St. Johns open house

The St. Johns River Water Management District, which includes Seminole County, will hold its annual "Open House" Saturday at district headquarters in Palatka.

From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., residents of the district, which includes all Seminole County citizens, can tour the district headquarters and meet with district staff. More than 28 displays, demonstrations and exhibits will be available to help the public learn more about what the district does and why it does it.

Puppets shows will demonstrate to kids the importance of protecting Florida's natural resources.

The district headquarters is located in Palatka. Take Interstate 4 or U.S. Highway 17-92 north to DeLand, then travel north on U.S. Highway 17, which splits off from U.S. 17-92 north of town, to Palatka. From there, continue northwest on State Road 100. The trip should take 1 1/2 to two hours from Sanford.

Chili Bikinis wanted

SANFORD — Flea World is planning for a Miss Chili Bikini Contest on May 16. Bill Patti says, "We need contestants."

The Chili Bikini contest is being held this year in connection with the annual chili bake-off competition that has drawn chili cooking contestants from all over the Southeast.

Contestants in the bikini competition will be judged on the basis of beauty and poise. The grand prize winner will receive $200 in cash plus a number of other valuable gifts including a possible part in an upcoming TV production.

First runner up will receive $100, with the 2nd runner up getting $50.

The registration fee is $5 per entrant, which includes many valuable gifts. All proceeds will go to the Central Florida Leukemia Society.

For information on becoming a contestant in the Miss Chili Bikini Contest, contact Bill Patti at Flea World, 626-2333.

Fighting cancer

A year ago, when Sanford resident Margie Smith learned she had breast cancer, she didn't have time to feel sorry for herself.

She still doesn't. She's too busy reaching out to other women who receive the same devastating news. Sunday in the People section.

Schools slash budget

Student museum, environment center to be closed; administrators, staff cut

By VICKI BOGARDNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — It was like a funeral yesterday. The school district staff, with quavering voices and downturned eyes, mourned the losses resulting from cuts to the 1992-93 budget.

The toll included nine assistant principals, one from each of the district's middle schools; two assessment specialists at the mobile vocational assessment center; a textbook manager; the coordinator of career education; the community relations coordinator and community relations specialist.

Those are some of the people who may be looking for other jobs if the state Legislature is unable to provide greater financing to the district.

District-level staff members crowded into the back of the board's meeting room. They listened silently or mumbled unpleasantries under their breath.

"It's not just people they are talking about cutting," said one man, whistling out the door to return to his office. "It's got to effect programs. It's got to effect students."

Carlton Henley, principal of Lyman High

School, sat arms crossed in the back of the room. "This is a good educational system we are going to destroy because the Legislature won't come through with its responsibility to the kids," Henley said.

The decision was made to close the Student Museum, on Seventh Street, Sanford, and the Environmental Studies Center, on Osprey Road, Longwood.

Almost all Seminole County students learn about the history of the settlement and growth of Seminole County in two very different ways at those centers. At the museum, they see how the lives and the education of people have changed in Seminole County; at the environmental center they learn what the land looked like before the growth began and what that growth has done to the land.

Russell named Number 2 cop

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Ralph Russell, 49, is the second in command of the Sanford Police Department. He was promoted yesterday to the rank of captain from lieutenant by Police Chief Steve Harriett.

Russell replaces Charles Fagan, who retired from the post last Monday, after 28 years of service.

Harriett announced the promotion this morning. "We selected him based on his more than 28 years of service with the force, and his practical and supervisory experience and work," the chief said.

The chief commented, "In his new position, Russell will be responsible for all aspects of the enforcement operations, including all of the officers, criminal investigation and uniformed patrols."

Harriett added, "This isn't going to make any changes, we'll continue operating under the same system we've been using for the past years."

Russell, originally from Pennsylvania, came to Sanford in the U.S. Navy, and settled here after his discharge. He and his wife, Sandy, have two children.

Harriett commented, "Russell started with the Sanford Police Department in 1965 as a patrolman, and has served since that time in various positions including time as a Detective Sgt., Patrol Lt., and for the past five years as a Watch Commander." Six lieutenants with the Sanford Police Department were eligible for the promotion to the number two position. The job pays $47,000 per year.

Harriett indicated that efforts are now underway toward promoting someone to fill the vacancy. "We're already in the process of doing that," the chief said. "But it won't mean any additional staff, we'll be choosing from within."

Candidate residency rule invalidated

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A Seminole County circuit court judge's decision could open the county commission race to more candidates — even those people living outside the county, Sandra Goard, elections supervisor, said this morning.

"I think we may have more candidates running for county commission," she said. "Although I don't know how many inquiries we've had from people who want to run in one district but live in another."

In an order signed Wednesday, Circuit Judge Charles M. Harris ruled Section 2A of the Seminole County Home Rule Charter is unconstitutional because it requires commission candidates to live in the district they seek to represent at the time they qualify for a position on the ballot.

The residency requirement became an issue in the 1988 commission race when Jennifer Kelley publicly alleged opponent Dick Van Der Weide did not live in Sanford. Van Der Weide filed a complaint with the State Attorney's Office, which found Kelley violated no laws.

The order cited a 1988 decision by the Florida Supreme Court finding a similar provision adopted by the Florida Legislature 29 years earlier was unconstitutional. The Supreme Court ruled the state's residency requirement sought to impose a stricter requirement than that imposed by the Florida Constitution. The constitution only requires county commissioners to reside within their districts — not

Hiatus: Kids breakin' away for spring

By VICKI BOGARDNER

SANFORD — In all likelihood, little was accomplished in many Seminole County classrooms today. Not because teachers weren't trying, though.

Spring fever, gorgeous weather and the impending Spring Break probably made concentration on math and English and social studies a little difficult.

Spring Break, which began when the final bell rang in the hallways this afternoon will last a week. Students will return to the classroom for the last few weeks of study on Monday, April 20.

The Break is a time off for teachers and much of the school staff as well. There will be few people in the offices and halls of schools during the week.

Environmentalists honored

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Former Friends of the Wekiva River Inc. president Pat Harden tonight will receive the Friends' "River Otter Award," the highest recognition presented by the environmentalist organization.

Harden, a governing board member of the St. Johns River Water Management District, will be recognized "for many years of superb leadership, courage, expertise and energy plus valuable time and talent which made possible significant and vital progress in preservation and protection of the Wekiva River Basin," said Friend's publicity chairman Eleanor Fisher.

Award plaques will be presented at the Friends' annual dinner in Apopka tonight.

Harden does not serve on the Friends' board of directors to avoid potential conflicts with her district duties. Harden lives by the river on Wekiva Park Drive west of Sanford. She served as president from 1978 to 1988. She is manager of environmental permitting for Walt Disney Co.

teacher at Rockledge Middle School in Brevard County, will be presented with the Friends' annual education award. Fisher said Cutler brought hundreds of students to several river cleanup days. Cutler, along with his student volunteers, participated in three cabin removals along the river.

O. Greg Brock, environmental administrator for the Land Acquisition Planning for the Florida Department of Natural Resources, will be presented with a plaque for "outstanding accomplishment in preservation of the Wekiva Basin." Alex Alexander, Winter Park, deputy secretary of the Department of Environmental Regulation for Central Florida, will also receive an award for "outstanding and sustained" service.

George Willson, Tallahassee, director of the Florida region of The Nature Conservancy, will be awarded with a plaque for progress in acquisition of environmentally-sensitive land in the river basin.

Two awards will be presented to Orlando Sentinel staffers. Mary Beth Regan will be presented with a plaque for "outstanding, accurate reporting and coverage of environmental issues" affecting the river basin. Cartoonist Ralph Dunagin will also be honored with a plaque for support in promoting the Friends and for design of the logo "We Otter Keep It Cleaner."

Sadowski warmly remembered

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles said it was typical that Department of Community Affairs Secretary William "Bill" Sadowski would be flying to his final business appointment before many people were awake. Chiles and other stunned colleagues remembered Sadowski on Thursday as one of the best and brightest — an honest manager capable of making government better. "He would not go to dinners, he would not let anybody entertain him when he was in the Legislature," Chiles said. "We'll miss him terribly, but I think he leaves a wonderful example."

Researchers suspect insider trading

MIAMI — Stock prices rise an average of 8 percent between the time takeovers and mergers are conceived and the deals are announced, which left researchers suggesting insider trading is at work. "It looks like these aren't very well-kept secrets," said Ralph Sanders, an assistant finance professor at the University of South Florida, who co-wrote the study released Thursday. "This whole thing could be coincidence, but that would be very hard to swallow."

Rape investigation against Mets dropped

FORT PIERCE — Prosecutors say regardless of whether the woman who says three New York Mets raped her told the truth, they just didn't think they could get a jury to believe it. The lack of corroborating evidence and a nearly year-long delay in the woman filing the complaint were among the factors that led prosecutors to end a five-week investigation Thursday with no charges against pitcher Dwight Gooden and outfielders Daryl Boston and Vince Coleman. "It was an accumulation of problems," said state attorney Bruce Colton. "Our obligation is to fully examine the facts and file a criminal charge only if there is a reasonable likelihood of conviction ... even if we personally believe the victim."

120 years in prison

Bush, law enforcement savor Noriega victory

By RICHARD COLE
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — President Bush and prosecutors who sent Manuel Noriega to prison for up to 120 years are savoring their victory — and warning that the convicted Panamanian dictator has more legal woes ahead. After a seven-month trial, Noriega was convicted Thursday on eight drug and racketeering counts in the indictment that set the stage for the bloody December 1989 U.S. invasion of Panama. "I hope it sends a lesson to drug lords here and around the world they will pay a price if they continue to poison the lives of our kids in this country or anywhere else," Bush said. Acting Miami U.S. Attorney James McAdams — who handled national security issues in the Noriega case before taking his post in January — told reporters he was relieved the long legal battle was over and won. "It is not our intent at this moment to say we are celebrating the fall of Manuel Noriega ... nor to publicly humiliate him," said McAdams. "He is nevertheless entitled to a full dose of justice." That justice, said McAdams, includes taking him to Tampa for a second trial after his July 10 sentencing. There, Noriega faces a possible 35 years on marijuana trafficking charges tying him to confessed U.S. smuggler Steven Kalish. Embittered lead defense attorney Frank Rubino said he will appeal the Miami conviction on many grounds, including Noriega's status as a prisoner of war. He attacked the entire case against his client as the dark side of Bush's new world order. "We are now the world's policeman," he said. "We dictate policy for the rest of the world. Let them kneel and pay us homage."

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Prison sentences shortened

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — A plan to shorten the prison sentences of more inmates is only a short-term fix to the state's problem of more bodies than beds, the Florida Parole Commission said as it adopted an emergency rule. Some prisoners convicted of manslaughter, aggravated battery, robbery, burglary, theft and certain drug crimes will serve shorter sentences because of the new guidelines for the "control release" program adopted Thursday. Commissioner E. Guy Revell Jr. pointed out that 69 percent of the inmates released from prison are freed through the control release program, but only 61 percent of incoming prisoners are eligible for the program. "The basic math is when you're putting in 61 percent and you're taking out 69 percent, that's a negative 8 percent," he said, comparing the situation to a personal bank account that has $61 in deposits each month and $69 in withdrawals. "I wouldn't want to invest in that kind of account," said Ray Howard, a commission staffer who chaired a task force directed to come up with recommendations. The commission evaluates the risk to the public posed by all incoming prisoners eligible for control release. Inmates not eligible for the program include career criminals, murderers, rapists and molesters, and defendants sentenced to serve at least a minimum portion of their term.

Under the emergency rule, inmates eligible to be released will be divided into three groups: those who will get time off, those who won't and those who may. Since control release began in February 1991, eligible inmates have been put into two categories: those who will get time off and those who won't. The new third group it creates will get time off if the prison system reaches a point of "critical depletion." That's when the pool of inmates who are getting time off shrinks to 4,000. Right now the pool is at about 3,600. Some 7,500 are eligible for control release but judged too great a risk to let out early. Overall, Florida prisons hold about 46,000 inmates.

Disbarred lawyer arrested

Associated Press

PENSACOLA — A judge has increase bond to $500,000 for a disbarred Iowa lawyer and ex-convict who was arrested for lurking outside a woman's home while wearing a mask and carrying a gun, knife and condoms. Peter Joseph Klauer, 48, remained Thursday at the Escambia County Jail where he has been held in lieu of a $51,000 bond since his arrest Sunday. Circuit Judge Nicholas Geeker raised the bond Thursday during a hearing at which a prosecutor argued Klauer was a danger to the woman and the community. "The court cannot in good conscience or realistically ignore the testimony or the inferences from it," Geeker said.

Klauer was charged with burglary, possession of a firearm by a convicted felon and six related charges after his arrest outside the home of a 32-year-old single mother. Pensacola police officer Teri Sheehan, who made the arrest, said Klauer threw a punch at her but missed when she tried to question him at the police station. She said she got no information from him during the abbreviated interview.

Foster child sues for 'divorce' from natural parents

Associated Press

TAVARES — An 11-year-old boy wants a "divorce" from his biological parents in what legal experts say may be a first-of-its-kind case.

The Lake County boy is suing to block his possible return to what he contends is an abusive home so he can be adopted by his foster parents.

"The father has had alcohol problems. He's been violent," said the boy's lawyer, Jerri Blair of Tavares. "He has thrown this child through a glass window. But the child does not hate his parents. He feels more love for his foster parents."

Circuit Judge Mark Hill issued a temporary injunction Wednesday, ordering the biological parents to stay away from the fifth-grader and his foster family.

The lawsuit may be the first of its kind nationally, said officials of the Child Welfare League of America, American Civil Liberties Union and American Bar Association.

The state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, a co-defendant in the suit, has been considering whether to return the boy to his natural parents. The natural father threatened to take the child from his latest foster home last Friday, Blair said.

"The child is not able to determine what is in his best interest," said the mother's lawyer, Jane Carey of Orlando. "A lot can sway a child, like economics. I'd rather be rich than poor. I might want a Nintendo and my parents can't afford it. Should a child be allowed to sue for that?"

"It's like a child seeking to divorce his parents," Blair said. "This is a constitutional right for the child to choose."

The foster father, 48, and foster mother, 43, have several children of their own, but this is their first foster child.

HRS officials declined comment.

Senate OKs new district boundaries

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The Legislature today neared the end of a chaotic special session called to draw new district boundaries after the Senate managed to break its numbing impasse a day earlier.

"We suffered and suffered and suffered and proved it can work in this institution of self-government," said Sen. Pat Thomas, D-Quincy, just before the maps passed 21-19 on Thursday.

The Senate then adjourned for good at 4:17 p.m. The House was scheduled today to vote on 160-district plans, crafted by Democratic leaders, House Speaker T.K. Wetherell, D-Daytona Beach, expected them to pass.

"It's really a simple yes or no vote," said Wetherell, who presides over a comfortable 74-46 Democratic majority.

In the Senate, where 20-20 deadlocks became the norm for weeks, Republican Sen. Malcolm Beard, a former Democrat, broke ranks with the GOP to approve the plan. He joined 20 Democrats in favor.

"I can't go home and tell people we can't get the job done," Beard told Republicans at a tense morning caucus. "You people have been trying to get to court since the beginning. I'm not going with you."

Republicans think they can get a better deal out of a federal court that has taken control of redistricting than anything passed by the Democratic-controlled Legislature. The proposal approved Thursday indicates they are probably right.

"Ten full years of Republicanism will go down the tubes if you vote for this plan," lawyer Thom Rumberger told GOP senators.

Republicans, who have made solid gains in voter registration the past decade, believe they can win only 17 Senate seats under the new map. The Democrats now hold, effectively, a 21-19 advantage.

Republicans were upset that Beard, who served as Hillsborough County constable and sheriff from 1967-78 and switched to the GOP six years ago, would break the solid opposition they engineered for three months.

Child abuse charged

Jasper Wilkenson Jr., 43, 875 Pioneer Way, Geneva, was arrested Wednesday morning, charged with aggravated child abuse.

Wilkenson's 15-year-old stepson told Seminole County deputies he hit him in the face, choked him and threatened to shoot him if enters their home again, reports state. The youth told deputies he has been living in a tent in the woods behind the home for some time due to problems in the household.

Man charged with stealing jewelry

A Sanford man was charged Wednesday with stealing jewelry from his girlfriend, breaking into a car, stealing checks and attempting to cash the checks, all allegedly occurring Wednesday.

James Corey Powell, 22, who listed 301 Kimberly Court as his current address, was arrested at the home at about 10:30 p.m. by Seminole County deputies. Powell was living in the residence of his girlfriend and her parents, according to reports.

According to arrest reports, Powell took a gold bracelet valued at $500 from his girlfriend on Monday and a $400 gold necklace from her Wednesday and pawned the items.

When deputies arrested Powell, charging him with two counts of grand theft, they also charged him with two other incidents that occurred earlier Wednesday evening. A woman attending a Markham Woods Road church reported to deputies a window to her car had been smashed open sometime between 7 and 8 p.m. and a checkbook, identification and a small amount of cash was taken from her purse.

At 8 p.m., a person man later identified as Powell, attempted to obtain $75 by cashing one of the checks using the stolen identification. The man fled before deputies could arrive, reports state.

Powell was charged with burglary to a conveyance, uttering a threat and dealing in stolen property.

Intoxication charged

Sanford Police arrested Jackie Lee Frost, 18, of 106 18th Street in Sanford Tuesday. Police report hearing her vehicle tires squealing near 4th Street and Sanford Avenue. She was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and possession of alcohol by a minor.

Drunk driving charged

Everett David Self, 52, 2802 Marshall Ave., Sanford, was charged with drunken driving by a Seminole County deputy Wednesday morning.

The deputy reported stopping Self after seeing him traveling west on State Road 46 with his vehicle's headlights turned off, then stopping sideways on the entrance ramp to eastbound Interstate 4.

Traffic incident brings charges

Jeffrey Alan Berryhill, 30, 165 Lakeside Circle, Sanford, was charged with driving with a suspended license by an Altamonte Springs policeman Wednesday afternoon.

The policeman reported stopping Berryhill on State Road 438 at Boston Avenue after he stopped for 10 seconds at a green traffic light.

License suspended, woman charged

Amy Anne Fassbender, 20, 100 Long Leaf Pine Circle, Sanford, was charged with driving with a suspended license by a Longwood policeman Wednesday.

The policeman reported stopping Fassbender after seeing improper safety equipment on her vehicle as she drove on Bay Avenue.

Alcohol, drug charges filed

Joseph Phillip Kern, 23, 910 E. Wildmere, Lot 25, Longwood, was charged with possession of marijuana and having an open container of alcohol in his vehicle by a Seminole County deputy Wednesday afternoon.

The Tactical Response Team deputy reported stopping Kern after seeing him speeding through the parking lot of a Howell Branch Road apartment complex. The deputy reported finding an opened beer in the cab of Kern's truck. After arresting Kern, the deputy reported finding a small amount of marijuana in his shirt pocket.

Multiple charges filed

Joseph William Kline, 37, 2194 Holly Ave., Sanford, was charged with forgery, resisting arrest with violence and possession of drug paraphernalia by Sanford police Wednesday.

Police report responding to the Florida Driver's License Bureau on Airport Boulevard after someone reported a man told him he had given a false identification to license clerks and had over 100 tickets. When the man identified Kline, he fled, but was captured in the parking lot. During a struggle, Kline tried to bite the policeman, reports state.

After his arrest, the policeman reported finding a pipe in his pocket. Police report Kline is wanted in Missouri.

Shoplifting charges filed

Christine Courtwright Dolan, 24, 8304 Stonebrook Drive, Sanford, was charged with shoplifting by Sanford police Wednesday.

According to arrest reports, a security officer at Wal-Mart on South Orlando Drive reported seeing Dolan attempt to leave the store without paying for 35 personal care and household items worth $111 in her own shopping bags.

Warrant arrest made

The following wanted persons have been taken into custody:
 • Darrell Wayne Riddley, 31, 495 Highway 17-92, Longwood, was charged with violating the terms of his probation for a drunken driving conviction at the Seminole County jail Wednesday.

• Samuel Leon Black, 42, 1905 Third St., Sanford, was arrested at his home Wednesday morning. Black was wanted on four counts of violating the terms of his probation for worthless check convictions and one count of failing to appear at a hearing to answer to violating the terms of his probation for another worthless check conviction.

• Frank Turner Davis, 38, 488 Sun Lake Drive, Lake Mary, was arrested at his home Wednesday afternoon by Seminole County deputies. Davis was wanted on a December warrant charging him with obtaining property with a worthless check.

• Kenneth L. Fields, 29, 700 Magnolia Ave., Apt. 9, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police Wednesday. Fields was wanted for failing to appear at a hearing to answer to a driving with a suspended license charge.

• Arvester "Willie" Holly, 35, 1500 Roosevelt Ave., Sanford, was arrested by a Seminole County deputy on Southwest Road Wednesday. Holly was wanted in Orange County for failing to appear at a hearing to answer to both their charges.

• Reginald Lamar Jones, 24, 1012 Holly Ave., Sanford, was charged with violating the terms of his probation for a battery conviction at the Seminole County jail Wednesday.

• John Patrick Moorer, 24, 116 Wax Myrtle Drive, Sanford, turned himself in to deputies at the Seminole County jail Wednesday. Moorer was wanted for violating the terms of his probation for a drunken driving conviction.

• Jerry Dewayne Adams, 33, 6385 Markham Woods Road, Paola, was charged with violating the terms of his probation for a cocaine purchase conviction at the Seminole County jail Wednesday.

Students present flags to school

On Thursday the Idyllwild Elementary School student government presented school officials with two of the four flags they will be giving to the school. Ashley Hornsby, 3rd grade; Adroanna Boli, 4th grade; Cassidy Webb, 3rd grade and Jessica Koepfer, 4th grade, vice president of the student council (front row, left to right); Matthew Davidson, 5th grade, secretary of the student council; Heather Kauffman, 5th grade; Jessica Heaton, 4th grade; Katie Hoffman, 4th grade; Eric Brady, 3rd grade; Judy Stromberg, 4th grade; Cheryl Houston, 5th grade; Kimberly Jullano, 5th grade and Aaron Teemer, 5th grade raised the money to purchase the two American and two Florida flags by selling "Candy-grams" for Valentine's Day.

Sanford to consider change in polling places for city elections

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The City Commission will consider a change in polling places Monday night. Changes in districts three and four would be for City elections only.

According to City Clerk Jan Donahue, "The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints at 2315 Park Avenue, has informed us they received word from their headquarters in Salt Lake City not to allow us to continue using the facility."

Regarding the change needed for the other district she said, "This has been at Fire Station number 2, but there have been some objections such as problems turning into the area from 17-92, and the fact that the area where we have the booths is not heated." She added, "With our City Elections in December, heating is usually needed."

City Manager Bill Simmons is recommending the commission approve the designation of the Church of the Nazarene, 2581 Sanford Avenue for District 3, and the Seminole County Health Department on Airport Boulevard for District 4.

The Health Department facility actually is within District 3, but Donahue cited Florida Statutes. She said they provide, "that if no suitable polling place is available in the precinct, another site in a contiguous precinct may be used."

She commented, "The Health Department building is right across the street from the district, so it would be considered as contiguous."

Other suggested locations for District 3 include the American Legion, Congregational Christian Church, Lakeview Middle School, Sanora Clubhouse, and Seminole High School.

Other suggestions that could be considered for District 4 are Pine Ridge Clubhouse, and the Seminole County Agriculture Center.

District 3 is represented by Commissioner A.A. McClanahan and District 4 by Commissioner Whitney Eckstein.

The matter is to be brought up for discussion during the city commission workshop meeting Monday, beginning at 5 p.m. in the city manager's conference room. It is also scheduled for a decision at the regular Sanford City Commission meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. in the commission chambers of City Hall.

Lawyer says he shouldn't be suspended for 'nuking' kitten

Associated Press

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — A lawyer has told the state's highest court that he shouldn't be suspended from practicing law after being convicted of breaking into a woman's home and killing her cat in a microwave oven.

Stanley E. Protokowicz Jr. pleaded guilty Jan. 17 to breaking and entering and cruelty to animals in a break-in at the home of a friend's estranged wife. He was fined $1,500, given a 15-month suspended sentence and 18 months' probation and ordered to seek alcoholism counseling.

On Wednesday, Protokowicz told the Court of Appeals, which disciplines lawyers, that his behavior stemmed from alcoholism and depression triggered by his wife's leaving him and a close friend's death.

The kitten's death was accidental, he said. The court didn't rule immediately.

Pay attention

Little in Warren Rudman's complaint about the failure of government is new. Nor is he the first member of Congress in recent years to quit because he was frustrated by the system's inability to function.

But Republican Rudman, who is leaving government after representing New Hampshire for 12 years in the U.S. Senate, is one of the people who has been known not only for trying to make it work, but also for an uncommon candor, transcending partisanship, about the problems as he perceived them.

The statements he made after he announced his decision not to run for a third term were perhaps even more candid. He left no doubt that his criticism included not only Congress but two presidents of his own party and much of the American people as well.

At the core of government's problems, he told Jim Lehrer in a televised interview, was the unwillingness of incumbents to bring the escalating cost of federal entitlements — Social Security, agricultural subsidies, Medicare — under control. And as those entitlements grow, they will further increase the deficit, damage other programs and suck more money from the economy.

Yet neither Congress nor the president, mesmerized by the political power of interest groups and wedded to electoral success above all else, seems able to move.

In 1987, when Washington introduced a sliding Medicare premium to pay for expanded catastrophic coverage, wealthier retirees staged an uprising that sometimes turned vicious against individual members, and Congress repealed it.

One can dispute Rudman's policy conclusion that entitlements are the whole source of the government's troubles. In a nation where tax rates are relatively modest, new revenues, if they're fair, could easily be combined with spending controls to reduce the deficits.

But there's little doubt about the paralysis and the lack of candor among the nation's leaders, from the president down. Rudman warns that unless the deficit issue is confronted — meaning that the common good is placed ahead of the powerful interests that protect those entitlements, and ahead of the virulent privatism they reflect — the nation will become weaker and more subject to control and direction from abroad.

Never has the message been more urgent.

Be positive about Sanford

A few days ago, one of our good friends and neighbors had a bike and tools stolen from their back porch. This particular crime took place in the Sanford Historic District where we both live. When the police arrived on the scene, the usual paperwork began: filing out reports and answering questions.

Now, I, as well as my neighbor, love living in our Historic District and have spent a great deal of time, money, and energy restoring our homes. Thus, we have a great deal of pride in our neighborhood. While the police officer was investigating, he made the comment that "Well, Sanford is a real ARMPIT." I was completely shocked! I know that we, as well as any city, have our crime problems, but I would expect more professionalism than this. Please also understand that I have a great deal of respect for police officers, my father is one, and I know that it must be a thankless job. However, our public officials and servants must PLEASE try to be more positive about our beautiful city! It is not as if bicycles are stolen ONLY in Sanford!

In the last four years of living here, my wife and I have restored one of the beautiful historical homes in Old Sanford, and we are quite proud of our accomplishment. We have seen many other homes restored around us in this short time. We have participated in and watched the organization and continued success of the Sanford Historic Trust, the Sanford Committee, SHDWA, and many other civic organizations that are promoting a positive image for Sanford. It is truly amazing what a metamorphosis we have seen due to these groups. However, even with so many positive things happening in our town, some residents, public leaders, and public servants cannot seem to focus on those, but only on the negative issues. As far as I'm concerned, much of this "negativism" is perceived, rather than realistic, which is why all of Sanford needs to work together to battle that perception and present a positive image.

As for this particular police officer and his opinion, I can only hope that he was having a bad day and that he will soon realize that Sanford is truly Central Florida's Best Kept Secret, and will continue to improve with careful, innovative planning and caring, active citizens!

Japan bashing? Candidates quiet

In early April, if anyone had momentarily forgotten which primary was coming up, Bill Clinton was there to remind them that it was New York. Clinton accused George Bush of neglecting Israel and even laid a climate of "overt anti-Semitism" at Bush's political doorstep.

Among members of New York's pivotal Jewish electoral bloc (20 percent), Clinton's unconscionable pandering played well.

Clinton chooses his ethnic shots with a sure instinct, like a crisply efficient pool player calling a side pocket. In early March, when he attended a black church in Georgia, never mentioned Israel or anti-Semitism. Instead he accused the Bush campaign of trying to "divide us by race" and promised with finger-pointing sanctimoniousness that "they're not going to get away with it." The black congregation ate it up.

If you wait for the right primary and the right ethnic situation, Clinton will pander to the lowest common denominator of ethnic concerns.

A few critics have suggested uncharitably that Bush might try to pull off another Persian Gulf skirmish to assure his re-election. With similar logic, they believe Bill Clinton might be capable of sponsoring a race riot if it would grease his pathway to the White House.

Dressed up in his Sunday-best charisma, Clinton drips with the same happy sincerity as a hog wallowing in slop. "Slick Willie," is not an accidentally conferred sobriquet.

Many feel that his trustworthiness quotient hovers somewhere between Richard Nixon's and P.T. Barnum's.

Clinton has fulminated on the evils of racial divisiveness and anti-Semitism with hound dog-eyed sincerity. But he has been notoriously silent on Japan and Japanese-Americans.

Then again, so have George Bush, Jerry Brown and Patrick J. Buchanan.

Buchanan, of course, is no surprise. This bitter bigot has perfected Nordic supremacy into a cottage industry. But we have a right to expect better from the others.

What makes Japan-bashing particularly difficult to combat is its intimate involvement with the patriotic notion of "buy American." America's economic distress and American industrial failures have been blamed on the more successful Japanese — and resentment has spread to Japanese-Americans.

"The current round of hostility is much more intense than I can recall," Dennis W. Hayaashi, national director of the Japanese-American Citizens League, told a Washington Post reporter. He could recall "tensions in the early 1980s, but nothing on the order of what's happening now in terms of the violence of the attacks."

Not only Japanese-Americans, but any Oriental-looking person is occasionally subjected to verbal virulence or physical attacks. In 1982, in Detroit, a Chinese-American was beaten to death because unemployed white automobile workers thought he was a Japanese-American whose ancestry had somehow caused the loss of their jobs.

Violence, graffiti scrawled on Japanese-American-occupied buildings, firebombings, property destruction and face-to-face humiliations have escalated in hateful intensity during the last few months, especially in California.

Clinton's pandering played well.

Post office probe is widening

WASHINGTON — The House post office investigation may lead to even more serious charges being leveled against some congressmen than did the House bank scandal.

Justice Department sources say that investigators for U.S. Attorney for the District of Columbia Jay Stephens are pressing current and former post office employees, trying to substantiate long-standing rumors that some congressmen used the post office to convert campaign funds for their personal use.

It is alleged that members of the House bought large amounts of postage stamps in their home districts using campaign checks, then brought the stamps to Washington where friendly House post office employees bought them back, with the congressman pocketing the cash. Individual transactions are said to have run from a few hundred dollars to thousands of dollars.

If these allegations are true — and rumors to this effect have been floating around for years — those congressmen involved might be guilty of serious felonies.

Federal election law forbids the conversion of campaign funds to personal use except in a very limited way, and then the use must be carefully accounted for. If, as it is supposed, the campaign committees of these members accounted for the expenditure as postage, the campaign and the person who signed its filing reports would be guilty of violating federal election law. Finally, and most serious, if the congressman pocketed the money and didn't report it on his income return, he would be guilty of tax evasion.

The Justice sources say that the investigation is just starting. But they believe that some current and past House post office employees might be willing to tell what they know in exchange for immunity for a range of potential violations, including sale of drugs.

The General Accounting Office, some time ago, looked into the operation of the House bank. In a hard-hitting, secret report, it informed the House leadership of many administrative problems, including insufficient funds in members' accounts and the payment of insufficient funds checks.

The GAO auditors urged the leadership to undertake major reforms.

However, the House leadership ignored the report, and the banking abuses continued until the bank was finally shut down last October.

So what, you are probably asking. This does not sound like news.

But what is interesting is that the report was written in early 1984, and it was delivered to then Speaker Joseph Martin of Massachusetts — the last Republican Speaker of the House. In the 83rd Congress, from 1983-85 the GOP was in the majority.

Some career House employees near retirement — but with very long memories — remember how the bank and other facilities for members were operated almost 40 years ago. They scoff at the idea that the House bank is a Democratic scandal. They call it an "equal opportunity" scandal that both parties had the ability to clean up years or even decades ago.

Democratic insiders are saying that Bill Clinton is getting too cute again in an attempt to deflect another question about his character.

The new issue of Playboy magazine features a nude pictorial of Miss America 1982, Elisabeth Ward. The accompanying text seems to indicate that the former Miss Arkansas had a relationship with Clinton.

According to the Clinton campaign office, when Miss Ward read an advanced copy of the article she became "concerned" that it was giving "a wrong impression." So, in a statement issued by the Clinton people, Miss Ward says she and Clinton did know each other, but that at no time were they ever "romantically involved."

According to the Democratic sources, the term used, "romantically involved" was very carefully chosen by all concerned. They say the answer is like Clinton's long-standing answer about whether he ever used drugs in his youth. He replied that he had never broken any laws of the United States concerning controlled substances. He was technically correct: He did finally admit experimenting with marijuana while a student at Oxford in England.

Insiders are smiling and saying they are sure that Clinton is technically correct when he and Miss Ward assert that at no time were there any romance involved in their relationship.

As to the question of whether the two ever had sex, Miss Ward responded: "Have I slept with the former Clinton? I don't believe that's anyone's business." A Clinton spokesman says that as far as the Clinton camp is concerned the issue is closed, and they won't comment further.

Those congressmen involved might be guilty of serious felonies.

Politics interferes with conservation

WASHINGTON — The "environmental president" could get a flogging next month when Congress goes public with its investigation into a National Park Service employee who was transferred for coming to the defense of Yellowstone Park.

What is the administration doing to cover its tracks? Our sources say the Interior Department is uprooting more employees so it looks like the original move was the kind of personnel shuffle that happens all the time.

Lorraine Mintzmyer stirred up the controversy last year when she publicly criticized the way the administration tampered with a plan called the "vision" document. It was supposed to be a framework for managing the area in and around Yellowstone. The original 80-page draft prepared at the Interior Department put conservation and environmental interests ahead of development and logging. But that was whittled down to a 10-page report that cut too much slack for commercial land users.

Mintzmyer, who was the Park Service regional director in Denver, cried foul. And she was transferred to Philadelphia. Last fall she told a House subcommittee on civil service that the move was politically motivated and that the "vision" document was watered down at the request of the White House.

She testified that a senior official in the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service told her the order came from then-White House Chief of Staff John Sununu, a charge that the White House and the Park Service now vehemently deny.

Mintzmyer believes the White House knuckled under to pressure from groups including cattle ranchers and loggers that want to profit from commodities they can glean from national parks. And she said the groups apparently also wooed Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., into their camp to get the draft report revised.

The House subcommittee has since spent months poring over huge stacks of documents about the case and has scheduled new hearings for later this month. Senior Interior Department officials have been summoned to explain why Mintzmyer was reassigned.

The Interior Department is apparently feeling the heat because it is now implementing another personnel shuffle to prove that the Mintzmyer move was business-as-usual. Several regional directors at the Fish and Wildlife Service are being reassigned just in time for the hearings. Our sources say the moves are a political foil to give the Interior Department something to point to when they are asked why Mintzmyer was moved.

Two sources close to the Interior Department told our associate Jan Miller that when Fish and Wildlife Service Director John Turner heard about the moves, he was outraged. He reportedly went straight to Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan, who told him that the decision to make the transfers had come from channels above Lujan.

A spokesman for the Interior Department confirmed that the moves were in the works, and that Turner was upset when he learned about them. But the official Interior story is that the moves were triggered by a retirement in the service, and were not political.

The hearings do not promise to yield a definitive answer to the question of who specifically tinkered with the "vision" document. But the recent job shuffling at the Interior Department shows that the administration is not above manipulating the lives of people like Mintzmyer to cover its tinkering, especially during an election year when the environmental president is supposed to live up to his vision.

A charge the White House and Park Service now vehemently deny.

County sponsors free 'Amnesty Day' to dump hazardous waste

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County will sponsor a free "Amnesty Day" for residents not sure what to do with those old cans of paint or pool chemicals in the garage.

The county will take them off your hands from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the parking lot of Zayre Plaza. The center is located at the western side of the intersection of U.S. Highway 17-92 and Airport Boulevard. Staff from Laidlaw Environmental Services will be available to unload your car or truck and collect the items for disposal or recycling.

At the last Amnesty Day in October, more than 23,000 lbs. of waste was delivered to the collection program.

Many items are labeled "household hazardous waste" and can't be tossed into the garbage because they will find their way to the county dump. There, they might possibly leak into the underground drinking water supply of Geneva.

If your garbageman finds the items in your can, he'll take it out because the county can refuse the entire load of garbage if hazardous waste is found.

The list of items that can't be tossed in the garbage is lengthy — batteries, both household and vehicle, are included, insecticides, gasoline and motor oil, lawn chemicals and disinfectants, paints, glue even cement, are all in the list.

Also considered potentially hazardous are the mysterious-plastic-jugs-of-stuff-in-the-corner-that's-been-there-for-several-years-and-you-don't-quite-remember-what-it-is. Laidlaw will take the mysteries and determine what they are and what to do with them.

This year, the county will also accept unbroken light bulbs — both fluorescent and incandescent. County recycling coordinator Sherry Newkirk said the light bulbs will be converted into new bulbs by a Cincinnati company which has perfected the process.

Space probe flees realm of sun

By Tom Iliadis
Associated Press

When the United States launched Pioneer 10 to Jupiter, in 1972, a NASA publicist named Peter Waller told reporters at the Kennedy Space Center he thought the most significant aspect of the spacecraft's mission would be that it would travel a long way. He took some ribbing for the profundity of the remark, but it would also turn out to be understated.

Pioneer 10 traveled 620 million miles to Jupiter, and just kept going. It traveled nearly 3 billion miles from the sun, or beyond the range of all the planets at that time, and just kept going. Now, after 20 remarkable years, the vigorous space vehicle is still flying — at a speed of 28,000 miles an hour — 5 billion miles from Earth.

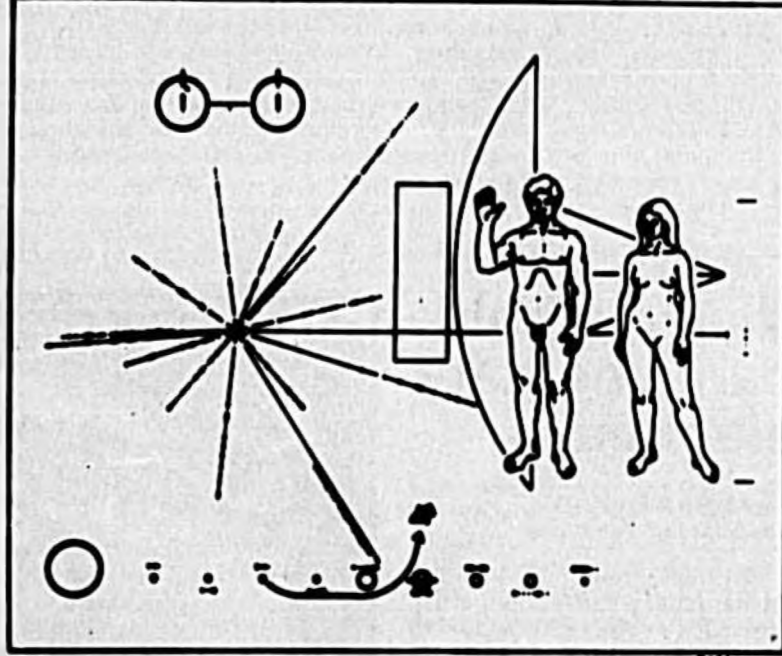

This means it's gone to where no artificial object has ventured before. It's become the most traveled mechanism built by man. Pioneer 10 is reaching for the outermost edge of the solar system, a boggling stunt even in an age of boggling stunts; after that, Waller says it will slip into the interstellar void of forever.

Waller is still making profound statements about the mission to the media. He is known as "Mr. Pioneer" at NASA's Ames Research Center, located in Mountain View, Calif. He says there are predictions that Pioneer 10 will travel for millions of years, and, in the protective vacuum of space, "it may continue to go long after the Earth has ceased to exist."

Waller remembers that it all began on a March p.m. at Cape Canaveral. Pioneer 10 was another in a series of solar and interplanetary probes. It was also an odd-looking bird. It was designed primarily as a 9-foot dish antenna, with booms, and it weighed 870 pounds when it was shot off with an Atlas-Centaur rocket.

Waller says the scientists knew the craft was capable of moving far beyond the primary target of Jupiter, but no one was sure it would survive the bombardments of space debris and radiation. It passed safely through the asteroid belt in late 1973, however, and went on to withstand Jupiter's punitive radiation.

Pioneer 10 made unprecedented discoveries at Jupiter. It found that the surface of the planet is made up of liquid hydrogen, and it reported that the temperatures on the day and night sides are virtually identical. It also took the first close-up photographs of Jupiter's Great Red Spot, and provided statistics about the body's ample moons.

HUMAN MESSAGE carried by Pioneer 10 is inscribed on a 6-by-9-inch metal plate. Nude figures of a man and woman are drawn to scale in front of a recording of the space probe. Other data locate the position of the Earth.

The ship passed Jupiter in December 1973. It was engineered to have an effective service life at least to 1974, but it went on functioning beyond the orbits of Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and icy-bitay Pluto. Today, Waller says the space probe continues to send information back to Earth at a rate of about 1 million pages annually.

Most of the information presently concerns the heliosphere. That's the name of the sun's extended atmosphere. Waller says the heliosphere is an oblong magnetic bubble of ionized gas that is created by interstellar matter passing around the solar system. He says Pioneer is defining the behavior and scope of the bubble.

The spacecraft is also gathering data being used in the search for a possible 10th planet. Some astronomers believe there may be another body spinning around the sun, hidden to date from easy viewing. The thinking is that the information from Pioneer 10 may at least indicate the best places in our part of the Milky Way to look.

Pioneer 10, the first spacecraft equipped with an atomic battery, is generating a mere 8-watt signal. It's about the same power as a night light. The craft no longer sends pictures, because there is nothing left to photograph, but the revelatory signals are emitted continuously; and Waller says they take 7.5 hours at light-speed to reach NASA.

"The signals are received by the antennas in our Deep Space Network. The antennas are as big as football fields. The Pioneer signal is so faint that it gets to the antennas with a power of 4.2 billionths of a trillionth of a watt."

NASA would like to maintain the signals until Pioneer 10 breaks through the heliosphere toward the stars. But no one knows when that will be. The heliosphere expands and contracts over the millennia, and though it is pulling back currently, the vehicle may yet have to plow through many miles and years.

PIONEER 10, which originally weighed 870 pounds, has a 9-foot dish antenna with booms. Here the space probe is being readied for a test little more than a month before its eventual launch on March 2, 1972.

If so, it may well leave the solar system undetected. Waller says NASA will lose contact with the craft comparatively soon. The generators on Pioneer 10 are getting weary, the signal distance is increasing 235 million miles per annum, and the guess is that the ship will be lost to the silence of space by the year 2000.

The ship will continue to travel without the monologues, of course. That is, if it's not wiped out by space debris. Mr. Pioneer says the ship will pass near its first star (something called Ross 248) by A.D. 34,800, and he adds it will fly relatively close to other stars every million years.

And then, who knows? The dreamers like to think Pioneer 10 is a very humble if extraordinarily efficient bottle cast into the cosmic ocean. The spacecraft carries a picture message telling anybody who finds it where it's from, so it's not beyond conception that someday someone will bring the amazing instrument back.

Human spying back in fashion

By RUTH SHAI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Their gray fedoras and cigarettes are no longer in vogue. But good old-fashioned spying is coming back — at least on paper.

CIA Director Robert Gates gave President Bush a blueprint Wednesday for overhauling U.S. intelligence in the post-Soviet world, with an emphasis on human spies — as opposed to satellites — a major feature.

Little is known about the package, which has been held as tightly as only the CIA knows how. Gates apparently has barred any discussion of the plan until he unveils it to Congress next week.

The package includes changes in the mission, structure and funding of the CIA and a dozen of its sister agencies. It is based, in part, on a shift in emphasis from such traditional tasks as monitoring the Soviet military to such new jobs as tracking the spread of nuclear and chemical weapons in the Third World.

Based on Gates' public pronouncements and interviews with non-government experts, the plan is believed to call for hiring more intelligence agents and training them in more languages. It also is thought to propose placing more spies under unofficial cover, as opposed to the current method whereby spies operate in the guise of diplomats and are therefore fairly limited and obvious in their activities.

The renewed emphasis on human intelligence is designed to reduce reliance on satellites, which were deemed vital in an era when the prime U.S. mission was to track Soviet weapons.

The shortcomings of satellite information were made painfully clear to the administration when it failed to foresee Iraq's 1990 invasion of Kuwait. It had pictures from the sky of troop buildups but no agents on the ground to gauge Iraq's intentions.

Official presentation of Gates' plan is expected to set off a tussle between the administration and the two intelligence oversight committees in Congress that have presented a far bolder reform plan of their own.

Opening salvos in the dispute were fired recently by Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and by Gates' designated deputy, Rear Adm. William Studeman.

Spring

Students will be out in the neighborhoods, the malls and the beaches in what will be a preview of summer.

Drivers should be on the lookout for stray balls bouncing across the street and shoppers should prepare themselves for bigger crowds at the stores.

At the school district's offices, 1211 Mellonville Ave., Sanford, a skeletal crew will be holding down the fort.

Like the week between

Christmas and New Years, Spring Break is not a good time to get problems resolved at the district level: many employees with 10-month contracts chose this week to take their vacations or to stay at home and organize the garage.

Things will return to a normal schedule on April 20. There will be another day off for students on Friday, May 8. Memorial Day will be another holiday for teachers and students and classes will be over on Tuesday, June 9. Schools using the modified school calendar (year round schools) will begin the school year anew on Monday, July 30. Goldsboro Elementary School in Sanford, Geneva Elementary School in Geneva and Lawton Elementary School in Oviedo are the three year round schools in the district.

For now, students are enjoying a break to rest and to prepare for studies when they return to school.

In addition, eleven teaching positions will be cut at the district level in the division of instructional services.

Media specialists and curriculum specialists at the school level are not teachers though they do assist the teachers in their work.

Board members said they do not want to cut teachers from the classrooms, though they believe they believe the average classroom ratio will have one more student per classroom. In the elementary school the student-to-teacher ratio would stay at 27:1; at the middle school, there will be 30 students per teacher and 29 per teacher in high school.

Teachers will not be hired as readily as they have been in the past.

"Until we see the whites of their (enrolled students) eyes, they (the schools) won't get the units," Interim Supt. Richard Wells said of his recommended restriction on the hiring of teachers until the number of students are in place to warrant the hirings.

Yesterday's meeting was the first look that most board members had at the volume of information in the district's budget prepared by the staff.

School-level employees have criticized earlier drafts, saying that not enough "fat" was being cut at the district level and that too much was being cut from the already "lean" school-level budgets.

The budget process is just beginning.

The board approved nearly 400 job cuts as part of a temporary staffing plan in the light of the governor's "Reality Budget." If the legislature approves more money for education in next month's special session, changes can be made.

The final budget will be approved in July.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Working elderly may get bigger benefits

WASHINGTON — Congress is embracing bigger benefits for the working elderly despite protests that it's a budget-buster designed mainly to court that powerful bloc of voters.

"I see in what we're doing tonight the worst kind of political pandering in an election year," Rep. Herb Bateman, R-Va., said Thursday night as the House voted, 340-68, to double the wages Social Security recipients may earn before their benefits are cut back.

The bill, which goes back to the Senate, would let a person aged 65 to 69 earn up to $20,000 without having his or her benefits reduced. The current cap is $10,200, after which every $3 earned results in a $1 benefit decrease.

The most recent figures available from the House Ways and Means Committee showed that in 1986 about 10 percent of people between the ages of 65 and 69 earned enough wages to lose part of their Social Security pension. Unearned income, such as interest, does not count toward reducing the benefits.

Economy gets boost

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy has gotten another boost from the Federal Reserve, but many economists say even the gift of a surprise Fed credit easing may not be enough to guarantee a sustainable economic rebound this year.

Even as signs proliferate of stronger domestic activity, analysts are starting to worry that the recovery could be derailed by growing weakness in Europe and Japan. "We aren't out of the woods yet. We have to be worried about financial shocks coming from abroad," said Robert Dederick, chief economist with the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago.

The fear is that financial market turmoil in Japan will aggravate an economic slowdown in that country. A slowdown in Japan and further weakness in Europe, where Germany has been struggling of late, would spell danger for U.S. exports, one of the economy's few bright spots in recent years.

Persian Gulf war study delivered

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon says it's giving the public a "warts-and-all" look at its performance in the Persian Gulf war. A 1,300-page study, requested by Congress, was being delivered to Capitol Hill today, three months past its due date and after multiple revisions.

An unclassified version was due to be made public. Meanwhile, The Washington Post reported today that a classified analysis of weapons' performance during the war indicates the two mainstays of the air campaign — the F-117A stealth jet and the Tomahawk cruise missile — hit significantly fewer targets than the Pentagon has claimed.

Allegations lodged against Brown

Democratic presidential candidate Jerry Brown, finding himself on the receiving end of anonymous allegations of personal misconduct, denounced as "bizarre, defamatory and unsubstantiated" a report that drugs were used at parties at his Los Angeles house while he was California governor.

"I never hosted parties of any kind — drugs or non-drugs," Brown said.

ABC News said Thursday it interviewed police officers who served on Brown's security detail during the 1970s. The officers, who remained anonymous, recalled closing up Brown's Los Angeles vacation home after parties.

The officers said Brown sometimes hosted the parties and at other times they took place while he was out of town. Brown dismissed any suggestion that parties would have taken place in his absence.

Blood banks field calls about AIDS

The woman had already gotten two negative tests for the AIDS virus since her transfusion about a year ago. But when she heard about Arthur Ashe, she still called a blood bank for advice.

"What I told her was for her own peace of mind, have another test, and if that's negative, then just to figure she is ... free of the AIDS virus," said Blanche Lansky.

Lansky took the call as director of community services of the American Red Cross Blood Services-Northeast Region in Dedham, Mass.

It was among about 10 inquiries there by Thursday afternoon, and was typical of what many blood banks were dealing with after Ashe's announcement Wednesday that he had gotten AIDS from a surgery-related transfusion.

House Post Office probe expanded

WASHINGTON — A federal grand jury indictment reveals that the investigation of the House Post Office has been expanded from graft to drugs amid continuing congressional recriminations over Capitol Hill privileges.

Cocaine distribution charges were returned Thursday against a former stamp clerk, who previously was charged with embezzlement.

Three other former House Post Office employees have pleaded guilty to embezzlement.

The indictment charged that clerk Wendell Magruder sold crack cocaine, cocaine and marijuana to fellow House employees working in the chamber's post office.

Home surveillance programs scrutinized

NEWARK, N.J. — Tony Palmer wasn't supposed to be dangerous. He was under home surveillance for drug violations when he removed an electronic monitoring anklet, left his home and allegedly killed a man.

His escape has been blamed on a computer error, but the incident has placed home surveillance programs under scrutiny.

"I always thought these people were supposed to be non-violent," said state Sen. John Girgenti. "This brings the credibility of the entire program into question."

Iranians hold parliamentary elections

By ANWAR FARUQI
Associated Press Writer

TEHRAN, Iran — In the first parliamentary elections since the death of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, voters today are expected to give strong support to Westward-looking moderates and curb the influence of fundamentalist hard-liners.

The 1989 death of Khomeini, patriarch of the 1979 Islamic revolution, left two main clergy-dominated factions vying for supremacy in Iran.

President Hashemi Rafsanjani, leader of the pragmatist faction, has been nudging Iran into greater contacts with the West to help revive the economy — ties that are anathema to the radical camp.

In today's balloting, 2,030 candidates are vying for the 270-seat parliament, the Majlis. Initial results could take as long as a week to be released and many races could go into runoffs because a candidate needs a two-thirds' majority to get elected.

Voting began at 8 a.m. throughout the country's 24 provinces. It proceeded at a brisk pace in Tehran, where polls were established at mosques, schools and other public buildings.

As Rafsanjani cast his ballot in the prayer hall where Khomeini gave his most famous speeches in the last few years before his death, the crowd shouted "God is great!"

"The people's vote in this election is very worthwhile because through this we can get to know public opinion and how they feel about us," the president said. "It is very important for our decision-making."

About 30,000 polling booths were set up to accommodate the 30 million potential voters.

Campaigning was low-key, consisting basically of newspaper or wall advertisements, pamphlets or question-and-answer sessions in mosques.

Moderates argued that developing the private sector of the domestic economy and more foreign trade will bring in the financing and technology needed to solve the problems of reconstruction, unemployment and inflation that were the central campaign issues.

Radicals say state ownership and dedicated revolutionary fervor are the solution.

It took the incumbent Majlis, dominated by radicals, more than a year to approve the 5-year plan that seeks $27 billion in foreign credit and investment.

With a new parliament for four years, Rafsanjani is expected to have more room to maneuver to open the economy up to foreign investment and knowhow.

Despite the importance of the issues at stake, and despite government exhortations, Iranians showed little interest in the election.

Radio and television broadcasters told Iranians that every vote was a demonstration of support for the Islamic Republic, and "a powerful punch in the face of the West."

But Ali Shamsi, an owner of a confectionery in downtown Tehran, snapped: "I don't want to punch anyone. I just want to stay home and enjoy my only day of rest."

LOCALLY

Track Classic at Lake Mary

LAKE MARY — The Central Florida Gliders Track Team will host the first Elementary and Middle School Spring Track Classic this Saturday, April 11, at Lake Mary High School's Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

Registration — $3 per participant, $4 per relay team — will be available between 7:30 and 8:45 a.m. the morning of the meet. Competition in the field events is scheduled to start at 8:15 a.m. with the running events beginning at 9:05 a.m.

The events to be competed, in their order, are the long jump, high jump, shot put, mile run, 4 x 100-meter relay, 400-meter run, 100-meter dash and 4 x 400-meter relay. Schools are encouraged to field relay teams.

Age groups are 8 and Under; 9 and 10; 11 and 12; 13 and 14; and 15 and 16. Awards will be presented to the top six in each event.

For more information, contact Craig Wisc at 682-1368.

Longwood softball tournament

LONGWOOD — The Longwood Recreation Department is having a double elimination softball tournament to benefit the March Of Dimes on the weekend of April 11-12.

Entry fee is $100 per team, plus two new balls. Phone 280-3447 for additional information.

OCS Rams shoot to title

DeBARY — Eighth grader Matt Kuchar of Lake Mary shot a 4-over-par 76 to lead the Orangewood Christian School Rams to the team title in the Central Florida Athletic Conference golf tournament Thursday at DeBary Plantation.

Orangewood Christian posted a team total of 337 to finish ahead of Trinity Prep (345), Lake Highland Prep (351) and Melbourne Central Catholic (408).

Also contributing to the Rams' team mark were Scott Armstrong (82), Andy Braddock (88) and Kevin Ripaldi (91).

Now 14-12, the Orangewood Christian Rams will play again in the District 6 tournament on April 28th at Disney World.

Skiles, Magic hood Hawks

ORLANDO — Scott Skiles' 17-foot jumper with 1:30 remaining put Orlando in front, and the Magic held Atlanta scoreless the rest of the game to win 98-94 Thursday night.

The Hawks were held to 13 points in the fourth quarter, and the loss dropped them into eighth place in the Eastern Conference, only one game ahead of Miami for the final playoff berth.

Stacey Augmon scored 22 points and Kevin Willis had 21 points and 15 rebounds for the Hawks. Willis was limited to three points and two rebounds in the fourth period.

Catledge led the Magic with 18 points and 16 rebounds, while rookie Brian Williams scored 16 points.

Merthie recommended for SCC hoop post

By TONY BOGANNON
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — Barring any unforeseen hitches, Bernard Merthie will succeed Bill Payne as the Seminole Community College men's basketball coach.

According to SCC athletic coordinator Larry Castle, it has been recommended to the school's Board of Trustees that Merthie — who was Payne's assistant this past season — be named the interim head coach.

"The appointment will not become official until July 1. If the Board of Trustees accepts the recommendation, then Bernard will be our interim head basketball coach next year," said Castle on Thursday morning.

"But that does not mean he's a stopgap measure. He could be our coach for the next 30 years."

"We need to try and see what direction we're going in with our program. And right now, we're going with a part-time position."

Unlike Payne, who stepped down to take the head coach's job at St. Petersburg Junior College, Merthie will not teach at SCC. His sole duties will be those associated with coaching the Raider basketball team.

Castle said that SCC received over 300 inquiries about the position despite the fact that it was never formally advertised. Even if it had been, Castle said Merthie, a graduate of Seminole High School, SCC and Eckerd College, would still have been at or near the top of the list.

"We felt that Bernard would provide the smoothest, easiest transition and keep our program heading in the right direction," said Castle. "He's well liked, he's well respected in the community and he's very capable."

"Also, some of the young players might not have come back if he had not gotten the job. We want to make sure we have a stable program next year. That's one of the main reasons he's being recommended for the job."

In his 10 years as the SCC head coach, Payne had a record of 217-111. Payne's predecessor, Joe Sterling, was 351-116. SCC has never had a losing season in basketball and only one .500 campaign.

Bateman one-hits Seminoles

By BILL KERRIS

SANFORD — Never mind hoping and dreaming, simply avoiding living through nightmares is one measure of success.

Seminole High School's girls' softball team, hoping to score at least 10 runs each game and head into the district tournament with some momentum, lived through a nightmare in picking up only one hit off pitcher Melissa Bateman Thursday afternoon and losing to Lake Brantley 17-0.

Seminole will begin the 3A-District 5 tournament on Tuesday, April 21, at the Jerry Gantt Complex in Ocala.

Jill Janewick's third inning single for Seminole (12-13, 1-8 in the conference) was a dribbler that stopped short of the pitcher's mound. Lake Brantley, 17-9 and 6-4 in the conference, had 17 hits.

Despite the mortifying final score, Seminole did continue to show improvement on defense according to Lake Brantley head coach Renny Betris.

"When you have that many hits, you're bound to win," said Betris. "It wasn't that Seminole couldn't play defense. They're a good team and I hope they win the districts. Greg Register's (the Seminole head coach) teams always play well. High school sports are games of momentum, and we had it throughout the game."

Lake Brantley scored five runs in the first, six in the second, two in the third, and four in the fifth. The game was called after five innings.

LAKE MARY — Taking advantage of timely hitting and sloppy fielding, the Lake Mary High School varsity softball team scored a 5-1 Senior Day Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Oviedo at Rams Field Thursday afternoon.

The victory would have been significant because it allowed the seniors to end their SAC careers on a winning note. But little did the Rams know the win also gave them a share of the conference championship as Lyman was beaten by Lake Howell 12-7.

Neither Lake Mary or Oviedo were sterling afield as both teams committed six errors, but Lake Mary took advantage of the miscues while the Lions did not.

The Rams scored three runs in the second inning and two in the third inning to account for their scoring. Defensively, they held

Rams' Marotta stops Mainland with four-hitter

From Staff Reports

DAYTONA BEACH — Brian Marotta struck out nine while tossing a four-hitter Thursday afternoon to lead Lake Mary to a 14-3 romp over host Mainland in a 4A-District 9 baseball contest.

The victory ends a two-game losing streak for Lake Mary (11-15) and is just the Rams' third win in their last 13 games.

Marotta (3-4) took a no-hitter into the fifth inning, when the Buccaneers used all four of their hits to score three unearned runs. Mainland didn't get a hit in the sixth or seventh innings.

Leading the 13-hit Lake Mary attack was David Hudick, who was 4-for-5 with a double, three RBI and four runs scored. Chad Kessler added a triple, one RBI and two runs scored. Dan McGoffin contributed a double, single and two RBI while Scott Johnston was 2-for-3 with three RBI and one run scored.

Lake Mary will wrap up its Seminole Athletic Conference schedule with a 7 p.m. contest at Oviedo tonight. After that, the Rams won't play again until next Friday, when they host Deltona in their regular season finale.

SANFORD — Darin Bernhard scattered eight hits and Steve Simmons scored two runs as Valencia Community College handed Seminole Community College its fifth straight loss 4-0 in a Mid-Florida Conference baseball game at Raider Field Thursday afternoon.

Bernhard, a sophomore from Dr. Phillips High School, struck out nine and walked only two in posting his seventh win against only one defeat.

A Sanford women's group meets at 2 p.m. Saturday, noon Monday through Saturday and 8 p.m. Monday through Sunday. Call Elise Dean at 323-0383 for more information.

MADD hosts meals

The Orange/Seminole Victim Coalition is hosting a Victims' Rights Breakfast, Sea World, 8 a.m., April 28. Cost is $9.50 and all victims are invited to attend. Call Mary Ann McCunn at 422-8233 for more information.

The Victims' Rights Week Luncheon will be held at the Altamonte Springs Hilton, 11 a.m., April 28. The luncheon is sponsored by the Seminole County State Attorney's Office. Cost is $15 per person. For information, call Janet Dunnigan at 422-8233.

Son's suicide still haunts mom

Warning signs usually there

DEAR MARY: My teenager committed suicide two years ago and I'm no closer to putting the tragedy behind me today than I was right after it happened.

I can't forgive myself for not paying attention to the warning signs that he gave. His dad and I were in the process of a divorce at that time and I was so involved in my own hurt and rage that even when I became aware of his drinking problem and depression, I just thought these were normal reactions to the divorce and would go away in time.

I want to share with other parents some of the warning signs that my son gave, but none of us, family or friends, paid enough attention to.

- He told his brother that he felt totally alone and worthless.
- He talked about funerals and even described what his might be like.
- He threatened to kill himself if his girlfriend broke up with him.

• He gave his brother, girlfriend and other friends many of his most treasured belongings.

I know it's too late for us, but if another family can be spared the heartache of this kind of needless pain, my son's death will have served some good.

BEREAVED MOTHER

DEAR BEREAVED: Thanks for taking the time and energy to write this difficult letter. It may well signal an important step toward your recovery from this devastating event.

Of the more than 5,000 teenagers who commit suicide each year, most give one or more of the same warning signs your son gave to indicate their plan.

Teenagers tend to feel that every setback, disappointment and rejection is permanent.

They often need help to realize that support is available to get through periods of crisis and pain, and that suicide is a permanent solution to temporary problems.

Additionally, there are support groups for parents dealing with the loss of a child (of any age) called "Compassionate Friends." If you have not looked into this valuable resource as an ally in your recovery plan, call an area hospital or "We Care" (407-644-2027) to learn where meetings are being held.

Mary Balk is a certified counselor with the Drug Prevention Office of the Seminole County School District. Write to her in care of the Herald at 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, 32771.

Publicity procedure

The Sanford Herald welcomes organizational and personal news. All items submitted for publication to the People section must include the name of a contact person and daytime phone number.

1. Type releases double-spaced in upper and lower case, and write in narrative style (third person).
2. Do not abbreviate.
3. Keep releases simple, but include necessary details—club or person name, date and time of event (if applicable), place, cost (if any), etc.
4. Submit organizational releases no later than two weekdays following the event.
5. Submit advance notices at least one week prior to the preferred publication date, and requests for photographer at least one week prior to the event.

Campus rape is old story that needs some new attention

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Concerned Mother" whose letter about campus rape was published in your column.

In the first place, no one should be assigned to a coed dorm. Only those who request a coed dorm, and are mature enough to accept the responsibility, should be allowed in a coed dorm. In my opinion, only juniors and seniors who have proven themselves with good grades and respectable behavior should be in a coed dormitory.

The girl who was raped — and her parents — should have yelled bloody murder, and the student who raped her should have been taken to court, sentenced, and thrown out of school for good! However, this rarely happens. I work at a university and see this all the time.

The guy is usually an athlete. He's slapped on the wrist, and the girl and her family are convinced by campus police and the university lawyers that it would be in the girl's best interest to drop the case, because it will ruin her reputation, and she will have to prove that she didn't ask for it.

I'm afraid this practice will continue until the girls insist on filing charges and seeing the case through.

The suggestion was made that the student who raped the girl in her dorm should be moved to an all-male floor! The guy should have been moved to prison!

DEAR OUTRAGED: I agree with you 100 percent. Fortunately, more college girls are being briefed about the subject of campus rape. They now know that every case must be reported — not to the campus police, but to the city police.

DEAR ABBY: You occasionally run letters from readers asking if they should inform a friend of his or her spouse's infidelity, or some other unpleasant "truth." While helping my daughter with an English assignment, I came across this piece of philosophy by the English poet William Blake (1757-1827). It comes from his poem "Auguries of Innocence":

"A truth that's told with bad intent
Beats all the lies you can invent."

I plan to have those words framed and placed on my bulletin board at work.

Shipmates reunite

The first reunion of the USS NOA DD841 was held recently at the Sanford post home 10108 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Organizers were Wilma Bennett Rascoe and Orman K. Shingleton. Shipmates from all over the U.S. attended. The ship was commissioned in 1945 and decommissioned in 1975 when it was sold to Spain.

The Spring Of The Soul

Baby birds burst their shells. Fragrant flowers push through the warm, moist soil. The grass is bright green and... yes... it is growing fast.

Spring is a time of growth and action. Take action in your life, as you grow with God. While planting your garden this spring, sow a seed of faith in your heart.

The harvest will be evident immediately, as the love of the Father springs into your soul.

Enter God's house this Sabbath, remembering the words of Jeremiah, as he said, "Their soul shall be as a watered garden; and they shall not sorrow any more at all." (Jer. 31:12)

IN BRIEF

Special guests featured at Easter

LAKE MARY — There will be an Easter Sunrise Service at 6:45 a.m. at Grace United Methodist Church, 499 N. Country Club Rd., with the Lake Mary Chorus as our featured musicians, and Pastor Albury bringing the message.

Following the Sunrise Service, our Missions Committee will serve a "Quiche Breakfast." The price for the breakfast is $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12.

Also, a "Continental" breakfast will be available for $2.

Please call 322-1472 to make your reservations for breakfast. Following the breakfast, an Early Worship Service will begin at 8:30 a.m., Sunday School will be held at 9:30 a.m., then another full Worship Service at 10:30 a.m. Our Grace Chancel Choir will sing for both Worship Services.

If you are not currently attending a local church, please consider joining us as we celebrate the Easter Season.

For more information, please call 322-1472.

Easter musical planned

LAKE MARY — A special, glorious day is planned at First Baptist Church Markham Woods, 5400 Markham Woods Rd., for Easter Sunday.

There will be a special service of praise and worship time followed by the observance of the Lord's Supper at the 9:45 a.m. Sunday School Hour.

The morning worship hour will begin at 10:45 a.m. with special music by the Sanctuary Choir and with the pastor, Dr. Bob Parker, bringing a resurrection message.

At the 7 p.m. worship hour, the Sanctuary Choir will present "Then Came Sunday," an Easter musical by Roger Strader, arranged and orchestrated by Bob Krogstad. The musical will be under the direction of the Music Director, David Haines.

Nursery provided for all services. For information, 333-2085.

Spurrows in concert

LONGWOOD — The Spurrows, nationally known musical group, will appear at Wekiva Assembly, 1675 Dixon Rd., on Wednesday. The concert will begin at 7 p.m.

For more than 30 years, the group has produced music in the form of 12 albums, over 30 choral books for churches, concerts with Youth for Christ, Jesus Festival, Billy Graham programs, and have ministered in thousands of churches across America.

The public is invited to share in this time of worship.

For more information, call the church at 774-0777.

An invitation to join 'Easter Services'

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 1006 Clay St., Winter Park, expresses an invitation to its 1992 "Easter Services," which will include:

"We Journey to the Cross" on Palm Sunday with Carl Gorden as speaker for the 11 a.m. worship service.

A Maundy Thursday Service at 7:30 p.m. will include a "vial" to the upper room and the garden.

An Easter Sunrise Service, with the theme: "He is Risen Indeed!" will be held "lakeside" Sunday at 7:30 a.m. Please call for driving directions.

An Easter continental breakfast will be served at the church at 8:30 a.m. Sunday.

For the Easter Service of Worship, Sunday, at 11 a.m., Pastor O.C. Henson Jr., will speak. The choir will present "Let the Trumpet Sound," and "He is Risen."

For information, call 293-4750, or 644-2395.

Maundy Thursday services planned

SANFORD — The Thursday before Easter, at 7 p.m., Pinecrest Baptist Church, 601 E. Airport Blvd., will observe Maundy Thursday.

The congregation will partake of the Lord's Supper in remembrance of what Christ and his disciples were experiencing that night. All faiths are welcome.

Dinners for sale

SANFORD — Zion Hope M.B. Church Usher Board #1 will sell dinners on Saturday at the home of Hattie Hankerson.

Call 323-4104 for deliveries.

Lutherans announce Easter activities

SANFORD — The Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, 2525 Oak Ave., will observe Palm Sunday services at 10:30 a.m. with the traditional procession of all the people singing a processional hymn as they enter the sanctuary.

Maundy Thursday Holy Communion and Good Friday Tenebrae are at 7:30 p.m.

Easter Sunday Holy Communion is at 10:30 a.m. with the Easter Brunch and Egg hunt at 9:15 a.m.

Grace 'n Grits joins churches

By NICK PFEIFFER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The first meeting of the Grace 'n Grits Coalition ministry got off to an excellent start Tuesday. The group plans to serve hot meals to the hungry starting next month.

Representatives of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, First Presbyterian Church, both of Sanford and St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Lake Mary, met at the Holy Cross Parish House to plan for the upcoming weekly meals. Senior Warden Bob Sonnenberg estimated over 60 persons attended the planning session.

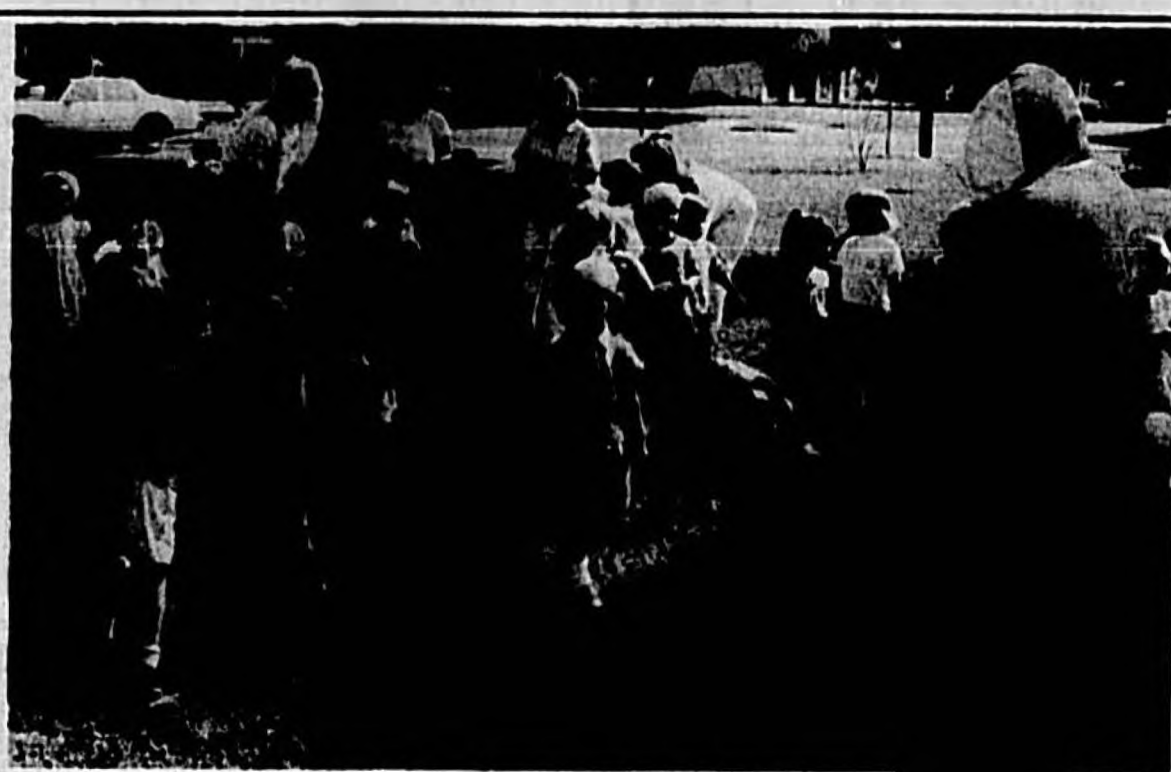

Sonnenberg explained, "Right now, we are in the process of determining how many teams we can set up." Each team of 12 persons will serve the food for four consecutive Wednesdays each month. "If we have enough people for six teams," he said, "each group will only have to work two months out of the year."

Sonnenberg said, "As our plans are set right now, we are setting Wednesday, May 6 for the first Grace 'n Grits dinner."

For months with five Wednesdays, youth groups will be set up to handle the fifth Wednesday serving.

The meals will consist of soup, bread, dessert and drink. Teams will be responsible for preparing and serving the food, as well as clean up afterward.

For further information, contact Holy Cross Episcopal Church at 322-4811.

Easter fun

St. Peter's Episcopal invites all to week long Easter activities

LAKE MARY — Traditional Palm Sunday Holy Communion Services will be held at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, 700 Rinehart Rd., on Sunday at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. Blessed palms and crosses will be distributed and the Rev. B.L. Barge will preach at both services. Christian education for all ages is at 9 a.m. and during the 10 a.m. service, both nursery care and Children's Church are provided.

On Wednesday evening prior to Easter, a service of Holy Communion will be held at 7 p.m.

On Monday Thursday, St. Peter's will commemorate the institution of the Lord's Supper (Holy Communion) with a service at 7 p.m. followed by foot washing for those who wish to participate.

This is to remind us of our Lord's last supper with his disciples, how he humbled himself, saying to them, "Do you know what I, your Lord and Master, have done to you? I have given you an example, that you should do as I have done."

On Good Friday, meditation service will be held from noon to 1:30 p.m. with prayers and readings centering on the Passion of our Lord.

St. Peter's welcomes all to any of these services.

For more information, call 444-LORD.

Easter teaches us not to give up hope

Perhaps we miss the real significance of Easter by trying too hard to associate it with the rebirth of life in spring.

It may be natural to want to celebrate Easter on a warm, sunny day when the crocuses are out and nature lends its reinforcement to the theme of resurrection. We may even tend to think "God arranged it this way."

We forget that in the Southern Hemisphere Easter comes in the autumn when the leaves are falling, the days are getting shorter and the nights are getting longer and winter is approaching.

But this perhaps provides, after all, a better test for our Easter faith. Easter is a hope for the future, a promise that no matter what lies immediately ahead -- though the skies may darken, the shadows lengthen and winter winds be on the way -- this too shall pass and the greenness of spring shall once more return.

RELIGION

A glorious spring morning does not an Easter bring. Easter is not a matter of fair skies. It is a matter of never losing hope during what may be the worst of weather and the worst of times.

Whether we live in the Northern Hemisphere or the Southern Hemisphere, Easter is our best reason for not giving up hope -- no matter how unpromising the outlook in our lives.

British prime minister wins

By MICHAEL WEST
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — Prime Minister John Major and his Conservatives were victors today after overcoming voter anger over hard-nosed economic policies and defying the doomsaying pollsters to extend their 13-year-old reign.

Major, who succeeded Margaret Thatcher 18 months ago, emerged strengthened by the personal mandate voters handed him Thursday.

"We've won tonight a magnificent victory, a victory that many people thought was beyond our grasp," Major told cheering election workers at party headquarters. The Conservatives were the first party this century to win four straight elections in Britain.

With 620 of 651 constituencies reporting, the Conservatives had won 321 seats, five short of a majority, but they were expected to pick up enough seats to control Parliament as counting continued. Labor won 269 seats and the Liberal Democrats 17. The Conservatives had 389 seats before the election.

"Now the Conservatives will continue with the decline," Labor Party leader Neil Kinnock said.

"The whole country deserves better and we will work to ensure that the day will come when, with a Labor government the country will get better in its spirit, in its soul, in its fortune. In the chances it gives to its children, the care it gives to its old and to its infirm," Kinnock said.

Almost all the opinion polls and many political pundits had predicted a Conservative defeat. But fear of Labor proved stronger than anger over the economy.

"There are just an awful lot of people out there who are mistrustful of even frightened of the possibility of a Labor government," said Anthony King, professor of government at Essex University.

Stockbrokers had worried that the recession, with its 9.4 percent unemployment and record rate of business failures and home repossessions, would help the opposition Labor party would win the election.

Investors have feared that a Labor victory would depress the pound and force an increase in interest rates.
