HOPEWELL, N. J., Apr. 2.—(A.P.)—The month-old police search for the kidnaped Lindbergh infant shifted swiftly across the Atlantic yesterday as other intermediaries continued their work in the United States.

Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, deputy superintendent of New Jersey state police, sailed yesterday on a mission "the nature of which we cannot reveal at this time," Col. H. Norman Schwarzsopf announced.

Speaking from the home of the Charles A. Lindbergh, Colonel Schwarzsopf, chief of the state police, refused to explain the significance of the trip other than to say that Major Schoeffel was in New York City yesterday on the major's failure to confirm the Mauretania had elicited the information that a man registered as Carl Scheffer was understood to be going to Scotland Yard in London for an unexplained purpose. The ship is due in Plymouth Monday.

Detectives Seeking Persons Who Stole Culbertson's Plan

NEW YORK, Apr. 2.—(A.P.)—Private detectives were out yesterday trying to learn for Elmer Culbertson and his National Bridge Association how diagrams of 16 "secret" hands played last night in the world bridge Olympics fell into the possession of speculators and others.

Culbertson, though perturbed, issued a statement saying that he would profit by advance knowledge of the hands since they would be bid against his and only he and members of his organization know that par.

The diagrams were sent out to press captains, who were to hold them secret until the moment of play tonight and then were to take up hands from them and give the hands to the players.

The private detectives were employed by Robert Murray, secretary of the National Bridge League. One of them approached Louis Joseph Vance, author, in the Union League Club and failed to get any "lead" from him.

Vance, an acknowledged enemy of Culbertson, who with Madeleine Kerwin resigned from the Culbertson Club because Culbertson was elected, and who again with Madeleine Kerwin charged the atmosphere during the Culbertson-Kerwin challenge match merely by their behavior, made the charge that the diagrams could be bought from Broadway speculators.

Smoot Sees Delay Of 2 Weeks Before Tax Bill Is Okeyed

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2.—(A.P.)—After a conference with President Hoover, Senator Smoot, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee said today he had expected the opinion that it will take nearly two weeks of hearings before a House tax bill will be placed before the Senate.

Acting Chairman Crisp, of the House Ways and Means Committee filed Apr. 11 on the day to open hearings on legislation for a full cash payment of the income tax. "Personally I am opposed to paying at this time the 50 percent surtax on veterans certificates," Crisp said, "but we promised advocates of such a bill a hearing and they will be given an opportunity to present their case."

Secretary Stimson, of the State Department will sail next Friday to assume his position as chairman of the American delegation at the Geneva disarmament conference. He plans to remain there only long enough for a brief survey of conditions and then return, leaving Hugh Gibson, American Ambassador to Belgium, to assume active chairmanship of the American delegates.

Tariff Bill Passed In Both Houses May Get Hoover's Veto

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2.—(A.P.)—Headed for a veto, the Democratic tariff bill to revoke the president's authority to make changes in import duties was passed yesterday by the Senate.

With the old Democratic Independent Republican coalition again in command, the bill was approved 42 to 30 and sent back to the House which yesterday had passed it in different form.

Despite the certainty of a presidential veto, the Senate spent more than a week debating the measure with a view to making the tariff a campaign issue.

The bill passed by the Senate is known as the Harrison substitute for the House bill Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, was instrumental in its drafting. It provides that findings of the tariff commission shall be forwarded to Congress by the President with his recommendations, but shall not become effective until legislation has been enacted carrying it out.

Under the present law the President can make changes in rates recommended by the tariff commission within certain limitations. The House bill provided that recommendations of the tariff commission would be effective automatically within 60 days unless Congress took action to prevent them. The bill also calls for creation of a "consumers' council" to represent the public in cases before the tariff commission and requests the president to call an international conference to lower tariff and other trade barriers.

He was manager of the Curtiss airport at Valley Stream and the Glen H. Curtiss airport at North Beach.

With Edward Ortega, of Valley Stream, he started from the North Beach airport at 2 P. M. in a six-passenger monoplane to fly to the Valley Stream airport. The motor failed when the plane was about 100 feet off the ground, it glided to the edge of the field and turned over as it struck the ground.

Rogers died 30 minutes later. Ortega suffered a fracture of the collar bone.

City of Sanford won its first trial case of the recently passed ordinance prohibiting the sale of milk, cream, or milk products produced outside Seminole County on the streets of Sanford, unless pasteurized in this county.

CITY WINS TEST CASE RELATING TO SALE OF MILK

Municipal Judge R. W. Ware, sitting in judgment of the case of Jim C. Ficken, white driver for the Datsun Dairies, Inc., Orlando, who was arrested on Feb. 23, charged with selling pasteurized milk in violation of the ordinance, fined Ficken $25 after listening to arguments of S. A. B. Wilkinson, his counsel, and Fred R. Wilson, representing the City.

The hearing was held before a crowded courtroom at the old City hall yesterday afternoon. Several local and out-of-town attorneys were reported to have been present.

Other cases tried yesterday included the following: Martin McClelland, white, charged with drunkenness, who was fined $4.50.

Charles Burke, charged with drunkenness, who pleaded not guilty but was fined $5.

Leahm Hanner, charged with being drunk and disorderly, who pleaded not guilty but was fined $6.00.

Thomas Bryant, charged with speeding, he pleaded guilty and was fined $2.50.

At a special hearing on Wednesday afternoon, Judge Ware disposed of three charges against John McGruder, white produce salesman living at 113 Palmetto Avenue.

McGruder was charged with making threats, being drunk and disorderly, and driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

He was fined $5 on each of the first two counts, but the fine was later suspended.

He was fined $100 on the last count, with $50 suspended on condition that he does not appear in court on a similar charge for six months.

HOUSE PASSES HUGE REVENUE BILL FRIDAY

Senate To Discuss Act Which May Result In Government Paying Own Way Next Year

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2.—(A.P.)—The House ended three weeks of battle in a jovial mood yesterday and passed a billion dollar revenue bill designed to put the government on a self-supporting basis in 1933.

As sent to the Senate by the overwhelming vote of 327 to 84, it provided new revenue of $1,032,400,000 on the basis of Ways and Means Committee estimates and $97,400,000 on those of the treasury department.

COUNTRY CLUB HEADS RESIGN FROM OFFICES

Surrender Lease On Property, As Asked By Commissioners

The resignation of all officers of the Sanford Country Club, Inc. formed in December 1928 for the purpose of fostering and encouraging golf in the City of Sanford and of taking the responsibility of operating the city's large investment at the golf course, is in the hands of the Sanford Commissioners today, and the lease has been returned to the city.

The action was taken at a meeting of the officers of the club at the office of A. C. Fort, chairman of the House committee, yesterday afternoon, and met the unanimous approval of each official and director.

It followed the reading and general discussion of a letter from the City Commission requesting that the lease you have for the operation of the Sanford Municipal Golf Course be surrendered to the City as of the 31st of March.

It was drawn upon motion of H. M. Papworth, seconded by J. C. Hutchinson, that the "Sanford Country Club, Inc." accede to the City's request as per its letter of Mar. 29, 1932, and surrender that certain lease between the City of Sanford and the Sanford Country Club, Inc., dated Jan. 6, 1929, as of the date, Mar. 31, 1932. This motion was unanimously carried.

Upon motion of Mr. Papworth, Leon LeRoy and A. T. White, who have acted as president and secretary since the organization of the Club, were extended a vote of thanks "for their sincere efforts in behalf of the club."

Officials spent considerable time discussing related matters, and arranging for the immediate surrender of its corporate charter, so that it becomes non-existent upon its surrender.

Present at the meeting were: L. L. LeRoy, A. T. White, J. C. Hutchinson, Harry Papworth, and Allan Stewart, officials and directors. The following directors were present by proxy: Frank Evans, Frank Meisch, John Ludwig, Roy Symes, and R. Melling.

The charter of the Sanford Country Club, Inc., was granted on Dec. 8, 1928, and the lease with the City was signed on Jan. 6, 1929.

SCOUTS ASKED TO MEET AT CITY HALL SUNDAY

Scoutmaster Edward Overlin this morning issued an order that all Boy Scouts in this city are to appear at the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce office tomorrow at noon, in full uniform.

The Scouts will act as traffic policemen during the running of the outboard motorboat races on Lake Monroe, and will assist city and county police in maintaining order.

GENEVA PRESERVES ARE ORDERED BY RAILROAD

An Indication of the wide scope of business done by a Seminole County industry is seen in the fact that yesterday afternoon shipments were made from the Wakefield Preserving Co. plants at Geneva, of orange products to 17 different cities in eight states, including Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Illinois, and Tennessee.

The concern has also received its fifth order for preserved fruits and jellies from the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, making a total of 650 dozen, or 7800 jars, an average of one order every three weeks since Dec. 15.

The first order the Wakefield's received from the railroad came, it is believed, as the result of a letter from the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce to the Dining Car Department, calling its attention to the high quality of this county product, and soliciting its business.

BORDER OFFICERS SEEK MURDEROUS BANDIT TRIO

EL PASO, Apr. 2.—(A.P.)—Border officers today instituted a search for three bandits after they had killed seven members of a Berino, New Mexico dairyman's family in a savage raid.

Mequadio Espinosa, 60, said the trio opened fire on his family as they were huddled in the kitchen, when he was unable to meet their demand for "that five thousand you got when you sold your cattle." He denied the sale.

Espinosa escaped death by dropping at the first shot and feigning death. The bandits ignored his blind mother and his sister-in-law who had fainted. Officers said they believed the three were Mexicans who lived on this side of the Mexican boundary.

SLIM DURING LAST WEEK

Only two cases of alleged law violation appeared before the county courts during the past week, according to records at the office of Judge J. G. Sharon, and Justice of the Peace D. F. Herndon.

In Judge Sharon's court, Sylvester Wade, charged with intoxication, drew a 60 day sentence, while Willis Sutton, charged with assault and battery, also drew a 60 day jail term.

Justice Herndon reported no law violations recorded on his books, declaring the week to have been "one of the quietest I've ever known."

TARDIEU SOUGHT FRIENDSHIP OF ENGLISH NATION

Sees Accord Essential Since Both Devoted To Cause Of Peace

PARIS—When M. Andre Tardieu again took up the reins of power it was particularly remarked that he laid unusual stress on a passage in the ministerial statement which referred to Great Britain. He warmly solicited the friendship of that "noble" France and Great Britain were both attached to the cause of peace by the method of legality their accord was the best guarantee for them both.

All who have approached the French Prime Minister are aware that one of his principal hopes in 1904 M. Tardieu was a young but distinguished journalist, a renewal of the Entente Cordiale. When the Entente Cordiale was signed it was his business to comment on the new and unexpected element which had entered into European diplomacy.

In 1908 he was charged to deliver the French lectures at Harvard University and he took as the subject of his lectures the Alliance of France. Afterward he published a book in which the subject was elaborated and it has always found its way among the most valuable manuals of French policy which exist.

Much has happened since then. European conditions have changed.

Yet with a few corrections the chapter on France and the Entente with England may be allowed to stand.

It must be remembered that for several centuries France and England had been in a state of incipient hostilities—when those hostilities were not open. In the seventeenth century were the wars of the League of Augsburg; in the eighteenth the war of the Spanish succession, and of the Austrian succession, the Seven year's war, the American War, and in the nineteenth century the wars of the Revolution and of the Empire continued. France and England regarded themselves as rivals on all the colonial routes of the world.

The Entente Cordiale therefore revolutionized the situation. It was merely an agreement on Morocco and Egypt and minor matters. But it was understood in a much wider sense. The accord was not a formal alliance but it was something which was perhaps more important, namely, the sealing of a friendship.

"When the Entente was concluded," wrote the young Tardieu, "the object was negative and limited; quickly, so quickly that many people were surprised, it acquired a positive value." He goes on to record that the Entente had a great weight in the crises which Europe experienced from 1905 onward.

It is not astonishing that M. Tardieu should remember with special significance the first important event of his diplomatic career of more than a century ago—when he was then secretary of the French Embassy in London. Now that he is Foreign Minister of France he dreams of remaking the Entente Cordiale.

HOUSE PASSES HUGE REVENUE BILL FRIDAY

(Continued from Page One) an and Democratic leaders who put through the new taxes necessary to balance the budget in the House will be behind the measure in the Senate.

Chairman Hoot of the Senate Finance Committee will call the committee together Tuesday or Wednesday to begin work. Hearings are in prospect. Every industry taxed under the legislation is demanding opportunity to speak.

Senate Democrats have been summoned by Robinson of Arkansas to meet early next week. Robinson said last night the House bill will be favorably received.

The same overwhelming bipartisan coalition which swept through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the moratorium and the federal reserve liberalization measure is lining up behind the tax measure.

In view of Secretary Mills' downward revision of the estimate yield of the bill submitted to the Ways and Means Committee yesterday, the Democrats, almost by a strict party vote, forced over an amendment 180 to 105 making dividends of stocks subject to the normal income tax rate of seven percent to provide $48,000,000 additional.

After Mills submitted his estimates on the expected savings from government costs, Speaker Garner told newspapermen that "if President Hoover and Mr. Mills will cooperate we could reduce expenses $250,000,000 without the least trouble."

ing over to the Senate and yowling that we are giving their departments," he said. "How are you going to get anywhere when that happens?"

"I think it is quite unfair for the treasury to reduce by 30 or 40 percent the very estimates it gave to us a couple of months ago."

"They can't be doing that on any basis but the belief that the country is going to be much worse off. The treasury ought at least to figure the country is going to hold its own. That's one reason for trying to balance the budget."

Before final passage the House reversed itself by striking out on a record vote 211 to 178 the Swing amendment imposing a wartime surtax rates reaching a maximum of 65 percent on incomes over $5,000,000. Although by stimulating this item revenue was reduced $17,000,000. Acting Chairman Crisp of the Ways and Means Committee demanded the vote.

The action restored the committee's maximum rate of 40 percent on all incomes in excess of $100,000.

Eighty-five Democrats and 120 Republicans voted it out, while 114 Democrats, 61 Republicans and one farmer-laborite voted to retain it.

On a record vote of 236 to 160, final efforts of Representatives Childlow, Republican, Illinois, and Johnson, Republican, South Dakota, to restore the 2.25 percent sales tax that was beaten last week, failed.

As Speaker Garner announced the vote, cheers went up from members of the coalition that struck the $600,000,000 item from the bill in the most spectacular and effective revolt that has arisen in recent years against House leadership.

It was Garner who left his gavel to go on the floor last Tuesday and brought the floor to a determination to pass a bill that would nullify the financial integrity of the government.

The closest contest of the action-filled day came on the Crisp amendment providing for a one-cent a gallon tax on imported petroleum; a $2 a ton levy on coal imports, and excise imposts on wool, malt, grape concentrates and lubricating oil.

Representative McCormack, Democrat, Massachusetts, demanded a record vote on his motion to strike out the section estimated to yield $85,500,000, but it was retained, 204 to 188.

In quick succession and without record votes the House defeated efforts to strike from the bill the 2 to 3-cent postage increase, which the committee estimates will net $135,000,000; the levy of one-fourth of one percent on the value of real estate conveyances (50 cents on each $500), $10,000,000; the Lameyer estate tax amendment with 45 percent maximum, $20,000,000; Ham-eyer gift tax, with 33 1/2 percent maximum, $5,000,000; and 100 treasury estimate, committee estimate $10,000,000; automobiles (3 percent), trucks, (2 percent), and accessories (1 percent), $56,000,000.

The stock dividend amendment to bring in $88,000,000 as estimated by the committee, also was retained by a viva voce vote.

This applies the normal income tax rates during 1932 and 1933 to dividends received from corporations whose gross income is over $25,000. The present law does not tax dividends until they reach the surtax brackets of $20,000, or over.

The vote was as follows:
For: Democrats 164
Republicans 162

Farmer-labor	1
Total for	227
Against:
Democrats	37
Republicans	27
Total against	64
Not voting, 43, including Speaker Garner.

The new revenue bill was made necessary by the deficit of more than $200,000,000 in the last fiscal year, the deficit this year of more than $2,200,000,000 and the prospective federal shortage of $1,241,000,000 in 1933.

Decline in revenue from income taxes and other sources along with appropriations in excess of $10,000,000,000 for 1931 and 1932 resulted in the deficit. These have had a disturbing effect on the value of government bonds and other securities resulting in the withdrawal from banks last fall of $1,500,000,000 for hoarding purposes.

President Hoover and Speaker Garner sensed the situation last summer during the world-wide financial crisis. Andrew W. Mellon, then secretary of the treasury, and Mills, then undersecretary, began to look for sources of revenue to put the government on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Speaker Garner returned to Washington last fall and announced a tax bill would have to be enacted to remedy the situation in view of the drop in the value of government bonds as well as in revenue. The Senate-House Democratic Policy Committee, headed by the Texas Democrat and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, party leader in his branch, went on record for a bill to balance the budget.

Secretary Mellon estimated the deficit for next year at $920,000,000 in January, when the Ways and Means Committee began consideration of the treasury's program designed to raise that much. Shortly thereafter Mills advised the group it would reach $1,241,000,000.

Chairman Collier of the committee collapsed under the strain and Representative Crisp of Georgia, ranking Democrat, took over the work. More than two months of hearings followed at which 177 witnesses appeared, mostly opposing heavy excise taxes on selected industries but saying they preferred a broad and thinly spread tax, and which resulted in the committee determining upon the 2.25 percent manufacturers sales levy to form the base of the billion dollar measure. It would have provided $600,000,000.

Opposition arose in both sides of the House under the leadership of Representative Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, a Ways and Means Committee member; Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, and LaGuardia, Republican independent of New York.

Crisp insisted the bill be considered under the liberalized rules of the Democratic House with seven days of debate and amendments offered from the floor.

Taking advantage of the situation, the insurgents began fighting nearly every section of the bill until the Democratic and Republican party leaders capitulated and permitted a vote on the sales tax. On a motion by Doughton, it was stricken from the bill.

The insurgents declined to take over responsibility for the bill. The committee continued in charge and with the aid of Garner and Representative Noel of New York, the Republican leader, determined upon substitutes.

The House floundered with the leadership demoralized and insurgents unable to offer substitutes to replace the sales tax. Last Tuesday Garner stopped the bill, and by his direct appeal to his colleagues to pass a bill that would balance the budget, he would balance the budget out of the chaotic condition.

The House settled down to the business of approving the bill despite sectional traps. It was hard to complete the measure yesterday in order to make a well-earned holiday possible Monday by Garner.

Although the bill carries excise taxes on articles aggregating more than $300,000,000, most of its provisions are directed at those considered best able to pay.

It struck hard at Wall Street by levies on stock and bond and produce future sales, on dividends and by booting income, surtax, corporate and estate taxes, and by making administrative changes in the income provisions estimated to yield many millions of dollars.
