Personal respect is out of date. The widespread loss of simple courtesy, which allows young people to be rude in criticism of their elders, may seem to some to be simply bad manners, but it may be, in reality, a symptom of

The modern father should accept the burden of authority. He must resist the superficial notion of equality. He ought to know more than his children know; he ought to be wiser; he onth to make decisions that are unchallenged. Then, as the child matures, he wisely gives more freedom and helps to develop initiative by degrees. He will have the grace to forgive as well as the courage to admit failure on occasion, but he will never forget that the role of father is different from the role of child. He will not abdicate his responsibility. The task of being parents is so great that it is unthinkable that it can be successful without faith in God.

driving range instructors to top tournament players - are cashing in on the enormous popularity of this billion-dollar-a-year The big tournament players are, in fact, the superheroes of the sport business, more admired, envied and emulated by adults than the stars of any other sport. These emulators generally are a bit more affluent than, say, baseball fans. And so the heroes very often receive some of this cash in tribute from the hero worshipers. A spokesman for International Management Inc. of Cleveland. Ohio, which handles the affairs of the royalty - Palmer, Gary Player and Jack Nicklaus well educated. They think well. They get along with people very from more plebian pursuits. "Golf is a sport acceptable at all levels of society." said the International Management man. "It is gentlemanly. Even a company president can identify with golf stars. And it is an individual's game and a participant sport as well."

Since golf is a participan sport it has a considerable market among the eight million Americans who play golf with some degree of regularity and need a wide assortment of equipment and paraphernalia. Palmer's good fortune is due in part to the efforts of Mark McCormack, head of International Management. McCormack, a lawyer, has helped define and refine golf's business McCormack's clients general-

ON AN EVEN KEEL

Young Stan learned to row this summer. It was hard work but he didn't complain about the blisters. He was a captain in control of his ship, and very proud of his new position!

Being in control is often hard work, even for adults. Many people wish they could control their tempers, or perhaps curtail bad habits, but they fail to find within themselves the strength of will that would help them.

When problems are too big for us, that's the time to ask God for assistance. We are His children and He knows all our weaknesses. Through church attendance and prayer, we can be guided to a more serene approach to daily life. We will find His presence a constant support as we begin to take pride in our new possession . . . self control.

earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of piritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read you Bible daily.
