In addition to the formal presentation of papers, "classroom" type of discussion programs are also on the agenda. Tentative plans for the general scientific program include presentation of 24 papers.

Following the discussion theme a number of luncheon panels, led by authorities in their respective fields, are scheduled. The Association's National Clearing House plan will form the basis for one luncheon panel.

Doctor R. R. A. Coombs, Department of Pathology, University of Cambridge, England, an international authority, will be a guest speaker at the meeting.

Doctor Ruth Sanger, Blood Group Research Unit, The Lister Institute, London, England, will also address the meeting.

Several Administrative Sessions are planned at which papers relating to the various administrative aspects of blood banking will be given. A breakfast for state representatives of the Association is planned for Monday morning, Nov. 21, at the Palmer House.

Principal speaker for the annual banquet on Sunday evening, Nov. 20, will be Doctor Morris Fishbein, Professor of Medicine and Contributing Editor of Post-Graduate University of Illinois College of Medicine. Doctor Fishbein's subject will be "Blood-The Most Important Fluid."

The Association this year will for the first time present the Karl Landsteiner Award for distinguished contribution in the field of blood banking. The recipient of this award will be announced at the annual banquet of the Association on the evening of Nov. 20. In addition, awards for scientific and administrative exhibits will be presented.

Doctor J. J. Griffiths of Miami will be inducted as President of the Association at the annual banquet.

Attending from Central Florida will be Doctor Louis Pohlman, Orlando, President, Florida Association Blood Banks; Mrs. M. M. Rand, manager, Central Florida Blood Bank; and Mrs. Roberta J. Briggs, R. N. from the laboratory of Central Florida Blood Bank.

MRS. ELEANOR SCHUESSLER is in tears after hearing that her husband, Anton, 42, died in a Chicago sanitarium shortly after being admitted there, apparently suffering from a heart attack. The Schuesslers' children, John, 13, and Anton Jr., 11, were found strangled in a forest preserve area. Also found slain was the boys' companion, Robert Peterson, 14. The murders remain unsolved. put on the taxes needed to give services to the public as fast as the others."

Thompson said he had noticed that men and women in all parts of the country now are running for municipal offices because they want to do a good job.

In the long run, he said, only those doing such a job survive although "politics is the only profession where no preparation is thought necessary."

Thompson said good people work at government only in spurts but that the bad influences always are there.

A constitutional amendment proposed to give home rule to Dade County is considered controversial because of misunderstanding, said W. C. Herrell, Miami Springs mayor and member of the Florida House of Representatives.

It would only give Dade cities the powers which the league has sought for all Florida municipalities, he said.

The league was told, "It is imperative that those elected to the Legislature be fully aware of the needs of our municipalities and pledged to support program for betterment of citizens through municipal government."

ed." I congratulate you on your new designation."

Major Roy Green, representing the 48th Armored Division, in introducing the principal speaker for the occasion, Lt. General Joseph C. Hutchison (ret), said, "His record reflects glory on the National Guard." And as Major Green cited the General's record, achievements, awards, and popularity, he quoted an often repeated phrase, "I'd fight under his command anytime, anywhere."

General Hutchison reviewed the many changes that he has seen in the Sanford Unit of the National Guard since his enlistment in the organization in 1917. "I enlisted and was mustered into service the night it was founded," General Hutchison said.

"The Sanford Units have always been good," the General said, "As a matter of fact, the company was so good it was called the Colonel's Pets."

Hutchison said, "The 12th Infantry has been the outstanding infantry in the Division, now its going to be up to you to carry on."

The General pointed out, in his talk to the local National Guard Company, "you look good tonight and I know you can perform as well as you look." Citing the support of the community for the company, General Hutchison said, "The unit could not have been maintained without the community back of it."

Concluding his address, General Hutchison said, "You can be a soldier, and do your duty as a soldier, right here at home. The National Guard makes men." And he added, "I want to congratulate you on the work you have done."

A rifle squad attack was demonstrated, with 2nd Lt. William N. Nunn describing their ability to advance in the face of machine-gun fire. The mock warfare was carried out with blank cartridges to create realism in the problem.

A colorful display of rifle grenades firing and mortar firing concluded the ceremonies officially designating the local unit as an armored infantry company. Under the direction of 2nd Lt. John Keeling 37mm recoilless rifles were fired sending flames into the air to light up the terrain. 80mm mortars were also demonstrated with illuminating rounds over Lake Monroe.

Witte's report said, "cucumbers led in volume the past week with pickle cucumbers bringing up to $4.35 a bushel and regular cucumbers up to $3. Tomato, eggplant and squash volume continue light, though should increase considerably in the next few weeks."

Director Lewis of the Florida Farmers' Market system said, "a slight optimism due to a slow upward price trend is noted in reports from market managers," as he summarized the various reports of the past week from markets over the state.

organizations." The catalog lists 37 films, several of which are in full color.

One of the films, "Family Affairs," portrays interesting everyday family situations centering around the use of the telephone in a busy household. Another, "Music in Motion," combines the beautiful music of Zino Francescatti, famed violinist, and the Bell Telephone Orchestra with a dramatic story of research in the field of sound. Another, "For Progress... Call Dixie," deals with Southern postwar progress and the part played by telephone service. Another, "The Translator," tells the dramatic story of the translator, mighty electronic marvel invented by the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

Also described in the booklet are many other movies as well as interesting lecture programs in which telephone personnel demonstrate communications and electronics equipment. The catalog describes several educational booklets on the history of the telephone, how the telephone system operates, and telephone courtesy.

Rothermel explained that persons interested in the movies, lecture-demonstrations or educational booklets should contact the telephone business office.

Bids Invited

lowest-salaried employees to approximately $100 for highest-salaried postmasters.

In addition to regularly employed personnel, the blanket bonding will cover all part time and temporary employees, including those employees put on temporarily for Christmas work. However, since the bonding is not effective until the start of 1956, it will not cover such temporary employees hired during this 1955 Christmas season.

The Post Office Department mailed the invitations to bid Nov. 14. Additional copies are available and may be obtained upon request, addressed to the Chief of Procurement, Post Office Department, Washington 25, D. C.

The new bonding arrangements are being made under authorizations provided in the new Public Law 323, which requires each Executive Department of the Federal Government to obtain surety bonds for such employees as are required by law or administrative decision to be bonded.

The law, which was supported by the Post Office Department, provides that the most economical type of bond available be procured through competitive bidding.

The Post Office Department pointed out, before enactment of the new law, that it has spent at least $300,000 a year to handle paperwork and other administrative costs incident to employee bonding, even though employees themselves paid the premiums.

The saving of this $300,000 will now go a long way towards paying the Post Office Department's premium for the new blanket bond, Summerfield noted.

PAUL M. BUTLER, Democratic national chairman, discusses election victories in local contests scattered across the country at a news conference in Washington. Butler saw the results as "definite evidence of dissatisfaction with the Republican Administration and its program." The Christmas Club, Tucker commented, is a method of saving for the individual looking forward to Christmas shopping. Some thrifty people will lay aside their Christmas Club money in further savings, but the bulk of the amount, said Tucker, will be spent with Sanford merchants for Christmas gifts.

Both Tucker and Bauman emphasized that as the checks for the 1955 Christmas Club go into the mail, the new Christmas Clubs will be opening at the same time. Said Tucker, "The Christmas Club is a simple, planned, easy way to save money for Christmas shopping."

According to figures released by both banks, a total of more than $20,000 will be mailed to Christmas Club members of the Sanford Atlantic National Bank while approximately $40,000 will go out to members of the Christmas Club members of the Florida State Bank.

These nominations were made from lists of eligible pictures and personalities submitted by all major producers in this country and the distributors of the country. The results were tabulated by the accountants and the leaders in each of the five categories were certified and printed on the public ballot.

Each theatre participating in the poll was asked to appoint a committee of local citizens to verify the count of its public ballots, and certify the results on a printed form which also will be sent direct to Price Waterhouse & Co. Theatres in remote spots will wire their results to the accountants for receipt before the deadline, midnight Nov. 10. The national tabulation will be kept secret by Price Waterhouse & Co. until sealed envelopes with the names of the winners are handed to the national chairman of the poll to be opened on the night of the awards ceremony.

"With these precautions," Manager Ruller said, "we are assured that the selections will be a true expression of the preferences of the movie-going public whose generous support has made the motion picture the greatest medium of mass entertainment."

Memberships Over Total Of Available Seats For Concert

"Memberships in the Seminole Mutual Concert Association now exceeds the number of seats we have available in the auditorium," Frances Roumillat, president of the local association said this morning.

"Phone calls and requests for additional memberships are being turned down now because of the lack of additional seating space," Roumillat said.

"There is an intense interest showing in the coming appearance of artists scheduled for Sanford in the three-concert series," he said. Cornelia Otis Skinner will appear here on the evening of Dec. 1, he said, and we are expecting a full auditorium at that time.

"The Dec. 1 concert will be held at the Southside School auditorium since the auditorium of Pinecrest School will not be completed in time for the first one," Roumillat stated this morning.

In commenting on the number of memberships, Roumillat said that 811 memberships have been sold and there are only 510 seats available.

"We are certainly well pleased at the response evidenced in this year's concert series," said the local president of Seminole Mutual Concert Association.

APME Opens Meet In Colorado Today

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Newspapers "provide the very essence of democracy" and "must get the news, however difficult it is to obtain," Coleman A. Rowell of the Nashville Tennessee told the Associated Press Managing Editors' Assn. today.

"Insofar as one newspaper in America fails in its responsibility, democracy is by that much weakened," Rowell said. "And the voice of democracy loses that much of its effectiveness every where."

His speech opened the annual meeting of the APME at the Broadmoor Hotel here. Rowell is chairman of the APME Continuing Study Committee. In this program, managing editors examine annually the reporting job of the Associated Press, seeking ways to help The Cooperative News Gathering Agency improve its service in its member newspapers and broadcasting stations.

The duty of newspapers is to be "strong and clear voiced" applied not only in national affairs but in "the hundreds and hundreds of city councils and school boards and tax lodges and other public groups throughout America," Rowell said.

"This entails getting and reporting the news as it occurs in 'human places,'" he said.

In this aim, he said, "we must look to our own papers as sharply as we look to AP" and "to the extent that we have kept in view this dual responsibility to APME, the year's work will have been successful."

The association president, Vincent S. Jones, Rochester, N.Y., executive editor of the Gannett newspapers, said the meeting brings to a climax "one of the most massive and monumental study projects" in the organization's history. It is, he noted, 120 members worked on a study of the Associated Press report.

"As working editors," Jones said, "we are interested in every phase of newspapering and we have tried to recruit distinguished specialists in the fields of defense and research in addition to have laid a heavy emphasis upon the 'how-to-do-it' of our own field for the broadest possible menu of shop talk."

Boy Alive After Being Clinically Dead For 2 Hours

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (AP)—Paul A. Abbond, 14, is alive today after being clinically dead for two hours 34 minutes—all because 18 "inoperable" persons were at Union Hospital to bring him back to life.

The youth, gravely injured Monday in an explosion of a propane gas torch, had been on the operating table less than three minutes when his heart stopped beating.

A surgeon immediately opened his chest and squeezed his heart like a sponge at the rate of 60 squeezes a minute.

The heart began to respond feebly in 40 minutes and the message was continued two hours 34 minutes.

During the crises, 14 pints of whole blood were transfused into Abbond and he also was given oxygen.

Dr. Eugene A. Gastos, Framingham surgeon, said of the operation:

"What we did was not remarkable. It has been done before in other hospitals. The miraculous thing is that all the experts are there to do it. At least 18 people who were indispensable were available for immediate action."

R. T. Milwee Tells Of Public Schools At Lions Luncheon

"Schools are big business," R. T. Milwee, Superintendent of Public Instruction in Seminole County, told the Sanford Lions Club at its noon luncheon meeting yesterday.

"Besides building the future citizenship of our county," Milwee told the local civic club. "The schools pour the amount of $77,500 per month into the economy of our county."

This amount, he said, is for instructive salaries alone and does not include the salaries of various personnel connected with our school system.

Milwee reported that there was an increase of 9.08% in enrollment in white schools and an 8% increase in the colored schools for the 1955-56 school year.

He also said that construction is being completed for new classrooms at several schools and beginning Jan. 1, 1956 there would be no doubt sessions in any of the county schools. The total enrollment of the county schools exceeds 8,500 pupils, he said.

Milwee stated that the new auditorium at the Pinecrest School will be completed and ready for use by Jan. 1. "This is the largest and most modern auditorium in the county," he said. The acoustics are such that any speaker or program being presented from the stage could be clearly heard in the back seats without the use of a public address system.

Superintendent of Schools Milwee urged that all parents and citizens visit these new school buildings and additions to our school system.

Kenneth Boyd Gives Notice Of Appeal

TAMPA (AP)—Kenneth Boyd, 30, of Miami, sentenced to five years by Judge L. A. Grayson in Criminal Court yesterday upon conviction of breaking and entering, has given notice of appeal.

It was in connection with this case that Judge Grayson peppered Dade County Sheriff Thomas J. Kelly last summer with complaints that Kelly was negligent in failing to serve a subpoena on the state's principal witness.

The witness, Shelley Kane, was located in New Orleans after it developed she had been in Tampa part of the period covered by Judge Grayson's complaints.

Miss Kane, a strip tease dancer, testified Boyd was a close friend and had told her he broke into the Perry Pipe and Salvage Co. here Kelly last summer in failing to serve a subpoena on the state's principal witness.

Blood Tests Scheduled

A partial list of places where residents of Seminole County can get their blood tested during the first two weeks of the County Health Unit's county-wide Blood Test Survey was made public by Dr. Terry Bird, County Health Officer, this morning. Four special health unit blood testing teams will operate testing stations throughout the county from November 17 through December 2.

Although the four teams will operate at more than 50 stations in the various communities throughout the county during this period, an effort is being made to place one of these stations within easy reach of every one in the county.

"An effort is going to be made in Seminole County during the next three weeks to speak about Diabetes and Syphilis in the language that everyone will understand and not in the language of the doctor, because the man on the street does not have to know all that the doctor has to know about these diseases," said Dr. Bird.

"If after a blood test and further diagnosis shows a person needs treatment, this can be had either from his own doctor or he Health Unit Clinic," stated Dr. Bird. "The program is aimed at finding and bringing to treatment persons who may have either of these diseases and are not aware of it," he said.

Dr. Bird feels that this is not a departmental but a community program, for unless the community cooperates in the control of these diseases, the Health Unit can do very little. "This program will be continued on page two."

FSU Will Place Fragment Of Armor On Exhibit Soon

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Florida State University soon will place on exhibit a fragment of Spanish armor which is a possible relic of an early 16th century expedition to Florida.

A 10-inch long scrap was found on a beach of the Choctawhatchee Bay in northwest Florida by Van Ness Butler of Point Washington, Fla.

Dr. Hale G. Smith, head of the FSU department of anthropology, said the armor may have been brought to Florida by a Spanish expedition headed by Pamphilo de Narvaez. The expedition was in the state at some time between 1514 and 1519.

The fragment has been given a date of no later than 1533. Harold L. Peterson of the National Park Service identified it as of probable Italian manufacture but said much Spanish armor of the period was produced in Italy or Germany.

Smith said the armor fragment, which might be part of a breast plate, "is the largest I have seen from Florida."

Nick Fallier Is Given Opportunity

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The Florida Game and Fresh Water Commission has hired as a wildlife officer a former employee of the state comptroller's office who was charged with stealing building materials.

Director A. D. Aldrich of the game agency said yesterday Nick Fallier had been hired from a merit system eligible list "to give him an opportunity to prove himself."

Fallier entered a plea of no defense last year in a charge of stealing building materials from houses under construction. A presentence investigation was made but he was never sentenced.

"We are quite familiar with Fallier's background," Aldrich said. "He came in and made a clean break of things and we liked his attitude."

Aldrich said the game commission had decided Fallier is worth taking a chance on and is "ready to give him an opportunity to prove himself."

Utility Department Gets Pickup Truck

A new Ford pickup truck was delivered today to the City of Sanford for use in the Utility Department, said City Manager Warren E. Knowles.

In the usual city color, yellow, the truck has been painted with the city's seal and the designation of the department.

The truck is a six cylinder, half-ton Ford.

Traffic Safety Report Reviewed By Patrolman

The annual inventory of traffic safety activities analysis report for 1954 was given last night at the Sanford City Hall when Trooper Chuck Saunders of the Florida Highway Patrol reviewed the lengths and complete record. Prepared by the National Safety Council, the analysis covered every phase of the traffic program in Sanford for the 12-month period of 1954.

Before City Officials, members of the Sanford Police Department, and citizens interested in the safety program of the city, Trooper Saunders made the annual report pointing out both the good accomplishments of the city's safety record, and the corrections needed to improve the city's record.

Stressing mainly the recommendations of the National Safety Council, Trooper Saunders said that it is suggested that a program be initiated with coordinated official action and public support to secure more complete reporting of traffic accidents.

The analysis recommended that a traffic engineering unit be established preferably under the direction of the department of public works, the city engineer or some member of his staff, to perform the functions of traffic engineering.

Covering the sections devoted to police traffic supervision, traffic engineering, school traffic safety education, public safety education, and safety organization were included in the lengthy and complete analysis of the city's safety and traffic needs.

Municipal Parking Lot Nearly Finished

More than 100 cars will be able to park soon in the new municipal parking lot located just off Commercial Ave. where the soft ball field was formerly situated.

Limerock is being placed on the lot now, said City Manager Warren E. Knowles, and should be completed with this part of the foundation possibly tomorrow. "We are planning on having the area graded by tomorrow night so that it can possibly be opened to traffic temporarily, Friday morning."

"In case of rain," said Knowles, "we would suggest that motorists not use the lot until it is fully completed since the limerock will be cracked everywhere."

The lot will have 22 foot roadways between the car lanes with 12 foot parking stalls allowing 3 feet between cars. "This will allow ten cars in open their doors wide and not bump into one another," said Knowles.

The old parking lot, combined with the new area, will park 235 cars. Entrance will be from the south end of the lot and the exit on Seminole Boulevard.

This is possibly the largest municipal parking lot in Central Florida, allowing shoppers and business people to park in wide stalls and as long as they wish in stay in order to complete their shopping or complete their working day.

Pressure Of Modern Day Education Big

ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—The pressure of modern day education is so great that it's cutting heavily into the time of school principals whose big job is obtaining improvement in instruction.

State School Supt. Thomas D. Bailey told supervising principals of the Florida Education Assn. yesterday that he felt instruction plans are good but regardless of how well trained teachers may be, no one can take the principal's place in supervising instruction.

Pressures on the principal include such things as making up budgets, public relations and extra-curricular activities, Bailey explained.

Such specialized tasks have forced the principal to delegate to others the improvement of instruction "which is the most important job," Bailey said.

"If we can't find time to work with our facilities I don't know what good can be accomplished for the children. The improvement of instruction is a good thing unless the principal is a party to it."

3 City Officials Return From Meet

The Mayor, City Manager, and City Attorney of Sanford returned home yesterday following the election of Oliver J. Semmes Jr., Pensacola City Manager, as president of the Florida League of Municipalities, at their annual meeting in Jacksonville.

Mayor Denver Cordell, who took part in a forum Monday night, City Manager Warren E. Knowles, and City Attorney William C. Hutchinson Jr. went to Jacksonville for the meeting.

In other elections, Arvoh Popkins, Tallahassee city manager, and Claude Smith, Jacksonville city commissioner, were added to the board of directors.

Fort Lauderdale was chosen for the 1956 convention.

Resolutions were adopted asking federal legislation permitting municipal bank underwriting of municipal revenue bonds; and adopting the legislative program of the national Municipal Assn.

Patrick Healy Jr., of Washington, executive director of the national group, said the state league could be the most powerful political organization in a position to do Florida most good if it secures voter backing for clear policies and makes these known to legislators.

Last night Gen. Mark W. Clark told the league the Russians are "merely giving us an anesthetic" with their smiles and spirit of Geneva talk.

DeBary Resident Winner In Contest

The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company has notified the local store in Sanford that one of the winners in the Firestone $100,000 Prize Contest was registered here.

Mrs. Mary L. Rupp of DeBary won a Firestone 17-inch television set. She is the wife of a retired Army Officer and they have been living in DeBary for 3 years.

One thousand one hundred entries were made at the local store, officials said.

Notified of the television set, she received, Mrs. Rupp said, "I was so surprised I could hardly believe it."

Brazil's 5-Day-Old Polity Might Be Faced With Crisis

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil's five-day-old government was faced with a possible new crisis today when Gen. Goulart returned from sick leave and is to take back his old job as president.

Close friends said he is so far recovered from his heart attack Nov. 3 he may be ready to resume the presidency as early as Nov. 18. Others said he may wait till later.

Under the constitution, he is entitled to end his sick leave and take back the office when he chooses, but if and when he does he will run into the opposition of the same military forces that ousted his temporary successor, Carlos de Luz, in a coup last Thursday.

Luz was ousted because, his opponents charged, he and his associates planned a coup to prevent President-elect Juscelino Kubitschek from assuming office Jan. 31. These opponents now charge Goulart with the same charge as Luz.

The gravity of the situation was reflected in the publication of a front page editorial in the influential morning newspaper Correio da Manhã demanding Goulart resign or be impeached. The paper suggested that as an alternative Goulart could continue on sick leave and stay under his oxygen tent until his term expires in January.

Company Is Told To Discontinue Use Of Pull Card Device

WASHINGTON (AP)—A money-back guarantee the Federal Trade Commission ruled today, is no longer to be a charge of promoting the sale of merchandise through a lottery.

As a result, it ordered that the City Sales Co. of New York City, discontinuing supplying its agents and distributors "pull cards" to aid in the sale of jewelry, eyeglasses and similar products.

The company's "pull card" device, the commission said, listed 40 items of merchandise ranging in price from 16 to 88 cents. Each tab on the card, when pulled, revealed the name and price of one of the items, which the buyer then was to purchase.

Some of the merchandise was worth more than the price on the tab, some less, but the commission said, induced purchasers to try their luck for the bargain items.

And even though the company gave the purchaser the privilege of returning the article if he was not satisfied, the commission said that does not "remove the element of chance which alone determines the item of merchandise to be received."

The company had argued that the notice to purchasers that they need not buy the merchandise listed on the tabs had removed one of the essential elements of a lottery, that of chance.

US Moving To Head Off Long General Assembly Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States pressed today for quick Security Council action on applications of 14 nations for U.N. membership in a move to head off a long General Assembly debate.

The call, which received British support, prompted hurried consultations among council members to fix a meeting date. Informed sources said the Hamilton body might meet early next week.

But it also touched off an emergency caucus among the 22 nations sponsoring Canada's proposal to admit all 14 applicants including discredited Outer Mongolia.

The sponsors declared that the Canadian plan—which was reported to have the support of 42 countries despite U.S. opposition to Soviet-backed Outer Mongolia—should be the subject of general debate before the council acts.

The U.N. Special Political Committee is scheduled to take up membership next week. But if the council acts first, debate will probably be unnecessary as the question might be settled beforehand by vote.

The United States has said it will not use the veto on any of the 14 Soviet-sponsored applicants. But it has made clear it will abstain, particularly on Outer Mongolia, whose qualifications it questions.

Russia has threatened to turn thumbs down on all 14 non-Communist nations if Outer Mongolia fails to make the grade.

The other applicants are: Albania, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Ireland, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Ceylon, Jordan, Nepal, Libya, Japan, Austria, Finland, Laos and Cambodia.

Collins Declines To Make Comment

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Gov. Collins plans no action in a Lake County racial controversy he isn't saying today.

The governor told newsmen who inquired about the matter yesterday he had "nothing for publication" to say.

Collins has declined to comment on a telegram from J. W. Hunter of Tallahassee asking him to provide state protection for the Allen Platt family.

Hunter is attorney for the Platts, who contend they are of Irish-Indian ancestry.

Lake County Sheriff Willis McCall had caused removal of the Platt children from white schools on the ground they had Negro blood. The Platts recently won a circuit court ruling under which they may send their children to white schools.

Last Friday night an attempt was made to set the Platt home on fire. Hunter said McCall had indicated he would not protect the family and asked state aid.

McCall said he had no plans to guard the Platt home and that he would appreciate anything Collins could do "to help the situation."

Wouk Believes TV Offers Opportunity To Hopeful Writers

NEW YORK (AP)—Herman Wouk, one of the best and most successful of younger American writers, believes television offers a great opportunity to the learning writer.

The author of "The Caine Mutiny" and the new best-seller "Marjorie Morningstar" had just finished reading the TV script of "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" the other day when cornered for an interview. That stage success by Wouk, based on his novel, comes to CBS-TV next Saturday evening as the third "Ford Star Jubilee" show of the season (9:30 p.m., EST). The hour and a half drama has most of the original Broadway cast.

"The heart of the play is intact," Wouk said of the TV script. "Charles Laughton did a skillful editing job. I approve it whole heartedly."

Wouk, who wrote radio scripts for Fred Allen and Henry Morgan a decade and more ago, has not written for television.

"Television is a marvelous opportunity for the learning writer," he said. "He's able to support himself while he learns his profession because television eats up so much material. Its fame is small, but technically it gives a writer the chance to develop competence without starving in a garret. . . ."

"If a man's ultimate aim is to be a serious literary artist, and not just to make money, the disciplines imposed by television are as useful as any I know to help him achieve his goal."

The big financial returns that come to some TV writers will not necessarily deflect the serious writer from his eventual artistic goals, Wouk believes. "How a man takes to financial success depends on his temperament."

Wouk knows, because he has been blessed both by success and an even temperament. As he modestly puts it, "Success always has seemed partial to me." After the popular reception of "The Caine Mutiny," there was, as he dryly explains, "a big area for my doing absolutely nothing."

Mayfair Inn Open Will Be Big Drawing Card To Our Community

Have you ever thought of the impact four thousand people a day for six days can have on a community?

We've spent several hours jotting down figures and as yet it isn't possible to reach a definite conclusion as to just what such a crowd can do to a community.

It is going to be the pleasure of Sanford and Seminole County to have the average of four thousand visitors a day with us during the six-day PGA tournament, brought to Sanford by the Mayfair Inn, and right-fully called the "Mayfair Inn Open".

A $15,000 dollar tournament is something to be boastfully proud about for it is one of the biggest in the country and equally as large as the tournament held at Miami each year.

Central Florida can now boast of a REAL golfing center right in the center of Florida when the Mayfair Inn Open becomes an annual event with all of the big names in golf-dome taking part.

The Mayfair Inn Open will draw golfers from all over the state will meet Amateurs from all over the area in a gigantic Pro-Am tournament. The Mayfair Inn, under the management of Frank Mebane Jr., is going all out to make the Mayfair Inn Open one of the biggest events in Florida. They have met no odds when it comes to preparing for the tournament. Not only will there be big names in golf in Sanford, as well as the many names in professional and amateur golf in Florida, attending the tournament, but some of the biggest names ever to hit the baseball circuits will be in Sanford to take part in the annual Mayfair Inn Open.

Certainly the impact on Sanford will be one of tremendous force. As many, or even more, as four thousand enthusiasts will visit us to follow the players, to see the stroke by stroke play along the fairway and green.

This is a gigantic example of just how the City of Sanford and one of its biggest industries can work hand in hand to make the community we live in world known.

Datelines beginning with SANFORD will be read around the world for days before the tournament gets underway and for days after the last golfer has left for other scenes and other tournaments.

We stand to profit in more ways than one. That's just the way the officials of the New York Giants great organization think too. Merchants will be realizing greater sales, more profit, and the wheels of merchandising and selling will be turning over faster than ever before.

We're proud of the great strides being made now by the Mayfair Inn and its new manager, Frank Mebane Jr.

A local man who knows the value, the broad scope, and the possibilities of Sanford and its area, is back at the helm of one of Sanford's big industries, The Mayfair Inn. We can see the results already.

Sanford and Seminole County are growing, along with the broad visions of those who lead, and with those who have faith in what can be done here.

Name Our New Lake!

For some time now, a certain lake, pond, pool, or what-ever it may be called, has been lying idle with only a bit of grooming taking place now and then to make the collection of water more attractive.

We thought that it might be quite nice to give the Sanford newcomer a name.

So far, there have been no names submitted to the City of Sanford for the lake, or pool, or body of water, that is located in Fort Mellon Park, just east of the Tourist Club area.

We think that it would be quite appropriate for the people of Sanford to name the body of water made necessary by the need for fill dirt to take care of a portion of the huge sewer project just recently completed.

The most popular name, of course, would be the one most appropriate.

Now might be the time to bear down with letters to the Board of Sanford City Commissioners with names for the new pond. The more, the merrier, and the greater amount of interest too.

We would be pleased to see a mail truck roll up to the Sanford City Hall loaded with mail bags containing nothing but suggestions for the lake's new name.

What do you think it should be? The longer it lays in the park with no name, the longer it will take folks to become interested in our new land mark. And rightfully it could become one of those points within the city that can be pointed to with, "you know where it is, down by the lake on First Street."

It would be fun to guess just what the new lake will be called. We'll put our guess in a sealed envelope and open it up after the dedication ceremony. It may be that our names will come out on top with the folks supplying the suggestion.

Be sure to send your name to the Board of Sanford City Commissioners, City Hall, Sanford, Florida.

Let's name the lake!

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE
"Thanks be to God, who in Christ always leads us in triumph, and through us spreads the fragrance of the knowledge of him everywhere."— II Corinthians 2:14.— It is relatively easy to join the Christian Church. It is quite another matter to commit oneself completely to the head of the Church, and to work diligently at the task of translating into action God's purposes as they are revealed in Christ.

Loyalty To Party Is Demanded Demos

GAINESVILLE (AP)—Strict loyalty to the party is demanded of Florida's Democratic candidates and office holders by the Democratic State Advisory Committee.

The group, composed of one state committeeman and one county committeeman from each congressional district, adopted a resolution last Sunday which said:

"All Democratic nominees and office holders in the state of Florida should be called upon and encouraged to actively and aggressively support all Democratic nominees, both local, state and national in the 1956 general election."

Party Loyalty has been an all-time issue with organized Democrats since 1952 when President Eisenhower carried the state.

U.S. Sen. Edmund L. Musk was criticized by some Democrats for not going all out for Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Some Democratic delegates are being urged to support both candidates.

should ask the party what it wanted instead of forcing the state committee to beg.

"I'll never be happy until Democrats have to be Democrats and Republicans have to be Republicans," he added.

The committee voted to draft a Democratic state platform after the spring primary election.

State Chairman James Milligan of Orlando was given authority to select the date and site of a full committee meeting which under the law must be held in January of every even numbered year.

Milligan said there had been suggestions that the meeting be held in one of the counties where Democratic nominees can be expected to face still Republican opposition.

The public meeting followed a secret caucus Saturday night. The caucus Florida congressional delegation, Gov. Collins and state Cabinet officers sat in.

The caucus decided to set up a permanent state Democratic headquarters at Orlando and budgeted $2,000 for its operations.

JAMES MARLOW GOP Had Two Good Sales Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republicans had two good sales talks on the 1956 election: President Eisenhower got a truce in Korea and helped create the "spirit of Geneva." One of them is melting fast.

The Republicans, unless fighting begins again, can still point to the truce. But the Geneva spirit may have disappeared into never-never land. It has pretty disappeared after the Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

Eisenhower, at his July meeting with Soviet Premier Bulganin, said something of "great benefit" to mankind might come of it. And the Russians talked of the "spirit of mutual trust."

Mutual trust is what the foreign ministers showed the least of at their present meeting, which was supposed to be the first big test of the Geneva spirit.

And the "great benefit" to man-

HAL BOYLE Pushbutton Era Starting In Hotels

NEW YORK (AP)—The pushbutton era is just starting in the hotel industry — but what a glorious dawn!

It promises a golden time a-coming when the weary wayward traveler will be less dependent on the sometimes frigid hospitality of an officious desk clerk, or the tired courtesy of an overworked bellhop.

In the electronic age now coming to flower, a hotel guest will be able to lie in bed and by pushing a series of buttons in a panel accomplish the following things:

Summon a valet without having to go through the switchboard downstairs.

Order fresh ice and glasses or the morning newspaper, which will pop into the room via a pneumatic tube.

Lock or unlock the door.

Turn the lights off or on through out the room.

Dictate business letters at night and find them typed and ready for signature at his bedside in the morning.

Control the temperature and humidity in the room—and determine what the weather is like outside.

Open or close the window shades.

Get the latest radio news or watch a television program in the panel of one of the walls.

Set a clock that will waken him with soft chimes at any hour he chooses.

Protect him or any other guest against fire. An automatic alarm will detect and signal the location of fire anywhere in the hotel.

These pushbutton servants on a bedside console are just a few of the revolutionary gimmicks designed by the Minneapolis Honeywell Regulator Co. and shown here at the recent convention of the American Hotel Assn.

Another time-saving idea was an electronic brain device called the computer center-registration desk.

Some of its possible functions: automatic registration of guests, assignment of rooms, transmission of mail and messages to guests, and computing of bills.

The machine can even make change. It probably could be taught to "think you" too—except who even dreams any more today of being thanked when he pays a bill? Most people today are afraid if they get all their fingers back.

But desk clerks and bellhops need have no fear that the spread of automation to the hotel field will wipe out their jobs. The completely automatic hotel might be a technical possibility, but it isn't in the cards now.

"Hotel men tell us the personal touch is a big factor in their business, and they don't want to lose it," said W. T. Grove, an official of the regulator firm who helped pioneer many of the new gadgets. "The guests like the personal touch too."

But there may be fewer opportunities for bellhops to make so many personal touch in the hotel of the future.

A guest often has to cross three palms with silver now just to get into his hotel room: the hotel doorman, who unlocks the bag from a cab; the bellhop who carries it to the registration desk; and the bellhop who ferries it from here to the room.

Grove thinks moving belts will ferry baggage upstairs automatically. "There were fewer than 100 hotels built in America or the whole world, for that matter, between the depression and the end of the second world war," he said. "That doesn't include motels, of course."

"But a hotel building boom is on the way now. Many of the pushbutton improvements already developed will be found in new hotels now on the drawing boards, and a lot more are coming."

All a veteran traveler hopes is, they'll improve everything but the Gideon Bible. It's fine as it stands.

A HOLLYWOOD HAM lollied in front of Mike Romanoff's exclusive bistrot nibbling on a solid gold toothpick. Spotting an old associate, he promptly put the bite on him for a hundred clams. "Fine spectacle," jeered the old associate. "Trying to borrow money while you stand here looking like a fashion ad toying with a solid gold toothpick!"

"That's Hollywood," sighed the ham. "A guy's got to keep up appearances."

In Hawaii, chickens are known as "walking egg plants." And there's one bookstore in Honolulu that orders books by the pound. "Send us ten pounds of 'The Caine Mutiny' read one of their requisitions." This is a relic of war days when all imports to Hawaii were strictly rationed by weight.

"Fine state you're in last night," jeered a Yale sophomore to his roommate. "You were so pickled you sold the Tuft Medal for five dollars."

"No," marvelled the roommate. "What did I buy it for?"

The supposedly sober soph admitted, "I did."

OFFICER NAMED
PONTE VERIA BEACH (AP)—Rabbi S. N. Mashaieff of Miami was elected president of the Florida State Cemetery Assn. yesterday. J. E. Nelson, Pensacola, and Elaine Howell, Tampa, were named vice presidents; Clifford S. Coffin, Daytona Beach, secretary; and J. Vernon Woodruff, Jacksonville, treasurer.

Tips On Hand Care And Coffee-Drinking

IF you have brittle nails, it might be a good idea to add gelatin to your diet, according to a report made by two doctors in Bridgeport, Connecticut.

Dr. Kurt A. Oster and Saul Rosenberg prescribe 7 gm. of gelatin powder daily in milk, water or fruit juice. This, they say, often decreases fragility of the nails within a few weeks.

Most of the patients tested reported great improvement at the end of three months.

Wearing Rubber Gloves
Rubber gloves protect hands that are busy around the house or in the shop. However, if you have hand eczema, chances are you might not be able to wear them with ease.

For many persons, even wearing cotton gloves under the rubber ones does not help. Apparently the chief cause of this irritation is accumulated perspiration coupled with the moist cloth.

Here's a tip: Dust oatmeal powder on your hands before donning the gloves. Tests indicate that this makes them more comfortable to wear.

Like coffee? Well, go ahead; drink as much as you want. If you're in good health, excessive coffee drinking probably won't harm you.

Generally, minor difficulties caused by caffeine, such as headache, insomnia and nervousness, disappear when you stop drinking coffee. But these effects may prove harmful if you're suffering from nerve, heart or intestinal disorders.

And excessive use of coffee is bad for anyone suffering from peptic ulcers, since caffeine stimulates increased gastric acidity. Ulcer victims want to avoid that condition at all costs.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
W. T. P.: I am sixteen years of age and have had difficulty gaining weight, although I eat heartily at mealtime. Would the fact that I smoke a great deal interfere with my gaining weight?

Answer: Insulin has been used quite successfully in many cases as an aid in increasing weight. These injections must, of course, be administered by a physician.

It is possible that if you reduced the amount of smoking you do, or eliminated it entirely, you might gain some weight.

Miss K. Henninger Talks To Circle On 'Palm Weaving'

The Rose Circle of the Sanford Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Charles Wilke Friday morning with co-hostesses as Mrs. James Trull and Mrs. O. L. Parks. Miss Kay Henninger was guest speaker.

After the reading of the minutes Miss Henninger gave a talk on "Palm Weaving". She illustrated the details of weaving with green palms. "The finished product can then be used flat as a vase for flowers," she said "particularly hibiscus molded into different shapes."

These will stay green for some time but will later turn to a greyish green which may be brightened with "Plant Shine."

A discussion of the flower show followed. Mrs. Charles Brumley will arrange a table, "Christmas At Home". Mrs. Wilke is in charge of shadow boxes for the Junior Garden Club.

Mrs. A. W. Epps, Horticulture chairman, gave a detail report on her visit to the DeLund garden club meeting, which had four professors from Gainesville on the program.

She also described the lovely new Ginger Lily.

Clue To Woodruff's Future May Come Out Of Board Meet

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — A clue to Jacksonville Coach Bob Woodruff's future at the University of Florida may come out of a meeting of the Board of Control at Tallahassee tomorrow and Friday.

Sports Editor Bill Kastelski of the Florida Times-Union pointed out the possibility in his column today. He wrote:

"It is customary, when a coach's contract has but one year to run, to give him an extension if the intention is to retain him beyond the span of the contract. Recruiting problems, as well as contracts with assistant coaches, are involved."

Woodruff's contract runs out after the 1956 season. Kastelski said it "is easy to sympathize with the Board of Control in making any decision."

"Much pressure is being brought to bear upon the board to retain the present coaching setup—both from within and without the university."

Kastelski continued that the present setup is described as a great "character builder."

"It undoubtedly is," he said but added "it is not too much to ask that the character builder also be able to produce a winning football team."

"Woodruff was hired as a coach who could produce a winning team. Hence, the seven-year contract at $17,000 per season.

"Florida is spending as much money on its football team as any university in the country. If the followers of Florida football are entitled to know if they ever can expect a championship team—or if they will have to settle for character."

Fred Kent, chairman of the board, said a substantial number of persons had suggested a coaching change but denied the board had considered the matter. Woodruff called Hendrix, allegations "vicious rumors" and university and alumni officials spoke out in support of the coach.

J. Norris, A. Weill Have Dispute Today

NEW YORK — Jim Norris and Al Weill, the two most important men in Rocky Marciano's life clashed openly today.

Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, which has produced all the heavyweight champion's fights, said Marciano shouldn't be touring the country refereeing bouts. He should be getting ready for a February title defense Norris said.

Weill, the Rock's manager, told Norris, in effect, to go jump in the lake.

The argument was significant in that the IBC's exclusive contract with Marciano ran out recently and hasn't been renewed. Under it, the IBC held rights to promote all the heavyweight champion's fights, either by itself or in conjunction with other promoters.

"For the life of me, I can't see this," said Norris. "It doesn't make sense."

Norris wants Marciano to make his next defense in February in stead of waiting until June as announced by Weill.

What does Weill think? "I'm still the manager of Rocky Marciano—the only manager he's got," he snapped. "This is not barnstorming, but a good will tour."

"As for rocky fighting in Feb-

Newcombe Arrives To Talk Contract With Buzzy Bavasi

BROOKLYN — A scowl on his face and a chip on his shoulder, big Don Newcombe arrived in town today to talk contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"I'm asking for $30,000 and that's exactly what I'll settle for," snapped Newcombe, apparently still bitter over the 12 1/2 per cent cut he was forced to take last year.

Brooklyn Vice President Buzzy Bavasi was the unlucky official assigned the task of talking to Newcombe, a fellow who was armed with some imposing statistics.

He compiled a 20-5 record last year, hit .359, hit seven home runs to break the National League record for pitchers and went 21-for-22 as a pinch hitter for a .381 mark.

"I expect a fight and I'm not backing down one bit," he continued. "I'll sit it out into the spring if I have to. When you have a lousy season, they give you the ultimatum. I had a good season. Now I'm giving them ultimatum."

Last season Newcombe got $17,500, a $2,500 comedown from the figure he collected in 1953. "Bavasi practically threw me out of his office last year," said Newcombe. "He told me then that if I didn't take the 12 1/2 per cent cut, he'd keep sending me contracts calling for $10,000 less each year until I got the full 25 per cent they're allowed to give you."

"Before the college had a lot more money at stake and would have to seriously consider if the players voted not to go to the bowl. Now the squad doesn't have to vote. They belong to a conference and it's automatic."

P. Young, Spieser Meet In 10-Round Bout At Stadium

CHICAGO — Paddy Young lunged to take another step into the ranks of the light heavyweights against Chuck Spieser tonight in a 10-round bout at Chicago Stadium.

Spieser, 27, of Lansing, Mich., Young, 24, a New York slagger, received his education in the school of hard knocks.

Chuck will be out to better his record of 10 victories and 3 losses. Young is the more experienced of the two. He has won 48, lost 11 and had 3 draws.

ABC will telecast at 10 p.m. EST.

Kaline Is Picked Sophomore Of Year

BALTIMORE — Al Kaline, a modest and never very talkative youngster, had only one thing to say when told yesterday he had been picked as the American League's Sophomore of the Year.

"I'm very happy."

It was quite a speech for the brilliant young Detroit outfielder who led hitters in both major leagues with a thumping .349 average.

He batted out 37 homers, drove in 102 runs and was the only major league to collect 200 hits. He was noted by members of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America who selected him.

Kaline said he was particularly flattered that he had been compared to Ted Williams and Stan Musial in the announcement.

"I haven't given that a thought," continued Weill. "He needs three or four months to get in condition."

Jim Swink Named Associated Press Back Of Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Jim Swink of Texas Christian, latest of the many storied backfield acts to emerge in the Southwest Conference, today was named the Associated Press Back of the Week.

If the 61, 180-pound junior half back from Rusk, Tex., had any detractor she did a great job of sending them sprawling last week end in his one-man show against Texas. The Horned Frogs, closing in on the Cotton Bowl, didn't need any more than Swink to bring the ambitious Longhorns back to earth.

It was a 47-20 half game and Swink acted across for four touch-downs. Only one was commonplace, coming on a 1-yard plunge. The others were true Texas spectaculars — with Swink swinging along on runs of 62, 57 and 23 yards. In 15 plays, he piled up 235 yards—the top one-game total of the season for major college play. Among other things, he also boot-

Michigan Will Play Ohio State For Big Ten Championship

CHICAGO — Michigan and Ohio State will meet for the Big Ten football championship Saturday but it might well turn out to be a battle between Ohio State's Howard Cassady and Michigan's Ron Kramer and Tom Maestri.

While Coach Bennie Oosterbaan lauded his two great ends to Chicago football writers via telephone yesterday, Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State was equal in his praise of Cassady. He called him the "greatest football player I've ever seen."

Oosterbaan said he has never seen two greater ends than Kramer and Maestri on one team.

The Wolverines need Saturday's game to clinch the Big Ten title and a trip to the Rose Bowl. A loss or a tie would give Ohio State the title and allow Michigan State to represent the Big Ten in the New Year's game at Pasadena.

Hayes praised his team for its great comeback after losing to both Stanford and Duke and still being able to move towards a title game against Michigan.

"We were being compared to the great 1954 Ohio State team," Hayes said. "But our boys worked hard and managed to improve. The signing point was the Wisconsin game (Ohio State 21, Wisconsin 16) where we were considered a team that could go on or we own."

"We've been accentuating our strength and minimizing our weakness," said Hayes when asked why his team didn't pass more often. But, he added, "wait until Saturday to see if we can prove it."

Hayes said All America backs can hurt a football team because of publicity, but he refused to place Cassady in that category.

"He's the greatest. He takes publicity in stride and gives you the best he has," said Hayes.

Bobby Courchesne Likes To Fight

NEW YORK — If you ever saw Bobby Courchesne, a 26-year-old Holyoke (Mass.) featherweight, you know he must like to fight.

He showed that familiar nod for battle Monday night at St. Nicholas Arena while winning a majority decision over Miguel Torres of Puerto Rico. Two judges voted for Drew Callaway and Referee Pete Delis called it a draw.

Lupino On Way To Another Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Double Jim Swink, NCAA Service Bureau statistics showed today. Lupino's collar 200 yards against Montana last weekend while Swink broke down mark of the season—single game mark of the season—against Texas. Swink, also with two games left, has a 1,086 total.

Lupino, a 5-9, 170-pound junior for 1,196 yards to maintain his lead by 20 over Texas Christian's runner La Jolla, Calif., won the crown last year with 1,359 yards. Right now, he's only 78 yards short of the two season record set by Rudy Mobley of Hardin Simmons in 1942, '46 and but 25 behind the high for two consecutive years (2,496) by Howard Waugh of Tulsa in 1951-52.

Lupino also is the biggest work horse of the season, driving in on 1st plays. Next comes Stanford's Billy Tetz with 133. Swink has made only 114 trips, but his 9.2 yards a try average tops the leaders.

Ohio State's Howard (Hopalong) Cassady is third among the rushers with 412. Only Lupino (138.3) Swink (125.8) and Cassady (101.5) have averaged 100 or more yards a game.

Navy quarterback George Welsh again tops the total offense list with 1,675-57 ahead of Tennessee and 77 up on Swink. Welsh, however, has only one game left, and that against Army.

With two games left in the football season, Lupino has rushed ed two conversions, giving him a total of 28 points for the game as TCU handed Texas its worst conference whipping of all time.

TCU Coach Abe Martin, who's had to come up with new adjectives for Swink each week, didn't have any doubts that it was the "greatest exhibition of ball carrying I ever saw."

While Coach Bennie Oosterbaan lauded his two great ends to Chicago football writers via telephone yesterday, Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State was equal in his praise of Cassady. He called him the "greatest football player I've ever seen."

Oosterbaan said he has never seen two greater ends than Kramer and Maestri on one team.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions
 THIS is the time of year when your family begins to think about heavier meals, after the lighter fare of summer. Why not usher in the new appetite season this Sunday with a New England hotbed dinner, suggested by the A & P Service For Home-makers? Recipe serves six.
 Place three pounds corned beef and three cups water in deep well cooler of your range or in a Dutch oven on other range. Bring to boiling point, lower heat and cook two and one-half hours. Cut a yellow squash into slices. Cut six carrots and six potatoes in halves. Cut one head cabbage into medium-sized squares.
 Remove corned beef from hotbed and place vegetables in meat stock. Cook 45 minutes to one hour. If there is enough soup, meat should be placed on top of vegetables to keep them while vegetables are cooking.
 For dessert try something new—a meringue slice pie. Place eight cups chopped green tomatoes in a saucerpan and add just enough water to cover. Cook 30 minutes. Drain off juice thoroughly and add the following: four cups raisins; one and one-half cups sugar; one teaspoon salt; one teaspoon cloves; one teaspoon cinnamon; one cup raisins and three tablespoons butter or margarine. Continue to cook until mixture thickens (about 30 minutes). Cool and pour mixture in an 8-inch pie shell. Cover with a top crust and bake in medium oven 30 minutes.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

THE DOOR opened and Besse Kibbee came in carrying a big tray. Lois hastened to clear off the table.

"That's too heavy for you," she protested.

"Clyde took Paula for a drive and that Joe is never where you want him." Besse removed covers and Lois saw lamb chops, creamed potatoes and peas, hot rolls and mint jelly, a tossed salad and lemon pie. There was also a frosty cocktail shaker.

"Shandy fixed it," Besse explained. "Said you used to like bacardi cocktails. Know what? It's the first time Shandy has gone anywhere. He came over, all dressed up. It takes Jane Brindle to work miracles. If only Albert would see her—"

"She seems nice."

"Jane is just plain good," Besse declared. "No one like her. But she's Albert's blind spot. I can't imagine what got into him. Yes, of course, I can too. It was Roger. And when Roger was concerned—"

She mopped her face. "You all drink and eat while it's hot. And drink your cocktail right away."

"There's too much for one person," Lois exclaimed. "Won't you join me?"

"I've got dinner to fix for Albert and Clyde and I've asked Paula to come. Carol's going out. But I'll sit a spell. No telling when the youngsters will get back." She sat down while Lois poured a cocktail and refused one for herself. "Albert can't hardly wait to talk to you. But there's one thing, Mrs. Fleming; Albert's a saint himself, you'll find that out soon enough, and he sees people in a kind of unworshipful way. Roger was no angel, whatever they'll tell you around here. He was lusty. He liked women. Carol would scold me for this, but he was nothing more than a chaser. He liked to drink, though he tried his best to keep people from finding out."

Slipping the ice-cold cocktail with the tang of lime, Lois blessed Shandy. Tired from her engrossing reading, her mind was at rest and did not follow Besse closely, though she watched her with interested eyes, a trick she had learned in dealing with "authors" who had what she termed circular minds, which surrounded a point straight to it. She had to interrupt, not to focus, no to hurry often out of the ramble of invaluable information she obtained only by indirection.

"Albert," Besse went on, "is a dreamer. He creates things in his own image and believes they are true. He's just too idealistic for a practical world. Sometimes I think he'd been better off if he'd spent as much time making himself up as he did Roger. Say what you like, Albert made Roger. I always thought so; I always will. But now it's time for the dead to bury their dead and for Albert to give some thought to the living. Right now I believe he's thinking more about Roger than he is about his own son. Of course, he hardly knows Clyde yet, and he—but it takes time to get to see anyone's good qualities, I always say. Clyde needs love; he needs to be important to someone. And the only girl around is Paula, who doesn't know he's alive. Girls who go chasing after men—

"Well, dinner still to get and Clyde will want some shirts ironed before tomorrow. Never a free moment." She nodded to Lois. "But I guess you're the smart one. When I came in I was betting you'd be hard at work. Well, sometimes I think the clinging vine's better off. I don't know. We have to be what we are, I guess."

After dinner, Lois lighted a cigarette and went out onto Roger's walled terrace. She was so steeped in his work that his presence seemed to inhabit the place still, filling the big chair in front of the table, walking in this small cleared space which he had had to fence off to obtain privacy. A friendly ghost but an uneasy one.

When the sun set the air became too chilly for comfort and she went indoors, pacing restlessly up and down the room. In time she discovered that she was really cold and slipped on a sweater. She felt oddly disturbed. Not about the work itself. There was ample material for four colorful articles. What disturbed her was the man who refused to stay dead, whose presence was so palpable in the room. She remembered how the impression of his head had remained in one of the down cushions when she first arrived. And the frame of the couch had a bullet hole in it.

That was what was bothering her then. Might as well take it out and look at it. Something was wrong here. Not just the bullet hole. After all, as Shandy had pointed out, no one had been shot. There were all kinds of innocent explanations for bullet holes. But none of them took into account Ethel Hattery's smashing the windowpane or Shandy's removing the bullet in that surreptitious way.

She plugged in the electric heater and in a few moments felt warm, more relaxed. But not at ease. She found herself fidgeting, moving uneasily. Something about the cottage made her nervous. Surely, she chided herself, she wasn't so superstitious that she feared the place because Roger Brindle had died there. It was the unexplained windows that made her feel insecure, as they do most women. But no one was looking at her. Nervous, the doctor had said. Nervous. She needed a rest, that was all.

She glanced at her watch. I must go to bed, she told herself, but she made no effort to move. The windows were becoming an obsession. No one was outside. No one could be.

By an effort of will she forced her attention away from them. But someone had stood outside one of the windows recently and fired a bullet through the glass. Someone who got up and went over to the couch. She found the hole near the top, a small hole that she could cover with her little finger, the hole that had so fascinated Joe Hattery a few hours earlier.

She stood in front of the couch, her hands thrust into the pockets of her sweater, her lip sagging in a frown. Attempted murder? But Roger Brindle had not been shot. No one had been shot.

It didn't make sense. She took the cushions off the couch and found the mechanism that opened it into a bed. She undressed quickly, pulling over her head the shift on nightgown Aunt Barbara had sent on her birthday. It fell over her head in a filmy cloud of accordion pleats. Indecent, she thought, but becoming. A gown like this is wanted on a widow. Those windows! A little more of this and I'll run screaming up the hill to Shandy.

She unplugged the electric heater, switched off the light, opened the window. And heard a dry twig snap.

Someone is watching me, she thought, she jumped back from the window, her heart thumping, groped her way to the front door and the Dutch door to make sure they were locked and climbed into bed, pulling the covers over her. A wooden animal, an opossum perhaps, that was all it could be.

She turned on her side, trying to drive her uneasiness away by planning tomorrow's work. I must write Mignonette about Jane Brindle, she thought. I wonder why I wasn't told about her. What ended that wonderful marriage? Roger never loved Carol as he did Jane. Is it true that Carol is trying to drive her niece away from the house? What became of the woman Shandy planned to marry? Why does he distrust me? Catechism was unprepared, he said.

"This woman, she was going to forget the whole thing, put aside the night's fun which, she knew by experience, were unrelaxable. She was going to sleep."

Two hours later, still staring unblinkingly into the darkness, she thought, "But it was you I married!"

Pate Will Become 21st Commandant Of US Marine Corps

WASHINGTON, (AP)—On Jan. 1 Randolph McCall Pate will don the four stars of a general and become the 21st commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps.

In all its 100 years the corps has never had a C.O. quite like Pate.

Ever since Col. Archibald Henderson, considered by some to be the father of the modern corps, hung a sign on his door in '36, "out to fight Indians," the traditional portrait of a commandant has been pretty well established.

It has been a man who early won honors on some bloody battlefield, a crusty man with a ramrod for a backbone and a powder bag where his heart should have been but who, was withal, a gentleman.

Pate, 57, is a gentleman and there the comparison ends. Neither by combat record nor by disposition is he the hell-for-leather type. Even among troops, he swears as sparingly as he sips a nightcap at a party. And for most of his career, the six-foot, sandy haired general has been an administrator and planner.

In an outfit where Navy crosses, Silver Stars and, especially, Purple Hearts abound, Pate has none. But he does hold the Army's Distinguished Service Medal and two Legions of Merit.

In all his 34 years as a Marine he has never led any unit smaller than a division in combat. Nearly all Pate's career has been as a staff officer.

This is not to say that Pate hasn't seen combat—and there is a fine distinction in the corps. He landed on Guadalcanal Aug. 7, 1942, as the First Marine Division's logistics officer.

Guadalcanal, a crab ridden island of sword grass, jungle, bare knolls and coconut palms, was nearly the death of Pate. He contracted jungle rot—skin ulcers—and was ordered off the island in October.

After the war Pate got the job of rebuilding the Marine Reserve. He was kept busy on planning until May 1953, nearly three years after the Korean fighting started. Then he was ordered to Korea to take over the First Division from Maj. Gen. E. A. Pollock.

Pate is by nature a quiet and compassionate man. When one of the hand I of Marine POWs passed there to greet him, Pate was taken of every reticence and sent to his next of kin.

In those dull days after the war," one of his officers related later, "Pate was deeply concerned with the welfare of the Korean people. He gave as much time as he could to visit the desolate villages to find ways the Marines could help. He was extremely proud of the assistance projects the Marines undertook."

In those days, too, Pate became irritated at the injury rate among was nothing to see the two star general come roaring after a jeep cowboy to hand out a ticket personally.

In addition to being an ardent fisherman, Pate, is a student of military history, a pretty fair golfer and an almost professional woodworker.

Until World War II came along he had the normal peacetime Marine hours of duty—Santo Domingo, China and Hawaii. He served for long periods as an instructor and was instrumental in prewar days in evolving the Marines' amphibious techniques.

MORE READY NEEDED
ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—Systematic reading instruction soon may extend into the college level, a reading consultant predicted here.

As it is, more emphasis on reading is needed in high schools, Dr. Stella Center, Pinellas County reading consultant, said.

She asked Florida high school principals at a conference yesterday help stop a reading gap now existing in secondary schools.

Bruce G. Bond Has Formed SOLACE

NEW YORK (AP)—There comes from Bruce G. Bond of 7 College Ave., Arlington, Mass., a communication so literate, thorough and interesting that you pick up the phone and call Bond immediately. Bond on the telephone is as persuasive as Bond by mail.

Bond, like all of us, is of the grassroots of television viewers and radio listeners. Despite the contention of some cynics that nothing grows from the grassroots but grass, much of America listens slyly to the small voices from the roots.

Bond, an army veteran, a statistician, a graduate of Boston University and the author of an unpublished book on political theory, has given up other pursuits to devote himself exclusively to the study of TV and radio commercials. He has formed an organization called the Society of Listeners Against Commercial Emphasis, which he aptly names SOLACE. This is Bond speaking:

"SOLACE is a nonprofit society, formed this summer to unite the many individual listeners whose single complaints have little or no effect into a strong demand for a return to normalcy in home entertainment. Our object is not to destroy commercial entertainment. We want to bring it under control and help it be responsive to customer demand.

"Claims that there is a code are vague and varied, compliance is voluntary, and it is honored by nonobservance. The straitjacket of government control seems less desirable in this country than the united voice of the people concerned."

The Television Code of the Na-

Newly Covered Workers Will Need Social Security

Over 1,000 farm operators in Orange, Lake, Ocoola, Seminole and Sumter Counties have already indicated they expect to pay one or more hired hands at least $100 in cash wages during 1955. Paul K. Weaver, district manager of the Social Security Administration, Orlando, announced today.

Employer identification numbers for those farmers have been assigned, and they have been put on the mailing list to receive social security tax return forms for their employees about Jan. 1. This means that the farm employer, who has such employees, is withholding two percent social security tax from the cash wages he is paying his employees. During the month of January, he will complete the tax return forms, showing the name, the social security number, and the wages paid each employee who was paid $100 or more in cash during 1955. Along with this information, he will forward his check or money order for four percent of his wages shown on the return. This four percent represents the two percent that he has previously withheld from his employees and the two percent that he contributes himself.

Coverage for farm workers is based on annual earnings. Weaver continued. It is necessary for the farm operator to keep a record of the earnings of each employee he expects to pay cash wages of $100 or more. No elaborate book-keeping system is necessary, but the farm operator should keep a record of the name, the social security number, the payments to the employee of cash wages for agricultural work, and the amount of the employe tax deducted.

Newly covered farm workers will need social security cards. Workers can secure these cards from the local social security office. A worker who has had a social security number issued him at any time since 1936 should apply for a duplicate if he has lost his original card.

Weaver suggested that any farm operator who has not already done so, should contact the District Director of Internal Revenue, Jacksonville, or his local social security office, in order to be sure of getting needed information if he has hired hands to whom he expects to pay $100 or more in cash wages during 1955.

Star Betty Blythe Says Today's Film Idols Dog-Faced

HOLLYWOOD — The trouble with today's film idols is that they're dog-faced, says Betty Blythe, a movie star before many of them were born.

Miss Blythe was one of the stars of the silent screen, her most notable role being "The Queen of Sheba" in 1921. She knew how it felt to be world famous, then to fall from favor. Having recovered from the death of her devoted husband, director Paul Scardon, she has returned to acting.

She made her return on last week's Video Theater over NBC-TV. She paused to make this observation about today's leading men:

"It's too bad that they're dog-faced. They have pug noses and square faces, just like dogs. They may be good actors and have rugged qualities, but I always look for beauty in actors. I think they should be pleasant to look at, the way they were in the silent days."

"We had them then. Men like Ramon Novarro, whom I discovered for films. And Ronald Colman, who was an extra in one of my pictures."

On the other hand, she admired present-day film queens for their freedom.

"They can do anything they want; I think it's wonderful," she remarked. "They can wear blue jeans in public or staves on their heads. Nobody cares."

"When I was working for Sammy Goldwyn, he would never allow me to appear in public unless I was the height of elegance. Now I longed to hop on a Fifth Avenue bus and take a ride! But it would have been unthinkable to mingle with the public."

What happens when a top star falls from fame? Miss Blythe, an attractive, lively woman of 52, was frank in discussing this.

"Suddenly the curly-headed, cute face of Clara Bow appeared on the screen," she said. "The Vamp was banished to make way for the good."

The change came swiftly, she said. At the height of her career, she went to Europe to make films. She also appeared at London's Coliseum breaking the record of the Russian Ballet.

"I was booked in for two weeks and stayed 12," she recalled.

When she came home after two years' absence, a columnist pointed, "The Queen of Sheba has returned to Hollywood. Why?"

Between 1918 and 1922, she earned as high as $1,500 a week. In the year following her return, she didn't make a picture.

Miss Blythe returned to the stage, then joined her husband on a turkey ranch at Fontana, Calif. They lived there for 24 years and she gradually learned to forget that she was a movie star.

Highest scoring being football teams in the Ivy League have been Princeton and Yale. Princeton bowed to Penn in 1940 by 48-28 while Yale in 1948 lost to Columbia, 14-22.

Information For Veterans

Here are authoritative answers from the Veterans Administration to four questions of interest to former servicemen and their families:

Q: Two years ago, a friend of mine applied for disability compensation. VA asked him to report for a physical examination, but he failed to show up. He hasn't been in touch with VA since. Now his disability has started to bother him, and he wants to reopen his claim. How should he go about it?

A: Since more than a year has elapsed from the time VA asked him to report for an examination, he will have to file a new application. If VA approves his claim, payments will be effective as of the date of his new application, not his original one.

Q: As the widow of a World War I veteran, I am receiving a VA pension. I also am receiving Federal Old Age and Survivors' Insurance based on my husband's former employment. Are the latter payments considered income for VA pension purposes?

A: Yes. The payments must be considered as income in computing your total yearly income for VA pension purposes.

Q: During my active service, premiums on my GI term insurance policy were under waiver. I recently was discharged, and I decided to reenlist within 120 days of my discharge date. Will my premium remain under waiver during my new period of military service?

A: Yes. So long as you returned to active duty within 120 days after discharge, VA will continue to waive your premiums during your new period of service.

Q: I am taking a four-year law course at night under the Korona GI Bill. It's at an accredited school. Will this be considered full-time or part-time training?

A: It will be measured as not more than three-quarters time

'Telephone Santa' Needs Kid's Help

WEST LEBANON, N. H. — The "Telephone Santa" is in trouble, kiddies, and he needs your help.

"Santa" is a jolly gentleman named Joseph Schambler, 38, who the last six years has talked with youngsters all over North America.

Each day of Christmas week from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. in past years children could call the "North Pole" and to the accompaniment of a music box, the tinkles of reindeer bells and the peal of a 100-year old bell, Santa would listen to their pleas for presents.

Last year the Associated Press carried a story telling of Schambler's Christmas program. Once the story appeared in print Schambler got so many calls he couldn't keep up with them all.

Seventy-five thousand youngsters attempted to phone him, but only 25,000 succeeded.

The crush of calls tied up service nights in parts of New Hampshire and Maine. The New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. assigned additional operators and installed a bigger switchboard at the control point in nearby White River Junction, Vt., but busy signals still greeted two out of every three callers.

Schambler, a 5-foot-4, 125-pound veteran, administration clerk, wants to talk to every boy and girl this year. Here's what he's going to do:

He's going to open his "workshop" Dec. 9, and the local VFW post and neighbors are going to assist him in compiling a list of the boys and girls who "wanna talk to Santa."

Here's what he wants you kiddies to do:

training. It may not be considered as full-time training. (Veterans living in Central Florida who wish further information about their benefits, should write the VA office at 42 E. Central Ave., Orlando.)

Drop him a postal card addressed to Joseph "Santa" Schambler, 32 Maple St., West Lebanon, N. H.

On the card write your name, address, and telephone number. Tell him the day or night and the time you want him to call you and tell him if it's okay to reverse the situation. Do it now so "Santa" will receive your card in plenty of time.

This year, instead of thousands of calls pouring into West Lebanon, many at the same time, "Santa" himself will place the calls.

The telephone company would like to help out, but there just aren't enough lines up at the "North Pole."

There's only one more thing "Santa" wants you kids to remember. Tell mommy not to use the phone at the time you've put down for "Santa" to call. You know how women are once they get on the phone and "Santa" would hate to get a busy signal when he tries to reach you.

HEARINGS WILL BEGIN JAN. 16
ORLANDO — Gov. Collins' citizens committee on migratory labor problems will begin hearings at Belle Glade Jan. 16.

"We're going right to the field to get our answers," said Rep. Emmett A. Roberts of Palm Beach County who was elected chairman of the 15-man group here yesterday.

The committee will study problems caused by migrant laborers who follow the crops from region to region. There have been complaints about living conditions available to the migrants and about delinquency among their children.

Diplomatic Service Is Exciting Career

Girls who yearn for exciting careers couldn't do better than enter the diplomatic service, says Frances E. Willis, U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland.

"I can't think of a more rewarding life for a woman," says the tall, blue-eyed Miss Willis. "We have had more and more young women coming into the foreign service since the last war. The only trouble is that they usually don't stay with it long—they get married."

In New York on a special advisory assignment for the U.N., Miss Willis is enjoying one of her few opportunities for an unhurried look at her native land since her first foreign assignment with the State Department 27 years ago. She makes it a point to come home for Christmas every year. Says she:

"Our diplomatic service offers a wonderful career for women as well as men. But it takes a special kind of temperament. You have to be willing to pull up roots every couple of years and start all over again in a different country. You have to be interested in the people around you, and you have to have a certain dedication to your job."

"A college girl aiming for a foreign service career should study history—not only the history of other nations, but particularly the history of her own country. American history is the best groundwork I know for any kind of government job."

"She should have a least one language besides English and be able to speak it fluently. And she should study political science and international law."

"After all this, she can learn the rest of the job only by experience. For you can't learn human relations in a classroom. And dealing with people is the most important part of any diplomat's job."

A high point of her current home visit is Ambassador Willis' selection for the 1951 Award for Lifetime Achievement given annually by the American Woman's Assn.

Although she is the third woman to represent the United States as a full Ambassador to another country, Miss Willis is the first to achieve this distinction by working her way up through the ranks of the foreign service.

Born in Illinois, she took her Ph.D. at Stanford University in California, taught history at Goucher College and political science at Vassar before entering the foreign service with an assignment as vice consul at Valparaiso, Chile, in 1928. She served in Sweden, Belgium, Luxembourg, Spain and Finland before being appointed Ambassador to Switzerland in 1953. Her home town is Redlands, Calif.

Stong Demo Influence Developing

JOHNSON CITY, TEXAS. — From a political base deep in the hills of Central Texas, a strong influence is developing to present the Democratic Party to the voters in 1956 as a "party of moderation" which rejects extremes.

This base is the ranch home of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson whose heart attack in July has not stopped him from charting in his convalescence the broad outlines of a course of action for his party in the months ahead.

Johnson is lean, tanned and fit. He seems to be almost bursting with an energy which he tries to control while regaining his full strength. All the medical signs point to his return to active duty as the Senate majority leader when Congress convenes in January.

At first glance, his ranch on the Pedernale River would seem an unlikely place for the evolution of a movement which—if successful—would have the end result of placing the "moderates" in firm control of the 1956 Democratic National Convention. This could nudge the liberal and conservative "extremists" (as they are being called) to the party's outer fringes.

The ranch has become a sort of watering place for Democracy leaders who don't just chance to find their way there while wandering through the mesquite and the wind-travelled cedars. Despite protestations of "no politics," there is an electric air of politics about the place, perhaps generated by Johnson's own vitality.

His friends believe the emphasis on moderation would strengthen the party's chances by appealing not only to the great bulk of Southern Democrats but also to the party's "moderates" in other sections who lean toward a middle-of-the-road path. Thus the base of appeal would be far broader than anywhere, a sweeping victory in 1952 any sectional alignment.

They argue that president Eisenhower reflected the temper of the nation and the people's desire for a steady course neither too far to the right nor too far to the left. In its fundamentals the course they favor would roughly parallel the Eisenhower course in the sense of avoiding extremes.

These friends insist Johnson is seeking no sectional coalitions or alignments. But they concede that in taking the leadership in a move toward moderation, Johnson may become a rallying point for the "moderates."

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) already has said it is a "reasonable assumption" that Western and Southern Democrats may join forces on a presidential candidate and platform in 1956. And then he added he would not discount the possibility that Johnson "might become a figure around whom Southern and Western Democrats could rally."

What effect would such a development have on the choice of a nominee? Would it become an effort to stop Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 nominee, or Gov. Averell Harriman of New York?

Johnson disclaims any interest in stopping anyone and Southern politicians generally agree it's too early to say what might happen.

Talk of Johnson going to the convention as Texas "favorite son" candidate has touched off speculation that he may have reached some sort of accord with Gov. Allan Shivers. It was Shivers who led Texas into the Eisenhower camp in 1952 and he is now fighting for control of the state's delegation to the national convention.

The Shivers fight is against the "loyalist" liberal Democratic forces led by House Speaker Sam Rayburn who in turn is regarded generally as Johnson's political mentor in Washington.

Some political observers see the Johnson Shivers Rayburn agreement on a national committee as an effort to bring the party factions back into some kind of working agreement before the national convention.

Texas newsmen speculated freely on this situation after the "liberals" raised $30,000 last summer for announced grass roots campaign to whip Shivers in the convention; a campaign manager was hired; then the money was turned over to the Democratic National Committee and talk of an all-out drive against Shivers subsided.

Whatever the top level strategy may be behind the maneuvers in Texas' internal politics, the fact remains that Johnson is in a key position both at the state level and at the national level.

Spotlight On Hollywood

NEW YORK. — "I've never been happier in my life."

That's what Marilyn Monroe said, and it appeared to be true. She smiles readily and talks excitedly about her interest in acting, plays, books and living in general. She also indicated she was ready for romance.

"My divorce decree (from Joe DiMaggio) became final — finally," she remarked. "I haven't been going out. But now — who knows?"

Marilyn's day in New York begins early.

She spends much of her mornings observing the classes of Lee Strasberg, the dramatic coach whose pupils included Marlon Brando, James Dean, Julie Harris, Shelley Winters. She also attends classes at his actors' studio.

"I do all kinds of roles," she said.

But so far no Shakespeare. She reads Shakespeare, however. I asked her which plays of his she liked.

"She wandered and then smiled, 'no comment.' She added: 'I'm not going to get into the same thing did with 'The Brothers Karamazov.' She was aware of the vast amount of kidding she received for expressing a desire to do that Russian novel on the screen.

"It didn't bother me," she commented. "I knew they hadn't read the book. Or if they had, they had forgotten it."

"Actually, it would make a wonderful movie. Samuel Goldwyn himself told me that. I'll take his word for it."

When she isn't studying dramatics, Marilyn often will prow around the museums and book stores. She enthused about a metropolitan exhibit of Goya, her favorite artist.

"Don't the crowds bother her?" "Not terribly," she said. "I have a few disguises that work pretty well. I won't tell you what they are, because that would give me away."

She reads a great deal, is now plowing through James Joyce's "Ulysses." It's a novel that baffles some college professors, but Marilyn said it makes sense.

This past year in New York has come faster than any she can remember, she said. She left no doubt that she intends to remain a New Yorker for some time to come.

Sultan Yousseff Returns To Palace After 2 Year Exile

RABAT, Morocco. — Sultan Sidi Mohamed ben Yousseff today returned to his palace after a two year exile. An estimated 100,000 Moroccans swarming around the walls shouted a thunderous welcome.

The 41-year-old Sultan landed from his special plane shortly before noon and drove through an unparalleled Moroccan welcome to his palace. He stepped from the plane amid flowers thrown by young girls as a dozen escorting French fighter planes swept overhead.

Almost every prominent dignitary among Moroccans was on hand for the climactic ending of the exile which started two years ago when the French whisked ben Yousseff away because of his Nationalist leanings.

On his return, French troops and an honor guard saluted smartly. In the tumbrel atmosphere, violence was just beneath the surface but the initial critical moments apparently passed off well.

Dulles Expected To Arrange Trip To Far East Soon

WASHINGTON. — Secretary of State Dulles, returning from Geneva tomorrow, is expected to start arranging promptly a trip to the Far East.

Its primary purpose, it was learned today, would be to attend a third meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization Ministerial Council. The date would come sometime during January, February or March.

A site will have to be selected for the early 1956 meeting.

The eight pact members—United States, Britain, France, Philippines, Pakistan, Thailand, Australia and New Zealand—would work this out through diplomatic exchanges in the normal order of making arrangements.

The Ministerial Council will receive and set on reports from military economic and subversive activities committees.

In 48 World Series games Brooklyn has been involved in 19 one-run decisions. The Dodgers lost 11 and won 8.

Home Repairs Do's & Don'ts

WOOD SCREWS
DO... remember that, while nails are easier and faster to use and cost less, screws have about 2 1/2 times the holding power in softwood and about 4 times in hardwood.

DO... select a flathead screw when the head is to be flush with the surface or countersink below the surface.

DO... use an ovalhead screw when it is desired to countersink half the head below the surface.

DO... choose a roundhead screw when you want the entire head to be above the surface.

DO... in joining two pieces of wood, drill a hole in the first piece of wood equal to the diameter of the screw and drill a hole in the second piece much smaller than the screw diameter.

DON'T... drive a screw home with a hammer, a procedure that causes the screw to lose a large part of its gripping power.

DON'T... ignore the principle of drilling pilot holes for screws in hardwood unless you want to risk splitting the wood and to make it very difficult to drive the screw.

DON'T... forget that the screwhead will be damaged by using a screwdriver tip that is damaged by using a tip that is too wide.

DON'T... neglect to use what are called finishing washers when the screws hold material that must be unfastened periodically.

Kiwanians Have Ladies Night

Patrons Of Ritz Theatre Will Vote For Personalities

One of the most interesting features of the National Audience Awards election being currently conducted through Nov. 27, in which patrons of the Ritz Theatre will participate, is the selection of the most promising new male and female personalities.

Thousands of aspiring actors and actresses storm the Hollywood studios each year for tests, said Herb Roller, manager of the Ritz Theatre here. Relatively few are signed to contracts, he said, and only a small percentage of these reach stardom.

High cost of film production makes directors reluctant to cast new faces in stellar roles because of the uncertainty of their acceptance by the public. This audience election, Manager Roller said, will give directors a clear-cut indication of what new persons have public appeal.

Mosquitoes demand new faces. Casting directors, therefore, are alert for new talent. Since, however, casting directors are not infallible, public expression of its choice among the new personalities is expected to bring to light the hidden potential of many new players and thus accelerate their rise to stardom.

Collins Says Track To Have 'New Look'

LONGWOOD—A vast program of improvements and additions is virtually complete at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club where Jerry Collins, well-known racing executive has taken over as new operator under a 20-year lease agreement.

Collins says the track will have a "new look" when the 96-day meet opens Dec. 26. Central Florida racing fans can get a preview of the modernized plant during schooling races which will run for two weeks starting Dec. 12.

A full crew of workmen will be kept busy putting on the finishing touches before the 1955-56 campaign swings into action, but the major jobs have been completed at this early date.

The changes include a new odd-board on the backstretch, a new rabbit rail, a completely new racing strip which has been widened and raised almost two feet, a new judge's stand atop the grandstand together with a new photo finish camera booth, a new lightning system both on the track and in the grandstand, a new public address and intercom system plus a complete redecorating and refurbishing job on existing sections of the plant.

Collins makes no effort to hide his pleasure over the results of the sweeping alterations, commenting, "I'm proud of the way things are taking shape, and I believe the fans are going to like it."

The District Governor of Kiwanis International, Florida District, spoke last night at the annual Ladies Night celebration of the Sanford Kiwanis Club.

Thomas W. McElvy, vice-president of the Hava-Tampa Clear Company of Tampa, with a 26-year membership in the Kiwanis Club, told an audience of nearly 200 that "you get heartwarming assurance when you see Kiwanis service come in contact with the real need."

Introduced by Lt. Gov. Ralph Austin Smith, McElvy praised the local club for its activities. "I know that I am on the sunset side of my year as your District Governor, but I like to praise those who have done exceptional work in carrying out the Kiwanis plan of service."

Speaking on the aims of the Kiwanis Clubs throughout its international organization, McElvy told the Parish House audience, "Since October 12, 1951, I've seen a lot of Kiwanis in action. You get thrills and inspiration out of that service that will come from no other source."

Attending the Sanford Kiwanis Club's Ladies Night event as guests of the local club were Russell A. Cole, of the Downtown Orlando Club, and his wife; Carol Cristman, of the St. Cloud Kiwanis Club, and his wife; and William L. Wright, of the New Smyrna Beach Club, and his wife.

Seated at the head table were Thomas W. McElvy and wife, Ralph A. Smith and wife, Rupert Strickland and wife, Roy Brewton, El Lane and wife, A. L. Wilson and wife, P. B. Burgess and wife, and Roy Mann and his wife.

The annual event was climaxed with entertainment staged by Ed Lane. He introduced Julie Byrd and Pat Collins, who danced and sang their way through an unusually enjoyable portion of the evening. Bill Worth entertained with songs, and Bryant Harrison maintained the laughs with his imitations. Friends of the group accompanied the group.

With the testing of John W. Meisch, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, the Seminole County Blood Bank Test Survey was officially launched today. The survey, which is being conducted to detect cases of diabetes and syphilis among persons who are not aware of their conditions, will continue through Saturday, Dec. 3.

On the first two days of the survey the blood testing teams will be in operation at various points in Midway, Canaan, Rowland Park and in Lake Monroe from 4 p. m. until 8 p. m. Saturday, Nov. 19, the survey will be in operation in Sanford with testing stations set up on South Sanford Ave. and on West 13th St. from 10 a. m. until 5 p. m.

Everyone in the county is urged to take advantage of this wonderful opportunity to find out for sure about his health at no cost to himself during this blood test campaign.

Motorists Make S-D Day Successful

Florida motorists are the people who can make Dec. 1 a successful S-D (Safe Driving) Day and without their help all the appeals will fail by the wayside, declared State Highway Patrol Director H. N. Kirkman today.

Kirkman made the statement as he appealed to motorists to join the second annual one day nationwide drive, urging drivers and pedestrians to take it easier on their legs toward the hospital and the graveyard.

"We will have with us two kinds of drivers and two kinds of pedestrians on Dec. 1, the same as every other day in the week."

"The careful motorist and the don't-care wheel nut behind the steering wheel; the ten types of pedestrians, will be there too, the quick and the dead."

"So, while it behooves us never to pass up the opportunity to appeal to you to save your life, nationally, we have set aside Dec. 1 as the day when we beg just a little harder."

Earlier, in an appeal, Gov. Collins said: "The purpose of S-D Day is to show that motorists and pedestrians can reduce traffic accidents by their own actions and that if accidents can be reduced on one day, they can also be reduced on every day of the year."

So, the veteran Patrol Director laid these suggestions: Observe strictly all traffic regulations; be courteous to drivers and pedestrians alike; and give full attention to driving and walking.

"In other words," said Kirkman, "drive and walk the way you'd want others to drive and walk."

Florida's Sale Of U.S. Savings Bonds Increasing

October continued the year's trend of record breaking purchases of U. S. Savings Bonds, according to W. A. Patrick, Chairman of the Seminole County Volunteer Savings Bonds Committee.

"Sales in Florida were $6,030,942, an increase of 22 per cent over last year and the highest sales for the month since 1948," he reported, "and brings our state sales to $24,676,686 for the year to Oct. 31."

"While Florida sales amount of reaching its quota of $75,000,000 with 80.7 per cent of it all ready in and two months still to be reported," Patrick added, "national figures, according to prior years' sales patterns, are falling somewhat short of the 45% billing objective set by the Treasury for 1955. About $50 million of additional sales will be needed to reach the national goal, Patrick said."

"We have had stable prices for the past three years, the over-all cost of living showing less than 1 per cent fluctuation," Patrick pointed out, "and are now enjoying the highest level of personal income in history, and we hope the American people will put away in Savings Bonds enough of their earnings to meet the Treasury's needs."
