AMY JOHNSON LANDS PLANE AT CAPETOWN

Ends 6250 Mile Flight From London In Four Days, Six Hours, To Break Hubby's Mark

CAPETOWN, Nov. 18. (A.P.)—Amy Johnson, flying alone from England landed here today, clipping nearly 11 hours off the speed record held by her husband, Captain J. A. Mollison. He made the trip in four days and 17 hours, last March. His wife's time was four days and six hours.

She brought her small monoplane down to a skillful landing to the accompaniment of shrieking motor horns and the cheers of 5000 persons waiting to greet her. Miss Johnson covered the 6250 miles from England with only four stops. It is a dangerous flight with stretches of jungle where a forced landing might be fatal, and a 1500 mile hop across the Sahara Desert. Andrew Jackson To Play Seminole High In Tilt Here Friday

Their 1932 season ended by a success, what with six victories in eight games including a great victory over Orlando last week, members of Coach Leonard McLucas' Seminole High School football team tomorrow afternoon will be given a final opportunity to cut big league competition by appearing in a game at Municipal Park against Coach Mike Huser's Andrew Jackson Tigers of Jacksonville.

The game, one of the most important of the year, gets under way at 3:30 o'clock instead of 4:00 o'clock. Automobiles will be allowed on the field for the first time this year at an additional cost of 25 cents.

Prospects of a victory in tomorrow's game were bright until the Orlando game which resulted in the temporary crippling of two of the team's brightest stars, left tackle Woodrow Riser and left tackle Skinny Vincent.

Riser suffered a shoulder injury in the Ocala game and was forced to leave the Orlando game in the third quarter, after he had displayed another brilliant performance.

Vincent was unfortunate enough to ram his right hand against the back of an opposing player so hard that some of the bones were displaced, and as a result his hand is swollen to twice its normal size, and has been that way for nearly a week.

With these great players out of the way, much will depend on whether Riser's big brother, Bryan, is able to fill the shoes of his aggressive brother, and whether Gay Vincent has the stuff that has made Vincent a star all year. If these players come through as they should, Coach McLucas' worries will be allayed for the young coach feels that he has an even chance to score a first victory over Andrew Jackson.

"Smiling Mike" will bring 30 players to town tomorrow afternoon, each of them bent upon revenge for the narrow escape they received at the hands of Sanford last year when, expecting to lead the local team to 7 to 0 touchdowns, they barely won out, 7 to 0. Houser has seen his team go from bad to worse and from worse to better all season. He has high hopes of beating Robert E. Lee, an ancient enemy, but the squad was unable to arise out of its lethargy, and went down. Since then, the spark seems to be missing, and a Sanford victory is no improbability.

Tom Brown's game is the second last of the year. With the local team in a favorable position to win or at least tie for first place honors in the Northeast Conference, all hands are looking to tomorrow's game as a real test for the grueling game against Leesburg High here on Thanksgiving Day.

The hundreds of fans who have turned out this year can expect a real battle tomorrow, Coach McLucas said. Wilson Smith, the sensational midget fullback, is ready for another great day, while George McClelland, his fullback mate will be in there with an finer exhibition of defensive football. Quarterback Courier knows every one of the many plays that McLucas has given the team, many of them never used, and he can be depended upon to pull plenty of tricks from the bag.

The starting Sanford line up will be as follows: Preston and Stanley at ends; H. Riser and

GAINESVILLE IS ALL READY FOR GALA WEEK-END

Big Crowd Is Expected To Home-Coming At Florida University

GAINESVILLE, Nov. 17.—Everything is in readiness at the University of Florida for the Gators' twenty-seventh annual Homecoming which begins this Friday afternoon and lasts through Saturday. Thousands of alumni, friends and visitors of the University are expected to storm the campus during the two days of gala entertainment.

Activities really get under way Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock with the "Baby Gators" tangle with the Georgia State College eleven, from Tifton, on the Florida Field. This will mark the second appearance of the Florida freshmen on home soil, and the widespread publicity that the Rams have received this season seems to indicate that an exciting evening is in store for spectators at the contest.

Blue Key, national honorary service fraternity, in charge of Homecoming arrangements, will have a banquet following the game in honor of the notable visitors from Florida and Georgia.

A huge get-together will be held in the stadium immediately after the conclusion of the Blue Key banquet. A gigantic bonfire, built by members of the freshmen class, will light the scene during the pep demonstration. Boxing matches, band music, introduction of prominent visitors, and fireworks display will serve to amuse the old grads and friends during the course of the evening, and bring back to them memories of their college days.

The annual Governor's drive through the campus will begin Saturday. Homecoming entertainment. The tour will terminate at the polo field west of the stadium, where a polo game will take place between two picked varsity teams. The governor will throw in the ball at the "international game" will be on.

At noon Saturday the University Library will be the scene of the Alumni luncheon, a gathering of all former graduates and students of the University of Florida. At this time old men will have an opportunity to get together and swap yarns of former days. But the feature attraction of the Homecoming festivities will be the Florida-Georgia Tech football game on Florida Field early Saturday afternoon. A keen rivalry has always existed between these two schools, and a fight to the finish is expected. This is the first time in the history of relations between Florida and Georgia Tech that the Golden Tornado has played on Florida soil, and the Gators are determined to "thrill the hearts of the old grads by clutching the Yellow Jackets without getting stung. Daugh's galore will found out the Homecoming festivities. Nearly every Greek letter fraternity on the campus will entertain at some time during the two days spent in welcoming alumni and friends.

DUKE ELEVEN IS HOPEFUL OF WIN OVER CAROLINA

Many Big Games Will Be Played In South On Next Saturday

ATLANTA, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Duke's Blue Devils hope to write football history Saturday, by defeating North Carolina for the first time in their long years of football rivalry.

Duke's position with North Carolina is similar to Dartmouth's with Yale. Never has the Big Game team from Hanover been able to overcome its jinx and whip the Elmen and never has Duke succeeded in beating the Tarheels.

Carolina handed Duke a 48 to 7 pasting in 1929, but for the last two years Duke has held the university to scoreless drubbings.

Despite its loss to North Carolina State a week ago, Duke rules a favorite over the Tarheels, as a result of its fine play against Auburn, Tennessee and Kentucky, three of the strongest teams in the South.

More than 20,000 spectators are expected to come to Chapel Hill to see Wallace Wade's Duke team match skill with the eleven coached by Charles "Chuck" Collins, with the state championship at stake.

Down at Gainesville, Florida will seek its first conference victory in its new stadium over Georgia Tech. The new plant was opened in 1930 and Florida was beaten badly by Alabama. Georgia won from the Gators a year ago and North Carolina played them to a 0 to 0 tie.

For years Florida has journeyed to Atlanta to meet Tech, and this is the first time in two decades that the Yellow Jackets have moved south to battle Florida. In honor of this invasion Georgia Tech will carry its 80-piece band. Special trains will carry hundreds of fans from Atlanta.

Florida has lost its last four games, but it will throw every bit of power into Saturday's game in an effort to win the Tech game which it always considers the most important on the schedule. Florida won in Atlanta in 1930, but was beaten by Tech last season.

Georgia Tech's excellent stand against Kentucky, Auburn, Tulane and Vanderbilt, and its surprise victory a week ago over a powerful Alabama team ranks the Yellow Jackets as favorites.

In the eight previous games Tech has won five and tied two. Florida's last win came in 1930 when it pulled up the series, which dates back 29 years by whipping Tech, 35 to 7.

Coach Bill Alexander gave the Yellow Jackets four new scoring plays yesterday for use against Florida. Three additional players were added to Georgia's injured list following Tuesday's scrimmaging. They are Halfback Chapman, Tackle Davis and End Maxwell. Trainers at Auburn and Georgia are working overtime in efforts to get their injured athletes in shape for the big game at Columbia, Ga., which carries so much championship importance.

U.S. MINISTER IS DOUBTFUL AS TO REPEAL BENEFIT

Bootlegger Stands To Get Protection, In Opinion Of Morehead

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—John Motley Morehead, American Minister to Sweden, sees in the legalization of the sale of beer which the Democrats propose to press for a vote in the December session of the Congress, factors which will react on the country's prohibition problem to worse effect than repeal.

In an interview before he left New York last night on board the steamship Br. men, of the North German Lloyd Line, for his Stockholm post, Mr. Morehead said that such legislation would only serve to give the bootlegger legal protection.

"Take your hand off beer," he said, "and you will at once return to the days of the old saloon. Legalization of its sale means that we will have to protect with all the forces of law the doors and walls of the beer parlors."

The proposal to permit the manufacture and sale of beer as a way out of the menace of the bootleg army was a halfway measure, he declared, and would serve only to give legal protection to the criminals now engaged in the illicit manufacture and sale of all forms of beer, wines and liquors. Taxation means protection, he said, and would "simply open the doors of beer parlors in the name of the law where whisky will be sold."

"The beer will be the screen of respectability for the bootlegger," he continued, "and by legalizing beer we will put him in the best way to sell hard liquor without sanction of law or payment of tax."

Dr. Morehead, who has given considerable thought to the liquor problem here and to Sweden's method of handling it, favors the prohibition law of Sweden for 16 years. He declared that "it has decreased the most detrimental features of liquor on an average of 66 per cent and has increased the revenues of the nation 380 per cent." This system, he believes, "will serve as a model and foundation upon which the individual states can produce a system of liquor control which is best suited to their individual needs."

Young Pictured As Peace Maker In Insull Case

Brown said Young was "chairman of the board of the General Electric Company and much interested in the electric industry and its financing, a deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York City with great influence in banking circles, and a friend of Insull of many years standing."

Young was credited by Brown with obtaining the consent of the Central Hanover Bank to terms of the "standstill" agreement which, however, failed of fulfillment when another bank refused to sign it.

Brown said he believed about $1,000,000 could be collected from persons who participated in Insull syndicates and did not complete payment for stocks which they purchased at prices lower than the prevailing market value.

Federal Judge Lindley adjourned the hearing indefinitely after Brown finished his testimony.

Samuel Insull, Jr., completing his testimony begun Tuesday, frequently replying to questions with "I don't know," or "I can't recall," or "My records will show."

He revealed his total salaries from Insull companies increased from $67,084.30 in 1929 to $106,249.99 the following year.

Stocks in Insull concerns were declining rapidly, attorneys brought out, while young Insull's salary was increasing.

PICK THE WINNER

Here's one of the best of the Herald's Pick The Winner contests for 1932, with 19 games listed, most of them difficult and enough to test the judgment and vision of the most hard-core football fan. The prizes this week are the same as before. Any minnow in the stock of the Sanford Sporting Goods Store and a 10 box of shorts. Face Powder donated by the Touchton Sanford Drug Co. Tear out this list, draw a line through the name of the team you think will win or tie, sign your name and send or bring it to The Herald office before 5:00 next Saturday. Women fans are particularly invited to participate in the contest.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

A CURE FOR THE BLUES: O my God, my soul is cast down within me: Therefore do I remember thee.—Psalm 42:6.

The Tampa Tribune reminds us that Gilchrist Stockton will soon be added to the unemployment

A heavy snow is covering the North which means that the railroads are dying South, and what is more important, tourists, too.

Speaking of the "Forgotten man" and somebody was, what about the fellow who carefully saved his money all his life, cautiously invested it in real estate, conscientiously voted against all extravagant bond issues, and now is confiscatorily taxed to pay for them.

Some people think Europe won't default on war debts. If told in a big way to pay, maybe Europe wouldn't default next month with only $125,000,000 due, but anyone who thinks that Europe will go on paying $240,000,000 a year, and more, for the next sixty-two years, in gold, in return for shoes and shirts and gunpowder which was shot up in the war, knows neither the limitations of gold reserves, or human nature. It's easy enough to say "make 'em pay." It's not so easy to make 'em.

When it becomes necessary for twelve thousand men to guard the person of a single man, he must be important. We always thought the Prince of Wales was a sort of a drug store cowboy who set the styles in men's clothing and kept everyone smiling with his funny jokes. We never figured he cut any real ice in the affairs of state. But we must have had him all wrong. From the way some of those Irishmen want to lynch him, the Prince must be the Queen Bee in Great Britain.

We'll bet William Jennings Bryan sat up in his grave and chuckled when he read in the morning papers that the National Farm Union has adopted as a part of its farm relief program a measure advocating the free and unlimited coinage of silver on a 16 to 1 ratio with gold. And wouldn't the "Old Comers" raise his silver tongue voice to the high heavens if he were alive today, on the heels of capitalism and the international bankers and the crucifixion of "mankind on a cross of gold." He could have been elected president hands down in 1932.

The president of the national W. C. T. U. announces it will conduct a fight to the finish against the legalization of beer. "We have lost a battle," she says. "That does not mean we have lost the war." The W. C. T. U. would do well under the circumstances to meet the opposition to their "dry" laws in the Eighteenth Amendment in the same way they have met the opposition to the return of the saloon. Too persistent a persistence of liquor prohibition may result in the modification of prohibition.

Arthur Brisbane shudders at the thought of "unemployed bootleggers." He will be right. Five hundred thousand unemployed bootleggers are being kept out of work by the prohibition laws. It is a pity that the bootleggers are not being put to work in some other way. I have seen a bootlegger who had a very good idea of how to put his bootlegging to work in some other way.

The Tax On Beer

One of the most peculiar political phenomena of history is taking place at the present moment. At a time when people throughout the entire world are crying out against exorbitant taxation, when the poor are asking Congress to soak the rich and the rich are beseeching the government to spread the burden, when taxpayers strike prevail everywhere and normal federal revenues have reached the point of diminishing returns in almost futile endeavors to balance budgets, we have the most extraordinary spectacle of a people asking to be taxed.

Perhaps the strongest argument being advanced today in favor of prohibition modification is that legitimate taxes levied on beer will help to balance the federal budget. It is even said in some reckless moments of enthusiasm that a beer tax WILL balance the budget and wipe out the deficit. The current deficit so far is approximately $700,000,000. For the fiscal year it will probably be in the neighborhood of $1,500,000,000. The total deficit then would be approximately $4,500,000,000. To eliminate the deficit the necessary tax on beer would be twenty cents a glass.

More cautious commentators point out that a one or two cents a glass tax on beer is about all the traffic will bear. There is going to be an increasing problem with bootlegging under any circumstances. Any tax which tends to raise the cost of beer to objectionable levels will merely give bootleggers their opportunity to flourish. Legal beer at five or ten cents a glass will hamper bootlegging. But legal beer at fifty or seventy-five cents a glass will encourage it.

However, even a tax of one cent a glass will raise a considerable sum. In the fifteen states in which beer may be sold immediately following the modification of the Volstead law, a one cent tax would raise an estimated sum of $1,225,000,000, while two cents a glass would procure around $450,000,000 a year for the treasury. So tidy a sum while not balancing the budget would help materially.

And strangely enough, in view of the almost proverbial objection to taxes, the people seem anxious to pay this tax. An additional tax of one cent on gasoline would bring a terrific howl. A tax on Coca Cola would produce accusations against soaking the poor for it is largely the poorer classes who drink Coca Cola. So it is with beer. Fifty million workmen and their families will be the beer drinkers in this country as they always were before prohibition. The two million or so who pay income taxes consume comparatively little beer.

But the workmen seem perfectly willing to do their part toward balancing the budget if they can have their beer.

The French And Their Gold

In considering the request of France for an extension of the moratorium applying to a payment of the comparatively insignificant sum of $20,000,000 on December 15, it is interesting to note that France today controls the largest gold reserves in the world with the single exception of the United States and that in proportion to population or wealth it has more than this country. The per capita gold stock in France is $67; in the United States, $42. The total gold reserves of France amount to over $3,500,000,000 or approximately one-third of the total world supply.

France protects this gold in a most ingenious and indestructible manner. Its bankers are probably the shrewdest in the world. Its politicians and military are the craftiest. No raid on French gold can occur such as almost forced this country off the gold standard last Spring. No enemy army, invading France, capturing Paris, can seize its gold supply. The gold of France is as securely protected from speculators and invaders as the heavens above. It is as safe from enemies of France as if it didn't exist.

The French monetary gold stocks are hoarded in a huge treasure chamber about two and one-half acres in size located two hundred feet beneath the earth in the heart of Paris. Immediately over the top of the chamber is a subterranean lake forty feet deep formed by damming a river which flows underground through the city. Above the lake is a fifty foot ledge of solid rock. Access to the chamber is found through six steel towers with revolving doors and electric elevators which can be flooded with water at a moment's notice.

A picked guard defends the entrance to these elevators. At any sign of alarm, they withdraw within the revolving doors, descend to the gold chamber in the elevators, flood the towers with water, shutting out the enemy, and are prepared to remain beneath the earth with the French treasure for an indefinite period of time. Plenty of provisions and all the necessities of living have been provided in advance. The water in the towers can only be eliminated from below. Pumping it out from above would only let in more water from the underground lake.

France protects its gold supplies.

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

The Inter-Urban Traction Company, a corporation organized to build an electric railroad between Orlando and Winter Park was organized in Orlando this morning. The following officers and directors were chosen: W. C. Temple, president; E. F. Sperry and Carl Dann, vice-presidents; L. Payne, secretary-treasurer; and E. F. Sperry, Judge W. J. W. O'Connell, C. H. Harper, and the above mentioned officers, directors. The organization of such a company to construct an electric line between Orlando and Winter Park has been in progress about three months. Carl Dann and C. H. Harper have been the moving spirits in the venture.

RUSSIA GOES HUNGRY

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The food scarcity in Soviet Russia has meant new and tighter ration regulations for staple commodities already classed as luxuries by most of the people. In 1928 the second five year plan starts. Its inauguration is expected to bring vigorous activity looking toward doubling or tripling the standards of living of the people.

In the matter of food, there appears to be present, in the large centers, at least, plenty of bread, both the black bread and the slate-colored which passes here for white. But there is a shortage of virtually every other article with the possible exception of the most reasonable vegetables.

Such things as butter, meat, fish and sugar are rare delicacies in the average Russian home diet. Each of the workers, who, with the Red Army, comprise the most privileged class so far as food is concerned, is entitled to one kilo (2.204 pounds) of butter and sugar, and between two and three kilos of meat a month in his ration allowance. But even this meager quantity sometimes is not to be had at the government co-operative stores, where food supplies are distributed at low fixed prices.

The average citizen consequently must go to a private market where peasants are permitted to sell their surpluses at any price they can command. Here the prices usually are so high that his wages will not permit him to buy as much as he would like and in some cases as much as he needs. It is not unusual to see many persons trading bread in the private markets for farm produce.

One factor which many critics of the present state of affairs overlook is that the majority of the workers in large industries and plants now receive at least what would be called here a square meal daily in regularly established to their factories. Virtually every factory, office and institution of any size has its own arrangement for feeding its employees. This system is spreading rapidly under the government's policy of gradually as lifting the home as the unit of family life.

DEBTS AND DISARMAMENT

BY EDWARD H. COLLINS

Announcement of Great Britain's determination to reach an accord on disarmament that will be in harmony with American opinion on this question is distinctly important for one of the greatest obstacles that advocates of debt modification have to combat is the argument that the debtor nations are currently paying more for armaments than their remittances to this country. During the debate on the Hoover moratorium in Congress, Senator Johnson and several members of the House of Representatives pointed out that the debtor nations were spending approximately eight times as much for armaments as would be required to meet their annuities to the United States.

Table showing Armaments Debt Payments in millions of dollars. Columns include Country, Arm's Budget, and Debt Payments.

There are two essential differences between armament payments, however, and foreign debt payments, which make such comparative tables almost meaningless.

In the first place, in a country such as England, with a depreciated currency the payments are now about once and a half as heavy a burden as they were when they were contracted (1.44 times, to be accurate, at the current rate of exchange). This means that, judged by its effect on the British budget, the present year's annuity of $184,000,000 would be the equivalent of $265,000,000 with the pound at parity.

More important is the distinction between internal and external payments. Armament expenditures involve the transference of value to foreign countries. In practice this can be accomplished in one or more of four ways—by the export of goods, services, gold or securities. It is the difficulty—not to say impossibility—of obtaining exchange through any of these processes, under present world conditions of trade derangement, that constitutes the real problem of the settlement of international debts.

The instincts of those who argue for a sweeping reduction in armaments expenditures are sound, however, even if their reasoning is superficial. For there is a very real relationship between the two.

If the United States waived debt payments in their entirety it would mean that during the coming year a burden of $270,000,000 would be shifted from our foreign debtors to the taxpayers of this country.

But President Hoover has suggested to the Disarmament Conference a reduction of one-third in armaments, all around. Suppose that such a reduction actually were effected, and suppose, to carry the hypothesis to its natural conclusion, that it resulted in a reduction of one-third in our national expenditures. What would it mean in dollars and cents? It would mean a slash in our national budget of $242,000,000, or almost enough to make up our loss in debt payments.

That, coupled with the relief that would be afforded Europe in its budget, is the real reason why debts and arms reductions are closely related.

Those employed in small enterprises and in the lesser public offices, who have not yet been accorded mass feeding facilities, and who find it hard going under the best of conditions—bear the brunt of the present food shortage. In conformity with the soviet policy of paying particular attention to the welfare of the younger generations, children enjoy privileged status in this matter of food rations.

Hand in hand with the shortage has been a gradual but increasingly sharp decline in the purchasing power of the ruble, which works an additional hardship on a large part of the people. The paper ruble today is valued at about 25 to one gold ruble in terms of buying value.

With the steady flow of currency toward the villages, and with little returning because of the shortage of manufactured articles to balance that flow, the monetary circulation has been destroyed. The effects are felt by the people in constantly rising prices. Financial stringency is forcing the government to issue additional currency and has aroused rumors of an imminent money reform.

Although these measures are considered not improbable as a temporary expedient, close students of soviet economies say that the problem is one of industry rather than of finance—that as soon as an adequate flow of manufactured goods can be started to the villages, the money situation will right itself and the ruble will regain its stability.

In its simplest form, this would mean that $1,000,000,000 in bonds, guaranteed, presumably, jointly and severally by the debtor countries of the United States, would be offered publicly here at the earliest possible opportunity. The proceeds, which would represent three—or perhaps four—years' annuities under the present schedule, would be turned over in a lump sum to the United States Treasury Assuming the bonds could be marketed there for three or four years to come, and the reparations and debt question would be settled for all time.

Such an arrangement would not eliminate the transfer problem in its entirety, but it would reduce the latter to easily manageable proportions. For example, Great Britain, our largest debtor, which now owes us $1,398,000,000, would have to find debt service on a loan of but, say, $400,000,000. Interest at 6 per cent would be $24,000,000 annually, while a 1 per cent sinking fund would add another $4,000,000. In other words, on such a set-up—which, obviously is purely hypothetical—Great Britain's new "annuity" would be less than $30,000,000.

The frame is drilled at six inch intervals for insertion of willow branches or weed and reeds to imitate the vegetation nearby.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"MORAL AND IMMORTALITY" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Churches of Christ, 2 o'clock, on Sunday, Nov. 13.

The Golden Text was from I Corinthians 13:13, "Faith, hope and charity, such as they also, that are earthly, such as is the heavenly, such as they also that are heavenly."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts; And be renewed in the spirit of your mind; And that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness" (Eph. 4:22-24).
The Lesson Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science text:

Florida Citrus Crop Yield Will Be At Low Mark

 nearly 300 greater. Prices for citrus held nearly unchanged, around 25¢ a box for grapefruit and 22.50 for oranges. Reports from the auctions indicate that citrus fruit consigned to them is bringing returns to growers considerably lower than these prices. No firm, established prices for vegetables can be reported. The bulk of the movement in snap beans, for which the demand became active after the damaging rainfall and floods in Florida.

A rainfall of 21 inches in 24 hours Nov. 7 in parts of the Lake Okechobee section, flooded the fields one to two feet deep and damaged all but about 2000 acres of the snap bean crop. Everything north of Belle Glade was a total loss. The remaining acreage is in the hands of a few growers who have credit left and are able to obtain some of the so-called frost-free land which lies close to the edge of the lake are making preparations to plant every available acre. This means, barring mishap from frost, that there will be a reasonably heavy movement of beans from this section beginning the latter part of December. This crop will in all probability come in direct competition with the crop from the lower Florida coast coast. A limited supply of snap beans from the Lake Okechobee section.

Many Uses For Peas

PEAS are just peas to the inexperienced cook, but they're an inspiration to a housewife who likes to vary her menu and yet include plenty of health giving vitamins for her family. She can make soups and salads with them and also combine them with other vegetables in ways to make your mouth fairly water. She can make pea and tomato soup, either plain or a puree, cauliflower and pea salad, pea and apple salad, potato and pea salad, and pea, cheese and nut salad; and some of the vegetable combinations are asparagus and peas on toast, peas with fresh tomatoes, pea oysters, dumplings with peas and carrots, pea and walnut roast, potato marbles with peas, lettuce and peas, English peas, new peas au gratin in carrot boats, parsley, peas and carrots, and potatoes creamed with peas.

There Are Others, Too
 We know a lot of other ways to use them, too, such as curried pea omelet, pea waffles with bacon, round steak with peas and creamed chicken and peas, but we'll use the rest of our space telling you how to make:

Pea and Tomato Soup: Empty the contents of a No. 2 can of peas and a No. 2 can of tomatoes into a sauce pan and simmer ten minutes; then press through a sieve. Melt four tablespoons butter, add four tablespoons flour, and then add gradually one quart of soup stock, stirring till thickened. Add the strained vegetable pulp and season to taste. Serve with croutons. This serves six or eight.

Pomerene Hits Parasite Banks That Refuse Aid

 ity is offered under present circumstances, is a parasite in the community and deserves the condemnation of every thinking man and woman.
 "This is no time for financial institutions to refuse to loan their monies, when reasonably secured. The money in their vaults was earned by the people and belongs to them. It is the very life blood of commerce. What right have they to refuse to loan it back to the people who may need it to employ men needing work to keep their wives and children from starvation and freezing?

 "If the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would continue to make loans in normal times, as they do now, the banks which are 75 to 85 percent liquid, or over, would maintain a lobby in Washington to secure the repeal of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act. Now they can function and aid in the restoration of normal business conditions. Were it not for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the entire country would be at their mercy."

MAXWELL LOST TO GEORGIA FOR REST OF SEASON

Former Local Grid Star Advised To Quit Or Suffer Serious Ills

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 18.—Harry Mehre, who is hoping against hope that his Georgia Bulldogs will give Auburn a real battle Saturday at Columbus, turned the attention of his prof. to offensive play yesterday afternoon as one of Georgia's veteran linemen hung up the football toga for good.

Dick Maxwell, the veteran who has been doing noble work this season at left end, yesterday was told by a physician that he must give up football or take a chance on serious damage to his health. Maxwell, counted on strong for next year, since little Freddie Miller finished up this season, suffered concussion of the brain two years ago. Apparently he fully recovered from the injury but, at times, in the heat of hard fought games, he has been subject to spells of dizziness. Maxwell will be missed by the Bulldogs, particularly in Saturday's game with Auburn. The tall end from Sanford, Fla., was a capable man in a pinch.

Harry Mehre paid tribute to Maxwell yesterday afternoon and

Hope Expressed For Diabetic Children

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 18.—(AP)—There is hope for the diabetic child under proper treatment, Dr. Elliott P. Joslin, of Boston, told a group of the Southern Medical Association in its 26th annual convention yesterday.

"Diabetic children are living," Dr. Joslin said. "That is the outstanding feature of the diabetic story today. Already 100 of our pioneers have passed the 10-year diabetic mark. . . .

"Already their duration of life has outdistanced that of the average adult diabetic and they are starting on their second decade with far more reassurance than when they began their first, because they had tested their insulin armor and have proved that no purely diabetical child is intractable to insulin."

ATTACKS REPULSED

Miami Man Dead From Accidental Shot Wound

MIAMI, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Walter S. Morrow, member of a local real estate firm, died yesterday from wounds he received at his home as he prepared to clean a shotgun preparatory to a hunting trip.

The trigger of the shotgun caught on another firearm as Morrow attempted to lift it from a closet packed with wearing apparel, investigators learned.

The full discharge of the gun struck Morrow in the chest. He died later at a hospital.

Morrow came to Florida 30 years ago from Nashville, Tenn., members of his family said.

Hundreds Of Trout Are Caught On Flagler Pier

FLAGLER BEACH, Nov. 18.—Trout were caught by the hundreds yesterday morning from the Flagler Beach pier. Rudolph Peterson, A. E. Engstrom and Dr. A. Norstrom, of Pierson, caught 75 by 10 o'clock. J. G. Carter, Daytona Beach, winter resident with his guest, Capt. C. M. Robinson, of Washington, D. C., had caught 100 large trout by noon and they were still going strong.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Archer and Mrs. J. L. Massey, of Daytona Beach, caught 76 Mr. and Mrs. William Arnold, Daytona Beach winter residents, from Rockaway Beach, N. Y., had more than half a hundred.

R. G. Stewart, of Oglethorpe, and C. D. Tolson, of Flagler Beach, were among those who were fishing with clubs alone and caught 24 of the same fish in 30 minutes.

GOLD PRODUCTION

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Production of gold in the United States during September reached another new high for the year, it was announced yesterday by the American bureau of metal statistics, which estimated production at 246,000 fine ounces, valued at $5,984,820, compared with an August output of 241,000 ounces worth $4,981,470.

California Citrus Crop Will Total 30,000 Cars

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 18.—(AP)—California's 1932 orange crop, now moving to market, was estimated yesterday at 30,000 cars by T. H. Powell, sales manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange.

The figure approximates last year's yield. About 6,500 cars of the early crop have already moved from north and central California.

Prices for lemon shipments are high in the citrus, Powell said, as the shipments are increasing, but average supplies by the Atlantic

Atlanta Police Told To Capture Or Kill Thugs

ATLANTA, Nov. 1.—(AP)—An army of policemen volunteering as volunteers work to stamp out Atlanta's vice yesterday in a campaign to stamp out landlady and thug was talk of revising the vigilantes in a manner that brought law and order to the West during frontier days.

Mayor James L. Kuy approved a suggestion that business men be deputized as special policemen, given arms and invested with authority to wage warfare on bandits. The mayor advised the police committee of the council to consider the suggestion carefully.

One hundred and twenty policemen volunteered for extra duty yesterday at the call of Acting Chief of Police A. Lamar Pools. The plan is for them to hide in doorways and watch for bandit raids on grocery stores and drug stores, favorite objectives of robbers.
