Russo Wants Travel Expenses For Defenders

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

The public defender of Seminole and Brevard counties will urge his fellow public defenders in Tallahassee today to support proposed legislation that would force counties to pick up the travel expense tab of public defenders.

James Russo, scheduled to speak before the board of directors of the Florida Public Defenders' Association, said he will discuss a recent ruling by the 5th District Court of Appeals stating that Seminole County does not have to pay $955 in travel expenses his office incurred during the preparation of a Casselberry murder suspect's defense.

The ruling may affect the funding of public defenders' offices throughout Florida and is the first such ruling regarding public defender travel expenses. Some counties in Florida pay such bills, some do not.

The high court said the county does not have to reimburse Russo's office because the travel expenses were part of the cost of operating the office. The court said state attorneys' offices budget for travel expenses and the public defenders' offices should do so too.

Russo, however, said that unlike state attorney offices, the public defenders do not budget for travel expenses, and the failure of counties to pick up such costs could force public defenders to drop costly cases. If that happens, he said, the counties will be forced to provide the legal defense for poor defendants.

The $955 bill was incurred by a public defender and translator who went to Puerto Rico while preparing the case of Jose Padilla, 36, of 109 Balboa Court, Sanford. Padilla subsequently pleaded guilty to murder and was sentenced to life.

The high court ruling will not have any immediate legal impact statewide, according to one state spokesman, and will only affect counties in the 5th District which include Seminole, Orange, Volusia, Brevard, Lake, Osceola, Flagler, Putnam, St. Johns, Marion, Sumter, Citrus and Hernando counties.

Members of the Florida Public Defenders' Association are concerned about the ruling and support a bill to change the law forcing counties pay such expenses, according to the organization's president, Michael Allen.

School Buses 'Safe'

By Richard Truett
Herald Staff Writer

"If the buses were unsafe, they wouldn't be on the road," said Seminole County schools' transportation supervisor Richard Wells.

Wells was responding to a television station's report that several Seminole County school bus drivers complained buses were unsafe.

The charges were probably made by drivers who did not receive one of the 19 new buses the county delivered this year, he said.

Wells said each bus receives two 23-item checks each day by drivers and, as required by state law, complete mechanical examinations once a month. These involve 54 points of inspection.

In addition, the highway patrol inspects the buses once a year, he said.

The transportation department has a $5 million dollar a year budget and 300 employees to maintain 215 buses.

Two weeks ago the county took possession of 19 new buses at a cost of $26,500 each. Wells said the new buses are diesel models and were assigned to the drivers with the longest routes because diesel buses get better mileage, about about 8-9 miles per gallon.

shiffs around the clock repairing the buses.

If a problem does develop with a bus, it is the drivers duty to report it, Wells said. "There are no unsafe buses on the road to my knowledge," he said.

WCPX TV Channel 6 reported Monday several drivers had complained about unsafe buses.

Wednesday at Seminole High School, five bus drivers with 75 years cumulative driving experience, who refused to be identified, said Wednesday their buses are safe and always have been. One driver said, "A driver is not going to jeopardize his life, or the students' for that matter, by driving an unsafe vehicle."

Another driver said that the drivers who complained are from the south end of the county "and they're crazy. These buses are in decent repair he said."

The average school bus in Seminole County rucks up about 10,000 miles per year, Wells said. Some of them are more than 10 years old. If a driver complains about it being in need of repair, he said, a mechanic checks it, fixes it and then a chief mechanic inspects the work.

"If the buses were unsafe, they wouldn't be on the road," Wells said.

Crooms To Provide Remedial Education

By Richard Truett
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School Board voted 3-1 Wednesday to make the Crooms High School facility an alternative education center for the county's troubled youth.

Crooms, which is in need of $485,322 in repairs, is slated to open in the 1986-87 school year possibly under its original name — Crooms Academy.

About 75 people, including several prominent black leaders, jammed into the school board's May 16 work session to urge Superintendent Robert Hughes to make Crooms a middle school. At Wednesday night's meeting, no one protested the decision.

Crooms is third on the school board's 44-item priority list of construction projects.

Hughes said that even though the school is in need of repair, some programs could get started before construction begins.

Although no curriculum has been established yet for Crooms, a committee has been set up to design one. Marion Giannini, assistant superintendent for instructional services, said that the state has guidelines and procedures for this special type of school which will be used in setting up the curriculum.

A workshop session is scheduled to be held at 1 p.m. on June 12 to discuss curriculum for the school which will house students in grades 6-12.

Benny Arnold, assistant superintendent for transportation and facilities, said before renovation can begin, an architect must draw up plans and then bids have to be solicited. Arnold also said there is no money in the budget right now and it would probably be September before the financing and construction design process begins.

The school board decision on the alternative school option gives students throughout the county who are having trouble adjusting to regular schools, kids with academic problems, a chance for smaller classes, more individual counseling, and a different curriculum, including much vocational training.

Hughes said the term "a school of alternative education" has not been defined yet but it is "by no means a negative term." Hughes said the school will house disinterested students who are having trouble adjusting to regular high schools. "It will not be a drug center," he said.

Karen Coleman, a spokesman for the school board, said the board will begin advertising for a principal before classes begin in 1986.

Former principal E. L. Blacksheare and caretaker of the facility which serves as a site for in-service teacher training and houses the Sanford Gymnastics Association, said that if the school board wanted him to stay on he would. However, he said, "I don't want to imply in any way I want to be principal."

Crooms Academy opened in 1926 and was an all black school with grades 4-12 until 1966 when a white teacher from New York taught there. In 1970 a federal court ordered Crooms to integrate and house just ninth grade students which it did until 1983 when the ninth grade was moved to Seminole High School.

Bus Driver's Actions Probed

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

A Seminole County school bus driver is under investigation by school board transportation officials after allegedly punishing elementary school riders by parking and ordering them to close bus windows in 90-degree-plus heat for 15 minutes Wednesday. The bus driver today denied the allegation.

Parents of Kerth Elementary School children riding bus #109 have alleged to deputies and to Richard Wells, head of the county's school transportation department, that the driver parked the bus along side state Road 419 in Winter Springs, at about 3:05 p.m.

Eight-year-old Kusum Lynn, of 224 Oak Road, Winter Springs, told her father, David W. Lynn, 37, that the driver, Diane McGough, of Geneva, ordered the children to roll up the windows of the bus, a sheriff's report said.

According to the report Mrs. McGough said, "You all are going to fry," and the bus was allegedly parked with the windows closed for 15 minutes.

Lynn said his daughter arrived home from school 22 minutes late Wednesday. She was soaking wet and her face was red from the heat. "These are five, six, seven, eight-year-old kids," he said, "not a bunch of rowdy teenagers."

Lynn questioned about a dozen of the children before reporting the incident, he said, and said he got the same story from all. The children, he said, were recklessly endangered if not abused by the driver's action, and if officials don't act on what he considers to be a serious violation of authority he will have charges filed or will file suit against Mrs. McGough.

Wells said about three parents have complained to him about the action of Mrs. McGough, who has been a driver for about two years.

Mrs. McGough, 41, confirmed she did stop the bus and after a 10 minute wait with the windows still open, she said, the children began yelling at another passing school bus. She ordered the windows closed and they remained closed, except for three windows the children couldn't shut, for three to five minutes, she said.

Car Bomb Death Toll 36

Moslems Attack Palestinian Camps

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Shiite Moslem Amal militias punched through two Palestinian refugee camps today, rounding up hundreds of men as women and children fled the onslaught, police and witnesses said.

Other Amal units, backed by a barrage of light artillery and mortar fire from Shiite units of the Lebanese army, launched a dawn attack against a third Palestinian refugee camp still holding out despite repeated assaults since Sunday night, militia sources said.

Palestinian sources said units of Amal, Lebanon's most powerful militia, entered the Ghaza hospital in the Sabra camp and arrested 70 wounded Palestinians. Some Palestinian sources said the 70 were killed, but the report could not be independently confirmed.

At least 126 people have been killed and 840 others wounded since the battle for the camps began, but hospital and police sources said the tolls were not complete.

On the Christian eastern side of the capital, rescue workers searched for more victims of a car bomb that exploded Wednesday and hurled fireballs down a crowded street, killing at least 36 people, leaving 23 missing and wounding some 200 others.

Red Cross officials said the night-long search had failed to locate the missing. There were no immediate claims of responsibility for the attack.

One of those wounded died during the night, thus raising the confirmed death list to 36. We have nothing on the missing," a Red Cross official said.

Funeral ceremonies were scheduled today at a church only two blocks away from the street in the teeming east Beirut neighborhood of Sin El Fil, where the 440-pound bomb concealed in a car exploded Wednesday.

Pro-Syrian Palestinian gunners, entrenched in the Moslem Druze-held mountains east of Beirut, responded to the Amal advance with a fresh round of missile and long-range artillery in a bid to relieve the pressure on their besieged comrades.

Police and Moslem-owned radio stations reported at least two salvos of 36 Soviet-made Grad missiles crashed into the perimeter of the hour) Barajneh camp. Other rockets fell in several nearby residential neighborhoods.

The camp was the only one continuing to resist Amal, which has blamed the fighting on what it says are the Palestinians' plans to reassert their control over southern Lebanon following the completion of the Israeli withdrawal.

Amal fighters stormed into the smaller Sabra and Shatila camps — where hundreds of Palestinians were massacred by Christian militiamen in 1982 — late Wednesday after 72 hours of fierce fighting.

Hardline Palestinian leader Abu Mousa, in a statement reported by the pro-Syrian newspaper Al Sharq today, said his men shelled the Amal

Sanford To Host Parade

Memorial Day Observances Set

Sanford veterans organizations will honor servicemen who have given their lives in the nation's wars with Memorial Day ceremonies at 11 a.m. on the traditional date of May 30.

A Memorial Day observance will be held Monday at All Faiths Cemetery in Casselberry with local and area veterans groups participating. The gates will be closed promptly at 10 a.m. and the event is open to the public.

In Sanford a parade will move from the First Federal of Seminole County building east on First Street to Park Avenue and north to Sanford's Veterans Memorial Park on the lakefront for the patriotic program.

The event will be sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans Seminole Chapter 30, the B. Duke Woody Chapter of the Fleet Reserve Association, the Amvets, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and American Legion Post 53.

The commanders — Frank M. Stabile, DAV; Ray Pounds, FRA; James Melton, Amvets; Carlos Raines, VFW, and Kermit Roberts, American Legion — will place a wreath at the base of the flag pole.

Seminole County Sheriff John Polk will deliver the Memorial Day message and Alec Blair, 10th District Chaplain for the Disabled American Veterans, will be master of ceremonies.

Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith will give a welcome on the behalf of the city.

The invocation and benediction will be given by Navy Chaplain William J. Boyer, pastor of Grace

United Methodist Church. Irving Leary, DAV, will lead the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Bud Tobin of the 40 & 8 will read a memorial poem.

The music will be provided by the Seminole High School Band under the direction of Bandmaster Bob McGuire. Soloists will be Julie Keltner and DAV Auxiliary Commander Patty Tripp. Jim Keltner will play Taps.

The Florida Army National Guard Co. B, 124th Infantry will provide an honor guard and DAV Chapter 30 will provide the color guard.

In Casselberry, keynote speaker will be Richard D. Adanczyk, program development manager of Ground Combat Systems, Martin-Marietta Aerospace, Orlando. Casselberry Mayor Charles H. Giascock will be master of ceremonies. Mark Panter, vice president of Baldwin-Fairchild Funeral Homes, will welcome the participating veterans groups and guests.

Cabbage Patch Custody Fight

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — It was the custody case of the Cabbage Patch kid, and the courtroom was packed with fascinated third-graders.

Small claims court at a southern Indiana courthouse was the suspenseful scene Tuesday of the custody battle over the doll. A third grade class touring the courthouse decided to stay for the action.

"It was interesting, but a little weird," Clark County Judge Steve Fleece Fleece said as he reviewed the documents filed in the case, including the doll's "adoption papers."

Harold Ezell of Jeffersonville successfully argued that he was the rightful owner of "Margo Dolores" having inherited it when his mother died. His sister-in-law, Marie Ezell of Clarksville, had argued the doll was hers because she had given it to her late mother-in-law and now had possession of it.

Harold Ezell went to court when his granddaughter said she wanted the doll. The doll was returned after Fleece's ruling.

Officials Urge Delay In TMI Restart Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission, moving toward a final vote next week on the restart of Three Mile Island's undamaged reactor, has run into strong opposition from Pennsylvania's governor and senators.

Before an emotional audience of people who live near the plant, Gov. Dick Thornburgh and Sen. Arlen Specter and John Heinz urged the panel Wednesday to delay its scheduled vote so more hearings can be held on safety issues.

The three officials, joined by two other Pennsylvania congressmen, told the commission too many unanswered questions remain about the competence and integrity of plant operator General Public Utilities Corp. to proceed with the restart vote May 29.

GPU pleaded guilty last year to criminal charges for falsifying documents concerning water leak rates from Three Mile Island reactor cooling systems. It is the only utility ever convicted of violating federal nuclear safety laws.

The unresolved issues, they said, exacerbated the fears of Pennsylvanians still traumatized by the March 1979 accident at TMI's Unit No. 2 reactor. The NRC shut down the undamaged Unit No. 1 immediately after the accident and it has not operated since.

Many Bridges Inadequate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government study says nearly half of the nation's 574,045 bridges are structurally deficient or functionally obsolete — but not unsafe — despite billions of dollars being spent to fix them.

The Transportation Department told Congress Wednesday its annual study found that at the end of last year 260,175 bridges were inadequate. But the report by the department's Federal Highway Administration stressed there was no reason to believe the bridges were unsafe.

A structurally deficient bridge is one that can no longer accommodate vehicle weight for which it was originally designed. It is restricted to handling light-weight vehicles only, is closed or requires immediate rehabilitation to remain open to traffic.

A functionally obsolete bridge is one not designed to handle current vehicle sizes and weights and often hinders the efficient flow of traffic.

Many of the inadequate bridges are at least 40 years old.

Teachers May Face Drug Testing

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — School officials' concern over drug use is a familiar topic, but one Long Island school district is pushing to have teachers — not students — tested for drug use.

State Supreme Court Justice Thomas Stark reserved decision Wednesday on the move by the Patchogue-Medford School District to require the tests of 22 teachers.

Stark continued a temporary restraining order against the tests until he makes his ruling.

Teachers say it is the first time any school district in the nation has demanded such tests.

School officials concede there has been no problem with drug use among teachers, but the proposed testing is intended as a deterrent.

'There's No Rest For The Weary Or The Wicked'

FORT MYERS (UPI) — Firefighters mastered a huge blaze that destroyed thousands of acres in the Everglades, but dry lightning sparked dozens of new fires throughout southern Florida.

Weary firefighters from Lakeland to Miami posted lightning watches Wednesday night as bolts of electricity touched off fires in the dry brush. Much-needed rain, however, did not accompany the lightning.

"When it hits, there's enough heat and energy to light dry fuels like leaves," forest ranger Al Simmons said. "It can even ignite a tree if it hits it."

'We're getting some isolated storms, but unfortunately they contain more lightning than rain.'

—forester Hank Graham

He said that of 31 new fires, at least 16 were started by lightning. The rest were believed man-made.

"There's no rest for the weary or the wicked," Simmons said.

More than 100 wildfires have scorched about 170,000 acres in Florida, destroying about 200 homes and killing two firefighters since last week.

The largest of southwest Florida's recent fires, a 5,400-acre blaze along Alligator

Alley, was "pretty damn close to out," forester Hank Graham said.

"We've pretty much been able to contain it," he said. "We've got (fire) lines pushed through for the most part, and once we complete that it'll be a baby-sitting job."

The Everglades fire began with a lightning strike, Graham said. A second strike 6 miles to the north caused a minor blaze Tuesday.

"We're getting some isolated storms, but unfortunately they contain more lightning than rain," he said.

Graham said, however, a 650-acre fire that threatened residences in Fort Myers earlier in the week was not started by lightning. "Whether it was kids just playing — or arson — it was definitely man-caused," he said.

The blaze burned through the commercial district of the city Monday, forcing evacuation of a psychiatric hospital and a church. Firefighters halted it as it moved toward the heavily populated Dunbar section of Fort Myers.

Controversial West Lake Passes First Hurdle

Centex Homes' proposed 100-home West Lake development has passed its first hurdle when the 44-acre site was rezoned from R-1A single family residential to R-1 single family residential over complaints of some area residents.

The residents will get another shot later when the site plan comes up for review. A time for the review has not been set. But to make sure they don't miss the hearings before the Land Planning Agency and the city commission, residents lined up Monday night to put their names and addresses on a list to be notified by City Clerk Gert Zumbri.

Opponents are concerned homes in the development will use septic tanks which could pollute the lake. They also object to the additional traffic the development will bring to Longwood Hills Road.

The zoning change, which died May 13 in a 2-2 vote (Perry Faulkner was absent), was back on the agenda Monday at the request of Mayor Harvey Smerilson and unanimously approved with the stipulation it become effective when the plat is filed in the county records and showing it will contain no more than 100 lots.

The rezoning will give the developer more flexibility in lot sizes in order to conform to the new arbor ordinance and preserve the maximum number of large trees. The arbor ordinance was given final approval Monday.

In other action

• The commission approved an ordinance designed to control skateboards by prohibiting "unroofed surfaces prepared for sports." The ordinance will also require a building permit for concrete basketball and tennis courts, but not for putting up a pole and basketball hoop next to a paved driveway.

• A site plan for Village

Square Professional Office Center on West Magnolia, West Palmetto and North East Lake streets in the Longwood Historical District was unanimously approved. The developer is Archdecon, Inc.

• Two loan agreements with Freedom Bank, which call for the city to pay 8.5 percent interest and a $3,000 legal fee, were approved. They include a $100,000 note to pay for sewage treatment improvements and a $400,000 note for improvements to the water system.

Bike-Riding Gunman Nabbed Second Time Around

Seminole County sheriff's deputies who investigated a domestic disturbance supposedly involving an armed suspect left the home after finding no weapon. But they returned minutes later after receiving a second complaint and arrested a suspect, a sheriff's report said.

The incident occurred late Wednesday night at 501 Marker St., Altamonte Springs. Deputies confronted the suspect for a second time after he left that home and was riding a bicycle on Marker Street, the report said.

They searched the man and reported finding a .25-caliber pistol in his rear pants pocket along with two rounds of ammunition, the report said.

Because he is on probation for burglary the suspect was charged with possession of a firearm by a felon in addition to carrying a concealed firearm, the report said.

Terry Lee Barnes, 36, of 501 Marker St., was arrested at 11:48 p.m. He was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

POT AT SCHOOL
One of two Lake Brantley High School students questioned in connection with four marijuana cigarettes found in a box in a locker at the Altamonte Springs school has been charged with possession of less than 20 grams of pot.

The suspect reportedly was searched during the questioning and the box and cigarette that had been found during an earlier locker search, but left there, were allegedly found again in his possession, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

The suspect was spotted with two other youths passing what appeared to be a marijuana cigarette at the school and that prompted the investigation, the report said.

Kurt Alan Marn, 18, of 613 Alhambra Ave., Altamonte Springs, was charged at the school at noon Monday. He has been released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court May 29. He was the only person charged in the case.

EAR HOLDER
Seminole County sheriff's deputies spotted a man, who had been arrested previously for possession of marijuana, with what they believed was a marijuana cigarette resting on the top of his right ear and charged the suspect with possession of less than 20 grams of pot.

Deputies confronted the man at the Eastern service station, state Road 436 at Lake Howell Road, Altamonte Springs, at about 10:45 p.m. Tuesday.

They determined the hand-rolled cigarette contained marijuana and arrested Lee Eddie Williams, 21, of 800 Citrus Tree Lane, Altamonte Springs. He has been released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court June 5.

CAMPED IN HOUSES
In separate incidents lawmen arrested two men allegedly camping out in unoccupied homes, one in Sanford at a house under construction and the other in a vacant home in Longwood.

In the Sanford case, Raymond O'Neal Carry, 18, of 57 William Clark Court, Sanford, was arrested at a home at 1730 W 4th St. He was charged with possession of a controlled substance after police reportedly found a marijuana cigarette in a bundle of blankets and clothes the suspect said were his, a police report said. He was later freed on $500 bond.

In Longwood police said they found a man who had been sleeping, without permission, in a home at 702 Orange Ave., at about 11 p.m. The man reportedly had a bundle of clothes and blankets in a bedroom of the home.

Thomas Howard Sewell, 42, of 117 Exter St., Longwood, has been charged with burglary to an unoccupied dwelling and was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

WOULDN'T LEAVE
A man, allegedly part of a group creating a pool-side disturbance at North Lake Apartments, 242 Sharon Drive, Altamonte Springs, was charged with trespassing, defying an order to leave and assault on a police officer.

Altamonte Springs police were called to the apartment complex by the manager who complained that a group of men, some of whom didn't even live at North Lake, were being rowdy at the pool, a police report said.

The suspect charged reportedly said he would have to be thrown over the fence to be forced to leave, the report said.

While being booked on the trespassing related charges the man reportedly took a threatening stance against a police officer and the assault charge was added.

Barry William Moore, 26, of 538 Orange Drive #2, Altamonte Springs, was booked and released on $500 bond.

TAGGED FOR ARREST
A 20-year-old Sanford man has been charged with possession of stolen property after Sanford police reportedly found a stolen car bearing a license tag issued to the suspect.

The suspect was arrested at 6:36 p.m. Tuesday and reportedly told police he had found the 1972 Vega that had been reported to the Seminole County Sheriff's Department as stolen. The suspect claimed to have attached his tag to the car, gassed it up and parked it where it was found behind his home at 1317 Elm Ave., Sanford.

Paul Thomas Stewart was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

CHASED & CAUGHT
A suspect who was confronted by an occupant of the home he was reportedly trying to break into was caught by bystanders and arrested by Sanford police.

Police said the man cut a screen and broke a window of a home at 2616 Mohawk Ave., Sanford, before the chase began at about midnight Tuesday.

He was caught within two minutes and police charged him with attempted burglary, a police report said.

Dominique Pierie, 40, address unknown, was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

DUI ARREST
The following person has been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Martin Joseph Burgess, 26, of 112 Burgess Blvd., Winter Springs, was arrested at 2:20 a.m. Wednesday after the tires of his vehicle "squealed" as he turned from U.S. Highway 17-92 onto state Road 434, Winter Springs. He was also charged with driving with a suspended license.

Seminole Set To Tackle '86 Budget

The Seminole County Commission is scheduled to begin a week-long review of budget requests for fiscal 1985-86 on June 13 at the County Services Building.

In the meantime, County Administrator Ken Hooper said he, Deputy County Administrators Woody Price and Richard George, Budget Director

Eleanor Anderson and Computer Services Director Montye Beamer are looking over budget proposals from department heads.

He said no figures are yet available on the total of the requests or the revenues the county can anticipate in the new fiscal year.

The East-West Hostility Lingers

Nothing more starkly reflects the division of Europe and of the larger bipolar world than the contrasting ways in which East and West marked the 40th anniversary of the end of the war they fought together against Nazi tyranny. V-E Day ceremonies in Western Europe and in the communist East might almost have been commemorating wholly different historic events. The only similarities seemed to be in the harsh tone with which the two sides blamed each other for their mutual failure to reconcile their differences.

In the West, there was a subdued atmosphere, at least partly as a consequence of the fact that West Germany — the largest geographical remnant of the hated Nazi state of 40 years ago — is now a democratic ally of the same nations that fought and defeated that earlier Germany. The controversy over President Reagan's visit to the Bitburg cemetery showed, among other things, that the complexities of managing such awkward situations often elude mere mortals. And the visible and vocal protests, not only to Bitburg but to much the president said in Strasbourg and Madrid and Lisbon — about Star Wars, about Nicaragua and about the nuclear confrontation in Europe — were reminders that the free societies of the West are both united, in their adherence to common civilized principles, and fractious, in their disagreement over ways and means to preserve them.

Across today's great divide, the air in Moscow was martial, as if the Soviets were celebrating a victory over a foe that, although temporarily vanquished, has re-emerged in the menacing form of Western imperialism led by the United States. Mikhail Gorbachev distorted history in the usual Soviet way by virtually accusing Western governments of the 1930s of supporting Nazi Germany, while conveniently omitting the fact that it was the Soviet Union that signed with Hitler, in 1939, the cynical Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact by which the two dictatorships carved up Poland and triggered World War II. Gorbachev gave virtually all the credit for defeating Germany to his own country, referred to the Holocaust only allusively and never mentioned that most of its victims were Jews. From the leader of a nation that continues to persecute its own Jewish citizens, that's no more surprising than it is excusable.

Some months ago there was the hope, no doubt a naive one, that all the nations caught up in the European war could somehow find a suitable way to commemorate jointly the end of the bloodiest and most cruel conflict in modern history. Those hopes were dashed by the very divisions of which Reagan and Gorbachev spoke, and by their insistence on using those divisions — in this anniversary year already so weighted with anguished memories of that six-year nightmare — to resurrect the inflammatory rhetoric of the Cold War.

There were, to be sure, messages of hope for the future in the words of the two leaders, as in the President's desire that someday Europeans from Moscow to Lisbon might move about freely, and in Gorbachev's wish for a revival of detente. One also might note optimistically that, bellicose or conciliatory, all of it was only rhetoric that will be forgotten as these anniversaries themselves become part of the past. But recent events having little to do with remembering V-E Day or the Holocaust or the heroic struggle against fascism offer little cause for comfort. Sadly, even the remembrance of the one time America and Russia fought together to bury a truly evil empire could not still the voices of East-West hostility, not even for a day.

New Japanese Challenge In Fiber Optics

By Hidetoshi Sakai
NEW YORK (UPI) — Fujitsu Ltd., the Japanese computer and communications equipment company, has introduced a new generation of optical fiber which it is counting on to give it a two- to three-year lead in the competition with AT&T, Rockwell International and other domestic communications system suppliers.

The state-of-the-art technology, "Fujitsu 810," can transmit 810 megabits, or 810 million pieces, of information per second on a single pair of optical fibers, hair-thin strands of glass, through which laser beams run.

The speed is twice as fast as that of the most advanced optical fiber systems now in operation in the United States. Anant Das, vice president for Fujitsu America, Inc.'s telecommunications division, said in an interview.

Such existing systems, with the transmission speed of 405 megabits per second, are offered only by Fujitsu and NEC Corp., also of Japan.

Both companies have gone all out for greater sales of high-speed optical fiber in the United States, where competition in communications services has intensified since the breakup of the AT&T system in 1984.

Industry sources expect about $8 billion to be spent during the next five years for optical fiber projects by 20 or so communications services companies, which are investing heavily in faster and larger-capacity communications lines.

AT&T's Bell Laboratories announced in February it has succeeded in 4,000-megabit-per-second lightwave transmission.

But in production technology, AT&T has just introduced a 417-megabit-per-second system.

Fujitsu America, based in San Jose, Calif., earned nearly 10 percent of Fujitsu's worldwide sales of $5.4 billion during its year ended in March 1984, the most recent year for which figures were published.

A model using the Fujitsu 810 technology is now in the final test phase in Japan, Das said, with a U.S. field trial in an actual customer environment expected "sometime between July and September." Shipment is scheduled to begin during the first quarter of 1986.

With Fujitsu-designed new laser diodes and semiconductor chips, the system can handle 12,096 channels of voice, data and video transmission — a capacity roughly twice that of the 405-megabit-per-second systems.

Newspaper reports from Tokyo said NEC has succeeded in switching light signals at 1,000 megabits per second.

"We have already reached that point. We are working on a 1,600-megabit model with the capacity of 24,192 channels," Das said. Shipment of the model is scheduled for 1987.

In 1981 Fujitsu lost to AT&T's Western Electric a multimillion-dollar contract to lay optical fiber cable between New York and Washington. The company, which said it had outbid Western Electric, blamed the defeat on political pressure from Washington.

The northeast corridor episode already is a thing of the past. The market has changed so dramatically that people in the industry may have some difficulty recollecting it, an industry source said.

In fiber optics, "we think we now are ahead of American companies at least two to three years," Das said.

"We have the biggest customer base in this country right now for high-speed optical fiber," he said. Fujitsu's biggest customer is MCI, AT&T's rival in long-distance telephone service.

As Fujitsu supplies to about 90 percent of optical fiber users, Das said, "we are confident" of maintaining the top position in the marketplace.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Grey Power Growing

The U.S. Senate vote in early May in favor of restoring reductions in cost of living adjustments for Social Security recipients bodes ill for the overall deficit control program. The Senate clearly is afraid of so-called grey power at the polls in the 1986 congressional elections.

To be sure, the senators who voted to restore the funds may have read the politics of the situation correctly. The over-65 group in the nation's population is growing in size and is politically conscious and active. Unlike young voters, older citizens turn out on election day. They are keen on protecting their interests. No one can blame them for this. Nevertheless, it's very difficult to reduce the deficit when so many constituencies are so well organized and active.

Those who drafted the President's deficit reduction program may have underestimated the power of special interest politics. Many of the new breed of political activists, such as David Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget, think of politics in ideological terms. Today, one finds both liberal and conservative ideologies. However, politics in the United States continue to be of the interest group type. People gather together and use their influence according to their economic interests, whether they are farmers, businessmen, welfare recipients, or whatever. And successful political strategies have to be built around a coalition of interests.

Any weakening in the administration's deficit reduction program encourages the foes of a strong national defense to try to score points with the public by slashing the defense budget further.

Fortunately, the Senate leadership regrouped in time to squeeze out a victory for the President's proposal in a midnight vote May 10. If it is preserved from assaults by the House of Representatives, the plan would reduce federal spending by more than $50 billion next year. In order to achieve that, however, the President and his lieutenants must argue hard and long with House members. In order to win back a measure of the bipartisan support he enjoyed when he pushed through his landmark tax cut in 1981, that will be extremely difficult, due to the heightened sense of political partisanship in the lower body.

Stockman Sabotaging Cut Ideas

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's fiscal guru, David Stockman, was reprimanded in 1981 for deriding in private the Reaganomics he was defending in public. But apparently that scolding has merely made him more cautious.

White House sources familiar with Stockman's backdoor routines say he continues to undercut presidential policies he doesn't like. He has instigated attacks, they claim, on the Grace Commission, which the president admires.

By leak and critique, Stockman allegedly has inspired editorial and congressional criticism of the commission's findings on waste in government. Apparently the findings were an embarrassment to Stockman, who is supposed to uncover mispending in the federal bureaucracy.

Yet J. Peter Grace, who heads the commission, pointed out billions being wasted right under

EDUCATION WORLD

Grand Scale Hooky

By Patricia McCormack
UPI Education Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — As Mark Twain told it, Huck Finn and his pal Tom Sawyer played hooky sometimes on nice days when the spirit in fish or wander couldn't be overcome.

Kids carrying on in the tradition of such urges to skip school often do so, no matter what the weather. These occasional episodes of truancy are somewhat tolerated by the education establishment as a sort of academic equivalent to growing pains.

The same cannot be said of the current epidemic of truancy, especially at inner city schools.

From 20 to 30 percent of high school student population can be absent on a Monday or Friday in some urban areas, Dr. Betty W. Nyangoni says in a report, "Truancy and the Absent-minded Student," published in "School Safety," the journal of the National School Safety Center.

The Center is a partnership of the U.S. Department of Justice, U.S. Department of Education and Pepperdine University in Sacramento, Calif.

Nyangoni, chief attendance officer of the District of Columbia Public Schools and assistant professor at Howard University in Washington, D.C., says "if 20 to 30 percent in the average absentee rate (on Mondays and Fridays), then there are many schools with yet higher rates."

She reminds also that truancy is such a severe problem that for the last five years it has ranked either first or among the top concerns of the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Another fix on the truancy problem was provided by a University of Michigan Institute for Social Research survey of more than 16,000 high school seniors nationwide.

Nyangoni reported: "Of those responding, 13.4 percent said that within a four-week period they 'skipped, cut or were otherwise truant' from classes at least one day for reasons other than illness; more than 7 percent admitted they were truant two days of school; 3.9 percent said they skipped three to four days of school; 1.0 percent of those surveyed said they cut six to 10 days of school, and less than 1 percent said they stayed away from school 11 days or more."

So why aren't the nation's truant officers doing a better job of choking off the apparently enormous collective infraction of Compulsory School Attendance Laws in effect in all states and the District of Columbia?

Nyangoni says those who enforce the law are limited in manpower and receive little support for their mission.

The expert said external and school-related causes are at the root of the truancy problem. External ones include familial obligations, peer group pressure, financial and economic problems.

School-related causes include poor academic and/or social skills; irrelevant curriculum and/or poor instruction methods; inflexible schedules; insensitive, uncaring teachers; listlessness or disinterest in school.

Just as a fever out of control may signal worse health troubles to come, chronic truancy often is a signal the worst's ahead. As Nyangoni described it:

"It is estimated that 1.5 million young people of school age will drop out of school before they receive high school diplomas. A high proportion of these have exhibited truant behavior prior to dropping out."

VIEWPOINT

Medical School Milestone

By Bill Lohmann

ATLANTA (UPI) — With only 20 graduates, commencement exercises at the Morehouse School of Medicine were simple and intimate.

But the low-key graduation ceremony Friday at Morehouse — the first minority-oriented medical school founded in the 20th century — represented a momentous occasion in the history of minority medical care.

This was the first class to graduate from the school of medicine, a significant milestone in a bold experiment that began more than a decade ago.

"This is the crescendo of all those years of planning and development," said Dr. Louis Sullivan, president of the school, who has directed its growth since its infancy. "The mission of our school is important because there continues to be, even in 1985, a serious shortage of black and minority physicians in the country. The need is so great."

Latest figures show about 3 percent of all doctors in the United States are black and only 500 to 700 black students are enrolled in medical schools across the nation. Critics say those figures are the root cause of inadequate medical care for blacks nationwide, particularly in poor inner-city and rural areas.

Morehouse is not the total answer, but proponents say it is a giant step in the right direction.

"Morehouse is a real good thing to happen at this time, when the majority of institutions have not been able to supply the black physician manpower for one reason or another," said L. Leon Dent, 30, of Albany, Ga., president of the historic Morehouse graduating class.

"It's also a good thing because with all the cutbacks in federal money for students in general you're going to find fewer and fewer minority students who can afford to go into medicine," Dent said.

There were only two predominantly black medical schools in the nation — Howard and Meharry, both founded in the 19th century — when Morehouse took a gamble, opened its doors on the campus of Morehouse College in southwest Atlanta in 1978 and began actively recruiting blacks and other minorities to study medicine.

appointed officials accountable."

One official whom they intend to hold accountable is David Stockman.

After the president spoke, Stockman could hardly contradict him. So instead, the budget director gave a lip-service speech supporting the stop-waste reforms that he has been sabotaging behind the president's back.

Then he solemnly called for a lobbying campaign to persuade Congress to pass the six most controversial reforms. White House sources suggest that Stockman's secret strategy is to antagonize Congress, unite the opposition and defeat the reforms he's supposed to support.

Sen. William Roth, R-Del., who is spearheading the Senate battle to reduce government waste, told us he's aware Stockman is secretly trying to block the reforms. The senator's counter-strategy is to push the least controversial reforms and get as much waste eliminated as feasible. Then he will consider Stockman's six stumbling blocks.

Footnote: The General Accounting Office has completed a review of the Grace Commission's findings and has endorsed most of them. Meanwhile, the commission's leading critic, columnist George Will, who is close to Stockman, has run aul of cost-cutter Ernest Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald, the celebrated whistle blower, disputed arguments raised by Will and Harvard professor Steven Kelman.

"They've been caught in an absolute fabrication," said Fitzgerald.

We couldn't reach Stockman for his comments. But his defenders say Stockman feels the Grace Commission is proposing major policy changes that Congress will never approve. He believes the solutions are not as simple and painless as the commission implies.

Low Ceiling Can't Cramp SGA Climb

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

The vault is located in an outside corridor. If a gymnast vaults too high, she might hit the low corridor roof.

The uneven parallel bars were put up in one of the classrooms. Because of the low ceiling, high dismounts are impossible.

The main building, the cafeteria, is where the young gymnasts work out on the balance beam and floor exercise. The cafeteria is too small for a complete floor exercise area.

There are gymnasts strewn all over the old Crooms High School campus. That is where the Sanford Gymnastics Association (SGA) has temporarily set up shop — and the Olympic hopefuls are very happy to have that facility.

To look at the faces of the young athletes, though, to see the determination and concentration, the eagerness to learn, it's like they aren't even bothered by the cramped quarters.

There's nine-year-old Julie Clark practicing back handsprings and back flips and showing the ability to be a future champion. Over in another area, the younger girls are working on the basics. Six-year-old Tesi Wellman is learning how to do a cartwheel.

Considering their dedication to learning gymnastics and the success that SGA competitors have had in recent years, the makeshift gymnastics facility set up at Crooms High may not seem that bad.

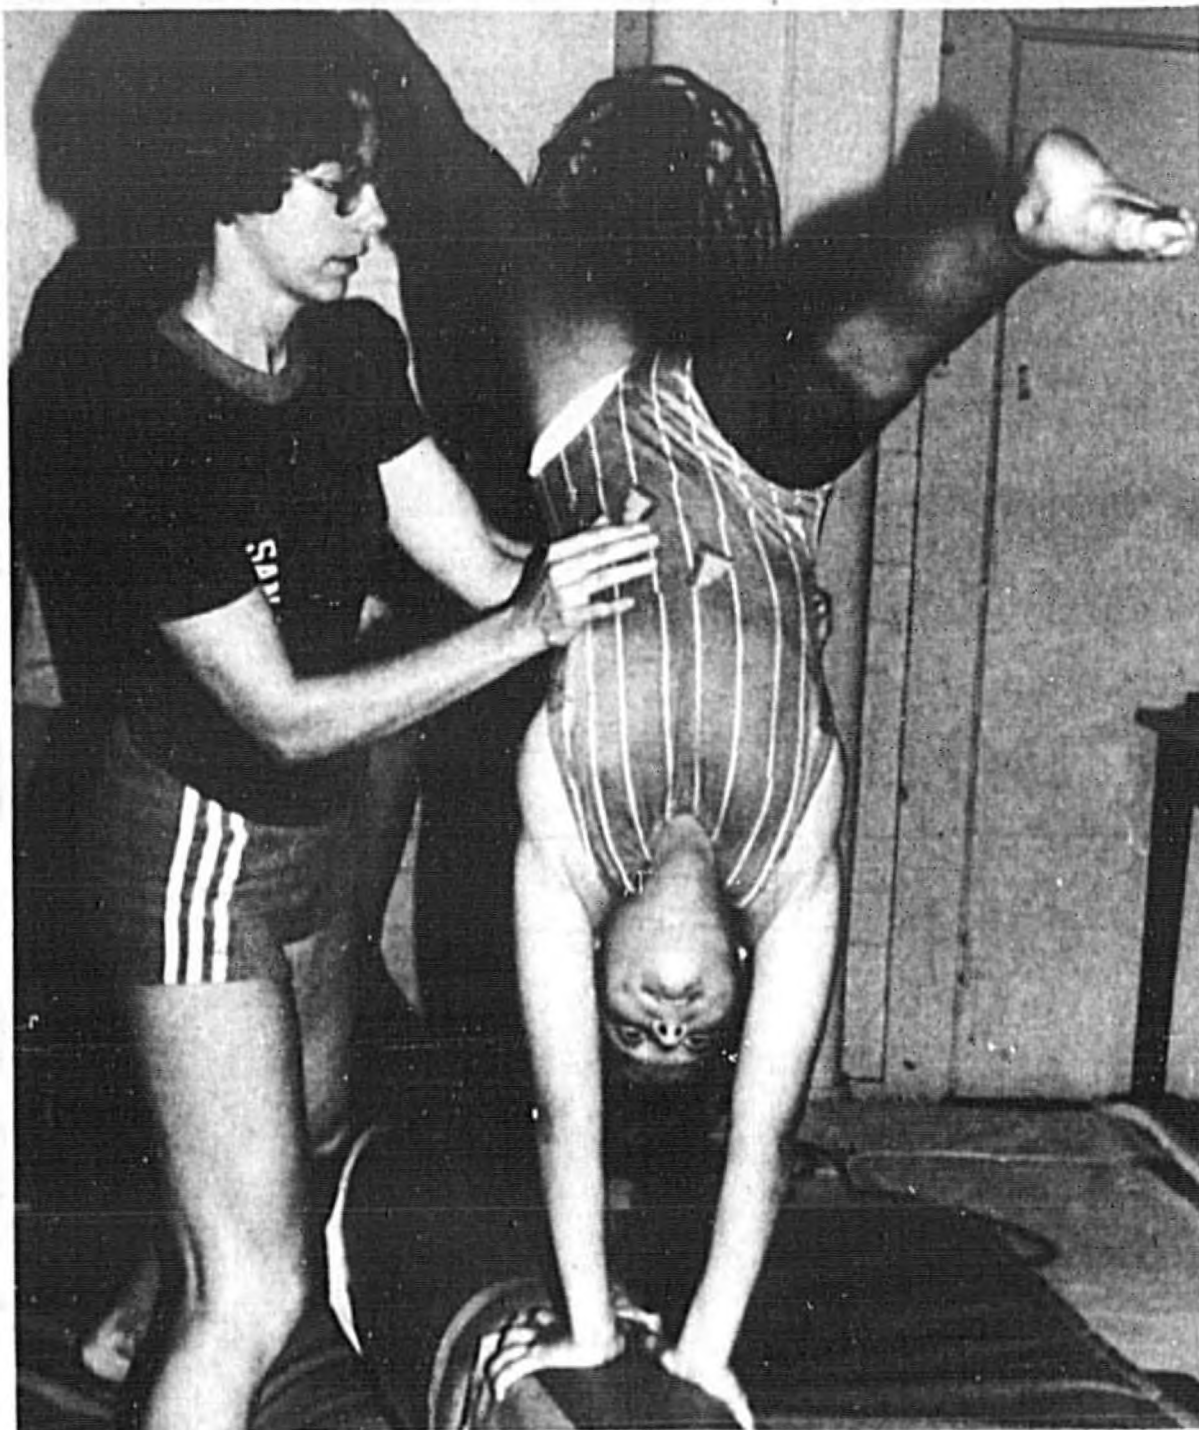

But, when the gymnasts continue to improve and move up in class (SGA athletes are Class 4 and 3 now), is when they will need that height in the vault and the bars and that extra room on the floor exercise that is not available at Crooms.

"We've got girls who have the ability to learn better routines," said SGA head coach Eugene Petty. "But everything is limited by the facility (Crooms). The ceilings are too low for the vault and bars and the facility is not big enough for a complete floor for the floor exercise. And we can't put in a spring floor which is essential for the girls' training."

A permanent training facility is what the gymnasts need. The SGA is making its drive for that building and has called on world-class gymnast and, currently, movie star Kurt Thomas for help.

Despite an extremely busy schedule, Thomas will take the time to put on a show which will benefit the Sanford Gymnastics Association. The Kurt Thomas Benefit will be held Tuesday, June 4, at Sea World, the site of Thomas' daily Gymnastics America Show.

"The girls are very excited about it," Petty said. "Just the idea of performing for a world-class gymnast is exciting. We were very fortunate to get him (Thomas). He took it with open arms. He has a lot of humanitarian qualities."

Eight-year-old gymnast Abbie McClintock gets an assist from Marie Causey.

The SGA still has a number of tickets available for individuals and for sponsors. Gold Sponsors ($1,000) and Silver Sponsors ($500) will receive permanent recognition in the new building. There are also individual tickets available for $100 each.

The SGA's goal is $85,000 for its new building. A site has already been donated by the Sunrise Kiwanis Club and the city of Sanford.

Six of the Sanford gymnasts (with two alternates) will be performing at the Kurt Thomas Benefit as a preliminary to Thomas' Gymnastics American Show.

Those gymnasts, who have excelled in competition for the SGA, include Kimatha Kelly, Shari Siegrist, Cherie VanCamp, Karen Grainger and Jennifer Cox. The two alternates who may also perform are Tracy Kaleel and Glenda Carter.

Carter, who was one of the top overall competitors in past meets, injured her foot in practice earlier this week but may do a routine on the bars for the show according to Petty.

"Kurt (Thomas) is going to involve the girls in the show and put them through small routines to show the audience the techniques they learn," he said. The girls will use three different apparatuses, the bars, floor exercise and beam.

Once the SGA reaches its goal, Petty is hoping construction on the building can begin right away. "We're hoping to have it by August," he said.

Class 4 competition begins in September followed by Class 3 and, starting in 1985, Sanford gymnasts are moving to Class 2.

"We do well in Class 4 anyway because that's the more basic class," Petty said. "But the building will have an immediate impact on Class 3 and 2. We've been successful in the past because of the girls' determination. But we'll be even more competitive if we get the new facility."

Since it was founded in 1977, the Sanford Gymnastics Association has grown significantly. It now has over 125 girls, and boys, learning gymnastics.

"A lot of people don't know it, but we have 10 boys working out," SGA President Jeannette Stiffley said. "They range in age from 6 to 13."

"We have girls starting out as young as four, five and six," added Stiffley. Once we get a permanent building, we'd like to start a "Tumbling Tots" program. We'd like to offer the community more programs."

Petty said the younger a gymnast starts, the better chance he or she has at becoming a champion.

"We like to get them as early as possible," he said. "We teach them flexibility, coordination and balance. Gymnastics is very therapeutic, it trains the total body. Kids who do well at gymnastics tend to do well at other things, too."

A new building, with the proper training facilities, will enable Sanford gymnasts to concentrate on moving up in class of competition and maybe develop into a future world-class athlete.

Then, they will be able to hold their heads up high, instead of trying to avoid hitting them on the ceiling.

Taylor's Clutch Hit Lifts KOC Past Elks

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

The Knights of Columbus fell out of contention early for the first half title. KOC finished with a 4-6 record and in fifth place in the six-team Sanford Junior League.

The Knights have turned it around in the second half, though. At the midway point in the second half, the Knights stand at 4-1, one game behind league-leading Ball Motor Line (5-0).

The reason Knights of Columbus has stayed in contention is it is getting contributions from everyone on the team.

Wednesday night, Dwight Brinson pitched a four-hitter and pinch-hitter Rick Taylor slugged a two-run triple in the bottom of the sixth inning that lifted KOC to a 7-5 victory over Elks at Chase Park.

Brinson set the Elks down in order in the top of the first and the Knights came back with four runs in the bottom of the inning. Ray Williams led off the frame with a double and he scored when Ron "Peanut" Cofield reached on an error. "Peanut" stole third and scored when older brother Bobby Cofield singled.

Baseball

After Bobby stole second, Brinson stepped up and clouted a two-run homer over the fence in left center.

Brinson pitched shutout ball through three innings and the Knights scored once in the bottom of the third for a 5-0 lead. Bobby Cofield reached on an error, stole both second and third and scored on an overthrow.

The Elks took advantage of four KOC errors to score four times in the top of the fourth. With one out, Willie McCloud singled, stole second, went to third on an overthrow and scored on another overthrow on the same play. Almost a replay of McCloud's antics happened on the next batter. Ty Koke singled, went to second on an errant pickoff attempt, took third on a passed ball and scored on an error.

Robert Miller followed with a walk, stole second, went to third on an overthrow and Von Eric Small then unloaded a two-run, inside-the-park homer to pull the Elks within 5-4.

With McCloud on in relief, the Elks held the Knights scoreless in the fourth and fifth frames and came back to tie the score at 5-5 in the top of the sixth. McCloud drew a walk to lead off, stole second and third and scored the tying run on a passed ball.

The Knights came back to break the tie in the bottom of the sixth. Anton Reid drew a walk to lead off and, with one out, Mitch Wright also walked. Taylor, pinch-hitting for Angel Gattona, then drilled a two-run triple off McCloud.

Ball Holds Lead...Barely

Baseball

Ball Motor Line built up a solid lead after five innings but almost watched its one game lead in the league washed away as Kiwanis came back strong in the seventh inning.

But Ronald Cox had just enough left in him to stave off the Kiwanis rally and Ball Motor Line came out with its lead still intact as it pulled out a 11-10 victory.

Kiwanis opened the game with five runs in the top of the first inning with a two-run double by Bernard Mitchell and RBI triple by Duck Grayson leading the way.

Meanwhile, Kiwanis starter Sammy Edwards held Ball Motor scoreless for the first two frames and Kiwanis took a 6-0 lead into the bottom of the third.

Edwards, one of the top control pitchers in the league, suddenly went wild in the bottom of the third as he walked seven batters and uncorked four wild pitches that enabled Ball to score three runs.

Cox settled down after the second inning to shut Kiwanis out in the third, fourth and fifth. Ball Motor Line then made its move with eight runs in the bottom of the fifth.

Jimbo Lucas drew a walk to start off the inning, stole second, and scored on Cox's double. Troy Rollins then drew a walk and Burnett Washington followed with a triple that drove home both Cox and Rollins to tie the score at 6-6.

Leonard Williams followed with a walk and stole second to put runners on second and third. Edwards reached back to strike out the next hitters but he couldn't get out of the inning as Kevin Nathan smacked a two-run triple for an 8-6 Ball Motor Line lead.

Nathan scored on a wild pitch to make it 9-6. John Hendricks then drew a walk, stole second and third and scored on a single by Lucas to make it 10-6. Cox then drilled a double to put runners on second and third and Lucas scored what turned out to be the winning run when he stole home.

Cox retired Kiwanis in order in the top of the sixth and Edwards got out of the bottom of the inning with ease as Ball took its 11-6 lead into the seventh.

Leonard Richardson drew a walk to lead off the seventh, stole second, but was cut down trying to steal third.

Party Time

Lakers Trounce Nuggets, 153-109

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — There was no champagne. The party, after all, is just beginning.

"For the last five years, we've won the conference title, so there's no big reason to celebrate," James Worthy said Wednesday night after the Los Angeles Lakers trounced the Denver Nuggets 153-109 to advance to the NBA championship series and a rematch with the Boston Celtics.

Other teams would dance into the night. The Lakers, who lost to the Celtics in seven games a year ago, concentrated instead on a shuttle to Boston — which eliminated Philadelphia earlier in the night — for Monday's series opener.

"Actually, all we wanted to do was get to the championship regardless of who we had to play," said an unconvincing-sounding Magic Johnson, who had 19 assists to become the NBA's all-time leader in the playoffs.

"Since it's the Celtics, it's going to be a little extra incentive because of what happened last year."

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, however, downplayed the rivalry. "Last year is over," said the Laker center. "It's been over for a long time. We'll show up. There's nothing else to say."

Johnson needed 7 assists to break Jerry West's record of 970. He set the mark in a second-quarter run of 16 straight Los Angeles points that decided the outcome of the game and series.

In becoming the first team to record four consecutive Western Conference crowns, the Lakers defeated the Nuggets in five games — capturing the last three after an 22-point loss last week that ended a 23-game home winning streak.

"We just didn't have it offensively," said Denver coach Doug Moe. "Against them, you just can't win that way."

Worthy had 23 points and Byron Scott and Mike McGee 21 each for Los Angeles. Johnson added 17 points.

Wayne Cooper had 23 and Lafayette Lever 22 for the Nuggets.

The Lakers broke a 34-34 deadlock with the big burat as Johnson orchestrated a smoking fastbreak that Moe could slow only by calling timeout.

Celtics Steal Past Sixers, 102-100

BOSTON (UPI) — Return to Philadelphia or return to the NBA championship series — for the Boston Celtics that was no choice at all.

"We had a meeting before the game," said Dennis Johnson. "and we decided we didn't want to go back to Philly."

The result Wednesday night was a 102-100 Celtics victory over the 76ers, eliminating their rivals 4-1 from the Eastern Conference finals.

The defending champions will now play the Los Angeles Lakers in a rematch of last year's final series, which the Celtics won in seven games. The Lakers clinched their fourth consecutive Western Conference title Wednesday night with a 153-109 victory over the Denver Nuggets, who also fell 4-1.

Game 1 of the NBA finals will be played Monday at Boston Garden.

The Celtics are seeking to become the first champions since their 1988-89 counterparts to successfully defend their crown.

Johnson scored 23 points, including a pair of crucial free throws and an 18-footer in the final 1:41 to lead the Celtics' attack in Game 5.

Larry Bird preserved the Celtics' win by stealing the ball from Andrew Toney with four seconds remaining before the 76ers guard could attempt a game-tying shot.

For the 76ers, the regrets are many.

"Looking back, you can see that the game was right there if we had gone out and gotten it," said Maurice Cheeks, who paced Philadelphia with 26 points.

"We had the opportunities and didn't take advantage of them," agreed Bobby Jones. "We had a lot of mistakes and they put the pressure on all around."

The 76ers lost the first three games of the conference finals before taking Game 4 in Philadelphia. No team in NBA history has ever recovered from a 3-0 deficit in post-season play.

The 76ers jumped out to a 10-2 lead Wednesday night, but the Celtics drew within 30-28 at the end of the first quarter. Johnson sparked a 9-2 surge midway through the second quarter to help Boston to a 56-51 lead at the half.

Boston led by at least 6 points through most of the third period, but Philadelphia closed to within 81-77 on Cheeks' jumper.

McGregor Bewilders A's, 3-0

United Press International
 Scott McGregor escaped his mysterious doldrums just in time to bewilder the Oakland A's.

McGregor, who had lost his last four decisions and missed his last start with arm problems, fired a three-hitter and Lee Lacy contributed a double and an RBI single Wednesday night to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-0 triumph over the A's.

"I came into the game just wanting to get past the fifth inning," McGregor said. "I guess that's what happens when you've pitched the way I have this year. Once I got through the order for the first time and saw the way I was pitching, I started to relax."

McGregor entered the game with a 1-4 record. He had also given up 43 hits in 30 1/3 innings. Against the A's, he was in total control in notching the 20th shutout of his career. He struck out seven and walked only three. Don Sutton, 3-5, took the loss.

"This is the first time all year I've felt comfortable out there," McGregor said. "I hate to think about it, but with my motion, there is just so many mechanical things that can go wrong."

The Orioles opened the scoring in the fourth on a single by Fred Lynn, a wild pitch by Sutton and an RBI single by Larry Sheets.

Baltimore then scored twice in the fifth for a 3-0 lead. Rich Dauer and Rick Dempsey singled to lead off.

Reuss Maintains Hex Over Expos

United Press International
 The Montreal Expos are to Jerry Reuss what the Democrats are to Ronald Reagan — easy to beat.

Reuss tossed a four-hitter and Greg Brock slugged a three-run homer Wednesday night, leading the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-0 shutout victory over the Montreal Expos.

Reuss now has a lifetime record of 20.5 against Montreal and the Expos have not defeated him since July 6, 1979.

"I can't pinpoint my success against Montreal," said Reuss. "I've been facing Montreal for 16 seasons and I've pitched against a lot of different batters."

Reuss' effort was made easier by the fact the Dodgers staked him to an early lead. "Something they have not done very much for any of their pitchers this season."

"Pitching with a lead like that makes all the difference in the world. The three-run homer by Brock sure helped. I can't remember the last time it happened when I was pitching," said Reuss.

Los Angeles manager Tommy Lasorda figures that not taking batting practice may have helped the Dodgers win for only the fourth time in 11 games.

"Laying off the batting practice sure helped," said Lasorda. "But Reuss was outstanding. He has always had good luck against Montreal."

Tim Lincecum solved Reuss for one of the Expo hits. Raines was 1 for 4. His batting average dropped a point to .263.

Cubs 7, Reds 4
 At Chicago, Brian Dayett hit a grand slam to spark the Cubs past Cincinnati. Dayett, an outfielder brought up from the minors by the Cubs earlier in the month to replace shortstop Shawn Dunston, pinch-hit for winning pitcher Dennis Eckersley, 5-3, in the seventh inning and smashed the first pitch from starter Tom Browning, 4-3, into the left field seats.

Cardinals 7, Braves 4
 At St. Louis, Bob Forsch belted a solo homer and pitched 6 1/3 innings in relief to help the Cardinals complete a three-game sweep of Atlanta. Forsch's homer off loser Rick Mahler, 8-3, in the fifth broke a 3-3 tie. It was his first since Sept. 5, 1983, and the eighth of his career. Bob Horner continued to swing a hot bat for the Braves as he slugged three singles.

Giants 6, Phillies 2
 At Philadelphia, Manny Trillo turned three double plays over the first four innings then added the game-winning RBI to help San Francisco snap a three-game losing streak. Dave LaPoint took advantage of the double plays and left 10 Phillies stranded over the first six innings to improve to 2-5.

N.L. Baseball

Astros 5, Pirates 3
 At Pittsburgh, Alan Ashby hit a game-tying sacrifice fly in the ninth inning and a two-run double with two out in the 10th to lift Houston to victory. Ashby's double to the left field wall scored pinch hitter Enos Cabell and Phil Garner. Cabell singled with one out and took second on a balk by losing reliever Al Holland, 1-2. Garner was walked intentionally with two out.

Padres 5, Mets 4
 At New York, Terry Kennedy, who tied the score in the sixth inning with a three-run homer, delivered a run-scoring single in the 10th inning to give the San Diego its victory. Mark Thurmond pitched the ninth inning to even his record at 2-2 while Rich Gossage hurled the 10th for his 11th save.

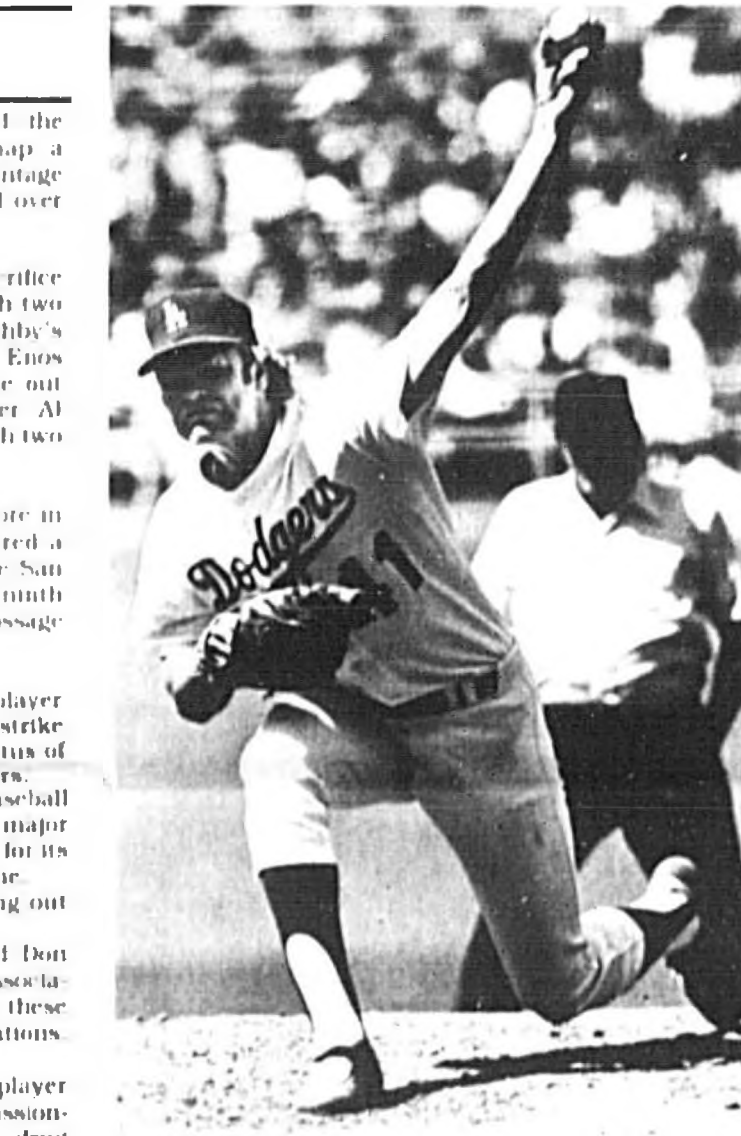

FEHR: LOGIC, REASONING IS MISSING
 CHICAGO (UPI) — Major league baseball player representatives consider the possibility of a strike today at a meeting in Chicago to discuss the status of 6-month-old contract negotiations with club owners.

The executive board of the Major League Baseball Players Association may decide to ask its 650 major league members to vote on a strike authorization for its negotiating team or to even specify a strike deadline.

The players struck for 50 days in 1981, wiping out 714 games.

"We have been down this path before," said Don Fehr, acting executive director of the Players Association. "(The players) are resigned to the fact that these negotiations are no different from past negotiations. There is no logic, no reasoning."

Besides a strike authorization vote, the player representatives will also discuss baseball commissioner Peter Ueberroth's controversial mandatory drug testing program and the owners' most recent proposal in the long-stalled negotiations. The most controversial aspect of the proposal are salary caps for the teams.

Jerry Reuss posted his 20th win in 25 decisions against Montreal Wednesday.

Holmes Misses Punch With Swipe At Marciano

NEW YORK (UPI) — Now that everyone is coming down on Larry Holmes with all that advice for his own good, maybe he'll hold still for some of mine also.

He who truly knows has no need to shout.

That's my message to him.

Why is he going around hollering about Rocky Marciano's record when he doesn't really know what he's talking about?

We're lucky we've got free speech. That makes talk cheap. Whether he realizes it or not, Holmes is guilty of a cheap shot when he calls Marciano's 49-0 record a phony. He claims Marciano fought his brothers under different brothers, plural in those exhibition bouts supposedly included in his record.

Milton Richman
 UPI EDITOR
 -SPORTS

Rocky's two brothers, Louis and Peter, both are living. He did fight Louis, but he NEVER fought Peter, who was much too young and runs a sporting goods shop in Marshfield, Mass., now. So when Holmes talks about Marciano fighting his brothers, plural, that's one obvious booby right there.

Marciano boxed brother Louis in Portland, Maine, in an exhibition for charity.

Holmes says check the record book OK, let's do that.

Nowhere in Marciano's record is there any evidence of a fight he had in Maine. Virtually all of his early ones were in Providence. Rip Valenti, who has promoted fights in New England for 50 years, says Marciano's record of 49 victories as listed in The Ring Record Book is absolutely authentic and that not a single one of those fights was an exhibition.

Oh, no, Holmes is deluding himself against enough other suits already. The lawyers are getting all his money. Well, a good chunk anyway.

Teddy Brenner, the able matchmaker for Top Rank Inc., feels the same way I do about Holmes' attack on the validity of Marciano's record and he's certainly a man who should know.

"It's a lie," he says of Holmes' assertion.

Get Smart

Oilers Need Wisser Play Tonight To Gain Split

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Edmonton Oilers believe they must either play smarter or go home smarting.

The Oilers, beaten 4-1 Tuesday in a tenacious display of forechecking by the Philadelphia Flyers, don't want to be trailing by two after Thursday's contest. Game 2 in the NHL's best of seven Stanley Cup series.

"We have to play smarter and go home with a split," Edmonton defenseman Kevin Lowe said prior to practice Wednesday. "They owned the first game. They took the body, as we expected. They slapped us around."

The Flyers outshot the Oilers 41-26. Philadelphia scored on one of seven power plays. Edmonton was zero for three.

The Oilers have not defeated the Flyers in nine games since Nov. 13, 1982. The Flyers are 22-1-1 in their last 24 games at the Spectrum.

Oilers' center Wayne Gretzky said his team is not intimidated playing in the Spectrum.

"That's not it at all," he said. "The Flyers play good, disciplined hockey. They don't give you too many chances."

"They deserve a lot of credit. They worked very hard and shut down our offense."

Gretzky, shadowed throughout the game by Ron Sutter, was unable to get one shot on net.

"I didn't play well, but I'll bounce back

NHL Playoffs

Thursday, Gretzky said "We're up against the wall. We must take the momentum away from the Flyers."

If the Oilers lose Thursday, they face the prospect of having to beat the Flyers three straight in Edmonton to regain the lead before returning to Philadelphia if a sixth or seventh game is necessary.

Edmonton defenseman Randy Gregg said his team never got going Tuesday.

"The ice was soft and the puck was bouncing," he said. "It caused us to play at a slower tempo. It was no worse for us than for the Flyers, but we have to get the tempo going and put pressure on them."

The Oilers, known as the fastest team in the National Hockey League, found the Flyers can also skate well.

"They came on us very fast," Oilers' forward Mark Napier said. "We knew it wasn't going to be easy against a team of this caliber."

"Their defense was strong and their forwards were always coming back," Napier said. "They played exceedingly well defensively."

Allen said some of Florida's 67 counties have agreed to pay travel expenses, others have not. "It's been patchwork across Florida," he said. A second expense-related case involving deposition costs incurred by public defenders is being considered by a court in Ft. Lauderdale.

Allen said a bill that would change the Florida statutes in judicial committees in each house of the legislature and has about a 50-50 chance of becoming law this session.

In the case that brought about the ruling, Padilla from Puerto Rico was arrested March 10, 1984, in connection with the shooting death the previous day of Carole Lynne Keith, 30, of Lake Gem Drive, Longwood. He pleaded guilty to first-degree murder Oct. 19 and was sentenced by Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. to life with no chance of parole for 25 years.

He was defended by the Public Defender's Office.

In preparing Padilla's defense, Don West, an assistant public defender who has since left the agency, traveled to Puerto Rico with Mark Reyes, a former assistant public defender who served as a translator for West. They went to Padilla's home because he was previously convicted of manslaughter for killing his wife but subsequently released.

West and Reyes stayed in the Caribbean Island six days. West submitted a bill of $955.21 of which $126 was for Reyes' translating services.

Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor granted the Public Defender's request that the county pay the bill because Russo said his office had no funds designated for travel expenses.

According to state statutes, a county is required to provide a public defender with office space, utilities, telephone services and custodial services. At its option, a county can appropriate or contribute pay to the salary of one assistant public defender whose only job is to defend indigents. The county is also required to provide, equip and staff a courthouse. Liens against defendants for legal costs incurred by a public defender are payable to the county, according to statutes.

Mona McGregor, Director of the Criminal Division, records, at the Seminole County Courthouse, said the county also incurs other expenses from the Public Defender's Office.

She said the county can also pay for typed depositions, transportation costs for out-of-state witnesses, copying costs, psychiatric examination costs, and costs of a court-appointed special investigator.

After Judge McGregor ordered Seminole County to pay the travel expenses the county appealed because there is no statute ordering the county to pay the bill nor was it allowed by statute to pay the bill, according to deputy county attorney Bob McMillan. He said the county also was absent during the decision-making process about who should pay the bill. The hearing in which the county was ordered to pay the bill was unrecorded, according to the appeal papers.

McMillan said the county fought the case because of principle and the "precedent value" of McGregor's ruling.

It was an expense that should have been paid by the public defender, he said.

"We had to draw the line somewhere," he said. McMillan said if McGregor's ruling had stood, the county could have incurred a lot of public defender travel expenses in the future.

McMillan said he did not think the funding situation would reach that stage nor, if it did, that the county have to provide such legal assistance.

Don North, press secretary for Florida Attorney General Jim

Smith, said the high court's opinion is only binding in the 5th District. He said the issue would have to be addressed by the Florida Supreme Court before it would have statewide impact. He said it would be reasonable to assume, however, that the increased expenses of some public defenders' offices budgets would eventually have some financial influence on the state in higher costs.

Padilla was indicted by a grand jury and pleaded guilty to avoid the death penalty. Assistant State Attorney Don Marblestone agreed not to seek the death penalty if Padilla pleaded guilty to first-degree murder. He is now in the Union Correctional Institute, Raiford.

Ms. Keith was killed at about 4:20 p.m. during an argument with Padilla. She was having a difficult time keeping Padilla away from her prior to the shooting.

Witnesses said Padilla fired several shots into her as she sat in the front seat of her car while it was parked at her employer, Vaughn Inc., a nursery at Button Road and Sunset Drive, Casselberry.

She died when a bullet ripped through her lungs and ruptured a major blood vessel. Padilla was arrested in an Orlando bar after an anonymous tip to Crimeline.

In preparing Padilla's defense, West traveled to Puerto Rico, took at least two depositions, stayed in a Ramada hotel at a cost of $80 a day and drove a rented Buick Skyhawk 433 miles. He paid $270.48 for car rental. If the case had gone to trial, West said the county would also have had to incur the expense of being a witness from Puerto Rico to Sanford.

In the decision, the justices said the question was whether travel expense is an appropriate cost to be paid by the county or be included as part of operational expenses of a public defender's office.

The high court noted that Smith's office in Oct. 1984, issued the opinion that public defenders' offices should pay for such expenses as do state attorneys' offices. They also said statutes prohibit counties from giving state attorneys' offices funds.

The court said Russo's main argument was that his office did not have the funds.

Even if we assume that this allegation was sustained as fact to the satisfaction of (McGregor) at the unreported hearing this fact alone cannot allow the circuit court to shift the financial obligation of one unit of government (the state) to another (the county), the justices wrote.

There was no allegation that the state itself was billed for this expense and could not pay. This court takes judicial notice that the state, at least at this point in time is solvent. Therefore the decision of the lower court (McGregor) is reversed.

According to routine procedure the case will be rescheduled before McGregor for reconsideration and further action.

No matter how long the bus was parked with the windows shut, Wells said, such action is improper as a disciplinary measure and the matter is being investigated. He said school bus drivers have been warned specifically against such action.

We don't condone it. We don't recommend it. They have been told not to do it," he said.

After the incident is evaluated, Wells said, school officials will decide what if any action will be taken. Seminole County sheriff's spokesman John Spoiski said at this point the incident is being dealt with by school officials and no charges have been filed.

Those (Amal) people who are supposed to fight Israel with us from the same trench have now embarked on carrying out this crime and thus helping and serving Zionist schemes," Abu Mousa said.

We cannot remain silent. We will defend our people against those covering their real faces with patriotic veils.

Amal sources said they were in full control of the Sabra and Shatila camps. Palestinian sources conceded losing parts of Sabra, but said Shatila was still contested.

At Sabra and Shatila, Amal rounded up men and youths.

Many of them were marched through Moslem neighborhoods of west Beirut before being herded into trucks and jeeps and taken to a makeshift jail — an unfinished 40-floor high-rise building near the Beirut Green Line that also serves as an Amal militia base.

Christine Fowler Bride Of Robert W. Lipscomb

Christine J. Fowler and Robert W. Lipscomb were married April 27 at 1 p.m. at All Souls Catholic Church, Sanford.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Connie Fowler, 208 McVay Drive, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Lipscomb, 1844 Anchor Drive, Sanford.

The Rev. Lyle Dancin performed the traditional double ring ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Raymond Govern of New Smyrna Beach, cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her brother, Frederick L. Fowler, the bride chose for her vows a gown of candlelight organza with Menon applique lace and seed pearls. The fitted bodice of sheer English net featured a natural waistline with a full flowing skirt terminating in a sweeping chapel train. A Camelot head piece held her waltz-length veil of applied Menon lace.

Pat M. Fowler, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor. She wore a tea-length gown of mauve chiffon accented with satin ribbon. A short chiffon jacket in a deeper shade of mauve enhanced the attire.

Bridesmaids were Kathy Williams, Lesley Higgins Liggett, Cathy Fowler, Ivey, Connie Fowler Lemons, and Theresa Fowler Keefe. Their gowns were similar to the honor attendants.

Scott J. Lipscomb, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Dave Crane, Jim Hays, Dr. Ron Estes, Tom Fowler, and Mike Maher.

A reception was held at the

Mrs. Robert W. Lipscomb

Monticello Springs Inn and Raquet Club.

Following a wedding cruise to the Bahamas, the newlyweds are making their home in Orlando.

The bride is a project administrator for AAI, Orlando. The groom is project manager for D.S.J. Investment Constructors Inc.

Author Reviews Books Based On Psychic Research For ESO

Dr. David E. Jones, associate professor of cultural anthropology at the University of Central Florida, was the guest speaker at the May meeting of the Epsilon Sigma Omicron chapter of the Sanford Woman's club held at the home of Estelle Davis with co-hostesses Esther Penn and Virginia Burney.

Introduced by Mabel Piety, program chairman, Dr. Jones reviewed two of the several books he has written based on psychic research: "Sanapia - Comanche Medicine Woman" and "Visions of Time."

"Sanapia - Comanche Medicine Woman" is the result of his years as a field researcher with the American Indian Institute and as a researcher and consultant for the H.E.W. Indian Hospital System. The consistent ability of medicine woman Sanapia to anticipate future events and envision past ones convinced Jones that psychic ability was real and not magic or make-believe. Early in their acquaintance, Sanapia asked Jones what he was doing to prepare for his uncle's visit the following week. Jones knew nothing about such a visit but, sure enough, his uncle made a surprise visit just as Sanapia had said he would. Sanapia simply "knew" things. Episodes such as this were so common that Jones came to accept them as normal.

In "Visions of Time" Jones relates his experiments in using psychics to obtain information about artifacts not available to archeologists and anthropologists. They can date artifacts and determine how and under what circumstances people lived but there is no real way to determine what primitive people were thinking or feeling. Jones hoped that psychics would be able to sense some thoughts and feelings.

The book details how the experiments were set up, who participated in them, how they were carried out and what the results were.

Albert Boze, a medium from Cassadaga, was one of the psychics who helped Jones. Boze was quite successful in "seeing" events and noting human feelings connected with the artifacts. In the controlled preliminary experiments Boze demonstrated 80% accuracy which is considered high.

Jones discovered in his research that the gift of clairvoyance is acquired in several ways. Some people are born with it, some study to gain the skill, and some seem suddenly to develop a latent ability in later years. Children born with clairvoyance have a difficult time, Jones said. If they warn people of danger, they are frequently accused of making accidents happen. They are seldom believed, are thought "peculiar" and gradually learn to keep silent about their gift.

Jones indicated this is a field with unlimited possibilities and one he intends to pursue.

The regular business meeting was conducted by chairman Pat Foster.

Members present were: Vida Smith, Charlotte Smith, Melba Cooper, Edythe George, Tempa Parks, Kay Hall, Hazel Cash, Pat Foster, Mabel Piety, Doris Hariman, Louise Hayes, Kate Nash.

Life-Saving Health Care Isn't Always Welcome

Do all people whose hearts have stopped beating later welcome the news that their lives were saved by resuscitation? Apparently not, according to a study conducted in a Boston hospital.

One-third of patients reported that they regretted being kept alive by cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR). This information is notable, to say the least: it jolts the very foundation of the acute, heroic medical care that physicians are trained to administer.

After having undergone CPR and been literally brought back from death, these survivors insisted that if their opinions had been solicited before the event, they never would have given permission for extraordinary life-support measures to be used. As painful as this knowledge may be to us doctors, we are forced to conclude that a hefty proportion of the ill people we save would prefer to die.

Most physicians involved in the study assumed — apparently incorrectly — that the victims wanted to live. Although the doctors' efforts may have been well-intentioned, their instincts seem to have been at odds with the wishes of chronically ill persons who would have chosen a quick and relatively peaceful death. Evidently, the medical profession may not be doing everyone a favor by assuming that everyone wants to survive.

I am aware that a handful of doctors who regularly participate in CPR have jokingly vowed to have the words "Do Not Resuscitate" tattooed across their chests. The average citizen may not find this solution amusing or practical, but you must admit it is a clear and direct message. And that, according to the Boston researchers, is what is most needed.

A majority of physicians are reluctant to ask flatly, before the fact, if patients want to be resuscitated. Many doctors prefer to ignore the issue altogether by believing that only they know what is best for the terminally ill. Some physicians approach the subject in subtle ways, expecting the patient to elaborate and express a preference. Until we doctors can be educated to accept death as an option that is preferable to a life of dependence and disability, I am afraid that patients must take the initiative to inform us of their own very personal beliefs. Understandably, patients may hesitate to broach the subject because their views of death may differ substantially from their physicians' opinions.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Just in case some of you are not up on your no-trump conventions, two clubs asked for a major. Four clubs then asked for aces and the four no-trump response showed three. In that fashion North-South barged into a reasonable slam.

Declarer won the club king in dummy and played the A-K of hearts. West's showing out on the second round threw a wrench into what otherwise would have been smoothly running machinery. The queen of spades was covered by the king and ace. Next came the A-Q of clubs, and a diamond was thrown from dummy. Declarer now played too quickly. He played ace of diamonds and ruffed one. Now he played jack of spades and tried to ruff a spade. East came in with the heart jack and played another heart. Eventually South had to lose two more tricks.

It is true that if East had followed to the third spade, declarer would have succeeded. He would have been able to ruff a third diamond and now score his heart 10 for the twelfth trick.

The better approach is to play jack and a spade before ruffing a diamond. Now East cannot prevail by coming in with the heart jack since declarer will have enough entries to set up the fifth spade. When East discards on the third spade, South will ruff in hand, trump a diamond and lead the fourth spade. Once again, East is helpless. If he ruffs and plays a heart, dummy is good. If he fails to ruff, declarer makes the 10 of hearts in his hand and has the slam.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY

May 24, 1985

This coming year you will have a number of opportunities to successfully use your sales abilities and promotional skills. Buyers will be interested in what you'll be selling.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today obstacles are likely to be figments of your imagination. Once you swing into action, you'll know how to circumvent these false impressions. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically best for you. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you boast about your material worth today, it will not impress anyone but yourself. Others will be more stirred by your humility than by your bucks.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Friends who have dealings with you outside of your home will find you pleasant and refreshing today. However, if family members are polled the verdict could be different.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A second effort may be required to achieve a major goal today. Don't call it quits if your first try falls short.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your judgment in most matters will be extremely keen today. The one exception, however, could be in your financial affairs, so move cautiously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A situation that has stymied your ambitious aims will take a turn for the better today. Victory is in the offing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today's conditions are unique in that you can reap gains from joint ventures but only if your choice of a partner is wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

People not directly involved in your financial affairs must be kept out of the act today. Interference from them could be a liability.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be careful today not to become too closely associated with those whose aims are not in complete harmony with yours. Stick with proven allies.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your inner urges will compel you to be industrious today and they should be heeded. However, spend time on a worthwhile hobby rather than a routine chore.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Even if things are a bit tight for you financially today, you'd be wise not to try to borrow from friends. Work your affairs out yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You are in a far stronger bargaining position today than you may realize. Don't yield to terms that do not serve your best interests.

'Contract For Life' Helps Save Lives

DEAR ABBY: The response to the column you wrote last year to promote Students Against Driving Drunk was effective beyond our wildest dreams.

Since SADD became a national program, hundreds of thousands of Contracts for Life have been signed. The death rate has dropped over 2,000 in the age bracket 16-21 in drinking and driving accidents. It is the only age bracket that has shown a decrease in deaths due to drinking and driving.

You would be doing a great public service if you would once again alert the public that the Contract for Life for high school students and the new Contract for Life for college students is now available.

The deadliest time of the year is upon us, during prom time and senior weeks across the country.

Abby, will you help us to save

Dear Abby

young lives by repeating the enclosed item from your column?

ROBERT ANASTAS, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

DEAR MR. ANASTAS: With pleasure.

DEAR READERS: A life-saving effort has just come to my attention that I think deserves publicizing.

It's called the "Contract for Life" — an agreement signed by parents and teenager in an effort to reduce the number of deaths involving drunk drivers.

SADD (Students Against

Driving Drunk) was launched two years ago in Marlboro, Mass., by Robert Anastas, a teacher from Wayland High School in Wayland, Mass., after two of his students were killed in a car crash.

The part of the contract to be signed by the teen-ager states:

"I agree to call you for advice and/or transportation at any hour, from any place, if I am ever in a situation where I have had too much to drink, or a friend or date who is driving me has had too much to drink."

The part signed by the parents states:

"I agree to come and get you at any hour, any place, no questions asked and no argument at that time, or I will pay for a taxi to bring you home safely. I expect we would discuss this issue at a later time."

I agree to seek safe, sober transportation home if I am ever in a situation where I have had too much to drink, or a friend who is driving me has had too much to drink."

Although the SADD program has already reached a million teenagers in the United States and Canada, I would like to see it in every high school.

For the free SADD kit, please send a long stamped self-addressed envelope to SADD, P.O. Box 800, Marlboro, Mass. 01752.

DEAR ABBY: This is for Exhausted — the 46-year-old woman who says her 41-year-old husband wants sex at least three times a day, and could spend the whole weekend in bed.

I have two things to say. If you're bragging shame on you for lord it over women like me whose husbands can't perform that well. If you're complaining send me your phone number.

Spying Was A Family Affair

Sailor Son Charged In Father's Espionage Ring

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A young sailor on the nuclear aircraft carrier Nimitz who stowed bulging boxes of "souvenir" classified papers near his bunk is accused of being the shipboard mole in his father's elaborate spy ring for the Soviet Union.

Michael Lance Walker, 22, was charged Wednesday in Baltimore with aiding the espionage operation allegedly run by John Anthony Walker, 47, a retired Navy officer turned private detective.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Schatzow said the younger Walker will be returned within days from the Nimitz, now in Haifa, Israel, to stand trial with his father, who was charged Monday in Baltimore with passing secret documents to Soviet agents.

Conviction on the charges could mean life in prison.

Sources told United Press International the elder Walker's former wife and daughter tipped off the FBI to the spy activities but would not provide details.

Accompanying the charges Wednesday was an FBI affidavit that quoted extensively from the younger Walker's letters to his father, addressed to "Jaws," which provided details on the massive quantities of secret documents and papers the son is accused of gathering.

The affidavit said Navy investigators found a box bulging with 15 pounds of classified papers and photographs next to the younger Walker's bunk on the Nimitz, the 98,000-ton flagship of the U.S. nuclear-powered fleet.

The younger Walker's letters spoke of the "souvenirs" he had been gathering, which the affidavit said were classified documents about the fleet's operations.

The son's letters complained that he had collected so many documents that he was going to have to start weeding out the excess. One letter noted with irony that he had been named sailor of the month for his performance aboard the ship, although he hated Navy life.

Navy and FBI officials said they were trying to determine how seriously U.S. security had been compromised because they suspected the elder Walker had been spying for at least 15 years.

Navy investigators aboard the Nimitz put the younger Walker in the brig earlier Wednesday.

The elder Walker is being held without bond in Baltimore. He retired from the Navy in 1976 as a chief warrant officer with a top-secret security clearance.

Walker's assignment for most of his Navy career was communications and sensitive military codes.

After his retirement, Walker operated two Norfolk, Va., private detective agencies that specialized in "debugging."

An FBI affidavit Monday said the sensitive papers, found by FBI agents in a bag of trash Walker left in a suburban Maryland wood, appeared to have come from the Nimitz and contained information about the deployment and movement of Soviet merchant and warships in the Mediterranean Sea.

Reconnaissance planes and equipment aboard the Nimitz regularly monitor Soviet fleet movements.

A March 6 letter from Michael Walker said:

"Enclosed is a copy of my latest evaluation. Not bad, is it? That is just a little proof on my performance as a sailor."

Teen May Face Death Penalty In Arson

ENGLEWOOD, N.J. (UPI) — Prosecutors may seek the death penalty against a teenager charged with burning down his pregnant girlfriend's house because she wanted an abortion. The girl and six other people died in the blaze.

Walter Lee Craig, 18, was charged with homicide and aggravated arson Wednesday and ordered held in the Bergen County Jail on $250,000 bail.

Craig allegedly set his girlfriend's house on fire early Wednesday, using gasoline or some other substance that spread the flames too quickly for firefighters — stationed just a block away — to stop.

Melvin Johnson, a next-door neighbor, said, "I got up and I saw flames coming out the front door. When I first walked out, all I saw was the whole house in flames."

"I don't think they really had a chance to get out. Within 20 minutes to a half hour, they started bringing the bodies out of the house," he said.

Bergen County Prosecutor Larry McClure said Craig was arrested later in the day after authorities "received information he was seen in possession of the substance (used to spread the fire) a few days before." McClure said "He was seen in the vicinity of the house by someone they both knew."

Sanford Man Fined $150 For Hitting Pregnant Wife

A 22-year-old Sanford man charged with spouse abuse after throwing a pillow at his pregnant wife and slugging her several times has pleaded guilty to battery.

Christopher B. Ferguson, of 815 Valencia Court N., entered the plea Wednesday before Seminole County Judge Harold Johnson. Johnson fined Ferguson $150 and ordered him to pay court costs and $15 to the state's victim compensation trust fund.

According to court records, Ferguson hit his wife in the face, chest and stomach.

His wife, Beve Ferguson, met with a Sanford police officer following the attack. She told him of her injuries and said she was eight months pregnant.

Fire department rescue workers were called to the Stop Center on Celery Avenue, where she had met with the officer at about 1:33 p.m. May 8. She was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, for further examination, a police report said.

Police then went to the couple's home and arrested Ferguson.

In other court action: Colozel Wings Wilder, 53, of 101 Spring St., Altamonte Springs, arrested Feb. 2 on state Road 436, Casselberry, after a motorist alerted a trooper to a possible drunk driver. He was fined $250, ordered to complete 50 hours of community service, serve a year of probation and had his driver's license suspended for 6 months.
