New City Manager Prepares To Tackle Water Woes

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary's new city manager, Kathy Rice, will report for duty on Oct. 28. And when she does, she will be prepared to tackle the city's water problem as her first priority.

Mrs. Rice, 36, said she is researching what has been done about the city acquiring its own water supply. She also plans to attend the Oct. 27 city commission meeting with developers on the water issue.

She is also gathering information on utilities available to her at the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council office where she is principal planner.

"I plan to be prepared for that meeting on the 27th by knowing what we need to do and what it will cost," she said.

After buying water from Sanford under contract for the past seven years, Lake Mary was asked last summer to acquire its own water supply. Sanford officials urged Lake Mary to go it alone.

Since her appointment Oct. 6, Mrs. Rice has spent an afternoon in Lake Mary touring the community and learning its boundaries and she has attended a meeting of the planning and zoning commission.

Mrs. Rice is also reading and learning the city's zoning regulations and ordinances.

"The people at city hall have been helping pull things together for me and helping me prioritize. They are a really sharp bunch of people," she said.

She will be in the audience at the city commission meeting on Thursday evening and at the planning and zoning commission meeting on the 25th. She said she will also attend as much as possible seminars on growth management sponsored by the University of Central Florida on Oct. 26 and 27 at Lake Buena Vista.

"I was not able to go to the Florida League of Cities conference last week except for one dinner meeting because of the constraints of my present job," Mrs. Rice said.

Mrs. Rice is Lake Mary's second city manager and the first woman in Seminole County to hold a permanent city manager position. Two others were acting city managers while permanent ones were sought.

They were then-City Clerk Mary Hawthorne of Casselberry and Lake Mary City Clerk Connie Major, who continues to oversee city operations until Mrs. Rice arrives on the job. Mrs. Major has served in the acting capacity since the first city manager Phil Kulbes resigned in June for personal reasons.

Mrs. Rice holds a masters degree in public administration from the University of Georgia at Athens.

Restraint Of Trade?

Suit Alleges Realty Firms, Developer Illegal Tie-In

A pair of Seminole County real estate firms and a development company have been charged with restraint of trade in U.S. District Court in Orlando.

Attorney James Turner said "illegal tie-in" arrangements between the three firms for mandatory commissions at Springs Landings off Markham Woods Road near Longwood, violate federal antitrust laws.

The defendants in the suit are Emerson & Herod Realty, Springs Realty Inc., and Springs Landing Venture, a partnership of A.S.F. Inc. and Downs Properties Inc.

Turner said lot-buyers have to pay commission twice on the purchase of their property. He said title to lots in the development was required to be taken initially by a builder, not the purchasers.

Lot sales were contingent on buyers signing an agreement to pay commissions on both the lot purchase and the contract price with the builder for construction of a house, Turner said.

He contends the tie-in forced the couples to pay exorbitant commission charges on the lots, in effect, causing them to pay commission twice on the purchase of the lots.

Turner represents three couples — Kenneth V. and Linda R. Bevan, William and Becky N. Brushwood and Terence and Odalia S. Canfield — who purchased lots for homes in the development.

Two of the couples paid six percent commission for the lots and a second six percent commission on the combined value of the lot and the home. The third couple paid a six percent commission on their lot but only three percent on the combined house-lot package because the buyer was a licensed realtor and acted as co-broker in the deal.

Turner said the suit falls under federal laws because lots are sold to out-of-state buyers, services and materials from out-of-state suppliers are used in construction of the homes, a substantial amount of the money used for purchasing the lots came from federal mortgages and negotiations to purchase the lots took place by telephone and through the mail.

No hearing date has been set in the case, which has been assigned to U.S. District Court Judge John Reed.

William North, chief legal counsel for the National Association of Realtors, said he is not familiar with the case but believes it is not unusual for a developer to cover his marketing costs through commissions to a real estate firm. But he added the arrangement can be structured to avoid antitrust problems.

Mayanne DOWns, president of Springs Realty, said the commission arrangement is a common practice in this area.

Metric Signs Of The Times

If you knock down a speed limit sign along a Florida highway, when it is repaired or a new sign put up to replace it, you will find something new has been added. Speed limit signs are getting a continental look.

The familiar 55 mph speed limit signs will soon be joined with the metric version of 88 kilometers per hour in compliance with a new law recently passed by the state Legislature.

Posted under the standard "miles-per-hour" signs, they will be gradually phased in as part of the routine maintenance to the present speed limit signs.

Department of Transportation Assistant District Maintenance Engineer William A. Young, whose office is in DeLand, said the metric signs will be phased in gradually as speed limit zones are changed or sign repairs and replacements are required.

"We're not going out and change them wholesale all at once," he said.

Florida DOT sign technician Michael Graff puts the final touches on a metric highway sign set to go up in Lake City.

Brain Tumor Killed Vet's Aide: Garay

The death of a 21-year-old Casselberry man was caused by a hemorrhaging brain tumor, not fluid in his lungs as originally thought, according to Seminole County Medical Examiner G.V. Garay.

The body of James Kinsloe, of 232 Bridal Path, Casselberry, was discovered the morning of Oct. 8 outside the Animal Clinic of Casselberry, 1025 Seminola Boulevard, where he was employed as an aide to veterinarian Dr. Alex Suero. Fellow employee Denise Caron found the body lying on the ground when she reported to work at 7:45 a.m.

He was believed to have died about 10 p.m. the night before. Foul play was ruled out in the preliminary autopsy findings, but a combination of a drug and alcohol was originally thought by Garay to be a possible cause of the pulmonary edema or fluid buildup in victim's lungs.

Kinsloe had pain from a long standing leg problem for which he sometimes took medication.

An analysis of tissue and blood samples by toxicologists at a laboratory at Orlando Regional Medical Center revealed only a trace of the drug Valium and only .10 percent blood-alcohol level. Garay said that was not enough to cause the fluid in the lungs, which was caused by the hemorrhaging.

Garay said the tumor, located as it was at a vital spot at the base of the brain, would have been inoperable even had it been diagnosed before it was too late. He said the tumor, a very rare type, could have been growing for as much as a year, but apparently been undetected because it was deep with in the brain tissue. He said the type of tumor sometimes grows very rapidly.

Rupert C. Kinsloe, of 1112 Winter Springs Boulevard, Winter Springs, said his son did not suffer from headaches as far as he knew.

Born in Miami, James moved to Winter Springs from there in 1962.—Jane Casselberry.

Service Fees Top Lake Mary Agenda

A special committee looking into the adequacy and equitability of various service fees in the city of Lake Mary may be ready with its report for action by the City Commission Thursday night.

The commission is scheduled to meet in workshop session at 7:30 p.m. and in formal session at 8 p.m. at city hall, 158 N. Country Club Road.

City Commissioner Harry Terry, who has been working with Commissioner Colin Keogh and Public Works Superintendent Jim Orioles on the project, said today a recommendation may be ready in time for the meeting.

The two matters being looked into specifically are water connection fees and fees for rezoning, site plan review and new development plat approvals.

While the agenda for the commission meeting two weeks ago included passage of an ordinance raising water connections fees about $200 across the board for all type lines, Terry asked that the issue be tabled for further study.

The increases were designed to include costs of impact of new development on the water system, but Terry said considering costs to the city for the various size lines, the impact fees were not uniform.

Terry said that he, Keogh and Orioles have held two meetings at city hall working on the recommendations because the information on actual costs is there.

The idea of impact fees, Terry said, is to provide funds for improvements required by new development rather than from those already living in the city and have not caused the impact.

"We've also been working on other fees," Terry said.

Humane Society Gets Custody Of Kennel Animals TODAY

By Charles Cobb
Herald Staff Writer

The Humane Society of Seminole County has been granted permanent custody of six animals seized at an Oviedo area kennel last August.

Seminole County Judge Alan Dickey ruled Monday that Laurian Spankie, owner of the Snow Hill Kennels and Plant Farm was "unable or unfit due to neglect to adequately care" for the six dogs that were seized at the kennel Aug. 25.

Gerald Korman, attorney for the Humane Society, said the Humane Society has already run up a bill of about $1,000 in feeding and caring for the animals.

Dickey said he would schedule a future hearing to determine the exact amount Mrs. Spankie owed the Humane Society for the animal's care.

The State Attorney's office has also filed nine counts of animal cruelty charges against Ms. Spankie. A date for this criminal trial has not yet been set.

Mrs. Spankie's attorney, J. Russell Hornsby, had filed a motion seeking a continuance of the civil trial to determine custody of the animals, but Dickey denied the motion at the hearing Monday.

"Based on the testimony I've heard and the pictures I've seen, Mrs. Spankie should not have custody of these animals," Dickey said.

Hornsby had requested that the civil trial be continued until the criminal charges against Mrs. Spankie were disposed of. Otherwise, he said, Mrs. Spankie should be granted immunity if she testified during the civil trial so that her testimony could not be used against her later in the civil trial.

But Dickey said he could find no justification for granting immunity to Mrs. Spankie or for continuing the civil trial.

On Monday Hornsby also requested a continuance of the civil trial until blood samples from the seized animals could be analyzed to determine if the animals were suffering from malnutrition.

But Korman charged that Hornsby was stalling for time and trying to reopen the case because he was not prepared when the trial began.

Dickey denied all motions to continue the trial.

"We are delighted with the outcome," said Helen Wolk, president of the Humane Society. She said the six dogs would be placed with private owners very soon. "We already have people waiting to adopt them," she said.

Authorities seized eight dogs and a kitten judged to need medical attention at Mrs. Spankie's kennel on County Road 428 northeast of Oviedo during an animal cruelty investigation and Humane Society representatives said the animals were abused and neglected.

Two of the dogs and the kitten have died. Mrs. Spankie's license to commercially board animals has been revoked.

Rebels Cut Off Key Salvadoran Town

United Press International
 Leftist rebels in El Salvador cut off a key city only 30 miles north of the capital and U.S.-backed guerrillas in Nicaragua threatened to destroy ships carrying petroleum in their drive to starve the Sandinista regime of vital oil supplies.
 Salvadoran authorities Monday closed schools and other public buildings and placed the 300 security forces in the city of Suchitoto on full alert, residents reported. Five miles outside the city, the rebels took control of the only road leading to Suchitoto and turned traffic away.
 The city guards the northern flank of San Salvador and is only 20 miles from two hydroelectric dams that provide electricity for more than 50 percent of the country. It has been besieged by rebels twice in the last year.
 In Nicaragua in the past six weeks, the guerrillas have destroyed nearly 4 million gallons of gasoline and diesel fuel in two separate raids on storage facilities.

North Says South Did It

TOKYO (UPI) — North Korea called South Korean President Chun Doo Hwan a "truculent murderer" today and accused him of masterminding the Rangoon bombing that killed 17 South Koreans, including top government members.
 The charge carried by the North Korean Central News Agency was the first accusing Chun of a part in the explosion. The broadcast reported the contents of an article in Rodong Sinmun, the newspaper of the ruling Workers Communist Party Central Committee.
 South Korea has accused North Korea of setting off the bomb Oct. 9, and U.S. officials have said circumstantial evidence pointed to Pyongyang.
 Following the explosion, which killed four South Korean cabinet ministers and other presidential aides, Chun reorganized his government and appointed a new Cabinet.

Shamir Chooses Hawk

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Overcoming coalition opposition, Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir designated a hawk with business interests in the occupied West Bank as the country's next finance minister charged with healing Israel's ailing economy.
 The 120-member Knesset, or parliament, must approve the choice of Yigal Cohen-Orgad, 46, as finance minister in a vote Israel Radio said was expected Tuesday. Non-ratification would be tantamount to a vote of no-confidence in Shamir's 8-day-old government.
 Orgad will replace Yoram Aridor who quit five days ago after his plan to link the economy to the U.S. dollar was disowned by Shamir.

IN BRIEF

PSC Splits With Feds Over Telephone Charge

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Public Service Commission Chairman Gerald Gunter says Florida will be fair when imposing its telephone access charge, while the Federal Communications Commission is being unfair.
 The PSC split with the FCC Monday, establishing the controversial new access charge as part of long distance rates, not local service rates.
 All Florida telephone subscribers won't pay the intrastate portion of the access charge necessary because of the breakup of giant American Telephone & Telegraph, although they will pay the $2 interstate charge established by the FCC earlier this year.
 The in-state charge will be collected from long distance customers and will be based on the amount of long distance service so that people making lots of calls will pay more than those making only a few calls.
 The permanent decision will be made after a final round of hearings beginning Nov. 7. The in-state access charge must be in place by next Jan. 1.

Shuttle Delay

Launch Now Set For Late November Or Early '84

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Space agency officials today considered a late-November blastoff or one early next year for the shuttle Columbia, which was pulled from its seaside launch pad to undergo repairs.
 In an unprecedented transfer, Columbia was removed from Pad 39-A Monday and carried on a giant land crawler to an assembly building so technicians can replace part of a potentially defective rocket booster.
 It was the first time a shuttle had to be returned from a launch pad for repairs. It was NASA's first "rollback" since Apollo 16 was taken from the pad in January 1972 because of fuel tank problems.
 The Columbia, carrying the $800 million European-built Spacelab in its cargo bay, had been scheduled for launch Oct. 28, but now will fly no earlier than Nov. 28.
 However, some project officials are pressing for a delay until Feb. 27 to meet the requirements of several of the 72 experiments planned for the nine-day mission.
 Some plasma physics experiments require night conditions over the Southern Hemisphere for auroral studies and such conditions will not exist in November, said Mary Jo Smith, Spacelab 1 project manager at NASA headquarters in Washington.

 Some astronomy and atmospheric studies experiments also require dark conditions elsewhere and they are limited in November.
 NASA officials are pushing for the late November blastoff to keep the shuttle launch schedule intact.
 Officials said a new launch date could be established as early as Wednesday when NASA administrator James Beggs confers with his counterpart in the European Space Agency.
 Columbia will carry a record six-man crew into orbit — mission commander John Young, copilot Brewster Shaw, and scientists Owen Garriott, Robert Parker, Byron Lichtenberg and Ulf Merbold, a West German physicist.
 Ironically, Young was commander of the Apollo 16 mission.
 Jim Bilodeau, head of crew training at the Johnson Space Center, said the crew will undergo some brush-up training during the next few weeks to keep sharp.

 Asked what the crew thought about the long delay, Bilodeau said, "I'm sure this didn't please John Young, but then he didn't want a bad booster either."
 Columbia's rocket booster problems surfaced last month when engineers discovered abnormal erosion on boosters that propelled the shuttle Challenger into flight on its August mission.
 The carbon insulation in one of Columbia's two boosters was made from the same batch as Challenger's. Engineers fear the insulation lining might be defective, so the nozzle on the right rocket booster will be replaced.
 Mission coordinator James Harrington said the Columbia will be detached from its rocket boosters and external tank by Wednesday. Crews then will move the spaceplane to a giant repair shed where the suspect nozzle will be replaced.
 Harrington said workers would have Columbia ready for a return to its launch pad by Nov. 10.

Attacks Aimed At Delaying Start Of Peace Talks

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Druze and Shiite snipers have escalated attacks on Lebanon's army, U.S. Marines and other peace-keeping forces to try to derail the start of peace talks among Lebanon's warring factions, officials said.
 The rebels, seeking greater power in the Christian-led government of President Amin Gemayel, killed a Lebanese soldier and a civilian in east Beirut Monday. An Italian soldier was wounded by cross-fire.

 Intense gunfire also forced Lebanese soldiers to close the main road to the U.S. base surrounding the Beirut airport.
 The guerrillas killed two Marines and wounded seven others in four days of attacks ending Sunday but the White House said the Marines would stay put "as long as the president thinks it's necessary," deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said.

Six Marines have been killed in combat and 56 wounded since the peace-keeping force arrived last year. A seventh Marine died in an accident clearing minefields.
 The Marines remained on a condition-2 alert, minimizing their exposure and wearing protective equipment.
 Beirut Radio also reported Druze mortar attacks on Souk El Gharb, the army-held Shouf Mountain town 8 miles southeast of Beirut that rebels tried for three weeks to overrun before the cease-fire.
 The talks among representatives of Lebanon's warring factions, plus observers from Syria and Saudi Arabia, are scheduled to begin Thursday.
 Representatives of the factions met last week and developed an agenda for the talks.

Anti-Nuke Protesters Target Consulates

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — West Germany's peace movement, staging a 10-day protest against new U.S. nuclear missiles, targeted weapons factories and American and Soviet consulates across the country for demonstrations today.
 The movement planned day-long protests outside the American and Soviet missions in Hamburg and Munich while in Bonn and Freiburg protesters prepared to march on West German arms export companies to demonstrate against weapons sales.
 A peace movement spokesman in Bonn said Monday the arms firms bore the responsibility for the "misery, death, and crippling of hundreds of people — especially those in the Third World."
 Other actions were planned for today in Hagover and in nearby Bergen-Hohne where peace protesters were to demonstrate outside a major NATO troop exercise area. In Fulda, anti-nuclear protesters scheduled protests outside U.S. military establishments.

 The 10 days of nationwide demonstrations, which began Thursday, are in protest of the scheduled NATO deployment of 572 U.S. cruise and Pershing-2 missiles in western Europe to begin in December unless there is progress at the U.S.-Soviet arms talks in Geneva.
 In an interview with Stern magazine Monday, Col.-Gen. Nikolai Chervov, Soviet Red Army general staff officer, warned the Soviet Union will deploy nuclear missiles capable of blasting targets in the United States if the NATO deployment goes ahead.
 In what Stern said was the first admission by a high-ranking Soviet official that there are Soviet nuclear weapons deployed outside Russia,

EPA Investigators Want To Carry Guns

ORLANDO (UPI) — Investigative agents working for the Environmental Protection Agency increasingly are confronting violent suspects and want Congress to grant them police powers including the right to carry guns.
 But some members of Congress who support the EPA request for powers akin to those of a U.S. Marshal are battling members of the Reagan administration who are reluctant to give the agents such authority.
 Attorney General William French Smith and other administration officials are weighing whether EPA agents should have police powers, administration officials said.
 Smith could simply grant those powers without congressional action, but if he does not, officials say Congress must amend 16 federal environmental laws to achieve the same end.
 "The question of a criminal investigation program at any place but the FBI raises government-wide issues," said Michael Brown, the criminal enforcement counsel for EPA.
 "As often as people tell me that U.S.D.A. (Department of Agriculture) inspectors carry guns, people in the federal government get nervous about a bunch of little law enforcement agents running around the various agencies carrying guns," Brown said.
 The resolution of the dispute could define the strength of a new federal program to prosecute those who violate the nation's environmental laws.
 Among the powers the EPA agents are requesting are the right to make arrests and serve search warrants.
 Internal agency documents detail 12 violent or potentially violent confrontations involving EPA agents since they began conducting criminal investigations into hazardous waste dumping in October 1982.

Vitamins Will Not Make You Energetic

DEAR DR. LAMB — I want to know what can be done about weakness. What could be causing it? The doctors say I'm OK, but they don't help me, so I'm disgusted with them.

The only suggestion I have is a lack of appetite. I eat slowly, chew well, but only one helping, not a too one, and it's always too much.

Do I lack some vitamins? What can I do to get rid of the feeling of weakness?

DEAR READER — I'm glad you had a medical examination. As many as 20 percent of the people who complain of fatigue do have a medical problem that causes it. That leaves about 80 percent who have fatigue and no medical cause can be found.

Since you mentioned your appetite, I would like to say that if a person doesn't eat enough he is likely to become fatigued. That is the problem with fad diets — they really do cause fatigue.

After all, your energy does come from the calories in your food. If you don't get enough calories, then you can't expect to feel energetic.

A deficient diet may lead to vitamin deficiencies. Vitamins do not give you energy as some people mistakenly think, but they are important in enzyme systems your body uses to break down your food and release energy that is in your food. Why not take a One-A-Day or multiple vitamin tablet to be sure you are getting your recommended daily allowance (RDA) of the various vitamins.

And you should know that a sense of fatigue is often a sign of boredom or dissatisfaction with life. Improving your social life often improves your energy level.

You will understand the problems of fatigue better after reading The Health

Letter 9-6, Fatigue: Feeling Tired and Weary, which I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Since becoming a vegetarian about a year ago I have gained 10 pounds. I have been eating a fair amount of nuts and grain dishes. Could this be the cause? If so, could you suggest another source of protein that would enable me to keep my weight under control?

DEAR READER — You have probably found the main reason for your weight gain. Nuts contain lots of calories. About 70 percent to 85 percent of their calories are from fat.

I hope you are a lacto-ovarian vegetarian. In that case you could get the complete protein you need from milk. And to keep the calories down you could use fortified skim milk or reconstituted non-fat dry milk powder. That would also give you a good source of calcium.

If not, your best source of complete protein would be soybeans. Or you could use a combination of mature bean seeds and corn.

Keep in mind that gain in body fat can also be from a decrease in physical activity.

Also I would like for you to check with your doctor and be sure you have not developed a deficiency of vitamin B-12, iron or calcium. These are apt to occur, particularly if you are a strict vegetarian and do not use any animal products such as milk.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

contract will make — possibly with an overtrick. Now let's see what happened to one unfortunate declarer in a duplicate game.

He had been taught to think before playing from dummy at trick one. This pause gave East a chance to do some thinking of his own. East knew from the two-diamond response to Stayman that declarer held fewer than four hearts. Could he hold just two? No! West's lead was standard — fourth best against no-trump — and only one heart lower than the four was missing.

Now East counted points. Dummy held 10. He held 10. Give South his 16 and West would hold exactly four. If the four points were two queens, game was sure. If the four points were the ace of hearts and East played king and then jack, South would surely duck.

Finally, a card was played from dummy and East played his jack, not the king. Poor South was afraid to let the jack hold, took his queen, lost a finesse to the king of clubs and went down when the defense cashed four heart tricks.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Three no-trump is a normal contract and the four of hearts a very normal lead against it.

Normal defense is for East to go up with his king and return the jack. Declarer will have a problem, but will probably solve it by ducking. West won't be able to do anything better than play low and the
