But Fill Ordinance May Be Unenforceable

Where's The Low Ground? Mercer Gets $3,680 Answer

An engineering technicians survey, which took 297 man-hours and cost about $3,680, has determined there are about 588 lots in Sanford lower than allowed by city code.

Results of the survey, requested by City Commissioner John Mercer, present a thorny enforcement problem for the Sanford City Commission.

While some of the lots are exempt, about 200 must be filled in according to code. But the city manager says the code would be expensive to enforce and could easily be ruled invalid.

The commission agreed to have City Attorney William Colbert to examine the ordinance and determine if it can be rewritten to make it more enforceable or "reasonable."

Low lots are defined as those below the level of adjoining streets, Mercer said. Lots exempt are those with buildings on them, designated as drainage retention basins and other lots used as part of an existing drainage system that, if filled, would interrupt the run-off of storm water.

According to the code, if the commission believes such a lot constitutes a threat to "public health" or has any "other good reason" it can order the owner to fill it in within 30 days. If the owner doesn't comply, the city may fill it in and charge the owner for the dirt and labor. If the owner doesn't pay the city, a lien can be placed against his or her property and the city could seize it.

Mercer said after reading the ordinance he noticed such lots in the city and decided something should be done about them. He then asked for the survey.

Gas Tax Hike Sought To Fund Road Work

By Donna Estees
Herald Staff Writer

Legislation calling for up to a 10 cents-per-gallon increase in gasoline taxes to provide funds for state and county road improvements has been filed by state Rep. Art Grindle.

Grindle's bill calls for a 6 cents-per-gallon tax hike to be used for state roads and provides for counties to levy up to 4-cents-per-gallon for county roads.

County Commissioners Bill Kirchhoff and Fred Streetman said they support the concept.

It is estimated that an additional 4 cents per gallon gas tax for Seminole County would raise about $3.6 million annually and "would go a long way in helping Seminole solve its road problems," Kirchhoff said.

Sen. George Stuart, D-Orlando, has agreed to sponsor the Grindle bill in the state Senate.

Grindle foresees a review of "...Constituents feel strongly a gas tax increase is the way to fund the needed (road) improvements."

—State Rep. Art Grindle

the proposed legislation by at least three committees and three subcommittees of the House before it gets to a vote on the floor there.

The Altamonte Springs Republican legislator says he doesn't expect any flak from his constituents because of the bill.

He says constituents have been telling him governmental leaders "have not measured up" to solving road problems and "the constituents feel strongly a gas tax increase is the way to fund the needed improvements."

Grindle said his constituents see a sales tax as the next best method of funding road improvements after gasoline taxes.

"I don't object to a sales tax, but I feel we need sales tax revenues for other things," he said.

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce favors a user-fee type solution, Grindle said, adding he will be talking to the Greater Orlando Chamber of Commerce later this week and to the Greater Seminole County Chamber next week seeking support for his bill.

Kirchhoff said, "If we are going to get a transportation network and we don't have the money to do it in Seminole, our only recourse is some kind of a user tax."

While Grindle says impact fees levied on land developers should be used for such things as water and sewer improvements and not on roads, Kirchhoff says in some cases, like Red Bug Lake Road where new developments are impacting the two-lane roadway, the fees should be used for roads.

With the extra 4 cents Kirchhoff said a lot could be

Costly Courtroom Faux Pas

Watch What You Say

Deane Jordan

A witness in an aggravated assault trial spent a long lunch hour in a holding cell at the Seminole County courthouse after a judge declared him in contempt of court following a mistrial.

On the witness stand, the Sanford man blurted out a description of an alleged incident unrelated to the assault case. He had been warned several times prior to the trial not to mention the alleged incident.

Afterward, William Kenneth Kelly spent two hours in the courthouse holding cell only to face a still-peevish Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor who fined the man $350.

According to court records, Kelly was a state's witness in the case against Ronald Simpkins, 27, of 2746 Ridgewood Ave., Sanford. Simpkins is accused of threatening a man with a gun and chasing him through a parking lot.

Assistant state attorney Tom Hastings said Kelly had been told several times not to mention while testifying that Simpkins had reportedly slashed the tires on Kelly's car.

About two hours after the jury trial began, Kelly was called to testify. When Assistant Public Defender Paul Arlt asked Kelly if the incidents he witnessed followed an argument about a parking space at an apartment complex, he said it had. He then blurted out that Simpkins had slashed the tires on his car.

Arlt immediately asked for a mistrial since the testimony was not relevant to the aggravated assault trial. McGregor granted the expensive and time-consuming request — since a new jury must be selected and paid — and then asked Kelly if he had been told not to mention the alleged tire-slashing.

When Kelly confirmed he had, the judge ordered sheriff's deputies to take Kelly into custody on the contempt charge.

About two hours later, Kelly was standing alone in the courtroom before McGregor. Two sheriff deputies sat behind him.

Kelly apologized several times and said he was nervous and had not intended to say what he did.

McGregor told Kelly that his statement was very costly to the judicial system in that about four hours had gone into the jury selection and the trial.

According to Hastings, another trial date will be picked along with another jury — probably within two weeks — and Kelly will again be called as a state witness.

Some Offices To Be Closed Friday

Seminole County government and school board offices will be closed Friday to give the employees a "spring holiday." Seminole County Schools have been closed this week for a spring break.

Altamonte Springs City Hall will be closed Friday and there will be no refuse collection that day. The next pickup will be on the regularly scheduled time, Tuesday.

Other city, state and federal offices, banks, and post offices within the county will remain open.

Holy Week Drama

David Thomas, in the role of Jesus Christ, stumbles under the burden of the cross as he is goaded by Roman soldiers (Dave Farr, left, and John LeRoy) in re-enactment of the Easter Story with "Living Pictures" Monday night at the Central Baptist Church, Sanford. Many area Christian churches will be holding special Maundy Thursday services tonight and Good Friday services tomorrow.

Lake Mary To Consider 6 Proposed Ordinances

Six proposed ordinances that include the regulation of adult entertainment, the awarding of an exclusive franchise for garbage collection, and setting requirements for landscaping new developments are scheduled to come before the Lake Mary City Commission tonight.

The meeting is slated for 7:30 p.m. at the Lake Mary City Hall, 258 N. Country Club Road.

A proposed adult entertainment ordinance, tabled at the last commission meeting on March 21, should come up for discussion.

Commissioner Harry Terry asked that the proposed ordinance be tabled so it could be changed to allow the city to charge a higher fee for investigating persons who want to obtain licenses for an adult entertainment facilities in Lake Mary.

Even though Lake Mary does not have any adult entertainment facilities, the proposal would allow the city to place strict controls on adult bookstores, movie theaters and dancing establishments.

The proposed garbage collection ordinance would do away with the city's "free enterprise" attitude that has city residents utilizing four waste collection companies.

Representatives from at least two of the companies said they plan to attend the meeting.

The proposed landscaping ordinance would make adding trees, shrubs and ground cover mandatory on all new commercial and multi-family developments.

Other proposals scheduled to be discussed are the establishment of guidelines for the city's police and fire department in dealing with false alarms from fire and burglar alarm systems, updating the city's traffic regulations, and the addition of a $2 fee to all criminal proceedings to be used for law enforcement education and training.

Pictures Of Missing Children Soon To Be In Many Gas Bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tucked inside your future utility bill may be pictures of two missing children.

It's part of a new campaign, assisted by first lady Nancy Reagan and America's gas companies, to find the 1.5 million youngsters reported missing in the United States each year.

The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children says each month, beginning in May, pictures of two missing youngsters will be placed into the bills mailed out by participating utility firms, now numbering 60 nationwide.

To date, two companies in Florida — one in Winter Haven and the other in Tampa — have agreed to participate in the program. No gas utilities in Central Florida are yet in the program, according to Wendy James, spokesman for the American Gas Association which represents about 300 gas companies

Drinking Age May Be On The Way Up

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — After six years of trying and with some help from the federal government — Rep. Fran Carlton Wednesday persuaded a House committee that Florida should raise its legal drinking age to 21.

By a unanimous vote, the House committee on regulated industries agreed to an amended version of the Orlando Democrat's bill (HB 54) to ban drinking by persons younger than age 21 by Sept. 30, 1986.

But Carlton promised a House floor fight to restore provisions in her original bill that would soften the blow to 18- to 20-year olds by imposing the higher age gradually over two years, and that would exempt members of the armed forces from the higher drinking age.

Carlton said she expects to win that fight because two-thirds of the House members have signed on as co-sponsors of her measure.

The adopted version would raise the age from 18 to 21 on Sept. 30, 1986.

"It's high time Florida raised the drinking age and if this is the best you can do I urge you to pass it on," Carlton told committee members just before the vote.

Several committee members said they would vote for the bill solely because of a federal law that would mean the loss to Florida of some $90 million in transportation money unless the state raises its drinking age to 21 by Oct. 1, 1986.

"I'm only voting for this because of the blackmail," said Rep. Ron Silver, D-North Miami Beach.

Carlton first introduced similar legislation in 1979 and the next year won an increase from age 18 to age 19.

Representatives of the hotel and restaurant industry and student leaders told the committee a higher drinking age would be an unreasonable denial of drinking privileges to persons who are considered adults in every other respect.

But the bill's supporters — including representatives of Mothers Against Drunk Driving, a delegation of high school students and a Florida Highway Patrol trooper — said the higher drinking age will save young lives.

Sen. Dick Langley, R-Clermont and a former public defender, said the measure will also prevent alcohol-related crimes and family disputes among members of the affected age group.

Brown Derby's Last Supper

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Booth No. 5, where Clark Gable proposed to Carol Lombard, is one of the artifacts to be saved from the famed Brown Derby restaurant on Vine Street, which has served its last meal after more than 56 years as a movie-land landmark.

The restaurant, which opened on Valentine's Day 1929, closed Wednesday because of lease problems.

"We are taking off every picture, every chair, every booth, every lampshade and storing them until we open up our new Derby, and everything will be the same again," a spokesman said.

Mass Anti-Apartheid Protests To Honor Martin Luther King Jr.

United Peace International
Thousands of protesters nationwide will pay tribute to Martin Luther King Jr. and mark the 17th anniversary of his assassination today by launching massive protests against South Africa's policy of apartheid.

In Washington, District of Columbia workers will mark the anniversary with a city-sanctioned rally and vigil at the South African Embassy — site of demonstrations and acts of civil disobedience since Thanksgiving.

More than 1,700 demonstrators have been arrested at the embassy demonstrations, including the Rev. Jesse Jackson, Barry's wife, Effi, Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., Rep. Ron Dellums, D-Calif., and Walter Fauntroy, the district's non-voting delegate to Congress.

Congress also joined in recognizing apartheid protests with two resolutions Wednesday. The Senate urged Secretary of State George Shultz to study the mid-March violence in South Africa and branded apartheid "institutionalized racism."

House Democrats gave their backing to legislation imposing a series of economic restrictions on the South African government.

'Innocent' Rapist May Go Free

MARKHAM, Ill. (UPI) — Saying she has already made her peace with God, the woman who claims her false testimony sent an innocent man to prison for a rape that may never have happened is beginning the legal proceedings that could free him.

Cathleen Crowell Webb is to appear in Cook County Circuit Court today to testify that she lied when she accused Gary Dotson of rape in 1977. Dotson, 28, has served six years in prison since being convicted of the rape.

In appearances on national television and at news conferences in recent days, Webb has said she made the story up because she feared she was pregnant with her boyfriend's child.

Webb could face up to five years in prison for perjury if her recanted testimony is accepted and the state presses charges.

Prosecutors have said privately they have some doubts about her recantation.

Proposed Amtrak Cuts Blasted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A key House subcommittee chairman says the administration is relying on "Alice in Wonderland" thinking if it believes the states can replace federal support for Amtrak if those subsidies are eliminated.

Rep. Bill Lehman, D-Miami, chairman of a House Appropriations Committee panel on transportation, was skeptical Wednesday about the administration's proposal to terminate $684 million for Amtrak and have states pay the way.

Riley said that in view of the growing federal deficit, the government could no longer afford to support Amtrak and states benefiting from the service — mostly in the Northeast — would have to take up the funding slack.

Riley estimated that each Northeastern state would have to come up with $18.5 million to maintain Amtrak service and other affected states $8.9 million.

Porn, Violence Against Women May Disappear From Cable TV

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Violence against women would be included in the definition of pornography banned from cable television under a newly introduced bill in the Florida House.

Rep. Fran Carlton, D-Orlando, said Wednesday she sponsored the bill to put Florida law in line with a 1984 federal act allowing states to regulate what is shown on cable. She said raunchy sex films broadcast from New York or Los Angeles would have to be deleted by local cable companies, if they violated "contemporary community standards" of the region served by a cable company.

The so-called "cable porn" bill has been introduced for several years, ever since "adult" premium services like the Los Angeles-based Playboy Channel have been available in most major metropolitan markets. In past legislative sessions, however, the bills have dealt only with sex films, rather than those depicting violence.

Carlton, who has a television talk show on an Orlando station, said she was not advocating censorship of the airwaves. Her bill would not set a statewide standard, but would permit a state attorney in one area to prosecute a cable franchise owner for carrying nationally transmitted films that transgress against local community standards.

Saudis Train For Shuttle Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Two Saudi Arabian jet pilots, including a nephew of King Fahd, are in training as candidates to fly aboard the shuttle Discovery this summer, officials say.

With Frenchman Patrick Baudry already assigned to the seven-member crew, Discovery's flight will mark the first American space mission involving astronauts of three nationalities. The other five crew members are NASA astronauts.

The shuttle's three-satellite payload includes the second Arab telecommunications satellite, owned by the 22-nation Arab Telecommunications Consortium.

Fire Forces Road Closing; Three Units Battle Blaze

DEBARY — Personnel from three southwest Volusia County fire departments were called out to battle a 10-acre brush fire that forced the closing of a road Wednesday afternoon.

Deltona Fire Chief Mike Holland said his department, along with those from DeBary and Spring Lakes responded shortly after noon to the fire that started near the Glen Abbey golf course in DeBary.

Holland said the fire headed east of the golf course and charred about 10 acres of land before burning to the edge of Enterprise Road where it was eventually stopped.

After ordering the road closed, Holland said four tankers lined up along Enterprise and hosed down flames close to the roadway. He said the action was intended to prevent the fire from crossing Enterprise Road.

But as the trucks were refilling their tanks at a nearby subdivision the fire jumped the road about 500 feet from where the trucks had prevented its crossing. Holland said several small patches of fire that got across the road were quickly extinguished.

Stopping the fire at Enterprise was critical since across the road is more dry brush and Interstate 4 is less than a quarter of a mile away, Holland said.

Although the fire's origin has not yet been determined, Holland said the lack of rain was responsible for making the area very dry and providing fuel for the blaze.

By 4 p.m. Holland said the fire had been controlled and extinguished.

But while Holland and his group was battling the fire along Enterprise Road, another brush fire started near Palamar and Fort Smith streets in Deltona.

The Lake Helen, Osteen and Stone Island fire departments were put on stand-by before Deltona units extinguished the small fire.

Group: Halt Wekiva Development Until Impact Has Been Assessed

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

An environmental group has mounted a petition drive to halt development in the Wekiva river basin.

The Seminole County Commission is scheduled to discuss the petition with the Friends of the Wekiva River, Inc. at 3:30 p.m. Monday. The petition calls for development in "environmentally sensitive" areas of the Wekiva River Basin to stop until the impact of existing development there has been assessed.

The League of Women Voters in Seminole County has joined with the organization to echo the same request.

The Friends of the Wekiva, after completing a 69-page study on the basin, sent a request to Gov. Bob Graham and the state Department of Community Affairs to designate the 130-square-mile basin along the river in the three counties as eligible for a resource planning and management committee study. The group also asked the state to designate the basin as an area of critical state concern.

Pat Harden, president-elect of the Friends of the Wekiva, said the state agency has notified the group that their request has been placed on a list of matters for future consideration.

Meanwhile, the League of Women Voters has done its own study and determined that not enough attention has been given by Seminole County to "Planning Area One," generally described as the Markham-Paola area, which is bounded by the Wekiva River and the St. Johns River.

"At the present time the (Seminole County) comprehensive plan spells out less protection for environmentally sensitive lands in Planning Area One than it does for seven other planning areas (in the county)," the League report says.

The two organizations are calling on not only the Seminole County Commission, but also the county commissions in Orange and Lake counties to study the situation.

League spokeswomen say while the comprehensive plan emphasizes the unsuitability of Planning Area One for urban residential development because it has "neither the facilities nor environmental characteristics required to support them," urban development in the area increased from 6 percent of the area's 21,640 acres in 1975 to 17 percent in October 1984.

The League report says in 1975 there were 736 dwelling units in the planning area, but since then 5,200 new dwellings have been committed for construction.

Tony VanDerworp, the county's principal planner, says the county is already working on a revision of the land use plan. The work has started with Planning Area One and with the Geneva area where there is concern about the water supply.

VanDerworp said all the conditions of the two planning areas have been put in the computer. He said the conditions include all land use data, soils, water quality, wetlands, surface water bodies, where roads are and what the zoning is in each of the areas.

With this information computerized, he said, overlays can be developed so soils conditions can be compared with zoning and development. He said by this method each of the conditions in the area can be compared and analyzed.

"We are in the process of doing this analysis right now," VanDerworp said.

"The League and the Friends are concerned we are not protecting environmentally sensitive land. They are looking at the long term," he said adding, the county is requiring 200-foot setbacks from the river for new construction as one example of the controls being developed.

"We are concentrating right now on Markham-Paola and Geneva, focusing our attention there and in the process working on updating the land use plan for the entire county," VanDerworp said.

Man Sentenced To Six Months For Fondling

A former Casselberry man who pleaded no contest to an attempted lewd and lascivious assault on an 11-year-old girl has been sentenced to 6 months in jail and 5 years probation.

Robert Lewis Suss, 39, now living in north Florida, was sentenced Wednesday by Seminole Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. Suss could have received up to a year in the county jail.

Suss, a self-employed investment counselor, was accused of fondling the girl in September in his home.

The girl told investigators she went to Suss' home, along with some other girls, to discuss starting a Girl Scout troop. Suss and his wife had organized Girl Scout troops in the past.

While there, the girl asked to use Suss' telephone so she could call her parents and tell them where she was, according to court records. After she called her mother from another room, Suss reportedly entered the room and fondled her.

Suss was allowed to plead to the lesser charge of attempted assault so the girl would not have to testify.

As part of the probationary sentence, Suss is to have no contact with Girl Scout activities.

Suss told the judge at the sentencing hearing that he does not think he committed a crime. Davis, who mentioned that Suss appeared to have been drinking prior to the hearing, suggested that it that was the case, Suss should take the case to trial. Suss declined.

Hooper Waits To Pick Deputy

Seminole County Administrator Ken Hooper has postponed until Tuesday appointing a deputy county administrator in charge of administration.

Meanwhile, one of the top six candidates for the position — Ann Neiswender, director of personnel services for the Seminole County School Board — has withdrawn her application.

Hooper said he will seek the commissioner's approval of his choice at its April 9. He said he delayed the appointment to give further consideration to the matter.

Candidates still in the running are:

- Eleanor Anderson, 44, the county's management and budget director for the past four years and acting assistant county administrator for the past six months. She has been employed in the county for 20 years in a variety of jobs. She is majoring in business administration and business management at Rollins College and lacks 17 credit hours of having her bachelor's degree.
- Richard C. George, DeLand, special project coordinator for the Volusia County manager's office. He has a bachelor's degree in political science from Stetson University and is enrolled in the master's program there studying political science.
- Paul J. Wiener, 41, assistant director of budget and management in Cleveland, Ohio. He has a bachelor's degree in management and a master's in urban studies from Cleveland State University.
- Carroll P. Huffman, administrator of Lancaster County, S.C., and has a bachelor's degree in management and a master's in urban administration from the University of South Carolina.
- Thomas Brant of Orlando, management director of Tabor Inc., a management consulting service. Brant has a bachelor's degree in political science from Lorain College, Dubuque, Iowa, and a master's in public administration from the State University of Iowa.

Salary range for the post is $43,596 to $60,881.

Trio Nabbed In Casselberry Coke Deal

Two of three men nabbed on drug charges early today by Seminole County drug task force agents have been released on $10,000 bond each. The other was being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.
 Agents reported making a deal for the purchase of cocaine from the three suspects at about 1 a.m. at 1201 Lake Lucern Circle, Casselberry. The undercover agents had negotiated to buy two ounces of cocaine from the suspects for $1,600 an ounce, a sheriff's report said.
 Agents reported having met with two of the suspects previously, once in Ormond Beach on March 14 when they bought 4 grams of cocaine for $250 and again on Monday at Suzanne's Restaurant, Dogtrack Road, Longwood, when they bought one gram of cocaine for $90.
 After one agent made today's deal and was walking out of the house to get more money from his car other agents moved in and arrested the three suspects, the report said.
 More than two ounces of cocaine was reportedly found in the home along with drug paraphernalia and a 25-caliber automatic firearm, the report said.
 James Edward Phelps, 23, of 1201 Lake Lucern Circle, Casselberry, has been charged with trafficking in cocaine, conspiracy to traffic in cocaine and sale of cocaine. He was being held in lieu of bond today.
 Joseph Ackerman, 24, of Ormond Beach, has been charged with conspiracy to traf-again at her home at about 4:30 p.m. and arrested her. She reportedly told them she didn't know where Miller was and was trying to keep her son from being involved in the case, the report said.

 Miller escaped from the detention center at Five Points on March 29. He was being held on a local traffic charge and outstanding Connecticut charges including aggravated battery with a vehicle on a police officer. Miller is considered dangerous. Charged Tuesday was Mary Ann McDermott, 41, of 317 Arapaho Trail. She has been released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court April 10.
DUI ARRESTS
 The following person has been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:
 —Kenneth Drew, 29, of Forest City, was arrested at 11:22 p.m. Tuesday after he was found passed out in his truck at Live Oaks Center, U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry.

Ann McDermott, 41, of 317 Arapaho Trail. She has been released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court April 10.

MOTHERLY DECEPTION?

A Winter Springs woman who reportedly lied to Seminole County sheriff's investigators searching for an escapee from the county Juvenile Detention Center has been charged with resisting an officer without violence.
 The woman was questioned at her home at about 4 p.m. Tuesday and asked if her son who had reportedly been seen Friday with the escapee, Dwayne G. Miller, 17, of East Haven, Conn., lived with her.
 The woman reportedly denied that her son, Mike, lived at her Winter Springs home, adding that none of her three sons have cars. She said Mike lives in Connecticut, Miller had reportedly been seen with the woman's son in a yellow car, a sheriff's report said.
 Investigators then talked with her neighbors who told them Mike lives with his mother. Deputies met the woman

Highlighting this collection is solid oak and ash, and oak veneers, hand screened mirrors, polished brass hardware, real lead glass, beveled glass, bowed drawer fronts, genuine porcelain knobs and adjustable cheval mirrors.

The imaginative design of the carved glass china is revived, as is the chiffonade. Grandma's washstand with cheval mirror is reinstated along with the milady's vanity.

The greatest appeal of this nostalgic "Keepsakes" collection will be found in its ability for you, the customer, to evoke your individual expression and bring you many years of joy with this great "miraculous" for today's living.

Breeze Of Freedom

During just the last few years, nine countries in Latin America and the Caribbean have moved from military regimes and dictatorships to elected, civilian governments. Among the many benefits from this wave of democratization is a marked, if far from complete, expansion of press freedoms in a part of the world where a free press has been more the exception than the rule.

Those denied freedom often cherish it more keenly than those who have rarely known its absence. Accordingly, some in the United States may regard the growth of press freedoms in Latin America as heartening but not especially vital. They could not be more wrong.

Freedom of the press in Latin America, as elsewhere, is among the very best barometers of every other freedom. Would, for example, Argentina's former military government have been able to commit such atrocious excesses — kidnapping, torture, and murder — in its "dirty war" against left-wing terrorism had there been a free press there to report the truth? Obviously not.

Nicaragua provides a more immediate example. The best measure of what the ruling Sandinistas intend for Nicaragua is provided by their relentless censorship of La Prensa, that country's only daily newspaper not wholly controlled or operated by the government. Who believes that a Sandinista regime unwilling to permit the barest hint of criticism in La Prensa nonetheless intends to honor its promises of democracy for Nicaraguans?

The press as political barometer similarly holds up in assessing the Castro dictatorship in Cuba. Cubans have the fewest political and economic rights of any people in the Western Hemisphere. And so complete is Cuba's totalitarianism that nothing even resembling an independent or opposition press is allowed to exist. Communism and the Orwellian control of all information complement each other perfectly.

But the good news, as we noted, is that a fresh breeze of press freedom is blowing across Latin America concurrently with the wave of democratization. Today, the citizens of Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, Peru, El Salvador, Honduras, Panama, Bolivia, and Grenada enjoy a freer press along with more democratic government. We say freer rather than free because serious restrictions against the press remain in several of these countries, as well as in other Latin nations where citizens enjoy the limited benefits of partial press freedoms.

The Inter-American Press Association, a private organization of publishers and editors from North America and Latin America, monitors the status of press freedoms and issues an annual report. This year's edition, compiled at IAPA's mid-year meeting recently in Panama City, was the most favorable in years. And with reason.

IAPA's upbeat report augurs more than just livelier newspapers, magazines, and broadcasting in Latin America. It portends, if press freedoms endure, a freer, more prosperous life for millions of ordinary people to whom a free press is anything but an expendable luxury.

Facts Behind Infant-Mortality Crisis

It is interesting to check out the facts behind what is being peddled as a new crisis — infant mortality. The Washington Post headlined, "War on Infant Mortality Seen Lagging." The New York Times put it on page 1 above the fold on a Sunday: "Decline Slowing for Death Rate of U.S. Infants." Post columnist Haynes Johnson wrote about it under the heading "The Weaker America." A task force of the Southern Governors' Association has issued a report: so has the Children's Defense Fund. The Times followed up with an editorial entitled, "On the Death of Poor Babies."

Now, infant mortality is a serious matter. We're talking about real babies. If conditions were getting worse, if conditions were not getting better — that would indeed be an important story. But, when you dig into it, that's not the situation.

Visualize a ski slope. From the top of the mountain, the course drops steeply. Then, following a sharp plunge, the downhill path continues, but the angle of descent is somewhat less sharp as the ski lodge comes into sight. Finally, the course flattens out so you can take your skis off.

The first two legs of that ski course — a steep drop changing to a steady drop — accurately describe the recent pattern of infant mortality rates in America. From the mid-1960s to the late 1970s, the rate dropped from 24 deaths per 1,000 births to 14. That is a decrease of 42 percent in a dozen years. It represents one of the great untold American success stories, and one, by the way, that affected both whites and blacks.

Since 1977, the rate has continued down — from 14 to 11 deaths per 1,000 in 1983. That's a somewhat slower rate of descent to be sure, but it's still clear and potent progress.

Why the slowdown in the rate of decline? There are two schools of thought about it. One: As the infant mortality rate goes down toward zero, further progress gets harder and harder to achieve. After all, we'll never get to zero. That's not the way the world works: some infants will always die, and we're already down to about one infant death per 100 births. There's only so much that medicine can do.

This flattening-out phenomenon is already apparent among many other advanced nations that have experienced sharp drops in infant mortality. Incidentally, contrary to some of the scaremongers, U.S. rates are not generally higher than those of other industrial nations. Actually, we are about in the middle of a tight range of rates: lower than Austria and Italy, about the same as England, Belgium and Germany, and higher than Sweden and the Netherlands.

The second school of thought maintains that the slowdown in the drop of rates reflects the cutbacks in funding for women-and-children programs by the Reagan administration. Now, a good case can be made that the Reaganites have been too quick in slicing some of these expenditures. Such cuts may indeed have some effect on infant mortality rates in future years. But arguing against this, at least for the moment, is the generally unreported fact that the slowdown started in the late 1970s. That, of course, was several years before Reagan came to Washington.

The numbers — as always — are being massaged and distorted for political purposes. If activists want to keep the programs intact, activists will maintain that babies are dying because of program cuts. The media will reflect these charges.

But that's not really what's going on. At its root, what it's all about, is good news at a somewhat slower rate.

SCIENCE WORLD

Ritual Sexism In Melanesia

By Lidia Wassowicz
UPI Science Writer

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Some of the world's most ardent sexists live on a tropical island in the South Pacific, practicing secret homosexual rites and bleeding themselves to eliminate the "female essence," an anthropologist says.

Gilbert Herdt, assistant professor of anthropology at Stanford University, has spent 11 years studying the Sambia, one of 700 cultures of New Guinea, who until two decades ago had never seen outsiders and relied on stone weapons.

"Young males are expected to have homosexual relations for years at a time as part of a secret cult — a practice hidden from women and children," said Herdt, who over the years was let in on the most intimate aspects of tribal life.

"Once the boys are adults, they marry and usually assume heterosexual relations for the remainder of their lives."

For much of their lives, the men view women with fear and hostility, Herdt said in an interview, noting the Sambia initiation rites are shared by many of the other New Guinea tribes. "These cultures produce some of the most ardent sexists in the world."

Boys must shun and fear women, men undergo ritualized bleeding to get rid of the "female essence" acquired during birth, and, after marriage, husbands, after every sex act with their wives, purify themselves by rubbing cold mud all over their body and cleaning their nails with a bone tool.

"We found almost every type of bleeding ritually practiced by men," said Herdt, who has made eight trips to the island, the longest lasting two years.

Traditionally, the homosexual ritual was seen as a way to keep the society militarily strong by transforming boys into aggressive, brave men ready to battle other tribes, Herdt said.

Since incest is taboo in the small villages of this tribe of 2,400, many of the women are brought over from neighboring communities, often from a hostile village.

"There often is intense sexual antagonism as a result," Herdt said. "The men already fear women's bodies, and now they fear they may be in league with the enemy."

WILLIAM RUSHER

Reagan Phenomenon

NEW YORK (NEA) — President Reagan's triumph in the MX battle has reduced his adversaries to talking to themselves. How in the world, they wonder, does he do it?

Here was a missile the congressional doves figured they had scotched for good when some of Mr. Reagan's closest friends in the Senate, such as Paul Laxalt of Nevada, balked at basing it in the Western desert "way back in 1982. But Mr. Reagan thereupon appointed the respected and bipartisan Scowcroft Commission to study the problem and it came up with a proposal to base the weapons in present ICBM silos, suitably "hardened." Grumpily, Congress agreed.

But proceeding with manufacture and deployment required still further congressional assent, and Rep. Joseph Addabbo, the New York Democrat who chairs the House Appropriations Committee's Defense Subcommittee, had marshaled, by mid-summer 1983, enough opposition to block the MX when it was scheduled to come up for a vote in the committee late that September. But then on Sept. 1, came the shooting down of Korean Airlines flight 007. Adroitly tapping into the outrage of the American people at this vicious act, Mr. Reagan whipped the necessary appropriation for the MX through Addabbo's committee and the Congress.

Last year Congress — preparing to face the voters — again refused to scuttle the MX, but 1985 seemed likely to be a different story. Liberal parliamentarians arranged that the MX appropriation coming up early this year would have to run a gauntlet of no less than four votes: two in the Senate and two more in the House. It seemed almost inconceivable that the president could prevail on all four.

But now, miraculously, the atmosphere changed. As one MX foe complained, Congress had been persuaded to vote for the missile last year on the ground that the Russians were refusing to negotiate. Now it was being urged to authorize production of 21 more MXs because they were negotiating! By narrow margins in the Senate, and even narrower ones in the House, Mr. Reagan prevailed on all four votes.

Writing in the March 4 New Yorker, liberal commentator Elizabeth Drew opened her article with a sentence that deserves thoughtful study: "The large question that is preoccupying many people here is how lasting the Reagan phenomenon will be."

"How lasting (this phenomenon) will be" — nothing lasts forever, certainly not a mere phenomenon, however remarkable. So we Permanent People can comfort ourselves, in these trying days, by debating how lasting this particular phenomenon will be.

ROBERT WALTERS

Behind The Ohio Scare

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The depositor panic about the financial integrity of Ohio's state-insured savings and loan associations has subsided, but the political repercussions are just beginning to be felt.

The two men in the middle of a potentially explosive political situation are both Democrats — Ohio Gov. Richard Celeste, who is expected to seek reelection next year, and Cincinnati businessman Marvin L. Warner, a long-time major financial backer of Democratic office-seekers.

Warner owns virtually all of the outstanding stock of the Home State Savings Bank of Cincinnati, whose sudden closure last month caused a financial crisis among the other 70 Ohio thrift institutions insured by a state agency.

Warner also was a major investor in ESM Government Securities, Inc., a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., firm whose arcane specialty was the trading of short-term, high-risk financial instruments known as repurchase agreements.

Home State invested almost half of its assets through ESM. On March 4, ESM was closed under a court order sought by the Securities and Exchange Commission, which has accused the firm of fraudulent practices.

Five days later Home State was forced to close amid reports that it had lost as much as $150 million on its investment with ESM.

Warner was a major financial backer of Celeste's 1982 gubernatorial campaign, personally contributing $36,000, co-signing a loan for $75,000 and hosting a party that raised about $200,000.

In addition, he has made substantial donations to the presidential campaigns of Democrats Glenn, Jimmy Carter, Sen. Alan Cranston of California, Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado and others.

Fearful that the state's official investigation of the financial debacle might be perceived as a whitewash, Ohio Democrats gladly accepted the selection of a Republican (a widely respected Cincinnati lawyer) to lead the probe.

Celeste handled himself deftly during the first month of the crisis, but the official investigation — as well as possible unofficial disclosures — could adversely affect his promising political career.

JACK ANDERSON

Marcos, IRS Try To Close Newspaper

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service is threatening to shut down a crusading little newspaper, the Philippine News, which Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos has tried but failed to destroy.

This San Francisco-based, English-language paper, targeted at the Filipino community in the United States, has already been driven to the brink of ruin by Marcos. As we reported in 1975, Marcos pressured major travel agencies and airlines to stop advertising in the newspaper.

The advertising boycott had a devastating effect on the paper's income. It recently filed for protection under the bankruptcy act.

One of the paper's creditors is the IRS, which is owed $213,500 in back taxes, penalties and interest. The government has slapped a lien on the newspaper's assets, which makes it almost impossible for publisher Alex Esclamado to obtain new financing.

Recently the IRS notified Esclamado that it would seize one of the paper's most valuable assets — its mailing list — and will then move on to the remaining physical property. This would close the paper, silence its voice of opposition, and delight Marcos.

Hoping to prevent this, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., intervened with Treasury Secretary James Baker. In a phone call and a follow-up letter, Cranston pleaded for leniency.

As Cranston pointed out, Esclamado had tried to arrange a compromise with the IRS — something that delinquent taxpayers do all the time. The publisher offered $16,000 cash to settle the actual tax bill — or payment of $63,500 in taxes owed over a two-year period.

Esclamado told our associate Lucette Lagnado that his newspaper's physical assets totaled just $10,600 — $7,800 for the mailing list and $2,800 for a few desks, chairs and other office equipment. It would be foolish, he argued, to seize this instead of accepting his offer of $16,000 in cash or the whole sum over a two-year period.

The IRS rejected Esclamado's compromise offer, and last week the publisher filed for bankruptcy — which temporarily prevents any IRS seizure of his assets.

Cranston may have committed a tactical political error in his appeal to Baker for leniency.

He mentioned the newspaper's history of opposition to Marcos, and the Philippine president's determined efforts to shut the paper down. Closing the Philippine News, Cranston wrote, would be "something the Marcos government could not do alone but could accomplish with the aid of the government of the United States."

Continued publication of the paper, Cranston wrote, is "very much in the best interest of our nation."

But Baker may well be deaf to such a plea. The White House is pushing for $300 million in military and economic aid to Marcos in this year of severe budget restraints. It seems unlikely that Baker will accede to a request for leniency toward a vocal opponent of a government the Reagan administration is supporting.

Yet Esclamado is convinced that he could keep his paper going if the IRS would give him a chance. He has a circulation of about 60,000 nationwide, and with support from local advertisers unintimidated by Marcos, he expects revenue of about $1 million this year.

One asset that has no precise monetary value is a note Esclamado received from Marcos's most prominent opposition leader two years ago. Just days before Benigno Aquino flew back to Manila and was assassinated on the steps of his plane at the airport, he wrote:

"Your newspaper has not only been the beacon but the vital link between those actively engaged in the struggle and the mass of our people. (It is) the oasis in the arid desert of government-controlled media."

Marlette Will Not Return As Tribe Cage Coach

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Chris Marlette, the head boys basketball coach at Seminole High School for the past three years, will not return in that capacity Seminole Principal Wayne Epps announced Wednesday.

Epps said he has offered Marlette a chance to return as physical education teacher. Marlette said he is undecided as to what he will do. "I'll be teaching somewhere," he said Thursday morning. "But it came as a total shock to me."

Marlette, 37, won 57 games and lost 33 in his three years. He won 22 games in his first year and 20 the next. The Seminoles also won the district championship two years ago. Last year, the Tribe was 15-12.

"I felt that it was time for a change," Epps said about the move. "The program needs a coach who will continue to maintain strong discipline but at the same time provide the kids with the motivation and enthusiasm they need in order to become champions."

Epps said he had a successor in mind and would name him within a week.

The Seminole job is considered one of the most attractive in the state. This year's team lost just two starters — Kenny Gordon and James Rouse — and at the end of the year Marlette was starting two super freshmen — 6-6 Craig Walker and 5-7 Andre Whitney — along with 6-3 Rod Henderson, who is considered one of the top sophomores in Central Florida.

Basketball

Marlette, a graduate of Southern Mississippi, began his coaching career at the Sanford Naval Academy. After three years with the Midshipmen, Marlette moved to Crooms High School. While at the former Sanford ninth grade center, Marlette posted a 98-15 record during his five year stay. His teams won the Seminole County Freshman Sunrise Kiwanis Tournament from 1978 on.

When ex-Seminole coach Bill Payne took the head job at Seminole Community College three years ago, Epps selected Marlette over a strong field to replace him.

"I think our program has gotten to the point where it is recognized as one of the best in Central Florida and possibly the state," said Marlette. "I really enjoyed working with the kids at Seminole High. Other than that, I don't have much to say."

Epps said it was a tough decision for him but with the right leadership he felt the Seminoles could return to the state tournament in the next few years.

Marlette is the third varsity coach at Seminole to resign or not be rehired. Jerry Posey resigned before the last football game and Ron Merthie, head girls basketball coach, resigned several weeks after the season concluded.

Chris Marlette will not return as Seminole's head boys basketball coach.

Harris, Edwards Propel Kiwanis

Anthony Harris was 3 for 5 with a three-run homer and Sammy Edwards went the distance on the mound as defending Sanford Junior League champion Kiwanis opened the 1985 season with a 15-7 victory over Moose Wednesday night at Chase Park.

Kiwanis broke a 4-4 tie with five runs in the top of the fourth and added five more in the fifth to sew up the win. Harris' three-run homer highlighted the fourth frame for Kiwanis while Bernard Mitchell's double was the big hit in the fifth. Harris, Edwards and Mitchell are all returnees from last year's championship team.

Edwards scattered five hits, struck out 15 and walked seven in picking up the pitching victory. Jimmy Murphy took the loss for Moose.

Behind Harris for Kiwanis, Mitchell had two hits while Leonard Richardson and Edwards had one each. Harry Chiggerton, Jeff Derr, Mike Merthie, Murphy and Anthony Merthie had one hit each for Moose.

KNIGHTS DROP ROTARY

In Wednesday night's second game, Knights of Columbus opened the season by outslugging Rotary, 18-11, handing Rotary its second straight loss.

Despite control problems, Dwight Brinson went the distance on the mound for the Knights, allowing seven hits, striking out nine and walking 16.

Brinson helped his own cause by going 3 for 3 at the plate with four runs scored, three stolen bases and four RBIs.

Leadoff hitter Ray Williams was 3 for 5 with a double and three stolen bases for KOC while Denny Clayton stole four bases.

Like Brinson, Rotary's pitcher, Earl Williams, lasted the entire game despite control problems. Williams allowed 12 hits, struck out 14 and walked 10. George Gordon and Williams had two hits each for Rotary.

Every successful baseball team has a potent offense and a stellar defense. Atlantic Bank's Keith Myers, left, may have been a little under this fastball but he did rap a pair of hits as Atlantic bombed Seminole Petroleum, 12-1, Wednesday in Little American League baseball. Myer was also the pitching hero, allowing just a first-inning single. Above, Harvey Clinger, a smooth-fielding first sacker for Butch's Chevron, snagged a throw and looks for action elsewhere. Clinger made several nice plays as Butch's opened the season Monday with a victory over Atlantic Bank.

Polk's Homer Snaps Tie, Lifts Sun Bank

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Lorenzo Polk drilled a two-run homer to break a 7-7 tie Wednesday as Sun Bank opened the 1985 Little American League season with a 12-7 victory over Medco Pharmacy in Sanford Recreation baseball action at Fort Mellon Park.

Medco had taken an early lead when Albert Anderson belted a two-run homer in the top of the first. Medco took a 4-2 lead into the bottom of the fourth when Sun Bank rallied for five runs and a 7-4 lead. Medco bounced back to tie it at 7-7 in the top of the fifth.

With one runner on in the bottom of the fifth, Polk stepped up and smacked a shot over the center field fence to give Sun Bank a 9-7 lead. Sun Bank added three more runs in the frame to make the final 12-7.

Al Perkins went the distance on the mound for Sun Bank while Britt Henderson took the loss.

Perkins helped his own cause by going 3 for 4 at the plate and Polk added two hits. Anderson was 3 for 3 to lead the way for Medco.

MYERS SHUTS DOWN FORD

Things started out well for Seminole Ford

Wednesday as Ray Williams led off the game with a single. It was all down hill from there though.

Atlantic Bank pitcher Keith Myers allowed no hits the rest of the game and struck out nine as Atlantic Bank rolled to a 12-1 rout of Seminole Ford in Little American League action at Bay Avenue Field.

Atlantic Bank managed just three hits in the game off losing pitcher Larry Lawrence but took advantage of a multitude of walks and errors. Atlantic Bank scored seven times in the second inning and added five more in the third sew up the victory.

Myers was also the leading hitter for Atlantic Bank as he went 2 for 3. The only other hit was Johnell Brewington's single.

Shell-Shocked Cornerbacks Seek Refuge Against 'Gades

Football

ORLANDO (UPI) — Two young shell-shocked cornerbacks will board a bus Thursday and head over to Orlando Stadium, where the living is easy.

Leonard Thompson and Mossy Cade, both selected in the first round of the 1984 NFL draft, are starting for the USFL's Memphis Showboats and after last week's strafing by Tampa Bay quarterback John Reeves, the Orlando offense looks like a perfect tonic for an inexperienced secondary.

"Mossy Cade's gonna be one of the best talents in the country," Memphis Coach Pepper Rodgers said. "but he came out of the University of Texas playing strictly man-to-man defense. He's still learning how to play zone. Our inexperience on defense has shown up in recent weeks."

The Renegades are the league's only winnless team through six weeks and most of the problems have been on offense, where quarterback Reggie Collier has proven to be a better runner than passer. Collier, who replaced Jerry Golsteyn as starter after three games, has rambled for 206 yards, averaging 7.6 yards per carry. When he throws the ball, the results are conspicuously less successful.

"Reggie has gone in and given them a spark," Rodgers said. "He certainly can run with the football but he hasn't proven he can do things through the air like a Reeves. He has the same kind of talent Walter Lewis has."

Rodgers was comparing Collier, who has completed just 43 percent of his passes with five interceptions and no touchdowns, to his own scrambling quarterback, Lewis, though, has thrown for 1,156 yards and 13 TDs, with just three interceptions.

The Showboats have dropped three straight after starting the season 3-0 and Orlando coach Lee Corso is telling his players to have their chin belts tightly strapped for the 8 p.m. EST kickoff.

"The Showboats are one of the best all-around teams in the league in terms of personnel," said Corso, whose club has lost the last three games by a total of just 13 points after starting the inaugural season with three blowouts. "I thought we'd be better than this. I really did, but we're not so we just have to tee it up. I never dreamed we'd be 0-6."

The bright spots for the Renegades in last week's 21-17 setback at Denver were the running of Curtis Bledsoe (99 yards) and a surprisingly grudging rushing defense which limited the Gold to just 55 yards on the ground.

Memphis dropped a 28-20 decision to Tampa Bay at home last week and the Showboats have played three of the league's elite in consecutive weeks (Birmingham, Oakland and Tampa Bay). The Renegades should provide a welcome breather but Rodgers won't say so.

The Renegades have played decent pass defense despite a pathetic pass rush. While registering just three sacks all year, the Orlando defense has picked off eight passes and opponents are completing just 48 percent of their attempts. Wide receivers Greg Moser and Derrick Crawford are having big years for Memphis, with 42 receptions and nine TDs between them.

However, the Kowboys could get no closer, as Hagen and the Rams held together. Hagen did not allow a hit in the final two frames.

"We played better as a team," Tuttle said. "We had a pep talk before the game, and we discussed some things we were doing wrong and some things we were doing right. We got some big two-out hits today, but we're not getting that first batter on base. We've got to start doing that."

In other Classic action, Winter Park outslugged West Orange, 9-5. Winter Haven nipped Bishop Moore, 5-4. Auburndale edged Colonial, 1-0, and Edgewater trimmed Oak Ridge, 5-2.

Rejuvenated Underwood Boosts Rams

By Rob Laria
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — The Lake Mary Rams pumped out to a 8-3 lead Wednesday morning against Kissimmee Osceola High then held on for a much needed win, 8-7, to avoid elimination in the Colonial Classic.

The Rams now 17-5, faced Winter Park this morning at 9. If they win the Rams must come back at 2 p.m. to continue play in the losers' bracket of the tournament.

While Lake Mary Coach Allen Tuttle is happy with the win, he will have to dig deep to find healthy arms to finish the Classic. He plans to use sophomore Kelly Hysell, who hasn't pitched this year, against Winter Park and may seek help from the junior varsity. The Kowboys, 13-11, were knocked out of the 12-team field.

"Right now, we're taking one game at a time," he said. "I really don't know who we will pitch in these games."

The Rams got a chance to play today, thanks to an eight-hit attack led by Scott Underwood, who for the second straight game had three hits.

Underwood, who languished in the lower 200s most of the season, has raised his average to .301 with the recent surge.

Eric "The Whip" Hagen went all the way, yielding eight hits while recording five strikeouts, for his fourth win in five decisions. He wasn't in his no-hit form of two outings ago, but he got the job done.

"I just went with my slider," he said. "I couldn't get my other pitches over. And I felt tired the whole game. But I'm happy; I was just worried about the win."

The Rams staked Hagen to an 1-0 in the first inning when leadoff hitter Ryan Lisle walked, stole second and scored on a bloop double by Underwood off losing pitcher Kent Donahue.

Osceola took the lead in the third with three runs on three hits and two walks. An error by right fielder Danny Bridges and a wild pitch also contributed to the uprising.

Lake Mary, though, came right back with a five-run, two-out rally in the bottom half of the inning. Underwood started it with a single to center field. He was followed with an identical hit by Rod "C.J." Metz. Donnie Grayson then followed with a hard grounder through the legs of third baseman Rob McCready, scoring Underwood. A walk loaded the bases and another scored Metz to tie the game. The next batter, Kevin Hill, then delivered a big double to left center, clearing the bases for a 6-3 lead.

The Rams added two more in the fourth on two hits, a single by Underwood and a double by Grayson, plus two walks. Trailing 8-3, the Kowboys charged back with four runs on four hits in the fifth inning to close the gap. The big hit was a three-run homer by McCready over the left field fence.

However, the Kowboys could get no closer, as Hagen and the Rams held together. Hagen did not allow a hit in the final two frames.

"We played better as a team," Tuttle said. "We had a pep talk before the game, and we discussed some things we were doing wrong and some things we were doing right. We got some big two-out hits today, but we're not getting that first batter on base. We've got to start doing that."

In other Classic action, Winter Park outslugged West Orange, 9-5. Winter Haven nipped Bishop Moore, 5-4. Auburndale edged Colonial, 1-0, and Edgewater trimmed Oak Ridge, 5-2.

Cross Breeds Produce A Popular Bass

Striped bass and sunshine bass have become popular with many Florida fishermen. Beginning in the late 1960s, the popular saltwater striped bass was introduced into fresh water. The striped, which is considered excellent table fare, was stocked in utilize overabundant shad population in Florida lakes and rivers. Spawning habitat is limited for stripers as they must be maintained on a "put, grow, and take" basis in Florida's fresh waters.

Commission biologists were not satisfied with the limited success of the stripers and turned their emphasis to hybridizing striped bass to obtain higher survival and growth rates.

A promising hybrid was the crossing of white bass and striped bass. The outcome is the popular sunshine bass.

Sunshines aggressively feed on shad, are strong fighters, and must be restocked on an annual basis like striped bass. Both stripers and sunshines can be easily identified by their silver color and six to eight black lateral lines running the full length of the fish. Sizes for sunshines range from 13 to 30 inches with weights up to 16 pounds. They have the potential for growing two to three pounds per year. Stripers are known to grow larger with weights ranging from 30 to 50 pounds under ideal conditions.

Sunshine bass have the ability to reach harvestable size much earlier than stripers. A striper needs 14 to 16 months to reach the legal minimum size limit of 15 inches while a sunshine can reach harvestable size within nine months after stocking.

Striper and sunshine fishing is unique and requires a variety of methods, both are schoolers and spend much of their time in open water feeding on shad.

Trotting is the most effective method of locating these fighters and often results in limit catches. Shad or minnow-type lures, spoons, jigs and spinner-style lures are top artificials which get consistent results.

Live bait also produces well. Fishing the bottom with shiners, grass shrimp or minnows can be very successful. Using minnows at night with a bright light as a light attraction offers an interesting change of pace. Water flow also attracts these fish, therefore, you should seek out and try those areas first.

The striped and sunshine bass project has come a long way from its initiation in the 1960's. Approximately 274,000 striped and sunshine fingerlings were produced in 1972. Last year nearly three million striped and sunshine bass fingerlings were produced and stocked.

The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission presently stocked 138,000 acres of public lakes and 907 miles of rivers in this program. Future plans are to continue to expand the stocking program. Commission policy limits stocking to waters open to the public. The decision to stock a particular lake or river is also based on the availability of shad or other forage fish for stripers and sunshine to feed on.

Glen Craig, Sanford, caught 8 bass averaging 3 to 4 pounds. Craig was using blue and purple Boone worms.

H.B. Owens and Mike Vibien caught 11 bass on Rapalas at Hat Bill.

Don Smith reports that speck and shad fishing has slowed down. Bass and sunshine bass is picking up.

Dell Abernethy, owner of the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp, said the bass are doing real well. "The bass have come off the shallow water and are starting to school," he said.

Abernethy said his Buddy Bass Tournament will be Sunday beginning at sundown. "I expect some pretty good weight to win it," said Dell. "We're looking for a real good tournament. All in all, we're having some pretty good fishing."

Gators Get To Keep SEC Crown

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Florida coach Galen Hall said the Southeastern Conference decided something Wednesday that his players felt was true all along — that the Gators were the 1984 SEC football champions.

The SEC's executive committee ruled Wednesday that penalties already leveled against Florida for recruiting violations are sufficient, and that the Gators can retain the conference championship without further disciplinary action.

"We were hopeful they would allow us to remain as the champions," Hall said in Florida when told of the board's decision. "I had no gut feeling, though."

One thing was set, however, in the mind of the man who ran off eight straight victories after head coach Charley Pell was fired amid the scandal.

"Our players would have always recognized themselves as the 1984 champions," Hall said. "It is a lot easier for them to know it officially."

Florida was barred from post-season play in November, but the SEC committee deferred consideration of other penalties until after a university appeal was heard.

The Gators finished the 1984 season ranked 7th nationally with an overall record of 9-1-1. Their 5-0-1 conference mark topped Louisiana State's 4-1-1 record, but the post-season ban meant the apparent league champions could not appear in the Sugar Bowl as the SEC representative. LSU went instead.

Football

In announcing its decision Wednesday, the committee praised the response of university President Marshall Criser, who said afterward that the ruling "confirms our decision to work within the framework of the SEC."

"While reiterating its deep concern over the infractions, the committee calls attention again to the prompt, decisive actions taken by President Marshall Criser to correct the problems identified, and commends him for these actions and for his unwavering commitment to full compliance with conference and NCAA legislation," the board said in a formal statement.

SEC spokeswoman P.J. Ellis said a major consideration in sparing Florida further penalty was the impact of a state public records law on the school's reputation.

"That law says anything to do with a public school or any facility at all is to be made public," she said. "So there was no secrecy at all, and all of the accusations made by the NCAA were made public."

"Had this case been handled in the traditional way, nobody would have questioned Florida's championship in the first place because all of the allegations would have been handled later in a hearing and some might have never come out in public."

Ellis said the school did not appeal an SEC decision to deny it the share of Sugar Bowl money that usually goes to all teams in the conference — in this case about $155,000.

The Gators will continue on probation for the next two seasons and will not be allowed to appear on television, she said. But because the team already has missed its first year of post-season play, that restriction lasts just one more year. Florida could go to a bowl game after the 1986 season.

National League Capsules

N.L. East

National League East Division

Chicago Cubs

Last year's finish — 1st (96-65). Manager: Jim Frey (2nd season). Vital 1984 statistics: Rick Sutcliffe's 16-1 record after coming from Cleveland; tied for 2nd in saves (50); 2nd in homers (136).

Strengths — Cy Young winner Sutcliffe and MVP Ryno Sandberg; deceptive strong pitching; a powerful lineup that exploits small dimensions of Wrigley Field.

New Faces — 22 year old Shawn Dunston is looking to unseat veteran Larry Bowa at short; veteran right hander Lary Sorenson signed as swingman; Brian Dayett is spare outfielder with home run power.

The Keys — Leo Smith saved 23 games last season but experienced knee problems near the end; Sutcliffe, Steve Trout and Dennis Eckersley re signed at great expense.

Last pennant — 1964 East

Montreal Expos

Last year's finish — 5th (78-83). Manager: Buck Rodgers (1st season). Vital 1984 statistics: 11th in runs (593); 10th in homers (98); 3rd in pitching (3.21).

Strengths — Charlie Lea and Bill Gutkirkson lead solid starting corps; Jeff Reardon is durable reliever; Tim Lincecum is the Rickey Henderson of the NL, maybe better; when healthy Andre Dawson is one of top 10 players in NL.

New Faces — Mike Fitzgerald replaces Gary Carter behind the plate; Hubie Brooks and U.L. Washington new shortstops; rookie Herm Winingham will patrol center field; Vance Law will battle Doug Flynn at second.

The Keys — Steve Rogers slipped to 6-15 last year but appears to have won his battle to regain spot in rotation; defense must make more plays.

Last pennant — 1961 East

New York Mets

Last year's finish — 2nd (90-72). Manager: Dave Johnson (2nd season). Vital 1984 statistics: 3rd in double plays (184); 1st in one-run games (29-30); 1st in extra inning games (11-1).

Strengths — Dwight Gooden best young pitcher in baseball; strong bullpen in Jesse Orosco and Doug Sisk; Keith Hernandez is the best first baseman in NL, if not best player in the league.

New Faces — All Star Gary Carter fills void as catcher and right handed power hitter; Howard Johnson will platoon at third with Ray Knight; promising outfielder John Christensen could make club.

The Keys — Ron Darling must give team capable second starter to back up Goddard; Darryl Strawberry's bat disappeared last August in heat of pennant race.

Last pennant — 1973 National League

Philadelphia Phillies

Last year's finish — 4th (81-81). Manager: John Felske (Rookie season). Vital 1984 statistics: played 8 games under 500 on artificial turf; second baseman Juan Samuel led league with 23 errors; 9th in team ERA (3.42); 11th in fielding percentage (.973).

Strengths — Third baseman Mike Schmidt tied for league lead with 36 homers and 106 RBIs; reliever Al Holland registered career-high 29 saves despite weak finish.

The Keys — Comeback needed from 1983 Cy Young Award winner John Denny, who spent time on DL last year; club must settle on regular shortstop between Ivan DeJesus or Jertz.

Last pennant — 1982 National League

Pittsburgh Pirates

Last year's finish — 6th (75-87). Manager: Chuck Tanner (9th season). Vital 1984 statistics: 9th in homers (98); finished last in division despite leading league in team ERA; lost 40 games by two runs or less.

Strengths — Pitching of all kinds; starters, relievers, lefties, righties.

New Faces — George Hendrick and Sisto Lerciano will most likely be everyday players but Steve Kemp has shoulder problems; Tim Lincecum could be starting shortstop; Mike Bielecki, the Minor League's Player of the Year last season, could crack starting rotation.

The Keys — Four time batting champion Bill Madlock must rebound from a .252 injury marred season; Hendrick must hit 15 homers and drive in 75 runs; Tekulve's save total has dropped four of last five years.

Last pennant — 1976 World champions

St. Louis Cardinals

Last year's finish — 3rd (84-78). Manager: Whitey Herzog (6th season). Vital 1984 statistics: Bruce Sutter's 45 saves; 1st in club fielding (.982); first in stolen bases (220).

Strengths — Solid defensive club by shortstop Ozie Smith; rely on speed to generate runs; Jack Clark gives them a bona fide power hitter and 100 RBI man; nice mixture of youngsters and veterans.

New Faces — Clark, if healthy, is a personal All Star; John Tudor moves into starting rotation; a weak spot for St. Louis last season.

The Keys — Neil Allen and Ricky Horton must make up at least two-thirds of the departed Sutter's 45 saves; how good is Terry Pendleton, who hit .324 in 81 game tryout last year; Herzog reshape starting rotation.

Last pennant — 1982 World champions

If the Atlanta Braves want to fill Fulton County Stadium, above, they'll need a return to form from cleanup hitter Bob Horner, left. Horner, the Braves' off-injured slugger, is attempting to bounce back from a wrist injury which he hurt while sliding. Sliding is what the Braves did last year after winning the National League West the two previous seasons.

N.L. West

West Division

Atlanta Braves

Last year's finish — Tie 2nd (80-82). Manager — Eddie Haas (1st season). 1984 Vital Statistics: 130 games missed by third baseman Bob Horner; 9-17 record of soppo more right hander Craig McMurtry; 10th in hitting (.247).

Strengths — Center fielder Dale Murphy is one of best players in majors; right hander Pascual Perez established as major league starter.

New Faces — Bruce Sutter, best reliever in the NL, brings 260 lifetime saves to a bullpen that already has Gene Garber; catcher Rick Cerone gets new life after coming over from the Yankees; rookie outfielder Mill Thompson hit .333 in 25 games last year.

The Keys — GM John Mullen freely admits Braves are much weaker team without Horner. Steve Bedrosian projected for switch from bullpen to starter before developing bad arm.

Last pennant — 1982 West

Cincinnati Reds

Last year's finish — 5th (70-92). Manager — Pete Rose (2nd season). 1984 vital statistics: 11th in hitting (.244); 11th in ERA (4.16); last in saves (23).

Strengths — Mario Soto (.187, 3.33) is one of dominant power pitchers in the league; 33 year old Dave Parker hit 285, with 16 homers and 64 RBIs.

New Faces — Colorful majority owner in Marge Schott; right hander John Stuper could help in his first full season with the Reds after St. Louis gave up on him; Tony Perez, 42, gives Rose a "younger" player to back him up at first.

The Keys — How long will it take Rose to amass the 95 hits he needs to surpass Ty Cobb's career total, and how much playing time will he give himself in this pursuit?

Last pennant — 1976 West

Houston Astros

Last year's finish — Tie 2nd (80-82). Manager — Bob Lillis (4th season). 1984 vital statistics: A 1-6 start; the second straight season in which the Astros have opened poorly; Jose Cruz's team leading 13 homers — none of which came at home; 10th in league on grass (.298).

Strengths — A competent starting rotation including Jose Nunez, Nolan Ryan and Bob Knepper, a bullpen of Dave Smith, Bill Dawley and Frank DiPino; strong outfield anchored by Jose Cruz and Terry Puhl.

The Keys — Shortstop Dickie Thon must rebound from severe hamstring fences in Astrodom; he has been moved in 10 times.

Last pennant — 1980 West

Los Angeles Dodgers

Last year's finish — 4th (79-83). Manager — Tommy Lasorda (9th season). 1984 vital statistics: last in batting (.244); first baseman Greg Brock hit .225; 11th in league in saves (27).

Strengths — Fernando Valenzuela is one of top left handers in the league; righty Ken Howell set Dominican Winter League record with 18 saves; Pedro Guerrero hit 16 homers and drove in 72 runs in an off year.

New Faces — Al Oliver acquired from Philadelphia for Pat Zachry and will play against right handers as often as the team can find him a position.

The Keys — Lefty reliever Steve Howe returning from 1 year suspension for drug involvement; Oliver counted on to drive in 60 runs; defense made 17 more errors than double plays (161-166).

Last pennant — 1982 West

San Diego Padres

Last year's finish — 1st (92-70). Manager — Dick Williams (4th season). 1984 vital statistics: Tony Gwynn's league leading .351 average; a 3 game winning streak after dropping first 3 games of NL playoffs; Goose Gosage's 25 saves.

Strengths — Right side of infield with powerful first baseman Steve Garvey and swift second baseman Alan Wiggins; bullpen of Gosage, Craig Lefferts and Tim Lincecum.

New Faces — LeMarr Hoyt won the American League Cy Young Award in 1983; Stodard brings 106 a record and 7 saves; utilityman Jerry Royster is more than adequate replacement for Luis Salazar.

The Keys — Third baseman Craig Nettles turns 41 in August; Kevin McReynolds must bounce back from wrist injury suffered in playoffs; Carmelo Martinez hit like pitchers figured him out second half.

Last pennant — 1984 National League

San Francisco Giants

Last year's finish — 6th (66-96). Manager — Jim Davenport (Rookie season). 1984 vital statistics: #78 against right handed pitching; left hander Altee Hammaraker appeared in only 8 games; led league in errors (173).

Strengths — Outfield is excellent with center fielder Dan Gladden (.281) joining Chili Davis and Jeff Leonard. Catcher Bob Brenly hit 20 homers.

New Faces — Infielder David Green and left hander Dave LaPoint were the key men in the trade that took Jack Clark out of Cincinnati.

The Keys — Team can't go anywhere with shortstop Johnnie LeMaster's .23 errors and .317 average.

Last pennant — 1971 West

Championship Series Expands To 7 Games For '85

Baseball

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Baseball's league championship series will be expanded from five to seven games this fall, but the Players' Association has yet to give its permission to make the move permanent.

The owners and the union Wednesday responded to a deadline imposed by network television by agreeing to the seven-game format for one year and left unresolved the question of how to distribute $9 million in additional revenue that the two extra games will bring in.

The American and National leagues had been playing a best-of-five League Championship Series since 1969 when each split into East and West divisions.

"If the LCS is played, it will be a best four-out-of-seven for 1985 only," said Don Fehr, acting executive director of the Players' Association.

Fehr noted an overall labor contract had not been reached, and "the players have not given up their right to strike."

The two sides agreed that if the seven-game series are played and the distribution of the funds was not resolved by Sept. 18, the entire $9 million will be placed in an escrow account.

The division of the escrowed revenues would be resolved as part of the labor discussions which have been underway since November to reach a new basic contract.

The contract talks — which resume April 15 in New York — have been stalled on many issues, including the question of how much the owners should pay into the players' pension fund. The players want one-third of the owners' network television contracts, a $1.2 billion six-year package.

The owners agreed with the networks

It would move to a seven-game series when they negotiated the new contract and urged the players to accept the new format to help ease the industry's financial problems.

The owners recently made the unprecedented move of revealing that large operating losses were draining some of the major league teams in an attempt to convince the players that escalating costs — including salaries and pension benefits — were undermining the stability and future growth of the game.

Presumably, the $9 million playoff revenue would be divided in the same way.

IN BRIEF

Israeli Troops Storm Villages, Round Up Suspected Guerrillas

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Hundreds of Israeli soldiers stormed three southern Lebanese villages to search for suspected guerrillas today and a Lebanese army unit was surrounded in one of the villages, police said.

In Beirut, machine gun battles, sniper fire and kidnappings briefly closed two of the six crossing points linking the Christian and Moslem sections of the capital, police said.

The Beirut clashes were sporadic, and involved Christian and Moslem militias deployed on either sides of the Green Line, police said.

Police in the southern port of Sidon said several hundred Israeli soldiers and at least 30 troop carriers, tanks and a bulldozer were involved in today's search of three southern villages.

About 200 Israeli troops stormed into the Shiite Moslem town of Chehahiyeh Wednesday and rounded up 300 men for questioning, Lebanese security sources said.

The sweep was part of Israel's "iron fist" policy against Moslem guerrillas who have attacked Israeli occupation forces. The Israelis are withdrawing from the region nearly three years after invading southern Lebanon to oust the Palestinian Liberation Organization.

Military Backs Duarte Win

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Election officials voted unanimously to reject a call by two right-wing parties to overturn President Jose Napoleon Duarte's upset victory in balloting for a new congress and town mayors.

The Central Elections Council voted Wednesday night after El Salvador's army leadership showed strong support for Duarte's election victory and sharply denounced rightists calling for the election to be annulled.

Elections Council President Mario Samayoa and the other two board members made the announcement shortly after the army warned the officials to "respect the will of the people."

...Missing

Mrs. Reagan will be honorary chairman of the National Child Watch Campaign, announced just four months after the center, in conjunction with milk distributors, began putting pictures of missing children on milk cartons.

"This campaign is a natural evolution of efforts launched to date," Jay Howell, the center's executive director, said at a news conference Wednesday.

In a statement, the first lady said, "Missing children are increasing at an alarming rate."

"We cannot invest too much time and energy in the safety and protection of our children," she said.

Later, President Reagan met at the White House with state and federal officials and leaders of organizations dedicated to finding the missing children.

He urged "a new partnership for child safety" among law enforcement agencies, the Justice Department, schools and community service groups so "every child in the country can have the opportunity to be safe and secure."

The president asked participants in the session, including FBI Director William Webster, to report back to him in three weeks on how to structure the new effort.

The problem of missing children, Reagan said, "is a major issue that threatens every American family, rich or poor. The possibility of kidnapping or losing a child is one of the major fears that parents now face."

Trade Tensions Escalate

Japanese Envoy To Try To Placate Americans

TOKYO (UPI) — A special trade envoy headed for the United States today as government and political leaders considered a comprehensive economic package to quell an escalating trade crisis with Japan's closest ally — the United States.

Special government envoy Reishi Teshima, deputy foreign minister for economic affairs, was dispatched to Washington to explain Japanese policies to U.S. officials.

Foreign ministry officials said Teshima, the ministry's top trade expert, would remain in Washington through Saturday.

Economic experts worked out the package of market-opening steps, including tariff cuts and the removal of other barriers to free trade, and presented it Wednesday night to Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, Japanese news reports said.

Nakasone planned to meet later today with government ministers and leaders of the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party in a bid to gain support for the measures aimed at easing the increasingly acrimonious trade tension.

Officials have previously said the trade package will be announced next Tuesday after formal adoption by Cabinet ministers.

Japanese leaders have expressed considerable frustration over what they feel is a lack of understanding by American officials, particularly congressional leaders, about recent actions by Japan to foster free trade.

In unusually blunt comments Wednesday, government leaders sharply criticized protectionist actions in the U.S. Congress, warning the measures could damage overall U.S.-Japanese relations.

The prime minister, who faces opposition from some political and business leaders who feel he conceded too much to the Americans, also plans to make a televised address to the Japanese people next week to appeal for support of his policies.

The United States, faced with a record $37 billion trade deficit with Japan last year, is demanding Tokyo open domestic markets to foreign products in four key areas — telecommunications, forestry products, medical equipment and pharmaceuticals and electronics.

Details of the new trade package were revealed in virtually identical stories citing "government sources" in this morning's editions of major Japanese newspapers.

The reports said the package comprises a number of steps to be taken over three years that will further open Japanese markets to foreign products, including concessions in the recently deregulated telecommunications area, a key U.S. demand.

The reports also said it calls for the lowering of tariffs on imported industrial and agricultural products, and the removal of non-tariff trade barriers in the four key areas of U.S. interest.

The program, according to the reports, also will contain measures to facilitate entry into the Japanese market by developing nations, especially in Southeast Asia.

...Low Lots

"If that law is valid we should abide by the law — if it's not enforceable we need to get it off the books."

City Manager Warren E. "Tete" Knowles, in a memo to the commission, said enforcing the ordinance would be difficult and expensive. Each lot would have to be recorded and documented to show in court it is in violation of the ordinance. Knowles wrote. To document the lots would require the work of a survey field crew and a draftsman for at least 200 days. That would cost about $56,000.

he stated. The cost of preparing property notices and liens is estimated at $18,000.

The unestimated cost of filling the lots would be borne by the owner of the city, if the owner didn't pay.

Knowles said if any landowner protested the ordinance in court "the city would be hard put to defend it by reason of a threat to 'public health, other reasons' or that the lot is lower than the road or doesn't add aesthetic beauty to the city."

The city could possibly defend the ordinance if the lot had thick vegetation and was a breeding place for snakes and rats, Knowles said. But a court might rule that is not sufficient enough cause to seize someone's property, he said.

"You do not have a strong law on which to base your actions against property owners," Knowles wrote. He later told commissioners, "It wouldn't take a very smart lawyer to take the first case to court and get the whole thing thrown out."

He is expected to make a recommendation to the commission in two weeks.

Meanwhile Merter said he is taking a wait and see attitude.

...Gas Tax

done in Seminole to improve the road situation.

Streetman said he likes the idea but he would have to read Grindle's bill before he could say whether he supports it or not.

"Every study shows we have an enormous local shortfall of funds for needed road improvements," Streetman said. "Either our road service is going to continue declining or we have to find additional money. People have no objection to paying more taxes for roads if the revenues from the tax are earmarked for roads."

"What we need the tax for is not to expand roads in advance of increased population, but to upgrade roads where population explosions are already occurring," he said.

At the same time Streetman agreed with Kirchhoff that the impact fee concept of having developers pay the costs of improving roads when the improvements are necessary because of new development is a good one. "The only drawback of impact fees is that they have to be spent specifically in the area from which they come," he said.

Streetman also said the gas tax proposal is "much more palatable than giving taxing authority to a non-elected super agency," like the one proposed some weeks ago by a committee appointed by the governor.

Grindle said if his proposed bill is approved, it "won't be necessary for us to go into a new infrastructure, a super agency, to build roads."

But he said he will not categorically take a position for or against the concept of a super agency.

"It's a new concept that needs more debate," he said. "But we don't have to hold up solving the problem waiting for a super agency."

Heirloom Breeds Family Feud

DEAR ABBY: It seems that my mother-in-law, who lives quite a distance, promised both my husband and his older sister the same piece of antique furniture. Both have admired this piece for a long time.

Recently my husband returned from a visit to his mother's triumphantly bearing this treasure. It is now sitting in my living room and I haven't the nerve to tell my sister-in-law we have it. (She lives near us and visits often.) I am dreading her visiting us and seeing it here as I am sure the sparks will fly!

Frankly the piece doesn't mean that much to me. I've tried to get my husband to offer it to his sister but he flatly refused, saying, "This is the only decent thing I have from my mother's home; my sister has already managed to get everything else."

I suppose it's true, but I like my sister-in-law a lot and I'm torn between the two of them. They are both very stubborn and I need some advice on how to keep peace in the family.

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: You are not in the middle unless you put yourself there. If your sister-in-law has most of the heirlooms, and this is the only "decent" piece left, I can't blame your husband for feeling that this one belongs to him. Stay out of it. And while we're on that subject, read on.

DEAR ABBY: My grandmother is a wonderful, generous lady, but she has already caused a lot of hard feelings in the family because she keeps promising the same pieces of jewelry to three or four members of our family.

I don't want to appear grabby, but when my grandmother promised me her pearl necklace, I should have asked her to put it in writing.

OUT OF LUCK

DEAR OUT: If you had put those pearls of wisdom into action, you'd have soon found out whether your grandmother was stringing you along.

DEAR ABBY: Our parents' anniversary is coming up soon. Some of us would like to make them a gift of a family portrait including their children, their children's spouses and their grandchildren.

We want to limit this portrait to legitimate family members only, which would exclude the mother of one of the grandchildren and her son from a previous relationship.

Dear Abby

We would like to include our brother and his legitimate child without including the woman he lives with and her illegitimate son. Is it possible to do this without causing hard feelings?

PROBLEMS IN SOUTHERN CALIF.

DEAR PROBLEMS: No. Abandon the idea. There are no illegitimate children, just illegitimate parents.

Candidates For Ball King, Queen

Celery City Lodge No. 542 and Evergreen Temple No. 321 are sponsoring their Eighth Annual Scholarship Ball Friday, April 5, from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. at the Sanford Civic Center.

Proceeds from the semi-formal ball will be used for a scholarship for a deserving Seminole County high school senior to continue his/her education.

Ticket donations are $6 per person. For information, contact Bernard Mitchell or any member of the lodge or temple.

Highlighting the evening's festivities will be the crowning of a Scholarship Ball King and Queen by popular vote. Candidates are: Loretha Carpenter, Joyce M. Davis, Walter Mosley, Edward Earl Jones, and Felix Smith.

Pen Women To Meet

The National League of American Pen Women will meet April 6 at 11:30 a.m. at the Landford Hotel in Winter Park for a luncheon.

Following the luncheon the group will gather at the Loch Haven Art Center to view 50 paintings and watercolors from the impressionist period in American Art which is on display at the Center through May 3rd. The exhibition, "Directions in American Painting, 1875-1925," is from a collection of Dr. and Mrs. John McDonough.

Admission fee is $3. Loch Haven Art Center members admitted free. For information and luncheon reservations call 678-9436.

Milk Alone Isn't Enough To Prevent Osteoporosis

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My friends tell me that, at 46, I should be taking a calcium supplement so that I don't eventually end up with a "widow's hump" and delicate bones. I maintain that because I run 30 miles a week and drink a half-quart of milk a day, I'll be all right, but my friends are beginning to make me nervous. I prefer not to take supplements of any kind, but to use natural foods and exercise to stay healthy. Am I on the right track?

DEAR DR. LAMB — He has begun rehabilitation. The doctors told us he won't be able to use his legs. He is paralyzed from the waist down. Is there any hope that he will regain the use of his legs?

DEAR READER — Hurray for your friends. They may save you a lot of trouble later. You may be on a calcium-deficient diet. Many adults are, and that has a lot to do with the reason so many women develop osteoporosis (dissolving bones), which causes the "widow's hump" you describe and leads to hip fractures and other serious problems. A half-quart of regular milk only provides about 600 mg or less of calcium. The recommended daily dietary allowance (RDA) is 800 mg. Many authorities believe that a woman should increase her calcium intake when she approaches menopause. At the onset of menopause and thereafter, she should either take an adequate amount of estrogen replacement or consume 1,500 mg of calcium a day.

DEAR READER — I always hate to hear a story like that because so little can be done. The basic problem is that tissue in the brain and spinal cord cannot regenerate. As a result, Exercise is important. It makes bones stronger and affects subtle bone architecture. However, women who run a lot and are very thin may stop having menstrual periods, stop ovulating and actually lose bone tissue. This may have something to do with inadequate nutrition for the level of exercise.

You can eat naturally, exercise and still get enough calcium in your diet. A quart of skim milk fortified with 2 percent non-fat milk solids contains more than 1,400 mg of calcium and only 800 calories.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About a month ago, my 18-year-old son was injured in a car wreck. He broke his back in two places and broke his spinal cord. He had back surgery and bone was taken out of his hip and put in his back. Two rods were placed in his back. They will be taken out in a couple of years.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

How you play a particular suit combination depends upon whether you need all the tricks in that suit or just some of them. If you don't know the answer right away, find out first. That's true even if the suit happens to be trump.

The defenders started with the king and ace of clubs and another club. won in dummy with the queen. Declarer now blithely played the ace of hearts and continued with another heart. When East showed out, the contract was one down.

On this deal declarer may have a diamond loser, depending upon the location of the queen. If there is no diamond loser, South can afford to lose one heart trick, but not two. Accordingly at trick four he should lead a diamond toward the jack in his hand.

When that holds, the contract can then be guaranteed with a safety play in hearts. The king of hearts should be played first, and then a low heart played toward dummy. If West played the eight, declarer should play the nine. If that loses the trick, the ace will pick up the last trump. On the actual layout, West will be held to only one trump trick.

If East had started with four hearts to the Q-10, declarer will win the second heart play with dummy's ace and come through Q-10.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
APRIL 5, 1985

Pursue your secret ambitions in the year ahead. Even though you may have shelved them temporarily in the past, the timing is now right and your chances for success are excellent.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something that might be helpful to you in a business way could be brought to your attention at a social gathering today. Be a good listener. The Matchmaker wheel reveals your compatibility to all signs, as well as showing you which signs you are best suited to romantically. To get yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you feel inclined to be of assistance to another today, do so quietly without calling attention to your deed. Your kindness won't go unnoticed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be sure to check in with home base today if you have to do a lot of running around. Good news may be trying to get through to you and you won't want to miss the connection.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is one of those fortunate days where things have a way of working out for your ultimate good. Be positive and optimistic regarding your involvements.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your words carry a lot of weight with your peers today, so if anyone comes to you for advice, keep in mind that they will take to heart whatever you tell them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Chance plays a big role in your affairs today and something might pop up that could be financially meaningful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Time devoted to pleasurable pursuits will not be wasted today. In fact, you need involvement in activities that are a departure from your usual routine.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll derive greater satisfaction today out of doing things for others than you will by merely serving your personal interests. Be helpful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have the rare ability today to build upon good things you already have going and make them even better. Put your talent to worthy uses.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You could be the recipient of some good news today that you've been hoping for pertaining to your material well-being.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Think optimistically and act in a positive manner today. This will give you complete control over events that can advance your self-interests.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Circumstances that have an effect upon your finances continue to look encouraging. Give priority to matters that could make or save you money.

Latin Music Stars Joining African Famine Relief Drive

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — More than 60 Latin music superstars including Julio Iglesias, Jose Feliciano and Sergio Mendes have joined the famine relief bandwagon, announcing they will record a song to raise money to feed starving people in Africa and Latin America.

Bermainas del Tercer Mundo or Brothers of the Third World will gather Tuesday in the same A&M Records studio where 45 American singers, calling themselves USA for Africa, recorded the single "We Are The World" in January.

"We Are The World" featuring Bruce Springsteen, Stevie Wonder, Bob Dylan and Michael Jackson, has already risen to No. 2 on the Billboard charts and organizers expect the project will raise $20 million by Easter.

The Bermainas group will donate half the proceeds from the sale of the Spanish language single, album and related products such as T-shirts to the non-profit USA for Africa foundation.

The remaining 50 percent will go to impoverished Latin American countries, organizers said.

The still untitled song and album, produced by Albert Hammond and Jose Quintana, will be distributed by A&M Records, which is partly owned by entertainer Herb Alpert. The group will include Iglesias, Feliciano, Mendes, Alpert, the group Menudo, Maria Conchita, opera singer Florida Domingo, and Jose Luis Rodriguez.

A reggae recording called "Land of Africa" and featuring more than a dozen singers also will be released in the United States, another effort designed to raise money for famine-tormented Africa.

Band Aid, a similar charity group featuring British superstars, raised $10 million for Ethiopia with the recording "Do They Know It's Christmas."
