

AP Writer Selects Army Over Navy By 5 Touchdowns

By CHIP ROYAL.
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor
NEW YORK—Army's All-American football team should defeat Navy by four or five touchdowns: You take the first figure if you agree with the feminine side of the Royal family and the second numeral if you side with this agent.

It's like this. Just before every Army game the past two years we've had a little guessing contest in our house on the Cadet's score. Last year, when the Military Academy eleven copied me straight, this Royal was closer. Since the opening game for 1945—and eight more wins for the West Pointers—the missus has been nearer right.

As for the colorful contest in Philadelphia, Dec. 1, with the national championship hanging in the balance, she says Army 11, Navy 13. He says Army 49, Navy 18.

At least we've agreed on Navy's score. And she probably reached the 41 figure because that's the number Glenn Davis wears. Junior is her number one football player—and everyone else's, if you include Doc Blanchard in the same breath.

Boy, oh boy, when you stop to think of the tacklers those two ball carriers have left strewn on the ground since they started scoring record touchdowns for Army, you feel sorry for any who may have to face them in the future, including Navy.

That's not all. The Davis and Blanchard mates on the first West Point team are so good there are football coaches who say they could beat any picked-up All-American selected from the rest of the college players in the country.

Of course there are Navy rooters who hail the present Annapolis team as one of the best the Midshipmen have ever cheered. They'll have a tough time proving that, one with some of the old timers who have seen some beautiful eleven on the Severn.

Speaking of arguments, this is the time of year when Army and Navy fans really open up. If the words aren't hot about great teams—they're burning about rough games, particularly if the two debaters are in opposite services.

Some of the older officers like to talk about the battle in the early nineties which was so different that the Baltimore American told of the Middle triumph and gallantry added the subhead: "No scrapping or slugging indulged in."

Most every fan who has followed the Military-Naval series knows it started in 1890 and that the secretaries of War and Navy swapped the clash from 1894 to 1899. They said the games were developing into a war between the

Art Work Proves War Powerful In Educating Youth

By LOUIS LOCHNER
AP Newsfeatures
BERLIN—Some 1,000 drawings, water colors and paintings by Berlin school children, aged six to 18, bear eloquent testimony to the fact that war and its attendant sufferings have been powerful factors in re-educating German youth.

The education department of the French-occupied borough of Reinckendorf is conducting an exhibition under the title "Children in the Visage War," which reveals better than anything I've seen what the German child of today thinks of war.

Moreover, from certain recurring motifs in the pictures, it's apparent that the average Berlin child associates the following with war: hunger, loss of parent, bombing raid destruction, amputated limbs, coldness and dampness of air raid shelters, and the misery of the homeless refugee.

"The exhibition shows," said Karl Rutke, educational officer of the borough, "that children see the fundamental issues of war and peace more clearly than grownups. They were given no directives. Nobody told them how they should tackle the problem. The drawings are spontaneous revelations of the children's innermost thoughts."

First prize went to Erdmute Wiegand, 15, who offered her ideas war and peace in the form of monthly calendars, each of whose 12 pages develops the progressive dislocation of family life under wartime conditions.

In another striking exhibit, a 14-year-old boy merely drew a huge swastika, its lower half immersed in an ocean of blood across which is written "never again."

One 16-year-old girl did several panels depicting a dance of death contrasted to a dance of life. A skeleton, representing death, descends from the clouds on a V-bomb. The skeleton then dances with a warrior who finally drops dead. On the other hand, in peacetime a comely young man and woman dressed in peasant garb frolic in a merry dance of life.

One 10-year-old boy indicated war by having a mother sit cold and shivering, alone with a crying infant, in a cheerless air raid shelter. In peace the same mother, beaming happiness, sits in a warm dining room with a full table amidst her family.

As a side issue to the picture exhibition, one table contains neatly bound replies, given by scores of youngsters to three questions posed by an inspecting French officer, who asked the pupils to reply immediately, without long reflection, to three questions: "First, why did Germany start the war? Second, why did Germany lose the war? Third, what are we Germans doing to repair the damage?"

Although the French officer arrived unannounced and the children weren't prepared for the answers, there was such unanimity that the reply of young Heinrich Metzloff may be taken as typical: "First—Adolf Hitler wanted to bring the whole world under his domination. He wanted to conquer colonies and all people were to be his subjects."

"Second—Through constant American air raids our factories were destroyed and we could bring no munitions to the front. We couldn't work. Our railways were paralyzed. Our supply routes everywhere were cut."

"Third—We must do all possible to reconstruct. All must help. We must also pay for damage to other nations. We must respect other nations and be honest with them."

Two English Girls Protest Return To Their Native Land

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 28. (AP)—Two young English girls are in the custody of police at Springfield, Mass., today after being picked up in nearby East Longmeadow. But they aren't charged with anything too serious.

They are the attractive Misses June and Lilly Sharkey, daughters of a captain in the English Navy. They'd been visiting in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., but disappeared suddenly. An alarm was broadcast and the girls were picked up.

At first they didn't understand what all the excitement was about. They told police they simply preferred the United States to their native land and left Poughkeepsie because they didn't want to be returned to England.

However, a top UAW official appealed to the pickets to release the workers and they did. But UAW union chiefs say the supervisory employees will not be permitted to enter the Saginaw plant today.

Change In Street
Name Has Comical
Results In Gotham

By JACK O'BRIAN
NEW YORK—Sixth Avenue change in name to "Avenue of the Americas" has caused no end of confusion and quite a bit of fun, as shop signs are already taking on a Hemispheric tone.

A frankfurter stand at 44th Street suggests that you "Try our Pan-American Hot Dogs—10 cents."

Novelist John Steinbeck confuses a gang of us walking out of Toots Shor's the other a. m. by suggesting that we walk up to the "Avenue of the Americas Delicatessen."

The famous Sixth Avenue Delicatessen where the celebrities go for their salami and hot tram sandwiches. I've yet to hear anyone call Sixth Avenue by its new name except in jest.

The consensus is that it will be adjusted back to its original name as soon as Butch LaGuardia leaves city hall.

THIS gradual emergence of Sixth Avenue from an ugly, grimy, fifth-rate thoroughfare shrouded by monstrous and unsightly elevated tracks to a point where landlords believe it will within a short space be vying with Fifth Avenue for the fashionable trade, certainly is a feather in the hombrage of the look-ers.

Their Radio City project more than took the soiled reputation off the area, once a site of rundown brownstones and graceless saloons. It was the farseeing project when Radio City Music Hall opened under the El at Sixth and Fiftieth, but now that huge movie palace, biggest in the world, is the most popular film theatre in this big town.

Ticket agencies find it is as profitable, occasionally more so, than those for "Harvey" ("Casual" and the other bright, recent smashes, for they can get more reserved tickets for the Music Hall, and the service charge, or agent's fee, is the same.

WITHIN a couple of years Sixth Avenue will change almost completely. . . long stretches of property already have new owners who plan new theaters, both for stage and screen. . . department stores. . . smart shops. . . skyscrapers housing the consulates of all the countries of the Americas. . . fashionable restaurants and all the extra dignified glitter which has made Fifth Avenue synonymous with style and taste.

In a checkup made by real estate men the busiest single block in the city was found to be Sixth Street from Sixth to Seventh Avenue. . . and building expansion definitely will go eastward. . . most of the smart restaurants are East of Sixth Avenue—The Stork, Twenty-one, Toots Shor's, El Morocco, Chambord, the Copacabana, La Martinique, the smart hotels and small exclusive restaurants. . . Which makes Broadway more and more just a state of mind, for the big percentage of fashionable activity whirls on the other side of town.

GI Bill Of Rights
Holds Educational Advantage For Vet

By ROWLAND EVANS, Jr.
(Substituting for Jack Stinnett)
WASHINGTON—There's a peculiar wrinkle in the GI Bill of Rights of which a smart veteran might want to take advantage.

As the law is now written, a high school graduate veteran who can lay claim to the full amount of free education can get through four years of college and to within one year or less of a law degree, all within the allowed time limit.

Here's why and how:

Four years is the maximum time any veteran may get free schooling under the GI Bill.

Four years is four years. . . or is it? A school year is only eight or nine months. A calendar year is 12. But the four years allowed under the law are calendar years.

Now then, for each "ordinary school year" the government will pay up to $500 for tuition and other essential fees. That raises the question: How long is an "ordinary school year"?

Veterans administration has decreed that an ordinary school year is from 20 to 38 weeks.

Before the war few colleges or universities allowed students to complete more than one school year in one calendar year.

But wartime lack of doctors, engineers and other specialists forced many schools to give year-around training.

Some schools which tried the heavy duty curriculum may retain it.

So, instead of using up his four allowance calendar years, the veteran can zoom through a "four-year course" in about two and a half years by cranking "normal school years" into that time. That leaves him a year and a half or so to get a start and almost a finish on a post graduate course. Of course he won't get any vacations to speak of.

ANOTHER item, interesting to school-bound vets is the fact that credit for at least one semester's work will go to the average ex-GI.

After the last war American educators endorsed a program which gave a certain amount of blanket credit to all veterans. In many cases too much credit was given, and 42 per cent of all veterans who went back to duty with the books were forced to quit. They had been allowed to get in over their heads.

Sanford should overlook no bet in having an entry in the Florida State League. This is, per capita, the best baseball town in the state.

We see where the OPA has made more fabrics available for children's clothing. Now all they have got to do is get some one to work on them before the children are naked.

Tomoyuki Yamashita, the "Tiger of Malaya," was evidently a tiger only in dealing with women and children, observes the Sanford Herald editor. We suggest "Hold That Tiger" as an appropriate theme song for the Yamashita trial.—Miami Post.

Somebody slipped up when a large chunk of federal funds for the development of Florida rivers and harbors, much of it on the St. Johns, was eliminated from the deficiency supply bill. Local officials should find out how come and get something done about it.

Governor Caldwell, who as a congressman may have supported President Roosevelt on much of his New Deal legislation, certainly is no 100 percent. He is recently quoted by Allan Morris as saying, "I have no patience with the efforts of President Roosevelt to defeat Senators George Smith and Gillette, and I certainly have no intention of in any way interfering with any race in this state." The Governor was speaking of reported "purge" of three Florida state senators.

Newspaper and radio correspondents are sore at President Truman because he flew out to Missouri to see his mother last Sunday without letting them know anything about it. They contend that everything the President says and does is of importance to the American people and that they should be properly advised of his every move. There is, of course, something to this point of view, but it seems to us sometimes that reporters take their jobs too seriously. Everything of an official nature a President does is of interest to the people, but it does look as if he could go visit his mother without creating an uproar.

Among other suggestions which have been turned into this office for the disposition of the Sanford Naval Air Station is one to make a sanitarium out of it for the benefit of war weary veterans of industry or the armed services, or elderly people who wish to escape the rigors of northern winters, a sort of modified Battle Creek Sanitarium, or White Sulphur Springs (and incidentally, we have the sulphur springs too). That is a suggestion some of our more enterprising local doctors might well consider. They have a hospital, a sanitarium, an administration building, rooms where the barracks which could easily be converted to civilian use, plenty of recreational facilities and a lot of fine club houses. What

Longevity

The American people have a rich opportunity to raise their average length of life to 70 years in the near future, says the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The average lifetime in this country, it notes, has already been increased by one-third in the last half century, and is now 65 years.

"Already plans are under way in many areas of the country," says the company, "for the expansion of health facilities and services, and for broadening and intensifying medical research. Even during the war period extensive benefits were being derived from the use of sulfa drugs, penicillin, blood plasma, blood albumen, and other recent discoveries. The more widespread application of these effective medical weapons and of developments in the science of nutrition will undoubtedly reduce still further the toll of preventable death."

The prevention of accidents, the conquest of cancer, and greater attention to diseases of the heart and arteries will go far toward bringing the average length of life to 70 years.

"Accidents", the company reports, "overshadow by a wide margin every other cause of death throughout the greater part of life among white males. In the broad age range 1 to 44 years, accidents constitute almost one third of the deaths from all causes among these men; in the decade of life from 15 to 24 years, the proportion is as much as one half. Even among girls and young women the loss of life from accidents is large. It is clearly urgent that in the extensive building and reconversion program now getting under way, safety receive prime consideration."

Diseases and conditions typical of later life, particularly cancer and the diseases of the heart and arteries, it is expected, will receive increasing attention from medical and public health administrators. From the viewpoint of life conservation, it is important to note that even at the relatively young ages these causes take a large toll of life.

"Cancer, for example, accounts for one death in every ten among white women at ages 25 to 34; in the broad age range 35 to 64 years, the disease is the leading cause of death, accounting for one death in every four," the statisticians note.

"The reward we are seeking in these efforts to promote health is not just a longer lifetime. But, along with these added years of life, the goal should be to extend our years of physical and mental well-being. In this way, we can add greatly to the general welfare and to the joy of life generally," the company concludes.

Letting George Govern

Is American government a system of rule by minorities? It seems so, as shown by this year's city elections. In Cleveland, for example, only half the voters who chose between Roosevelt and Dewey bothered to vote for mayor. The winner got two-thirds of that half, or one third of the electorate.

And this does not tell the whole story, because many thousands eligible voters did not come out even for the presidential race. Nor was Cleveland alone in this poor showing. Almost every city, except perhaps Detroit where the hot labor fight brought out a big vote, chose its government by a small minority of electors.

An encouraging interpretation of this meager vote was given by Ralph Kelly, a Cleveland newspaperman. He attributes it to the great improvement in city government over the years. With the administration satisfactory and no particularly bad candidate up, many people thought it unnecessary to vote.

Yet in the long run government cannot be left to the other fellow. If the American citizen will not trouble himself even to vote, he has no right to protest if something happens which he doesn't like.

Tax-Free

The gross receipts of organizations in this country exempt from federal taxation are reported as totaling more than $6,000,000,000, which looks to most citizens like a lot of money. And indeed, the government itself may decide to take a slice out of it sooner or later.

It isn't so impressive, however, when you find that the taxable corporations have a valuation of about $206,000,000,000.

Even so, with the expenses of government rising as they do from year to year and decade to decade, it may not be long until big tax-exempt organizations such as labor unions, farm cooperatives and other comparable institutions will find the government trying to get at their soft insides to support the ever expanding federal government.

Swiss Furloughs Proving Popular With ETO Yanks

BY HENRY W. BAGLEY
 AP Newsfeatures
 LUCERNE, Switzerland — Switzerland means watches and scenery to most of the more than 100,000 GIs and American officers who have had seven days in this peaceful little country under the Army's Swiss leave program. About 1,000 a day enter the country.

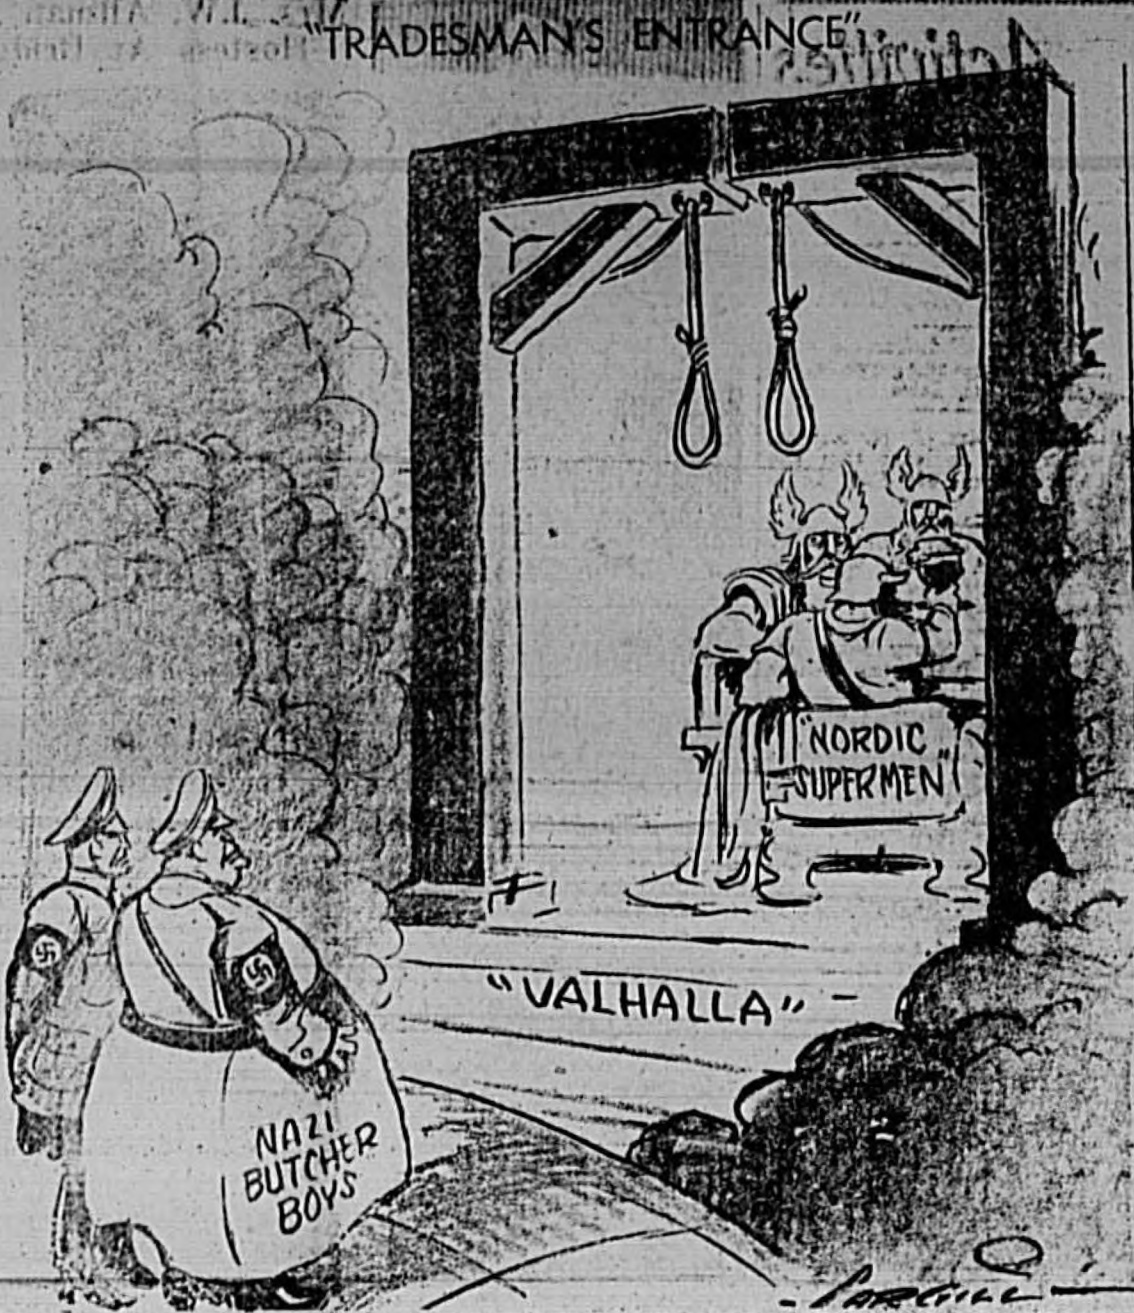

Of course, it means other things too—like good beer at low prices, the so-called "European" breakfasts, woodcarvings, casinos with roulette tables, the pleasant, neat people. And most of the men rave about the snow-capped mountains, the lakes, the valleys, the trim chalets with their neat yards.

There are several different tours. Which tour you shall take is determined by chance, but almost everybody is satisfied. It costs $35 (U.S.) for transportation (all by train), board and lodging.

One shock to the soldier visitor is that he must pay 1 franc 50 centimes (officially about 35 cents) to take a bath.

To enable the tourists to buy snacks between meals, the Swiss issue them 12 food coupons apiece.

Tightest restriction, however, is the limitation of 200 francs permitted to any man ($40). That is all he is supposed to spend in Switzerland, for the Swiss do not want to be bought out of essentials.

Inside WASHINGTON

Bob Benchley's Satire Too Much for Admirals? Penny Hoard Lays' Rail, Unions' Own Discipline.

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The Navy department, it is learned authoritatively, is withholding for the time being a humorous short motion picture prepared by its own staff and dealing with the discharge of personnel.

Reason for the Navy's hesitation? The film, featuring screen funnyman Robert Benchley as a gob about to be discharged, pokes too much fun at admirals, Navy gold braiders believe. At any rate, the bigwig is subject to plenty of leg-pulling.

In the film, Benchley plays numerous roles, from gob to admiral. In his admiral's uniform, almost completely covered with medals and gold braid, the comedian gives the Navy fits.

Nevertheless, in accordance with the movie's purpose, he makes the sailor about to go on permanent shore leave proud of the fact that he was a Navy fighting man.

Big question: Will the Navy decide to let it go to discharge stations? It hasn't yet, but the admirals may give it the green light.

The exercise of strict discipline prevent hair-trigger actions and wildcat strikes, and all issues, no matter how knotty, eventually are ironed out in an orderly and peaceable fashion, Clement asserted.

AT PROPOSAL THAT BOB STRIPLING, former chief investigator for the old Dies committee, be hired has been rejected by the House un-American activities committee. It voted five to four against placing Stripling on its investigatory staff. Instead, it decided to ask the Army where Stripling has been for the past nine months, to loan him to the committee for 60 days.

This the Army rejected, but offered to release Stripling entirely if the committee wished to hire him full time. Present location of Stripling (probably for some time) Fort Meade, Md.

THERE ARE PRIVIES (and privies, but what? Rep. Robert B. Chipfield (R) of Illinois, objects to is having the United States finance their construction, in South America, as part of the good neighbor policy.

It all came out when Francis Jamison, assistant director of the Office of Inter-American Affairs, testified before the House foreign affairs committee. Jamison explained that the program of his office was initiated to bolster United States security.

"Why should we spend hundreds and thousands for such a purpose?" asked Chipfield. "Is that for security?" Jamison replied that he had no knowledge of the project although it was listed in a report issued by his agency.

During the discussion, Chipfield, suddenly remembering that three members of the committee were women, said hurriedly, "Maybe I shouldn't have mentioned this."

Said Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas (D) of California: "If this government did spend money in constructing privies" (and she stressed the word), "I am certain that we have been repaid one thousand fold in the betterment of health."

And that was that.

Miss Winona Purvis Weds Lieut. Meyer

Miss Winona Margaret Purvis, daughter of Mrs. Annie Mae Purvis of Tampa and Ashley Purvis, was married to Lieut. Oliver W. Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Meyer of Cleveland, Wis., in a beautiful double ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church Sunday at 12:30 P. M. with the Rev. W.P. Brooks Jr. officiating.
The church was decorated with tall baskets of white chrysanthemums, jasmines and ferns. Mrs. F. S. Verney played soft nuptial music and Miss Patricia Hurst of Tampa sang "I Love You Truly."
The bride, lovely brunette, was given in marriage by L.O. Hunter. She chose to wear a long gown of white organza with a full skirt with lace insets. The sleeves were long, buttoned at the wrist and the light fitting bodice was highlighted by a sweetheart neckline. She wore a Juliet cap of seed pearls from which fell a white veil. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.
The matron of honor, Mrs. Toni Nooney, was dressed in blue tulle with a long full net skirt with puffed sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. She carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. Mrs. John L. Cullum and Mrs. Thomas Ratliff Jr., bridesmaids, wore similar dresses of pink tulle and carried bouquets of lily of the valley. Mrs. John Claffey, bridesmaid, wore a similar dress of blue tulle and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The tiny flower girls, Betty Ann Long and Joyce Ann Cullum, were dressed in yellow and carried bouquets of lily of the valley. The ring bearer, John Claffey, wore a similar dress of blue tulle and carried a ring box. The bride's mother wore a Navy blue suit with black accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses. The groom's mother wore a yellow and white dress with a corsage of salmon roses. The bride's bridesmaids wore a corsage of sweetheart roses.

TERRACE TALK

Tuesday afternoon BILLY TOOKER was haunting the Post Office ... the former MARLINE TOIRANCE was in town with her husband FRONIE from Charlotte, N. C. just visiting with old Sanford friends ... MRS. F. A. DYSON was selling bonds in Yowells ... MRS. WHEELESS was shopping industriously ... MRS. SMITH would be home for the weekend ... She will celebrate her birthday Thursday and just couldn't wait until Xmas to visit home ... Don't know whether you remember the wave Lieut. KUTH RINNANT she was in town in civies and looking very happy about it all ... also heard that BILLY THIGPEN'S doctor cousin was thru Sanford recently ... By the way have you seen BILLY THIGPEN?? He looks wonderful and so does CHARLOTTE his wife ... Yowells is buzzing with Fashion Show news ... some of the clothes are "plum out of this world" ... Buy a bond and come on out for a picture show, fashion show, NAB Sanford orchestra, some Navy rank will give out and all in all it promises to be good ... When the orchestra starts playing the "Jumpin' Jive" you'll love your seat and cut a caper ... the Cotton Club will sponsor a subscription bridge party at the Woman's Club Dec. 5 and they hope to have at least thirty tables playing ... also the club will give a dance the Friday night before Xmas at the Woman's Club just to pep things along during the holidays you know how it is ...
With feeling by Kay Riley goes like this ... Feelings on a wife's new lid often would be better hid ... Screaming at him on the phone gets you nowhere but ... Love in public is the stuff of which folks have had enough ... Letting games get in your hair leaves you playing solitaire ... C.E.T.

Former Secretary Of Labor Embarks On Writing Career

By ADELMAIDE KERR
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Frances Perkins at 63 is embarking on a new career as a writer and university lecturer.
After 12 such stormy years as she weathered in the cabinet, most people would be glad to sit still. But less than three months after she resigned as Secretary of Labor she sailed for Paris to represent Uncle Sam at the convening of the International Labor Organization Oct. 15.
At the same time she began a weekly 500-word column to be distributed by the Institute for American Democracy. The Institute was founded two years ago for the purpose of furthering unity among the American people, irrespective of race, creed or color. For the past two years it has distributed to the religious, social and house-organ press a weekly release dealing with subjects affecting American unity.
"Miss Perkins' column, entitled "Working It Out," and dealing with the relation of reconstruction problems to unity, will be distributed in similar manner to the labor press, free of charge. The Institute said, however, that Miss Perkins would be paid for the column, though neither its representatives nor Miss Perkins would say how much.
"The column will cover anything I think labor will be interested in, including such legislation as comes up," Miss Perkins said just before she sailed. "The labor press is becoming more and more important as a liaison between labor unions and the public. I should feel bad if my way of life should have no contact with labor."
"As I see it, what we are trying to do in this country is to improve our democracy. If we are to be creative about this, we must do it in a way that takes account of men's habits and aspirations."
The former secretary said that during her sojourn in Paris the ILO would consider amendments to the organization's constitution and its relations to the general working conditions and minimum standards.
Soon after her return to the United States Miss Perkins will begin a lecture series on Labor relations problems at Hattis University. She said that she had also received invitations to lecture at other universities and probably would accept at least one. For the present she will continue to make her home in Washington, where she lives with her husband, Paul C. Nelson financial statistician.
Miss Perkins gives evidence of embarking on a new life in many ways. She has shed her famous three colored hat and donned a black beret. Her black frock, once as sober and severe as a judge's robe, is now trimmed with an open-work white collar backed with bright red. Her conversation, always swift as a river, is less measured now and liberally seasoned with smiles and jokes.

IN PRIVATE LIFE she's known as Libby Walker, but come the Orange Bowl game in Miami New Year's Day, the shapely miss will be a person of royalty. Libby has just been chosen "Queen of the Orange Bowl" to reign over the grid-iron classic. (International)

RETURNING HOME on Thanksgiving Day from two years of fighting overseas, Wallace Brzezinski, 26, asked for police custody at Detroit, Mich., saying he wanted only to be kept from killing "that other guy."

He told police he found his wife at a sister's home, learned she had recently become a mother, and heard Anthony Novik admit being the father. They fought, and Novik was held for assault. (International) rate he is making some headway. Officials of the organization also report that plans are under way to make various alterations and improvements to the club house.

The living room and the dining room of the club house have already been repainted, the former in Williamsburg blue, the latter in orchid color. A porch is to be built on the front, the side porch will be glassed in, and a new addition including kitchen, ladies' locker room, powder room and storage room will be built in the rear, the present kitchen being torn down. Eventually it is expected that some additional improvements will be made.

We're certainly glad to see these improvements made and we feel confident that the club will be quite successful and many years ago that goes like this: "Be ye doers of the world and not hearers only."

The club membership fees will run about $60 per year. However, this includes greens fees and clubhouse privileges. Fees for club privileges alone will be approximately $30 per year. Greens fees for non-members will be $2.00 per day.

This is just an example of what can be done when the right people get behind a movement. We're always contented that Sanford and its people can produce the goods. There's a little bible verse we carried many years ago that goes like this: "Be ye doers of the world and not hearers only."

SHORT SHOTS
We hope to see many baseball fans at the meeting Friday night when the organization of a local association will be attempted. Charlie Morrison promises us a good story about Frankie Kovars' with-in a few days.

DR. DOSS is giving out with the elbow grade in promoting the Lions Club football game between Sanford and Gainesville. Central Florida football fans may as well be on the lookout for more football next year as there's talk in Central Florida in favor of organizing a Central Florida pro football league to operate at Brooklynn to operate that baseball school here. He says the plans have been sent on to Branch Riecky and they're practically what he ordered. We hope to see Kettles' eleven smash Leesburg by at least 30 points tonight.

Krider, Stenstrom Arrange Baseball Meeting On Friday

John Krider and Julian Stenstrom, who have been representing Sanford baseball interest, met this morning in the reorganization offices of the Florida State League, having called a meeting of local baseball fans to be held Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at the City Hall.

West Point Star From Florida Wins Influenza Battle

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 28, (AP)—Army's gridiron coaches are breathing easier today because a Florida football star is winning a battle against the flu. That same star, Glenn Tucker, has shown how highly the Cadets regard Arnold Tucker, of Miami their field general and chief passer. Overlooked in the attention focused on the West Point touchdown twins—Glenn Davis and "Doc" Blanchard—Tucker, key man of the Cadet polished "T" machine, was the cause of much anxiety yesterday when he was hospitalized with the flu. For a while when his temperature soared to 102 it looked like the 21-year-old quarterback might miss the big game with the Navy in Philadelphia Saturday. But late in the afternoon the team physician reported that Tucker's temperature had gone down and that the grid star would be released from the hospital by Thursday at the latest.

Tucker who was a third stringer last year has come along so fast this season that Coach Earl Blaik rates him above Doug Kenney and Tom Lombardo, of the first and second strings last year. Blaik says the "rest" of the team can't operate if Tucker doesn't operate. He is by far the best man under center we have had here. He has done a magnificent job. He passes well, he's a good runner, a good tackler and a good blocker.

Tucker has done most of the passing for the Cadets this season and the team's completion mark is well over 500.

EARTHQUAKE REPORTED BOMBAY, Nov. 28, (AP)—A severe earthquake has been reported by the Bombay and New Delhi observatories. The seismologists say the center of the quake was believed to be out at sea. The shock registered on seismographs in both hemispheres—in London, in Argentina, and at Weston, Mass. It occurred at 6:23, this morning, Bombay time, which was 5:29, last night, E.S.T.

Snakes that are most active at night have evolved special structures in the eye that enable them to see in dim light.

Local Eleven Meets Leesburg Tonight

Crutch Grove Kettles' Seminole delivery fell out to Leesburg tonight when they will meet the Yellow Jackets in the 11th regularly scheduled tilt of the season.

Kettles did not announce his definite starting lineup but stated that in all probability he will use the same eleven that began the Bolles contest.

The presence of fumes in the mouth of a snake is the only certain means of deciding whether it is venomous or not.

Florida Boys Will Lead Army, Navy Elevens Saturday

By FRANK ECK AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer NEW YORK—When unbeaten Army meets undefeated but once Red Navy in the No. 1 football game of the year at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, Saturday, Dec. 1, the last two players who handled the pigskin in the climatic 1944 clash will do most of the ball handling.

They are young Arnold Tucker of Army and C. Bruce Smith of Navy, quarterbacks of their teams and the men responsible for making the T click at the respective service academies.

Both Tucker and Smith were teammates at Miami High in 1942 and although Smith has one entire season at Tucker in the time of college football, Tucker is more advanced in the T formation. He was third string last year.

Navy adopted the T this fall and it was a new experience for Smith. It was not until the last two games that Comdr. Oscar Habberg, Navy coach, decided to start Smith behind center in place of Bob Huerschemeyer.

Smith produced with startling results, Navy showing its scoring punch for the first time this season with 35-7 and 38-7 victories over Michigan and Wisconsin, respectively.

Thus, it will be a battle of quarterback deception with Tucker and Smith at the controls. While Army has not been beaten since Navy turned the trick at West Point in 1943 by 13-0 and figures to win almost as it pleases, even against its arch foe, Navy is expected to be "up" for this one.

Since the soldiers are rated the greatest collection ever to grace a gridiron the Middles have everything to gain and nothing to lose. With Blanchard and Davis, the Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside of All-America fame, getting most of the glory—and deserving it—Army's march to 18 straight triumphs, the deeds of Tucker have been somewhat overshadowed.

Everyone fails to realize that Tucker, called the West Point signals, is the cha who gets the ball from center and the same one who hands it to Blanchard and Davis.

Tucker and Smith were just about everything when they teamed at Miami High. Smith captained the team and Tucker scored 122 points in nine games. Smith received a trophy as the school's most valuable athlete.

Both selected military life, Smith going to Annapolis in 1943 while Tucker became a Navy V-12 student at Miami University.
