A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH, "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

There is one matter that I would like to call to the attention of the city council and that is the bulkhead. Before the entire lake front is bulkheaded there should be some provision made for the harbor of motor boats. We have long talked about the shelter that we would make for the protection of boats in Sanford and how nice it would be to protect the boats not only of the Sanford people but those that come to our docks in the winter and summer. As it is now if a strong blow comes up the owners of boats have to beat it for the rivets to protect their boats and we have never had an adequate harbor for boats of any kind. It is only a question of time after Sanford gets a real hotel that many boats will be anchored here all winter, for this city offers more to the man with the pleasure boat than any other section of the state and when the hotel is built there should be some provision made for the boats to tie up here. And the council should do this before any more bulkheading is done, because they may decide to take the end of Park avenue or some other street for the basin or harbor and after the bulkheading is done there will be no way to make it. The people who are doing the bulkheading would be glad to make this harbor as it would lessen the expense of dredging and they could probably be induced to make the harbor in the original contract and let it go at that. Will the citizens of Sanford please take this matter up with the city council and see if they cannot get action on it before it is too late.

She could not have been over thirty-three years of age, fair and in good health. About her were her children, five of them. The oldest must have been about eleven. The youngest was three or four. As robust a nest of fledglings as ever mother-bird protected with her wing. The mother had her brood out to the park, away from the rest of the people who came and went; out where the flickering leaves upon the trees above them checked the little folks with sunshine and shadow.

She was out for a few hours—all she could spare from home. She had taken the children for an airing, as she called it, for she was a mother who understands that heated houses of the city are not the best places for the young. And so she sat under a tree out in the park and watched her brood as only mothers watch. This one ventured too near a tiny pond, another found a dangerous plaything in the shape of a broken glass, and the mother had to take the thing away from the child. Still another of the youngsters sought more than his share of food that had been brought along, and that demanded the mother's attention.

In fact, a mother's attention is demanded at all times with a brood of children—and the demand is supplied. Across from the mother, unseen by her, unnoticed by the children, sat a philosopher. He watched the mother and her young—and meditated upon the sweetness of life. He looked into the future and saw the woman ten years hence, at forty-three, in the prime of womanhood, the center of a group of young men and women, the companion of her girls, the comforter of her boys. And the philosopher made a mental note of the glories of creation, and thought about how good it is to thus be mated early, and to bear the children in the youthful days, that the parents may have them and their society while yet in the vigor of life.

And the philosopher who has no children of his own, contrasted the happy mother with the women with whom he associates, with the frivolous, flighty things he meets in society, and with the heart-cold people who are married but who have no children. And he went about his way rejoicing that there are such mothers, for while he might count his own life a failure, he was philosopher enough to know that the world cannot be destroyed, nor the goodness of God wane, while there are such mothers. At least that is the way he talked to the Saunterer, and the sun shone brightly as he spoke.

The World Peace Foundation movement has received a terrific setback through the outbreak of the European war. But mayhap when the carnage is over and the sorrowing millions bend their aching backs to pay the enormous debt which will have accrued they may be in a state of mind to consider more seriously the beneficent value of a universal peace movement.

In discussing the question "What does the European war mean to the peace movement?" it is asserted that "it means that democracy should, as a result, be expected to increase in Europe, as democracy always has increased when bureaucratic government has overplayed its hand; that government policies of friction should consequently give way to other policies of conciliation, honesty and fair dealing among nations."

It means that there will at the end be called a European conference—a new conference of Vienna—or a new peace of Westphalia—from which we may hope that a new Europe will emerge, a Europe as different from the old as the Europe remade after Waterloo differed from the Europe of the days before the French revolution. But the new Europe is not likely to be changed so much in its geography as in its ideas of government. Even in Napoleon's time "the nations were too firmly set" for even that transcendent military genius.

In view of the fact that Sanford is to have a chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy and having so many questions asked about the Daughters by interested parties I give below the history of this great organization of southern ladies and repeat that every lady in Sanford who is eligible should join the Sanford chapter:

"We light on ruined shrines our sacred fires."

This organization is one of the most unique in the annals of the world.

"A great section of a great country," engaged in preserving a history without a parallel among nations.

It is one of the largest organizations of women in the United States and is still growing.

The objects of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, as stated in the constitution of the society, are "social, literary, historical and benevolent in every degree, without any political signification whatever."

The duties are manifold and in the phraseology of the constitution, are to fulfill the duties of Christian charity to survivors of the war between the states and those dependent upon them; to collect and preserve the material for a truthful history of the war; to protect historic places of the Confederacy; to regard the part taken by the southern women as well in unflinching courage after the war as in patient endurance of hardships and patriotic devotion during the struggle; to honor the memory of those who served and those who fell in the service of the Confederate States and to cherish the ties of friendship among members of the society.

The organization has now 1,380 chapters in the United States, north and south, and one chapter in the City of Mexico. The organization has 80,000 members.

The present officers are: Mrs. Daisy McLauren, president; Brandon, Miss; Mrs. B. B. Ross, first vice president, Auburn, Ala.; Mrs. W. T. Colbertson, second vice president, Kiowa, Okla.; Mrs. L. W. Falson, third vice president, Charlotte, N. C.; Mrs. F. M. Williams, recording secretary, Newton, N. C.; Mrs. Edward C. Schnabel, corresponding secretary, New Orleans, La.; Mrs. C. B. Tate, treasurer, Pulaski, Va.; Mrs. Orlando Halliburton, registrar, Little Rock, Ark.; Miss Mildred Rutherford, historian, Athens, Ga.; Mrs. John W. Tench, custodian of Cross of Honor, Gainesville, Fla.; Mrs. Frank A. Walke, custodian of Flags and Pennants, Norfolk, Va.

The history of the United States of the Confederacy, briefly stated, is this: 1862 Mrs. M. C. Goodlet, of Nashville, suggested a union of all the organizations of women throughout the south, the united organization to be known under the name and style of "Daughters of the Confederacy," and steps were immediately taken by her and others looking toward that end. A meeting of these various women's organizations of the southern states was held in Nashville in September, 1894 and from the gathering grew the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

To Mrs. M. C. Goodlet, a venerable and remarkable woman, belongs the honor of the inspiration and work that united in a body the scattered workers of a well loved and sacred cause.

There is one thing that I wish to bring to the attention of the people of Sanford who love their dogs better than they do their fellow men and also wish to bring it to the attention of Manager Herndon of the Star Theater and that is the practice of some people who bring all their dogs to the show every night and let them bother everybody in the theater as well as scratch their fleas off on the floors.

I have noticed this time and again until it has become the veriest nuisance and all that one can do now is to scratch fleas and you have no time to watch the pictures. There are many places now that will not allow dogs to be brought into their house. They are not allowed on the trains any more and many offices have signs that keep the dogs on the outside. If there is one thing more than any other that gives me a pain it is to see a bunch of dogs loitering around in every public place. It certainly shows that the owners are oblivious to the convenience and rights of the general public when they force their attentions of the kennels upon the people at every turn. It is a certain cinch that these dogs could just as well be left at home and it is up to the managers of the theaters to see that they are not allowed in the same room with the patrons of the house. If the owners of dogs have no respect for the rights of others they should be taught those rights by the managers of theaters, by the churches, by the proprietors of stores and every other public place where the allow the canines to run loose and bother everybody around them.

Another charming affair in children's circles last week was the birthday of Miss Margaret Zachary Friday afternoon.

The beautiful Zachary home was very lovely in its decorations of pink and white cut flowers and green ferns, the finishings of cherry and white of the wood work blending harmoniously with the color scheme of the decorations.

The dining table with its snowy cover was centered by a large vase of pink roses and ferns.

The dainty favors were pink and white baskets of candies.

In the progressive games Sidney Kennedy won the prize, a box of fine bon-bons.

Margaret was the recipient of many presents.

Those present were Margaret and Leander Berner, Dorothy and Edward Rumph, Lila and Sam Murrell, Gladys, John and George Wilson, Katherine Symes, Nina and Roy Howard, Corinne Stejneger, Addie and Ruth Marshall, Sidney Kennedy, Kinchin Powers, Eunice Devane, May, Julia, Arthur and Margaret Zachary.

In Honor of Robt. Morris

A most enjoyable and social affair was the celebration of the anniversary of the birth of Robert Morris, founder of the order of the Eastern Star, at the Robbins Nest Monday afternoon.

There was a large gathering of the Eastern Stars and their friends to enjoy the fine program of music and readings, rendered by the various members present. An informal address was made by Worthy Patron Haskins. The parlors were very attractive in their decorations of cut flowers and ferns, pink being the prevailing color.

Delicious punch and cake were served by the hostesses, Mesdames Robbins, Parker, Renfro and Biggers.

Out of town guests were Mesdames H. W. Clay of Tampa and Mrs. Thomas of Sefer.

Engagement Announced

The following appearing in the Atlanta Journal will be of interest to the people of Sanford:

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Morgan Howard of Barnesville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Viola Grace, to Mr. Leslie Tolar Bryan of Sanford, Fla., the wedding will take place October 23, at the First Baptist church.

Mr. Bryan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Y. Bryan of this city and holds a responsible position with the Peoples Bank.

Rose Meeting

The meeting of the rose committee and all members of the Woman's Club will be held at the Sanford House tomorrow afternoon (Wednesday) at 3:30. Mrs. Holden will be hostess for this meeting, which promises to be most interesting, as in addition to making of roses, plans for the new club quarters will be submitted. All members of the club are requested to be present.

Mrs. Minnie Jones was hostess last Wednesday afternoon and a very social time made nimble fingers fashion roses with celerity.

Birthday Parties

Albert P. Connelly, Jr., was the happy little host to twenty-five of his young friends last Wednesday afternoon in honor of his sixth birthday. Upon the playground at the back of his house many delightful games were enjoyed, in addition to the swings, horizontal bar and other playground devices for making little folks happy. The table with its beautiful birthday cake, decorated with white icing and pink tangles, upon which was inscribed Albert's name and age in pink was placed upon the lawn. Pink and white roses were used effectively among green ferns, giving a charming touch of color to the decorations.

Many lovely gifts testified to the popularity of the young host. Assisting Mrs. Connelly were Mesdames Claude Herndon, R. R. Deas and W. E. Housholder.

In Honor of Robt. Morris

A most enjoyable and social affair was the celebration of the anniversary of the birth of Robert Morris, founder of the order of the Eastern Star, at the Robbins Nest Monday afternoon.

There was a large gathering of the Eastern Stars and their friends to enjoy the fine program of music and readings, rendered by the various members present. An informal address was made by Worthy Patron Haskins. The parlors were very attractive in their decorations of cut flowers and ferns, pink being the prevailing color.

Delicious punch and cake were served by the hostesses, Mesdames Robbins, Parker, Renfro and Biggers.

Out of town guests were Mesdames H. W. Clay of Tampa and Mrs. Thomas of Sefer.

GOVERNOR TO THE FARMERS

ADVOCATES PLANTING OF FALL CROPS IN FLORIDA TO MEET DEMAND

Tallahassee, Sept. 4.—Governor Park Trammell has issued the following address to the farmers of Florida:

State of Florida Executive Chamber, Tallahassee, August 31, 1914. To the Farmers of Florida:

The great European war has furnished the people of Florida a lesson to which I ask the privilege of calling your attention.

The whole world is now suffering from the inflated price of foodstuffs resulting from the demoralization of the war.

The people of Florida have in their hands all the facilities necessary for supplying all of their own needs and the needs of many hundreds of thousands of other people in almost all articles of food and in meat products.

Florida has unsurpassed facilities for supplying the nation with fruits and vegetables, and our people, it is true, are annually improving these opportunities.

On the other hand Florida has vast undeveloped advantages and resources which ought to be turned to profitable account in the production of enormous staple crops and in furnishing a very large portion of our nation's meat supply.

Florida's farming industries are in their infancy as compared with what they will be when our people fully develop the state's possibilities.

We have the climate and the soil and the labor. We have the transportation facilities and the markets and could produce sufficient for our needs and a surplus for other markets. Yet the people of Florida annually pay to other sections hundreds of thousands of dollars for foodstuffs for man and beast.

The European war has aggravated and emphasized this situation. Our people are paying exorbitant prices for provisions which they can grow at home. The war may be indefinitely prolonged and prices continue to advance.

The wealth of the state of Florida will be increased by many millions of dollars and the independence and welfare of our farmers will be vastly enhanced if they will profit by the lesson now so forcibly before them and begin as soon as possible to cultivate food crops on a much larger scale, and to take advantage of Florida's unsurpassed advantages as a stock raising and meat producing state.

I hope that it will not be considered improper for me to suggest and urge upon the people of Florida who own or control land that they proceed at once to arrange for the planting and cultivation of as extensive fall food crops as their circumstances will permit, to the end that regardless of the duration of the great European war, there may be an abundance of such produce raised by our own people for home consumption and for sale in other markets. Such activity is bound to redound to the material, financial advantage of our farmers and to be of great benefit to all our citizens.

This very important matter is submitted for the serious consideration of all Floridians interested, directly or indirectly, in farming or fruit growing, in the confident belief that it opens the surest and easiest way to an increased prosperity and happiness.

PARK TRAMMELL, Governor.

Another New Railway

A special from Kissimmee says: C. H. Armstrong, president and engineer in chief of the South Florida and Gulf railroad, which will connect Keenanville and Bassenger, has returned from St. Paul.

He stated that engines and steel rails have been ordered, and were always on the way, and that work should be recommenced at once, and that he expected to complete the line by the end of the year.

This road when completed will open up a tremendous tract of virgin territory. The road is connected with the Kissimmee Valley Extension of the East Coast Extension, which runs straight south from Maytown to Okechobee.

WANT THE CITY TO SURRENDER OR BE DESTROYED

Another Bank Closes

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 4.—The American National Bank of Pensacola closed its doors Tuesday after a run lasting about an hour. Aroused by sensational reports circulated last night depositors flocked to the bank this morning. For some time after the banks were closed streets in front of the bank's ten story building were crowded. Officials of the bank have made no statement.

The bank had deposits of $1,715,000, according to the last annual statement. The capitalization is $300,000 and the surplus $35,000. On last January 1st its loans and discounts amounted to $2,000,000. C. W. Lamar is president of the institution and M. E. Clark cashier. The American National successfully weathered a severe financial storm a few months ago when the First National Bank closed its doors.

HARDWICK WON OUT FOR SENATE

WAS NOMINATED FOR THE SHORT TERM FROM GEORGIA

Macon, Ga., Sept. 4. Congressman Thomas W. Hardwick was nominated for the short term in the United States Senate to succeed the late Senator A. O. Bacon. A decisive vote was not cast until the fourteenth ballot.

After an all night session of the Georgia State Democratic convention which lasted for seventeen hours continuously the convention adjourned Tuesday night to meet again at noon.

Thirteen ballots were taken during the night, the last ballot before adjournment giving Hardwick 164; Slaton 112, Felder 93, Hutchens 4. Necessary to nominate, 188. Hardwick showed a gain from the beginning. The fourth ballot stood: Felder 1, Hardwick 146, Slaton 136, W. W. L. 1, Hardwick 136, Slaton 114 and Hutchens 11. From that time Hardwick's strength grew until he gathered in the necessary majority shortly after the convention met at noon today.

The convention was one of the most interesting political bodies to assemble in Georgia in many a day. Senator Hoke Smith was renominated to succeed himself, and Judge N. E. Harris was nominated by acclamation for Governor. Senator Smith's presence is believed to have had great influence in securing Hardwick's nomination. He was openly a supporter of the congressman against Governor Slaton and the other candidates for the short term to succeed Senator Bacon.

Hardwick was born December 9, 1872. His home is at Sandersville. He was twice a member of the Georgia legislature and is serving sixteenth successive term as a member of the lower house.

Carson May Enter Race

Kissimmee, Sept. 4.—The friends of the Hon. C. A. Carson of this city are strongly urging him to become a candidate for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Bryan, provided the latter is appointed United States Judge.

It is believed here that ex-Senator Carson would make a strong race before the people because he has so many friends and acquaintances both personal and political throughout the state, who are enthusiastic for him. This together with the fact that Senator Carson is the father of the present Railroad Commission bill having succeeded in having it put through both branches of the legislature in 1897, and having been chairman of the committee which perfected it in 1899, to conform to the constitutional amendment adopted in 1898, would make him very strong before the people. He also introduced in 1897 the primary election bill which became the first primary introduced in 1897 the primary election bill which became the first primary election law ever enacted in Florida.

RUSSIANS LAND IN GREAT BRITAIN TO FLANK GERMANS IN BELGIUM

NEXT FEW DAYS WILL BE FULL OF SURPRISES IN THE GREAT GAME OF WAR

London, Sept. 4, 10 a. m. Germans now at Senlis, twenty-five miles from Paris and threaten destruction of city unless ultimatum complied with.

Russian force of seventy two thousand landed Aberdeen from Archangel passed through England for Belgium other troops on way via same route.

Copenhagen, Sept. 4, 10 a. m. Czar promises repayment of Belgian indemnity with interest when exacted from Germany.

Petrograde (St. Petersburg), Sept. 4, 10 a. m. Russian reverses at Osterode not affecting advance, which continues flanking the great German force north of Vistula.

Paris, Sept. 4, 10 a. m. City guarded at night by fleet of aeroplanes.

London, England, Sept. 4.—In spite of the fact that the French capital has been removed to Bordeaux and that the German army of the west is within thirty miles of the outer fortifications of Paris, a strange air of confidence prevails today among the allies. The general feeling seems to be that the German attack is wearing itself out in hammering away at the allied lines which give but do not break.

A dispatch from Amiens, France, to the Daily Mail dated Tuesday, September 1, declares that the Germans have taken possession of Amiens after three days' fighting.

Amiens is the capital of the department of Somme. It is seventy miles directly north of Paris. It is a manufacturing city, and has a population of 90,000. It is on the line of the railroad to Boulogne, and about fifty miles to the west of LaFere and other points in the department of Aisne, where there has been fighting during the past few days.

A daily News correspondent dispatch from Gourmay En Bray, near Rouen says:

The German advance is amazing. A great battle is raging, with what result I know not, but I do know that the French and British armies are intact and still confident of ultimate success.

Incredible as it seems the tremendous masses of men that the Germans have hurled at the allies have not overwhelmed them. It seems that while the Germans have the weight the allies certainly have the wit and science and these, with reinforcements, will eventually win.

New Pope Elected

Rome, Sept. 4.—Cardinal Della Chiesa was elected Pope to succeed the late Pius X. He will assume the name of Benedict XV.

Cardinal Giacomo Chiesa was created Cardinal May 21 last, and is Archbishop of Bologna, Italy.

He was born at Pegli November 20, 1854, and was ordained priest, December 21, 1878, and has been connected with the Vatican in various capacities since 1883.

His appointment as Bishop of Bologna is said in Rome to have been for the purpose of combatting the modernists.

Monday Legal Holiday

The Sanford postoffice will be closed Monday on account of Labor Day. The office will be open from 8 to 10 a. m., and the carriers will make one delivery.

It being a national holiday the three banks of the city will also be closed. Coming on Monday will throw all business from Saturday to Tuesday.

FERTILIZERS ARE AWAY UP

GERMANY CONTROLS POTASH WHICH IS NECESSARY FOR THE LAND

The closing of the German manufacturers of potash fertilizer farmers are all at sea in regard to the future. Germany has control of the potash of the world, and all manufacturers of fertilizer depend upon it for this ingredient. No fertilizer for fruits and generally vegetables is of much value without a quota of potash. One of the leading manufacturers here stated that it would be impossible now to put more than three per cent of potash in what is known as ammonia fertilizer and two per cent in the alkali.

In Florida and all southern potato sections potash is very essential to a good crop. Hastings potato operators do not know what to expect for next season's planting. Not one of the leading fertilizer agencies in this city would give the News any direct information as to what to expect for next year. As a rule they claim that all their contracts for 1914 delivery were completed or the stock on hand for their completion, and up to this time they had not made contracts for 1915. Porto Rico depends largely upon fertilizer. From the Porto Rico Journal of Aug. 19 the following concerning fertilizers is taken:

"Prices of fertilizers, particularly anything with potash in it, are now on a war footing.

"Fruit growers and others who are large purchasers of fertilizers have been advised by local dealers that prices have been advanced, following instructions from the manufacturers in the states, and it is said to be doubtful whether any potash fertilizers will long be obtainable at any price.

"Germany has a monopoly on the commercial potash deposits of the world, and with the present war on, exports of potash from Germany are wholly suspended.

"One fertilizer representative in San Juan has received instructions from the manufacturer not to offer any fertilizers for sale that contain more than five units of potash.

"Potash fertilizers are used extensively by the fruit growers of the island, and particularly by the pineapple planters, to harden the fruit and add to its shipping and keeping qualities. It is also used by the citrus fruit growers for the same purpose.

"One fertilizer formula, applied to pineapples just before marketing, calls for thirteen units of potash. From now on, it is said, it will be next to impossible to buy this mixture, at least after present local stocks have been exhausted. And the price quoted by one dealer on this formula has jumped from approximately $45 per ton to $80.

"Small potash deposits recently have been discovered in Colorado and Idaho, but these deposits have not yet yielded a product suitable for commercial purposes.

"Recently another source of potash has been found in Kemp, or seaweed, and there is one small factory in California now making fertilizer potash from this source." — Produce News.

Death of Mrs. Corina Muller

Mrs. Louis Muller, wife of the family residence Wednesday, in the 76th year of her life and was buried at 3:30 p. m. Thursday. The funeral rites were performed by Rev. Father Rhinehart of Maitland.

Mrs. Muller was born in France but came to America in 1864, shortly after her marriage and has been a resident of Sanford for many, many years.

She leaves one son, Mr. Eugene Muller of Seattle, Washington and two daughters, Misses Louise and Eugenie Muller. The warmest sympathy of friends go out to the family in their hour of bereavement.

The pall bearers were Messrs. C. F. Haskins, E. E. Turner, Theo. Miller, Tim Keane, Ed Rourke and Dr. Mason. Many beautiful floral offerings testified to the love and esteem in which Mrs. Muller was held by her friends.

NEW RAILROAD COMMISSIONER

THE PRESENT BOARD DOES NOT GET RESULTS FOR THE SHIPPERS

From time to time the Reporter-Star has brought to the attention of the public the fact that the Florida Railroad Commission was responsible for the failure of the long and short haul act, passed by the legislature of 1913, to be put into effect. Although hearings were conducted at several points in the state several months ago the commission has never rendered a decision. The act remains on the statute books a dead letter. In its efforts to ascertain what's the matter the Reporter-Star asked Hon. Edwin Spencer, Jr., some time ago to tell what he knew about the disposition of the case. Mr. Spencer was the author of the long and short haul act and represented the Marion County Board of Trade before the commission when hearing on the act was held at Ocala. In a letter received today, Mr. Spencer says:

Lakeland, Fla., Aug. 28, '14. Mr. J. H. Reese, Editor, Orlando, Florida:

Friend Reese: Your letter received. I have been waiting for the board of trade of Marion county to furnish me with a transcript of the record of the testimony taken at the Ocala hearing before I made an effort to write anything for publication on the long and short haul matter. They have promised to do so. This testimony would furnish you with a most interesting insight into the situation. I do not understand how any body of men in the world could have heard the testimony introduced at Ocala, even on the side of the railroad companies, without making some effort to afford relief under the long and short haul act; furthermore, there is absolutely no reasonable excuse why the railroad commissioners should not act upon the question one way or the other. It is one of those impenetrable mysteries which I cannot fathom. I imagine that the only way to ever get relief is to elect new commissioners.

Whenever I am furnished the testimony I spoke of I will make the entire matter public through your paper and you can rest assured that it will make some interesting reading.

Hoping that you are making a great success of your newspaper, I beg to remain,

Your friend, EDWIN SPENCER.

Reporter-Star.

"Our waiting fortune in South American trade" is the way they are referring to the big opportunities for commercial expansion that are at hand. With an adequate merchant marine, we can bring abundant treasures from South America and, what is better still, establish a strong federation between the United States and the South American republics.

Friday evening. Messrs. Hasty and Balle made some inspiring music. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cameron and family are enjoying a fine new Ford auto. Mr. Cameron is at Tosahatchee ranch this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Muirhead are moving into their fine large new home on Brissan avenue this week. The house has large, airy rooms, upper and lower screened porches, wide verandas and all the up to date comforts that go to make a pleasant home.

Guy Randall, accompanied by Miss Erma Crimm from town were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Grier on Friday at their home in Cameron City.

A warehouse has been built at Brissan's station recently.

The estate of the late Oliver Mitchell has finally been settled to the satisfaction of all concerned.

WEST SIDE ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred King and little son, George Edward, spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Knight at Moore's station. Mrs. King and Mr. Knight spent their school days together in good old Georgia.

The convict camp, under the supervision of Mr. Bell has been moved out on the First street road on the hill near the spring, and at present are ditching on the Monroe road.

Mrs. James Smith and little Philip visited Mrs. Sheridan Jewett on Monday.

The W. S. Kemper family are expecting to remove to their old home in Kentucky. We are sorry to lose any one from our neighborhood, but wish them good luck in the change.

Mrs. D. H. C. Rabun was spending the afternoon with Mrs. McBride Friday.

Misses Ada and Avis Stenstrom were assisting the Jenkins firm in delivering groceries last Thursday.

Mr. Rabun and son, Carl were calling at Twin Lakes Sunday morning, and Mrs. King and son did the same stunt in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Barnhart are over at the beach for a few weeks.

Mrs. Ed Potter and children visited Mrs. Ben Smith Thursday.

R. Muse and family have returned from a visit to Lawtey, Fla.

Miss Ora Billingsley was calling on Mrs. King Monday afternoon.

Mrs. McBride had Miss Stenstrom out riding in her new Ford Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Billingsley was calling on Mrs. Smith Tuesday afternoon.

PAOLA POINTS

Mrs. Garwood and son, Roy have returned from their northern trip, and report a fine time and themselves much benefitted by the rest and change.

The men injured by the boiler explosion at Zachary's mill are all improving at latest accounts. That no one was killed seems almost a miracle.

Friends of Mrs. Josephine Dent, formerly of this place but now living at St. Petersburg will be sorry to hear that she has been seriously ill. She is somewhat better now and her speedy recovery is hoped for.

Mrs. F. A. Johnson and Miss Blanche Garwood, in spite of heat and dust "made a hike to Twin Lakes Plantation last Thursday afternoon, where their call was highly appreciated.

We are not bragging of the weather this week. It is intolerably hot, and as dry as a prohibition county ought to be, but generally isn't.

Mrs. Chilson and baby went to Geneva last Saturday to visit the home folks and Mr. Chilson joined them on Wednesday, but does not expect to stay but a day or two.

Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. Bridge and the Misses Pearson took their lunch

Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. Bridge and the Misses Pearson took their lunch baskets and spent the day at Twin Lakes Plantation on Wednesday.

The visit was in memory of Mrs. Pearson's birthday and the afternoon was spent in making beautiful her last resting place.

Inexpensive Joy.

The amount of joy in one's life is not at all dependent upon the amount of money one spends. A man can get just as much fun, for instance, out of lying about the height of his tomato plants as he can out of pursuing the same course with respect to his mileage per gallon of gasoline.

Average Consumption of Water. While the average amount of water used daily in the cities of the United States varies from 50 to 150 gallons per capita, there is an almost uniform consumption of a little more than half a gallon by each person for drinking purposes.

(Articles Published under this Heading furnished by M. P. A. Bureau, Jacksonville)

"Can It Be False?"

The above rather striking caption is the title of a book published by the Methodist Publishing House, South, which ought to be read by every churchman, of whatever faith. For a correct statement of facts and logical reasoning it surpasses anything of its kind I have ever read. Col. House, the author, himself a conspicuous churchman, speaks from wide experience and seasoned observation. Following is a few excerpts from the book:

"It has always proved an evil day for the church, when losing faith in the efficacy of the gospel to contend with the powers of darkness, she has stretched forth her hand to the state and asked her aid and assistance in suppressing evil and advancing the cause of God. The hand of Caesar has never been anointed by God to take charge of His church and lead it on to successful warfare against the sins of the world. And whenever the church seeks an alliance with the state to advance the kingdom of God and His righteousness, the result is a much larger infusion of the spirit of the world into the church than of the spirit of God into the world."

"Whenever the church in her struggles against the crimes and the wickedness of the times, falls back upon her entrenched position behind the word of God and calls on the state for reinforcements, the world derides her faith in God, and instead of advancing her cause by these forbidden means, she lowers her holy flag until the world no longer respects her sanctity."

"Whenever the minister of the gospel leaves his pulpit and mounts the stump to harangue promiscuous crowds as to how they ought to vote on questions of state polity, or stands in his pulpit and instead of dispensing the word of God, takes a text from the holy scripture, and warping it from its true meaning, compels it to do duty in enforcing some political question, telling his congregation how he proposes to vote on the question and endeavors to prove from his violated text how they ought to vote—whatever his motives may be, whatever evil he may seek to repress, whatever Christian virtue he may seek to promote, he will find in the end that he has inflicted upon himself and his sister's cause and injury far transcending any good he has been able to do by the more than questionable course he has seen fit to adopt. No matter what evils he desires to remove by indulging the state to pass laws for its suppression, he cannot pursue the course indicated without impairment of ministerial character and influence."

"If the suppression of sin, if the spread of the gospel, if the conversion of the world depended, on such laws, as the church might induce or compel the state to enact, the grave of Christianity would have been located so far in the dim and forgotten past that the finger of tradition would hesitate to point out the spot where it slept."

"The men who have been the instruments of the greatest reform and the profoundest results in their endeavors to establish the kingdom of heaven in the world have been those who, holding themselves aloof from all entangling alliances with political and civil affairs, have preached the gospel of Jesus Christ in its purity and simplicity. And when thus preached it has always proven to be, the power of God for the salvation of men from sin of every character."

RUSSIAN FORCES DEFEAT GERMANS

General Pau Victorious in Russian Poland

TEUTONS MOVE ON PARIS

General Battle is Said to Be Progressing All Along Line Between Kaiser's Soldiers and the Armies of the Allies.

A long official statement is issued by the French war office reviewing the operations in Belgium and along the French frontier. A new retirement by the allied forces is reported while at the same time the statement is optimistic with reference to the opposition which the French and British are offering to the German advance.

No definite details are forthcoming regarding the general battle which apparently is progressing all along the line.

The French war minister has inspected the supplementary defenses around Paris, which are being rapidly pushed forward in anticipation of a possible investment of the French capital.

An Antwerp dispatch credits General Pau with a victory over 50,000 Germans near Peronne. Whether this is a new victory or one to which reference was made several days ago is not known.

Queen Elizabeth of Belgium and her children have arrived in England.

According to official advices received at Washington, France is considering the advisability of moving the seat of government to Bordeaux.

Great Britain has joined France in objecting to the purchase by the United States of German liners in connection with the plan to build up an American merchant marine.

It is reported by steamship officers arriving at Honolulu that British warships off Hong Kong are holding up all vessels, including those under the American flag, and removing Germans and Austrians bound to the scene of hostilities.

The moratorium proclaimed at the outbreak of the war in Great Britain has been extended for another month. A Japanese destroyer, which ran ashore near Tsing-Tau, China, was shelled by a German gunboat. The crew of the destroyer, however, previously had abandoned her.

SURRENDERS RESERVISTS.

Germans and Austrians Taken From Vessels at Sea.

The American liners Manchuria and China, of the Pacific Mail Steamship company's Oriental fleet, were halted by British warships off Hong Kong and forced to surrender sixty German and Austrian reservists bound for the European war from the Philippines. This was the news brought by Captain Thompson and Purser Landers, of the China, which arrived at Honolulu, bound for San Francisco.

According to officers of the China, the Germans and Austrians before starting on their journey asked for and received assurances from Washington that they could not be molested on an American registered vessel. Then they took passage for San Francisco via Hong Kong, Shanghai, Nagasaki and Honolulu.

On arriving at Hong Kong the vessels were halted by ships of the British fleet, the passengers were summoned for inspection and required to give their nationality at the call of the purser's roll. Those who appeared to be Germans or Austrians and could not prove otherwise were taken to Stone Cutters Island for detention.

Two Germans aboard the China claimed Swiss citizenship and were not held. All the German residents of Hong Kong have been held, Captain Thompson reports.

Manila newspapers of August 4 confirm the captain's story.

NOT TO JOIN WAR.

Ambassador Thinks Italy Will Not Fight.

Commenting on dispatches which said that bombs had been dropped in Paris from a German aeroplane Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, said today that the people of Paris should not expect anything else, as Paris is a fortified city.

"All fortified cities will be stormed," he said. The bombs, he thought, had probably been directed at fortifications.

Count von Bernstorff was firmly of the opinion that Italy would not be drawn into the European conflict even if Turkey should go to war as an ally of Germany.

"I do not believe Italy will go to war," he said. "The Italian premier only a day or two ago announced Italy's neutrality."

McReynolds Confirmed.

The senate confirmed the nomination of Attorney General McReynolds to be an associate justice of the supreme court. Senators said the vote was "very decidedly" in favor of the confirmation. The senate also confirmed without a roll call the nomination of Thomas W. Gregory to be attorney general.

The vote on the McReynolds confirmation was 41 to 8.

Women and Gossip.

It is more important that a woman should be a good gossip, and tell plenty and smartly of common friends and the thousand and one nothings of the day and hour than that she should speak with the tongue of men and an gibe for awhile, together by the fire happens more frequently in marriage than the presence of a distinguished foreigner to dinner.—R. L. Stevenson.

Luck.

"Do you believe there is anything in luck?" asked a young man of a philosopher, and the philosopher replied: "Yes, there's a lot of intelligence and method and perseverance in it."—London Mail.

Giving.

Some people give according to their means and some according to their meanness.—Chicago News.

A Famous Victory

One of the most famous entries directed against war is the little poem written by Robert Southey, the English poet, many years ago. The poem was known to every school boy when the old fashioned readers were used in the public schools. Here it is:

It was a summer evening, Old Kaspar's work was done, And he before his cottage door Was sitting in the sun; And by him sported on the green His little grandchild, Wilhelm.

He saw her brother Peterkin Roll something large and round, Which he beside the rivulet, In playing there had found. He came to ask what he had found That was so large and smooth and round.

Old Kaspar took it from the boy, Who stood expectant by, And then the old man shook his head, And with a natural sigh, "Tis some poor fellow's skull," said he. "We fell in that great victory."

"Now tell us what 'twas all about," Young Peterkin he cries, "And where Wilhelm looks up at his grand old great-grandfather's eyes." "Now, tell us all about the war, And what they fought each other for."

"It was the English," Kaspar cried, "Who put the French to rout; But what they fought each other for I could not well make out. They every body said 'twas our, 'Twas a famous victory."

My father lived at Hlenheim then, A little steam-hauler he, Who hurried his dwelling to the coast. As he was bound to do, With his wife and child he fled, Nor had he where to rest his head.

With fire and sword the country round Was wasted far and wide, And many a childing mother then Had mourned her waiting eyes, "But, oh, my dear, that you know, must be a famous victory."

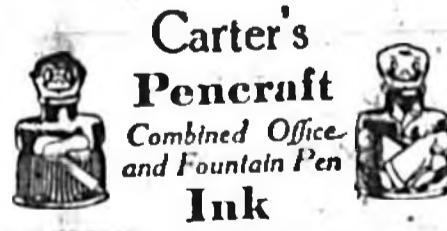

They said it was a shocking sight After the field was won, For many thousand bodies here Lay rotting in the sun. "But, oh, my dear, that you know, must be a famous victory."

So at praise the Duke of Marlborough won, And out upon the English, "I was a famous victory."

And everybody praised the duke Who this great fight did win, "And what good came of it at last?" "Quoth little Peterkin, "That I cannot tell," said he, "But 'twas a famous victory."

British Army Officers Locating the Enemy

England has the greatest navy in the world, but its army from a numerical standpoint ranks fifth. Germany, France, Russia and Austria-Hungary rank, in the order named, above Great Britain. In time of peace there are 254,500 men in the army. There are 470,500 reserves, or a total war strength of 730,000 men. However, there are available for duty 2,000,000 men.

THE SENATORIAL SITUATION

VACANCY CAUSED BY APPOINTMENT OF SENATOR BRYAN WILL CAUSE A SCRAMBLE FOR HIS JOB

MANY WILL BE CALLED BUT ONLY ONE WILL BE CHOSEN

The practical certainty of Senator N. P. Bryan being elevated to the bench of the federal appellate court with the resultant vacancy in his seat in Washington has been the constant theme of business men and politicians over the state since the movement was started to honor Florida's junior senator.

It seems practically certain already that Governor Park Trammell and Congressman Frank Clark will be applicants for the honor to be bestowed by the state in this direction, at the approaching November general election and there are rumors more than mere rumors that Congressman Stephen Sparkman and former Governor A. V. Gilchrist may also enter the contest.

Besides these it was formally announced yesterday that C. A. Carson of Kissimmee, one of South Florida's best known citizens, intended to enter the race in the event Bryan received the judgeship. If all these are entered it will cause in the state one of the most unusual political conditions that have arisen in many years, for allowing as it does a primary election in which both the congressmen spoken of were re-elected by their constituents by an overwhelming majority, it will be necessary in those two districts to go through a whirlwind campaign ending in a primary and certification for place on the electoral ballot of the November election.

It was openly discussed on the streets of this city yesterday and was generally conceded that if either or both congressmen enter the lists they will be badly hampered because of their having so recently accepted a full term trust at the hands of their constituents, it being argued that the constituency of both or either will have a right to take umbrage at the action of their chosen representatives in throwing them down after the expressions of desire and confidence, and causing in the congressional districts another campaign with all its attendant costs, worry and uncertainty, and the ultimate choosing of some man, who to say the most for him must undoubtedly be but the second choice of the district after the showing made in the June primary.

Many are ready to lay odds on the governor beating out the whole field for this one cause alone. Then, too, it was argued that the congressmen named have been busy with Washington affairs, and have not had time to get in close personal touch with the people, and besides have not the state at large organization which would enable them to get in effective work in so short a time as must elapse between their formal announcement and the date of the election. Gov. Trammell, they believe, having but recently, in comparison to the others, having been engaged in a state at large campaign, and being in close touch with every part of the state, will have a decided advantage over any other man who may enter the race at this time.

There was also much speculation concerning the possibility of the men named resigning their present offices before entering a contest for another. There is no law, it is said, to require either the governor or a congressman to resign his office before entering a race for another, but it is believed that the man who will show the people his faith in his claims of strength he makes by laying aside the commission he now holds and entering the lists unhampered and unhampered by the duties of another position of trust and responsibility will do much toward strengthening the good will of the voters in his behalf.

If the vacancy in the senate should occur this week, for instance, and the candidates for the toga announce immediately Governor Trammell, it is said, will have served but twenty months of his term. Should he be elected in November to the senate there will remain almost two full years of the gubernatorial term to be filled by the president of the state senate. Drain, the officer named by the constitution of Florida to succeed in case of death, resignation or removal of a governor. Whether it would be acceptable to the people of the state to have this office filled for so long a time by one whom the state never apprehended would succeed to the office is an open question and it has been suggested by some that the office of governor be filled by election in November, after, of course, the president of the senate has filled the chair from the time of the vacancy to the date of the election, provided, of course, the governor resigns the office when he enters the race.

If any congressman enters the race and resigns on entering, there must be a congressman appointed for the same two months for which a senator must be named, and this will bring on a multiplicity of claims for the honor or honors as the case may be. Such will be the case in the matter of the two months' senatorial term.

The present outlook now is that Florida, instead of having to think of wars and coming seasonal business will turn its attention to politics and confine that attention most closely for the next two months.—Times-Union.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS

The best brains and the bravest men connected with the newspaper business hold themselves in readiness to serve their papers in Europe. But the day of the war correspondent seems to have passed.

Methods of war have changed since the days when Forbes and Burleigh sent home thrilling accounts of battles and painted vivid pen pictures of war.

Those who are familiar with the achievements of the war correspondent can go back to the famous career of "Bull Run" Smith, whose name will go down to posterity as one of the newspaper heroes of the war between the north and the south.

History also reserves a space for the name of G. W. Stevens, who marched with that grim monarch of war, Kitchener, through the Sudan and in South Africa.

Rudyard Kipling and Richard Harding Davis laid the foundations of their literary careers amidst the turbulent success of war.

That day, however, has vanished. Times have changed. Methods of war are different from what they were.

"The day of the war correspondent is gone," writes Dr. Dillon from Vienna and Dr. Dillon is one of the best equipped war correspondents now in the thick of the pending crisis. He knows that today he will not be allowed to go to the front. He knows that no war correspondent, however influential he may be or how potent the influence of the paper he represents, will be allowed to advance to the firing line or to send a report home unless that report has passed through the hands of a rigid censor.

No press representative in Europe will be permitted to send in reports of military operations without such a report meets with official approval. Never again will any army commander give a free run of his headquarters, taking notes to be inconspicuously printed. The change has been slow in coming, but it has been obvious.

In the Russo-Japan war the war correspondent was treated with reasonable courtesy, but he was made to remain in the rear and to accept only such reports as were officially permitted. In the Balkan strife reporters were treated as spies. The war correspondent found little regard. He was forcibly ejected across the lines and prohibited from entering war territory.

Military argument for the changed policy is convincing. In informing the public newspapers also inform the enemy of matters which should be kept secret.

War correspondents will get the news, but not the minute it happens.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

SOMETHING WRONG

If the road between DeLand and Daytona is a fair sample of the results of road building in Volusia county—it's about time for a change in methods. If shell and marl won't make a better road let's change material.

If the system of road building is at fault let's change the system.

If the road from DeLand to Orange City is another sample, let's turn the road upside down, and drive on the other side.

Volusia county has had a road superintendent now about two years. In 1913 his work showed up well. If he has done anything on this side of the county in 1914, it has not resulted in any great system of fine roads, to say the least.

At an expense of some $15,000, about four miles of good roads have been built from DeLand to the river—and in between the old shell road is allowed to go to ruin.

This is entirely too much favoritism. There is entirely too much favoritism shown in the matter of spending the people's money on (around) the roads. The people get little benefit. The money all goes.

Sixty thousand dollars a year are being frittered away by county authorities. There is no charge of graft by county officials. They are only careless. They have allowed themselves to get into ruts of waste. There is something radically wrong with our system or our material.—DeLand News.

Judging from our own experience with roads and city streets would say that your material is wrong and you will spend more money each year on repairs than it would take to pay interest and principal in bonding for brick roads. All the counties of Florida will eventually come to it regardless of the first cost.

FLORIDA IS THE ANSWER

We can see no possible reason why Florida should not reap an unusually large tourist harvest during the approaching and succeeding seasons, much of which will be due directly to the great European war, which will make European capitals and entire countries undesirable as points of interest, except to a possible few who desire to view the ruins, for surely with the great destruction that is being reported, there will be ruins. In fact ruins will be about the only thing left if the struggle keeps up long at the pace started. This will of course prove a good thing for Florida, even though it may be only indirectly. There are thousands of people who are traveling, some more, some less, but traveling just the same, and, as has been stated, most of them have visited California, and while there is much in that great state in the way of scenic beauty, it is Florida that presents the real tropical beauty, the delightful climate and the wonderful luxuries that is sought by so many. It is here that the winter may be enjoyed as nowhere else, for the temperature is mild and the delights of sea bathing may be enjoyed at all times. What with fruits, flowers, balmy air, excellent hunting, fishing and other sports, surely there is nothing wanting. Florida is roomy enough to accommodate all in comfort, for, even if the many excellent hotels should be crowded and unable to care for all of them, there are thousands of private houses and those who come at one time will be certain to want to come again. Yes, Florida is the real answer to all those who are seeking new fields of exploration while enjoying the sights and good things.—Ft. Myers Press.

MORE COUNTY DIVISION

Everybody loves a county commissioner until after election; then he becomes the target for sarcasm, ridicule, invective and general cursing.

Down in Alachua county they are talking of dividing the county, and it all comes about through some efforts of the county commissioners.

It seems that Gainesville has paved or is about to pave the area around the court house, and the county commissioners wanted the county to pay for all the work. Now those farmers in Alachua take pride in their courthouse, and in Gainesville, but they decided that since the courthouse is located in Gainesville, that thrifty city should pay a good part of this paving, since it is merely to add to the appearance of the city, and the farmers themselves will have little occasion to use the brick surfaced street. The county commissioners stood pat for the county to pay. The county could not help itself; so now the county commissioners, who were elected by the dear people, and who by the dear people were vociferously cheered on appearance before the election and duly congratulated after the primary, are getting one of the "perquisites of office" in the shape of maledictions on their devoted heads.

"If Gainesville wants to hog it all," we will divide the county," they are declaring, and, with the new senator on the side of the farmers there is but one representative to gain before it looks like another new county in Florida.—Times-Union.

Bob Holly refuses to daddy that newspaper wrapper stunt, but shifts it to the shoulders of the "B. M." Well, "B. M." might mean business manager or bad man, but when we happen to think of Bob Holly's lack of hirsute appendage we are rather inclined to credit the abbreviations to "bald man" and let it go at that.—Zolfo Truth.

Down in Zolfo the A. C. L. and the Western Union Telegraph Co. have taken out all the wires and left the city without telegraph communication and Zolfo threatens to put in the Seaboard and the Postal Telegraph in retaliation.

With new machinery and all the material needed our dredge boat is now equipped to finish the bulkheading of the lake front and the work will be resumed at once. The new hotel and the bulkhead will make a vast difference in Lake Monroe.

Irish potatoes are as sure and certain a crop as can be grown. Florida's production of potatoes for 1914-15 should be ten times as large as ever before. With all food products increasing in value, potatoes will doubtless bring more per bushel than ever before.

Raise of pay for all plumbers, carpenters, painters and tanners in the city's employ so they will receive the prevailing wage has been approved by the committee of finance, ways and means of Toledo, Ohio.

"Refused" "Refused Notice." Every editor has received them. The postmaster sends them to the editor. For instance there is a man by the name of John Blank, who refused to take his paper out of the postoffice. He did not want it any longer, and he wondered what was the matter. Upon investigation of our subscription book we found that John was short $5.70. He stopped the paper as a matter of economy to us. One evening we went to church and John's melodious voice rang out loud and clear in that soul stirring song, "Jesus Paid It All." We might have been mistaken, but his earnestness impressed us. The next day we sent him a receipt in full, begging his pardon for not knowing he had made arrangements for his liabilities in that manner.—Exchange

American Potash

Europe's inability to supply America with materials and wares for which this country has relied almost solely on Europe in the past is creating a wealth of opportunity for the establishment of a potash industry in this country. The toy manufacturing industry is one example of this. German manufacturers have enjoyed almost a complete monopoly of the business, and American toy manufacturers, of whom there are comparatively few, have often complained that too little attention has been paid to their wares. Similar complaints have come from manufacturer of dyes.

Perhaps one of the greatest opportunities resulting from Germany's present commercial disability, however is to be found in the fact that the potash used as fertilizer in this country in the past has been derived almost entirely from the mines at Staassfurt. A comparatively small amount of potash has been derived from the nitrate deposits in Chile, but this is found in the form of nitrate of potash, or saltpetre, and is used principally for the manufacture of gunpowder and other explosives.

Prof. E. H. Jenkins, Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Mount Carmel, Conn., in discussing this subject a short time ago, called attention to the fact that salts derived from the Staassfurt potash formed one of the principal ingredients of most of the fertilizers used in this country, and that this form of fertilizer is considered necessary, especially in the raising of potatoes. For this reason, he said, the dearth of fertilizer is liable to be keenly felt next year in Maine, Maryland, and the western states, where the potato-raising industry has reached large proportions, and that crops are apt to suffer greatly. There is at this season of the year only a small supply of the fertilizer on hand in this country, he said.

For the past three years Congress has made a small appropriation annually for the Agricultural Department and the Geological Survey to institute a search for potash, and this year $20,000 is being extended in drilling for such deposits. There is one source of potash supply within reach of American industry, however, that has never been fully tested on account of the keen German competition. That is on the Pacific coast. It has been found that the ash produced by the burning of kelp, a sea plant that is found in abundance from California to Alaska, five, or six feet below the surface of the water, is extremely rich in potash. A dozen small companies for reaping this kelp have been formed in the past, but thus far their efforts have attracted little attention. It is believed by many interested in agriculture that the conditions created by the war have made an opportunity here for American capital both to find profitable investment and to benefit the American farmer to considerable extent next year.

TRAMMELL FOR SENATOR

IN CASE OF A VACANCY OUR GOVERNOR IS THE MAN TO FILL IT

FROM LAKELAND TELEGRAM

It seems very probable at this writing that Senator Bryan of this state will be appointed to Federal circuit judgeship made vacant by the death of Judge Shelby of Alabama. All or most of the senators, regardless of party, have endorsed him for the place, and with that kind of backing the President is very likely to offer him the appointment. He will accept, of course, and that will at once make it necessary for the people of Florida to elect his successor in the Senate.

The adoption of the constitutional amendment providing for the election of senators by the people instead of by the Legislature has abrogated the old rule which made it the duty of the governor to appoint like this to appoint a senator pro tem until his successor could be regularly elected. Governor O'Neal of Alabama tried that in the appointment of Mr. Clayton as the successor of Senator Johnston, deceased, of that state, but the Senator, after a prolonged debate on the subject declined to admit Mr. Clayton, holding that a successor to Senator Johnston must be regularly elected by the people and the governor had no power of appointment in the case. This being true, in the event of Senator Bryan's appointment to the federal bench it will at once devolve upon Governor Trammell to call an election for United States senator and the people of Florida will be faced by the highly interesting question of who that senator shall be.

There is such a thing as subconsciousness in the masses of people as well as in the particular individual, and the history of this country furnishes many instances of this kind in which a popular choice was strongly foreshadowed long before the event itself. We believe that such a condition now exists in the matter of this anticipated senatorial succession and that a large majority of the voters in Florida desire and intend that Park Trammell shall be the next senator elected from this state. We are not informed of Governor Trammell's wishes on this subject, but it has been generally assumed for a long time that he would be a candidate to succeed Senator Bryan and we do not doubt that this is the case. The Telegram believes that it voices the wishes of a large majority of the people of South Florida and a decisive majority of the people of the state generally where it expresses the hope that Governor Trammell will be a candidate and that he will be successful in the race should there be a race.

His steady rise in Florida politics has been almost without precedent and it has been the result of no shallow, spectacular or meretricious qualities appealing merely to popular imagination or playing broadly upon popular prejudice. He has been tested, and tested thoroughly, from small beginnings all the way up, and he has made good in every position of responsibility in which he has been placed, from a small county office to that of chief executive of Florida. The man is solid, dependable and capable, clean as any public man alive, and with an unusually full acquaintance with national as well as state affairs, he would go to the Senate with an equipment for his work rarely found in a new senator. The people of Florida know him well through years of devotion to their service and they believe in him as a public servant not only trustworthy on his moral side, but of proved efficiency in all he undertakes. Park Trammell is the man to succeed Senator Bryan and we don't hesitate to predict his success in the event the election is called.

If this senatorial election is called it will, of course, only be to elect a senator to fill out the remainder of Senator Bryan's present term and next year the regular primaries will be held to nominate a successor for the full six years term. This may be more than one candidate in the race, but Governor Trammell may not have opposition if the special election is called for the uncompleted term of Senator Bryan.

Mystical Number on Coin. No one seems unwilling to accept a 25-cent piece, even though there are on each coin the following hoodoo combinations: Thirteen letters in the scroll held in the eagle's beak; thirteen feathers in each wing; thirteen tail feathers; thirteen upright bars in the shield; thirteen arrows; thirteen leaves on the branch; thirteen letters in the words "quarter dollar."

The Reason.

"I just can't seem to keep a dining-room girl." "I have often wondered why you never can keep any help. I never have any such trouble." "I know, but my husband just won't flirt with them."

AT SANFORD CHURCHES

At The Baptist Church Services Sunday, Sept. 6th, corner Park and Sixth street.

9:30 Primary school in the Shack. 9:30 Main school in the church.

Band concert for 15 minutes Berean Class for young men Fidelis Class for young ladies Graded school in all classes.

11:00 "A Vision of Heaven," the third sermon in a series on the book of Revelation.

3:30 Jr. B. Y. P. U. 6:45 Sr. B. Y. P. U. in the Shack. 7:45 "What is Man," a special sermon in observance of Labor Day.

The organizations of Labor Men will be special guests. Welcome, always welcome.

GEORGE HYMAN, Pastor.

Special Labor Day Sermon

On account of September 7th being Labor Day the service of next Sunday night at the Baptist church will be used as a special Labor Day service.

Rev. George Hyman, the pastor will speak on the subject, "What is Man?"

All the labor organizations of the city have been invited to attend this service and many of them have accepted and a large audience of men is expected to be present.

Music suitable for the occasion will be rendered by a large chorus. The genuine welcome will be awaiting all who may come.

The service will begin at 7:45. The subjects of the sermons for the month of September at the Baptist church are as follows:

Sept. 10th, "Spark Plugs." Sept. 20th, "The Northern Iron." Sept. 27th, "The Judgment Day"

Labor Day Service

The second annual Labor Day service will be observed at the Congregational church next Sunday at the evening service, 7:30.

This is in accordance with the advice of the Federal Council of the Churches of America, and in 1910 a great labor organization endorsed this suggestion.

and advised its members to attend such services. We shall be glad to see such attendance next Sunday evening, either in a body or individually.

The special subject by the pastor is "Labor's Appeal and Christianity's Answer." The great problems of labor are important considerations for every loyal American.

for labor is the great fundamental in a democracy, and all should have as large and open a vision of these questions as possible. All are cordially welcome.

Congregational Church

The pastor and family have returned from an invigorating vacation, and are now ready to cooperate for a large campaign for the fall and winter work.

Every member is urged to plan to be present at the services of the church, and especially for next Sunday in the morning a special help.

is offered for all members, and in the evening the labor service, elsewhere noted in this paper will be observed.

It is earnestly desired that every Sunday school member will be in his place next Sunday, 9:45 a. m., also that every C. E. member will be ready to start the fall work with interest in the evening C. E. service at 6:45.

Please let the Baracas remember their opportunity, and every man be round with the answer "Here" to roll call next Sunday morning.

Methodist Services Sunday

Sunday school 9:45. Preaching by the pastor 11 o'clock. Subject, "The Making of a Saint."

The evening sermon 7:30, a presentation of a gospel theme—A Photograph.

The different departments of the worship are planned for the one purpose of helping men to find the "Desire of all nations" and assimilate them to worship Him when found.

The Methodist church has had a remarkable history as a soul saving institution. It was born in a revival.

Every Methodist in Sanford is needed in the services for the fall campaign. The pastor and superintendent of the Sunday school, with the officials appreciate the loyalty and hearty support of church the past season and are looking for greater success in the approaching winter.

They have appreciated the presence of the members of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches the past month and rejoice with them on the return of their pastors.

A Peace Meeting

The greatest Peace organization in our country is calling for an hour of prayer to the God of nations to stay the awful tide of war in Europe, and for the preservation of peace within our own borders.

Will not every true patriot rally to this call next Sunday, Sept. 6th, at 3:30 o'clock in the Star Theatre?

The Capital Contest

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the first announcement of the Capital Contest of Gainesville, Fla.

These people are making plans to give away many valuable automobiles, pianos, watches and jewelry.

A notable feature of the contest is that it is being put on by a thoroughly reliable firm and one that is very strong financially, and there is no "fake" about it.

The name of the firm putting on this contest is being withheld for the present for reasons of their own.

The sole object being to increase their business and the public is absolutely assured that they will be amply paid for their trouble in addition to the prizes offered.

Indecisive Battle

The Sanford Basket Ball team played the best and heaviest game of DeLand in Cummins Gym, resulting in a final score of 31 to 31.

Both teams played a stirring game from start to finish. The Sanford boys were repeatedly cheered by the DeLand people.

Guarding of Routh and Raynor was very good, this being Raynor's first game as guard he did justice to the position.

The playing of Gilbert at center was unusual, which is considered among the best in the state.

Kanner and Herring played good games at forward.

DeLand had the aid of the band and a big crowd, which came very nearly being disappointed, as the Sanford team was half an hour late putting in an appearance.

The line up was as follows: Herring, f. Kanner, f. Gilbert, c. Hoggesson, (Capt.) Routh, c. r. g. Raynor, g. Selden. W. Routh, sub. Washburn, sub.

The return game will be played in Sanford next Wednesday night, Sept. 9th, in the Parish House at the Episcopal church.

This is a Sanford team, and should have the earnest support of the Sanford people.

EVERYBODY COME OUT AND SEE THE GAME.

Will Write Up Oviedo

Editor Edgar A. Wright, of the Florida Grower, published at Tampa is expected to arrive in the city this evening, preparatory to a general write-up of Orlando and its environs, which he will gather data for during his stay here.

He is known all over the state as "The Stroller," and while strolling around in this section, may find many interesting things to tell through the Grower.

The first thing in the morning will be a trip to Black Hammock at Oviedo. The party so far organized for the run is composed of Messrs. J. M. Cheney and son.

Gordon Craig

Soldier of Fortune—By Randall Parrish

Copyright, 1912, by A. C. McClurg & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Gordon Craig is hired by two men, Vall and Neale, for $1000 to go south and impersonate Philip Henley, ostensibly to save an estate for Henley, who, they say, is in prison. Craig is to take with him a woman to impersonate Mrs. Henley.

Suspected of burglary, Craig is cleared by a young woman wandering in the street. She is out of work and hungry. They talk in a restaurant.

She is an actress, deserted by her wealthy, drunken husband. She consents to go south with Craig.

Mr. Bernard is a hood woman and will play the part of Mrs. Henley to help Craig. They arrive at the rundown Henley plantation and are greeted by a rough looking overseer.

Coomba, the overseer, and a mysterious negro, Ballie, seem to be the only persons on the plantation. Craig is awakened by a shot and finds a man in a room.

Broussard, a creole friend of Coomba, appears. Probing the murder, Craig finds the corpse missing. Mrs. Bernard is really Mrs. Henley. She and Craig determine to fight for her missing husband's estate. She believes Henley dead.

Coomba denies Henley is dead and denies Craig, although the latter reveals Mrs. Henley's identity to the overseer. The latter says Henley himself put him in charge of the plantation.

Mrs. Henley and Craig find Philip Henley's seal ring in the garden. Exploring the house alone, Craig finds a secret basement room.

He is trapped and discovers two dead bodies. One is the missing corpse, and the other is Coomba. Craig is struck down and is made prisoner by a dark young man, another named Herman and Broussard. Mrs. Henley is also caught.

Craig and the woman are taken aboard a yacht, which sails. The owner and master, the dark young man, calls himself Philip Henley. He tries to win Craig, and the latter feigns friendship for him in order to help the woman.

Mrs. Henley denies the man is her husband. She is locked up in a stateroom, and "Henley" produces papers which seemingly support his claim. Craig pretends to join in his filibustering expedition.

Craig plans to escape with Mrs. Henley in a small boat and provisions it secretly. Going to summon her, he finds her cabin unoccupied, but in good order.

"Henley" forces his attentions on Mrs. Henley, and Craig saves her, making the captain a prisoner in his own cabin. "Henley's" men have orders from him not to disturb him. Craig lunches with Broussard.

The creole, angry with "Henley," tells Craig that "Henley" is Philip Henley's half-brother, son of Ballie, and that Philip is dead. The half breed is trying to seize the estate. Craig prepares to leave the yacht.

At night Craig and Mrs. Henley embark in the small boat, taking to the gulf of Mexico. They decide Vall and Neale were two crooks trying to grab the Henley estate.

CHAPTER XVII.

The Revenue Cutter.

It could not have been long, not to exceed a moment or two, when a sudden leaping of the boat brought us back to a realization of our position. As soon as I had regained control of the craft I reached out again and touched her hand.

"This is all so strange, so unexpected. I can scarcely comprehend what has occurred."

"Strange, yes, in the way it has happened," she coincided. "But we cannot afford to dwell upon that now. We are in peril. Do you really know where we are—for what you are steering?"

"It is largely a guess. There is nothing to give me guidance except as I unawares the face of this compass and feel the needle."

"Then we may still be within view from the deck of the Sea Gull at day-break?"

"Yes. That will depend entirely upon luck."

"Why, look there!" she exclaimed quickly. "See—to the right! Merciful heavens! It is a ship!"

It was hard to determine the nature of the vessel, the sides looming close above us, but it was not the Sea Gull. I was certain of that from the height of the rail and the outline of a square forecastle showing dimly against the sky. I called out:

"Aho! there! Take us aboard!" I shouted twice before a head popped over the rail and stared down in apparent amazement.

"Hullo, the boat! Who are you? What do you want?"

"Small boat adrift; two passengers. Throw us a rope!"

"All right! Stand by!"

I could hear his voice up above shouting orders. There was a rush of feet, and a rope's end fell within reach. The head bobbed over the rail again, and a moment later I had helped her up a swaying boarding ladder and felt the solid deck under my feet. The intense darkness puzzled me, not a gleam of light showing anywhere. Suddenly a hand touched my arm.

"This way, sir. Help the lady aft. The deck is clear."

"What kind of a boat is this?" she whispered.

"I'm sure I don't know. Not big enough for a passenger liner."

We were at the head of the companion stairs and descended carefully, clinging to the rail. The officer, groping in the darkness, opened a door at the bottom and hurried us into the lighted cabin. Facing us, one hand resting on the table, stood a short, sturdy man in uniform. He began questioning.

"Who are you? How did you come to be adrift in these waters? Answer up, sir. You're no fisherman."

"We escaped from a vessel last evening, sir."

"What do you mean by escaped—run away?"

"Yes, sir." And I stepped aside so he could see her more clearly. "We were being held as prisoners."

His eyes flashed to her face, rested on instant, and then his cap was in his hand.

"This is the revenue cutter Ballie, which I have the honor to command. Mr. Smith, assist the lady to a chair and have the steward bring a glass of wine. Now, sir, are you ready to answer?"

"I am. We were prisoners on board the Sea Gull. It is a long story, involving a will, in which the master of that vessel was interested. We escaped in a small boat last evening and have been floating about since."

"The Sea Gull? Do you remember the name, sir?"

"No, sir. Perhaps a description. 'A schooner rigged steam yacht,' I explained briefly, 'clearing from New Orleans for Santiago. She is en route to Spanish Honduras, with munitions of war.'"

"Exactly, under command of a man named Henley. Smith, this sounds too good to be true."

He walked across the cabin twice, thinking, not even glancing up as he passed us. Suddenly he stopped, facing me.

"Where did he get you two?"

"In a bayou off the Alabama coast."

"And you got away last evening—how?"

He walked back and forth as I reviewed the events swiftly. I hardly think he asked so much as a single question, his eyes upon my face and then upon the face of the girl.

"A rather strange tale," he commented when I had concluded, "and perhaps the whole is not told. However, that is none of my affair. Now, listen. This is a revenue cutter. We were ordered out of Pensacola four days ago to intercept this boat on which you two were prisoners. We haven't even sighted the vessel, and if we did would be perfectly helpless, as she can steam three knots to our one. Only some streak of wonderfully good luck would ever enable us to capture her. I half believe you are the good luck, if you do what I suggest."

"What?" I asked. "I will be willing. Would you send Mrs. Henley also?"

"Yes," and he turned to the officer.

"It is not a very complicated plan, but we will try it. I don't think Henley will leave these waters without an effort to recover his boat and prisoners. He will want those papers and revenge on Craig here. He has no warning that we are after him. I believe the fellow will cruise about in the same neighborhood until daylight. All we have to do is lay a trap—the boat's the trap."

"You mean conceal a squad of men in the bottom and send it adrift again?"

"Exactly; lower the mast, as though Craig here had been unable to step it, or, better still, hoist it overboard. The loss of weight will give room for another man. Then cover the lads over with the canvas. They will never suspect the ruse on the Sea Gull or study it out through glasses. They'll simply recognize their boat and steer for it."

"The fighting odds will be pretty heavy, sir," said Smith soberly.

"We must trust to surprise and get the crew below fastened down before an alarm is sounded on board. A dozen armed men ought to clear the decks. How do you look at the affair, Craig? Will the plan work?"

"I am not sure I understand exactly what is proposed, sir."

"My thought is that this man Henley will be sufficiently anxious to get hold of you two again and regain those papers, so that he will steam about slowly all night, hoping to get sight of the missing boat at daylight. He has no means of knowing that the revenue officers are after him. If he sights us at daybreak he'll make a run and show us a clean pair of heels. He'd be hull down in five hours; for this is a slow old tub. Now, what I propose is this, and the captain counted off the points on his fingers. "There is about an hour of darkness left—sufficient to enable me to run this cutter in behind Cosmos Island safely out of sight. In the meanwhile we'll dismantle that small boat a bit, slip a dozen good men under the canvas and turn her adrift."

"And you wish me to go also?"

"Yes; if you will."

"And Mrs. Henley?"

"That would be the only way to lay snare on the Sea Gull."

I hesitated, half turning so as to look at her.

"You wish to say yes?" she asked quietly. "You believe the plan will succeed?"

"It sounds feasible."

She glanced toward the waiting captain and then back into my face.

"Then I will go, of course," she said smilingly. "Let us not discuss it any more."

The captain stepped forward, bowing, bare headed.

"Most bravely spoken," he said soberly. "I owe you a debt, madam. Mr. Smith, have the boat prepared at once to carry out my idea."

"To leave the impression that an incompetent seaman had been in charge of it through the night, sir?"

"Exactly. The mast overboard and the canvas stowed badly."

"Yes, sir; a big sheet."

"Bunch it so as to leave all the space possible; leave the jib set; it will help conceal the men. Send Lieutenant Button here."

"He will have command of the party?"

"Yes; let him pick his own men and then report to me, arm them with a revolver apiece. Be lively about it."

The dawn broke gray and desolate. I sat at the other grinning one of her hands in mine and staring anxiously about the broadening circle. The boat in which we rode, while buoyant enough, still bore the outward appearance of a wreck, the broken stump of a mast barely abowing sufficiently high to support the flapping jib, and the wet canvas of the mainsail completely concealing everything forward. The men were lying low, so completely hidden as to be invisible even to us, but the lieutenant sat upright, with head above the mass of sail, and was scanning the sea with glasses.

"Haven't seen you before," he said to me. "Dark when we came over the side, you know. Had morning."

"The fog is lifting. What is that black mass out there?"

"Cosmos Island." And he turned his minutes will give us a clear view."

I looked at her, noting how tired her eyes appeared in the gray light, although they smiled courageously.

"You are so tired?"

"No more than you, I am sure. Why, I have done nothing, except to stay awake. You have had all the work and worry. It will not be long now."

"No; we shall know in a few minutes if the Sea Gull is standing by hunting us. If she shows up, you must do exactly as I say. You promise that?"

"Of course," and the clasp of her hand tightened. "You have no reason to doubt me."

The lieutenant's eyes were on the widening sea line and I bent down and pressed my lips to her bare arm. I glanced up again into flushed cheeks.

"Craig," exclaimed the lieutenant suddenly, "that must be the fellow of there to port? Here, try the glasses—just where the cloud is lifting a bit."

I recognized her instantly.

"That's the Sea Gull, and, by heavens, they are keeping a sharp lookout on board. See! She is swinging on her heel already; they've sighted us!"

He grasped the glass and stared out through it in silence for several minutes. Then he thrust it into a pocket and settled back out of sight behind the canvas screen.

"You have called the turn," he said quietly, "and the dance is about to begin. Unship your rudder and let it go. Let them think you are wrecked; help less to escape, and they will be more careless. You men there, loosen your guns and be ready to scale a ship's side in a jiffy, but perfectly still until I give the word." He turned his head.

"You understand what you are to do, Craig, you and the lady?"

"I think so. We are to obey Henley's orders and go on board."

"Yes, but do something as soon as you reach the deck to attract attention and get them away from the rail. Try and get the lady as far astern as possible, for there is likely to be some fighting. Are you frightened, miss?"

"No," although her voice trembled from excitement. "You need not worry about me."

"All right, then. I shall not wait for my signal. Now, listen, men; these are my last orders. When I say go get up any way you can and hit the first man you see. Hit hard, but no shooting unless they use firearms. But fight like devils and do it quick. They outnumber us three to one. Marston, you and Simms take the stoke hold and the forecastle. Keep those fellows below down with your revolvers. Shoot if you need to. The rest of you, stick close to me. All clear, lads?"

"Aye, aye, sir," returned the muffled voices from beneath the canvas.

I unshipped the rudder, letting it disappear noiselessly beneath the waves, and the boat's head swung slowly around, and we drifted helplessly, the jib flapping. In low monotone, without turning my head, I managed to convey my observations to the motionless officer.

"She's heading straight toward us under low pressure. There are two men on the bridge and a lookout on the bow. Now she's swinging to port to bring up close. There's a group at the rail near the starboard gangway; about ten, I should say. Can you see, Viola?"

"Twelve," she answered quietly, "and three forward. The third man at the rail is the captain, and he has a glass."

"By George, you are right! I recognize the fellow now. Broussard is on the bridge. They expect no trouble, lieutenant, and only have the regular watch on deck. They are getting too close for me to talk any more."

It was quite evident that Henley perceived nothing to arouse suspicion, for with a swing like a hawk the Sea Gull bore down upon us, the engines slowing and then reversed. We were starting up into the faces that looked curiously down at us.

"Hard down!" yelled the captain, mentioning with one arm. "Plug her, man! Now, you army hound," he called to me, "catch that eye and make fast."

ARE QUICK TO LEARN

BUGLE CALLS BECOME FAMILIAR TO ARTILLERY HORSES.

Respond to the Martial Summons as Rapidly as Could Their Riders— Evidence of Their Intelligence on Record.

"Horses chosen for the military service," said an old artilleryman, "show marvelous intelligence and quickness in adapting themselves to its requirements. Every artilleryman knows that they learn the bugle calls and the evolutions sooner, as a rule, than the average recruit."

"They quickly acquire a uniform gait, which is about the same as the route step or usual marching step. If the horses did not fall habitually into the same gait as the infantry there would be varying distances between the different arms of the service. In the drills in the artillery service the horses will precede their alignment as well as the infantry ranks."

"It is remarkable how quickly the army horse learns the bugle calls and their significance. Let the first note of the feed or water call be sounded, and instantly there will be stamping, kicking and neighing among the horses, impatient for that call to be answered."

"Once during a storm at night in our camp our horses were seized with such terror that those of nearly every battery broke loose and went scattering about in their fright. Next morning there was a wild rush by the artillerymen to capture horses for use. All was excitement, and the still alarmed horses refused to be taken."

"An officer ordered the bugler to sound the feed call. He gave the call, and instantly horses from every direction came dashing in to that battery and the equine discipline was soon restored."

"When it comes to battle the trained army horse seems to know everything that is going on and the reason for it and does his duty nobly. He enters into the spirit of the fight like his human comrades."

"A horse in one of our batteries during the Murfreesboro fight was hit by a piece of shell which split his skull. The driver turned him loose, but he walked up to the side of the gun and watched the firing, and when a shot was fired would follow it with his gaze, as if to note its effect on the enemy. When a shell would burst near by he would turn his head and look at it."

"When he saw the team he had been working with up to the time of his wound driven back for a renewal of ammunition for the battery he ran to his old place and galloped back with the rest. When an officer pushed him aside he gazed at the new horse with a sorrowful expression in his eyes. Then he seemed to realize that the glory of battle was no more for him, and he walked tottering away and lay down and died. The men declared that it was a broken heart, not his wound, that killed him."

"During a fierce charge of Confederate cavalry at that battle of Murfreesboro an officer was among the killed in the charge and the cavalry was driven back. The horse the officer had ridden was a magnificent animal, and he had not been taught to retreat. Riderless, he kept on his way, and as he dashed through our battery the sight of him was indescribably grand."

"His nostrils were extended wide, his eyes flashed, and he clutched his bit determinedly in his teeth as he came on like the wind, his saddle flaps flying until it seemed as if he were himself flying instead of madly running. Every man gave him room as he dashed along. An officer shouted that he would give $100 to any one who would capture that superb animal, but all seemed so hypnotized by the sight of the noble beast and his riderless charge that no effort was made to stay him, and he sped on his way, disappearing in the blue distance."

Profanity His Undoing.
Too audible expression of anger at finding nothing in a safe that he and three other men had just cracked resulted in the arrest at New York of Joseph Wilson, homeless by his own assertion.

A policeman from the Elizabeth street station heard loud oaths coming from the hardware store of J. W. Ayres at 88 Walker street and on investigation discovered Wilson and three others before a safe that had been opened with a "can opener." The other three escaped.

Finger-print proof disproved Wilson's assertion that he had never been arrested before, and a term in the Elmira reformatory for grand larceny in 1913 was found in his record.

Canada's Influence on Crockett. The late S. R. Crockett had struggled in his early life as many other poets and authors did. He began to work on the farm at an early age, as even a child's hands were useful to the struggling household. He was up at five o'clock, and all through his life he continued to rise at this hour, for early rising was a habit with pleasant memories.

One of his cousins was a farmer-plowman who had been to Canada and acquired larger ideas than the rest of the family, and, finding in the boy an unusual play of mind, he used to take him in the fields before the day's labors began, and make him read fine poetry.

The Original Dreadnought; Destroyer Nubian

GIVING her name to the class of "all big gun" battleships now included in every modern navy, the British battleship Dreadnought is no longer one of the world's greatest fighting ships. She displaces only 17,000 tons, whereas the newer British Dreadnoughts are of 26,000 tons, and the American and some others are still larger. The smaller vessel is the British torpedo boat destroyer Nubian, one of the fastest of British destroyers, capable of making over thirty-four knots.

GERMANS DEFEAT FRENCH AND BRITISH

French Forces Driven From Alsace-Lorraine

HEAVY LOSSES REPORTED

In First Big Battle Allies Are Defeated All Along Line and Kaiser's Men Are Swarming Into French Territory, It Is Said.

The French and British troops opposing the invasion of the German army in Belgium have suffered a serious reverse according to the official announcement issued by the French war office. In the battle line, which extends from Mons to the Luxembourg frontier, several army corps composed of both British and French took the offensive on Sunday against the Germans, but their plan of attack failed, owing to the "unforeseen difficulties," as described by the official statement, and the troops retired on the covering positions.

The losses on both sides are reported as extremely heavy, and the French officials described the Germans as being obliged to establish themselves in fresh positions in Lorraine. The French have abandoned those portions of Alsace and Lorraine which they previously had occupied, and now look for heavy fighting in French territory.

Detachments of German cavalry, operating on the extreme right, have reached Roubaix, a few miles north of Lille. This territory is defended only by reservists.

At Tsing Tau, capital of Kiao Chow, the German protectorate in China, the German forces have prepared for a bombardment by the Japanese fleet by dynamiting all the tall structures there which might be used by the attacking forces as sighting points. They also have taken all possible measures to oppose the advance of a Japanese field army.

There is a report emanating from Rome and Avlona that the Albanian insurgents have entered Avlona and raised their flag.

Emperor Nicholas of Russia is reported to have gone to the headquarters of the Russian army, which has taken the offensive in full strength and is said to be advancing rapidly in east and West Prussia.

A late dispatch from Copenhagen gives further reports from Austria that Emperor Francis Joseph is in a grave condition.

For a long time her utterances were only the ravings of delirium. But all at once she sat up in bed and, looking straight at Dr. Warner, she cried out, "Oh, you funny old man!" Swinburne evidently found baths a source of inspiration, for he told Mr. Edmund Gosse that "Baudelaire" was written in a Turkish bath.

Dr. Johnson, on the other hand, regarded them with suspicion. ### Married in Jacksonville

A marriage in which a very cordial interest is felt is that of Mrs. Inez Savage Hill and Mr. Ernest Krupp, which occurred in Jacksonville at high noon Wednesday, at the home of the bride's parents in Springfield, Rev. M. B. Clonts officiating. The bride was attired in a handsome coat-suit of navy blue cloth and wore a chic hat of black velvet and ostrich tip. Mr. and Mrs. Krupp left immediately for Savannah from which place they will sail for New York, visiting Niagara Falls and other points of interest before returning to Jacksonville. Mr. and Mrs. Krupp are well known in Sanford and have many friends here who wish for them much happiness.

Joy Ride

Mrs. John T. Brady chaperoned a happy party of young people to the Wekiva Bridge Tuesday night. Going out in machines in the early evening, the young people enjoyed the picnic supper at the bridge and returned by moonlight. Those in the party were Misses Ruth McDaniel, Agnes Bothamly, Virginia Brady, Elizabeth Stafford, Dick Brown, G. W. Spencer, Jr., Edward Betts and Reginald Holly.

House Dance

Miss Margaret Wight was the charming young hostess at a small informal house dance Wednesday evening. Present were Mrs. Allen Jones, Miss Renie Murrell, Messrs. Tracy McCuller, Roy Chittenden and Mr. Younts.

Sunrise Launch Ride

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Brady have originated a new departure in boating parties that bids fair to become most popular. Wednesday morning at four thirty, with their guests Mr. and Mrs. George Fox and Miss Eva Martin, they left the dock for three enchanting hours on the lake and river, in Mr. Brady's racer, and returned at seven thirty with an appetite that added a keen enjoyment to the breakfast repast.

Straw Ride

Wednesday evening a gay party of girls and boys, chaperoned by Mrs. John T. Brady enjoyed a delightful straw ride to the hospitable home of Mrs. Walter Hand, where they were the guests of Miss Helen Hand. The air of gracious hospitality that pervades this charming home and the cordial welcome of its inmates always insures a happy time beneath its roof and this occasion was no exception to the rule. Those enjoying Miss Helen's hospitality were Mrs. Brady, Misses Frances Chappell, Clarice Hand, Virginia Brady, Ruth McDaniel, Agnes Bothamly, Elizabeth Stafford, Alice Caldwell, Ruth Hand; Alfred Robson, G. W. Spencer, Jr., Fred Wight, Robert Cobb, Reginald Holly, Edward Betts and Oliver Murrell.

Missionary Social

Mrs. Ray Butts was hostess to the Missionary Society of the Methodist church Thursday afternoon and a very delightful time was enjoyed by those present. The decorations were simple, cut flowers and ferns being used effectively.

In the flower guessing game, Mrs. Charlie Brown, for the penalty of winning, was made to read "Extracts from sick folks and flowers" and paid the penalty in a very delightful rendition of the reading.

Twenty guests were invited to enjoy Mrs. Butts' hospitality and the delicious refreshments served. Mrs. N. O. Thomson assisted in serving.

Book Circle Entertained

The members of the Book Circle and a few friends were delightfully entertained by Mrs. A. W. Fitts Thursday afternoon. Owing to the absence of many of the members the summer meetings have been very informal but most enjoyable. Mrs. Fitts is a gracious hostess, whose special affairs are always enjoyed by her guests. Present were Mesdames J. W. Dickins, Cruse Barnes, A. P. Connelly, R. C. Maxwell, D. L. Thrasher, C. R. Walker, R. A. Newman and John Bennett.

Children's Party

Vergie Horne Hyman was hostess at a jolly party last Thursday afternoon in honor of her sixth birthday. Pink and white decorations made a lovely background for the happy faces of the little ones as they joined in merry games. Delicious refreshments were served, consisting of ice cream, cake and candies. Many pretty birthday gifts attested the popularity of the little hostess. As night drew on the guests departed reluctantly, each wishing that every day was Vergie Horne's birthday.

Personal Mention

Mrs. N. O. Thomson of Seffner is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Ray Butts.

Miss Eva Martin came down from Jacksonville Tuesday to visit her sister, Mrs. George Fox.

Mrs. C. E. Walker, Miss Flora Walker and Mrs. Charlotte Smith are a congenial party of ladies at Daytona.

Mrs. H. W. Clay, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Harvey Renfro, returned to Tampa Thursday.

Mrs. C. M. Williams and daughter, Miss Edna have returned from an enjoyable two months spent in Americus, Fitzgerald and other Georgia cities.

Mrs. M. H. Mabry and little son, Harton of Tallahassee are the guests of Mrs. G. F. Smith.

Miss Vera Terheun has returned from an enjoyable visit of three weeks in Jacksonville.

Misses Peacha and Linda Lefler spent Wednesday in Orlando.

Mrs. W. F. Leavitt, Miss Leavitt and Willie Leavitt left on Wednesday for several weeks' sojourn at Coronado and Daytona beaches.

A congenial party who left on Thursday for Daytona were Mrs. J.

C. Higgins, Misses Lillian and Annie Higgins, James and Owen Higgins and Mrs. John T. Brady.

Mrs. F. R. Sheldon, who has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. A. W. Fitts has returned to her home.

Mrs. John Jenkins and mother, Mrs. Perry left on Monday for Coronado Beach, where they will spend several weeks.

Miss Muriel Harrold is having a fine time camping at Palm Springs with a jolly party of Orlando people.

Messrs. J. A. Harrold, Harry Wilson, George Speer and son, Vivian motored over to Daytona in the Speer car Wednesday for several days' fishing.

Mrs. J. W. Matthews, Jr., of Tampa is a guest of Mrs. J. W. Matthews, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Kelly, former residents of Sanford who have been visiting in Daytona, have returned to their home in Jacksonville.

Mrs. Effie McLucas and little son, Leonard, accompanied by Mrs. E. B. Warman left on Monday for Chattanooga and Memphis, Tenn., and Hot Springs, Ark.

Mrs. C. M. Vorce and son, M. C. M. Vorce and grandson, Marvin are expected home today from Cleveland, Ohio. Friends of Miss Mildred Vorce, will be glad to hear of her safe arrival in America.

Mrs. R. J. Holly and interesting little family, accompanied by Miss Margaret Roberts will arrive in Sanford tomorrow.

Where Reform Must Begin.

The adult's habits, opinions and ideals are fixed; eternal truths may be shot at him or thrust into him, but he "holds the same opinion still." But the child's mind is plastic. The impressions it receives it will retain, and if they are economically sound, it will grow into an adult with altruistic principles holding due prominence. So we must start with the child in the home, the child in the street, the child in the school. This is where reform must begin.

ALLIES STANDING FIRM BEFORE PARIS

PRES. WILSON WILL REMAIN

CANNOT LEAVE IMPORTANT BUSINESS FOR SPEAKING TOUR

Washington, Sept. 8.—President Wilson today announced he would not make a speaking tour during the coming campaign. He declared his intention of "staying on the job," because of the "unlooked for international situation."

The President made known his intentions in a letter to Representative Doremus of Michigan, Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee, who had written him asking whether he would make a speaking campaign this fall. The correspondence was made public at the White House today.

"America is greater than any party," the President wrote.

"America cannot properly be served by any man who for a moment measures his interest against her advantage. The time has come for great things. These are days as big for the destiny of the United States as for the other nations of the world. A little wisdom, a little courage, a little self-forgetful devotion may under God turn that destiny this way or that. Great hearts, great natures will respond. Even little men will rejoice to be stimulated and guided and set an heroic example. Parties will fare well enough without nursing, if the men who lead them forget themselves to serve a cause, and set a great people forward on the path of liberty and peace."

Despite his determination to make no speeches, "Mr. Wilson will take occasion as opportunity offers to state and perhaps re-state to the country in the clearest and most convincing terms "I can command the things which the Democratic party has attempted to do."

The President asked that Congress "remain to do their work of necessary and pressing service and bring it to a successful conclusion." He said, however, that he saw nothing to keep Congress in session after the emergency work was finished.

Must Register Again

There having been some confusion as to the interpretation of the Bryan primary law, some explanations may be in order which may relieve many from the embarrassment of losing their vote through ignorance of the provisions of the new enactment relative to registration of voters. Under the Bryan primary act registrations of people who never voted in the state, and former voters here, are separated and there is a great distinction between the two.

For instance a man who registered for the last primary and whose name is not on the general registration books will have to register now in order to participate in the general election in November.

The primary registration under the Bryan act, in other words, has nothing whatsoever to do with the registration that is now going on the registration that is now going on for the November election.

It is very necessary that those who wish and intend to vote in November appear at the court house and register for said election.

RUSSIANS STILL DRIVING BACK

THE AUSTRIANS IN GALICIA

SENATORIAL SITUATION

THERE WILL BE MANY CONTESTANTS FOR THE BIG PLUM

Washington, Sept. 8.—Not since the early days of the Wilson administration, where there were many large and important patronage jobs at stake, has there been anything here of so much interest to the members of the Florida delegation in Congress as the probability of Senator N. P. Bryan being appointed to the judgeship of the Fifth circuit, caused by the death of Judge D. D. Shelby. Not only are the Floridians taking a deep interest in the situation but other members also are backing their various candidates, all of which makes something well worth watching.

It is believed here that if Gov. Park Trammell and former Gov. A. W. Gilchrist both get into the fight, provided Senator Bryan lands, and C. A. Carson and Congressman Sparkman also throw their hats into the ring, to say nothing of several other candidates who are reported as being desirous of coming to the senate, the race will equal in many respects that recently pulled off when Senator Fletcher was re-elected.

So many rumors have been current here about his running that today Congressman Frank Clark was asked the direct question of whether he would endeavor to come to the senate should Senator Bryan be pointed to the bench, to which he replied: "While it is true that I have received many letters and telegrams from strong friends all over the state asking me to enter the senatorial race and pledging support I think the time inadvisable to make any positive announcement in the matter. There is no vacancy yet, and (Continued On Page 5)

DEMOCRATS MAKE GOOD

ADMINISTRATION HAS MADE AMERICA LAND OF THE FREE

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 8.—Declaring that President Wilson and the Democratic Congress had kept all platform promises, Secretary of the Navy Daniels, in a campaign speech here tonight, added that the President had set America free to legislate without fear.

"Greater than the tariff law itself, greater than the currency law itself, greater than all the needed constructive legislation of the record making administration," says Mr. Daniels, "looms up this fact: That the people may legislate without any longer fearing that our business is going to be checked or our prosperity destroyed. The right to enact such laws as they conceive is best for them at last has been restored to them."

"Under Wilson, the ideals of Jefferson's first inaugural have been realized. Business no longer struggles government; privilege no longer holds it up on the highway and rifles its pockets."

Mr. Daniels took up legislative measures successfully urged by the administration and said: "Privilege has mobilized its lobby against them with the rapidity of the European corps. The propaganda of fear," he said, "was worked to the limit."

"Certainly whatever else can be said," declared Mr. Daniels, "no body can say that either the President or Congress has drawn down upon themselves that anathema 'the Almighty hates a quitter.' On the very night the President signed the tariff bill he said, 'we have only taken one step,' and summoned the Congress to go forward with the next step—the currency legislation. He did not pause a day or even think of quitting and that has been the record in every step of administrative policy since the fourth of March, 1913."

GERMANS RETIRING ON RIGHT FLANK

Washington Aug. 8—2 p. m. Report here that general engagement all along the lines of the allies and the Germans near the Paris borders. Official despatches contain no news other than that the Germans are making a wide circle from the Marne to the Seine and below it and above Paris while the third army corps was ordered to the left bank of the rivers. The Germans have destroyed the Belgian town of Dinat near Namur and Belgians are putting up a brave fight to keep the Germans out of Antwerp.

The engagements now in progress will decide the fate of Paris and may decide the fate of the armies of the allied forces.

Washington, Tuesday, 10 a. m.—Oscar Straus came here last night to confer with Bryan and the German Ambassador. It is believed that negotiations for peace are being continued. Germany considering France beaten, England and Russia receptive.

Paris, Tuesday, 10 a. m.—Fourth day of continuous fighting along hundred forty miles indicates allies success.

Petrograd, Tuesday, 10 a. m.—Galicia officially announced Austrian retreat continues, with enormous losses.

Paris, Tuesday, 10 a. m.—In the fighting which is going on today to the east and northeast of Paris, the German forces have their backs toward the capital. French troops are harassing their march. From time to time the Germans turn and engage the French at their back.

OVERLAND DAY AT THE RACES

SANFORD OVERLANDS CLEANED UP THE THE BUNCH AT DAYTONA BEACH YESTERDAY

THEY WON FIVE OUT OF SIX RACES AND ALSO WON SIX CUPS OUT OF EIGHT OFFERED

Yesterday was an Overland day at the beach races, as the Overlands from Sanford cleaned them up, winning five out of six races and six out of eight cups.

Sanford was well represented in the races, there being Billy Hill with his Overland, Osborne Herndon with an Overland, Hal Wight's American and Frank Milteer's Buick. Wight and Milteer had trouble in the start off and did not get the money but Hill and Herndon wipe the rest of the bunch off the map.

The Hill car driven by Staten Fields won the five mile race in 4:28. The same car driven by Billy Hill won the ten and twenty mile races, the ten being made in 11:20. This car which is an ordinary runabout and had never been overhauled for racing purposes won four silver cups and Billy is being congratulated on all sides for allowing his car to be abused in this manner just to keep aloft the reputation of Sanford.

Osborne Herndon also covered himself with glory in his racing Overland and the rest of the field was so afraid of him that he was placed out of his class to start and won the races by superior work. O. M. Spicer drove his car in the first five mile race, winning easily. Osborne won the ten mile race and would have been the winner in the twenty mile event, but had the misfortune to suffer an accident to the machine at the very start, being ahead of the field when the accident to the machinery happened, putting the car out of the race.

The races were pulled off in fine shape and in the real racing events

GROWERS OF FLORIDA WILL INSIST ON F. O. B. MARKET

Last week a very important meeting was held in Ocala between the representatives of the Southern Express Company and the various transportation lines of this section.

The meeting was called by the Marion county board of trade, and its motive was to try to perfect a plan by which produce could be sent to the markets without having to deal with the commission men, who make it easier for the growers to sell their stuff but pocket an unduly large share of the profits.

In attendance on the meeting were representatives of the Southern express Company, the Atlantic Coast Line, the Seaboard, some other roads the transportation agent of the Jacksonville board of trade, and fifty or more leading shippers of the territory contiguous to Ocala, and a representative of the Florida Growers and Shippers League. J. M. Moffert of Ocala presided over the meeting, and J. D. Rooney acted as secretary.

The better part of the day was given to hearing the experiences of the shippers, all of whom are sore at the result of their work as returned to them by the commission men. One prominent grower told how he received only $116 for a $2,200 crop, and some told how their shipments had not even paid expenses.

That part of the state has been a good thing for the commission men for the last dozen years. They have made business good for the hotels but they have not paid the farmers in proportion, and not a few of them or their houses, have been more shameless pirates than Capt. (Continued On Page 5)

FLORIDA THE HAY STATE

NATAL GRASS PROVES A FINE SOUTHERN STOCK FOOD

Mr. W. T. Jamison, agent of the Southern Express Company was yesterday showing his friends a fine bale of Lake county hay, and the story he tells in connection with it is very interesting, as well as illustrative of the great agricultural possibilities of Florida.

The hay is natal grass and is some of the finest seen here of any kind. Mr. Jamison says it was grown on some of the poorest land in Florida and that two cuttings of a ton to the acre have already been made and another will be made in October. The land from which this hay came is located on a high-pine ridge, apparently of pure white sand. A good many years ago the owner planted an orange grove on it but the land was too dry or too poor for oranges and the trees all died. The field was forsaken and the natal grass took possession. The present owner recognized the possibilities of hay raising and last year scattered about two hundred pounds of fertilizer to the acre, with the result that the land is bringing him about one hundred dollars an acre from the annual hay crop.

Mr. Jamison contends that the agricultural possibilities of Florida are just beginning to be realized and that where a piece of land will not produce one crop there is always something that will grow profitably. He believes in hay and stock raising as money maker, and incidentally mentioned the fact that a Tampa wholesaler recently declared that the wholesale trade of Tampa hopped fully a million dollars worth of hay annually, all shipped from other states.

Florida could easily keep this million dollars in the state and raise hay for shipment to other states by half way trying, is the contention of Mr. Jamison, who owns a good deal of land himself and is making it work for him.—Orlando Sentinel.

THEY WILL BE GOOD NOW

THE MEN WHO RAISED THE PRICE ON FOODS ARE INDICTED

Washington, Sept. 8.—Thirty one food dealers were indicted here today by a Federal grand jury under the Sherman law on counts charging price fixing. It was the first big development in the investigation the Department of Justice is conducting at the direction of President Wilson against food leaders who are alleged to have seized upon the European war as a pretext to increase the cost of living.

All the indicted men are local produce dealers or commission merchants. No nationally known firm was indicted.

At the Department of Justice it was said that Government agents working in many states for evidence of price fixing were expected to make reports soon which officials hoped would be the basis of other indictments: Attorney General Gregory said:

Insist on Jail Terms

"Under conditions now existing throughout the world, capitalization of misfortune and oppression of our own people by the arbitrary increase of the prices of foodstuffs are so peculiarly reprehensible that, whenever convictions can be obtained, the Government will insist upon sentences of imprisonment, no fine or no civil remedy will be deemed adequate. United States attorneys are being instructed promptly to ask for indictments whenever the facts will permit, to push these to an early trial and upon conviction to insist upon prison sentences."

It must, of course, be remembered that, without the District of Columbia only those agreements and commissions which affect directly interstate or foreign commerce can be reached. As to other matters, state statutes must be relied upon.

The men indicted here today are charged with having fixed prices "by ballots," "suggestions" or verbal agreement and to have circulated price list which completely eliminated a competitive market for foods that is alleged to be an unlawful restraint of trade prohibited by the Sherman anti-trust law between the states and in federal districts. The penalty on conviction is a year's imprisonment or a $5,000 fine or both.

Bench warrants were issued for all the indicted men and bail was given for their appearance in court.

The European War

Commonly called the "Great War" will be the special subject for reflection next Sunday evening at the Congregational service at 7:30. Excerpts from reports of special correspondents of a great weekly American magazine, also from Count J. H. von Bernstorff, the Imperial German Ambassador to America, giving his side of the German case. Besides some lessons for Americans in this time of crisis to consider will be drawn by the pastor. All are cordially welcomed.

BUYING FLORIDA CATTLE

Kissimmee, Sept. 8.—One of the largest cattle deals "pulled off" so some time was consummated this week when T. Price, buyer for the Armour Packing Co., received thirty three carloads of beef cattle from the leading cattle men of his vicinity. The first consignment was shipped Monday and consisted of eighteen carloads which were bled to Chicago; the remaining fifteen cars were shipped to St. Louis Tuesday.

The total consignment numbered 1,217 head and the average price received was twenty-five dollars per head. The dealers supplying the cattle were as follows: Carson Cattle Co., Leslie & Bass, Rull Bass, Ed. Whaley, Henry Bass, Henry Partin, L. M. Whitten, W. E. Smith, Ordis Bass, S. Partin and O. Bass. Mr. Price who is making Kissimmee his headquarters while looking after his firm's interests in this locality, expressed himself as confident that other large consignments would follow this unless the loss in shipping was greater than they anticipated.

Warren Died This Morning

Will Warren, the young Bradentown man who was injured in the preliminary run on the beach yesterday morning, in which three cars collided, died at the Daytona hospital. Young Warren was a millionaire sportsman and had an aeroplane at the beach in which he expected to make several flights. His untimely end has cast a shadow over the otherwise perfect day at the beach.
