Don Einterwald, the golfer with one of the most pleasing personalities in the field of 132 linkmen who entered the tournament, at first threatened to take top place but fell back to a 198 for third place Sunday. He held on to his third place finishing behind Feltchick and Stranahan.

On hand to watch the distribution of prize money, as well as to watch the play throughout the day, was Horace Stoneham, head of the New York Giants organization.

The links were crowded throughout the playing but the crowds were never unruly or out of hand. Civic club volunteers served as marshalls to curb the eager golf enthusiasts in their efforts to gain a better view of the shots from the tee and the fairway. Marshalls were headed by Joe Baker who coordinated the work of the huge staff of volunteers.

It is expected that the announcement of the Third Annual $15,000 Mayfair Inn PGA Open will be made in the near future.

Maitland Proposes City Limit Expansion

Extension To Seminole County Is Suggested

Officials of the City of Maitland, Orange County proposed this morning that the city expand into Seminole County.

The surprise proposal was made by Col. A. C. Newkirk, a member of the Maitland Town Council and Chairman of the city's Finance Committee. Accompanying Newkirk at this morning's meeting of the Board of Seminole County Commissioners was L. R. Marchington, the city's Chief of Police.

"I have come to the commission for your opinion on the extension of the city limits of Maitland into Seminole County," Newkirk told the Board this morning.

"It doesn't affect the taxing rates of the town or the county but there must be a legislative act approving the extension of the town's limits," he said.

Newkirk presented a prepared act which is proposed for the legislative delegation of Orange County to present at the April session of the State Legislature. However, the Board of Commissioners did not approve various phases of the act.

The proposed bill will provide a referendum for both the citizens inside the present limits of Maitland and a referendum for those outside of the city limits who wish to come within the Maitland jurisdiction.

"People in this area have expressed a desire to become a part of this city," Newkirk told the Board of Commissioners as he outlined on a prepared map an area which would be considered for annexation.

"All we want is a letter from the Board of Commissioners that they do not oppose the annexation," said Newkirk.

The area pointed to by Col. Newkirk is in the vicinity of three lakes, Lake Hope, Lake Seminary, and Lake Faith. Also in this area is the Oakland Shores subdivision.

There are 12 lakes in the Maitland area, including the three proposed for annexation. The others are: Lake Charity, Lake Minnehaha, Lake Lucien, Lake Sybella, Lake Eulalia, Lake Catherine, Lily Lake, Park Lake, Lake Gem, an unnamed lake, and Lake Maitland.

Commissioner John Meisch was the first to question Col. Newkirk when he asked "Who is going to have police powers for protection?"

Col. Newkirk told the commission that Seminole County will have police jurisdiction. However, there was some discussion as to the possibilities of the Maitland Police Department taking over all police duties.

Mrs. Wesley Tyler was called to Green Cove Springs because of the illness of her mother, Mrs. E. C. Vaughn. The Pathfinder, Adult Class of the Barnett Memorial Methodist church will hold its regular meeting and Christmas party at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Long at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday Dec. 19. All adults of the church are invited and each is asked to bring a gift not to exceed .50, which will be suitable for either man or woman for the Christmas tree. We welcome Mrs. Lottie Busberg, who will resume her duties as house parent at the Florida Methodist Children Home this weekend following surgery in the Orange Memorial Hospital in Orlando.

YALE HAS SAME SCHEDULE FOR 1957

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Odd thing about Yale's 1957 football schedule of nine games is that it will meet all of its 1956 opponents in the same order next season. The Ivy League champions will play six home games, traveling only to Ithaca to meet Cornell, to Philadelphia to play Penn and to Princeton to face the Tiggers.

DODGERS TIED SERIES FIELDING RECORD

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—The Brooklyn Dodgers tied a fielding record by making only two errors in the seven-game World Series. The Philadelphia Athletics in 1951 and the New York Yankees in 1953 also made only two errors in seven games.

About one fifth of the public high school systems in the United States provide programs for automobile driver education.

SOCC Will Offer Regular Program On Charity Night

The second annual Charity Night Thursday heads a busy schedule at the Sanford-Orange Kennel Club as the track moves into the sixth week of its record campaigning.

Charity Night is one of the most important events on the track's calendar, for it raises several thousand dollars for worthy causes in Seminole and Orange Counties.

A regular program will be offered Charity Night with some of the track's top stars competing in the featured Charity Handicap. The only difference from the usual racing card is that all profit from the entire night's operation will go to charity.

Several leading fraternal and veteran's organizations are behind the Charity Night, including the Sanford Elks, Sanford VFW and Sanford DAV. Many other Sanford charities will also receive donations from the track as a result of the benefit night.

Jerry Collins, Sanford-Orange Kennel operator, predicts a large turnout for Charity Night.

"We certainly hope for a big night," said Collins. "The larger the crowd, the more money we will raise for charity."

Methodist Youth To Give Pageant; Gantata Sunday

The children and young people of the First Methodist Church will present "O Holy Night," a Christmas pageant, Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

The public is cordially invited, said the pastor of the Church, the Rev. Milton Wyatt.

The annual Christmas Cantata and Candlelight Service of the First Methodist Church will be presented next Sunday.

The cantata features 16 choral numbers, including 10 solos and 6 duets.

"Sing, Oh Ye Heavens" is under the direction of Roger Harris and will have Mrs. Albert Hickson at the organ.

At the 11 a. m. service, the Rev. Milton Wyatt will deliver the Christmas message.

Christmas Lighting Displays Will Be Judged Next Week

ALTA MONTE SPRINGS — Residents are reminded of the Christmas lighting contest sponsored by the Altamonte Springs Civic Club. Registrations are coming in very slowly according to Mrs. H. K. Seaman, committee chairman.

Anyone in the community may enter by calling Mrs. Seaman, Mrs. M. B. Choate or Mrs. L. D. Blackford. First, second and third prizes will be awarded to winners.

Displays will be judged during the week of Christmas, so lights should be kept burning at early evening hours during the week in order that the judges may view the display.

County's Bond Report Given

W. A. Patrick, Volunteer Savings Bond Chairman for Seminole County, today supplied figures on purchases of Series E and H Savings Bonds during November and for the first eleven months of 1956.

In Seminole County individuals have thus far this year bought $178,537 of these two popular issues, $18,115 of that amount was recorded during the November accounting period by the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta.

Throughout Florida purchases during the month were $5,088,861 and for the year-to-date now amount to $70,164,038, which is 84.4 per cent of the state's quota assigned by the Treasury Department. This is about 1.2 per cent ahead of the national standing," Patrick reported.

Nineteen Florida Counties have reached their full year's goal in the eleven months to date.

Religious Interest Growth Heartening

Written for UNITED PRESS

The increase in religious interest and support in our time is heartening to church people despite indications of superficiality and despite the moral decline which paradoxically accompanies it.

If this new interest in religion is transformed into active Christian commitment in local Christian churches, I predict that the years that lie ahead will be marked by a rebirth of moral and spiritual conviction in America.

Indications of a true religious revival will be such things as the establishment of new Christian enterprises and the strengthening of old ones such as colleges, schools, hospitals and theological seminaries; a drop in the crime rate; a growing stability of family life, and an increase in civic interest participation and responsibility on the part of the church members.

If on the other hand this new religious interest is not successfully geared into the life and activities of particular Christian churches but remains a vague and general religiosity, I predict that there will be no long range gain either to God or to the nation.

Religious interest that remains unrelated to the churches will soon fade out, leaving no traces except the inscription "In God We Trust" on some stamps as well as collars.

What is more serious is the present tendency to suppose that God is served by our bestowing on him our approval. But God is served only when men's lives are transformed by him. This transformation is marked by a turning away from the worship of material success, selfish comfort and superficial security toward the adventure of a life fixed and directed toward high human good for all mankind.

I believe we are on the edge of a true religious revival but it will come to fruition only if it becomes intellectually deeper, more personal and social, more practical and moral.

I do not believe the day will be won by mass appeal and smart advertising techniques. It will only come out of revitalized Christian congregations worshipping and serving God in their towns.

TV To Take On New Importance

By ROBERT W. SANOFF
President, National Broadcasting Co.

That television set in your living room will soon be taking on a new importance. Within five years, that set may be taking you across the seas in the same way that it now whisks you around the continent on such shows as "Wide Wide World."

This is not blue-sky talk! International television, with live programs spanning the oceans, is already technically possible. Some not recognize a visionary line, gentlemen. This will put an additional burden on us, too," said Col. Newkirk.

Commissioner Meisch objected to the annexation when he said "Within two years Orange County will be wanting to annex the area. We're a small enough county now without having them take over any part of our area."

"If the people in our area hadn't asked for this, I wouldn't be here," Newkirk said.

To questions from Senator Douglas Stenstrom, Col. Newkirk stated that the "town council has virtually approved the proposal" and that the Orange County Board of Commissioners has "approved the proposal but not of record."

Col. Newkirk said "Gentlemen, this is in the cooking stage. I just wanted to present this proposal for study."

Commissioner Fred Dyson told the board "I would not object, approve, or disapprove the proposal until an established area for annexation has been set."

And Senator Stenstrom told Col. Newkirk, "you will have to specify the new boundary line of Newkirk agreed and told the board of commissioners that "The main idea is to get the ball rolling."

County Attorney Mack N. Cleveland Jr., concluding the discussion advised Col. Newkirk and Chief of Police Marchington that there should be "An adoption of a resolution by your town council on the area proposed to be taken in and annexed."

Enjoy Happiness Of Family, Friends At Christmas; Drive Safely, Slowly

The most dangerous time of the year on our streets and highways is approaching—the holiday season.

Already the tragic picture is being unfolded. Accidents are reported daily with our last weekend report one of unprecedented toll of lives and property damage.

Two dead, four injured, and property damage estimated at more than $4,000 came out of the melee of accidents.

Last year over Christmas weekend, 609 persons died in motor accident reports as reported from law enforcement officials were gathered from over the nation. Another 845 were killed over the New Year's holiday.

This year there are four days in the holiday weekends instead of three and the death rate may be even worse unless everything possible is done to avert the Yuletide of needless deaths and injuries.

Already, Seminole County Sheriff Luther Hobby had warned Seminole County motorists that arrests will be made in every instance speeding is detected. Patrols will be made of the highway, especially where construction is underway, he said.

The warning is no idle one for it is for the motorist's own protection when he is taken from under a speeding automobile's steering wheel.

"This last weekend was no example of safe driving on our highways," Sheriff Hobby warned, "and we are forced to do something about it."

Christmas is a joyous, bustling and exciting season, and it is just these elements that too often contribute to tragic accidents—folks are hurrying and scurrying trying to complete their Christmas shopping and planning. Christmas parties and celebrations are a daily and nightly occurrence.

So, both motorists and pedestrians alike are apt to be so preoccupied with holiday plans and festivities that they let their guard down in traffic—and that's when accidents are most likely to occur.

So here are some suggestions that might help you stay alive for Christmas 1956:

1. Stay Alert. Don't let excitement over holiday plans and preparations divert your attention from careful driving and cautious walking.

2. Slow Down. Inclement weather, more hours of darkness, fog shrouded highways and over confidence during the holiday season make it doubly important to reduce your speed. Don't be over-anxious to reach that gala party or to complete your Christmas shopping. Last Christmas, as it was this past weekend in Seminole County, excessive speed was the most frequent traffic violation.

3. Be a careful Pedestrian. More than half of the traffic accidents at Christmas time involve pedestrians. Don't let your enthusiasm over selecting the right gifts cause you to forget common-sense safety rules. Never carry packages or umbrellas in such a way that your vision is blocked. Most important, cross only at corners and pedestrian crosswalks. Never dart into traffic from between parked cars.

4. Be A Cool Driver. The holiday rush and bustle often leads to tensions and impatience. Traffic is heavy, not only in Sanford but all over the county on every road. Control your temper when behind the wheel and never take unnecessary chances.

Here's another tip that may keep you from being pulled from the twisted wreckage of your car and possibly others:

Plan your holiday trip, if you're going to visit relatives or friends for Christmas, so that you drive when you are rested; don't start it after you have worked or played all day. Non-collision accidents—and there were five out of the six accidents last weekend in Seminole county of this type—running off the road, are the greatest single cause of auto failures. A major peril of the Christmas season is when motorists, and especially students and servicemen, try to drive too far in too short a time so as to be home for the holidays.

Everyone must remember to take it easy at all times, as courtesy can save lives. Then again, be sure your driving is adjusted to, and your car is ready for, bad weather.

Our suggestion is to be ready for all emergencies—watch the other driver, be extremely careful, drive slow, be courteous to fellow motorists as you would have them treat you under the same conditions.

The death toll on our highways and streets is appalling—the injury list is growing by the hour—the damage is mounting as car upon car is piled on junk heaps following these tragic smashups that are unavoidable.

The lives of our neighbors and friends are too valuable to throw away along the roads and highways, at railroad crossings, at street intersections, and around bridges. To enjoy the happiness of family and friend at Christmastime, play it safe and drive slow—at least you'll be alive and healthy—able to exchange gifts and wish one another a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

My New York

By MEL HEINER
NEW YORK—The word is out that one of Broadway's burlesque impresarios of the recent past is trying real hard to have the disreputable old institution restored to the big drag, whence it has been banned since the days of LaGuardia. Let's hope not. No pride, I—but my own old feeling about the "art" is that burlesque as I have known it is boring and tedious. Tim McInerney's Broadway association is working hard to give the old street a little class. It shouldn't suffer this kind of relapse.

Maybe, though, burlesque was some pumpkin once upon a time. You get that impression in reading through Bernard Sobel's "A Pictorial History of Burlesque," just placed in the stalls. Sobel is an amiable, gregarious express agent for Earl Carroll who once was a burlesque impresario. And, mine about Broadway, which he adores and I look on with cynical affection.

After he gets through being properly nostalgic about the old days, however—the days of W. C. Fields and Weber and Fields, the Watson sisters and Leon Errol—Mr. S. does come up with what may be the clearest-cut analysis of why burlesque died that yet has been printed. He goes it glumly.

Burlesque, Sobel comments tenderly, was "the poor man's club-house where, for an amount within the means of almost anyone, men could escape from nagging wives and business worries; it was also the ideal school for a vicious sowing of wild oats and for learning the facts of life by way of humor and entertainment."

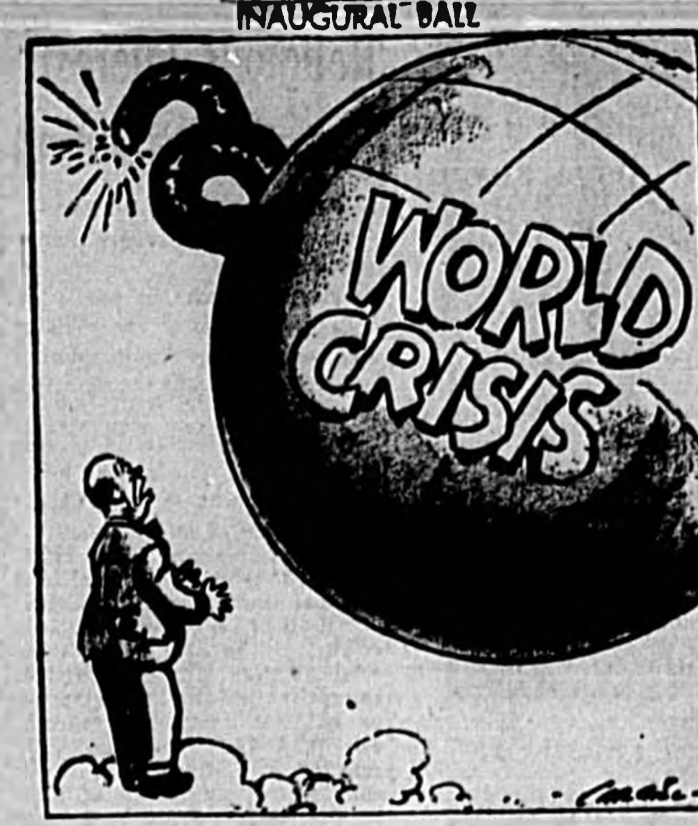

THE DEPRESSION, SOBEL FEELS, started the old girl on her way out. Everywhere but in New York, the hard times of the early Thirties virtually ruined burlesque. In Manhattan it almost had a revival under the Minakys

Shipping Volume Increase

Agriculture, industry, electric power and commerce throughout 1956 made wider use of the inland waterways and of the services provided by the barge and towing vessel industry than during any previous year, maintaining a shipping volume which would double the freighting on some principal channels in a few years.

That's the news from the Inland Waterways and Barge and Towing Vessel Industry's business review for 1956—and is just a taste of what Sanford and the Central Florida area would experience with a Docks and Wharves project underway.

It's time that we take advantage of the opportunities our water facilities provide.

Big News Predictions For Week

United Press Staff Correspondent
 United Press correspondents around the world look ahead at the news that will make the headlines.

Here We Go Again
 Don't be surprised if France ends up without a government this week and Premier Guy Mollet is hauled by many problems. He squeaked through six votes of confidence in the National Assembly last week on the budget. On one, his majority was only five—225 to 220. The assembly starts a foreign policy debate Tuesday. Mollet is expected to ask a confidence vote on it, probably Friday. He may well lose because of opposition to his Suez Canal policy. If he does, he must resign.

Civil Rights
 Southern Democrats concede privately that their chance of blocking civil rights legislation in the session of Congress that starts next month is not too good. They fear they can no longer depend upon fairly solid Republican support to head off a curb on debate. If debate is limited, they won't be able to filibuster and block a vote. The filibuster is the Southerners' chief weapon in the civil rights battle. The GOP high command has taken a hard look at Republican successes with the Negro vote in the November election—and the White House is expected to put its full weight behind a civil rights drive.

B And K Ride Again
 London diplomatic observers predict that Nikita S. Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin will start another barnstorming tour of East Asia before long. It would be aimed at patching up the damage done to Russian prestige by the Red army slaughter in Hungary—and to offset the tour which Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai is now making.

NO! COMPULSORY RETIREMENT NEEDED
 VICTORIA, B.C.—Dr. Ian Macdonald, chief physician at Toronto's Sunnybrook Hospital, told a medical meeting here that compulsory retirement at age 65 is not biologically sound.

"I'd like to see a system where a man can keep working as long as he is fit, to the limits of his capacity," said the doctor.

SCHOOL RECESS
 GREENWOOD, ARK.—Justice of the Peace Lon Dunn recessed a trial in his court recently at 2:30 p.m. Reason: Dunn and two jurors were school bus drivers and had to go to work.

Agriculture News

Cecil A. Tucker, II
 County Agricultural Agent

There have been several reports lately of downy mildew outbreaks on cabbage and other crucifers. Downy mildew, a fungus, grows best and develops most rapidly when night temperatures range from 60° to 80 degrees four or more successive nights and when the plants remain wet until mornning or later. Such has been the situation for the past few foggy nights and mornings.

Downy mildew is the most destructive disease of seedlings and affects the head leaves of older plants as well. Its presence on cabbage heads may allow secondary organisms to enter openings made by the fungus and hasten the decay of the heads in the field or while in transit to market.

It can be recognized most easily in the morning when the plants are wet with dew. A white mold, usually easily seen when wet, may be present on the lower sides of the infected leaves and occasionally on the upper sides. After the dew disappears from the leaves during the day, the fungus withers and cannot be seen distinctly with the unaided eye. A diseased seedling leaf fades to a pale green and yellow and finally turns brown as it dies. On true or head leaves, the first symptoms may be scattered pale green spots about 1/32-inch in diameter, with the white mold appearing on the under surface. New spots may appear each day and the old ones grow larger. Turn yellow and then brown until most of the leaf is involved. The fungus may also grow into the inner leaves of the head and between the tissues invaded there.

The best control, particularly for heading cabbage, is a spray consisting of two quarts nabam (10 per cent) plus 4 pounds of zinc sulfate (30 per cent) per 100 gallons of water. Zineb may also be used for control but is more expensive and less effective in the field than nabam.

Control is greatly enhanced if a spreader-sticker such as Triton 9100 is used at the rate of about four or per 100 gallons of spray.

Nabam is compatible with most insecticides such as DDT, chlor-dane, parathion, TEPP and rotenone, and may be used in the spray program for insects.

We would emphasize that fungicides, such as nabam, are preventative and therefore give best control when applied before plants are affected with mildew.

Treatment of heading cabbage should begin one to three weeks before harvest, depending upon severity of the disease. Continue the treatment at intervals of six to seven days until all marketable cabbage heads are cut. Use 100 to 150 gallons of spray per acre depending upon size of the plants.

Downy mildew affects cabbage, cauliflower, collards, Chinese cabbage, brussels sprouts, broccoli, kale and kohlrabi. Since it is particularly destructive on cabbage and broccoli we urge you to make close inspection of your fields for symptoms.

There are free bulletins available from the County Agent's office on deficiencies, diseases and their control on cabbage and other crucifers, as well as bulletins on other subjects.

Science Needs Our Help To Aid Retarded Child

By HERMAN H. SCHLESINGER, M.D.
 ABOUT three children out of every 100 born are destined to be mentally retarded—an estimated 120,000 a year. About 4,000,000 children and adults alike suffer from mental retardation. That's about three per cent of our entire population.

Mental retardation is ten times more common than crippling polio. It is over four times more common than permanent rheumatic heart conditions and 18 times as prevalent as blindness.

Pretty startling statistics, aren't they?

Real Problem
 Just as this problem is, it goes virtually unrecognized by the general public. Yet for some 10,000,000 persons—the mentally retarded, their parents, brothers and sisters—it is indeed a very real problem.

Jack Benny, who is Honorary Fund Drive Chairman for the National Association for Retarded Children, asked me—and other health writers—to mention the problem during November when the Association was conducting its annual campaign for funds. Research Needed

His request arrived too late for me to include it in any of last month's columns. But I'm glad it did. For funds are needed to conduct research into this tremendous problem all year long. We can't do enough in a single month-long period.

In many cases mental retardation probably could be prevented. Childhood Diseases
 Childhood accidents and diseases such as whooping cough, measles, chicken pox, polio and meningitis can cause the condition if inflammation of the brain results.

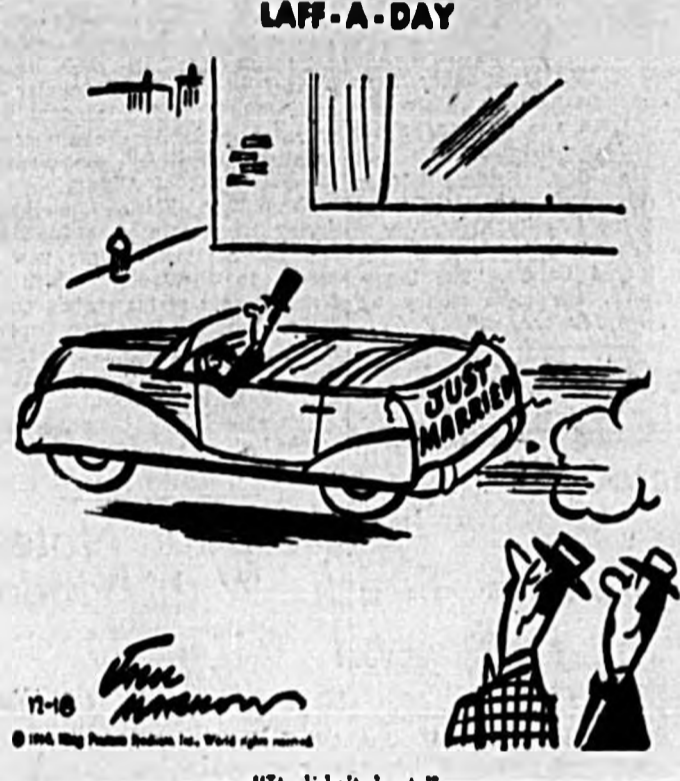

So help science help another great medical problem.

While you're in a generous Christmas mood, think about the good work being done by the National Association for Retarded Children. You can reach them at 90 University Place, New York 17, New York.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
 B.M.: Can any disease other than rheumatic fever cause a child's sedimentation rate to go up?

ANSWER: Yes, many infectious diseases can cause the sedimentation rate to rise.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A CHURCH in a suburb was raising money and asked a struggling portrait painter for a contribution. "I'm shy of cash," he told the solicitor, "but I'll be glad to donate this portrait, priced at $300." When the drive ended it was announced the fund was $100 short. The artist jumped up and declared, "Your troubles are over. I'll raise the price of my picture to $500."

He tried to maneuver his jolopy out of the way of her sedan, but she banged into him, nevertheless. Used to encounters of this sort, she was out of her car first. "You knew I was going to do something stupid," she hollered. "Why didn't you wait to see what it was?"

"You've got to be a family man to really appreciate the wonders of television," declares Carl Nymmer. "You can relax in your easy chair and see all your wife's and children's favorite shows."

Blondes Finish With Honors In Hollywood Glamor Year

HOLLYWOOD—Even a jealous redhead would have to admit that blondes cause the most talk—and most headlines. And among movie queens, it was blondes four to one in 1936 headlines. It took one of the most beautiful women in the world, Elizabeth Taylor, for the brunettes even to make a showing. As headline makers, here's how Hollywood rates them: GRACE KELLY, Jayne Mansfield, Marilyn Monroe, Elizabeth Taylor and Diana Dors. For Miss Kelly, the year was a triumph both artistically and romantically. Her April marriage to Prince Rainier of Monaco was one of the most widely publicized events of this day or any other year.

Priscilla Peverly of New York City, a secretary in New York City, was sitting at her desk one day when she noticed an unusual package on her desk. It was a small box, wrapped in brown paper, and she was curious to see what it was. She opened it and found a small, round object, which she examined with interest. It was a small, round object, which she examined with interest. It was a small, round object, which she examined with interest.

"IT'S SUCH A STRANGE-LOOKING COUNTRY, so wild and desolate," Priscilla said, her eyes sweeping the vast expanse of water on one side and the intervening strip of land on the other side of the highway, a jangle of palm trees, pines and mangroves. Rita was driving and Priscilla was taking notes. Rita might want them, she said, for a book sometime.

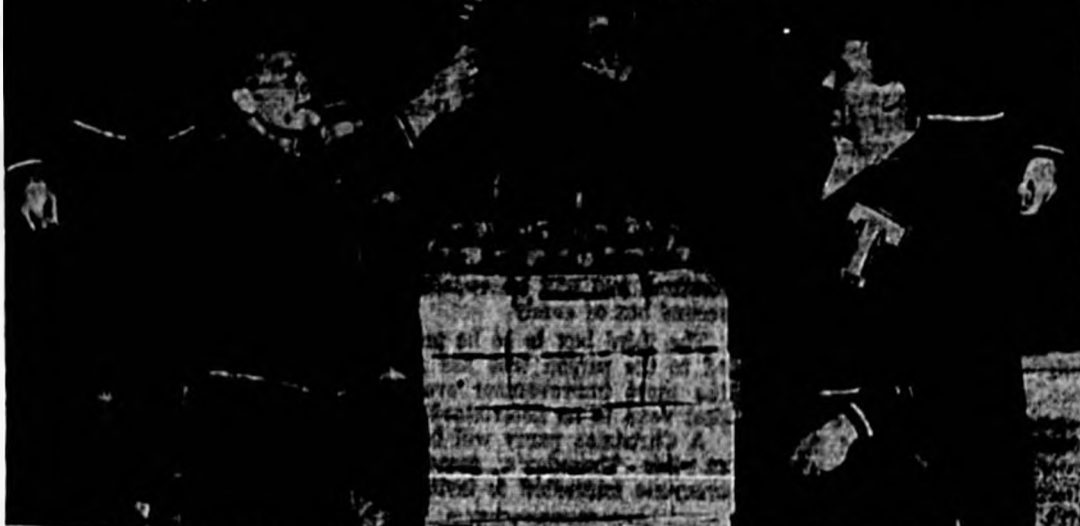

They were on the long, lonely stretch of road between Port St. Joe and Apalachicola. There were miles without any sign of habitation. Rita could tell that Priscilla was deeply interested in her surroundings. "It's certainly different," she commented. "Not exactly desolate," Priscilla said. "I can't find the right word. I just think it's lonely. I see so few people. And there's so much space. I didn't know Florida was like this."

stretching away to the far horizon. More signs of life appeared. Little settlements with weather-beaten shacks, numerous small craft tied up along the water front, and then they were on a boulevard, still Highway Ninety-eight, but the signs said "Avenue E" and they were inside the city limits. The fishing nuts had given way to bay-front homes, quiet and secluded, weathered and dignified, but impressive.

Rita was near the window than Priscilla. "Looks like District of Columbia. . . I don't want him to see me staring. He's probably waiting for someone." He broke off suddenly, then added, "I wonder why that rough-looking man is inspecting our car so closely?" Priscilla said in a low voice. "That man in the red Buick keeps glancing at me as if he's watching us, too. . . The shrimp fisherman's peeping inside our car now!"

They watched the man pick his change and go out the door. He got into a red Buick which was parked next to their Dodge. Neither remembered the red car being there when they stopped. He did not drive away, but sat there smoking. "Well!" Priscilla exclaimed. "He certainly gave us the once-over. I hope he leaves before we go out. Can you see the license plates on his car?"

She went away, and Priscilla said in a low voice. "That man in the red Buick keeps glancing at me as if he's watching us, too. . . The shrimp fisherman's peeping inside our car now!" Rita got up. "I'll pretend that I want to get something out of the car."

A TANGERINE TOAST— West Texas State's football team received five crates of tangerines from Orlando, the other day and Coach Frank Kimbrough and seven Buffaloes wasted no time proposing a toast to their appearance in the New Year's night affair. Kneeling are tackle Harold Gouge and halfback Mark Clapp. West Texas will play Mississippi Southern in the post-season tilt.

The Christmas Story

By RAYMOND A. LAJOIE
Central Press Association Correspondent
(Second of a series)

CHRISTMAS is a joyous time full of colorful traditions which have grown from ancient folkways and rituals—willed to us, through the ages, by peoples of many lands.

Today, windows are lighted with electric candles and the fronts of homes feature lavishly Christmas themes in spectacular settings. But in London of 1818, citizens were fined four pence if they failed to hang out a "lighted lantern" at Christmastime.

During the same period, too, Christmas banquets consisted of exotic roast peacock, served with head, feathers and tail intact. Today, juice-filled, steaming stuffed geese with apple dressing and plump turkey with chestnut dressing in a setting of other Christmas foods such as brandy fruit cake, Norwegian Christmas cake, original Injun Pudding, mince meat pie and English plum pudding are traditional in millions of happy homes on Christmas day.

English schoolboys of the 1700s, for example, penned "Christmas Pieces" for their parents on specially engraved stationery such as we send Christmas cards now.

The lovely gesture of giving Christmas presents dates, of course, to the gold, frankincense and myrra presented to the infant Christ by the Three Wise Kings of the East. In Spain, however, the practice of gift-giving isn't observed on Dec. 25. The reason? Spanish children believe that the Three Wise Men return to Bethlehem each year on the Eve of Epiphany (Jan. 6) and so they fill their shoes with straw for the Magi's camels and retire early. In the morning, happy children find the straw gone and the shoes are covered with gaily wrapped gifts of all kinds.

During the latter part of the Middle Ages, Christmas was celebrated as a very holy feast day. It was the time when the faithful held awe-inspiring miracle plays. Lengthy church services were the order of the day in the Christmas Eve in honor of their privileged presence at the manger at Bethlehem.

In addition to our European brothers, America, too, has contributed to the Christmas tradition. We are, for one thing, responsible for the colorful poinsettia, our most popular, colorful of Yuletide plants. It was named after Joel R. Poinsett, who, in 1829, brought the wild, flowering beauty back from Mexico to his gardens in Charleston, S. C.

In Switzerland, to accept a bunch of edelweiss on Christmas is also to accept the man who proffers it. Weinsachten, Holy Night, is Christmas to all in Germany. The people there have maintained their traditions through centuries and many of their charming customs have been adapted throughout the world.

It was the German princess of Mecklenburg who introduced the first Christmas tree to France in 1810. Before then, the tree was not a part of the French festivities. Today at Christmas, the streets and gay shop windows of large cities throughout France are bright with decorated trees—large and small,

In these hectic days of shopping for gifts, it is refreshing to recall that Christmas commemorates the birth of Christ—the greatest gift that mankind has ever received. In keeping with His spirit and message, the greatest gift we can give to our loved ones is our unwavering love and guidance along the path of clean, productive living. During this Christmas Season, let us remember one simple truth—the greatest measure of happiness comes to those who truly live the Christmas way of life.

Airline Industry's Order For Jet Fleet Important In '56

By EDDIE RICKENBACHER
 Chairman, Eastern Air Lines
 Written for UNITED PRESS

The airline industry's 2 billion dollars in orders for a fleet of some 400 jet-powered airliners made important headlines in 1956. Even more significant, however, is the fact that the 48 million passengers, who traveled 23 billion miles by air during the same year, have made the U. S. scheduled airlines the country's primary passenger carrier, outstripping both the railroads and the inter-city buses.

No realistic estimate of the economy of the industry's rapidly approaching transition to jet power can be made without linking these two facts.

Tremendous Power

The coming "jet age" will be truly revolutionary, possibly the first real mechanical "revolution" in commercial aviation history. Through the use of these new sources of tremendous jet power, the airlines will be able to bring a much greater and travel-conscious public the superior convenience, comfort and economy of almost silent, vibrationless flight, at speeds up to the speed of sound itself about 700 m. p. h., and at rates favorably comparable with any other means of transportation for distances of 300 miles or more.

On the other hand, there is no question but that the development of a greatly increased level of public air travel must be made as a sound foundation for the coming of the great jet airliners, which will not only double our present airliner speeds, but will triple our carrying capacity.

The 422 million dollar re-equipment program Eastern Air Lines has adopted to enable us to do this job, while the largest undertaken by any airline, is still generally typical of what the entire industry is doing in this regard.

Plan Triple Capacity

To care for today's growing volume of air travel, the airlines have also ordered 365 piston-powered airliners, with 73 more in prospect. Eastern, for instance, is adding new multi-engine radar-equipped Golden Falcons and Constellations to its fleet.

The first of 40 jet-prop Electras are scheduled to go into service in 1958. In 1959-60, when our fleet of 20 great 600-m. p. h. 34,000-HP, straight-jet airliners equipped to carry 112 to 125 passengers, are in operation, we will have tripled our passenger airlift capacity.

Any evaluation of airline economy and future growth must also consider the important facts that, although the airlines have now become our country's primary passenger carriers and although the American public is enjoying, and will continue to enjoy, greater income and more leisure time than ever before less than 10 per cent of the travel-conscious public has yet experienced the superior convenience, comfort and economy of air travel.

Beyond this, it must be realized that the dynamic industry and expanding economy of this country is geared to the speed of air transportation.

"It's a life's dream come true," said O'Herlihy in a thick Irish brogue. "And we didn't use the auxiliary engine once—even the time we were becalmed for three consecutive days."

The two began the voyage at Dublin Sept. 6, reaching the Canary Islands Oct. 24 after crossing the stormy Bay of Biscay, and then began the 3,000-mile voyage to Puerto Rico.

Resolution Is Being Prepared

Changing of the City Charter to allow for the election of a Mayor for the City of Sanford is reportedly being continued with the preparation of resolutions and necessary proposed legislative action.

At a special meeting of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners one week ago today, commissioners approved action set in motion by Commissioner John Krider to give the people of Sanford an opportunity to elect the Mayor of the City.

Commissioner David Gatchel, this morning, said "The mayor ought to have power to act in emergency for the city," as he pointed out that the present power of the Mayor, elected by Commissioners at the first meeting of the year, is limited to whatever action is taken by the Board of Commissioners.

"It is not in our minds to do away with the City Manager form of government. We will have to, in some way, provide in the charter amendment a new system for the terms of office of commissioners and mayor," he said.

On the Wednesday morning meeting, Gatchel explained "The only thing coming out of that meeting was an effort in the people's behalf."

Commissioner Wilson explained "The main idea from the discussions at last Wednesday's meeting, and what I would be in favor of is not broadening the powers of the Mayor but to give the people a chance to elect him and the power to act in emergencies."

"The people are entitled to a choice," said John Krider, "and the Mayor should be paid a reasonable salary."

"My idea of a mayor would be that he would be confined to the usual power that a mayor in that position has," Krider explained.

He commented "The mayor should have powers that are spelled out in the charter and I think the people would be much happier to choose someone who represents them."

Commissioner Higginbotham said "I'll go along with whatever the other commissioners want to do in changing the charter for the election of a Mayor."

It is expected that discussions revolving around the proposed charter changes which must be presented to the local legislative delegation for the "Tallahassee hopper" at the April session of Legislature, will be forthcoming at early meetings of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners.

Merle Warne, commissioner, will be installed as a member of the Board of Commissioners at the first meeting of the board in January. At the same time, City Commissioner John Krider will give up his seat on the Board of Sanford City Commissioners to be installed as a member of the Board of Seminole County Commissioners.

First Shipload Of Refugees Sail For U.S. Today

BREMENHAVEN, Germany — The first shipload of Hungarian refugees sailed in a light fog for the United States today.

The Military Sea Transport Service vessel General Leroy Ethington carried a cargo of happiness, sorrow and confusion as they howled toward the open Atlantic in early afternoon.

The 1,750 Hungarians who came by train directly from Austrian refugee camps will spend Christmas at sea, but they will see the new year in an American soil.

Saddest people in the crowd on the pier as the 10,000-ton ship cast off were a little family of four Hungarians, whose two children had suddenly developed measles and must wait here for the next ship.

An expectant mother whose baby is expected within a few days will also wait in a hospital here for the next of the three refugee ships scheduled to sail before the new year.

Secretary Dulles Planning To Keep Post For Long Time

WASHINGTON — John Foster Dulles, appearing hale and hearty despite his recent cancer operation, is planning to stay on as secretary of state for a long time.

There had been speculation that Dulles might resign soon, but he is busy charting his future activities in the No. 1 cabinet post. He tentatively plans to fly to the Far East next March to attend a meeting at Canberra, Australia, of the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization.

Dulles hasn't talked about resigning despite his Nov. 9 operation for intestinal cancer. The best guess is that Dulles won't think about quitting until he reaches his 70th birthday on Feb. 25, 1928.

Some people believe chances are about 50-50 that Dulles will stay on for all of President Eisenhower's second term, depending, of course on the President's wishes and his health.

Feasibility Of Sewage Plant Session Topic

The possibilities of financing the sewage treatment plant, originally a part of the overall citywide sewer and water project, will be discussed at a special meeting of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners called for tomorrow night by Mayor F. D. Scott.

Wilson Holt, fiscal agent for the City of Sanford, will report to the Board of Commissioners tonight. Holt, employed by the City to make the survey of the City of Sanford's Utility Department in reference to the possibility of financing the sewage treatment plant project will attend his special meeting to talk with the Board of Sanford City Commissioners.

Six items appear on the agenda of the special meeting, which in all probability will take the place of the Christmas Eve meeting of the Board.

Knowles reports to the Board of Commissioners at their last regular meeting that the total cost of the work was in his estimation "too high". Knowles presented work sheets on both labor and material to carry out his views.

Also slated for discussion will be regulations for the protection of railroad crossings inside the City Limits of Sanford. The item on the agenda grew out of the Sunday morning crash at intersection of the Atlantic Coast Line's spur track on Melville Ave. near Locust. It is expected that tighter restrictions for guarding the tracks from traffic accidents will be tied in by new ordinances.

The other three items appearing on the agenda for tomorrow evening are: the appointment to (Continued on Page 8)
