Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

GAL FROM AN OFFICE—the athletic type—went up to a highly publicized ski lodge for a weekend of risking life and limb on the glistening slopes. The morning after her arrival she complained to the manager that twice during the night she had to get dressed and go to the lobby for a carafe of ice water.

"My dear young lady," said the manager. "Why didn't you simply press the buzzer beside your bed?"

"The buzzer?" exclaimed the girl. "The bellboy told me that was the fire alarm!"

A weary executive handed a report to his beautiful secretary. "Make a dozen copies of this," he ordered, "and circulate the one with the fewest mistakes."

ONE of former President Truman's lifelong hobbies, it's revealed, has been weather predicting. Political as well as otherwise?

To be happier people should argue more, a college president advises. That's O. K. if we're sure of winning.

Latest estimate of star gazing scientists is that the universe is five-and-a-half billion years old.

What we'd like to know is whether that, astronomically speaking, is a venerable age or ridiculously young.

C. Abernath Will Run On Old Age Benefits Platform

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—Carl Abernath, Jacksonville office machine mechanic, said yesterday he will run for governor on a platform calling for increased old age benefits.

He said he plans no campaign speeches in public places "and making a lot of promises I cannot fulfill. I'm not a politician or lawyer; I'm just a little guy who came up the hard way."

He is 54 years old, a lifelong resident of Emory University. He gave this platform:

No mudslinging, no interference in labor disputes against organized labor; increased old age pensions and lowering pension age to 50 years for disabled persons; increased pay for school teachers; more sports and better recreational facilities to help the tourist business.

Dartmouth's first football score was made by C. W. Oakes, grandfather of Abner Oakes III, Dartmouth's current hockey captain. C. W. Oakes has a tally in 1881 against Amherst.

Columbia Shop Revived On Radio

NEW YORK (AP)—Away back in 1936 Columbia Workshop, an experimental series of radio dramas, gave CBS radio a reputation for originality, daring and showmanship. Now, many years and one invention (television) later, Columbia Workshop has been revived on radio. Again it promises to give CBS radio a reputation for originality, daring and showmanship.

There is nothing on the TV set on Friday evening at 8:30 p. m. (Eastern time) that compares with it in stimulating entertainment value. Revived two weeks ago tonight, it has presented in two parts a dramatization of Aldous Huxley's novel "Brave New World," a satire on a perfect scientific society of the future.

Tonight it presents a dramatization of George Stewart's "Storm," an excellent novel whose protagonist actually is a storm itself. Unfortunately the pressures of sponsored time on CBS confine Columbia Workshop to half an hour.

Two bright young men who cut their wisdom teeth on the program in years past guide its destinies. They are Howard G. Berman, CBS radio vice president

George Is Opposed To Sending Troops Into Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) said today he is opposed to sending troops into the tense Middle East but Russia seizes the action as an excuse to move in its own armies.

George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, added that he knows of no British American plans along that line, as the Russians charged yesterday. The Soviets warned against in the Middle East without prior agreement and United Nations approval. Referring to a statement issued by President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Eden, to which the Russian alluded, George said he does not recall that the statement mentioned anything specific other than that they would confer with the French on steps to preserve peace.

Talks among the three powers started last week. As far as is known, no decisions have been reached. In a 1950 declaration the three nations pledged to act jointly to quell any outbreak of war in the Middle East.

George added that the Communists, through Czechoslovakia, have shipped arms to Egypt and "if we become involved in any war in the Middle East, Russia will intervene, indirectly at first, and then directly."

Cohen Is Square With Law Again

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Mickey Cohen, who recently completed a federal prison term for income tax evasion, is square with the law again after pleading guilty to two misdemeanor charges and paying $15 in fines.

Police Chief August Kellman said Cohen stayed at the El Mirador Hotel under a fictitious registration and also failed to register as an ex-convict.

Municipal Judge Eugene Theriau fined Cohen $100 with a choice of 10 days in jail on each count, but he suspended $50 of one count and $15 of the other, with the proviso Cohen not violate the law for one year. Cohen paid the fines in cash.

Parakeet Pudgie True 'Smoke Eater'

OMAHA (AP)—There's a parakeet named Pudgie who is a pet at a fire station here. And a pet is a signal of danger to a fireman, as it is to Pudgie.

You just can't smoke in the station recreation room with Pudgie around. To disbelieve the firemen say "go ahead and light up a cigar." She lands on it and she pecks it into two parts. No one is to blow smoke in her face, either. She's a true "smoke eater" like her owners.

Nothing Like Army's Engineers

By BEM PRICE
WASHINGTON (AP)—There's nothing in the world quite like the Army's Corps of Engineers. They can move mountains. They also build military roads, dredge harbors, divert rivers, fight floods, construct airfields, build houses, fight wars, lay pipelines, make maps, harness atoms, design equipment, build dredges, repair plumbing and change light bulbs.

The engineers put the wings and dome on the Capitol, completed the Washington Monument, built the Library of Congress, the Pentagon, the U. S. Military Academy at West Point and many other public buildings.

They operate six technical intelligence services just in case some general wants to know such things as the depth of the Volga River, its flow and the soil characteristics of both its banks.

Somewhat the engineers can also tell you how to operate the latest Tassian tractor, its rated horsepower and how well it performs.

The engineers are beginning to turn out maps which indicate clearly where you can take a 60-ton tank across country in wet or dry weather, the best route and how many tanks can follow the same track before the soil crumbles and bogs them down.

If a general wants to know the kilowatt capacity of the power plants in Moscow, Tokyo, Peking, Paris or Berlin, the chances are excellent that the engineers will be able to tell him.

As real estate operators the engineers have no peer. Their holdings in land and buildings amount to 25 billion dollars worth, scattered throughout the United States, its territories and 22 foreign countries. Some two million people, civilians and military, are housed by the engineers.

If a housewife living in government quarters on Okinawa has trouble with the plumbing, she sends for the engineers. If a light bulb burns out the engineers replace it.

As if they didn't have enough to do, the engineers also represent the Army, Navy and Air Force in participation with the Atomic Energy Commission in seeking power and heat for peaceful purposes from atoms.

Right now the engineers are engaged in constructing a pilot model of a portable atomic power plant at Ft. Belvoir, Va., 30 minutes by car from Washington. The plant is designed for use in economically backward countries and at remote military posts where a 50-gallon drum of fuel oil sometimes costs as much as $12.

As a sort of routine operation the engineers dredge and maintain 400 harbors and 28,000 miles of navigable waterways. If anybody wants to build a bridge across a navigable stream the engineers have to approve first.

They do all these things with an annual budget of about 2 billion dollars, 10,000 officers, 100,000 enlisted men and 30,000 civilian employees.

About 85 per cent of all engineer construction work, civil and military, is done on contract with private firms. The net result of this constant association and exchange of information is know how which is the envy of foreign military men.

Both the French and British chiefs of engineers have said that one secret of the Americans' battlefield success is the think-big, act-big experience gained by engineers in civil works jobs.

The close relationship between the engineers and civilian contractors on civil works projects has another by-product: The corps is the nation's only organization capable of fighting major disasters such as hurricanes and floods on a moment's notice.

The engineers have the country divided into 12 regions and subdivided further into 41 districts. In each are engineers who know the district intimately and are familiar with the capabilities of every civilian construction firm.

When Hurricane Diane swept in from the sea last August she dumped 19 inches of water on Massachusetts and Connecticut and 15 inches on parts of New York and Pennsylvania in a day and a half. By the time the waters receded 179 were dead, 6,922 injured and damage had run into hundreds of millions.

Cities and states were helpless in the immediate emergency. Within 24 hours the Army engineers were on the job, mobilizing every piece of equipment they could find among civilian contractors.

Red tape was ignored. Contractors went to work on verbal contracts, often reached by telephone. In the end the government paid the prevailing rates for men and equipment.

The engineers' job in an emergency of this sort is simply to restore essential services. They leave the job of rehabilitation to the communities and states.

Some day this experience in combatting disaster could prove even more important than in the New England floods. For example, Lt. Gen. Samuel D. Sturgis, chief of engineers, saw the floods as a test of the corps' civil works department in concentrating equipment, and added:

"I like to think that in event of atomic attack it is the only organization that could step in and do the job. We are the best qualified."

This matter of floods and flood control has long been the engineers' baby. With the shift in the course of hurricanes in recent years toward the open Atlantic coast, the engineers have also been given the job of combatting the terrific winds and tides generated by hurricanes. They are now engaged in a gigantic new survey of flood control needs from Mexico to Maine and in figuring out ways to lessen hurricane damage.

When the engineers put on their military hats they operate in lands where temperatures go to 63 below and 140 above and they are equally at home on shifting sand or snow.

To navigate over the snow and muskeg swamps of the Arctic or Siberia—the engineers have developed a 70,000 pound tractor with a ground pressure at any given point equivalent to that of a man on skis.

They've rigged jeeps which can travel over the trackless wastes on a radio beam just like those used by airline pilots.

To protect troops in the field against nuclear attack, the engineers have come up with a machine which will dig a trench four feet deep at the rate of 25 feet a minute.

No story on the engineers would be complete without mention of the combat engineers, the men who often make heroes possible. They are the guys with the dirty jobs, clearing minefields, building roads under fire and sometimes fighting. The engineers have a motto, "Essays," from the French, "Let us strive." In war and peace, they have.

Women's Fashions Travel Faster Than Airplanes

Jet planes aren't the only things that travel fast these days. Take women's fashions, for instance.

I was talking to a young man named Andy Arkin today. He got in yesterday by plane from Paris, where he had attended the spring fashion showings of Dior, Givenchy, Balenciaga and the rest of the big boys who continue to tell women all over the world what to wear.

This morning he had a fashion show at which he showed more than a dozen adaptations of the spring styles he bought in Paris.

"How'd you do it?" I asked him. "Simple," said he. "We did it by telephone. Soon as a showing was over I got on the phone to the New York office and told them what I'd bought and we designed the American version over the phone. Had a pretty big phone bill, but it all pays off."

American buyers pay about $1,000 each for the Paris originals they buy at the couture openings. And within a week they have their adaptations ready for orders by stores all over the country and a few weeks after that American women are buying them for as little as $10.

"Of course," says Arkin, "we don't copy these Paris styles exactly, because if we did we couldn't sell 'em over here. That's because American women have different ideas about clothes—and different shapes, too.

"They want the latest thing from Paris, but they want it fixed up a little here and there so that they don't look like a cartoon when they wear it. That's what we do for them."

This year, says Arkin, all the American buyers are worried about whether women over here will go for the loose line so prominent in Paris showings.

"Frankly, I wasn't sure about it at first," said Arkin. "Up to now we've been faking this sack silhouette, sort of. We've been making these bell-shaped dresses, but we've been shaping them so that they actually fitted the figure. This time I realized that the fitted things—the ones nipped in at the waistline—were beginning to look old-fashioned. So this spring we're making dresses loose. Hardly any belts at all, or if at all, then it's just a little half or quarter belt."

100-DAY STRIKE ENDS
TORONTO (AP)—The 100-day strike at General Motors of Canada—longest auto strike in North America—ended last midnight with signing of a contract running to Aug. 1, 1953. The settlement provided hourly wage increases of 18 cents over the next two years, supplemental layoff pay similar to the plans in the U. S. auto industry and an improved health insurance program with company and workers sharing costs. Previous average wage was $1.98 hourly.

The strike of 17,500 workers started Sept. 19.

UNION BEGINS STRIKE
TOKYO (AP)—The 370,000 member Japanese National Railway Workers' Union, ignoring government warnings of "stern measures," began a strike today to demand a 12 per cent wage increase.

Japan's Public Servants' law denies public employees the right to strike and all Japanese railroads are government-owned.

The rail workers' wages averaged about $45 a month.

P.T.A. Plays Big Part In Making Education's Schools Successful

Parent-teacher groups throughout the country are making plans for observance of the founding of the National Conference of Parents and Teachers. Special Founders Day programs will mark the occasion, according to Mrs. Rollin Brown, national P.T.A. president, one of which has been held here in Sanford for a forerunner of the hundreds and thousands more.

In announcing Founders Day, Mrs. Brown said the phenomenal growth of the organization, which was founded in 1897 in Washington, D. C., with 2,000 mothers attending the first meeting. The organization has grown steadily through the years, Mrs. Brown said, predicting that a membership of more than 10,000,000 would be reported at the 1958 convention—making it one of the largest organizations in the country.

In tracing the history of P.T.A., we are reminded of Alice McLellan Birney and Phoebe Apperson Hearst, who called the first Congress because they were appalled at the conditions in which so many children were growing up. They dared to challenge the then prevailing ideas of how young lives should be nurtured and guided. More than half a century ago they grasped the truth that if you are concerned about the child, you must be concerned about his environment. Not was their concept of environment confined to the home. Far ahead of their times, the Founders realized that the child is deeply influenced not only by the home but by the school and other forces in the community. This was the news they were breaking to all who would listen, to all who sought new ways of working for the welfare of children.

Mrs. John E. Hayes, national chairman of the committee on Programs and Founders Day included this thought in her Founders Day message. "When the parent-teacher association reaches the complete realization of the firm beliefs of our Founders, it will have become an instrument for democracy or creed, economics or social status, may find a place to combine their total strength in service to children and youth."

Men Over 25 Fear Baldness

By HAL BOYLE
 NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't read his mail:
 That nearly four out of five American men over 25 years of age are worried about losing their hair.
 That while a majority of baldies think it would be a good idea for their bald friends to wear a toupee, they are afraid to do so themselves, mostly because of a fear of being kidded. But for some reason they don't feel President Eisenhower—or Adlai Stevenson, for that matter—should don a toupee.
 That 75 per cent of the custom-made hair-pieces made by a major firm in this growing industry are bought by men under 40—and the biggest demand is for the Ivy League crew-cut style.
 That you can be identified by your "brainprint" now as well as by your fingerprints. Medical research has established that the patterns of electrical energy given off by your brain are as individual as the whorls on your fingerprints.
 That you can make money in the average tavern by betting no one at the bar can name the seven U. S. presidents who died or were assassinated while in office. They were W. H. Harrison, Taylor, Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, Harding and Franklin D. Roosevelt.
 That for all his height and great strength Abraham Lincoln was a right eater. For the benefit of the calorific-conscious, here is how "Old Abe" solved his food needs on a typical day: Breakfast, one egg, one cup of coffee; lunch, a biscuit, one glass of milk, an apple, dinner, soup, meat and potatoes. The only drink he liked was homemade maple pie.
 That although production of the "Ford's" Ford's famous tri-axial aerial transport, caused in some ways of these distinctive old cars are still in active service, particularly in bush country.
 That a man who beats his "double-jointed" doesn't know what he is bragging about. The ligaments that hold his bones together simply are looser than those of the ordinary person. If he actually had double joints, he would belong in a bottle at Harvard, along with other medical rarities.

 That Joe Miller never really wrote a joke book. Miller, an English comedian who died in 1782, was just as unoriginal as any of today's celebrated comedians, who notoriously have to lean on hired gagsters for most of their laugh material. The joke book that bears Miller's name was written by John Wetley, a playwright of that day.
 That Uncle Sam's "revenooers" are no more miffed at moonshiners than licensed distillers, who estimate that more than a fourth of the whiskey consumed in America last year was turned out by tax-ducking illegal stills.
 That traffic experts predict the nation's highways, jammed with more than 61 million vehicles now, will have to carry 80 million by the end of 1960. Free parking places should become top prizes on TV giveaway programs then.
 That hearing aids concealed in eyeglasses are becoming commonplace now, but in 1890 many partly deaf men wore ear trumpets built into their hats.
 That a new tourist sport in Turkey is to swim from Europe to Asia. It can be done by paddling a mile and a half across the warm waters of the Bosphorus at Istanbul.
 That there is still a lot of common sense truth today in the old North Carolina folk saying, "Son, you better learn to cut your fingernails with your left hand, because some day you may lose your right."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERR

THE LATE Mrs. Lillie Barrow Brooks, of Detroit, once took her 12-year-old son to a vocational guidance station to seek help in planning his career. "Your son," a wise counselor there told her, "has quick reflexes and should follow some pursuit where he can use his hands."

Mrs. Brooks thought this was sound advice and so did her son. He decided to become a professional pugilist—and did quite well, too. He fought under the name of "Joe Louis."

George Jessel reports that after years of effort he finally believed he had lined up a job for his Cousin Max in the Bombay bazaars. At the last minute, however, officials decided to use goats. There's a cheap way restaurant just off Broadway called "Ho Ho," owned by a Chinese man who writes.

Russian Moves Pack Big Wallop

By JAMES MARLOW
 WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russians must have a new public relations man. Every move packs a propaganda wallop. They wait up to the United States as if to shake hands and then sock with a fast left cross.
 Their timing is good, as the dates show. They've got this country wondering where the next punch is coming from.
 But there's no mystery about their propaganda which has two aims: to shake loose the country's allies by trying to fill them with misgivings about American intentions and to win over the people of Asia, Africa and the Middle East with the idea Russia is his big brother, the United States the opposite.
 Here are some dates:
 Jan. 25. While Britain's Prime Minister Eden was on his way here to meet with President Eisenhower—an event bound to capture world headlines—Premier Bulganin sent Eisenhower a personal message.
 Thereafter Eden's approaching visit had to share top headlines with the message. Secrecy surrounding it added to the interest. Russia didn't spoil the interest by revealing the contents.
 Jan. 26. Eisenhower released both Bulganin's message and his own reply. Bulganin had proposed a 30-year friendship treaty. Eisenhower rejected the offer, suggesting Russia show its good intentions by deeds rather than words.
 Jan. 29. The Soviet press headlined Bulganin's offer but didn't mention Eisenhower's reply. The Russians let the offer sink in, getting maximum mileage out of it.

 Editor, Sanford Herald, Sanford, Florida

Dear Sir:
 I want to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for the article you printed in your paper on February 1 concerning my promotion and transfer to the Orlando Office of The Prudential.
 Since I spent most of my life in Sanford, I was particularly happy that most of my many friends there were able to read of the change. One thing that your paper did not know is that for a great many years during Junior High, High School and even while attending Orlando Junior College, I delivered your paper along practically every route in Sanford. While attending Stetson, I worked at a route manager under Mr. Gordon Dean and Mr. Roland Dean.
 The valuable experience I received in business, management and human relations has materially benefited me in every activity of my life since that time. I think that every boy who carries a paper route is storing up rich experiences for his future business life. I think that I shall always be indebted to your paper and the "Deans" for those opportunities.
 Again let me thank you for the publicity and compliment you on your fine newspaper.
 Very truly yours,
 C. R. Jones, Jr.,

Capital Gains Nice Until April

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK (AP)—One of the more pleasant roads to riches is paved with capital gains. That is, it's pleasant until April when it comes time to pay the tax on them.
 Capital gains are what you have if you sell your house for more than it cost you, or sell stocks for more than you paid for them some time back.
 Only nine countries tax short-term capital gains from stock sales, and only three of these tax long-term gains. The United States is one of those doing both.
 Our capital gains tax is blessed or blasted by different groups of tax payers. Here are their divergent views:
 Some aim their investments chiefly at building up capital gains to avoid income.
 Some hold onto stocks rather than pay the tax on the profits they would show from a sale.
 Some refrain from investments, saying the tax would just whittle down any profit although they'd still have all the risk.
 Stock brokers, who make a living from commissions on the purchase and sale of stocks, blast the capital gains levy as discouraging trading and keeping the stock market

"this" (a small supply of stocks available for trading).
 And people who live entirely on wage or salary and who must hand part of it over as income tax are likely to feel that those who live on their gains from playing the market are bearing some of the tax burden. The income-only boys may ask: Why a lower tax on "unearned" gains than on "earned" returns from labor?
 The reason some folk deliberately seek capital gains—buying a stock with a chance to increase in market value rather than one paying a good dividend—is this: The capital gains tax on property held more than six months goes as high as 25 per cent. But any of the many stockholders in an income tax bracket higher than 25 per cent would benefit more from having a capital gain than from a dividend that would add to his income. The top individual tax rate is 91 per cent.
 There are divergent views on how much the capital gain tax discourages stock trading.
 Most people are disinclined to sell their stock when it means handing a fourth of the profit over to the government—or more if they held the stock less than six months and are in any but a low-income bracket.
 But some brokers point out that the profit on which people dislike to pay a tax exists only on paper until the stock is sold and the gain taken. And paper profits have been known to blow away, or even to turn into paper losses. The Wall Street maxim is: You don't go broke taking a profit.

Too Late To Classify

BY RUSSELL KAY
 Most communities are inclined to soft pedal any mentions of soup kitchens or bread lines but in Ybor City, Tampa's world famed Latin Quarter, here the length of soup and bread lines is considered a tribute and the more the merrier.
 Not content to sit back and let Tampa do all the heel-kicking during the annual Gasparilla celebration, Ybor City joins in the fun and gaiety by presenting its Fiesta Sopa de Garbanos and La Parade de la Noche del Pirata, which in American money adds up to a feast on free Garbanos bean soup and a colorful night pirate parade.
 While Ybor City, like Tampa, surrenders to the pirate chiflet, it nevertheless plays its part in resisting the invasion and sends its Navy to join in opposing Gasparilla's landing.
 This gay Latin participation has grown each year until it has become an outstanding feature of the week-long Gasparilla show. On the day set aside in its honor, Ybor City starts howling long before daylight. Master chefs in such famed establishments as the Columbia Restaurant, Las Novedades and Spanish Park make hundreds of gallons of delicious Garbanos bean soup which is served free to thousands of visitors.
 Henry J. Fernandez, Alcalde serving as unofficial mayor, dressed in top hat and dress suit bearded with all manner of decorations, ribbons and ash, supervises the affair ably assisted by former Alcalde Mollly Ferrara and other officials.
 If he'd ignored before, the Eisenhower-Eden statement, it warned against use of American-British French troops in the Middle East, put itself in the position of protecting the Arabs, and accused the West of being more interested in oil investments in the Middle East than in the people there.
 Tampa and Florida have reason to be proud of the Latin groups who contribute so much to the advancement and welfare of the state. Our Latin population is a strong tie with Central and South America and is helping to cement greater friendship and understanding with our Latin neighbors.

Wonderful new books! Honestly when a new lot comes in I can hardly wait to begin work on them. The average person doesn't realize what takes place in processing a new book for circulation.

First a slip is made out with all information including the author, title, subject, date, publisher price and illustration, if any. Then the cover is cut out and the "blurb" cut and pasted in the front of the book.

The book is then properly stamped on the book, pocket and book card. All of this information is then entered in the accession book. The author's name is checked with the catalog to see if it is a pseudonym or real.

Now the typing! First a shelf list card with all information above typed on (this is for the librarian) next, a title card and an author card. Last, if necessary, a subject card. (Sometimes there are a dozen of these for one book). After the pocket and book card are typed the pocket is pasted in the back of the book and the cards are all checked and alphabetized, and filed in the card catalog.

Last is the varnishing of the book to prevent silver fish and roaches from destroying the cover. After it has dried it is ready for the public. Can you imagine the time it takes to do 15 or 20 new ones at the same time?

Here are some new books we're working on now. They'll be out by the end of the week. "Heart of Peter Marshall's Faith" two inspirational by Peter Marshall, "The Columbia" (a new River of America series book), "Dead Storage" by George Bagby (Charles Morrison's pet author), "Here In This Island" by Susanne Connonoughy, a story of the emotional problems of Helen, McIlwaine, a young divorcee, and David Gardner, a blind man, whose paths have crossed on a visit to Tahiti.

"The Very Young Mrs. Poe" by Colburn O'Neal, tells the tragic story of Virginia Clemm, who became the child bride of Edgar Allan Poe at the age of thirteen.

"Mr. Hamish Gleave" by Richard Llewellyn, about the disposition of a British Foreign Office official, whose spitefulness and envy lead him to betray his country, his friends and himself. A shrewd and sympathetic character study.

"The Scarlet Cord" by Frank Slaughter, is another Biblical novel. This one about Rahab, woman of Jericho, and Joshua's victorious attack on the city. The story opens with the early romance of Joshua and Rahab, which is interrupted when Rahab is captured by slaves. Later brought to the king of Jericho as a concubine, Rahab becomes involved in palace politics and from then on the suspense builds up till Joshua's army reaches the city.

"Maria" by Brian Cooper, the story of Charles Crigdon who returns in England from his duties at the Nuremberg Trials falls in love with a young widow, Mary Sutherland, whose family home in Cornwall holds secrets which point to a confusing mystery linking Mary to another woman in wartime Germany. A tale of excitement and suspense.

At long last, "The Case of The Terrified Typist" by Eric Stanley Gardner, "Mary of Carlisle" by Margaret Barnes, is the latest of Mrs. Barnes' romance of English royalty. Attention is about equally divided between the first Charles Stewart and the fictitious Mary Floyd, a 17 year old royalist.

"The Gentleman" by Edison Marshall, takes place in Charleston in the 1890's. No character created by Edison Marshall is as fascinating as Edward Stone. "What was his real name? Was he aristocrat or 'poor white trash'?" Through strife, love and a long awaited rendezvous would tell the tale.

"Story of Sandy", a true story about a backward child who needed love and something more and of a woman who fought overwhelming odds to bring him back to his normal little boyhood. A beautiful story that stands as a testament of hope, revealing that love and knowledge can heal emotional wounds.

Also new mysteries and love stories. Put a reserve on your choice and we'll hold it for you. It only costs five cents. See you next week.

Central Circle of the Sanford Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. W. B. Nicholson with Mrs. J. H. Nicholson and Mrs. G. G. McCall as co-hostesses.

Mrs. B. C. Moore, chairman, presided over the routine business meeting. The session was opened with a greeting, "Every Wish As Like a Prayer From God," by Elizabeth Browning followed by the praying of the Lord's Prayer.

Horticulture chairman, Mrs. A. K. Rosseter, gave a most interesting talk on pruning, grafting and other items of interest.

Mrs. J. H. Nicholson urged all members to attend the Daytona Beach Flower Show slated for March 2 and 3. It will be held in the Peabody Auditorium.

The program chairman introduced Mrs. D. E. Pugh who spoke on camellias and Azaleas and Mrs. Moore was elected as delegate to the State convention with Mrs. Loyd Ledman as alternate.

Mrs. Howard Brewer was welcomed as a new member after which refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Valentines being exchanged—or in the making—are ideal interest centers for pictures of the small fry.

Valentine Hearts Belong in Pictures

A special day always makes an especially good occasion for picture-taking—and this is the month in which St. Valentine has his day. In his honor, there'll be gifts and greetings, party preparations and decorations—the whole wonderful mixture of love and laughter and love paper that is the heart of Valentine's Day.

For all the friends and loved ones who can't be with you on this day, why not send a little extra thought along with your greeting card? A snapshot or two of the children, laughing over their Valentine's artwork—a picture of the table-dressed sugar food cake enthroned on the dining room table—a color shot of your living room decorated in the traditional "flowers and flowers" theme—any of these tucked into the envelope together with your Valentine card will add warmth and pleasure to the message of love it carries.

It's true that time is short—but photographers are people geared to giving fast service. All you have to do is select the snapshots you want to send, take the negative into the nearest drug store or camera shop and order the necessary number of prints. These pictures will say "Happy Valentine" for you in the warmest, friendliest way—which is the true spirit of good old St. Valentine himself!

Pictures like these are easy to make, with flash light on your camera, and make a heart-warming addition to the family album as well as providing wonderful snapshots for sharing.

Cabbage Will Be King At Grocery Stores In Florida

Good news for Seminole County farmers—Cabbage will be king at grocery stores throughout Florida and the Southeast during next week, Feb. 16-18, according to Stanley Rosenberger, assistant vegetable marketing specialist with the University of Florida Agricultural Extension Service.

He is arranging with stores in Florida and chains which operate in other states to feature the lowly vegetable at bargain prices for the three days, in an effort to help move an extra large crop that is tending to glut markets.

Rosenberger thinks shipments during this season—January to March—will exceed those of a year ago by 25 percent. Both Florida and Arizona are making heavy shipments now.

"Cabbage is cheap, healthy," and plentiful, Rosenberger says. "In addition to its high nutritive value, it also furnishes roughage, a vitamin aid."

The horticulturist cites the following additional facts about cabbage: Cabbage is one of the oldest vegetables known to man. It leads other U. S. vegetables in quantity produced.

The Greeks grew three varieties of it and the Roman historian, Pliny, mentions six varieties. The Romans imported it from the Latin "caulis," meaning head.

Today it is known as one of the most beautiful of vegetables. When cooked properly, a somewhat offensive odor is almost entirely absent.

Cabbage has been in use more than 4,000 years, probably because of its high health value. Though the ancients knew nothing of such things, cabbage has a low calorie content; a small amount of protein, carbohydrates and fat; and three vitamins, A, B and C—these made it extremely valuable for antiquity's chancy and generally unbalanced diet.

Vitamin A helped vision; B3 (riboflavin) helped maintain healthy skin; vitamin C, the body's "tissue cement," kept gums intact; and thiamine, also in cabbage, helped bodily metabolism.

The cabbage of antiquity exists today, but also has spawned many a second cousin through selective or accidental breeding. Some of the cabbage-cousins are kale, kohlrabi, cauliflower, broccoli and Brussels sprouts.

Many restaurant cooks stand by cabbage. They say overcooking ruins it and produces the objectionable odor. Actually cabbage should not be cooked more than 20 minutes in water which is at a "rolling boil" throughout the cooking period.

Mixed with other vegetables, cabbage adds to flavor of the mixture, and takes on deliciousness from the combinations.

The population of the United States, now in excess of 165 million, has doubled since 1900.

'57 Congress To Face Question

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The 1957 Legislature apparently is going to be faced with the question whether citrus growers who have trees destroyed in the spreading decline eradication program are to be compensated for their loss.

One prominent leader in the industry, W. C. Pedersen of Waverly, president of the Waverly Growers Cooperative, already has put forth the suggestion that growers should be paid for their lost trees.

Pedersen estimated that from 5 to 7 1/2 million dollars would be needed. It is estimated that about 10,000 acres of Florida's total citrus acreage of 1 1/2 million are infested with burrowing nematodes responsible for the disease.

In making the suggestion in his February membership letter to members of the Waverly Growers Cooperative, Pedersen made no specific recommendations where the compensation money should come from or how the funds should be raised.

"Surely we could find some semipainless way to raise this money so that individuals who would sustain losses would be treated fairly," Pedersen said.

Apparently neither Pedersen nor any other citrus man has any thought that any of the $1,756,500 appropriated by the 1955 Legislature to combat spreading decline should be used to reimburse growers for infested trees which must be destroyed.

The money was appropriated to provide funds for actual warfare against the nematodes. Most citrus men appear to believe it should be spent entirely for that purpose.

But compensation for growers who have to destroy trees is favored by many leaders in the industry. State Sen. Doyle E. Carlton Jr. of Wauchula, who served as chairman of the Senate Citrus Committee in the 1955 session, said he believed many citrus men would be willing to submit to a special tax levy on citrus to finance a compensation program.

Carlton himself is a citrus grower and settler.
The citrus industry now pays a special tax to finance the advertising and promotion of Florida citrus.

The spreading decline eradication program, under the direction of the State Plant Board, now is on a purely voluntary basis. A grower who has infested trees asks the board to pull his trees and that the soil with chemicals which destroy the nematodes.

Plant Commissioner Ed L. Ayers recommends that when infested trees are found in a grove, they be pulled and destroyed and trees in a surrounding buffer strip 100 feet wide also be destroyed to prevent nematodes in the soil around the infested tree roots from moving into healthy groves. The surrounding trees may or may not be infested.

Pedersen said "there will be trees taken out and perhaps whole acres of grove that would produce a profit in years to come."

He said that when it has become necessary to destroy diseased trees or hogs to prevent spread of disease, the government generally has compensated the growers for at least part of their losses.

Death Is Taking Partial Holiday

NEW YORK (AP)—Death is taking a partial holiday in the United States.

Death was a grimly busy agent back in 1900.

If the same death rates prevailed today, there would be: Five times as many little caskets bearing infants under one year old; 12 times as many for babies one to five.

Four times more funerals each year for adults 25 to 34; three times as many for men and women 35 to 44.

That is one way of expressing the huge dividend of extra years of life won since this century began. The figures come from a survey by the Health Information Foundation.

The death rate, from all causes, per 100,000 people has been chopped nearly in half as an average for all age groups. The greatest area for death's holiday is among babies but there still are dramatic extensions of life for age groups over 55.

At the 1900 rates, death would be claiming 1/4 million infants under a year old each year, instead of 100,000. Death would be taking 200,000 children aged 1 to 4, instead of 40,000. Death would be taking 200,000 aged 35 to 44 instead of 70,000.

Mortality has been cut 40 percent among men and women 45 to 54, and 30 percent among those 55 to 64. It's down 20 percent for people 65 and older.

Medical science and improved living standards mainly brought the dividend of longer life. The death rate shows a steady decline year by year save for 1918 when a searing flu epidemic shot it back up above the levels of 1900.

Communist China To Scrap Language For Easy Alphabet

LONDON (AP)—Communist China has decided to scrap the ancient Chinese character language of 250,000 ideographs—dating back thousands of years—for an easy-to-learn, English-style alphabet of 20 letters.

The Communists thus are embarking on a monumental gamble to modernize their nation and seize the minds of its 600 million people.

A simplified phonetic alphabet would help wipe out illiteracy, grease the grinding gears of Red indoctrination and simplify the education of technical experts needed to turn China into a modern industrial state.

Peiping radio announced the 20-letter alphabet had been introduced officially "for discussion and trial as a further step in the plan to change the Chinese written language."

It has all the letters of the English alphabet except "V" and five other letters "corresponding to sounds common in the Chinese spoken language."

The five added letters are mainly for sibilant Chinese pronunciations such as "sh" and "sh." Pronunciation of some consonants has been changed to accommodate the Chinese tongue. "Y" has been added as a sixth vowel with a different pronunciation than the English.

Queen Elizabeth's Reserved Grooming Has Jolted Nigeria

IBADAN, Nigeria (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II's restrained grooming has jolted Nigeria's Mayfair, where dusky beauties parade in king-size gold ornaments and apply their brown face powder with a ladle.

The royal visit has touched off a spate of lectures in fashion columns of the Nigeria press.

"All of us who are particular about fashion will have something to copy from the Queen," said a woman writer in the Ibadan Tribune.

"Let us watch the style and suitability of her dress."

"Let us see how nicely she does her hair and applies makeup."

"Adora of the Lagos Times was more blunt.

"How would a distinguished African woman, not even a queen, have landed at Ikeja Airport?" she asked.

"I'll dare tell you.

"On every other finger there would be at least two gold rings.

"Around the neck would be rows and rows of gold beads.

"To crown all there would be a long gold chain almost touching the knees.

"That is not all.

"On the blouse there would be two large brooches, each vying with the other for place.

"On the ears would be large earrings practically tearing the ears down.

"Around the wrists there also would be one or two gold bracelets.

"In fact, the only spot that would escape this extremity would be the teeth."

Men Told To Start Antirabies Shots

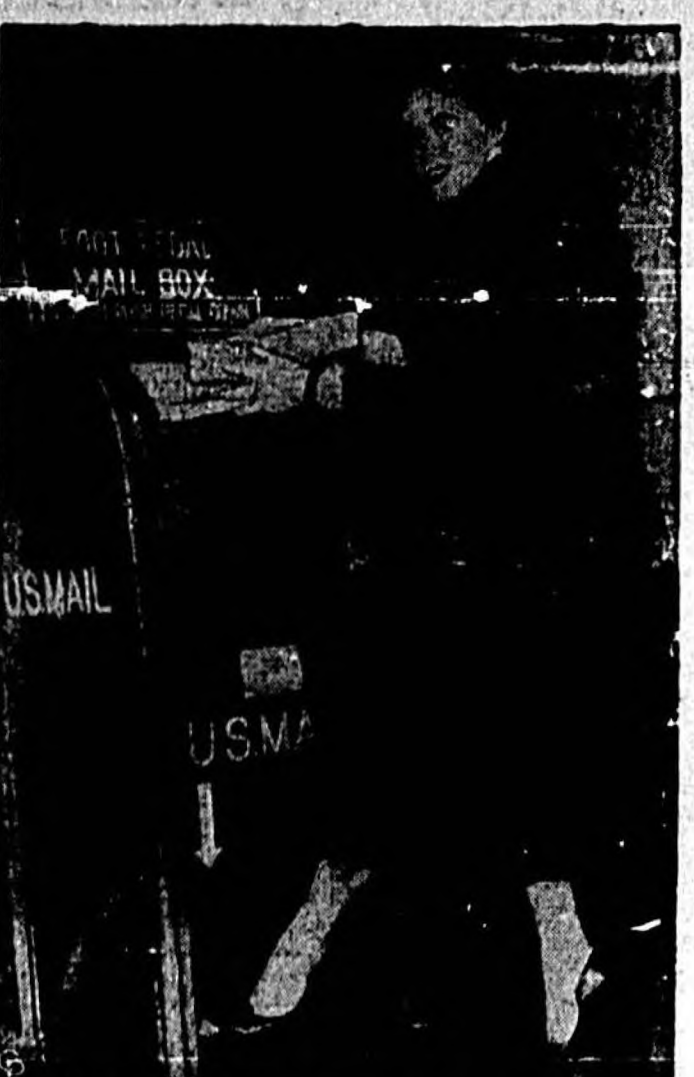

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Two men were advised to start antirabies shots immediately, but they may never know whether the dog that bit them was diseased.

A rabies test was made impossible after the black chow's head was destroyed in killing it. One man mutilated the head with a shotgun blast after another had hit the dog with a car.

The head must be preserved before an animal can be tested for rabies.

Frank Vardon said he deliberately ran his car over the dog shortly after it had bitten G. D. Schwartz and Uriah Sutton. He said it was headed toward two children.

About 40 per cent of private U. S. timber resources are on farms.

ALBERTA C. MORAN, of Washington, tries the Post Office's "foot pedal mail box" an experimental receptacle aimed at helping patrons who have their arms full when sending parcels or letters. The patron steps on the lever at the bottom and the mail box opens.

TIMBER BAMBOO

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department is working on development of a new crop—timber bamboo—which may become a major job at the hospital.

Experiments with the bamboo are being conducted in the Southeastern part of the United States. Department research specialists have told a House Appropriations subcommittee, and indications are that it "has some possibility."

26 DEAD COUNTED

PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil (AP)—The death toll of a cloudburst near Pelotas rose today to 26. The heavy rain broke dikes of the Pelotas River yesterday. The flooded area is in south Brazil about 80 miles from the Uruguayan frontier.

LETTER TOSSED IN QUEEN'S CAR

IBANDA, Nigeria (AP)—A jobless African electrician caused consternation today by tossing a letter into the open car carrying Britain's Queen Elizabeth on her royal tour of Nigeria.

Blackouts Story Being Repeated

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—There was Marie Wilson doing her strip tease with wide-eyed innocence. And there was Ken Murray in the audience brandishing his unlighted cigar and making rakish asides.

It was like old times. Little has changed but the title. Now it was blackouts of 1936 instead of 1942.

He was the same brash Ken Murray, except that his brush topped hair was graying ("That's what TV did to me"), and Marie was still Marie—all of her.

Even the jokes were the same Marie "Here is a poem I have written—all right, so it's rotten." But they still convulsed the packed audience in the Venus Room of the Hotel New Frontier.

The Blackouts success story is being repeated all over again in Las Vegas. (The show ran seven years at the El Capitan Theatre in Hollywood.) Ken and Marie are being held here six weeks and can return later this year for 8 or 11 weeks at $20,000 per week.

"It's sensational," Ken enthused between shows. "Marie and I hadn't worked together for seven years. Yet we picked right up where we left off without a break-in."

"Two Saturdays ago, we broke the record set by Sammy Davis Jr. on New Year's Eve, and last Saturday we broke our own record. Of course, there's a good reason why we draw. This town is supposed to get 50 per cent of its trade from southern California (some say as high as 80 per cent)."

"Some 3 1/2 million people paid to see Blackouts at the El Capitan. So you can understand why they want to see it again."

Perhaps the main reason for the show's success is the happy wedding of two talents—the brash, wise-cracking Murray and the innocent sex of Marie. Both have had success in other mediums as single performers. But they are seldom as surefire hits as when they appear together.

Paul Miller To Seek Nomination As State Senator In May Primary

PAUL MILLER

Paul Miller, Indiantown motel operator and City Councilman this week announced his intention to seek nomination as State Senator in the May Primary election in his bid for the position of Senator from the thirty-seventh Senatorial District comprising Brevard and Seminole Counties, Miller is making his initial entrance to the State political arena.

A native of Florida, Miller was born in Key West in 1918. He attended high school in Miami and was graduated from the University of Florida. In World War II he served as a storekeeper aboard ship in the United States Navy and was awarded four medals for outstanding service.

Following his military discharge, Miller entered the University of Miami and was graduated with a degree in law. Upon the death of his parents, he found himself in the business world as operator of the Great Southern Auto Parts Company, with forty retail outlets.

Entering the field of law, Miller became associated with State Attorney General Richard Ervin as his assistant. He left the Attorney General's Office and accepted a position as supervisor of Private Schools of the Southeast Florida District for the G. I. Training program of the U. S. Veterans Administration. This position brought him to Brevard County.

Impressed with the development of the Central East Coast area, Miller made this locality his home in 1950, he constructed the Paul Miller Motel Apartments in Indiantown and later opened a Packard automobile agency in Melbourne.

Soon realizing that the motel business was a rapidly growing enterprise which required his full attention, Miller sold the Packard and devoted his time to the motel and apartments. He has since tripled his original number of units and is now contemplating further expansion.

Miller is married to a local girl, and his wife assists him in the management of the apartments. She teaches a Sunday School class of the First Baptist Church of Melbourne and is active in civic and church affairs. She was recently elected vice president of the state organization of the Gideons International auxiliary.

In addition to being a lawyer and businessman, Miller is well-known throughout the county and state as an active church worker. A member of the First Baptist Church of Melbourne, he is also vice president of the local camp of Gideons International and is active in the work of the organization throughout the county and state. He is also a Seton University associate.

Active in civic affairs, Miller is a member of the Greater Melbourne Chamber of Commerce and of the Eau Gallie-Melbourne Jaycees. He is a Thirty-second Degree Mason and Shriner and is a member of the Bahai shrine Temple in Orlando and of the Melbourne Shrine Club.

Miller is a member of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. Other affiliations include membership in the Melbourne Lions Club and in the Brevard and Florida Bar Associations.

In announcing his platform, Miller expressed his desire to give this district the advantage of a businessman's administration in the business of running its senatorial affairs. He stated that, if elected, he will be available to all citizens to listen to the wishes of the people of Brevard and Seminole Counties and to be guided by those wishes.

"If I am elected to the Senate," Miller declared, "I will make this the measuring stick to guide my actions in the Senate—Will this proposed legislation be beneficial to the people of Brevard and Seminole Counties?"

Miller told the press this week that he is pledged to the service of the people of this district particularly in the matter of Roads, Economy of Government, Farm Aid, Tourism and Aid to the Small Businessman. In the matter of roads, he said, "I will do all in my power to push the development and expansion of U. S. Highways 1, 17 and 92 and State Road A1A and the construction and maintenance of adequate free toll roads in preference of any toll road which might threaten the economy of the central and coastal counties of the state. And I will promote the construction of secondary roads in this district as farm-to-market roads."

of government economy, Miller stated: "I will favor a central purchasing agency for the State, with its use made available to County governments. I will oppose any attempt to increase present taxes or to impose any new taxes upon the people of Florida. Specifically, I am heartily opposed to any form of income tax for the State."

Miller continued with this statement: "I will do all in my power to promote legislation designed to aid the agriculture and tourist trade interests of Seminole and Brevard Counties, and in general to render assistance to all small businessmen in this district."

Songs Subject Of Talk

"There seems to be something in human nature which demands a music outlet for certain forms of patriotic and religious feeling," said R. T. Milwee, superintendent of public schools in Seminole County in a speech made to members of the Civic and Fine Arts Department of the Sanford Woman's Club Wednesday.

With the topic of the program being "Patriotism," Milwee used as the subject of his talk "The Power of Song."

Milwee went on to say, "Music has had more to do in soothing the stormy and bitter passion of mankind, in elevating their paths, than any other agency of man's invention."

"... it will move men's souls when the mightiest of orators fail. There is something like a divine influence in music, and that explains why birds of prey never sing, and indelicately has no song. The sacred fire which has burned on the altar of patriotism has flamed into many priceless songs, some of which will forever remain among the most potent influences known to the great nations of the world. Such songs were born of the greatest moments of the singers and the times."

He went on to relate, "... among the mysteries of human life none is farther beyond our power of penetration than the inspired moment that comes to some soul, and out of which there is born a great song that moves the heart of the world. These single flashes of inspiration producing songs that have so powerfully affected the destinies of humanity, are never repeated, in an equal degree, in the same individual."

"Songs that live, and make great history are never produced in that way. When Mozart was asked how he set to work to compose a symphony, he replied: 'I once you think how you are to do it, you will never write anything worth hearing; I write because I cannot help it.'"

"... among the chosen few are three National songs which we all should be perfectly familiar with. The Star Spangled Banner, 'My Country 'Tis of Thee' and 'The Battle Hymn of the Republic.' The story of these songs is so interesting, stimulating, patriotic, and teaches American youth that they have a heritage of glory beyond the power of tongue to tell."

Milwee's remarks of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" included "One that chants the glory of the flag, and whenever the spirit of patriotism rises to its divinest height, this song is sure to be present."

"Of 'The Battle Hymn of the Republic,' he said, 'and inspiring that was the incarnation of patriotism. It was struck out of the white heat of unconscious inspiration, the soul's product of a mighty movement. It is indeed the most resonant and elevating of all American battle hymns. It is simple, but dignified, full of vigor, and is worthy of being the imperishable war song of a Christian nation.'

"Of all the songs inspired of patriotism and born in the fierce passion of war, 'The Star Spangled Banner' probably has the firmest hold on the American people. It is the product of one of the most romantic and thrilling events in our National history. It seems to have been pitched to the keynote of exultation, and everywhere in places of amusement, in camps, and in the home, it went straight to the heart."

"Francis Scott Key was 31 when he wrote his famous song, and died on the 11th of Feb. 1843. Key was the singer of a single song, the hour and the man met in the struggle at Fort Mifflin, not by any power of the will or the flesh, but by a law of the Almighty made out of that baptism of fire, came a glorious inspiration, and from the soul of Key burst forth 'The Star Spangled Banner.' It is a song that will ever inspire, a devotion to the flag, and like his companion 'Old Glory' it will live on through the centuries, its music ever accelerating the step of American freedom in the great march of human progress."

Graham arrived in Formosa Taipei, Formosa - Billy Graham arrived in Formosa today on his 30,000 mile Asian speaking tour and received an ovation from several hundred hymn singing Americans and Chinese. The American evangelist was to dine tonight with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his wife, who are both Methodists.

Lee Pace Reveals Proposition

A long parade of witnesses testified this morning in the lengthy trial of suspended sheriff J. Luther Hobby being heard in the U. S. District Court at Orlando.

Witnesses this morning included Emmett Pope, a Negro now serving time at Ralston State Prison on charges of forgery; Harold R. Cooper, a former deputy under Hobby; James Leroy Long, admitted moonshiner and brother of Lelon Long; Minnie Drivers, a blind Negro woman of a W. 11th St. address; C. S. Hodgson, special investigator of the alcohol and cigarette tax unit, U. S. Government; and Lee Pace, investigator of the alcohol and tobacco unit of the U. S. Government.

Probably the highlight of this morning's testimony was when former deputy Harold R. Cooper admitted to the court that "Hobby told me that he wanted moonshine cleaned up in Seminole County and it was my duty to do that."

James Leroy Long who admitted to moonshine activities over a long period of time, bitterly identified former Sheriff Hobby, former deputy, Andy E. Evans, Jerry Martin and James Smith. Conflicting testimony to that of his brother who preceded him on the stand by the jury under cross-examination, was examination by defense attorney, William W. Judge. Long also, under cross-examination, marked locations on a Seminole County map of stills which he operated during the period, September 1934 to March 1935.

The curly-haired witness made cutting answers and was very abrupt in his conversation, answering questions before being completed by the assistant district attorney questioning him.

When questioned about his still, which was destroyed near Wagner, he said, "I understand I was crooked right quick." James Leroy Long also admitted paying protection money to George Kelsey, Oviedo Police Chief and suspended Constable in that district, as well as to name those to whom he paid protection money.

Lee Pace, who had been arrested by the Justice of the Peace W. Hugh Duncan came to his brother's home with a man known only as "Smitty" and suspended sheriff Luther Hobby. Asked in his cross-examination how he knew Duncan, he said "Mr. Hobby made me acquainted with him."

Minnie Drivers, a blind Negro woman, said former deputy sheriff Andy E. Evans, brought whiskey to her home on one occasion. Asked how she knew Evans, she said "I can identify him by his voice."

Lee Pace, investigator for the alcohol and tobacco tax unit of the U. S. Government, said that former state beverage department agent, Dwight D. Yelvington approached him Dec. 17, 1953 at the county jail in DeLand with a proposition, "A man whom he refused to name offered to pay $400 month for the privilege of operating a moonshine still in this area," mention Seminole County in the proposition. Pace said Yelvington's conversation included "I have one more year to work for the State Beverage Department and want to get what I can."

Pace, in his testimony said, "I told Yelvington I was not interested."

The testimony this morning by Pace included this statement, "On Sunday afternoon, Dec. 20, Lelon Long in front of my house stated that he and others whom he refused to name wanted to set up a moonshine still in Seminole County. I can make it worthwhile to you but there is no need to go into details unless you are interested." Pace said in his testimony that he told Lelon Long "I will work over harder to catch and convict you."

Lee Pace, then Federal Court recessed, was still on the witness stand. The trial resumed at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

EXIO VANONI RUCUNNES ROSE in-Budget Minister Exio Vanoni suffered a fatal stroke today on the Senate floor. He collapsed during a successful defense of Premier Antonio Segni's government against charges of inflation and died shortly afterward. He was 62.

Seminole County Charities Receive $2,575 From SOKC

Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Anderson attended the luncheon honoring the Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo at the New Haven Hotel in Winter Haven yesterday.
