For Saturday, July 3, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be aware of your priorities. Look out for the family and those under your wing at work.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Some pesky stumbling blocks can be thrown in your path today. They could deter you unless you keep a positive attitude and overcome them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Prospects for enhancing your well-being are excellent today, but only if you keep Johnny-come-latelys out of the action and your sympathy.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) A rather unusual day is in store. Goals you thought to be important won't be. Others you thought were insignificant will be of real value.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) Without being sneaky, keep your motives to yourself today. People seeking your confidence actually want to feather their own nests.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep faith with one you're closely associated with. He has your best interest at heart. Another may try to lead you to believe otherwise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Even though conditions around you may be in a turmoil today, your innate sense of fair play will keep things on an even keel.

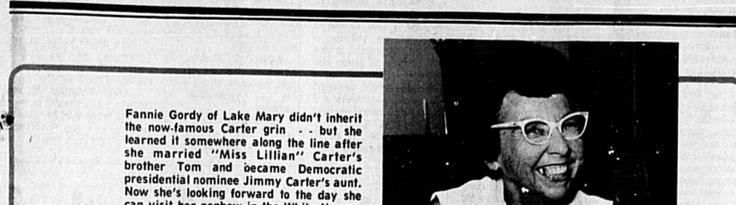

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The infernal fortitude you display in standing up for workers will be remembered.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Taking a flyer will appeal to you today, but don't expect your long shots to pay off.

'Aunt Fannie' Cheers Carter On To Victory

Fannie Gordy of Lake Mary didn't inherit the now-famous Carter grin - but she learned it somewhere along the line after she married 'Miss Lillian' Carter's brother Tom and became Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter's aunt. Now she's looking forward to the day she can visit her nephew in the White House.

Four persons whose Seminole residences were raided by state agents three weeks ago have been arrested on lottery indictments issued by a statewide grand jury.

The second statewide grand jury, meeting in Orlando, returned 25 indictments Friday naming Orange and Seminole residents, according to authorities.

Deborah Ann Williams, 18, of apartment 66, William Clark Court, Sanford, was released on $1,000 bond following her arrest on charges of aiding and assisting a lottery, possession of lottery tickets, and possession of lottery paraphernalia.

The fourth suspect, Dewey H. Smith, 33, of 1900 W. 18th St., Sanford, remained in county jail Saturday in lieu of $15,000 bond on charges of aiding and assisting a lottery, possession of lottery tickets and aiding and assisting in the sale, disposal or procurement of lottery tickets.

Smith listed his occupation as self-employed at a mattress shop.

Officials declined to comment Saturday on reports that more arrests are pending on indictments in Seminole.

Thomas, who was convicted on lottery (bolita) charges in the 1960s, listed his residence address as Lake Howell Road, Altamonte Springs. State and county agents raided a rooming house June 30 on the northwest corner of Lake Howell Road and Amanda St. adjacent to Club 436 and reported they seized evidence, including cash and betting paraphernalia linked to a $50,000-a-week lottery (bolita) operation in Seminole and Orange Counties.

Thomas posted $3,000 bond on the charges in Seminole and $5,000 bond in Orange County on a charge of aiding a lottery.

Enzyme Splits Milk Sugars

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have been reading your recent columns on diarrhea caused by milk. I have this problem, too, and would appreciate having some information.

It is possible for an individual to make a lactose-free product in the home, and if you will please send me the instructions or recipe? Will the same procedure work for regular homogenized milk, lowfat milk and the reconstituted dry milk?

Does the soybean milk contain lactose? If not, how does it compare in calories, fat and cholesterol with regular homogenized milk. My husband thinks the milk may be the answer but he does not have any idea of how high the temperature should be brought to or how long.

DEAR READER - I am happy to tell you and all my other readers who have gas, cramps and diarrhea from milk intolerance that there is now a way to have a low lactose milk. The double sugar, lactose, can be split into single sugars so it can be absorbed rather than causing gas, diarrhea and cramps. You can get packets of the enzyme and information about the process from SugarLo Company, P.O. Box 1017, Atlantic City, N.H. 08404.

You can mix the powder into your milk and let it stand in the refrigerator for 24 hours and the enzyme will do what your normal enzyme system is supposed to do to the sugar. You can use the powder for regular milk, homogenized milk, skim milk, fortified skim milk or reconstituted milk using dry milk powder. You cannot use it for butter milk because the different acid characteristics will inactivate the enzyme. Commercial buttermilk does contain a lot of lactose.

There are no vitamins or other food substances that you can take that will stimulate the adrenal cortex in the same way. For information on food poisoning send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for the Health Letter number 6-2. Send your letter to me in care of The Evening Herald, P.O. Box 184, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have read so much about ACTH. I'd like to know what it contains and if any vitamins could stimulate the adrenal cortex as it does?

WIN AT BRIDGE

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

What first decision. What other chance did he take? He might get doubled but who was going to double? He, West, had good trumps and his partner had bid the suit first.

What could West gain? He could get his opponents to three spades and maybe beat that contract one trick.

South really should have passed and watched three hearts get set, but he did bid three spades. He also might have made three spades, but he managed to lose one spade, two hearts, a club and a diamond so West's three-heart bid really paid off.

West's three-heart bid was correct because he trusted both his partner and his opponents. He trusted that his partner wouldn't suddenly decide to go on and bid four hearts. This wasn't too much trust. If East had any interest in playing four hearts, he would have bid three hearts over North's two spades.

As for trust in his opponents, West knew that they had stopped at two spades and neither one was going to decide to go to game after two.

DEAR READER - It is a hormone so it is a single compound itself rather than being made of several ingredients. Since hormones are proteins it is formed by the complex union of amino acids. This is done in the small pituitary gland just under your brain.

'Aunt Fannie' Cheers Carter On To Victory

By KRIS NASH Herald Staff Writer

When Jimmy Carter announced late in 1974 he was running for President, he was a figure so obscure that the "I've Got a Secret" television quiz panel could not guess his identity - even without a mask.

But one Seminole County resident was already sure he was a winner - and now, as Democratic presidential nominee Carter forges toward the November general election, Fannie S. Gordy of Lake Mary is even more confident that he'll be moving into the White House next year.

Mrs. Gordy, Carter's aunt by marriage, said she knew about Carter's campaign plans some two weeks before the public announcement was made.

"I told Rosalynn, 'Well, now, the next time I see you I'll visit you in the White House,'" and she said, "Okay," Mrs. Gordy related.

A retired U.S. Navy Civil Service employee who was recently widowed, Mrs. Gordy lives in a comfortable lakefront dwelling at 343 East Lake Mary Blvd. Her late husband Tom was a 30-year Navy veteran who spent part of World War II in a series of Japanese prisoner-of-war camps and returned to civilization hunting just 46 pounds.

"Jimmy was very fond of Tom," Mrs. Gordy said. "Tom took him hunting and fishing. They spent a lot of time together. And I think it was because of Tom's being in the Navy that Jimmy decided to go to the Naval Academy (the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.)."

Gordy - brother of the now well-known "Miss Lillian," Carter's mother - was born and raised in Richard, Ga., a small community near Carter's hometown of Plains. Mrs. Gordy said she often accompanied her late husband on visits to Gordy's mother's home, and those trips took them right through Plains.

"We usually stayed at Miss Lillian's," Mrs. Gordy said, "or we'd stay there and then at Tom's mother's and come back and visit at Miss Lillian's. Most of the time we stayed at Miss Lillian's - I guess because it was larger."

"I didn't know Jimmy as a child," she continued. "When I first met Jimmy and Rosalynn they were already had the three boys - everybody but Amy. They were running the peanut warehouse with Jimmy's brother, Billy, and his wife. Then when Jimmy got into politics, I think Billy took over."

Carter followed in his father's footsteps by becoming a state senator after first working as a peanut farmer. In 1966 Carter ran for the Georgia governorship but was defeated by Lester Maddox, who later served as lieutenant governor during Carter's administration (1979-74).

"I never took much interest in politics until 1970," Mrs. Gordy revealed. "The first time Jimmy ran, we didn't get in on much of that. But the second time he ran we went up there and had a big kickoff and everything."

During Carter's term as chief executive the Gordys visited Atlanta several times and stayed at the governor's mansion, Mrs. Gordy said. And last summer, when Rosalynn was stumbling through Florida on her husband's behalf, she spent a night with Tom and Fannie in Lake Mary.

"Jimmy and Rosalynn both do believe in getting out and shaking hands and making personal contact," Mrs. Gordy said. "I think they'll continue to run that type of campaign. They like to be with people."

Forms Not Filed For 3 SHA Officials

By JACQUELINE DOWD Herald Staff Writer

County officials have not received financial disclosure statements from three Sanford Housing Authority officials.

The deadline for filing the statements was noon Thursday. When the courthouse closed Friday afternoon, Clerk Arthur Beckwith's office still had not received financial statements from Commissioners D.C. McCoy and Edward Blackbeare and Executive Director Thomas Wilson III.

Sanford City Manager Warren Knowles, whose office was responsible for distributing blank disclosure forms to all city officials required to file, confirmed that forms were mailed to all three housing authority commissioners as well as Wilson.

Financial statements from the other three commissioners - George Brown, John Colbert and Samuel Wright Jr. - are on file.

Sanford Taxpayers Settle Old Debt

Sanford taxpayers have something to celebrate. Like homeowners finally paying off the house mortgage, city taxpayers have finally paid off a 40-year-old "boom time" debt.

With a big sigh of relief, City Manager Warren Knowles describes the payoff of a "truly historic municipal goal." He's been struggling to fill the payments into overloaded city budgets since 1934, when he became city manager and discovered a $4,325,000 debt on the books - and no plan to pay it off.

The debt dates back to the Florida boom of the late '20s and early '30s when Sanford rapidly expanded amid grand schemes of overnight development, riches and "boom time" debt.

Wright listed his primary source of income as the Seminole Economic Development Corporation. He also said he owns some land in Sanford and declared a debt to Stockton, Whitley, Davis and Co. of Jacksonville as greater than his net worth.

John Wall is no stranger to the aluminum business. All told, he has more than 40 years' experience in the management and actual manufacturing of the product.

Wall got out of the aluminum business in 1973 when he sold his firm in Michigan to the manager of the company.

Now he's back in business - and right here in Sanford.

Colonel Released On Bond

By JACQUELINE DOWD Herald Staff Writer

Harlan "The Colonel" Blackburn, one-time central Florida gambling kingpin, was free on $35,000 bond Saturday on charges of marijuana possession - but Seminole Circuit Judge Albert Herring was reported seeking revocation of Blackburn's $10,000 appeal bond in a 1971 assassination attempt case.

Orlando County sheriff's agents arrested Blackburn and two women early Friday in a parking lot at a motel on South Orange Blossom Trail in Orlando, and seized more than 30 pounds of marijuana.

Capt. Wayne Bird said the arrests "culminated a nine-week investigation." He estimated the street value of the marijuana was $10,000 and $12,000.

Earlier this month, Seminole Circuit Judge Volie Williams ordered Blackburn to remain in connection with a 1971 telephone booth assassination attempt on his former associate, gambler Clyde Lee, at Longwood.

In a later hearing Judge Williams allowed Blackburn to remain free for another 90 days on appeal bond while this is done. Blackburn tries to convince the U.S. Supreme Court to hear Blackburn's appeal.

Rhodes claimed that during the last five years Blackburn has "separated himself from the past," and urged the court to "judge him as he is now" and convert the prison sentence to probation.

A spokesman for Herring's office said late Friday that Herring will file a motion seeking revocation of Blackburn's appeal bond due to the marijuana arrest. Judge Williams is scheduled to be at the Brevard Courthouse in Titusville until next Thursday and any hearing on a bond revocation could take place there.

The marijuana arrest also may place in jeopardy Blackburn's federal parole. He served 3 1/2 years of a 2-year federal prison sentence on gambling and income tax evasion convictions. Since being paroled the 57-year-old south Seminole resident, claiming failing health, has been employed by ABC Nurseries and has operated a produce stand near his home.

Blackburn claims he's innocent of charges in connection with the lie detector test recently given Blackburn by a private examiner in Orlando backs up the claim.

Blackburn was charged with hiring Sam Caprina of Tampa - later acquired of the shooting-to-kill Lee, who was wounded but survived and now works as a county jailer in Georgia.

Kidnaped Children, Driver Escape From Sealed Quarry

LIVEMORE, Calif. (AP)—Twenty-six children and their bus driver — who authorities said were abducted at a quarry by three masked gunmen — were safe and unharmed Saturday after digging their way to freedom from an underground quarry cavern where they were imprisoned. A search was launched in the San Francisco Bay area for "three heavily armed white males," authorities said. They said the three were in two Dodge vans, one black and one white, both with citizens band radio antennas. There was no immediate word on motive for the abduction. Thursday the children and driver near the small farming community of Chowchilla, 95 miles south of here. The children were first reported missing after they failed to return home from a swimming outing and their abandoned school bus was located in a dry creekbed. Bus driver Frank Edward Ray Jr., 55, told authorities the bus was stopped Thursday afternoon by a van blocking the road.

Temperatures Drop In North

By The Associated Press
Pushed downward by high pressure systems, temperatures dropped into the 50s early Saturday from parts of the northern and central Plains and upper Mississippi valley into the Ohio valley and Great Lakes. Some parts of Minnesota and Michigan had readings in the 40s. In Ohio, winds were reported at more than 60 miles an hour on Friday, and the Coast Guard said 54 people were thrown into the water when a small squall ripped through a southeast gale on Sunday Bay. A 70-year-old man was missing and presumed drowned. The cold front was responsible for scattered thunderstorms in the Atlantic and Gulf Coast states. Isolated thunderstorms also were present from California into the Plateau region and over east Nebraska.

Ex-FBI Official Under Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice Department investigators are pursuing evidence that Nicholas P. Callahan, the FBI's second-ranking official until he was fired Friday, abused the power of his office, department and FBI sources say. Kelle's action in firing Callahan illustrates the seriousness of the department investigation of alleged improprieties involving a number of current and former FBI officials. Callahan, 62, has been an FBI man for 41 years, almost as long as the agency has existed. Kelley himself, soon after taking office three years ago, appointed Callahan as the associate director.

Lake Mary To Cut August Water Bills

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer
LAKE MARY—City water customers will get a break on their August bills because a city rate increase was applied too soon. So the city's 400 water customers will receive credits on their August bills for overpayments made in June. Councilman Harry Terry told colleagues and two complaining citizens that new water rates were mistakenly charged on June water bills, collected this month. The new rates went into effect on June 20, but showed up on bills that went out on June 15. The new rates, the highest charged by any municipality in Seminole County, have been more than doubled in order to meet advertising requirements permitting raising taxes above the certified level. Massey said Seminole County property appraiser Terry Goebel has certified a tax rate of 2.91 mills—or $2.91 per $1,000 property valuation. To retain the current 3 mill tax level, the city must advertise, Massey said. —Tabled until July 22 workshop-special meeting bids received on city hall office space. Country Club Corp. offered to rent the city's 2,000 square foot of carpeted, air-conditioned office space for $500 monthly at Magnolia Square on Country Club Road and Lake Mary Road. P. Zeuli and Sons offered to continue renting the current office space for $250 monthly, a reduction of $50 per month. The current city hall has 1,600 square feet of office space. —Authorized bids to be received on a 1976 police pursuit four-door sedan. —Instructed Massey to correspond with two property owners on Rantoul Lane to determine if they will sell easement for water lines to the city. —Accepted the lone bid of Nidy Construction Co., of Winter Park, at $2,146.73 for two shuffleboard courts to be built at a city park.

Longwood Man Gets 10 Years In Attack On House

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

A Longwood man convicted of shooting into an elderly couple's home has been sentenced to 10 years in prison plus 20 years probation. Circuit Court Judge Robert B. McGreggor meted the sentences to Charles Edward Jones, 22, of 274 E. Warren, Longwood, who stealthily proclaimed his innocence. "I didn't do it, I'll tell you that much," Jones told the court. A circuit court jury found Jones guilty in June of firing pistol shots into the frame dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Linton King at 310 E. Church Ave., Longwood, on Jan. 29 and Feb. 3.

Jones was acquitted April 8 by another jury on an arson charge stemming from a Nov. 10 firebomb attack on the King residence. Testimony in the shootings trial linked bullets found in the King house to two pistols that Jones had purchased. Prosecutor Bill Heffernan said the Kings "still have difficulty going to sleep at night."

Students Honored

Twenty-two Seminole County Students were recently honored for academic achievement at Southern College in Orlando. Named to the president's list with a 3.5 or better grade point average were: Casselberry residents Deborah Galt, Dana Siskler and Frank Galver; Longwood residents Roger Davis, Peggy Bauer, Donna McPherson and William McPherson; Chalusta resident Howard Killen; Lake Monroe resident Linda Bulmer; Oviedo resident Ted Glassmire; and Sanford residents James Riskey, Patricia Hardy, Charles Mitchell, Shelly McCormick and Donna Becker.

Two court reporting students, Linda Bulmer and Patricia Hardy, passed the 25 word per minute recording test on the stenographic machine. Named to the dean's list with a 3.0 or better average were: Altamonte Springs residents Judy DiMuro, Mary Holcombe and Kenneth Day; Casselberry residents Gregory Turenchalk, Thomas Gani Jr. and Judith A. Bryant, 27, of Rochester, N.Y., to seven years probation on a guilty plea to grand larceny of a dead man's auto and credit cards. Bryant, now serving a 4 1/2 year federal prison sentence, said he fled in Franklin Ramsauer's Cadillac to Jacksonville because he has a lengthy criminal record and feared he would be charged in Ramsauer's death April 23. Authorities said Ramsauer, 54, a south Seminole Realtor, whose body was found covered with leaves near Oviedo, died of a heart attack in a motel room. Bryant told the court he and Betty Jean Williams, 26, of Montgomery, Ala., had been taken to the motel room by Ramsauer after a night of drinking. Murder charges against Bryant and Williams were dropped in the case and

Ms. Williams was later sentenced to time served in county jail in connection with the credit cards theft and returned to Alabama to face a probation violation charge in a robbery case. Dino Fanti, 21, of Winter Park, was sentenced to two years probation on a guilty plea to grand larceny of a dead man's auto and credit cards in county jail. Fanti pleaded guilty in April to grand larceny in connection with the theft of a $600 sofa from Eric Adams Furniture Warehouse and Showroom, Casselberry, where he had been employed. Fanti helped sheriff's agents break up what they called a "steal-to-order" theft ring that had looted the huge furniture warehouse of $70,000 to $80,000 in furnishings over an 18-month period. Fanti had agreed to testify against four other persons in the cases but they pleaded guilty. In other sentences before Judge McGreggor: —Robert White, 21, of 1705

Death Sentence Levied In Zeigler Killings Case

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—Furniture dealer W.T. Zeigler Jr. killed his wife for half a million dollars in insurance and killed a handyman to try to hide the first crime. Circuit Judge Maurice Paul says. And he says such crimes deserve the supreme punishment. Zeigler, 46, was sentenced to death Friday as Paul pronounced two death sentences on him and added two consecutive life terms for the slayings of his wife's parents. The four were killed in a Christmas Eve blood bath at Zeigler's Winter Garden store in Central Florida. The jury convicted Zeigler of first-degree murder in the deaths of his wife Zeigler, 31, and handyman Charles Mays Jr., 35, and second-degree murder in the slayings of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Edwards of Moultrie, Ga.

Piranhas Now In Six States

TAMPA (AP)—"It only takes two to tango," Florida's top wildlife officer says in explaining why he's worried that some vicious, flesh-eating piranha mistakenly sold as friendly little pets may wind up in America's warmer waters. More than 100 piranhas were recently sold in at least six states by a Florida supplier who thought they were red pacus, another South American native, state game and commission officials said Friday. Commission officials began alerting their counterparts in California, North and South Carolina, Minnesota, Missouri and New York about the shipments. But some had already been retailed.

Fishermen Face Crackdowns

MIAMI (AP)—Commercial fishermen who ply deep waters to harvest tons of swordfish for northern markets face possible crackdowns from state and federal agencies over the amount of mercury found in the fish. "We don't want to do anything to hamper an industry, but we do have the obligation and the force to stop interstate shipment of adulterated products," says Adam Trujillo, head of the federal Food and Drug Administration's Florida operations. The FDA has a standard which says swordfish are considered adulterated when they contain more than 0.5 parts per million of mercury. However, the standard is not yet a regulation.

Suspension Power Denied

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—Jacksonville chief general counsel says Gov. Reubin Askew lacks the power to suspend indicted Mayor Hans Tumbler. Dawson McQuigg said Friday that he has filed a brief to that effect with the Florida Supreme Court. McQuigg said the indictments against Tumbler are not sufficient legal reason for him to be suspended. Tumbler was indicted last week on two misdemeanor charges that he failed to report $15,000 in political contributions in 1971 and 1973 and a felony charge that he committed perjury.

Children See Mom Stabbed

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—An angry husband, his two children in tow, trailed his wife to another man's house and stabbed her to death as the youngsters watched, police say. Detective F.M. Williams said Lawrence Harris, 41, came home Friday, found his wife gone and took his children, Angela, 10, and St. Nicholas, 7, with him to look for her. He man found her at another man's home and killed her on the lawn of the residence while the children looked on, Williams reported.

Reagan: Pardon May Hurt GOP

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Ronald Reagan says President Ford's pardon of former President Richard Nixon is a Republican issue that could hurt Republicans in the fall if Ford is the GOP nominee. Reagan raised the pardon issue on Friday. It marked the first time that the former California governor had mentioned Watergate in his campaign for the nomination.

This Week In Court

Two Juveniles Set For Adult Trials

Two juvenile boys indicted by the Seminole County Grand Jury on armed burglary charges are scheduled for trials as adults this week in circuit court at Sanford. Circuit Judge A.J. Hosemann Jr. is to hear cases against Robert William Armstrong III, 15, of 2915 S. Palmview Ave., Sanford, and Gregory Charles Prater, 17, of St. Petersburg. Armstrong is accused in connection with a March 24 burglary at the residence of Robert Miller, 2401 Myrtle Ave., Sanford. Prater is accused in connection with a March 18 break in at the residence of E.K. Schwabers, 609 W. Faith Terrace, Altamonte Springs. Police reported firearms were taken in both burglaries. Mary L. Corcoran, 19, of Orlando, and Walter Jenkins Jr., 42, of 318 DePugh St., Altamonte Springs, face trial on charges of felony possession of cocaine and heroin. The arrests were made April 30 when vice squad agents searched a search warrant at Jenkins' residence. Boy Guess, 33-year-old Washington St., Midway, resident, is docketed for trial on a statewide grand jury indictment charging he aided or assisted in setting up, promoting or conducting a lottery in March. Other trials docketed during the week include: —Terry Correll Wallace, 21, and Jess D. Dikert Mitchell, 23, both of 615 Park Ave., Sanford, who are accused of burglary and attempted burglary. —James A. Laughery, 31, of Mt. Plymouth in Lake County, accused of obtaining property by worthless check. —David Truilo, 16, of 825 Wynmore Road, Altamonte Springs, is accused of burglary of a bus at Prairie Lake Baptist Church, Fern Park, possession of burglary tools and petty larceny.

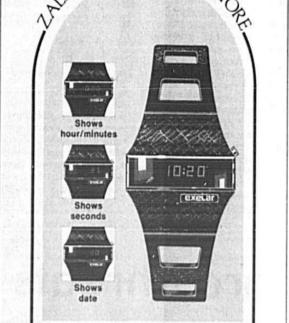

Sanford Joined By Apopka

Sanford city commissioners, who recently passed a resolution thanking State Rep. Robert Hattaway for his attempt to clarify Florida's landmark Government in the Sunshine Law, have been joined by Apopka's city councilmen. The Apopka councilmen passed a similar resolution, with a perfect 4.0 grade supporting an amendment to the Sunshine Law, which requires open meetings.

Welcome Aboard, Florida Extrusion

We commend the Sanford-Seminole Development Co. (SSDC) and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Industrial 25 Committee for their efforts in bringing to Sanford a new company—Florida Extrusion, Inc.

The aluminum-processing company will be located at Jewett Lane and Airport Blvd. and will employ about 75 when it begins operations around Nov. 1.

We welcome the new firm and particularly its president, John Wall, his son, David, and the company's general manager, Harold Kay.

According to Wall, it was insistence and persistence of John Krider, SSDC executive vice president, Cliff McKibbin, SSDC president, and Tom Hunt, Industrial 25 committee chairman, that made him decide to set up shop in Sanford.

Having a new, dynamic industry come to Sanford and Seminole County is a real feather in the cap of the SSDC and its leadership. We need more industrious and far-sighted movers like Krider, McKibbin, Hunt and everyone else who made the acquisition a reality.

Foreign Aid Not Consistent

A foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds, said Ralph Waldo Emerson.

The thought applies particularly to the conduct of foreign relations. There is no other sphere of activity in which consistency is less practiced or less possible.

Congress and the State Department constantly wrestle with the problem of whether aid should be given to oppressive dictatorships, aid that usually strengthens them in power and does not lessen their oppressiveness.

Do we deny aid, across the board, to dictatorships such as Chile, South Korea, Brazil, the Philippines, Nicaragua, India, Zaire, Uganda and others almost too numerous to mention?

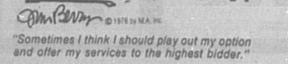

The problem has peaked again in connection with this year's foreign aid appropriations. Secretary of State Kissinger condemned Pinochet's Chile for police state oppression at the recent meeting of the Organization of American States in Santiago, and aid to Chile has been sharply trimmed.

In Congress sentiment exists for similar cuts in U.S. aid to Park Chung Hee's South Korea. Aid to Indira Gandhi's India has been reduced mainly to the humanitarian variety. In connection with negotiations for a new agreement on U.S. bases in the Philippines, the Marcos dictatorship is asking compensation in the form of large sums with which to finance his expanding military forces. Some quarters will oppose giving the money.

The only consistency possible in the circumstances is the inconsistency of treating each case differently in terms of the U.S. self-interest involved. We can deny aid to Butcher Idi Amin of Uganda, be tough with India, Chile and a number of other states and even win kudos without appreciably harming ourselves.

In the case of others, South Korea and the Philippines, for example, our military bases and our whole strategic position in the Western Pacific are at stake. We perforce ought, in our own interest, to compromise our opposition to authoritarianism and give what aid has to be given. All the more so in view of the fact, based on past experience that in only a few cases has our giving or denying aid had any appreciable effect in modifying dictatorial regimes. Dictatorships are a product of domestic conditions and, as a general rule, can be changed, not by outside pressure, but by the people of the country in question.

Around

The Clock

By AUDIE MURPHY

One task almost every reporter performs at one time or another involves perusing the reports of law enforcement agencies to find out what sort of mayhem has occurred during the past day or so.

Invariably, the same crimes turn up again and again: burglary, theft, rape, murder and one crime that seems particularly widespread these days: drug possession.

Almost every time I flip through the police reports there are two or three more drug "busts." Usually, people in their late teens who have been caught with marijuana. In other words, in Seminole County several people per week are pitched headlong into the maze of our judicial system. And in Florida, what awaits them may be up to a year in county jail, or five years in the state penitentiary, depending upon the amount of marijuana they had on them at the time of their arrest.

But even with these severe penalties, young people continue to smoke pot, and they continue to get busted.

It is estimated that more than thirty-three million Americans have tried marijuana, and thirteen million people smoke it regularly. Those figures are from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare report on Marijuana and Health, 77-10101 to Congress in February by Robert L. DuPont, director of the National Institute of Drug Abuse.

Fortunately, not all states have Florida's draconian marijuana laws. Eight states—Oregon, Alaska, Maine, Colorado, California, Ohio, Minnesota and South Dakota—merely levy fines of $100 for possession of up to one ounce of marijuana for personal use. In Florida, possession of more than five grams of the stuff is a felony offense.

How Florida's severe penalties originated, and why they remain on the books, is a mystery, especially in the light of recent research findings which tend to remove marijuana from the "dangerous drug" category.

Apparently, the harsh penalty advocates dig in their heels for the same reason the old Vietnam hawkers used to dig in their heels: if they are wrong, they are very, very wrong. The lives of countless young Americans have been shattered. Having to admit that the carnage has been for nothing would be a soul-rending experience.

At this point, many writers would include the obligatory plea to young Americans: don't smoke marijuana. But I will not do that. Not because I advocate the smoking of marijuana—I do not—but because I think the time for empty, self-righteous gestures has passed. Statistics indicate that any such plea would be ignored. Besides, such a plea would be begging the question, which is the relationship between the crime and the punishment.

The fact is, the ball is now in our court. The fact is that more and more young Americans are abandoning alcohol—the "drug of choice"—for pot. And many of them are going to jail for it.

My generation had to go through Vietnam because too many Americans were too busy waving their flags to go down to the public library and read up on Indochina. Now our younger brothers and sisters are being yanked off the streets—not by the draft, but by a silly indulgence that happens to be highly illegal. (The economic and political factors behind these laws are too complex to go into here.)

But the question of marijuana penalties has to be dealt with by everyone reading this column. The bottom line is: the next kid busted may be your son or daughter.

DON OAKLEY Employers Misuse Tax Funds

It's bad enough when the government withholds substantial chunks of your paycheck in prepayment of the income tax for Social Security. It's worse when employers, who do the actual withholding, in turn withhold the money from the government.

There were only 127 cases in which employers were convicted or pled guilty to misuse of withholding taxes in fiscal year 1975. But this was more than double the number in the previous year, reports Commerce Clearing House, and the Internal Revenue Service is continuing to crack down.

By federal law, employers must pay withholding tax funds over to the government on a regular basis. Penalties for violations go up to a $5,000 fine and/or one year in prison.

In addition to an increased emphasis on criminal prosecutions, the IRS has established a computerized tax deposit alert system to identify employers not making the required deposits. Friendly IRS officers visit the employer to find out why he has not complied with the law. Delinquent employers who are not recommended for criminal prosecution may be required to file and pay taxes monthly instead of quarterly.

In another step, the IRS has raised the interest rate for delinquent withholding taxes from 6 per cent to about 7 per cent. It now fluctuates periodically so that it will be closer to actual prime lending rates charged by commercial banks and savings and loan companies.

Some employers, it seems, were using withholding tax funds to finance their capital instead of borrowing money through lending institutions.

One immediate benefit from the economic summit conference being held in San Juan, Puerto Rico, by President Ford and six other western leaders, plus some 750 assorted diplomats, aides and security personnel, may be a shot in the arm for the tourism industry in the Caribbean.

The VIP's, of course, will have enjoyed VIP treatment, which is something the ordinary visitor to the area has noticed a scarcity of in recent years.

The Caribbean had a record 6.9 million tourists in 1974. Then came the worldwide recession. That coupled with increasing reports that the natives were less than friendly, resulted in an average drop of 10 per cent in tourism in 1974.

Now the same two factors, or their opposites, are responsible for a substantial recovery which the Caribbean Tourism Association is projecting for this year: a marked improvement in the economy and a positive turnaround in the attitudes of islanders to vacationers.

JACK ANDERSON Agencies Ignore Threats

WASHINGTON — The United States government may be hazardous to your health. At least two government agencies, according to confidential sources, may permit dangerous chemicals to poison our food, water and air.

The Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA), for example, is so anxious to develop new energy sources that it is recklessly ignoring disease-causing byproducts. The new technologies could create pollutants that cause cancer, nerve ailments, liver diseases, tooth corrosion and fatal poisonings.

At the same time, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has overlooked evidence that a cancer-causing group of chemicals is already threatening public health. These chemicals, known as nitrosamines, are considered so dangerous that the federal government regulates their presence in food. Yet EPA has done little to keep them from polluting the air.

ERDA was established 18 months ago to consolidate the government's energy research programs. But any new energy sources that are developed, according to the agency's congressional mandate, must be harmless to the public health.

A White House study charges, however, that ERDA is pursuing its energy research without regard for the health threat. This 100-page report, prepared by the President's Council on Environmental Quality, has been available only to top government officials.

The report charges bluntly that some of the proposed energy projects "cannot be operated in an environmentally acceptable manner." As an example, the report cites "synthetic gas plants

JOHN D. LOFTON JR. Republicans Face Bloody Convention

WASHINGTON — When the Republican National Committee met here last month in its final get-together before the GOP convention, next month in Kansas City, it resolved that the party should "work together in harmony toward victory in November."

But ironically, in taking the actions they have taken — in blatantly stacking the Republican convention against Ronald Reagan — both the RNC and its chairman, Mary Louise Smith, have made it a virtual certainty that the 1978 GOP convention will be one of the most divisive, bloody and unharmonious in recent party history.

The kinds of inquiries the Reagan people are justifiably angry about are laid out in a June 30, hand-delivered letter to Mrs. Smith from Loren Smith, general counsel of the Citizens for Reagan Committee. He writes, in part:

"Our Committee is concerned about preferential treatment given by the convention managers and the RNC to the White House and, therefore, to the Ford Committee. The allocation of a quota of rooms and passes to the White House is grossly improper. Currently, 388 hotel rooms are allocated to the Ford campaign and the White House, while only 100 rooms are allocated to the Reagan campaign. The Ford groups have received 650 gallery passes, while the Reagan campaign has received only 200. We must demand absolute numerical equality in all these areas."

To back up his complaint, Mr. Smith cites the law — specifically U.S. Code 26, Section 9008 (c) — which prohibits any federal campaign funds given the RNC from benefiting any GOP candidate for the presidential nomination, in any way, over any other candidate.

"The legal mandate is clear, the convention shall not be a vehicle to advance the candidacy of any one person over the others," Mr. Smith points out.

Mrs. Smith simply brushes Mr. Smith's complaints aside, ignoring the fact that the new federal campaign law has significantly altered the old way of doing things.

In a July 2 letter, she explains that in doing the things the Reagan people are protesting, the RNC is just following "traditional procedures" that are "consistent with the past precedents in relation to prior conventions."

Mrs. Smith says it would be "not realistic" to refuse to give the White House 288 more rooms and 450 more guest passes than the Reagan campaign, passes, she says, for "the personnel who traditionally and of necessity must be present wherever the President appears."

These are personnel such as the Vice President, cabinet officers, foreign dignitaries and representatives of various independent government agencies.

Mr. Smith, quite correctly, rejects Mrs. Smith's nonresponse, saying it flies in the face of the "fundamental issue" which is "a simple matter of fairness." He writes, in part:

"I am sure you realize that the very Administration officials you indicated are campaigning for Mr. Ford and they have played an important campaign role. If they are allotted these things, the truth is that the Ford campaign receives them."

Thus, unable to get a fair hearing by the RNC chairman, the Reagan committee's general counsel has now sent an official letter of complaint to the Federal Election Commission.

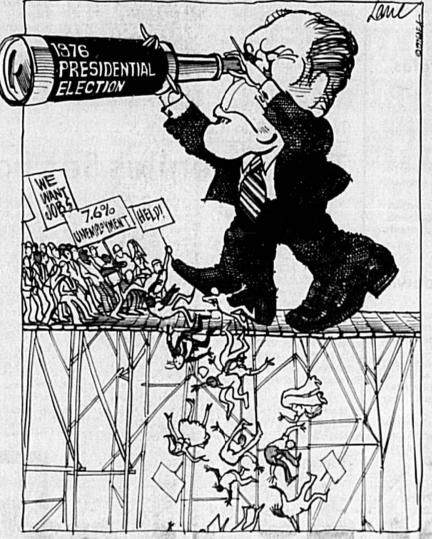

On July 9, former Rep. Tom Curtis of Missouri, who used to head the FEC and now supports Reagan, echoed Loren Smith's protests in a press conference. He declared:

"The White House is being treated by the RNC as an entity separate and distinct from the President Ford Committee. But the fact is, they are one and the same." Curtis vigorously denounced "the way in which millions of taxpayer dollars are being flagrantly mis-used by the Ford partisans who run the Republican National Committee."

Guest passes and rooms aren't the only evidence, however, that the RNC is shamelessly shunting the Reagan campaign. As R. W. Apple reports in The New York Times, "President Ford's friends hold all the key positions in the convention hierarchy." And indeed they do.

Commenting on the loading of the dice against Ronald Reagan, Tom Curtis says: "This is not supposed to be a Ford National Convention, even though it may seem that way. It is supposed to be a Republican National Convention."

How true. But Mrs. Smith and the folks at the RNC don't seem to have gotten the word. They will, however, load and clear in Kansas City, but it will be a very painful learning experience. And the blood that flows will be on their hands.

Letter To The Editor

Confused On Law

Editor: Re: Sunshine Law — that is, public meeting statute, et. disclosure amendment, all open government — stop. Heaven help me! I'm totally confused. But I can't help but believe that I'm not the only one. When an elected body or appointed person can thumb its nose at the people and endorse and thank Representative Hattaway for "clarifying" the Sunshine Law by proposing that less than a quorum of elected officials can meet to discuss public business, with admittedly certain restrictions such as allowing the public to be present if the public can find the right door, then it appears to me that those persons were as confused as to which of the Sunshine Laws were being talked about as I am.

There is need to amend the present public meeting statute, commonly referred to as the Sunshine Law, and one of the areas concerned was including the Cabinet member under the Statute and was the apparent intent of another legislator in another time. The other area needed to effect an equitable basis for the elected is in the area of Civil actions at law and property docketed wherein the elected body can meet in closed session with its attorney thus eliminating unrequested disclosure of its position and truly protecting the citizen's interest.

It is not arguable that Mr. Hattaway's proposals would lead itself to more efficiency, BUT, better government of the people, by the people, for the people. Never. I just have to believe that I'm not the only one confused.

(which) may use nickel as a catalyst." This could create cancer-causing nickel compounds. The coal conversion process produces 18 substances, in addition to nickel, which can cause leukemia, brain damage, pneumonia and a host of other disorders. If all this sounds like scare propaganda, it is research produced not by environmental fanatics but by White House experts.

One problem, the White House study points out, is that ERDA's technicians and environmental researchers "do not have a close working relationship." Some technological developments have yet to be examined for their effects on the environment.

One energy-producing process that may soon be put into use, for example, emits a cancer-causer called nickel subsulfide. But ERDA has made absolutely no study of its impact on health.

ERDA "must not irrevocably commit the nation" to a new energy form, the report urges in summation, until man's survival is weighed into the equation.

EPA officials, meanwhile, have repeatedly pushed aside evidence that the public is breathing cancer-causing nitrosamines. These chemicals are formed when substances known as amines, which are present in the air and the body, react with the nitrogen oxides that spew from auto exhaust pipes and industrial smoke stacks.

Incredibly, the EPA itself has acknowledged the harmful effects of nitrosamines. "As a family of carcinogens (cancer-causers)," states one EPA study, "the nitrosamines have no equals." Another confidential report candidly

Real Estate Investments

BY LARRY SAXON

Dear Mr. Saxon,
We have a home on 18 acres of land that we have been trying to sell for almost 2 years without success. We have given an open listing to at least nine different brokers but the property is seldom shown and so far there have been no offers. Why aren't we getting any action from the brokers with whom we listed?

Dear Mr. Saxon,
Your lack of "action" may be related to your "open listing policy". An open listing is every body's business and every body's business is nobody's business. Aggressive, progressive brokers seldom accept open listings. They spend their time working for sellers who have listed exclusively with them or in helping buyers locate a suitable property, preferably one listed exclusively by a broker. By asking around I'm sure you can locate a broker with a reputation for honesty and integrity. Let him analyze the market for you, then list exclusively with him and you should achieve the results you desire.

Q — A neighbor of mine who moved into an apartment last year...
A — He's not even close. There were three brick chimneys long before the Pilgrims settled at Plymouth. Queen Anne styling came into vogue in England in the 1700s, one of its distinguishing features being huge chimneys.

Q — Can you tell me the best type of stain to use on white pine wood? I have an unfinished table that I would like to stain...
A — Personal preference enters into the choice of a stain. My own preference for pine is one which has a golden tint.

Making A Patio Is Simple Project

BY ANDY LANG
AP Newsletters
There are dozens of different ways to make masonry patios, terraces and walkways, involving a multiplicity of designs, materials and methods. One of the most attractive and easiest involves laying bricks in a bed of sand. Only when making the edging, curbing or other rows of bricks is any wet mixture utilized. This mixture is laid into place. You can make any kind of brick design you wish or simply place the bricks next to each other in simple fashion. As you go along, be sure each brick is set firmly in place. The top of the next brick is level with the top of the last. A long level is handy whether or not a slight pitch is required.

When all the bricks are in place, take some more of the sand or dry mix and drop quantities of it into and along the joints. Use a push broom to sweep the sand around until it has settled into the joints. Add more sand and do this again and still again if necessary. When the joints are pretty well filled, get out the garden hose and spray the patio or walkway, being sure to get the nozzle at a 45-degree angle.

Pollution-Proof Trees Sought

BY EARL ARONSON

A big fumigation chamber being built at the Cary Arboretum may some day bring America's communities together with living trees which will better withstand pollution. In the tank-like structure, trees will be tested for tolerance to pollution. Dr. David Karnovsky of the New York Botanical Garden's Cary Plantation center at Millbrook, N.Y., said that the first phase of the project would test maples, ash, honeylocusts and ginkgo. The trees will be subjected to sulphur dioxide and ozone (two components of smog) for three-hour periods, then ranked as to pollution tolerance. "Maples and ginkgos are fairly resistant to pollution, ash are not," Karnovsky said. "However, nurserymen lack information regarding air pollution tolerance of trees that are being commonly used in urban planting today. Therefore, they cannot make recommendations as to what to plant in polluted areas."

In the second phase, the trees will be subjected to actual urban conditions in selected sites in New York City. There are many other projects of styling originated before there were brick chimneys. Not that it matters too much, but is he right? A — He's not even close. There were three brick chimneys long before the Pilgrims settled at Plymouth. Queen Anne styling came into vogue in England in the 1700s, one of its distinguishing features being huge chimneys.

Q — Can you tell me the best type of stain to use on white pine wood? I have an unfinished table that I would like to stain...
A — Personal preference enters into the choice of a stain. My own preference for pine is one which has a golden tint.

Spain Proposes Amnesty For Political Prisoners

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Spain's new government proposed today a general amnesty for all political prisoners except those convicted of terrorism. But a weakly worded proposal for a referendum on reform indicated a continuing fear of entrenched powerful rightists.

Beirut Embassy Cuts Staff

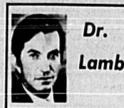

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The American Embassy said Friday it is cutting its staff and warning U.S. citizens in Lebanon to leave the war-torn country. Sources in Washington said the move anticipates an expected Christian attack on the Moslem-held sector of Beirut, where the embassy is located.

Soviets Hold Space Meeting

MIAMI (AP) — The Soviet Union may use citizens of other communist countries to man future spacecraft and orbiting space stations, Radio Havana said.

Vitamin Pill Fad Doesn't Aid Diet

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to know something about the 4-in-1 vitamin, containing lecithin, kelp, vitamin B-6 and cider vinegar. Does this in anyway help in dieting? If so, how and how much should you take? I read that you should take two tablets after every meal. That's six a day or 42 tablets a week. Isn't that a lot to take?

DEAR READER — I wish people had as much interest in learning about a sensible diet that would give them a balanced diet and reverse or prevent obesity as they do in every new diet fad — oops fad — that comes along.

Lecithin contains choline which is important to your nutrition. You can get plenty of it from lean meat which should be part of your sensible diet. Lecithin that you take as tablets or in food serves no other useful purpose. The choline in a well balanced diet is used by your liver to manufacture your own lecithin.

You will get all the vitamin B-6 you need in a well balanced diet. Taking an excess amount will not cause your body to miraculously start shedding pounds of energy (fat is stored energy).

Keep in a seaweed that contains iodine, which you can also get from iodized salt. It also provides some bulk in its natural state when used as a major component of the diet as it is in Japan. The additional iodine will not help. The excess will be eliminated. Those who are sensitive to iodine may develop an iodine reaction.

Those who have small thyroid glands, because of partial of the thyroid has been destroyed by an infection, may have further damage to the thyroid and develop an advanced state of a low or absent thyroid function called hypothyroidism.

People lose weight because the body uses more calories than they consume. It is that simple. Your body uses energy to maintain itself, heat itself and cool itself as well as in many complex chemical reactions. It also uses energy for physical activity at work or play. When this total exceeds the number of calories you are taking in you will lose weight.

Sickness will cause you to lose fat because the illness causes the body to use far more calories. So the only benefit you get out of that diet you are talking about is an associated decrease in calorie intake that goes with the pills.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 47: Weight Lossing Diet, to give you the basis for building your own balanced weight control diet. The diet is losing fat and staying slender is to learn how to eat properly. That is what a reducing diet should teach you.

larger cities. "Lami" was bought and sold rapidly by speculators and frequently handled as paper transactions with buyers never seeing their land," Knowles said.

Sanford grew rapidly. "Streets were paved, the bulkhead constructed, a municipal hospital started, the private water system purchased," Knowles said. "Then the bubble burst. The city floundered."

The city limits were contracted and the municipal debt refinanced under a 40-year repayment plan at 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent interest. That interest rate is why Knowles struggled to pay off the 40-year debt in a little more than 20 years.

Before he became city manager, city officials had planned to refinance the debt again in 1977—but they would have faced much higher interest rates.

"It is with a sense of accomplishment that Sanford sees this old debt paid off," Knowles said.

XXI Olympiad Under Way -- Somehow

MONTREAL (AP) — The Olympic Games, at last, have gone from the board rooms and council halls of the politicians and administrators to the stadium and pools and playing fields of the athletes.

These athletes, 7,000 strong and representing 112 nations, inaugurated the Games of the XXI Olympiad Saturday with the pomp, pageantry and parade of the traditional opening ceremony.

Missing from their ranks, however, were the teams of Taiwan and Nigeria, victims of the varied political crises that, as late as Thursday, threatened the very existence of the Games.

The Taiwanese withdrew after the International Olympic Committee voted overwhelmingly to change their official designation to "Taiwan" from "Republic of China," the name Canada, with its strong economic ties to Communist China—refused to allow and the name the Taiwanese insisted they must have.

Nigeria withdrew in protest of New Zealand's participation. The tour of South Africa, excluded from the Olympic movement for its apartheid policies, by a New Zealand rugby team has angered other African nations and caused the boycott of the Games by Somalia, Mauritius and Tanzania.

The possibility exists that still others may follow.

The competition begins today.

The United States, Russia, East and West Germany are expected to dominate the competition, which will be televised to more than 60 nations and about one billion viewers, one quarter of the world's population.

The early spotlight will center on swimming, where the American man and the East German women are heavily favored. The United States could, conceivably, win all 13 events.

The grace and beauty of gymnastics also is on show Sunday night with the tiny little Russian girl, Olga Korbut, who captured the hearts of the world in Munich—again ranked second to her teammate, Lyudmila Turishcheva.

Track and field begins Friday. It has been robbed of its premier attraction, potentially the highlight of the entire Games, the match-up of Filbert Bayi and John Walker of New Zealand in the 1,500 meters, the metric mile. Bayi, the world record holder in the event at 3:32.2, was lost to the Games when his country, Tanzania, decided not to compete. Walker holds the world record in the mile, 3:49.4.

A deadly serious American basketball team is seeking to regain the gold medal it lost for the first time in Munich four years ago. The U.S. plays Italy in its first game of the round-robin tournament.

The opening day of competition also features shooting, another sport in which Americans are expected to do well.

The Games, which end Aug. 1, have cost the Canadians $1.4 billion in construction and preparation costs. Montreal originally budgeted $445 million. Strikes, scandals and cost overruns ate up the rest of it.

And it isn't yet complete. The Olympic Stadium is finished only to a degree.

Need A Thursday Laugh?

Thursdays are reserved for laughs at the Seminole Harness Raceway on these balmy July evenings.

They call it the Infamous Driver Series — paralleling the Famous Driver Series of a couple years ago when Herve Eillon and the boys put in guest appearances.

The Radio and TV boys get things kicked off last Thursday night with the first three preliminaries. It was quite a night — the winner didn't win and one horse tripped in practice warm-ups and had to be scratched.

Ray Alpert, of WDIZ, galloped his horse all the way around the track to cross the wire first. But judges backed him to last because of an "extended break." Consequently, Channel 5's Marty Stebbins moved up from second to first, and WORKB's Guy Rozier from third to second.

Stebbins and Rozier advance to the Aug. 5 final, the Marty Stein benefit.

This Thursday, it is the athlete's turn. Boxers Joey Vincent, Vic Perez and Mike Quarry are in the field along with ex-footballers Don Jones, Dick Butkus and Randy Jackson. VOLP was Johnny John Landers, whose horse fell last week, will get his crack this week. Track publicist Herb Holiday was trying to get wrestler Dusty Rhodes to round out the field.

The following week, sports writers take over. This writer is defending champion, and will return, along with a bevy of key-hangers like Herky Cush, Jim Cartfield and Larry Greene.

As if anyone would consider it, there is no wagering on the personality races, held between the fifth and sixth races.

Girl Named Chris, Horse Named Cozy

This Love Affair Is Setting Horsey Set Records Every Time Bud Woodall Pulls His Bus And Van Into An Arena

By HUGH ANSLEY

Herald Correspondent

The drone of the bus tires went on and on throughout the night. The scene was like a small Greyhound bus pulling a horse trailer headed north through the dead of night on Interstate 75. Inside, sleeping, was 13-year-old Chris Woodall. The trailer was her horse Cozy Cash, a palomino quarter horse. They were on their way to another show in their quest to No. 1 in the nation as the high point leader of Chris' age class.

The ride this week was for the state horse show in Marietta, Ga., marking the end of a much needed, almost vital, 10-day rest period for Cozy. Next weekend they go to Ocala for the two-day show.

Cozy Cash pulled up lame in Carthage, Mo., on the last tour for the duo, and then caught pneumonia. The pneumonia, forced Cozy to miss participation in the National Youth Congress held in Oklahoma City, where Chris and Cozy were to be one of five horse-and-rider teams to represent Florida.

Cozy was treated and rested for 10 days and the back of her rider, through her front hooves were elevated to relieve pressure on leg ligaments. She and Chris entered a one-day show in Montpelier, Ind., where Chris was high point winner for 13-year-olds and under. Cozy was coughing after the show, however, and there was concern for the horse's ability to take another arduous road trip.

Had Cozy Cash been unable to continue, it would have dashed the hopes of Chris being No. 1 in the nation. Chris and Cozy are a team and Chris can get points of national standing only with Cozy.

Approaching the Fourth of July weekend, all training of Cozy was halted. She was saddled only for showing and the new procedure worked.

Cozy Cash was able to muster the looks and pace of a winner three days in a row and Chris was high point winner for shows at Gaston, Ind., July 2 and 3 and again the next day at Middleton, Ind.

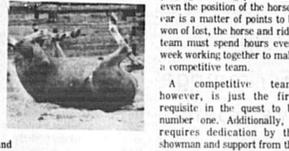

"She is a very, very tired horse," Chris' mother, Mrs. Rose Woodall said.

On the trip home Cozy Cash got wet in heavy rains and chills as they crossed the mountains in Tennessee.

On the final leg of the trip Chris was merely a prop to the ability of showmanship.

These horses are considered pleasure horses and it is desirable that the horse and rider be stable. She was a froth of sweat over her body. She rolled in the friendly sands of Florida immediately after being unloaded.

Cozy Cash is a horse with great determination and stamina. Chris Woodall is a horse person with a bit of love, saddled only for showing and the new procedure worked.

To make a realistic challenge for national honors, showing team must spend hours every week working together to make a competitive team.

A competitive team, however, is just the first requisite in the quest to be number one. Additionally, it requires dedication by the showman and support from the family. Chris was willing to

Testosterone, Drugs Big Worry At Mexico City In '68

By OLGA CONNOLLY

The Herald Services

By the XIXth Olympic Games in Mexico in 1968 the international sports scene was inundated by drugs which affected especially the weightlifting, throwing and women's events.

The anabolic steroids are synthetic products based on the biological formula of the male hormone, testosterone. The Olympic Committee's research that the anabolic steroids are not as effective as people once thought, anyway. But the athletes surmise that if a drug can help them increase their power by 30 pounds, they may as well take it.

The male hormone treatment notwithstanding, in Mexico City the doctors began to administer the now-routine sex test. The techniques for measuring hormonal levels are complicated, and as individuals vary, norms are unreliable. Moreover, the anabolic steroids are useful mainly during the off-season, power-building preparation. There is no need to take them in the Olympic Games.

So the problem is completely different from that of doping, and probably cannot be solved. The Olympic Committee's physicians concluded in their research that the anabolic steroids are not as effective as people once thought, anyway. But the athletes surmise that if a drug can help them increase their power by 30 pounds, they may as well take it.

An instant embrace from an old Czechoslovak coach. My being surrounded by Czechoslovak athletes. Their stories about the changed attitudes during the 1968 Spring in Prague. Their bliss in having tasted the freedom of socialism with a human face and again in the aftermath of the Soviet invasion, the Czechoslovak athletes did not speak to the Soviets. Yes, they had been friends for many years. Yes, they used to like them. But the events tore them apart.

I was really preoccupied by a split within the U.S. Olympic team over another issue which is a symptom of an old ulcerating affliction within the Family of Man. It is the hereditary disease of racism.

Earlier in the year, a sociology professor, Harry Edwards, posed some disquieting questions about the reality of the Olympic Games. He had asked the black athletes and their coaches, trainers, and physicians in the U.S. Olympic delegations, and in the university and other athletic programs in general. He also posed some disquieting answers.

The many outstanding black athletes should be given a solid career opportunity in the field of sports administration. Edwards said, and suggested, that the black athletes abandon the Olympic medal hunt until had been all over at home.

Objective thinking was out. Even those who should have known better failed to understand the extent of the sacrifice the black athletes were making to make their way into the Olympic arena.

Well, Since You Asked...

Q. Is Ken Patra still competing as a weight lifter? Is he related to the new coach of the Seattle Seahawks? — T.R. Aberdeen, Wash.

A. Patra, who competed at the Munich Olympics in the super-heavyweight class but didn't place, turned to professional wrestling a couple of years ago. He operated for a year and a half out of Charlotte, N.C., but recently shifted to Shreveport, La. He is the younger brother of Coach Jack Patra of Seattle. In fact, Jack inadvertently got him into wrestling by introducing Ken to Vern Gagne, the Minneapolis promoter. The younger Gagne, once over 300, has trained to 265 for the world, while big brother Jack has ballooned to 270.

Q. How can the Boston Red Sox claim they could afford to meet the salary requests of Fred Lynn, Carlton Fisk and Rick Hernandez, and then turn around and show they're willing to pay $2 million for Joe Rudi and Rick Fingers? — Matt P., Pittsfield, Mass.

A. The key word in "could" is "could." The puzzle is why, despite his great ability, and what would Rudi, since they are well fortified with the outfield and first base. I suppose it's another case of "them that was, wants."

Q. Re your recent column about Mike Lumpkin hitting for Henry Aaron, I seem to recall that Lumpkin was not only pinch hit for Aaron, but Jim Rank of the Oakland A's made appearance and hit a homer? You want to double check? — Art Magellan, Arlington Heights, Ill.

A. I triple-checked with Manager Turner of the Oakland A's. He did say a pinch hit homer in his first time at bat in the majors, with the Milwaukee Braves in 1955. But the man he battled for was Warren Spahn, and he connected on the first pitch. Later on, Chuck Pritch hit for Aaron in the first game of a double header because the Braves had a big lead, and Manager Charley Grisham wanted to rest Hank for the second game. Again, Turner admitted a home run.

Q. What players in major league history have hit into the most double plays in career? I'll bet you can't guess one of them. — P.T., Xenia, O.

A. I couldn't find the record of the Oakland A's. He checked with Ernie Lombardi, the national sports editor, but the figures that obscure statistics and discovered that Brock Robinson holds the record in the American League, not surprising considering Brock's pace. In the National League, I was going to say Ernie Lombardi, but the national sports editor told me that Brock Robinson holds the record in the American League, not surprising considering Brock's pace. In the National League, I was going to say Ernie Lombardi, but the national sports editor told me that Brock Robinson holds the record in the American League, not surprising considering Brock's pace.

Q. Do you know the per cent of games won by the home team in the top leagues of football, basketball, baseball, tennis, hockey, soccer? If not, would you list the sports in order of maximum home-court advantage and your theory for it? — Paul Hertelend, Berkeley, Calif.

A. I don't have precise home court advantage figures and don't have six months to total them. I feel the home advantages, by sports, go as follows: basketball, hockey, football, soccer, baseball, tennis. Directly in the case of tennis, where everyone is very sedate, it's directly related to the proximity of crowd to athlete.

Q. I've heard about how good Mike Schmidt and Dave Kingman can hit, but how are they rated at fielding? — Tim Robertson, Danville, Calif.

A. Kingman is a power fielder who plays in the outfield because they haven't found a place to hit him comfortably. I think he should have rested at first base long ago. Schmidt is a competent third baseman, agile enough to play long shortstop, though his throwing arm gets in trouble at times.

Q. I'd like a personal answer on your concerning Babe Ruth and Yankee Stadium, the house that Ruth built. Did Babe Ruth hit the only home run out of the old Yankee Stadium or didn't he? — Benjamin Porta, Wyoming, Pa.

A. How about, according to the ground rules of this column, an impersonal answer. No—repeat, no—fair ball has ever been hit out of Yankee Stadium, old or new. The man who came the closest were Mickey Mantle in right field and Jimmy Fox in left field.

Q. I assume this has been asked before. Why don't you use a third official in basketball whose main duty would be to watch the keyhole for the foul and is going on in pro ball? Look at what they've done in football and basketball by adding extra men. Or do they really want to stop the foul? — L.E.S., Sacramento, Calif.

A. Basketball has mulled a third official and has experimented with one in pre-season games. But there has been no follow-through. I still think it will come. Basketball and football do have advantages in that their playing space isn't as confined, so another official doesn't clutter up the premises. Basketball also figured out it would cost another half million bucks to add the extra officiate.

Q. I saw an article that had to do with an American sports announcer or broadcaster who insured his voice and gave with Lloyd's of London for $250,000. Can you find out who it was for me? — Hy Gomburg, Balboa Island, Calif.

A. I checked with a Lloyd's agent in Los Angeles, and he said that the company doesn't disclose policies because it doesn't want to provide public relations. There was once some scuttlebutt, apparently unfounded, that Vince Scully was insured. Underwriters tend to stay clear of insurance faces but will insure hands. In the case of a celebrity, they'd rather insure the whole person rather than just a part.

Q. What is the world's record for consecutive ping pong games played by two people without stopping? — Jeff Thompson, Adams, Miss.

A. Your Guinness, which is just as good as mine, shows that Dan Field and Greg Zarov played consecutively for 89 hours, 17 minutes and 45 seconds between July 2 and July 25 in Placenta Park, Calif. It didn't note how many games they played.

Q. I would like to know how they could ascertain for sure that Bob Watson scored the millenth run in baseball last year. — W.M. San Valley, Calif.

A. Because some perceptive young man took the trouble to check how many runs had been scored since 1900 in both leagues and figures out No. 1,000,000 would be May of 1975. And then a smart public relations man told Warner, figured out a book for his client. Computers were checked out the rest.

Cards Nip Jones, 4-2

By The Associated Press

Sometimes a pitcher will win a game even when he doesn't have his best stuff. The line lives with it. The Phils' shots down the line will curve low, the long blasts will be caught on the warning track. Sometimes, but not always. Randy Jones didn't have his best stuff Friday night, and while he didn't exactly get raked up, he didn't make any progress towards that goal. The St. Louis Cardinals took advantage of Jones' off-night and came away with a 4-2 victory over the San Diego Padres.

"I didn't feel good," said Jones, baseball's winningest pitcher with a 164 record. "I never really found my rhythm all night. It was tough, mentally, coming back after the All-Star game. I told myself I wouldn't be—it was." Elsewhere in the National League, the Philadelphia Phillies 14, the Houston Astros trimmed the New York Mets 4-3, the Cincinnati Reds nipped the Montreal Expos 4-0 in 10 innings, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Atlanta Braves 7-2 and the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the San Diego Padres 4-2.

Giants 1, Phils 0. Bobby Murcer broke up the fast game in the National League this season with his 12th home run of the year, two out in the ninth inning. The pitching duel between the Giants' Ed Hahn and the Phils' Jim Kaat—both of whom pitched six-innings—looked just one hour, 32 minutes to complete.

Mark "The Bird" Fidrych may delight the Detroit fans, but his pitching style is a little akin to wading a red cloth in front of a charging bull.

The 21-year-old Tigers recorded his 10th win, hurling his 11th complete game in 12 starts this season, by blanking the Oakland A's 1-0 in 11 innings.

Mark M. Cumber of Jacksonville led the first round, shot a 71 to take sole possession of second place with a 209 total after 34 holes.

Three players were tied for third at 219. They were Steve Eichstaedt of Miami Lakes, Russ Fraser of Orlando and Kip Wynn of Palm Beach.

Two-run doubles, by Buck Martinez in the opener and Phil Rizzuto in the second game, provided the punch. Mayberry's RBI gave him the league lead with 60.

White Sox 5, Brewers 4. Mike Walters of Tallahassee and Terry Mauney of Pompano Beach shared the fourth spot with 215.

Brock Robinson had three hits, including a double steal, and a home run to lead Baltimore to its sixth straight victory. Wayne Gardner, with relief help from the ninth through Stray-Miller, ran his record to 11-1.

Nolan Ryan, 7-11, struck out eight but walked six and gave up seven hits in seven innings. White Sox 5, Brewers 4. Second baseman Tim Johnson booted Brian Downing's two-out fourth-inning grand slam, and that allowed Lamar Johnson and Buck Day to come to the plate for Chicago. Both hit RBIs.

San Francisco 4, Yankees 8. The White Sox also scored single runs in the fifth and seventh innings.

Sanford on parade: Billy Price (34), Chris Dellario (37), Sonny Crebbs (68).

Billy Price Chasing NASCAR Title

Success came to the Price family at Volusia County Speedway this weekend when Sanford race driver Billy Price put his white and blue 1966 Chevelle around the half mile oval to capture the first heat and the feature.

In the heat race Price started on the outside pole and managed to take an easy win. Price is a lieutenant in the Sanford Fire Department and racing is his hobby. Money he won during the races is put back into the car, and Price feels that is the reason his cars run so well.

Harold Sargent finally sold his late model Chevelle to Ricky Turner, who was a standout in the limited class last year. He sold his old car to Volusia County Speedway owner Bernie Corbin.

Chris Dellario was driving his late model Chevelle lately in the role that was responsible for his winning 13 races in one year. Dellario has the car finishing races this year where last year it only finished about five times. In the Bicentennial 100 he was running as high as fourth when heating problems caused him to lose a lap.

Olympics May Change, However Politics Won't

MONTREAL (AP)—Politics are expected to cloud the Olympic movement in the next few years and China will be at the heart of it all.

The day of the opening ceremony for the Montreal Games dawned, but politics would not go away. As Taiwan and Nigeria walked out and other African countries were reported ready to follow, Leroy Kilian, president of the International Olympic Committee, set the likely scene between now and Moscow in 1980.

"In the next year or two the whole China question must be discussed with reality," Killian said. "That means more politics. The IOC must decide: Should Mainland China with its 800 million be admitted to the Games, and on what terms?"

"Will Taiwan continue to be recognized? Or will it be sacrificed to Peking, which says its athletes will never compete alongside those of the island fortress that calls itself the Republic of China?"

China has stuck in the IOC's gut for 20 years, ever since the refugee Chinese Nationalist Committee fled from the Communist mainland and settled in Taiwan.

In the days of the late president Avery Brundage, the IOC made a brief and unsuccessful attempt to recognize two Chinas. Peking would not have it.

At the end of the Games, the officials of the International Olympic Committee were so uptight that they had on their minds was to try and prevent another rebellious exclamation by the athletes. Remembering the unruly brotherhood that ran through the closing ceremony in Tokyo, they issued stringent orders that there would be no fraternizing this time. Only a halfhearted attempt to back down delegation would march in the rest of the competitors.

The track of the stadium was surrounded by police equipped with poles to be used against any athlete who would attempt to fraternize with anyone else. But there was a minor oversight.

I never understood how the IOC could be so silly—not to have replaced the torchbearers with a Wagner chorale. Didn't they know that the torchbearers would be carrying the torch of the Olympic flame? Didn't they know that the torchbearers would be carrying the torch of the Olympic flame?

Sidebanders Being Neglected

By MIKE WENDLAND

Sidebanders have to go down as CB radio's neglected minority. They've been taken advantage of by just about everyone from the electronics industry to the FCC to overwhelming numbers of AM operators.

First, the industry ripped them off by peddling expensive sideband radios with the pitch that single sideband operators have 49 useable channels. The truth is that sidebanders are lucky to find even one channel that's not being clobbered by AMers.

Then the FCC turned its bureaucratic back on them last summer by promising more sidebands only channels — only to quietly shelve the proposal a few months later. And the AMers, who outnumber sideband operators 10-1, are showing signs of rebelling against the gentleman's agreement which formerly assigned channel 16 to sidebanders.

How sidebanders have put up with the growing mess is beyond me. Perhaps their responsibility and respect for the sideband rights of others enable them to bear the burden. But if they won't raise a loud voice of protest, then permit me to speak up in their behalf.

First off, single sideband is much more effective than AM. Readability and external noise interference are less of a problem and, because sideband concentrates radio energy in a much smaller space than AM, it has a greater range.

Ham radio operators discovered all this years ago — and most radiotelephone hams today use sideband rather than AM. CB is still very new. It's going to take us a bit longer to accept sideband. But that day will come.

Meanwhile, the FCC had better wake up. So far, its approach to CB has been that of the classic knee-jerk. Instead of trying to guide and control the future, the FCC postpones action until the future suddenly becomes the present.

All CB operators need more frequency room. And sidebanders, whose numbers will continue to grow in the coming months, should get their share.

Q. I would like to use a CB radio in my car but since I drive a Rolls Royce, an outside antenna would not look appropriate. Do you know anyone who constructs a hidden antenna satisfactorily? — Carl Mayhew, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

A. You can operate a CB off the windshield wire antenna that your Rolls' AM-FM radio operates on if you use a special adapter, available at electronic parts stores. But I warn you, the results are usually less than satisfactory. For you, Carl, try the Tenna Corp.'s power CB antenna which allows you to raise or lower the antenna by remote control.

Q. I have a hand-held CB set that has room for three different frequencies. When the FCC opens them or will I have to alter my CB in some way? — Dale Robinson, San Antonio, Texas.

A. You should be able to purchase individual crystals for the new channels. The CB boom has caused a shortage in quartz — the stuff from which crystals are made — and you may have to wait a few weeks, though.

Q. If you could, good buddy, explain to me the advantage of a power mike for a mobile — Mike Carlson, Coon Rapids, Minnesota.

A. Lots of times the standard dynamic microphones that come with average-priced CB mobiles just don't put out enough modulation. A power mike allows you to increase the modulation, or voice power, of the radio. A big disadvantage of a power mike in a mobile is the extra road noise picked up. Thus, a noise-cancelling power mike, which rejects nearby noise but still provides good modulation, usually out-performs a regular power mike.

The most complete up-to-date book which surveys the world of CB, by 15-year CB veteran Mike Wendland — "CB UPDATE" is now available. His experience and knowledge of radio (He is a former ham operator) make this book an informative and necessary guide to CB for both long-time users and amateurs. This 144-page, illustrated oversized paperback covers the whole range of CB — from the types of rigs you can buy to the language which CB's own. Only $4.25 (includes postage and handling). People Ask: So What's A Scanner?

By ROBERT ANGUS

(450-470 Megahertz) and UHF (470-512 Megahertz).

Single-band models — units capable of covering any one of the bands — are the least expensive starting at about $100. Models covering two, three or all four bands also are available, with prices running to $250 or more for the latter.

Most scanners use crystals to provide the exact frequency you want — a different crystal for each channel.

A crystal is a precision-manufactured component used to tune a slice of quartz that's ground to just the right thickness to produce a particular frequency. It's mounted in a hermetically sealed can which you install in your scanner by plugging it into the appropriate socket. For crystal-type scanners, the number of channels dictates the number of crystals you need.

An eight-channel set requires eight crystals. At a price of $5 per crystal, this means an extra $40 to the price you'll pay for your set.

There's also a more sophisticated crystal-less type of scanner. These usually cost more than the basic crystal unit, but less than the former plus the necessary crystals.

To select the frequency you want in one of these "synthesized" units, you press a series of buttons to give you the proper code for each frequency. A code book accompanying the set tells you which buttons to push. The advantage of this type of unit is that you can change frequencies readily without having to buy new crystals.

Strictly speaking, scanners aren't CB gear at all. For while CB is a two-way radio system, you're getting the word on the seriousness of a local fire at the same time as the firemen who are fighting it. It's the fascination with real-life drama which has created a whole cult of scanner enthusiasts.

Actually, there are four bands which scanners monitor: Lo-VHF (148-150 Megahertz), Hi-VHF (148-174 Megahertz), UHF

Russ Williamson, president and his wife, Anita (better known as Millman and Millmaid) attended the Jamboree with 16 other L.T.D. members. The L.T.D. club originated in Sanford, but has members all across the country. Such celebrities as "Sky King" and "First Mama" are also members. What Is This Thing Called Love? Psychologist Reviews Marital Views

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald Correspondent

What is this thing called love? With dissolutions of marriages reaching an all-time high, this thing called love and marriage is not what it used to be. However, in an effort to maintain marital stability couples of all ages continue to seek the advice and solicitation of marriage counselors before plunging into divorce.

According to Dr. Warner Metz, executive director of Seminole County Health Center, the major problem in most marriages is lack of communication. The psychologist said, "Couples talk, but they just don't hear. They don't talk on the same level."

Dr. Metz continued, "What most people complain about is not the real problem, but triggers a deep-rooted condition. They use one area as the battleground for the actual problem. Sexual relationship and financial matters appear to be the major liabilities, although in many instances, a person is unaware of the existing conflict."

Love is a many splendored thing. Dr. Metz pointed out not only couples legally united in so-called consensual bliss seek marriage counseling, but also couples who are testing a trial marriage and living together without legal bonds, search for counsel.

He added, "Most couples with the living together arrangement want to look toward marriage. In some cases the trial marriage is not what they anticipated and they want to know if marriage will work and what steps can be

DR. METZ

Legal Marriages Versus Trial Marriages

Statistics concur that second marriages with live-in children involved have about a six per cent survival rate. Children, religion, finances and sexual relationships appear to be the major pitfalls of second marriages.

On the other hand middle-aged marriages have successfully lasted for more than 40 years. Divorcees are greater marriage risks than widows and widowers.

I love you truly.

These four famous last words are among the most used and abused in universal history. Dr. Metz said, "The tremendous increase in divorces speaks for itself. The attitude toward marriage has changed and today couples marry with the thought in mind that it is not a life-long commitment and if it doesn't work they can always get a divorce."

However Dr. Metz attested to the fact that many couples cling to the bitter end and seek counseling as a final resort. He concluded, "Through counseling a successful marriage can be established. In the early stages of a problem marriage the prognosis is much better. Both parties have to reevaluate understanding, tolerance, acceptance and openness."

The following case histories are not from the files of Dr. Metz. They are based on personal interviews conducted by the reporter.

Mad. A. was a 25-year-old divorcee with a four-year-old son when she met bachelor Mr. B., the same age. After living together for seven months they entered into a marriage which lasted ten weeks.

He said, "After a few days he began abusing my son, drinking heavily and staying out most of the night. The divorce was a mud-slinging mess which had a terrible effect on my son. Never again!"

Ms. B., age 28, thought she was madly in love with Mr. C., a charming dandy. After he lost his job, she permitted him to move into the apartment with her and a six-year-old daughter. After 18 months of his constant nursing and care Mr. C. died of a massive coronary became pregnant.

Her story goes, "When I told him I was pregnant, he silently moved out during the night. I was deeply hurt. My daughter and I received therapy and counseling and I had an abortion. The last account I had, he had a good job in California and was married. In the future if a man does not love me enough to give me his name in marriage, then there will be no trial marriage."

Mr. D. is a middle-aged businessman who has been divorced two years. His ex-wife of 16 years was his only office worker and filed for divorce when infidelity entered the picture.

She said, "Out of guilt, I gave her everything including the house, furniture, car and child support for the kids (three teenagers). Today my business has dwindled to practically nothing and I'm drinking my self to the grave while she is having a ball and considering marriage, I'm told."

Ms. E. and Mr. E., two senior citizens, agreed to live together in lieu of forfeiting her income through marriage. After a few weeks she discovered her live-in partner was rather financially secure. He promised marriage but was disabled after a heart attack. She became pregnant.

Following 14 months of her constant nursing and care Mr. E. died of a massive coronary and she was left with three children.

She said, "When I called his family up north they accused me of letting him die, yet only one of his sons came during his illness. They were sole heirs to all his holdings and even had the gall to tell me it was my responsibility to bury him. A

Terrific Teens Pianist Wants Conductor's Role

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald Correspondent

Zachary Dunbar, a 14-year-old Sanford concert pianist, has set his goals high. Planning to major in music Zachary's ambition is to arrange his own music and become a symphony conductor.

Born in the Philippine Islands, Zachary and his family including two brothers and two sisters, Albert, Jennifer, Cynthia and Christopher moved to Sanford about three years ago from Aurora, Cal. The family moved to the United States when Zachary was ten years old.

The young pianist's musical aptitudes are possibly offshoot from his mother, Cynthia, who was a concert pianist in the Philippines for 18 years. Mrs. Dunbar is but a piano teacher and heads his cheering section.

A straight A student, Zachary will enter Crooms High School in the fall. He practices at the piano a minimum of three hours daily. Admitting that his selections are nearly all classical, Zachary's interpretation of "The Sting" is in a class to itself.

In addition to his scholastic achievement and mastering music, Zachary carries his load of household chores with his sisters and brothers. His spare time is devoted to tennis and soccer.

Locally, Zachary came into his own when he played a century-old piano before more than 300 persons attending the General Henry S. Sanford Library-Museum open house on Independence Day at bicentennial festivities. Since living in Sanford he has performed in several school concerts and at the Altamonte Springs Mall.

With his dark eyes dancing and flashing a broad smile when asked about girl friends Zachary said in impeccable English, "Well, I just don't take girls seriously."

Zachary Dunbar gets piano lesson from his mother.

Have Washington Sex Scandals Shaken Your Faith In Our Elected Officials?

Frances Moye of Sanford: "I haven't formed an opinion, as yet. I've read about it all in the papers, but haven't any comment at this time."

James Dycus of Sanford: "Yes, it shakes my faith in national elected officials. I'm not speaking of local ones, although I'm not saying they aren't involved, only it would be too obvious. They are making a big do-over the men involved, while the women are getting rich with books and pictures."

W. L. Jones of Sanford: "Yes, to a certain extent. It makes me more or less suspicious of anybody you put in office."

Gloria Rollins of Sanford: "I don't think much of national or local elected officials. There's corruption in all levels."

Douglas Beeher of Sanford: "After Watergate, my opinion's about the same. As long as we don't have a Democrat in office, we'll have problems like that. Keep a Republican in, and you'll have problems like rich people have."

Middleman And Market Basket

WASHINGTON—Higher middleman charges accounted for nearly three-fourths of a $128 boost in what a farm family paid for U.S. farmed-produced food last year, and those costs will continue to go up in 1976, the Agriculture Department said yesterday. (Associated Press, January 27, 1976)

Stories like this have appeared frequently since the Department of Agriculture began publishing its monthly increased raw material and raw product costs; higher energy, waste treatment and interest expenses, and, of course, escalating government regulatory costs.

Take the canning company middleman, for example. His pack costs for the 1975 Summer-Fall pack were up five to six per cent from a year ago.

Actually, the apparent bulge in the middleman's "take" is often due to factors totally beyond his control — increased factory labor costs;

Rep. Williams Attacks Legislature

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald Correspondent

Political issues of the day and accomplishments of the State Legislature were outlined by State Representative Volie A. Williams Jr., who scolded wasteful expenditures in some state departments in a talk to the Kiwanis Club.

On Wednesday introduced the speaker and pointed out that Rep. Williams was a graduate of Marion (Alabama) Military Academy, attended West Point, was a personal pilot for General Walter Kruger in World War II, and is now cited as a rising young attorney and one of the three best young representatives in the state.

Among Williams' comments were: "If the appropriation of money can be used as a basis for success, this past session had the most successful year in Florida's history."

"In my opinion there is something wrong with a system of government when the only method of determining the needs of various state agencies is by accepting as correct what the heads of those agencies and departments say they need."

Group Plants Together To Increase Humidity

By JANET TARA
The Herald Services

Temperature and humidity are probably the two hardest conditions to control in the desert-like atmosphere of the average home.

While cacti and succulents thrive on these conditions, many ferns, flowering plants and orchids suffer from the low humidity common to modern homes.

Plants kept in offices have a harder battle because of the extremes in temperatures that occur at night and on the weekends when the heat or air conditioning is turned off.

Our grandparents grew full, bloom-laden geraniums in their kitchen but in the constant, even heat of today's bones, geraniums suffer and the lower leaves may drop.

The easiest, most popular way to raise the humidity in your home is to group plants together on a metal tray filled with pebbles. Keep the water level high enough to cover most of the pebbles but not high enough to touch the pots.

A long spell of wet weather may cut down on a plant's light, but it also temporarily raises the humidity and plants will look more lush.

Fashion Designs By The Blind

Walter Goodridge, enviously as ease with himself and the world, modeled two attractive dachshund and dachshund on the piano. Now 60, stocky and balding, he has been blind for twelve and half years.

"When I lost my sight, I had time to sit down and examine posture, exercise, make-up and who's going to entertain during intermission."

Most of her students are partially blind, she says. Each has his own dress form, or mannequin, on which he fits a pattern duplicating his own measurements.

"It takes six months to drape the pattern and transfer it to cutting paper using braile or large-figure tape measures. But you can then adapt that basic pattern — a sleeveless top and skirt for women; pants and shirt for a man — to whatever they want."

It takes another six months to complete the garment which is made from simple cuts of solid or printed fabrics donated by the community.

And for the time, the instruction, the material, the students pay one dollar if they want to.

All the students travel independently about the city with dog or cane. Walter Goodridge

Dress Up Earthy Denims

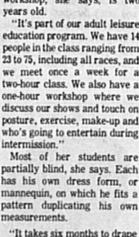

Looking for a new look for your denim? Take the western trail and embroider bands of rickrack to your shirts and jeans.

This is the easiest original needlework you'll ever do. The points of the rickrack are your guide for needle placement, so your stitches are always evenly spaced. Use embroidery floss or yarn and pick the widest colors you can find.

To make a shirt design baste the rickrack in place across the yoke and down the sleeves, pick bright colors and turn the ends of the rickrack under.

Use only four embroidery stitches for the shirt: the diagonal overcast, the herringbone, the French knot and the lattice stitch.

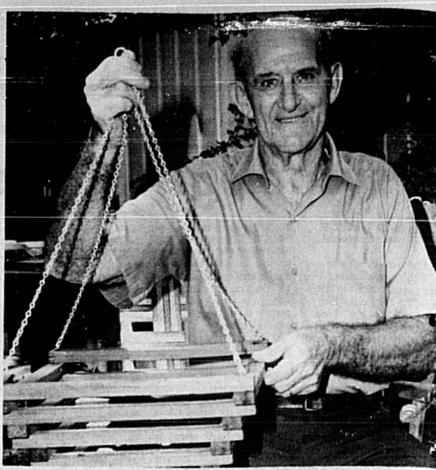

Take the easy way to denim-decorate and add pattern and color with embroidered rickrack.

Retiree Creates Baskets For Friends, Neighbors

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

John Hair of Sanford, is the ideal neighbor. He enjoys making things of wood, especially hanging baskets that are so popular today, and then presenting them as gifts to friends.

He hit upon the idea of making the baskets while he and his wife, Clara, were shopping for a basket one day. When they discovered the price on some of the more simple ones, Clara said, "There's no need to buy any. You can make them."

John, a retired railroad man from Pennsylvania, laughed and said, "Before retiring, I was a carpenter by trade, and in my spare time I did quite a bit of carpenter work. So I decided I'd go ahead and make one."

Redwood is the ideal material, according to John. "You don't need any other finish on it, and it outlasts other wood three-to-one."

John buys redwood boards in eight to twelve foot lengths by three-quarters inch. "I rip the wood in one to one and a quarter inch widths. The baskets can be made in any size."

Some of the finished ones have evenly nailed ends while others have a stacked effect. John uses a radial arm saw, but suggested a table saw could do the same thing. After nailing the boards together, John adds a chain or rope for hanging and has a very attractive hanging basket.

John has made several attractive additions to his Sanford home as well as small pieces of furniture. He likes working in his yard and his hanging baskets enhance the garden appearance.

Pushover Fears Date Lost Respect

DEAR ABBY: I'm afraid I blew it. I am a 47-year-old widower with three children, and I'm good-looking but not too smart about men.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I'm afraid I blew it. I am a 47-year-old widower with three children, and I'm good-looking but not too smart about men.

I met this beautiful, eligible teacher and we were attracted to each other instantly. He asked me out, and on the first date, in a weak moment, I went to bed with him because I was a pushover on the first date.

Now I could kick myself because he promised to call me soon, but it's been three days and I haven't heard from him. He said he had to go out of town on business, so maybe that's where he is.

Should I call him? Do you think he lost respect for me? If he does call again, should I play hard to get? Or do you think I'll expect me to top into bed with him because I was a pushover on the first date?

How should I handle this? He acted like he really liked me, and he is the kind of man I want to marry.

PUSHOVER

DEAR PUSHOVER: Don't call him. If he calls you, explain that you got "carried away" and now regret it. (It's true.) If you blew it with this man, take your lumps and learn from the experience. A man may want a pushover for a date but not for a wife.

DEAR ABBY: My fiancé said he wanted to present me with "a stone" that had been in his family for a long time, so naturally I was all excited when he handed me a small ring box. Imagine how I felt when I opened it and found an ugly little gray stone which he laughingly identified as a "gallstone" — one of many that had been surgically removed from his mother!

What do you think about a clown like this?

NOT LAUGHING

DEAR NOT: His mother may have had the gallstones, but he's got the GALL.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 years old, and I am dying to get my ears pierced, but my mother says I am too young.

Abby, I am not too young. All my friends have their ears pierced, and I have heard that some girls have their pierced when they are a year old. I have some money of my own saved up, and I could pay for it myself, but my mother says I can't spend it that way.

Please help me, Abby. I am depending on you.

WANTS PIERCED EARS

DEAR WANTS: Sorry, but 18-year-olds must abide by their mothers' decisions. Meanwhile, be patient, dear, and when you come of age, have yourself an ear-piercing celebration.

Modes For Men See New 'Choice' Look

Next fall and winter stack up as "choice" seasons for male fashions, according to the Men's Fashion Association — "choice" because stylists have put together the best bits and pieces of many seasons and "choice" because the average American man and boy have never had so many great looking options.

Rather than having a single "in" look, the average fellow as well as the fashion sophisticate can opt from several looks, mix and match, coordinate and separate to his heart's and eyes' content.

Among the highlights in men's fashions for the coming season are:

- ... the extremely important vests, once the province of die-hard conservatives, now both plain and reversible, and an integral part of the fashion look for both young and mature men.
- ... tailored clothing for males of all ages with an elegance freshened by interchangeable dress coordinates including jackets, trousers, vests and often a second pair of trousers when reversible, the vests match the jackets on one side, the trousers on the other).
- ... a versatile collection of suits ranging from dreary town models to tweedy "country look" town suits in solid colors, tweeds, stripes, herringbones, checks and plaids, with the fabric options including denim, corduroy, worsted flannels, soft wool flannels, donegals, novelty worsteds, shetlands and chevrons — both natural fibers and blends.
- ... "dress up" easy suits in addition to the regular tailored suits will be important for boys.
- ... a revived town topcoat in both single-breasted and double-breasted models.
- ... sport coats regaining their popularity with the ubiquitous blazers and blazer coordinates in the vanguard, followed by bold plaid sport coat coordinates (with vests and slacks), tartans, plaided, checked and herringbone coats, and camel hair sport coats.
- ... the swaggar trench coat models again dominate in rainwear but sprinkled with new treatments in poplins, polished cottons, coated fabrics and vinyls.
- ... Velvets adding a new look of luxury to fall and winter fashions in two-and-three-piece suits, jackets and easy suits for dress-up wear for men and boys.

Dress him up in pin stripes.

Accessorize

Choose a bag to balance your fall looks. A favorite for the more loosely defined silhouette is a roomy clutch of soft, crumby leather. Another generously-proportioned accessory is a well-designed buckle belt. This one has eye-catching silver horseshoe shape attached to soft leather straps. At the wrist a handsome watch to get you there on time.

For a well-heeled wardrobe, invest in a comfortable pair of low-heeled T-strap shoes. These are suede, worn with sheer stockings. A dressy shape for falls sleek and slender clothes.

Long skirts are fine for home and going out, but restrict them to that. They tend to be out of place in an office, especially when they drag on the floor.

SKIRT ETIQUETTE

For a new look in shoes, a pair of ballet slippers or jazz shoes look timely when worn with a jumpsuit, catfish or Oriental outfit.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Wanted to have Mrs. Jacoby play a grand slam, but he wanted to stop a heart lead. How could he do it? One way would be to make a take cue bid at hearts and then go to seven spades. The trouble with that action would be that expert West would say to himself, "Why did Jacoby bother to cue bid when he was going to bid seven all the time?" So Jacoby tried the reverse method. He just bid seven spades! West studied and studied and finally came to the conclusion that Jacoby was surely void of hearts. Hence, his only hope lay in the club suit. He led a club and Mrs. Jacoby raked up the grand slam.

Today's hand has appeared in this and other columns. Oswald Jacoby sat North and Mary Zita Jacoby, his wife, was South. At that time the grand slam bonuses were 1500 not vulnerable and 2250 vulnerable. The game was rubber bridge and East and West were both top players. After East had overcalled Jacoby's opening diamond bid with four hearts and West had bid five hearts over Mrs. Jacoby's four spades, Ozzie

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSLO. For Sunday, July 18, 1976. ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have honorable intentions today, but they're not enough to excuse your making people who help feel obligated to you. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be satisfied that what people offer you today is the best they can give. It's not fair to expect others to try to operate by your standards. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You can be very gracious to those who accede to your wishes today. Pals who try to think for themselves won't please you nearly as much. CANCER (June 21-July 21) Whether or not you realize it, your motives are transparent today. It'll be of little avail for you to try to hide them. LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) Although you have a tendency to deal in illusion today, you must come to grips with reality. It would be a serious mistake to do otherwise. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In business dealings today, make up your mind to grit your teeth and hold the line. Your opponent is determined to have his way. YOUR BIRTHDAY July 18, 1976 It's important that you think in terms of financial gain this year. Deliberating about these lines will spur you to greater, more rewarding efforts. whatever you say or do is really irrelevant. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually you're ready to jump in with both feet when there's something to do today, you're likely to look for an excuse to hold back. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're more glib than usual today. You tend to believe what friends tell you, though you know in your heart it's not true. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have sympathy today with those under you. This would be fine, except that you should be exercising discipline rather than restraint. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It would be silly today if you could stay in bed and shut the world out. Scale down your activities as much as possible. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you plan to begin a new project today, line up your list of materials before you start. You could buy much more than needed otherwise.

For Monday, July 19, 1976. ARIES (March 21-April 19) This could be a costly day for you if you don't manage your resources wisely. Pay off old obligations before assuming new ones. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're not going to be able to operate as independently as you'd like today, unless you limit demands others make of you. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't try to manipulate others from behind the scenes today. It won't work. If you want help or favors, make a direct request. CANCER (June 21-July 21) Be careful today with friends where money is an issue. Someone could very easily wind up feeling they've been taken advantage of. LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) You have a tendency today to do things the hard way. You're likely to resent it if anyone tries to point this out. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't take a hard line today regarding a matter where you know in your heart you could be wrong. Everyone makes mistakes. Don't let it bug you. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're not as sharp in business matters today as you'd like to smugly believe. Recall: Poor advice from you could cost someone a few bucks. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Handle close companions with diplomacy and tact today, or you could irritate one who doesn't readily forgive a put-down. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you have an important task that needs attention, take care to whom you delegate it or it will cause you more work eventually. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be prepared for some social complications today, especially if you're involved with one who is never easily pleased. She'll surely rock the boat. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your mate is likely to have more than her share of domestic frustrations today. Don't spring surprise guests on her. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Make a list of what you want to accomplish today, then check as you go along. Something important could slip your mind. YOUR BIRTHDAY July 19, 1976 This coming year you will have more outside interests than you've had for sometime. It should be fun, but don't put more time in the fire than you can manage.

Carter Family An Easy, Informal Clan

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

Jimmy Carter's family, a close-knit clan of 11, is a model of informality. In the White House, the family is known for its relaxed atmosphere. "We always used to have square dances at the governor's mansion, and I think we'll continue to do that in the White House," says the candidate's wife Rosalynn.

Rosalynn is the only woman I've ever loved in my life. We were married in 1946, and I've loved her ever since. She's a wonderful person, and I'm proud to be her husband. We have four children, and I love them all. We're a family that's always been together, and I think that's one of the reasons we've been successful.

Jimmy Carter On The Campaign Trail: Preaching A New Faith In Government

Georgia from 1971 through 1977, Carter has a unique perspective on government. He has seen the government from both sides of the aisle. He has seen the government as a servant of the people, and he has seen the government as a power that can be abused.

Carter's campaign is a message of hope. He is offering a new vision of government, one that is based on honesty, integrity, and a respect for the individual. He is offering a new faith in government, a faith that is based on the belief that the government can be a force for good.

Crime Planned Months In Advance Still No Motive For Kidnapings

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — The motive is still a mystery. But the methods used by three silent, masked men who kidnaped 26 children and their bus driver make one thing clear — it was a crime planned out to the fullest, months in advance.

But it didn't work. The children escaped. Still, that the captors could snatch a husband of mostly tiny children in daylight from a town where everyone seems to know everyone else, and then frustrate extensive search efforts by FBI, state and local law officers for more than 24 hours, testifies to their thorough preparation.

When the plan was hatched is unknown. As far back as November 1975, however, one of the suspects is known to have bought three government surplus vans, one of which authorities have traced to the kidnaping. He paid with cash.

Two of the three he bought were never registered. The other was registered two days before the crime in Los Gatos, near San Jose. Because of that, investigators said they had to search for records of the van by hand since the information hadn't been filed in the Department of Motor Vehicles computer.

The name and San Jose address the van was registered under turned out to be phony, according to Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates.

The vans were well equipped for a flight from the scene of the crime. They carried:

- CB radios, ideal for monitoring police activity, but made even more useful by the glibby "CB volunteers" who blasted out from Chowchilla nearly every tidbit of information known about the investigation.
- Painted windows, so no one could see out — or in.
- and a tent-like tarp made the roundabout route to the gravel pits 100 miles away a mystery to those inside.
- A good supply of extra gasoline which kept the kidnapers from having to pull into a service station and taking the risk of an attendant being tipped off.
- California Highway Patrolmen had quickly alerted gas stations on the major routes in the San Joaquin Valley about the kidnaping and had told them to report any suspicious looking vans.
- The nearby creekbed where the bus was taken made an ideal hiding spot. Authorities said they could not see the bus at all from the road during daylight hours. It took a hastily organized air search to spot the big yellow bus in a thicket — and just before dark.
- In the gravel pit near Livermore, the kidnapers had an excellent hideout.
- The children were buried for nearly 18 hours in a World War II vintage military moving van about 25 feet long. It was buried in a spot in the quarry that was not being worked. The spot was surrounded by brush up to six feet tall.
- Tests of soil samples taken from the site show the truck had been buried there less than a year, Alameda County investigators said. They added that there are numerous back roads to the spot and kidnapers could have easily driven in to work on the cavern at night without being seen.

New Clues Being Investigated

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — Investigators say they have compiled new clues which they believe will lead to the capture of three men who kidnaped 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver.

The 27 escaped unharmed more about 28 hours later.

"We have a gut feeling that we are getting closer," Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates said Sunday.

At the Alameda County sheriff's office, Lt. Ed Volpe said detectives had been given information by a man in Sonora, 65 miles northeast of the kidnap scene, "that pinpoints where the suspects were" on specific dates last year.

And Jack Baugh, criminal division chief for the Alameda County sheriff's office, predicted authorities would be able to identify one or more of the abductors today or Tuesday.

"Right now we're optimistic that our investigative leads are developing toward some positive information that we think will take us to a suspect," said Baugh.

But despite "an astronomical amount of physical evidence," Baugh admitted that investigators still had not established a motive. "The only thing we have at this time is a kidnap," he said. "As to whether it was for terrorists, or for ransom, I don't know."

The 26 children and their driver, on a homeward-bound run from summer school, were forced at gunpoint from their bus and herded into two small vans near the Madera County town of Chowchilla, a small farming community in the heart of the San Joaquin Valley.

Their captors drove them nearly 100 miles to a gravel quarry near Livermore in Alameda County in the southern San Francisco Bay area and forced them into an underground bunker constructed on an old truck bed. The captives dug their way out Friday night after the three masked men left.

Composite drawings of two suspects and detailed descriptions of all three men believed responsible for the kidnaping were released Sunday along with one complete and one partial license number of the two vans.

While investigators searched for three suspects, Bates would not rule out the possibility "four were involved."

Despite progress, Bates was angered by the FBI's withdrawal from the case Saturday.

"Their sudden and unexpected withdrawal in the middle of the investigation left a vacuum that was very difficult to fill and taxed the resources of the state and county and hindered our investigation," Bates said in a telegram Sunday to U.S. Atty. Gen. Edward Levi and President Ford.

The FBI said the case was not in its jurisdiction since no state lines were crossed or a ransom demanded.

Bates received three photographs from Alameda County which Baugh said were of "possible suspects." Baugh believed there was a "good possibility" one of the three was involved in the kidnaping.

Bates held off showing the three photos to any of the children, however, until more photographs of possible suspects from the Chowchilla area could be gathered.

A COOL SKILL ON A HOT DAY

Ed Green of DelRay decided it was too hot in the Sanford area for anything but water skiing on Sunday, so he decided to take a spin on the St. Johns River.

He's doing just fine in the top photo as he slaloms along. However, Green is ready to drop the remaining 34 for a little harlequin ride and in the middle photo we'd have to say he's not doing too badly.

Reagan Back On The Ranch; Democratic Team Takes Rest

Ford To Entertain Uncommitted Delegates At White House

By The Associated Press

President Ford plans to entertain still-uncommitted delegates at the White House this week, while challenger Ronald Reagan will be digging some post holes for fences at his California ranch and telephoning delegates to the Republican National Convention who still are on the fence.

The Democratic team, presidential nominee Jimmy Carter and running mate Walter Mondale, relaxed during the weekend. Carter was at his home in Plains, Ga., and Mondale vacationed at a friend's cabin in Minnesota and went fishing.

With four weeks left before the convention in Kansas City, Ford took a day off from delegate-hunting Sunday, attending church in the morning and spending the afternoon on the golf course.

He invited delegations from New York and New Jersey to White House receptions this week as he personalized his efforts to win over the final delegates he needs.

Reagan today started what he said would be a two-week vacation at his 68-acre ranch in the coastal mountains near Santa Barbara.

"I think I've got some more fences to put up. I'll be digging some post holes, generally working around the place," he said after the last 55 of 2,329 delegates to the convention were elected Saturday in Utah and Connecticut.

"I think I've got some more fences to put up. I'll be digging some post holes, generally working around the place," he said after the last 55 of 2,329 delegates to the convention were elected Saturday in Utah and Connecticut.

The selection of delegates to the Aug. 16-19 convention ended Saturday with Ford sweeping all 35 in Connecticut and Reagan taking all 20 in Utah.

With all 2,329 delegates for the convention now selected, The Associated Press count of announced or mandated delegate votes shows 1,066 for Ford and 1,023 for Reagan, with 12 uncommitted and 1 for Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn. It takes 1,130 to win. The AP count does not include those merely leaning toward one or the other.

With Reagan trailing Ford by 40 votes, the nomination is in the hands of the 172 uncommitted delegates, many of whom have met or talked on the telephone with both Reagan and Ford in recent weeks.

The Washington Post reported today that some uncommitted "top dogs" and supporters of Reagan have said privately that he will be unable to win the GOP presidential nomination.

The newspaper said some of these aides feel Reagan's chances for success were lost 10 days ago when Ford captured a majority of North Dakota's 18 delegates.

However, Michael K. Deaver, the Reagan campaign's chief of staff, denied that North Dakota had been a setback, telling The Associated Press, "I believe we got in North Dakota exactly what we planned for."

Deaver said the campaign staff will prepare a daily memo with a list of uncommitted delegates for Reagan to telephone.

Neither Reagan nor any of his aides would say exactly how they expect to pull off their upset, how they are going to defy the numbers in the delegate count.

"I'm optimistic, but I don't think anyone will really know until the first ballot is counted," Reagan said in an interview on the flight home from Salt Lake City.

But Reagan and his aides listed seven states where they say they have especially good hopes of winning uncommitted delegates: Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia.

Deaver said he believes the remaining uncommitted delegates are people who find both Ford and Reagan acceptable.

DEAR HELOISE: I'm a group of people to get to know each other, and provide some fun and laughs at the same time. When inviting people to a gathering, ask them to bring a snapshot or photo of themselves when a child or baby.

Each one brings onto a picture board. Number each picture in place in your hair, but hide it slowly down.

DEAR HELOISE: Just take your bottle of white liquid glue and put a little on the top of your head. Press into the hair of wide rubber band along the length of the glue. Press into the hair of the band. This is a wonderful "ice-cream" and people really like it. They'll be glad to get it with the pictures.
