Dems Join Opposition To Gas Tax

By Micheal Beha

Herald Staff Writer The political heat continues to intensify for Seminole County commissioners considering a county gas tax of up to four cents a gallon. The democrats have joined the fracas.

First, it was opposition from six of the county's seven cities. Then it was the county's Republican Executive Committee and last week the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce climbed on the bandwagon.

Now the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee has come out against the tax.

Not all of the groups take the same stance on the gas tax. Every city in the county except Oviedo Executive Committee voted unanimously against a gas tax after hearing a presentation for it from Commissioner Sandra Glenn. The Sanford Chamber favors a gas tax, but its members want to see a list of roads to be repaired. The Democratic Executive Committee, which represents 39,347 registered Democrats in Seminole County, says the five Republicans who make up the commision need to show better planning and management skills before a tax is levied.

"It is common knowledge that overcrowded and congested roads are caused by too many cars being In the same place at the same time. It would seem to follow, therefore, that by prudent and careful planning, the concentration of development could have been avoided or minimized," according to the letter sent to commissioners from Gerald Korman, chairman of the Democrat-

The problem has been caused by county officials' fathure to properly plan the county's growth, Korman said. Korman was a candidate for the county commission in 1980 but was defeated by Robert G. "Bud" Feather.

He said the gas tax would punish county taxpayers for the commission's failures.

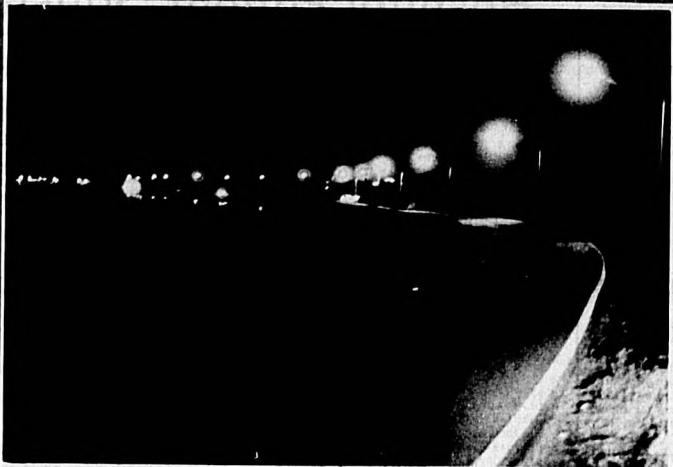

"In view of the multiple taxes being extracted from our already overburdened taxpayers, this increase, together with all the others. will severely strain the finances of many of our residents," he said.

The tax would increase gas prices. which have already been raised recently by state and federal tax

Increases, Korman sald. The tax could drive motorists voted against it. The Republican away from Seminole County gasoline dealers, into neighboring Lake County, where prices are cheaper, Korman said. Conversely, he said. without the county gas tax gasoline stations in the southern portion of the county would probably see an Increase in sales because of Orange County's recently approved 4-cent

The gas tax has been supported by Mrs. Glenn and Commissioners, Robert Sturm and Barbara Christensen. With only three votes the commission could pass a 1- or 2-cent tax. For a 3- or 4-cent tax they need an additional vote. Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff says he won't reveal his position on the gas tax until Tuesday night's public Feather has reaffirmed his stance that he won't vote for a gas tax unless a list of roads to be improved is developed by commissioners. He has taken that position since talk of a gasoline tax began months ago.

The "White Way" lighting along U.S. 17-92 emphasizes the beauty of Lake Monroe.

Let There Be Light, City Says the city of Sanford spending some $165,000 per year for "White Way" lighting of U.S. 17-92 around the lakefront, even though much of the highway to interstate 4 is outside the city's limits.

The lights have been there nearly as long as I have," said Sanford Mayor Lee Moore, who has served on the city commission for 14 years.

Actually the "White Way" lights were turned on on May 1, 1970. During the ensuing years the city commission a couple times have asked the Seminole County Commission to take over payment of the costs for the areas outside the city limits. But in past years the county refused and the city continued to fund the project.

"It's not a wide road," Moore said, adding that the lights certainly provide some safety for motorists and are beautiful from the interstate

It was Moore who some years ago in a city commission meeting at the old city hall waxed eloquent in remarks about retaining the lights and the city assuming responsibility for allaying as much hazard as possible for those who travel that part of U.S. 17-92, whether it is within or outside

The two lane roadway is hazardous at best, says Assistant Police Chief Herb Shea.

Noting that the city's limits on the highway extend only to the east side of Meadors Marine on U.S. 17-92. Shea said the Sanford Police Department investigates vehicle accidents in its territory on the highway.

"The lights do contribute to safety," Shea said, adding that anytime there is light instead of total darkness it is easier for a motorist to drive a veicle because he has reference points.

'It's not a wide road... The lights do contribute to safety."

"The road is super dangerous because it is two lane and curved and runs right along the water of Lake Monroe while the other side runs along a swamp," Shea said. The road, bordering the lake, is unbanked.

"It's a well kept road," Shea said. "But for the amount of traffic it has, two lanes are completely inferior. There are accidents there every week and when they occur they are pretty bad ones, seldom

Shea said the accidents range from vehicles running into the light poles, to running into the lake or the swamp. He said he can recall four fatalities on the portion of the roadway within Sanford alone. - Donna Estes

Would A Severely Handicapped Baby Be Denied Food, Care In Seminole?

Herald Staff Writer

It was a year ago that press reports of a Bloomington, Ill. newborn baby's death reverberated around the nation.

Dubbed "Baby Doe," the severely handicapped infant died after its parents, with the support of doctors and state courts, ordered the hospital to withhold food and care.

Due to existing Florida statutes, some say such an incident could not happen here.

The Reagan administration responded to the Illinois case by formulating rules to forbid such practices at hospitals receiving federal funds. But last spring, a federal judge struck down the "Baby Doe" rule, saying the measure was issued without a proper period for public comment.

The administration, perceiving its mission in this area as an attempt to prevent hospitals from murdering handicapped infants by withholding food and care, prepared a new rule on July 1. The new rule is slated to take effect after a 60 day period for public comment.

The administration's rule would require the posting of signs in hospitals stating that existing law forbids discrimination against the handicapped.

Signs would list "hotline" telephone numbers that people could call to anonymously report suspected violations against deformed bables. The government, in turn.

would dispatch investigators. But incidents like the "Baby Doe" case should not happen in Florida.

State laws on abuse and neglect of children already exist in statute books, said Barbara Stafford, who is in charge of case management supervision in Seminole County of children, youth and families, a division of the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

Related Stories, page 7A

"According to the law." Ms. Stafford said, "we must investigate cases of this type. HRS would respond" to calls of complaint.

Noting that she has never had a case of this sort, Ms. Stafford said HRS has a crisis unit that investigates abuse and neglect, and something like this might also be a criminal matter, involving the state attorney's office.

"If it is determined that an institution is not providing for a child's needs and welfare, someone should investigate in any case." she

And James Tesar, administrator of Central Florida Regional Hospital Sanford, said, "Hospital policy is to provide care and if there is a federal or state law on a matter. obviously we would abide by that

Kay Bartholomew, hospital public. relations director, said as far as she can determine a case like the "Baby Doe" incident has never come up at

But giving a personal opinion, she said 'the feds shot from the hip' with the Baby Doe rule.

"Each case (of a handicapped infant) is so individual." she said. 'No two cases are ever alike, making blanket rules difficult." Meanwhile; Seminole-Brevard

State Attorney Douglas Cheshire pointed out there are already notices posted in a lot of public buildings listing a toll-free telephone number where persons could call to report child abuse.

'This is a form of child abuse." Cheshire said in reference no neglect of handicapped newborns. Persons can call the sheriff's department or any law enforcement agency to report such incidents.

'Ultimately, it would end up in my office for prosecution." Cheshire said. But, he added, prosecution of someone who allegedly allows a multiple- handicapped newborn baby to die through lack of food or care is probably a new field lacking in precedents that would apply.

FP&L Sues Property Owners In Path

Settlements have been reached with all but 12 Seminole County landowners asked to sell a portion of their property to make way for Florida Power & Light Co.'s high voltage transmission line from Jacksonville to an Orange County substation. Suits have been flied against the holdouts.

FP&L spokesman Mary Ann Linden said 33 of the property owners in the transmission line's path through Eastern Seminole County have settled with the power company.

Condemnation suits have also been filed by FP&L against 65 other landowners in Orange, Flagler, Putnam and Duval countles who have refused to settle with the power company for a 300-foot strip across their property. Ms. Linden. Fourteen of those property owners are in Orange County, 12 are in Volusia County, 18 are in Putnam,

12 are in Clay and 6 are in Flagler. Geneva residents were vehement in their opposition to the power line running through their area. The group took its protest to the state Cabinet, which originally authorized the right-of-way for the corridor. The Cabinet gave the group approval to look for an alternative route through the

But efforts to move the corridor west of Geneva produced an outcry from residents in that area and following several stormy meetings locally the original route was eventually approved by the Cabinet.

FP&L District Manager Bruce Berger said the company hopes to acquire all the property on the 175-mile corridor from southern Georgia to the Poinsett substation in southeast Orange County by the end of August. He said negotiations are continuing with those property owners who have not yet agreed to settlements.

Berger said landclearing is scheduled to begin Aug. 1 with construction of the line to be finished by January, 1985.

The Miami-based utility plans to run a pair of 500,000-volt lines from coal-fired power plants in Georgia to supplement more expensive oil-fired plants in Florida. The $450 million line will eventually extend to Miami. When completed, FP&L officials say, the line will salve the company $1 million per day.

FP&L is the first utility to use the Transmission Line Siting Act which allows power companies to take condemnation action against property owners who are in the path of transmission lines.

The siting act has been opposed by many local residents who claim it circumvents county zoning ordinances.-Micheal Beha

The Housing Recovery May Have Hit Its Peak

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Enthusiastic builders started housing construction in June at a pace 92 percent ahead of last year, the government says, but the industry itself is resigned to a recovery dampened by high interest rates.

The Commerce Department's report Tuesday on housing starts showed a slight 2.9 percent drop from May's levels but only to a brisk annual pace of 1.747,000 units, the third highest measurement of the year.

But government and industry spokesmen say the good performance of the housing industry. which began even before the recession ended. already has been sabotaged by the last month's increase in mortgages rates of up to 1 percentage point.

"The continued improvement in the housing industry during the first six months of this year probably won't extend into the second half of the year due to rising interest rates," James Wooten, president of the Mortgage Bankers Association, said after Tuesday's report on

More AIDS Than Thought

ATLANTA (UPI) - A doctor at the Centers for Disease Control says the number of AIDS victims nationwide may be much higher than documented because doctors often fail to report

Dr. Richard Selik, who logs cases of acquired immune deficiency syndrome for the CDC, Tuesday said the number of cases doctors talk about seeing "seems to exceed the number of cases actually being reported in areas in which doctors are practicing."

As of July 11, physicians and health departments in the United States and Puerto Rico had reported a total of 1.831 AIDS cases, Selik said.

Physicians have a variety of reasons for withholding or failing to report information, he said. The reasons could range from a fear of breech of patient confidentiality to simply not knowing how to report an AIDS case.

Selik said he does not believe failure to report AIDS victims contributes to the spreading of the disease, but it hampers researchers in their efforts to document and trace the trend of the

Muscle Flexing Near Central America

U.S. Ships Steaming Toward War Games

WASHINGTON (UPI) - An eight-ship aircraft carrier battle group steamed toward the Pacific coast of Central America today in a show of force designed to underscore U.S. determination to retain influence in the troubled region.

The battle group, led by the conventionally powered carrier Ranger with its complement of 70 planes, will conduct training and flight operations in areas off the coasts of Nicaragua, El Salvador and Honduras as part of major military exercises planned for this summer, the Navy and defense officials said Tuesday.

Despite reports that other major warships such as the carrier Coral Sea would be sent into the Caribbean, there were no indications that another deployment was imminent.

The latest U.S. wrinkle in policy toward the region was announced as the House convened in secret session to hear about covert U.S. ald to Nicaraguan rebels based in Honduras and 24 hours after President Reagan appointed Henry Kissinger to head a special commission to reach a bipartisan consensus on U.S. Central American policy.

The eight ships left San Diego Friday headed for the western Pacific and were then rerouted to Central America, the Navy and the officials said. It is highly unusual for major warships to operate in that area.

The battle group, which has about 6.000 men, was to remain in international waters and there were no plans for the warships to transit the Panama Canal, the Navy said. They may stay in the region about two weeks, officials

The scapower demonstration is in line with military exercises administration officials said are planned for the region this summer, including combined maneuvers in Honduras, to signal Cuba and Nicaragua that the United States is capable of projecting its power rapidly to the area, for whatever purpose.

The ships will be under the leadership of the Atlantic Command, responsible for Caribbean operations, the spokesman

Besides the Ranger, the battle group is composed of the cruiser Horne, the guided missile destroyer Lynde Mc-Cormick, the destroyers Fletcher and Fife, the frigate Marvin Shields, the oller Wichita and the support ship Camden. the Navy sald.

At the same time, U.S. intelligence sources said the Soviet Union apparently has boosted the rate of flow of weapons and other military equipment to Cuba; having sent 20,000 tons of materiel to the island nation in early 1983. The sources could not say whether any of it was later sent on to Nicaragua.

Sources said the series of U.S. military exercises will include combined operations on the ground in Honduras between U.S. and Honduran troops, the first in that country since February when 1,600 Americans joined about 4,000 Hondurans in exercises near the Nicarguan border.

The likelihood of U.S. blockades being set up to prevent Soviet arms reaching Cuba or Nicaragua is almost nonexistant, administration officials said.

Was Smoking In Bed

Hospital Patient Satisfactory Following Fire

A 69-year-old Sanford woman was in satisfactory condition today following a fire which started while she was smoking in bed Tuesday at the Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford.

Hospital patient Elberta Walker was smoking in bed about 9 p.m. when a nurse on a routine check noticed smoke, opened Mrs. Walker's door and saw that her nightgown, restraint posey, bed sheets, and the left side of the bed were on fire, according to a hospital spokesperson

The nurse extinguished the flames by throwing a jug of water on them.

Mrs. Walker, a resident of the Sanford Nursing and Convalescent Center on Mellonville Avenue, Sanford, suffered burns on her upper left arm and upper left chest, the spokesperson said.

Someone broke into a Sanford man's home and removed 1/2 liter of gin. 89 in cash and numerous pieces of jewelry for a net haul of $350.

Tim McKlernan, 26, of 222 W. 19th St., said the thief entered his home through a bedroom window and took all the items from the drawers of a dresser in his master bedroom between 9 p.m. Saturday and 1:30 p.m. Monday.

DIRT THIEF

A thief used a front-end loader to scoop up $300 worth of land fill dirt at lot 1020 on Art Lane in Sanford between 2 p.m. Friday and 5:30 p.m. Monday.

The owner of the missing dirt is Penelope L. Woodward, 24, of 324 Clairmont Ave. in Lake Mary.

Oviedo Chooses A New Police Chief

A 34-year-old Winter Park police officer will take over as Oviedo's new police chief in mid-August.

After interviewing two finalists Tuesday night, the Oviedo City Council selected Wade Hancock to become the new chief, succeeding Wesley T. Place who will retire July Hancock, now assigned to the Winter Park police department's school liason program, said he does not anticipate making any initial changes in his new post.

"I'll have to get a feel for the department and find out what they're doing and where they're going and start from there," he said. "Oviedo is a lot like Winter Park.

There's a little bit of everything there. It's going to be a real challenge. It's a young police department with a lot of potential." sald Hancock.

illnesses, according to government figures. Medicare and Medicald together laid out $5.6 billion that same year to treat the consequences of alcohol abuse.

Rep. Andrew Jacobs. D-Ind., chairman of the House Ways and Means health subcommittee, told a council hearing Tuesday it is "quite logical" to increase alcohol and tobacco taxes to make smokers and drinkers finance now the extra medical care they will need when they grow old. "Taxpayers ... are entitled to have a little extra paid (to the trust funds) by people who are an extra risk," Jacobs said. But Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., opposed tax increases, saying the $11 billion a year envisioned would not solve "even a small part" of Medicare's debt, which could total hundreds of billions of dollars.

Huddleston said tax hikes would be an unstable funding source because people would smoke and drink less if the tax goes up.

Excise taxes now go to the general treasury and Huddleston said diverting them to Medicare would only worsen the overall budget deficit.

A council fact sheet said alcohol-related cases account for 20 percent of hospital admissions and in 1977 caused illnesses that cost $2.1 billion to treat. The cost of treating smoking-related diseases was an estimated $13.6 billion in 1980,

FAA To Try Commercials To Thwart Jet Hijackers

MIAMI (UPI) - A series of television commercials designed to scare off hijackers will be aired soon to combat a wave of air piracy, the Federal Aviation Administration says.

FAA spokesman Jack Barker said the public service announcement, scheduled to begin in several weeks, will warn hijackers about long Cuban prison sentences awaiting those who force U.S. jets to Havana.

Two more planes were hijacked to Cuba over a 37-hour stretch ending Tuesday morning and the hijackers were arrested in Havana.

"It's not just phony Castro propoganda," Carker said. "It is a fact that these long sentences are being handed out.

"If a hijacker tries to snatch a plane, he'll go to prison here. If he's successful, he'll go to prison there (Cuba), maybe for 50 years," Baker said. Since May 1, eight U.S. flights have been forced to Havana — four of them this month.

George "Skip" Stringer was released from Jail in Miami early Tuesday and spent his first day of freedom with his wife and parents.

Stringer had been sentenced to a mandatory three-year prison term for attempted theft. The sentence would have run out Nov. 15. He was convicted of using a gun while trying to steal a

But in an unprecedented ruling. Stringer was granted parole by the state Parole and Probation Clemency Board last week because he is a victim of post-traumatic stress syndrome, also called the Vietnam Syndrome.

Stringer's attorneys. Alan Weinstein and Rick Preira, said Stringer led 28 combat missions in Vietnam before his 20th birthday. He reportedly cowered when he heard firecrackers and champagne corks and Weinstein said Stringer once was convinced that the Viet Cong were storming his house.

The mental disorder is caused by exposure to a life threatening situation and can be characterized by flashbacks, unresponsiveness to reality and recurring dreams, his attorneys said.

Business Lobby To Fight Corporate Tax Hike

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Associated Industries of Florida, the powerful big business lobby, has vowed to mount a campaign to get the Legislature to repeal a controversial package expanding the corporate profits

AIF president Jon Shebel, who was unable to block passage of the proposal during last week's special session, said Florida's biggest corporations already are gearing up for a repeal fight during the 1984 regular session that begins next spring.

Shebel repeated his claim that the new tax, which covers profits carned in foreign countries and out-ofstate sales and affiliates and subsidiaries exempted when the original tax was established 12 years ago, will undermine Florida's campaign to attract business and

Black Enrollment At State Schools Hits All-Time Low

By United Press International

Black enrollment at the nine Florida universities has dropped to an all-time low and authorities are blaming tough new academic standards and cuts in financial aid.

Department of Education officials in Tallahassee say they hope to reverse the decline, however.

They also say they are encouraged by a meeting with a federal official last week and believe the state will soon win approval of a supplemental plan to fully desegregate its higher education system. Figures show that since 1978, when black enrollment in Florida's universities peaked, total enrollment increased by 14.543, while the number of black students dropped by 1,139.

Blacks made up 10.2 percent of the university student population six years ago. Last fall, the percentage had dropped to 8.2. "The university system has had a poor record on this, but it's not a record that will be quietly kept because we consider It a priority Issue," said Frank Scruggs, a Miami attorney and a member of the Florida Board of Regents. "It is a very real problem."

Authorities say the primary reasons for the decline in black enrollment are academic standards that are getting increasingly more difficult and cuts in federal and state financial assistance.

The state must win U.S. Office of Civil Rights approval by Aug. 15 of a supplemental plan to implement a 1978 desegregation proposal. Without the approval, it faces the loss of federal higher education money in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

William Thomas, Atlanta regional civil rights director, came to Tallahassee last Friday for a luncheon meeting with Department of Education officials, members of the BOR and the nine university presidents.

Deputy Education Commissioner Pete Millett said Monday he and other officials believe after the meeting that an acceptable supplemental plan will be worked out and the civil rights office won't begin proceedings to cut off federal funds against Florida as it did against Alabama last week. "We're back to the 1977-type discussions. There is more of a conciliatory, let's-help-you tone," Millett said. Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington complained a couple of weeks ago that federal officials were "changing the rules of the game" and enforcing as rigid quotas the goals of the 1978 plan. which the state thoght were to be general guidelines.

Turlington charged that Florida was being ordered to achieve parity - the same proportion of blacks entering the universities as among the state's high

Little Samantha's Propaganda Show

Freebies, especially free vacations to exotic foreign lands, are hard to resist. So one can't blame Arthur and Jane Smith of Manchester, Maine, for allowing their 11-year-old daughter. Samantha, to go on an all-expense-pald visit to the Soviet Union, and accompanying "the littlest diplomat" as well.

The Smiths also can't be faulted for possibly wanting to believe their visit might promote peace between the United States and the Soviets. After all, they live in an open society which encourages individuals to pursue personal goals and even disagree with government policy — in contrast to the collectivism that is a hallmark of the Soviet

But having given the Smiths the benefit of the doubt, we hope they aren't taking their red carpet reception too seriously or making personal political statements through their daughter.

One doesn't have to be an expert on Soviet affairs to realize that the Smiths are letting Samantha be taken advantage of by the Soviets. By giving the impressionable young Samantha a bear hug, Kremlin leaders have an appealing symbol to advance the illusion they are interested in world peace. The Smiths, and many in the press who publicized the visit, must be too young to remember how Hitler accepted flowers from young girls in the Nazi propaganda epics of another era.

One very good reason why the United States did not stoop to match the Soviet propaganda ploy may have been expressed in a recent interview by Malcolm Toon, a former U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia.

Ambassador Toon said he believes a major purpose of the Smith family visit was to allow the Soviets "to demonstrate that the American public is unhappy with some aspects of (President) Reagan's policy." Although he thinks it is inappropriate for any government or parent to exploit children, he sees no harm in the Smiths' trip so long as no one is fooled.

Especially Samantha, we might add.

Over the years, the United States has been only too willing to open its doors to thousands of Russians. That is exploiting the rivalry with the Soviet Union to an extent, but the policy primarily has been shaped by humanitarian considerations.

The idea that so many artists, scientists, intellectuals, Jews and Christian fundamentalists would abandon anything they might have in the Marxist world for the evils of capitalism — parents in the case of the teenage Ukrainian dissident Walter Polovchak — is anathema to the Soviets. Little Samantha is one easy way for the Soviets to repay Uncle Sam.

Samantha's visit would have some value to the cause of peace and freedom if she asked Soviet Premier Yuri Andropov about all the little school girls in Afghanistan murdered by Soviet troops for resisting the invasion of their country.

Mexico's Politics

Mexican voters demonstrated their dissatisfaction with government inefficiency, widespread corruption and a severe economic crisis by defeating the ruling political party in 12 cities and two state capitals.

The vote, announced recently, was the worst setback for the Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI) in 54 years. Voting took place in five of Mexico's 31 states. Even though PRI won most of the races for mayors and state legislators, its losses in three major cities show voter discontent.

The National Action Party (PAN), led by conservative businessmen and middle-class Mexicans, won nine of 105 mayoral races and five out of 16 state legislative seats. Mayors who are members of PAN now hold office in the major cities of Durango, Chihuahua and Ciudad Juarez.

Even though PRI obviously remains in firm control, election results indicate a turning point in Mexican politics — possibly the birth of a two-party system, like the one we have here in the united States.

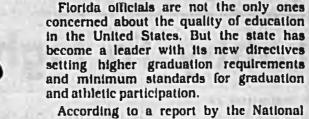

In the long run this will be good for Mexico and will help ensure a true democracy.

"My dear, I have NOT elected my gift program for you. As they say at the White House, I have simply out the rate of incresse in the program."

According to a report by the National Commission on Excellence in Education, about 23 million American adults, thirteen percent of all 17-year-olds and 40 percent of minority children are functionally illiterate.

The report said education in the United States is in a sorry state, because only 20 percent of all 17-year-olds can write a persuasive essay and that only one-third can solve a complicated math problem.

The report gives a number of reasons for an overall decline in the quality of education. Graduation requirements have been relaxed during the past 10 years, the report states. Two-thirds of all high school students say they have less than an hour of homework each night.

But the biggest problem is that the students aren't in class as long as students in other countires and they aren't taking math and science courses. In England, for example, students are in school eight hours a day for 220 days each year. U.S. students spend about six hours per day in school for 180 days each year.

Teachers are also blamed for the poor academic standing in the U.S. The report says that salaries are not high enough to attract top college graduates into teaching. As a result, "too many teachers are being drawn from the bottom quarter of high school and college students."

But the commission has made five major recommendations to help get the country's schools back on track.

At the top of the list is increasing high school graduation requirements. The report recommends four years of English, and three years each of Math, science and social studies along with at least one semester of computer science. A foreign language is recommended for collegebound students.

Higher achievement standards are also recommended. Four-year colleges should set tougher admission standards and tests should be given to certify students' progress through college.

Devote more time to learning the basics.

The report recommends longer school days or more emphasis to learning the fundamentals of education. More homework is also recommended.

Provide better training for teachers and better pay for teachers. The report says teacher testing and merit pay should be utilized to raise the standards for educa-

The final recommendation is citizen involvement. An active role at home and at school is recommended. That type of involvement is needed to make school meaningful for students, the report says.

Signs Of Life In Madrid

By Micheal Beha

It may not be the longest running international conference on record, but until now it has given every indication of being a serious contender.

The Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe convened in Madrid in the fall of 1980 and for almost three years since, the representatives of 33 European nations plus the United States and Canada have been trying to bring it to an end on a note of something other than total disagreement.

Madrid is the second follow-up to the 1975 Helsinki conference on the same subjects that was supposed to institutionalize a new era between East and West and ease the strain on the smaller nations caught in between.

Helsinki was, initially, a score the Soviets had been trying for a quarter of a century to make and a commitment the United States had been dodging for as long. It was, in effect, the long-delayed peace conference that was not held when the shooting stopped in Europe.

By agreeing to discuss continent-wide security on the basis of the existing borders, the Western allies were tacitly recognizing the map of central and eastern Europe as redrawn unilaterally by the Soviet Union.

In return for this prize, the Soviets had to agree to discuss expanded East-West contacts, basic human rights and in general being less beastly to people, including their own. You can imagine how serious they were about that, but as it turned out the West was — very serious.

The first follow-up conference, assuming you're still with me, was in Belgrade in 1977 and a bomb. The Soviets refused to be held accountable for failure to honor rights pledges made at Helsinki and the West refused to be a party to any declaration that let the Soviets off the hook.

Thus the marathon in Madrid. Both sides wanted to avoid another Helsinki. Both had stakes in a continuing dialogue — for the Soviets, Western acceptance of their European empire; for the West, some leverage with the Soviets on rights issues.

But through long months of charges and countercharges of bad faith, of polemics over the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and later the crackdown in Poland, there seemed no more possibility of eventual agreement than in Belgrade.

Credit the breakthrough to the diplomatic skill of the host government, or perhaps sheer fatigue. Whatever, both sides are suddenly receptive to a Spanish compromise proposal.

There is going to be — you guessed it — another conference, this one in Berne, Switzerland.

Time To Face The Truth about the filching of the Carter briefing papers"

"The KGB organized everything."

Thus Ali Agea told Rome reporters, who had been tipped off that he would make a statement, while his police guards stood patiently as he spoke from the steps of a Rome police station.

Agea was very responsive to press questions. He mentioned his terrorist training in Syria and Bulgaria, and a trip to the Soviet Union. He fingered his Bulgarian contacts in Rome, including "airline official" Sergei Antonov, now in a Rome jail.

a Rome jail.

It has been clear for several months, as the details of the investigation have reached the press, that these are the conclusions to which the 20-month investigation is inevitably moving. The attempt to assasinate the pope was a Soviet plot, motivated by the pope's role in Poland. It was authorized by the Politburo and by Brezhnev, and its operational side was the responsibility of Yuri Andropov, then KGB head, who worked through his Bulgarian cat's

But why did the Italians have Agea talk now?

Because of the kidnapping last week of Emanuela Orlandi, daughter of a Vatican employee, whose captors demanded Agea's release.

By letting Agea talk publicly, the authorities sent the kidnappers a message: You are wasting your time. Let the girl go. We know everything.

European journalists, almost from the very beginning, were quick to smell out the Soviet role. In contrast, there took place in the United States a concerted effort to throw cold water on the whole idea. Thus, it early became widely known in European media circles that the pope, on the way to the hospital, had said only two things: "The Russians did It," and "I will live." The Vatican's own sources confirmed, behind the scenes, the Soviet connection.

In the United States — and with a few honorable exceptions — the media went into what almost looked like a conspiratorial effort to get Moscow off the hook.

The honorable exceptions included Marvin Kalb of NBC-TV, John Wallach, foreign affairs editor for the Hearst newspaper chain, and "The Reader's Digest," which printed John Barron's decisive essay on the Soviet plot. Otherwise, "investigative reporting" went to sleep.

The New York Times in both its news coverage and its editorials discounted the Soviet role. On December 17, 1982, its Rome correspondent Henry Kamm filed a story claiming that "Israeli and West Germany intelligence and security sources with special interest in international terrorism are skeptical of charges of a Bulgarian connection in last year's attempted assassination of Pope John Paul II by a Turk." A later Israeli denial of any such skepticism appeared in only one edition of the Times.

For the next several weeks, the Times undercut the idea of any Soviet connection. Bernard Gwertzman, at the State Department, reported U.S. officials "unconvinced" that the Soviets had any role. The Washington Post put out the same line, and CBS-TV ignored the story — by any accounts, the story of the crime of the century. (The Carter debate book, in contrast, is much more important.)

Vice President George Bush contributed the fatuity of the century, matching the crime of the century. Discussing the KGB with a Christian Science Monitor reporter, he pooh-pooed the idea that the KGB is "horrendous," and aliuded loftily to "the naughty things they allegedly do." Bush really is not a fool, despite such statements from time to time

Why The Court Is Erratic

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Supreme Court has adjourned for the summer, following a typical blizzard of final-stretch decisions, and most lawyers and legal scholars agree that the 1983 court session was one of the most unusual in recent memory.

Most observers predicted that President Reagan's appointment of Justice Sandra Day O'Connor would give the court a comfortable conservative majority and that it would enter a period of 6-3 or 7-2 decisions, with the conservatives in the majority.

But this session's major decisional indicated that the court is widely split. In the 1983 term, more than 20 percent of the decisions — including many of the most important ones — were carried by bare 5-4 majorities, and the five justices making up the majority changed from case to case. It's almost an axiom that 5-4 decisions make for bad precedents, since they can be reversed in the future with the change of just one vote.

This term's voting pattern shows that, on most issues, there is a three-vote conservative bloc made up of Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justices William Rehnquist and O'Connor, This bloc is matched on the left by Justices William Brennan, Thurgood Marshall and Harry Blackmun. In the middle are Justices Byron White, John Paul Stevens and Lewis Powell, who have become a "floating middle": The three have rarely agreed in close decisions, and where two of them go, the majority forms.

A bizarre incident that took place in this session's closing days indicates how. badly split this court seems to be. A footnote in the majority opinion in Ruckelshaus vs. Sierra Club attacked the majority decision as "a truly radical departure from American and English Common Law." What happened was that Rehnquist had originally written a dissent, but a last-minute vote change turned his dissent into a majority opinion.

Observers greeted the incident with amusment and the footnote will be edited out of the official version of the decision. However, it showed how fragile the majority was in many of this court's decisions.

Of greater concern to many legal scholars was the court's apparent tendency to overlook prior decisions. Legal scholars like to believe that Anglo-Saxon law develops through court decisions and that the Supreme Court should be guided by its previous decisions: If the current court believes that pest justices rendered a wrong decision, it should say so explicitly, overruling the previous decision and the legal philosophy underlying it.

Does Press Treat Reagan Unfairly?

WASHINGTON — An exasperated Ronald Reagan, suddenly up to his neck in pilfered papers, is furning over the press coverage of his political embarrassments. Sources close to the president say he is convinced that his administration is the victim of a double news standard.

Are the watchdogs of the press really more vigilant in detecting Republican wrongdoers? Do the news sleuths tend to become more somnolent if the perpetrators happen to be Democrats? I must ruefully admit this has sometimes been my experience.

Example No. 1: I played a modest part in exposing the blunders and then the crimes that became the Watergate scandal. As one sidelight, I reported that Robert Vesco, the international swindler, had delivered a suitcase packed with $200,000 in $100 bills to Richard Nixon's campaign headquarters in 1972. This revelation added blazing new headlines to the Watergate story and led to a sensational trial.

A few years later, I reported that the same Vesco had offered $10 million worth of stocks to some insiders who claimed they could fix the fedeal charges against him. He actually transferred the stock after they satisfied him that they could pull strings inside Jimmy Carter's White House.

The circumstantial evidence implicated President Carter himself. He placed a telephone call that Vesco had requested and scribbled a note asking the attorney general to see one of the Vesco conspirators. Even if we are to accept Carter's version of the scandal, he was told about the $10 million bribe attempt and failed to report it to the Justice Department.

A federal grand jury wanted to indict some of the conspirators, but Carter's Justice Department refused to prosecute. In a letter to the judge, the grand jury foreman accused Justice of "manipulation." "duplicity" and "coverup" to protect the Carter administration.

Clearly, this was a far more serious matter than the bungled burglary attempt of the Democratic Party's Watergate headquarters in 1972 — or, eight years later, the fliching of Carter's campaign papers. Yet reporters swarmed like locusts over the Watergate story, wirtually ignored the Vesco scandal and now are swarming again over the pilifered papers story.

over the pilfered-papers story.

Example No. 2: In 1979, I reported that White House aides had participated in some wingdings on both seacoasts while President Carter was preaching the gospel of morality in the White House. Disregarding Carter's public appeal to all federal employees to stop "iiving in sin," some of his closest associates allegedly turned a Beverly Hills, Calif., party into a "licentious" affair. A complaint was lodged by a Carter loyalist, businessman Leo Wyler, who said the White House joy boys introduced an atmosphere of "drugs and girls" to the party.

The FBI received reports of similar conduct — ending in a sex act in the back seat of a limousine — in New York City. Yet the press paid scant attention to these allegations.

A few days ago, I heard that some Reagan appointees, supposedly of graver disposition, had been caught up in similar revelries. I flew to Los Angeles in quest of the evidence.

Not long thereafter, I was startled to hear that Los Angeles attorney Robert K. Steinberg had announced that I had secured custody of some salacious tapes. I possessed nothing of the sort; I had picked up nothing but hearsay.

Yet I was beseiged with calls from my press colleagues, demanding details. Thirty-one news organizations left messages; several published the attorney's statement without checking with me.

Example No. 3: Last year, I helped to break up a cocaine ring on Capitol Hill. The ringleaders were arrested and a quarter-million dollars worth of cocaine was selzed. In grand jury testimony, nine members of Congress were identified as customers of the ring.

Only one of them, ex-Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., was taped making incriminating statements. His was the only congressional name, therefore, that I published at first. The press pounced on the story and tits' name hit the headlines.

Later, other names leaked into print, so I decided it was only fair to reveal all the names. The most celebrated was that of Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass. I made it clear that no indictments had been issued and that the nine accused legislators had denied the sworm charges. But suddenly, some newspapers were struck with a seizure of conscience and decided it was irresponsible to name Kennedy.

The sex and cocaine scandals perhaps do not deserve any enduring attention; But the Vesco affair was serious business. In my professional opinion, it was an uglier scandal than Watergate.

But the uncovering of a political scandal requires a great cooperative act scandal requires a great cooperative act of perception. If the press at large ignores the fledgling expose, if editors fall to grasp its importance, if reporters do not widen the beachhead, if press conferences do not confront public officials over it, if columnists do not elaborate its ramifications, then it will not survive to reach those levels where public advocates take it up, where investigative agencies begin to grind, where man column demands reduces.

where mass opinion demands redress.

Rightly do newspeople rail against bureaucratic secrecy and philitital opverup. But the great graveyard of investigative stories is to be found in anothetic newsrooms. Perhaps President Resign has resign to cry discrimination:

Protesters Want Plug Pulled On Right-Wing Radio Station

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A tiny Broadcasting company to continue blocked from selling it - until the Kansas radio station broadcasting a fight-wing group's tirades against Jews, blacks and politicans can be heard less than 60 miles from Dodge City but has sent shock waves all the way to Washington.

KTTL-FM, a country-western station owned and operated by tax protester Nellie Babbs and her husband, Charles, is embroiled in one of the most controversial license fenewal fights in recent memory before the Federal Communications Commission.

The fight involves the station's broadcasts that warn of violent reprisals again politicans and private citizens, that call Jews "children of the devil" and proclaim "niggers belong swinging from trees in bongo-bongo land."

The broadcasts have prompted a wave of protests against renewing the 100,000 watt station's license.

But despite the outery from citizens of the western Kansas town of 17.800, various groups and the Kansas attorney general, FCC rules allows the Babbs' Cattle County operating KTTL until the controversy is resolved - even though its license expired June 1.

"That's one of the prices we have to pay for free speech," said one FCC official.

Last week, Kansas Attorney General Robert Stephan cited fears of violence against the public and private citizens in urging the FCC to act quickly.

"The potential for violence in Kansas is very real and the station's programming is increasing the possibility such violence will occur," Stephan said in a 17-page complaint accompanied by more than 70 pages of exhibits.

But Mark Solberg, an attorney with the FCC's FM branch, said hearings on the complaints and a proposal to buy the license still are months away and court appeals could take years to resolve.

Meanwhile, 49-year-old farmwife, grandmother and tax protester Nellie Babbs plans to continue operating KTTL and its primarily automated programming. She is Jews.

FCC sifts through the complaints.

"If there's this much hate in this town for me for trying to preserve the First Amendment rights of people, then I've done all I can do," she said. "I get the feeling sometimes they're just waiting to see if I sink or swim."

Amid the stations' countrywestern programming, the one-hour nightly toped messages were started by two men associated with the Posse Comitatus — a paramilitary group of tax protesters who follow their Latin name of "law of the county.'

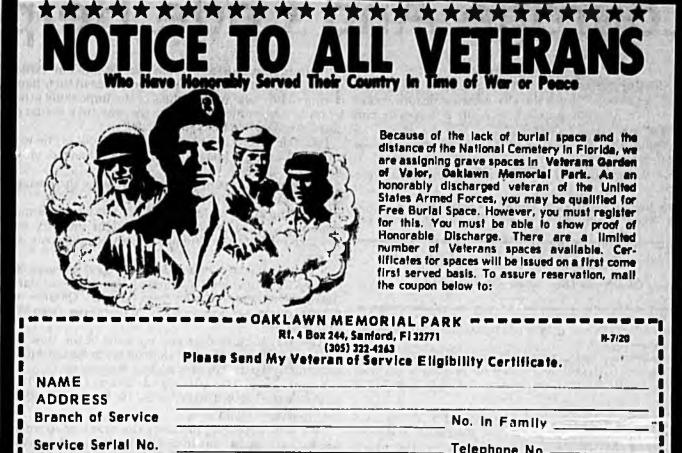

"You're either going to get back to the Constitution of the United States in your government or your officials are going to hang by the neck until they're dead - as examples to those who don't," he

Schools On Verge Of Sweeping Change

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - The state will spend the rest of this decade implementing the education improvements passed by the Legislature this year, but some big changes will be apparent when classes resume this fall. 'We'll start seeing the benefits almost immediately." Gov. Bob Graham said last week.

There will be a considerable difference in the schools during the coming academic year and probably for the next two or three years," says Carey Farrell, director of public schools for the Department of Education.

Many high school juniors and seniors will have a chance to go to school an extra hour each day to take math or science courses when classes resume in late August or early September.

. New science equipment and computers will begin to show up in classrooms throughout the state.

.Students hoping to play on high school basketball. baseball, swimming and track teams next spring will have to keep an eye on their grades for the rest of this

Several educational study groups will begin work soon - one commission or another seems to always be studying education - including a 15-member panel to develop the specifics of a merit pay system.

Senate President Curtis Peterson says the education improvements, built around his legislation that was dubbed "RAISE," for "Raise Achievement in Secondary Education," are the most profound in this state's history and maybe one of the most significant attempts at education reform in the country's history.

One of the most important provisions of the "RAISE" bill was the establishment of tough statewide requirements for graduation from high school. The requirements will be implemented in a two-step basis beginning in 1984-85, but they are substantial enough to require school districts to begin gearing up for them

"Twenty-two credits will be required for graduation. effective with the 1984-85 academic year, including three each in math and science. Twenty-four credits will be required effective in 1985-86, including, in addition to the math and science courses, four credits of English and three credits of social studies. Many school districts don't offer enough credits a day to allow their students to complete 24 by 1985-86, so the Legislature is requiring that all districts to go seven periods a day beginning next fall.

However, some districts won't wait a year to extend their school day because of the math and science requirements taking effect in 1984-85.

Some members of this fall's junior class may not have had any high school math or science work, so $20 million has been appropriated for makeup math and science work this coming school year. School districts will have an option of offering a seventh period beginning this fall. The classes will be limited to math and science and the students to juniors.

The education reform package includes $10 million to purchase computer equipment for grades seven through 12 and $20 million to enhance science labs, mainly through the purchase of equipment. New computers and new science equipment should start showing up in some schools in a few weeks.

Students will have to start paying closer attention to their grades this fall.

Beginning in January, high school students will be eligible for interscholastic extracurricular activities, including sports, only if they had at least a 1.5 grade point average (of D+) for the previous semester, which would be this fall's classes.

The Men of Melody, a seven-member ensemble of Tennessee Temple University in Chattanooga, Tenn will present a special concert on Friday, July 22, at 7:30 p.m. at the Metropolitan Baptist Church, 4400 N. To Test, Market Ideas

Inventors Have A Friend In Iowa

AMES, Iowa (UPI) - The "No More Tears" tollet seat, peanut butter slices and a portable motor for canoes are among 262 inventions and ideas budding inventors have submitted to a new state research center.

The Iowa State University Center for Industrial Research and Service offers a "Program for Innovation" which tests ideas, builds prototypes, checks for patents and promotes promising inventions to manufacturers.

"We try to be of help to the inventor from sticking his life savings into something that won't work," says program manager Carmi Spicer.

, "We save them a lot of money that they would have spent investigating on their own or trying to get a patent and find out somebody already had a patent on it." The program is limited to lowa residents.

Spicer said only about 5 percent of the proposals CIRAS has received actually reached fruition. He said it usually takes from two to 12 years to move something from the idea stage to the marketplace.

"Often the inventor dies before they get any real money out of it." he said. "It's usually the families of the inventors that reap the harvest from their inventions. It lakes a long time from inception to put it on the shelf."

The CIRAS successes include Arctic Shield windows, an idea that launched a West Des Moines business; and a pressure-actuated control valve, for which CIRAS built a prototype that drew the interest of several companies. Peanut butter slices, an idea by Karen Freeman of Indianola to individually wrap peanut butter similar to processed cheese slices, also drew interest.

Among the ideas whose time has not come are a tollet seat designed to vent odors out of the bathroom, which Spicer said "would be hard to sell and there are easier ways to accomplish what it's trying to do.'

When an inventor makes an initial contact with CIRAS, he is asked to fill out a confidential disclosure document specifying the date an idea was conceived.

CIRAS then has a design or mechanical engineer study the invention to see if it works and is worth pursuing. If the idea passes engineering tests, CIRAS produces a drawing or prototype and then gives the inventor a list of patent lawyers to contact to start the patent application process.

"Once they start that application, we try to sell or lease it to a company and list it in our CIRAS newsletter. which is sent to 4,000 manufacturers in lowa, with a short description of the patent." Spicer said.

Winn-Dixie Is Still Florida's Biggest Firm

Winn-Dixie Stores of Jacksonville again ranks as Florida's largest corporation, according to the annual Florida Trend survey published in the magazine's July issue.

The supermarket chain led the state's public companies with $6.7 billion in sales to continue with its No. 1 ranking.

Smoke Detector Calls For Help, Too

American Bell has introduced an Emergency Call System which may greatly reduce the number of lives and billions of dollars in property that are lost each year to fire.

The Smoke/Fire alert when triggered by a smoke detector. automatically dials a preprogrammed telephone number to report a fire.

Smoke detectors save thousands of lives every year, but only alert the occupants of a home to fire," according to Randall Tobias, president of American Bell Consumer Products. "Now, with the Emergency Call System, a call for help is automatically placed, allowing people to leave their homes quickly and safely."

In addition, the system has the special benefit of providing property protection when there is no one at home to hear the smoke detector

The system operates via a transmitter, which should be placed within four inches of each smoke detector in a home. When a smoke detector sounds a warning, the Emergency Call System transmitter signals a console, which activates a voice synthesized message - "Fire. Fire. Fire" - which is repeated for 30 seconds.

If within that 30 seconds the "cancel" button is not pushed, the console will automatically dial a number of the owner's selection.

The telephone number dialed by the system could be the fire department, answering or alarm bureau, an official emergency number, a friend or neighbor. The system reports also, by voice synthesized message, the address and telephone number of the home and requests that the emergency be investigated.

If that call is not acknowledged. the console will dial a second pre-programmed number, alternating between the two numbers until it has gone through the process four times or until someone signals the machine to shut down by pushing pre-programmed emergency the "3" button on a Touch-Tone

Facing The Issue Of Handicapped Newborns:

No Infant Should Die Due To Law Breach

the U.S. surgeon general. He writes in favor of the proposed "Baby Doe"

By Dr. C. Everett Koop WASHINGTON (UPI) — The extent to which handicapped infants have been subjected to discriminatory and life-threatening practices in hospitals has not yet been fully documented.

But the available evidence indicates that handicapped babies have died from denial of food and that medically necessary treatment has been withheld from infants with congenital anomalies on the basis of their handicaps.

'The regulations will not interfere with decision-making processes...'

These practices cannot be attributed to occasional aberration. They have occurred in health care facilities large and small, urban and rural, in all parts of the country.

Discrimination against handicapped persons, of any age, is a violation of a 10-year-old federal law. No infant should die in this country because we lack effective procedures for detecting and preventing discrimination and lifethreatening violations of the law.

The regulation that the Department of Health and Human Services has proposed will permit timely reporting of alleged violations. speedy investigation of those alleged violations and immediate enforcement action, when necessary, to protect a handicapped infant whose life is endangered by discriminatory practices in a program or activity that receives federal financial assistance.

The regulations will not interfere with the decision-making processes

Editor's note: Dr. C. Everett Koop is customarily undertaken by physicians in their treatment of handicapped infants. It will not stipulate what treatments are most beneficial or impose futile treatment that merely prolong, temporarily, the life of an infant born terminally ill.

Only when non-medical considerations, such as subjective judgments that an unrelated handicap makes a person's life not worth living are interjected in the decision making process, will this regulation

In the past few weeks, the Department of Health and Human Services acted on three telephone reports of infants who were not being fed for quality-of-life reasons. These infants have been fed and treated and are doing well today.

Is it murder? The federal government says its proposed 'Baby Doe' rule is designed to prevent hospitals from murdering

In the late 1950s, about 2 percent of newborns had some physical or mental defect or learning disability. Today the rate is 4 percent.

The problem of the handicapped infant is not going to go away.

Rule Would Prolong Dying And Suffering

Editor's note: Dr. James E. Strain is considered, final decisions on president of the American Academy of Pediatrics. He writes in opposition to the proposed "Baby Doe"

By Dr. James E. Strain

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The American Academy of Pediatrics strongly opposes the administration's revised proposal on the care of handicapped and severely ill newborns.

It believes the government should turn its attention to encouraging the establishment of local ethics review groups that can properly address the difficult question of care.

The academy is dedicated to ensuring that handicapped children receive the best care possible. But shifting decision making from parents and local health care teams to distant bureaucrats will not be in the best interest of the child.

The reliance on federal enforcement involving hospital signs. anonymous tip "hotlines" and investigations, as seen during the brief implementation of the previous regulation, only adds to the anguish of families.

The AAP's position is that medi-Said Koop, "No infant should die cal treatment should not be withheld solely because of retardation or other handicaps. Handicapped infants with operable conditions must receive necessary surgery and humane care.

There are infants born with severe handicaps such as anencephaly (poorly developed skull and brain) in which providing more than routine care would only prolong pain and suffering. Other infants with futures hard to predict require special care based upon consideration of all factors involved. Hence the HHS simplistic demand for "customary medical care" is meaningless.

It is clear the pediatrician's primary obligation is to the child. Although family concerns must be treatment must be based on what is best for the infant.

There is no disagreement that severely handicapped infants should be fed and given appropriate medical treatment. But beyond this. it is impossible to develop a consensus on which infants within a broad range should be treated. The academy believes these difficult medical decisions should be made only after a thorough review, including consultation with a local medical review committee made up of individuals with medical, legal ethical and social expertise.

> 'The hotline strategy produces fear rather than reflection...'

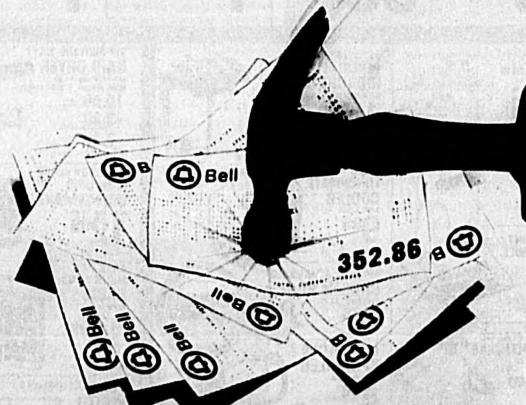

Extensive experience with institutional review boards for the evaluation of ethical problems in research with human subjects shows such groups can be effective.

The President's Commission on Medical Ethics also contends "the federal government would do better to encourage hospitals to improve their procedures for overseeing life-and-death decisions, especially regarding seriously ill newborns."

The "hotline" strategy should be abandoned because it produces fear rather than reflection and hampers development of reasonable guidelines and procedures for applying them.

The result is not more enlightened and compassionate decision making but an incentive to avoid decision making by imposing rigid standards of care under threat of government reprisal. Contrary to the government's stated intention, fear instilled by such a rule will only prolong dying and suffering.

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Remember the discredited diaries of Adolf Hitler? Well, they may be as superfluous as they are fraudulent. The U.S. government already has a set of diaries - photographic diaries - that offer a personalized view of the Nazi leader in private occupation.

They are Eva Braun's scrapbooks.

And they are at the National Archives.

Braun was Hitler's mistress. She was also a one-time photographer's assistant and a shutterbug. She took pictures of her family, her friends and, most of all, her Fuhrer. She followed Hitler with her camera from his rise to prominence in the early 1930s to his ignoble death in 1945.

Braun died with Hitler in a joint suicide. But her pictures were preserved in a series of albums. When Allied forces moved into Nazi territory, the albums were found in a private home in Austria. U.S. officers confiscated about three dozen volumes, and sent them eventually to the archives.

Today, after nearly 40 years, the scrapbooks are fragile and the photographs are brittle. But archivists have reproduced all of the material for public consumption. Many of the pictures are palatable enough, even pleasant and innocent; others, however, are somewhat less digestible.

There are snapshots of handsome young men in Alpine suspenders and saucy frauleins at the beach. There are pictures of birthday parties and happy kids. There are also photographs of thick-necked Nazis with swastika armbands, and the rest of the evil flotsam and jetsam of World War II.

Archival authorities believe many of the pictures predate the public Hitler. The ones of Braun's friends-prints. Braun, pronounced "Brown," was a middle-class the scrapbooks. German, and she recorded her early life with altogether familiar phrotography.

She took shots of her parents, of her sisters, of her girlfriends. She even included a touch or two of cheesecake. One of the pictures shows a couple of smiling women, back to back, dressed in one-piece bathing suits; another is a rear view of a temptress lifting the hem of her summer shorts.

But then Braun turned her lens on Hitler and his Third Reich. The former house painter was 23 years her senior, and no lady's man, but she met him through friends and moved into his life in 1932. She took still pictures and 16mm movies of Hitler; some of them were more or less intimate.

It was apparently difficult to get an intimate shot of the dictator. He is seldom shown without a uniform. including jackboots. He is close clipped and squeaky clean. Hitler was a man of impeccable personal appearance; "What would people think," he once said, "if I had a potbelly?"

And the same can be said for his entourage. Martin Bormann, Rudolf Hess and Heinrich Himmler are pictured in the scrapbooks as disciplined and sterilized. The one exception is 300-pound Hermann Goering; photographs of Goering and Hitler (160 pounds) look a little like Laurel and Hardy.

But it's difficult to chuckle at the official Nazi family. Because most of them do not chuckle at themselves in the albums. Braun took hundreds of photos of smiling Reichswehr officers, but none were laughing. None but and family go back to 1913. They are the pleasant Hitler, that is. Curiously, Hitler is laughing throughout

He laughs when he shakes hands with his dog, Blondi. He laughs when he lifts an Aryan infant from a crib. He laughs when he greets dignitaries, he laughs when he bids them adieu, and he laughs near the Eissel Tower. when, in 1940, he triumphantly visits the Nazi occupied

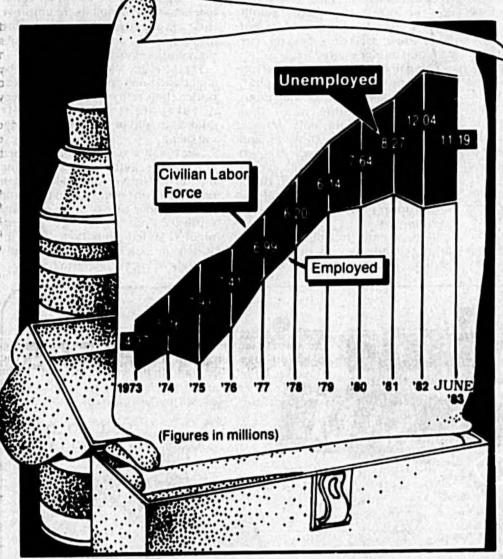

Why was Hitler so happy? Officials at the National Archives say he may not have been. Like most family photographers, Eva Braun tried to record the best sides of her subjects. So while France bled, Jews screamed and millions died, she portrayed the Fuhrer as a stiff but basically cordial human being.

He is shown taking a nap in a tea house. And looking at art in a gallery. There are dozens of pictures of Hitler walking in the peace of the mountains, reading at small tables, and fraternizing with everyone from aproned servants to the elegantly attired Il Duce of Italy. Benito Mussolini.

There is even an extraordinary shot of an almost likable Hitler at a party for children. The mass murderer is sitting astride a long table, which is peopled by a gang of chattering tots, and he is leaning in, totally ignored, just another boring grown-up trying to get some

Thus the pictures do not portray reality so much as they do ideality. And in that sense they may be as pliony as the diaries that emerged in Germany earlier this year. The diaries were invented to delude history; she may not have know it, but Frau Braun did the same thing with her scrapbooks.

The unemployment rate continues its slow decline from a peak 10.8 percent in December 1982. The number of unemployed in June -- 11.9 million - remained at a near-record high. Because the total labor force has been expanding at a faster rate for most of the last decade, the numbers of Jobholders have been increasing even as the ranks of the jobless have been swelling. As a consequence, while the unemployment rate for May 1983 is more than twice as high as the comprehensive 1973 figure (10.1 percent compared to 4.9 percent), there are 14.5 million more jobholders now than 10 years ago (99.56 million compared to 85.06 million).

Altamonte Sweeps Division Titles

Ebbert 4-Hits Oviedo; Winter Garden Is Next

DELAND - Greg Ebbert tossed a four-hitter while Eric Martinez and Matt Messina each rapped out three hits as the Altamonte Junior All-Stars blanked Oviedo, 11-0, to capture the District 14, Division 2 Junior Little League championship here Tuesday night.

Altamonte, which carries one loss into the District 14 title game, will take on Winter Garden Thursday night at 7:30 at Winter Garden. Winter Garden nipped Ococc. 5-4. Tuesday to win the Division 1 title. It also has one loss, so Thursday's game will be for the championship.

Altamonte skipper Frank Messina indicated that he would go with lefty Cory Prom against Winter Garden. Prom came on in relief in Monday's 2-1 loss to Oviedo and struck out eight of the 14 hitters he faced.

"We'll go with Cory, he looked good Monday," said Messina. "Then we'll come back with Messina or (Jeff) Hagen if he gets in trouble."

Comeback is what the Juniors did Tuesday. After a lackluster showing in Monday's setback to Oviedo, the Altamonte crew turned the bats loose against Oviedo starter and loser Dwight Everett.

"It was a complete reversal of the night before," said Messina about the 12-hit attack. "He (Everett) had pretty good speed, but we weren't tense like we were Monday. We were excited and we went up there hitting the ball."

Altamonte jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first frame. Eric Martinez roped a single and center fielder Chris Brock ripped a double into left center to score him.

Altamonte went into its excitement attack in the third with a six-run barrage. Matt Lange reached on an error by the shortstop and moved to second on a single by Eric Martinez. Both moved up with a stolen base. Brock walked to load the bases and Ernest Martinez followed with a single to make it 2.0.

Scott Stiles then hit a ground ball to second, but the throw home was late and Eric Martinez scored. Messina chased home another one with a groundout to shortstop before Prom singled home Ernest Martinez for a 5-0 bulge. Hagen walked to reload the bases prior to Ebbert and Lange both reaching on errors by the shortstop to make the count, 7-0.

Ebbert, meanwhile, was sailing along. The blondhaired lefthander, who was one of the top hurlers on the Seminole Pony Baseball Mustang World Series runnerup two years ago, struck out four and walked two. Charles Warner had two of the four Oviedo hits, but Ebbert picked him off first after his first single in the second inning. After two were out in the fourth, Messina singled and went to second on a poor throw. Prom then reached on an error by the second baseman to score the run.

In the fifth, Ebbert and Lange walked, then moved up on a balk. Eric Martinez followed with another single to score both runs for a 10-0 advantage. Brock followed with a single after Martinez stole second to make it.

Messina led the way offensively with a double and two singles. Eric Martinez had three singles while Brock had a two-bagger and a single. Prom punched two singles.

Long Bass Blast Sends Seniors Past Eustis, 4-1

By Chris Fister

Herald Sports Writer EUSTIS - When big Kevin Bass breaks out of a slump, he does it in a big way. After going hitless in his last five plate appearances, Altamonte's cleanup hitter drilled a solo home run to straight away center in the bottom of the sixth inning here Tuesday night to snap a 1-1 tie and lead the Altamonte Senior League All-Stars to a 4-1 victory over Eustis in the District 14, Division 2

"The guys that haven't been doing it for us, did t for us tonight," Altamonte manager Clayton Garrison said: "Our eighth and ninth hitters were getting hits and Base" was in a bit of a slump. That just shows we have a lot of depth on this team.'

Altamonte now advances to the District 14 finals against the Division 1 winner, Winter Garden. The final is scheduled for Thursday night at 7:30 in Eustis. Both Altamonte and Winter Garden will be going into the district final with one loss. Losses from division play carry over into the district.

"It's going to be a one-game, do-or-die, situation." Garrison said. "We have to bring our bats and arms and come back and play like we did tonight."

After Monday night's game between Altamonte and Eustis had a combined total of just four hits, both teams came out swinging Tuesday night. Eustis came up with a pair of hits in the top of the first off Altamonte's Kenny Chapdelaine, but the host team failed to score. With two outs, both Danny Sperry and Jay Carter singled, but Jay Watson hit into a force play to end the inning.

Altamonte, which only had one hit Monday, got in the hit column early as Ryan Lisle stroked a two-out single in the bottom of the first. Lisle went to second on a Eustis error, but Bass grounded out for the third out.

Eustis came up with two more hits in the top of the second, but again came away empty. Dave Westgate singled to the gap in right center to lead off, but he was gunned down trying to stretch it into a double. Tom Ruggie followed with a bloop single to right, but to force plays got Chapdelaine and Altamonte out of the inning.

Altamonte got on the board in the bottom of the second, after being shutout for eight consecutive innings (seven Monday and the first Tuesday). With two outs, Kenny Oswald reached on a Eustis error and John Bane lined a double to right center to put runners on second and third. Chapdelaine then ripped a run-scoring single to lest to give himself a 1-0 lead. T.J. Scaletta then rapped a bullet that had single written all over it, but Eustis' pitcher, Carter, reached out and snagged the liner to end the inning without any further damage.

Neither team threatened again until Eustis tied the game at 1-1 in the top of the fifth. With two outs, Robbie Terrell doubled to left center and came around to score on Mark Hill's grounder as Scaletta's throw pulled first baseman Mark Coffey off the bag. Coffey and Hill collided, enabling Terrell to score all the way from

The game didn't stay tied for long, however, as Bass led off the bottom of the sixth by blasting his homer into orbit. Bass' shot knocked Carter out of the game and Hill came on in relief. Altamonte then added a pair of insurance runs to take a 4-1 lead into the seventh. With one out. Coffey singled, stole second, and went to third on a wild pitch. Oswald then drew a walk and stole second. John Bane followed by bouncing back to the mound. But Coffey was caught off third and was out in a rundown. Chapdelaine was issued a walk to load the

Mahaffey Favored At Kingsmill; Cowboys' Walls Vows Retirement

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) - John Mahaffey seems to play his best golf on some of the toughest courses, a good reason why he's one of the favorites in the $350,000 PGA tournament this week at Kingsmill

Mahassey pushed his career earnings over the $1 million mark by winning at Kingsmill two years ago. Last year, he sagged to a tie for 18th, eight shots behind winner Calvin Peete.

Kingsmill, a Pete Dye design, is 6.684 demanding yards that play to par-71 and wind through a luxury housing development and a multitude of bunkers, trees, back yards and ponds, with the James River bordering on the last two holes. But Mahaffey's putter was the key weapon in his victory. "I don't hit the ball a mile and I don't make a lot of birdies, so I don't play the wide-open courses that well," said Mahaffey. "I've usually putted well at Kingsmill (25 putts in his final round in 1981), although the rain last year bothered me.

"I play better on courses where distance isn't so much a factor and accuracy is a premium. On courses like that, there's no advantage to being long. I can hit it a lot longer than I do, but I wouldn't be able to find half of them."

Rain shortened the Kingsmill tournament to 54 holes last year when the second round had to be played over two days. Mahassey. who won in 1981 with an 8-under-par 276 total, had problems after an opening-round 68 last year and finished 71-72.

Americans returning from last week's British Open are among the favorites at Kingsmill. Although

British Open winner Tom Watson is absent this week, Ray Floyd, Peter Jacobsen, Tom Kite, Bill Rogers, Tom Weiskopf and Hal Sutton are

Also among the favorites are three Virginians playing close to home. Curtis Strange, originally from nearby Virginia Beach, Va., owns a home along the Kingamili golf course and has Rogers' family as his guests each year.

Strange had a course-record 64 to tle for the third-round lead two years ago, but faded to a final-round 73 to finish six shots off the pace.

Lanny and Bobby Wadkins. natives of the Richmond area, have played the course many times and are in the field, too.

Danny Edwards, the winner of last week's Quad Cities Open at Coal Valley, Ill., is looking for his second straight victory.

Missing from among the PGA money leaders are No. 3 Ben Crenshaw, No. 4 Gil Morgan, No. 5 Fuzzy Zoelier, No. 7 Severiano Ballesteros, No. 9 Watson, No. 11 Fred Couples, No. 12 Craig Stadler, No. 13 Hale Irwin and No. 14 David Graham.

The tournament was played in Napa, Calif., for 13 years before moving to Kingsmill in 1981. Kingsmill is located on the banks of the James River with the 17th hole located where the first English set foot on American soll.

The tournament is sponsored by Anheuser-Busch Inc.

DALLAS (UPI) - Dallas Cowboy defensive back Everson Walls officially announced his retirement because of a contract dispute with the team, though club officials believed the move was a contract negotiating ploy. Walls, 23, was signed as a free agent, and led the league in interceptions his first two years, the first player in pro football to do so.

Cowboy executives were surprised when agent Steve Weinberg called team president Tex Schramm to say a letter of retirement had been mailed to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Everson has convinced me that his retirment is sincere," Weinberg said. "Right now he has made a big career decision and he just doesnit feel like talking to any members of Weinberg said the decision was final.

"I think he's pretty young to be getting out of football," Schramm said. "It's not a wise decision and he's getting some very bad advice from his agent. This used to be a ploy that a lot of players used, but it's not viable any more. It's not a good negotiating tool."

Weinberg and Cowboys vice pres ident Gil Brandt have been involved in negotiating for three months. The club's five-year offer of $1.25 mflion was rejected. Weinberg said he wanted a shorter deal - three years - for $925,000.

Schramm has not been involved in the negotiations. By retiring. Walls can avoid a $1,000 daily fine for not reporting to camp by Thursday.

Savages Clinch Spot In Regional Spot; Cook's Corner Breezes To 11th Victory

The Seminole Savages, a 15 and under girls softball team, elinched a spot in the regionals Tuesday night with a 12-5 victory over the Conway Lovebugs at the Five Points softball complex near Winter Springs.

The Savages, managed by Roger Richardson, have Game 2 - Seminole 18, Walsey Ward 2 carned a spot in next month's regional tournament in Oxford (Northwest). Alabama. Seminole won two games on Monday. 9-1 over the Seminole Dirt Shirts and 18-2 over Walsey Ward. Both the first and second place finishers in the tournament at Five Points advance to the regionals. The Savages will be one team while the second will be either Valsey Ward or the Conway Lovebugs.

In tonight's action. Conway and Walsey Ward meet at 6 with the winner advancing to the finals against the Savages. The final will follow tonight's first game. Here is a local the Savages' three victories:

Game 1 - Seminole 9, Dirt Shirts 1

Beth Watkins hurled a three-hitter and went 2 for 3 at the Dirt Shirts. The Savages took a 2-0 lead in the second inning on an RBI single by Riane Richardson and Karen DeShetler, Laura Davis and Ava Gardner, Seminole put the game on ice with four runs in the sixth. Richardson reached on an error, Watkins singled and both scored on a double by Angle May. May came around on DeShetler's single and DeShetler scored on an error. DeShetler went 3 for 3 for the game.

Sports Roundup

In Monday's second game, an 11-run second inning outburst led the Savages to a rout of Walsey Ward. Chris Tibbitts picked up the pitching victory as she allowed only five hits and Tibbitts helped her own cause by going 3 for 3 at the plate with a double. Gardner and DeShetler also added three hits to the 19-hit offensive attack. Davis and Kim Waln added two hits each while Watkins was 1 for 1 with a triple.

Game 3 - Seminole 12, Conway 5

A six-run first inning propelled the Savages to a 12-5 victory Tuesday night over the Conway Lovebugs. DeShetler leg at a first with a single and she scored on a double by Davis. Kelly Neary followed with a single to put runners on second and third and Gardner was issued an intentional walk to load the bases. Kristie the plate in Monday's opener to lead the Savages over. Kaiser then lined a shot that went for a two-base error as both Davis and Neary scored. Another Conway error allowed Gardner to score and Richardson was then an RBI double off the bat of Watkins, Seminole added issued an intentional walk to load the bases again. three more runs in the third with key hits coming from. Another error led to two more runs for the Savages. DeShetler had her third straight three-hit game and has nine hits in 14 at bats so far in the tourney. Davis added three hits including a pair of doubles while Neary went 2 for 4 with a double and May was 1 for 3 with a double. Watkins picked up her second pitching victory as she shut out Conway until the Lovebugs rallied for five runs

While the summer heat has been nothing short of blistering. Seminole Cook's Corner has breezed to a 11-0 record in AAU Basketball action. Seminole won its 11th straight Tuesday night, in a rout, 81-48, over Ovledo.

There was never any doubt for Seminole which took a 20-8 lead in the first quarter and led 60-31 at the half. William Wynn led the way with 21 points followed by Willie Mitchell with 17 and Jimmy Gilchrist with 16. Mike Schwab had 12 points to lead Oviedo.

Seminole will be back in action Thursday night against Lake Mary at Lake Mary with Junior Varsity action beginning at 6:15.

The Seminole JV rolled to its ninth straight victory Tuesday, 62 M. over Oviedo's JV. Mike Wright led Seminole with 17 points, Sanford's Dave Grether tied a course record with a final 18-hole round of 22 for a tournament total of 102 (42 under par) to win the July Open Putt-Putt Golf Tournament at the Fern Park Putt-Putt course. Grether won $90 for first place in the tournament.

Joe Daniels was a distant second with a 112 (32 under part while Jim Haynes was third at 25 under par. Clarence Daniels and Jim Manning tied for fourth at 24

The next major tournament will be the 1983 State Championship, September 24-25 at Fern Park.

Luke Appling, 76, May Finally Be Over The Hil

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Not tonight. Josephine. Not in sweltering 93-degree heat.

As one wag in the RFK Stadium press box suggested - maybe Luke Appling is over the hill.

You had to say this for the sprightly 76-year-old, a one-time Chicago White Sox shortstop: he nearly busted his bridgework trying to do the same thing in Monday night's second annual Old Timers' Cracker Jack Classic as he did in last year's contest when he came out of the pages of the past to re-endear himself to the whole country with a dramatic first-inning home run into the lest-field stands off fellow Hall-of-Famer

They did everything they could to recreate the situation in Monday night's five-inning

Appling led off again for the American

Leaguers and Spahn started for the National Leaguers, who won the game, 5-3.

Spahn's first pitch was way outside for a ball and the crowd of 31,160, who paid as much as $15 a ticket to see their old heroes perform, booed lustily. His second pitch was in the dirt and the crowd, all hoping to see Appling reach the seats again, boold some Spahn then came in a few feet from the rubber on the mound in an effort to get the ball over the plate. Quite honestly, he wanted to see Appling hit one also.

Luke did - but it was a soft popup to third baseman Ron Santo. Appling got one more chance to hit in the third and walked, after which he drew a warm ovation when he was removed for a pinch runner by former Philadelphia Phillies' manager Eddle Sauer, handling the winners.

This time it was Al Kaline and Brooks

Robinson who pumped home runs into the left-field seats, only about 260 feet from home plate.

Appling wasn't all that disheartened about his failure to repeat last year's spectacular performance.

"Someone asked me if I expected to hit another one," he said. "I said, 'heck, no.' I told him, 'Babe Ruth hit 60 home runs one year in 600 times at bat. How do you expect me to hit two of them in two at bat?""

McRae's Homer Draws Head Shot, Starts Fight

United Press International

Was it bad blood or just a bad pitch? Whatever the reason, the result was explosive - a bench-clearing brawl. After Toronto reliever Jim Acker hit Hal McRae in the helmet with a fastball, the Kansas City designated hitter charged the mound and players from both teams followed.

McRae, whose home run in his previous at-bat in the sixth inning was the knockout punch in the Royals' 6-2 victory Tuesday night, was still throwing verbal jabs in the visitors' clubhouse.

"It doesn't matter whether it was intentional or not. What matters is what happened - I got hit in the head and I had a right to do it. I didn't think about it. I just reacted."

Acker said the beaning wasn't inten-

'When you're three runs down and still have three at-bats to go you don't put anyone on intentionally," he said. "It was just a fastball that got away."

Kansas City starter Bud Black, 4-3. scattered seven hits over 7 1-3 innings. Luis Leal, who allowed McRae's homer, dropped to 6-2. Dan Quisenberry worked the final 1 2.3 innings to record his 22nd

Kansas City led 1-0 in the first when U.L. Washington scored from second base on shorstop Alfredo Griffin's error.

The Royals took a 3.2 lead in the third when Washington reached on an infield hit and eventually scored on George Brett's groundout.

Kansas City made it 4-2 in the fourth on Willie Wilson's RBI single and McRae smashed his homer in the lifth to make it 5-2. Brett capped the scoring in the ninth with his 19th homer.

Indians 5. White Soz 4 At Cleveland, Andre Thornton's 12th home run of the season snapped an eighth-inning tie and Manny Trillo had three RBI Tuesday night to back the complete-game effort of Rick Sutcliffe and lead the Indians to victory.

Yankees 4, Twins 0 At New York, Shane Rawley tossed a six-hitter and Dave Winfield hit a two-run triple to spark New York to its fifth straight win. Rangers 3, Brewers 1 At Milwaukee, Larry Bittner drove in two runs to snap the Rangers' five-game losing streak and end the Brewers' eight-game winning skein.

Angels 6, Red Box 1 At Anaheim, Calif., Ken Forsch limited Boston to three hits and Brian

Downing and Fred Lynn slammed homers, leading California. Forsch. 9-6, completed his ninth game, tying him for the league lead with Toronto's Dave

At Seattle, Scott McGregor tossed a complete-game four-hitter and Cal Ripken drove in three runs with a home run and a double to lead Baltimore to its ninth win in 10 games.

At Oakland, Calif., Glenn Wilson's RBI single and Enos Cabell's sacrifice fly keyed a two-run ninth inning that rallied Detroit to its third straight win.

Cardinals 4, Padres O Ozzie Smith looks like the type that gets sand kicked on him at the seashore. Lately, however, he's treating National League pitchers like he's the king of

Greenpeace Members Detained By Soviets

NOME, Alaska (UPI) - A Greenpeace International spokesman said he hoped pressure from the U.S. government and the public would force the Soviet Union to release seven members of the environmental group detained by Russian soldiers on the Siberian coast.

The U.S. State Department requested information from Moscow and from the Soviet embassy in Washington on the status of the environmentalists. A spokeswoman at the State Department in Washington said Tuesday the Sin ... Union had yet to acknowledge the accest of the seven Greenpeace members. Five Americans and one Canadian were taken into custody Monday after going ashore near a Russian whaling station at Lorin on the Siberian coast and another American was captured trying to escape. Other members of the group escaped back to Nome aboard Greenpeace's Rainbow Warrior, a converted trawler, carrying a film of the whaling station and the arrests.

Israel To Redeploy Troops

By United Press International

Christian east Beirut came under heavy artillery and missile attack today hours before the Israeli government voted to redeploy its army in southern Lebanon as part of a strategy U.S. officials fear may lead to the permanent partitioning of Lebanon.

Authorities said it appeared the shelling in Beirut came from gun emplacements in the Upper Metn mountains, an area under Syrian control.

At least three people were killed, including a 7-year-old child, and 24 others wounded when several rounds hit the Akkawi and Mar Mikhayel neighborhoods of Christian Ashraflych, police

In Jerusalem, the Israeli government approved plans to redeploy its army to more defensible positions in southern Lebanon. Details have not been worked out.

American and Lebanese officials say the move could lead to the permanent partitioning of

Missile Plans Backed

STRASBOURG, France (UPI) - President Francois Mitterrand and West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl reaffirmed their commitment to deploy new NATO nuclear missiles in Europe this year if arms reductions talks between the superpowers bring no agreement.

The leaders, in their second meeting this year, said after five hours of talks Tuesday that they include the independent British and French nuclear arsenals in negotiations to limit medium-range missiles.

"There was no problem between France and West Germany" on the NATO plan to deploy 572 Pershing-2 and cruise nuclear missiles in Europe beginning in December unless agreement is reached at Geneva arms talks. Kidnappers Give 6 P.M. Deadline

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Kidnappers today threatened to kill the 15-year-old daughter of a Vatican employee message was couched in poor Italian and the meaning unless the would-be assassin of Pope John Paul II is released from prison by midnight (6 p.m. EDT). The kidnappers made the threat in calls to monks at a Rome church and to the Italian news agency ANSA.

At the end of a 90-minute audience before 35,000 pilgrims and tourists, the pope recited a brief "Hall Mary" in Latin, specially dedicated to the girl, the daughter of a papal messenger, who was abducted from a street in central Rome on June 22.

In his brief prayer, the pope made no reference to the midnight deadline set by the mystery kidnappers for the release of Mehmet Ali Agea from the Italian Jall where he is serving a life term for his May 13. 1981 shooting attack on the pope. In the call to the monks, the kidnappers complained that the Italian government "with the approval of the Vatican State, does not intend to dispense with an instrument of propaganda such as the prisoner Agca." In an apparent reference to their threat to kill the kidnapped girl unless Agea was released today, the caller said, "as we approach the suppression of July 20, we do not lose hope in the will of those who can carry out a gesture to resolve the situation."

was not clear. When the ANSA editor who took the call asked for clarification of the phrase "approach the suppression" the caller said it would indicate thap Emanuela had not yet been "suppressed" and was still alive. ANSA said under further questioning the caller said: "This message is our last message before the expiry of the ultimatum which is confirmed for midnight today."

The Vatican was directly involved in negotiations with the kidnappers, now generally believed to be foreigners interested only in the freeing the Turk from prison.

On Tuesday, the kidnappers contacted Vatican Secretary of State Cardinal Agostino Casaroli over a specially arranged "hot line" at 7 p.m. (1 p.m.).

They demanded that Italian newspapers print the full text of an 800-word message released in the form of a tape recording through the Italian news agency ANSA

ANSA ran for its subscribers the complete text of the message on a cassette the kidnappers left on the steps of the Italian president's Quirinale palace, near ANSA's cause of his death was viral several crisis events, including the hepatitis, and the secondary cause was multiple myeloma, a form of bone cancer.

Reynolds, who was born in East Chicago, Ind., was a close friend of President and Mrs. Reagan, dating from 1976 when he covered Reagan's first bid for the Republican nomination for the presidency.

Reynolds covered the White House during the Johnson administration, and more recently had assassination attempt on Reagan March 30, 1981.

Jeff Tolvin, a spokesman for ABC. said Reynolds had been one of the three-person anchor team for ABC's World News Tonight since July 10. 1978, sharing anchoring duties with Peter Jennings in London and Max Robinson in Chicago. He was based in Washington.

In the past several months of Reynolds' illness, Jennings has been on the scene broadcasting substituted as anchor for ABC news.

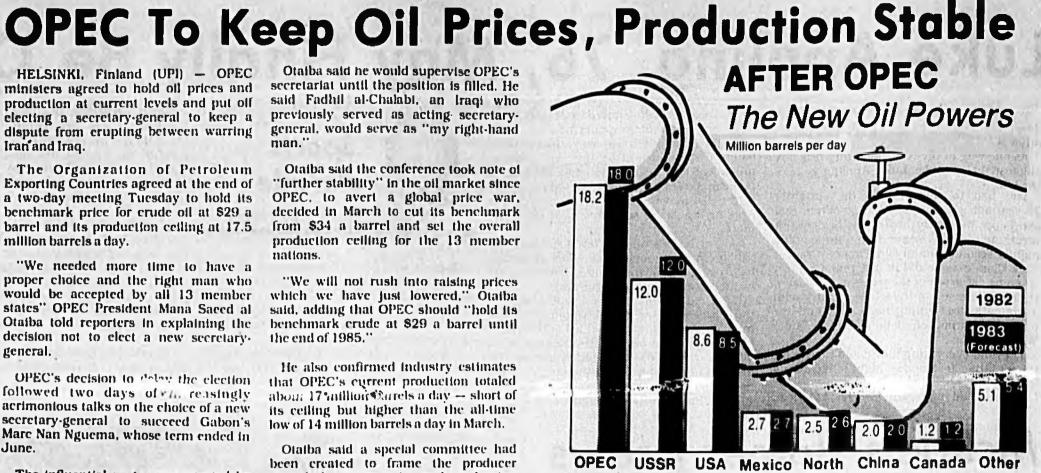

Otaiba said he would supervise OPEC's secretariat until the position is filled. He said Fadhil al-Chalabi, an Iraqi who previously served as acting secretarygeneral, would serve as "my right-hand

Otaiba said the conference took note of "further stability" in the oil market since OPEC, to avert a global price war, decided in March to cut its benchmark from $34 a barrel and set the overall production ceiling for the 13 member

"We will not rush into raising prices which we have just lowered," Otafba said, adding that OPEC should "hold its benchmark crude at $29 a barrel until the end of 1985."

He also confirmed industry estimates that OPEC's current production totaled about 17 million Durels a day - short of its ceiling but higher than the all-time low of 14 million barrels a day in March.

Otatba said a special committee had been created to frame the producer group's long-term price and production policies, review the oil markets and promote contacts with non-OPEC producers - such as Britain, the Soviet Union, Mexico and Norway — before the next meeting in December.

The key to future world oil prices is not OPEC's production quotas, but in the decision of other exporters. If Mexico and the major North Seas producers, Britain and Norway, continue pumping at current levels or even higher, prices may once again fall.

Family Reunion Inspires The Sharing Of Recipes

By Lou Childers Herald Correspondent

Sonia Cirocco is as full of vigor and zest as the ribs) Szechwan Chinese food she serves when she is expecting company.

Sonia is the supervisor of records at the University of Central Florida and recalls starting her job in 1966. "Florida Technilogical University as it was called than had its office on Central Avenue in Orlando. Our entire staff consisted of the president, his secretary, myself and two other employees as the university was in the planning stages."

Sonia says her claim to fame in the kitchen is due to the wonderful instruction she received as a child at the side of her mother. Her father was the choral conductor of the choir at Valparaiso University in Indiana, and according to Sonia, "Mom did a lot of entertaining which gave me the opportunity to help her with the cooking," Now both of her parents, Richard and Wilma Schoenbohn, are her next door neighbors in Oviedo.

Sonia's first employment was as a chef in the Strongbow Turkey Inn in Valparaiso where she learned to cook turkeys, hams and pot pies at age 16.

She says that both of her children. Matt. 16, and Glanna, 14, enjoy wok cookery, too.

Sonia says even though her sister, Emily Kickhafer. lives far away in Ohaha, and her brother. Richard Schoenbohm, Jr. lives in Wisconsin, they are still a close knit family. Occasionally, they all converge in Florida for a family reunion. It was during one of these gettogethers that Sonia obtained her favorite vegetable dish for stir frying. Jade-green broccoll, from her niece, Rentta Schoenbohm of Appleton, Wis.

Since stir fried foods contain minimal amounts of meat or seafood and must be eaten immediately after they are cooked.

JADE-GREEN BROCCOLI

- I pound broccoli
- 3 tablespoons off
- I clove garlie, mashed or minced
- I thin slice ginger (optional)
- 1 teaspoon saft
- 1 tablespoon sugar 1/2 cup chicken broth
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch dissolved in 2 tablespoons

Dash of Accent

- 1. Wash, clean and dry broccoll. Break off flowerets and cut into suitable size. Use paring knife to peel tough outer skin of stem and slice slantwise lito ½-inch slices. 2. Heat wok or pan hot and dry and add oll. Turn heat to medium and add garlic and ginger.
- 3. When ginger and garlic are golden brown, add broccoll. Turn heat up and stir-fry about 2 minutes. Sprinkle in salt and sugar, add chicken broth, stirring salt. Set aside. Stir-fry the scallions and celery in oil for 1 for a few seconds. Cover and cook over moderate heat minute. Push aside. Stir-fry the snow pea pods 2 for 2-3 minutes. The broccoli should be tender and still

Take A Two-Step Back To Gala Roaring Twenties Party

Summertime means party time, so this year, why not two-step back to the Roaring Twenties. Invite family and friends to a rip-roaring soirce in the style of the Great Gatsby. Costumes are de rigueur, my dear, and a Charleston contest will set the pace.

Toast the contestants with a Fitzgerald Fizz, and start things hopping. After the dancing, take a break with Gatsby Veal, an elegant entree.

GATSBY VEAL

3 large thin slices veal (about 12 by 6 inches) ¼ pound mortadella, thinly sliced 14 pound Italian salami, thinly sliced 14 pound mozzarella cheese, shredded 14 pound prosciutto, thinly sliced 14 cup fine dry bread crumbs

14 cup chopped parsley I large clove garlic, minced 6 hard-cooked eggs, peeled

2 tablespoons olive oil 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon pepper 6 slices bacon 1 1/2 cups tomato sauce

1/2 cup dark rum (80 proof) I large clove garlic, minced 1/2 teaspoon basil, crushed

Have butcher remove leg bone and pound veal very thin. Lay out veal, slightly overlapping long sides. Pound overlapping areas to press meat together. Top veal with slices of mortadella and thin salami. Sprinkle with cheese. Top with prosciutto. Combine bread crumbs, parsley and 1 clove garlic. Sprinkle mixture over prosciutto. Place eggs along one 12-inch edge of veal. Carefully roll up veal jelly-roll fashion, being careful to keep eggs in place. Fasten with string. Place veal roll in lightly greased baking dish. Season with salt and pepper. Top with bacon. Combine remaining ingredients. Pour over veal. Bake at 350 deg. F. for 1 hour, until veal is tender. Chill overnight. Slice to serve. enough to go around a 1-quart souffle dish and overlap. Makes 8 servings.

kings Of A Great All-American Outdoor Feast

The mere aroma of food cooking over a charcoal grill is enough to whet any appetite. Add the easy informality of outdoor entertaining, the pleasure of dining al fresco. and the convenience of serving delicious easy-to-prepare chocolate desserts, and you have the makings of a great all-American outdoor feast.

Barbecuing is one meal that puts the emphasis right where it should be - on fun, rather than work. As the grilled food gradually reaches the just-right stage (with an occasional turning, perhaps, or dabbing-on of sauce), cooking and conversation proceed hand in hand. There's no separation of cook and guests - no need, in fact, for the chef to leave the party at all when accompanying foods such as saisd and dessert can be readled in advance.

One such carefree meal is detailed here. Both the main dish - chickens basted with a zesty barbecue sauce and the vegetable - Accordion-Stuffed Potatoes - are prepared side by side in a covered grill.

ZESTY BARBECUE CHICKEN

No-stick cooking spary 2 broiler-fryer chickens (3-31/2 pounds each)

1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce 15 cup vinegar

14 cup firmly packed brown sugar 2 tablespoons prepared mustard

1/2 cup chopped onlon

I clove garlic, finely chopped 1 tablespoon chill powder

Line the fire bowl of a covered grill with heave duty aluminum foil. Prepare heavy duty aluminum foil drip pan to place in coals underneath chickens. Spray grid with no-stick spray according to directions. Place chickens on grid above drip pan. Cook chickens in covered grill over medium indirect heat 1 hour, turning twice. In the meantime, prepare barbecue sauce; combine remaining ingredients in saucepan; bring to a boil and simmer 5 minutes. Grill chickens an additional 30 minutes, basting with barbecue sauce, until chicken is well done and drumstick can be moved easily. 6-8 servings.

Drip pan: Use two sheets of heavy duty aluminum foll 6 inches longer and 6 inches wider than the desired size of pan. Fold in all edges 1.1/2 to 2 inchs. Score corners. Fold again, forming 1-1/2- to 2-inch sides, and miter corners against eides of pan.

ACCORDION-STUPPED POTATOES

6 large potatoes

6 tablespoons margarine or butter

Seasoned salt Garlic powder

Celery salt

Pepper 2 medium onions, thinly sliced

3 cups (1/2 pound) sliced mushrooms

6 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled Grated Parmesan cheese

Sliced cherry tomatoes Snipped paraley

Line the fire bowl of a covered grill with heavy duty aluminum foil. Tear off 6 sheets heavy duty aluminum foil large enough to wrap potatoes individually. Cut each potato almost through crosswise into 14-inch slices; place potato in center of each foil sheet. Using 1 tablespoon butter for each potato, cut butter into very thin slices and place in between potato slices. Sprinkle potatoes lightly with seasoned salt, garlic powder, celery salt and pepper. Insert onion slices between every other potato slice. Top each potato with 14 cup sliced mushrooms. Bring two foil sides up over potato; fold down loosely in a series of locked folds allowing for heat circulation and expansion. Fold short ends up and over again: crimp to seal. Cook potatoes in covered grill over medium, direct heat 45 to 60 minutes or until tender. Before serving, open each packet and top generously with crumbled bacon, Parmesan chese, tomatoes and paraley. 6 servings.
CHOCOLATE STRAWBERRY

CREAM ROLL

No-stick cooking spray

4 eggs, separated

1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup sugar

4 cup water

Chase The Beautiful Blues All Summer

Blue is beautiful in the summertime. Beautiful in the summer sky, the peaceful lake, the shining sea, the cornflower and the bluebird. Mostly, blue is beautiful in blueberries, where there's a double dividend - you not only can see the color, but you can taste the flavor.

Summer is also a time for marriages, when something blue is a traditional part of the festivities. One of the most satisfactory marriages is that between blueberries and unflavored gelatine. Use them to create recipes that are natural, flavorful and wholesome. Unflavored gelatin contains no articifial ingredients or sugar, and blueberries are a completely natural treat. They belong with one another because the unflavored gelatin gives recipes the support they need while letting the fresh blueberry flavor shine through. The results are appealing and refreshing dishes guaranteed to live happily ever after.

Any time of day can be blueberry time. Mornings start out great when Berry Blueberry Jam is on the breakfast table to spread a little homemade flavor on toast. mussins, or croissants. Cool and creamy Summer Blueberry Soup is a delicious make-ahead surprise. There aren't too many soups like this that can be enjoyed for breakfast, as a dinner appetizer, as a mid-afternoon or midnight snack or as a delightful

When afternoons call for entertaining or just lounging. Shimmering Blueberry Salad can quench a parched palate with its light and clearly refreshing combination of blueberries, oranges and rose wine. Everyone knows that blueberries are a regal berry, and Fresh Blueberry Cheesecake is fit for a king with its lusciously light cheese filling crowned with rings of blueberries and whipped cream. Part of the blues-chasing attraction of all these dishes - including creamy Blueberry Ice Cream - is their ease of fixing and the delight in the faces of those who sample them.

The blueberry season is short, but these recipes can all be prepared with readily available unflavored gelatine , and dry-pack frozen blueberries when the fresh have passed. Enjoy these wonderful dishes whenever you want to chase the blues . . . summertime or anytime.

BERRY BLUEBERRY JAM 2 cups (1 pt.) fresh blueberries

15 cup sugar

2 teaspoons grated orange peel

1 envelope unflavored gelatine 1 cup water

In medium saucepan, combine blueberries with sugar, cook 5 minutes, crushing berries slightly. Bring to a boil, then boil rapidly, stirring constantly, 3 minutes. Stir in orange peel.

In small bowl, sprinkle unflavored gelatin over water: let stand 1 minute. Add to blueberries; stir over low heat until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 5 minutes. Ladle into jars; cover and cool slightly before refrigerating. Makes about 2 cups jam.

SUMMER BLUEBERRY SOUP

1 envelope unflavored gelatin 4 cup sugar

2-1/2 cups water 2 tablespoons lemon juice

2 cups (1 pt.) fresh blueberries

1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon or aromatic bitters I cup (1/2 pt.) light cream or half and half

In medium saucepan, mix unflavored gelatine with sugar; blend in 1 cup water. Let stand 1 minute. Stir over low heat until gelatine is completely dissolved. about 5 minutes. Stir in remaining water, lemon juice. blueberries and cinnamon. Simmer, stirring frequently and crushing berries slightly. 15 minutes or until blueberries are tender. Cool completely: stir in cream. Chill 4 hours or overnight. Garnish, if desired, with lemon slices and additional blueberries. Makes about 1 quart soup.

NOTE: Soup will thicken upon chilling SHIMMERING BLUEBERRY SALAD

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine 16 cup sugar

1-1/2 cups boiling water

2 cups rose wine

2 cups (1 pt.) fresh blueberries 1 can (12 oz.) mandarin oranges, drained

In medium bowl, mix unflavored gelatin with sugar. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Stir in wine. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Fold in blueberries and oranges. Turn into 5-4 cup mold or bowl; chill until firm. Makes about 10 servings.

Fresh Blueberry Cheesecake

Microwave Magic

Cuban-Style Chicken Dish Rates Raves

When the dilemma of "what to have for dinner" presents itself, I often find chicken to be the quickest and most versatile. A three pound fryer can be used for so many good main dishes. With the microwave oven, you can bake, broll, oven fry. and stew chicken. The only preparation the microwave is not recommended for is deep fat

Chicken is one of our best high protein food sources. It is inexpensive compared to the cost of red ment or fish. When the fat is removed, it is also low in calories. The skin and fatty tissues can be removed for all preparations, thereby lowering the calorie count.

Chicken with rice is a good combination main dish. This dish, prepared as the Cubans do, will become a favorite.

CHICKEN AND RICE (Cuban Style)

¼ cup olive oil 3 pounds chicken

1 onlon

2 cloves garlic

I Cubanella pepper 1 large tomato

1 teaspoon lemon julce .

1 bay leaf parsley

Midge Mycoff

Home Economist Seminole Community College

i teaspoon salt 14 teaspoon hot sauce 3 cups chicken broth 4 teaspoon saffron

2 cups rice 1 cup frozen peas

2 ounces pimientos

Quarter the chicken. Brown the chicken using a browning skillet and oil. (If you don't have the microwave browning accessory, use the surface unit of your range to do this step.)

Chop the onion and garlie. (The food processor can be used.) Use the dripping from the chicken and brown the onion and garlic in the microwave at 100% power for 1 minute. Add the lemon juice and bay leaf. Add the chopped parsley, salt, hot sauce, one cup of broth, saffron, and rice. Cover. Microwave at 85% (roast) power for 10 minutes.

Place the chicken on top of the rice. Add remaining broth and microwave at 85% power for 15-20 minutes or until chicken is tender and the rice has absorbed the broth. Remove the bay leaf. Slice the pimientos into strips. Microwave the peas. Garnish the chicken with the peas and pimientos. Serves 4.

Make your own cheese shake and bake. Coat the chicken well and microwave.

CHEEST BAKED CHICKEN

2 whole chicken breasts, split

1 teaspoon basil 3 tablespoons fresh parsley

4 ounces Parmesan cheese 8 slices day-old bread

1 teaspoon salt

2 tablespoons oil or melted butter 1 clove garlic

1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Wash the chicken, remove skin and pat dry. Place the parsley, piece of parmesan cheese in the food processor and with steel cutting blade, process until cheese is grated. Add the bread and continue to chop until crumbs are made. Add salt, garlic, melted butter or oil and Worcestershire sauce. Process until well mixed. Place this crumb mixture in a plastic bag and coat chicken well. Place chicken pieces on a shallow round baking dish. Microwave at 85% power for 10-12 minutes or until golden brown.

Potpourri Cherries Star In Fruit Salad

"Fresh" is a popular word today when it comes to the foods we put on our tables. Dishes such as this appealing Tropical Cherry Salad, combining a trio of fresh seasonal fruits, rate high with today's healthconscious generations. Glistening with luscious, gemlike, fresh, sweet cherries from the Northwest, now at the peak of their season, it is perfect as a refreshing salad, appetizer or calorie-light dessert.

It's easy to prepare, too. Northwest fresh, sweet cherries, honeydew melon balls and fresh pineapple chunks are simply combined and chilled in the quartered pineapple shell. The cool Orange Sour Cream Dressing, flavored with grated orange peel is passed separately.

Northwest fresh sweet cherries, available from mid-June through early August, are the beginning of many bright and beautiful summer dishes - from pretty salads to irresistible desserts and easy, out-of-hand snacks. Remember, too, to purchase extra cherries now to freeze, can or dry for later enjoyment.

TROPICAL CHERRY BALAD

Orange Sour Cream Dressing: Combine 1/2 cup dairy sour cream, 3 tablespoons orange juice, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise and I tablespoon each lemon juice and sugar; blend until smooth. Sprinkle with I teaspoon orange peel. Makes about % cup.

CHARLOTTE A LA SICILIANA

18 to 24 lady fingers 1/3 cup sugar

4 cup water

¼ cup dark rum 1/2 cup finely chopped, toasted almonds

I cup unsalted butter or margarine, softened

l cup superfine sugar 15 cup dark rum

1/2 teaspoon almond extract

1 cup ground, toasted almonds 31/2 cups heavy cream

I quart strawberries, hulled

I tablespoon dark rum l tablespoon superfine sugar

Lightly butter bottom and sides of 9-inch springform pan. Trim ladyfingers by cutting off one end of each. In small saucepan, combine sugar, water and ¼ cup rum. Heat, stirring, to dissolve sugar. Break both sides of ladyfingers. Roll in almonds to coat. Line springform pan on sides on bottom, rounded side toward metal. In large mixer bowl, cream butter with sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in 1/2 cup rum and almond extract. Fold in nuts. Whip 3 cups cream to soft peaks. Fold into mixture. Reserve 8 strawberries for garnish. Slice remaining strawberries. Layer cream mixture and strawberries into prepared pan, making 3 layers of cream and 2 of strawberries; begin and end with cream. Cover with waxed paper. Refrigerate overnight. To serve, whip remaining 1/2 cup cream, I tablespoon rum and I tablespoon sugar to soft peaks. Use to decorate cake; top with strawberries. Remove sides of pan. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

3 cups cooked, hot elbow macaroni Vinaigrette Dressing 2 Golden Delicious apples, cored and chopped

1 can (2¼ oz.) sliced ripe olives

l tomato, chopped 1/2 cup aliced celery Salt'and pepper

Grated Parmesan cheese (optional)

Combine hot macaroni with Vinaigrette Dressing: cool. Stir in remaining ingredients except sait and pepper and cheese. Refrigerate 1 hour to blend flavors. Salt and pepper to taste. Serve with Parmesan cheese Makes about 6 servings.

Vinaigrette Dressing: Combine 1/2 cup oil. 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1/2 teaspoon crushed basil leaves, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 16 teaspoon aprika; blend well. Makes about 14 cup.

RASPBERRY PARFAIT

I pint fresh red raspberries, or I package frozen 2 egg whites

12 cup sugar

11/2 cups heavy cream

Work raspberries through a fine strainer, or puree them in a blender and strain to remove the seeds. Put the purce in an ice cube tray or shallow container, cover with foil and freeze overnight.

About an hour before serving, beat egg whites until they hold a soft shape. Gradually beat in the sugar until stiff peaks form. Whip the cream in a separate bowl until you can see the path of beater. Remove the frozen purer from freezer and work with a wooden apoon to break down the ice crystals, or transfer to a bowl and beat with

Fold whipped cream and egg whites together, then quickly fold in the semi-frozen raspberry puree. Pile the parfait into tall glasses and refrigerate until serving

His Cat Condos Cater To Kitties

By Linda Holohan MUNDELEIN, III. (UPI) - George Ney believes a cat's home should be his castle, or at least his condo. To that end, Ney and his four employees at Cat House Originals will make condominiums, duplexes, ranch style homes and tree houses to suit even the fussiest feline tastes.

The structures are made of tree limbs, plywood and lots and lots of carpet. They're perfect for keeping cat claws in shape without sacrificing human furniture, Ney said. Business is growing by leaps and

"Anybody that's a cat lover will do it." said Ney, one of the few cat trainers in the country. "Cat lovers are different they're crazy. They'll buy them. The houses are so different."

Ney, 58, should know what he's talking about.

"I used to be a cat in my previous life." he said with a chuckle. "The only thing that has changed is my shape. My cat-like feelings carried over."

Ney started catering to felines five or six years ago. Before that, he owned a carpet store and began carpeting wire spools. One customer asked if he could make a perch for her cat.

After that, he started building scratching posts and four years ago found enough demand for kitty condos to prompt closing his carpet store and pounce fulltime on the cat housing

His creations range from a tree house and perch (a little house mounted on a tree limb) for $12 to $100; a duplex (two housing units side-by-side) for $100; and a condominium (one unit on top of another) for $60.

Ney, who counts Morris the Cat as one of his satisfied clients, suggested the duplex would be perfect for the cat who raises a family and wants his offspring to live next door.

He said cat owners really buy the houses more for themselves.

"It's vanity for the people who buy them." he said. "They think, 'Anything my cat wants, my cat gets.' These cat people are nuts. Cats are part of the Ney's claim to fame also lies in his four cats, who are trained between them to perform about 50 dog-like (pardon the expression) tricks. Ney and crew also appear in about 40 cat shows across the Midwest each year.
