County FD saves child's life

FERN PARK — Quick response time by the Seminole County Fire Department may have been the difference between life and death for a year-old baby Monday afternoon.

According to fire department reports, a unit headed by Lt. Judd Sonafelt was conducting a safety survey about a minute away from a location where a possible drowning call originated at about 3 p.m. yesterday.

When emergency personnel arrived at the home, they witnessed a female child at poolside. Reports indicate the child had fallen into the pool and may have been in the water for up to 2 1/2 minutes.

The youth had a pulse but was not breathing when fire department personnel arrived. The child's mother and grandfather had pulled the youth from the water and were administering CPR when the emergency crew came on the scene.

The crew restored the child's breathing and transported her to Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs. She was later transferred to Florida Hospital-Orlando.

The name of the victim and family members were not available at press time.

As of this morning, the child was reportedly in good condition at the medical facility.

Pedestrian struck, killed

OVIDEO — An Oviedo man identified by police as Hosca Eddie Robinson, 54, was struck by three cars and killed at 8:47 p.m. Monday on County Road 419, just west of Reed Avenue in Oviedo.

"The best we can tell is he was walking eastbound in a westbound lane about five or six feet into the highway," said Sgt. Robert Metcalf, traffic homicide investigator for the Oviedo Police Department.

Freed hostage: Americans 'fine'

DAMASCUS, Syria — An Indian-born U.S. resident who was turned over to U.S. officials today said three American hostages with whom he was held for 20 months in Lebanon are fine but refused to say more fearing for their safety.

Security forces turned over Mithileshwar Singh, who appeared tired but apparently healthy and clean shaven, to U.S. officials.

Mets hope to pass 'Orel test'

LOS ANGELES — The New York Mets have the better pitch when it comes to arguments about the National League playoffs.

The confident, even cocky, Mets went through a workout Monday at Dodger Stadium in preparation for tonight's NL playoff opener against the somewhat crippled Dodgers.

"I'm picking the Mets," said St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog, who came ago in spring training forecast the NL East race by saying "if there's one team that can run away with the division, it's the Mets."

Saints exercise Cowboys, 20-17

NEW ORLEANS — Morten Andersen kicked a 49-yard field goal as time expired Monday night, giving the New Orleans Saints a 20-17 victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

Roger Ruzek had kicked a 39-yard field goal with 24 seconds to play, pulling Dallas to 17-17. A 39-yard attempt by Ruzek with 2:22 remaining hit the left upright and bounced back.

New Orleans, 4-1, has won four straight games, but the victory was only its second against the Cowboys in 13 meetings, and its second in a Monday-night game in eight attempts. The previous Saints victory over the Cowboys came Oct. 17, 1971, 24-14. Dallas fell to 2-3.

Murder suspect jailed

More arrests pending in neighborhood feud

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A 21-year-old Sanford man was jailed without bond today, charged with murder in the Sept. 22 shooting of a Sanford man outside the Deluxe Bar.

The shooting was one of a series of incidents involving residents of Goldsboro and Midway.

Larry Thompson, of 21 Castle Brewer Court, was arrested without incident by Seminole County sheriff's investigator Billy Lee at 9:02 p.m. Monday. The arrest was made at 49 Lake Monroe Terrace, Sanford.

Sheriff's Sgt. Greg Barnett said today that Sanford police were tipped to Thompson's location and police alerted Lee.

The gun used to shoot Antonio Denmark, 22, of 2410 Crawford Drive, Sanford, has not been recovered, Barnett said.

Barnett said that during the sheriff's investigation of the series of incidents that began Sept. 17 at a block-party brawl, with about 700 in attendance, Thompson repeatedly was named as a suspect in the fatal shooting.

During the street brawl, which sheriff's deputies said was part of an ongoing feud between some residents of Midway and Goldsboro, three men sustained minor gunshot wounds and one was cut on the forehead. Subsequent acts of violence in those two communities were reported by deputies as acts of revenge for the acts committed at the brawl, which was eventually

Light voter turnout expected

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County elections officials predict that 22 percent of the county's 101,794 voters are expected to participate in today's second primary.

If accurate, that means 22,394 voters, or roughly one of every five, will decide whether to have a tourist development tax to raise money for the zoo and other projects and to decide the Republican primary in two county commission races.

Supervisor of Elections Sandra Guard said her 22 percent prediction is based largely on the number of absentee ballots she received by last Friday, 406 of the 1,400 mailed.

Guard said the recent results of second-primary elections have ranged from a low of 10.9 percent in 1982, when the county library bond was the only issue to a high of 36.3 percent in the 1980 when several races were decided.

In today's race, voters will choose whether to

Statewide candidates wait, watch

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Officials expect about 25 percent of Florida's registered voters to cast their ballots in Tuesday's runoff elections to name party candidates for congressional races, as well as state cabinet and legislative spots.

"They predicted a 25 percent turnout," said Jim Hamilton, a state Elections Division official, who added the number could "be even less" if rainy weather crops up again Tuesday as it did in some parts of the state during the Sept. 6 primary.

Rep. Kenneth "Buddy" MacKay and Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter have run such vitriolic campaigns for the U.S. Senate nomination that some Democrats fear the nominee may be too bloodied to beat Republican nominee Rep. Connie Mack, R-Fla.

In the insurance commissioner's race, Senate President John Vogt and Sen. Ken Jenne, D-Hollywood, have renewed a personal war that began when Vogt took the senate presidency away from Jenne in 1986.

The winner will face GOP nominee Tom Gallagher in the general election.

Jim Taft, a Crystal River developer, and former Florida House member Tom Moore have run a low-key, low-budget race for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state.

Annexation 'open season' considered

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Sanford City Commissioners on Oct. 10 will consider approving an "open season" annexation program.

The commissioners will consider waiving the $150 annexation petition fees to encourage property owners of unincorporated territories in Seminole County to annex to Sanford.

City manager Frank Faison said the commissioners want to "suspend the annexation fee and invite property owners to annex."

At a workshop meeting Monday evening, the commissioners reviewed a memorandum from Bill Simmons, director of engineering and planning, which outlines the plan for the Sanford Urban Area Annexation "Outreach" Program.

The memorandum states, "It is recommended that the City Commission adopt an aggressive "outreach" program to encourage property owners in the Sanford urban area to apply for annexation... during a specific period of time ranging between 60 and 90 days."

Faison said pockets of unincorporated territory experience a

"double coverage jurisdictional problem" whereby police and fire protection to these areas is not clearly designated. Through annexation, the city would provide water, sewer, fire and police, Faison said.

He noted several target areas for annexation.

One is Roseland Park, a small subdivision on the east side of the city between Celery Avenue and 25th Street where there may be failing septic tanks due to a high water table. Faison said there may be no street lights in this area either.

Another is the Lincoln Heights area located just west of Airport Boulevard between Country Club Road and 18th Street.

Another is near Silver Lake, which lies south of the city. It is an area with water problems. Simmons said the poor water quality is caused by percolation problems due to the sandy nature of the soil.

Other areas to be targeted include Briarcliffe Street and Osceola Drive to the southwest of Sanford, and Oak Street to Georgia Avenue between 26th and 27th streets.

Faison said annexation is designed to "straighten out borders See Annex, Page 5A

NASA must balance safety, progress

UPI Analysis

CAPE CANAVERAL — NASA's greatest challenge, now that Discovery has put America's space program back on track, will be to balance post-Challenger conservatism against the need for a productive flight rate.

"Believe me, we cannot afford to be too conservative," Discovery skipper Frederick Hauck said in a pre-launch interview. "You don't get to the other side of the road without crossing it."

"What I look forward to, perhaps as a result of the success of our mission and succeeding missions, is we'll maintain that balance, one of pushing forward the boundaries and frontiers, but not doing it with any significant risk to the program as a whole."

That will be difficult, initially, because of external and self-imposed pressure to make sure every shuttle system is perfect before launch.

But as the months turn to years, and as shuttle after shuttle is safely launched, the agency's greatest problem, perhaps, will be maintaining the intense vigilance and attention to detail that is required to

Roadblocks set for school sniper

MASCOTTE — Authorities set up roadblocks and posted officers at schools across rural south Lake County today in the search for a sniper who fired three shots at an elementary schoolyard, wounding a 9-year-old girl.

Third-grader Leah Wilbanks, injured by a single bullet that passed through her right arm and chest, was in serious but stable condition at Orlando Regional Medical Center, about 40 miles east of Mascotte, an agricultural community of fewer than 2,000 residents.

Leah was alert and not expected to require surgery, and doctors' primary concern was keeping the wounds free of infection, said hospital spokeswoman Martha Workman.

Mascotte Elementary School was the nation's fourth to be terrorized this year by an armed adult. Three children have been killed in the incidents.

Leah and two dozen of her classmates were outside for a physical education class when the shots were fired Monday at the schoolyard dotted with trees in a residential area of the small town.

Martinez submits Tampa Bay nomination

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez has submitted a five-volume background package to the federal Environmental Protection Agency supporting his nomination of Tampa Bay for designation as a national estuary.

Martinez nominated the bay on August 30. If selected by the EPA's National Estuary Program, Tampa Bay could receive $1 million a year for three to five years for bay protection and cleanup activities.

The nominating package describes the bay as central to the area's economy and environment. It says a designation as a national estuary would help the multitude of federal, state and local agencies that govern the bay co-ordinate their efforts.

Student groups push registration drive

TALLAHASSEE — Florida student groups expect to register 27,000 university students in time to vote in the November general election, student leaders said Monday.

Spokeswomen for the State Council of Student Body Presidents, the Florida Student Association and the Florida Public Interest Research Group said they hope to persuade students to play more of a role in public policy making.

The three groups and the student government associations at each of the nine state universities kicked off their voter registration drive two weeks ago, when students returned to fall classes.

The drive will end Friday, one day before the state Division of Elections closes the registration books for this election year.

Couple petitions court for blood test

SARASOTA — A petition was filed in Sarasota Circuit Court Monday seeking to force a southwest Florida man to allow blood tests on his daughter to confirm he is her natural father.

The petition was filed by a Baltimore attorney Marvin Eilin on behalf of a Pennsylvania couple who contend they were given the wrong child 10 years ago, following the birth of a daughter at Hardee Memorial Hospital in Wauchula.

Ernest and Regina I. Twigg of Langhorne, Pa., filed a $100 million suit in federal court in Tampa last month alleging they were the victims of an intentional baby switch.

Since then, the only other girl born at the hospital during the same time period has been located and the Twigg want the genetic blood tests conducted to determine if she is the daughter of the man she knows as her father, or of the Twigg.

Four Cubans hijack boat to Miami

MIAMI — Three Cuban men and one woman tied up the captain of a 26-foot fishing boat and hijacked the vessel to the United States during the weekend, U.S. Coast Guard officials said Monday.

After being notified by a local fisherman, the Coast Guard rescued the vessel which was low on fuel about 20 miles south of Key West, said Petty Officer Joe Dye.

The boat's master, Ernesto Llamo Fuentes, 47, told officers his vessel was commanded by the others so they could escape to the United States. Llamo told authorities he planned to return to Cuba.

"He said the other people on his boat hit him on the head, tied him up and told him they wanted to use his boat," Dye said.

Dye said this may be the first instance of piracy by Cuban nationals.

Those being held were identified as: Antonio Naranjo Hernandez, 29; Jose Naveria Pita, 27; Rosa Elena Rodriguez Morales, 27; and Miguel Salvador Guardino Ferral, 25.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Candidates battle for Senate seats

By ROCKY SCOTT
United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Six Republicans and two Democrats wrapped up nearly a month of runoff campaigning Monday for congressional spots and waited for what was expected to be a light turnout to pick party nominees for the November election.

The lion's share of the spotlight in the congressional campaign has gone to the Democratic Senate nominee's race, where state Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter and Rep. Kenneth "Buddy" MacKay, D-Fla., have been engaged in a bitter race.

Gunter, 54, has been insurance commissioner for 12 years and is making his third try for the Senate. He was the party's pick in 1980, but lost in the general elections to Republican Paula Hawkins after protracted Democratic infighting.

MacKay, 55, is making his second run at a Senate spot. He also was involved in the 1980 Senate campaign, but finished out of the running in the primary election.

Gunter, MacKay and GOP nominee Rep. Connie Mack, R-Fla., are battling for the right to replace Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., who is stepping down after three terms.

Gunter has emphasized his record as insurance commissioner and has campaigning using the theme of taking "Florida solutions to Washington."

His ability to raise campaign funds — nearly 16 percent of his money has come from the insurance industry — has been criticized by MacKay, who says Gunter is beholden to the insurance companies.

Gunter denies the charge and has blasted MacKay for several congressional votes, saying MacKay is not committed to helping Israel, a crippling charge in South Florida's condominium communities.

Gunter wants military and humanitarian aid for the Contra rebels of Nicaragua, while MacKay supports only humanitarian aid. Both oppose oil and gas exploration off the southwest Florida coast.

Both also oppose a constitutional ban on abortion, but Gunter says federal funds should be used for abortion only in cases of rape, incest or where the mother's safety is endangered.

MacKay and Gunter also have worked to don the "conservative" political label, with MacKay in particular being singled out by the GOP for his "liberal" voting record.

The runoff races for the three House seats involved in today's election all involve Republicans.

Democrats to pick cabinet nominees

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Democrats Ken Jenne and John Vogt have turned their race for insurance commissioner into a battle of the airwaves to sway what is expected to be a light turnout in Tuesday's runoff election.

Meanwhile, Democrats Tom Moore of Tallahassee and Jim Taft of Crystal River waged an almost unnoticed struggle for the right to take on Republican Secretary of State Jim Smith in the general election.

Vogt spent some $250,000 over the weekend blanketing the state with television advertisements touting his own qualities and attacking Jenne's involvement with Cypress Savings Association, a thrift that has lost nearly $30 million in bad real estate and development loans over the past four years.

Flea-sized wasp kills roaches

United Press International

GAINESVILLE — A small wasp, about the size of two fleas placed end to end, shows promise in controlling cockroaches and palmetto bugs in houses, a University of Florida scientist said Monday.

Dr. Phil Koehler, entomologist with UF's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, said the wasps laid their eggs on roach egg capsules, and lived off the roach eggs in test kitchens.

"One of the nice things is that this wasp prefers all the dark places that are hard for us to spray, like inside walls and behind kitchen cupboards," Koehler said. "People could have these living in their houses and never see them."

In earlier research, about 600 wasps were released weekly for seven weeks in test kitchens. By the end of the trial, wasp larvae infected more than 93 percent of roach eggs on and in cabinets and on the floor.

Group may challenge official-English question

United Press International

MIAMI — Opponents of the drive to make English the state's official language said Monday they may sue to remove the question from the November ballot based on a Colorado ruling on a similar effort that said some petitions should have been in Spanish.

On Sept. 16, federal Judge Jim R. Carrigan in Denver threw out petitions circulated in 12 counties subject to the Voting Rights Act because they were not printed in Spanish as well as English.

The Voting Rights Act requires election materials be provided in a second language in areas where more than 5 percent of the electorate knows little English and the illiteracy rate is higher than the national average.

The director of the census has determined that six Florida counties — Collier, Dade, Hardee, Hendry, Hillsborough and Monroe — fall under the Voting Rights Act and are required to have election materials in both Spanish and English. But it is uncertain whether the rules apply to the drive to put the official English question on the Nov. 8 ballot.

Vanessa Garcia-Serra, executive director of the English Plus campaign, a group opposed to the official English effort, said it is studying the issue and may sue.

"Our attorneys are looking into it. There is no conclusive decision yet," she said. "We are certainly inclined to file suit if it's viable."

Jeff Browne, statewide coordinator of another opponent group, SUN (Speak Up Now) for Florida, said his group examined petitions in Dade County and found none in Spanish. He said SUN would decide by next week whether to file suit based on the Colorado ruling.

"I can't imagine that there is a procedural limitation that would prohibit us from focusing on the same basic argument in Florida," Browne said.

Fourteen states have laws recognizing English as the official language, said Tom Olson, of U.S. English, a group that supports such efforts. The ballot question goes before voters in November in Florida, Colorado and Arizona, he said.

Olson said Carrigan's ruling went "out on a limb."

"I think his reasoning in that is so unusual, seems so insecure that I doubt that another judge would agree with him," he said.

Another supporter, Patricia Fulton, of the Florida English Campaign, which spearheaded the drive to put the issue on the ballot, said the wording has been tested in court and was scrutinized by the secretary of state's office.

She said none of the petitions were in Spanish.

"As far as I know, everyone who signed it knew how to speak English," she said.

Americans arrested in Laos for dumping money into Mekong

By SUYIN WANNABOVORN
United Press International

BANGKOK, Thailand — Laos detained two Americans who dumped $3,000 in the Mekong River to announce a $2.5 million reward for the safe return of missing U.S. servicemen, a Thai woman who visited the pair said today.

Pornthipa Vajrabukka, a hotel public relations official, told United Press International the pair, identified as James Copp and Donna Long, were to be released Wednesday once Laotian officials were satisfied they were not spying.

A U.S. official in Bangkok, Thailand, confirmed that two Americans were arrested by Laotian police Monday on the Mekong River but said he could not release their names due to a U.S. law protecting individual privacy.

"It is our understanding that the two Americans are now being held in Sing Samphan village in Champassak province in Laos," U.S. Embassy spokesman Ross Petzing said.

Petzing said the two were reportedly shooting video tape of scenes along the river when they were arrested.

Laotian officials could not be contacted.

Pornthipa said the two Americans, who had been staying at the Phatum Rat Hotel where she works in Ubon Ratchathani, about 60 miles from the Laotian border, were being well-treated.

She said the two were detained by Laotian officials about an hour after they dropped into the Mekong River $3,000 in $1 banknotes attached to leaflets offering $2.5 million for the return of any Americans held as prisoners of war since the Indochina conflict.

Pornthipa said the reason the Americans were arrested might be that the boat carrying them as they scattered the bills and leaflets had crossed into Laotian territory by mistake.

Emphasis now on microorganisms, not pesticides

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Pesticide contamination may be many consumers' primary worry about food, but a new report shows government agencies place greater emphasis on food contamination caused by microorganisms and drugs.

Federal tests currently are capable of detecting no more than half the pesticides that may contaminate fruits, vegetables and other food, the Office of Technology Assessment said in a report released Monday.

"In contrast to the general public's uneasiness over pesticide residues in food, the federal agencies responsible for regulating foods do not have the same level of concern for the situation as it exists," the study read.

Recent polls, including a nationwide survey this year by the Food Marketing Institute, have found that consumers are more worried about pesticide contamination than additives, salt, or any other component of food.

OTA, the bipartisan research arm of Congress, found the multi-residue methods the Food and Drug Administration uses for most screening can detect only 163 of 316 pesticides registered with the Environmental Protection Agency.

Hanged man identified

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The body of a hanged man found in Sanford early Sunday has been positively identified as a 32-year-old Sanford man missing since July 13.

Donald Wayne Clark, 3001 Park Ave. S., is believed to have committed suicide. Clark's mother Lucille said he was depressed over having to face charges for allegedly keeping one of 12 kilograms of cocaine he found in woods in rural Longwood in February.

Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett said personal papers found among the remains of Clark's badly decomposed body resulted in the positive identification.

An autopsy performed in Sanford Monday night confirmed, as positively as possible given the state of the body, that Clark died by hanging. Evidence at the death scene supported this finding, Harriett said. Police do not suspect foul play.

Clark's body was found at about 3 a.m. Sunday by a 17-year-old Sanford boy walking through the woods behind Sanford Court Apartments, Sanford Avenue S.

Harriett said Clark appeared to him to have been dead about three months.

Clark and another man were arrested by City County Investigative Bureau agents a couple of days after Clark gave CCIB agents 11 kilograms of packaged cocaine he said he found in woods in Longwood. The cocaine was valued at $5.5 million. Agents accused him and the other man of stealing one kilogram of cocaine from the 12 kilogram find. They were both arrested for possession of cocaine and other related charges.

Mrs. Clark said despite her son's depression over his arrest, she had been told by police that he would probably not be jailed in connection with the case. He was expected to be sentenced to probation, but he disappeared before trial.

Opening statements scheduled in Bess Myerson bribery trial

By WILLIAM M. REILLY
United Press International

NEW YORK — Federal prosecutors say Bess Myerson squandered her Miss America glitter and her political prestige in a pulp-and-circumstance scandal over a lover 21 years her junior.

The government contends that Myerson, 64, while New York's cultural affairs commissioner, persuaded a judge to reduce her boyfriend's alimony and child support payments by giving a job to the judge's daughter.

Opening statements were scheduled today before U.S. District Judge John Keenan, with defense lawyers mute on what Myerson will plead in the corruption case that could send her in prison for 30 years if convicted.

Myerson's co-defendants are her 43-year-old lover, millionaire construction contractor Carl "Andy" Capasso, and former state Supreme Court Justice Hortense Gabel, 75. All are charged with conspiracy, mail fraud and violating bribery-related laws.

Capasso is now serving three years for an unrelated tax evasion conviction. Gabel, now frail and nearly blind, retired from her $82,000-a-year judgeship while under investigation last year.

Keenan has imposed a gag order on lawyers in the corruption trial, but when Myerson pleaded guilty to shoplifting charges this summer, her lawyers claimed she was under emotional stress.

Her lawyers claimed Myerson was "distracted" by her personal problems when she shoplifted $44 worth of nail polish, earrings and batteries in May at a department store near the Allenwood Pa. federal prison where she was visiting Capasso.

Myerson, named cultural affairs commissioner in 1983 by Mayor Edward Koch, resigned her $83,000-a-year post in April 1987 in the midst of the scandal. Koch called her departure "personally painful."

Prosecutors said Myerson influenced Gabel to reduce Capasso's alimony and child support payments by hiring Gabel's daughter as a special assistant.

Gabel's daughter, Sukhreet, who was not charged, lost her $19,000-a-year job in the Cultural Affairs Department. She is expected to be a key prosecution witness against her mother and Myerson.

Myerson also faces fines of $513,000, and Capasso and Gabel each face up to 25 years in prison and fines of $263,000 if convicted of the wrongdoing that the indictment said began in the spring of 1983.

In 1945, Myerson, the daughter of a Bronx house painter, was the first Jewish Miss America crown winner, and became a living symbol of achievement and ethnic pride. She turned her success as a beauty pageant queen into a lifelong career in television and municipal government.

Myerson lost a 1980 Democratic primary bid for the Senate, but served as city consumer affairs commissioner under Mayor John Lindsay and was once mentioned as a likely candidate for mayor.

The "Bess Mess," as the case became known in New York tabloids, arose in January 1987 when news leaked that Myerson had invoked the Fifth Amendment when called to testify about Capasso's tax problems and city contracts.

Myerson took a leave of absence while federal Judge Harold Tyler ordered an investigation that led to charges she had abused her public office to save her wealthy lover thousands of dollars in his divorce.

Court revives anti-porn measure

UPI report

WASHINGTON — Indiana and other states are using "draconian" tactics to keep sexually explicit books and movies from the public, a lawyer told the Supreme Court.

But an Indianapolis prosecutor who has used the state's racketeering law to close 12 of the city's 14 adult bookstores defended the measure Monday as the most effective means of stopping the distribution of obscene books and movies by organized crime.

On the opening day of its 1988-89 term, the high court heard arguments on the latest legal tactic in the war against obscenity — the use of racketeering laws to shut down X-rated bookstores.

Bookstore owners say the laws are unconstitutional when applied to them because they allow the closure of an entire store based on the sale of just two or more books or films that are judged to be obscene.

Known as RICO, for Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act, the Indiana law at issue allows police to seize the assets and padlock the doors of adult bookstores that engage in a pattern of criminal activity. The seizures may occur before trial based solely on evidence of continuing conduct or past convictions.

John Weston, the lawyer representing the bookstores that brought the appeal, said applying RICO laws to bookstores "viscerates the longstanding" principle that books and movies are protected by the First Amendment unless they can be shown to be obscene.

Games' results medals, shame

American athletes are returning from Seoul and the 24th Olympics of the modern era. The final total medal count for the U.S. is 94, including 36 gold medals. Matt Biondi led all others with 5 gold medals, a silver and a bronze. Florence Griffith Joyner, set world records en route to her four medals, three gold.

Locally, Bridgette Gordon of DeLand, was a member of the gold medal-winning women's basketball team, and Brandy Johnson of Altamonte Springs served notice that she is a world class contender in gymnastics by tying for ninth after the first round of the women's team compulsaries.

The predominant number of our athletes brought credit to themselves, and to their country. It is unfortunate that the spotlight fell on the few who cloaked themselves in shame.

During recent years, anti-drug campaigns have been conducted by many organizations and agencies in Seminole County. The picture of young people proclaiming "Just say no!" has become a regular feature in our lives.

Yet arrests for drug use have not significantly abated. Stories of successful professional athletes sacrificing reputation and career at the altar of cocaine has become common, despite well-organized anti-drug programs.

The Olympic athletes who were suspended for using illegal drugs, though only a fraction of all competitors, wrecked havoc with personal and national pride. The drugs were not marijuana or cocaine, but steroids or other performance-enhancing chemicals.

Though most of those athletes had not achieved the international fame of Canadian Ben Johnson, the incidents involving all of them caused worldwide reverberations. Though many pleaded innocence, many others claimed that use of the banned substances is a common occurrence among world-class athletes.

It would seem that the ultimate in disgrace would be expulsion from the Olympics due to use of an illegal substance. Yet does that person feel more degraded than the young person whose parents are called in the middle of the night by police to advise of their arrest and jailing? A few of the athletes have claimed that their only use was the one detected.

This proves only that it takes just one incident to threaten a life or a career.

Our young people should not lose sight of the lesson contained in the pride and admiration felt for the successful athletes and the remorse and sympathy felt for the suspended athletes. The lesson is to resist the pressure to use all forms of illegal substances. The results of all are the same: shame and degradation.

Let the spirit of the Olympics serve the better purpose of elevating eyes to a better self and nation. Let the successes of the American athletes serve as examples for all young people to set high goals, and strive to achieve them. And let the fallen athletes serve as bitter examples of the fact that all are fallible and each needs to support and encourage the other.

Qualms on civil disobedience

The Massachusetts Mechanic and the Texas Tenderfoot can't make up their minds how they feel about abortion, and I can't make up my mind how I feel about civil disobedience.

One of my readers, Garry St. John in Fairbanks, Alaska, neatly capsuled this dilemma of indecision when he wrote: "Why is it when I disagree with you, you sound so hot and emotional ... and yet when I agree with you, you sound cool and reasoned? Is the difference on your end or mine?"

Michael Dukakis and George Bush are equally dichotomous. In their debate, Bush's opposition to abortion included support for "penalties." After the debate, he tried to back away from that extreme position. Dukakis expressed distaste for abortion, but supported a woman's right to exercise freedom of choice.

I don't advocate abortion. I simply accept the supremacy of the woman's right to determine what happens to her body.

Freedom of expression is paramount. But this is where I get into trouble, because my support for freedom of expression seems to be predicated on my feelings about a cause's righteousness.

My position on civil disobedience should not be a function of ideology, but I still draw ideological distinctions. I consider apartheid one of the most barbaric crimes against humanity, for example. So I applaud the 143 white South African army conscripts who are refusing military service because it upholds apartheid.

Their resistance represents the largest expression of defiance to date in the proliferating draft resistance by white South Africans.

The Yonkers, N.Y., councilmen who were fined after refusing to vote to build federal court-ordered low-income housing, were also practicing civil disobedience. But instead of applauding them for exercising their freedom of expression, I commended the federal judge who held their civil disobedience in contempt and levied enormous fines. Anti-abortionists have been escalating their campaign to close down clinics where abortions are performed. The pro-lifers are practicing civil disobedience and exercising their freedom of expression by blocking clinic entrances, lying down on the sidewalks and getting arrested. But their freedom of expression results in the denial of others' freedom of choice, so I oppose it.

Civil disobedience depends on the practitioner's willingness to accept the penalty for breaking what he or she considers an unjust law. In South Africa, Yonkers and cities where anti-abortionists have been arrested, the ends may be different, but the means are the same.

Socrates drank the hemlock, rather than pay taxes that would support the Mexican War. Gandhi remained in prison, rather than accept British rule. Martin Luther King Jr. accepted jail, rather than comply with unconstitutional racist laws.

Are draft-resisting South Africans, Yonkers city councilmen and anti-abortionists equal inheritors of the historical mandate of civil disobedience?

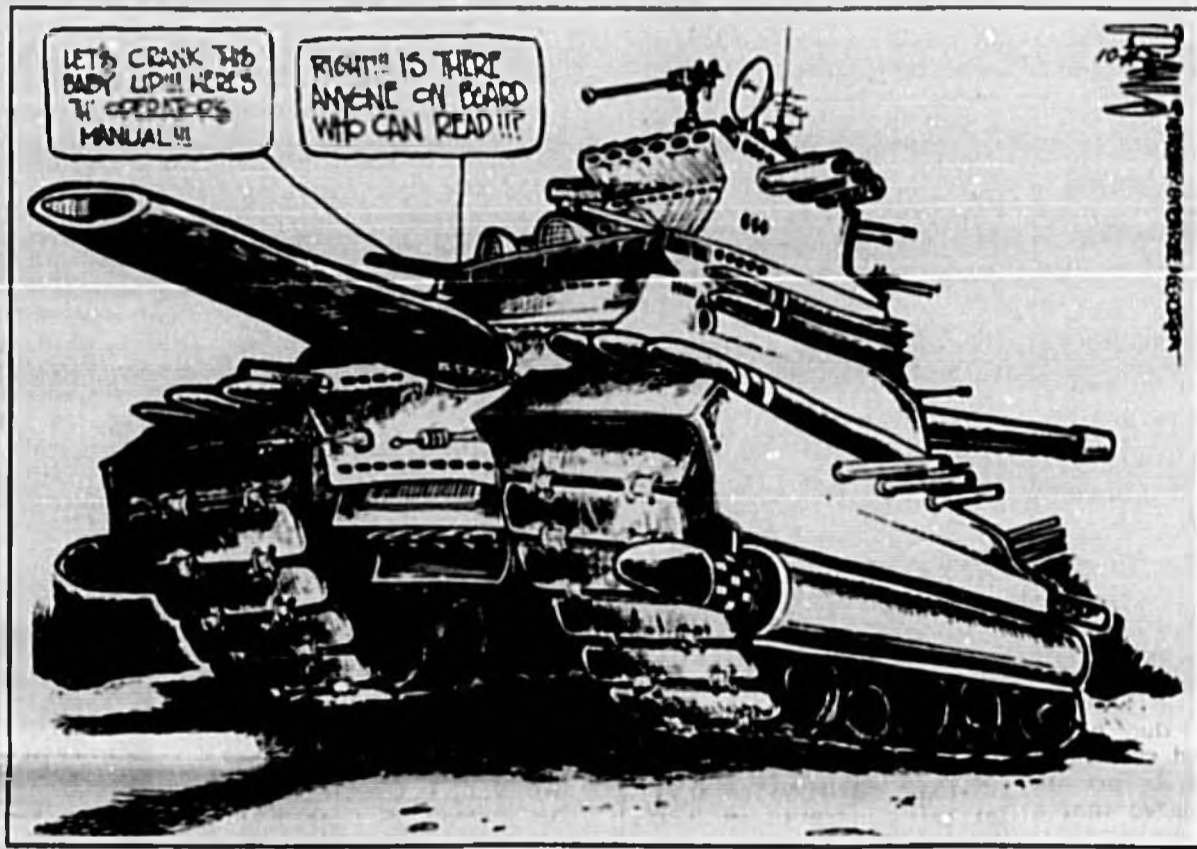

My head says, yes. My heart says, no. The distinction may lie in the ends they seek.

Ethics don't come easy.

My position on civil disobedience should not be a function of ideology.

Crossing the line to cheating

WASHINGTON—Sport is play, but play has a serious side. Competition can be elevating for participants and spectators. Thus the integrity of sport is a civic concern. And it is important to say precisely why what Ben Johnson did was wrong.

Runners at the highest levels of competition comprise a small community. They know all that is possible regarding enhancement of performance. And they know what is permissible. Johnson used steroids surreptitiously and in defiance of clear rules that are constantly reiterated. However, Johnson and many others involved in the intense pursuit of competitive edge may not really understand the reasons for the rules he broke.

Legs have 40 percent of the body's muscle mass. Steroids build muscle mass as well as hasten healing. Johnson's legs exploded him to victory by a margin of 13/100ths of a second. Did steroids make the difference? Hard to say. What has to be said is why using substances constitutes cheating.

When judging a performance-enhancing technique or technology, the crucial criterion is: Does it improve performance without devaluing it. Begin by considering precisely the value drained away by cheating, then decide if use of steroids constitutes cheating.

Bartlett Giamatti, baseball's next commissioner, is the designated metaphysician of American sport. Last year, he flexed his mental muscles regarding disciplinary action against a pitcher who was caught using sandpaper to scuff balls, thereby giving pitches more pronounced movements.

Giamatti noted that most disciplinary cases involved impulsive violence, which is less morally grave than cheating. Such acts of violence, although intolerable, spring from the nature of physical contests between aggressive competitors. Such violence is a reprehensible extension of the physical exertion that is integral to the contest. Rules try to contain, not expunge, violent effort.

But cheating derives not from excessive, impulsive zeal in the heat of competition. Rather it is a cold, covert attempt to alter conditions of competition. As Giamatti puts it, cheating has no organic origin in the act of playing and cheating devalues any contest designed to declare a winner among participants playing under identical rules and conditions. Toward cheating, the proper policy is zero tolerance.

Now, advances in training and sports medicine (medicine broadly defined, which reaches beyond prevention or treatment of injuries) make problematic the idea, central to sport, of competitors competing on an even footing. Nowadays there can be significant inequalities regarding techniques of training and nutrition.

Intensity in training should be rewarded with success in competition. But intense training should involve enhancing one's powers by methods (e.g., weight training) or materials (eat your spinach) that enhance the body's normal functioning. It is one thing to take vitamins, another thing to take a drug that facilitates abnormal growth (or makes a competitor abnormally aggressive).

An athlete steps over the line separating legitimate from illegitimate preparation for competition when he seeks advantage from radical intrusions into his body. A radical intrusion is one that does not enhance normal functioning but rather causes the body to behave abnormally. Illegitimate interventions cause an athlete to perform not unusually well—every athlete's aim—but unnaturally well.

Steroids are dangerous to the user's health. Even if an athlete is willing to run the risk, his competitors should not have to run it in order to compete. That is a sufficient reason for proscribing them. But even if steroids and other performance-enhancing drugs were risk-free, there would still be sufficient reasons for cleansing sport of them.

Drugs that make sport exotic make it less exemplary. Sport becomes less of a shared activity. It becomes less a drama of people performing well than a spectacle of bodies chemically propelled.

Athletes who seek a competitive edge through chemical advantage do not just overvalue winning; they misunderstand why winning is properly valued. It is properly valued as the reward for, and evidence of, praiseworthy attributes. They include the lonely submission to an exacting training regimen, and the mental mastery of pressure, pain and exhaustion.

In short, sport is valued not only because it builds character but because it puts on display, and crowns with glory, for the elevation of spectators as well as participants, attributes we associate with good character. Good character, not good chemistry.

A society's recreation is charged with moral significance.

What has to be said is why using substances constitutes cheating.

U.S., Soviet bureaucracy

WASHINGTON—In Moscow and Washington alike, the top leaders have become small dogs wagged by a huge bureaucratic tail.

The cumbersome Soviet bureaucracy has grown beyond control or comprehension. It has become so all-encompassing that it now consumes most of the Soviet gross national product. This has resulted in stagnation, which could end in putrefaction.

The bureaucracy is also the gorilla in the U.S. closet, and the American people are obliged to live with it. The political managers have demonstrated an inability to manage the beast, let alone curb its growth or diminish its domain.

Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev has concluded that to save his country, he must rescue it first from the clutches of the bureaucracy. He appears determined to revamp the bureaucracy before it suffocates the Soviet system.

Now an American leader has stepped forth to challenge the U.S. bureaucracy. He is the billionaire entrepreneur H. Ross Perot who would like to begin by reforming the U.S. Postal Service. Perot also believes he would be ready to restructure the Pentagon procurement system and the Internal Revenue System. In time, he thinks he could bring efficiency to the government at large.

But in both the Soviet Union and the United States, the bureaucracy lurks like an octopus, slippery and unreachable in its murky environment, with tentacles able to reach out and shut off its adversary's oxygen.

Gorbachev is engaged in a fight-to-the-death with the Soviet octopus, struggling to outmaneuver it before it smother him in its embrace. He intends to lop off some arms and untangle others to keep them from meddling in the management of the economy.

He wants to privatize Soviet agriculture and industry, putting them on the incentive system. He has called for radical reforms of the communist party, designed to clear out the deadwood. If he gets his way, party bureaucrats will face competitive, multiple candidate elections.

Of course, the bureaucrats won't accept these sweeping democratic reforms without bitter opposition. It's dangerous to try to take privileges away from an octopus. What is the likely outcome? The bureaucracy has gained such a powerful lock on Soviet society that it is doubtful Gorbachev can loosen it much.

In America, Perot has encountered the obstinate, if less grim, obstruction of the postal bureaucracy. The postal unions stirred up their friends in the Senate, who began raising obstacles to Perot's reforms. Then, the Board of Contract Appeals, an appendage of the federal bureaucracy, canceled Perot's consulting contract. This alarmed the Postal Service which confessed to the Senate that the Perot contract had been "loosely drawn" without competitive bidding.

What Perot wants to do is pick up where the Grace Commission left off. The commission, headed by industrialist J. Peter Grace, found massive waste in the federal government. Perot would like to take off from the Grace proposals and increase the efficiency and performance of government operations.

These commissars and clerks, examiners and regulators demand the rigid observance of set rules and procedures, the interminable seeking of permission for any divergence, while the resourceful Japanese grab the world markets.

NEW YORK — Prices opened slightly lower today in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 7.65 Monday, was down 1.96 to 2103.30 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 452-327 among the 1,208 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 7,810,000 shares.

Stock prices closed lower Monday in slow trading but managed to escape substantial losses on the strength of a late round of buying.

The Dow fell more than 25 points in late morning activity and was down more than 17 points with less than an hour to the close.

"Given that our attention span, especially money managers, is so short these days, we are going to get volatility within a tight trading range," said Harry Miller, portfolio analyst with Johnson, Lane, Space, Smith & Co. in Atlanta.

"We have a trading bias in the market, not an investment bias," Miller said. "A lot of people are looking for a lot of answers that just aren't there."

Miller said the market remained hostage to individual economic reports.

Dollar slightly lower; gold, silver open mixed

United Press International

The dollar drifted lower today in light trading on major foreign currency markets. The price of gold was mixed.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar weakened against the Japanese yen, closing at 133.15 yen, down 0.75 from 133.90 yen on Monday.

Dealers said the dollar's weakness was in line with Monday's fall on overseas markets caused by lower crude oil prices and remarks by West German central bank head Karl Otto Pohl that the West German mark's further decline is not desirable.

Dealers noted most market participants were now waiting for the release Friday of U.S. unemployment figures for September.

In Europe, the dollar beagn the day in Frankfurt at 1.8605 West German marks, down from 1.8615.

The dollar started trading in Zurich at 1.5775 Swiss francs, down from 1.5790, in Paris at 6.3385 French francs, down from 6.3535, in Milan at 1.386 lire, down from 1.391.35.

The dollar also opened lower in Brussels at 39.47 Belgian francs, down from 39.50 on Monday.

In London, the British pound opened unchanged at $1.699.

In early New York trading the dollar was mixed against key foreign currencies in very light trading.

On the bullion markets, gold opened $1 an ounce higher in London at $397.75 an ounce but fell $1 in Zurich to $397.50.

The London morning gold fixing was $397.35, up 60 cents from Monday's close.

Fish Exchange to close doors

United Press International

PORTLAND, Maine — The Portland Fish Exchange, the nation's first publicly owned open-display fish auction, has announced that it is closing for financial reasons.

Exchange President Sam Davidson said Monday the exchange fell victim to a general decline in the New England fishing industry, and was not handling enough fish to meet its cash-flow needs.

The city-owned exchange held its first auction in May 1986, and allowed fishing boat owners to negotiate directly with fish buyers over each boat's catch.

The exchange was hailed as an opportunity for fishermen to get a better price for quality fish. Traditionally, fish sales are negotiated sight unseen before a boat returns to port.

City officials said they hoped the exchange could eventually be taken over by a private operator, and predicted that a similar auction arrangement would eventually emerge.

"The concept, the glimpse you saw, really is the future," Davidson said.

The exchange will hold its final full auction Tuesday, but will remain open Wednesday to accommodate any ships still at sea.

prevent another tragedy.

This is especially true as the space station era approaches and NASA's already-tight budget is spread over more projects, limiting the prospects for increased funding to pay for the spare parts and additional personnel necessary to keep the shuttle fleet in tip-top shape.

"We won't be able to, I think, sit back and rest comfortably on our laurels in the future," agreed Robert "Hoot" Gibson, who will serve as commander of the shuttle Atlantis when it blasts off in November on the second post Challenger flight.

"Every flight is the first flight ... and just because 24 worked, or whichever ones worked, doesn't mean that the next one's going to work."

But even with vigilance and attention to detail, another failure is all but inevitable somewhere down the road.

"If it occurs, it probably will occur sometime in the future when people are beginning to yawn again," NASA Administrator James Fletcher said in an interview. "Yes, I'm afraid the risk is still high on these flights, and somewhere along the line, we'll probably have another one. I hope it's 50 years from now rather than 10 years from now."

NASA's immediate concern is launching the shuttle Atlantis next month. The schedule heats up next year with seven flights on tap and 10 in 1990, an aggressive schedule given the current three-shuttle fleet and one that will be difficult to maintain.

Astronaut David Walker said the astronaut corps accepts the risk associated with flying on rocketships; the problem for NASA is that the nation, apparently, does not.

"Those of us who make our livings flying airplanes accept the inevitability of accidents," he said. "The difference that we have to deal with here is the amount of resources tied up in any one vehicle and the amount of human emotion ... makes any potential accident a nearly unacceptable event."

"That attitude has got to be modified enough to allow the nation's space program to go forward."

NASA cannot operate a successful shuttle system faced with the certainty that another failure would destroy the manned space program. As Walker points out, "that leads to tentativeness and it leads to poor decision and it leads to studying everything to death."

For astronaut John Young, a frequent critic of NASA management, the balance between safety and an aggressive flight rate depends on understanding the capabilities of the shuttle system.

"People worry about the pendulum swinging the other way," he said. "What we've done in the past two or three years is learn how to be realistic in what our expectations can be ... and understand the limitations of the vehicle as well as its capabilities, not paying so much attention to our brochures here."

"And that's the way to operate in an environment where we are at some risk."

and eliminate enclaves.

According to the memorandum, the city would provide for long-term payment of utility impact fees, which cannot be waived, for service to properties which are already developed at the time of annexation.

Commissioners also will consider advertising in newspapers to provide the public with information regarding the benefits of annexation, including availability of utilities and response distance/time data for public safety functions.

Also, a staff liaison will be appointed for the program.

In another matter, the commissioners agreed to approve a change order to a contract for $129,816.50 to provide larger pipes for the Reclaimed Water Distribution System. According to Bill Simmons, director of engineering and planning, the change includes the increase of 16-inch pipeline by nine percent and of 14-inch piping by 220 percent to accommodate an additional flow of 750,000 gallons of water per day toward the west to a point of delivery in Lake Mary.

The project is the result of an agreement entered into on July 11, 1988 between the City of Sanford and the City of Lake Mary to supply reclaimed water for use by the City of Lake Mary.

The purpose of the system is to allow the City of Sanford to export reclaimed treated wastewater to Lake Mary to irrigate the golf course at Timacuan, a subdivision in Lake Mary, Simmons said.

The current line size supplying this area was inadequate. Speegle Construction, Inc. will lay the pipeline for the $3,090,624 project. A booster pump station and main extension are also part of the project but are under separate contracts.

Also on the Oct. 10 agenda are the continuation of a public hearing to consider the rezoning of property lying east of and abutting Hidden Lake Drive and lying between Lake Mary Boulevard and Sanford Grant Line from a single family residential dwelling district to a multiple family residential dwelling district. There will be a public hearing to consider a request by Edward J. Lachara to rezone property lying between State Highway 17/92 (French Avenue) and Cordova Drive and between Colonial Way and Katherine Court from single family residential dwelling to a restricted commercial district.

impose a 2 percent "bed tax" on hotels, motels and other short-term rentals in the county. The tax is expected to raise $477,338 in 1989 if approved and $501,205 in 1990. A quarter of the funds have been reserved for the Central Florida Zoo near Sanford and the remainder has not been allocated for use.

Bed tax money can be used for public convention centers and sports arenas. The tax dollars can also be used for beach, river- and lake-front improvements and restoration.

Today's county commission run-off resulted because no candidate in districts 3 and 5 received a majority of the votes cast in the Sept. 6 primary.

In District 3, incumbent Fred Streetman faces Jeff Etchberger in the race to decide the Republican challenger against Democrat Warren Keiner Nov. 8. Streetman has waged his non-confrontational campaign based largely on his voting record supporting various county projects. Etchberger has attacked Streetman's voting on many of those same issues, such as the Yankee Lake land purchase.

According to second-primary campaign spending documents, Streetman raised $19,104 during the last two weeks of the campaign, raising his total contributions to date to $77,504. Streetman spent $25,753 during the last two weeks, including radio and newspaper advertisements and mailings.

Etchberger raised $12,875 during the last two weeks, raising his campaign total to $47,660, according to the spending documents. He spent nearly all that amount, $43,391, including $12,378 during the last two weeks. Much of his expenses have gone to newspaper advertising.

In the District 5 run-off, Jennifer Kelley faces Dick Van Der Weide to determine who will face Democrat Art Davis Nov. 8.

The campaign was fairly low key until last week when Kelley charged that Van Der Weide did not live in District 5. She said he continued to live in his home in Longwood, not in the address he established in Sanford.

Van Der Weide countered with a complaint filed with the State Attorney's Office, claiming she was making false and misleading statements because he said she knew all along he was living in Sanford.

Kelley's campaign spending documents show she loaned her campaign $34,500 which, when combined with the $9,155 she raised during the last two weeks, brought her total campaign finances to $107,151. She has also spent most of the amount, spending a total of $97,199.

During the last two weeks, Kelley spent $37,185 for newspaper advertisements, signs and brochures in a final-stretch race to today.

Van Der Weide's documents show he collected $22,600 during the last two-week period, almost as much as he raised during the previous several months, $24,670.

Van Der Weide also spent almost all of what he raised. He spent $22,110 in television, newspaper and radio advertisements and signs and other expenses. Of the total $57,270 he has raised to date, Van Der Weide has spent $54,311.

broken up by deputies.

Denmark was shot at about midnight on Sept. 22 as he ran across the road from the Deluxe Bar. He was being chased by the gunman after a fight in the parking lot of the bar, deputies have reported. During that fight, according to deputies, Denmark was accused of handing a pistol on Sept. 18 to a man who then wounded another man and a woman inside the Deluxe Bar.

Deputies have arrested three other suspects in connection with the incidents that left Denmark dead and five others wounded. One of the wounded, Michael Summers, 18, of rural Sanford, remains hospitalized in Sanford recovering from a gunshot wound to the abdomen sustained in the Sept. 18 shooting at the Deluxe Bar.

On Sept. 30, Richard Jerald Mobly, 17, of Sanford, was arrested and charged with being a principal in an attempted murder.

On Sept. 29, sheriff's deputies charged Donald Tanner, of 1904 W. 16th St., Sanford, with aggravated battery for allegedly stabbing Arthur Hersey, 20, of Sanford, in the forehead and eye during the Sept. 17 street brawl.

Jamie Jerome Brown, 20, of 111 McKay Blvd. Midway, was charged with attempted murder Sept. 23, in connection with the shooting of Summers.

Deputies said they were told that Denmark handed Brown the gun used to wound Summers and the woman on Sept. 18. Mobly is accused of driving the getaway car for the gunman in that case.

Deputies said a couple of suspects remain at large and their arrests are pending.

outdistanced Tall by more than 138,000 votes in the September primary and is considered a strong favorite to take the Democratic secretary of state nomination.

The winner will face heavily favored incumbent Jim Smith, who hopes to become the first Republican elected to the Cabinet since Reconstruction.

Runoffs are also on tap in three of the 19 Florida Congressional districts.

The congressional races in Districts 6, 11 and 13 all involve Republicans vying for spots on the November ballot to face Democratic opponents.

"My partner and I are both Christians and try to run a Christian business and plan to be in Sanford for a long time," Joe said.

To increase their space from 2,000 square feet to 8,000 square feet, they moved last January from Seminole Center (Wal-Mart Shopping Center) to their present location between ABC Liquors and Carl's Deli.

Their 3,500 square foot showroom, one of the largest in Central Florida, has hundreds of samples with various colors and styles available. There is a large inventory so you can buy today and have the carpet installed tomorrow.

Feds won't allow New York to fly hurricane aid to Jamaica

United Press International
ALBANY, N.Y. — More than 300,000 pounds of medicine, food and clothing intended for hurricane-battered Jamaica are piled up in churches and armories across New York because a bureaucratic snafu prevents their delivery.

The supplies collected by black groups from Brooklyn to Buffalo are stuck in New York because the federal government will not allow the state National Guard to fly them to Jamaica, and the commercial airlines the federal authorities say should be used do not have room, charity officials said Monday.

"The commercial carriers tell me they're booked up for 60 days," Dr. Walidaba Stewart said. Stewart is chairman of the Caribbean Action Lobby, one of the principal agencies involved in collecting relief supplies for Jamaica.

The roadblock to relief is the federal Economics Act, a law which essentially requires that military aircraft not compete with commercial carriers, even when carrying humanitarian cargoes.

"The United States has hamstringed itself," said George Dalley, a spokesman for Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y.

Hurricane Gilbert, known as the "hurricane of the century" because of its 200 mph winds, struck the eastern tip of Jamaica on the morning of Sept. 12 and raked the middle of the island over a 12-hour period.

Jamaican authorities estimate damage from the storm at $8 billion.

"I just came back from Jamaica and I saw long lines — like a whole block long, five deep — trying to get to rationed handouts. They were literally giving out two cans of this, one-half bag of that," Stewart said Monday.

Senate wants to put drug dealers 'out of business'

United Press International
WASHINGTON — Backers of a Senate anti-drug bill say they want to start painting "going out of business" signs for dope peddlers, but opponents fear the final legislation might try to do so at the expense of established rights.

Senate leaders introduced a $2.6 billion drug bill Monday that permits the execution of murderous drug kingpins but avoids other House provisions that critics called an "assault on the Constitution."

While the massive Senate bill appears more moderate than the House legislation, opponents fear several get-tough measures could be revived when lawmakers begin offering amendments to the bill later this week.

One of the most contentious provisions expected to be introduced is an exception to the "exclusionary rule" allowing the use of evidence obtained without a warrant.

Senate Republicans also said they would offer amendments similar to the House "user-accountability" provisions, which raise the civil and criminal penalties for individuals who use drugs.

By adding the death penalty to the bill, backers may have lost the support of 14 moderate Republicans and liberal Democrats who had threatened to abandon the legislation if it contained such provisions.

Aides to Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., who did not join the bipartisan threat but strongly opposes the death penalty, promised lengthy debate on capital punishment while stopping short of predicting a filibuster.

More than a dozen senators, holding a news conference after introduction of the legislation, appeared confident they could pass a drug bill with or without the support of those senators.

Haitians charged with air piracy

United Press International

NEW YORK — Three Haitian soldiers seeking political asylum have been charged with air piracy and ordered held without bail for storming a New York bound American Airlines jet over the weekend brandishing automatic weapons.

The soldiers, Nicolas Normil, 23, Jean Charles, 23, and Edouard Noel, 24, pleaded innocent Monday before U.S. Magistrate Allyne Ross in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn. If convicted of air piracy, they face 20 years to life in prison.

The three, wearing tan prison garb, were ordered held without bail pending a detention hearing scheduled for Friday. They were being held at the federal Metropolitan Correction Center in Manhattan.

The trio spoke Creole during their arraignment and communicated with their court-appointed lawyers with the help of a court interpreter.

My client, said Birnbaum's lawyer, Leonard Levinson, feared for his life.

The three soldiers, who were assigned to airport security patrol, were armed with loaded automatic assault rifles when they boarded the A-300 Airbus at Port-au-Prince at about 4:20 p.m. Saturday, just before its scheduled flight to New York.

The trio took positions in the coach section of the aircraft, one standing in the rear, one in the middle and one in the front, effectively surrounding the 224 passengers and a crew of nine, according to court papers.

An American Airlines employee who spoke Creole was brought aboard the plane to negotiate. It was then the captain learned they wanted to fly to the United States.

During the negotiations, Normil pointed his weapon at the captain and at the senior flight attendant, the court papers state.

After a Creole-speaking passenger, a retired Haitian army colonel, entered the talks, the three finally agreed to surrender their weapons once the plane took off.

When the plane landed at Kennedy Airport, the three were arrested by the FBI and immediately asked for political asylum.

Asked why they were being charged with air piracy and not being granted asylum automatically, Assistant U.S. Attorney Valerie Caproni said, "because they used force. They used automatic weapons. They seized the aircraft."

No shots were fired during the incident and none of the 224 passengers and nine crew members was injured. The soldiers made no threats and readily gave their weapons to the retired army officer once the plane was aloft, the airline said.

The three told the colonel they were members of the army's Leopard Corps, which was created as an elite counterinsurgency force by self-appointed "President for Life" Jean-Claude Duvalier before his February 1986 ouster.

Defense says rare maternal illness caused baby's death

United Press International

SANTA ANA, Calif. — A prosecutor said a woman on trial for killing her infant son ran over the child with her car because she regretted having him and he would not stop crying, but the defense said the mother was temporarily insane from a rare maternal illness.

Orange County Deputy District Attorney Thomas Morris told a Superior Court jury Monday in his opening statement in the murder trial of Sheryl Lynn Massip that the 24-year-old first-time mother killed her colicky infant because she was fed up with his crying, and because she regretted having him.

Massip has told a court-appointed psychiatrist that the baby cried 15 to 18 hours a day because he suffered from colic, acute abdominal pain caused by various abnormal conditions in the bowels.

But as Massip sobbed at the defense table, her lawyer, Milton Grimes, told the jury of eight women and four men that the 84-pound woman snapped as a result of a hormonal imbalance caused by childbirth and worsened by the sick baby's constant crying.

The defense is based on Massip's claim that she suffered from postpartum psychosis, a rare maternal mental illness that some experts say can drive a woman to violence. Massip has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to a charge of first-degree murder.

This is real, Grimes said of the disorder. "It can't messence, make you crazy."

Until giving birth, Grimes said, Massip never showed a propensity toward violence.

On the morning of April 29, 1987 — her 23rd birthday — Massip "snapped" and believed "voices" commanded her to rid the baby of its pain, Grimes said. Within hours the baby was dead.

The prosecution began its case by calling witnesses who testified that Massip had indicated she regretted having the baby, and had feared "something bad" might happen if her insurance company did not continue paying for the infant's medical care.

Henry Nisental, a business associate of the dead baby's father, said he talked with the mother the morning the baby was killed and she had spoken of the constant crying.

After having a baby, a woman can regret it," the witness quoted Massip as saying.

Leslie Perry, a former receptionist for Massip's pediatrician, testified she told Massip the morning of the killing that her insurance carrier had notified the doctor's office it would no longer pay the baby's medical bills.

Perry promised to call the insurance company in an effort to persuade it to continue payments, and that Massip replied, "I hope someone can help me before something bad happens."

The prosecutor said that hours after Massip spoke with Nisental and Perry, she wrapped her 13-day-old baby in a white blanket and threw him in front of a passing car, but the driver swerved and missed the infant.

Massip then drove to a steep street in an isolated area of the nearby city of Fullerton, where she rolled her car over the infant's head and dumped his body in a nearby trash can, Morris said. The body was found by authorities later in the day.

Massip's husband, Alfredo, who divorced his wife shortly after her arrest, will testify for the prosecution, Morris said. Mr. Massip operates a funeral service.

Gas mileage standards dip

United Press International

WASHINGTON — For the fourth year the Reagan administration has eased federal gas mileage standards to the delight of the nation's largest automakers and to the ire of environmentalists.

The Transportation Department announced Monday it would require automakers to reach a 26.5 miles per gallon minimum average for the cars they sell during the 1989 model year.

The new figure is above the current 26.0 mpg requirement but below the 27.5 mpg called for under the 1975 Energy Policy and Conservation Act.

General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. had lobbied hard for the reduction in the corporate average fuel economy minimum, or CAFE, saying that the higher standard would put them at a disadvantage in competition with Japanese automakers and cost American jobs.

"It is all too obvious that CAFE standards cause serious economic distortions in the marketplace," said Transportation Secretary James Burnley in issuing the decision.

Burnley said higher gas prices, not federal laws, have led to higher mileage cars during the past decade.

With gas prices lower, consumers want larger cars, and if the department did not lower the standard, Japanese manufacturers would move quickly to capture the lucrative big car market now dominated by American companies, he said.

GM and Ford said at a September hearing that they would have to reduce the number of big cars they sell to reach the higher gas mileage standard or face stiff fines for failing to meet it.

GM went as far as to threaten to close an Arlington, Texas, plant employing thousands of people if the department did not lower the standard.

Bill Nowak, a GM spokesman, said the decision was in the best interest of American workers and consumer choice.

A Big Bank Dedicated To Something Even Bigger: The Individual.

Today, in financial institutions all over America, people walk in as individuals and walk out as numbers.

Probably because it's more efficient to treat their customers in "bulk," and serve up "bulk-rate" services.

All this can be very easy for the bank, but very hard on the individual.

A Big Bank Dedicated To More Than Just Getting Bigger.

But, for three million people who bank at NCNB, things are different.

We work to help each one of our customers reach their full potential.

So we're training—and re-training—our people to find out what you want and need before we talk about what we've got.

Banking Services Designed For The Individual, Not The Institution.

We're introducing new services based on your needs—not ours.

For example, some time ago, we introduced a package of services we call Deluxe Value. It works well for most of our customers, but there are individuals with different needs.

So we developed a new package of services for people who are retired or getting close to retirement.

When you need to borrow money, we give you more than a brochure and an application form. Our people are trained to give you what we call "loan advice that's right on the money."

High Tech That Keeps In Touch With People.

And there's more to all this than the people you deal with face-to-face.

Our people behind the scenes have developed a system that helps us offer you same-day answers on loans, 24-hour banking coast-to-coast and customer service phone numbers for up-to-the-minute information on all your accounts with us.

Finally, you don't just get a bank account from us. You also get a connection to other financial areas such as investing and home buying.

The Customer Comes First, Even When A Bank Has Three Million Of Them.

That's a lot of business. So it pays us to see that you get more for your money.

The kind of attention, advice and service that will help you get ahead and stay ahead in the business of life.

If that last part sounds a bit like a small bank, that's the idea. And if the rest of it sounds like the things that only a big bank can offer, that's the idea, too.

If all of it sounds like the right bank for you, that's even better. After all, you're who we're dedicated to.

IN BRIEF

BASEBALL

Leyva to manage Phillies

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Phillies called a news conference Monday afternoon to name St. Louis third-base coach Nick Leyva as manager.

Leyva, 35, is the choice of general manager Lee Thomas, who worked with Leyva in the Cardinals organization for 10 years. Leyva has already met with Thomas and Phillies President Bill Giles, and was the only person interviewed for the position, sources told United Press International.

Leyva spent six years as manager in the Cardinals' minor league system and has been a base coach for the parent club since 1984. Leyva succeeds Lee Elia, who was fired on Sept. 23. John Vukovich served as interim manager of the Phillies for the season's last week.

With a 3-1 loss Sunday night in Montreal, the Phillies finished the season in last place in the National League East with a 65-96 record, 35 1/2 games behind the first-place New York Mets.

FOOTBALL

FAMU to forfeit victory

TALLAHASSEE — Florida A&M must forfeit a Middle East Athletic Conference win over Delaware State last month because the Batters used an ineligible football player, conference officials said Monday.

Florida A&M must forfeit their 35-31 victory over the Hornets because running back Bryan Moore already had used up his eligibility.

Moore played in three games during 1984, his redshirt season, and had five rushes for 20 yards.

The game in question was a Nov. 3 contest against the Prairie View A&M, when he rushed for 23 yards on two carries, according to a letter to Florida A&M officials from the conference.

NCAA rules prohibit a player from red shirting if the player performed in any games during the final half of a season.

Grabb upsets No. 5 Berger

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Jim Grabb eliminated fifth-seeded Jay Berger 7-6 (7-4), 6-1 Monday in the opening round of the $415,000 Eagle Tennis Classic.

No. 2 seed Kevin Curren outlasted Richey Reneberg 6-4, 1-6, 7-5. In another match, No. 8 seed Derrick Rostagno rolled past Brad Pearce 6-3, 6-4.

Grabb, a former Scottsdale resident, said he was glad to have things go his way after struggling in recent weeks.

"I think I've had my success early on (in my career) from being an aggressive player. In the last couple of weeks I've tried to rekindle that."

Berger rallied from a 1-4 deficit in the first set to tie Grabb, but Grabb won the tiebreaker.

Curren struggled against Reneberg, a fellow Texan.

"I felt like I was in control the first set, but he took all the momentum away in the second," Curren said afterward. "I was lucky to get back in there."

Allison to be released today

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Racing legend Bobby Allison will be released from the Birmingham hospital Tuesday where he's been recuperating from a June 19 wreck at the Miller 500 in Pennsylvania.

Allison said he remembers nothing about the wreck, which almost killed him, and is slowly recalling other events that occurred before the wreck.

"It's been a real mystery," he said after walking aided by a cane into a hospital room for a news conference.

Staff aces duel today in NL playoff opener

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — The New York Mets have the better pitch when it comes to arguments about the National League playoffs.

The confident, even cocky, Mets went through a workout Monday at Dodger Stadium in preparation for Tuesday NL playoff opener against the somewhat crippled Dodgers.

"I'm picking the Mets," said St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog, who cons ago in spring training forecast the NL East race by saying "if there's one team that can run away with the division, it's the Mets."

"They know how to pitch better than the Dodgers," Herzog said of

New York, whose 100-60 record was bettered in baseball only by Oakland. Los Angeles won the NL West with a 94-67 mark.

Even Los Angeles Manager Tommy Lasorda agrees the Mets are better than his Dodgers. But he knows that doesn't mean his team can't win.

"I said in the spring I thought they had the best club in the National League," Lasorda said, "and it proved to be."

"We've got to play good, sound fundamental baseball (to win). We have to play mistake-proof ball. You can't give them the extra out. We did that during the (regular) season and it killed us."

"I've said before, you could have Don Drysdale, Sandy Koufax, Juan Marichal and Bob Gibson — and if you give your opponent four or five outs you're not going to win."

"The first game is the biggest," San Francisco Manager Roger Craig said. "If Orel (Hershiser) can beat them it could turn things around."

Hershiser, 23-8 in the regular season, will open Game 1 against Dwight Gooden, 18-9. Gooden is 3-0 against the Dodgers this season. The game is scheduled to start at 5 p.m. PDT (8 p.m. EDT).

Hershiser brings his 59 scoreless innings streak into the playoffs (he'll take it into next season, too, regardless of what happens in the post-season) and Craig, for one, doesn't buy the theory the streak makes him due to allow a run.

"I'd love it," Craig said. "Hershiser will be tough to beat in that first game. He's on a roll. He's an athlete at the highest level of confidence you can reach right now."

"He's like an Olympic athlete winning a Gold Medal. If he gets beat, it's going to be 1-0 or 2-0. Plus, when a pitcher is going like he's going, it rubs off on the other

Christy Scott, a former Lake Howell High standout, has returned as boys volleyball coach at her alma mater.

Scott, Barma return to serve

By CHRIS FISTER Herald sports editor

Serve return is something Christy Scott and Kathy Barma did every day for about the last eight years. In 1988, though, the two Lake Howell High graduates have returned to serve the area in which they starred as high school players.

Scott, who recently graduated from Florida Southern University in Lakeland, is currently coaching the Lake Howell High boys volleyball team. Barma, a 1988 graduate of Rollins College, has taken over the Apopka High girls program.

Both were key players for Lake Howell at a time when the Lady Silver Hawks were the dominant force in Seminole County volleyball.

"I demanded so much of them and they continually came through," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "They were very intense and extremely dependable players. I think it's wonderful both of them are putting their knowledge and enthusiasm and their values and goals into high school athletics."

Scott was one of the best all-around performers ever in Seminole County as she possessed all the skills along with being a good team leader. She went on to play one year at Valencia Community College, then went on to Florida Southern where she was a three-year starter. As a senior, Scott helped the team to the Division II regionals, where she was an all-tournament selection.

Scott graduated from Florida Southern with a degree in Therapeutic Recreation. She was prepared to go back to Lakeland this season to help with the Florida Southern team when she ran into an old friend.

"I was talking to Luciano about volleyball and she mentioned there was a position open with the boys team," Scott said. "I love the game and working with young people so it's something I couldn't pass up."

In the inaugural season of boys volleyball, the Lake Howell team has a 3-2 record and Scott is hoping for a perfect slate in the second half of the year.

"When it first started, I thought it would be fun," Scott said. "But now I've really gotten into it and I love it. It's great to see the guys improve with every match. I think they respect me because I know how to play the game and they want to learn how to play."

Scott has not found a full-time teaching job as of yet but is substitute teaching almost every day at Lake Howell.

"If they boys program stays, I'd like to stick with it," Scott said. "If not, I'll look into girls."

Barma, who was the sparkplug of the team when she played at Lake Howell and served the same role when she went on to Rollins, is in the position of building an Apopka program that never received much attention in the past.

Andersen FG sinks Dallas

United Press International

NEW ORLEANS — Morten Andersen kicked a 49-yard field goal as time expired Monday night, giving the New Orleans Saints a 20-17 victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

Roger Ruzek had kicked a 39-yard field goal with 24 seconds to play, pulling Dallas to 17-17. A 39-yard attempt by Ruzek with 2:22 remaining hit the left upright and bounced back.

New Orleans, 4-1, has won four straight games, but the victory was only its second against the Cowboys in 13 meetings, and its second in a Monday-night game in eight attempts. The previous Saints victory over the Cowboys came Oct. 17, 1971, 24-14. Dallas fell to 2-3.

The Saints capitalized on a 39-yard kickoff return by Mel Gray and a 26-yard pass from Bobby Hebert to Brett Perriman to set up the winner by Andersen, who had kicked a 27-yarder in the third quarter for a 17-14 lead.

The Cowboys had tied the score with 24 seconds left when Steve Pelluer marched the team 43 yards in eight plays to set up the tying field goal by Ruzek, the training camp holdout who signed a new contract with the team last week.

Hebert threw touchdown passes of 7 yards to Lonzell Hill in the first quarter and 17 yards to Perriman in the second. Dallas' scores came on TD passes of 13 and 14 yards from Pelluer to Kelvin Martin.

Trailing 14-7 at halftime, Dallas tied the score 14-14 midway through the third period on an eight-play, 56-yard drive. Pelluer hit running back Tim Newsome on third-and-5 for 12 yards to the Saints 26, then found Martin for a 14-yard TD pass.

Football districts realigned

Oviedo High School, growing by leaps and bounds, knew it was headed for Class 5A in football and Class 4A in other sports in the near future. The Lions found that out for sure at the latest Florida High School Activities Association board meeting when they were assigned a new district, Class 5A-4, for the 1989 season.

Oviedo, which is currently 4-0 overall and 1-0 in District 4A-7, will move into the same district as Seminole County foes Lake Brantley, Lake Mary, Lyman and Lake Howell and Volusia County opponents DeLand, Mainland and Spruce Creek.

Oviedo's move was expected, what wasn't expected was moving Lake Weir into the same district, 5A-4. That makes it a nine-team district and leaves Seminole County teams with only one date on their schedules for non-district games, and that date will be filled by Seminole High.

With Oviedo moving out of 4A-7, that will leave that district with only three teams, Seminole High, Leesburg and Edgewater.

Also, Orlando Dr. Phillips, which was originally slated for 4A-7 last year but ruled too big of a school to compete in a 4A district, will be assigned to Class 5A-5 along with Orange County foes Apopka, Evans, Boone, Oak Ridge, Colonial, Winter Park and West Orange.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

One key game in District 5A-4 is on the slate for this week along with one Seminole Athletic Conference confrontation.

In 5A-4 action, Lake Mary's Rams will look to salvage what dim playoff hopes they have left as they host Lyman's unbeaten Greyhounds. Lake Mary, 1-3, is 0-2 in the district while Lyman, 3-0, is 1-0.

In the SAC, Seminole High looks to snap a two-game losing streak as it goes to Lake Brantley. The 'Noles are 2-2 overall and 0-1 in the SAC while Brantley is 2-2 overall and 1-1 in the league.

Elsewhere, Lake Howell (2-1) entertains fifth-ranked (Class 5A) Winter Park, Oviedo (4-0) looks to stay unbeaten as it hosts Daytona Seabreeze and Apopka's Blue Darters (2-1) journey to Montgomery, Ala., for a Thursday night meeting with Robert E. Lee High.

Her team has two victories so far this season playing in the rough Metro Conference.

"I knew that with the strong family influence she has, she would probably be returning to this area," Luciano said of Barma. "At Apopka, they have the athletes but just need someone to guide them. I think Kathy is a very good choice for that job. And she's getting a real taste of what it's like to be a head coach right away."

Luciano has already gone up against her former pupil once this season, with Lake Howell winning the match, and will do so again this Wednesday at Apopka.

"It made me feel a bit old to go up against a former player," Luciano said. "But I couldn't have been more proud."

Pride is something Scott and Barma always displayed on the volleyball court and now it is something they are passing on to current players. If they keep up the good work, maybe someday one of their players will return as an opposing coach.

"It's great to have them back in the area," Luciano said. "They always did and always will strive to be the best."

Jones: Tough break for a great athlete

Already stung with the loss of defensive leader Ralph Hardy (one month too old to be eligible for football), the Seminole High squad received more bad news last week when senior running back Jerod Jones underwent arthroscopic surgery on his right knee.

SPORTS
CHRIS FISTER

Jones, the team's leading rusher and leading scorer in the first three ballgames, is expected miss the remainder of the season.

For SHS it is a major setback. The Fighting Seminoles not only lost a great athlete, but an inspirational leader and a super all-around young man.

About the only people who have not grown to like Jones over his career at SHS are his opponents. Knowing his strength of character, there is no doubt Jerod will make it through this injury with flying colors. Although he may lose his entire senior year, colleges should not overlook his potential.

For now, Jones will be relegated to cheering on his team and helping out the younger players. It is a role he would rather not be filling, but will accept it with dignity.

The prognosis does not look good at this point, but, if there is any chance at all, you can bet Jones will be back in 1989.

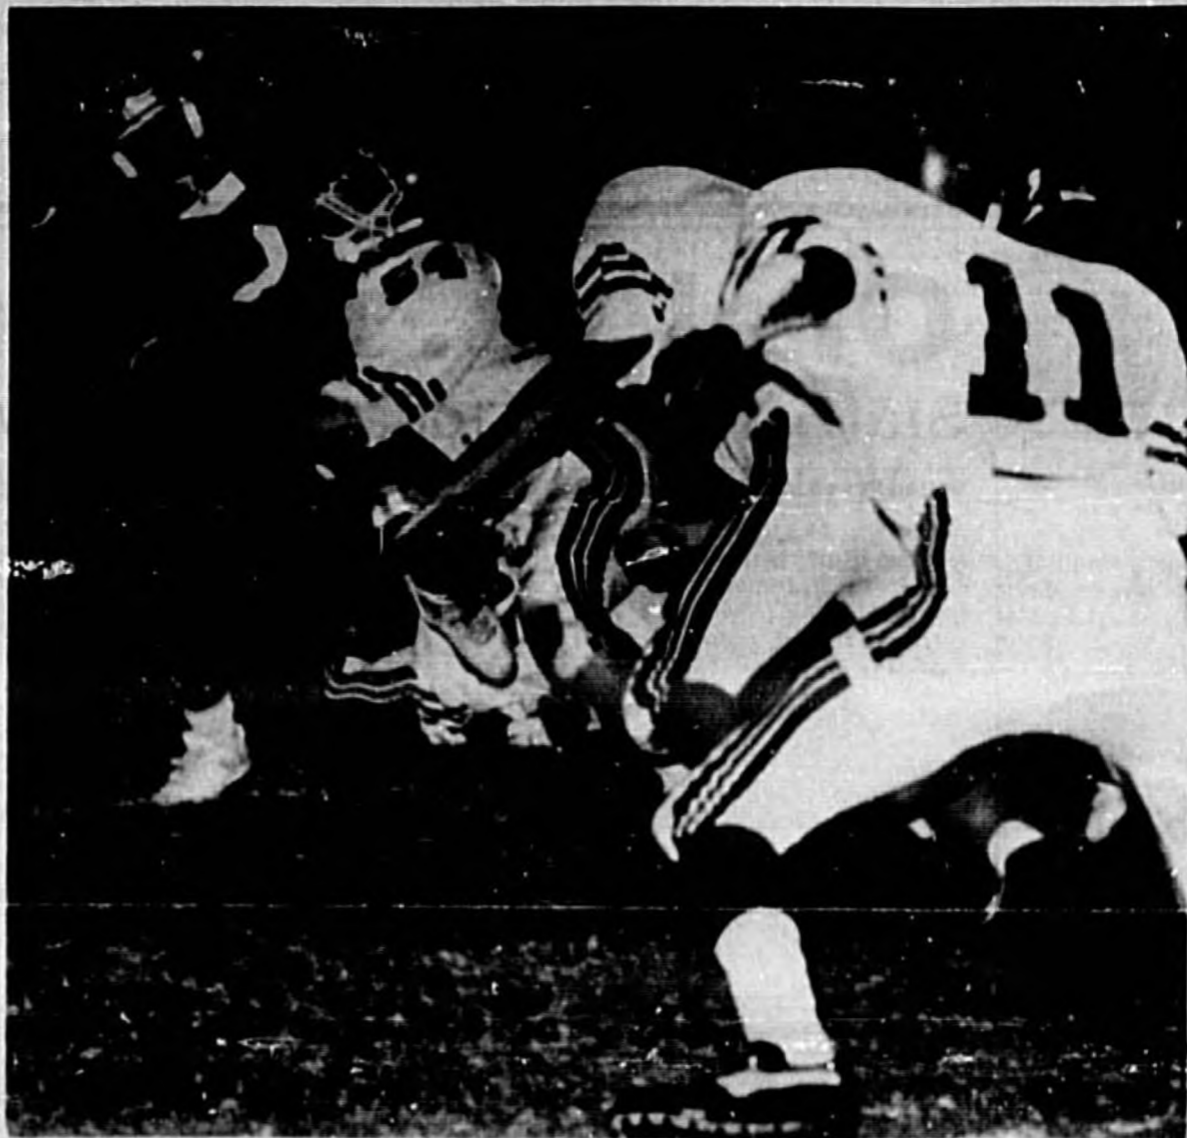

Last week, the Fearless Fister Forecast suffered through a mediocre 7-5 record, running the season slate to 23-9. Here's a look at this week's games:

Seminole at Lake Brantley
Until the 'Noles get someone to take over the leadership role that Jones handled, they will have a rough time against the bigger schools on their schedule. Lake Brantley has been inconsistent in 1988, but the Patriots have superior size and experience in this game. Seminole will fight for all its worth, but Lake Brantley will have a v e t o o m u c h power...Brantley by 9

Lyman at Lake Mary
Although they are 0-2 in the district, Lake Mary's Rams should not start talking about next year just yet. The only thing is Lake Mary can not afford another district loss. The key for the Rams will be keeping the ball out of the multitiered hands of Lyman's Steve Jerry and Cedric Boucy. After a frustrating beginning, Lake Mary is ready for a comeback against a tough Lyman squad...Rams by 3

Apopka at Robert E. Lee
The Blue Darters have a tough task ahead of them as they go to Montgomery, Ala. to play perennial powerhouse Robert E. Lee. This is where the Darters will make their mark, however. A healthy Joey Hunt on offense and a fired up defensive unit will give Apopka its biggest win of the year...Apopka by 7

Seminole's Jerod Jones takes a hit from Lake Mary's Mike Armato (No. 54) while Mike Merthie (No. 11) looks on. Jones may miss the rest of the '88 season due to a knee injury.

Winter Park at Lake Howell
Lake Howell hopes to bounce back after a disappointing showing a week ago and the Hawks will have to do it in a hurry against a talented Winter Park squad that is ranked fifth in the state. The Wildcats have too many offensive weapons, though, and

Seabreeze at Oviedo
It's safe to say that one of two things will happen in this game. Oviedo will either come from behind and win in regulation, or come from behind and win in overtime...Oviedo by 7 (but not in OT)

COLLEGES - In college action this week it should be UCF over New Haven by 20; Florida over Memphis State by 30; FSU over Georgia Southern by 40.

PROB - Bucs keep the Vikings reeling, winning by 10; but irate Raiders knock off the Dolphins by 10.

Knee injuries sideline Knights' Grissom, Giacone

By DAVID CORCORAN
Herald correspondent

ORLANDO - The University of Central Florida Knights, who pulled off a last-second 35-33 win Saturday night over the North Alabama Lions, found out that the victory was a costly one as the Knights lost tailback Mark Grissom and nose tackle Mike Giacone for the season with knee injuries.

Grissom, a sophomore who was second on the team with 40 tackles, and tipped the pass that Steve Mackey intercepted in the third quarter to give the Knights a 25-17 lead, tore ligaments in his left knee on the "Knightsmares" next defensive series.

Giacone, a sophomore who is the team's leading rusher with 285 yards on 78 carries and three TDs, left in the fourth quarter with what was originally thought to be a pulled muscle, but exams later showed ligament damage to the right knee.

Both players will have surgery Tuesday morning and are expected to be ready for spring practice next year.

Head coach Gene McDowell said: "The loss of Grissom and Giacone will hurt us, no question about it. We have to find the players to fill in and do the job."

McDowell said that Giacone has been splitting the tailback duties this season with junior Gil Barnes who is second on the team with 167 yards and is the

Mike Grissom Mark Giacone

Knights' leading scorer with 30 points (five TDs, all rushing).

To improve depth at the tailback position, freshman Victor Farrer from Longwood Lyman was brought up from the scout squad. Angel Mesa and Kevin Gatlin will get more playing time also.

The loss of Grissom will be a major loss to the UCF defense, because he was playing good enough to be considered for postseason Division II All-America status, and just two weeks ago he was named the Division II defensive player of the week by the Football Gazette for his 12 tackle effort against Troy State.

Junior Robert Lindsey, who has 22 tackles and a sack thus far, will be moved from defensive end to Grissom's spot, and Mackey will be moved from linebacker to the defensive front to give the Knights help in pass rushing situations.

In other news, UCF remains number two in the Division II polls for the third straight week. North Dakota State's Bison are first at 80 points, and the Knights second at 76. Completing the top five are Indiana (Pa.) with 72, Winston Salem State with 67 and Texas A&M with 65.

The second five consists of No. 6 Jacksonville State (58), Millersville Pa. (56), Butler (Ind.) 53, Augustana S.D. (47) and E. Texas State (43).

The second 10 includes No. 11 West Chester Pa. (41), Cal State Northridge (37), Albany (Ga.) State (31), North Dakota (29), Bowie (Md.) State (23), Tennessee-Martin (19), St. Cloud State (16), Bloomsburg Pa. (12), Nebraska-Omaha (16) and Northern Michigan (4).

Oregon, which beat San Diego State 34-13, was the only new member to the ratings. The Ducks entered for the first since being No. 18 during the second week of October last year.

"This team is better than the one ranked last year," Oregon Coach Rich Brooks said. "Being ranked certainly is meaningful but we face a real critical test this week (at Southern Cal)."

Five independents - all among the top eight teams, five members of the Southeastern Conference, four from the Pac-10, three from the Big Eight, and one each from the Atlantic Coast Conference, Western Athletic Conference and Big Ten made up the ratings.

The Trojans beat Arizona 38-15, the Tigers beat North Carolina 47-21, the Fighting Irish beat Stanford 42-14 and the Mountaineers beat Virginia Tech 22-10 to retain their top six positions of last week.

Florida State jumped over South Carolina after beating Tulane 48-28. The Gamecocks beat Appalachian State 35-9.

Big Eight rivals Nebraska and Oklahoma stayed No. 9 and No. 10, respectively. The Cornhuskers beat Nevada-Las Vegas 48-6; the Sooners beat Iowa State 35-7.

Florida made the biggest leap in the ratings, going from 15th to 11th after beating Louisiana State 19-6. The Tigers, last week's No. 13, fell from the rankings.

The 5-0 Gators had beaten two Division I-AA teams - Montana State and Indiana State - in the season's first four weeks.

"We are very happy and think we have the makings of a good football team - if we stay healthy," Florida Coach Galen Hall said. "We dropped Miami (from the schedule) to play seven conference games. And we've played people we should have played - Ole Miss and Mississippi State are good football teams."

Idle Clemson fell one spot to No. 12, Oklahoma State, trying to move out from the shadows of conference foes Oklahoma and Nebraska, jumped one notch to No. 13. The Cowboys beat Tulsa 56-35 and scored over 50 points for the third straight game.

The Crimson Tide fell two spots to No. 14 despite beating Kentucky 31-27. The Bulldogs inched to 15th after beating Mississippi 36-12. Wyoming and Arkansas each jumped two positions. The Cowboys beat Fullerton State 35-16; the Razorbacks beat Texas Christian 53-10.

The Wolverines, who beat

Wisconsin 62-14, concluded the poll after tying for No. 19 last week.

The 1988 national champion will receive a $32,000 non-athletic scholarship from the Gerrits Foundation and UPI.

By agreement with the American Football Coaches Association, teams on NCAA or conference probation and forbidden to compete in a bowl or have had more than 20 percent of their scholarships stripped are ineligible for the Top 20 and national championship consideration.

SEC PLAYERS OF WEEK
Offense - Versatility is a synonym for Georgia tailback Tim Worley.

The 215-pound junior leads the Southeastern Conference in touchdowns with nine, is the SEC's No. 2 rusher with 600 yards, is among the league leaders in kickoff returns, and has even thrown a couple of touchdown passes.

Worley showed his all-around talent this past Saturday when he rushed for 121 yards and a touchdown, scored on a 93-yard kickoff return, and threw a 27-yard TD pass in Georgia's 36-12 victory over Ole Miss.

Defense - Facing one of the nation's premier quarterbacks, Fain intercepted Louisiana State's Tommy Hodson on consecutive series and scored the game's only touchdown to spark Florida's 19-6 triumph. On Monday, Fain earned UPI's Southeast Defensive Player of the Week honors.

The Gators' sophomore cornerback, converted from safety before the season began, quickly halted Hodson's streak of 106 consecutive passes without an interception. On LSU's second possession, freshman linebacker Ephestians Bartley applied pressure and Fain picked off Hodson's wobbly pass. Fain's 36-yard return to the 11 set up the first of four John David Francis field goals.

Bosox need another hot streak

United Press International

BOSTON — When the Boston Red Sox, who won the American League East with the worst record of the four postseason contenders, face the Oakland Athletics for the pennant beginning Wednesday, they must recreate the kind of hot streak that carried them to the division title.

The A's, who won nine of 12 against the Red Sox this season, simply must sustain the dominating style that carried them to the best record in the major leagues.

Oakland, which suffered only one serious slump during the regular season, won seven of its last 10 to finish 104-58. Boston will start left-hander Bruce Hurst, 18-6, against right-hander Dave Stewart, 21-12, in Game 1.

United Press International

As designated hitter against Hurst, who received the start over two-time Cy Young winner Roger Clemens.

"There are a lot of reasons I like Baylor in there," Oakland Manager Tony La Russa said. "One of them is that he's had some success against Hurst. And he's also had some success in the postseason."

Baylor, 39, an inspirational leader of the Red Sox in their pennant-winning season of 1986, was picked up by the Minnesota Twins after his release by Boston last summer.

United Press International

Stewart, who got off to an 8-0 start, outdueled Clemens in a 1-0 August thriller decided by a suicide squeeze.

"He rises to the occasion," A's pitching coach Dave Duncan said of Stewart. "He's an outstanding pitcher for accepting a challenge and meeting it head-on."

"The way he does it, he doesn't get a lot of easy wins. He fights for every one," said Oakland relief ace Dennis Eckersley, another Red Sox alumnus. "He's not the kind of guy who goes out and throws a two-hitter, walks one and punches out 10. He scuffles."

Weiss comes through for A's

United Press International

BOSTON — If any rookie ever had a reason to fail, Oakland shortstop Walt Weiss did coming into the 1986 season.

Weiss had just 16 games of major league experience when he took the field on opening day. He also was replacing Alfredo Griffin, a player with a magical glove and great range who was traded to the Los Angeles Dodgers for much-needed pitching help.

United Press International

On Wednesday, Weiss will face a new type of pressure. He'll be in the starting lineup when the A's take on the Boston Red Sox in Game 1 of the best-of-seven American League Championship Series.

"The PR department can put out all the releases it wants, but it's what happens on the field that counts," said Oakland Manager Tony LaRussa. "On the field, Walt Weiss has been without equal. He's played as well as any shortstop. He's definitely special."

Is this a cardiac or hernia problem?

DEAR DR. GOTT: Eleven years ago I had a surgical repair of a nonfunctioning cardiac sphincter. I've been having similar symptoms recently. An endoscopy showed that my gastro-esophageal junction is wide open. I have pain much of the time and cough a lot, despite watching my diet and elevating my bed. Three doctors give me different answers. I'm confused as to whether I'm dealing with a cardiac or a hernial problem.

re-operation to tighten the sphincter. For now, you need the guidance of an intestinal specialist. For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Hiatal Hernia."

DEAR READER: With all the "cardiac" words wandering about, I can see how you could be easily confused by what the doctors are telling you.

Your problem is in your upper intestinal tract, not your heart. The cardiac sphincter is another term for the ring of muscle in the lower esophagus that prevents backwash of stomach acid. This sphincter, at the gastro-esophageal junction, plays an important role in discouraging acidic stomach contents from refluxing up into the sensitive and unprotected esophagus. The reflux is the hallmark of hiatal hernia, the general condition of which your ailment is a part. Refluxing gastric acid causes heartburn, inflammation of the esophagus, water brash (a feeling of discomfort in the upper chest) and cough; in short, an entirely unpleasant sensation, as you have discovered.

Reflux can often be controlled by the measures you mention: small, frequent meals and elevation of the head of the bed. Patients are often aided by taking antacids and medicine to retard the production of gastric acid. In some people, an incompetent (wide open) sphincter can be surgically repaired. However, in your case, the procedure was evidently unsuccessful.

I suggest that you seek a consultation with a gastroenterologist. This specialist can perform certain diagnostic tests and then advise you what to do. For instance, if medical management does not relieve your symptoms, you might consider

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
If your doubled vulnerable contract can't be made, the best you can do is hold the undertricks to a minimum. Note how flawed South's weak two bid was: The suit was headed by a pitiful Q-8, and it had more length than a standard weak two-bid shows. Furthermore, since North had yet to act, it was possible that pre-empting in spades would keep North-South from arriving at a winning heart contract (not on this deal, but on many others).

West doubled and East passed, not without a little chop-licking. Clubs were led and continued. Declarer ruffed and led a low spade, hoping to stop the defenders from making their trumps separately. West won the 10 and played a diamond. South withstood the temptation to play the queen from dummy. Instead he won the ace but then erred by leading dummy's heart eight. East put on the 10 and South's jack forced West's king. Later the ace dropped the queen and the nine was a winner, but the heart two lost to West's seven. So declarer had to lose a club four spade tricks and two heart tricks. He would have saved a trick in hearts if he had led a small heart from dummy rather than the eight. The play will go as before, but when the ace is subsequently played, dropping the queen, declarer can play a heart to the right spot and hold his losers in the suit to only one. Down one doubled will be a good score, since East-West can make a non-vulnerable no-trump game.

HOROSCOPE

What the day will bring...

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
October 5, 1988

Conditions that have a direct effect upon your security look very hopeful for you in the year ahead. Before this cycle is over, you are likely to be more prosperous.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A small group won't be nearly as much fun as a large crowd today. Seek activities where you can mingle with the masses and meet new people. Libra, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Aim for objectives that you'll be proud to achieve. Associates will admire your efforts and their approval will enhance your image.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A righteous defense of what you believe in will be easily aroused today. You have implicit faith in your positions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Use the business acumen of an associate today. The forecast for your joint endeavor looks promising under this person's guidance as well as from working together.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Compromises may be required today in order to advance your interests. To get what you want, it will be necessary for you to also give up a little.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your greatest benefits today are likely to come from a situation where you will try to be of service to someone else. If this person gains, you will reap rewards as well.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If something in which you're involved today is in need of organization, you are the one who can fill the bill. Don't take a back seat and let others do what you can do better.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Today, a good portion of your time may be devoted to tying down loose ends in matters you've left dangling. These are priorities that need attention.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may come up with a bright idea today that will be worthy of immediate action. Since you're also a good promoter, you have the combination that can spell success.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You could be generous with your resources today. Spend your money for something you'll enjoy, but will also give pleasure to the person in your company.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Ego gratification will be denied today if you fail to do things that do not make you the center of attention. You'll know how to handle the spotlight modestly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Function as the force behind the scenes today. You'll be much more effective implanting your ideas if you let others think your concepts are theirs.

Her drinking-driving days are over

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a self-supporting single parent and recently was on a date with a "fun" guy. He handled his beer just fine, I left him at 1 a.m. to drive home, knowing I'd had enough wine to necessitate caution while driving. I was concentrating on being a careful driver when a light started to flash behind me. I pulled over, and the lady officer gave me the field test, read me my rights, took my driver's license and handcuffed my hands behind my back. I remember telling her that I was a professional and asking if I had to go through all that. She said I did.

I was driven to the police station in the police car. The officers were very courteous. I was given a breathalyzer test. My rating was .13—the legal limit is .10. I was fingerprinted and ticketed for DWI. There were no prior traffic violations.

I was not allowed to leave unless someone picked me up. (I didn't want to tell anybody.) I said I'd stay the night, but the officer strongly discouraged it, so I called a friend to pick me up at the police station at 3 a.m. (It was terrible having to call my children and explain why I needed my friend's phone number.)

While I waited, I was locked in a cell like a common criminal. When I arrived home, it was time to go to work. I was required to report my arrest. It was humiliating to tell my administrator.

I chose to retain an attorney for $1,000 to walk me through the legal process. I was completely without my driver's license for 30 days, and I was allowed to drive only to and from work for the next 60 days. Because the alcohol content was below .15 and there was no previous record, I was given special consideration such as the work permit, and the mandatory time in jail was counted as the time I waited in jail for my ride home. I was lucky.

My car insurance more than doubled for three years, and it will be seven years before I qualify for the less expensive rates. This experience is going to cost me at least $4,000, which I can ill afford. The inconvenience for myself and my children is difficult to handle. I've had to impose on friends for rides and favors. My parents are disgusted with me and I don't blame them. The mental stress is hard to handle.

I hope you print this, Abby. Maybe other people will learn from it.

PAYING THE PRICE IN PHOENIX

DEAR PAYING: Thanks for a letter that just might cause a few people to realize that if they have had a "few" drinks, they should not drive.

Sadly, statistics show that many die tragically and needlessly because the person behind the wheel had "a few."

DEAR ABBY: I hope this gets to you in time to tell that couple who want to name their son "Junior" to please reconsider. If the "senior" and "junior" are living in the same house, there will be constant confusion—especially after Junior's voice changes and someone calls on the phone wanting to speak to Bill.

"Big Bill" or "Little Bill" is the next question. Or worse yet, "Young Bill" or "Old Bill." In some homes, there will be Bob and Bobby, George and Georgie, Tom and Tommy. Those names stick, and can't you just see a 45-year-old "Dickie" running for county clerk?

BEEN THERE

DEAR ABBY: Recent studies have shown that there is a dramatic decrease in automobile accidents when people drive with their lights on in the daytime.

Drivers have been a little slow to pick up on this. We have just returned from Canada, where we noticed that about 75 percent of the drivers were driving with their lights on during the day. When I asked my Canadian nephew about this, he said Canada has just passed a law that will require headlights to be turned on when you start the car!

LARRY WILSON, BARTLESVILLE, OKLA.

DEAR LARRY: Many other wrote to stress the safety advantage of daytime driving with the lights on. It is the law in Sweden and Denmark. Thankfully, we are beginning to see the light.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Two years of grandmotherly love

Members of the Grandmothers Club of Seminole County serve pound cake and punch to youngsters at the Seminole Juvenile Detention Center in Sanford, as part of the club's second anniversary celebration. From left are grandmothers Mary Smith, Edythe Wright and Allien Gibson who helped Thursday bring cheer and show care to those kids at the center who had birthdays in September.

Vegetable agent retires

SANFORD — William R. Llewellyn, commercial vegetable agent for the IFAS Cooperative Extension Service, was honored for his 35 years of service after he retired Aug. 31.

During his tenure in Seminole County, Llewellyn established an effective multi-county vegetable program. In addition to providing a successful program for both commercial and small farmers in the county, he has filled a void in adjoining counties, particularly the Zellwood mulch area.

Llewellyn has consistently established field trials and demonstrations to support his educational program.

He plans to spend his retirement traveling and visiting his grandchildren.

CORRECTION

Due to misinformation given to the Herald, an engagement announcement published Sunday incorrectly identified the maternal grandparents of Elsie Marie Anderson of Osteen. Anderson is the maternal granddaughter of the late Rev. Burchfield and Elsie Miller.

Roh unveils ambitious Korean five-year plan

United Press International

SEOUL, South Korea -- Priding a wave of post-Olympic euphoria, President Roh Tae-woo vowed today in an ambitious five-year plan to make South Korea a "major player" internationally and to cement democracy and economic growth.

"We have never stood before the world as tall as this," Roh said before the National Assembly in his first public speech since the Olympics closed Sunday.

After years of speculation that the Games could be the target of North Korean terrorism, the Japanese Red Army or domestic student radicals, the Olympics ended without any significant security threat. Instead, an emerging economic powerhouse was shown to the world.

President Juan Antonio Samaranch of the International Olympic Committee called the Seoul Games "the best ever." South Koreans were also buoyed by an unexpected fourth place finish in the gold medal standings.

behind the Soviet Union, East Germany and the United States.

Roh said economic growth would be on the top of his agenda and he promised to smash corruption typified by local level officials who have not been elected to office in the past 30 years.

"I will boldly recruit untainted persons of talent, competence and vision into government service. Just and fair awards and punishments will be meted out to every public official regardless of position," he said.

"Now we are opening a new chapter of history in which Korea should achieve both unification and prosperity and emerge as a major player on the world scene in the 21st century," said Roh as he outlined the five-year plan.

Roh again urged a summit meeting with North Korean leader Kim Il-sung to discuss ending the Cold War chill that has kept the two nations closed to each other since 1953. Roh said he would travel to the North Korean capital of Pyongyang for the meeting.

Soldiers wound 17 during strike

United Press International

JERUSALEM -- Palestinian shopkeepers staged a general strike to protest the extended closure of schools in the occupied West Bank, and soldiers prevented right- and left-wing Israelis from conducting political activity in the territory.

Soldiers shot and wounded at least 17 Palestinian youths in the West Bank and Gaza Strip when clashes erupted Monday during the strike. Palestinian sources and hospital officials said. An army spokesman confirmed at least 10 wounded.

The spokesman said soldiers raided several villages in an effort to prevent violence during the strike. The soldiers made arrests, conducted searches and forced youths to clean up anti-

Israel slogans painted on walls, Israel Radio and Palestinian sources said.

At least six of the wounded Palestinians were shot during demonstrations that erupted after soldiers raided three villages, the sources said.

The violence flared as Jews in Israel celebrated Simhat Torah, the final holy day in the Sukkoth harvest festival. Worshipers marked the day, which is a celebration of the first five books of the Bible, by singing and dancing with Torah scrolls.

Soldiers arrested 20 members of the extreme right-wing Kach Party Monday after the group tried to force their way into an site of an ancient synagogue in the West Bank town of Jericho, 15 miles east of Jerusalem, Israel Radio reported.

The radio said the same group attempted to create a settlement at the site Sunday. The organization, founded by American-born Rabbi Meir Kahane, favors expelling Arabs from Israel and the occupied territories.

Palestinian sources said soldiers barred members of the Progressive List for Peace Party from visiting the West Bank town of Kalkilya, 30 miles northwest of Jerusalem. Soldiers later forced the group to leave the nearby village of Habla, the sources said.

Palestinian merchants in Arab East Jerusalem and the occupied territories kept their shops shuttered Monday in observance of the general strike to protest the lengthy closure of schools in the West Bank.

CHEROKEE, N.C. (UPI) -- Indians say some of the bitterness was missing from today's anniversary of a forced march across nine states that claimed the lives of 4,000 Cherokee and came to be known as the "Trail of Tears."
