GDANSK, Poland (UPI) — Police tightened their grip on the Lenin Shipyard today as support slipped for the 9-day-old strike by workers demanding higher wages and official recognition of the banned Solidarity union.

The government also said Deputy Prime Minister Zdzislaw Sadowski sought a meeting with Solidarity founder Lech Walesa, but the union leader replied with a strike at the shipyard where Solidarity was born as the first independent trade union in the Soviet Bloc amid massive labor unrest in 1980.

Thomas wants code board member removed

By Wayne Mize
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — City Commissioner Bob Thomas said today that he will ask the city commission at its next meeting to remove Alfred DeLattibeaudiere from the Code Enforcement Board.

Thomas said DeLattibeaudiere recently approached several residents in his district and told them that Thomas was responsible for letters sent by the Code Enforcement Board informing them of violations involving inoperative cars and unsightly trash.

"He told this one lady that he is opening a campaign against me," said Thomas. "I don't know how he plans to go about it."

"I am going to recommend that the city commission take him off that board (Code Enforcement)," said Thomas. "This is treachery."

Thomas also mentioned DeLattibeaudiere's recent appointment to the Sanford housing authority by the city commission after William Long was denied reappointment.

"He's going to be a very disruptive force (on the housing authority)," said Thomas. "He will not be positive. He has an attitude toward Elliot Smith (director of the housing authority) like one of the commissioners. He has made Elliot Smith a target."

DeLattibeaudiere, who works at the Seminole County Building Department, could not be reached for comment.

DeLattibeaudiere's appointment to the housing authority was discussed at Monday night's City Commission meeting.

City Attorney Bill Colbert informed the commission that, according to Florida laws, DeLattibeaudiere could not serve on both the housing authority and the code enforcement board at the same time. He also informed the commission that DeLattibeaudiere did not meet the tenant-resident requirement for the position vacated by Long.

The commission decided to see if other members of the housing authority met the tenant-resident requirement, allowing them to keep DeLattibeaudiere on the board if he

Klan plans march in Sanford Saturday

By Wayne Mize
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan plan a demonstration Saturday afternoon in front of the Seminole County Courthouse and the announcement has caught city and county officials by surprise.

Grand Wizard Tony Bastanzio of Apopka said the gathering of seven to 10 Klansmen, between 2 and 4 p.m. Saturday is "to make people aware that the NAACP is trying to put the Stars-and-bars in a museum."

The "Stars-and-bars" is commonly referred to as the Rebel or Confederate flag and has also served as a symbol of the KKK. The National Association for Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), wants the Confederate flag removed from local, state and federal government properties.

Bastanzio said that he only expects 10 KKK members because "the strength of our organization is in its secrecy."

According to Bastanzio, the KKK picked Sanford at random. "We will be popping up all over at city halls," he said. "On Sunday we will be in Titusville and on May 28 in Clearwater."

Bastanzio told the Herald that thing left over from Friday." He said Sanford police would have law enforcement jurisdiction over the street in front of the courthouse.

Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett said he spoke to Bastanzio this morning via telephone.

"After speaking with him, I am not sure that they will need any permits," he said. "As long as they are orderly and lawful, the constitution protects them. They will not be using any amplification and due to the small size of the group they probably won't need a permit."

Harriett said the city requires a parade permit for larger gatherings and a permit for the use of a loudspeaker at gatherings.

County Administrator Ken Hooper said, "I guess I need to look at the rules to see if they do need a permit. I guess they would have to check with the city of Sanford."

County Sheriff John A. Polk said that he was not aware of the KKK demonstration and declined to comment on it. "I cannot comment on something I've heard from the news media," he said.

Seminole County to appeal another Sanford annexation

SANFORD — The City Commission approved the drafting of an annexation ordinance Monday night that could lead to another court battle with Seminole County.

The commission directed City Attorney John Colbert to draw up an ordinance annexing property owned by Simplimatic Engineering, Inc., on the west side of Airport Boulevard just east of Highway 17-92.

The Simplimatic property is adjacent to property previously annexed and which Seminole County and Sanford are currently locked in a court battle over.

The annexation of that property, located at the northeast corner of Airport Boulevard and Jewett Lane, was challenged by the county in Seminole County Circuit Court, and Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. ruled in favor of the city. The county has appealed that ruling and the case is currently waiting to be heard by the Fifth District Court of Appeals.

Deputy County Attorney Robert A. McMillan notified the city by letter that if it proceeds with the annexation of the Simplimatic property, the city can expect a "challenge to the annexation."

Colbert told commissioners if the county wins its appeal, Monday's action could also be

Marina rules ordered

SANFORD — City Commissioners voted unanimously to proceed with the drafting of an ordinance regulating marina parking, ramp fees and the elimination of power loading of boats at the Monroe Harbor Marina, after hearing citizen opposition at Monday night's meeting.

Commissioners voted to authorize City Attorney Bill

Colbert to draft an ordinance to establish the fees, and regulations.

After the drafting of the regulations, the ordinance must receive two public readings by the commission to go into effect.

Gunter protests statements made by petition circulators

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Mayor David Gunter who, along with Deputy Mayor Lynette Dennis, is the subject of recall petition drive, has protested what he says is misinformation being spread as fact by circulators of the petitions.

In a prepared statement read at the beginning of a special commission meeting Monday night, Gunter said a number of people have called him and said those who are circulating petitions are stating as fact that "this commission is going to raise water rates 42 percent; that there was some 'hanky-panky' with respect to a zoning matter; that we are going to raise sewer rates and garbage fees; that we will raise taxes, and that we are guilty of persecuting the police chief."

Gunter pointed out that these things people are being told in an effort to GET signatures on the recall petition are not listed on the petition as reasons for recall. "The truth is," Gunter said, "that this city has undertaken a well-publicized task to have a management analysis and evaluation of each department. This has never before been done, and our city has suffered accordingly. Such an analysis and evaluation will assist in determining if there are problems and, if so, action can be taken to improve the management of this city's resources."

Gunter said the new city administrator Gene DeMarie, who is working in Longwood two days a week until May 31 when he comes on full time, will give the commission his views and recommendations in due course.

"When he does, we will listen closely to his recommendations and the public will be given an opportunity to also listen and give input," Gunter said. "Until the city administrator gives his views and recommendations, it is pure nonsense to speculate on what will be done."

"Shooting from the hip and hip pocket government are things of the past," he said, "and those who engaged in this activity seem to want a return to the past. I think I speak for each member when I say that there is a need for preventative maintenance to the infrastructure of this city. We have a responsibility—in fact a duty—to see that the resources of this city are protected to the extent that city services are not disrupted by massive failure in the water and sewer lines, for example."

Gunter said free copies of the management analysis and evaluation of the public works department prepared by private consultant Jeff Eteberger are available at the water department, city hall and fire department. Eteberger recommended rate increases to replace and maintain old lines and equipment, which he said past administrations have neglected in order to keep rates and taxes low.

Both Dennis and Gunter have pointed out that should enough signatures be collected to hold a recall election, it would be a

Child's tip leads to arrest of mother on cocaine charges

LONGWOOD — A 10-year-old girl's tip to City County Investigative Bureau agents has brought the arrest of her mother and the woman's boyfriend on cocaine charges. CCIB agents reported the girl said she "couldn't live like this anymore." Information provided by the child led agents with a warrant to search the home of Migdalia Quinones, 29, of 321 E. Church Ave., Longwood, at about 9:30 p.m. Monday.

Quinones, the girl's mother, and her live-in boyfriend, Richard Albert Cortes, 28, were charged with possession of cocaine and possession of cocaine with intent to distribute. Agents reported finding 24 grams of cocaine in their bedroom. Two scales and other drug paraphernalia were also reportedly found in the search.

Quinones and Cortes remain jailed in lieu of $2,000 bond each. The girl is in the custody of relatives, agents reported.

Women face forgery charges

LONGWOOD — Two women believed to be part of an Orlando-based forgery ring face charges related to fraud, forgery and theft in Seminole County after they allegedly tried to cash a stolen and forged check.

Orleesa F. Dixon, age unknown, of Orlando, and Gwendolyn Perry Hylch, 27, of Orlando, were arrested by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy at the Publix supermarket, Hunt Club Corners, rural Longwood, at about 3 p.m. Saturday.

Police discovered the marijuana when Earl got into his vehicle after being asked to leave the New Salem Primitive Baptist Church on 1500 W. 12th St.

A further search of the vehicle revealed more marijuana in the glove box, police said.

The suspect has been released on $500 bond.

In breaking up Saturday riot

Some parents say deputies overreacted

By Susan Loden
 Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Parents of students involved in a Saturday confrontation with Seminole County sheriff's deputies at a McDonald's restaurant in rural Casselberry are claiming law enforcement authorities overreacted in restoring order.

Authorities deny that claim, saying their defensive posture and a demonstration of their willingness to make arrests curbed what amounted to a riot by a group of about 200 high school-age kids.

"We turned it around because we didn't back down. When people broke the law, we enforced it. The rest probably decided they didn't want to go to jail," said sheriff's investigator Eric Bryant, who was one of eight sheriff's detectives who arrived at the scene at about 11:45 p.m. to assist eight patrol deputies already involved in the confrontation.

The youths had just left a party about two miles away where deputies had dispersed a group of approximately 1,000 who reportedly became rowdy at an outside party site off Red Bug Lake Road and Citrus Road in southeast Seminole County.

Bryant said the partygoers were from Lake Howell and Oviedo High schools, and the surrounding area. He estimated their ages at from 15 to 18 year. At the party, minors had access to alcohol, probably bought by older persons, Bryant said. No arrests have been made in connection with that allegation, but the investigation into the party continues.

When the detectives arrived, patrol deputies had already arrested or were in the process of arresting three adults and two juveniles, who allegedly resisted deputies. One 18-year-old, who allegedly fought with a sheriff's lieutenant and then tried to kick his way out of a patrol car, has been charged with battery on a policeman in addition to other charges.

Bryant said complaints that the deputies overreacted in the face of about 200 unruly youths who took over the restaurant, surrounded the building, had fights, hurled racial slurs at McDonald's employees and grabbed money from the cash register, are without basis.

Bryant said the deputies acted with restraint and took a defensive posture, not offensive. The only physical confrontations between deputies and suspects, he said, involved the suspects who were arrested.

Each deputy at the scene, Bryant said, was surrounded by about 20 to 30 youths. Bryant said he and the other deputies were peppered with spit although some of the crowd dispersed when the detectives arrived. The conflict ended about 20 minutes later, with those suspects who were not arrested leaving the scene.

One sheriff's deputy suffered a broken finger, the only injury to result from the fracas.

Deputies said they were cursed, threatened and spat on by the unruly crowd of about 200 youngsters who reportedly took over the restaurant at about 11:30 p.m. Saturday. The McDonald's, located on Tuskawilla Road at Red Bug Lake Road, recently opened and is a favorite hangout for high school students, Bryant said.

The use of alcohol, Bryant said, probably contributed to the problems at the restaurant. There were no reports of complaints against the remaining 800 or so guests who left the first party but did not go to the restaurant he said.

Seminole County Chief Deputy Duane Harrell said the trouble at McDonald's began after the 200 or so youths who rushed the restaurant demanded immediate

Rape suspect claims powers from the devil

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A 20-year-old man who allegedly forced entry into a former girlfriend's apartment and raped her after telling her he was empowered by the devil has been charged with sexual battery, armed burglary to an occupied dwelling and battery.

George Michael Fowler, 20, of 752 Meadow Lark Court, Longwood, reportedly told Altamonte Springs police that when he lived in North Carolina he practiced witchcraft. Police took Fowler into custody at the victim's apartment at about 12:21 a.m. today. He was being held without bond.

The victim told police she was watching television at about 12:08 a.m. when she heard Fowler allegedly use a key he had had made for himself without her knowledge, enter through the front door.

She told him to leave but he reportedly said he had a key to her apartment and started pushing her around. Fowler allegedly said he had "powers" and that he worshipped the devil.

The suspect then allegedly attacked the woman and pulled a telephone cord from the wall when the victim attempted to call police.

When police arrived, they reported hearing muffled screams and scuffling inside the victim's home. Upon entering the residence, police said they saw a man dragging a woman down a hallway inside the apartment.

He had one hand over her mouth and an arm around her throat.

The attacker freed the woman when ordered to do so by police.

Grab a bucket to catch rain

By Fred H. Cooper
 Herald Staff Writer

There are obviously two types of people in Seminole County—weatherwise, that is. One group wants beautiful weather everyday: Blue skies with puffy clouds, rays from the sun providing delightful tans, and balmy breezes gently languishing the skin. And they want it everyday because that's why they live in Florida.

Group two prides itself on their ability to grow green grass, raise beautiful flowers and well trimmed bushes and hedges. They love beautiful days but pray for the late afternoon showers so essential for flora.

Today just might be a day to bring smiles to the countenances of both groups. Temperatures will push 90 degrees and the humidity will languish around 85 percent. Winds are from the southeast and at just about the perfect velocity and the skies are partly cloudy. Chances of rain are set at about 15 to 20 percent. That takes care of group one.

The officially USA designated meteorologists have a bit of advice for group two. Scan the sky for the impregnated clouds, they'll be obvious. When you spot one of them things, move swiftly towards it. This means running around with a bucket all afternoon, but it'll be worth it. You'll get those drops in your bucket, then you can lie back to your domicile and let your plants gulp away.

If you're too pooped to scamper about today, wait a couple of days. Those chances of rain will increase appreciably come Thursday.

If you're planning a trip north this weekend you'll probably get your share of showers. Skies will be cloudy and rain expected all along the Atlantic seaboard. Nothing dangerous, however.

Our friends in Laredo and Gunnison have copped the crowns for temperatures extremes again. Laredo takes highest high honors with a 103 degree reading while Gunnison recorded the lowest low with 21 degrees. Congratulations to these extremists.

The consistent nature of our weather contrasts with the devastation being wrought in other areas of the nation.

Powerful thunderstorms that whipped up a killer tornado in Kentucky and fierce winds which flipped six planes at a Cleveland airport weakened today in the Ohio Valley, but thrashed about farther south than Texas to Georgia.

One person died and about five were injured in Middlesboro, Ky., late Monday as a twister spun out of the thunderstorms rumbling through the Cumberland Mountains and ripped through the downtown area.

Kentucky State Police dispatchers in Harlan said troopers were sent to Middlesboro to help the town of 12,000 people after the tornado struck around 10:30 p.m.

In Ohio, a storm flinging winds of more than 60 mph slammed Cleveland, flipping over a half-dozen small planes at Burke Lakelron Airport. Damage to the planes was estimated at $125,000.

Askew withdrawal leaves Senate race wide open

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A campaign that front-runner Reubin Askew abandoned as too time-consuming and frustrating has hired one new candidate and could sweep at least two more into a four-way Democratic primary.

Rep. Kenneth "Buddy" MacKay announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate Monday with former Gov. Askew at his side. Several hours later Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter admitted he is also considering the race and planned an announcement in a few weeks.

A third politician, state Sen. Pat Frank of Tampa, is also mentioned as a potential candidate for the seat of Sen. Lawton Chiles, who announced his retirement. Rep. Dan Mica is already seeking the nomination.

MacKay, of Ocala, was immediately endorsed by Askew, a heavily favored contender who pulled out of the race this week complaining about his lack of desire to return to public life.

Gunter, meeting reporters late Monday, said he spoke with potential supporters and with MacKay and expects to make a formal announcement within a couple of weeks.

"He (MacKay) was disappointed with the tone of my conversation," Gunter said. "I was positive in my comments, and he was positive in his comments. It was a Mexican standoff."

Meanwhile, Frank is letting supporters know she is prepared to begin a race for the seat.

Gunter and MacKay both sought the 1980 Democratic Senate nomination against former Sen. Richard Stone. Gunter beat Stone in a bitter run-off that helped Paula Hawkins win the Senate seat for the Republicans.

Mica of Lake Worth, Askew's only challenger for the nomination, accused the former governor and MacKay of backroom dealings to "pass the baton" to MacKay.

"I think it's wrong to feel you can be appointed or appointed to a race like this," Mica said.

But MacKay and Askew denied any secret maneuvering. Askew said he notified MacKay he was considering an end to his campaign out of a "strong moral obligation," because MacKay held off entering the race in deference to Askew.

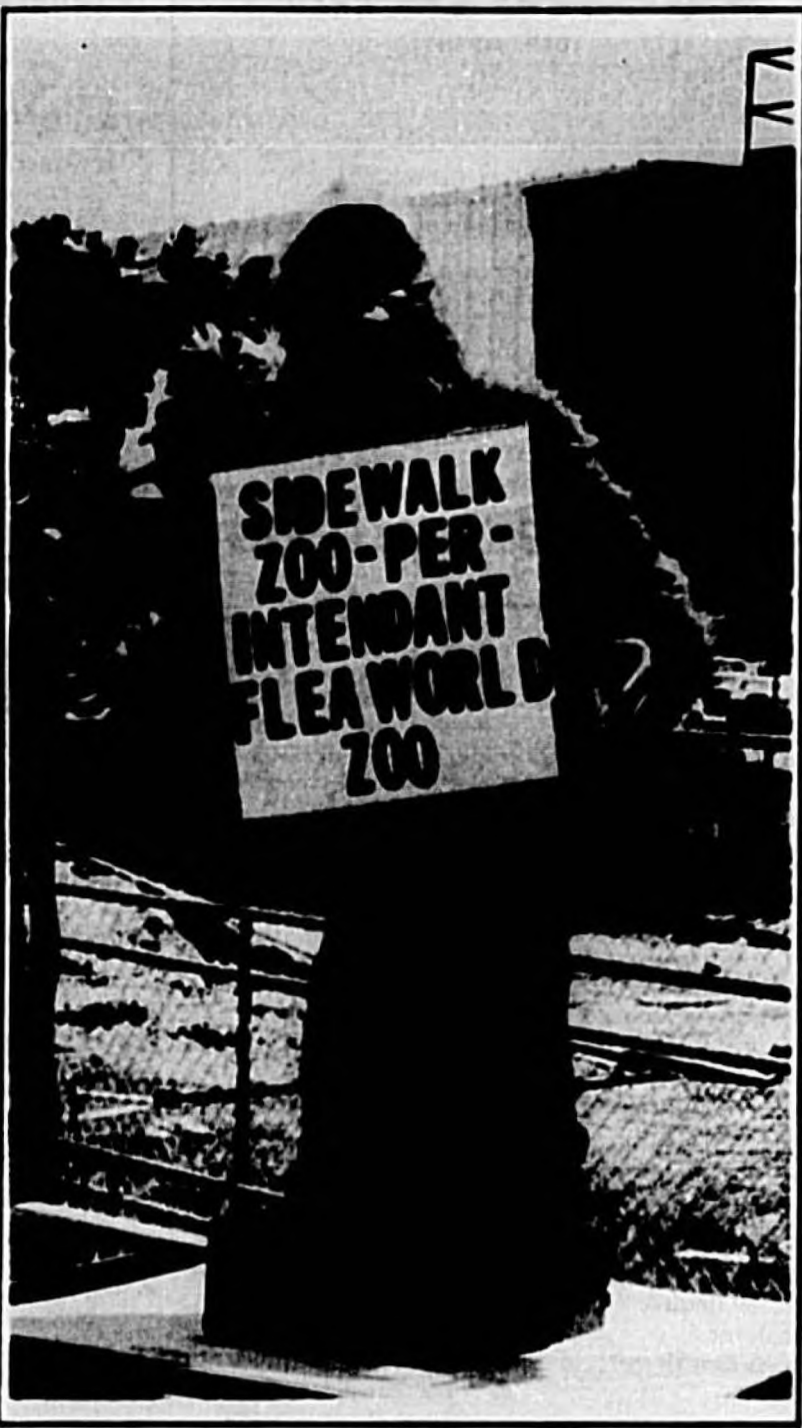

"My conduct indicates that I am perfectly prepared to step back for someone who I think can play a leadership role and represent this state in a leadership fashion in the U.S. Senate," MacKay said. "I'm not prepared to step back for Congressman Mica."

"In my usual self-effacing fashion, let me say I think I've made a bigger impact in 5 1/2 years than Congressman Mica has made in 10 years in Congress."

MacKay had been considering a campaign for governor in 1990 before Askew pulled out. He acknowledged the confusion of the weekend was overshadowing any issues in the race, but predicted the voters would pay more attention to differences of policy, philosophy and leadership between the various candidates as the September primary nears.

Mica contended voters would remember him as the Democrat who was not afraid to take on Askew when the former governor held a dramatic lead in the polls. He said many Askew supporters were outraged when he pulled out, citing his unwillingness to beg for campaign money and family considerations.

Also appearing with MacKay were Steve Pajcic, who lost the 1986 general election for governor to Bob Martinez after a bitter Democratic primary; House Speaker Jon Mills, who is expected to announce Tuesday for MacKay's congressional seat; House Speaker Pro Tem James Burke; and former state Sen. Ed Dunn, an unsuccessful candidate for attorney general in 1986.

Florida teacher of the year named

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) — First-grade teacher Linda Lentini of Dade County, a former special education student, was named Florida teacher of the year, in recognition of her 30 years of teaching.

Lentini, a teacher at North Miami Elementary School, emerged from five finalists in the statewide competition.

Commissioner of Education Betty Castor, who made the announcement Monday in Walt Disney World's Dreamers and Doers competition, said Lentini spent her early years in special education class, "where repression and non-acceptance were her daily fare."

"Her struggle in school shaped and forged in her a concept of what a teacher should never be — indifferent, ridiculing and sarcastic," Castor said. "She determined she would be a teacher, one who would be accepting of every child, whether gifted or disabled."

Lentini will serve as the Christa McAuliffe Ambassador for Education to address students, teachers, businesses and community groups during a one-year sabbatical. She will emphasize educational practices and needs in Florida.

Lentini said her most rewarding experience as a teacher has been "turning kids on to the classroom," and encouraging classroom assistants to become more enthusiastic about teaching.

See alternatives in health care

As this nation's population grows older, one of the most important problems will be to provide health care for its citizens of all ages, but especially for the elderly who need more medical services than do most younger people.

This problem, however, will not be solved by simply throwing more dollars into the costly, bureaucratic and often inadequate Medicare program. A proposed "Medicare Catastrophic Protection Act" now being considered by the Democratic-controlled Congress would, in the name of providing more so-called medigap insurance, hit an estimated 12 million elderly citizens with additional tax burdens to help pay for services they are already receiving in some cases.

Officials of the Congressional Budget Office estimate the House version of the bill could cost $40.8 billion the first five years, while the Senate bill would cost $27.7 billion. History tells us the costs would probably soar even higher.

If health care is to be provided in the years ahead, bureaucratic governmental programs are going to have to be reined in and private enterprise is going to have to be given a bigger role.

New approaches will have to be taken to such things as providing long-term nursing care. The financing of such long-term care should be separated from the more acute care provided, for example, by Medicaid. One of the reasons that Medicaid expenses are increasing so rapidly is that 42 percent of the long-term nursing home expenses are covered by that program, which should be restricted to cover only medical expenses.

Approximately three-fourths of the long-term care now received by elderly citizens comes from their spouses, children or other relatives or friends. As much as possible, government and private insurance programs should be tailored to permit the elderly to remain in their homes for as long as possible because they are comfortable there and because care can be provided for less money than is the case in nursing homes.

Rather than pumping huge amounts of money into open-ended government programs, Congress should enact legislation providing for healthcare savings accounts, similar to IRAs, so Americans in their younger years and their employers could set aside money for medical care that will be needed as they get older.

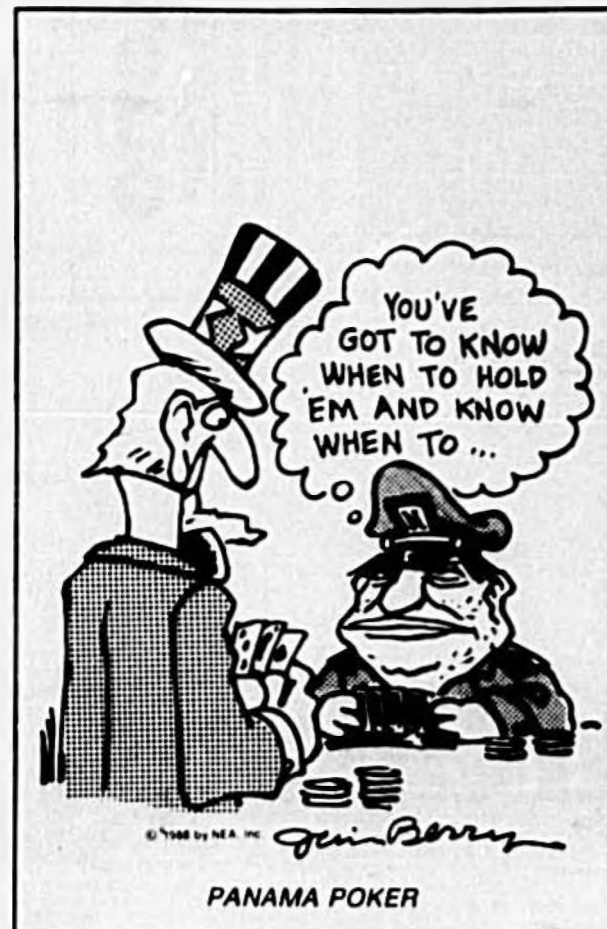

New coinage

You would think the government has learned its lesson with the Susan B. Anthony dollar. Apparently not. There's a move afoot to tamper with the designs of the five major U.S. coins, the penny through the half dollar.

Who needs it? Well, nobody actually. But a good number of people sure want it. People such as artists, mining interests, coin dealers and collectors, for example. Also pushing for change is the federal Commission on Fine Arts, which has talked members of Congress into introducing bills in both the house and Senate ordering the mint to redesign and modernize the coins.

Whatever is said publicly about the need for new images and new inspiration, there is but one motive behind the change: It will mean big bucks to a select group of interested parties.

BERRY'S WORLD

CRACK STONE

Schroeder and Dole for vice president

An American suffers either from questionable judgment or reckless ambition when he or she seeks an office that has been described as "not worth a bucket of warm spit," "a spare tire on the automobile of government," the country's "next highest and th' lowest" office and "like writin' anonymous letters."

With that panoply of ridicule, it's understandable why vice presidents rarely get elected president.

Those disdainful descriptions come from cynical ex-vice presidents and impenetrable literary critics. Yet, distinguished Americans have not surrendered their enthusiasm or respect for the nation's second highest office. And that includes Jesse Jackson.

By nominating a Michael Dukakis-Jackson ticket, Democrats would semaphore a new political ethic. But it won't happen. Psychologically, America's "good ol' boys" aren't yet ready to abdicate their preferred status to a black man — even if his power is soaked in a bucket of warm spit.

Despite Jackson's almost certain rejection at the Democratic convention, he still added eloquence and — excuse the metaphor — color to the 1988 presidential campaign. More than any other candidate, he electrified the electorate with his vision of America's mandate.

He brought out new voters. But that's not enough to guarantee victory. Without him, the presidential campaign guarantees dullness.

On a Richter scale of excitement, a Dukakis-George Bush debate rates slightly lower than a Bartles and Jaymes pitch for wine coolers. The ideological choice is clear. The desire to make it isn't. How do you choose between the personalities of Tweedledee and Tweedledee?

This isn't the most propitious way to make my argument for two distinguished vice presidential candidates, but I think 212 years after the country was founded, 69 years after the 19th Amendment nationalized women's suffrage, four years after the first major party nominated a woman for vice president, and in the year of the first major black presidential challenger — it's time for both parties to accept an America that is half male and half female. It is time for two — not one, but two — women vice presidential candidates.

Two extraordinary women possess these qualities: for the Democrats, Rep. Patricia Scott Schroeder; for the Republicans, Elizabeth Hanford Dole.

The similarities in their backgrounds are astounding. Now that Ronald Reagan has legitimized astrology, it might help to know that both are Leos and celebrate birthdays one day apart. (Dole, July 29; Schroeder, July 30). Both were distinguished scholars (Schroeder, magna cum laude; Dole, Phi Beta Kappa). Both are graduates of Harvard Law School. Both are from the Midwest-Western region of the country (Schroeder, Colorado; Dole, Kansas), the region both parties need to win. Both are cerebral, telegraphically attractive, witty, politically experienced and knowledgeable about public policy.

And whichever candidate won, America would enjoy the distinction of a woman vice president.

Unions' growing obsolete

WASHINGTON — One of the most interesting features of the current campaigns to choose presidential contenders is the irrelevance of the labor unions. That's something new in American political life. Not too long ago, union leaders were political kingmakers.

The political influence of the unions is largely irrelevant because unions in totality are increasingly irrelevant. The unionized sector of the work force is in steady decline. It's hard to see the place of unions in America in the next century.

This is not to say that unions don't play a significant role in some industries and some parts of the country; but it's a negative role. Unions today are equated with teacher and hospital worker strikes and resistance to inevitable modernization in industry. Unions such as the Teamsters have an ugly history of violence and corruption. The federal government has had to place certain union locals in a form of protective custody in order to ensure fair union elections. More of that sort of thing is likely in the future.

The public also knows that the construction trades in certain large cities are in the grip of hoodlum-connected elements. Shootings and arson in union disputes continue to be a scandal in certain industrial states. The railroad unions continue to defend archaic labor practices and excessive privilege. Teacher strikes, as in Chicago, are a national scandal and a threat to quality public education.

Despite the remaining power grabs by unions, they aren't doing well. The public perceives them as a disruptive and power-seeking force that opposes efficiency and fairness.

The unions are locked into a mind-set derived from the Great Depression. They want to impose uniform wage patterns and work procedures in American industry at a time when flexible manufacturing appears to be the wave of the future. Prof. Charles Hecksher of Harvard University recently observed that labor unions "seem constantly mismatched to the situation."

What may be happening, in fact, is that unions are becoming obsolete. By the end of the century, they are likely to be much diminished.

Convict's wife charges prison let him die

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

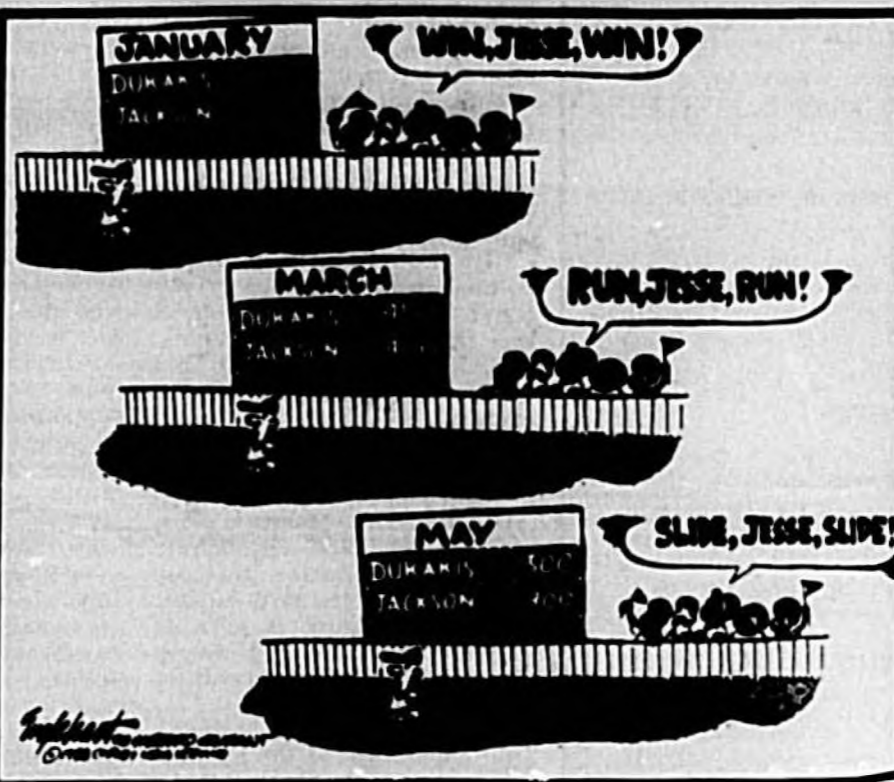

WASHINGTON — When Robert Horne was sentenced to seven years in prison for dealing drugs, he might as well have gone to death row.

Last October, Horne entered the Federal Correctional Institute in Petersburg, Va. Four months later, he left in a box.

His death certificate says he died of congestive heart failure. Angry inmates and his widow claim he died of neglect. His former heart doctor believes that, with the right care, Horne might have lived for another 10 years or more.

When Horne walked into a cell at the age of 47, he carried with him a litany of heart ailments. He had had two open-heart surgeries. For two years before he went to jail, his weak heart kept him confined to his Washington, D.C., home within easy reach of an oxygen machine. "He was like having another kid here," recalled Rosetta Horne, his widow and the mother of their eight children. "He couldn't lift a baby."

When Horne was sentenced last year on a 1984 heroin charge, the judge made it clear that he should receive good medical care. A report sent to the prison by his parole

JEFFREY HART

Thinking of drugs

The Reagan administration has fought valiantly against the drug plague. Its expenditures in this effort rising from $800 million in 1981 to $2.5 billion in 1988. Spectacular military busts have been made in supplier countries like Colombia and Mexico. Yet everyone concedes that the war has been lost.

The problem is not on the supply side, in Colombia and Panama and Mexico. The problem is on the demand side, in Manhattan, Detroit, Houston and Los Angeles. Officials in countries on the supply side are properly outraged. Their agents are risking and losing their lives in the war against drugs; while here, on the demand side, we are not doing much that is serious about sellers and users.

There has begun to be a serious intellectual debate, over a wide range of options, about how to change our strategy and turn the situation around.

Libertarians like David Boaz of the Cato Institute and Ira Glaser of the American Civil Liberties Union make a very strong case that we should simply decriminalize drugs. That would cut the price and put the international cartels out of business. It would greatly reduce the sort of street crime and prostitution that is generated by the demand for high-priced drugs. Available cheap drugs would probably lead to increased addiction, but that is a problem that would solve itself in time, as the addicts shuffle off this mortal coil.

The ever formidable Irving Kristol counsels us to escalate the war. At present, our enforcement procedures operate only within the three-mile limit. A drug-laden plane or boat four miles out can maneuver at will, darting in when it feels safe. Kristol thinks we should use the Air Force and the Navy to conduct sweeps far beyond the three-mile limit. Many of these big shipments can be recognized through tips and through agents. A plane can be forced to land, or a boat put into port, for inspection.

China and Malaysia have opted for very direct action. In both countries, both suppliers and users are executed. Neither country has a drug problem. Kristol rule this solution out because we are, he says, a "liberal" country and don't have the stomach for such measures. Still, this solution would be a lot better than spending $2.5 billion in a losing and escalating war.

The drug problem is corrupting our foreign policy and is very likely to corrupt the 1988 presidential election. Pakistan was a key country in the Afghan war against the Soviets, which the Soviets seem to have lost. Pakistan is also a large drug supplier. General Noriega in Panama was helpful with the Nicaraguan Contras. He's also deeply into the drug trade.

officer also noted his medical needs.

But it appears that Horne received no special diet and no intensive attention. Stranded without an oxygen machine, he was known to ease his breathing with Vicks inhalant, according to his wife.

Our associate Jim Lynch interviewed three inmates who observed Horne's rapid decline. They watched him drag himself up the stairs to his second-story cell. "He'd take three steps, then a five-minute break," said Ronald Bates, his former cellmate.

They also recited vivid accounts of the alarming way Horne's body bloated as a side effect of fluid buildup and poor circulation. "The skin was stretched tight and purple over his legs," said one inmate. "He had a lump the size of a grapefruit in his abdomen."

Horne's swollen legs and shortness of breath prevented him from walking to the cafeteria more than five times in December, according to another inmate. He ate snack foods from the prison convenience store instead.

Warden J.J. Clark claims that Horne got as much attention as any other inmate with serious medical needs and that Horne never asked to be moved to the first floor. The prison doctor who treated Horne refused to be interviewed. Clark has no record of Horne's handwritten pleas for help, even though Rosetta Horne has the carbon copies of those letters on prison forms, which serve as a receipt.

On Nov. 4, Horne wrote the prison's medical staff: "I would like to have an X-ray of my chest. I am having chest pains and also I'm sick. Tightening of chest." Five days later, Horne got a written reply: "If you are having medical problems you need to sign up and be seen at sick call." Prison officials report Horne never did sign up for sick call.

On Dec. 22, Horne wrote the administrator of the prison's small hospital: "I would like an EKG done on me. ... I think my heart is giving me trouble. I was on oxygen at home. And have not had any since I've been here. Please see me A.S.A.P."

Horne got his EKG a month later, and a chest X-ray on Jan. 21 revealed fluid buildup up in his lungs and blocking his intestines.

Dr. Stanley R. Samms, Horne's former heart physician in Washington, D.C., said that should have been a clear sign that Horne

Youths avoid 'safe sex'

By Rebecca Kolberg
UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Teenagers acknowledge the value of using condoms to prevent AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases, but new research shows few sexually active adolescents use condoms regularly.

A yearlong study of adolescents aged 14 to 19 in San Francisco showed only 2.1 percent of females and 8.2 percent of males reported using condoms every time they had sexual intercourse. During the year, 40.3 percent of the females and 69.4 percent of the males reported having more than one sex partner.

Researchers at the University of California San Francisco's medical school found both males and females generally agreed that using condoms to prevent sexually transmitted diseases was important.

However, the study states, "Females showed little intention to have their partners use condoms and were uncertain about whether or not their partners wanted to use them."

In contrast, males said they thought their partners wanted them to use condoms and indicated they would likely use condoms, although the strength of that intention declined between the first survey and the final survey.

"I had hoped to see some increase in condom use, but I was not surprised by the results," said Susan Kegeles, who directed the study, which ran from September 1985 through October 1986.

"There has been a lot of health education about AIDS out there, but almost all has been directed toward homosexual men. There has been little directed toward heterosexuals and even less toward adolescents," Kegeles said. "Adolescents may have a sense that they are not very vulnerable."

The incidence of AIDS is low among adolescents, with 257 cases reported in youths age 13-19 as of May 2, federal statistics show.

But health officials are concerned the relatively high rate of sexually transmitted diseases among teenagers may indicate they are at high risk for eventually developing AIDS. It is not known how widespread the HIV virus is among adolescents.

needed to be hospitalized. "My alarm bell would have gone off," he said. "I would have admitted him into my hospital."

But Horne wasn't taken to a nearby hospital. He wasn't even admitted to the prison hospital ward with its staff of eight nurses and visiting doctors. Horne was sent back to his cell.

Four days later, some 18 hours before he died on Jan. 26, Horne was given a prison hospital bed.

Rosetta Horne and some inmates think Horne would have died in his cell if she hadn't insisted that he get medical attention. The day before Horne died, his wife said he told her in a telephone call, "They just gave me some pills and told me to lay down for a couple days. I'm swollen so bad I can't feel no pain." At that point, Mrs. Horne called the prison and insisted that her husband be hospitalized.

With good medical care, Horne could have lived "at least another 10 years," Samms said. Although he cared for Horne for almost four years, the prison never sought Samms' medical advice.

It "was not deemed necessary," said Warden Clark. "We have the facilities ... to adequately treat congestive heart failure."

Bucs name Mike Shula QB coach

TAMPA (UPI) — Mike Shula, the son of Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula, retired as an NFL player Monday after not participating in a regular-season game as a Tampa Bay Buccaneer rookie last year.

Shula, 22, was hired by the Buccaneers as an assistant coach. Shula played for Ray Perkins at the University of Alabama. Perkins, named Tampa Bay's coach before last season, selected Shula in the 12th round of the 1987 draft.

Shula was one of Tampa Bay's final cuts in training camp. He rejoined the team following the players' strike. Except for limited preseason action, Shula did not attempt a pass as an NFL quarterback.

"I've always known that I wanted to stay in football after my playing days were over," said Shula, a three-year starter for Perkins at Alabama. "This decision to retire as a player is something I've thought a lot about. It is the best thing for me, although I will miss not being an actual player."

Shula will work with the offensive coaching staff and assist Perkins in coaching Buccaneer quarterbacks. Tampa Bay obtained veteran Joe Ferguson from Indianapolis last week to back up Vinny Testaverde.

"Mike is an outstanding young man and this is something he very much wants to do," Perkins said. "We had talked about his future in football since early in his college career. I feel very strongly this is going to prove very beneficial both to Mike and the Bucs."

The Buccaneers also waived running backs Harold Ricks, Steve Bartalo and Charles Gladman, and withdrew a qualifying offer to veteran Mike Stensrud, who started 12 games at nose tackle last year.

The Buccaneers also announced a shakeup in the front office. Scouts Dean Rossi and Steve Verderosa and player personnel assistant Judy Kane were not offered new contracts. Erik Widmark, the club's director of pro personnel, announced his resignation.

Lake Mary's Brad Smith has rebounded from a stress fracture and regained the form that made him one of the state's top two milers early in the season.

SHS tests 3A waters State meet Friday at Showalter Field

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Editor

Seminole High will venture into its first Class 3A State Track and Field meet Friday at Showalter Field in Winter Park after clashing with the best 4A had to offer for many years.

The Seminole girls and boys teams, however, don't expect a walk in the park.

Class 3A has long been an extremely competitive division with some outstanding athletes such as Arthur Blake of Haines City who ran the best times ever in any class in the 120 and 330 hurdles in 1984. Seminole boys coach Ken Brauman knows exactly how tough Class 3A is as he coached the Palatka High team that won state titles in 1980 and 1981.

TRACK/FIELD

This year, Seminole doesn't figure to contend for the team title as it qualified only four individuals and no relays, but Brauman didn't figure his young team would win state this season. Still, this year's meet will give the 'Noles a good idea of what they will have to contend with in the future — and Brauman definitely plans on contending in the future.

This year in the boys competition, Lake Wales figures to be a strong contender along with Ocala Forest. The defending champion is Quincy Shanks.

The girls also have some impressive records including the best ever time in the 100 meters, run by Suwannee's Angela Polite, and an incredible distance double of 4:54.8 in the mile and 10:33.5 in the two mile by Gainesville's Marie Dolder in 1981.

Seminole High girls coach Emory Blake is confident his girls can claim a third consecutive state title (they won Class 4A in 1986 and '87) but he also knows there will be strong competition.

Belle Glade-Glades Central has won the Class 3A title the past three years and five of the last six. Glades, which finished second to Seminole in last year's State Heptathlon competition, also figures to have a strong team this year. Haines City and Jacksonville Ribault are other

Al Unser Jr., right, and Al Unser Sr. have a chat while waiting for the start of the race. The two will compete in the Indianapolis 500 on Sunday, May 29. Unser Sr. won the event last year while Unser Jr. finished fourth.

Hungry for victory

Unser Jr. hopes to follow father's path

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Al Unser Jr.'s quiet personality outside his car masks an inherited hunger for victory that takes over when he steps inside it.

"I think my true self comes out in the car. I'm a lot more aggressive behind the car than I am with my team and the public," he said. "When I get behind the race car, I do what I want to do. I don't try to work things out to make both of us happy. When you get into a race car, you go to war."

The youngest driver from the famous Unser racing family enters practice for this year's Indianapolis 500 with confidence. Unser Jr. won last month's Indy-car race at Long Beach, his fifth victory in six seasons on the circuit. Winning at Indy would put him in the company of his father, four-time winner and defending champion Al Unser Sr., and his uncle, three-time winner Bobby Unser.

Last year at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, Unser Jr. moved from his worst career starting spot (22nd) to finish fourth, his best showing ever at Indy.

"You have to drive aggressively to win," Unser Jr. said. "That's something my dad put into me. He does it. My uncle Bobby kind of brought it out of the car with him. My dad was quiet. But put them in the race car and they were the same."

Unser Jr. has nonetheless learned not to take foolish chances on the race track.

"What I have learned is if the car isn't ready to make speed, then you can't force it to go," he said. "The pressures of Indianapolis push you to do it, but if it ain't there, it ain't there."

The difference in Unser Jr.'s relaxed demeanor and racing intensity is the subject of a promotional campaign, including a novelty song by J.D. Miller of Louisville, Ky., and a poster with the theme "The Calm Before The Storm." Unser Jr. enjoys such sidelines.

"I've heard two or three songs about my dad. I'm really honored to have one about me," he said.

Unser Jr., 26, of Albuquerque, N.M., has risen to ninth in all-time Indy car earnings after six seasons. He surpassed the $3

Smith looks for top six finish

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary's Brad Smith hasn't seen quite as much action on the track this season, due to a mid-season stress fracture, but hopes a top six finish at this week's state finals, to be run Saturday at Winter Park's Showalter Field in Winter Park, will compensate for his missed time.

Smith, a senior, will be hoping to get down into the 9:30s in the two mile and stay with the lead pack. Largo's Pat McDonough is the race favorite as McDonough won the state cross country meet and has run a 9:07 two mile this season.

Smith came off his injury and placed third in both the district and regional meets to advance into the state finals. In his two weeks back he has had two impressive showings and is listed among the top six in the state.

"He (Smith) has looked as if the injury didn't affect him at all," Lake Mary coach Mark McGee said. "Whether it was a full fledged stress fracture we'll never know, but we treated it like one and kept him from running. He put on orthotics, which are special arch supports, and he hasn't had any trouble since then."

While he wasn't running, Smith stayed in shape by swimming and doing special exercises to stay prepared. After the injury McGee and Smith both knew the first time he would be able to run again was in the district meet and decided to not take any chances until then.

The two have apparently made the correct decisions and Smith has a good shot of placing. Smith has run 9:34 early in the season and if he runs close to that time Saturday he should be in the top six.

"His main goal is to just go out and place," McGee said. "There are two runners up front, McDonough of Largo and (Gary) Colbertson of Tampa Leto, then (Teddy) Mitchell and (Nick) Radkewich come in with Brad following them. There are a lot of runners in the 9:40s so it should be close, but if Brad runs in the 9:30s he should be able to place."

With the exception of Radkewich, the top three runners in the two mile will be running in the mile. The mile should be a very interesting race with many runners around the 4:20 mark. McDonough, again is the favorite, has been known to run under 4:20 and is a threat to break away from the field.

"With all those runners going after it in the mile Brad could move up a place or two," McGee said. "He'll be fresh and ready to go, he knows what he has to do and he's looking forward to the meet."

Smith continues Lake Mary's streak of having a two miler in the state meet for every year in the school's existence. Smith will also hope to follow the pattern of the improvement of the runners, once at the state level.

Smith was listed as one of the top two milers in the state before going down with his injury and will look to regain that title by placing and hopefully qualifying for the Golden South meet to be held at Showalter in two weeks.

"We're just hoping he can come up with a good race and finishes in the top six somewhere," McGee said. "Brad has done a nice job since coming back and we're just happy he could make it to the state meet."

Budd giving up track

LONDON (UPI) — Zola Budd, the South African-born runner who has represented Britain the past four years, is quitting track and field and returning to South Africa. It was reported Monday night.

The Guardian reported Budd will make an official announcement later this week.

The newspaper said Budd is "extremely depressed" since allegations that she trained last year in South Africa, becoming ineligible to run under international rules.

The Guardian said her health is deteriorating because she expects to be banned by the International Amateur Athletic Federation from the Seoul Olympics later this year. Consequently, the paper said, she has decided to leave Britain, abandon international track and return home.

Although Budd did not actually compete at a meet in South Africa she did work out beside the competitors. She continues to associate with South African athletes, and the IAAF contends she is not abiding by the "spirit" of its rules.

Budd received a British passport 10 days after arriving in the country in March 1984. She competed for Britain at the Los Angeles Olympics and in the 3,000-meter final tangled legs with Mary Decker Slaney, her schoolgirl hero. Slaney fell and Budd was jeered by the crowd as she finished in seventh place.

This year Budd was prevented from taking part in the World Cross Country Championships in New Zealand because of political pressure.

SAMUELSON MAY SKIP NEW YORK (UPI) — The prospect of traveling halfway around the world with a year-old daughter could influence Joan Benoit Samuelson to skip the Summer Olympics at Seoul.

One thing is certain. If Samuelson does go to South Korea, it will not be to defend the marathon title she won at Los Angeles four years ago. She failed to compete in the May 1 U.S. Olympic Women's Marathon Trials in Pittsburgh because of a hip injury and missed her chance to qualify for the United States marathon team.

Pistons, Bulls fight fatigue

United Press International
The Detroit Pistons and Chicago Bulls, extended to the full five games in their first-round playoffs, now fight fatigue to accommodate the demands of television.

"We're going to be exhausted," Detroit Coach Chuck Daly said Monday. "They're going to be exhausted. It should be an interesting opening game."

The best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal begins with four games over the next six days. Game 1 is Tuesday night at the Silverdome with Game 2 Thursday. After a travel day to Chicago, the teams meet Saturday and Sunday. The back-to-back games are to be televised on CBS.

The grueling format should help Detroit more than Chicago because the Pistons have a deeper bench and play a more physical game.

Joe Dumars will draw the opening assignment on Michael Jordan, but it's likely Daly will use Dennis Rodman, Vinnie Johnson and even Ralph Lewis in an effort to contain the Chicago guard.

Jordan scored 50 points, an NBA high this season, in a victory over Detroit. Overall, he averaged 38.2 points against the Pistons. Detroit won four of the six meetings between the two clubs.

Also Tuesday night, Dallas and Denver begin their Western Conference semifinal at Denver, and the LA Lakers and Utah Jazz meet at the Forum in Game 2 of their West semifinal. Los Angeles leads the series 1-0.

Wednesday night, the Celtics play the Atlanta Hawks at Boston Garden in the Eastern Conference semifinal.

The Jazz will try for a better start than their 0-1 in the first quarter of Game 1. The Jazz were almost as awful in the opener of their previous matchup against Portland but returned to win Game 2 and eventually the series.

"Utah had a horrible game, that first one in Portland, and then came back and had their best game of the year," Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley said. "We have to guard against that."

The Hawks are confident despite past failures against the Celtics and a mediocre first-round showing. The Hawks, 0-4 in the playoffs against the Celtics since moving to Atlanta 20 years ago, won two of six games against Boston this season. However, they were 0-3 in Boston Garden.

The Hawks were also extended to five games in the first round, losing twice to the Bucks in Milwaukee.

"Nobody thinks we have a chance," Atlanta guard Glenn Rivers said. "No one expects us to win anything. Everybody thinks the Hawks are crumbling. But we can throw it on the line every day."

Spivey wins Southern Pro-Am

SANFORD — Black belt competitor, Bill Spivey Jr., finished his career in the Young Adult Fighting division with a victory in the recent Southern Pro-Am Karate Championships held at Santa Fe Community College in Gainesville.

Spivey is considering on continuing his career in the Light-heavyweight Men's fighting category. "I've gained 11 pounds in the past couple of months and that has put me over the light-heavyweight division," Spivey said. "My dad has warned me that it is a different world in the mens division. That your opponents don't care how hard they hit you, or what happens to you after you get hit. And that there is no such thing as excessive contact, the year my father won the state title he was knocked out twice and had his nose broken three times."

KARATE

Last year Spivey competed in five small tournaments in the adult division. He scored two wins and two seconds, his career stats in state rated events are: out of 17 tournaments, six championships, and was third or better in 12 of the 17 events.

Spivey took a 3-1 win in his quarterfinal match in Gainesville, after his opponent scored the opening point with side kick. Spivey used his own side kick and two reverse punches to the head to down his opponent. The defending state champion's semifinal bout was a 3-0 win as Spivey opened up with a punch to the face on. Then, as his opponent charged him, Spivey leaped into the air and landed a jump spinning back kick to the opposing fighter's chest. The judges of the match took time to congratulate Spivey on the impressive performance, timing and quickness required to successfully execute such a difficult technique in competition.

For his third point Spivey performed a sick combination that his opponent congratulated him on. Spivey faked a backhat to the competitor's face with his right hand and then connected with a left rear leg round kick to his opponents jaw.

In the finals of the event Spivey faced a small, but very quick fighter who got under a kick and scored the first point with an uppercut to the body. The score was evened with a head punch with the second point coming off a kick. Spivey then added the winning point with a side kick to his opponent's head as he was trying to come in low again.

JUNIOR LEAGUE BASEBALL

teams to watch in the girls division while an old nemesis of Blake's, Fort Lauderdale Dillard, may also come up with something. Seminole and Dillard used to battle each other year in and year out in Class 4A regional competition.

UNBUNG HEROES
Seminole High has some of the most impressive talent in state history on its girls team, including two possible future Olympians in Shownda Martin and Dorchelle Webster.

The Lady 'Noles, though, also couldn't do without some of the athletes who do not win as many races or get as much publicity. Among those performers are sprinters LaShon Cash, Nadrian McGill and Kecla Ward and shot putter Chineta Gilchrist. All three will compete as individuals in this Friday's state meet.

Cash has been a part of Seminole's winning 440 relay team the past two years and is hoping to score some points as an individual in '88. She started the season slow as she was bothered by an ankle injury, but Cash has come on strong in the championship meets. McGill will run in her first state meet as she competes in the 220 dash and also runs on the 440 relay. She has worked hard and is one of the most improved runners in the area this season.

Ward is a runner who has virtually come out of nowhere this season. She didn't win a whole lot of races during the year, but she definitely learned a lot as the season progressed and has been a pleasant surprise for the Lady 'Noles. Ward was district champion in the 440 and placed fourth in the region.

million earnings mark with his Long Beach triumph. His father leads the money winners, but Unser Jr. has never measured his success against his relative. "I don't look at the family record at Indy in terms of pressure. I look at it in terms of pride that my dad and uncle Bobby have done so well," Unser Jr. said. "For my career, I've always tried to do the best I could. The rest takes care of itself. I realized early I couldn't be anybody but myself." The entire Unser family shared the glory of Unser Sr.'s victory last year. Al Sr. himself wants the next celebration to be for his son. "I look forward to him winning Indy. That will fulfill most of my dreams I have for him in racing," he said. "The progress he has made is unbelievable. A father's pride is so much more than a son's. A son sees things one way. A father can see the other side of the achievements."

INDY 500 NOTEBOOK
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Rich Vogler, a veteran of the dirt track circuit, feels at home at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway this year because of dirt and dust whipped around by strong winds through the first three days of practice for the May 29 Indy 500.

"I've been on dirt tracks where the visibility was better than it was here at times," Vogler said. "The track was really dusty. There were times when I went into the turn and had a hard time finding my line. At times it was difficult to see what you needed to see."

—Bobby Rahal sees very little change in pre-race activities at Indianapolis. His strategy once again is a slow, steady peaking toward Saturday's pole qualifying, then adjusting work toward preparing his car for the race.

"Nothing changes. It's always good to be here," Rahal said. "Certainly having won here before puts a little less pressure on you. But I don't want to win any less than before."

Tradition will be against Rahal's Lola-Judd should he qualify for this year's race. The car bears the number 4, which has only won in years ending in zero — 1920, 1930, 1960 and 1980.

—The new paint job on Danny Sullivan's car goes against a Roger Penske tradition by including green in the color scheme. The Miller High Life car is painted gold to closely resemble a beer can, with green and white trim.

"Roger has traditionally banned the color green from his pits," Sullivan said.

Jackson two-hits Phillies — again

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Cincinnati's Danny Jackson accomplished what Mike Schmidt said he couldn't — a second straight two-hitter against the Philadelphia Phillies.

After Jackson had allowed Philadelphia only two hits in a 3-1 victory last Wednesday, Schmidt said his stuff was hittable and the Phillies would do better next time against him.

But the Phillies managed only two hits again Monday night as Jackson led the Reds to a 2-0 victory that broke Cincinnati's three-game losing streak.

"That was just something he said out of frustration," said Jackson, 5-1, who threw the third two-hitter and eighth shut-out of his career. "What do you expect from a future Hall of Famer with the things he's done over the years? He was a little frustrated and a little upset as I would be if I had lost and people asked me questions. I wouldn't be pleasant. It's no big deal."

Schmidt, who was 0 for 2 with a walk, was more gracious this time around.

"He's a major-league pitcher," he said. "Some nights they're hittable and some nights they're not. We have no excuses. We didn't hit well. He pitched well. We lost."

Jackson, who struck out five and walked three, allowed only a third-inning single to Chris James and a ninth-inning double to pinch-hitter Mike Young as he posted his second shutout of the season.

"They're not hitting the ball well," Jackson said. "They're struggling at the plate like we've been struggling. When a team is not hitting the ball that well, it gets your confidence up, especially when you can make the pitches to get them out." Jackson, who has allowed only two earned runs over 34 innings in his last four starts, completed his fourth game of the season and lowered his ERA to 2.04.

Cardinals 7, Padres 1
At St. Louis, Rookie Luis Alcega's two-run single capped a six-run second inning and Larry McWilliams scattered six hits over 6 2-3 innings to carry the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-1 rout of the San Diego Padres.

McWilliams, 2-0, continued his strong comeback from offseason rotator cuff surgery. The 34-year-old left-hander, who made the Cardinals as a non-roster pitcher in spring training after being released by Pittsburgh, has given up just three earned runs over 32 1-3 innings this season — an 0.84 ERA.

Astros 6, Mets 3
At Houston, Kevin Bass went 3 for 4 and Bill Doran drove in two runs to lead the Houston Astros to a 6-2 victory over New York, snapping the Mets' five-game winning streak.

Danny Darwin, 2-2, gave up two runs on seven hits in his first complete game this year. Against the Mets last Wednesday, Darwin pitched just two innings, yielding five runs on six hits.

Giants 8, Pirates 0
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Kevin Mitchell doubled for his fourth hit of the game and Jeffrey Leonard followed with his first homer of the season to key a four-run eighth inning in the San Francisco Giants' 8-0 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Giants took advantage of six Pirate errors, including two in the eighth inning by right fielder R.J. Reynolds, in a game delayed twice because of rain.

Former Pirate Don Robinson, 2-1, making his first appearance in Pittsburgh since being traded to San Francisco last July 31, gained the win despite surrendering a two-run homer to Bobby Bonilla in the seventh that gave the Pirates a 5-4 lead.

Bobby Bonilla rounds the bases after hitting a homer. Bonilla slugged a two-run homer Monday but the Pirates dropped an 8-6 decision to the San Francisco Giants.

RAINED OUT
CHICAGO (UPI) — The game between the Chicago Cubs and the Los Angeles Dodgers was postponed by rain.

The Cubs have not made an announcement on a make-up date. Orel Hershiser, 6-0, is scheduled to start Tuesday for the Dodgers against the Cubs' Calvin Schiraldi, 2-2.

Clemens blows Royals away

United Press International
After tornadoes threatened the Kansas City area this past weekend, the Royals faced a devastating wind Monday night when Roger Clemens blew through town.

Clemens continued his mastery over the Royals with a three-hit, 16-strikeout performance en route to the Boston Red Sox' 2-0 triumph over Kansas City.

It was the third consecutive shutout of the Royals by Clemens, who had allowed just two runs over the last 42 innings against Kansas City.

Red Sox catcher Rick Cerone said Clemens made just one bad pitch in the game.

"There wasn't a whole lot of (hitters) could do about it," Cerone said. "It wasn't like he was throwing the ball down the middle of the plate. He was spotting the ball so well."

Clemens 5-1 on the year, and 7-1 with a 1.45 ERA against the Royals in his career, struck out Willie Wilson to open the game.

Kevin Seltzer and George Brett followed with singles, but the Boston right-hander retired the next 24 batters before Wilson singled with one out in the ninth. Clemens then finished his third shutout and third complete game of the season.

The two-time Cy Young Award winner, who walked only one, struck out every batter in the Kansas City order at least once. He increased his American League-leading strikeout total to 83 over 67 innings. Clemens twice struck out the side, including getting Bo Jackson, Frank White and Steve Balboni on just 10 pitches in the eighth inning. Clemens holds the major-league record for strikeouts in a nine-inning game.

White Sox 3, Orioles 0
At Baltimore, Jerry Reuss gained the 200th victory of his career by combining with Bobby Thigpen on a four-hitter to spark Chicago. Dan Paskqua drove in all the runs with his third homer of the season and a sacrifice fly to support Reuss and Thigpen. Reuss, 2-1, outdueled Mike Boddicker, 0-7 and winless in his last 12 decisions.

Brewers 9, Twins 6
At Minneapolis, Rob Deer hit a three-run homer to highlight a five-run eighth inning that helped Milwaukee win its 10th straight game over Minnesota. Odell Jones, 1-0, gave up three hits and two runs in 4 2-3 innings of relief. Chuck Crim pitched the ninth for his second save. Twins reliever Jeff Reardon, 0-2, permitted three runs on three hits in one inning.

Angels 2, Indians 1
At Anaheim, Calif., Dan Petry and Bryan Harvey teamed on an eight-hitter and Brian Downing singled home the winning run with two outs in the seventh inning to lead California over Cleveland. Petry, 2-2, shu out the Indians on six singles until Ron Kittle homered, in his first pinch-hitting appearance of the year, with one out in the eighth. Cleveland lost its sixth straight despite a seven-hit, complete-game effort by John Farrell, 3-2.

Athletics 3, Tigers 1
At Oakland, Calif., Bob Welch, 5-2,

permitted Detroit four hits over eight innings and Jose Canseco hit his American League-leading ninth homer to lead Oakland's 14th straight victory. Oakland's winning streak ranks as the longest in the major leagues since the 1977 Kansas City Royals won 16 in a row. The 1988 A's are 12-0 against the AL East.

MARTIN CLAIM REFUTED
ARLINGTON, Texas (UPI) — Employees of a topless bar where Billy Martin claims he was attacked in the restroom by three men have refuted the account of the New York Yankees manager, saying Martin threw a punch and was hurt after being shoved out a door.

Martin told reporters three men attacked him in the restroom of a topless bar early Saturday, that he did nothing to provoke the assault and did not even get in a punch.

He suffered two cuts on the left side of his face, one of them a large gash near his ear that required 40 stitches to close. He also suffered bruises and abrasions on his left shoulder and left knee.

However, several employees of the bar said Martin and two unidentified men were involved in "name calling" when Martin threw a punch at one of the men, the Dallas Times Herald reported Monday.

The employees said Martin was restrained by at least two people and thrown out an emergency exit at Lacey, a topless bar about one mile from Arlington Stadium where the Yankees lost to the Texas Rangers, 7-6, Friday night.

Witnesses said Martin hit his head on the rocky surface of the building's outside wall, leaving a bloody streak, and fell to the ground, the Times Herald said.

NY Senate approves anti-drinking bill

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state Senate, embarrassed by rowdy sports fans who have sullied New York's reputation, gave its approval Monday to a bill that would create ballpark sanctuaries for non-drinkers.

The anti-drinking measure, which passed 32-22, is a compromise from earlier attempts that would have banned beer from 25 percent of stadium seats.

The successful bill, which may be voted on this week in the Assembly, would require 6 percent of all seats at any New York sporting event be absolutely alcohol-free.

In addition, 15 percent of the seats would be earmarked as non-vending sections where beer could not be sold, but could still be consumed. The plan would be phased in over three years and would be enforced by the State Liquor Authority.

"We're trying to create some haven for people who want to seek refuge from behavior that we can't legislate against," said Sen. John Dunne, R-Garden City, the bill's prime sponsor.

In debate, Dunne referred to the ejection of Cincinnati Reds Manager Pete Rose from a recent game, which was greeted by hurled objects from the stands onto the field.

"All we want to do is restore some peace and decency so that men and women can enjoy one of the great traditions of our society," Dunne said.

However, fellow Republican Sen. Richard Schermerhorn of Newburgh blasted the bill as "none of our business" and said professional sports teams should be allowed to police their own fans.

Market moderate, prices up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher today in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 10.11 Monday, was up 7.63 to 2004.97 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 465-283 among the 1,160 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover was about 8,990,000 shares.

Prices closed lower Monday in moderate trading, extending the market's pullback to four consecutive sessions in which the Dow has fallen 81 points.

Dollar slightly lower, gold, silver open higher

By United Press International

The dollar was slightly lower today in light trading on major foreign currency markets. Gold moved higher.

Currency dealers said attention remained focused on the quarterly U.S. treasury refunding.

The first part of the U.S. Treasury's quarterly refunding, the sale of $8.75 billion three year notes, begins later today.

The refunding continues tomorrow with the sale of $8.75 billion of 10-year notes and Thursday with the offer of $4.5 billion of 30-year bonds.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar continued to weaken against the Japanese yen, closing at 124.63 yen, off 0.24 from 124.87 yen on Monday.

Japanese investors said they were worried about possible foreign exchange losses and a rise in U.S. interest rates that could lead to a decline in bond prices, resulting from the Treasury refunding.

In Europe, the dollar began the day in Frankfurt at 1.8797 West German marks, down from 1.8803.

Import car sales climb in Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — Imported car sales in Japan climbed to a new monthly high in April with German vehicles retaining the lead, the Japan Automobile Importers Association reported Tuesday.

The association said sales in the month rose 40.1 percent over a year ago to 10,675 units, marking the 52nd consecutive month sales have increased on a year-to-year basis.

The official said sales of U.S. cars, which have been sluggish in Japan, are beginning to increase due to the strong yen.

Sales of U.S. cars more than doubled to 722 units from 298 for April last year, bringing the four-month total to 2,306 units, up 90.1 percent over the corresponding period of last year.

West German cars, including Audi, Mercedes Benz and BMW, accounted for 7,643 units sold, up 32.3 percent over a year ago, the association said.

"We have predicted sales of 120,000 units for this year against 97,974 units sold last year," said a spokesman for the association. "The market condition now is encouraging."

Sales of imported cars in the first four months totaled 36,820 units, up 35.5 percent over the corresponding period of last year.

The official predicted that demand for German vehicles would remain strong as they have established a good image among Japanese customers.

waste of city money since by the time one could be held it would almost be time for the regular November election. Should they choose to run for a second term, both would be up on the ballot at that time anyway.

The recall effort was begun by supporters of Police Chief Greg Manning after he was suspended with pay and Acting City Administrator Don Terry said he was going to fire him. After a police review board voted 3-2 that evidence against Manning did not sustain the charges and subsequent disciplinary action, Terry reinstated Manning after a week's suspension without pay and six months on probation.

Allegations listed on the recall petition against Gunter are that he:

- Asked the Florida Department of Law Enforcement to investigate Manning twice.
• Pressured former City Administrator Ron Waller to suspend Manning without pay.
• Tried to pass an ordinance to give the city attorney investigative powers, which the petition says so he could investigate Manning.

• Discussed eliminating Manning's vehicle allowance at the Jan. 18 meeting.

• Hired a consultant whose first duties were to audit the Police Benevolent Fund.

• Has made public statements that he will never agree to Manning's being cleared.

• Approved a contract with management consultant I&P Financial, Inc., to do a study without competitive bidding.

• Directed the consultant, Eichberger, to do an audit of Police Benevolent Fund although Eichberger is not a Certified Public Accountant, as required, and is the brother-in-law of Dennis.

• Participated in a telephoning poll with Acting City Administrator Terry.

• Agreed to discharge the city administrator selection committee without a public hearing.

• Stated allegations on the petition against Dennis are that she:

• Proposed hiring the management consultant.

• Was mute when I&P Financial, Inc., was approved, rather than using competitive bidding (she declared a conflict of interest).

• Was mute with I&P Financial began work prior to the budget transfer.

• Was mute when Ordinance 875 proposed to cover I&P Financial contract.

• Was mute when Ordinance 875 was passed Feb. 15.

• Approved hiring of an acting police chief without budget transfer.

• Directed the consultant to do an audit of the Police Benevolent Fund when he is not a CPA and is her brother-in-law.

• Participated in a telephone poll with the acting city administrator.

• Agreed to discharge the city administrator selection committee without a public hearing.

According to state law, grounds for removal of city commissioners are restricted to malfeasance, misfeasance, neglect of duty, drunkenness, incompetence, permanent inability to perform official duties and conviction of a felony involving moral turpitude.

the turbulence created by the constant power loading of boats over a period of time weakens the ramp foundation, ultimately necessitating expensive repair.

Kay Shoemaker, a boat owner and marina user, asked the commission to consider additional input from citizens before proceeding with the ordinance.

Shoemaker said he is not opposed to fees for non-residents or parking controls, but thinks the elimination of power loading would stop some boat owners from using the marina. "There's no other place for people to go," he said.

Shoemaker told the commission he owns a boat more than 20 feet long, and without power loading he would have great difficulty loading his without it. "I cannot get my boat up without power," he said.

Commissioner Herbert "Whitey" Eckstein pointed out that trailers come equipped with power winches for larger boats and if not equipped, one could be purchased.

Shoemaker also admitted, "There is no doubt in my mind that power loading has caused part of the (past) damage to that (ramp)."

Commissioner John Y. Mercer stated that he thinks Shoemaker's concern is real, but added, "I think the city's problem is greater."

told the commission power loading by small boats over a period of time could have a significant impact on the ramp.

Colbert said an engineering report done several years ago indicated "part of the problem" leading to ramp damage was caused by the propellers of boats.

The proposed ordinance would require a $100 annual fee or a $6 daily fee from non-residents for use of the facilities on weekends and holidays. City residents would not be charged but would be required to obtain a decal.

The ordinance also proposes that a portion of the money raised by the fees be used for a continuing maintenance fund.

considered illegal.

The county's main opposition to the annexations is that the properties have no common boundary with current city limits.

No one from the county spoke in opposition to the annexation at the meeting.

"I think we need to follow through with annexation," said Commissioner John Y. Mercer.

"We want that land and we need to follow through with our growth in that area. I approve the annexation. We want that in the city."

After the drafting of the annexation proposal, the ordinance must receive two public hearings before going into effect.

According to Colbert, the county has 30 days after final approval to take legal action.

In other action, the City Commission:

• Approved a request to open a dance hall at 2672 Orlando Drive for the Wrappers City Lights teen club. Police Chief Steven Harriet gave full support to the dance hall.

• Gave approval for the city to proceed with its summer swimming lessons to be offered for a month by the Parks and Recreation Department at the New Tribes Mission Pool.

• Approved a request by the Sanford Church of God, 501 W. 22nd St., to open a day care facility in conjunction with their school, Seminole Trinity Christina School.

• Approved a 60-day variance for Memory Lane, 2962 Orlando Drive, allowing owners time to complete necessary restroom improvements.

• Approved the addition of a turning lane on Palmetto Avenue, in front of the Post Office, to promote easier traffic accessibility to the Post Office.

Solid waste bill passes house

Staff and wire reports

TALLAHASSEE — Environmentalists say they greatly prefer the Senate's solid waste disposal bill over the House version which passed today.

The bill passed by the Senate Natural Resources Committee Monday contains a modified "bottle bill" that could eventually require deposits on bottles, cans and plastic beverage containers. That bottle bill has been avidly sought by environmentalists, who say it would immediately eliminate 6-8 percent of the state's solid waste problem.

Rep. Art Grindle voted for the bill and stated he would do so again.

"The bill will now go to the conference committee to iron out the differences between the house and the Senate bills. The local funding provisions are the weakest areas of the bill," Grindle said. "You can have a great piece of legislation but without the revenue stream, the bill is no good."

The House bill (HB 1487) was tentatively approved Monday after several provisions that environmentalists had said made that bill worthless were removed. But the completed House proposal was still dismissed by many of the people who had been its original backers.

"We just don't think the House bill will do the job," said Audubon Society lobbyist David Gluckman. "It's certainly better now that they took out the dirty air portion, but it still doesn't seem to have an approach that we think has a real good chance of success."

The House bill first came before the full House Friday, but was shelved by Speaker Jon Mills when many legislators complained they could not follow the flood of proposed amendments. But before it was withdrawn, several amendments were added that had even sponsor Rep. Mike Friedman, D-Miami Beach, saying he might withdraw his support.

Friedman worked out several of those problems over the weekend. Sections prohibiting the state from enacting higher standards for burning used oil (Gluckman's "dirty air" amendment) and encouraging the use of incineration were quickly removed on Monday.

The House also voted to require plastics manufacturers to mark differing types of plastic with an identifying seal, making them easier to recycle. Legislators declined, however, to reinstate a ban on Styrofoam food containers.

The House bill would require each city and county to establish solid waste programs, with heavy emphasis on recycling. It would require each municipality to reduce its waste stream by 30 percent within eight years.

The bill would assess a per-employee tax on businesses, to run from $25 up to $5,000. That would raise about $30 million a year, which would go to grants to help local governments implement their recycling plans.

It would ban removable drink can pop-tops, non-degradable plastic shopping bags, plastic six-pack ring holders and Styrofoam products made with fluorocarbon. It would enact a $1 surcharge on new tire purchases.

The Senate bill (CS-SB 1192) was approved 8-0 by the Senate Natural Resources Committee. It would enact a 2-cent deposit on all beverage containers only if industry is not recycling at least 50 percent of a particular type of container by October 1992.

service. They became unruly when the restaurant employees couldn't meet their needs. Some, Harrell said, forced open the cash register and stole money from the till.

Deputy Ken Brubaker, Harrell said, will require surgery on his right index finger, which was broken during the incident.

Today, some parents and some of the youths involved said the deputies over-reacted. Restaurant personnel were unavailable for comment.

Adults arrested include: Mark Bryan Massey, 18, of Winter Park, who allegedly attacked the lieutenant; Barry Alan Camarda, 18, of Casselberry, who allegedly broke Brubaker's finger; and Michael Patrick Schraff, 18, of Osteen, who allegedly refused several orders to leave the scene.

Charity group salvages would-be food garbage, feeds have-nots

DEAR ABBY: I agree that the waste of good food in the school lunchroom is appalling. Your suggestion that the matter be taken up by the PTA is a good one. There is one more thing that can be done, however.

There is a non-governmental, non-profit agency in St. Paul called Twelve Baskets (named after the baskets of food scraps collected after one of the miracles of the loaves and fishes). About three years ago, the founders approached the St. Paul Health Department with a plan to redistribute unwanted salvageable food. With the guidance and blessing of the health department, the program was begun. It was one of the first of its kind in the country.

Twelve Baskets picks up surplus and distressed food and delivers it directly to on-site eating programs, where it is immediately prepared in approved kitchens and served. The food comes from food plants, bakeries, dairies, restaurants, grocery stores and other facilities where such food may be available.

Unfortunately, schools are not allowed to participate in this program because federal law prohibits redistribution of federal commodities that schools receive. Until the U.S. Congress passes a bill that allows for such redistribution, salvageable, wholesome food will continue to be wasted daily. Minnesota senators Boechwitz and Durenberger are aware of the problem and would introduce a bill to correct it, but they don't feel there's adequate support for it in Congress.

There is an increasing need for redistribution of this type of food, and schools are a valuable untapped resource. When there are needy people who can benefit from the work of organizations such as Twelve Baskets, but the law prevents that help, then it's time to change the law.

Abigail Van Buren

This is an election year. Please tell your readers to write to their senators and representatives and ask them to support a repeal of the anti-redistribution law, which is a part of the commodities program. Sending this column along with the letter might help.

For information on how to set up a food reclamation and redistribution program, send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Dick Goebel, Twelve Baskets, P.O. Box 7217, St. Paul, Minn. 55107. The program is funded through private contributions, foundation grants and the United Way.

By the way, I am in no way associated with Twelve Baskets.
BILL JASPERS (FORMER ST. PAUL INSPECTOR)

DEAR BILL: Neither am I, but it's a crime to throw out edible food when so many people are hungry and homeless. It's a great idea. Rudy and Dave, the ball is in your court!

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this for friends of mine as well as for myself. We would like to know how to say, "I love you. Will you marry me?" in French, German, Danish and Portuguese. We went to the public library, and the librarian gave us some books, but they were of little use. We would greatly appreciate it, Abby, if you could help us.

DICK LARIVAYE, BOONVILLE, N.Y.
DEAR DICK: Courtesy of Claudia Fayad of the Berlitz

School in Beverly Hills, Calif.

FRENCH: Je vous aime. Je voudrais vous épouser?

GERMAN: Ich liebendich. Ich mochte dich heiraten.

DANISH: Jeg elsker dig. Vil du gifte dig med mig?

PORTUGUESE: Eu te amo. Caaa comigo?

A word of caution, Dick. Don't say anything you don't mean. And don't make any promises you cannot keep.

DEAR ABBY: It never ceases to amaze me how quick people are to argue or debate an issue that has absolutely no relevance. This point is illustrated by the recent flurry of letters you've run regarding whether baseball managers should wear a three-piece suit or the team's uniform. Let's face it, if a manager has such a big potbelly that he looks "ridiculous" in a uniform, would he really look much better in a suit or a bikini? Who cares?

Of far greater importance is the fact that it's impossible to watch a professional baseball game without seeing at least one (and usually several) players with a huge wad of chewing tobacco in their mouths. Not only do they look ridiculous with their faces distorted by the sheer volume of the stuff, the act of chewing and spitting is revolting to watch, and it sets an extremely poor example for youngsters.

DISGUSTED IN COLORADO SPRINGS

DEAR DISGUSTED: I'm told that baseball players need to keep their mouths moist while on that dusty field—but there has to be a better way. (Are you listening, Peter Ueberroth?)

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Nurse, 80, not retiring yet

By Rebecca Kolberg
United Press International

BALTIMORE — Edith Sacks has been a professional nurse for 58 years and at 80, though she is quick to say she has no plans to retire, regrets that she does not have 20 more years to put into her career.

Sacks, who earned her registered nursing degree in 1930, works from 7 p.m. to 7:30 a.m. three days a week at Sinai Hospital's special care nursery, with an eight-hour shift added on every other week to bring her total up to 160 hours a month.

"I've had a love affair with nursing all my life," said Sacks, who as a little girl in Baltimore admired the sparkling white uniforms of the nurses at Johns Hopkins Hospital near her grandmother's house.

Although she came from a poor family of nine children and was forced to drop out of high school, Sacks saved up money from a department store job so she could enter the nursing school at West Baltimore General Hospital.

"It opened the whole wide world to me," said Sacks, who continued to stay abreast of nursing developments by attending seminars at Johns Hopkins and Columbia universities.

Although she treasures her early years of nursing, Sacks would not exchange her current portable blue scrub suit for the fussy white hats and uniforms of bygone days.

"In those long-sleeved, stiffly starched uniforms it would have been impossible to climb over today's ventilators (for premature babies)," she says.

And the trim-fingered, blue-eyed octogenarian certainly does keep pace with nurses decades her junior.

"Miss Sacks definitely is not decoration," says Eva Tybarski, head nurse with Sinai's neonatal intensive care unit. "She is so motivated and driven. She pulls the same work load as nurses 40 years younger than her."

Sacks's sterling example also helps motivate her nursing colleagues. "She makes me feel proud because she cares so much and loves her profession," Tybarski says.

"It's not really my job. It's a way of life I find exhilarating," said Sacks, who describes herself as a "workaholic" who was never forced to split her devotion with marriage or children.

Although the remarkable senior citizen admits to being tired after a 12-hour shift, she adds, "20-year-olds nurses get tired too."

Caring for children and infants all her nursing career, Sacks started working at Sinai's nursery 25 years ago. The unit where she currently works handles sickly infants, usually premature, as they come out of neonatal intensive care's crisis unit.

Lee's Cabinet Shop
 Duane Lee, co-owner of Lee's Cabinet Shop, Sanford, with cabinets installed by his firm in large kitchen in a Chulusta home. The "Burlington Cathedral" design cabinets are solid oak with raised panel doors in a natural finish.

Lee's Cabinet Shop does quality work
 At Lee's Cabinet Shop, 110 N. Poplar Ave., Sanford, the emphasis is on variety and quality materials and construction. They not only build custom kitchen cabinets and countertops and bathroom vanities, they make a wide range of specialty items.
 They will work from your drawings or provide drawings of cabinets from which you can choose. They also build, deliver and install custom bars, built-in bookcases, entertainment centers, wall units and furniture.
 Duane Lee and his father, James E. Lee, have been partners in the cabinet business for almost 10 years. With five generations in Sanford, the Lees are no "Johnny-come-latelies." James Lee began building houses in Seminole County in the 60s. "We started out building cabinets for his houses and now builds for other builders as well," said Duane. He said he learned his trade as an apprentice with the late Frank Price before starting a small cabinet shop at Fourth Street and Sanford. Lee's Cabinets later moved to the present location one block north of West First Street.
 Lee's Cabinet Shop offers a big variety of cabinet styles in custom formica and 10 different styles of hardwood cabinets in a choice of oak, maple, hickory or pickled oak.
 Plywood is used instead of particle board in their cabinets.
 They do commercial and residential remodeling jobs and will come out and measure on the job and help homeowners design their own kitchen. Free estimates and design service. They have a show room at the shop so people can come down and see what they are going to get.
 If you need help in picking out colors they will be glad to help you coordinate your color scheme. They offer dark, medium or light wood stains.
 All of their counter tops are fitted to the walls even though this entails two trips. They aren't just glued to the wall. The back splash is screwed down every four inches to the counter top to provide a water tight seal.
 In addition to building custom cabinets Lee's is a dealer for Aristokraft modular hardwood cabinets in the Sanford area. Lee's serves from DeLand to Altamonte Springs.
 They are open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Call 321-6469 or bring your plans to the shop for a price quotation. If you want to replace or update your old cabinets they will come to your house.
