VIET PEACE AT HAND

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger said today "peace is at hand" in Vietnam. Kissinger told newsmen in an hour-long briefing that most major provisions of a settlement have been agreed to, but that one more negotiating session "lasting no more than three or four days" is > essentially correct. He also said: "I want to stress that what remains to be done is the smallest part of what has already been accomplished." The presidential adviser said the remaining details are essentially linguistic and technical but need to be settled before the United States and South Vietnam can sign a pact.

> He listed what were "six or seven very concrete issues that with anything like the good will that has been shown can easily be cleared up."

He included in his examples the need from the U.S. side to specify that no move will be made to grab additional territory between the time of the cease-fire and apolitical settlement.

He also said there needs to be clarification on the timing of the Vietnamese settlement relative to the settlement of the conflicts in Laos and Cambodia.

County Board Actions

Apparently frequent violations of the dredge and fill ordinance of Seminole County are occurring, according to Pollution Control Officer, Langley Adair. He reported to the Board of County Commissioners he frequently sees violations occurring at night but seldom during the day.

The major problem Adair contends is that the equipment is not marked with any identification which would afford him the opportunity to contact the company to notify them of the violations and their consequences. "I strongly recommend that either a separate ordinance be adopted or appropriate regulations be written into the dredge and fill and pollution control regulations requiring all equipment used in land clearing and-or dredge and fill operations be properly identified," Adair stated to the Board. In his opinion, the identification should be by signs, decals, stencil lettering in letters of a minimum of two inches so as to be easily readable. The identification should contain the name of the company, the address and the telephone number of the company.

Burning Control

The question of who has the authority over burning in the County - the Department of Pollution Control or the Forestry Service, came before the Board of County Commissioners Tuesday. Pollution Control Officer Langley Adair and Forestry Officer, Gil Artman appeared before the board in order to get the authority ascertained so that the job could be done more efficiently without any possibility of conflict within departments.

Commission Chairman Greg Drummond said that one company is "thumbing its nose" at the county regulations that there will be more night burning. In the fall with the smog, this increases driving hazards to a great extent and "it is a problem we should not have to put up with," Drummond

And then the question as to what constitutes a public hazard to buildings or highways was put to the Board.

Burning Rules

In the question of land clearing, open burning of wooden material or vegetation generated by a land clearing operation (except for the agricultural operations) or the demolition of a structure is allowed provided that the burning is conducted under conditions which require forced draft system allowing day burning much faster and with less smoke. Adair said that there should be no smoldering left at night, that all fires should be out completely because of the smoke hazards created.

Because of the complexity of the matter and the many questions as to authority for enforcement, a work session is being scheduled to settle the issue.

Inspection of the Weathersfield sewage treatment plant located on State Road 436 shows, according to a report by Utilities Administrator Raymond Seifert, that there are now 745 sewer connections serving 2,629 persons.

"The plant is operating at 131 per cent capacity. The revamping and modernizing of the treatment plant is now 85 per cent complete. Piping is 95 per cent complete and the sludge beds are practically complete. The aeration system is not complete however, and I could obtain no date as to the completion because of lack of receipt of the equipment the Completion Date?

Apparently Rex Yates, general manager of Ecological Utilities out of Miami, states they are doing everything possible in order to get an answer as to completion date within a week or 10 days. In further reports, Seifett said that the first unit of 102 home trailer sites in the Palm Valley subdivision located just north of Florida Tech, have been constructed. While the water plant is nearing completion, the sewage treatment plant work is behind schedule. However, except for the sewer deficiencies, Seifert feels that the 102 units appear ready for A complaint was submitted by Mrs. James E. Elder of

Environmental Ballot Issues Viewed

Before the usual frenzy and political blast of hot air which is bound to take place - even in this odd presidential election year - every Florida registered voter should take a hard look at the referendums which will be on the Nov. 7th

Of these those which are No. 1 and No. 2 are indeed of prime importance and deal with environmental problems which are now in need of solution both by words and by dollars.

Threat to the Florida land is an issue which has always been present but only in more recent years has received more than lip service. The rather emotional explosion of the environmentalists, happily, has now been tempered in the fires of events.

Thus we join with the League of Women Voters of Florida to endorse both of these two questions. No. 1 has the ballot description of "Endangered Lands and Parks." No. 2 is on a constitutional amendment which would authorize the sale of bonds and is described as "Natural Resources Conservation and Outdoor Recreation."

The League has researched and studied the proposals and cites reasons for the "yes" votes including: A first step in the beginning of wise land use; providing the money so "desperately needed to save environmentally endangered lands;" recognition that Florida has such a delicate ecological balance that it must be maintained and that the voters are willing to pay

Rep. Lew Earle (R) of Maitland, co-sponsor with Rep. Jim Robinson (R) of St. Petersburg of the legislation which these questions will decide to implement or reject, is, of course, a stong advocate.

His reasoning for their adoption puts the situation into such a clear light that makes opposition quite unthinkable. We quote it, with

Hospital Spending Must Be Curbed

We need some laws about from the public either directly funds from government and they enjoy tax privileges. But hospitals are not run by elected or appointed public officials. Hospitals are run by boards of directors elected by themselves. There is little the public can do to exert control over the community hospital.

But hospitals are big business. They take in and spend $20 billion a year. Of this, $17 billion comes from private sources and the rest from government. This makes a hospital business one of the biggest in the country, yet there is absolutely no control by the public over how all that is spent. No one checks up on the hospital trustees or administrators. They are free to use all these dollars according to their own

Furthermore, each hospital has a monopoly in its own community. When a patient gets sick, he usually has the choice of only one hospital to use for his illness. Most communities have only one hospital; you go there or nowhere. In this regard, the hospital is like a public utility. It is in a monopoly position providing a service that is a necessity. Yet, believe it or not, there is no government agency with complete control over the hospitals.

There is, of course, the Department of Health in most states, or the Department of Institutions and Agencies. These units usually address themselves to the problems of operating standards for hospitals, not financial ones. They regulate such things as

Will U. S. Give Up Cuban Base?

Copley News Service

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. - The United States may give up its naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, as the first step in reopening relations with that Communist country. This intriguing possibility has been raised by the remarks of the U. S. commander of the base, Rear Adm. Leo B. McCuddin. Though couched in diplomatic terms, they go farther than any former U.S. statement in accepting what has been a long-term Communist demand. The admiral's unusual call for a rapprochement with the base is "not beyond the realm of possibility, but for the This is the first time, so far as is known, that an Cuban dictator Fidel Castro has long been demanding

Following Castro's visit to the Soviet Union at midyear, a joint communique was issued which included the following

"The Soviet delegation confirmed its support of the Revolutionary Government of the Republic of Cuba that the U. S. naval base at Guantanamo, set up in Cuban territory against the sovereign will of the people of Cuba, be unconditionally withdrawn." McCuddin also reportedly called for resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Cuba. McCuddin was quoted as saying: "We have to recognize that there are other ideologies and we all have to get along in the world. It would be better for us economically, and better for Cuba, if we did recognize the country and establish relations with them again." Again the admiral's comments were viewed as especially significant because to date American officials have been reluctant to discuss the possibility of rapprochement with Cuba. Whether McCuddin's statement had prior approval from Washington was not known, but in view of the sensitive position he holds it was not deemed likely he would say these things without at least a tacit OK.

Political Notebook The 18-20s Don't Crowd the Polls

A great deal has been written about 18-25-year-old voters, and the influence they could have on this election. But if history is any criterion, the 18-25-year-old vote will be less than two-thirds as great as the 60-plus vote. This, of course, is a mathematical projection, and should be read with a great deal of caution. But here are As of the 1970 census, there were 50 million Americans

50 years old and above, and 29 million Americans 60 and By contrast there were 27 million Americans aged 18 through 25, and 40 millions aged 18 through 29. Census Bureau studies in the 1970 elections show that only 26 per cent of the 18-to-20-year-olds voted in those areas where they had the right to vote. Some 30 per cent of the 21-to-24-year-olds voted. By contrast, 65 per cent of the 55-65-year-oldsters went to the polls, 61 per cent of those aged 65 through 74 and half of those 75 and older. But it is argued that in these troubled days of 1972 the youth will vote as they have never voted before. Maybe so. But the same argument could be applied to

In 1970, Census Bureau figures show, white collar workers voted at the rate of 67 per cent; but only 49 per cent of blue collar workers voted.

Reports indicate that blue collar workers this year may be quite determined to make their voices felt at the polls. Self-employed farmers voted at the rate of 70 per cent in 1970, wage and salary agricultural workers at 33 per cent. There are signs this ratio could change markedly

With these thoughts in mind, some of the other voting variations in 1970 are worth noting: A higher percentage of men voted, as compared with

The more schooling a man had the more likely he was

Whites voted at a higher rate than minorities. Farmers on the average were more likely to vote than

Even more intriguing was the relationship between family income and voting. Men and women aged 45 to 64 years of age were twice as likely to go to the polls if they earned $15,000 a year and over than if family income was under $3,000. The $15,000-plus group voted at a rate a third higher than men and women from families living on $7,500 to just under $10,000 a year. The relationship between income and voting was even more marked in the 25-34-year-old group. Here, men and women from families with income $15,000 and over were three times as likely to go to the polls as those living on The same tendency was seen in every age group. Those earning less were less inclined to vote. This was true for all voters, and for white or black voters separately. That is, the pattern was the same for both races.

What these figures make clear is that there is no simple way to figure what groups are "more important than others" in this election. There's gold in every direction. This makes it virtually certain you will receive a computer-written letter before election, aimed at your income bracket, your type of work, your age, your community, your race or national origin and your religion.

One Man's Opinion Revenue Sharing Fairness Is Moot

With the ink hardly dry on the revenue sharing bill, doubts are already being raised-not about the wisdom of a deficit-ridden federal government distributing taxpayer funds ($5.3 billion the first year) to local governnents but about the fairness of it all. The final formula hammered out between the Senate and the House of Representatives bases each community's share on how many people live in it, how much federal income tax they pay and on the community's tax valua-

This, the critics contend, tends to favor communities with many wealthy residents and a strong industrial tax base over communities with low-income families and little

As one Ohio county commissioner puts it, revenue sharing "is making the affluent (communities) more affluent, and the others will still have to just struggle along." In this particular county, the county government will receive about $7.6 million. Allocations to cities within the country range from a little over $757,000 for the largest

Most counties and large cities, while inevitably saying they would like more money, seem to be grateful for any windfall they may get. It is among the smaller cities and towns, where differences in resident income and tax valuation are most marked, that the most dissatisfaction is

Officials in one midwestern community, for example, are protesting that a neighboring community, with approximately the same population but with a higher tax valuation and fewer low-income families, is slated to receive four times as much revenue-sharing money as

Hot NASCAR Action

What can one say about NASCAR racing this year. WOW! Bobby Allison wins the American 500 from Rockingham, North Carolina this past weekend with Richard Petty second. This means the Points Championship for drivers probably will not be settled until the end of the season. The Manufacturers Championship has already been Bobby Allison now has 10 victories to his credit. An amazing performance this year, the finest year of NASCAR competition ever seen by anybody. The Petty people have commented on the horsepower advantage held by the Chevrolet of Allison in the latter part of the season.

If Richard continues to finish well during the last few events. Allison will have a very tough time catching him, even if he continues his amazing win streak. The Grand National Points spread from first through 10th is only 22 points. As you can see, Richard Petty would almost have to fail to finish in order for Allison to win the title despite the fact that Bobby has won more races this year than Richard.

Whether Allison wins the points Championship or not, he has definitely won more money than any NASCAR competitor in history in one season, Bobby Allison has won $250,000 plus so far this year. That's outstanding in itself. Allison has won such superspeedway events as the Atlanta 500, the Dixie 500, The Southern 500, The National 500, The

It's been quite a year for Junior Johnson and Allison. Junior Johnson's car has been the terror of the Grand National cricuit this year and this year was the year that Junior Johnson was voted into the NASCAR Hall of Fame by members of the National Motorsport Press Association. I can't see how you can ask for more.

Middle Georgia Raceway near Macon will host the stars of NASCAR with a 500 lap event over their half mile oval the first weekend in November. We should see some real fireworks between Petty and Allison on this short track. I hope that no one is injured before the season is over as a result of the extremely hot competition. We shall see.

Can-Am Climax

This weekend The Los Angeles Times Grand Prix which is the climax of the Can-Am racing schedule this year. The Series has been won by the Penske-prepared Porches driven by George Follmer and Mark Donohue. This is the first year the McLaren hasn't won the Can-Am series since 1966.

Those 1972 cars are cleaning out 90 per cent of the pollutants produced by them with the aid of new pollution control devices on the engines. The 1975 cars will clean out 98 per cent of all pollutants but will get 30 per cent worse gas mileage because of the more restrictive pollution control devices than cars produced in 1972. This means that the consumer will be faced with the following dilemma. A car that gets 20 miles to the gallon of gas in 1972 will get roughly 14 miles to the gallon in 1975. Think about that. I wonder what will be called an economy car that year?

Pickett Will Compete

Dr. Wilbur Pickett, Daytona's high-flying neurosurgeon, has filed his official entry for the upcoming International Motor Sports Association "Presidential 250" at Daytona International Speedway on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 18-19. Pickett, co-winner of the IMSA-Camel GT Challenge event here last Easter, will once again team with former national champion Charlie Kemp of Jackson, Miss., in the big 454 cubic inch Holiday Inn Corvette.

Pickett also scored a first overall in the Bama 200 at Leading off the two-day, three-event program that will climax the 1972 season for IMSA will be the B. F. Goodrich Baby Grand Series event on Saturday at 3:30 p.m. Sunday's action will consist of a 50-miler for the potent little Formula 100 open-wheel cars at 1 p. m. and then the Camel Grand Touring "Presidential 250" showdown at 2 p. ta.

While Pickett and Kemp rank a serious threat for the overall honors, the battle for the Carnel season point championship will be decided between Hurley Haywood of Jacksonville, and Bob Beasley of Richmond, Va. Haywood and Beasley have entered the "Presidential 250"

I read with amusement the letter from the postmaster's wife who was annoyed because someone and called her husband in the middle of his supper to ask now much postage to put on an airmail postcard.

I would like to address a few questions to her and to vives of other postmasters: 1. Have you ever been wakened at midnight by irate, trunken duck hunters who have made all provisions for

How can I politely tell this man that I am not interest I in his erotic experiences? Frankly, I think he exagger es a great deal and lies a lot. DEAR BORED: Tell your neighbor to knock off the sex conference at Stetson University in DeLand last night. Earlier he presented a lecture to a capacity crowd of over 1,500 students and Central Florida residents.

Nader Hits

Hot Dogs To Solons

DELAND - Ralph Nader, self-appointed consumer advocate, blasted everything from congressmen to hot dogs as he spoke before a capacity crowd of Stetson students and Central Florida residents. Over 1,500 people jammed into First Baptist Church of DeLand, to hear the talk, delayed an hour and a half by a late plane arrival.

Nader and his staff have just completed a survey with information gathered on 484 U.S. congressmen. "There was more information on birds gathered in the United States than on congressmen." And Nader feels that his reports will have effect on the public, so that some day there will be more "Congress watchers" than bird watchers. Much of the lecture was devoted to environmental protection and pollution. "We're not concerned about what we can't see," Nader commented concerning many people's attitude toward pollution. "Imagine that all the pollution stopped being invisible and started showing up as red paint. The red paint would soon cover everything and the President would im-mediatly undertake steps to cleanup the paint. This could take $1 billion per week; $52 billion a year, and the people wouldn't object. Yet, he now spends $7 billion per year on all pollution control and environmental protection." Nader pointed out that the larger companies control the economy, but not one of the large companies spends as much as five per cent of profit on pollution control. "The bigger the crime on the industrial scene, the easier they get away with it.

"Every day 40,000 companies dump contaminants in navigatable waters. This is in violation of the 1899 antirefuse act, which was not discovered until 1969 by the Justice Department . . . but at least they discovered it.' The solution was to issue permits so the dumping wouldn't be a crime. Nader suggested that all the burglars be lined up and issued permits so there won't be any more crime.

As a fictional story to help explain the "crime" that the major companies get away with, Nader told of the man who ran an apartment house. As an economical move, the man took the garbage from the apartments and slung it around the yards in the neighborhoods, rather than paying for collection service. "The people finally turned away from their television sets long enough to call the police." When confronted by the police, the man explained it was an economical move and that he would be forced to move to another county and put three people out of work if they didn't let him sling his garbage on the other yards. "That wouldn't hold water, but why does it with U.S. Steel?"

Nader said his staff will concentrate more on health and industrial safety in the upcoming months. 'Americans will eat anything, if it's packaged right. 'You'd never eat another frankfurter, if you knew how they were made," Nader told the crowd. He then went on to explain the process.
