiders.

"We played real well though we lost," Seminole coach Wleena Gallagher said. "We came back from the Christmas break looking real good and had a shot to win the game."

Kraul received help from Precilla Lanasky who netted 14 points and Katrina Cebellaski who added 10.

Bates Leads Oviedo Victory

By Mark Mythe Herald Sports Writer

Derek Bates, changed from sweeper to forward, scored three second-half goals to power Oviedo past Edgewater, 5-1, in the semifinals of the Corporate Travel Invitational at Oviedo High School.

Oviedo, 6-3-1, will now play Orlando Colonial for the championship. The finals will start today at Oviedo.

The Lions got rolling early as Rob Seltzer scored on an assist from Scott Waisanen just 37 seconds into the game. Jim Guggenheim scored another goal, all Oviedo would need for the win, with 33:13 left in the opening half.

The Eagles made things interesting for a while when James Dye netted a goal with 20:01 left in the first half cutting the lead to 2-1.

Neither team could come up with any offense during the rest of the first half. Bates, who played sweeper for the Lions in the first half, was then moved to a forward position in the second half.

Bates took advantage of the opportunity effectively scoring his first goal with a header. Duncan Jones tossed a throw in that Bates leaped up and headed in the goal to give Oviedo a comfortable 3-1 edge.

"Bates first goal was pretty," Oviedo coach Dave Jekanoski said. "Bates is a real good athlete and did well at both sweeper and forward."

Bates' move to the front line was not uncommon as Jekanoski has been shifting both Seltzer and him in different positions the past few weeks due to an injury to the Lions to scorer Guggenheim who was out with an injury.

"We've been playing both Bates and Seltzer on offense and defense," Jekanoski said. "Seltzer did a great job on defense in the second half and Bates played an excellent game at forward so I think we'll stick with that combination for right now."

Bates scored again with 29:17 to play of an assist from Kenyon Roma. Bates last score came with 14:24 remaining off a Jones assist.

"We're very happy with our play in the tournament so far," Jekanoski said. "We're confident and things are going our way, we just want to play a tough game in the finals."

In other action on Tuesday, Colonial advanced to the finals with a 4-0 rout of Stuart South Fork. Mike Zilch scored twice for the Grenadiers who ran their record to 6-6 while Pat Webb and Tom Piloto added one goal apiece. Colonial outshot Stuart (6-2-2), 17-9.

In losers' bracket play, Apopka upended Orlando Dr. Phillips, 3-2. Brad Denison had two goals and Bill Tomlin one for Apopka while Serge Swick and Mark Murphy scored for Dr. Phillips. Apopka improved to 3-6-2 while Phillips dropped to 2-3-4.

On Dec. 21, however, Thomas went to the Temple University Center for Sports Medicine in Philadelphia and Dr. Ray Moyer determined there was ligament damage in the knee and that Thomas could injure the knee further if he played.

Paterno then said Moyer's finding simply confirmed the initial diagnosis and that Thomas would probably not be able to play.

On Tuesday, he said he and the team doctor decided to let Thomas try the rehabilitation process because Thomas was opposed to surgery and wanted to play.

"The doctor was aware there was damage there but Blair was the guy who did not want (surgery) to happen," Paterno said. "Blair was adamant he wanted to play and we decided to let him try to rehabilitate it to humor him, even though we did not think he would be able to play."

Thomas, who said the knee was not causing him any pain, agreed with Paterno's account.

"They left it up to me to have surgery or see if I could get it strong enough," he said. "I really wanted to play. At first I was doing well, then it was not coming along fast enough and I had to look at my career down the road."

Leon then went to a defensive game and was able to keep the Sandcrabs from mounting a serious threat. Leon will now play a strong Orange Park squad who downed Fletcher 2-0.

In the days opening game Boone upset eighth ranked Winter Park by out scoring them on penalty kicks by a 4-2 margin. Neither team could come up with a goal until the pk's as the Braves played a strong defensive game.

Winter Park was without a trio of starters who were sidelined due to injuries received in the game with Fletcher on Tuesday.

The Wildcats could not mount any offense though they outshot Boone 9-6. The Braves kept Winter Park in check throughout the game and hung on for the win.

Orange Park dominated Fletcher a team that it has already seen and beat this season. The Raiders now own two victories over the Senators in the young season.

Scott Day and Brian Kazmierczak each scored in the first half to give Orange Park breathing room. Raider coach Bob Cozort then pulled his players back into a defensive game to avoid any injuries.

"This is the first time we've been here and we feel we have something to prove," Cozort said. "We felt we should have been here before, this is our first chance and we want to prove to everyone we can play."

In the other consolation matchup Lake Howell whipped Evans, 4-0, scoring three goals within six minutes to take control of the game. Evans came out and played a strong defensive game until the Silver Hawks broke loose.

Lake Howell, 3-4-1, will now play Boone today at 12. Evans fell to 4-6-1 overall.

Just before halftime Ronald Jenkins broke free and put in the opening goal for Lake Howell. Erik Bird followed up with a goal before Jenkins netted another to give Lake Howell a convincing 3-0 half-time bulge.

James Abbot added a second half goal to boost the Silver Hawks into the third round. Lake Howell out shot the Trojans, 10-9, making good on its scoring opportunities.

Lake Howell and Boone will kickoff today's play at noon followed by the semi-final matchup of Orange Park and Leon at 2. Tampa Leto, a 4-0 winner over Bishop Moore, will then battle Jesuit at 4. The other semi-final featuring Lake Mary and Miami Killian will be played at 6 to conclude the schedule, all games will be played at EE Stadium.

McNally was up to the challenge as well as he saved the last two Lyman attempts to seal the victory for the Rams.

"Kelly (Walden) is a great keeper so when he makes a save,

I get more determined to come through," McNally said.

In Tuesday's other matches, Miami Killian flexed its offensive muscle as it poured in four goals in a 4-1 winners' bracket rout of Miami Archbishop Curley. Alex Sanchez and T.J. Blum, two of the top players in the state, led the relentless Cougars' attack which rendered the scrappy Curley team helpless.

"We surprised Killian at state last year but they will be ready this time," McCorkle said. "We'll see the best Killian and that can only make us better."

In consolation bracket action, Tampa Leto bounced back from Monday's loss to Lake Mary with a 4-0 thrashing of Orlando Bishop Moore and Tampa Jesuit outgunned Lake Brantley, 4-1.

Bolivar To Debut Jan. 9

There is a feeling of excitement in the air this week at the Seminole-Orlando Jai-Alai Fronton.

Scott Sander, Herald Sports Writer, reports on the upcoming jai-alai season.

rookie, has been one of the success stories of the season. He has improved with every season.

In the early singles game, Pierre won two of eight, increasing his total to 24 for the season.

The feature doubles game found Charola, who was on the injured list week, still leading the front courtiers with 10 wins.

Mikel has the most wins for the week with seven. Andia still leads the ITM percentage with a .471 mark.

Rogers Warms For 'Red Eye'

NEW SMYRNA BEACH-- Warming up for Saturday's Fifth Annual "Red Eye" 100 Late Model Championship.

Racing coming down here every year. I'd have two choices: Shovel snow or watch television.

Feature (15 laps) - 1. Jerry Symons, New Smyrna Beach; 2. Gene Van Alstine, Rockledge; 3. Bobby Sears, Ocala; 4. Sami Grief, Deltona; 5. Kelly Jarrett, Orlando.

Fastest qualifier Lee Faulk was second, closely followed by young Stan Eads who was voted as "The Most Improved Driver for 1987" at the annual Awards Banquet.

The winner of more than 2,500 short track races in a career that has spanned 30 years, Dick Trickle still loves to race stock cars.

Feature (15 laps) - 1. Mike Fitch, Semota; 2. John Ripley, Sanford; 3. Randy Grief, Deltona; 4. Art Chapman, Port Orange; 5. Don Ewen Jr., Deltona.

After turning fast time in speed trials, veteran Pete Orr drove the Koury Racing Engines Chevy to an easy win in the 30-lapper for the Limited Late Model division.

He has been doing it for years, and he's done so with great success. Dick has won four World Series point Championships here in the last six years.

Feature (15 laps) - 1. Mike Keith, Orlando; 2. Howard Mark, Deltona; 3. Kristal Loecherer, Edgewater; 4. Gary Salvatore, Deltona.

Jerry Symons took the Four Cylinder main. The Roadrunner finale went to Mike Fitch.

The Sportsman feature went to Mike Keith who scored his third win in a row.

Feature (15 laps) - 1. Ricky Marshall, Maitland; 2. Rudy Rudick, Deltona; 3. Don Morgan, Oak Hill; 4. David Scott, Cocoa; 5. Scott McDade, Lake Mary.

Among the other winners were Ricky Marshall, "A" Bombers; Wray Shaffer, Florida Modifieds and Donnie Funk, "B" Bombers.

Here are Saturday's Results: ASPHALT WORLD SERIES: "First of all, you've got to consider the alternatives," said 46-year-old veteran race driver Dick Trickle.

Feature (15 laps) - 1. Donnie Funk, Orlando; 2. Rich Johns, Orlando; 3. Russ Thompson, Orlando; 4. Dave Reimschuessel, Orlando; 5. Birch Pierce, Orlando.

ASPHALT WORLD SERIES: "First of all, you've got to consider the alternatives," said 46-year-old veteran race driver Dick Trickle.

Like all race drivers, Trickle strives to win every time out, and he's certainly made that goal for this year's World Series.

Feature (15 laps) - 1. Wray Shaffer, Lake Helen; 2. Howard Mark, Deltona; 3. Kristal Loecherer, Edgewater; 4. Gary Salvatore, Deltona.

Carroll, Olajuwon Lift Rockets Over Pistons

United Press International New teammate Joe Barry Carroll makes Houston's Akeem Olajuwon happy, which can't much please opponents of Houston's revamped front line combination.

Basketball

Carroll and Olajuwon scored 10 points each in a pivotal third quarter Tuesday night to lead the Rockets to a 101-91 road victory over the Detroit Pistons.

The decision ended the Pistons' 10-game winning streak, the longest in the NBA this season. Houston had dropped six straight road games.

They've been playing together, but that's the first time they've started a half together. Houston Coach Bill Fitch said, "I've said all along they can play together as well as Ralph and Akeem did. Joe Barry is a fine offensive player. He's just got to work on his rebounding and defense."

"I'm glad to have somebody like Joe Barry we can go to any time," Olajuwon said. "Once he gets the ball in the low post, he's going to stuff it."

Olajuwon played only nine minutes in the first half because of foul trouble and had two points. He finished with 15 points and 14 rebounds.

Carroll scored 25 points, his highest output since coming to Houston Dec. 12 in the trade that sent 7-foot-4 Ralph Sampson to Golden State. The 7-foot-1 center started alongside the 7-foot Olajuwon to open the second half and the Rockets reeled off 16 straight points to

"We gave up some second shots," Pistons guard Isiah Thomas said. "We couldn't get anything to break their run. We tried to get to the foul line to break their run and couldn't."

Cook Of The Week

New Year Steeped With Tradition In Family's Charming Old Home

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

The best of everything and everything at its best can always be found cooking in this cozy kitchen with Lorraine Fiorelli at the helm. Our Cook of the Week, a native New Yorker from Staten Island and later from Stony Brook, claims that Sanford is her kind of town. Besides the wonderfully friendly people, she explains, she and her husband, Ron, are intrigued with the historical background and also the older, stately homes still carefully preserved in our fair city.

That, perhaps, is one of the reasons that the Fiorellis moved to Sanford two years ago from Altamonte Springs where they had lived since 1970, and settled into their own two-story home. "We always wanted an old house," she says, "and we love Sanford and the people here."

The Fiorellis are members of the National Preservation Society and Ron Fiorelli is a board member of the Historical Society of Sanford. "We just love old architecture," she explains, "and restoring and decorating our home with antiques is what we love to do the most."

True to their tastes, the Fiorelli home is warmly and tastefully decorated in the comfortable style of an era gone by, complete with a charming upright piano gracing the large living room. Just for fun, the Fiorellis will sometimes chip off a piece of paint from an old, old building, scrape off the layers of paint to uncover the various colors. "That's exciting to us," she says, "in researching old architecture to see what the original colors were."

Mrs. Fiorelli is one of six children and was raised by Dominican nuna. "I had no cooking experience until I met Ron's family," she says. Her husband, a painting contractor, was perched on a ladder giving his family's old home a fresh coat of paint when our cook passed by and spotted him taking away. "It was love at first sight," she recalls. "I would walk by every day to see the progress and glance at this handsome young man on the ladder dressed in white with a beautiful olive complexion. The house turned out to be the second oldest house in Hauppauge, N.Y., with hand blown windows and nine fireplaces. And it even had a hitching post!" Married on Jan. 5, 1963, Mrs. Fiorelli notes how she became very family oriented in the Italian tradition even though her own family background was Irish, French, Scottish and German. "I just love the people and the culture," she says. "I try so hard to be Italian. I just always wanted to be with Italian people." Learning to cook was an adventure for her as she watched her mother-in-law and her husband's grandmother, aunts and cousins put together all the traditional Italian meals. By the time her children came along, our cook was quite accomplished in the fine art of cooking, and today she even lets her little two-year-old granddaughter, Ashley Nicole, help in the kitchen. Ashley is the offspring of Mrs. Fiorelli's daughter, Theresa, and her husband, Wayne Yawn. According to her grandmother, little Ashley is quite adept at rolling meatballs! The Fiorellis' son, Ronald Anthony, Jr., works side by side with his father in the family's house painting business. Occasionally, Mrs. Fiorelli says, she also helps out when the job calls for wallpapering. "I like to get my fingers in the paste once in a while," she laughs. Together, not only on the job but during their off hours, is a habit with Lorraine and Ron Fiorelli. "We walk together about three and one-half miles a day," she says, "with our radios and earphones, listening to the 'oldies but goodies.'" It's not hard to see why the Fiorellis are still enamored with each other as they prepare to celebrate their 25th anniversary in January. Says Mrs. Fiorelli, "He promised me a rose garden, and I got one," referring to the 32 rose bushes which receive a lot of tender loving care. "There were supposed to be 25," she says, "one for each year we've been married, but when some died last year I went out and bought some extra." Besides the roses in her garden are some flavorful herbs which she mixes and adds to her delicious pasta dishes.

Mrs. Fiorelli is a member of the Women's Club of Sanford Inc. and is also on the welcoming committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, joining in at ribbon-cutting ceremonies for new area businesses. The Fiorellis are also members of the chamber's Beautification Committee, and Mrs. Fiorelli is also a board member of the Seminole County Cancer Society.

Proud of her accomplishments in the nursing profession, Mrs. Fiorelli confides that her family encouraged her to get her O.E.D. diploma, and once that was achieved, she began her nursing training. She applauds her family's support and patience in fending for themselves whenever she "locked" herself in her bedroom to study. Since receiving her L.P.N. degree in 1981, specializing in orthopedics and urology care at Florida Hospital, Altamonte, our cook has also taken a special interest in the Hospice program and enjoys visiting nursing homes and shut-ins, volunteering her valuable time to make someone happy. She and her husband are also members of the Italian-American Club of Orlando and like to attend the cultural functions where good food is always in good taste.

Mrs. Fiorelli says she never hesitates to count her blessings and appreciates the fact that her family is close and caring. With a happy marriage, a beautiful family, and a brand new year just around the corner, our cook is an enthusiastic about what lies ahead as she is about her cooking. "I'll never forget my first meal," she says, "at Ron's family's home. I was used to meat and potatoes and the only beans I had ever eaten were green beans, lima beans and pork and beans. I thought this strange dish called Pasta Fagioli was a soup and was waiting for the main dish, but that was it! Served with a salad, bread, wine and fruit, it's known as a "peasant" dish."

"Most of the traditional Italian cooking," Mrs. Fiorelli adds, "is done with a pinch of this and a little of that. A typical Sunday dinner consists of pasta, either home made or the Ronzoni brand, followed by a meat dish of sausage, chicken, meatballs or veal. There is always a fresh salad with olive oil and vinegar. Then, fresh fruit is served followed by espresso sweetened with Zamboni liqueur. It's no wonder I soon fell in love with Ron, his family, the food and the culture."

Below is a lip-smacking collection of Mrs. Fiorelli's family favorites for the New Year:

- PASTA FAGIOLI
4 tablespoons olive oil
4 cloves garlic, minced
2 cups water
1 pound ditalini macaroni (preferably Ronzoni brand)
a little chopped parsley
a small amount of grated Parmesan cheese
2 cans (16 ounces each) white kidney beans, or great northern beans, or 1 pound fresh cooked kidney beans
Fry garlic in oil until golden brown. In same saucepan, add water. Simmer 20 minutes, add beans and stir. Cook ditalini "al dente" (firm), drain and add to beans. If consistency is too thick, add more water. Add parsley. This dish must be served quickly, as pasta absorbs liquid. Sprinkle with cheese and crushed dried red pepper before serving. With a garden salad, this is a well balanced meal. Serves 4 to 6.

- EGGPLANT PARMESAN
Beat together:
3 eggs
1/4 cup water
dash salt and pepper, almost 1/4 teaspoon
Peel 3 firm eggplants and slice 1/4 inch thick
Using 3 cups seasoned bread crumbs (preferably Progresso), dip eggplant slices in egg mixture then put in bread crumbs. Place on sheet of aluminum foil and set aside.
In large skillet, heat oil enough to eggplant float. They fry quickly. Turn when golden brown. Drain on paper towels. Coat bottom of 9x13 inch baking dish with thin layer of sauce. Layer eggplant slices, sprinkle with salt and pepper and Parmesan cheese. Continue to layer eggplant slices with sauce. 1 pound Mozzarella cheese slices, and sauce until pan is 3/4 full. Bake at 325 degrees 25 to 30 minutes. Serves 6 to 8. Note: Fiorelli family likes this dish best served cold the next day with crisp Italian bread, a garden salad and a glass of red wine.

- LAGAGNE
3 pounds ricotta cheese
1 pound mozzarella cheese, chopped
1 1/2 cups Parmesan cheese
Palm of hand full of chopped fresh parsley, about 2 tablespoons
2 eggs
salt and pepper to taste
Mix the above ingredients together and set aside.
In large pot, bring to boil 8

Legislation Won't Cure An Addiction

DEAR ABBY: I sat in the seat ahead of you on a flight to Los Angeles. Although I was dying to talk with you, I understand that thousands of people must have that urge—and follow it daily—so I said nothing. But since you welcome letters, may I speak with you now?

I have known you to devote many columns to getting people to quit smoking. I doubt if those columns will cause one smoker to stop. They are addicted to nicotine just as heroin addicts, etc.

The best deterrent to cigarette smoking is peer pressure and legislation. Praise those people who demand that smoking not be allowed in their homes. If enough people were firm about it, more smokers would feel like outcasts and perhaps decide to quit. Making it difficult for a smoker to have a cigarette makes the time between his cigarettes increase, making it easier to quit.

Please, Abby, use the great power you have to persuade non-smokers to assert themselves when smokers try to light up in their homes. Persuade non-smokers to write to restaurants, sports arenas, airlines, any place where they are bothered by smoke, and complain! These complaints are heard!

Now, aren't you glad I didn't talk with you on the plane?
SANDRA LIPPS, SANTA MONICA

DEAR SANDRA: No, I would have taken notes in shorthand and used it in my column. You and I agree about smoking. Some smokers are, indeed, addicted. But neither peer pressure nor legislation will cure an addiction.

A smoker has to want to quit for his or her own reasons. Some get the "will" after the doctor says, "I just saw your X-rays, and I have some bad news for you."

I hate for that to happen to people I care about. Too many smokers say, "Well, I enjoy smoking—and it's my life." Actually, they more "crave" than enjoy it; they don't realize it's not only their lives, unless they have no one in the world who loves them, or depends upon them for something—if it's only friendship.

I could write a book—and one day I may. Thanks for writing, Sandra.

DEAR ABBY: I am expecting a baby soon. If it's a girl, I want to name her "Abby." It's a beautiful name, but I'm not sure if it's a real name, or the nickname for "Abigail."

I have found "Abby" listed in one book of baby names, but most books list it as a nickname for "Abigail." In a world where we call a president "Jimmy," I still believe in using a formal name where proper, but I would rather give my child the name I am going to call her.

What do you think? You would know!

KAREN ROSE, ELGIN, ILL.

DEAR KAREN: If you have a girl, name her whatever you wish, whether or not the name is listed in a book of baby names. Some people "invent" their own names. I have met some "Abby's" who were never "Abigail." Good luck to you and the new baby, whatever her (or his) name is.

DEAR ABBY: After reading about the double standard concerning women wearing men's clothing, and vice versa, I had to write. I am happily married to a man who shares his closet with me. On a trip to Hawaii a few years ago, my luggage was lost, so I wore my husband's clothes until mine arrived—five days later! We are the same size—I am large for a woman, and he's small for a man.

He has worn some of my things, too, which doesn't make him less masculine in my eyes. He likes to wear my nighties and negligees because they feel so soft next to his skin.

Clothes do not make the man or the woman, Abby.

Those Cracking Joints Are Not Dangerous

DEAR DR. GOTT — My son, 17, makes a cracking noise with his foot when he runs or walks. Will it get better? He says he is not bothered by it. Just by my worrying about it.

DEAR READER — Joints make cracking or popping noises when there is laxity of the ligaments that support them. If no pain is present, this disconcerting phenomenon is usually harmless. It may improve or disappear with age.

I suggest that you stop making an issue of your son's feet. Explain to him that any foot pain should be reason for him to see a doctor. However, painless cracking of the joints can usually be ignored.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My daughter is getting very depressed. For four months she has been so dizzy and tired she has had to give up her job, can't drive and can barely function. She's had many tests, all of which were normal. In the last three years she's had two miscarriages, and she has endometriosis. She's 32. We are very worried about her. What can you suggest?

DEAR READER — Before giving you an answer, I'd have to know what you mean by the word "dizzy," which can mean different things to different people.

For example, if your daughter is experiencing vertigo, the sensation of spinning or turning, the problem may lie in the balance mechanisms of her inner ear. This would require investigation by an ear, nose and throat specialist.

On the other hand, dizziness usually consists of a feeling of unsteadiness and lightheadedness, a sensation that something is "not right." This is often associated with fatigue and loss of stamina. It has many causes, including anemia, low blood pressure, hormone imbalance and general illness. In this case, your daughter needs a thorough examination by an internist, a physician specializing in diagnosis.

I think that your daughter should sit down with her doctor, discuss her medical problem in depth and learn what tests were done and what the results were. Then, with her doctor's help, she can plan a course of action. This probably will entail a second opinion from an internist or, perhaps, a referral to be diagnostic clinic at a teaching hospital.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
You already knew, didn't you, that defensive pre-emptive bidding distorts the auction, taking away room that most of us humans need to get to the right contract? That's a fact of life and bridge, but don't let the sad reality of occasionally playing a ridiculous contract blind you to taking the best chance to make it. Here, when West stepped in with three hearts and North bid three spades, opener South had his last chance to bid three no-trump. He had the heart ace and hoped that North held the diamond ace for his bidding. That was not the case.

West led the queen of hearts, asking partner to unblock the jack, and declarer ducked. When another heart was continued, declarer won his ace and resignedly played the king of diamonds. East took the ace, cashed the ace of spades and put declarer in the dummy with a second spade. Poor South could now do nothing except cash dummy's ace of clubs and hope that the king would fall. When that didn't happen, he was down three.

Though it seems unlikely that East would hold both missing aces, that is the only hope declarer has for success. But to avoid being locked into dummy early in the play, South must work on clubs. At trick three, declarer should run the nine of clubs. When that holds, he can continue with the queen and another club and then drop West's king with dummy's ace. Only then should he play diamonds, and East cannot stop him from making the contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Osof YOUR BIRTHDAY DECEMBER 31, 1987

SOLVE — Strive to keep a happy balance in the year ahead between your worldly and social interests. You'll be busy as a beaver in both areas. Don't favor one and ignore the other.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't be bashful about saying no today if a friend tries to draw you into an expensive activity which he or she can afford, but you can't. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to restore the relationship. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) When socializing with an influential contact today, be sure this person doesn't feel you're trying to use him/her. Your chances for cutting a deal at a party are less than marginal.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Personal relationships require delicate handling today. In your involvements with others, don't view yourself as either superior or inferior.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't request favors today from a person you know is a manipulator. He/she may come through for you, but could later constantly remind you of your obligation.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you have special plans for this evening, don't attempt to include someone who is reluctant to go along with them. She/he could spoil the fun for others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't lay burdens to which you should be attending on others today. To get you off their backs, they might agree to take care of them for you, but they won't.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) One with whom you'll come in contact socially today may not be all that he or she appears to be on the surface. Be careful that you're not overly captivated by this person's charm.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be sure to keep promises that you've made to family members today. If you don't, you'll run the risk of severely disappointing people who truly believe in you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's a possibility that you may step out of character today and try to take credit for something that was brought about by the efforts of another.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your extravagant inclinations are likely to be a trifle stronger than usual today. Try to have fun and enjoy yourself without blowing your whole budget.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Dress and demeanor are important factors that are worthy of consideration today because others are likely to judge you on your outward appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) What you consider just a harmless flirtation could be taken seriously by another today. Be careful if you feel inclinations to play the role of a sex symbol.
