Masked Robbers Loot Vault and Escape With Cash Amounting To Large Sum

DAYTON, O., Apr. 4.—(AP)—Five robbers, masked and armed with a machine gun, held up five bank employees of the Xenia Avenue branch of the Union Trust Company and several customers today, looted the bank vault of practically all of its cash and escaped with a sum estimated at between $30,000 and $40,000.

Two of the men remained in an automobile in front of the bank while the others entered and forced the bank employees and customers to the floor.

One of the robbers brought the machine gun into the bank while his two companions held the employees at bay, snatching up every bit of available cash in the vault and what was lying on the counters, the robbers made their escape in the waiting machine.

The robbery this morning is the fourth to have been staged there within the past several years. The haul today, however, is probably the largest to be made at the bank in all the holdups, in the others the sums ranged from $5,000 to $15,000.

CINCINNATI, Apr. 4.—(AP)—The heading bank was robbed of $8,000 today by four men who were armed with a machine gun. A group across the street saw the robbers and opened fire on them. The robbers immediately gave up and attempts to secure additional currency, ran from the bank, returned the grocer's fire with the machine gun and escaped in a light-colored Buick.

"We are not meeting political hounds, or demagogic bullies," said Mr. Hardee, "but we do need, especially in Florida, a specific cure for our economic ills."

Mr. Hardee stressed that he did not speak of leadership in social programs or educational problems, but "particularly economic problems."

"It was almost inevitable," he said, "that there should come a period of reaction following the excessive activity or our real estate boom. This unfortunate condition has been necessitated by fortunes in certain parts of the state and recently by the most known as the Mediterranean Fly. And to all of this, the generally unsatisfactory conditions prevailing all over the country, naturally, increasing the burden and complexity of our problems here. We are further handicapped now because we have here-to-fore entered into a program of extravagant expenditure, creation of surplus, inflation and very liberal currency, combined with all of these circumstances with their disastrous effect striking us at once, it is a wonder that conditions are not satisfactory and that people are saying that the present period and times are hard."

ITALIAN PLEA FOR PARITY IS SEEN PITFALL

Insistence Of Demand May Be Rock Upon Which Arms Parley May Meet Disaster

LONDON, Apr. 4.—(AP)—Italians demanded for parity with France in naval armaments today as the risk of which naval conference leaves for a five-year limitation treaty may be wrecked.

In the Italian camp the view was reiterated that no recession from the parity with France principle is possible. Simultaneously, not only impatience was manifested with Anglo-French negotiators but a new interpretation of the League of Nations covenant and the Locarno agreement.

An Italian spokesman declared that these negotiations, he believed, properly at least, when all league members might participate, and that they certainly are not in their proper place at London.

This spokesman felt it to know the Italians, hoped for a preliminary session of the conference, a preliminary at which all the delegations would make known their views on the proposed treaty. This preliminary session, he felt, would be particularly important in a statement that the negotiations must be brought to a conclusion at the earliest possible moment.

The Italian spokesman declared that his government looked beyond the naval conference to continuing parity with the strongest conventional powers, and stated that he was willing to reduce as far as possible, but not lower than any other power, having in mind the future of Italy at a general international conference at Geneva.

In French quarters, it was said that a very definite development in the search for a French security formula which might permit reduction of that country's armaments might be expected today in conference. It was understood that at Britain and France were almost together in the matter, although not yet agreed.

RASKOB COMES BEFORE LOBBY PROBE GROUP

WASHINGTON, Apr. 4.—(AP)—Called for questioning in regard to his stand against prohibition, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, today testified before the Senate lobby committee that he had "no right to commit the Democratic party on either side of the question."

After testifying he had contributed between $50,000 and $400,000 to the association against the prohibition amendment, of which he is a director, Raskob asserted that he was careful not to mix his personal beliefs on prohibition with the affairs of the Democratic national committee.

"My opinion," he said, "is that no one can commit the Democratic party on this question, except the national convention. I did not try to influence any Democratic member on this question."

The committee room was crowded with spectators as Raskob appeared. Three members of the lobby committee were present. They were Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana, who asked that Raskob be called, and Senators Caraway of Arkansas and Walsh of Montana, both Democrats.

Caraway, who is chairman of the committee, questioned Raskob at first. The Democratic chairman said he contributed $2,500 to the association against the prohibition amendment in 1928, $30,000 in 1929 and has pledged $50,000 for 1930, some of which had been paid.

Raskob said he thought some progress had been made toward modification of repeal of the eighteenth amendment but testified that he took little part in the active work of the association. He added that the wet organization was interested in the election of wet to congress rather than in the prohibition of those in congress.

Under sharp questioning by Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader said the association was not a lobbying organization but added that he was not sure of the correct definition of the term.

U.S. CAGE TEAMS ENTER THIRD LAP FOR HIGH HONORS

Florida Champs Are Strong Contenders For National Title

CHICAGO, Apr. 3—(AP)—The chase for the 1936 national high school basketball championship headed into the third lap today with the Giant Rockets from Athens, Texas, strong favorite to retain the cherished crown.

Without extending themselves the bulk, Texas, routed the fast Linkin, N. Dak., team 35 to 11 in their first encounter. That was the large field seeking to defeat them. They looked every bit as good as last year when they romped through a larger and possibly a better crop of championship contenders.

There were 15 other surviving teams, however, many of them dark horses, confident of halting the hottest parade. Chief among them was Denton, Texas, which defeated the Thunderbolts 24 to 19 for the 1935 Lone Star state title averaging better than six feet and playing much the same style of basketball. Denton yesterday swamped Bryon Institute of Great Smoky, 32 to 15.

First of the 16 survivors in the championship scramble today were from Dixie and most of them were representatives of small villages. They were the giants from Jena, La.; Lakeland, Fla.; Savannah, Ga.; Corinth, a village of 240 population in Kentucky; Lenoir Institute of Wheeling, W. Va.; Brashton, a crossroad town of about 60 in Georgia; Kaysville High of Lawrenceburg, Ky. and Durham, N. C.

Lenoir Institute and Corinth were the only teams in the field allowed to play two games to under into the third round, the remainder of the field drawing losses. Corinth defeated Chickadee, 35 to 20 and Lenoir won a close one from Spartanburg, 21 to 25 to 22 in their second round shipments, in which they display of championship class.

Another of the heavy favorites was Wheatfield, Wyoming, a team of one-handed artists which smothered Brookside, W. Va., 27 to 14 yesterday. The westerner, led by Eddie McHenry, states an average lead past by game that rivaled the best of them.

SPRING TIREDNESS, DRAGGY FEELING

Black-Draught Can't Be Beat As Cleansing Medicine, Says South Carolina Lady.

Townville, S. C.—"I have used Theford's Black-Draught about fifteen years, at intervals," writes Mrs. J. M. Wicker, of this place. "I took it for headache and that tired, draggy feeling one has in the spring. I used to have severe sick headaches. "If I go to town for shopping, or if I am in a crowd and get very tired, or if I am the least bilious, I have a very severe headache and it puts me to bed. "I heard of Black-Draught after my marriage when my children were small, and from then until now it has been a family medicine with us. "I take a good dose of Black-Draught as soon as I feel a headache coming on, and it relieves me very quickly. I take Black-Draught for constipation, and am sure it can't be beat. "I can certainly recommend Black-Draught and gladly do so. It seems that all families have to have a laxative, and Black-Draught is ours. "More than a million packages are sold a month."

What's Become Of The Irish... The Irish have built for themselves a wonderful reputation for fighting. In the good old days there was never a street corner brawl that out of the tangled mass of swinging arms and kicking legs did not emerge the rusty head of some powerful Irishman immediately following the blast of the policeman's whistle. And in the prize ring twenty years ago such names as Patsy Haley, Terry McGovern, Jack O'Brien and Spike Sullivan always connoted championship material.

We were struggling through a list of modern fighters the other night, cracking our jaws on such names as Tony Vaccarilli, Salvatore Ruggallo, Paolo Uzcudun, and Mike Bankovitch, when we began to wonder what in the world has become of the Irish. Have they abandoned the pugilistic ring for such less vigorous professions as arts and decorations? Or have they like the Romans, in the days of Alaric and Attila, become effeminate? The literary Digest which discusses this subject at some length thinks the Irish have as much blood in them as ever, only they are staying at home. The lure of the million dollar gate is undoubtedly powerful but the strength of the new immigration laws is even more so.

In the days of John L. Sullivan, the pugilistic czars fought for the sheer love of it. John L. himself, characterized by some as the greatest who ever caulked an ear, used to swing his mighty fists, knuckles bare, for sixty, even seventy rounds, and collect barely a hundred dollars at the gate. He did not ask for Boyle's Thirty Acres, Madison Square Garden, or Miami Beach millionaires for his fights; any street corner, any back alley, a twenty foot clearing in the middle of the forest would do.

In these days of million dollar gates, the Irish somehow have dropped out. And instead we find among the leaders Jack Sharkey, Lithuanian; Otto Von Porat, Norwegian; Max Schmeling, German; Primo Carnera, Italian; Victoriano Campolo, Argentine-Italian; Arthur De Kuh, Austrian; Knute Hansen, Danish; George Godfrey, Negro; Al Fay, French-American; Phillip Scott, English; Frankie Campbell of Los Angeles, Italian; Johnny Grosso, Italian; Charley Smith, English; Paul Cavalier, Italian; Joe Sekyra, Bohemian; Frankie Simms, Polish; Jack Dorval, French; Pierre Charles, Belgian; Paolo Uzcudun, Spaniard; Bianchi, Argentine; Puzarro, Cuban; Mark Simon, Jewish; Al Friedman, Jewish; Ernie Sharff, German; Neil Clisby, Negro; and Bill Hartwell, Negro.

It may be immigration laws which have kept the Irish out of the ring in recent years, but we have more reason to believe that it is the technicalities, the artistic perfection, if you please, of the modern ring, Managerial brawls, boxing commissions and what not, are too much for the Irish when a fight is at hand. And as for fous, well, a blow on the hip bone, an inch below the belt, might be a foul to Phil Scott, but to Terry McGovern it would be a signal for a real battle.

The World's Window
By Pierre Van Praeger

Daily increasing blindness may prevent James Joyce, the Irish author whose books have been banned in Britain and America, from completing what he declares is to be his greatest work. For seven years Joyce, who lives in Paris, has fought against failing sight in an attempt to finish the most ambitious work he has ever planned. In the seven years he has been working on the book he has only completed half. Unlike other authors, James Joyce is unable to dictate. He finds it necessary to write every word with a great red pencil on huge sheets of paper. He cannot read a line of his manuscript without a powerful magnifying glass. The author of "Ulysses," who refused to take orders as a Jesuit priest after leaving a Dublin college, works from ten to fourteen hours daily, but writes only a few hundred words each day. A great part of each working day is taken up in revising his manuscript, which he does in a most thorough manner—often rewriting pages after it is in proof. He declares that he can only write when dressed entirely in white, and says that this is pleasant for his eyes. The small, pointed beard that he wears hides a terrible scar, inflicted by a mad dog when he was five years of age. Since that time he will not allow any one to bring a dog near him. On the other hand, he is very fond of cats, wears huge rings, smokes a curious pipe and always carries an ash walking stick. He has entitled the book "A Work in Progress." It is moderately throughout and would not be understood by any one not familiar with James Joyce's developments on the English language.

Pure Nordics
A frenzied "racist" paper in Germany advocates the cold-blooded massacre of all illegitimate children left behind by soldiers of the Hunland occupation armies. It makes an exception for children born of English soldiers, fathers. As they are also Nordics they would be permitted to live, but the offspring of Senegalese troops, Frenchmen, French Belgians, etc., are to be killed off because they would only contaminate the pure Teutonic strain, which isn't even Teutonic in the case of Prussians but Slavic, a fact which the "racists" so easily forget. The idea of creating a super-race of men has always haunted some Germans. Frederick I. already had the notion when he saw to it that his seven-foot grenadier married the healthiest and wealthiest Gretchen. Sometimes the King got more than he bargained for, as M. Voltaire observed while he was in Prussia. Once Frederick saw a strapping peasant girl working in a field, and at once the idea came into his head that if he married her to one of his grenadier officers, Prussia could only benefit with a dozen or so gigantic soldiers some years hence. So the King called the girl over, asked her name, etc., and gave her a note to the commander of the guard at Potsdam. The note ordered that the bearer was to be married at once to one of the staff, a certain Count Herdrick. The girl couldn't read and didn't think much of the paper the King had given her anyway. So she gave it to an old hag whom she met on the road. The gypsy went to Potsdam, and presented the King's order. She married the Count. Years later Frederick inquired as to the number of children. He was greatly disappointed when he was shown two swarthy little rascals.

Fascist Plots
Seven months' imprisonment have just been passed by a Brussels court on Menapace, a Fascist agent provocateur, who has recently been very active. As a result of his machinations the Swiss Government investigated at the request of the Italian Legation an alleged plot to blow up the Italian delegation to the League, but they found no reason to expect any anti-Fascist exiles living in Switzerland. At Paris Menapace was successful in procuring the arrest of three prominent anti-Fascist journalists, in whose possession some explosives were "discovered." Their case is being very thoroughly investigated by an examining Magistrate, who has already set two of the three provisionally at liberty. In Brussels Menapace's exploits were even more disgraceful. He brought a certain Prof. Berneri to Belgium, provided him with a revolver and gave him a rendezvous at the railway station, which was kept by the police and not by Menapace. The activities of this man, who is responsible for several big scares recently, are recorded in a manner which is almost inconceivable in the modern world.

Forty-one convicts under the supervision of County Superintendent of Roads Herbert J. Youngblood, are repairing draining and making the road to Amelia passable this week. They will remain here until the road is put in good shape again.—Fernandina Leader.

UNCOMMON SENSE
By John Blake

It is possible to steal your ride through life as boys steal rides by climbing on the rear fenders of cars, or tramps ride the "blind baggage" of a railroad train.

I have known many people, all of them ride-stealers, who would be astonished to know that they were doing anything of the kind. But even if governments are not so organized, this existence of cars is a co-operative institution.

If we don't work somebody does our work for us.

If we don't produce, production is attended to for us.

It seems to me that it is the duty of everybody to do considerably more than support himself. He may not be able to confer a great blessing on humanity or invention or leadership in thought, or the working of reforms, but he can contribute to the general good by doing his job as well as he can, and perhaps doing a little outside of which he is not paid.

Here in the Florida town where I am spending a few weeks are perhaps fifty or sixty men who, though they have plenty of means, are working constantly for the good of the city—planting parks, raising money for public improvements, attracting immigration in a number of ways and "boosting" wherever they can.

They are certainly more than carrying their load. But some of their neighbors who will get the benefit of added population when it comes are sitting tight.

It is easy to let the other fellow do the lion's share of the work of all of it.

Rarely does a camping party go out that one or two members do not attend to the hard work while the others steal the ride.

Progress in every age has been the result of the thoughts and the efforts of the few.

Never has there been a great effort to throw off tyranny, that most of the population did not steal their ride to freedom.

It is a good thing for the ride-stealers that others are willing to do their full duty, if only for the satisfaction they get out of it.

But it is a pretty poor sort of human being who will let his share of every labor, yet enjoy to the full the results that are brought by others.

To earn your ride it is not necessary to do any great or conspicuous deed, but it is necessary to do more than attend your own wants, and at least to help and support those who are attending to the hard and effective labors of life.

And the earning of one's way pays big dividends in satisfaction and these are well worth having.

The Census

To many cities much that may or may not happen in the future depends upon the outcome of the federal census now being taken. There are many foreign advertisers, to illustrate from our own business, who do not go into towns of less than ten thousand. In other lines of business and industry it is the same way. Therefore it is highly important that the enumerators reached every man, woman and child in this city. As the Tampa Times said yesterday:

"Census taking is an important undertaking. It not only affords a count of the population but, as well, serves a number of important purposes. The present census is especially important, due to the fact that its figures will determine how the various states are to fare under the recent congressional apportionment act. Florida is due to gain a representative in congress when the count is announced."

"Particular interest attaches to this census in Florida because of the various censuses which estimates that have been put forward in attempts to determine which is the state's most populous city. Whatever may be the outcome as to this, every Tampa ought to make it a point to see that he or she is properly counted. This much is true, and Tampa will show a wonderful increase since the census of 1920."

"The Times appeals to every citizen of this city—and to each of its readers, wherever they may live—to cooperate with the census enumerators, giving them the information asked and helping to facilitate the tabulation. Doing so will serve a good purpose."

TELLING THE WORLD
BY NEIL O'HARA

AS SIMPLE AS A, B, C
To all holders of Fox Film Company and Fox Theatres, Class A stock: Let us explain to you the difference between the Hanamer, Blair and Halsey Stuart financing plans. They're easy to understand, after you get to know them.

Under the Hanamer-Blair plan a series of $17,000,000 gold debentures will be raised to equip Fox theatres ushers with more gold bonds. This will stabilize the company until another Western picture is released.

Lon Chaney will be moved from dressing room II to dressing room K, disguised as a parlor stove, decreasing the overhead 29 per cent. The trustees will then retire $40,000,000 of preferred stock in the gold four-paster bed that was left over from "The Scarlet Lady" film.

The head doorman of the Hoagy Theatre is to be given to Blair & Company as security for a short term note, and his coat and spauls placed in their safety vaults. These short term funds will be devoted to further expansion, permitting larger perforation in Fox films.

With $17,000,000 in debentures and $29,000,000 in short term notes, together with eleven tenor notes by John McCormack, the company will be in the strongest position in years. This is where Samuel Untermyer will object, but the trustees will release him. Tim-Tin at this juncture, straightening everything out.

William Fox, who up to this time will have taken no part in the conversation, will put his eyeballs in escrow as an evidence of good faith. The United States Marines will then arrive on the scene with back dividends and a pardon for Greta Garbo and everything comes out all right as Bancamerica and Electrical Research Products, Inc., kiss. All stockholders, in favor of this arrangement should vote for modification on the Literary Digest ballot and send their votes to the Proxy Theatre.

On the other hand, the Halsey Stuart plan of refinancing consists of raising $40,000,000 to buy a 51 per cent. interest in the West Point Military Academy and graduate the present crop of short term cadets as head ushers for Fox Theatres, A.

With West Point in control of all titles, boxes and legs, Fox theatres will be in a strong position. Halsey Stuart will then dump $6,000,000 into throat lozenges to give the talkies a more melodious tone. Then, at a signal from Mr. Halsey, occurred by three Federal Judges, with Mr. Untermyer dissenting, the West Point cadets will answer the call to the Technicolor as Lawrence Tibbett sings "The Star Spangled Banner."

By taking $7,500,000 from the funded debt and applying it to silk hats, spats and malacca walking sticks, Grover Whalen can be signed up to take the place of Adolphe Menjou, William Powell and the Florida Sextet at a saving of $2,000,000 a year. This would mean undivided profits of $29,400 a share less depreciation and state tax.

Twenty million dollars in bonds outstanding would then be retired at 9 P. M. daylight saving time, representing a saving to stockholders of $5,000,000 or $19,000,000 in both. With finances thus reorganized, Halsey Stuart will lend six diving suits to the sinking fund and all the troubles of Fox Films will be settled, with 100 per cent. sound.

All those in favor of this plan will signify by saying "aye" on their proxies, using one side of the paper only.

Church T. E. L. Class Has April Meeting

The April meeting of the T. E. L. Class of the First Baptist Church was held yesterday afternoon at the classroom at the church with Mrs. R. E. Beck presiding over the business session. The devotion was conducted by Mrs. F. W. Straley after which Mrs. W. P. Brooks Jr. led in prayer.

At this time the Easter month, the classroom was decorated with a profusion of yellow and white snap dragons, carnations, larkspurs and other spring flowers, displaying a color scheme of yellow and white. The table placed in the room was covered with a yellow and white cover and had a bowl of snap dragons, surrounded by colored Easter eggs, as a centerpiece.

During the afternoon two egg contests were enjoyed and prizes of "Frisolod Françoise" were given. A hamper of Dutch dolls, directed by Mrs. W. P. Brooks Jr., answered many questions asked of it by members of the class.

At the tea hour refreshments were served by the following: Mrs. A. E. Leveyer, Mrs. R. W. Ware, Mrs. W. L. Stenderman, Mrs. A. E. Rosetter, Mrs. F. R. Savage, Mrs. J. C. Riggs, Mrs. S. J. Bishop Murder Case Is Exciting Film Now Showing At Milane

That S. S. Van Dine's best selling "The Bishop Murder Case" is fully as exciting on the screen as it is in book form is indicated today at the Milane Theatre where the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all-talking thriller opened.

This cleverly contrived tale of a madman who murders indiscriminately, leaving a black cross behind and a snoring verse in "Bitter Goose" rhyme beside each victim, has been effectively adapted to the screen by Lenore J. Coffey with the direction in the joint hands of Nick Grinde and David Burton.

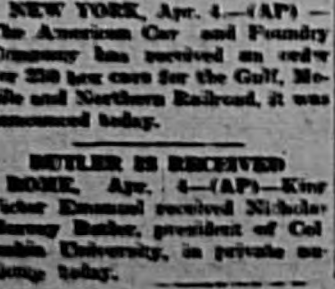

A capable cast helps make this picture the splendid entertainment it is. Paul Rathbone as Phil Vance, detective, handles his role with a convincing manner; Lela Hyams, more attractive than ever, has the principal feminine role, which she plays to perfection; Ronald Young displays the same abilities, which made him so popular in the "Unholy Night." Other fine performances are given by Alec B. Francis, George Marion, Zella Sears and the large supporting cast.

"The Bishop Murder Case" is a sure bet for those who like suspense, surprise, originality and finished acting.

Slain Woman's Husband Is Held For Questioning

Carver probably would be summoned as a witness.
The coroner's jury, which met Wednesday shortly after the killing, held that Carver shot Whitehead after the negro had killed Mrs. Carver with an ax and then bludgeoned the head of her child against the foot of a bed. It returned a verdict that the killing of the negro was "justifiable homicide."
Further investigation, however, led to the arrest of Carver, after which Sheriff Wolff said they had found blood stains on his shirt and golf trousers.
Paul Suringer, of Avon Park, a telephone lineman working near the Carver home at the time of the killing, will be one of the witnesses before the grand jury. Wolff said they announced that Suringer had gone into the home immediately after hearing the shots fired. Suringer said he found Carver washing his hands.

Authorities said a $10,000 life insurance policy which Carver had obtained for his wife on Dec. 14, 1925, contained a double indemnity clause providing for payment of $20,000 in case of accidental death.

Sheriff Wolff also said that on Monday two bullet wounds had been found in the negro's body, one on the head and the other in the chest. During his testimony before the coroner's jury Wednesday, Carver said he had fired the shot which killed Whitehead.
The sheriff found the bullet hole in the wall of the bedroom where the killing occurred, and the bullet had struck upward, indicating that it had been fired from the floor. Two loaded bullets and a magazine were found in the bathroom. The negro's body was found in a hallway leading to the bathroom.

Authorities also learned that Carver did not commit a doctor immediately after the killing, but called in several neighbors. When Dr. J. M. McNeil arrived in the scene, he said Carver acted suspiciously. He said Mrs. Carver died about 30 minutes after the attack.

Evidence presented at the coroner's jury Wednesday was intended to show that the negro killed Mrs. Carver after she awoke from an afternoon nap to find him addressing her dressing table, and cried for help. It further was testified that Carver had been awakened by the cry and shot the negro.

The jury returned a verdict that the slaying of the negro was "justifiable homicide." The coroner of new evidence, however, led to Carver's arrest last night and the beginning of the coroner's jury today.

JOE JINKS

OUR FRIEND JOE HAS A MARVELOUS INSPIRATION
HIS FERTILE BRAIN HAS EVOLVED AN IDEA WHICH OVERWHELMS HIM WITH ITS MAGNITUDE!

WE CAN BUILD A STEP BOTTOM CHINESE BOATS THAT'LL MAKE 'EM STOP BURNING AND REDUCE FRICTION TO A POINT WHERE THEY'LL BE 25% FASTER!!

WHY DIDN'T I THINK OF THIS BEFORE? AFTER ALL, THE GREAT INVENTIONS OF THE WORLD ARE THE SIMPLEST. SEE, YOU'RE A WOW!!

HOW ABSOLUTELY SIMPLE! ANY SCHOOLBOY COULD UNDERSTAND IT. I'VE BROUGHT THE IDEAL CURVE THREE FEET FORWARD WITH A STEP—AND BY HAVING IT ONLY 30 INCHES WIDE IT HARBORS THE FRICTION SURFACE AND INCREASES THE SPEED.

LET'S GET RIGHT OVER TO THE SHOP AND HAVE ONE BUILT ON FOR A TRIAL RUN ON THE BAY!

WHY YA LITTLE SHRIMP ALL GO DOWN THERE AN—

I DARE YOU—YOU SHOULD COME DOWN AND FIGHT LIKE A MAN!!
